15 Dead Following Russian Air Raid On Rovaniemi, Northwest Finnish Town

60 Wounded As Result Of Attack

Finns Report Soviet Troops Encircled In Lake Ladoga Sector

HELSINKI, Feb. 1 (Thursday) (AP)—A merciless raid by 27 Soviet planes on the northwestern Finnish town of Rovaniemi left 15 dead and 60 wounded—children, nurses, women—yesterday while couriers from fighting fronts brought reports of complete encirclement of hungry Soviet divisions in the bloody Lake Ladoga sector and the slaughter of half of a battalion of 600 Siberian ski troops in the north.

Observers said the Finns had captured the strategic town of Pitkananta northeast of Lake Ladoga and had thrown back Red army attacks "everywhere" along the same front. On the basis of Finnish daily communiques the Russian dead on this front run into thousands. The Finnish casualties have not been disclosed.

Clippers May Substitute Puerto Rico for Bermuda Stop if Great Britain Continues To Censor Mails

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—American officials are seriously considering the substitution of Puerto Rico for Bermuda as a stopping place for the transatlantic clippers, if British censorship of American air mail at Bermuda continues.

The substitution would add hundreds of miles of flying distance. From Puerto Rico the flying boats might continue to the Spanish Canary islands rather than to the Portuguese Azores before proceeding to Lisbon.

However, it is learned that postal regulations are under study which may make continuance of air mail service via Bermuda still possible.

The British seek to prevent the sending of contraband to Germany by airmail, and the postoffice department already has issued an order refusing to accept parcel post for the transatlantic flying service. Under study now is the possibility of refusing mail containing money orders, checks, drafts, etc.

Should the clippers be permitted to carry only correspondence, the British would be deprived of a large part of their excuse for examining and holding up American mails.

Protests Follow Slash In Farm Bill

Wallace Declares Farmers Will Hold Congress Responsible

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, leading a resounding chorus of protests against deep slashes in farm appropriations, today warned congressmen, and particularly members of the democratic party, that farmers would hold them responsible in the 1940 elections.

An "interesting" political issue will be raised, he said, unless congress restores the $154,000,000 cut from the agriculture department appropriation by the house appropriations committee yesterday.

"I want to put the farmer on guard," Wallace said at a press conference, "against attempts of some congressmen to scuttle the farm programs." Later he added: "I would ask the farmers this question when they went to vote, 'Which way are you most likely to be taken care of in 1941?'"

The house committee approved a $634,374,756 bill—20 per cent below President Roosevelt's estimate. In addition to urging restoration of this cut, Wallace said the farmers would need "parity" payments—for which Mr. Roosevelt's budget made no provision. Wallace again proposed his income certificate plan of processing taxes to finance such payments.

During debate in the house, members of the farm bloc appealed to congressmen from city districts to vote to restore the cuts. They said that some slashes made by the appropriations committee would affect persons on relief in urban centers.

Willoughby Reports 'Favorable' Reception To Student Petitions

Members of the Iowa state board of education sub-committee on faculty appointments who met yesterday with four student representatives of the committee for student self-government, heard student opinions regarding the selection of the new university president "favorably," George Willoughby, G of Des Moines, said following the meeting.

Willoughby and Pat Sleszer, A3 of Freeport, Ill., co-chairmen of the committee, along with Merle Miller, A4 of Marshalltown, and Roland Christensen, A3 of Iowa City, were invited to present petitions signed by more than 3,000 students to the sub-committee asking that the committee have the opportunity to express student ideas.

Miss Sleszer and Willoughby are co-chairmen of a central committee of 35 persons representing housing and professional units on the campus. This central committee was chosen from a larger committee of 500 students.

The committee for student self-government undertook as its first project the petition which circulated last week on the campus. Results of this first project will be reported by the four representatives to the central committee this morning at 7 o'clock in Iowa Union.

Liquor Probe Continues In Polk County

DES MOINES, Jan. 31 (AP)—More than half of the 28 witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the Polk county grand jury investigating bootlegging charges here, had been heard tonight.

County Attorney Francis J. Kuble said he hoped to complete the taking of testimony Friday night.

Four more distillers' representatives were heard by the jury today, bringing to 15 the number of witnesses who have testified during the five days the probe has been under way.

Bernard Manley, member of the liquor control commission, is scheduled to testify tomorrow afternoon. He was excused last week because of a major business appointment in Boston.

Iowa representatives of liquor distillers denied today an allegation that samples of their wares are being passed out to prospective purchasers.

Laws, Glasgow, Former Grid Stars, Invited to Banquet

Joe Laws and Bill Glasgow, former Hawkeye football greats, were invited yesterday to the public dinner which will be given in Iowa Union lounge Feb. 12, honoring the 1939 grid squad and coaches.

After the dinner, between halves of the Ohio State-Iowa basketball game, Nile Kinick will receive an award which both Laws and Glasgow won in their college careers—the Chicago Tribune's "most valuable player of the Big Ten" award, given annually.

Tickets are being sold at $2 a person at Whetstone's No. 1, Racine's No. 1, the chamber of commerce office, Gibb's drug store and the Jefferson hotel desk.

