50 Die, 200 Injured As Russian Units Attack Naval Base

HELSINKI, Jan. 29 (AP)—Russian warplanes, winging their way out of the southeast in waves, rained more than 1,000 bombs on southern Finnish cities today and first reports indicated that scores of civilians had been killed and wounded.

The raids, the worst of the war in some sections, came as Finns cheered news of fresh successes on the front north of Lake Ladoga, where the Russians were officially reported to have left more than 1,200 dead on two snowy battlefields.

Hanko, Turku, Provoo and Tampere were among the cities which felt the power of the Russian air armadas.

Naval Base Bombed (Reuters, British news agency, said more than 50 persons were killed and 200 injured at Hanko, south coast naval base.)

At Turku, residents crouched in shelters for three hours as 50 Russian bombers, swooping down out of the clouds with their engines cut, gave the city its worst bombing in 53 raids during eight weeks of war.

Thirty civilians were killed at Turku, and 10 buildings were demolished. The fleets of warplanes left clouds of smoke in their wake from the fires that sprang up from incendiary bombs.

The Russian planes flew over the city in five waves, looting their cargoes of death on each trip.

Hospital Blasted Twenty-three persons, four of them women, were killed when a squadron of Soviet warbirds dropped through low clouds and blasted a field hospital in a tiny village behind the Karelian isthmus front.

Seventeen of those killed were wounded soldiers and the remainder were hospital attendants. Five other patients managed to crawl to safety as the explosions turned the building into a blazing inferno.

Residents of Helsinki were driven to cover four times by the approach of Russian planes, but each time the raiders were beaten off by Finnish pursuit planes and anti-aircraft fire.

One of the Russian craft was shot down on the outskirts of the city and its crew of three killed.

Fifteen bombers, accompanied by pursuit planes, also were driven off in an attempt to raid Karja, 80 miles northeast of Hanko.

Full details of casualties in today's raids were not immediately available, but it appeared certain they would exceed the total toll for last week, which a review of air activity listed at 24 killed and 56 wounded.

The review said the Russians had "set a record in bombing hospitals," asserting that eight, "clearly marked with the international emblem," had been bombed and machine-gunned last week.

Commission Will Act on Dam Project February 9

By ARTHUR BELLAIRE Daily Iowan City Editor

Another chapter in the story of the proposed $6,000,000 Coralville dam project will be written at a meeting of the Iowa conservation commission at Des Moines next Tuesday, Fred J. Poyner of Cedar Rapids, a commission member, told The Daily Iowan last night.

Poyner said the commission would reconsider its objection to the federal government's flood control program if some provision could be made to satisfy their original contentions that Lake Macbride and Lake Macbride State Park would be damaged considerably.

Review Letters He said a recent letter from the Cottage Reserve corporation of Lake Macbride as well as other letters and telegrams would be discussed in search of suggestions to remedy the anticipated difficulties.

The commission seemed last night to be the final judge in the fate of the dam project. The governor was advised Saturday that neither he nor the state executive council will have authority to prevent the construction of the proposed flood control reservoir.

It was to the governor that the Iowa City Building Trades council had addressed its petitions bearing upwards of 5,000 names urging approval of the project. Saturday however labor officials said they were changing the address to the conservation commission.

Supporters The Iowa City junior and senior chambers of commerce also have gone on record in favor of the project.

Members of the city council yesterday hesitated to stamp official approval until an extensive study of the loss of land and reimbursements the federal government would allow landowners.

The Cottage Reserve corporation had ended its dispatch to the commission with the following statement: "The increased area of the lake which should result from any adequate protection designed to prevent overflow from the Coralville reservoir would permit the development of a larger beach with more adequate swimming facilities and substantially increase areas suitable for natural fish propagation."

Poyner, in announcing the date of the meeting last night, declined to predict the possibility of a withdrawal of objection but said the commission would stand by its objection if no plan could be devised to remedy the ultimate resulting conditions around the lake and the park.

Japan, England Continue Argument of Ship's Search

TOKYO, Jan. 29 (AP)—Publication tomorrow of the British reply to Japan's protest against seizure of 21 Germans from the liner Asama Maru probably will be accompanied by a foreign office "refutation" outlining the Japanese viewpoint, Tokyo newspapers said tonight.

The foreign office was expected to contend that search of neutral vessels traveling between neutral ports is "quite unusual" under international law, and to reiterate that only belligerents can be removed from vessels at sea.

While Japan prepared a second protest, the case assumed the scope of a major political and international incident.

There were indications the rightists might press the government either to obtain a redress or resign. The foreign office was expected to contend Britain's action was unfriendly because it was taken so near Japan.

The second protest was expected to demand an apology or the return of the Germans—all merchant seamen of military age seized Jan. 21 when a British warship fired a warning shot across the Asama Maru's bows 35 miles off Yokohama.

Court Upholds N. Y. Tax

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Over the vehement objections of supreme court Chief Justice Hughes, the supreme court decided today that New York City can apply its 2 per cent sales tax to goods from outside the state without violating the commerce clause of the federal constitution.

The 5 to 3 opinion was considered of national import because of the agitation for and against sales taxes in recent years. While the majority held that the tax did not infringe upon the federal government's constitutional control over interstate commerce, Hughes, writing the dissent, declared that it burdened such commerce and was a blow to the "free national market" which is "vital" to the national economy.

In another case the tribunal decided that the courts cannot supervise the administrative operations of the federal communications commission. This was a unanimous decision with the notion that "Mr. Justice McReynolds concurs in the result."

Courts are not charged with general guardianship against all potential mischief in the complicated tasks of government," said the opinion, by Justice Frankfurter. "Congress which creates and sustains these agencies must be trusted to correct whatever defects experience may reveal. Interference by the courts is not conducive to the development of habits of responsibility in administrative agencies."

