BRITAIN SEES IMPOVERISHED REICH

Finnish Invasion Has Stirred Up A Hornet's Nest for Hitler

Minister Pictures Nazi Privation

English Church Head Rejects Official's Plea To 'Feed Thine Enemy'

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Britain's government informed the nation today that its wartime stranglehold on Germany's food and commerce already had reduced the reich to the gnawing want of 1916. Sharp-faced Ronald H. Cross, 43-year-old minister of economic warfare, before the house of commons drew a grim picture of German privations as a result of four-and-a-half-months of British economic blitzkrieg. Then, in matter-of-fact tones, he said: "We look forward to the day when we shall so strangle Germany's economic life that she can no longer sustain her war effort."

"Feed Thine Enemy" Simultaneously, the spiritual head of the Church of England, Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, archbishop of Canterbury, rejected a high-churchman's plea, "If thine enemy hunger, feed him."

The bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Ernest William Barnes, had presented a motion in the house of bishops of the church, urging that free importation of foodstuffs into Germany be permitted by the British blockade. The archbishop sternly replied that members of the government had informed him there was no way to distinguish what raw foodstuffs would be used exclusively for feeding the hungry and what might go, at least indirectly, into the production of munitions. He said he shared Dr. Barnes' horror of war, but: "I cannot feel that it is a greater evil than would have come upon the world if we had allowed the present rulers of Germany to have their way."

Dr. Barnes withdrew the motion, remarking that the house of bishops was divided by practical considerations rather than by moral fundamentals. Hitler and Kaiser Cross, in commons, asserted Britain's sharp economic attack, starting with the beginning of this war rather than later, as it did in the World war, had reduced the German "Lebensraum" (living space) to the area ringed by the bayonets of her own troops. Thus, in four and a half months, he said, it had placed Hitler Germany in the position occupied by the Kaiser's empire after two years of World war. Cross's statement and its ominous connotation for Germans followed upon prime minister Chamberlain's recent warning that the German people must share the responsibility for a continuation of the war, although Britain had no desire to "annihilate" them.

Italy May Enter War

Leaders Declare Present Neutrality Can't Last Forever

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP)—The new secretary of the Fascist party, Ettore Muti, told Italians today that "Italy may face the necessity and duty of any moment of picking up arms."

"There is no need," Muti told a conference of provincial party leaders, "to lull oneself with the illusion that Italy's present situation with regard to war may last forever." Muti did not indicate whom Italy might have to fight and this left unchanged the general impression in foreign circles that she would remain out of the war as long as possible. However, one passage of his speech was interpreted as a rebuff to British and French gestures of conciliation, such as frequent press commendations of Italy's remaining on the sidelines. After stating that Italy might have to fight "at any moment," Muti continued: "It must therefore be prepared in its resources and above all in its spirit. It is well to add that it is absurd and dangerous to derive too much satisfaction from the recent demonstrations of international sympathy which are without justification or foundation and not even in harmony with the true sentiment of the Italian people, which has learned not to forget the history which it has lived dramatically, especially in these recent times."

Chamberlain Talk Reflects British Idea

Simpson Calls Minister's Speech Virtual Claim Of Ultimate Victory

(INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS)

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press Staff Writer

A British belief that Russia has stirred up a hornet's nest of trouble for Germany as well as herself in Finland is reflected in Prime Minister Chamberlain's accounting to parliament on the progress of the wars in Europe. Stripped of its cautious warnings that anything can happen overnight to change the picture, that Chamberlain speech was a virtual claim that ultimate victory for the Franco-British allies is even now in sight, and perhaps months, not years, away.

The prime minister reserved until the last his warnings against trying "to picture the course of history in the nineteen forties." Without it, his address must have been set down as a virtual prediction of the collapse of the enemy, perhaps this year.

Allied Siege Tightens

Unquestionably Russia's plight in Finland, and its economic effect on Germany as well as its stimulating influence on the will of low country neutrals to stand firm against German aggression, was uppermost in Chamberlain's thought as he spoke. There can be little doubt that British leaders regard Finland's gallant stand against overwhelming red army odds as having tightened allied siege lines about Germany.

The Finns, aided by the coldest winter much of Europe has known for a quarter century, have done more than successfully repel Russian attacks. They have stirred Scandinavian public opinion and even governments to a mood of defiance of Russia that is an impendable factor in the European war equation. They have also demonstrated strikingly that water-line defenses, even when ice-bound, are as much or more of a barrier to modern mechanized armies than they were to Napoleon's foot-slogging legions or those of Frederick the Great.

Water Line Defenses

Now that the water-line defenses of Holland and Belgium are fully manned, those countries are less fearful that Germany will push into their territory to carry forward the war against England. This sharply underscores the water-line defensibility lesson the Finns have taught not only Russia, but German high commanders. Behind Chamberlain's words implying full confidence that Germany could be halted if she (See HORNET'S NEST, Page 6)

Garner Opposes New Loan To Finland, Senate Hears

Banking Committee Halts Action To Hear Secretary Hull's View

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Reports were heard in the senate today that vice-President Garner is opposed to a further loan to Finland. At the same time, the banking committee decided to delay action on Finnish aid proposals until it can obtain the views of Secretary of State Hull. Garner was said by one highly placed senator to have expressed the view that an additional loan to Finland would be "very unwise" because it might conflict with the nation's neutrality policy.

It was to ascertain possible effects of Finnish aid proposals on United States neutrality and foreign policies that the banking committee decided to call Hull to a closed meeting next Wednesday.

Jesse H. Jones, head of the federal loan administration, conferred with the committee today and advised it he believed a $10,000,000 non-military loan, already granted by the export-import bank, was "a sound credit risk."

Jones, it was said, advanced no opinion regarding how much additional money might be advanced with confidence that it would be repaid. This question, he was quoted as adding, was one which congress properly might study.

N. J. Nitro-Glycerine Blast Rocks 65-Mile Area, Kills 2

GIBBSTOWN, N. J., Jan. 17 (AP)—Three tons of nitro-glycerine exploded today with a roar heard 30 miles, killing two men and injuring five at the Repanto plant of the DuPont power works.

The possibility of sabotage drew the immediate attention of state police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The plant had been heavily guarded. Colonel Mark O. Kimberling of the state police said after an investigation, however, that he saw "no reason to suspect sabotage."

So great was the mid-morning shock that it was felt in Lakehurst, N. J., 65 miles away. It left only a smoke-blackened crater where the little isolated dynamite mixing building stood. Windows were shattered for miles. Buildings were jarred in Philadelphia — 12 miles north. Thousands in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania-Delaware industrial section fled homes and business houses. They feared an earthquake.

Three of the men returned to work after treatment at a hospital. Townspeople, some of them women with babies in their arms, stood for hours in a light snow outside the main gate of the plant awaiting word of friends and relatives employed there.

cello and Orchestra" was the novelty of the evening. The soloist was Hans Koebel for whom the number was written and to whom it is dedicated. The theme upon which both movements of the "Fantasy" are based is the traditional "Dies Irae," or Judgment Day hymn. The character of the first movement, a "Rhapsody," alternates between the plaintive and the stormy. Unfortunately the segments of the "Dies Irae" chosen for transformation were so short that the movement seemed to

India Fights for Freedom From Britain

Madame Kamala Devi Describes Country's Bitter Struggle

England fights to maintain democracy today, while India struggles to gain democracy within herself—such is the strange paradox facing the people of India, according to Madame Kamala Devi in yesterday's discussion in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Madame Kamala Devi, prominent political leader of India, suggested that England, primarily concerned with freeing Germany from Nazi control, should first of all free her colonies in the interests of democracy. "India has no hatred for the

Deadly Cold Grips Finns In Attack

HELSINKI, Jan. 17 (AP)—Pitiless death-dealing cold laid a glacial hand on Russia's war machine tonight but the Finns reported their troops were driving toward a new victory near Salla above the Arctic circle.

Phenomenal 54-degree below zero temperatures (Fahrenheit) restrained the Russian air force, which has been raining death and destruction on Finnish towns, and apparently immobilized Russian ground forces which have been attacking on the Karelian isthmus.

Temperatures were so low that touching a piece of metal with a bare hand raised immediate blisters. Movement of tanks and armored cars was hazardous even if no shots were fired.

Front line trips by correspondents were called off by the Finns because of the danger of freezing to death.

Clad in their warmest Arctic clothing and calling upon their unusual resistance to low temperatures, the Finns were reported driving Soviet troops back in the Salla region.

The army communique said only that "our troops are fighting successfully in the direction of Salla" near the eastern border of Finland, but other Finnish sources said developments in the Salla region raised hopes of further successes.

Two days ago reports from Salla said the Finns had cut Russian supply lines, leaving the Soviet troops without sufficient food to carry through their winter campaign.

The Red army was reported to have dug itself in behind heavy fortifications, while bombing planes attempted to drop provisions from the air.

War Nations Need Planes

Britain, France Wish To Triple Orders For U. S. Crafts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—British and French proposals to triple their present orders for American-made war planes were reported to have been discussed at a conference today by President Roosevelt, Secretary Morgenthau and officials of the army, navy and other departments.

British and French officials have notified the government that they contemplate ordering for speedy delivery 8,000 or more planes and an even greater number of aircraft motors, reliable sources said.

Such purchases would call for a further expansion of an aircraft industry already working overtime on army, navy and foreign contracts and would raise numerous problems of taxation, coordination and financing.

Officials have indicated strongly, however, that a further expansion of manufacturing facilities, if orderly, would be welcomed as an aid to the national defense.

Provided difficulties already evident can be ironed out, some manufacturers have expressed confidence that the vastly increased orders could be completed in 18 months or less without delaying requirements of the expanding army and navy air services.

lose line and become episodic. The "Dance," the second movement, was a more organic whole, and came off better in performance. Do not let the above criticism lead you to believe that the "Fantasy" was not well written. At no time did Dr. Clapp lose sight of the relationship between solo and orchestra. The orchestra was employed, not so much as a mere accompaniment, but as an integral part of the composition. The solo part for cello was brilliantly conceived and exploited the full possibilities of the instrument.

