Intense Cold Grips Nation's Southlands

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26 (AP)—A southland which habitually takes its winters mild was scourged today by racking cold that spread death, misery and financial loss from Texas to Virginia.

While relentless frigidities smashed records for intensity and duration, forecasters could promise no general relief before Sunday and predicted only relatively higher temperatures then.

Human suffering fell heaviest on the poor in the cities where even the best dwellings are not built to withstand sub-zero and near-zero conditions. Retail business was slowed to a walk as housewives left home only of necessity, and construction work virtually was suspended.

Texas, Florida and gulf coast farmers could not as yet estimate the millions lost when freezes bit savagely into fruit and vegetable crops. Further to the north livestock accustomed to wintering with little or no shelter froze and

Pressure Applied in Favor of $6,000,000 Project

By ARTHUR BELLAIRE
Daily Iowan City Editor

Six million dollars in a public improvement which the federal government calls a project, the governor calls "a gift from Santa Claus" and the Iowa City building trades council calls three years of work for 500 men has meant a lot of pressure on two state powers who may be authorized to wipe out an objection.

The Iowa conservation commission, the group which objected a week ago to the proposed Coralville dam project planned by the federal government, yesterday was addressed by three Iowa City organizations asking indirectly that it withdraw its opposition.

Recommends Dam

The Iowa City chamber of commerce sent the following telegram to both the commission and Gov. George A. Wilson:

"After considerable study of the proposed flood control dam above Coralville, the Iowa City chamber of commerce believes this project to be worthwhile not only for the purpose of preventing floods in Iowa City on university property and bordering farms below Iowa City but also because of the possible additional recreational facilities which may be provided.

"We are confident that the corps of army engineers, the state conservation commission and those interested in the development of the beautiful Lake Macbride area and others will reach a solution to this problem satisfactorily to all parties concerned.

"We therefore respectfully solicit your approval of this splendid project."

Also meeting at noon yesterday and acting on an official opinion, the local junior chamber of commerce sent these few words:

"Iowa City junior chamber of commerce today unanimously endorsed the Coralville reservoir project. We urgently solicit your cooperation in the completion of this project."

4 Divisions Battle Vainly At Finn Lines

Companies of Red Army 'Cut to Pieces' In Bitter Warfare

HELSINKI, Jan. 27 (Saturday) (AP)—The fate of four Soviet divisions, which have been fighting almost ceaselessly all week in the icy wilderness north of Lake Ladoga, early today was approaching decision, Finns reported, with two divisions possibly snared beyond hope of help.

The latter two units were caught far from their base in the region of Kiteja; a third division has been battering in vain at Finnish lines near Kollanajoki and the fourth, attacking at Alttiojoki, is reported composed of the remnants of large forces shattered some weeks ago at Aglajarvi and Tolva-jarvi.

Coldest Winter

Victims of the coldest winter in sixty years, trying to cope with the merciless guerrilla tactics of Finland's fleet ski fighters, some of these troops are still able to launch attack after attack in a valiant effort to rescue their trapped comrades and then fight their own way out of threatening disaster.

A week-long attack without quarter tonight found company after company of the Red army cut to pieces northeast of Lake Ladoga, the Finnish command announced, with Finnish redoubts "everywhere retained."

With Soviet dead declared by the Finns to have been "counted in the hundreds," the furious assault penetrated the eastern shores of the lake itself. Under a heavy artillery barrage, the Russians were sent in waves against the bastions of Fort Mansi, island stronghold commanding a coastal corner of Finland.

Grim Story

Like the other attacks, the Finns said, these were repulsed, "the enemy leaving more than 100 dead before our positions."

A Finnish communique told the grim story of the destruction of long Russian cavalry columns. It drew a terse word picture of the carcasses of more than 400 horses sprawled in the snow.

It is in this area that the Russians, in attacks at various points, have tried all week to cut a flanking swath behind the Mannerheim line.

Up just above the narrow Finnish waistline, north of the Arctic circle, dispatches from the field described a sudden hush in Russian artillery fire combined with unusual activity on the highway east of Markajarvi. It was to this town that 40,000 Russians retreated after abandoning a ruse to cut Finland in two.

'3rd Term?' Sen. Wheeler Asks F. D. R.

Urges Agriculture, Labor To Lead War On Unemployment

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 26 (AP)—Demands of labor and agriculture for a government-backed war on unemployment—termed "America's No. 1 problem"—received strong backing today from Senator Burton K. Wheeler as he turned aside queries whether he would be a democratic presidential aspirant.

President Roosevelt, who has not acted on pleas by the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the National Grange for a general conference with industry on unemployment, also was implored by Wheeler to declare his third term intentions immediately.

Wheeler told the jubilee convention of the C.I.O.'s United Mine Workers of America that only through government leadership and solution of "economic absurdities" could unemployment be ended, prosperity assured and "American ideals of industrial and political democracy" achieved.

The Montana senator, regarded in some quarters as a leading democratic presidential possibility, gave definite indications of a bid for farm-labor support.

John L. Lewis, U.M.W.'s and C.I.O.'s president, made no political reference to Wheeler in introducing him as "an eminent statesman and the friend of the American laborer and the common man and woman."

While some observers have predicted Lewis will endorse Wheeler, his failure to do so today was not considered significant in view of his recommendation Tuesday urging the convention refrain from expressing any presidential preferences.

Blaring bands and loud applause greeted the Montana liberal as he appeared before the convention.

Wheeler declared an immediate showdown by President Roosevelt on the third term issue is necessary to prevent party disaster before the democratic national convention.

Information Please RUSSIAN PRISONERS SMOKE FOR RIGHT ANSWERS

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Finnish radio tonight broadcast an "information please" program with 40 Russian prisoners from the destroyed 44th Soviet division sitting in as the "experts."

Cigars were passed to those who answered their questions correctly but only 11 of the 40 did any smoking.

All were stumped by these questions:

Who was Rasputin?
What are the Olympic games?
Who was Jesus? Napoleon? Nurni?

Investigation Principals All at Odds

Liquor Chairman Curtis, Polk County Attorney Bandy Words

DES MOINES, Jan. 26 (AP)—The circle is complete—all three of the principals in the Polk county liquor investigation are at odds with each other.

Polk County Attorney Francis Kuble today took out after Iowa liquor chairman M. L. Curtis for a jest to reporters last night when Curtis left the grand jury room here.

Curtis jokingly told reporters that he had "signed a statement in there. You can get it from the county attorney."

Kuble's statement today said: "Mr. Curtis did not, as he is quoted in the newspapers, sign any statement before the grand jury which the county attorney may make public and no one knows this better than Mr. Curtis."

Grand jury proceedings are secret.