The New York tax, a two per cent levy for unemployment relief, was upheld in three cases but the controlling opinions were written in one involving the Berwind-White Coal Mining company, a Pennsylvania corporation which mines coal in that state and sells it to consumers in New York through its

German Planes Drop Bombs On British Merchant Ships

Nazi Craft Range For 400 Miles Off East Coast of England

By EDWIN STOUT

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP)—German warplanes ranged wide across the North sea today to pepper bombs and bullets against 13 British and one Latvian merchant vessels scattered for 400 miles off and down the east coast of the British Isles.

British sources suggested tonight that the nazis had gambled with bitter weather in the hope that fighter planes would be grounded and unable to cope with an aerial attack in force.

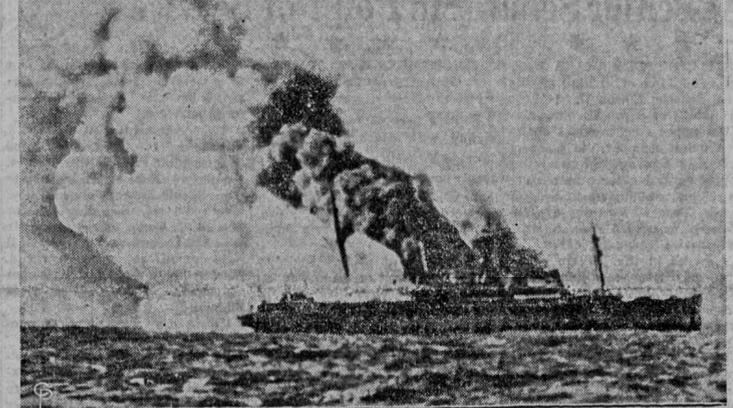

Although British railways and road transportation was tied up by the weather into the worst snarl in history, royal air force fighters were able to rise from their airbases in sufficient numbers to protect vital shipping lanes.

While some German bombers struck at shipping others reconnoitered over land. On the northeast coast air raid warnings were sounded as far as 40 miles inland. Thousands of persons crowded into shelters, schools were vacated and factories and shipbuilding yards were deserted.

The British said the German bombers, most of them Heinkel 11k models, were able to elude fast British fighters because of great masses of low clouds.

(The Germans announced in Berlin that seven "enemy" convoys armed merchant ships and two patrol boats" had been destroyed during reconnaissance flights over the North sea, that one enemy pursuit ship had been shot down near Hartlepool and that all German planes returned safely.)

Scuttled by Nazis as British Draw Near

The Watussi, 9,521 tons, is pictured burning off Cape Point, South Africa, another Nazi sea suicide. A British patrol plane had sighted her. The captain opened the sea cocks and set the vessel afire. All aboard were reported rescued.

Polish Group Brings Charges in Pamphlet At Vatican City

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Polish embassy at the Vatican today circulated a pamphlet charging that the authorities of German-occupied sections of Poland sought to "exterminate" Catholic Poles by mass shooting, expulsions from their homes and religious persecution.

"It is a real extermination, conceived with diabolic malice and carried out with unequalled cruelty," it said.

Embassy officials said the pamphlet was based on reports which came to the Vatican from August Cardinal Hlond, primate of Poland, and which have reached Pope Pius XII. The reports were collected by priests, it was indicated.

England May Soothe U. S. Irritation Over German Blockade

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—There are growing indications that Great Britain will take measures to soothe the irritation in the United States over the conduct of her blockade of Germany.

No formal assurances have been received to this effect, but there is reliable information that Britain will seek to avoid taking any more American ships into the "combat area" which was closed to them by the neutrality act.

The American freighter Mormacsun was sent to Kirkwall, within the area, three weeks ago, and the state department then released an earlier note to Britain protesting just such type of action.

The British are also toying with the idea of establishing a control port in Canada.

CIO Leader Hits Business

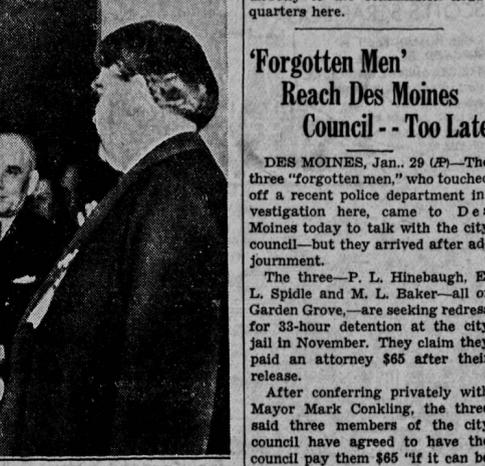

Asks President To Call Conference On Labor Problem

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29 (AP)—John L. Lewis pictured Secretary Frances Perkins as "woozy in the head" today and accused big business of failing to cooperate with labor to solve unemployment.

The United Mine Workers convention, listing the jobless as the No. 1 problem of the country, then urged President Roosevelt to call together leaders in labor, business, industry and agriculture to devise a solution—a proposal repeatedly advocated by the CIO.

Lewis, head of the mine workers and the CIO, expressed "contempt" for those "who refuse to raise their hands to relieve the distress of the unemployed."

A Vote of Confidence

At the United Mine Workers Convention in Columbus, Ohio, nothing was said on the question of whether John L. Lewis would back Senator Wheeler (left) in Presidential race, as it has been constantly rumored. Here they are shaking hands after the Montana senator addressed the golden jubilee convention.

'Forgotten Men' Reach Des Moines Council -- Too Late

DES MOINES, Jan. 29 (AP)—The three "forgotten men," who touched off a recent police department investigation here, came to Des Moines today to talk with the city council—but they arrived after adjournment.

The three—P. L. Hinebaugh, E. L. Spidle and M. L. Baker—all of Garden Grove—are seeking redress for 33-hour detention at the city jail in November. They claim they paid an attorney $65 after their release.

