Journalism Students Celebrate Old Festival Today

Will Observe Old England's 'Wayzgoose'

Waymack, G. Shultz, Prof. Dewey Stuit Listed as Speakers

Associated Students of Journalism will celebrate the annual Wayzgoose festival today, climaxed by the graduation banquet at 6:30 at Youde's Inn, with W. W. Waymack, editorial editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, as special guest of the group.

The festival will begin at noon with luncheon meetings of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary and professional fraternity for women in journalism.

Round Tables

Three roundtables, one sponsored by the graduate college, will complete the afternoon's program. The dinner, an informal affair, will include on its program an informal talk by Waymack; imperiousness by Ronald VanArsdale, G of Greenwood, Ind.; a brief talk by Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism; distribution of the Wayzgoose Gazette, and an elaborate announced program.

Loren Hickerson, A4 of Iowa City, instructor and president of the Sigma Delta Chi, associated organization, has reported that the unannounced program will occur not only after the dinner, but during dinner as well.

Mr. Waymack, dinner guest, will conduct a graduate college public roundtable on "Propaganda and War" this afternoon at 4:10 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Stuit To Speak

Prof. Dewey Stuit of the psychology department will conduct the first roundtable this afternoon at 2:10 in room 204 of the journalism building, using as his subject, "Getting a Job in Journalism."

Speaking on "Journalism for Women," Mrs. Gladys Denny Schultz, member of the Better Homes and Gardens staff and prominent writer for women's magazines, including the Ladies' Home Journal and the Pictorial Review, will conduct a roundtable at 3:10 in room 204 of the journalism building.

Mrs. Jessie B. Gordon, Iowa City librarian, will speak on recent books to Theta Sigma Phi members, alumnae of the local chapter and faculty wives in the private dining room of Iowa Union.

Nile Kinnick Returns With New Honors

Iowa's football public, the same public that filled stadiums this fall as the Hawkeyes stormed through a brilliant season, was at hand last night when Nile Kinnick, the nation's number one athlete, landed at the Iowa City airport.

It wasn't just a small gathering, the part of the public that came to see the "Cornbelt Comet" return to the scene of his triumphs. More than 4,000 persons jammed the airport and near vicinity, took the plane by storm and greeted the man who had just been the toast of New York.

It was fitting that Kinnick, entertained recently by the United States navy, by eastern athletic heads and other important people, should ride back to Iowa City in honor, and he did—with a police escort and at the head of a procession.

As for the Hawkeye himself, he says he is happy to be back and is ready to return to classes. He is, in other words, the same Kinnick who left Iowa City, happy to be honored, but remembering the hard work that went into the season.

If there be any doubts as to the extent of the honors paid Kinnick, a review of the week might settle them.

It was a week ago that Kinnick left Iowa City, along with his coach, Dr. Eddie Anderson. He was honored in New York, by the navy first, taken for a ride in a naval plane and interviewed. Wednesday night he received the Heisman trophy, spoke to a huge gathering at a banquet and in general spent a big evening.

Since then, it has been just as busy for Kinnick, who admits that it is nearly time he paused (See KINNICK, Page 3)

Wire-Tapping Evidence Void

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—The supreme court ruled today that evidence obtained by wire-tapping cannot be used in federal prosecutions but did not discuss the ethical grounds that formed the basis of famous dissents by Justices Holmes and Brandeis when the practice was upheld in the prohibition era.

It dealt solely with interpretation of a law passed since those days—the federal communications act of 1934—which says: "No person not being authorized by the sender shall intercept any communication and divulge or publish the existence, contents, substance, purport, effect or meaning of such intercepted communication to any person."

Six British Ships Lost in Sea Warfare

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP)—Six more British ships were added today to the ever-growing list of allied vessels lost in sea warfare. In addition, a neutral steamer, the 4,708-ton Greek ship Garoufalia, was reported torpedoed and sunk by a submarine off the Norwegian coast, with a loss of four lives.

A fifth merchant vessel, the 4,815-ton Willowpool, went down after hitting a mine. Her crew of 36 was rescued by lifeboat. The mine-sweeper Ray of Hope, a vessel that had been requisitioned by the navy for auxiliary duties, also met disaster in the form of a mine. Four of her crew were killed, five were missing and three rescued.

The Ray of Hope, 11th British naval vessel lost since the outbreak of war, was not listed in naval registers. The admiralty did not give her tonnage.

(From the German high command in Berlin came the announcement that two British tankers, tonnage totaling 18,000, had been sunk in the British channel. They were not identified.) While the British were stoically marking up their sea losses, British troops were getting their first taste of action on the western front since World war days. The visit of King George VI to the front brought out the fact that Tommies have moved up into active sectors where enemy patrols have been increasingly aggressive.

W. Waymack, Editorial Head, Speaks Today

Register, Tribune Writer Will Preside At Discussion

W. W. Waymack, editor of the editorial page of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, will lead a graduate college round table on "Propaganda and War" at 4:10 this afternoon in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Waymack's editorials in the Des Moines Register and Tribune, since the European war began, have gained nationwide recognition and have been widely quoted.

In 1937 Waymack won the Pulitzer prize for his editorial writing. An ardent aviation enthusiast, Waymack returned recently from an air tour of the world, having visited several of the capitals of nations now engaged in war.

A former Sioux City editor, Waymack, who holds an A.B. degree from Morningside college and an L.L.D. from Drake university, joined the Des Moines Register and Tribune as an editorial writer in 1918.

He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, National Press club of Washington, D. C., and the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He also holds memberships in numerous national social and economic societies.

League Offers 'Last Chance'

Russia Given Request To End War, Submit Dispute for Mediation

GENEVA, Dec. 11 (AP)—The League of Nations tonight gave Soviet Russia a "last chance" offer of 24 hours to halt her war on Finland and submit the dispute to league mediation.

What action the league might take if Russia refused to mediate still was uncertain, but it appeared rejection of the offer would mean allied arms and munitions and Latin-American food and oil for the embattled Finns.

Following the call of the Finnish delegate, Rudolf Holsti, for "all practical support possible," a league committee on the Russian-Finnish question sent the Russian government a telegram of four points, informing it:

1—That the council had sent Finland's appeal for league action in the dispute to the assembly.

2—That the assembly invites both Finland and Russia to suspend hostilities and begin peace negotiations under league mediation.

3—That Finland immediately accepted mediation by the league.

4—That Moscow's reply was expected within 24 hours.

At Great Britain's suggestion, the committee decided it must have "no illusions" on the Russian reply, despite Soviet reports in Geneva that there was a 50-50 chance Moscow would accept.

Suicide Try Fails; Boy Will Recover

Colwell High Student Signs Confession He Shot, Beat Girl Friend

CHARLES CITY, Dec. 11 (AP)—"We had trouble on the way home."

That was the only reason, Warner Blewett, 17, president of the Colwell, Ia., high school senior class, would give tonight from his hospital room here for what officers described as the slaying last night of Dorothy Carter, 14, on a lonely Floyd county road.

Sheriff B. F. Atherton said the youth, who is recovering from the effects of poison allegedly self-administered, had signed a confession that he beat the girl to death with a shotgun stock.

Warner, under guard in his Cedar Valley hospital room, is expected to be in sufficiently good condition within 24 hours to permit his transfer to the county jail here. He is under arrest on a murder warrant.

The body of the Carter girl, who was president of the high school freshman class, was found in the Blewett automobile after H. J. Blewett, the youth's father, had gone out to see if there was any more poison in the vehicle.

The elder Blewett had been attracted to Warner's room by the groans of the poisoned youth.

Sheriff Atherton quoted the boy's father as saying he never before had known of his son taking the shotgun out of the house.

Warner and Dorothy, both social leaders in the school, were good students, school authorities said. Both were children of well-to-do families.

Cleveland Needy Are Restored To 'Full Relief'

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11 (AP)—Cleveland's 75,000 needy, on short rations for 26 days, will be restored to "full relief" Friday, the city announced today.

Mayor Harold H. Burton said city council authorization of $1,050,000 in tax delinquency notes, and increased WPA activity, would allow the restoration.

Designer Dies NEW YORK, (AP)—Will Rice Amon, 40, internationally known architect and the designer of several New York low cost housing projects, died last night after a brief illness.

