Company Officials Put Mine Death Toll at 92

All Hope Abandoned For Miners

27 Bodies Recovered; 65 Still Missing As Search Continues

BARTLEY, W. Va., Jan. 12 (AP)—Hope was abandoned tonight for the entombed men in the blast-swept Bartley No. 1 mine and company officials put the death toll at 92, the worst mine disaster in the nation since 1923.

Raymond E. Salvati, vice president of the Pond Creek Pochahontas coal corporation who had rescue crews day and night in their efforts to reach the trapped men, issued this statement:

"We have penetrated far enough to justify our thoughts that there was no possibility that the men barricaded themselves (against explosion gases). They are all dead. They would be dead even if they had barricaded themselves. There is insufficient air."

27 Mangled Bodies
The rescue squads found 27 mangled bodies in the wrecked corridors 600 feet underground, leaving 65 still missing. Only three bodies had been identified but relatives of the trapped men sadly started preparations to bury their kin.

The company at first had fixed the total of trapped men at 91 but a recount of work records showed 92 were caught when the blast ripped through the mine Wednesday. Forty-seven others escaped unharmed.

Not since 195 were killed in the Mather, Pa., mine explosion of 1928 has the death toll in a mine disaster been higher. The all-time record is 361 killed in the Monongah, W. Va. explosion of 1907.

To Distribute Pay Checks
Governor Homer A. Holt and representatives of the workmen's compensation office came here to aid in the settlement of compensation claims and the company announced the victims' pay checks—due tomorrow—would be distributed to the families.

Until 4 a. m. today the company had held hopes of finding 50 or 60 of the miners alive, but the crews broke through then to the center of the blast area and found five bodies. That meant, crew leaders said, that all in the area probably had been killed instantly.

Salvati said 41 of the men apparently had been trapped far back in the "main 6" heading, a tunnel leading horizontally from the heading; and two close to the shaft.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The WPA said yesterday it had 2,159,786 persons on work relief rolls January 3, an increase of 7,792 over the preceding week.

Britain Discloses Bombing Far Inside German Territory

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Great Britain disclosed officially tonight her airmen had bombed and reconnoitered far inside German territory in the give-and-take aerial warfare raging back and forth across the North sea.

Apparently in retaliation for several successive days of flight by German planes over the British Isles, royal air force planes dropped six bombs on a row of lights believed to have been a path of flares to guide German aircraft in Rantum bay on the island of Sylt, Germany's great seaplane base in the North sea.

A British statement announcing the operation said all the planes returned safely despite anti-aircraft fire.

The string of lights in Rantum bay, believed to have been beacons for returning German aerial minelayers, were extinguished immediately after the British bombs dropped. The bombing occurred during "routine patrols" over German seaplane bases in Helgoland Bight and further north.

The "extensive operations" by British aircraft Thursday night included, the British statement said, flights over the great German seaport of Hamburg, which has nearly 2,000,000 population, the industrial city of Frankfurt on the Main, roughly 100 miles east of the Bel-

BEER ON TAP!

Home Water Faucets 'Produce' Soda

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 12 (AP)—East Joliet residents turned on their water faucets today and beer ran out.

Some called City Commissioner Joseph F. Whalen to complain. Others said it was great. One man asked if it couldn't be made a little stronger.

Whalen said that a brewery vat apparently had over-flowed into the city water system and made the water taste strongly of beer.

Urges Trade Agreements

Wallace Says Foreign Sales Necessary To Absorb Farm Output

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Arguing that domestic markets are insufficient to absorb the entire American farm output, Secretary Wallace told the house ways and means committee today that foreign sales were necessary and urged the administration's trade agreements program as an effective method for obtaining them.

"I believe that, from the standpoint of agriculture, as well as the welfare of the nation as a whole, discontinuance of the authority to conclude reciprocal trade agreements would be extremely unfortunate," he said. "A program of this kind will be particularly important in the days of a post-war world, which all of us, I am sure, sincerely hope are not too far away."

Wallace, advocate of a third term for President Roosevelt, asserted at one point in the hearing that he was "anxious to continue as secretary of agriculture."

Representative Treadway (R-Mass.) had asked him why Louis J. Taber, master of the Grange, national farm organization, opposed extension of the trade agreements program if, as Wallace had testified, it had benefited farmers.

Wallace repeatedly denied the republican contention that increased agricultural imports had affected domestic farm prices because the increases have been, he said, "infinitesimal."

"It doesn't take much to break a market," said Rep. Reed (R-NY).

At another point, Wallace urged a resumption of loans to foreign countries as an additional stimulant for agricultural exports.

"It may be necessary again," he said, "to engage in foreign loans, governmental and private, but the next time we engage in foreign loans, we should consider them in connection with the whole commercial policy and make them in countries from which we are willing to accept increased exports."

600 Couples Dance at Military Ball

By ANNE MARIE SHEELY
Daily Iowan Society Editor
There was a fanfare of trumpets, a complete silence while 600 couples waited breathlessly and then Nona Seberg, A4 of Mt. Pleasant, was presented as honorary cadet colonel for 1940 at the annual Military Ball last night in the main lounge of Iowa Union, while Tommy Dorsey's orchestra played from "swinging it."

Escorting Miss Seberg to the platform to receive her commission was Robert C. Christensen, L1 of Davenport, cadet colonel, who also received his commission at the same time.