Poison Death Charge Filed

DUBUQUE, Jan. 29 (AP)—An information charging Anton Beckman, 48-year-old farm hand, with the poison murder of his employer was filed late this afternoon in justice of the peace M. P. Hogan's court by county attorney John L. Duffy.

Beckman, meanwhile, remained in the county jail, where he has been confined since his arrest Friday.

With Your Coffee

ELSEWHERE on this page today is the first in a series of informal columns of comment on current affairs, evolved over coffee cups and designed to be read over cups of coffee.

"Good Morning" will have the reverse of the political columnists, but will seek to keep away from the restraint of formal editorials.

In greeting you, "Good Morning," The Daily Iowan presents again one of its most popular editorial columns—which last appeared under the editorship of Don Pryor in the spring of 1935.

American Bombs For China

"Japan is the United States' third best customer, out-ranked only by the United Kingdom and Canada. Japan is the biggest taker of the United States' biggest export crop, cotton. Japan is second among buyers of petroleum in the United States. As a purchaser of U. S. wood pulp, and of gum rosin, Japan ranks first. Of machinery and vehicles, chemicals, non-metallic minerals, metals and other manufactures, Japan is a big buyer. Its trade favors favorably many states, and particularly those on the Pacific coast."

All this—and more—is true of Japan. The loss of Japanese trade, which is sure to come if the United States applies embargoes as it can now do since the expiration of the trade treaty last Friday, would be a loss that the South particularly would feel.

More than 70 per cent of United States exports to Japan are materials used in war—$171,574,167 of the $239,620,000 annual total.

Advocates of an embargo on the export of American products to Japan believe that if we stop sending petroleum to Japan, Japanese ships will be curtailed in their bombings over China. They believe that if American iron and steel and scrap iron is not shipped to Japan, Japanese munitions factories will have to curtail their production to an extent that the war on China will be made ineffective.

Fighting for an ideal with shipping regulations is not a new way of international relations. It is one that the United States may well use with thorough justification against the rising Nipponese empire.

The Union—In Reverse

IF THERE is anything that we Americans are proud of, it is the "United" in the title United States of America.

We are fond of pointing out that if Europe could only become one country instead of a group of independent nations there might be more chance for peace over there. We realize that the only reason this country has won a place in world affairs is because the colonies had sense enough (or were forced by economic and political pressure) to unite.

And yet, despite the constitution, there are today actual tariff barriers between our states. "Ports of entry" laws have been used to get around the constitutional protection. Certain fruits, vegetables and dairy products of one state are kept out of others by "inspection" fees, "quality" regulations, and such devices.

There is cigarette smuggling from New Jersey to New York and liquor smuggling between other states. "Use taxes" have been devised by some states which are actually nothing more than means of collecting a sales tax for State A on sales made in State B. The list of examples could take up many pages.

Is this unity or is it a trend toward disintegration? Hadn't we better think of the possible consequences of a maze of petty tariff barriers between the states?

The Supreme Court's Decision

The fight against interstate trade barriers received a setback in yesterday's supreme court ruling. The fact that the court decided that New York City can apply its two per cent sales tax to goods from outside the state without violating the commerce clause of the federal constitution does not, however, settle the matter.

Being constitutional will not be enough to cause the type of legislation which splits the 48 states into separate units to be well received by the public. Even though such taxes are being fought by companies which do interstate business, it is more important that they are being fought by people who like to see evidence of unity in the union.

Sales taxes, which were passed upon by the supreme court, are only one type of the barrier taxes which states are imposing. All, whether they are a direct violation of the constitution or not, must be stricken from the statute books, as some have been already in a few states.

We agree with Chief Justice Hughes in protesting the court's decision.

"We have the duty of maintaining the immunity of interstate commerce as contemplated by the constitution. That immunity still remains an essential buttress of the union."

Wonder if the Finns appreciate all that magnificent publicity Joe Stalin has gratuitously given them?

People who live in trailers make good neighbors, says an editorial. At least, they are not always borrowing your snow shovel.

GOOD MORNING

By JAMES FOX AND BILL BARTLEY

PUBLIC OPINION polls are as well-known to Americans today as are the Sunday night radio programs or the latest episode in the lives of Blondie and Dagwood.

Every week we are told what we, as a people, think about some question currently a matter of controversy. Through these scientific polls our favorite color of neckwear and our choice for the White House in 1940 are neatly catalogued.

The only trouble is that often the results of the polls are misleading as to what will actually happen. Why?

Well, while the man on the street will cheerfully answer questions as to what he thinks of an important bill about to be presented to congress, he'll probably not take any action to bring about the adoption of the side he favors. If pushed far enough, he'll sign a petition to congress or send a letter to his senator, but that's the limit of positive action. In most cases, he'll never take the trouble to find out how his congressman did vote on the measure, and he'll forget it by next election if he does find out.

Lethargy is hard to provide for in public opinion polls.

Then, too, concentrated minorities often dictate the course of events, especially in legislatures. Many of these minorities are acting honestly. The point is, they simply make their desires heard while the majority pays little attention to what is being done.

Finally, legislative action may differ from that desired by a majority because of honest compromises by our representatives. Perhaps, for example, 60 per cent of the American voters feel that we should spend two billion dollars the next year and that this amount should be divided equally between national defense, public works administration, and assistance to the farmers. For strategic reasons, this may emerge from the complicated machinery of legislation as three billion dollars, divided as follows—60 per cent for national defense, 20 per cent for certain phases of PWA and none for other phases, 15 per cent for farm aid, and five per cent for social security. Congressmen representing the majority may think it wiser to compromise with those representing the minority than to have all or part of the program blocked for that session.

Public opinion polls have no way of gauging the lethargy of those polled, the possible compromises of legislators, or the degree of pressure by lobbyists. So they often call their shots wrong.