Professor Koebel's playing left little to be desired. He handled the difficult solo passages with ease; his tone was firm and sure and in the lyric passages beautifully singing. As an added treat Professor Koebel played the "Intermezzo" from Granados' opera "Goyescas" and the "Meditation" from Massenet's "Thais." Dr. Clapp played Mr. Koebel's accompaniments. After the intermission the orchestra played the seldom-heard "Symphony in B Flat" of Ernest Chausson. It is a work of melancholy lyric beauty. The orchestra rose to the occasion with some of the finest playing heard this year. We take off our hats to Dr. Clapp and the orchestra.

Sir Edward Elgar's rousing overture, "In the South," was the final number of the program. The overture seemed a bit long (especially after the Chausson), but it was full of bravura passages and lovely ones (especially the viola solo played by Mr. Jelinek).

Communicate Takes Issue With 'Facts'

Tass, Russian Agency, Declares Red Airplanes Haven't Bombed Helsinki

BULLETIN

COFENHAGEN, Jan. 18 (Thursday) (AP)—A general Russian retreat from the Salla sector of Finland, involving 40,000 troops, was reported early today in dispatches to the Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende.

The dispatches, from the newspaper's correspondent on the northern front, said the Russians apparently had given up hopes of holding the frigid Salla front from the winter.

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 (AP)—Communiqués from Tass, the official Soviet news agency, tonight denied three Finnish war reports which it ascribed to a German news agency, an important German newspaper and the British labor party organ, the Daily Herald.

One communique, which Tass relayed from the headquarters of the Leningrad military area, challenged "German trans-ocean news agency reports" that Finns had found the frozen body of the red army's 44th division commander. A previous Soviet communique denied Finnish claims of the virtual annihilation of the 44th division.

Tonight's communique said the trans-ocean report "does not correspond to the facts" and contended the commander, one Vinogradoff, "is now in the area of the 44th division."

The military headquarters also described as "not corresponding with the facts" reports which it attributed to the London Daily Herald that Soviet warplanes bombed a working class district in Helsinki.

"Red army aviation has not been bombed and does not bombard the city of Helsinki, still less the working class districts of that city," the communique asserted.

WPA Government's Secret Police

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) charged today that WPA employees were being used "as the secret police of the government" but Rep. Voorhis (D-Calif) reported a denial from Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator.

He said that an "information service representative" of the WPA in New York had made a report on Rep. Taber (R-NY) after Taber's questioning of Harry Hopkins, former WPA head, at an appropriations hearing.

Gannett Candidacy Was Urged by Four Hoosier Republicans

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—Frank Gannett, Rochester publisher, announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for president at a dinner last night after a resolution from "members of young republican clubs" in Indiana, calling upon Gannett to declare himself, was read.

The resolution was presented by four young republicans from the Hoosier state and cited a talk by the publisher at an Indiana rally last summer at which "55,000 republicans acclaimed Gannett."

At the time of the dinner, it was incorrectly reported that the resolution came from the young republican club of Indiana.

False Name Used Abroad By Browder

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Counsel for Earl Browder acknowledged late today that the U. S. communist leader used an assumed name in obtaining a passport he carried on a European trip which presumably was climaxed by a visit with Soviet officials in Moscow.

"We do not deny," said George Gorouin Battle of defense counsel at the outset of Browder's trial for passport misuse, "that he obtained the 'Richards' passport in 1931 under that name."

"It is in evidence that he is an official of the communist party and certainly a man in his position in that party could not be blamed for traveling under an assumed name through the countries of Europe at that time."

Battle's effort to justify Browder's use of an alias was made in answer to the prosecution statement before a federal court jury that the communist leader had deceived the American government with "a bulk of false material" while seeking the protection of its passports in travels to Soviet Russia and other foreign lands.

While U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill thus denounced him, the little mustached revolutionary sat slouched deep in his tilted chair, his eyes blinking slowly and his hands occasionally seeking the part in his graying hair.

Why We Have A Census

(Second in a series)

IT IS just as necessary for the United States government to have a roll call every 10 years as it is for you to keep accounts of your personal and landed property.

Every man keeps tab on his holdings, whether it be by trusting his memory or his ledger. Without a record of some sort he can never be sure of how much or how little he owns.

In like manner, there is need for accurate records of what the American government owns, and how can it best preserve these holdings.

By the 1930 census we learned that there are over 132,000,000 of these, and that their combined activities constitute the largest and most intricate business on earth.

According to the census bureau of the department of commerce, "Approximately one-half of these factories and distribution activities; more than 10,000,000 get direct revenue from farm pursuits; more than 1,000,000 are teachers, and the remainder include the professions and service.

The income of all these groups, and the exchange of that income for the needs and comforts of life constitute the blood stream of the national body, feeding all its extremities.

Because of the program of social planning under the Roosevelt administration, involving investments in housing, farm and business loans, the government has become the world's greatest banker.

Tax relationships between states and individuals in society; allocations of federal and state aid; schools and school building programs, and life insurance companies all depend directly upon the national census.

Hope In Latin America

IN THE middle of Latin-American affairs that has long been bound up in the political interpretations of the Monroe doctrine and the good neighbor policy there comes an unobtrusive ray of hope.

The Inter-American Commercial Arbitration commission has no political bone to pick, has no politicians hanging breathlessly on the outcome of its decisions and has been an outstanding success.

It is a court without judges and usually without lawyers. It hands down momentous decisions, it only arbitrates the difficulties between business men in North and South America. The actual work of arbitration is done by three or more trained business men and lawyers are nearly eliminated by the elasticity of the court rules.

The court can meet anywhere in the western hemisphere. In each of the 21 South American countries it has a panel of arbitrators ready to hear any argument within 10 days.

The cost of the action is cheap, about one per cent of the amount involved, there are no appeals and everyone has been satisfied.

The absence of political beliefs from the courtroom may be key to the success of the commission. But if business men can get together in a "good neighbor" court and settle their difficulties, there must be some hope for the nations they represent.

The Economics Of Slaughter

MUCH has been written in editorials and magazine articles concerning the United States' part in World War II. Can the non-aggression powers win without our aid? Can the United States stay out? Could Hitler come over to these shores if he wins?

One topic that has cold reality to back it up has been left out of this barrage of anti-war editorials. The World War's money cost to the United States government makes a damning indictment of war and makes an argument for staying out of number II more powerful than any humanitarian view ever set forth.

The estimated money cost of the World War to the United States up to 1934 was $41,765,000,000, as shown by the annual report of that year by the secretary of the treasury. Since that time no further revisions have been made, so this figure can be accepted as the most accurate to date.

This, at best, is a conservative estimate, based on figures as near accurate as could be assembled following a war of the size of the last one.

Forty-one billion dollars for what? Probably the most sensible account this could be scratched off in would be experience. If experience is the best teacher, then this costly lesson should keep Americans from going into any war.

Money zipped out of Uncle Sam's pocket-book something like this: Army maintenance, $6,873,420,115; pay of the Army, $2,819,105,164; other war department expenses, $88,737,159; Army ordnance supplies, $575,321,328; armament of fortifications, $3,303,479,856; manufacture of arms, $469,919,700. This could go on for columns.

But to sum it up, the total war department expenditures on account of the conflict was $14,849,593,666. This was for fighting corps—the men who were going to "save the world for democracy." The total war expenses of the navy department were $3,101,342,952. This was for your sailors—the men who were keeping the seas open for the "mistress of the seas" and taking the "boys" over there.

And then the allies couldn't win (?) the war alone, so Uncle Sam dug down in his pocket for more than 12-1/2 billion in loans. Naturally they paid back some of this and interest, but the United States is now stuck for an approximate 11 billion. And anyone will give you 100 to 1 odds that (since "Finland's" war of aggression against Russia)—Stalin the government in Washington will never again see the glint of the coins.

When men are fighting, they have to eat. So Uncle Sam fed the allies and clothed them and housed them. A few figures for illustration—European food relief, $94,942,645; U. S. housing corporation, $28,995,192; U. S. shipping board, $3,072,526,832; U. S. grain corporation, $25,000,000.

While all the fighting and loaning is going on, more money must be spent. For hospital facilities and service, $73,109,957; bureau of war risk insurance, $504,773,294; expenses of loans, $74,769,610; collecting war revenue tax, $69,617,965; increase of compensation of civilian employees, $147,416,619.

Figures! WPA, PWA, farm appropriations and the relief bill are dwarfed to insignificance. In the few years that the United States was affected by the war, it cost Uncle Sam 41 billion dollars. And now some want to think of another war.

War today is more mechanized. More machinery costs more money. Airplanes, tanks, machine guns, rifles—all are more expensive today. To figure in the money value of the men that get slaughtered would result in an amount whose string of zeroes would spread across the page.

While you are still groggy from the figures, read them over again and try to visualize what the sums mean. Then war becomes a reality—a reality of an economic nightmare.

No man has such an abject failure, says Zedok Dumbkopf, but what he knows how to run the government better.

The Japanese, says a news item, have developed a tiny three-man submarine. What for? To sink canoes?

ALL QUIET ON THE "CHRISTIAN FRONT"

Dies Committee Report Surprised Everyone By Changing Objective From Original Plan

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

Representative Martin Dies' congressional committee on investigation of un-American activities in this country made a report to the national legislature a few days ago that was a surprise to nearly everybody in Washington.

The general expectation was that the inquisitors would declare Communism, Nazism and Fascism to be perfectly rampant throughout the United States. Instead they say they find the adherents of these and various other un-American "isms" to be not so very numerous in our midst.

At this rate the committee members are not greatly perturbed. They do contend that the "isms" are a nuisance. They add that some of these chaps have done a few things that positively are illegal. For instance, we have a law requiring foreign agents' representatives here to register with the state department and it's evident that they haven't all done so.

Now, this obviously is sensible. I'm not sure that it was Chairman Dies' notion in the first place. Personally I'm suspicious that the Texas congressman originally had a witch-hunting complex, similar to Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.'s, a few years ago.