Told of Kuble's reaction, the liquor chairman said apparently "everyone but Mr. Kuble knew I was kidding." Curtis refused to amplify his latter remark and said he regarded the incident as closed.

Curtis, Kuble and Senator Clyde L. Herring are the three public officials around whom the investigation into alleged illicit liquor traffic is proceeding. Curtis has been exchanging verbal broadsides with Senator Herring for several weeks, and Kuble this week participated in a long-distance argument with the Senator over the subject. Herring is in Washington.

Now Kuble has fired both barrels at Curtis, thereby completing the circuit of verbal combat.

F. R.'s Parley Revives Talk Of 3rd Term

Roosevelt Meets Quietly With Alleged 'Third Term Boomers'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt started a fresh wave of political guessing today by holding a conference with two men whom John L. Lewis denounced last fall on the grounds that they entertained "secret plans to launch a third term boom."

The two men are Norman M. Littell, assistant attorney general, and Marshall E. Dimock, second assistant secretary of labor. They visited the White House in company with Oscar L. Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior. Upon emerging, they would say nothing to reporters.

The politically-wise immediately recalled that last October the C.I.O. chieftain loosed a blast at a western "progressive conference" which he said Littell and Dimock were seeking to hold in Salt Lake City.

Warning labor's non-partisan league, which he heads, to have nothing to do with the conference, he said labor had not been given a chance to offer a "legitimate program" for the meeting.

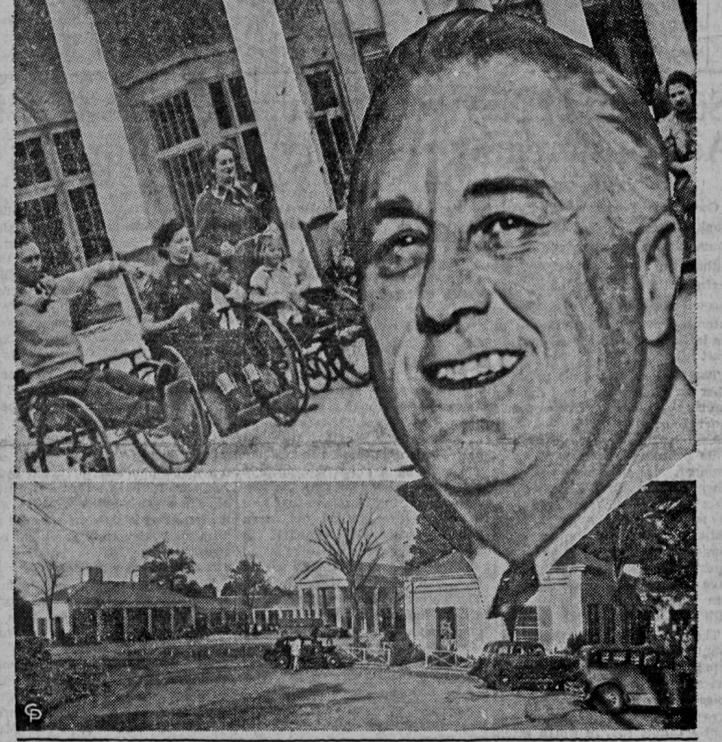

Other reasons for objecting to the conference, he said, was the "sight" to Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) and "other great liberals of the west" who have not been consulted and who are slated to be excluded from the conference."

In addition, he cited what he termed "the secret plans to use the conference to launch a third-term boom."

The White House conference today raised the following questions:

1. Was it a gesture of reply to Lewis' prediction this week that a third term campaign would be doomed to "ignominious defeat"?
2. Were the plans for the western progressive conference, which appeared to have been laid aside after the Lewis blast of last fall, being revived?
3. If the conference is held, will President Roosevelt attend it, and will he give some indication then of his attitude toward a third term?

PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY CLIMAXES PARALYSIS DRIVE

Top, some of the patients; inset, Mr. Roosevelt; below, Warm Springs Foundation

Annual campaign to help stamp out infantile paralysis reaches its goal Jan. 30 with the observance of the president's birthday throughout the United States. Some of the money raised in the "March of Dimes" campaign goes to the Warm Springs, Ga., Foundation, where the president himself visits. President Roosevelt, once an infantile paralysis patient, will be 58 years old Tuesday.

City of Flint, Once Center of International Drama, Steams Into United States Waters

BALTIMORE, Jan. 26 (AP)—The City of Flint, an unassuming little freighter catapulted by war into the center of an international drama, moved into the safety of U. S. waters tonight and toward a gala welcome befitting a hero coming home from the wars.

Nothing more sinister than a stiff north wind and occasional ice floes remained to be conquered as she steamed up Chesapeake bay—at the end of a "six weeks" voyage that took 113 days to complete.

Captain J. A. Gainard and his crew of 40 will arrive tomorrow morning, ending a fiction-like journey that saw them seized by a German crew, held captive in a Russian port, headed through the gun-sprouting British blockade and, at last set free, turned for home with an unromantic cargo of iron ore. She was expected to reach Quarantine sometime after midnight, and dock after daylight tomorrow.

Families and friends of five Baltimoreans in the crew planned joyous receptions, and promised a crowd "and maybe a brass band" would be on hand when the 4,963-ton freighter ties up at Sparrows Point, several miles from the city's center.

Home after a cold, gale-swift voyage during which they were to the circuitous but comparatively safe northern route, the crewmen probably will plan celebrations of their own, for they have been without pay since Oct. 3. Officials of the United States lines took heavy pay pouches aboard at Cape Henry today.

Parents Protest Enforced Baths for Girl Students; Are Told Pupils Live Under A 'Psychology of Fear'

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Jan. 26 (AP)—A spirited session of the Council Bluffs school board, at which the question of whether girl high school students in physical education classes should be compelled to take shower baths, ended tonight without the board taking any action.

Gustafson referred to an alternative which existed allowing girls who refused to take physical education classes to enroll in a course in hygiene.

Although Gustafson said conditions were the same at all Council Bluffs high schools, the discussion centered around the Abraham Lincoln high school.

Approximately 100 parents attended the meeting to enter their protests against the compulsory baths.

E. V. Gustafson, board member who first voiced the complaints against the shower baths, told the meeting he had been contacted "by scores of parents during the last 60 days concerning this situation, as a result of which it became a matter of public and press comment."

"I wanted to know if the complaints were justified. The more I investigated the more I found individual pupils living under a 'fear psychology.'"

Gala Welcoming Due Today for Vessel 'Home From Wars'

BALTIMORE, Jan. 26 (AP)—The City of Flint, an unassuming little freighter catapulted by war into the center of an international drama, moved into the safety of U. S. waters tonight and toward a gala welcome befitting a hero coming home from the wars.