Preceding the presentation of the honorary cadet colonel and the cadet colonel, Cadet Adjutant James A. Jones, C3 of Iowa City, serving as master of ceremonies, introduced the cadet lieutenant colonels, Charles B. Hollis, L1 of Perry, infantry unit; Robert P. Miller, E4 of Iowa City, engineer unit, and Jack J. Davies, M3 of Iowa City, medical unit, and the honorary lieutenant colonels, Ruth House, A4 of Iowa City; Susan Runner, A4 of Iowa City; Beth Browning, A4 of Iowa City, and Eulalia Klingbell, A4 of Postville.

White Mess Jackets
Wearing white mess jackets with their kilts, sporrans, white spats and red hose tops, 12 members of the university Scottish Highlanders unit under the direction of Pipe-major William L. Adamson, marched into the ballroom to open the presentation ceremonies.

All Student Cast To Present Herbert's Opera 'The Serenade'

An all student cast will present Victor Herbert's comic opera, "The Serenade," in the auditorium of Macbride hall Feb. 7 and 9. Prof. Herald Stark of the music department announced yesterday.

Under Professor Stark's direction, the three-act opera will be accompanied by a small chamber orchestra. Robert Whitehand, graduate assistant in the dramatic arts department, is in charge of the dramatics. Names of students with leading parts in this year's production have not been announced as yet.

Known as the opera that brought fame to Victor Herbert, "The Serenade" was first played by the Bostonians, a light opera company, following their outstanding success, "Robin Hood." The words of the work were written by the famous librettist, Harry B. Smith. "Cavalleria Rusticana" was presented by a university student cast two years ago.

Asserts Ford Promised Aid

AFL Union President Offers Affidavit To House Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—An affidavit quoting Homer Martin, president of the AFL automobile union, as saying "Ford" had promised him "financial help," was made public today by a house committee investigating the national labor relations board.

The document had been found in the board's files. Edmund Toland, committee counsel, said it was offered to show that the board went beyond the testimony at its hearing in a case against the Ford Motor company at St. Louis.

The affidavit, Toland said, was placed in the board's files after hearings in the Ford case had been ended. It was signed with the name of Harry A. Elder of St. Louis, former bodyguard for Martin, and bore the date Sept. 2, 1939.

(In Detroit, Harry Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor company, denied that any promises of help ever had been given Martin, or that Henry Ford had ever talked with the labor leader.

"Mr. Ford never said more than the single word 'hello' to Martin as he passed him in one of the corridors out here," Bennett said. "He didn't learn until afterward that the man was Martin.")

Reading of the affidavit interrupted the testimony of Mrs. Ann Landy Wolf, Hungarian-born review attorney for the board, who is handling the Ford-St. Louis case.

The young brunette denied "positively" that she had ever seen the document, and Rep. Murdock (D-Utah) protested that its introduction, under those circumstances, was "improper." He was overruled by acting chairman Healey (D-Mass).

"The affidavit had the initials of the board chairman," Toland asserted, "so it probably came to the attention of the board." The chairman is J. Warren Madden.

Mrs. Wolf, whose job is to prepare the case for the study of the board—and she has read 21,000 words of transcript in the process—acknowledged that "it appears to have the chairman's initials on it."

It was explained that she had not had access to the "informal files" in which Toland said the affidavit was found, since they were closed to review attorneys March 30 by order of the board.

Helsinki Unmolested By Raiders

Attacks on Southern Finland Said To Be Heaviest of War

HELSEINKI, Jan. 12 (AP)—Soviet Russia's air force today subjected southern Finland to one of the heaviest bombings in the month-and-a-half of war, breaking Helsinki's telephone communications with the outside world and punishing a dozen other cities.

The violent attacks came a day after a Soviet attempt to land parachute troops on the Karelian isthmus was reported to have ended in mass death in the air.

Lahti, sixty miles north of the capital, reported the heaviest damage. The radio station in this important railway junction was put out of commission by bombs. Elsewhere the damage was not so heavy, although there were some casualties.

Thirty planes raided Turku (Abo), southwestern seaport through which much foreign material and many volunteers for Finland are passing. Other cities along the Gulf of Bothnia were likewise pounded.

Connections Broken

Bombs which broke Helsinki's telephone connections with foreign lands fell on islands some 30 miles south of the capital. Vibrations were felt here. Riihimaki, a rail junction 40 miles north of Helsinki, also was bombed. Telephone communication was expected to be re-established shortly.

Air raid sirens screamed in Helsinki at 2:15 p. m. but no planes were sighted over the city itself. However, the Russian bombers ranged over a wide section of southern Finland.

Repulse Enemy

Finnish marksmen on the isthmus were reported to have frustrated the attempt to land groups of the Red army's vaunted parachute corps by picking them off as they dangled from chute shrouds. Scandinavian newspaper correspondents said several groups of 50 in parachutes were wiped out as they floated to earth in yesterday's twilight. Others were rounded up when they landed.

(Disclosure of "considerable" shipments of war materials to Finland through France from Spain, Italy and the Balkans, all vitally concerned over Soviet Russia's intentions, was made by an official spokesman in Paris. From Spain, observers said, are coming German and captured Russian guns, which blazed at each other in the Spanish civil war.

(Scandinavian nations, however, are in the front rank of Finland's helpers. Sweden and Denmark already have sent organized contingents of volunteer fighters.)