Fish looked under every bed for a Communist. He overdid it. Nobody was convinced that conditions were as bad as he represented them to be.

Chairman Dies started off apparently on the same theory as Ham Fish. It's a question I'm not sure. Perhaps Dies, initially, was as wild-eyed as Ham was.

He started out like it. Dies began by putting all sorts of moderate radicals on the pan as if they were red revolutionists. He represented that every subscriber to the League of Peace and Democracy was a Stalinist. Surely, a believer in "peace and democracy" wasn't necessarily Communist.

That's what that committee's testimony indicated, however. I still think such was the case which Chairman Dies intended his committee to make out. But his committee didn't do it.

The committee made a report with which nobody can find any fault. Dies will have to be continued as chairman undoubtedly. And, nominally, he'll continue as chairman of it.

But it's a different committee from the one he initiated.

AROUND THE TOWN

ADDENDUM ROAD-TO-WAR NOTES... Union contracts reported in the Times set out wage-hour revisions, adding "invalidated if our country should become involved in a war."

I see by Movie Mirror, a publication I seldom have time to peruse with care, that three "Big Navy pictures" are underway in Hollywood, California, at the present moment.

They quote from Variety, April 13, 1938... "The Government is showing a more friendly attitude toward pictures since the big naval appropriations, and a closer cooperation is pledged to pictures built around the military arms of service."

"Washington is now trying to win over picture-goers to the need of adequate defense and present the U.S. show of strength..."

Which may be a decent enough explanation of the reason the "monopoly booking" investigation never seems to get far...

Last year we had a B. session, half a dozen of us, four fraternity men... Then all but I said, "We'll go to jail before we go to war."

Both times I managed to keep silent.

For the first time yesterday, one of my friends of the left fringe admitted, "A military alliance between Russia and Germany is possible—IF..."

The cheery janitor here in East hall during days is an exact double in most ways for Professor Clapp.

If he'd thought of it in time, Prof. Clapp might have called his new composition, "Dance of Doom."

And, yes, the glove ad I saw downtown yesterday told about the merits of the make, etc., and added, "France, Land of Liberty, where these gloves were styled..."

They said yesterday that no one ought to be too surprised if another administrative official of the campus were to step out soon...

Will the democratic candidate to oppose Tom Martin this year come from Iowa City? Several folks seem to believe so.

Prof. Allen Tester's two years in Latin America make him think there's a real chance of commercial development in S.A.

He says they've almost forgotten that Panama belonged to them until we wanted to build a canal there and were happy at a revolution asking "independence" for the Panamanians...

Rather reminiscent, in a less bloody way, of recent events on the eastern snows of Europe.

Belgium, statistics show, has become the beer-drinking nation in the entire world. The Belgians, no doubt, are celebrating the fact that Finland and not their country is the Belgium of this war.

Stalin, says one of his biographers, doesn't like to wear a uniform. Of course not—some general might make a mistake and send him to the front in Finland.

Every icicle in the north is not only a thing of beauty but a joy forever to a Florida hotel operator.

TUNING IN

with D. Mac Showers

A MUSIC CRITIC... and commentator, a song star, a stuttering comedian and a special guest will trade talk with George Jessel on the "Celebrity Program" over the NBC-Red network tonight at 7 o'clock.

THEY ARE Deems Taylor, one of the foremost music authorities; Ethel Merman, star of "DuBarry Was A Lady"; Roy Atwell, who stumbles over his wardrobe, and, as a surprise, Jessel's uncle from Brooklyn.

MUSIC IS BY... Peter Van Steeden and his orchestra with vocals by the Merry Macs. If you've never heard Roy Atwell and his stuttering talk, it will be well worth your while to tune in tonight. You won't forget it!

"Does America Need Compulsory Health Insurance?" is today's topic on "America's Town Meeting of the Air" over the NBC-Blue network at 8:30 tonight.

SPEAKERS ON... the program include Dr. Terry M. Towner of the New York State Medical Society, Dr. Henry E. Figerist of Johns Hopkins university and Dr. C. E. A. Wilson of Yale university.

BING CROSBY and the Kraft Music Hall take to the air again tonight for the weekly variety show with songs, fun and drama. Bob Burns, of course, is the comedian with music by the Music Mads, Bing and John Scott Trotter's orchestra.

THE COLUMBIA... Workshop drama program over CBS at 9:15 tonight will feature Elsa Lanchester in the drama, "Fannie Kemble."

GLENN MILLER and his orchestra accompanied by the Andrews Sisters on special vocal arrangements will be heard again tonight at the regular time—CBS at 9 o'clock.

LISTEN TO THIS... Glenn Miller show once and it will be a favorite of yours for good. It's only a 15-minute show, but every bit of the time is used to give good representation to the orchestra and the vocalists.

GUS ARNHEIM, the band which will play for the University of Iowa's annual Freshman Party in Iowa Union Feb. 2, may be heard tonight at 8:30 over two Mutual Broadcasting system stations, WROK and WHBF. At 8:45, over KWK and again at 10:15 over the same station.

ORRIN TUCKER... and his orchestra broadcast a 15-minute program of dance music tonight at 9 o'clock over the Mutual network and WGN and at 9:15 another over WHBF.

JOSE ITURBI will conduct the Rochester Philharmonic orchestra over the NBC-Blue network tonight at 8 o'clock. Walter Gieseking will be featured pianist on the program.

FRANKIE MASTERS... and his bell-tone rhythm orchestra will introduce "Gadabout," successor to "Scatterbrain" during their current brief road tour. The orchestra will return to New York early in February where he'll stay for a while and broadcast over the networks.

BING CROSBY will make a picture called "Ghost Music" and his leading lady will be none other than Mary Martin.

DON AMECHE... has been signed to head a new half-hour radio series for a cigarette sponsor. More details later.

Conzelman States He Was 'Fired'

Bears Hope To Get Sutherland As Head Coach

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Jimmy Conzelman refused to kiss and make up today as he disclosed for the first time that he was "fired" as head football coach at Washington university.

The gray-haired producer of two Missouri Valley conference championship elevens in eight years tried to bow out gracefully by "resigning" last week, presumably under pressure. But there was such a howl by loyal followers that he was asked to reconsider.

He appeared unexpectedly at an alumni luncheon, read his carefully worded final answer and ducked out before the surprised audience—mostly Conzelman boosters—had a chance to question him.

"My resignation was announced last Saturday after it had been requested," Conzelman declared. He referred to the efforts of those who had sought to oust him, then added:

"I feel that situations of this kind create factional differences not easily adjusted. . . . In an effort to bring together these factions and to organize a united alumni spirit, I feel it is better for me not to withdraw my resignation."

Immediately George R. Throop, chancellor of the university, announced Conzelman had accepted a place on the athletic council and membership on a committee to present recommendations to the president coach.

These developments again threw open the gate for the "downtown group" seeking to have Conzelman replaced by Dr. John (Jock) Sutherland, former coach of several great Pittsburgh teams.

This crowd is hungry for a team of national reputation and believes Sutherland is the man to give it to them.

They have been carrying on secret negotiations with Sutherland and he was scheduled to come here yesterday for a conference with members of the university athletic board, but the meeting was cancelled until the storm caused by Conzelman's "resignation" blows over.

Conzelman's attitude toward hiring Sutherland could not be learned. They are warm friends, however.

Monticello To Face U-High Friday Night

University High cagers will journey to Monticello Friday in an attempt to lift their 500 average in conference competition. The victory starved Monticello quintet, which last year was conference champion, should give the Blues plenty of trouble as they are out after their first conference win, having dropped two previous engagements.

Coach Brecher is drilling his men hard for Friday's tilt and has put his boys through tough scrimmages the past two days. The Blues scrimmaged a team from the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity last night. The remainder of the week will see the Rivermen going at top speed for their conference battle Friday.

Maki's Tour Under Supervision of A. A. U.; Finnish Runner To Appear in Ten Cities

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—The main difference between the 1925 cross-country running tour of Pavo Nurmi and the projected tour 15 years later by his Finnish successor, Taisto Maki, lies in the promotion. Too many professional entrepreneurs got their fingers into the Nurmi pie. None of them will have any connection with Maki's appearances, for all the meets in which he competes will be staged by A.A.U. district chairmen in their capacity as Finnish relief fund officials.

According to tentative plans drawn up today by Joe Williams, head of the fund's sports committee, and Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A.A.U. Maki (generally pronounced "Mackie") will be taken to Los Angeles on his arrival. There, possibly working with the Southern California track team, he will take the several weeks of training necessary after having been in the trenches since early December.

His first competition, early in March, would be at Los Angeles, probably in the huge coliseum where the 1932 Olympics were held.

More than one gridiron sage has mentioned, in a casual sort of way, that football teaches its participants life's biggest lessons—I agree. Last fall we saw Nile Kinnick using his head out on the gridiron and waiting for the psychological moment for pass throwing.

His college grid career over, with many a choice left him in regard to the future, and with every opportunity, Kinnick is looking everything over before he jumps. He is also, in agreement with his statements, looking ahead.

Right now, there are two broad and, to most of us, beautiful avenues that stretch invitingly before the Kinnick feet. There is the coaching angle, for one, that Kinnick has mentioned. While there has been nothing definite done as yet toward making the nation's best gridders a member of Iowa's athletic staff, it is known that he would get more than passing notice as an applicant. On the other hand, there is professional football.

It will be remembered that Kinnick said he wouldn't play pro football. That statement should be taken to mean that he does not plan, by any means, to be a professional athlete for life. And, unless he could resume scholastic pursuits inside of a year, Kinnick would probably turn away from any sort of an offered job.

There is, though, an angle about two hundred degrees removed from that of the struggling and unappreciated pro. Suppose the Brooklyn club, which drafted the Iowa, should toss out a $15,000 offer. You need only one year of such football to pay for any law course ever offered. It wouldn't be at all hard to vision a man taking advantage of that chance and Brooklyn might very easily deem the Hawkeye star worth the figure.