British Raise Pork Rations

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—British conviction that the navy and air force are finally solving the problem of German assaults upon the empire's vital supply lines was bolstered today by a food ministry order doubling the bacon and ham ration.

This development was closely followed by official announcement of the conclusion of an economic and financial agreement with the Greek government, details of which were not immediately disclosed.

Britain previously had pledged aid to Greece in the event of aggression threatening her independence.

Canadian Parties Have Opening Caucuses In Election Preparations

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (AP)—Political parties held their first caucuses today to start their campaign for Canada's unexpected general election, set tentatively for March 26.

Following a liberal party caucus Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King said the election likely would be held March 26 but added he would not know definitely until he had a final report from the chief electoral officer.

Both MacKenzie King and Conservative leader R. J. Manion received endorsement at caucuses today.

Philippine Liner Sinks; All Rescued

TOKYO, Jan. 27 (Saturday) (AP)—Lashed by a raging storm, the grounded, 8,341-ton Philippine liner President Quezon was reported to have sunk on reefs off Tanegashima island, southern Japan, today after her crew of 114 and an undetermined number of passengers were taken off by rescue ships.

A brief radio message from the Japanese vessel Ukishima Maru, which raced to the President Quezon's side an hour after she ran onto the treacherous reefs, said the liner went down stern first at 11:45 a.m. (8:45 p.m., CST Friday).

The Japanese ship Ukishima Maru, two hours after reaching the side of the stranded liner, wireless that the engine room and forward hatches were damaged. One hold and the engine room were reported full of water.

Domel (Japanese news agency) said there were twelve passengers besides the crew. Other reports placed the passengers at twenty.

Torpedoing of Vessel In Atlantic Monday Disclosed in London

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The torpedoing of the Rotterdam-bound 2,456-ton Norwegian steamer Songa, formerly known as the Ada, in the Atlantic last Monday was disclosed today with the landing of her crew of 25 on the Irish coast.

The Songa was en route to Rotterdam from New York and Philadelphia when a submarine stopped her. A member of the crew said the submarine commander asked the Songa's captain to sign papers stating the cargo was contraband war material for England and, when the captain refused, sent a torpedo through the Songa. She was broken in two.

The captain and 11 seamen drifted ashore in a lifeboat. Thirteen others were picked up by a trawler.

U. S. Citizens Can Fight Abroad—F. R.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—A presidential statement that Americans could enlist in the armed forces of other nations and retain American citizenship—unless they swore allegiance to another government—aroused capital curiosity tonight because of its timing.

Summing up a memorandum from the attorney general, the president said at a press conference that it meant no foreign nation could legally maintain an enlistment service in this country nor solicit enlistments here.

It meant also, he said, that should an American leave this country and enlist outside its borders in the service of another nation, he would not lose his citizenship unless he took an oath of allegiance to that country.

He had been asked whether an American who went overseas to fight for England or France lost citizenship. And he was ready with an answer and memorandum. The latter was nearly five months old.

It was dated last Sept. 5.

Out of the countless documents that have crossed his desk since last fall, Mr. Roosevelt had saved out the attorney general's memo and tucked it away in a drawer because, he said, he thought reporters would ask about the enlistment situation.

Pact Ended Officially Last Night

Six-Month Period Passes; Officials Await Next Move

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The idea of giving the state department discretionary authority to restrict or ban trade with Japan, now that the Japanese-American commercial treaty is dead, gained support tonight in some senate quarters.

Senator Hatch (D-NM) said he thought such a step was advisable. One member of the senate foreign relations committee, who requested that he remain unidentified, also endorsed it. This senator pointed out that it would give the state department a powerful weapon which it could bring into use at any moment if developments in Japanese-American relations necessitated.

Expires at Midnight

The hour of the treaty's expiration was midnight tonight, EST, according to official calculations here, although Tokyo considered that the pact died at 10 a.m. Thursday. No ceremony marked its end here; no official proclamation was issued; no instructions given to government departments.

Notice of abrogation of the 20-year-old treaty was given six months ago as a means of bringing pressure on Japan to respect American rights in China. That was the only official pronouncement.

No Comment

There was no comment in official circles on the arrival of the expiration date. President Roosevelt declined at his press conference to discuss it. Secretary of State Hull was ill at home with a cold, Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, had no comment.

There was every indication, too, that for the time being at least trade relations would remain the same.

Most members of the senate foreign relations committee indicated a disposition to go slow in considering proposals to embargo the shipment of American raw materials to Japan.

Such legislation has been introduced by Chairman Pittman (D-NeV) and Senator Schwelvenbach (D-Wash).

Program in China To Be Unchanged

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26 (AP)—Japanese army officers in China say that the ending of the United States Japanese commercial treaty today would be no assurance that promises made by the Tokyo government to respect American interests would be carried out by the army in China.

They assert no matter what economic pressure the United States may bring in the treatyless period ahead, their program, which has meant harm to Americans and infringement of their treaty rights, must go on even if this means frontal conflict with the United States.

Since 1931 the Japanese army has dictated the empire's policy respecting China. If its attitude is unchanged, experienced observers here see little chance for a Japanese-American agreement to replace the old treaty, since there would be no assurance that promises made by the Tokyo government to respect American interests would be carried out by the army in China.

The treaty's last day passed without any notable Japanese-American developments here.

Born, Dies in Same House

HONESDALE, Pa., (AP)—Mrs. August Nemire, 94, died yesterday in the same house in which she was born. She had never lived elsewhere.

Say Reprisal Fear Stalls Pact Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—A republican's charge that many manufacturers would not testify against the reciprocal trade agreements program for fear of governmental "reprisals" furnished a stormy interlude today in a congressional committee's hearing on proposed extension of the program.

Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio) supported by other republicans, made the accusation, and added that democratic members of the house ways and means committee were making "vicious attacks" on witnesses in an attempt to "confound" them.

Explaining his "reprisals" statement, Jenkins told newsmen later he meant that many businessmen feared the government would "investigate their tax records and confront them with any requests they had made to the government departments."

"In other words they would make them live hard," he said.

Jenkins' remarks followed the action of Rep. Robertson (D-Va.) in questioning a witness, J. M. Wells, of East Liverpool, Ohio, about statements he had made some years ago before the tariff commission.

Rep. Crowther (R-NY) joined Jenkins in the attack.

"It seems to me unfair that the member comments on and criticizes the witness," Crowther said. "I don't know whether the gentleman from Virginia is the appointed representative of the majority or the self-appointed representative."

The Syphilis War Will Soon Be on Again

NEXT THURSDAY, Feb. 1, Iowa City and the nation will be observing the fourth annual National Social Hygiene day.