While workers set about repairing the capital's shattered long-distance lines, to points abroad, war correspondents with Finland's Arctic army reported that the Russians, armed with books of instructions on how to ski, had begun a tremendous twin attack from the Salla and Petsamo fronts, seeking to penetrate Finland from the icy north.

So far, however, they had managed (See HELSEINKI, Page 7)

Search For Two Missing Navy Fliers

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)—One man was dead, three safe and two missing after a head-on air collision of two navy torpedo planes over barren Borego canyon, 75 miles east of here, 11th naval district officials reported tonight.

A searching party of more than 50 ranchers and sheriff's deputies from San Diego and Imperial counties was spread fan-wise across the desert near the crash scene, seeking the two missing men, reported by survivors to have parachuted from the crashing planes.

Two of the survivors, Elmer Edwin Jackson, 22, Hendersonville, N. C., radioman third class, and another whose name was not given, were reported safe at a highway repair station, 15 miles from the nearest telephone, in the canyon famed for its desert beauty.

The Making Of Wise Men

REALIZATION that book learning and wisdom are not synonymous comes as a distinct and unsettling shock to the majority of university students. That the very thing for which they are spending time, money, and energy will not of itself make them ruler of their time is not an easy pill to swallow.

Book learning, which we take to be the knowledge of what is in books, can be taught to the average mind. Facts can be stored away in almost any noodle with dint of sufficient effort, and can be spouted out again under proper stimulation.

Paradoxically enough, with the acquisition of a large store of book learning, wisdom is attained with more ease and with greater difficulty. To synthesize, to correlate, to evaluate and to utilize all that one learns in four years at a university is a tremendous task.

Abandon The Jury System? IN THE bill of rights a person is guaranteed the right of trial by jury, which is an outgrowth of Anglo-Saxon law.

The Intercepted Pass THE PRESENTED trend of the Russian-Finnish war reminds one of a critical moment in a football game, when a player on the offensive team throws a long pass far down the field for one of his own men to take, when an opposition player grabs it out of the air and starts toward the thrower's goal.

of a different religion or race. As long as the judges are elected by the people and thus directly responsible to them, why not let them act as jurors if we are not going to change our standards for jurors? As the situation now stands, the members of the juries are in no way responsible to the people and they are entrusted with life and death—a most valuable thing.

The judge, who has become in many cases a mere umpire, has secured his job by training in law and success in the field. He has proved his worth in equity courts in England and in civil cases in the United States.

Results of the first week of travel on Iowa highways show that nine lives were lost, equaling the number lost over the same period in 1939.

At least loyal Iowans can point to the record of two other cities in the state, namely Dubuque and Clinton, and say that "it can't happen here."

'It Ain't What It Used To Be!' THE USUAL post-Christmas decline in retail buying was cushioned last week by an active and unexpected demand for heavy apparel as a cold wave swept out of the west across the plains and to the Atlantic seaboard.

Whether this need for winter clothing, due to unusually low temperatures in many places, increased the demand for old-fashioned flannel underwear, mittens, earmuffs, goshes, scarves and mufflers, the report does not say.

Another factor condemning the present system is that twelve men and women of a totally unprejudiced mind are extremely difficult to find, according to sociologists. There tends to be prejudice against corporations, employers, and those

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

★ Five-Year Plan ★ Miracles Expected ★ All-Time High

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—The fact that colleges seem to have adopted a five-year plan with reference to contracts with football coaches undoubtedly will be quite encouraging to many a harried tutor who doesn't know from one month to the next whether he is going strong or just going.

The Shaughnessy case is a success story in reverse. It offers the picture of a coach working patiently week after week teaching the boys how to lose, with a pep talk along the lines of: "Fine work, boys. One more smashing defeat and I'll get the job." And in Shaughnessy's case there would be a p.s.—he got the job.

But all levity aside, his contract with Stanford is a fine tribute to a gentleman and a fine coach, and an added tribute is that neither by printed word nor by mouth was it hinted that he was in any way to blame for the miserable showing of the Chicago eleven last fall.

Every fan knew Shaughnessy had the job of trying to build a battleship out of birch bark, and that the best coaches in the country could peel their brains without result if the material they had to work with was better on a quiz program than a football field.

Miracles Expected A five-year contract for a new coach seems only fair enough. A one-year contract would seem to indicate a lack of confidence on the part of the school, and that the school was expecting a miracle.

Two years, or even three years, are not enough for a coach bringing in a new system to become adjusted. But five years would seem to be just about right.

If the football situation were at a low ebb, as usually is the case when a new coach is hired, the chosen mentor would need a year to do a little missionary work in his precinct to round up material.

The second year these lads would be freshmen, and he could have his freshmen coaches laying the foundation for varsity play. The next three years they would be his varsity men, and when they would be seniors, the coach would have a team which is all his own, with his own material and no hold-over players or ideas from his predecessor on which to place the blame, or possibly the credit, for whatever might happen.

All-Time High Bible's contract probably is an all-time high when the standpoint of duration and yearly stipend are considered, and it has been remarked that he'd be worth every penny to the school even if his teams didn't win a game. He has that kind of a personality.

But a five-year contract is fair enough, and it should work both ways. A losing coach expects to keep his job during the period, and he shouldn't expect the school to tear up the contract if he has a good year and a better offer from another school.

There will probably be an epidemic of losing teams now that Shaughnessy has had such success, but we're still waiting for a team to lose itself into the Rose Bowl.

