RECONCILIATION--John, Elaine Barrymore Together Once Again in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—After 18 hours of their promised "24 hours of bliss" together, John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie decided to extend their reconciliation indefinitely.

"Indefinite" was the word for it although they sounded tonight as if all once more was nothing but love and kisses in their hectic romance-marriage. They vowed their reconciliation would be permanent; in the next breath Barrymore would add a "we think" or an "if" and thereby indicate that they weren't too sure about it all.

"Great little girl, Elaine," he said before he left a hotel for the second night's Broadway showing of his new play, "My Dear Children."

They have been first friends and then foes since before their first marriage more than three years ago. Once they were divorced and later they reconciled and rewed. Then a year ago they started to play together on the stage as well as in real life, Elaine appearing as the daughter who got spanked in "My Dear Children." Then came another estrangement, with Elaine leaving the play and instituting divorce proceedings once more.

It depended, he said, on Doris Dudley, who took Elaine's place last April. "Doris thinks she has a part in another show," said John, "and if she gets it Miss Barrie will go back to her original role."

though he again played his leading role "straight," as he did last night in returning to Broadway for the first time in 17 years.

Elaine refused to be up-staged by various blood Barrymores and in an early morning break-up it was she who carried off her man after he disdained his own daughter's plea to go home with her—"now!"—from a night club.

well have been cribbed out of "My Dear Children," the well-received vehicle of Barrymore's return to Broadway last night after an absence of some 17 years.

Should Berlin Be Bombed?

In a recent article in "Liberty," H. G. Wells intimates that a sudden merciless bombing of Berlin would undoubtedly be a just reprisal for Germany's intolerance and arrogance in the past.

We feel that Mr. Wells has a rather distorted sense of right and wrong. We think he should be ashamed for writing an article beginning with an admirable humanistic view on future civilization, and ending with a definitely intolerant, uncivilized note.

We wish to assail Mr. Wells for his intense, bitter sponsorship of yet unnecessary, brutal tactics. His attitude is not at all commendable for one who ascribes to be a "great humanitarian."

We believe that other methods—if not certain economic forces already pressing Germany—may be used to crush the Reich's insidious hold on its people.

GOOD MORNING

By JAMES FOX AND BILL BARTLEY

We're all agreed that the libraries are one of the most vital divisions of the university. Like trying to find a live Dodo is the search for the university student who'll express satisfaction at the present housing of the libraries.

In spite of the fact that most everyone will agree that we need new housing for the general library, combining that with reserve, there is some measure of support for the proposition that departmental libraries should remain in their present locations.

When the time comes to erect a new university library, the plans produced may be in entire disagreement with what we here propose. Nevertheless, the case for departmental libraries to supplement a large central library and reading room has one decisive favorable point that must be considered: for the members of the departments concerned, having their books located in the building in which the department is headquartered is most convenient and practical.

That the system of departmental libraries could well be expanded is a suggestion that should not go unnoticed. A junior English major has written an inquiry regarding plans for an English library.

"Last spring I was asked by an English professor," the student states, "to say whether or not I would welcome the establishment of a library of English and American literature, which does not now exist on the campus. As he expressed it, the department wished to sound out undergraduate opinion—and especially the opinion of students planning to major in English.

Did we think that there was a 'real need' of a library of English and American literature covering the whole field and located in a quiet room somewhere on the cam-kept the people militant-minded. We would like to see these people freed for all time from military shackles.

We think that if the German people had a chance to absorb education of democratic aspect, they might someday form one of the most cultured and progressive nationalisms in the world. We would then expect more men like Beethoven, Bach, Goethe, Sudermann, Kant and Mann. For we infer that the only reason these men were able to do any good at all depended on their ability to stay away from the emotionalistic influences the German rulers flaunted continually over the nation's youth.

If Mr. Wells wishes to do something for posterity, we advise him to blast Hitler from his mountain retreat.

Because A Job Is Done Well

John Mason Brown presented another university lecture in Macbride auditorium last night. As proof of his popularity on the Iowa campus, the tickets for his talk were gone in four hours.

Earlier in the year the senate board on university lectures has presented for our pleasure Erika Mann, daughter of a famous novelist and a well known personality, Julian Huxley, brother of the author, Aldous, and other prominent speakers.

All we as students and as faculty members have to do to hear these personalities is to obtain free tickets to the lectures at the Union desk at the announced time. There is always a limited number of tickets, but only because the seating capacity of the auditorium is limited. This is unfortunate, but it cannot be helped.

The senate board on university lectures does its job well. Because board members do try to please us, we, the audience, want to express our thanks. As university students and as faculty members we feel fortunate that the board presents for our approval entertaining and stimulating speakers.

We want the board members to know that the efforts they put forth are deeply appreciated.

They're All Skating

The increased popularity of skating as a winter sport among University students should make the hearts of those who conceived the lagoons and shelter house swell in self satisfaction.

We could mention the fact that the danger of students skating on the uncertain ice of the river has been minimized; but it is more important that the ranks of those who skate have been increased.

The lagoon project is thoroughly justified in the patronage it has received from students.

It's 40 below zero in Moscow, says a news dispatch. Even with Stalin plenty hot under the collar.