Artist Dies SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Frank Joseph MacKenzie, 74, artist who painted African background scenes for many museums, died yesterday.

City of Flint To Sail From Norwegian Port

BERGEN, Norway, Dec. 11 (AP)—The American freighter City of Flint, in charge of its American crew, is about to leave the Norwegian port of Haugesund for a roundabout journey to the United States and may carry Finnish refugees with her.

Shipping circles expect the City of Flint to reach Bergen Saturday and depart again Monday for an undisclosed northern Norwegian port.

Shippers said the vessel would go north to pick up ballast, but it was asserted in informed circles that her real purpose would be to take aboard Finnish refugees, of whom there are many hundreds in Norway.

Russian Troop 'Push' Reaches 40 to 60 Miles

Finns Claim Great Gains by Surprise Machine Gun Attacks

By LYNN HEINZERLING HELSINKI, Dec. 11 (AP)—In heavy fighting today along the entire Finnish battlefield, Russian troops reached points from 40 to 60 miles from the border in some places but, a Finnish communique said, at a cost of many casualties.

The Finns reported three companies of Russians wiped out in one surprise machinegun attack, and counterattacks by fast-flying Finnish ski detachments.

The Russian advances, representing aggregate gains in 12 days of fighting with sharpshooting Finnish ski units along the snowy eastern frontier, were mainly in two sectors—just north of Lake Ladoga and several hundred miles farther north near Kuolojarvia, which the Russians took yesterday.

Their drive near Kuolojarvia carried today to Salla just above the Arctic circle and 40 miles from the border. Finnish troops withdrew from Salla and the Russians promptly burned the town.

The red army force pushing westward in this sector evidently intends to rend Finland by advancing to the Swedish border. Following one of the few roads traversing this area, the Russians at Salla were approximately one-fifth of the way to the Swedish frontier.

Finnish troops were withdrawing slowly into the forests, where they can provide much rougher going for the Russians than on the snowy but open terrain east of Salla.

Along the icy northern shore of Lake Ladoga, where a strong Russian force has undertaken a wide flanking movement around the fortified Karelian isthmus, a Finnish communique told of Finnish troops withdrawing from Pitkaranta, railroad terminal about 60 miles from the frontier, after fierce fighting.

The Russian air force actively supported the land offensive but no details of its operations were mentioned.

The town of Loimola, on a spur railroad north of Pitkaranta, was heavily bombed, evidently in preparation for attack as the Russians advanced along the lake-shore.

Several Russian attacks were repulsed with heavy losses at the tourist resort of Tolvajarvi, about 50 miles north of Ladoga.

Still farther north in the rocky, lake-studded Ilomantsi sector, near the industrial town of Enso, the Finnish command announced it had wiped out three companies of Russian infantry with surprise machine gun attacks. The Russians were caught in cross fire.

So Woman

Was The Pioneer!

HISTORIAN Mary R. Beard makes out quite a case for the women in a talk which she made over the Columbia network not too long ago.

"It is commonly supposed," she states, "that women were never in business or the professions until the nineteenth century, and that a great intellectual, economic and moral revolution drew them into these occupations for the first time. This view of life and labor tends to make jittery the women in businesses and professions, in the fear that the occupations considered so new to their sex be snatched from them at any moment."

"But this is not sound history. In truth, the very professions of medicine, nursing, obstetrics, domestic science, budgeting, cooking and other basic professions were launched by women whom we call primitives. Medicine men came late upon the human scene. Even the first farmers were women. Business itself began when the commodities produced by women—pots and textiles, for example—were exchanged in a system of barter with people possessing grain and other foods."

After this "bombardment" the historian asks, "Why be jittery, then, about their hold on business and professions? An urge so primordial and an enterprise so persistent cannot be suppressed by mere men."

So the argument stands there. Men now know where woman's place is—and it apparently is not in the home.

Mary Beard thinks that's so. She'll have to do a lot of arguing to convince very many men.

It's No Easy Task

IF YOU WERE put in the state department at Washington and asked to decide delicate questions of American foreign policy, you'd agree that it isn't so easy.

Last week, for example, Washington was faced with one of its greatest tests. Facing it were two war situations, which tax American strategy to the limit.

Statesmen asked themselves, "Should the neutrality act be extended to Finland and Russia?" Not an easy one!

And, "Should Russia be denied bombing planes?" Russia has placed large orders in America. Shall we use a "cold embargo" to curb her "wanton disregard of law?"

Even more delicate is this problem: "Shall we sever relations with Russia?" Russia can be useful to the United States in applying pressure to Japan or Germany. It is not a simple problem to the state department.

The question, "Shall the United States accept the Dec. 15 debt payment from Finland?" caused plenty of discussion in Washington last week. Now that the United States has decided definitely to assist Finland, that question becomes less difficult.

No, making decisions that are to get the official stamp isn't as simple as answering the Gallup poll.

Coat Hangers Compete With Picasso

THE MUSEUM of Modern Art deserves a compliment for its originality. For years museums have exhibited water jugs once carried by Greek maidens, Roman perfume bottles, Persian textiles, Japanese rice bowls, and many other objects in daily use long ago. Being different, the Museum of Modern Art is now exhibiting the well-designed household gadgets.

That's quite a step-down from Greek vases, and may cause some to laugh in scorn. Entirely aside from the commercial angle that attaches to such an exhibit, the display will do more than anything we've heard of recently to prove to the public that art is not always snobbish.

Someone should long ago have realized what simple beauty there is in so many objects that are found on department store counters. We believe it is not too late to recognize this machine-age achievement, and we commend the New York museum for dignifying it.

The purpose of the exhibit is two-fold, says the museum. First, to encourage the manufacture of well-designed useful objects at prices within the reach of the average person. And second, to acquaint the public with the fact that every year increasing numbers of such objects are available in the general market.

In a gallery adjacent to its great exhibition of painting by Picasso, the museum will display these utilitarian contemporary objects of art: curtains of spun glass, bowls and trays of wood, kitchen utensils of plastics; lamp shades, vases and plates of shell-felx; plates, coat hangers and salad spoons in clear plexiglas and lucite; flower pots, scrap baskets, poker chips, dice, ash trays and shower curtains.

The exhibition is evidence of the fact that designers and manufacturers are now collaborating to create for the American market useful objects which do not rely on superfluous ornament for attractiveness but, rather, on appropriate shapes and the natural beauty of materials.

director of the school. Dean and Mrs. George F. Kay will be special guests of the school tonight.

John von Lackum, A4 of Waterloo, is chairman of the festival committee and is assisted by Helen Hamilton, A4 of Mason City; Geraldine Huff, A3 of Des Moines; Don McClurg, A3 of Marshalltown; John Shotwell, A4 of Des Moines; Fred Hohenhorst, A4 of Chicago, and Art Goldberg, A4 of Iowa City.

Wayzgoose—What It Means

Roast goose will be served at tonight's Wayzgoose banquet, when members of the Associated Students of Journalism and their friends meet at 6:30 in Youde's inn. Many years ago when the guilds flourished in England, journeymen printers insisted their masters give them a roast goose feast before they would consent to work by candlelight.

Down as late as the 1890's this custom lasted in England. It is a revival of this old English custom, unique on the University of Iowa campus in the United States, which journalism students will participate in tonight.

The word "Wayzgoose" means "stubble goose." The prefix "wayz" means "bundle of straws," and hence, a stubble or wayz goose. A stubble goose, dictionaries say, was one driven into the fields to forage.

Sigma Delta Chi To Initiate Six

Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, will initiate six men this afternoon following a noon luncheon meeting of the group.

The luncheon meeting will be in the north conference room of Iowa Union for members, alumni and pledges. There will be no program following the dinner.

The initiation will be held in the board room at Iowa Union at 1 o'clock. Those to be initiated include John J. Mueller, A3 of Iowa City; Art Bellaire, A4 of Sioux City; Merle Miller, A4 of Marshalltown; Art Goldberg, A4 of Iowa City, and William R. Tellefsen, A3 of Jersey City, N. J., as undergraduate members and Earl English, instructor in the school of journalism, professional member.

The Iowa chapter of Sigma Delta Chi is co-sponsor of the annual Wayzgoose festival activities along with Theta Sigma Phi and the Associated Students of Journalism. The three organizations also sponsor the annual Pica Ball, university party, and other school of journalism events.