Buckeyes On Spot Tonight

Rest With Game Against Illini

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Ohio State's chances of successfully defending its Big Ten basketball championship will be exceedingly slim if the Buckeyes fail to defeat Illinois tomorrow night.

The Bucks have lost their two conference games so far, the same number of defeats they suffered in the entire season a year ago, when they nosed out Indiana for the title.

Victim of Michigan and Purdue, Ohio State must show a complete reversal of form in order to whip Illinois and turn back Indiana in two later tests.

The three top teams face comparatively easy engagements in the third round of games Saturday night. High-scoring Purdue entertains Wisconsin's defensively-sound five, Michigan plays host to a weak Iowa team and Indiana's rugged players go to Minneapolis to play Minnesota's young machine.

In the fifth game of the night Northwestern and Dick Klein engage Chicago and its Dick Lounsbury, two of the best sharpshooters in the league. Chicago, defeated by last-minute goals in its first two league games, hopes for a little better luck against the Wildcats. The Maroons have shown little scoring power, but have displayed a puzzling zone defense against Wisconsin and Illinois.

Iowa Runners to Compete in All-U Relays Today

After weeks of preparation the annual all-university relay carnival will take place this afternoon in the fieldhouse starting at 2 o'clock. Some 200 men are listed in the various events scheduled in this afternoon's meet, and about 75 of these will be competing in the featured event of the day, the interfraternity relay.

John Graves and his Alpha Delta Pi fraternity relay team are the favorites in that spot, but will be given a good fight by more than one other team. Charlie Lyle's squad representing Clinton House will be a great threat along with Merl Erickson's team, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and the four man group wearing the colors of Pi Beta Phi, headed by Cam Campbell. Lyle is able to run the four laps he is listed for in 1 minute and 58 seconds and will be running in the first heat against Graves who has run the half-mile in 1:54. All in all an interesting time is expected in all the events to be run off, which will include races among fraternity and dormitory groups and many individual events. The meet is under the direction of Coach George Bresnahan and his assistant Ted Swenson. The following men will compete in the interfraternity relay event; the first man listed on each team is its captain. Sigma Delta Tau: Stiller, Fuller, Kantor and McLain. Currier Hall: Rouzer, Beebe, Stanfield, Briggs, Delta Delta Delta: Bush, Lapham, Collinge, Stuntz. Alpha Chi Omega: Baird, Hinrichs, Green, Cowan, Clinton House: Lyle, Conklin, Feldman, Manush. West Liberty Trips Locals Invaders Lead At Halftime To Win Close Battle

By NED WILLIS Daily Iowan Sports Reporter

U-High fell victim to the West Liberty purge last night as the Comets captured their third conference victory by a 16-12 score on the Blues' hardwood.

The contest was a close defensive battle all the way with neither team being able to get its own rebounds. The ball hawking Comets nabbed almost every U-High pass that wavered the least bit off its mark, and Blues' off-line passes cost them the ball game.

The first few minutes of the tilt indicated that neither team was going to hold the whip hand. The River school led the visitors 5-4 at the end of the initial period, but the West Liberty quintet stopped the northsiders cold in the following quarter, and held an 8-5 margin at half-time. The Comets held their three point advantage throughout the third period to lead 12-9.

Too many fouls put the Blues behind the eight ball in the final stanza, and cost them the services of Murray Dawson, dependable forward. West Liberty hit four out of five times from the free throw line in the last quarter, and Nicholson's basket in the closing minutes cinched the game.

West Liberty's reserves fumbled less passes than the Blues' seconds, and were rewarded with a 21-10 victory. Flater, West Liberty forward, was the star of the game with nine points.

Miller Gets 16 Points To Top Scoring

Led by a scrappy guard, Red Miller, St. Pat's fighting Irish last night downed St. Mary's parochial school of Riverside, 46-20, to mark up the fourth win in seven starts.

Miller counted 16 points after a slow start with only one point in the opening period. The red-head's total is now 95 points for seven games.

St. Mary's never evened the score after Grady, Shamrock forward, sank a first minute free toss. Two field goals by Grady and Fitzpatrick and a free throw by Miller put the fighting Irish out ahead, 10-3, in the first quarter.

St. Pat's added ten more in the second period with field goals by Fitzpatrick, Miller and Beasley and free throws by Miller and Fitzpatrick. St. Mary's scored seven points and the Shamrocks were out ahead 20-10 at the half-time.

While holding St. Mary's to a single field goal the Shamrocks poured through 13 points in the third quarter to widen the margin. Tall Paul Holland came through with six points in the final period to add to field goals by Miller and Grady and a free toss by Quinn for a total of 13 points. St. Mary's marked up eight points in the last quarter and the game ended 46-20. Jack Grady, forward, held second scoring honors for St. Pat's with nine points followed by Holland, center, with six.

Coach Rollie Williams will send his young, inexperienced Hawkeye cagers against a powerful array of Wolverines tonight in an attempt to put an end to a six game losing streak that is stringing along with the Iowa cagers.

Michigan, however, looks like anything but a second division club in the Big Ten and will undoubtedly make the going plenty tough for Iowa's sophomore contingent. The Wolverines are riding high on the crest of two conference victories to date, having defeated Ohio State, last season's champs, and a strong Northwestern team. Iowa has been beaten by Indiana and Minnesota in conference play.