1940 SUPPLY AND DEMAND PROBLEM!

Democrats Cast Eyes Towards North For Votes While Republicans Woo 'Solid' South

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

It's a funny thing that the supporters of southern presidential possibilities are advertising their candidates as prospectively excellent vote-catchers in the northland. And boosters for northern possibilities are bragging about their various candidates' supposed popularity in Dixie.

For instance, State Secretary Cordell Hull of Tennessee is perhaps the democrats' outstanding White House hope (if we discount a Rooseveltian "third nomination" for 1940. And Vice President Garner? Some few objections are raised to him, but no objections to him are based on the ground that he's from as far south as Texas.

On the republican side Senator Robert Taft's backers speak of the asserted (by them) fact that the Ohio statesman should have so strong an appeal to the electorate on the lower side of the Mason-Dixon line. Tom Dewey likewise is publicized by his friends for his alleged acceptability to southern folks—though he lives in New York and is a native Michigander.

I can understand that Hull or Garner undoubtedly would be highly satisfactory to the southern states, but that isn't what their advocates urge; they take it for granted as unquestionably, they're sure to be. Their real argument, though, is that either one of the pair would be plenty strong in the northern half of the country.

How about Vandenberg? And what's the ground for the Taft-ites' and Dewey-ites' contention that either one of their two would be especially well liked by southerners? If so, why can't the same thing be said of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan? Yet his partisans haven't suggested it yet. I suppose that Taft-ites and Dewey-ites simply happened to think of the idea first. Maybe the Vandenberg-ites will get around to it later.

Of course, it's true that northerners regularly have been elected to the White House ever since Civil war days.

However, when they've been republicans, the south has been against them. It's just been outvoted, because the north is more populous than the south is. To be sure, there always have been some northern democrats, but not enough of them to offset the northern preponderance of republicans over the combined southern and northern democratic line-up.

Also a few democrats have won the presidency, but all have been northerners. The southerners supported them, but they supported them as the best democrats the south could get. They'd have preferred southerners, but they didn't nominate 'em, because they were sure they'd be beaten at the polls if they did.

"No Use," Said Hull Not so many years ago Secretary Hull (then a senator) told me, "There's no use in talking, presidentially, about a southerner in my time. We're not far enough from the secession period."

I guess he was right then. But he was mistaken in saying "as to HIS time." At the present writing he himself is copiously talked about.

Hull and Garner are a trifle old, but there's no tendency to discrimination against them as southerners.

Nor do Taft and Dewey class as particularly anti-Dixie. On the contrary the G.O.P. plugs them as pro-Dixie-ites.

How it will work is problematic. This is the first time in two or three generations that sectionalism hasn't figured presidentially in pre-campaign calculations. Has it been wiped off the slate as an election issue?

We're liable to get a couple of states that'll tell us in November. Imagine a democratic ticket making a bid for the northern vote! And a republican ticket making a bid for the southern one!

In a queer fashion it would imply that we're reunited.

They Have To Be Sad Honeymooner Tells What Happened To Graf Spee Sailors

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Gregory Taylor, back from an 18,000-mile honeymoon through South America, tells an interesting tale of those interned German sailors who were on the Graf Spee. They're going to work on farms, and receive $20 a month, although this money will not be paid to them personally. It will be set aside in the interest of the German government. Nice government.

While he was there Taylor talked with some of these lads, and one, a blond kid about 18, seemed especially morose and downcast.

"Don't be like that," Taylor urged him. "You're lucky. You won't be killed. You'll live here in safety, with plenty of good food, and a nice place to sleep. Think of all these pretty girls. . ."

With that the fellow broke out laughing, then quickly recovered himself. "See," he said in a whisper, but in excellent English, "we're not supposed to laugh. But we're tickled to death. I wouldn't go back if they paid me. . . None of us is ever going back. . . But we can't say that. We aren't supposed to be happy or even smile. . . That's why all these fellows seem so sad."

On this trip Taylor, who is a New York hotel man (St. Moritz) flew clear across the continent. . . When he went over the Andes he had to keep an oxygen tube in his mouth. . . All the trans-Andes planes are equipped with them.

How do the people live down there? "Marvelously well," he says. "The fruit and the fish are wonderful, but the meat isn't as well cured as ours. But you can go hogwild on a dollar. I visited a ranch in Brazil that took us three days to ride across, and then we didn't see all of it. . . Thousands of acres of vineyards, thousands of head of cattle. . . Everybody working and everybody eating."

Well, what about this bridegroom business; that's a new role for you to play, isn't it?

Have you ever seen a Greek grin? Mr. Taylor is a Greek. He used to pad around the decks of a mackerel boat in the Aegean. . . "Well," says he, "the bride from Egypt. I never saw her until she came to visit the fair last year, but her family and my family are old friends. . . You know how these things go. . . We just decided to get married."

This honeymoon required 44 days and covered 18,000 miles through Chili, Brazil, Argentina, and most of the other countries. . . The finest hotel he found was in Buenos Aires. . . He did some fishing but didn't have much luck. . . He took thousands of pictures, of which the still shots were bad but the movies were wonderful. . . Movies of old ruins which reveal something of a lost civilization.

"That South America is all right," says Taylor, who heretofore thought only Europe would suffice. "With this war, we sure ought to make a lot of new friends."