There might be other possibilities too, but the Iowa coaching job, that might be with the freshmen, and the professional angle, seem the most worthy of consideration. Either one, although quite within the bounds of possibility, might possibly fail to appear, but something will happen. At any rate, Kinnick, burdened with a few new trophies, is expected back today or tomorrow, with Dr. Eddie Anderson due next week.

Tiger Jam Caused by Trying To Control Too Many Players

Merten Shifts Hawklet Lineup; Changes Offense

City high's Hawklets, off the list as one of the stronger teams of the Mississippi Valley conference starts a new deal Friday night against Dubuque here at the new gym.

The pressure is off as far as the Little Hawks are concerned. They have entered every game as a big threat to opponents entirely on the basis of last season's record. From now on, in every time Iowa City wins, it will be a surprise.

Shaking up his starting lineup considerably to put a superior ball-handling team on the floor, Merten has changed his style of offense to fool his opponents. A semblance of last year's highly effective fast break has taken form in drills this week. Big Dick Culbertson, Mark Lillick, and Bud Lemons have worked well under the new setup, and Merten may cut loose with this offense.

Merten has Culbertson at a forward position in order to insert Lillick's needed height and ball-handling ability into the starting five. Bud Lemons is playing a guard, bringing the ball down. Bob King and Ray Sullivan complete the lineup, which will give Iowa City an entirely different style of play than before.

Dubuque, in fourth place in the league with an even break in six games, has an up and down bunch which bobs up with an upset one game and is downed miserably the next. Last week they trounced an unbeaten Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids by 10 points, and within two days were soundly trounced by Davenport on their home court.

Too Many Phone Deals Causing Farm Overloading

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—The jam the Detroit Tigers got themselves into was caused from trying to control too many ball players without an adequate number of farm clubs, baseball men around here agree. . . . And behind Commissioner Landis' statement that the reason he didn't suspend General Manager Jack Zeller because no warning had been given was the fact Zeller was able to show he had only continued the policies of the late and beloved Frank Navin.

The former owner of the Tigers ran his baseball on friendship instead of formality and after his death Detroit continued to make deals by telephone as often as by paper. . . . A minor league club prey would call Navin and say, "Frank, I need a catcher" and as like as not get a reply, "Sure, I got a kid I'll send you tomorrow; if he's any good and you can sell him at the end of the season send me $1,500."

That might be the last Navin ever thought about it. A few years back it was not unusual for a major league club to work with two teams in the same minor league. . . . For obvious reasons Landis cracked down on this practice, in the St. Louis Cardinals decision two years ago, but it seems the postman had to ring twice before Detroit heard.

The New York Yankees really can't be had—for a price, of course—and the reason according to the latest report around town is that a bank which holds a lot of mortgage against the club wants to cash its

Red Rolfe Says He's No Holdout; Expects Pay Boost

PENACOOK, N. H., Jan. 17 (AP)—Robert "Red" Rolfe, great Yankee third baseman, paused long enough at his new gasoline filling station today to aver he was not a holdout but that unless a goodly chunk was added to his pay check—there "might be a little trouble."

Once a placid listener in baseball's business discussions, "Red" has decided to take care of the Rolfe end of the situation. He filled once at the Yankee windmills and came out second best, but this year it's going to be different. Reports had his getting $15,000 last year.

"I'm entitled to a boost, and a good one at that," Bob asserted. "Last season I led the league in three departments and I had the best year in my whole career. If they're paying off as usual on past performances, I want mine." He grinned as he recalled his efforts to do some individual bargaining last year and admitted he "got nowhere."

Hawks Ease Drills; Prepare for Exams

S. D. State Will Be Next Cage Enemy

Williams Expects To Use Milt Kuhl Next Semester

Semester examinations are now the foe to get the most attention from Hawkeye cagers, with the next basketball enemy still nearly two weeks away. Fearing a possibility of the ineligibility curse, Coach Rollie Williams has cut down the length of workouts this week, in order to give his charges more time for study. Williams hopes, besides having all his present squad ready, to have the services of Milt Kuhl, a center who becomes a sophomore at the end of the current semester. The addition of Kuhl, a promising candidate, would reinforce the pivot post.

On the good news side yesterday was the appearance at practice of Tommy Lind, veteran jack-of-all-trades. At Tuesday's drill Lind injured an ankle and, although the injury was not viewed as serious, there had been the possibility of Tommy missing several days of practice. Lind has been working at both forward and guard positions and is third high-scorer of the squad.

With the team steadying down after several shaky performances, Williams is turning much attention to improving shooting eyes. The Hawkeyes have not been able to hit with any degree of consistency and have counted on only slightly better than half their free throw attempts, although Vic Siegel, now leading the Hawks in total points, has gathered in 23 out of 31 charity chances.

Shortly after the end of exam week the Hawkeyes will entertain South Dakota State Jan. 29, after which they meet DePauw here Feb. 5.

Maroon Alumni Ask Chicago Return To Gridiron Sport

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—A group of University of Chicago alumni here at a special meeting today adopted a resolution asking that football be reinstated at the mid-way.

Another resolution providing for representation on the board of trustees by an elected Maroon alumnus also was adopted. The two will be presented to the board at the same time by alumni officers. About 300 alumni, approximately one-third of them former football players, met to express opinions of the board's action in dropping intercollegiate football Dec. 21.

The St. Louis Browns are taking a lot of kidding because the Alan Strange they bought in the draft last fall is the same fellow they tried out once before and couldn't use.

Benny McCoy might get up to $35,000 for signing, some of the boys figure. . . . Marse Joe McCarthy says Atley Donald developed a sore arm after that long winning streak last summer, but rookie like was afraid to tell him about it. . . . The Yankee payroll is reputedly $300,000 and Red Rolfe, even before getting his contract, says he wants a $18,000 slice of it. . . . The champions are putting their contracts in the mails this week.

The three catchers the Chicago White Sox expect to carry next season average 23 years of age and less than one year of major league experience.

Cards Are Hartnett's Choice

Gabby Says Cubs Will Also Be in The Thick Of The Pennant Race

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 17 (AP)—From the pre-season perch now occupied by Manager Gabby Hartnett of Chicago, those St. Louis Cardinals look like the 1940 National league winner but—

"Just take away those bad breaks we had last year and watch us sail up there." Hefty Hartnett checked in here to take the baths and work off a few surplus pounds. He said he intended to divide 1940 catching duties "fifty-fifty" with Al Todd. Durable Gabby caught 88 games last year.

The Chicago skipper said of St. Louis: "They're my choice. But we're going to be up there too. Of course, the Reds will be back strong and the Dodgers are going to give somebody trouble. We may also have to contend with the Pirates because (Manager Frankie) Frisch is certain to change the morale of that club."

Hartnett said the Giants had some "possibilities" but he saw practically none for the Bees and Phillies unless they "do a lot of strengthening."

Gabby said the Cubs' worst breaks of last season were the broken leg suffered by outfielder Augie Galan and sore arms developed by pitchers Dizzy Dean, Clay Bryant and Earl Whitehill. He said if Bryant could get back in shape "our pitching staff is well fortified."

"I'd like to see Dean back, too," he added, "regardless of what he signs for." (Dean is currently holding out for more than a reported $10,000 contract offer.)

Joe Louis, Henry Armstrong Sign for Championship Bouts

Godoy, Montanez, Will Be Opponents For Present Champs

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Contracts for two championship fights in Madison Square Garden were signed today. Henry Armstrong and Pedro Montanez will meet Jan. 24 for Armstrong's welterweight title, and champion Joe Louis and Arturo Godoy of Chile on Feb. 9.

The commission again deferred action on Joe Jacobs' application for a license thus leaving the proposed bout between Tony Galento and Max Baer for the Finnish relief up in the air. Jacobs is manager of Galento.

The boxing solons indicated they refused to act on the application because the district attorney's office had not turned in a report on the charges that the Max Schmeling-Harry Thomas 1937 fight was fixed. A letter from the district attorney office said it had come to no definite decision because of the lack of evidence.

Four lightweights, Tippy Larkin of Garfield, Johnny Bellus of New Haven, Dave Castilloux of Toronto and Davy Day of Chicago, who was represented by Barney Ross, were advised to fight among themselves to develop the outstanding challenger for Lou Ambers' crown.

Bresnahan Changes Hawkeye Trackmen's Opening Engagement

Iowa trackmen, it was announced last night, will not take part in the Illinois relays, scheduled for Feb. 17 at Champaign, Ill.

Coach George Bresnahan had planned to open the track season with his Hawkeyes at the Illinois meet.

Rookie Review Cubs Get Hitter Durocher Moans

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Bill Brandt puffed furiously on his pipe until he sounded like an outboard motor, and his eyes were popping all over the place, which was the National league service bureau.

"Look at these rookies," he exclaimed as he pored over the rosters. Practically every club has a sensational recruit. The Cardinals seem pretty well set, but even they are bringing up a crop of short-stops, including Martin Marion of Rochester, Joe Oregno of Sacramento and Ed Lake of Houston.

"Here, now, I was just looking at the Bees' roster. They have a young pitcher named Joe Callahan they brought up from Evansville late last year. He won his only start for them. With Evansville he won 19 and lost eight, and his earned run average was 1.86. There hasn't been one like that in the National league since Carl Hubbell's 1.66 in 1933.

"And take the Cubs, they have a left-handed Hack Wilson coming up. He's Dominic Dallessandro, an outfielder from San Diego who was the Coast league batting champion last year with .368. His home is in Reading, Pa., and he's one of these squat, powerful fellows, carrying 190 pounds on a five foot six frame."

Brandt paused for breath, then more calmly proceeded to point out other newcomers whose records indicate class, although he admitted in some instances it was class C class.

He mentioned young Vince DiMaggio, whom the Reds got from Kansas City and who, despite an unimpressive batting average of .290, batted in 136 runs to lead the American association. The Reds also have a first baseman coming up named Cyril Moran who knocked in 146 runs for Muskegon last year, but with Frank McCormick hanging around Cyril, nicknamed Buck, probably would rust by the water cooler.

