Weather Seers Predict 'Not So Cold' Temperatures in Hawkeye State Today

But Mercury Will Remain Below Zero

Expect Light Snows To Fall Over Much Of Iowa Today

(By The Associated Press)

The weather bureau had good news for Iowans last night — it won't be quite so cold today.

But before temperatures begin to rise, another night of bitter cold was in store for the state last night.

With a minimum of 30 below forecast for last night, the mercury already was hovering between 25 and 20 below zero over parts of Iowa at 9:30 p.m.

The forecast for today: Much cloudiness, with local light snows; not so cold.

At Cedar Rapids the mercury dropped to 21 below zero at 8 o'clock last night, but climbed back to 20 below an hour later.

At Iowa City the mercury climbed from 15 below at 7:30 to 13 below at 8:30.

Temperatures Level Off
At some points the temperatures seemed to be leveling off, temporarily, at least.

It was 10 below for several hours in Des Moines and Dubuque.

Omaha reported 8 below at 9, a rise of 1 degree in two hours.

It was 9 below at Waterloo at 9 o'clock.

In Sioux City the mercury stood at 5 below at 9 o'clock, a drop of one degree in two hours.

Washington, Ia., reported a 16 below reading at 8:30, a drop of one degree an hour in the last three hours.

The 30-below minimum was forecast for the northern half of the state. Twenty below was predicted for the southern half.

The punishing weather indirectly claimed another life, that of Erma Ray Bright, 4, who burned to death yesterday afternoon when a pan of crank-case oil from a winter-stalled automobile tipped over on to the stove of a one-room home north of Des Moines.

The house was destroyed and three other persons were burned in the blaze, two of them seriously.

Seventh Death
The child's death was the seventh directly or indirectly attributable to the weather in Iowa since winter set in in earnest last week.

Meanwhile, a bright sun shone down on a frost-bitten Iowa all day without much more than denting the frigid mercury. It was 16 degrees below zero at Spencer at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, up about eight degrees from that city's morning minimum.

Quakes Again Shake Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 18 (AP) — Earthquake tremors of decreasing intensity continued tonight to shake the Nigde district, where 50 persons were reported killed and 180 injured by a series of heavy shocks last night. The district is 200 miles southeast of here.

Huxley Discusses 'United Europe'

By IRENE SUTTON
A federalized western Europe as a utopian form of reconstruction to follow the settlement of the present conflict was outlined by Julian S. Huxley, English biologist, in last evening's university lecture.

Under a plan of general reconstruction, Huxley prophesied, "People will realize within a generation that they are citizens of Europe." In spite of different traditions, languages, and customs, the people of Europe can become a federated group with a certain esprit d'corps, Huxley advocated the establishment of a council or cab-

Democrat Boomers Plan Garner Campaign—'Regardless of Who Runs' for Presidency

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP) — Third term boomers made new claims today of Roosevelt-pledged delegates, while those who want to nominate John Nance Garner for the presidency reiterated that his name would go before the democratic national convention "regardless of who runs."

Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago strode out of the White House to tell reporters that the Illinois delegation would "all be for Roosevelt whether he wants it or not."

If Kelly's prediction materializes, that will be 58 Illinois votes at the convention. The delegates are picked in April.

Earlier this week Arthur L. Limbach, democratic state chairman in Ohio, said that while his state's 52 delegates nominally were pledged to Senator Vic Donahey as a "favorite son" their votes would be cast for Mr. Roosevelt if there should be an early swing of the convention toward him.

Donahey said today he had not decided whether to file in the Ohio primary as a "favorite son" candidate, but "when the right time comes I will make up my mind whether there is any necessity for a favorite son candidate." He has until March 15—under Ohio election law—to make his decision.

Washington OK's Nile
Iowan Gets Capital Ovation, Scores Hit At Trophy Dinner

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP) — There is a definite impression around the capital that Nile Kinick, Iowa's great halfback, may come back to Washington some day—as a statesman.

(His grandfather, George W. Clarke, was governor of Iowa from 1913 to 1917.)

When he came here this week to receive the Touchdown club's treasured Walter Camp memorial trophy as the "best football player of the year," he was put on a program that boasted some potent political performers.

To his right, to his left, and in front of him sat senators, representatives and officials high in the national government — and most of them pretty handy with their oratory.

The touchdownners agreed on a post-mortem decision today — that Kinick's oratory was more powerful than any which came from capitol hill.

In an informal discussion before the trophy award, Kinick said he planned to study law rather than play professional football.

He added, in answer to a question, that he liked politics.

Other football players who attend these annual dinners generally follow a familiar pattern. They stand up, say that honors go to the boys back, smile and sit down.

But when Kinick was called on something else happened.

He stood up slowly and confidently, didn't twist his napkin and didn't stare at his feet. He looked over the audience and bowed.

In a voice that reached the far corners of the big room he thanked the club for the trophy. Then he added, with perfect oratorical timing:

"Thank God, I've been dodging tacklers instead of bullets and throwing footballs instead of hand grenades. . . Thank God for America."

Knowing when to stop, he sat down.

The audience came to its feet shouting.

"That young man," Senator Carter Glass told a friend "is an exceptional young man. He'll go far."

reorganization, Huxley mentioned that population should be better distributed in many lands. One method of accomplishing this end, he said, would be the extension of birth control in over-populated countries.

"We could build up a new prosperity under this system," said Huxley, "by having a regional development system collaborate with local administrations to improve general conditions." In the advancement of prosperity all over the world, backward areas should have their purchasing power increased through means of extensive investment. In this way, these areas could become a fruitful part of the world economy, he said.

A patriotism, which thinks in terms of great men, would be the main driving force behind such a plan of social reconstruction, according to Huxley. "In such a unified culture, Englishmen would be proud to be called Europeans," said Huxley.

From the point of view of a scientist, war as it is now conducted, is "defeating its own ends." War no longer results in profits, while at the same time costing belligerents (See HUXLEY, Page 5).

Scandinavians Get Apologies From Russia

Territorial Violations By Soviet Warplanes Termed 'Accidental'

MOSCOW, Jan. 18 (AP)—Soviet Russia apologized to Sweden and Norway today for violations of their territory by Red army planes.

In response to protests by the two Scandinavian countries, the Soviet government acknowledged that its planes "accidentally" flew over their borders but made no mention of a Swedish charge that Russian planes bombed Kallaks island on the Bothnian gulf last Sunday.

Express Regret
The Soviet notes, presented to Swedish and Norwegian diplomats in Moscow, expressed "regret at these happenings," Tass, Soviet official news agency said.

Sweden's protest said that nine planes took part in the bombardment, but the Russian reply acknowledged only that two Soviet planes flew over Kallaks when they lost their bearings in a snowstorm.