Chamberlain Assures U.S. Trade To Thrive With Peace

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Neville Chamberlain told Americans tonight that his war-withered trade with England will prosper if they wait until "the time comes to turn once more from war to peace" and gave Adolf Hitler gibe for gibe, defiance for defiance.

"We are prepared for air raids if they should come," was his answer to the man who last night jeered at "old Mr. Chamberlain and his Bible" and threatened England and France with a taste of "the fight they asked for."

He reviewed the "prodigious results" of the British war effort—

Nobel Prize-Winner Urey Visits S.U.I.

By Jean D'Avais

A gold medal, a beautiful diploma written in Swedish—and yes, $40,000, that's the material meaning of a Nobel prize.

The significance and honor of such a coveted award can not be measured, but according to one modest recipient of the prize, "there's too much made over it."

He is Dr. Harold C. Urey, head of the chemistry department at Columbia university, who spoke here last night and who in 1934 received the Swedish award for his discovery of "heavy water."

After years of research work, the New York chemist found that one out of every 6,000 parts of all water is actually "heavy water" and gained world wide acclaim for his contribution to chemistry, even though the layman doesn't have to know just what "heavy" water is.

The Nobel prize was established in 1896 by the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor and discoverer of dynamite. His entire fortune was left for these yearly awards to be made for outstanding work in the fields of letters, arts and science.

The hour and half lecture which Dr. Urey delivered here, illustrated by slides, on "The Differences of Physical Properties of Isotopic Compounds and Their Use in the Separation of Isotopes," was attended by an audience of 250.

Slanting his speech toward an audience, well versed in chemical formulae and reactions, the speaker discussed the use of isotopes, which (according to Webster) are elements identical in chemical behavior.

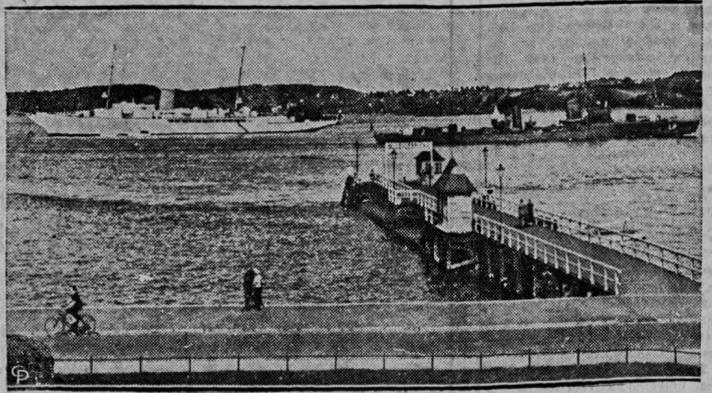

A member of the Columbia university faculty for 16 years, the short, quick-spoken chemist was made head of the department of chemistry last year. Twenty-five professors make up the department's faculty and direct the work of the 150 graduate students, who are admitted to the department after passing the necessary qualifying examinations.

Graduated from the University of Montana in 1917 with a major in zoology, Doctor Urey, at that time had aspirations to enter industrial chemistry.

"But the taste I received in industrial chemistry during the war was enough to last a life time. Teaching in universities will have to get a great deal worse before I return to the field of my original 'aspirations,'" the speaker hastened to add.

On a series of "one night stands," Doctor Urey appeared here under the sponsorship of the graduate college and the local chapter of the American Chemical society here. He visited with his sister-in-law, Prof. Kate Daum, head of nutrition at the University hospitals, during his stay in Iowa City and plans to tour the campus and visit the local chemistry department this morning.

HITLER'S YACHT NOW ARMED GERMAN SEA RAIDER

Seeks Public Hearing On Opposition

Asks Conservation Commission To Air Objections To Project

By ART BELLAIRE
Daily Iowan City Editor

An interview, apparently intended for clarification purposes only, brought forth another supporter of organized labor of Iowa in a stand for the $6,000,000 Coralville dam project.

Governor George A. Wilson said last night he would ask the state conservation commission to reconsider its objections to the proposed dam and hold a public hearing on the issue in "the next 10 or 12 days," The Associated Press reported.

His opinion came after he and Col. C. P. Gross of the Rock Island, Ill. army engineers' office conferred for more than an hour.

Colonel Gross, admitting that current tentative plans would result in the flood waters overflowing into Lake Macbride, the basis of the conservation commission's resolution of opposition, had previously pointed out that the only way the lake could be saved would be either to build the dam farther upstream or to raise the dam which creates the lake.

More Money

He said either measure would involve expenditure of an additional $800,000.

The much discussed problem of extra taxation and lost taxation was explained to the governor yesterday in an estimation by the colonel that the project would remove about 22,000 acres of land above the dam from taxation, but at the same time it would benefit about 28,000 acres along the river below the dam.

Citing an Iowa attorney general's opinion that the federal government could construct its dam despite the commission's objection, Colonel Gross, according to The Associated Press, said in his "personal opinion," the war department would not press plans to launch the project as long as the commission objects.