"The Dodgers have Harold 'Pee-wee' Reese, a fine fielding short-stop from Louisville who causes Leo Durocher to moan: 'Every time we get a good prospect, he's a shortstop yet, trying to get my job.'"

And in case Babe Phelps keeps juggling too many balls on the ends of his fingers, the Dodgers will have Charley George, a catcher who hit .372 in 77 games with Nashville, to fall back on.

The Pirates have a young pitcher named Gee, which is what the batters say when they see him. John Alexander Gee is his full name, and he stands six feet nine inches. He throws from the wrong side and he won 20 and lost 10 for Syracuse last year before reporting to the Pirates late last season.

And Bob Elliott and Maurice Van Robays, outfielders who came up last year to the Pirates from Toronto and Montreal, respectively, and hit better than .300, will bear watching.

The Giants, who need a little vulcanizing here and there, will pride to Bert Haas, who hit .365 with Nashville, and Babe Young, the ex-Fordhamite who came up from Knoxville late last year to play some classy first base, may play some more, depending largely on the outcome of the Zeke Bonura riddle.

Even the Phillies are hopeful, and have a fair-haired lad in Stan Benjamin, a third baseman who hit .322 at Chattanooga and led his league in stolen bases. They also have Si Johnson, who isn't a rookie in the strict sense of the word but is coming up from the International league with a record of 22 victories.

"Yes sir," Brandt concluded. "Their records are fine, but then, they look good every year, so you never can tell. They're running into a different class of ball."

The National league should know about that in view of the world series.

Gus Arnheim's Orchestra Will Play for Freshman Party

University Dance To Be February 2

Eleven Freshmen Are on Committee For Informal Affair

Gus Arnheim and his orchestra of long-standing popularity will furnish music for dancing at the Freshman Party, informal university dance, Feb. 2 from 9 to 12 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Gus Arnheim began his musical career in 1918 as piano-player with a four-piece band in which Abe Lyman played the drums. He organized his own band in Los Angeles in 1926 where he played three successive years at the Coconut Grove in the Ambassador hotel. At that time he promoted such people within his band as Bing Crosby, the late Russ Columbo and Jimmy Grier.

Since leaving the Ambassador hotel, he has played at the Roosevelt hotel in New Orleans, Chez-Paree in Chicago, and Netherland-Plaza hotel in Cincinnati as well as numerous other hotels and ball-rooms. His orchestra has also furnished music for many social functions in Hollywood and Beverly Hills, including the Mayfair club and the San Anita ball.

Those on the committee for the Freshman Party are Dorothy Smith, A1 of Iowa City; Kathleen Davis, A1 of Des Moines; Winifred Conningham, A1 of Middletown, Ill.; Terry Rae Tonneson, A1 of Baltimore, Md.; Jeanne Fields, A1 of Clarksville; Betty Hemesky, P1 of Cedar Rapids; John Kalen, E1 of Charles City; David Stone, A1 of Hawarden; Manly Griffling, A1 of Moline, Ill.; David Rude, A1 of Cedar Rapids, and Sam Goldenberg, A1 of Burlington.

SURPRISE PARTY!

For breakfast, luncheon, dinner or afternoon snacks serve butter surprise muffins—they may be varied to meet any occasion. A golden brown crust, and in the center a delectable bit of chopped bacon, cheese, peanut butter, ground ham, or preserves. Each is a delicious surprise in itself. It is fun to vary the "surprises" rather than having them all the same. If you plan to serve them for afternoon snacks you will want to bake the muffins in small size muffin pans rather than the medium or large size. Here is the recipe:

Butter Surprise Muffins
1/2 cup butter
6 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3 cups, all-purpose flour
5 tablespoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk

Camille Le Vois Lectures at Engineering Faculty Luncheon on 'Transition of European Architecture'

Camille Le Vois, instructor at University high school, recently returned from a year abroad, presented an illustrated lecture on "The Transition of European Architecture" before the engineering faculty at the weekly luncheon at Iowa Union yesterday.

Colored slides, prepared from actual photographs made by the speaker during his visit abroad, pictured many of Europe's most famous architectural masterpieces. Included in the colored pictures were sites in France, Switzerland, Spain and Italy which Le Vois visited. Outstanding photographs were shown of Mont Saint Michel, a famous abbey on the coast of Brittany in northern France, which the speaker chose as the "most beautiful site in all Europe." Standing 165 feet high in Gothic architectural lines, the monastery dates to the 8th century, when it was originally established as a chapel by a French bishop in obedience to the commands of an apparition of St. Michael.

National Peanut Week, Goobers in The Public Eye: Variety of Uses of Peanuts in Cooking Increases

The lowly peanut will come into its own this month when National Peanut week, beginning today, gets a place of honor on food calendars. Chain stores are organizing a drive by which housewives throughout the country will put peanuts on the budget menu.

One of the most popular uses for these ground-nuts or "Archis hypogaea" of the family Leguminosae (if you're a botanist) is in that famous sandwich institution—peanut butter.

Did you ever imagine peanut butter in mousses, frostings, fillings, cookies and drinks? Well, those are only a few of the new fields taken over by America's favorite sandwich relish.

And for a delicious hors d'oeuvre, season peanut butter with a few drops of Worcestershire sauce, spread butter - thin wafers quite thickly with it, place the crackers in a shallow oven and run under the broiler until they are toasted. Serve very hot. The family will be singing praises of the eternal peanut from that time on!

Women Plan 3 Meetings

To Confer on Inter-American Relations in New York City

About 1,000 delegates of organized women's clubs will attend three monthly inter-American conferences, to be sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune on Feb. 15, March 14 and April 11 at the Hotel Astor in New York City.

Cooperating with the New York Herald Tribune in the presentation of the series are the department of international relations of the general federation of women's clubs, the American arbitration association, the foreign trade educational committee, the Pan-American Women's association and the New York City federation of women's clubs.

Subject of the first program, on Thursday, Feb. 15, will be "Defense of the Americas." The second, on Thursday, March 14, will be devoted to "Highways and the Culture to Which They Lead," and the third, on Thursday, April 11, will have as its topic, "Inter-American Peace and Arbitration."

Mrs. Frederic Beggs, chairman of the general federation's department of international relations, will preside at all three meetings. Reservations are being made through Mrs. Grace Allen Bangs, director of the New York Herald Tribune's club service bureau.

You don't have to go to Yellowstone to see a geyser. Students of Prof. J. A. Eldridge's physics class have seen one in Iowa City in the dead of winter.

The geyser, a constructed affair, is about eight feet in height, with water placed under approximately three and one-half pounds of pressure per square inch.

Placing a liquid under pressure raises the boiling point of the liquid; in this case it is raised from 212 degrees Fahrenheit to approximately 220 degrees Fahrenheit.

When the pressure reaches a high point it is released and hot water erupts with great violence. This particular geyser erupts once about every 40 minutes.

Beaux Arts Ball March 2 To Have 'Picasso' Theme In Costumes, Decorations

Velveteen For 'Teens Princess Frocks, Basques, Full Skirts Youth's Favorites

The 'teen age young thing who goes to her first party or dancing class in velveteen this season is "in the velvet" as far as chic is concerned.

In fact, she need not have arrived at the 'teens to go partyward in velveteen, for here is a fabric which is just as becoming to the six's and eight's as it is to the 13's and 15's.

There are all sorts of charming little frocks in velveteen available in the shops so if you have a young daughter either approaching or in the 'teens, it might be wise to take her shopping with you and add a velveteen dress to her wardrobe for party occasions.

Princess style velveteen frocks with short puffed sleeves and round lace collars are suitable to a variety of ages. Some of the new velveteen frocks are grown-up styles with back fullness in the skirts and bustle effects. Others for the six to 12 ages button straight down the front with semi-fitted waistlines, tie across the back apron-effect with sashes of the material, and have both collars and cuffs of lace.

Still others are quaintly fashioned with basque bodices and circular skirts that swing delightfully around young knees.

Psi Omegas Elect Lundell

Paul Lundell, D3 of Webster City, was elected grand master of Psi Omega, dental fraternity, at a meeting of the active chapter Monday evening.

Other new officers include Roger Wolfe, D3 of Waterloo, junior grand master; Loren Gruber, D3 of Spencer, secretary; David Dobson, D3 of Canton, Mo., steward, and Ned Anderson, D2 of Atlantic, editor.

Now comes the personalized manicure designed to suit different types of hands. Hands, says the originator of this new manicure, can be classified into five basic types. There are the executive, the exotic, the patrician, creative and artistic hands.

2 P. E. O. Sisterhood Chapters To Be Guests At Luncheon Saturday

Chapters E and HI of the P. E. O. sisterhood will be guests of Cedar Rapids chapters at a Founders day luncheon Saturday at 12:30 p.m. in the Montrose hotel in Cedar Rapids.

Reservations for Chapter E are to be made with Mrs. J. S. Brown, 5497, and for Chapter HI with Mrs. George R. Gay, 2356.

Masquerade Affair Will Be Resumed Again This Year

"After Picasso" will be the theme of the Beaux Arts Ball to be given March 2 in the lounge of the fine arts building.

Costumes, which will represent the works of the artist Picasso, will depict the various periods of his paintings. The affair will be a masquerade dance.

Plans are under way for a floor show, and the lounge will be decorated with murals and colorful novel lighting arrangements.

The party, which was an annual custom until last year, is being resumed this year in an effort to bring all artists together.

Committee heads in charge of the ball are Ruth Zeigler, G of Boulder, Col., advertising; Sol Goldstein, A2 of New York City, floor show; Karl Roseberg, G of Vinton, decorations; and Emil Ellison, A1 of Webster Grove, general arrangements.

Other members of the committee include Jim McConnell, G of Iowa City; Kay Howe, G of Utica, N. Y.; Dorothy Young, A2 of Annapolis, Md.; Dorothy Pownall, A1 of Iowa City; Bill Tilton, A1 of Benavides, Texas; Bill Cox, A4 of Washington; Patsy Schermer, A1 of Cedar Rapids; Leahbeth Harvey, A1 of Hartford, Conn.; Shirley Briggs, G of Iowa City, and Robert Houseman, A1 of Des Moines.