"The note handed the Norwegian legation said that an unstarred number of planes flew over Norwegian territory three times on January 12 and 14 "owing to extremely unfavorable atmospheric conditions rendering orientation difficult for fliers."

The location of the border violations was in the area of Swanvick and Vaggetem, on the Norwegian-Swedish frontier.

Criticized for Aiding Finns
The apologies were tendered after a series of attacks by the Moscow press and radio which strongly criticized the northern countries for their aid to the Finns.

Only last Sunday, the day Sweden charged nine Russian planes bombed Kallaks island, Russia announced a strongly worded protest had been delivered in Stockholm and Oslo. The Swedish press, in particular, was charged with an attitude that could be explained only if "Sweden were in a state of war with the U.S.S.R., or preparing for war."

These Russian protests charged there was official Swedish and Norwegian backing for the recruiting of volunteers and the transit of war materials to the Finns.

Ontario Premier Condemns Canada's 'Slight' War Effort

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (AP) — Ontario's outspoken premier, Mitchell Hepburn, today pushed through his provincial legislature a condemnation of "so little" war effort by the Canadian government — under threat of his own resignation if the motion were defeated.

The legislature adopted the condemnatory motion by a vote of 44 to 10 after the volatile Hepburn, long a foe of dominion Prime Minister MacKenzie King, had shouted:

"I stand firm on the statement that he (King) has not done his duty by his country and never will!"

The resolution said:

"That this house has heard with interest the reports made by the prime minister and the leader of the opposition of the result of their visit to Ottawa to discuss war measures with the national government and this house hereby endorses the statements made by the two members in question and joins with them in regretting that the federal government at Ottawa has made so little effort to prosecute Canada's duty in the war in the vigorous manner the people of Canada desire to see."

Russians Fight Desperately To Escape to Own Frontier

Finns Rout Soviet Units In Arctic Area

Bitter Rear-Guard Battle Reported In Attempted Red Retreat

HELSINKI, Jan. 18 (AP) — Russian forces, routed within striking distance of success in an attempt to cut Finland in two with a highway and rail drive, tonight were reported fighting a bitter rear-guard battle in a desperate attempt to escape to their frontier.

Advices from the Lapland front, just above the Arctic circle, said that the Soviet troops, after hammering vainly at Finnish defenses for six weeks, suddenly abandoned their trenches, retreated toward their own border near Salla and were fighting desperately tonight to get safely away.

Two other Soviet divisions were likewise reported in difficulties some distance north and east of this activity.

The retreating Red troops had penetrated farther into Finland than any other of the invading armies, having reached Joutsjarvi, 65 miles from the Russian border on a direct line and much farther than that along the southwestward route which they followed. They were only 18 miles east of Kemijarvi, strategic rail head which was their immediate goal.

Kemijarvi, the northernmost railroad terminal in Finland, is the eastern end of a main line running southwestward to Kemi, Finnish port at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia on Finland's west coast. The Russians hoped that by driving over the Salla highway and this railroad to Kemi they could cut off southern Finland from the north and block the overland route by which Finland receives important supplies from Sweden.

The Finns, after routing the Russians at Joutsjarvi, were reported in today's army communique to have driven the enemy back 28 miles to Markajarvi, to the northeast.

Proposes Cut Of Naval Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP) — A surprise move by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) today to cut $500,000,000 from the proposed $1,300,000,000 fleet expansion program caught high navy officials somewhat off-guard but won strong bi-partisan support in the house naval committee.

The slash, affecting only combatant ships, would eliminate destroyers from the new program and would hold the navy to just the warships it could build in the next three years with existing facilities. Aircraft and auxiliary vessels were not involved in the cut.

Vinson, announcing he would ask the committee to approve the curtailed program "at the proper time," said it would authorize construction of three aircraft carriers, the same as originally proposed, an unspecified number of cruisers and about 30 submarines. Indications were that some of the cruisers would be the navy's biggest, to meet the challenge presented by Germany's "pocket-battleships."

Repercussions Follow Soviet 'Bungling'

Censors Pass Russian Apology to Rumania, Hinting at New Purge

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The gist of war news now furnishes evidence from Moscow itself that Russia's badly bungled assault on Finland is having serious repercussions for Soviet leadership over a wide front abroad.

For example, it is significant that the Soviet censors have passed outgoing news dispatches telling of a virtual Moscow apology to Rumania.

The apology, obviously forced by action of the Kremlin from the magazine, "Communist International," dealt with an article suggesting a virtual Soviet puppet state status for Rumania. Editors of the magazine announced this was a "mistake." They also stated, with a possible grim "purge" meaning (See BUNGLING, Page 5)

There were unashamed tears in the eyes of many of his colleagues — political friends and foes alike. Several said they were praying that he would recover, and when the senate met, the chaplain added to the usual prayer a special plea for Borah, saying he was at the brink of death.

By EDWIN STOUT

LONDON, Jan. 19 (Friday) — Scotland Yard's famed sabotage squad swarmed into the royal gunpowder factory at Waltham Abbey, 12 miles north of London early today after an authoritative source said sabotage was suspected in yesterday's series of explosions which killed five men.

Police previously attributed the blasts to an accident.

Legislator In Deep Coma; Crisis Ahead

Physician Daniels Gives Only Outside Chance For Patient's Recovery

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP) — Senator William E. Borah's condition was described at 8:30 p.m., CST., tonight as unchanged.

Miss Cora Rubin, the senator's secretary, added that "the doctor gives us very little hope." She said the physician "expects no change during the rest of the night."

Death hovered close tonight to Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, 74-year-old dean of the senate.

In a deep coma and running a high fever as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage, the veteran republican legislator was given only an outside chance to recover, but his physician, Dr. Worth Daniels, said a crisis was still ahead, perhaps to be reached within 24 hours.

Borah suffered the hemorrhage Tuesday morning, but the nature of the illness that had kept him from the senate for two days was not disclosed until today when his condition took a turn for the worse.

Found Unconscious
Then it was revealed that Mrs. Borah found him about 7:30 Tuesday morning, lying unconscious in his bathroom. At first it was believed he had slipped on a rug in stepping from his bath, had fallen and suffered an injury which gave rise to the hemorrhage.

Mrs. Borah said she had been informed, however, that it was quite possible that the senator had been stricken with the hemorrhage while stepping from his shower and that the fall resulted from this attack.

Until Tuesday, Borah apparently had been in exceptionally good health. A few minutes before going to the shower, he had told Mrs. Borah that he had seen his doctor the day before for a check-up, had been given a "clean-bill-of-health," and was feeling better than in a long time.

Sank Into Coma
Throughout Tuesday, he was semi-conscious, although unable to relate what had happened. Once he called for "Mary"—Mrs. Borah—and demanded his slippers, but was quieted when she assured him he could get up next day.