With plenty of speed and scoring power in Vic Siegel and Bill Wheeler, the Hawks may snap out of their accustomed place in the cellar and come through with a victory.

Teamwork and passing of the Iowa team has been below par and it is doubtful whether they will be able to cope with a smooth running Wolverine team which is over-loaded with veterans.

The Hawkeyes will meet Chicago's Maroons in the final game of their road trip Monday before returning to Iowa City.

Kemp Named Iowa Leader

Wrestling Opener Will Be Today At Iowa Fieldhouse

Clarence Kemp, senior 155-pounder, will take over the job given him on 24 hour notice when he leads the Hawkeye wrestlers into the opening meet of the season, against Northwestern in the Iowa fieldhouse at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Kemp, winner of major "T" letters in wrestling during each of the past two seasons, will meet McMillan, Northwestern 155-pounder, in one of the day's feature matches. The new Iowa captain was elected last night to replace Kenneth Kingsbury, who has dropped the mat sport to concentrate on his work in medical school.

Working with Kemp for Iowa will be one of the best balanced outfits that Coach Mike Howard has presented in several years. Graduation last spring cost him the services of but three men, Big Ten champion Wilbur Nead, Carl Vergamini and Merrill Johnson. Since several good men came out of last year's freshman ranks, the loss has been fairly well balanced by the gain.

Taking Nead's place in the heavyweight berth tonight will be Virgil Neubauer, the sophomore who defeated "Iron Mike" Enich in the all-university meet. With Neubauer and Enich both on the squad roster, Howard expects to keep the sport well fortified. Vergamini's spot will be filled by Paul Whitmore, fast-rising junior 175-pounder, while the veteran, Phil Miller, will work in Kingsbury's 136-pound post and Ralph Geppert, called one of Iowa's most potent contenders, will take Johnson's 165-pound berth.

Besides Neubauer, Whitmore, Geppert and Miller, the Iowa team today will present Kemp in the 155-pound division, Ingle in the 145, Loy Julius in the 128 and Billy Sherman in the 121.

And, while there were a few minor kicks, they weren't at all violent—nothing like the diplomatic maneuvers of a European "You Invaded Me" session. As far as Iowa is concerned, I can't recall even one instance of a real objection to decisions, although there were a few border line plays that might have made a difference.

There was, it might be admitted, mention among Hawkeye supporters of the slowness of some officials, who didn't get there quite fast enough, but the kickers weren't very nasty about the whole thing. After all, you'd rather have an honest fat man stand at the far end of the field to call them than depend on the 12th man of the other team.

Demaret, Wood Lead Oakland Open

By RUSS NEWLAND OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)—Golf bigwigs, minor leaguers and others touring the winter tournaments trail wrote the second chapter today of the 72-hole $5,000 medal play Oakland open championship. More conclusively than anything else, it proved that by and large, the bulk of them are better bad weather than fair weather players.

Tied for leadership at the halfway mark with 36-hole totals of 138 were Jim Demaret, the crooning Texan from Houston, and husky Craig Wood, veteran trouper from Mamaroneck, N. Y.

The second round was played under clear skies, sunshine and a drying course. Only three of the field were able to come in under the par figures of the 35-35-70 Sequoyah course—Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago; John Dawson, Hollywood amateur, and Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, Long Island. Each posted 69 and none was among the front runners.

In driving rain, poor visibility and standing water during the opening 18, par was kicked around like an orphan in a Horatio Alger tale.

Demaret and Wood set the pace at the halfway point by adjusting themselves to the changing weather conditions. The former came in with an even par round to add to his initial 68. Wood, sharing the first day's lead with amateur Wilford Wehrle, of Racine, Wis., at 67, put together a 71 in his second circuit mark. Wehrle incidentally, was eight shots worse today with a 75.

One stroke behind the two leaders was Bruce Coltart, Haddonfield, N. J., with a 69-70-139. Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., one of the professional elder statesmen, occupied the 140 bracket alone as the result of his second round 71.

Chicago President Blasts Football

Chicago President Blasts Football

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago declared today that "football on the whole has been a major handicap to education in the United States."

Giving some 2,000 members of the student body an explanation of why Chicago recently abandoned the sport, Dr. Hutchins emphasized his opinion that: (1) It is a good thing for the nation to have one important university discontinue football, (2) That football benefits a school only if it is winning football and, (3) That football has done as much as any single thing to originate, disseminate and confirm misconceptions of what a university is.

Bob Pastor Dodges Bout With Savold

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Efforts of promoter Mike Jacobs to match heavyweights Bob Pastor of New York and Lee Savold of Des Moines met with failure today.

James Roy Johnston, manager of Pastor, declared, "Under no circumstances will I accept the match."

Jacobs had proposed the two meet in Madison Square Garden either March 8 or 15 and Pinkie George, manager of Savold, expressed willingness.

Afterward Jacobs said he would try to arrange a bout between Savold and either former heavyweight champion Max Baer or his brother, Buddy.

Jacobs intended to leave tonight for Florida.

'Wherefore Art Thou—' However, Romeo Was Looking for Juliet—With Court Writ

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12 (AP)—A western romeo's attempt to win his chosen Juliet by court writ fizzled today. The romeo's day in court came but his Juliet didn't. He met her mother instead. The romeo, John E. Adams, 32, head of a collection agency contended that his Juliet, Isabel Desher, 24, had promised to change from his secretary to his wife but had been compelled by her mother to give up her job and then to stay away from him. The mother, Mrs. Louise Desher, said her daughter was her own boss and, in fact, hadn't been at home the past few days. Furthermore, Mrs. Desher declared, her daughter never was engaged to Adams.

