Russia Hurls New Thousands Against Battered Mannerheim

Finns Resort To Bayonets, Hand Grenades

Finnish Declare 700 Reds Killed In Newest Onslaught

HELSINKI, Feb. 10 (Saturday) (AP)—Soviet Russia hurled her troops against the Mannerheim line throughout Friday night in such great numbers that the Finns reported early today that Finnish troops were resorting to bayonets and hand grenades because of temporary exhaustion of their ammunition supplies.

Finland's front line, running into the thousands, were sprawled in the snows in front of the line and that hundreds of wounded were left to die because of an apparent breakdown in the Russian transportation system in the rear.

Batter Unsuccessfully

The central section of the isthmus front, between Pununjoki and Panuri, bore the brunt of the fighting, and the Finns asserted that the Russians had lost more than 700 men as they battered unsuccessfully against the line's outer fortifications with tanks, artillery and planes.

Still Attacking

Despite these setbacks, the Finns said, the Russians still were attacking along the entire length of the front.

Repulsed In North

Northern advances said the Russians had been repulsed in an attempt to capture the arctic town of Hoyhenjarvi, about 60 miles south of Petsamo.

Louis Shades Arturo Godoy in 15 Rounds

Joe Unable To Stop Foe In Fierce Go

Chilean Carries Fight To Champion, But Bomber Keeps Crown

By SID FEDER
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 9 (AP)—"The South American way," going from the sublime to the ridiculous as portrayed by Arturo Godoy, gave Joe Louis the toughest battle of his heavyweight championship run tonight, but wasn't good enough to take fistiana's highest crown from the Brown Bomber's kinky head.

Louis weighed 203, Godoy 202. For fifteen rounds, the champion was at times befuddled, and some times hurt by the Chilean fisherman's crouching, crowding tactics, but in the end he came on like a real "boss" to take a split decision in what Referee Arthur Donovan, who has been the third man in the ring for all the Bomber's battles here, insisted was the "hardest, toughest" test Joe had ever had.

Godoy Was Hero

Yet, although Joe won cleanly and clearly, as the crowd of 15,657 roared to the bruising, mauling match, the real hero of the affair was the South American, who took the dusky dynamiter's "Sunday punch" time after time and still came on, crowding Louis against the ropes and giving him trouble with long overhead lefts.

In the final analysis, it appeared the greatest knocker-outer since Dempsey—and rated by many as the greatest of the big men for all time—was no longer the killer he was in ruining Max Schmeling and John Henry Lewis in less than a round, in ripping Tony Galento's face apart last summer, and in chalking up a string of eight consecutive title knockouts in his record run of nine consecutive title defenses.

Never In Danger

It's true that the bobbing, bouncing Arturo of the Andes was probably a more rock-chinned challenger than any Joe has had to face to date, but the fact remains that Louis was 1 to 15 to flatten the South American long before the route had been run. And he not only failed to flatten him—but he didn't even come close to putting his pants on the floor.

The Associated Press score card gave Louis ten rounds, including all of the last five, and voted arrogant Arturo, who didn't even have the least bit of fear of the champion's famed fistic explosives, five heats.

Referee Donovan voted in this way, too, while George Lecron, one of the judges, handed ten rounds to Louis, four to Arturo and one even. The other judge, Tommy Shortell, awarded the fight to Godoy, ten rounds to five.

Boos greeted the decision from a great part of the crowd, which contributed to a gross gate of $88,523.89. But this was regarded as largely a "sentimental expression" on the part of the faithful.

Seabiscuit Runs 3rd in Race; Loses to Heelfly, Sun Egret

Turf's Ex-Champion Finishes Strong In Seven-Furlong Race

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9 (AP)—Seabiscuit came back to the turf warts after a year's lay-off today and ran a creditable third to Heelfly and Sun Egret in a seven-furlong race at Santa Anita park.

Seventeen thousand fans turned out under clear skies to see the seven-year-old ex-stake champion run his initial "comeback" race in a campaign to reach the post in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap March 2.

George W. Stratton's Heelfly, 1937 rival of Seabiscuit, took charge of the string entering the stretch, overhauling the pacesetter Sun Egret and coming on in to win by a length. A. C. Compton's Sun Egret finished two lengths ahead of Charles S. Howard's Biscuit.

The time for the distance was 1:23. Heelfly paid $12.80, $4.40 and $2.80; Sun Egret $3.80 and $2.80; Seabiscuit $2.80.

Seabiscuit, retired after injuring an ankle at Santa Anita last Feb. 14, apparently came out of the race in good shape, and was going strong at the finish.

Penna, Oliver, Hogan Leading In Golf Meet

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 9 (AP)—Golfers robots, the winter four professionals, mocked cruel weather conditions today and dragged par through sleet, rain, stiff winds, bitter cold and finally a burst of sunshine in the opening round of the $5,000 Texas Open.

On top after a day of plowing through the mud were chubby Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., and chunky Tony Penna, Dayton, Ohio, all with five-under-par 66's on the par 36-35-71 Brackenridge park course.