Double Accident TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Merle H. Goley, 23, with his leg in a cast because of a motorcycle accident injury, went out to drive his racing automobile. The cast became entangled in the mechanism and the car crashed into a fence. Goley suffered a fractured skull and several broken ribs.

For Distinguished Service WASHINGTON, (AP)—Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, yesterday awarded the distinguished service medal to Rear Admiral Cyrus W. Cole, commandant of the Portsmouth, N.H., navy yard, for his service in the submarine Squalus rescue and salvage operations.

THE 'GREASER'

America in This War? What Earlier Seemed Inevitable Now Does Not Seem So to C. P. S.

NOBODY who's old enough to remember much about the last World war can avoid basing his general conclusions concerning the present European conflict upon his observation of developments during the 1914-18 unpleasantness.

I was on the job in that earlier era. Shortly after the current rumpus broke out, a representative of one of our straw vote syndicates asked me, as a news veteran dating back to its predecessor, if I believed the United States would get into the present one.

My answer was that, if this thing continues for very long, we're pretty sure to become involved in it. Now I begin to think I was mistaken. In 1914 we emphatically didn't want to be tangled up in Europe's ruckus—and didn't expect to be, either. In due course we were, though. It seemed to me a good-sized probability that history would repeat itself.

We don't act like it, though. True, at this stage of the game in 1914 we didn't act like it, either. However, at that time we were positive we wouldn't be entangled. We didn't suppose it was necessary for us to adopt "quarantine" measures, as President

Robert La Follette said. He said that the world was a "quarantine" and that we were the "quarantined." He said that we were the "quarantined" and that we were the "quarantined." He said that we were the "quarantined" and that we were the "quarantined."

AROUND THE TOWN

"MOST ANYTHING"

Today's temporary title isn't mine alone. "Most Anything" is the name John Roper of the Cleveland Press gives his column, this week in its 29th year. Roper himself is 70 with a nationwide reputation for "truth-telling."

Roper began as a theater critic, even as others of us. And perhaps his most famous lines are worth repeating here. They've been appropriate locally once or twice. "Eugenia Blair," he wrote, "is at the Lyceum this week in 'The Resurrection.' Burn a rag."

A couple of the "White Steed" folks are complaining. I understand, because—though they had lead roles—this reporter's Sunday column didn't mention them. Well, they can complain if they like, but they really ought to thank me. Dr. Karl Boerner, chief of the foreign press affairs in Berlin and an ardent Hitler-lover, was in Iowa City just before the 33 Nazi coup. He's reported in the Iowan of that time as saying, "Journalistic ethics belong not to one country alone or to one time, but to all people and all times." . . . Huh!

Bob Reuben writes from Los Angeles, where he's just heard he's a Phi Beta Kappa pledge. He'll not be initiated, though. "I've been trying to make ends meet," he says, "but so far they haven't even been introduced."

Over at the Philosophy library they're saving freshman minds for some purpose or another. It seems you can't take out Havelock Ellis' "sex" books unless you're an upper-classman. Then, of course, there's no need.

Russ Morgan (the former Pennsylvania coal-miner) had some little difficulty fitting his head in the Iowa Union lounge, too small. (The lounge, I mean.)

The manager was emphasizing all over the place that Iowa City is only another stop—and a not-important one—on the Morgan triumphal tour when Kay Smith lounged into the room. "Well," she quipped, "you may be good. But we've still got 200 tickets left."

The orchestra fellows didn't say another word the evening through. Beach Conger, the Herald-Tribune correspondent who was kicked out of Berlin, is used to that. He was kicked out of the University of Michigan for a time as an undergraduate because he wrote the truth about an American Legion national convention.

Fascism everywhere seems to have about the same aversion to truth. The U. of Michigan ouster was so much publicized Conger got one of the best jobs of the '32 graduating class.

Dr. Albright isn't telling everyone, but he had quite an experience at the Notre Dame game. He saw a fellow sitting on the stadium row above him who looked familiar. Maybe, he thought, it was a fellow who used to be in his class.

"I beg your pardon," he interrupted, "but your face is familiar. . . Haven't we met some place before?"

"Maybe," the familiar face answered, "my name is George Wilson. . . (Wilson's the guy who looks like Hugh Herbert's double in pictures). . . He's governor too."

Kurt Schaefer had a time with it, but they're finally letting him have a course in "Totalitarian Economics" to be given next semester in the commerce college. He wanted to have it "Comparative Econ." contrasting Marxian dialectics with Fascist big-business dictatorship, and American monopolism.

At an Eastlawn party Saturday night (an enjoyable affair, I must confess), I discovered two-thirds the formals there were designed and completed by the wearers themselves. . . Looked better to me by far than those chore-clothed wear of a party evening.

The real story behind the trouble at the juvenile home is that there's wide-spread dissatisfaction with the change in di-

SPORTS TRAIL

- Stars at Indiana
- Rose Bowl Series?
- Droptick Revived

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—
Sports Trail detours:
Fordham will be represented by proxy in a bowl game. The Boston college team which meets Clemson in the Cotton Bowl is practically a twin of Jim Crowley's squad. Frank Leahy has patterned his play after Fordham, even to practice procedure. And he gives Crowley full credit. In a lighter vein: George Sauer's New Hampshire starting eleven averaged 171 pounds, with a couple of gigantic halfbacks, each weighing 138 pounds. The team was outwheeled 24 pounds to the man by Harvard. John Munksi, Missouri miler who ran too long in one place in his last appearance here, will try again in the Millrose games Feb. 3. Only this time he'll take a shot at the three-quarter mile event.

Skimming the Cream: Fifteen former high school captains are members of the Indiana university basketball squad. And speaking of basketball, keep your eye on the San Diego State team. It has seven lettermen left from the squad which was runnerup in the national intercollegiate tournament at Kansas City last spring. With the $10,000 Miami open the major event remaining, Henry Picard is leading the tournament money winners for 1939 with $10,202. Jim Crowley: "I was coach of the year—in August." Just another case of poor timing. Biff Jones loses only three men from his first two football teams at Nebraska.

A San Diego baseball fan would like to see the world series played in the Rose Bowl, pointing out the seating capacity, the avid interest coast fans would show in such an event, and the midsummer climate (ad) to bolster his argument. The National league probably would object on the grounds it's bad enough to take a licking without going 3,000 miles for it. The baseball meetings have come and gone, and Joe Medwick still is with the Cardinals. The regular season just ended in time for Tennessee and Southern Cal. It was getting tougher by the week to maintain those undefeated records. At a quick glance, all the bowl games look like naturals.

North Carolina is plotting to come up with another one of those teams next fall. Everything was between the lines in the reply of the New York athletic commission to a request for its blessing on the Henry Armstrong-Jimmy Garrison bout in Cleveland. It merely said doctors advised that Henry would not be in condition to fight before Dec. 22, and it would be "unfair to the public to permit this man to box." The rule prohibiting the champion (Yankees) from making a deal within its own league makes it tough on players of also-ran clubs who might have a chance to move up to a contending club. As far as the Yankees are concerned, they probably aren't worrying. They grow their own crops anyway.

Connie Mack must be starting to build another great team. In fact, the same great team. He's starting by signing Al Simmons, Nile Kinnick's success with the

Vic Siegel Leads Iowans To Easy Win

Bill Wheeler Ends Scoring Silence With Three Buckets

By OSCAR HARGRAVE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
They cleared the scoring lanes for a time last night and Iowa's curly-topped firewagon, Bill Wheeler, rolled down the middle in company with Vic Siegel as Iowa's sophomore cagers paraded past Denver university, 44-34. It was the first time this year that Wheeler, swashbuckling sophomore forward, had scored when he roared into action late in the first half, sank three quick buckets as the Hawkeyes got under way and then retired with Iowa far out in the lead. The scoring was well divided, of course, with nearly all of the 16 Hawkeyes scoring in the game, much more one-sided than the score would indicate. Siegel, possible successor to the great Benny Stephens, connected for 10 points, Angie Anapol got six and Vince Harsha, sophomore forward, counted three field goals for half a dozen points. It was, though, the fiery offensive combination of Siegel and Wheeler which pulled the Hawkeyes out of an early game slump and sent them rolling into a tremendous lead that amounted at one time to well over 20 points. Siegel doing the early scoring, Wheeler taking up the burden and Anapol finishing up the point getting. The rangy invaders took an early lead on free throws by Barger and Maris and a field goal by Dunn, paused momentarily while Siegel sank a shot from the floor and Tommy Lind added a charity toss, then used buckets by Barger and Browner to grab an 8-2 lead. In the middle of the second half, with the Hawks leading by the tremendous margin of 38-14, Coach Rollie Williams sent substitutes pouring onto the floor, after which the invaders rallied to score 20 points to Iowa's six in the final minutes. Dunn, who counted eight points in the tilt, Hogan and Walla led the last minute scoring spurge against the Iowa substitutes.