Medical science has shown and is attempting to educate the public to the fact that the only way to obtain treatment prescribed for the cure of syphilis is by going to a competent registered physician, not to the get-well-quick quack.

Now that syphilis, its causes, effects and cures are no longer veiled in secrecy, the campaign to eradicate it should advance with greater speed.

This year's campaign, as announced by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university and chairman of the national committee, will stress the fight against medical quackery, one of the largest obstacles in the way of the syphilis eradication program.

the working man is "What are the honest costs of the finished product?" If a man burns out at 65 after working in a factory all his life, the burden of insuring his old age rightfully belongs in the cost of the product which he helped make.

Oddly enough, however, one field has lacked any real forward progress—the field of health insurance. If John Jones gets pneumonia or tuberculosis or diphtheria and is unable to work, his family has no pay check with which to pay grocery bills, rent, or the ordinary expenses of living.

This is the problem dealt with by health insurance. After a decade of investigation, a modest national health program has been submitted to congress, calling for provisions for medical care and temporary disability compensation.

In the past the problem was mistakenly approached from the angle of "socialized medicine." There are serious defects in any plan calling for the regimentation of physicians and surgeons—defects which might require an adjustment of our entire attitude toward professional men.

The primary goal, to quote the American Labor Legislation Review, "must be to prevent sickness destitution—not merely to provide for the destitute sick."

With this program before congress, it is important that legislative action is not postponed. The influence of the war abroad should not be so great as to obscure our important domestic problems.

The national health program supplies a missing link in our social program and should be adopted without emasculating its fundamental provisions.

This year's campaign, as announced by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university and chairman of the national committee, will stress the fight against medical quackery, one of the largest obstacles in the way of the syphilis eradication program.

Medical science has shown and is attempting to educate the public to the fact that the only way to obtain treatment prescribed for the cure of syphilis is by going to a competent registered physician, not to the get-well-quick quack.

Now that syphilis, its causes, effects and cures are no longer veiled in secrecy, the campaign to eradicate it should advance with greater speed.

SUDDEN LOSS OF APPETITE

Scolding of Navigation Bureau Is Not First Administered by Secretary Harry Hopkins

Commerce Secretary Harry L. Hopkins recently called the bureau of navigation, which is one of the authorities under his cabinet departmental jurisdiction, sharply to account for laxity, he charged, in enforcing maritime regulations in the interest of safety on American craft afloat.

The National Maritime union, a labor body, previously had made a similar complaint. Uncle Sam's general accounting office also was critical of the bureau's efficiency, in its last annual report to the government.

For some reason or other the accounting office's strictures were deleted from its report, as published. Subsequently, the justice department's committee on administrative procedure officially asserted that American shipowners have learned that "they may violate navigation laws practically with impunity."

The maritime union's, the accounting office's and the justice department committee's warnings weren't generally heeded when voiced, but Secretary Hopkins presently noticed them and evidently thinks they're worth attention.

All of which recalls an "incident" in Washington to Norfolk. There's a line of boats plying between Washington, D. C., and Norfolk, Va.—up and down the Potomac river and across Chesapeake bay.

The trip, one way, is about 10 hours. Especially in summer it's a nice overnight cruise—cool, pleasant and not so crowded as a Pullman berth.

One evening, two or three years ago, a prominent Washington lawyer booked on one of these boats from the capital for the Virginia port.

He went aboard, had dinner in the dining saloon, spent a couple of hours in the smoking room, visiting with fellow passengers, drank a bottle or so of beer, then repaired to his stateroom to rest. In the morning a steward tapped at his door, to tell him that the vessel was nearing Norfolk—that he'd have just time to get up, dress, have breakfast and disembark.

Getting no response to repeated knocks, the steward finally peeked into the stateroom. The lawyer's raiment was scattered about, indicating that he hadn't gone on deck. The stateroom's porthole was open, suggesting that the traveler might have gone out that way. But why? If he'd done so, it followed that he must have drowned. Yet the idea that he'd committed suicide appeared ridiculous. He was prosperous, in good health, respected, had seemed perfectly normal in the smoking room the night before.

Sherlock Holmes Mystery. The question was raised, "Hadn't somebody snooped in and 'croaked' him, then shoved his remains out through that open port?" That mystery was never solved.

The Washington police naturally were interested, since the traveler had embarked on their jurisdiction. The Virginia police equally were concerned, since he'd intended to get off at their end of the line. Yet there was the possibility that the tragedy had occurred in Maryland waters; so the Free State coppers were all by the ears. It was an interstate matter likewise, dragging the G-men in.

And the bureau of navigation? That was right "under the gun." The groups combined. All their best sleuths collaborated.

They had just one hint at a clue. The stateroom adjoining the missing man's had been occupied by a woman. If there'd been a disturbance in a cabin adjoining her own, it seemed as if she'd have heard it, with only the thin partition between the two.

Another Mystery. The sleuths knew her name; she'd registered with the purser. But her address? That was a puzzle. They looked high, low, everywhere. No good.

At last they held a conference at the navigation bureau's headquarters in the Commerce building. At the beginning of this confab a woman appeared. "I'm Mrs. So-and-So," she said, referring to the missing woman. "I see by the papers that you're looking for me."

"Good go!" cried the investigators. "We've looked everywhere." "Did you look," asked the woman, "in the telephone book or the city directory?"

No, the woman didn't solve the problem. It would have been a wonderful mystery solution if she had.

Can't Forget That Face

Tucker Will Remember That Man at The New York Bar

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Harry's is a bar somewhere in New York. There is nothing to distinguish it from hundreds of other bars throughout the city. It is neither better nor worse than any of the others. Highballs cost 40c. Sandwiches cost 25c. The coffee is poor. There is an electric nickel-slot phonograph which plays records. The taste in ballads here runs to cowboy laments. The tablecloths and the napkins are blue and red checked. Nobody ever gets hurt in Harry's bar. Nothing ever happens there, as the doctor in Grand Hotel would say.

Several days ago a man came in about 2 p. m. and had a couple of beers. He kept looking at his watch. Pretty soon a friend joined him and they had another beer. After about ten minutes the friend said, "This next one is on me."

"I've got to be hurrying. I've got to meet my kid."

"I'll only take a minute—here, two beers."

So they had their beers, and the man got up and went away. He had to go somewhere and meet his kid.

I haven't the faintest idea who he is. But I would recognize him if I ever saw him again. He had a half-moon scar on his left cheek, and one of the fingers was missing from his left hand.

Next morning in the tabloids the picture of a strangely familiar face kept staring out of page three. He held the limp figure of a child in his arms. It was his "kid." She had run out against the light, and a truck got her.