Oliver, recent winner of the Bing Crosby and Phoenix tournaments, started with the weather cutting its worst capers and did the first nine in 33. Three more birdies rattled off his muddy sticks on the last nine, but he three-putted one hole for a bogie.

Penna, also caught in the early cold, struck his most damaging blows on the last nine, skidding in putts of all lengths to get a 31, best nine of the day.

Silent Ben Hogan, the home-grown Texan, closed his round late in the sun swept afternoon with four birdies on the last six holes to slip into the three-way tie.

Stooped Ralph Guldahl, the Texas boy who won the '37 and '38 national open titles but who has been searching in vain for his old touch, shot himself to the sidelines with a 41-39—80 to become the most prominent casualty. Just as bad off was dapper Paul Runyan with a 77, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden was eight shots off the pace at 74.

Cunningham Loses PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Glenn Cunningham, trackdom's tired old man, ran second to Chuck Fenske once more last night, trailing the Wisconsin runner by four feet at the finish of the Penn A.C. mile, feature of the third annual Penn A.C. indoor meet. The time was 4:15.5, a new meet record.

Iowa Swimmers Down Gophers Easily, 56-28

Dizzy Rejects Cubs' Offer Of 10,000 Bucks

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—Jerome Herman Dean today definitely joined the Chicago Cubs' holdout brigade.

"I'll starve to death before I pitch ball for $10,000 a year," said Dean explosively at the end of a futile two-hour conference with Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs.

Dean, paid $20,000 last season when he won only six games, had demanded $15,000 for 1940. Wrigley's offer was $10,000. After two hours of discussion, Wrigley stopped for a moment where newspapermen and photographers were waiting in another office, and said:

"Your subject will be out in just a minute." Then he started down a hall.

"Wait a minute," urged a reporter. "You're our subject... at least a part of it."

"Not me," replied the retreating Wrigley. "I'm back in the gum business... thank God."

A couple of minutes later Dizzy appeared.

"I ain't signed," the famous hurler began. "He offered me $10,000. I wanted $15,000. I'll starve to death before I sign for that. I'll go back to my farming place near Dallas. But there ain't no hard feelings between us. It's just business after all."

Dean said he did not expect any further conferences with Wrigley, although he will remain in Chicago until Monday.

Dizzy was asked: "Wouldn't you take Wrigley's word of a bigger chunk of dough if you proved your arm was okay?"

"No, siree," he replied. "That ain't my way of doing business."

Hawks Take Firsts in All But One Event

Ahlgren Batters 200 Free Style Mark; Wenstrom Takes Two

By BOB HOWARD
Scoring eight wins out of nine events, the University of Iowa swimming team retained its undefeated status by smothering the University of Minnesota's Golden Gophers 56 to 28 at the field house pool last night. Minnesota, previously unbeaten in four starts, was no match for the Hawkeys.

Carl Ahlgren and Don Wenstrom led the Black and Gold avalanche with 10 points apiece. Ahlgren broke a university record set last week against Illinois by his running mate, Russ Dotson, in the 200 yard free style. His time of 2:16.8 bettered Dotson's record by two-tenths of a second. He also won the 440 yard free style event. Wenstrom, a sophomore, won the 60 yard and 100 yard free style sprints.

Minnesota's only win came in the last event, the 400 yard free style relay. Ringer, sophomore breast-stroker star for the Gophers, lost a disappointing race to Poulos of the Hawkeys in the 200 yard distance. The Minnesota lad became confused on his starting instructions and thought the final gun meant only one lap to go instead of two laps to the finish. Consequently he pulled in ahead of the Iowa boy at the end of the first lap and stopped. Poulos went on to win easily.

Ringer was high point man for the Gophers with second places in the 60 yard free style and the breast-stroke. Robinson, former Navy star, won a second in the 220 and third in the 440 for Minnesota.

Co-Capt. Al Armbruster came through with a first in his specialty, the 150 yard back stroke, and was also on the winning medley relay team. Al, incidentally, is one of the few backstrokers in the United States who can go 100 yards in less than a minute. Leo Biedrzycki played turn about with team-mate Vic Vargon by placing first ahead of Vargon in the low board fancy diving. Last week Vic won the event against Illinois while Biedrzycki pulled in second.

As an added feature to the meet, Ed Gerber, president of the Dolphin club presented Iowa Coach Dave Armbruster with a split second stopwatch. Mr. Armbruster has been coaching Iowa swimming teams for 25 years.

Missed free throws: Dawson, Lehman 2, Evans 2, McCabe 2.

The U-high Bluehawks met defeat last night at the hands of West Liberty in an eastern Iowa conference game played at West Liberty by a score of 21-16.

The expert long shooting of the Libertys, especially of Nichols and Walker, saved the day and spelled defeat for the Iowa Citizens. They could not break through a tight zone defense so they resorted to shooting over it. Luckily this plan of offense met with success.