Tops 'Em All
He won out over the stiff competition of such seasoned performers as Joe DiMaggio and Joe Louis to give football its first "outstanding athlete" for a year in The Associated Press poll. In the eight previous annual polls, baseball won out three times with Pepper Martin, Carl Hubbell and Dizzy Dean; tennis took it twice, with Don Budge in both '37 and '38, and golf, boxing and track each had one "Mr. Big," with Gene Sarazen in '32, Joe Louis in '35 and Jesse Owens in '36, respectively. Now, along comes a youngster with a pleasing personality and the ability to play 60 minutes of high-class football in a tough league every Saturday during the fall to bring the honor to the gridiron. Of the 61 experts who voted, 21, including some from every section of the country, picked him at the top of the list; three named him second and 10 had him third. Votes were counted on a basis of three points for a first-place nomination, two for second and one for third.

DiMaggio Second
On that basis, Kinnick polled 79 points to nose out DiMaggio, the New York Yankees' outfield ace, by the narrow margin of eight points in as close a race as the poll has ever seen. DiMaggio was picked first on 11 ballots. Louis, who defended his world heavyweight championship with four knockout triumphs during the year, drew five first-place selections and 35 points for third place. Bucky Walters, pitching workhorse of the National league champion Cincinnati Reds, was picked on five ballots for first place and came in fourth with 28 points. Yet, his hurling mate, Paul Derringer, who was just as important and hard-working in the Reds' pennant parade, could do no better than 11th place, with six points. The open golf "boss," Byron Nelson, was fifth with 25 points.

Football Leads
Headed by Kinnick's appeal to popular fancy, football, as a whole, led all other sports on the voting list. Ten gridmen were nominated on the list, while baseball, the 1938 leader, dropped to second with eight. Along with Kinnick was his coach, Dr. Eddie Anderson, who brought Iowa football out of the doldrums this year, for which the experts named him eighth on the "outstanding athlete" list with 10 points.

Kinnick Selected The No. 1 Athlete for 1939

Nile Tops The Athletic World
DiMaggio Runs Close Second to The Ninth Annual Award Winner

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP)—Not since the palmy days of Red Grange has a football player "caught on" throughout the entire sports world like Nile Clarke Kinnick, the likeable "iron man" back of Iowa's surprising Hawkeyes. Topping off a long list of awards he has won since the season ended, the all-America "60-minute man" today was selected in The Associated Press' ninth annual poll of the nation's sports experts as the No. 1 athlete of all sports for 1939.

Varsity Test Freshmen In Swim Meet
The University of Iowa varsity swimmers will test the strength of the frosh tankmen in their annual intra-squad meet in the field-house pool tomorrow evening at 7:30. The freshmen, boasting a strong well-balanced team, are out to give the veterans a thorough beating—but the varsity will have something to say about that. In the meet last year the frosh came within two points of defeating the varsity. The yearlings this season hope to carry out their threats and a summary of the two teams gives them an even break to do it. Leading the varsity team will be Co-Captains Al Armbruster and Tony Bremer and a trio of fine divers in Nick Connell, Leo Biedrzycki and Frank Brandon. The potential strength of the freshmen will be determined in this, the first meet of the year. The two teams will be suited for this contest and the public is invited to attend. The regular season for the tankmen does not begin until Jan. 11, when the Hawkeyes will participate in the Midwest A. A. U., which will be held in the Iowa pool.

Wrestlers Open All-U Tourney Tomorrow
Tomorrow at 4:15 p.m. in the field house Coach Mike Howard's All-University Wrestling tournament will begin. So far 37 men have signed up to grunt and groan for the right to wear any one of the gold championship medals which will be awarded winners in the eight weight divisions. It will be a meet which will show brawn pitted against brain and with many of the men representing fraternities and dormitories the competition should become increasingly intense as the first round will eliminate many of the novices and leave the skilled wrestlers to grapple it out. In the heavyweight division only four men are entered, but two of them were members of the Hawkeye football squad. "Iron Mike" Enich and Phil Strom should put on a real show for the wrestling fans. The following men have signed up for the tournament: 121-pound division: Bill Sherman, Thom Chubak, Jules Holmes and Dean Shaw. 128-pound division: Loy Julius, Russell Miller, Glenn Hoffman, Robert Mason, Bernard Conrad. 136-pound division: Phillip Miller, Newel Ingle, Louis George, Harold Feulhelm. 145-pound division: Robert Muhl, Charles Maynard, John Davis. 155-pound division: Clarence Kemp, Robert Fleming, Everett Linn, Charles Hamm, Paul Thomas, Gordon Cobbs. 165-pound division: Ralph Gephert, Gordon Cobbs, Lewis Cowan, William Hibbs, Jack Yorham. 175-pound division: Paul Whitmore, Xavier Leonard, Bill Berryhill, Don Tepler, Jack Nixon, Ross Anderson. Heavyweight division: Phil Strom, Mike Enich, Virgil Newbower, Glen Shoening. Entries will still be received by Coach Howard up to 11:30 a.m. today. Coach Mike Howard yesterday announced the following schedule for his wrestling team for the 1940 season: Jan. 13, Northwestern at Iowa City. Feb. 3, Minnesota at Iowa City. Feb. 10, Wisconsin at Madison. Feb. 16, Illinois at Urbana. Feb. 22, Iowa State at Cedar Falls. March 1, Kansas State at Manhattan, Kan. March 2, Nebraska at Lincoln. March 8, Big Ten conference meet at Purdue.

Shoffner Signs
CINCINNATI (AP)—Milburn Shoffner, veteran left-hander who joined the National league champion Reds late in the season on waivers from Boston, signed a one-year contract yesterday. He was the sixth player to do so. Terms were not disclosed.

Phelan Signs
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Football Coach Jimmy Phelan of University of Washington signed a one year contract yesterday. Beyond stating the salary would be the same as under the three-year contract expiring December 31, Athletic Director Ray Eckmann did not disclose the figure. Campus reports, however, have listed Phelan's salary around $9,000 a year.

Two points each—Don Hutson, football; Paul Christman, football; Ken Cavanaugh, football; Ralph Guldahl, golf; Bobby Riggs, tennis; Eddie Shore, hockey.

PRESSBOX PICKUPS By OSCAR HARGRAVE

The things that have developed lately are exactly too many for analysis, including Nile Kinnick's return from New York, coupled with the fact that he has won something like 14 places on all-American teams, the Heisman trophy, the Maxwell trophy and has been named the nation's leading athlete by the Associated Press poll over such opposition as Joe DiMaggio. Pictures of Kinnick's doings in the east, incidentally, are being featured in the Paramount news flashes at the Englert. The shots include his arrival in New York, the ceremony, along with Kinnick's speech, and a few of the plays which helped make him an all-American. All that comes along with the start of basketball season—a last night the cagers took on Denver university's tall tourists and did a very thorough job of trouncing them, after which much of the crowd repaired to the airport to see Kinnick arrive after his trip to the east. The Hawkeye star came up town in honor, with a police escort. As for the basketballers, they are beginning to show some promise. Last spring Rollie Williams went to work on a promising crew of sophomores, figuring that whatever scoring punch the Hawkeyes developed this year would come from the new crop. So far, with Vic Siegel and Bill Wheeler doing a neat offensive job, the sophomores seem to be producing, although Erwin Prasse, Dick Evans, Angie Anapol and Tommy Lind appear ready to handle a fairly good share of the work. Especially impressive is the speed of this year's quintet, Siegel, also a dead shot, is one of the smoothest ball players we have seen for some time, while Bill Wheeler has more spark than an electric light plant. On the back court, Vince Harsha, Paul Siglin and Rudy Soderquist of the sophomores are playing good ball, in company with Prasse, and the center crop is quite extensive. Evans appears to be working much better than last year, Chuck Plett and Kenny Bastian are back and the sophomore pair, Bruce Fountain and Dick Hein, are improving. Summed up, the cage situation is dependent on a promising, but green, crew. They will show improvement, and will win more games in the last part of the season, but may have a few jittery moments.