In his new book, "A Smattering of Ignorance," Oscar Levant devotes a chapter to Harpo Marx which is titled, "Memoirs of a Mute." In it Levant relates his experiences with Harpo and how he once gave the comic a ticket to a Gershwin concert after Harpo had attempted vainly to crash the stadium. Harpo at once extended a warm invitation to Levant to visit him in Hollywood. When Oscar finally decided to accept, Harpo wired him that he had no room. Levant went anyway, but he and Harpo went for months without speaking.

Not far from this office is a display of old silver, some of it from the middle centuries. One item in particular that impresses is an ancient teapot with a handle made from a stag's antler. It came from Sherwood forest. No one knows the full history of the relic, but it was in use a couple of centuries before the Revolutionary war. An interesting paper could be written on all the people whose fingerprints have been momentarily recorded on that beaten old silver!

I just happened to think. I didn't get a single necktie for Christmas.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

Sound Effects Man Heard by Millions No Crowd Trouble

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Harry Balogh's left arm swept outward, palm up, in a generous gesture. He might have been giving away the Brooklyn Bridge or a barrel of apples.

"I start," he explained, "by saying 'ladies and—' then I hesitate. If my voice kicks back at me I know I'm talking too loud, so when I add 'gentlemen' I lower the pitch. You have to watch the acoustics and study the layout in this business."

Balogh is the sound effects man of the garden and numerous other cauliflower patches on fight nights.

He's the voice heard by millions over nation-wide hookups, the thin, high-pitched voice providing the overtone to the blended crowd noises and sharper ringside sounds: "And in this cobbler, wearing poeple trunks, and weighing one hundred and forty-eight pounds—"

For more than 20 years he has been popping in and out of rings to announce whatever needs announcing. He's the only man the late Joe Humphries would allow to sub for him, and since Humphries' death he's been the No. 1 man for all big New York shows.

But he doesn't consider himself just an announcer. No sir, he's a salesman.

"I sell the next show, build it up. I write out my script, and memorize it as I write it, and I know all the leading fighters, for instance—"

Here dapper Harry launched a rapid-fire build-up of a coming fight. His voice sailed along on an even keel, and superlatives splashed about like raindrops as he extolled the fighters. He doesn't spare the horses when he starts to ride, and a fighter described only as "the sensational title contender, whose courageous stand in this very ring won the respect and admiration of all," can consider himself slighted.

Harry neglected to say "outstanding."

"I used to call off the ticker reports on sports events in saloons when I was a kid," Harry says. "About 1920 the diamond belt hung up for the junior lightweight title by Tex Rickard, and won by Johnny Dundee, and won on display at Grupp's gym in Harlem."

"It was a Sunday afternoon and there was quite a crowd, so I thought it would be a good idea to take charge. I did such a good job that Dundee asked me why I didn't take up announcing. I did, and became the announcer for the Queensboro arena when it was opened shortly afterward."

"I've never had trouble with the crowds. Sometimes they'll yell from the gallery: 'Hey, take the marbles out of your mouth,' and then I know I'm not talking loud enough."

"I hold an A. A. U. announcer's card, but never charge anything to announce their boxing shows. I also have an official's license from the New Jersey commission."

"I think the biggest compliment paid me is for my diction and clarity. You must have a microphonic voice."

Harry is a master of redundancy. Nothing ever is big. It is mammoth, huge, colossal all at the same time, and when he climbs through the ropes, draws the microphone down in front of his mouth and holds up his script sheet, the customers know the dictionary is about to be cut into large sections and thrown at them.

But he gets the job done. He's a Dapper Dan in his neat tux and shining shoes, and he adds just that touch of class to a show which on occasion could use it. Class and adjectives.

Iowa's basketball team will open its second semester schedule against South Dakota State on the Hawkeye fieldhouse court Monday night.
Two weeks of rest from competition while preparing for and taking semester examinations are behind the squad. Coach Rollie Williams has been drilling the men mercilessly in hopes of attaining a whole-game pattern of play and less sporadic basket-hitting.

Expected to add greatly to Hawkeye strength this semester is 6-foot 6-inch Milt Kuhl, sophomore center from Ida Grove who attained sophomore status with the beginning of this term. Kuhl, although not slated to start the game, will undoubtedly see action Monday night.
Iowa will depend upon Vic Siegel, leading Hawkeye scorer, and Bill Wheeler, fast Newton lad, for much of its scoring.

Landis Offers Plan Proposes To 'Revolutionize' Player Transactions Between Clubs

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, offered today a plan that would revolutionize player transactions between major and minor league clubs.
Landis in a 3,000-word letter to all club owners proposed to clarify the situation resulting from his recent decision freeing 91 players from the Detroit Tigers' farm system.
It aims to establish for the players freedom of competition and the proper chance of advancement; for the clubs, equality of opportunity in acquiring players and for the minor leagues the assistance that they need and which critics of the recent Landis decision maintained are impossible without "farm" systems.
Landis' proposal is in no way an order to the club owners. In a brief preamble, the commissioner pointed out that his plan merely is a suggestion and a request is made upon all clubs, major and minor, to survey the proposal and submit views and suggestions as promptly as possible.
The commissioner has always regarded farm systems as "evil," and detrimental to the best interests of young ball players.
The fundamental objectives of the plan are:
1. The major and minor leagues to cooperate in acquiring, develop-

Davenport's ever-ready fast passing and accurate shooting offense carried them through another conference victory at the new gym last night, trouncing a never-say-die City high Hawkeye five, 32 to 21.

What the Blue Devils lacked in good basketball sense, they made up for with fight and unorthodox shooting—Iowa City couldn't cope with both of them on the same night. Just the same, the Little Hawks put up a game fight, more than making up for the twenty point swamping the Blue handed them at Davenport early in the season.
Bewildered by the powerful Blue Devil offense in the first half, Iowa City dropped behind 20 to 7, only to find their stride midway in the third quarter to outscore Davenport, 10 to 6. The initial advantage however was too much for the Red to make up and they dropped their fifth league decision.
Dick Culberson shared the scoring honors for Iowa City with Ray Sullivan, both dropping in 7 points. Culberson played his usual outstanding rebound game. Kenny Popp, the Davenport substitute for the ineffectual Dick Jensen, came through with 14 markers to lead the Blue Devil offense.
In the feature of the evening, the vastly improved City high sophomores took a well-earned, almost easy decision from Davenport, 28 to 19. The little Hawkeyes jumped into an early lead and were never in trouble.
All of the yearlings played the best ball of the year. Bob Roth dumped in 13 points from his center position to lead the scorers. Dave Danner sparked the team with his outstanding floor work.

the second for Greenberg in his seven seasons with the Tigers. When he came up from Detroit's Beaumont farm in 1933 as the Texas league's most valuable player, Hank shifted across the field for a trial at third base. He soon was installed at first base, however, replacing Harry Davis, and has kept the post through the years.