Meeting Feb. 9

It was announced to The Daily Iowan Monday night that the commission would meet in Des Moines Feb. 9 to reconsider the proposition on the basis of any counter plans that might be forwarded to take care of their objections.

Lawrence Stoewer, president of the Iowa City building trades council, one of the organizations that solicited support soon after the conservation group's opposition, last night issued the following statement upon hearing the news of the governor's attitude:

"We are very glad to hear the news and figure we could continue if it were necessary. It was our business to fight for the project and we are happy to have had the opportunity.

"We are very optimistic in our work for the public welfare. It is not only our 12 crafts for which we are fighting but for labor as a whole who would be paid at least half of the $6,000,000 expended in this project."

Officer Upholds Dam

The Associated Press reported last night the following quotations from a speech delivered by A. A. Couch, president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor before an audience of Des Moines business men at a luncheon meeting yesterday:

"Lake Macbride is a small puddle compared with the Coralville project.

"I am at a loss to know why the conservation commission has objected to the dam. There must be some other reason which they have sought not to make public.

"From what I have been able to learn, Macbride lake is more or less a private lake—that is, all the property along its banks (See DAM, Page 6)

NO FIRE AT ALL WHEN FIREMAN MAKES VALIANT RESCUE

ST. PAUL, Jan. 31 (AP)—Capt. Louis Yaeger, idling at the fire department alarm switchboard, jumped up suddenly, called to another to take over and dashed outside.

A moment later he was seen climbing a tree while fellow firemen jibed, "hey, Tarzan!" at him.

Then they saw what he was doing and the Bronx cheers subsided. He had freed a sparrow which had snagged its wing in the tree.

Four Seniors To Appear In Test Case

Four senior students in the University of Iowa's college of law were given the distinction yesterday of participating in the 14th annual Supreme Court day, when Dean Mason Ladd announced plans for one of the college's most important events of the year.

The men chosen are John Hyland of Burlington, Paul F. Kriethe of Burt and John Donahue of Panora.

Supreme Court day will be held April 4 and will be under the direction of Attorney Arthur O. Leff of the college of law faculty. The arguments will be held in the afternoon. There will be a banquet and initiation ceremonies for the Order of Coif, honorary society, in the evening. Members for the Order of Coif are of the highest 10 per cent in scholarship in the senior class.

600 Couples Dance at Ball

The Iowa City Community building was jammed last night with 600 couples whose dollars are being apportioned today to the national and county foundations to fight infantile paralysis.

It was the annual birthday ball of President Roosevelt, held a day late because of university convocation.

Two dance floors and two bands were used, one for modern music and one for old-timers. Dusty Keaton and his orchestra played upstairs with Memier's orchestra on the first floor.

Although the count of last night's crowd was not official, the proceeds will be announced within a few days by Attorney Ingalls Swisher, Johnson county chairman in this year's celebration.

The Women of the Moose had solicited tickets both in the city and university, while committee members visited surrounding towns to promote the dance.

Leslie Moore was the committee member in charge of ticket sales. Dr. T. J. Gretteman headed the sale of tickets in university hospitals.

Knox Sees Possibility Of War Bond

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—A plan under which Finland would float war bonds in this country, much as the Irish fight for freedom was financed 20 years ago, gained bi-partisan support today.

After a talk with President Roosevelt, Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, said that he "wouldn't be at all surprised" if a plan were worked out for the sale of Finnish bonds.

Senator Harrison (D-Miss) had suggested yesterday that Finland sell securities to private investors and sympathizers. He opposed proposals for a government loan to Finland.

The money thus borrowed presumably could be used by the Finns to buy military supplies, whereas a government loan, if extended, could not be so used.

"What the Finns need is military and not civilian supplies," Knox remarked.

Knox said he understood the Harrison plan was being "discussed and canvassed," although he did not say whether the president was discussing it. Later, Mr. Roosevelt said the administration would have nothing to say, one way or another, on the bond plan.

Meantime, Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, appeared before the senate foreign relations committee on a bill to expand the export-import bank's lending power by $100,000,000 to permit loans to Finland and other nations.

'Broadway in Review' To Be Lecture Topic Of John Mason Brown Tonight at 8 o'Clock

John Mason Brown, dramatic critic of the New York Evening Post, will lecture tonight at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium as a speaker in the university lecture series.

The topic of Brown's lecture is "Broadway in Review."

At Harvard, Brown was one of the famous "47 workshop" group, whose members were later to carve notable careers for themselves in the theater. After leaving college he was associate editor of Theater Arts Monthly and went from that position to be dramatic critic of the New York Evening Post, where he has been for the past decade.

Having experimented in the fields of playwrighting and direction as well as production, he has a thorough knowledge of the theater from both sides of the footlights, and his fellow critics regard almost with awe, it is said, his uncanny ability to predict hits and "flops" as the new plays open.

In addition to his keen sense of box-office values, though, he is also a scholar of the theater, having written "Two in the Aisle," "The Art of Playgoing," "Letters from Greenroom," "Upstage," "The Modern Theater in Revolt" and other books on the theater.