Your Hands Need Study Manicures Designed To Suit Each Type Newest Beauty Aid

The art of cosmetics and beauty aids has reached such a high degree of perfection that almost everything is personalized these days, from hair do's to shades of powder and rouge.

Now comes the personalized manicure designed to suit different types of hands. Hands, says the originator of this new manicure, can be classified into five basic types. There are the executive, the exotic, the patrician, creative and artistic hands.

Each hand should have a different type of manicure to bring out its best points. This includes not only the shaping of the nails but the color of the polish used.

There is, undoubtedly, a good deal of logic in the personalized manicure, for while long nails and very bright polish may enhance the beauty of one type of hand, they may make more prominent the bad points of another type of hand.

It might be fun to drop into your favorite beauty shop and ask your manicurist to study your hand and work out a personalized manicure for you.

J. S. Huxley To Discuss 'Science, War' in Lecture Tonight

Will Discuss New Changes After War

To Stress Importance Of Equitable Settlement For Future Peace

Man's social evolution is still in a very early stage, comparable to that level in biological evolution just higher than the fish but lower than the reptile, according to Julian S. Huxley, leading British biologist, who will present a university lecture tonight at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium.

The subject of Huxley's lecture will be "Science, War and Reconstruction." He will tell why he believes it necessary to the future peace of the world for neutral nations to form opinions about the kind of reconstruction and peace settlement that will follow Europe's present conflict.

Social science has, Huxley believes, much to learn from natural science, but the social scientists should not carry their analogy too far if real progress in social reorganization and human betterment is to be unimpeded.

Genuine Planning
With genuine so-called planning that takes cognizance of man's full potentialities, the future development lies in the field of human relations, he asserts, "as the barber-surgeon of the Middle Ages has given place to the medical man of today with his elaborate scientific training, so the essentially amateur politician and public administrator of today will have to be replaced by a new type of professional man with a specialized scientific training."

This optimistic young scientist, who sees such a brilliant future ahead of the race despite the terrific destruction and disaster which modern warfare has brought to his homeland and to Europe, declares that this new era in human relations can be brought about only if serious-minded people everywhere set themselves to thinking in terms of human problems. The time for a laissez-faire policy in human relations is past; there must be definite social and economic planning if society is to advance, he declares.

Importance of Time
Slight of build, a bit grayed about the temples and looking fully as distinguished as he is, Huxley is always rushed, always filled with a sense of the importance of time. He has, however, charming social qualities in his relaxed moments and an amazing gift for repartee and wit.

His is one of the most distinguished families in England. He is the grandson of Thomas Henry Huxley, the great biologist of Victorian times; a grand-nephew of Matthew Arnold, critic and poet; a nephew of Mrs. Humphrey Ward, novelist; son of Leonard Huxley, biographer and historian, and brother of Aldous Huxley, essayist and novelist.

Admission to the lecture will be by ticket. Tickets went into circulation Tuesday at Iowa Union desk. Any tickets remaining today will be available to the general public.

'Winterset' To Be Given

"Winterset," a play by Maxwell Anderson, popular on Broadway a few seasons ago, is the next presentation in the community series of the University of Iowa's theater. It has been scheduled for Feb. 20, 21, 22 and 23 with a matinee Feb. 24 for the benefit of out-of-town patrons. This production is the third of the 1939-40 series.

Still Frisky Story of Mrs. Meigs Begins Today

Jeanne Howarth, A4 of Atlantic, began "Young Mrs. Meigs" yesterday morning at 10:30 on the Bookshelf program over station WSUI.

The story, a sequel to "She Was Carrie Eaton," concerns Mrs. Meigs, 80 years old, who has been a widow for six years, and her grandchildren, Cecile and Richard. It is a story of a grand old lady who says, "Strictly speaking, I suppose I have one foot in the grave. But so long as I'm able, I hope to keep the other foot under a card table."

Ford Rites This Morning

Funeral service for Mrs. Margaret Ford, 71, lifelong resident of Johnson county, who died Saturday night, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's church. She will be buried in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Joseph Green Elected President of Honorary Engineering Fraternity

Joseph Green, E4 of Davenport, was elected president of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, for the coming semester at the January meeting.

Other engineering students elected to offices in the honorary group were Robert Miller, E4 of Iowa City, vice president; Raymond Diddens, E3 of St. Louis, Mo., recording secretary; John May, E4 of Cedar Rapids, corresponding secretary, and Leon Peterson, E4 of Iowa City, treasurer.

'Among My Souvenirs --' Relics of Early 1800's in Scrapbook Displayed At General Library

Two calling cards, two original poems, a clipping telling of the discovery of an "Ancient City in America" situated near "Guatemala, Mexico," a "theatrical anecdote," and an "Account of Her Majesty's Last Moments" are included in a scrapbook currently on display in the reading room of general library.

Two newspaper reports of Napoleon Bonaparte's funeral procession and a copy of his will are also included in the exhibit, one in a series arranged by Mrs. Sarah Scott Edwards, superintendent of the reading room, from a scrapbook collected by Baron Henri Maltzahn between 1820 and 1836, when he was a member of the Bavarian diplomatic corps in London. After stating his bequest to his valet, Napoleon said, "I desire that he may marry a widow, sister or daughter of an officer or soldier of my old guard." Another bequest was made to a friend to build a house, and a large amount was left to the Baron Bignon, whom Bonaparte requested "to write a history of French Diplomacy from 1792 to 1815."

An anonymous "epigram" as included which is characteristic of the baron's ability to know well the world in which he moved. It read:
"Pray what's lighter than a feather?
"The dust that flies in finest weather.
"And what is lighter than the dust, I pray?
"The wind that blows that dust away.
"And what is lighter than the wind?
"The lightness of the Dandy's mind;
"And what is lighter than the last?
"Hold, hold, my friend you have me fast!"

Palimpsest Is Issued T. E. Tweito Writes Article on Early Iowa City Magazines

The January issue of the Palimpsest was released Tuesday. It was announced by Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department. Thomas E. Tweito, graduate of the University of Iowa, has one of the leading articles in this month's issue. The article is titled, "Pioneer Mental Pabulum" and concerns the magazines which were read in Iowa City during its early history. Mr. Tweito received his Ph. D. degree from the university in 1939. He is now teaching in a college for girls in South Carolina.

Katherine Buxbaum, teacher in the English department at Iowa State Teachers college in Cedar Falls, has contributed an article, "A Rural Literary Society." Mr. Tweito points out in his article that in 1858 there was not a single book store to be found in Iowa City. Reading of such novels as found in magazines was injurious to the mind, it was declared. "Harper's Weekly" was one of the most frequently read magazines. "Godey's Lady's Book" also proved very interesting. The early pioneers were more familiar with newspapers and the "very best family paper" was the "Home Journal" (New York).

Donald Heffernen Delivers Address Before Engineers

Continuing the series of senior speeches before the local chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Donald Heffernen, E4 of Cascade, yesterday afternoon presented a talk on "Checking the Correctness of a Polyphase Watt-hour Meter Connections."

Illustrating his talk with circuit and vector diagrams, the engineering senior discussed the working of the watt-hour meter with different connections. Heffernen told the group of the commercial significance of proper watt-hour meter connections, since the meter may read too high or too low due to the improper connections.

papers and the "very best family paper" was the "Home Journal" (New York).

Art Exhibit To Be Here

High Schools Plan 10th Annual Show Of Students' Work

High school artists will enter their work in the 10th annual art exhibition at the University of Iowa April 7 to 15, with seven classes of entry listed.

For the second year, the element of competition has been eliminated. Judges of national prominence will make analytical evaluation of all entries. Prof. Edna Patzig of the department of graphic and plastic arts will serve as manager of the affair.

In conjunction with the exhibition, an art conference for teachers and pupils will occur April 12 and 13. This will consist of demonstrations and lectures by prominent artists, illustrated lectures on the history of art, and various exhibitions.

Classes of entry for the high school exhibition are drawing, painting, design, applied design, sculpture, civic art, and pictorial photography.

Right Over The Dam!

Fish Climb Ladders To Swim Upstream In Hydraulics Lab

More than 13,000 fish have given approval of the new type of fish ladders in dams developed at the University of Iowa.

In the hydraulics laboratory, the experiments were conducted by university engineers, with various types of ladders being used.

The most efficient one was that which reduced the velocity of water down the ladder by creating opposing secondary currents. This enabled fish to climb the steep slopes with ease.

In the spring, the study was taken out doors where ladders of normal size were erected in the laboratory flume leading from the dam. After the fish swam up the ladders they were caught in large cubical nets and the catch was counted and classified.

Prize example of the new type of ladder's efficiency was the case of a 33-inch catfish, which although 8 inches wide, navigated a ladder with a 10-inch inside width.

I. I. Katz Will Speak Here Sunday

"B'nai Brith" will be the subject of the address to be given Sunday at 8 p.m. in the local synagogue by Isadore I. Katz, former city attorney of Rock Island, Ill., and representative of the district grand lodge of the B'nai Brith organization.

Mr. Katz, one-time president of the Temple Emanuel at Davenport, is an active worker in the Red Cross and the Boy Scouts. His visit Sunday will be made with a view toward a future local chapter of B'nai Brith, Jewish service club which sponsors the Hillel foundation and several non-sectarian hospitals, among other philanthropic activities.

Accompanying Mr. Katz will be John Gellerman of Rock Island, Ill., past president of the Rock Island chapter. Chapters of the organization are active in 31 different countries, Rabbi Morris N. Kertzer of the school of religion, said yesterday.

Ethiopians believe that leprosy is caused by a slap from the devil.

Alumni Plan To Celebrate 93rd Birthday

Instructions to presidents of 103 alumni groups of the University of Iowa regarding the arranging of observances of the institution's 93rd birthday have been sent by the alumni office.

The material was sent to groups in some 25 states asking that dinners, luncheons, or other social functions be scheduled for Feb. 24 or 26. Actual anniversary of the university's establishment falls on Sunday, Feb. 25.