State Trooper Describes Shooting of 14-Year-Old

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)—In testimony punctuated by a woman's sobs, a heavy-shouldered man who once wore the gray of the Pennsylvania state police told today of killing a 14-year-old scougirl when she brandished a "pistol" that turned out to be a toy. "That gun looked real to me," handsome, dark-haired Benjamin Franklin, 30, declared at his trial on murder and manslaughter charges for the slaying of Joan Stevens last June 5. He described the victim, a seventh grade schoolgirl in the nearby mining town of Nesquehoning, as a roused and painted "young lady" who talked of gangsters and bank holdups and threatened to "blow your—brains out." Conspicuous in the crowded courtroom were two mothers—Franklin's and the girl's. Mrs. Mary Franklin, 70, showed no emotion, but Mrs. Mayme Stevens, weathed in mourning, sobbed, cried and clucked approval. "Oh, heavens!" she exclaimed. "Oh, those dirty cops." It was Joan's promised "tip" on a robbery plot, Franklin related, that led him to pick her up that fatal June night in a police car. In the front seat were Franklin and Private Edward J. Swatji, the girl stepped into the rear. She refused to give her name. They halted in a dark street. As the officers pressed her for information about herself and examined with flashlights a map purporting to show a holdup plan, the girl "suddenly pulled a gun," Franklin said, and commanded them to drive her to nearby Lansford. Then followed, he said, the threat to his life. The 200-pound defendant's pretty wife, Pauline, 26, watched intently as her husband crouched on the witness stand and demonstrated how he ducked low in the front seat and fired "to protect my own life and that of the man who was with me." Franklin, suspended from the state police after the shooting, testified that he didn't aim but held the gun—an automatic borrowed from another trooper—over his head and fired "blindly" into the back of the car. When the firing ended the 90-pound girl lay dead, her dark hair wet with blood and eight bullet wounds in her head, chest and arms, beside her was a realistic toy imitation of a black automatic. Predicts 'No Third Term' Senator Wheeler Thinks Roosevelt Has Respect For Precedent

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12 (AP)—U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, in a busy day here today predicted President Roosevelt would not seek a third term, said it was impossible now to balance the budget and accepted an invitation to address the CIO United Mine workers convention on Jan. 23 in Columbus, Ohio. The senator told a local gathering of the League of Women Voters he was not opposing the president and that if Mr. Roosevelt were nominated for a third term he would support him. "But," he added, "I feel sure he hasn't any idea of running for a third term. I think he has as much respect for the precedent as I have, and for that reason I feel confident he's not going to be a candidate." Wheeler made no mention of his own possible candidacy for nomination as the democratic presidential candidate, although he did confer with a dozen leading members of the party and receive the endorsement of one, Chairman John J. Kane of the Allegheny county commissioners. Acceptance of the invitation of John L. Lewis to address the miners union aroused speculation as to his chances of receiving the backing of that powerful group. In his speech and a later interview, Wheeler said: 1—A dictator is "the receiver of a bankrupt nation" and "sooner or later a nation that spends more than it takes in, goes bankrupt." But he added that in times of emergency, with nine or 10 millions unemployed, "it would be impossible to balance the budget." 2—Of the national labor relations board, that "the only way any commission or board can maintain respect of the people" is to show fairness and impartiality, and when government agencies are unfair the individuals should be ousted and others put in. 3—River transportation should be under the regulation of the interstate commerce commission, just as are railroads, trucks and buses.

Bert McNamer Files Petition in Court Against Annie Bush

Bert McNamer filed a petition in district court yesterday against Annie Bush charging her with negligence in setting a fire which resulted in destruction of $265 worth of his property. He asked judgment in the same amount. The petition stated that on Nov. 9 the defendant set fire to some grass and rubbish on her premises adjoining McNamer's. It contended that there was a strong wind blowing towards the plaintiff's property at the time and sparks and fire were carried over to his property. A second petition was filed in district court yesterday by P. H. Clay against the Rock Island Motor Transit company and asked judgment of $918 as the result of a traffic accident. Clay claimed he suffered a deep laceration in his upper lip and a sprained back and wrist when his automobile struck the transit company's truck as the truck cut a corner in making a left turn. The petition stated that the defendant's truck driver failed to pass to the right of and beyond the center of the road before turning to the left from Burlington and Gilbert streets. Attorney Ingalls Swisher was named as attorney for both plaintiffs.

As I am earning good money and my children are being educated in the public schools I feel it my duty to assist in maintaining the schools, etc. of the city." After Murphy recovered from the shock, he set the wheels in motion to satisfy Milligan's request. Search disclosed the man owned no real estate and would be assessed only for personal taxes.