William Lyon Phelps has called Brown "one of the best public lecturers in the United States." Local attendance records at his lectures demonstrate his local popularity.

Admission to the lecture is by ticket.

The South Rejects Balkanization

THE Balkanization of the United States continues to meet with opposition, the latest development being found in the action of 12 Southern states at the First Southern Conference on Interstate Problems, which met last week in Nashville.

The conference, made up of governors, legislators, public officials, educators and laymen, mulled over the idea of interstate trade barriers and at the conclusion of debate, decided unanimously on a resolution opposed to Balkanization.

The economic effects of interstate trade barriers are for a time favorable to the state erecting them, but the ultimate effect is to divide the American federation into individual units opposed to the fullest development of American industry and trade.

The South, perhaps more than any other section of the country, has known previous economic voyaging. The challenge that Franklin Roosevelt gave the Southern states when he called them "the nation's No. 1 economic problem," is being met by Southern leaders.

It is significant that one of their first steps in charting the course to stability is to urge the destruction of trade barriers.

The conference's resolution emphasized not only the advantage to the individual states in breaking down these Balkan walls, but the need for the Southern states to "pull down their own fences" in order to present a united front in their plea for national equality.

The Southern states are not alone in their trade problems. All of the 48 states have arrived at the point where state legislation should be examined for discriminatory measures against neighbor states.

It is necessary for national welfare that the nation be preserved as a single unit.

ties of statesmen are discussed. Yet no man mentioned for the country's highest office stands so precariously on the campaign perch.

The greatest barrier to the presidency for Cordell Hull is his age. The secretary of state is 70, which doesn't appeal to most voters.

As capable as Cordell Hull has been in his political career, making few enemies in the year since 1906 when he first entered Congress, his age alone is enough to keep him from getting the democratic nomination for the presidency.

A second barrier to the nomination of Hull is his relationship to Roosevelt in the party. Were Roosevelt to announce his intentions of running for a third term, even the slim chance that Hull now has to get the nomination, would fade.

As a liberal-conservative, Hull is as good a candidate as the democratic party could find. The chances of a split in the democratic ranks would be considerably lessened were Hull chosen, but even that can not balance the age factor.

The Need For Vocational Guidance

THOSE who still look at Universities as schools of culture will be displeased with any suggestion that the colleges of a state university should assume an obligation for vocational guidance and personnel direction.

Nevertheless, seen realistically, the university's function is not alone in the field of preparing men and women to live better lives. The job-getting function can not be passed over.

Few of the students who attend universities in this age do so for culture alone. Economic security is important to them. They want jobs, and they want jobs for which they are fitted.

It is because this is the view most students take toward education that we find commendable the efforts at vocational guidance some departments of the university make.

To conservative university leaders the job-getting efforts of the college of engineering may seem sinfully commercial. To us, it appears that the university training that students receive would less often be wasted if students were guided into positions, rather than left to go job hunting without knowledge of what types of employment are available, what opportunities for specialization and advancement are open, and what approach should be made in contacts with prospective employers.

We believe fewer students would grumble about working for small wages after graduation if they were given enlightenment before graduation.

The University of Iowa needs to extend its guidance functions. Present provisions for student-advisor counseling are insufficient. University officials might well consider the feasibility of expanding facilities for vocational guidance and placement.

"TRAGEDY DOESN'T ALWAYS DRESS IN BLACK"

Stewart Says Senators Object to Harrison Because His Economy Plan Comes Too Late

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

SENATOR PAT HARRISON'S plan to get the federal government's expenditures down to a figure not exceeding its income is so good that nobody is in a position to find fault with it except on one ground—the ground that it's too late for consideration at this session of congress.

It's a cinch that the representatives won't like the reductions. Each individual representative supports reduction in all the other representatives' allowances, but none supports reduction in his own district. Consequently, helping one another, collectively they're opposed to much economy.

The representatives have finished with it, the money bill is delivered to the senate. Ordinarily, the senate is slightly tighter-fisted than the representatives. Why? Why, because ALL the representatives face the voters in an election year, like this. But the senators are voted on only one-third at a time. Therefore, two-thirds of them always are comparatively independent, and can cut and slash quite freely.

There always is more or less difference of opinion between the two houses. So they choose a joint conference committee, which finally hits on a mass of compromise figures. They never are satisfactory to anybody. Money bills, as ultimately passed, invariably are weird hodge-podges.

Pat Harrison's Plan. Senator Harrison, who is chairman of the upper chamber's finance committee, wants the representatives to do their conferring as soon as congress gets the departments' and independent offices' original estimates, revised by the president.

All For A Laugh G. Tucker Imagines Ezra Stone Telling Story Using Dialect

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—You like stories? Jewish stories? Imagine Ezra Stone giving this in dialect: Cohen and Lapidus meet each other on the train for Chicago, and not having seen each other since high school, they are effusive.

"How are you, Cohen?" cries Lapidus. "Where you going?" "Me, I'm going to Chicago." "So am I." "And what business are you in?" "In the cloak and suit line, Cohen. And you?" "The same thing."