On Wednesday, however, he sank into a coma from which he roused himself only at intervals. His condition became still more precarious this morning, and Dr. Daniels issued a bulletin describing the senator's illness as serious.

The news that the "Lion of Idaho" was perhaps on his deathbed shocked all official Washington. President Roosevelt telephoned the Borah home to express his sorrow. At the capitol, legislators gathered in little knots to exchange information and recall the many historic senate battles in which Borah was a leading figure.

There were unashamed tears in the eyes of many of his colleagues — political friends and foes alike. Several said they were praying that he would recover, and when the senate met, the chaplain added to the usual prayer a special plea for Borah, saying he was at the brink of death.

The Death Of A Friend

RT. REV. MSGR. A. J. Schulte P.A. Dean of the Davenport diocese, scholar, educator, pioneer, was for almost a half century the spiritual leader and friend of University of Iowa students.

At 33 he gave up his position in Davenport and came to Iowa City where he spent his life in building up and improving St. Mary's parish and establishing a grade and high school.

At 83, had he lived just two more years, he would have witnessed the 100th anniversary of the church into which he had put his life and efforts.

However it was not only his Iowa City parishioners in whom he was interested. Father Schulte was well known and loved by a great number of Iowa students both Catholic and non-Catholic; he was always willing to help, whether it was to borrow a book, a bit of advice or a difficult Greek translation, and he personally considered all a part of his flock.

Words are unnecessary. Father Schulte is dead, but his spirit and the great amount of good that he did will always be a part of Iowa City and a light to University of Iowa students.

Speaking Of Advertisements

DOWN in Topeka, Kan., a merchant (not a big corporation, but an ordinary independent merchant) inserted and paid for an unusual advertisement. Appearing in a Topeka newspaper just after the New Year, it created quite a stir, if not a sensation, among the people who read it.

The ad suggested, underneath the picture of the merchant, that the readers not make New Year's resolutions. But that wasn't what made the ad unusual.

What really set this ad off by itself and made it the most talked of item in the paper, was the fact that it outlined 10 commandments on "how to get along with people."

- 1. Keep skid chains on your tongue. 2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully. 3. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging thing to or about somebody. 4. Be interested in others. 5. Be cheerful. 6. Preserve an open mind for debatable questions. 7. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves. 8. Be careful of others' feelings. 9. Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about yourself. 10. Don't be anxious about getting just dues.

There was a man that was willing to pay, in order that he might share with others something that he had found good. And in doing so, he had obeyed one of his own commandments—"Be interested in others."

We salute Henry Nightingale, of Topeka.

These 'Disunited' States

M. W. DAILEY, head of the state cigarette and beer tax department, is apparently unaware of the widespread opposition to the vicious practice of taxing products imported from other states.

Dailey announced Monday that a Chicago truck driver was arrested at Davenport and sentenced to 15 days in jail on a charge of having unstamped cigarettes in his possession. This and another sentence was imposed in a new drive enforcing the Iowa law of July 5, 1939 which declares illegal the possession of cigarettes on which the 2-cent-a-package tax stamp has not been affixed.

duty as he sees it. He is no more than a cog in a machine gone awry. In doing his duty, it would be well for Dailey to take a tip from the head of the New York City tax department, who is smart enough to realize that an arrest of the wrong person would end in a United States supreme court decision declaring this and other disguised tariffs an outright violation of the "free trade" and "equal rights" clauses of the constitution.

In New York, the city refused to arrest a self-proclaimed and advertised violator of a cigarette tax law similar to Iowa's, because it was known that the case would be bitterly fought to the highest court. New York evidently arrests only those who are not able to fight back. Mr. Dailey is safe so far in picking his victims; it is not likely that Chicago truck drivers will be able to embark on expensive court fights. But let him be aware that, in enforcing such stupid legislation, he must eventually encounter some severe opposition from the federal government. The United States cannot for long defy the trade barriers mounting between the states.

If legislation of this type was limited to cigarettes, the effect would not be so serious. The practice is being extended rather than limited. The Iowa sales tax, for instance, is applicable to all products bought outside of the state and carried into Iowa. The obvious difficulties encountered in enforcing the tax laws is the only thing that saves the situation from being worse than it is.

It must be embarrassing for Mr. Dailey to think of the hundreds of motorists and truck drivers who cross the border every day with contraband cigarettes. We hope the fiasco is stopped before it becomes necessary to stop every car at the state line in order to measure the amount of gasoline in each tank, and then to determine the amount of tax, fine, or jail sentence due.

The Census Has A Birthday

The census of 1940 is destined to become a landmark of American inventories. This year's will be the sixteenth decennial census, and will bring up to date the statistical record of the country from 1790 to the present. This will be completed a 150 year record of the United States, its populace, wealth and resources.

This business of taking censuses didn't originate on this continent, however. The first enrollment of importance recorded in history dates back to the year I.A.D., when Caesar Augustus, the Roman emperor, decreed that the whole world should be enrolled. The Bible says that Cyrus, governor of Syria, was the first to make such an enrollment.

The purpose of this enrollment of the Roman empire, which then constituted the whole civilized world, is not definitely stated, however, taxation seems to have been Caesar's objective. And he required that every man be enrolled in his own city. That probably involved much difficulty in those days, for there were no four lane highways and mile-a-minute trains. Nevertheless, old Caesar Augustus was a pioneer in the census business.

The bureau of census, under the jurisdiction of the department of commerce, carries on the job of cataloging, but on a much larger scale. The early censuses in the United States concerned themselves principally with measuring growth of the nation. An important step forward was taken in 1810, when the first census of manufactures was taken, to lay the foundation for measuring the industrial growth of America. This phase of activity gives livelihood to the greatest single group of workers on the continent.

The next big step was taken in 1840, with the agriculture census. This year's tabulations will thus give us a century-long record of the industry that makes America the "breadbasket of the world."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

January 17, 1940 Editor, The Daily Iowan: The present petition being circulated on the campus by the Committee for Student Self-Government is but one evidence of the growing desire of the student body to have a voice in matters pertaining to our university.

In the present case the student body is not asking to choose the new president, nor even to vote on the matter. It is asking only to be consulted—to be given an opportunity to voice its ideas of the qualities the new president of Iowa should possess.

There can be no quarrel with the idea expressed in yesterday's editorial that the state board of education's first consideration will be in the interest of the students. The student body has every bit of confidence in the ability of the members of the board to make a fortunate choice.

But what could be more tangible proof of the board's genuine interest in student opinion than for it to consult with representatives of the student body—democratically chosen—before making its final decision?

'I'M FOREVER BLOWING BUBBLES'

Congressional Chat Hints at Vandenberg For Republican Presidential Candidate

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

THE OTHER day I had occasion to remark that congressional chat hints strongly at the Democrats' selection of State Secretary Cordell Hull as their presidential candidate this year. Now I'd guess that congressional comment hints as strongly at Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as the Republicans' presidential nominee.