Little Hawks, River Kings Play Tonight

City High Travels To Clinton Floor After Second Win

City high, hot on the trail of a victory scent, roars into Clinton tomorrow night to clash with the River Kings in a Valley conference game which promises to be a honey of a grudge battle.

Clinton has been beaten by only two teams this year—Davenport, the league leader, and Iowa City, a mere second division ball club. What the Clintonians think about the Little Hawks couldn't be put in print.

Grudge Battle

On the other hand, Iowa City took three straight pastings from Clinton last year, including a district tournament loss, making it the first time Coach Francis Merten lost to Clinton in four years of competition. In other words, there is no love lost between the two quintets.

Since Clinton is coasting along in fourth place in the standings, and Iowa City occupies a lowly eighth place, the Hawkslets will again enter tonight's game on the short end of the odds. To further dim the Red and White hopes, Don Lemons, starting guard, and John Schuppert, substitute guard, have turned up in sick bay this week. Lemons is nursing a badly separated finger, while Schuppert is limping around with a two-fold leg infection.

Holle Dangerous

Clinton, however, will beat full strength for the contest, with Ed Holle, smooth working forward and second high scorer in the conference, pacing their attack. Bob Hill, a bespectacled guard, is also an offensive standout on the well-balanced River King outfit. Coached by Peck Geneva, a young coach with a standout record in his short term of service, Clinton is set to keep its perfect home record intact against Iowa City.

Shifts Lineup

Coach Merten will shift his starting lineup for the third time in as many weeks tonight, with Dick Culberson and Ray Sullivan forwards, Mark Lillick at center, and Jack Fetig and Norman Paukert at the guards.

In the opener, Coach Herb McCormack's freshman-sophomores, who pulled the surprise of the week against Davenport last Friday, will attempt to make up for an early season defeat at the hands of the Clinton sophs. Dave Danner and Joe Lepic will probably start at the forwards for the yearlings, with Bob Roth at center, and Harry Eckhoff and Bill Sangster at guards to complete the combination.

Bettina Set For Apostoli

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—The second showing of the toughest tussles in Madison Square Garden this winter comes off tomorrow night, only this time Fred Apostoli and Melio Bettina will be pitching for a shot at Billy Conn's light-heavyweight crown.

Apostoli, former middleweight champion from San Francisco, was awarded a close decision over the ex-light-heavyweight king a month ago after a 12-round session in which both battlers wound up staggering around from the red hot pace.

Since then, the argument as to whether the verdict in the Frisco bellhop's favor was just, has been one of the big talking points along bash boulevard. A return go was

Freisinger, Horn Rate Favorites In Skate Championships

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP)—National title-holders Leo Freisinger, smooth-striding Chicagoan, and Madeline "Maddy" Horn, Beaver Dam, Wis., star, assumed the roles of favorites tonight for skating's premier event—the north American outdoor championships.

Approximately 200 blade artists assembled for the three-day meet opening tomorrow on Central Park's smooth and fast ice. Weather conditions were termed ideal as officials closed the six-lap track to preserve its excellent surface, forcing early arrivals to work out at nearby rinks.

Freisinger, a member of the Olympic squad, will find his strongest opposition in his teammates, including defending North American champion Charles Leighton, Minneapolis; Eddie Schroeder, Al Kucera and Robert Hackenback, all of Chicago; Del Lamb, Milwaukee and George Schmeck, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Johnny Quigg, Canadian champion, will provide an international flavor to the classic.

Miss Horn, who announced her retirement from competition after winning the national women's crown for the fourth consecutive time at LaCrosse, arrived today, dispelling fears of officials she would not participate in the North American.

Tomorrow's opening card lists ten final races in the seven divisions—men and women's senior, boys' and girls' intermediate and junior, and boys' junior. All classes will compete in the 220-yard dash, with senior men and intermediate boys skating, in addition, the one mile final and senior women's three-quarter mile.

Haas was a teammate of Jimmy Dykes, manager of the White Sox, when they played with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Matmen Set for Gophers

Coach Mike Howard announced yesterday that the Gophers could come anytime now, as he has his undefeated wrestling squad in shape to meet them.

The two unbeaten teams and the 13 undefeated men will attempt to mar each other's season records when they meet on the wrestling mat here Saturday afternoon.

Six members of the Iowa squad were victorious in their first meet, while the Minnesota team has

Blues Face Irish Cagers In City Tilt

Dawson, Red Miller Expected To Lead Two Local Quintets

Starting line-ups:

U-High	St. Patrick's
Evans	Black
Dawson	Grady
Lehman	Holland
Beye	Miller
Bender	Fitzpatrick

Another intra-city battle with plenty of rivalry takes place tonight in U-high gym with two greatly improved teams, St. Patrick's Shamrocks and U-high's Blues fighting for prestige in the local basketball limelight.

Both teams have had impressive warm-ups with University high defeating a strong Anamosa team, 24-21, last Friday night and St. Pat's winning over aggressive St. Mathias, 37-27, Wednesday night.

Black Impressive

Impressive but unlauded to date has been Don Black, Shamrock forward who shifts to guard after the tip-off. Black's passing and defensive work have been strong elements in the Green and White's wins.

Many eyes will be turned on Merle "Red" Miller, little St. Pat's guard when the southsiders take the floor tonight. Miller has grossed, to date, 143 points in 12 games to lead the city scoring. Field goals aren't Miller's only specialty for he fulfills his position at guard as well as capably heading the team as captain.