"Say, Cohen, do you remember the swell parties we used to have at Rose Lipschitz's house in Brooklyn?" "Boy, those were the days." "You said it."

They talk for awhile, reminiscing about old times, but somehow Cohen isn't satisfied with this set-up, and he begins to think to himself: "This guy Lapidus is a cute fellow. He tells me he's going to Chicago, but why should he tell me the truth? He's in the same business. I'll bet he's going to Cleveland. Why should he go to Cleveland? He must be going to see Rutgers Bros. They probably are going to give a big order of dresses and he's trying to get the whole thing."

No, that can't be it. He's a pretty prosperous manufacturer; he wouldn't go to see Rutgers himself. He'd send a salesman. Maybe he's going to Miller Bros.? No, they ain't buying anything this season, their buyer just left N. Y. Then it must be Lipschitz and Son. . . . But then, again, he wouldn't go himself; he'd send a salesman. . . . Say, wait a minute. . . . That old man Lipschitz is Rose Lipschitz's father, the girl he used to go with in Brooklyn. I'll bet he's still nuts about Rose. I'll bet he's going there to get engaged to be married to Rosie.

With a sly smile he turns to his friend. "Congratulations, Lapidus." "How did you know?" cries Lapidus, amazed. "It was OBVIOUS," says Cohen with a pleased deprecating shrug.

Then there is another story of a girl refugee's mother who hadn't heard just how important Fifth avenue is. . . . The girl had been over here some months, doing well, and she wrote her mother back in the old country how happy she was. . . . "The people are so nice and kind over here. Mama, and I've got a new dress and a fine job in a store on Fifth avenue," she wrote.

"That is fine, my little daughter," her Mama wrote. "Already you are on Fifth avenue, and if you work hard and tend to bustle pretty soon maybe you can work up to where you have a job on FIRST avenue."

Milk is the foundation stone of any diet which supplies the necessary elements which make for health. Any movement, therefore, which aims at supplying this essential item of diet to the underprivileged, should and must have the wholehearted support of everyone. Sutton To Sing 'Romero' University Student Has Had Experience in Operas In Des Moines, Ames

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of personality and character sketches of students appearing in the Victor Herbert opera, "The Serenade" in Macbride auditorium next week.)

Keith Sutton, A4 of Paton, will portray the role of "Romero" in the University of Iowa music department's presentations of Victor Herbert's opera, "The Serenade," Feb. 7 and 9 in Macbride auditorium.

Romero is a swashbuckling bandit with the voice of a troubadour and the heart of a monk.

One day he and his outlaw band capture a rich merchant or a titled personage for ransom, and the next morning he is found in a monastery disguised as a travelling friar, regaling the interested brotherhood in true troubadour fashion—by song and story of his adventures and travels.

Mr. Sutton has had former experience in light opera, appearing at Des Moines and Ames in "The Bohemian Girl." Also, he has appeared as soloist in the Shrine temple at Des Moines. He has heard locally over radio station WSUI and is bass soloist at the local Congregational church.

Tickets for "The Serenade" are now on sale at Whetstone's Drug store No. 1, Williams' Iowa Supply store and room 105, music studio building.

Applications for editor-in-chief should be made before Friday. Blanks may be obtained from the dean of women's office. Selection will be made from these formal applications and interviews, which will be held later.

Temperature Rise Attracts Skaters to University Lagoon

"The ice is fine, the weather is fine, and everyone is having a swell time," Charles Kennett, manager of the university skating lagoon, said yesterday.

With the added rise in temperature, more people than ever before are visiting the skating lagoon these evenings, Mr. Kennett added. He said that the lagoon was recently completely frozen over and that the ice is smooth and safe.

"One of the most amazing visitors we have at our lagoon," Mr. Kennett said, "is a young girl who comes nearly every evening and skates until she is nearly exhausted."

Mr. Kennett spoke of a small blonde grade school girl who is nicknamed "Sonja" by most of the university students. About the size of a short stalk of corn, "Sonja" skates faster and longer than most of the other skaters.

He had retired from active practice five years ago and had been in ill health for several months.

Esther Payne Muenzer, 109 S. Summit, returned yesterday from Chicago where she attended a concert of the Illinois Symphony Orchestra at the Blackstone theater Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merriam, 128 N. Gilbert, are the parents of a son born Monday at the Mercy hospital. The child weighed nine pounds at birth.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rose, 514 E. Benton, are the parents of a son born Tuesday at the Mercy hospital. The child weighed eight pounds, 10 ounces at birth.

By WARREN CURRY

Displaying a superior brand of basketball, St. Patrick's fighting Irish put a 37-27 blemish on a St. Mathias record at Muscatine last night.

Playing on the new public high school floor, the Shamrocks used the added space to which they are unaccustomed to a great advantage. With wild passes out of the way in the opening minutes, the Shamrocks settled down to playing steady, aggressive basketball.

Grady opened the scoring with a field goal 10 seconds after the initial whistle. Mapes, St. Mathias' outstanding guard, soon evened the count and the Gaels then went ahead on a referee's decision. Grady knotted the count and the Shamrocks went on to a 9-5 lead at the end of the first quarter.