Straw polls haven't put Hull and Vandenberg at the head of their respective parties' groups of possibilities. As to the Republicans, the latest straws indicate that Thomas E. Dewey's recent speeches have even increased his popularity lead somewhat over Vandenberg.

I'd bet, however, on professional politicians' judgment ahead of these straw polls. Admitting that the straws have their temporary accuracies, they fluctuate. The professional calculations are better reasoned.

Of course Hull's chances are qualified by President Roosevelt's attitude. Vandenberg's merits are pretty much his own. He hasn't got to get any particular endorsement. His record and personality stand for themselves. I'm not predicting that, if nominated, he'll be elected. I'm considering only the prospects of his nomination.

Sense of Publicity Vandenberg has a corking good sense of publicity. It is evidently natural to him and his long career as a newspaperman has developed it.

Nominally he isn't a very vigorous presidential candidate. That is to middling. His state, Michigan, is good enough, but the Republicans think they can carry it next November, anyway. They'd like to pick a New Yorker—Dewey, Or an Ohioan—Taft.

But Dewey hasn't had any national experience. He's a trifle "smarty." Possibility he's a bit too young, too. Vandenberg is an old hand, and his age is just right. A Vandenberg and Dewey ticket would be o. k. for one thing. Dewey, while now a New Yorker, is a native Michigander, Vandenberg and Dewey would be too much Michigan.

Vandenberg and Taft or Taft and Vandenberg wouldn't be so bad, but the probabilities are that neither would carry to yield first place to the other. For that matter, Taft's a youngling statesman in comparison with Vandenberg.

Newspapermen's Ideal Incidentally, Senator Vandenberg is enormously liked by political newspapermen, who are concentrated in Washington. The correspondents recognize him as one of themselves—as a reporter, a city editor, a night editor, a managing editor or a publisher. Want a story? Want a picture? Vandenberg is right on the job.

He isn't too conservative and he isn't too radical. He has his geographical drawbacks—but those are the only ones I know of.

AROUND THE TOWN

By MERLE MILLER

ON THE DOWN-GRADE... Of course, this is the week professors face their semi-annual rendezvous with real work. Making out grades for the semester, although some are already turning that job over to graduate assistants...

And at least half will go by the old rules, grading on a curve, giving a specific number "A's," some "B's," and so on down the dreary line of demarcation...

Another group will grade by prejudice alone and a third by instinct... In all, if grades were laid end to end, they'd be material for a fine smudge-fire...

When I become a college professor, not soon, I presume, I'll never give a mark but demand that all of my students grade me each semester... And when I fall below "C" work, I'll get myself a good position digging ditches, leaving university professorships to men who are men... I mean chaps who can teach...

Would I like to send in a recorded impression of the profs I know? Only thing, the percentage of failures would be below the curve...

Prof. Herbert Feigl—too little appreciated for his worth—has a swell fellowship that will take him away from the campus next semester...

And among the names mentioned as presidential possibilities by almost everyone are George Keller, just now the state WPA director, and Virgil Hancher, the ex-alum president who's a big-shot lawyer in Chicago...

Some I know whisper the name of Clarence Dykstra with a faint kind of hope in their voices...

NOTE TO MR. DIES—When you get underway again—as you no doubt will—how about investigating Brenda Frazier, Tommy Manville, and "Babs" Hutton? ... Of all the Americans I know, they're the three doing most to help along the "subversive" cause.

That girl I talked to on a recent night, the one who works in a local dimery... this girl felt Babs just can't get along on $5,000 a week, she oughtn't to be too happy about her recent salary cut... I mean $49 monthly isn't too much as it is...

Most people aren't students of economics... But every time that expressionless Frazier face appears in the news, lots of people begin thinking "un-American" thoughts.

Yes, Mr. Dies, better do something about the Manvilles-the-Huttons-the-Fraziers... The people of Ohio are hungry still, and WPA rolls are being cut...

Or shall we let 'em eat cake, Mr. Dies? Along with the growing "pro-war" sentiment, I sense an alarming increase in the latent anti-Semitism that always lurks in the minds of some...

Too many people who ought to know better are saying, "I've nothing against them, of course... But we get so many out here, and you know..."

The point is I don't know... If the ones who were up in arms about the non-Aryans in a recent theater project, don't like it, why not put on a better show, become a better actor?

Or maybe it isn't worth bothering about... Maybe this is the best of all possible worlds... And the Hitlers shall inherit the earth... Huh?

THIS SPOT IS... now held by the "Good News of 1940" program which will be cut to half an hour on that date. The new arrangement, then, will put Vallee's show just before Bing Crosby's "Music Hall" program.

SAMMY KAYE and his "sawing and sawing" orchestra are heard tonight at 10:30 over CBS for a half hour of dance music. Horace Heidt's orchestra is heard at 11 o'clock over the NBC-Red network.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

Sports Ramble MacPhail Jokes Cards' Standouts

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—A Sports Trail ramble: Horace Stoneham, stocky young president of the New York Giants, explaining the signing of Carl Hubbell for 1940:

"That story about Carl giving himself a $10,000 cut when I asked him to fill in his own figure, and me tearing up the contract and writing in $20,000, the same as he got last year, isn't true. As a matter of fact, Carl asked us last September about his 1940 contract, and said he realized he hadn't had a good year.

"We told him to fill in his own figure. He did. He gave himself a cut, probably a bigger cut than we would have given him if we were naming the terms. We looked at it and said: 'Okay, and if you have a good season you'll be taken care of.' 'That's all there was to it. We've never had any trouble with Carl. I guess Pop (Charles A. Stoneham) was responsible for that. He always was fair with Carl, and Carl appreciated it."

Today's best picture (eight bells, and all is well)—baseball men sitting around trying to explain to each other what they can and what they can't do in dealing with farms and hired hands, and agreeing you never can tell what may be coming round the mountain. But expressing sincere admiration for the judge.

Never-a-dull-moment department:

Larry MacPhail sent a live alligator to Bill Gibson, Brooklyn Dodger auditor. The office staff gathered, at a respectful distance, as the box was opened. The card of instructions inside read:

"Feed on raw beef or hamburger."

There was a sudden commotion among the onlookers, and the last seen of a stocky young man was his coat tails as he fled frantically from the room.

A count of noses revealed the fugitive as Babe Hamburger, Dodger man of all work.

P. S.—The alligator will be kept as a mascot.

Idea for the day (from Norman McEldin, Wilmington, Del., "As a substitute for the Shaughnessy playoff system, why don't they split a league into divisions, such as eastern and western, or northern and southern. When a team from one division defeats a team from another division, the winning team receives credit for a victory in its section of the standings, and the loser is charged with a defeat in its section (as is done in hockey)."