Nevertheless great progress has been made in this business of polling the public. The straw vote system of a decade ago was hit-and-miss and depended on "snow-storm" distribution. Then along came a young man, Dr. George Gallup, with a selective scientific system of polling a much smaller, more representative group with non-leading, non-prejudicial questions presenting clear issues. He had worked out the foundation for his American Institute of Public Opinion as a project for a Ph.D. degree at the University of Iowa.

Since that time public opinion polls have earned a new place in the business of reporting to the public. They are valuable research data, and they point out significant trends. Don't dismiss them as unimportant because later events seem to prove them wrong. Remember there are variables in the picture which can't be polled.

'Cotton Ed' Smith Succeeds 'Idaho Lion' As Senior Senator in Point of Service

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH (The Lion of Idaho) being gone, Senator Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith of South Carolina now is the upper congressional chamber's oldest member, in point of service—not in age; in the latter respect several other senators are his seniors, running up to Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, at considerably past 80. Cotton Ed is a comparative youngster of 76. But he's served in the senate since 1909—only two years less than Borah.

Senator Borah's legislative interests always were quite different from Senator Smith's. For one thing, Borah was a Republican—a very irregular one, but he stuck persistently to the G. O. P. label. Smith never has been anything but a dyed-in-the-wool southern Democrat—though I wouldn't say he'd been an enthusiastic New Dealer. And foreign affairs were Borah's special concern. That is to say his whole idea was to keep Uncle Sam out of foreign complications.

It will be recalled that he was one of the principal opponents of President Wilson's plan to get the United States into the league of nations. He was chairman of the senate's foreign relations committee while his party was in a senate majority, and since the chamber's majority has been Democratic, he's remained as the committee's senior G. O. P. member—and pretty influential.

However, foreign relations are our outstanding problem today. Senator Key Pittman is the upper house's chairman on that subject, and Pittman, of course, is a Roosevelt administrationist. Borah wasn't. F. D.'s an isolationist, to be sure, but not with the energy that Borah was.

Now Borah, as senior Republican (minority member of the senate's foreign relations committee, is succeeded by Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California as senior Republican member of the committee. Hiram and Borah were side-kicks in the fight against American participation in the League of Nations. Others helped them, but they were the two original veterans. Johnson is the last-man senatorial survivor.

Against the War Quite a few senators voted against going into the war of 1914. Senators Robert M. LaFollette (the elder), Borah, Johnson and others did so. So did Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska. He says he's through—at his age. He'll retire at his present term's end. He was against the last war—but at present? This thing involves Finland.

Plenty of original American pacifists are pro-Finns. Senator Johnson, as ranking minority member of the foreign relations group, will be an even more formidable character in the upper legislative chamber than he has been hitherto, and he has been classed as a heavyweight for a long time. Though on the minority side, he counts substantially. As an isolationist, he's the limit. For instance, he objects to the kind of neutrality the Rooseveltians believe in and today have on Uncle Sam's statute book. The Californian thinks it allows the president too much latitude. What he favors is the air-tight article.

Borah's death leaves a Republican vacancy on the senate's foreign relations committee. Predictions are that Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota will get the place. He's as much of an isolationist as Borah was and as Johnson is.

Little Old New York-- It's Everything From Babe Ruth To A Tulip Bulb

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Well, as you know, I'm not John Kieran, or Franklin P. Adams, or Oscar Levant, but if you must ask questions, here goes: What is New York? All rock and wisecracks, mister, and Time. It's a red fox lapping at Minetta Brook, and a gull's cry—a Half Moon ship with a high-built poop, and Henry Hudson. It's a string of beads, and a naked Indian saying "Manhattan" to a fat Dutchman in pantaloons who wants to know, "How much?"

New York is a tulip bulb, and an arrow flint. It's a lobster claw in a fisherman's net, and a turkey feather. There are a few wooden shacks. . . There are a few wild lean dogs. . . The pigs root in the streets, and the well-fed traders from Amsterdam sit in the candle-lit taverns. The bungs from the wine casks drip all night. . .

After a while the English come and yell "Tallyho," and the tulip bulb becomes a saddle of mutton. . . and a new York, yes, sir, a brand new York is named in honor of an older, a much older, York.

This means Burgoyne, and Cornwallis, and a bloody footprint in the snow. It's Stony Point. It's the Dove tavern, but you'd better hurry; they're hanging Major Andre in the morning. It's Washington. It's a flag, and a fire, and a drum. . . There is, eventually, a dirty little cow-path of a street which, for some reason, they call Broadway.

This is Washington Irving's town, and Walt Whitman's, and Poe's. There are Tories, and Whigs, and Abolitionists who pray for John Brown's soul. If you walk South street in the black of the moon you can see a Slaver. . . You can see Irish adventurers, and actors, and black-robed priests. You can even read an editorial in the newspapers which call Lincoln a fool, although the townspeople themselves don't think Lincoln's a fool. The younger men take him at his word, and "sign up." They get brand new rifles that make their shoulders sore, and new boots that leave blisters on their feet, and they march off gaily towards a nightmare called Bull Run.

They run fast for awhile, but they catch their breath and come back again, and after a while, they don't run any more. . . They find a fellow who knows what to do, and he does it. And if you go up on Riverside drive you can find his tomb, although I have always thought that Ulysses S. Grant should be buried in Ohio, not in New York.

With sophomore Paul Siglin in the nurse's role, Iowa's cagers were off to a drastic case of the post-exam jitters last night to edge out South Dakota State at the Iowa fieldhouse, 24-23. A pair of quick baskets as the final moments ticked away were the medicine that snapped the evening long-sickness just when things looked the darkest.

Up until that time, with their shooting bad, their passing ragged and, all-in-all, their floor play miles removed from what is called a consistent game, the Hawkeyes were on the losing end in a slow contest. Just two minutes before the final gun was due the Hawks trailed by three points.

Their sudden recovery, with Siglin dropping in a long one and then dribbling half the length of the floor for a tip-in shot, made up the three-point deficit and added the single necessary counter.