Another big factor in the Shamrocks' late rejuvenation has been the steady play of Jack Grady and Paul Holland, forward and center.

U-High Shows Fire

U-high still retained the fire that was shown in the last two contests during this week's practice sessions. The northsiders again scrimmaged a quintet from Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and an improvement over the play in previous practice games could be detected. There were no indications that the Blues are about to have the let-down that Coach Brechler expects, but he still feels that his proteges can't keep up their improvement pace.

No U-high cager can be singled out as responsible for the team's inspired play, as the squad has worked as a unit in achieving the recent victories.

The chief cog in the Blue machine has been red-headed Murray Dawson, veteran forward, who is the River school's leading scorer as well as an outstanding defensive player. Jack Evans and Ed Smith alternating at the other forward post, have contributed heavily to the U-high scoring. George Lehman, rangy center, has been an important factor in the success of the scrappy quintet.

The guards have been a bly handled by Cy Beye and Bob Bender who have injected new life into the Rivermen with their ball-grabbing ability under the baskets.

A letter-winner from last year, Bus Smith, who became eligible this semester, will probably see plenty of action in tonight's battle, and his height should greatly aid the Rivermen.

Time Trials Date Changed

Time trials for the Iowa freshman track men will be held Tuesday instead of Monday because of the basketball game on Monday.

The Iowa freshmen are meeting Notre Dame and Ohio State universities in two dual meets. All field events will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 7, while the remainder of the running events will be contested Thursday, Feb. 8.

Ball Players Can't Collect Insurance

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 1 (AP)—No professional baseball players need apply for unemployment compensation in Pennsylvania.

Secretary of labor and industry Lewis G. Hines ruled today that such benefits are provided only for persons "totally unemployed," and added:

"The employment of professional baseball players is on a yearly contract basis, and such players can not qualify as unemployed while under contract to their employer."

Matmen Set for Gophers

seven men with perfect records to date.

Captain Dale Hanson, the highly touted Minnesota captain, is undefeated in 17 dual meets and is the 1939 National Collegiate and Big Ten champion.

Both teams are well balanced, although Minnesota has the edge in number of veterans. Only the 121 pounder and the heavy-weight on the Minnesota team are sophomores, while this is the first season for Ingle, Taylor, Johnson, and Geppert of the Iowans.

The Lineups

Iowa	Class	Minnesota
Sherman	121	Perrizo
Millen	128	Hanson (c)
Ingle	136	Nemer
Taylor	145	Morton
Kemp	155	Janesko
Geppert	165	Schumacher
Whitmore	175	Skogsvold
Johnson	HW	Levy

All-Iowa Banquet To Show Fifteen Of Nile's Awards

Nile Kinnick has received 15 awards since the close of the football season. All of these awards will be on display at the all-Iowa football banquet Feb. 12.

The list of awards includes the Heisman trophy, Walter Camp award, Maxwell trophy, Collier's gold football, watches from Kate Smith, midwest sports writers, and New York Sun; blanket, sweater, and plaque from all-American football board; and the gold key to the city of Philadelphia.

Kinnick will receive the 16th trophy, the silver football from the Chicago Tribune for being voted the Big Ten's most valuable player, between the halves of the Ohio State-Iowa basketball game. This trophy will be presented by Wilfred Smith of the Chicago Tribune sports staff.

Interestingly enough the other two winners of the Tribune award from the University of Iowa will be on hand to see Nile get his trophy. They are Joe Laws, now with the Green Bay Packers, and Willis Glasgow of Cedar Rapids.

Gym Squad Loses Men

Iowa Team Hurt Hard by Injuries; One Letterman Back

Coach Albert Baumgartner has a good claim to the title of hard luck coach of the year, since malaria, sickness, and inactivity has taken the four best men from the University of Iowa gym team, and has left the Hawks without a major letter winner on this year's squad.

The only letterman to have a chance to be in competition this year is Adam Vogel, veteran of two years, who might be able to get into condition after several attacks of influenza. Ray Lipoti, Harold Leffer, and Edward McCloy are minor letter winners who will see action this year. Lyle Felderman and Bill Eastman are outstanding sophomore candidates, with Tom Davis, Harold Eastman and Don Weiss also ready to see action.

Lipoti will probably limit his activities to the side horse, since he is the only experienced man to enter this event. Leffer, McCloy, Vogel and Felderman will perform on the flying rings, with Felderman and Vogel also listed in tumbling, and the horizontal and parallel bars.

Reds Purchase Lenoir

CINCINNATI, (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds added the Lenoir, N. C., club to their farm system yesterday by outright purchase. It was the second acquisition since baseball commissioner Kenesaw M. ### Delta Upsilon Nips Sigma Nu, 27 to 21 In Intramural Tilt

Four games were played in the intramural basketball tourney last night as the class B fraternity league teams went back into action.

Delta Upsilon handed Sigma Nu a 27-21 defeat in a fast and rough battle. The D. U.'s took an early lead to take a 11-4 margin at the end of the first period of the game. But the losers rallied in the second period of play to come within three points and were on the short end of a 15-12 score at the end of that period.

Delta Chi won easily over Gamma Eta Gamma by the score of 38-10. McKinnon starred for the winners with 10 points and Dean accounted for 10. Wagner caged eight of the 10 points for the losers.