To some of the meetings in the state, a speaker from the university will be sent. Other groups will show films from the university, including those of the 1939 football games.

Dismantling of Part of Journalism Building Begins Today

Safe Portion Of Structure To Be Used

Temporary Roof Over Basement To Permit Occupancy

By D. MAC SHOWERS
Daily Iowan Campus Editor

Following a report from structural engineers that the University of Iowa journalism building is unsafe for occupancy in its present condition, the university today begins dismantling that part of the structure which is not safe.

A temporary roof will be placed on the lower portions of the walls thus enabling, when the work is completed, resumption of operations in the basement which houses the mechanical department of The Daily Iowan and the university printing service.

Machines Covered
Water-tight and dust-proof shelters have been constructed over each individual machine in the basement of the building to protect it from any possible damage during the dismantling process.

When the project on the building is completed, the mechanical departments will continue in those temporary quarters until permanent arrangements are made for housing.

Meantime, the classrooms of the school of journalism and the housing of the offices of Student Publications Inc. and the school of journalism will be at East hall.

The journalism building, known as Close hall, would have been 50 years old next summer. It had been occupied by the school of journalism since 1924.

History
In June, 1890, members of the faculty, students and alumni of the University of Iowa and the citizens of Iowa City organized for the purpose of providing quarters for the Christian organizations of the university.

Amended articles of incorporation were filed June 19, 1890. Contributions were received and the amount collected on these subscriptions to Jan. 1, 1900, was $27,134. On Aug. 12, 1891, the trustees of the Young Men's and Women's Christian associations of the University of Iowa purchased from Daniel and Elizabeth Lowenstein the tract of ground on which Close hall now stands, the consideration being $4,000.

According to this deed of conveyance, the trustees at the time were Peter A. Dey, J. L. Pickard, Lyman Parsons, Amos H. Currier, Levi Robinson, Charles A. Schaeffer and Thomas H. Macbride.

Named 'Close Hall'
Following the purchase of this property, the trustees proceeded to erect a building known as Close hall, named in honor of Mrs. Helen S. Close, who had contributed $10,000 to the building fund.

The building was built as it is now—two stories in height above a basement. The footings are of rock and concrete and the building is built of brick and stone with a wood frame. It has 14,922 square feet of floor space and 29,700 cubic feet contents.

The architect who designed the structure was C. D. Jameson and the contractor on the building was Marcus M. Hall of Cedar Rapids.

The original estimated cost of the building and the lot was $30,000 but the actual cost exceeded this amount. A drive was made in 1900 and approximately $8,000 was raised to clear the indebtedness.

Leased by University
In 1891 the university leased from the trustees space in the building for literary halls. In June, 1904, the lease was renewed with increased space including the entire basement which was used as a women's gymnasium. This basement was occupied as a gymnasium until June, 1915, after which it was used by the university for other purposes.

The entire property was purchased by the university on Sept. 2, 1924, was somewhat remodeled, and has since been used by the school of journalism.

The building was dedicated on Nov. 22, 1891.

Here is a part of the story published on page one of the Vidette-Reporter, student newspaper preceding The Daily Iowan, in the June 18, 1890, issue.

CHARGED WITH PLOT TO OVERTHROW GOVERNMENT

Arrest of 18 members of a New York group known as the "Christian Front" is followed by revelations by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (G-men), that the so-called "Christian Front" is an organization aimed at the overthrow of the United States government by means of assassination and the setting up of a dictatorship. Along with firearms and considerable ammunition seized by G-men in the New York City headquarters of the group was the photograph shown above. In the photograph, left to right, are Michael Vill, Macklin Boettger, Francis Malone, John Albert Viebrock and John Anthony Graf.

very much pleased, however, to find that Mrs. Helen S. ly attacked. Without the cooperation of the people of India, these forces would be paralyzed, and afford absolutely no protection to the extensive boundaries of India. She foresees that India's only hope is to establish a democratic system of self-sufficiency in which all the people would cooperate.

"Give India freedom to develop her resources, and she will solve the unemployment problem of her people and establish better economic balance," said Madame Kamala Devi, speaking as a member of the National Congress recently organized in India.

During the last two years the National Congress has backed movements in the interests of this cause. It has been instrumental in re-establishing the textile industry of India, reducing the sale of foreign cloth to one-tenth of its previous size.

Figuring largely in these movements have been the women of India, pointed out Madame Kamala Devi. Without arms or munitions, the women, through their courage, endurance and subtlety, have effectively carried on campaigns. Appearing in large numbers, the women have outwitted the foreign police, and done much to relieve the oppression existing in India.

In concluding her plea for democracy, Madame Kamala Devi promised that India's contribution to the present world conflict would be to make themselves free and democratic.

marched upon her low country neighbors must lie the conclusions of French and British general staff experts.

The "lull" in the land warfare, which Chamberlain again noted, applies at the moment as much to the neutral low country danger area as to the Franco-Finish war front, or to the Russo-Finish conflict. A temperature dipping in Finland 50 degrees and more below zero has intervened to impede Russian efforts to turn defeat quickly into victory and overawe all Scandinavia with a display of Russian might.

No Lull in Sea Struggle
But there is no lull in the sea struggle between the allies and Germany. What has happened and is happening in Helgoland Bight stirred Chamberlain to his most optimistic words to parliament. Due to the British air, undersea and surface patrols in the Bight, he dismissed German air scouting over the North Sea and along British coasts as mere "wandering" flights. By contrast he reported British bombers harassing German air and U-boat bases in the Bight day and night, whenever weather permitted.

The prime minister contended that this British offensive defense against German air raiders in the North Sea had forced "a rigid blackout" at enemy bases. Any gleam of light needed to give the enemy opportunity for take-offs has brought British planes to blast at it, he said.

And undoubtedly it was upon that British activity primarily that he based his assertion that German mining operations on the high seas were not only being brought under control, but "presently" would be "defeated." Whatever other methods for dealing with loose mines may have been devised, it is obvious that Chamberlain believes the battle of Helgoland Bight is the major action of this war and is apt to produce the ultimate decision.

NYA Officials Reveal Airplane Mechanics To Be Trained Here

DES MOINES, Jan. 17 (AP)—National youth administration officials in Des Moines announced today that six schools for training boys in airplane mechanics would be opened in Iowa within a month. Airplane engines from surplus United States army stores are being sent here for distribution among the schools, it was announced. About $150,000 worth of equipment will be assembled before the training begins.

Most of the equipment is material which the army was planning to junk, C. A. Bingham, NYA projects director in Iowa, said. Location of all the schools has not been definitely determined, but Bingham said Council Bluffs, Des Moines and Iowa City would be among the cities in which they would be opened.

Four-Car Crack-Up Causes $50 Damages On Iowa City Street

Four automobiles slid together in the middle of the 1040 block on East college street at 8:30 a.m. yesterday, causing approximately $50 damage, police reported.

The accident happened when an unidentified woman allegedly stopped her car in a traffic lane. The three cars that were following slid forward until all were jammed together. The cars were all going west at approximately 15 miles an hour, it was reported.

Those involved were Everett W. Phend, 221 Walnut, whose car was damaged to the extent of $20; the Rev. Iton T. Jones, 609 S. Summit, damage to whose car totalled $22; and Cleo Thomas, who did not report the damage done to his car.

In November when the German army appeared to be massed at the Belgium and Netherlands borders, King Leopold visited The Hague and shortly thereafter issued a plea for peace, in which Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands concurred. The monarch of Belgium, now 38, assumed the throne in 1934, following the death of King Albert.

Social Security Act Provisions Explained By Board's Official

Editor's note: Every worker who has a social security account number card should know how the recent congressional changes in the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the social security act apply to him or her. For the benefit of readers of The Daily Iowan, the social security board's field office manager for this area has prepared a series of brief articles, each explaining one point of the new provisions. Following is the 10th of the series.

Qualifications necessary to receive monthly benefits in 1940 are that a claimant must show that he has attained the age of 65 and has been employed in commerce or industry at a pay rate of $50 or more in each of six different calendar quarters since 1936.

Example: A mechanic who was 65 in December, 1939, was employed by a garage for two weeks in January, and a week each in April and September, 1937. Then in 1938 he had a part-time mill job during March, for three weeks in August and during December.

Since he worked some part of the three-month period in six different quarters with wages amounting to $50 or more in each, he should be eligible for monthly benefits.

If a 65-year-old worker does not have enough wage credits to qualify for monthly benefits, he may build up sufficient credits by continuing to work in covered employment.

Wages received during 1937 and

Meteorologist McCannon Gives Talk on Weather Forecasts to Lions Club

"Don't blame it on me, because I only work there," said weather meteorologist Charles A. McCannon about the weather in the opening remarks of his talk on weather forecasts to the members of the Lions club yesterday noon in Reich's pine room.

McCannon said meteorologists throughout the country work in conjunction with each other in establishing the high and low weather conditions for a certain period of time.

The speaker, who is employed at the local weather bureau, said that about 6:15 each morning and evening a forecast of the weather in each area is sent over the teletype to Washington, D.C., and Chicago, where a record is kept.

The information, the speaker continued, includes sky conditions, ceiling and visibility, precipitation, temperature, wind velocity and description and direction of clouds. Meteorologists place the information on maps until a high and low are recorded.

"For a period of six or eight hours," McCannon said, "a forecast can be made with extreme accuracy." From eight to 15 hours ahead, he continued, a tentative prediction can be made, 18 to 48 hour forecasts are "possible," but beyond two days "it is just guesswork."

McCannon mentioned that Howard Hughes' flight around the world last year was the conclusive measure needed to show the world that aviation as an industry had arrived.

"Hughes had the best of instruments, well trained personnel and best weather information," McCannon added. With these essential factors aviation is no longer guesswork, he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Ted Hunter.

Grid Dinner For Hawks Is Feb. 12

Iowa City will honor the 1939 football squad with a banquet on Feb. 12, at Iowa Union, it was announced yesterday. The starting time of the Ohio State-Iowa basketball game that same evening will be delayed to give sufficient time for those attending the banquet to get to the fieldhouse.