Moving out at the start against the slower invaders, the Hawkeyes grabbed a four-point lead on two buckets by Bill Wheeler and then made it 7-4 on a field goal and free throw by Vic Siegel after Thornton had scored for the enemy. Outspeeding the invaders, he held back by their own erratic ball handling, the Hawks, nevertheless, increased their margin to eight points at 13-6. Fergen and Laur dropped in a bucket apiece to shorten the margin to the low halftime score of 13-10.

Beginning the final half, the invaders counted six points on buckets by Laur and Thornton, coupled with charity tosses by Laur and Billington. The Hawks slowed things down momentarily, but Thornton, Oddy and Laur collaborated to boost the South Dakota State margin to six points at 22-16.

With Iowa beginning to come out of the temporary trance, Tommy Lind and Rudy Soderquist counted from the floor, Billington scored on a free throw for the invaders and Siglin ended the excitement with the winning buckets, the final one a minute before the game's end.

Siglin, with three buckets and a charity toss, matched Laur of South Dakota for top scoring honors at seven points. Vic Siegel, with six markers, trailed the two leaders.

Co. G Wins Over Moose

With a fourth quarter scoring spree, Co. G stayed in the thick of the fight for the city title by whipping the Moose 34 to 26 in the second game of a double bill played at the community building last night. Miller's easily won over Royal Cafe 34 to 12 in the opener.

Using the same tactics that they have employed in the last three games, the soldiers again sifted through the opponent's defense to put the game on ice in the closing minutes. Vic Belger and Joe Maher formed the nucleus of a fast break, which caught the tired Moose team flat-footed, and won the game for Co. G. Walt Brown scored 8 points earlier in the game to help the guardsmen keep up with Dean Shannon and his mates. Al Miller was the spark plug in a 4-lop-sided victory over Royal Cafe. Miller tallied 10 points during the encounter, with Jim Jones adding 6 more to the winners' total.

St. Mary's Will Meet C. R. Team

St. Mary's mighty Ramblers hope to cut another victory notch in their basketball gun as they meet St. Wenceslaus at 7:50 tonight on the old City high floor.

The Ramblers have been enjoying a five-day rest since the sound lashing that they dealt the local St. Pat's five last Wednesday. They are expected to be in perfect shape tonight, and are promising to show Iowa City fans some of the finer points of net swishing.

The invading Rapids outfit has hopes even though the record has been marked with frequent defeats, losing to both Irish teams, St. Pat's of Cedar Rapids and St. Pat's of Iowa City.

Against the Parlor City team, Coach Francis Suetzel will start his front court speed merchants, "Flicker" Chadek, and Tony Brack. Ray Cole will be at his usual step-ladder post, with Bock and Eakes in charge of defense.

It might look like a push-over, but the game isn't won yet and this is the sort of team to beware of.

Benny McCoy Signs With A's

Gets $45,000 Bonus; Signs For 3 Years

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 29 (AP)—Benny McCoy, 23-year-old infielder who was granted free agency from the Detroit Tigers, today accepted terms offered by Connie Mack and became the property of the Philadelphia Athletics.

McCoy received a $45,000 bonus for signing with the Athletics—and a three-year playing contract for $10,000 a season. The deal was negotiated by Earle Mack, son of the 77-year-old Philadelphia manager.

In going to the Athletics, McCoy added a sequel to a Detroit-Philadelphia transaction in which the infielder and Pitcher George Coffman were traded by Detroit for Outfielder Wally Moses. The deal was later nullified by Commissioner K. M. Landis' decision making free agents of McCoy and 80 other players controlled by the Detroit club.

Mack said Dick Seibert, with the A's last year, would be at first base again, McCoy at second, Bill Lillard, a recruit from San Francisco, at shortstop, and Al Rubeling, a rookie from Atlanta, at third base.

Incidentally, Philadelphia paid Atlanta $35,000 for Rubeling.

The Brooklyn Dodgers withdrew from the bidding for McCoy when their dynamic president, Larry MacPhail, a native of Grand Rapids, sent McCoy a telegram explaining that he thought it was in the best interests of the Dodgers and Benny that he go with some other club.

The Boston Bees, of the National league, and Washington, of the American, were not interested in topping the Philadelphia and Cincinnati offers, McCoy said.

McCoy was utilized at third base, second base, shortstop and in the outfield during his four years in the minors before joining Detroit midway of the 1939 season.

Results of Thomas Querying Postponed
CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Illinois state athletic commission postponed today announcing the results of its investigation into published charges by Heavyweight Harry Thomas that he engaged in "fake" fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento, until Feb. 5. Chairman Joseph E. Triner did not say why the announcement was postponed.

Nate Lewis, Thomas' manager, and Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling and Galento, and Galento himself, have denied the charges.

Zale Whips Al Hostak

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (AP)—Tony Zale, rugged product of the Gary, Ind., steel mills, scored a surprising upset victory tonight when he decisively defeated Al Hostak, Seattle, recognized as middleweight champion by the National Boxing association, in a bruising 10-round battle in Chicago stadium.

Hostak, rated as a devastating puncher, was in full retreat the last three rounds and appeared to be helpless. His handlers claimed he injured his left hand in the fifth round.

Hostak floored Zale with a left to the jaw in the first round. Zale jumped up without taking a count and had difficulty in weathering Hostak's blistering two-fisted attack in the first two sessions. Then Zale began to swarm all over his opponent.

De Correvont Denies Dissension Rumor

EVANSTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Bill De Correvont, Northwestern university's famous young halfback, described as "silly" and "preposterous" today reports that he had read the riot act to the school's coaching staff.

A radio commentator last night said De Correvont had informed head Coach Lynn Waldorf that he would quit school if they didn't get a new backfield coach of his own choosing.

De Correvont said he was at a complete loss to explain how such a report got started.