Armstrong Ready for Garcia

Armstrong Puts O. K. On Bout Feb. 2

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26 (AP)—Charley Mac Donald, matchmaker for the Hollywood Legion, reported receipt today of a wire from manager Eddie Mead approving a mid-weight fight here Feb. 22 between Mead's one-time triple champion, Henry Armstrong, and Cefirino Garcia.
Garcia is recognized as middle-weight titleholder in New York and California. Armstrong wears the world's welter crown.
Mead's wire said Armstrong would arrive Monday. Garcia is already here.
Armstrong earlier had declined to fight under the sponsorship of the American Legion post here because negroes were banned from the weekly boxing cards. The Legion last week lifted its bar.
That left only one possible hitch. Mike Jacobs, the New York fight promoter, has both Armstrong and Garcia under contract for fights there and has reported opposition to a west coast appearance. But Jerry Giesler, lawyer and chairman of the state boxing commission, says a local bout will not affect Jacobs' rights in the east.

Skaters Hope To Make New Marks Today

LA CROSSE, Wis., Jan. 26 (AP)—Fast ice, due to a long stretch of unusually cold weather, has improved prospects for several new records in the national ice skating championships opening here tomorrow.
Two-hundred red-cheeked boys and girls, including eight record holders, will be shooting at the marks in the two-day meet. To these hardy youngsters the forecast of continued cold weather is heartening. Cold weather, they point out, means fast ice. And the faster the ice, the better the chances for new marks.
Included in the record-breaking entry are seven of the eight members of the United States Olympic skating team, Leo Freisinger, Bob Heckenbach, Ed Schroeder and Al Kucera of Chicago; George Shimek of Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Chuck Leighton of Minneapolis, and Delbert Lamb of Milwaukee.
Maddy Horn, the national champion from Beaver Dam, Wis., heads the women's list. She expects sharpest competition from a pair of Minneapolis girls, Mary Dolan, 1935 title-holder and Louise Herou, intermediate division titlist of last year, who has graduated to the senior class.
Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis, who won the men's title last year, will defend his crown. Friesinger was the champion's chief competitor last year. He trailed Bartholomew in the final standings by 10 points.
Other national record holders to appear are Miss Horn, who holds the senior women's 220 yard mark jointly with Dorothy Franey of Minneapolis, and the mile record; Bud Handlan of St. Louis, intermediate boys' 440 yard title holder; George Hare of Amsterdam, N.Y., intermediate mile; Geraldine Bates of Minneapolis, intermediate girls' 200 yards and 400 yards; Louis Herou of Minneapolis, intermediate girls' 880 yards; Audren Naas of Minneapolis, junior girls' 220, 440 and 880 yards in the juvenile girls' 220 yard.

Minors In Trouble Ask Postponement Of Landis Edicts; Will Make Changes

DURHAM, N. C., Jan. 26 (AP)—William G. Bramham, head of baseball's minor leagues, tonight requested suspension of prohibitions against the farm system contained in a seven-point bulletin issued by Commissioner K. M. Landis January 15.
Bramham said many agreements had been made and many parks leased prior to issuance of the bulletin. He told Landis that efforts would be made to work out a plan meeting with Landis' approval for the future.
The text of Bramham's message to the commissioner, now in Florida:
"Earnestly desiring to reach some basis of operation that will meet with your approval and due to the late date of your bulletin, January 15, coming after many agreements have been made, contracts with players and parks entered into, and with my assurance and guarantee to you that every thoughtful consideration will be given to your recommendations for substitute for working agreement plan, I urge you to agree to suspension operation of prohibitions under your seven-point bulletin for season 1940."

Other national record holders to appear are Miss Horn, who holds the senior women's 220 yard mark jointly with Dorothy Franey of Minneapolis, and the mile record; Bud Handlan of St. Louis, intermediate boys' 440 yard title holder; George Hare of Amsterdam, N.Y., intermediate mile; Geraldine Bates of Minneapolis, intermediate girls' 200 yards and 400 yards; Louis Herou of Minneapolis, intermediate girls' 880 yards; Audren Naas of Minneapolis, junior girls' 220, 440 and 880 yards in the juvenile girls' 220 yard.

Golf Meet Spencer Leads In Crosby Open

DEL MAR, Cal., Jan. 26 (AP)—Cliff Spencer, a comparative "unknown" from Washington, D. C., won his way to golf glory today by leading the first half of the field in the opening round of Bing Crosby's fourth annual $3,000 pro-amateur open.
The tall, dark capital pro winding up his first try on California's winter golf circuit, turned in a 35-34—69 for the par 36-36—72 of the Rancho Santa Fe country club. The round was played under ideal weather conditions.

Wally Bergstrom To Undergo Operation

Wally Bergstrom, a tackle on the Hawkeye football team of 1939 and one of the famed "Iron Hawks," the Iowa 60-minute men, will enter university hospital soon to undergo a hernia operation.
Bergstrom, who had never played football until he reported for practice last spring, went out for football against the advice of doctors and without Dr. Eddie Anderson being aware of the hernia. He began his real competition in the Michigan game, after Jim Walker was injured, and played the Wisconsin, Purdue, Notre Dame and Minnesota games without relief.
Bill Diehl, center on the Iowa team last fall, is having a knee treated at the hospital.

Greenberg Accepts Contract Terms for '40 -- As Outfielder

DETROIT, Jan. 26 (AP)—Big Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tiger first baseman since the 1933 season, today accepted contract terms for 1940—in the role of an outfielder.
The 29-year-old slugger announced the decision here after conferring by telephone with Tiger owner Walter O. Briggs, who is wintering at Miami Beach, Fla. He said that "club officials feel the club will be strengthened if I play one of the outfield positions."
If Greenberg is able to make the change—and he expressed confidence that he would be a success as an outfielder—Rudy York will move to first base and George Tebbetts will be installed as first string catcher.
That arrangement may solve a problem that long has vexed manager Del Baker and Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane before him. Both Greenberg and York are long-range sluggers, and both are first basemen. York has done considerable catching for Detroit but never looked his best there. He also has played the outfield.
Terms of Greenberg's contract were not made public, but the Bronx Belter appeared well satisfied. Greenberg is one of baseball's highest salaried players.
In a formal statement, Greenberg said in part:
"I have been accused of being an individualist, but Del Baker and the club officials feel the club will be strengthened if I will play one of the outfield positions. I am going to show everyone I am a team player by going along with their ideas and feel confident that I will be a success as an outfielder."
"I owe much to the fans of this great baseball city and they can be assured I will be giving my best efforts at all times."
That remark that "I owe much to the fans" was generally interpreted as a gesture to placate Detroiters after a recent statement in which Greenberg declared he was mystified by the jeers he received at Briggs stadium last season.