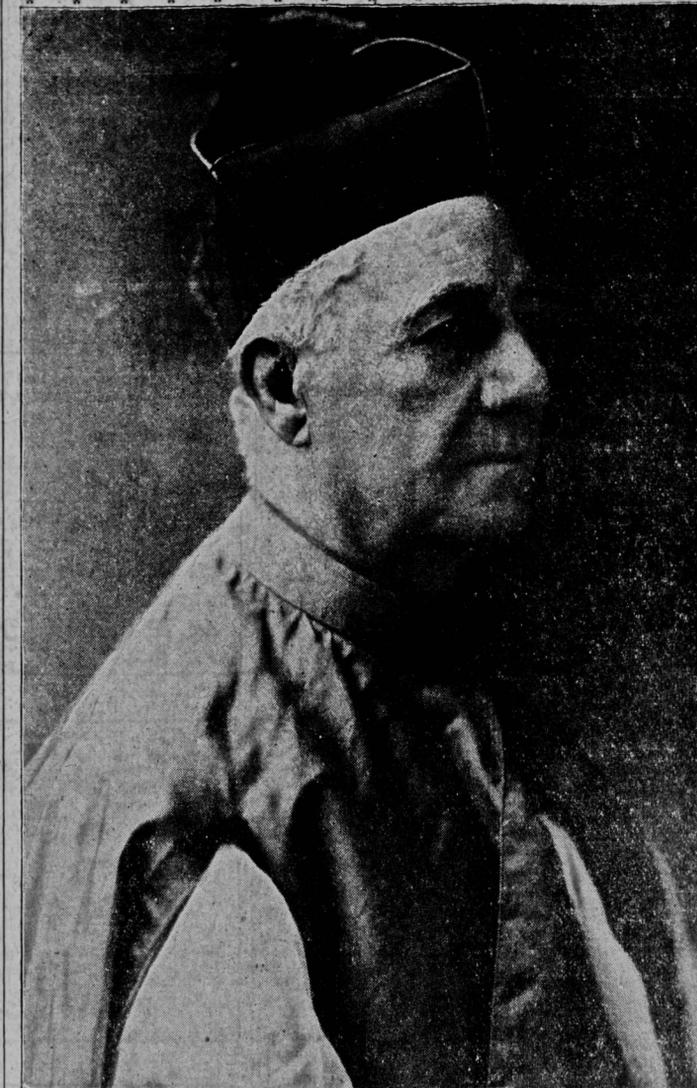

The presentation of the Chicago Tribune's "most valuable player" award to Nile Kinnick will be the highlight of the evening. The award will be made by Wilfred Smith, sports writer of the Chicago Tribune.

1938 count toward old-age insurance benefits only if they were received before the worker's 65th birthday. Since the law has been changed, wages earned after 1938 count toward benefits regardless of the worker's age.

Example: Mr. Man, who is now 66, is a part-time store clerk. During 1937 he was paid $50—or more—in each of two calendar quarters. Prior to his 65th birthday in 1938 he also received $50 in wages during one quarter. In 1939 he was paid another $50 in wages.

If he continues to work and earn wages of $50 or more during the last quarter of 1939 and the first quarter of 1940, he will have six quarters of coverage and will be eligible for monthly benefits.

Rites for Rt. Rev. Msgr. A. Schulte, P. A., Will Be Held at St. Mary's Church Monday

RT. REV. A. J. SCHULTE, P. A.

Funeral service for the Rt. Rev. Msgr. A. J. Schulte, P. A., who saw Iowa City celebrate its 100th anniversary and wanted to see the centennial celebration of his own church next year, will be held at 10 a. m. Monday at St. Mary's church, of which he had been pastor for more than 48 years.

The monsignor died at 10:20 a. m. yesterday at Mercy hospital, five days after incurring injuries in a fall on a downtown street.

He was the first priest to be ordained in the Davenport diocese of the Roman Catholic church. A few months after his ordination Dec. 28, 1881, he was assigned to direct the founding of St. Ambrose college in Davenport. He served as the first president.

He came to Iowa City in the fall of 1891 as pastor of St. Mary's church and built the parish house which now stands. He directed the building of the first part of St. Mary's school in 1893 and the second part in 1911.

On the celebration of his golden jubilee as a priest in 1931, he was elevated to a prothonotary-apostolic. He had become monsignor in 1928.

Monsignor Schulte was seriously injured in February, 1939, after being hit by an automobile while crossing the street near his home. After several weeks in the hospital however he again assumed his duties.

Born Sept. 17, 1858, at Ft. Madison, the son of H. Joseph and Maria Helena Schulte, Monsignor Schulte attended parochial schools in Ft. Madison and entered St. Joseph's college in Dubuque. He later studied at St. John's college at Collegeville, Minn., and St. Francis seminary in Milwaukee.

The Rev. John Kempker, whom the monsignor succeeded, had served as pastor of St. Mary's for 32 years, bringing 80 of the 99 years of the church history within the lifetime of two pastors.

Monsignor Schulte was the dean of the Iowa City Deanery as well as a charter member of both the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus and the Knights of Columbus.

A special mass for children is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday at the church. The body will lie in state in the church from 2 p. m.

Fire Loss Hits Low!

1939 Blazes Cause $12,220.85 Damage To Local Property

Fire Chief J. J. Clark announced yesterday that the fire loss in Iowa City last year was $12,220.85. This is the lowest figure for fire losses in recent history of Iowa City, he said.

According to Chief Clark, who has been associated with the department for nearly 30 years, 1939 is the only other year with a comparable record. In that year only $12,482 in value was lost.

In 1938 Iowa City's loss by fire was set at approximately $35,000 and in 1937, when the Hi-Brid corn factory burned, the total loss was set at $355,000. The only year in the last decade to lose under $35,000 was 1934 when fire losses were estimated at $18,000. The average fire loss for the last decade is approximately $95,000 a year, Chief Clark said.

During 1939 the firefighters made 266 runs and the damage to buildings was estimated at $6,188, to the contents of buildings, $5,419.50, and to automobiles, $613.35.

During the month of August no fire losses were reported and in July damage by fire was limited to $45.

Chief Clark also released the December monthly report yesterday. During this month 23 calls were answered and $1,622 damage was estimated. All losses were covered by insurance.

Temperatures Dip Below Zero Mark; Traces of Snow Fall

Iowa City's share of the state cold wave arrived in town yesterday and thermometers registered below-zero readings.

A low of two below yesterday morning jumped only six degrees during the day to drop to the same mark early last night. Indications were that mercury would drop well below that mark.

Normal temperatures for yesterday are from 12 to 30 degrees. A year ago yesterday temperatures ranged between 18 and 30.

Snow flurries which were evident late Tuesday night and early yesterday amounted to half an inch, or .02 of an inch of precipitation.

Robert Ross Pleads Not Guilty of Robbery Charge in Arraignment

Robert Ross, accused of robbery in an information filed by Katherine Crain Jan. 12, yesterday pleaded not guilty in an arraignment before T. M. Fairchild, justice of the peace.

The defendant's inability to produce $2,000 bail meant confinement to the county jail until time for trial in the February term of district court.

Meetings Postponed

Bad Weather Conditions Bring Changes in Plans For Health Committees

The advisory health committees of districts 1 and 3 have cancelled their meetings scheduled for tonight and tomorrow because of snow-blocked roads and adverse weather conditions, County Nurse Hilkea K. Thompson announced yesterday.

The first district committee, which includes members from Monroe, Jefferson, Big Grove, Cedar, Newport and Graham townships, was to meet at Monroe township at the home of Mrs. Charles P. Dill tonight. The district No. 3 committee, comprising Oxford and Hardin townships, was scheduled to meet tomorrow afternoon.

Members of the committees had planned to discuss pneumonia as a public health problem.

Tentative Arrangements Made for Funeral Of Mrs. L. Whittaker

Funeral service for Mrs. Lee Whittaker, 73, 424 Clark street, who died at her home yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon, according to tentative arrangements.

Born at Blairtown April 2, 1867, she was brought to Iowa City in a boat on Iowa river when she was four days old. She is the former Mary Agnes Bolter.

In 1885 she was married to Lee Whittaker, who died in 1919.

Mrs. Whittaker was a charter member of the local chapter of the American Legion auxiliary.

Survivors include one son, R. L. Whittaker of Iowa City; a daughter, Bess Whittaker; one sister, Mrs. Lulu Dutcher of Iowa City; two grandchildren, Donald W. Hughes of Lansing, Mich., and Helen G. Hughes of Iowa City, and two great-grandchildren. Another daughter, Mrs. Homer Hughes, preceded her in death in 1929.

The body is at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

Supplies for Care of The Sick To Be Available Through Johnson County Red Cross Loan Closet

Supplies for the care of the sick in the home will be made available to persons throughout the county through the establishment of a loan closet which the Johnson County Red Cross has agreed to sponsor. Mrs. Martin Pederson, executive secretary of the local chapter, announced Tuesday.

Wheel-chairs, crutches, sand-bags, rubber sheets, hot water bottles, ice-bags, layettes, gowns, bed tables and other equipment for the care of the sick in the home will be purchased or made by the Red Cross to make up the loan closet, she said.

Persons who wish to borrow any of the equipment may apply for their loan either directly at the Red Cross office or through County Nurse Hilkea K. Thompson, Mrs. Pederson said.

There will be no charge for use of equipment, Mrs. Pederson explained, other than that it be returned in good condition. The supplies, available to anyone, will be kept at the Red Cross office when not in use.

... Bell Telephone engineers developed a better microphone

Did you realize that much of the technique of radio broadcasting is an outgrowth of Bell System research? Through the years, Bell Telephone Laboratories and Western Electric (manufacturing unit of the System) have produced many advanced types of equipment for better broadcasting.

One of the most recent is the Western Electric Cardioid Microphone. Built on revolutionary principles, it is now helping many stations to put your favorite programs on the air at their best. Just one more Bell System contribution to your daily life.

Why not telephone home often? Rates to most points are lowest any night after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday.