"The winners of the two divisions play for the championship, and first and second money. Third money will go to the team which finished second in its division to the team which won the playoff, and fourth money to the runnerup in the other division.

"This system not only would stimulate league rivalry, but divisional rivalry, and would assure four teams a split in the playoff money."

One word led to another: Ray Blades considers Johnny Mize and Terry Moore as standout "team" men on the Cardinals. "Mize," he said, "continued playing day after day without complaint after being injured in a collision with Jimmy Brown, despite the fact he was a candidate for the league batting crown and his injury was a great handicap. Moore played with both ankles taped because he knew we needed him." How times change: Nile Kinnick is still being dined and trophied six weeks after the end of the football season. The Brickleys and the Eckersalls and the Coys were some pumpkins in their days; but when a season was over it was over until next year. Ball players sometimes jump a club, but Hot Springs, Ark., probably will go down as the only club to jump all its ball players.

Michigan, Yale Swimmers Clash

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 18 (AP)—Favored Michigan and Yale clash here tomorrow night in a swimming meet with the victor certain to get the acclaim generally heaped upon the national collegiate champion.

Every seat in Yale's natatorium—2,200—was reserved months ago so terrific is the interest in the event, the fifth between the institutions. Each has won twice.

Michigan is the defending national college and Western conference champion.

The freshmen who may win are Henry Clay, Bob Wilson, Bob Michael, Bill McLaughlin and Ken Steinbeck.

PRESSBOX PICKUPS BY OSCAR HARGRAVE

There may be those who claim that a single high-scoring man can make a basketball team, but the evidence points to the exact opposite, insofar as the Big Ten is concerned. We read of some player piling up a huge one-game point total, but it doesn't last.

That doesn't mean that one man can't make a pile of points, or that he isn't important, but the figures set the limit as something like an average of 14 points, which is about one third of what a team needs to win a game.

Last year, none of the conference hot-shots, including the three leaders, Dick Dehner of Illinois, Jimmy Hull of Ohio State and Benny Stephens of Iowa, were able to beat that average. This year, England of Wisconsin, with 51 points in four games, has an average of slightly less than 13 to the game. The best average belongs to Bill Hapac of Illinois, with 42 points in three games.

On the other hand, we find Purdue without a man higher than 10th in the scoring—but the Boiler-makers are leading the league. Behind Blanken, in 10th place in the scoring, Purdue has Sprawl a few points back, and the entire Boiler-maker team is not so far behind.

Although they have high ranking point-getters in Armstrong and Rae, Indiana and Michigan, in a tie for second place, are also well balanced in the basket shooting business, each possessing several potential sharpshooters. That is almost exactly what Minnesota's fine teams of the past three years were doing. The Gophers would finish a game with at least four of their men credited with around 10 points each, which pretty well made up the winning total.

In eighth place in the scoring is Iowa's Vic Siegel, almost always good for 10 markers. His four-game total is exactly 39 points, for a plenty good average. Behind Siegel the Hawkeyes have been rather inconsistent, but it is worthy of note that in their victory over Chicago Monday night they were all scoring.

The Maroon tilt in which Iowa piled up 41 points, had three of the Hawks getting near the 10 point apiece mark. Siegel and Prasse had nine each and Bill Wheeler got eight. The total for the three was 26 points, which made enough for a win, considering that the other team members scored a little on their own account.

The moral is, of course, that nobody scores more than 14 points to the game as an average, so one man can't win more than an occasional game. And there is the added tip that if everybody but the referee doesn't score, a team is going to do some losing.

Nile Kinnick Comes Home; Busies Self With Studies

School books are, right now, the biggest thing in the life of Nile Kinnick, Iowa's all-American gridder and outstanding athlete. Returning home late Wednesday night, Kinnick, winner of the Heisman, Maxwell and Walter Camp trophies, among others, stated yesterday that most of his thoughts for the next week would be of semester exams.

Despite the rumors that have circulated freely about Iowa City as to the Hawkeye star's immediate future, Kinnick said he knew nothing of a possible freshman coaching post at Iowa and stated that he had not been approached as yet with any definite offer from the Brooklyn Dodgers, professional football club. Recently there has been a rumor in Iowa City that Kinnick would be named to a post with the Iowa athletic department, while eastern writers had predicted that he would receive a generous offer from the Dodgers, which offer he would probably accept. The Kinnick feeling of yesterday was plainly one of happiness at being back in Iowa City. Although he says that he enjoyed the experiences in the east, including the elaborate ceremonies that accompanied presentation of the trophies, the Iowa admitted that the continuous festivity attending his journey was beginning to wear him down. Some of the functions, he said, lasted too late in the night for comfort, and one of his strongest impressions was that none of the party-goers ever went home before morning.

It's all giving way, though, to the present grim business of studies—the past and the future will have to take care of themselves. Dr. Eddie Anderson, who accompanied Kinnick east, is expected to return this week end. The Iowa coach and his prize pupil separated at Boston just before Kinnick's homeward journey.

Light Heavyweight Series Scheduled For Detroit, Miami

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—The light-heavyweight title situation, strictly a New York-Pittsburgh monopoly since Billy Conn took over, was spread out over new territory today by Promoter Mike Jacobs.

"Uncle Mike" announced two 175-pound championship parties, the first for Miami during the last week in February and the second for Detroit in March.

No. 1 of these get-togethers will have Conn defending against Gus Lesnevich, rugged slugger from Edgewater, N. J., who was outpointed by the Pittsburgh Irishman in a previous challenge last fall. This bout will be held, Jacobs announced, in the Orange Bowl stadium in Miami during the week of Feb. 26 for the benefit of the president's birthday infantile paralysis fund.

The Detroit doings will come off in the Olympia stadium in March. The winner of the Miami tussle will be the party of the first part. Opposing him will be the victor in the February 2 bout in Madison Square garden here between Fred Apostoli, the one-time belting bellhop from San Francisco, and Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., who lost the light-heavyweight championship to Conn last summer. Two weeks ago, Apostoli nosed out Bettina here in a close, tough 12-round brawl.

Definite dates for both the Miami and Detroit affairs will be announced in a few days, Jacobs said.

Conn has defeated all three of the other fellows in this fistie round-robin. He outpointed Apostoli, then middleweight champion, in two red-hot fights a year before taking the 175-pound crown from Bettina last July. Then he came from behind to top Bettina in the first defense of his crown in Pittsburgh last fall, and followed that up by winning a decision over Lesnevich here.

A skilled boxer, he has decided to try his luck among the heavyweights exclusively, beginning this summer, with his eye on a title tussle with Joe Louis. As a result, he has made up his mind to clear up any "loose ends" in the 175-pound division, so far as challengers are concerned, in the two bouts announced today.