Theta Tau downed Delta Sigma Delta, 26-20. Hirt paced the winning team by caging 14 points. May was next with nine. Schwin was high scorer for Delta Sigma Delta with seven points.

Sigma Chi nosed out Phi Gamma Delta in a close game by the score of 27-23. Ivie sparked the winners with 11 points, while DeLapp notched 14 for Phi Gamma Delta.

Tops Loop Complete Auto Trims West Branch

The height of Floyd DeHeer, six foot, eight inch center, was converted into an easy victory by Complete Auto last night at the community building, as the Servicemen ran up a 53 to 21 win over West Branch. Jefferson Hotel came back to life after two losses to whip Dysart's, 32 to 15 in the nightcap.

DeHeer, a former University of Iowa basketball player, poured in 22 points for Complete Auto, and with the able assistance of Joe McGinnis and "Knobby" Walsh, the Servicemen turned the game into a top-sided affair. The victory places Complete Auto at the top of the City league with five wins and no setbacks.

Jefferson Hotel finally eluded the jinx that has been present since the opener, and easily took the measure of Dysart's 32 to 15. Al Huiskamp continued to lead hotel boys in the scoring column when he netted eight free throws and a field goal for a ten point total. "Babe" Herring was the outstanding player for Dysart's during the encounter.

Badgers Ineligible

MADISON, Wis., (AP)—Three University of Wisconsin basketball players, including Bob Schwartz of Madison, regular forward, were declared ineligible last night for the rest of the season, following mid-year examinations. The other ineligible are Bob Nelson, reserve forward from South Bend, Ind., and Bob Sims, second string guard from Chicago. A fourth squad member, Lester Sander, Madison sophomore center, has left school.

"If baseball is to be dominated and controlled by any selfish group," MacPhail said, "it won't be long before professional football or some other sport will succeed as the great national game, and that none of us want."

AROUND THE BIG TEN

W. H. (Billy) Thom, wrestling coach at Indiana seems to be having his share of troubles this season. Early last fall Thom made the statement that his wrestling team this year would be one of the finest in the school's history. However, things have been happening since then and the Hoosier coach finds seven of his men will be watching their teammates perform on the mat while they're on the bench. One grappler is scholastically ineligible, a promising 150-pounder was run over by a truck, three are out with injuries and two are spending their time in the hospital with various ailments.

Dick Fahrback and Art Highland, swimmers at Northwestern, seem to have a personal feud between them. While enrolled in Lane Tech in Chicago, Fahrback set a new record of :53.9 in the 100 yard dash, breaking Highland's former mark of :55.6. Highland then came to Northwestern, setting a new school mark of :51.5 in the 100 and Fahrback is now set to lower that record.

Ohio State and Pittsburgh have been added to Indiana's 1942 grid schedule. They will also meet Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and Purdue.

Three University of Wisconsin Event Trophies were awarded to Walter Mehl, regarded as the greatest distance runner in Badger track history. Mehl won the Erwin J. Dohmen cup for the mile, the George Benish trophy for the two mile and the William B. Geldie Trophy for the outstanding varsity cross country man.

Waistlines Will They Be Long Or Short?

Longer, shorter — longer, shorter — what will the silhouette be for spring? Will the hip-length waistlines of the 20's be back or will flattering princess styles continue?

The old Indian signs for spring point to an early thaw and short skirts with a definite flair. Waistlines will be curved in, often belted in front and usually shirred. The newest touch will be the bloused waist which fits tightly at the natural waistline. Suit coats and jackets are longer than ever, however, coming well below the waist.

Pay no heed to the pessimists. The 1929 "tubular" figure will not be back in 1940.

To Duplicate Film Bulletin

U. S. Film Service To Use Iowa Advice About Care of Films

Advice on the use and care of educational films, prepared at the University of Iowa, soon will be duplicated by the United States Film Service for distribution with government films.

A. A. Mercey, assistant director of the organization which makes and releases all government films, has requested permission to reproduce the bulletin of the university's extension division.

The government man declared that he was impressed by the summary in "concrete" form, covering such points as cleaning and checking projector, threading film and operating, and returning films.

Lee Cochran, supervisor of the visual education department, who prepared the bulletin, said that 2,000 copies were sent to users of films, including schools and libraries. All visual instruction directors in educational institutions also received a copy.

Newman Club Starts First Group Discussion About 'Marriage, Catholic Church'; To Meet Weekly

To discuss "Marriage and the Catholic Church" several groups under Newman club sponsorship were formed Wednesday evening at a meeting of the club.

Dividing the groups into two general classes, Bill Mulry, M3 of Emmetsburg, is chairman of the medical discussion group and Bob Chase, A3 of Fort Dodge, is chairman of the liberal arts groups. The medical discussion group will be principally interested in medical ethics and questions debatable in medical relations.

Three groups were formed under the liberal arts classification. Temporary leaders are Jean Foley, A2 of Manson; Marion Kennedy, A3 of Estherville, and Bob Chase. They will confer on marriage in the modern viewpoint associated with the Catholic church.

Participation in the discussion groups is open principally to Newman club members but anyone interested may attend. Meetings will be held once a week for a period of about eight weeks. Information regarding the time and place of the meeting may be obtained by calling any of the discussion leaders.