First Base Is Home for Rudy York; Tigers To Move Greenberg to Outfield

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Jan. 29 (AP)—It'll be old home week for hefty, hard-knocking Rudy York when he shifts from catching to first basing on the Detroit baseball club.

Asked what he thought of news reports that long Hank Greenberg would go into the outfield in the 1940 Tiger lineup to make room for the Georgian at first, York grinned widely, and said:

"It's mighty fine. I like it mighty well. I'll feel more at home over there. I believe it's my spot."

The records back the six-foot, 210-pound slugger because it was at that position that he won most valuable player award both with Beaumont of the Texas league and Milwaukee in the American association.

York admitted he always had wanted the Detroit first base job but "how could I get over there with Hank hitting the ball into the next county and fielding just a little under George Sisler?"

The Detroit management couldn't figure, either, for a quite a spell and shifted the weak-fielding wallop from catcher to third to outfield and back to catch again before finally deciding to cut the Gordian knot by moving Hankus Pankus.

York, 26, believes the move will lengthen his span in the majors and improve his batting. In addition, hopefully, "it should mean that I won't be bothered with any more broken fingers and thumbs. I had two last year."

Miss Amory, who competed in foreign tournaments for several years, equalled par 40 on the first nine and bettered regulation figures by two shots with another 40 coming back.

Sutherland Signs Contract To Coach Brooklyn Dodgers

Former Pitt Mentor Had Great Record In College Football

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 29 (AP)—Dan Topping, owner of the Brooklyn football Dodgers, announced today Dr. John B. Sutherland, former Pitt coach, had agreed to coach the Dodgers for three years at an undisclosed salary, believed to be $10,000 or $12,000 a year.

Smiling broadly, the millionaire Topping said he was "tickled to death" to get Sutherland, who for 15 years had been one of the best coaches in college ranks. He said the formal signing of the contract would be carried out Wednesday at a luncheon for New York newspapermen in a New York hotel (New Yorker).

Sutherland's agreement to coach the professional team ended a year of speculation over his next job. He had been linked by rumor with a score of big-time colleges and with at least three professional teams.

Sutherland boasts one of the best all-time coaching records in football. In 15 years at Pitt, his teams won 111 games, lost 20 and tied 12. During five years at Lafayette his teams won 33, lost eight and tied two.

He quit at Pitt early last year after a controversy with the school administration over athletic policies. He was said to have felt a new athletic code installed by Chancellor John G. Bowman did not make provision for the calibre of teams on Pitt's schedule.

Sutherland said he had "no definite plans" for the Brooklyn set-up, but added that he expected to spend as much time there as possible during the next six months.

Hawk Swimmers Face Illini In Opener Saturday

The University of Iowa swimming team will open its season with a dual meet against Illinois at the Iowa field house pool Saturday night at 7:30.

Since only five letter men are returning to the squad this year, the brunt of the Hawkeye work will have to be carried by sophomores. George Poulos, Carl Ahlgren, and co-captains Al Armbruster and Tony Bremer are returning major letter winners. Ed Gerber has won a minor letter.

Illinois, a perennial title contender, has one of the strongest teams in recent years, according to Iowa Coach Dave Armbruster. Although the Illini also have a good percentage of sophomores in their line-up, they are expected to provide a rugged test for the Iowans.

Illinois also boasts an exceptionally strong water polo team. Last year they were barely squeezed out of a three way tie for the Big Ten championship when they lost to Chicago, 4 to 3.

Wolves To Meet Bears

ANN ARBOR, (AP)—University of Michigan will open its 1940 football season on the Pacific coast against the Golden Bears of the University of California. The game will be played Sept. 28 at Berkeley.

Iowa State Wins, 58-36

AMES, Jan. 29 (AP)—Almost duplicating a previous game between the two schools, the Iowa State college basketball team rolled over Morningside of Sioux City, 58 to 36 here tonight.

Grace Amory Wins Qualifying Medal In Biltmore Tourney Ahead of Patty Berg

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Grace Amory of Palm Beach won the qualifying medal in the Miami Biltmore women's golf tournament today with a two-under-par 80, a single stroke better than the favored Patty Berg of Minneapolis and three others.

Miss Berg, minus the appendix that forced her to the sidelines seven months ago, sliced a stroke off par with Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas, the national champion; Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., and Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta.

Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Hunter S. Robbins of Spring Lake, Mich., scored 82's, making a total of seven golfers who shot par or better.

Shirley Ann Johnson of Winnetka, Ill., carded an 83; Clara Callender of Long Beach an 84, and Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C., and Mrs. Leon Solomon of Memphis, Tenn., scored 85's.

Miss Amory, who competed in foreign tournaments for several years, equalled par 40 on the first nine and bettered regulation figures by two shots with another 40 coming back.

He will speak on the subject "Broadway in Review."

Brown has had extensive experience and training in the theater. "Although," quoting Burns Mantle, "John Mason Brown is young enough to be enthusiastic, he is old enough to be wise."

In the last three years he has appeared at Town Hall, New York City, 14 times; Columbia University, 10 times and the Brooklyn Institute of arts and sciences, 13 times.

Newspaper Training
Brown's newspaper training started with a job on the Louisville Courier-Journal during the last days of the famous Henry Watterson's regime. He received his degree from Harvard university and immediately took a position as director of the dramatic department of the summer school of the University of Montana.

From 1924 to 1928 Brown was associate editor and drama critic of Theatre Arts monthly. Since 1929 he has been dramatic critic of the New York Evening Post. His activities have included teaching at New York's American laboratory theater, the Bread Loaf writers' conference, Columbia university and Yale.

For the past three summers at Harvard he has given courses in playwriting, the history of the modern theater and the history of criticism from Aristotle to the present.

Books by Brown
His books, "The Modern Theatre in Revolt," "Upstage," "The American Theatre as Seen by Its Critics," "Letters from Greenroom Ghosts," "The Art of Playgoing," and Brown's latest book, "Two in the Aisle," demonstrate his experience and background.