St. Mathias came back to tie the count at nine-all in the second period, but Holland, St. Pat's center, poured through three field goals to add to Miller's free tosses and the Shamrocks held a 17-9 lead at the half.

Slow, deliberate play in the third stanza with everyone marking gave the Shamrocks a 29-19 lead to head into the fourth quarter.

Upper D Wins First Title Game

Upper D defeated Lower C in two overtime periods by the score of 29-27. The victors captured the first game of the championship series for the Quadrangle title on a last minute field goal by Russell Busk. During the first two periods of play Upper D held a small lead.

Two last minute rallies by the losers drew the game into two overtime periods. The ability of Enich to take the ball off the backboards and the speed of Busk and Schroeder were instrumental in Upper D's victory.

Third South took the first game, 12-8, in a three game series with Fourth to determine the winner of Hillcrest's upper section. The winner of this series will play the winner of the lower section for the Hillcrest championship.

TOWN LEAGUE Players Meet Today At Fieldhouse

Plans for a town basketball league will begin this afternoon at 4:30. The meeting, announced by Wendell Winders, former Hawkeye baseball player who was recently appointed town intramural proctor, will be in room 306 at the fieldhouse.

According to Winders, the meeting today is for all students living in private homes who are interested in intramural basketball. It is expected that the new league will be organized to begin play within a week.

Duford Set For New Job

ST LOUIS, Jan. 31 (AP) — Wilfred J. Duford, whose splendid record at St. Ambrose college, Davenport, won him the post of head football coach at St. Louis university today, will assume his new duties March 15.

This will give the new Billiken mentor, who uses the Warner system with a single wingback and unbalanced line, time to put his proteges through spring practice in preparation for next fall's Missouri Valley conference campaign.

Eddy Undergoes Knee Operation

Al Eddy, promising freshman halfback from Cedar Rapids, yesterday was added to the list of Iowa gridders undergoing treatment in University hospital when an operation was performed on his knee. The other gridders are Wally Bergstrom and Bill Diehl.

SPORTS

Howard Makes Changes In Hawkeye Wrestling Lineup

Led by Vance Basler, defending middleweight titleholder, nine Iowa City entries in the 1940 Cedar Rapids sectional Golden Gloves tournament will begin their respective campaigns for recognition and a trip to Chicago for the Tournament of Champions next Monday night in the Cedar Rapids ring.

Basler, 20-year-old "veteran" who combines a potent wallop in either hand with great ring finesse, is the outstanding favorite to successfully defend his 160-pound crown. In 1939 Vance won three Cedar Rapids bouts by knockouts, only to lose a close decision in his second Chicago fight.

Among the other entries from Iowa City the most promising seem to be Guy Seydel, 147 pounder with a wicked punch; Peterson, clever light-heavyweight, and Cutler, stubby bantam with considerable experience in the squared circle.

A complete entry list includes, besides those already mentioned, Paul Basler, Vance's 16-year-old brother and Graham, featherweights; Rochex and Dick Goenne, 135 pounders; Langle, welter.

Saunders, a tenth member of the original squad, became over-anxious to qualify and entered the Washington, Ia., district tourney two weeks ago, winning the welterweight championship.

Phil Millen Will Face Gopher Star

Fresh from their unexpected and unprecedented 29-3 defeat of a strong Iowa State team, the University of Minnesota matmen will invade Iowa City this Saturday looking for their first Big Ten win of the season.

Coach Mike Howard, however, does not intend to let the Gophers overwhelm the Hawkeyes as they did the Cyclones. He has made some changes in his lineup to offset the powerful threat of Captain Dale Hanson, the Big Ten and National Intercollegiate champion.

Philip Millen, who can wrestle in almost any weight between 128 and 165 is the man that Coach Howard is depending upon to stop Hanson.

Both squads in the other weights are exceptionally well balanced. In the Northwestern meet the Iowans won five out of the eight matches by falls and Minnesota in defeating Ames won four out of the eight scheduled bouts by falls.

Bill Sherman, Iowa's scrappy little 121 pounder is counted on heavily by the Hawkeyes for points along with Clarence Kemp, 155 pounds and Ralph Geppert, 165 pounds.

Revenge May Be Factor In Hawklet-Clinton Game

When Iowa City travels to Clinton Friday night to meet the dangerous River Kings in a conference game, the Little Hawks will work with an unpredictable factor—revenge.

Coach Peck Geneva, the Clinton mentor, has as his chief claim to fame the fact that only one team, Davenport, has beaten his quintet twice in the same season.

Two years ago, Clinton won both games from City high. Last year, the Red and Black took two out of three matches from the Hawklets, including a district tournament decision. Iowa City, then, has just as much motive for revenge as the Clintonians, chiefly on the basis of the defeats accorded them last year.

Continued drills on offense are occupying the Hawklets' attention this week, with plenty of work against man-to-man defenses. Bud Lemons, who took over a guard position two weeks ago, turned up with a bad finger separation Monday, and has been playing with a cast in drills. Although not handicapped seriously, Lemons may not make the starting lineup Friday night because of the injury.