Piepul Elected
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Milton John Piepul of Thompsonville, Conn., junior at the University of Notre Dame, was chosen captain of the 1940 Irish football team last night. Announcement of Piepul's selection was made at the 20th annual civic testimonial banquet honoring the twice-beaten 1939 Notre Dame team.

Thomas Hearing Adjourned After Three-Hour Hearing
Arch Ward To Make Appearance Today; Lewis Only Witness

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (AP)—After conducting a three-hour hearing today on the alleged "fake fights" of Harry Thomas, the Illinois State Athletic commission adjourned until tomorrow to hear testimony from Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune which published Thomas' charges. Thomas charged he was forced to "throw" his fights with Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, and Tony Galento, New Jersey contender. Thomas was conspicuous by his absence from today's meeting. Only one of the five invited witnesses—Nate Lewis of Chicago, manager of Thomas—appeared. Lewis said he had "some information" to disclose to the commission, but preferred to wait until the return of his counsel from California. Edward T. Breen, first assistant attorney general, conducting the investigation, said Gov. Henry Horner had instructed Attorney General John E. Cassidy to institute criminal proceedings if the evidence warrants.

for breath. He recounts a visit to the naval academy, among other things, says he didn't meet the president this trip but might when he goes east in January to receive the Maxwell trophy. The trip ended, of course, last night when he arrived in Iowa City, having left New York yesterday afternoon on a plane.

Cyclones Take Close One From Drake, 37-34
DES MOINES, Dec. 11 (AP)—In a rough, fast and close basketball game, Iowa State college won its fourth straight victory in as many starts by defeating Drake university 37 to 34 here tonight. The Cyclones led 18 to 17 at the half. After six minutes of play in the second half, Drake led 27 to 25. The lead changed four times in the next few minutes and Al Budolfson, Cyclone forward, tied up the score at 34 apiece with a charity toss two minutes from closing time. Bob Harris, Iowa State forward who played only part of the game because of sickness, got his only point, a free throw, to put his mates ahead and Gordon then dropped in a goal in the last 10 seconds. Budolfson lead the scorers with 5 goals and three free throws for a total of 13 points.

Hostak Kayoes Seelig
CLEVELAND (AP)—Al Hostak of Seattle, knocked out Eric Seelig of New York in the first round last night to successfully defend his National Boxing association middleweight championship before 12,000 fans at the Cleveland News Christmas toy fund show. The fight had been scheduled for 15 rounds.

St. Pat's Meet Riverside Tonight In Second Contest
The fighting Irish of St. Pat's take to the hardwood at Riverside tonight against St. Mary's for their second cage contest. St. Pat's went down in a hard fought battle against St. Ambrose of Davenport last Tuesday by a count of 32-29. Coach Ryan will probably use the same starting lineup with Black and Fitzpatrick, forwards; Holland at center, and Miller and Beasley at guards. If the St. Pat's team took a lesson from last week's game it will be a tough bunch of fighting Irish for St. Mary's to defeat tonight. The Green and White five was walked over by St. Ambrose in the first half of the close contest. Had St. Pat's been up to the standard the first half as in the second there would probably be a victory marked up ahead of his teammates last week by marking up 20 points, Red Miller has labeled himself a man to watch. He's listed as a guard but handles a good share of the battle at both ends of the court. St. Mary's has marked up one victory over the home town opponent, Riverside high school.

East Eleven Assembled
HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—Andy Kerr of Colgate, coach of the all-East football team, today completed assembling the squad he and Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota will take to the Pacific coast with announcement that Willard (Bolo) Perdue, fine Duke end, and Edward Coon, all-southern tackle from North Carolina State, have accepted invitations. Kerr said his contingent of 13 players from the east and south will join the group picked by Bierman in Chicago for a workout on the Northwestern field on Dec. 18. Coaches and players will entrain that night for San Francisco. Coon, one of the south's great linemen, was invited jointly by Kerr and Bierman, while the Colgate mentor picked Perdue, a burly, 210-pound wing, himself. Besides these two men, others picked by Kerr were: Cassiano and Kish, Pittsburgh; Cahill and Turner, Holy Cross; McLaughrey of Brown; Boell, N. Y. U.; Kolman and McGee, Temple; George McCafee, Duke; Stimpel, North Carolina; and Stulgatis, Columbia.

County Committee Schedules President's Annual Birthday Ball for January 30 Here

Plans To Have Dances in Two Locations

National, County Foundations To Get Equal Share of Proceeds

Members of the Johnson county committee for the planning of the 1940 president's birthday ball yesterday afternoon voted Jan. 30 as the date for the local celebration to fight infantile paralysis.

This year's ball, as that of a year ago, according to Attorney Ingalls Swisher, chairman, will be held in two places. The Iowa City Community building has already been arranged for use, he said. The second location is to be decided at a later session of the committee, he added. Last year Varsity hall was used along with the Community building.

Last year's celebration was held on Saturday, Jan. 28, two days before the national festivities, but the 1940 event is scheduled to jibe in date with other celebrations throughout the country.

Attorney Swisher announced the committee's decision to charge $1 a couple to attend the 1940 dances, tickets, he said, to be interchangeable between the two dance halls.

Proceeds from the local ball will be divided equally between the national and county foundations to be used for the common purpose of fighting infantile paralysis.

This year's committee includes, besides Attorney Swisher as chairman, Dr. T. J. Greteman, Attorney E. A. Baldwin, Edward F. Rate, L. A. Moore, Arthur Bellaire, Prof. Bruce E. Expect 100 Play Casts To Enter Festival In March, April

Officials Tell Final Plans For 15th Event

High Schools, Junior Colleges, Community Groups To Compete

Casts from more than 100 high schools, junior colleges, and community groups are expected to enroll for the University of Iowa's 15th annual state play production festival in 1940.

Final plans for the affairs, announced here yesterday, show that the high schools will give their plays between March 25 and 30, the junior colleges April 1 and 2, and the community groups April 4, 5, and 6.

Practically no changes have been made in the plans since last season when a record total of some 115 casts presented their one-act plays. The high schools again will enter classes A, B, and C according to enrollment, while the community groups likewise are split into three classes.

In addition to the plays themselves, all to be given in the university theater, university officials have scheduled demonstrations and round table sessions on problems of acting, directing, staging, playwriting and educational aspects of the dramatic art.

Judges will again use the group rating system and awards will be made to the casts which are rated superior or excellent. It is possible, of course, for two or more plays to receive an identical rating.

Officials have announced that groups must enroll by Feb. 1. Co-operating units in the festival are the university's extension division, the speech department and the community drama committee of the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs.

Iowa City's Famous 'Black Angel'—A Verified Tale of Interesting History

By MARY KATHERINE HURN and D. MAC SHOWERS

There are a lot of legends about the "Black Angel" monument in Oakland cemetery in Iowa City. Growing up through the years, tales have been told, re-told. . . But research has disclosed facts about the "Black Angel"—facts that weave an intensely interesting story of its origin and existence. Popular among university students, as well as the townspeople, are fabulous stories about the curious marker. Some of these concern a woman who was supposedly "bad" and whose grave stone, which was originally a white angel, turned black after her death.

Others relate how, the night following the woman's burial under the monument, there was a storm and the following morning the angel had turned black.

Still stranger stories inform amazed hearers that beneath the grave-marker is the son of a preacher. The preacher murdered his son and placed a white angel over his grave which later turned black.

Stories Are Numerous So the stories go. They are numerous and varied in style and text as well as reason.

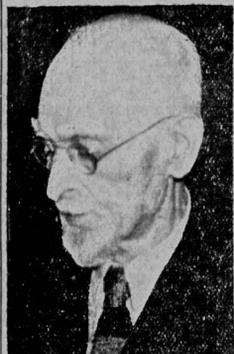

In reality, there are three persons buried under the Black Angel in Oakland cemetery—a small boy and the ashes of his mother and his step-father.