Hawkeye Highlights

The presence of President Gilmore, Dr. Eddie Anderson, and Nile Kinnick brought out a record crowd for an out-state Hawkeye alumni dinner . . . the New York affair attracted 237 persons, from points in New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Iowa's free-throwing is improving, but it still is short of average . . . in only four of the 11 games have the Hawkeyes made more free throws than they missed . . . but they sunk 7 of 10 against Chicago for their best percentage to date.

Sixteen years have passed since an Iowa wrestling team whipped a Big Ten foe by such a margin as the defeat of Northwestern, 28-6 . . . and it's hard to recall when Iowans won five falls in a conference dual meet . . . the 1940 team of Coach Mike Howard may be one of the finest in years . . . next meet: Minnesota here Feb. 3.

Orders for seat reservations now are arriving at the athletic department for the Ohio State basketball game of Feb. 12 . . . a lot of Iowans not only went to see the Hawks battle the Big Ten's defending champion but also watch Nile Kinnick receive the Chicago Tribune's silver football as the conference player of greatest value to his team.

As usual, February is a big month athletically for Hawkeye teams . . . there are 20 contests in the five sports, eight of them at home.

Little Hawks Meet Rams Here Tonight

Merten Shifts City Hi Team

Dubuque Favored To Stop Revised Hawklet Quintet

Coach Francis Merten and his City high Hawklets are giving a surprise party tonight at the new gym. Guests of honor will be the Dubuque high basketball team. The occasion is a conference cage game, and the surprise is planned to be on the visitors in no uncertain terms.

All this week, the Hawklet basket-keepers have been taking to Merten's new style of play like ducks to water, and tonight is their big chance to show what they can do when they are in condition, with the right mental attitude and are working with a new offense. A victory over Dubuque would be sweet honey to the victory-starved Little Hawks, besides being one of the major upsets of the current conference warfare.

Dubuque has an even break in six conference games to date, but they have played the toughest teams in the league, and now are set to fatten up their average on weaker conference sisters. Iowa City is rated as one of these set-ups, but with the new deal in full swing at the school on the hill, the Red and White may prove to be an entirely different team than the one which has lost four games while winning two.

Under the new system at City high, Dick Culberson, the big rubber-legged Negro center, has taken over a forward post to give Mark Lillick, another tall cager, a chance at the center berth. Lillick is a real team player, a ball-handler and a good shot. With Ray Sullivan at the other forward, Merten will have three sky-scrappers under the basket with plenty of scoring ability. Bud Lemons, ex-forward, is definitely entrenched in one guard position. Lemons has shown a recent return to former scoring form lately, and will give Iowa City their first scoring threat in the backcourt. Bob King completes the first-string combination.

A fast break has been added to the Iowa City repertoire with pleasing results for Coach Merten's efforts. This fast break is counted on by the City high mentor to keep the Little Hawk guards out of trouble in bringing the ball down the floor. With this added threat, opponents' defenses will drop back quicker, giving the backcourt men some leeway for ball-handling.

Coach Herb Cormack's strong sophomores open the competition against the Dubuque sophs at 7 o'clock.

Heavyweights Sign OMAHA (AP)—Promoter Max Clayton announced last night Bob Gillispie, formerly of David City, and Pat Hanrahan of South Sioux City, heavyweights, will fight a four round preliminary bout to the Arne Anderson-Clarence Brown 10 round match here Jan. 26. Clayton said he is seeking an opponent for Lloyd Hagen of St. Paul as another feature. A share of the receipts from the show will go to the Finnish relief fund.

Chicago Bank Demands Sale Of Ball Club Mrs. Comiskey Given Until February 29 For Final Answer

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (AP)—Heirs of the late J. Louis Comiskey today began a fight to prevent sale of the Chicago White Sox as demanded by the First National Bank of Chicago, executor of Comiskey's estate.

A long, bitter court battle is in prospect with chances that Jimmy Dykes, manager of the famous team, will be in the ball park next summer yelling instructions to his players before it is decided. The litigation may require months.

Attorneys for the bank filed a petition in probate court requesting permission to sell the club, which its founder, Charles A. Comiskey, the famed "old Roman," established 40 years ago without investing a cent, and subsequently turned into a $2,000,000 property. The franchise in the American league, at the time it was organized, was given Comiskey.

The bank based its action on a clause in the Comiskey will which gives the trustees permission to sell, if in their opinion, it is "prudent and desirable." It is the opinion of the trustees, according to the petition, that the "best interest" of the heirs will be served by the sale. Their opinion is based on the belief that baseball is "hazardous, the income therefore uncertain, and its stock unsuitable as a trust investment." The petition also set forth on the income derived from the trust.

Mrs. Grace Comiskey, the widow, through her attorney, declared the bank's move would be contested. She asked for a continuance to provide time to answer. The hearing was set for Feb. 29. None of the Comiskies was in court.

Sale of the club would be subject to the approval of the American league, which, under its constitution, reserves the right to pass on the eligibility of purchasers.

To Honor Walters NEW YORK (AP)—Bucky Walters, Cincinnati's ace hurler who won 27 and lost 11 last year, will be awarded the player of the year trophy at the annual dinner of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Feb. 4.

Galento Just Wants Glory

Two-Ton Tony Figures Coming Bout With Baer Just Another 'Tune-Up'

ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 18 (AP)—Two-ton Tony Galento, still no. 1 challenger for Joe Louis' heavy-weight crown, plumped his 249 pounds on a bar stool in his saloon today and said his only interest in boxing was the glory it offered.

"I've got a few bucks now," he said. "I don't have to worry about money, but I'm gonna murder that Maxie Baer and then meet Joe Louis in June. I want the championship, but only for the glory of it."

New York's boxing commission refused yesterday to issue a license to Galento's manager, Joe "Yussel" Jacobs, after promoter Mike Jacobs tentatively set March 4 for a Galento-Baer fight in Madison Square garden.

"Them guys on the New York commission give me a pain in the neck," Galento said. "I don't care where I fight Baer. He's only a tuneup for me. I knocked out Lou Nova and Nova had knocked out

Lawson Little Leads $5,000 Frisco Open

Sub Par 139 Total Equals Record On Gate City Course

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18 (AP)—Breaking par and the hearts of his competitors with a sensational 69, Lawson Little posted a 36-hole total of 139 today to win qualifying honors in the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

His three-under par round, clubbed out on a course made tough by chilly weather, was the lowest turned in during the two-day qualifying tests which trimmed the field to 32 entries for match play rounds.

The score equaled the competitive record for the Lake Merced layout. Little joined Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., Ky Laffoon, Chicago, and Ben Coltrin, home professional, as those who have hit 69 under tournament fire here.

Winner of the British and U. S. amateur crowns, in 1934-35 but long since turned professional, Little reached peak form in leading a formidable field to the finish today—a feat that earned him $325.

The stocky Bretton Woods, N.H., representative put together nines of 34-35, as against the pair of 36's listed as standard golf. He had a 70 yesterday and shared the first round lead with two others.