City Woman's Club Members Show Hobbies in Clubrooms

Outstanding Displays, Collection of Dolls Part of 'Hobby Lobby'

Unusual and entertaining hobbies of many varieties were displayed by members of the Iowa City Woman's club yesterday at their "Hobby Lobby" in the clubrooms of the community building. Among the outstanding displays was a collection of dolls owned by Mrs. I. A. Rankin. The dolls, representing many foreign countries, were dressed in authentic national costumes. From South America were a Paraguayan peddler with his pack on his back and a Brazilian lady carrying a basket on her head. A southern mammy doll made from a clothespin and an Arkansas mountain woman made from a corn cob were included with dolls from all the leading European nations. Jugs, Bottles Uncommon jugs and bottles have become collector's items for Mrs. L. E. Clark, who displayed part of her collection. A large variety was included, from the lowly ink bottle and vinegar jug to the highly decorated perfume bottle. A "prohibition" vinegar bottle in the image of Carrie Nation, mother-of-pearl containers on chains for carrying smelling salts and a bootleg whiskey bottle made to resemble a horseshoe were among the more unusual containers in the display. Japanese and Chinese articles are the hobby of Mrs. Edna Harter. Her collection includes a unique hand-painted leather fan, and a matching wine bottle and cup of Japanese origin, which "whistle" as they are used. A complete collection of Christmas tuberculosis seals of the 24 years from 1916 to 1940 was the contribution of Mrs. Guy V. Lockwood. Cats and dogs vied for attention in the collections of Norma Thornton and Mrs. C. A. Bowman. Also on display were collections of antique glass, unusual pitchers, autographed books, Indian pottery, stamps and party favors, as well as crocheting and needlework. Mrs. I. A. Rankin, general social chairman, was in charge of arrangements for the hobby show. Tea was served by Mrs. R. V. Smith, Mrs. A. O. Klaffenbach, Mrs. O. S. Morse and Mrs. Clarence Van Epps.

30 Students in Pilot Training Make Solo Since November

Take Wings In Airport Flying Class

50 Enroll In Course For Six Lessons Of Weekly Teaching

About 30 of the 50 students enrolled in the civilian pilot training course have made solo flights to date, it was announced yesterday.

Instruction, under the direction of Linn Guthrie, Paul Shaw and Robert Whitmore, started at the Iowa City airport about the middle of November.

The students take flying lessons six times a week. They are not allowed to fly for more than a half hour at a time—thus, they receive a total of three hours of instruction a week. Two new instructors are expected to begin work here within the next few days.

Solo Flyers
The students who have made solo flights are Betty Johnson, A3 of Red Oak, only girl taking the course; Wayne Anderson, A2 of Harlan; Robert Dalin, A2 of Ottumwa; Earl Edward, G of Westfield, N. J., and Lyle Seehorn, E3 of Brooklyn.

William Thorsen, A1 of Des Moines; William Wilkinson, A2 of Marengo; Harry Zeisloft, E3 of Gloucester, N. J., and Richard Smith, A4 of Hazelton.

Ground school instruction only is being taken by Richard Boughton, A1 of Dubuque; William Chenoweth, A2 of Denison; Gail Collins, A3 of Estherville, and John Dawson, E3 of Iowa City.

James Becker Is No. 51
James Becker, A1 of Mt. Vernon, has the misfortune of being "No. 51" in the university's new civilian pilot training course—that is, he passed the rigid physical examination and met all other qualifications only to find that 50 other students "got there first." Fifty, of course, is the quota of students who can be given flight training under the government-sponsored course.

So Becker has reluctantly become what is known as an "alter-nate" and if someone falls or drops the course—it won't make him a bit unhappy!

Approximately one-third of the University of North Dakota students are Lutherans.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 12 (AP)—Several medical men testified in federal district court today that they considered a claimed cancer cure offered at the Baker hospitals of Eureka Springs, Ark., and Muscatine, Iowa, to be without value for purposes for which it was advertised.

They appeared for the government in the trial of Norman Baker, 56-year-old founder of the hospitals, and four associates on a charge of using the mails to defraud in advertising the "cure."

The medical men heard were Dr. Max Cutler, author and surgeon, director of the Chicago Tumor Institute and associate surgeon at Northwestern university; Dr. Francis Carter Wood, 70-year-old retired professor of cancer research at Columbia university and laboratory director at St. Louis university, New York; Dr. D. A. Rhinehart, Little Rock x-ray specialist; Dr. H. W. Hundling, Little Rock surgeon; and Dr. Glenn H. Johnson, Little Rock physician and radium specialist.

Except for Dr. Johnson, who testified almost exclusively about the use of radium in cancer, the witnesses were handed an analysis of the Baker treatment, previously entered in evidence, and were asked for an opinion of its effectiveness.

Sliding to Safety in Bombed Finnish City

An exclusive picture snapped in Vilpuri, Finland, during a Russian bomb attack. The girl is sliding to safety from a bombed building on a pole set up against the facade of the structure. The interior of the building was completely demolished by the Soviet airmen.

They're Identical Twins, But—!

Freshmen Greta and Gretchen Gunter Confound Their Friends

One is a pre-medic and the other is a B. F. A. in piano, but both have this in common—they're identical twins, so nearly alike that even their parents have trouble now and then telling Greta from Gretchen.

They're the Gunter twins, both A1 of Mt. Pleasant. The only identical women twins in the university, they've already found activities which further confound their friends.

Both sing in the choir of the Presbyterian church and both belong to the Y. W. C. A. They dress and look alike, and since both play the marimba, play duets.

But they aren't alike beyond that. It began when they were babies and their mother dressed Greta in blue ribbons and Gretchen in pink ribbons.

By BETTY GILLILAND

Greta wants to take medicine when she's through her English course in the college of liberal arts. So much has she considered it that she has thoroughly investigated medical schools and would like pretty much to go to the Woman's Medical school in Philadelphia.