As for the black condition, it turned that color as a result of the natural effects of the elements. The woman who had the monument made was alive for at least six years after its erection and the thing was probably black or well on its way before she was ever buried there.

Peculiar Grave Marker Other peculiar things about the grave-marker which are all concerned in this story are seldom noticed by the visitor who has heard the fantastic tales of its existence.

Very near to the actual monument stands a decorative cement modelled monument of a tree stump upon which is an inscription, but no date. There are apparently three names on the base of the Black Angel monument. On one side of the base, probably unnoticed by nearly everyone, are five lines of Bohemian inscription.

Handled The Matter

Attorney Paul A. Korab of Iowa City (above) was a legal adviser of Teresa Feldevert. After her death he was appointed by the mayor of Strmilov, her home town in Czechoslovakia, to handle the matters concerning her bequests to various civic groups of Strmilov. Attorney Korab was graduated from the university college of law in 1893 and has since served as clerk of the district court here, worked in the Iowa State Savings bank for 26 years and has been in his law office since 1925.

Also, written into the east base of the angel is the name of the designer as well as the signature of the foundry where the monument was cast.

Three Names On Base Strange about the three names on the cement base of the angel are the dates and the difference in names.

This is the name inscription on the front of the cement base of the angel monument:

RODINA FELDEVERTOVA
NICHOLAS FELDEVERT 1825-1911
TERESA FELDEVERT 1836-

One viewing this might suppose that the first is the name of the person actually buried under the monument. Then the question

The Two Monuments

Pictured above is the Black Angel of Oakland cemetery. Standing on the left is the cement tree-stump monument which was originally intended to be included in the monument of the angel. The three names on the base of the Black Angel do not all commemorate would arise about the identity of the other two names and about the one who is apparently yet living. But if she were still alive today, in 1939, she would be 103 years of age!

"Eddie Dolezal" The name on the nearby cement "tree-stump" monument bears the name "Eddie Dolezal" but is undated. It has an English inscription. So here is the explanation: Buried in the graves are Eddie Dolezal, Nicholas Feldevert and Teresa Feldevert. The first name in large letters is the family name in the Bohemian style of the Feldeverts. The "ova" stands for "the family of" meaning the grave of "the family of the Feldeverts."

Eddie Dolezal was the only son of Teresa Feldevert by her first husband and Nicholas Feldevert was Teresa's second husband.

Eddie Dolezal preceded both of the others in death and was originally buried under the cement "tree-stump" grave some distance from the present grave site. Several years after the death of Nicholas Feldevert in 1911, Teresa planned the Black Angel monument.

August Geringer Consulted Upon contracting for the molding of the bronze statue, she consulted August Geringer, a Bohemian publisher in Chicago and her close friend. He recommended that she hire J. Mario Korbel of Chicago to design her monument.

She signed a contract with Korbel providing that he should erect a monument according to her specifications except with such changes as his artistic taste saw fit, providing that any change be approved by Geringer. A bronze cast identical model of the cement monument over Eddie's grave was to be included in the bronze statue.

Black Angel Completed

Korbel spent some time designing and constructing the piece and finally completed the Black Angel. It did not fit the original specifications, so Teresa refused to pay the $5,000 cost of the angel.

She was represented in her refusal by several attorneys of Iowa City. She lost the case, however, because Geringer had apparently approved the change according to the provisions in the contract. On the advice of Attorney Paul A. Korab, she paid the bill in full.

The monument was erected in 1918 and Eddie's grave was moved alongside the present grave where the ashes of his step-father were buried and where his mother's ashes were buried upon her death, Nov. 18, 1924.

Mrs. Feldevert Dies Upon the death of Mrs. Feldevert, Attorney E. B. Russell was appointed by the court to handle the affairs of her estate. She had no relatives and most of her (See BLACK ANGEL, Page 9)

Iowa Plans For Holidays Christmas Vacation Expected To Mark Exodus of 6,000

Another wholesale desertion of the University of Iowa campus will occur Saturday when thousands of students leave for home and their 17- and one-half-day holiday recess.

Classes officially end at noon and the students will not have to return to the classrooms until Wednesday, Jan. 3 at 8 a.m.

The exodus will be rail, highway, and even by plane as more than 6,000 students attempt to get home in the fastest time by the speediest possible route.

In length, the Christmas and New Year's recess equals that of recent years. While students are home, many university professors will attend various meetings of scientific and other learned organizations immediately after Christmas.

Oriental Christmas Designs Distributed By Y. W. C. A.

Chinese Christmas cards, each bearing a reproduction of a Chinese Christmas picture and a greeting in Chinese characters, are being sold by the Y. W. C. A. this week in the "Y" office at Iowa Union.

The entire proceeds from the sale of these cards, sold through the cooperation of the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China, Inc., will be sent to the Chinese Red Cross in the form of medical supplies and hospital equipment.

One of the two designs offered is a reproduction of the Chinese Madonna while the other is a picture of a Christmas toy peddler with his portable rack full of toys. Both designs are reproduced in full and authentic colors on folders four by six inches in size.

The local sales are under the direction of the World Winds discussion group and the freshman promotion committee.

Individual cards are 10 cents and may be purchased in boxes of 10 for one dollar.

Roller Rink License Issued By City Council

A one-hour debate between two opposing groups arguing before the mayor and members of the city council last night in the city hall and a half-hour recess of the council resulted in the issuance by the mayor of a one-month license to the City Park Roller Rink to operate about the Beck Motor company at 11 E. Washington.

Norman Schroeder, manager of the skating rink, said the floor would be open to the public Friday.

The license, a compromise of either a longer term license or none at all, came after verbal objections were offered by Noel Harrison, manager of the Berkeley hotel, the building next to the rink, who contended that noises from the crowds and roller skates would disturb hotel guests.

Alton William F. Morrison represented Harrison, introducing his arguments.

W. O. Herten and Otto McCollister, speaking in behalf of Schroeder, answered that fiber wheel skates and special type of floor will be used to reduce noise to a minimum.

The short time permit was granted after a suggestion by Alderman R. J. Phelps that the two factions experiment, adding that an investigation may be made after the month to determine whether damage is being done against the hotel owner.

Control Dam Discussed By Capt. Matthews

The proposed control dam near Coralville was discussed by Capt. A. G. Matthews, assistant to the Rock Island district engineer, who was guest of the Iowa City Engineering club at the December meeting last night.

The proposed dam will be of importance since the operation will directly affect Iowa City as well as the Iowa river farm lands downstream, according to Prof. J. J. Hinman, assistant director of the State Bacterial Laboratory and president of the local engineer's club, who introduced the speaker.

Captain Matthews gave first hand information on the technical features and the present status of the project.

Talk on Books Today at Union

Prof. Wilbur Schramm of the English department will emphasize books as Christmas gifts, when he gives his annual lecture on current books this afternoon at 4:10 in the library of Iowa Union.

Margaret Kuttler, A3 of Davenport, is in charge of this afternoon's book talk and June Hyland, A3 of Traer, is chairman of the library sub-committee of the book talk series.

Don't Suppress Anti-Democrat Groups, Say University Women

A climax was reached in the weeks of Western conference series of debates and discussions on the question, "Should Anti-Democratic Organizations in the United States be Suppressed," when 40 university women met in Columbus, Ohio, at the women's Western conference convention Friday and Saturday and decided that no groups in the United States which have been called anti-democratic have warranted any form of suppression other than investigation.

In addition, it was agreed that the solution to the problem lies in educating the public to look for truth, University of Iowa delegates reported upon their return to Iowa City Sunday night.

Convention delegates, they also disclosed, declared the radical activities of several patriotic organizations to be as un-American as those of present communist and fascist groups in the United States. It was another reported convention conclusion that in order to solve the problems out of which the discussion arose, it is necessary to cure the country's economic ills.

Nine midwestern universities were represented at the Columbus meeting. They were the Universities of Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, Purdue university, Northwestern university and Ohio State university. Iowa's delegates were Alberta Ewoldt, A3 of Oakland; Dorothea Guenther, A3 of Davenport, and Marjorie Mangold, A3 of Ryan.

Each of the three delegates spoke at one of the Friday sessions. Miss Mangold represented the University of Iowa on a panel radio forum Saturday night in which the conclusions reached by the convention were presented.