Only two weeks ago he won the Los Angeles open, an achievement that was worth $1,250.

Tremendous wood shots enabled Little to reach greens on the longer holes in two while most others were using three blows. He birdied the 517-yard first and the 495-yard third, both par 5 stretches.

He missed a four-foot putt, for a birdie 2, on the 8th but came back with birdies on the 10th, 12th and 13th. On the 10th his ball stopped three inches short of an eagle 3.

Jim Demaret of Houston, Tex., carding 71-70—141, was second low qualifier, and Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N.Y., finished third with a pair of 71's and a two-round total of 142.

Heavyweights Sign OMAHA (AP)—Promoter Max Clayton announced last night Bob Gillispie, formerly of David City, and Pat Hanrahan of South Sioux City, heavyweights, will fight a four round preliminary bout to the Arne Anderson-Clarence Brown 10 round match here Jan. 26. Clayton said he is seeking an opponent for Lloyd Hagen of St. Paul as another feature. A share of the receipts from the show will go to the Finnish relief fund.

Prof. Cowan To Discuss Linguistics in Talk Tonight

Will Describe Fields Applying Phonetics In Baconian Lecture

Prof. J. Milton Cowan of the German department will discuss fields of linguistics in which phonetics are applied in a Baconian lecture tonight at 7:30 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Speaking on the subject, "Phonetics and Linguistic Science," Professor Cowan will describe the linguistic fields in which there is an application of phonetics, including the study of heretofore unwritten languages, such as the American Indian languages and the African languages. Trained linguists have begun only recently to work in this field.

Another field in which the linguists are working is in the revision of the written forms of a number of languages already having orthographies. The country of Turkey is the most notable example of this, according to Professor Cowan. There, in 1928, the state hired trained linguists to come in and adapt the language to the western alphabet.

Cause Confusion
Phonetics and linguistics are easily and frequently confused by the layman, and in pointing out the difference Professor Cowan has stated, "Linguistics is the entire science of language. It includes grammar, syntax, comparisons of various systems with one another, historical development, theoretical postulation of language, and in some cases, the prediction of the course of language."

"Phonetics, on the other hand, is merely the technical shorthand of the linguist," Professor Cowan has explained.

For the past three summers, Professor Cowan has been guest lecturer at the linguistic institute at the University of Michigan. In addition he has written several articles, which have appeared in the Archives of Speech and in the Journal of the Acoustical Society of America.

Studies in Germany
Professor Cowan received his Ph.D. at the University of Iowa in 1935, after graduating from the University of Utah in 1931. He studied three years in Germany, the last two, 1929 and 1930, at the University of Leipzig. In 1932 he held the Willard Dawson Thompson fellowship at the University of California at Berkeley.

At the University of Iowa Professor Cowan is teaching in the German department, and doing research in experimental phonetics. He is also technical supervisor of the modern language laboratory.

Show 'Medic' Relics Here

Old Instruments In Collection; Doctors Of Iowa Contribute

Relics of the medical profession in Iowa are now on exhibit in the museum of medical history at the University of Iowa.

Contributed by Iowa physicians, the collection constantly is being augmented by items for permanent deposit. The museum is under the supervision of Dr. John T. McClintock of the medical faculty.

Probably the oldest articles are keys made and used for dental extractions in colonial days by the great-grandfather of Dr. Bush Houston of Nevada. There also are surgical instruments of Dr. H. C. Eulis, who practiced in the state between 1854 and 1897.

Evidence of the days of the barber-surgeon are lancet, scarifiers, and cups used by the barber practitioners in the later part of the nineteenth century. There also is a barber-surgeon street sign displayed in Iowa City between 1860 and 1870.

The collection also contains two kits of bone-handed surgical instruments presented to Dr. John C. Schrader, medical faculty member from 1870 to 1906, at the close of the Civil war. Various instruments from the collection of Dr. James C. Boice, who settled in Alnsworth in 1874, also are displayed.

With less than two weeks to go before the deadline date for receipt of entries, a heavy influx of high school, junior college, and community casts is expected soon. All entries must be received by Feb. 1, officials warn.

Junior colleges will compete April 1 and 2 and community casts are scheduled to appear in the university theater April 4, 5 and 6.

Tips for Cold Spell Glamour

Don't Look Like A Fugitive Or An Eskimo, Be Smart But Comfortable

Nice, brisk, wintry weather is a fine thing but when it gets this cold—that's really going too far! The room is icy when you wake up, you freeze yourself into a stupor going to classes and you have to waste your allowance eating down-town at noon.

And how is a girl going to retain any shade of "glamour" when she has to go around all bundled up like an Eskimo! You either have to don a pair of wool socks that make you look like a fugitive from the Big League or suffer frigid consequences.

Some of the university women have taken to the wearing of snow suits, which is a fine idea if you like them and don't mind feeling a bit stuffed when you come in out of the elements.

But an even finer idea, better looking and more comfortable, are the corduroy slacks that some of the girls are wearing. They can be obtained in navy blue or brown with deep slant pockets where you can stow all of the foreign matter that is usually carried in a purse. It's too cold to carry a purse these days! The corduroy is fine, soft and warm.

Woolen slacks come in more varied colors. Some are grass green, some are medium blue and some are a luscious shade of old rose. Of course, there are more conservative colors too. For instance, the grey ones of fine tailor cloth or the dark blue pin-striped, which have belts of the same material.

Less popular perhaps, but just as stylish, are jodhpurs. The color is usually neutral, brown or dark green. When you wear them with a bright sweater and snap-brim (or peasant scarf, as you please), you too can snap your fingers in the frosty face of Old Man Winter and carry on with as much "glamour" as ever.

hundreds of millions of dollars per day. Moreover, recent scientific inventions have resulted in what is a virtual stalemate on the western front, wherein the nations involved are of equal strength.

The nation-state, as Huxley described it, is also defeating its own ends. It is biologically unsound to place a nation above man—such a state contradicts the entire process of evolution, he said.

Huxley stated that the present economic system is not succeeding, pointing out the existence of unequal distribution of wealth, the paradox of ill health existing in the midst of knowledge, and want in the center of poverty.

Listing all these fallacies of the present social system, Huxley stressed the importance of careful planning to establish reconstruction following a peaceful settlement. People must think about the kind of a system they want. Recognizing the fact that Hitlerism, communism, and other forms of totalitarian government do not contribute to progress, Huxley invited the people of America to inspect their own system to devise a new and better peace program.

"Progress is inevitable on a scientific basis, but it is up to human beings to speed it up," the speaker concluded.

Bungling--

ing behind the words, that "necessary measures to avoid such mistakes in the future" had been taken.