According to conference standings released yesterday, the Clinton battle will be the last chance for Iowa City to climb into a first division berth. The Hawklets occupy eighth position at the present time.

Annual Gordon Broad Jump Will Be Held Saturday

Competition in the Gordon Broad Jump, which is held in the spring and fall, will be held this Saturday in the fieldhouse from 3 to 6 p.m.

Any undergraduate in the university is eligible to compete. Last year the event was won by Dale Roberts of Villisca with a leap of 20 feet one and a half inches.

The winner of this event will become the possessor of a traveling trophy. In addition to the trophy, gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to the first three place winners.

Among the varsity trackmen who will compete are Jim Wilson of Kansas City, Kansas, who was fourth in the event last spring; Ed Baird of Rochester, N. Y.; Chet Cowden of Cedar Rapids; Bill Green of Newton, who has jumped 23 feet; Jack Whitehurst of Des Moines and Ed Raspotnik, also of Des Moines.

Awards Kinnick Will Display Grid Trophies

Nile Kinnick will display all of the trophies and gifts which he has received from all parts of the country at the forthcoming football banquet, scheduled for Feb. 12 at Iowa Union.

The First National bank will keep the trophies in its vaults until the time of the display. At the present time the bank is displaying the Walter Camp memorial trophy which is presented every year to the outstanding football player in the nation.

The plaque which was awarded to Kinnick in recognition of the fact that he was voted captain of the all-American team is also on exhibition.

Sam Francis Enrolls Here

Among the graduate students at the University of Iowa this semester is Sam Francis, one of the University of Nebraska's sports immortals. Francis was an all-American fullback at the Husker institution.

Last summer Francis was also enrolled here and gave Iowa City residents a kicking exhibition at the time of the six-man football game here during the summer.

Haas Believes Athletics Far From '40 Flag

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—Much as he'd like to see his former boss turn the trick next season, George "Mule" Haas, member of the last championship team of the Philadelphia Athletics, thinks Connie Mack is a few years away from another pennant.

Haas, an outfielder with the championship Mack teams of the 1929-31 period, said he has great admiration for the venerable Philadelphia manager's psychology, particularly with young players, but

There's going to be some work on free throws for Hawkeye cagers during the next few days as they prepare for the game with DePauw Monday night and the Big Ten game with Wisconsin the next Saturday.

Up Minnesota way they think Dale Hanson, Big Ten and national 128-pound mat champion, is about the best in college wrestlers at present. Voted the outstanding college matman at last year's N.C.A.A. meet, Hanson has visible proof that the Gopher backers are not far wrong.

It is also proof that sometimes a winning combination keeps on working. Hanson was a high school wrestler at Cresco under Dave Bartelma, who now coaches the Gophers.

The coming of Hanson, who hasn't lost a dual meet match during his college career, adds to the toughness of the spot the Hawkies will be in Saturday. It also brings to light a bit of Mike Howard's maneuvering.

The Iowa mentor, who doesn't like the cat might have crawled back into the house, doesn't consider the Gophers invincible, despite the fact they gave Iowa State one of its worst shellackings. He has this meet planned out to the point where every point will mean quite a few grunts.

Ordinarily Howard would have Loy Julius, an aggressive sophomore, wrestling in the 128-pound berth. But, the fact that Julius is aggressive and dangerous would probably put him into a couple of traps before the match was over. Hanson is just naturally too cagy and rough for any sophomore, so Howard plans to keep Hanson from scoring a fall. They pay off five points for a fall and three points for a decision.

Thus, the Iowa representative against the Gopher star will probably be Phil Millen, not nearly so aggressive as Julius, but who could wrestle all night against Frank Gotch. If there are two points of difference to be held back from the Gophers, count on Howard to get in there himself if necessary.

There are, as usual, 11 positions open on next year's Iowa football team. Eddie Anderson, who claims he picks his starting eleven in the dressing room the day of the game, says they will all have to be looked over before he decides just who is going to take the places of this year's seniors.

A big part of the Anderson policy in football is versatility, with any man able to do practically everything from passing to blocking. That, probably, is why he suddenly pops with a third string halfback who can play center. Conditioning, also important in the Anderson scheme of things, will come in for a share of attention, beginning within the next few days, with spring practice something like a month away.

New Christian Organization Discussed

Inter-Church Council Proposes Mergence Of Christian Groups

Members of the Inter-Church council, the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., in order to create an organization which they believe can achieve more effectual action in Christian work than any one individual group of the three, have sent a report to the groups they represent with a proposal of organization.

Such a group would be called a Student Christian council, made up of two popularly elected representatives from the Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., and student organizations of the Baptist, Christian, Episcopal, Evangelical Reformed, Congregational, Lutheran, Methodist and Presbyterian churches.

Each group, according to the plan, would elect each year one person for a two-year term, so that half the council membership will carry over from year to year. The first year, one person will be elected for a one-year term in addition.