Washington U. Officials, Kitts, Hold Conference

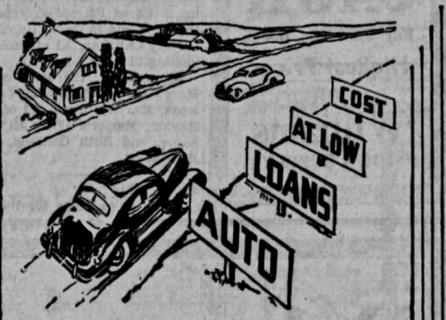

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Jimmy Kitts, former football coach at Rice Institute, whose teams won the Southwestern conference championship in 1934 and 1937, held a "get acquainted" meeting this afternoon with officials of Washington University.
The Missouri Valley conference school is seeking a successor to Coach Jimmy Conzelman, who resigned recently.
Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, former coach at Pittsburgh, conferred with university authorities last Sunday.
Under Kitts last season Rice won one game, tied one and lost seven. The wolves began howling for his scalp, and got it.

Seventy Five Students Will Have Roles in 'The Serenade'

Two Leads To Be Taken By I. C. Men

Opera To Be Given In Macbride Hall February 7, 9

Nearly 75 University of Iowa students will take part in the presentation of the Victor Herbert opera, "The Serenade," in Macbride auditorium Wednesday and Friday evenings, Feb. 7 and 9, at 8 p.m. each evening, it was announced yesterday by the university music department.

Rehearsals for the presentation of the comic opera are now entering the final stages with a picked cast of 50 principals and chorus supported by an orchestra of 25 chosen from the ranks of the University symphony orchestra, all under the direction of Prof. Herald Stark of the music department.

The stage direction will be in charge of Robert Whiteland, Iowa playwright and research assistant in the dramatic arts department.

One of Most Famous "The Serenade" is considered one of the five most famous of Herbert's operettas. Harry B. Smith, Herbert's greatest librettist, was at his wits' end when he wrote the plot and lines of "The Serenade."

The many hilarious situations as the plot unfolds, coupled with the tuneful and catchy melodies of Victor Herbert are irresistible.

Charlotte Braun, A4 of Muscatine, will play Dolores, the lead contralto; Virginia DeBuis, A2 of Melbourne, will handle the soprano role of Yvonne, and Donnasue Lohmeyer, G of Kansas City, Mo., is portraying the Mother Superior, a contralto part.

Leading Men's Parts Men with leading parts include Robert Blaylock, C3 of Council Bluffs, baritone, as Alverado; Robert Olds, A2 of Centerville, baritone, as the Duke; Keith Sutton, A3 of Fulton, baritone, as Romero; Arthur Connelly, C4 of Moline, Ill., bass, as Gomez; Keith Smith, F3 of Iowa City, tenor, as Lopez; Charles Hummer, C3 of Iowa City, tenor, as Colombo; Richard Fuson, G of Holyoke, Mass., baritone, as the Prior.

Tickets for "The Serenade" are on sale at room 105 of the music studio building, Williams Iowa Supply store, 8 S. Clinton, and the Whetstone Drug company, No. 1, corner of Washington and Clinton streets.

To Be Feted At Supper

Dr. Eddie Anderson, Kinnick To Be Guests Of University Club

Dr. Eddie Anderson and Nile Kinnick will be guests of honor at the football supper of the University club tomorrow at 6 p.m. in the river room of Iowa Union.

The program will include reviews of the football season at which Lee Cochran of the university visual education department will show pictures of all the Iowa games. Reservations should be made by this noon by calling at the Iowa Union main desk, ext. 327. There will be no guest fees for the supper.

7th Article in Series Explains Changes In Social Security Act

Editor's note: Every worker who has a social security account number card should know how the recent congressional changes in the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the social security act apply to him or her. For the benefit of readers of The Daily Iowan, the social security board's field office manager for this area has prepared a series of brief articles, each explaining one point of the new provisions. Following is the 17th of the series.

The federal old-age insurance system is similar to other plans. The worker pays a tax, as does his employer, to help pay the costs of the benefits which the worker will receive. In other words, he pays a premium on what might be called an insurance policy, which will pay benefits to him when he is 65 or more and to his family if he should die.

The old-age insurance tax paid by the worker is one per cent of his wages and for the employer it is also one per cent on the worker's wages. The employer deducts one per cent from the worker's wages and sends that with his own one per cent wage tax to the federal government.

The law provides that the employer shall give each worker a receipt for the taxes he takes out of his pay. He must furnish such receipt at least one a year or whenever a worker leaves his employ.

Nearly 47,000,000 workers now have accounts with the social security board. Each worker's account contains a record of his wages as reported by his employer every three months.

If a worker has reason to believe that a mistake has been made in his wage record or that all of his wages have not been reported, he should request from the social security board a statement of his wage total. Discrepancies which may thus be found in any wage earner's record will be corrected by the board.

Any worker can get a post card request form at the local post office of the social security board. All he has to do is fill in this form and mail it to the board, which will send him a statement showing the wages credited to his account.

prevent overflow from the Coralville reservoir would permit the development of a larger beach with more adequate swimming facilities and substantially increase areas suitable for natural fish propagation."

The letter was signed by Charles H. Maruth, president of the cottage corporation.

Iowa Citizens last night were looking toward the city council for an opinion regarding the subject.

Mayor Henry F. Willenbrock said no special meeting had been scheduled for issuance of an official statement.

Council Considers

The council was approached at its adjourned meeting last Monday night by Lawrence Stoewer, president of the Iowa City building trades council, and indicated a study would be made of the matter before any action is taken.

Stoewer, Vernon Stutzman, secretary of the Central labor union, and Everett Tompkins, all of Iowa City, had a visit with Governor Wilson in Des Moines and a preliminary interview with chamber of commerce officials and the city council here, all on Monday, stressing labor's misfortune if the $8,000,000 floated down the river and proved useful in another place.

The conservation commission had made its objection after consultation with engineers who studied the dam site. They had predicted three specific results:

- Objections
1. The vegetation of Lake Macbride state park would be ruined by back waters from the project reservoir and undesirable fish would be carried into the "made" lake.
 2. The waters would silt up the beach and would submerge the bath-house.
 3. Recreational value of the river in that area would be reduced.

The corporation based its opinion upon "careful consideration of reports from Col. C. P. Gross, United States district engineer, in charge of the proposed federal flood control project, and from the Iowa conservation commission, the board of trustees, representing the Cottage Reserve corporation at Lake Macbride state park."

The Building Trades council, which started the ball rolling last Monday, contended that such a project would create 500,000 man days of labor.