Discussion club activity is cooperative and leaders and members take part. Members in turn read aloud a passage from a booklet while the others follow silently. The leader directs and develops discussion through the "discussion aids" based on the subject matter of the chapter. A small booklet titled, "Marriage and the Catholic Church" is used by the group.

Father Donald Hayne, leader of Newman club activities, will visit the groups and will attempt to answer any questions that cannot be decided by the group. This is the group. This is the first attempt by any Newman club to start such a timely and debatable subject for discussion.

There are eight to 14 members in each group. Subjects such as mixed marriages and best marriages will be discussed.

Democratic Homes Aid Adjustment Real 'Personality Plus' Girls Have Realistic Training—Mrs. Brown

The screen may produce girls with "it" and "oomph," but the real "personality plus" girls are those from democratic homes. Well-adjusted responsible girls with "A-Number-One" personalities come from democratic realistic homes, according to a recent study by Mrs. Helen M. Brown, a graduate student under the direction of Prof. Ralph H. Ojemann of the Iowa child welfare research station.

Selecting 60 girls of high school age from several mid-western states, Mrs. Brown studied their home environments to determine tendencies in personalities.

Adaptable realistic training for girls and traditional training were the two extremes of home environment studied.

"I was brought up this way, so it's all right for my daughter," or, "Everybody does this"—such were the contentions of many a fond parent, Mrs. Brown encountered, advocating traditional training.

In contrast, other parents urged their girls to develop their own initiative, assume responsibilities, and to adjust themselves to problems in everyday life.

Contrasting home environments lation between these scores and the scores for family adjustment, for democratic methods in handling family questions, and for the girl's use of realistic methods in handling her own affairs.

Mr. Brown found that certain factors caused exceptions to the general rule on the personality scores. In one case the influence of a father who believed in "work and plenty of it," was modified by the mother who realized that her daughter ought to have some time with her friends and have the same opportunity to do as they did. In other cases the girl "belonged" or "rated" with a social group. This was more important to her than her family's influence, and resulted in a higher personality score than might have been expected on the basis of the usual group trend.

Community life was another factor which influenced results. In a group where only one type of behavior was accepted as "normal" or "good," girls whose parents fitted into this pattern, even though it was based on tradition and custom, showed higher personality scores than the trend.

Mrs. Brown concluded in her study that on the whole girls from homes which were democratic and realistic made better personality scores.

Davies Says 1939 Business Has Minor Shifts, No Trends

Evidence for and against recent improvement in the state's business is about evenly divided, Prof. George R. Davies of the college of commerce reports in the current issue of the Iowa Business Digest published by the University of Iowa.

"After seasonal factors are discounted, recent data indicate only minor shifts, but no significant trend. However, the year 1939 as a whole compared with 1938 averages four or five per cent in advance."

Professor Davies said that the recent holiday trade was about four per cent in advance of the previous year, as compared with an estimated eight per cent advance in the nation as a whole. National gains of recent months apparently have not been fully reflected in the state.

December gains over marks of the previous year included industrial payrolls, 15.2; business building contracts, 11.5; employment, 9.4 and department store sales, 2.9.

Nationally, the new year got off to a good start, Professor Davies recognize his government and which does not even admit it is "waging a war against Finland." Russia invaded Finland two months ago.

Firmly and proudly Kallio insisted, despite the second peace offer, that Finland will not cringe before "imperialistic aims." This he reiterated in general the previous offer of peaceful negotiations made on December 15 by Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner, in a broadcast message to Soviet Premier V. Molotov.

Moscow's Reply
The only reply was an authorized Moscow statement dealing with Russia's expulsion from the League of Nations which said the Soviet-proclaimed "people's government" was the only one Moscow recognized in Finland and that Russia's relations with this so-called regime were "peaceful and friendly." Soviet statements usually refer to the Kallio government and its armies as "Finnish white guards."

Kallio's speech, containing a reference to Finland's repugnance at "destroying people innocent of this war," was made while the Russian armies continued stubbornly to try to advance, with the aid of constant reinforcements, on the Petsamo and Salla fronts in the Arctic and on the furiously contested flank of the Mannerheim line, northeast of Lake Ladoga.

Finn Report Success
Finnish reports continued to say that these attacks were repulsed, and that assaults intended to cover reinforcing movements in the Ladoga sector resulted in heavy red army losses. Finnish pincers, the high command said, were tightened on a disorganized Russian offensive with the defeat of a Russian force which tried to take one of the offshore islands at the east end of the frozen lake.

Dispatches from Tallinn meanwhile tended to support reports that Soviet air bases in Estonia had been damaged by bombs dropped from a fleet of 34 Finnish planes. At Baltiski, one Soviet airbase, several planes and hangars were reported destroyed in a surprise raid. Now the coastal city of Kuessar and the airbase

GROUNDHOG FORGETS SHADOW

Here's Mr. Groundhog, enticed from his winter burrow by pretty Margaret Humm, 17-year-old Tunxutawney, aP., girl. And is Mr. Groundhog going about his business looking for that shadow of his? Not so you could notice it! He took one look at Margaret and forgot all about his job as a weather prophet. Now we don't know weather winter is over or only half over.