Simmons Files Deposition

Former Garage Owner Says He Delivered Four Cars in Deal

Orville Simmons filed a statement in district court yesterday which was taken under oath at his temporary home in Centralia, Ill., Nov. 9, telling his part in the matter of the indebtedness of the Simmons Motor company to the Johnson County Savings bank.

In October an application was filed in district court by D. W. Bates, Iowa superintendent of banking, asking the Johnson County Savings bank in the name of Ben S. Summerwill, former examiner in charge, to pay Bates, receiver of the bank, money claimed to be due. The application stated that Summerwill said he investigated the D. C. Heath company stock and found that it was not worth more than from $1,500 to $2,000.

Summerwill allegedly settled this indebtedness by receiving three 1935 Packard 120 and one Plymouth automobiles from the Simmons Motor company, contending that the automobiles were of more value than the stock.

The application continued that Bates purchased "around Sept. 15, 1935," one of the automobiles received by Summerwill, paying $1,000 for it. It further revealed that another of the Packards was sold the following April to a Des Moines man for $850.

Simmons, in his deposition yesterday, stated that in a conference with Bates and other banking officials about that time it was hinted to him that the banking department would close the Simmons deal on receipt of four new Packard cars.

Compromise settlement was later made, the statement continued, with the delivery of three new cars. Simmons said when he delivered the cars in Des Moines the banking department did not return his notes and collateral. He said they promised to mail them.

When the notes and collateral were returned, Simmons said, he found that some of the notes had been withheld. Simmons said when he complained to Bates, the banker told him the notes and collateral were not included in the settlement.

A phone call later from "a banker," it was testified, revealed that if Simmons would deliver another automobile to the banking department the missing notes and collateral would be turned over to him.

Simmons said he delivered a Plymouth car to the receiver at Iowa City and the missing collateral and notes were put in his possession.

'Philosophical Bases for Physical Education' By Prof. McCloy Presents Mature Philosophy

By NORMA D. YOUNG

"Philosophical Basis for Physical Education," latest book by Prof. C. H. McCloy, university researcher of anthropometry and physical education, was released from the press last Thursday, Dec. 7. The publication presents the mature philosophy of one of the outstanding research experts in the nation.

The work is divided into three parts: "Philosophical Considerations," "Some Aspects of Method," and an "Epilogue" in which the author has prophesied the course that physical education will probably take in the next decade. Fifteen of the 17 chapters are units, written at different times as the natural release of the author's urges to express his philosophy.

The chapters all have intriguing titles as for example, "New Wine in New Bottles," "Are There any Fundamentals in Physical Education?" and "Physical Education and Civilization." The chapter on "A Study of the Landing Shock in Women's Jumping" piques the curiosity because it was censored in this country when it was written twelve years ago, but eventually was sent to Germany where it appeared in print.

The author exhibits throughout the book a complete and sympathetic understanding of the problems that face the present day educator. It is not theory that he presents but a working philosophy of how to meet situations adequately. Some of the trends of which he has been aware for years have recently "become the rage." Progressive educational methodology, for example, is discussed in a chapter that was originally written in 1928.

The cultural values of physical education are presented as a major objective of physical education. Those who think that physical education is culturally poverty-stricken should read the chapter, "What Price Progress?" and they might also refresh their minds with Thoreau who said: "A man thinks as well through his legs and arms as his brain. . . Do you suppose they were a race of consumptives and dyspeptics who invented Grecian mythology and poetry?"

"Philosophical Bases for Physical Education" answers a long felt need. It has the advantage of being written in reasonably non-technical language. Expressed in a pleasantly unique style, the author's ideas, scintillating like meteors, and his life-mellowed statements not only make the book indispensable for the information it presents, but also furnishes delightful reading.

money was left to organizations and civic groups in her home town of Strmilov, Czecho-Slovakia.

Her assets as recorded in her will amounted to $13,761. After all debts had been paid and the estate settled, there was but $8,850 balance. In her will she had provided for gifts and grants amounting to about $10,000.

Included in the will were grants of $500 each to the promotion of gymnastics, erection of a library and education of poor children in her home town.

There were also funds set aside to be invested in securities or to be deposited in banks for the purpose of aiding and educating the poor. These amounts were divided in proportion when the estate was settled, but none amounted to Teresa's anticipations.

Complete File of Records
However, holding a power of attorney from the mayor of Strmilov, Attorney Korab still has a complete file of all the records in both English and Bohemian. Korab is still active in law practice at Iowa City.

He was graduated from the university college of law in 1893 and has since served as clerk of the district court here, worked in the Iowa State Savings bank for 26 years and has been in his law office since 1925.

So that is the tale of the Black Angel. It is black only by the natural effects of the elements and there were no murders, evil women or thunderstorms mixed up

Hints To Help Women Buyers Purchase Presents for Men

What shall I give "him" for Christmas? With that question in mind, most Iowa City women are shopping through all of the men's stores to see if they can find the answer to satisfy the males in the household.

The first thing that every woman should think of is—every man is different in his tastes. When they pick out the gift, they should remember his favorite colors, what sports he follows, and what he does in leisure time.

One of the nation's larger magazines recently completed a survey in which they discovered that the ideal gift for men, at least from the man's viewpoint, is a shirt and tie combination.

It is when the woman buys the shirt and tie that she should remember the man's favorite color. In most cases, men like a plain white shirt because it can be worn with every type and color of suit and can be worn at any type of social event.

If a woman is buying for the college man, she can go to the extremes in both colors and designs of shirts and ties. The new French panel tie is the answer to most men's wishes this Christmas.

The custom today for men who smoke is to have a different pipe for different times of the day. A good looking and smoking pipe can be found in most men's shops and will be mighty welcome under the smoking man's Christmas tree. Also a carton of his favorite brand of cigarettes hits the spot!

For the man who likes hunting, fishing, golfing or any other type of sport, the woman buyer can either add to the articles he uses while participating in the sport or can buy better articles than he has been using. A golfer always likes more golf balls and the fisherman never tires of new and useful flies and spinners. A complete golfing outfit of shoes, socks, pants, and sports sweater will be used with comfort nearly 200 of the 365 days of the year by the golf enthusiast.

Some men like to read books.

Whether it be biographical studies of great men or a murder story, get a man a book that interests him.

Some other gifts for men are shaving lotion, an electric razor, socks, garters and belts. In all wearing apparel the common "golden rule" is—don't make it an uncomfortable color.

For a still better present than any other—get the man of the family an electric train and his and the worries of the buyer are over!

Methods of School Support Must Be Revised, Says Ross

Many Iowa Schools Must Close Under Present System

"Unless we have a change in our system of supporting public schools, many small schools in Iowa will be forced to close," Cameron Ross, assistant state superintendent of schools and field superintendent in 33 Iowa counties told the members of the local League of Women Voters at a luncheon meeting of the group yesterday noon on the sunporch of Iowa Union.

The chief reasons for poor support of schools, Ross asserted, are the decrease in the average income of a taxpayer, the increase of school enrollments and the difficulty of reducing a school budget.

"Iowa is the only state in which the total amount of school support comes from local taxes," said Ross. He pointed out that 98 per cent of school incomes is derived from local property taxes.

Ross then explained his duties as one of three field supervisors of Iowa schools. Under the auspices of the department of public instruction which provides a state superintendent and his faculty, these men tour as many counties as possible to inspect elementary, secondary and rural schools in Iowa.

The duties of these men are to inspect the schools from the standards of health, sanitation, general and financial administration and type of instruction given, he said.

"Annual teachers conferences where improvements for all 99 counties are outlined are the best methods of instruction," he concluded, "since we can reach 16,000 people in a period of three weeks."

Geology Department Makes Plans To Publish Alumni Newsletter

By HELEN HAMILTON

Reminiscing of college days is one of the greatest pleasures of alumni through the years, and the inevitable questions, "I wonder what ever happened to Bill Johnson?" or "Did you hear whether Harry came back from that job in South America?" are all part of the pattern.

Some of the departments in the university have an annual newsletter or some type of publication which they send to all their former students and instructors and thus keep renewing interest in old friends and classmates.

For the first time, the department of geology has compiled a complete listing of names and addresses and present positions of geology majors and graduates in connection with plans to issue a newsletter sometime during the winter.