Gretchen, on the other hand, plays in orchestras and frequently accompanies Greta on the Hammond organ. Greta came to the state high school music contest last year as a soprano soloist.

These red-headed—they wouldn't say "titan-haired," but "red-headed"—twins whose sister Evelyn was second in last summer's state-wide red-head beauty contest were born June 22, 1922, the same year the cow had twins, the colt had twins and the stalk of corn grew double-ears.

They've traveled about the United States rather extensively with the family—every summer in the family trailer, in fact. When the twins were six weeks old, the Gunter's took Gretchen and Greta on their first trip.

"Isn't that horrid?" remarked one of them.

You never can tell which is talking. Both evidently follow the same trend of thought once they get started, and one continues where the other left off. Both laugh a great deal, but it's not the kind of laugh which is tiring.

Their roommate, Janet Evans Brinker, A1 of Keokuk, also a pre-medic, doesn't have trouble knowing which twin is who. "Oh, it's easy!" she said.

But she can't tell you how she does it.

T. E. Martin Will Seek Candidacy

Congressman From Iowa City Makes Announcement in East

Thomas E. Martin, Iowa City, congressman from Iowa's first district, announced yesterday in Washington, D. C., that he would be an aspirant for renomination to his post in the house of representatives in the forthcoming election. The Associated Press reported.

Elected to congress in November, 1938, Martin became the first Iowa citizen to take a seat in the house since Martin J. Wade relinquished his office in 1905.

During his term in office Martin has served on the republican subcommittee to study agricultural problems. He was in Iowa last month to attend the agricultural conference the committee sponsored in Des Moines.

A member of the joint house-senate military affairs committee, Martin made a 14,000 mile inspection tour of air bases in November and December along with a party of other congressmen.

Soviet--

Berlin interchanges on the subject were, there is little doubt among neutral observers that considerable friction would be disclosed.

Russia was definitely poaching on vital German preserves when she marched into Finland. Collapse of the Russian drive on the Finnish "waistline" front has already seriously impeded the flow of Russian food, oil and other war necessities which Nazi Germany had hoped to get out of her deal with Moscow.

Russia's own army needs must come first with her. The transport facilities with which she can maintain her forces in Finland are meagre at best. It goes without saying that routes which might otherwise have been available to carry goods to Germany are now tangled with a cross traffic of troops and war material needed on the Finnish front. Germany cannot now be getting more than a dribble of economic help from Russia.

Not is that all the damage Russia's adventure in Finland has already done to Germany's own war supply resources. A single item, Finnish dairy produce, is illustrative. Butter fat in all its forms is a serious lack in German economy. Finland produced a considerable surplus of dairy products in peace times. Much, if not all, went to Germany in various ways. Now it is a vital war necessity for the Finnish army and people themselves.

A similar situation is developing for Germany as to Swedish iron ore and other Scandinavian products on which she relied heavily in risking war with the Franco-British allies. Sweden, Norway and even more distant Denmark are feverishly increasing armaments and assembling war stocks of all sorts because of the Russian menace in Finland. Normal traffic between Germany and those countries, sharply stepped up when the war between Germany and the western allies made it increasingly important to Berlin, has been heavily cut because of the war in Finland. For one thing, that Russian move immediately broke the only rail connection between Norway and Sweden and Germany, via Finland.

It is a reasonable assumption that Nazi aid of any character for Russia in Finland is conditioned on a definite commitment by Moscow not to commit any act which might draw Sweden, Norway or Denmark into that conflict as belligerents.

Berlin is already on virtual notice that Scandinavia is anticipating an allied, not a German victory, in Europe's "big war." Its chief immediate concern must be to avoid developments of the Russo-Finnish struggle that might open Germany to allied attack on her Baltic flank.

aged to build strong fortifications in only one Salla district town in the north. Southward to below Suomussalmi in Finland's narrow waistline, the frontier is clear of any appreciable enemy forces.

It was in the snows at the edge of this waistline that Finnish armies cut to pieces the 163rd and 44th Red army divisions.

Today's Finnish communiques gave no indication of any progress for the Soviet Arctic push, merely saying that all land fronts were quiet yesterday. It said one Russian plane was shot down Thursday.

New evidence of the peculiar effectiveness of the fighting efficiency of the white-shrouded Finnish woodsmen came in the course of an 800-mile trip by Thomas Hawkins, Associated Press war correspondent with the Finnish armies in the field.

Hawkins drove for as much as two hours without seeing any sign of an army until halted by a sentry who slipped silently from the woods on skis.

He crawled on hands and knees through the low entryway of a wigwam hidden in a snow-coated forest to find the headquarters of the victorious Finnish Suomussalmi command. Inside, the colonel sat on the straw-covered ground on a scarlet blanket, with radio and field telephones at his side.

Nearby, Finnish soldiers searched a four-and-a-half mile stretch for abandoned rifles and ammunition. Once it was held by the 44th Russian division, now virtually wiped out.

A train of 200 light sledges, laden with food and ammunition, wound through the snows to the frontier. In contrast, the routed Russians used trucks which bogged down in the drifts.

White clad ski troops, almost invisible in the snow, glided beside the supply train.

The lack of such swift forest ski scouts, Finnish officers said, contributed heavily to the Russian defeats in the Suomussalmi region. After the battle dozens of books, entitled "How to Ski," were found in a supply wagon of the annihilated 44th division.