Unfair Labor Practices

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 1 (AP)—Unfair labor practices were charged to the Cudahy Packing co., Sioux City, by the national labor relations board in a complaint issued by the eighteenth region office here today. Company representatives were cited to appear at a hearing Feb. 19 in the federal court house in Sioux City. An appeal by the company from the 1938 board order is pending before the United States circuit court of appeals.

Former Iowa Citizen Dies

DES MOINES (AP) — Funeral service will be held at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at a funeral home here for Stephen A. Swisher Jr., 46, insurance man who died Thursday. He was born and reared in Iowa City.

Islands of Oesel and Dajo are blacked out at night on orders from Moscow.

Reports that Italian pilots have carried out these bombings have captured popular interest here, but are lacking confirmation. The Finnish claims of constant military success have contained no estimate of Finnish military casualties, and the Soviet attacks continue. Thus President Kallio's appeal today was based on sombre realities.

(It followed a prediction by the Finnish minister to France, Dr. Harri Holma, that the Finnish army is "condemned to death" if it does not get sufficient material help against Russia.)

Today Kallio, expressing Finland's thanks for foreign aid, especially Sweden's, declared: "We sincerely hope the term 'humanitarian help' may be made to cover civilian air defense and anti-aircraft equipment, and that such help may be given us for protection of the population behind the front from an aggressor who uses the air force in a most inhuman manner against civilians." Sweden, he went on, "has shown her identity of late with us. In addition to bountiful material help, well-equipped volunteer forces have come from their to help us."

Mable Produces Negro Play For 'First Nighters' Club

Further proof of the worthiness of Prof. E. C. Mable's purpose in his experimental theater was added Wednesday night when Paul Green's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "In Abraham's Bosom," was produced in the studio theater annex. Green's play is the tragedy of a Negro educator and 10 Negroes interpret the full emotional drama. There are two white people in the cast.

The aim of the experimental theater is to give students in the dramatic arts department a chance to work out all types of problems in the production of a play. Since it is an "experiment" for Professor Mable's proteges, the performances are not open to the general public. For the privilege of attending, members of the "First Nighters" club write criticisms for the benefit of the people involved in the production.

Carrying leading roles in this tragedy of miscegenation are Arthur Clifton Lamb, G of Prairie View, Tex., as Abraham McCranie and Carolyn Stewart, G of Charleston, W. Va., as Goldie McAllister. The only white people in the cast were Elmo Martz, A2 of Grand River, Mich., as Colonel McCranie and Fred Keller, A3 of Grand

Iowa City's $750,000 High School Open for Public Inspection Today

Dedication Ceremonies Are Tonight

Students, Teachers To Display Building During Afternoon

Today is open house at Iowa City's new $750,000 high school, and during the afternoon public inspection of this elaborate structure will be permitted.

A turkey and fish dinner will be served from 4 to 7 o'clock in the high school cafeteria, which is operated by the students.

Dedication ceremonies will begin at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium. Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the college of education will present the main address of the evening.

The new auditorium has a seating capacity of over 1,000, and is equipped with the latest technical features of lighting and sound.

No Classes in Afternoon

High school classes will be suspended in addition to permit inspection of the entire plant. Students and instructors will conduct tours through the building between 2 and 7:45. Iver A. Opstad, superintendent, recommended joining one of these tours in order to see the complete layout of the new plant.

During the day, there will be demonstrations of the new communication system by which the principle's office may talk to persons in class rooms and persons about the building may also communicate with the office. Demonstrations of lighting effects and mechanical equipment will also be made.

Miss Sannelson Speaks

In addition to the main address by Professor Ensign, others on the program will include Agnes Sannelson, former state superintendent of public instruction, now secretary of Iowa State Teachers' association; R. A. Radford, regional director of the P.W.A.; Dr. George Marsh, a member of the school board and chairman of the building committee 1939-40, and Willis W. Mercer, chairman of the building committee 1937-1939.

John Leonard Hamilton, a Chicago architect, will make the formal presentation of the building which will be accepted by Albert E. Sidwell, president of the board of education.

Bus Service

Additional bus service will be provided both before and after the ceremonies for the expected crowds. Drives, walks and parking lots have been cleared of snow for the convenience and safety of pedestrians and motorists.

Large crowds of out-of-town guests have been anticipated by high school officials, and every possible effort has been made to eliminate possible congestion.

Charlotte Braun in Opera

To Play Dolores in Herbert's 'Serenade'; Second Local Appearance

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of character sketches about members of the University of Iowa cast of Victor Herbert's opera, "The Serenade," to be presented here next week.)

Charlotte Braun, 44 of Muscatine, who will play the part of "Dolores," the much-courted ward of the Duke of Santa Cruz, in the University of Iowa music department's forthcoming presentation of Victor Herbert's "The Serenade" next Wednesday and Friday evenings, will be making her second local appearance on the stage.

Several years ago she enacted the only feminine role in the junior college contest play, "The Boor," at University theater.

Before coming to the university she sang leading roles in high school operettas in Muscatine. She is soloist in the First Presbyterian church choir at Muscatine and has been heard in recital over radio station WSUL. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

As Dolores in "The Serenade," her favor is sought by both the Duke, her guardian, and by Alvarado, a troubadour who, to the Duke's anguish, wooes her by singing the famous "Serenade."