Some interesting facts come to light in such a survey and the first is that of all the people who majored in geology while here in the university, 82 per cent are now engaged in some phase of that profession with only 18 per cent actively employed in other fields.

Of the latter, four are practicing physicians and one an attorney. Some graduates are women who are now housewives. This average, of so many continuing in the same field they studied for, is very high compared with some other departments and colleges.

Of these graduates, 70, or 40 per cent of the total number, are engaged in the commercial field a geo-physicists or petroleum geologists. Twenty-one, 12 per cent, are in public work with U. S. Geological survey, U. S. Soil Conservation association, the U.S.

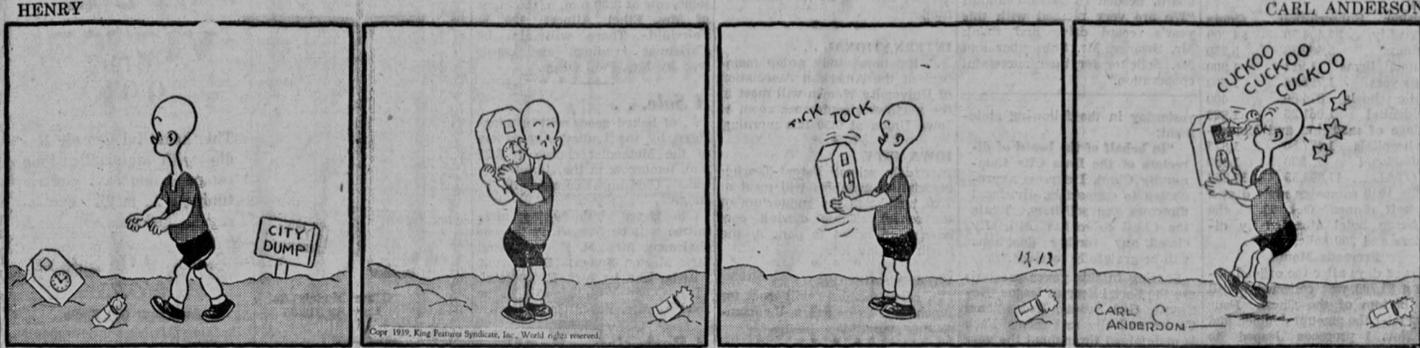

Engineering department or the National Park service. Forty-nine graduates are now teaching geology in different universities, and it is interesting to note that they represent 34 colleges and universities from one end of the nation to the other.

Ten men are now stationed in foreign countries, South America ranking first with six and India, Hawaii, England-Iraq, and the Philippine islands each having one. Petroleum geology and allied industries take most graduates into far countries and in many cases lead to executive positions in the world's oil industry.

These men are Norval E. Baker, headquarters in London, who is developing oil fields in Iraq; H. W. Riecke, Karachi, India; Earle Taylor, Manila, P. I.; C. K. Wentworth, Honolulu, Hawaii and in South America, Harry B. Fields, Argentina; Alvin Freie, and L. O. Wiringa, both in Venezuela and three in Colombia, Joseph Banks, Paul Nelson and George R. Wood.

The degrees that the department has awarded include 40 B.A., 56 M.S. and 49 Ph.D. Twenty others took special work but did not receive degrees.

Of local interest is the fact that now actively engaged in the profession are eight graduates who were formerly Iowa Citizens. They are F. G. Cox of Laurel, Mississippi; G. Marshall Kay of the Columbia university faculty; Philip B. King of Washington, D. C., and his brother, Robert King of Midland, Texas; M. M. Leighton of Urbana, Ill.; Walden W. Patrick of Houston, Texas; Wilfred B. Tapper of Wichita Falls, Texas and Leo G. Keppler of Dallas, Tex.

R. Rummelhart Case Taken By Advisement

Judge H. D. Evans took the case of Rupert C. Rummelhart against the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York under advisement at the conclusion of a special court session Sunday morning.

Rummelhart's action against the insurance company is for refund of $1,000 in premiums, $100 a month disability benefit from January, 1930, and reinstatement of his full insurance policy. Rummelhart claimed the company induced him to sign away 80 per cent of his policy while he was in an incompetent state.

Frank Messer was the attorney for the plaintiff. The law firm of Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher defended the insurance company.

Jack Swaner Reveals Closing Of Community Chest Drive

Goal Not Reached But Chairman Says Campaign Successful

Ends Chest Drive

Jack J. Swaner, campaign director of the 1940 Iowa City Community Chest, yesterday announced the formal closing of this year's drive, the most successful, he said, in several years.

Although the goal of $17,850 was not reached, the 97.4 per cent attained by the eight divisions canvassing the city and university, representing $17,393.55 collected, stands for one of the highest percentages of a goal ever reached in an Iowa City Community Chest campaign, he declared.

The university division, led by Prof. Walter Daykin, exceeded its $4,200 quota by $204.50 to lead the field in percentage. In second place, gathering the largest sum of money for the Chest was the business division, under the direction of Leland Nagle. That section, collecting $5,469.75 to exceed its $5,250 quota, went 4.1 per cent ahead of its normal figure.

The third section to exceed its quota was national firms, totaling $1,911.

Complete results as announced yesterday by Swaner are as follows:

Division	Subscription	Quota
University	$4,404.50	$4,200
Business	5,469.75	5,250
National firms	1,911	1,900
Employees	1,795.05	1,900
Public schools	374.50	400
Residential	1,061.25	1,225
College of medicine and University hospitals	1,477.50	1,825
Professional	900	1,150
TOTAL	17,393.55	17,850

The 1940 campaign started at a "kickoff dinner" Oct. 23 at the Jefferson hotel attended by directors and 200 solicitors.

Proceeds Mount
Three days after the official opening $1,200 was collected to fill the bottom of the Chest. Four days later the amount doubled and by Nov. 1 proceeds leaped to $11,000. Eighty per cent was reached by Nov. 8, 90 per cent, or $16,000, by Nov. 15, and during the final days of the cleanup campaign proceeds reached within three per cent of the goal.

Although the drive is officially over, Swaner said, further contributions will be accepted at the Jefferson hotel headquarters, where Mrs. Verna S. Records, secretary, will be stationed for another week.

Swaner expressed his gratitude

Jack J. Swaner, above, campaign director of the 1940 Iowa City Community Chest, which was closed yesterday after the $17,393.55 goal was 97.4 per cent attained, the eight divisional directors, 200 solicitors and Iowa Citizens who subscribed to this year's chest yesterday received the following commendation from the year-round Community Chest board, headed by Alva Oathout: "We are very pleased with this year's record drive and thank Mr. Swaner, Mr. Subscriber and Mr. Solicitor for their successful cooperation."

yesterday in the following statement:

"In behalf of the board of directors of the Iowa City Community Chest, I express appreciation to supporters, divisional directors and solicitors. While the Chest drive has officially closed, any further donations will be gratefully received."

Sharing in this year's proceeds are the Social Service League, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Recreational Center and city rest rooms. Each is maintained throughout the year partly by Chest contributions.

Divisional directors this year, besides Professor Daykin, and Nagle, included Dr. H. Dabney Kerr, college of medicine and university hospitals; Attorney Arthur O. Left, professional; Mrs. Lloyd Howell, residential; H. S. Ivie, national firms; Harold Schuppert, employees, and O. E. Nybakken, public schools.

Stimmel Asks $900 Damages

Case in district court of H. W. Stimmel against Thomas Reed, in which the plaintiff asks $900 for "pain and suffering" because of a cut thumb, $25 for doctor bills and $325 for loss of wages, went to the jury late yesterday afternoon.

The plaintiff alleged that in an argument over a butcher knife the defendant cut Stimmel's thumb severing the artery, ligaments and tendons. This, the plaintiff said, caused "severe pain and injury and damage."

The defendant's argument was that such damages were the proximate result of Stimmel's own negligent acts, and not any wilful act of his. A jury was impaneled during the morning session of the court. Petit jurors include Mary M. Hotz, James S. Brown, Rosella Richmond, Elsie M. Figg, Emma L. Jones, Nina Ronan, LeRoy Cuppy, W. R. Kasper, Albert Betz, O. S. Wilson, Charles O. L. Rogers and G. F. Gardner.