Admission to the lecture will be by ticket. Tickets will be available to faculty and students today and tomorrow at Iowa Union desk. Any tickets which remain on Thursday will be available to the general public.

St. Louis Symphony Orchestra Appears Here February 15

Iowa Union To Be Scene Of Concerts

Tickets on Sale In Music Building, Prof. Righter Reveals

The St. Louis symphony orchestra, under the direction of Vladimir Golschmann, will appear in two concerts at Iowa Union Thursday, Feb. 15, Prof. C. B. Righter of the music department announced yesterday. The orchestra has appeared here annually for the past five years.

Tickets for the two concerts, scheduled for 3:15 p.m. and 8 p.m., are now on sale in room 15 of the music building, Professor Righter said. There will be reserved and general admission tickets for both performances.

A special rate for students in the grades and in high school has been arranged, Professor Righter added. Such tickets may be secured in advance by presenting a certificate signed by the school principal. Groups of children in junior high school or below must be accompanied by adults.

It has been rumored, Professor Righter said yesterday, that this may be the last year it will be possible to hear the orchestra under Golschmann's direction as there is a strong possibility that the conductor will be appointed to direct a large eastern orchestra next year.

Golschmann came as a guest conductor to the St. Louis symphony orchestra in 1930 and his sensational success established him as its permanent director. The second oldest symphonic organization in the United States, the St. Louis orchestra is celebrating its 60th anniversary this year.

'Call for Bill Cox!' -- Walt Disney

University Graduate To Go to Hollywood for Studio Work

To work at the Walt Disney studio in Hollywood is a thrilling goal for most aspiring artists.

Bill Cox of Washington, Ia., and a graduate of the University of Iowa, has achieved this goal and will leave Sunday for Hollywood. Bill has been on the university campus for seven years, having worked here before he graduated from high school.

On the campus, Bill has been active in many fields concerning art work. He has done scene designs for the dramatics department. His most recent was for the experimental play, "Back to Exile." Bill was art editor for "Frivol" for a year and has done illustrations for numerous books which have been written by Iowa professors. In a slightly different field, Bill has managed catering at parties and has done many party decorations.

He commented that one of his most interesting illustrations was for a book entitled "Scooter." With his mother, Mrs. Barbara Cox, Bill wrote and illustrated this story about their family dog, Scooter. The story is being read at present over radio station WSUI and will be published in the near future, he added.

At the Walt Disney studio, Bill will work in the background department as a water color technician. He will also work as assistant to an art director in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. At the latter company, Bill will work on scene designing.

He worked at both of these studios last summer. At Metro, Bill was associated with the production of "Two Flying Deuces," a picture recently released starring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. With the Walt Disney company, Bill worked on the forthcoming production of "Pinocchio" and another cartoon which has not yet been released, "Bambi."

Bill explained that "breaking in" to the Walt Disney crew was very difficult and that every day there are many artists sitting in the office of Mr. Disney who are waiting to get a chance to exhibit their work. Bill started originally with MGM and with good fortune obtained a job with Disney.

"Background work is very interesting because you have a chance to express in your work your imagination and have a chance for more freedom," Bill said. There are two divisions in the actual productions at the Disney studio, backgrounds and cartooning. He added that the cartoon work had to follow a definite form while the background work was done in the mood of the general production but could be less stereotyped.

When asked what he will remember most about the University of Iowa, Bill said that he will remember: Prof. Edna Patzig of the art department for "all the things" she has done for me in my work.

Bill plans to make his home in California because he just plain "likes it!"

Highlanders Impress Sioux City Scots

'Repeat' Performance Given Saturday on Burns' Anniversary

By LAYTON HURST

Thirty-four University of Iowa Scottish Highlanders returned to Sioux City Saturday, exactly one year from the day on which they scored their first big success there, and gave a repeat performance that was a smash hit in the eyes of 800 delighted Scots, whose society was celebrating the 181st birthday anniversary of Robert Burns.

The highlight of the day's activities was the concert of Scottish songs, music, and folk dances, which the drum and pipe unit, under the direction of Pipe-Major W. L. Adamson, gave after the evening banquet.

Two radio broadcasts were given during the day. The first, a 15-minute program, was presented over station WTIC at 11:15 a.m. A 30-minute program was given at 2:05 over station WCJK. Between broadcasts the Highlanders paraded through the business district.

Long after the evening performance was over two bright spots lingered in the minds of the audience. The first occurred when, at a signal from the drum major following the first number of the evening 21 men flung down their instruments and raced from the stage to break into the steps of the Highland fling on the floor of the auditorium. A later feature of the program was the "Reel of Tulloch," which was performed by Lassies Frances Adamson of Iowa City, Joan Carney, A3 of Des Moines, Mary Gillen, A1 of Des Moines, Barbara Clark, A2 of Coffeyville, Kans., Laura Dempster, A1 of Chicago, Dorothy Campbell, A2 of Mason City, and Charles Moore, Khairon Rummels, A1 of Iowa City, Harold Hudachek, E1 of Iowa City, Vernon Schump, A1 of Iowa City, Jerry McKinnon, A1 of New London, and Robert Sutherland Lee, A2 of Iowa City.

Mrs. Adamson presented her novelty dance on the head of the bass drum held high in the air by several Highlanders. James Malcomb McGrew of Williamsburg sang "We're Hundred Pipers," "Loch Lomond," and "Will Yea No' Come Back Again." Two numbers, "Silver Chanter" and "Highland Cradle Song," were presented by an instrumental ensemble of Pipe-Major Adamson, Gerald Chapman, A1 of Jamestown, N. Y., Cornell Mayer, E1 of Iowa City, Norris Wheeler, A2 of Iowa City, McKinnon, Rummels, R. Marnette and Moore.