It stated, "the geological survey shows that it will restore the Iowa river valley water level which at the present time is far below normal and receding each year."

Petitions started in circulation throughout the city Wednesday will have 5,000 names attached before tonight, according to Stoewer. These requests, he said, will be either sent or taken by the labor committee to the governor.

Next Step
Labor leaders and other reliable sources last night looked to the conservation commission for the next step. A withdrawal of the opposition that body has offered, it was said, would virtually touch the cog to the wheel. Some said that if Governor Wilson is told by the attorney general he has the power to veto such objections, he will act one way or the other early next week.

The board of trustees of the Cottage Reserve corporation of Lake Macbride, which yesterday approved the proposition, includes Maruth, president, Iowa City; Vernon White, vice-president, Cedar Rapids; A. A. Welt, secretary-treasurer, Iowa City; C. Fred Larsen, Cedar Rapids, and E. A. Peterson, Iowa City.

The conservation commission is composed of Roscoe E. Stewart of Ottumwa, chairman; W. A. Bents of Cresco, Ralph E. Garberson of Sibley, E. B. Gaunitz of Lansing, J. D. Lowe of Algona, Mrs. Addison Parker of Des Moines and Fred J. Boyneer of Cedar Rapids.

Johnson County Republicans To Pay Respect to Lincoln

Lincoln Day Dinner To Be February 13

Committee Chairman Announces Change Of Date To Avoid Conflict

The Johnson county republicans respect the memory of Abraham Lincoln, but they admire Nile Kinnick, too. So arrangements have been made to honor them both next month.

Attorney Robert L. Larson, chairman of the republican central committee, announced last night that the fourth annual Lincoln day dinner, previously scheduled for Feb. 12, will be held instead on the evening of Feb. 13 in order to avoid a conflict in date with the all-Iowa banquet in honor of Nile Kinnick and the Iowa football team and coaching staff.

The football celebration is to be held in the main lounge of Iowa Union starting at 5:30 p.m., sponsored by the Quarterback club, the junior and senior chambers of commerce, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs.

Attorney Larson said tickets for the Lincoln day dinner, selling at 65 cents a plate, may be had by contacting any member of the republican central committee of the county. He said 500 invitations have been sent throughout the county as well as to Iowa, Cedar, Washington and Muscatine counties.

The Lincoln day dinner will be held in the main dining room of the Jefferson hotel. Several postponing announcements possibly including aspirants for nomination on the local republican ticket with an eye to the June primaries will be made at the banquet.

Mrs. H. J. Mayer, in charge of the arrangements committee, is expected to announce the personnel of her group within a few days.

Highlight of the evening will be an address by State Sen. A. J. Shaw of Pocahontas.

Attorney Larson said more than 250 are expected to attend. Invitations, he said, have been addressed to both men and women.

Plan Funeral Service For A. Saunders

Funeral service for Alicia Saunders, 73, who died at Mercy hospital yesterday morning, will be held at St. Patrick's church at 9 a.m. Monday. She will be buried in St. Joseph's cemetery.

She was born in Iowa City and made her home here for the duration of her lifetime.

Survivors include one brother, Herbert Saunders of Rochester, Minn.; one sister, Mary Saunders, Iowa City; seven nieces, one nephew, two grand nieces and two grand nephews.

The body is at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

670 Voters Get Warning

Iowa Citizens Must Re-Register After Lapse of Four Years

Six hundred seventy Iowa citizens were notified by mail yesterday they would have to re-register if they expect to vote at the next election.

According to section 718-b14 of the Code of Iowa, those persons' rights to vote have been challenged due to the fact that they have not voted in the past four years.

"In order to remove such challenge and be eligible to vote at the next election," city officials said, "those persons must register at the city clerk's office before the election."

Winifred Otto Files Petition for Divorce

Winifred Otto filed a petition for divorce from Paul S. Otto yesterday in district court, charging the defendant with cruel and inhuman treatment.

The plaintiff also requested the custody of two minor children and asked that the defendant be ordered to pay for their support.

The couple was married June 27, 1926, in Waterloo.

Frank H. Carson Files Petition For Divorce Yesterday

Frank H. Carson filed a petition in Johnson county district court yesterday asking a divorce from Mabel Lachna Carson, charging her with cruel and inhuman treatment.

The couple was married in Iowa City Sept. 27, 1939, and lived together until December of that same year.

Burke N. Carson is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Jeanette Holoubek, F. Vogel To Be Married This Morning

Ceremony Will Be Solemnized at 8 A. M. At St. Mary's Church

The wedding of Jeanette Holoubek, daughter of Mrs. C. M. Holoubek, 814 E. Market, to Frank A. Vogel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Vogel of Malcom, will be solemnized this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's church.

The Rev. Lawrence Vogel of Ft. Madison, brother of the bridegroom, will officiate at the nuptial mass. It will be a double ring ceremony.

The bride will wear a gown of white mousseline-de-sole made on colonial lines with leg-of-mutton sleeves. Her finger tip, three tiered veil will fall from a wreath of orange blossoms. She will carry a shower bouquet of white carnations and sweetpeas and the white prayer book which her mother carried when she was married.

Attendants

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Vogel of Malcom will be the attendants. Mr. Vogel is the brother of the bridegroom and Mrs. Vogel is the sister of the bride.

Mrs. Vogel's dress will be of bridesmaid's blue lace and net over a satin slip. She will carry a bouquet of pink carnations and sweetpeas and will wear a wreath of sweetpeas and rosebuds on her head.

Ushers will be George Holoubek of Iowa City, cousin of the bride, and Raymond Vogel of Malcom.

The bride's and bridegroom's mothers will both be attired in blue silk and will wear corsages of sweetpeas and jonquils.

Chrysanthemums

White chrysanthemums will decorate the altar and palms will flank the sanctuary entrance. During the mass Francis Redy of Manchester will sing "O Lord I Am Not Worthy" and Rosewig's "Ave Maria". Zita Fuhrmann will be the organist.

After the ceremony the bridal party will be entertained at a wedding breakfast and reception at Park's tearoom. The table will be decorated with pink rosebuds and smilax.

Out of town guests expected for the wedding include Mrs. W. H. Woltman of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Vogel, Raymond Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mehlin and Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Vogel all of Malcom; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vogel of Grinnell; Elizabeth Vogel of Des Moines; Loretta Maley and Louis Vogel of Waterloo; Mrs. Anna Dvorak and the Rev. R. J. Kinnavey of Davenport; Mr. and Mrs. A. Gill of Gilman; the Rev. Walter Boeckmann of Lone Tree and the Rev. Lawrence Vogel of Ft. Madison.

University Graduate Miss Holoubek attended St. Mary's high school and was graduated from the university. She