The Duke, who is extremely short-sighted, thinks every singer of the popular "Serenade" is Alvarado and consequently is in constant trouble from attempting to arrest the wrong party.

Tickets for the opera are priced at one dollar each and are reserved for the past year.

Conservationists Will Hold Dam Hearing in Iowa City

Collectors To Help City Tax Payers At Local Post Office

February 14 Date Set To Hear Public's Reaction To Project

DES MOINES, Feb. 1 (AP)—The state conservation commission will hold a public hearing at the courthouse in Iowa City at 9 a. m., Feb. 14, on the proposed Coralville flood control project, conservation director M. L. Hutton announced today.

The commission recently passed a resolution urging the federal government to abandon plans for the $6,000,000 project, but is reconsidering at the request of Governor George A. Wilson.

The governor has not taken sides in the controversy. He received the protests of groups interested in construction of the dam and reservoir, after the conservation commission had expressed disapproval of the project, and asked the commission to give these groups a hearing.

The attorney general's office issued an opinion to the effect that the conservation commission has sole authority to act for the state in the matter.

Barrymore--

was abetted by Doris Dudley, blonde daughter of Critic Bide Dudley who plays one of Barrymore's "dear children" in the somewhat biographical Barrymore play.

The fair Diana, now an actress too, shook her little fists and offered to fight once for her father.

Then under the shepherding of Diana and others, Barrymore went to Fefe's Monte Carlo after the show.

Words began to fly the moment the Barrymore party stepped into the night club.

There was Elaine. After a bit of jockeying, she was sitting at the Barrymore table amid both hostile and loving glances.

"I can not go on without you," breathed Elaine.

"I do not want you back for keeps," she said. "All I want is 24 hours of bliss. Look at me, John."

The great profile turned to her low-cut gold late evening gown.

"You are like the breath of spring," said John, leaning over and kissing her.

This tete-a-tete was surrounded by icicles.

Diana huffed away dancing. Then she returned and said: "This is my father. We are Barrymores. You have nothing in common with us. Please go."

"That may be," retorted Elaine, who first won her man by getting into his hospital room as a Hunter college newspaper interviewer.

"That may be," she went on sweetly, "but I know him a lot better than any other Barrymore does. I'm staying."

"Father," pleaded Diana, "will you come home with me—now? No? Then I'm going." And she did.

Doris Dudley tried. She went over to the Barrymore table.

"Well," said Miss Dudley, speaking in her right as a stage daughter of Barrymore, "you've won, haven't you, my little conqueror?"

"Yes, I'm the first now," replied Elaine.

"You mean the fourth," corrected Miss Dudley, referring to Elaine's place in the Barrymore matrimonial chronology.

"And where do you come in?" asked Elaine.

"Oh, I'm about sixth."

"Well, you can stop counting, because I'm going to be the last," snapped Elaine.

It was Miss Dudley who took Miss Barrie's place in "My Dear Children," on the road.

Theater--

For extraordinary performances, Brown nominated Tallulah Bankhead in "The Little Foxes" and Helen Hayes in "Ladies and Gentlemen." Adding a cryptic note, however, Brown remarked that Miss Hayes' performance following her "Queen Victoria," resembled an abdication.

Evading a review of the "New Hell-a-poppin," Brown passed to other musical comedies, including "DuBarry Was A Lady" and "Too Many Girls." Of the former, Brown asserted "the whole point of the play was to illustrate that DuBarry was not a lady," recommending the production as "all right" unless one is hypersqueamish.

"I mention these tragedies, comedies, and musical plays with a singing happiness," said Brown in conclusion, "and so long as a great people are willing to live by the values of the theater, the world, in spite of its chaotic condition, will end neither with a bang nor with a whimper."

During this season of war, Brown said, "I would look to the theater as a spangled palace of forgetfulness."

Runaway Boys Are Found Hiding in Coralville Garage

Two youths who escaped from the Soldier's orphan home at Davenport yesterday afternoon were captured at 9 o'clock last night in the garage of Councilman Harold Breece at Coralville.

The two gave their names as John Skinner, 15, and James Taylor, 17.

J. A. Brandstatter, Coralville marshal, brought the boys to the Iowa City police station, where they were held last night. Police said they will be returned to Davenport today.

Brandstatter said a group of Coralville residents started a search for the youths after others reported the two had asked for lodging for the night at different homes.

Breece said he first suspected someone near his garage when he approached in his automobile. He said the doors which he had left open had been closed during his absence.

The boys, he said, were lying on some storm windows suspended across rafters in the garage when they were discovered.

The two youths did not disclose their identity until they had arrived at the local police station.

Their belongings included a pair of red and green striped stockings, a pair of pliers, a small pipe, two coins denoting membership to a national commercial boys' club, a brown leather strap and a billfold.

Heat Or Shadow? High Temperatures Greet Groundhog As He Has His Day

Yesterday's "severe heat wave" was all Mr. Groundhog asked as a prelude to his annual appearance in Iowa City this morning. Maybe he wants to see his shadow, but hundreds of scarf huggers and overcoat mongers would rather see it cloudy.

Yesterday's high of 37 stood for the warmest day since Dec. 24, when mercury reached a degree higher. The high mark was 10 above normal with the low of 27 standing 17 above mean.

If you think that's hot, remember a year ago? Mercury touched 48.