Officers will be elected by the council, which will have regular meetings. An advisory board composed of one adult representative from each student organization in the council and the several officers of the council will be formed.

The council, when formed, would be better able to undertake projects such as Palm Sunday breakfast, Religious Emphasis week, social service, student vespers and recreational activities, it is believed by the representatives of the various groups involved.

'Evolution' of Diesel Engine Described

Engineering Groups Hear Harte Cooke Who Knew Dr. Diesel

The Diesel engine, a topic of discussion dear to the heart of all machine-lovers, was discussed yesterday before faculty and student groups of the college of engineering by Harte Cooke, a nationally recognized authority on the subject.

Cooke met the machine's inventor, Dr. Rudolf Diesel, in Germany more than 40 years ago, and has been active in what he describes as the engine's "evolution" ever since. "Any machine must go through a continuous process of evolution under actual service conditions before it is truly successful," Cooke asserted in an interview yesterday. "Early types of the Diesel were slow in performance and had a relatively low output," he said. "Since its invention these disadvantages have been largely ironed out."

The machine has been brought to such a state of near-perfection that it is ready for use in a great many more fields than formerly, Cooke believes. However, the processes of evolution will continue to go on, he said.

Giving a practical example of his machine - evolution theory, Cooke pointed out that the Diesel used in the "Rocket," streamlined locomotive which now passes through Iowa City, weighs about 30,000 pounds whereas the same type of engine once weighed 400,000 pounds.

The use of the Diesel engine in aircraft is still in more or less of an elementary stage, he said. He does not believe that the Diesel will ever be used in the ordinary automobile because of the type of fuel required, but that it can be and is now used in large trucks and buses.

Cooke met Dr. Diesel only a few months before the inventor died. He was, Cooke said, a "genial fellow with iron gray hair and an enthusiastic twinkle in his eye."

Justen Lists Road Costs

Expenditures Total $255,993.28 Spent In County in 1939

County Engineer Raymond H. Justen listed expenditures on "local county" and "county trunk" roads, which during 1939 totaled $255,993.28, excluding farm-to-market road expenditures, in his annual report on the condition of county road systems and bridges submitted to the county board of supervisors and the state highway commission.

An additional $2,719.41 was named as the amount expended for improvements on farm-to-market roads which was not included in the report's total.

The report contained both construction and maintenance expenditures. Construction work on county trunk roads cost $5,547.92, while on local county roads the expenditure for construction was $118,994.41. According to the report, county roads were maintained at the expense of $18,873.39, and local county roads at $12,578.10.

Permanent grade totaling 32.09 miles has been added to the local county road system during 1939 and 57.52 miles of the system have been surfaced with stone. Surfacing with stone on the county trunk systems included .35, making a total of 61.87 miles of new surfaced roads.

Surfacing of county roads was hastened by the aid of a P.W.A. grant of $59,416.63. The total cost of construction and maintenance on the county road system would have been $219,296.30, exclusive of the P.W.A. grant.

The cost of removing snow on local county roads for 1939 was listed as $1,544.66, and on the county trunk system, $307.74. Actual engineering expenses for the entire year exclusive of office help equaled only 3.59 per cent of the total expenditure, Justen said.

Other officers elected last night include John Gillotti, L1 of Des Moines, vice-president; Paul Bates, A3 of Sioux City, secretary; Leah Ourlicht, A1 of New York, treasurer, and Sam Karchomsky, A3 of Council Bluffs, publicity.

Committee members elected include Kimon Friar, Art Hoffman, A3 of New York, and Sid Schiffer, A1 of Brooklyn, cultural committee; Merle Miller, national commission chairman; Bob Hunt, L3 of Lamoni, international commission chairman, and William Coleman, Ben Epstein, A3 of Sioux City, and Alberta Ewoldt, A3 of Oakland, the campus commission.

Lectures to Lions Club on Infantile Paralysis Symptoms

"Sore throats, headaches, neck aches and vomiting are the early symptoms of infantile paralysis," said Dr. Arthur Steindler, head of orthopedic surgery at University hospital, in his talk yesterday noon, to members of the Lions club in Reich's pine room.

Dr. Steindler admitted that care of cripples will never be completely a national obligation. The roots of the care will remain with the community. Rehabilitation of cripples and a firmly based educational program are still wanting, he continued.

The $8,500 grant received locally last year from the National Infantile Paralysis fund, Dr. Steindler said, was advanced for further research along the lines of advancement of early diagnosis, early prognostication and efficient treatment.

Recreational Center Will Sponsor Dancing Classes

Dancing classes in "American Rhythms" will be added to the Iowa City Recreational Center program this week, according to announcement yesterday by Eugene Trowbridge, Center director.

Beginning Friday afternoon, the classes will be held twice weekly under the leadership of Helen Paulson of the women's physical education department.

The classes will be offered free to Iowa City girls between the ages of 8 and 16. They are scheduled for Tuesday and Friday afternoons at 4:30. After several weeks there will be a public demonstration to show what has been accomplished.

Girls interested in this activity should attend the first session Friday afternoon, Trowbridge said.