One effect of the original publication was to step up Italian-Hungarian conversations that led to a virtual mutual assistance pact between the two governments designed to offset Russian penetration of the Balkans. The major objective of that deal was to crowd Rumania into a determined stand against any Russian pressure, and signs are not lacking that it is serving its purpose. The Moscow apology to Rumania is not the least significant of those signs.

Altogether, the "deterioration" (as diplomats say) of Russian prestige abroad in the six weeks of Red army failures in little Finland has been great, and increasing.

Whether recent news from Moscow is also symptomatic of domestic difficulties-in-the-making for the Stalin regime is subject to doubt.

Moscow has denied officially that Red planes are or have been bombing anything but "military objectives" in Finland. Against the evidence from neutral press observers, that denial is subject to a heavy discount.

Weather--

warned shippers to protect northern Iowa consignments against temperatures as low as minus 30. The warning placed the southern Iowa possibility at 20 below.

Most severe of the morning readings, the lowest since 1936's record-breaking year, were recorded at Cedar Rapids and Storm Lake where the temperatures plummeted to 26 degrees below zero.

Ames and Fort Dodge struggled through 25-below weather, while Emmetsburg, Carroll, Audubon, Inwood, Rock Rapids, Atlantic and Humboldt reported minimums of 24 below.

The bureau said brisk winds, strong enough to stir up loose snow and to increase the danger of frost-bite in Iowa ears and noses, were reported from several Iowa points yesterday afternoon. A 16-mile-an-hour breeze is sufficient to cause human discomfort in this kind of weather, the bureau added, and the more robust airport reports told of 25-mile-an-hour winds in the Sioux City area.

At Des Moines the wind was blowing 18 miles an hour, while the air movement speed at Omaha was 16 miles an hour.

Lowest hoped that yesterday's precipitous temperature descent is not a case of history repeating itself. On Jan. 18, 1936, a cold wave engulfed the state and didn't let go until around Feb. 22. The 36-day period, known as the coldest in Iowa annals, was marked by a state temperature average of 2.4 degrees below zero.

On the pessimistic side of the same picture was a prediction made 10 years ago by weather observer Charles D. Reed that the winter of 1939-40 might be an outstandingly cold period. Reed's prediction was based on his study of weather cycles.

The severe weather met with varying reactions from Iowa's inhabitants yesterday. A Des Moines retail store survey at noon indicated that most of the retail trade's customers had holed up for the day. City patrons were fewer than usual, store managers said, while a shopper from the country was a downright rarity.

Operators of bus lines greeted the subzero weather with open arms, but with fingers crossed on each hand against the possibility of a traffic-crippling snow storm. Bus business was unusually good, they said, because travelers leave family automobiles in the garages in temperatures like these.

Some trains were a little behind schedule.

Personal experience stories from American news men on the Russo-Finnish front who were driven to shelter in Finnish villages of no conceivable importance to escape red air bombs refute the Moscow contention. From the crash of the first Russian air attack on Finnish towns and cities, reports that worker's dwellings were being blasted, non-combatant workers and their women and children being killed or injured, have been front page stuff in newspapers of the neutral world.

That the Moscow authorities can hope at this late date to counteract abroad that impression of Russian ruthlessness is hardly reasonable. Some other motive must be sought for the official statement that "red army aviation has not and does not bombard the city of Helsinki, still less the working class districts of that city."

A possible motive is not hard to discern. The Russian attack on Finland was launched under the auspices of the Soviet Leningrad military district. Its avowed purpose was to secure the defense of that city from possible attack. There has been nothing to indicate, however, that troops from the Leningrad area were being used in Finland, at least for attack purposes. On the contrary, most red soldiers captured by the Finns, seem to have come from some other Russian area, usually remote from the Russo-Finnish border.

Slight Rise Forecast But Below-Zero Marks May Continue, Says Weather Man

In the wake of a long series of below-zero readings, the weather man, who has been standing firmer than the bride's first biscuit the last few days predicting "continued cold," last night gave an inch or so in a half-promise of a slight rise in temperatures throughout Iowa.

Last night's bitter cold, however, was slated to serve its last insult on residents of Iowa City after a daylight range of 2 to 18 degrees below zero. The lowest reading was shown at 7:30 a.m. yesterday and was almost equalled last night.

Normal temperature readings which have "gone with the wind" as far as Iowa City is concerned, were 12 to 30 degrees for yesterday, which this town's mercury has touched only in transitions from hot to cold in the last two months.

Cedar Rapids had the lowest reading in the state for an hour last night when a 7:30 report showed a 20-below-zero there.

The Associated Press reported a 30-below minimum forecast for the northern half of the state and 20-below for the southern half last night.

Musicians From 16-25 May Try For Good-Will Tour Band

Talented young Iowa musicians will have an opportunity to try out for the all-American youth orchestra to visit Central and South America this summer on a good-will tour, according to a recent announcement made by Theodore P. Eslick, state NYA administrator.

The 109-piece orchestra, to be made up of players from 16 to 25 years of age, will be under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, famous conductor. Youths selected will be paid at regular musicians' rates for the duration of the tour, tentatively scheduled to start sometime in June and terminate about the end of August.

Secure Applications Here Ambitious musicians, interested in the tour, may secure applications now from NYA field representatives and college and high school officials. Eslick has stated that the deadline for receipt of applications— to be sent to the state NYA office, Paramount building, Des Moines— will be March 1.

When the applications have been received, try-outs for the aspiring musicians will be held in key Iowa cities, where committees of adult musicians will act as judging units.

Audition in Des Moines Youths deemed outstanding musicians by the committees at the try-outs will be recommended for a preliminary audition to be held in Des Moines, probably on March 9, according to Eslick. Musicians selected from this lot will be eligible for regional auditions to be conducted by representatives of Stokowski, the final selections to be made by Stokowski, himself, some time in April.

Eslick has announced that transportation to the initial try-out and lety of tone color, good phrasing, musical feeling, imagination, and poetry. It will be taken for granted that those selected can read music fluently, have a good ear, and play in tune.

The Pan-American union is cooperating with the national youth administration in the venture.

Couple Married Bertrand Overmeyer, 57, and Ida Grace Watts, 57, both of Cedar Rapids, were married yesterday by J. M. Kadlec, justice of the peace. W. W. Orris and B. P. Fischer acted as witnesses.

Protect Your Water Pipes from Freezing

Be sure that the water pipes of your home are safeguarded against freezing. Frozen water pipes result in much inconvenience and needless repair bills for householders.

Pipes located in freezing temperatures should be wrapped in rags or paper and one should make certain that no basement windows are broken to let chill blasts in.

A WISE PRECAUTION: On bitterly cold nights when your furnace is turned low for the night, open a bathroom faucet sufficiently to allow a tiny stream of water—just a quart a minute—to flow through the pipes throughout the night.

This wise forethought, costing you but a few cents a night, may save you many dollars in damages.