Other numbers given by the whole unit were "Loch Leven Castle," "The Blue Bells of Scotland," "Rantin', Rovin' Robin," "John Anderson, My Jo," "The 42nd Gordon Highlanders," "Marquis of Huntly," and "The Kilt is My Delight." The program closed with a rendition of the "Corn Song."

The concert had been interspersed with numbers by Sioux City talent. A dance followed it.

After the Highlander's performance last year in the same celebration, the city council of Sioux City adopted a special resolution complimenting them on their appearance. Judging by the send-off which was given them Saturday night, their success this year was as complete.

The group returned to Iowa City Sunday morning.

Cabinet pieces were constructed by Dunbar of Chicago and the overstuffed chairs and sofas were made by Karpen of Chicago. All were ordered through Iowa concerns. Throughout, pastels govern the scene. The lounge walls are in wedgewood blue, with blue, rose, chartreuse and yellow upholstery on the light mahogany furniture. A large dark cream oval rug will be placed directly in front of the decorative fireplace of spun aluminum horizontal panels. In this room, a custom-built Philco radio is arranged in a group with identical chairs upholstered in yellow leather. A large mirror is built in the birch woodwork above the fireplace. # Washington Goes Hollywood; Stars Arrive for Six Balls

First Lady Will Attend All Parties; FDR Will Stay Home

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The national capital went Hollywood today as picture stars in droves assembled to regale the populace at six balls and two shows in honor of the president's birthday tomorrow night.

The infantile paralysis foundation expects 25,000 parties to be held throughout the country, as compared with 20,000 balls and benefits last year, but none with more glamor per square inch than the Washington affairs. Twenty screen, stage, and radio favorites volunteered to aid the infantile paralysis cause here.

Blaise Washington, accustomed to political celebrities, opened wide its eyes at the allurements of Olivia De Havilland, Dorothy Lamour, Brenda Joyce, Ruth Terry, Elsa Lanchester, Ona Munson, Ginny Simms, et al.

Dozens of kids played hooky for a glimpse and yell at Mickey Rooney, and Miss Lamour's arrival occasioned a slight riot.

Even great statesmen succumbed. With movie celebrities arriving practically every hour on the hour, a presidential prospect scarcely rated a second glance in the capitol corridors unless accompanied by a southern California glamor girl.

The stars seemed equally excited about Washington. They went rubber-necking around town, watched congress in action, and lunched with assorted front-page personalities.

Tomorrow they will have luncheon with Mrs. Roosevelt and meet the president. The first lady will keep her customary pace by touring all six parties tomorrow night while the president stays home.

He will speak to the celebrants by radio at 10:34 p.m. (C.S.T.)

Birthday cakes began to arrive for the president today. All that he and his guests can't eat will be sent to Washington hospitals.

was not the purpose of the commerce clause (of the constitution) to relieve those engaged in interstate commerce of their just share of state tax burdens, merely because an incidental or consequential effect of the tax is an increase in the cost of doing the business. Not all state taxation is to be condemned because, in some manner, it has an effect upon commerce between the state...

The opinion noted that "a very large part, if not most of the merchandise sold in New York city, is shipped interstate to that market" and that in this case the coal's only relation to interstate commerce "arises from the fact that immediately preceding transfer of possession to the purchaser within the state, which is the taxable event, . . . the merchandise has been transported in interstate commerce and brought to its journey's end."

Hughes, joined by Justices McReynolds and Roberts, contended that "from any point of view, the tax now contested is laid upon interstate sales" and said that "a vice" of taxes on interstate commerce was "that such taxes might be imposed with equal right by every state which the commerce touches."

"The shipment, the transshipment and the delivery of the coal are but parts of a unitary interstate transaction," he argued. "If New York can tax the delivery, Pennsylvania can tax the shipment and New Jersey the transshipment. And the latter states, respectively, would be as much entitled to gross receipts from the sale as New York."

At the outset of his opinion, Hughes wrote: "In confiding to congress the power to regulate interstate commerce, the aim was to provide a free national market—to pull down and prevent the re-creation of state barriers to the free intercourse between the people of the states."

"That free intercourse was deemed, and has proved, to be essential to our national economy. It should not be impaired."

And toward the close of the opinion, Hughes added: "We have the duty of maintaining the immunity of interstate commerce as contemplated by the constitution. That immunity still remains an essential buttress of the union. . ."

own sales office in that city.

The majority opinion, by Justice Stone, held that a local tax was an unconstitutional interference with interstate commerce "only when the tax operates to regulate commerce . . . to an extent which impairs the authority conferred upon congress."

"But," the opinion added, "it

Supreme Court of Iowa Sets March 5 as Date For Hearing on Bank Appeal

Summerwill Will Challenge Decision Of Davenport Judge

The Iowa supreme court yesterday set March 5 as a date for hearing an appeal by Ben S. Summerwill, former examiner in charge of the Farmers Loan and Trust company from an order reopening the receivership, The Associated Press reported last night.

At the same time the court entered an order staying a decision by District Judge W. W. Scott of Davenport reopening the receivership until the high court rules on the appeal.

Resists Petition
Summerwill had resisted a petition by D. W. Bates, state superintendent of banking, to reopen the receivership of the bank on the ground that the court order discharging him as receiver April 26, 1939, and exonerating the bondsmen was final and not subject to vacation.

Judge Scott ordered the receivership reopened early this month in order to review the records and investigate allegations made by Bates that Summerwill did not realize for the depositors all possible on the assets.

Judge Scott's order, besides ordering a reopening of the receivership, overruled a previous special appearance by Summerwill in district court here challenging the court's jurisdiction to act on the matter.

"Cause Defunct"
Summerwill argued that since nearly two terms of court had passed into history since the official closing of the receivership, the cause was defunct when Bates petitioned.

The defendant further argued that his actions as examiner-in-charge were under the supervision of the petitioner and he acted merely as Bates' agent.

Notice of Summerwill's appeal to the supreme court was filed last Thursday.