Standout for the U-high team in the losing battle was little Cy Beye with his five and a half feet of defensive strategy. He was aided by teammates who were impotent as scorers but who committed only three personal fouls.

The Bluehawks kept themselves in the ball game by making eight of thirteen free throws attempted. Their opponents made one of the three charity tosses given them. The difference in the score can be blamed on the missing of set-up shots by the U-high bunch which let the game slip away from them. The boys had the opportunities to tie up the game but muffed them.

PRESSBOX PICKUPS

By OSCAR HARGRAVE

Monday night's game is a battle of the ex-champs to stay in the running for the Big Ten's cage title. Ohio State, defending champ, has won two and lost two to date in conference competition. The Bucks won all but two last year, so they can't afford to lose Monday if they expect to do as good as last year.

Three members of the title team are playing for the Bucks, but Jimmy Hull, high scoring captain, isn't on the team. The holdovers are Schick, Sattler and Lynch. Three members of the Ohio State outfit, incidentally, are named John.

Hawkeye athletic teams have won eight games this year while losing five, with one tie on the records. Much, he said, remains for the winter sports teams to do if they plan to keep the balance where it belongs—on the cheerful side of the Iowa ledger.

When Iowa followers think of a basketball player who can sink the free throws, they remember Benny Stephens. The record of Stephens, who scored over 550 points in his college career, was one that included few missed charity attempts. Vic Siegel, top point getter this year, has counted 28 free throws while missing eight for a 77 per cent average.

Those who watch the fieldhouse report that two former all-American gridders have struck up an acquaintance. Nile Kinnick, Iowa's star of last fall, and Sam Francis, one-time all-American from Nebraska, have been seen in conversation at the handball courts and around the fieldhouse.

The list of tragic figures has been enlarged to include G. K. Hodenfield, dean of local sports writers. "Hod" has been here for something like four years. Always, he says, he has wanted to follow the Iowa baseball team through its spring trip to the south. This year he thought that would be possible.

What happened? He has plenty of work to do when there are athletic contests going on here and he finds that the Hawkeye diamondmen will leave while the state high school basketball tournament is going on. Which means that he will work and remain in the cold north.

With Dick Culbertson and Ray Sullivan providing the scoring punch, the Iowa City Hawklets defeated Boone's Treadors here last night, 35 to 23.

The Little Hawks' offense was stopped early in the game by the aggressive play of the Boone guards. The Treadors scored easily in the first quarter using a fast break that caught the Iowa Citizens flat-footed.

In the second quarter the Merntemen began to bottle up Boone's ace, Ray Eytcheson, and he was limited to two baskets during the game.

Meanwhile Culbertson came to life and gave City high three baskets from his pivot position near the free throw area.

In the second half the Hawklets bottled up the Boone boys' break by dropping back to intercept long passes. About this time Ray Sullivan went on a scoring rampage and contributed four baskets to the local cause.

Senior Hop Scheduled for March 8; Barristers' Ball Changed to March 1

Dates Shifted On University Party Schedule

Orchestra Problems Cause Date Reversal For Lawyers, Seniors

By STAFF WRITER

The dates of two university parties, the all-university Senior Hop and the closed Barristers' Ball, have been changed, it was announced last night by Dean Ewen M. MacEwen of the college of medicine, chairman of the university social committee.

The Senior Hop will occur March 8; the Barristers' Ball, annual party of the college of law, March 1. Originally the two dates of the parties had been reversed.

It all happened like this: The committee for the Senior Hop, a formal party, had almost engaged the band of their choice for the March 1 party. At the last minute, before contracts had been signed, Student Auditor Virgil Copeland received a wire from the agency through which the Hop band was being booked.

Band Unavailable
The band in question, it seemed, couldn't come March 1. He could definitely play at Iowa on March 8. Could the party committee make arrangements to conform?

March 8 was the date of the Barristers' Ball. The committee chairman for the Senior Hop contacted the chairman of the Barristers' Ball committee, at Dean MacEwen's suggestion.

The barristers' committee was more than willing to cooperate, but while a band hadn't actually been booked, the committee had a definite choice in mind. If their band could come on the new March 1 date, it was O. K.

But the barristers' band couldn't. More telephone calls to Chicago ensued.

New Band Turns Up
In subsequent negotiations, a new band became available for March 1. The Barristers' Ball committee preferred him to their former choice.

The deals were closed, to the ultimate satisfaction of both committees.

Which is something like the incident told in university circles of the non-studious Iowa man who transferred to a different institution, thereby raising the individual grade point averages of both universities.

INDIANS--Something of Their Ability To Speak-And Buy 20c Sundaes for 5c

By ALICE FOLSOM
Two years ago John Snidecor, who is now a graduate student in the speech department, stood before a council of Bannock and Shoshone Indian chiefs in southwestern Idaho, and asked for their permission to study certain problems of speech, especially stuttering, among the Indians.

Finding out that none of the Indians present had heard of the term stuttering or knew what it meant, he described it to them by imitating common stuttering patterns. Much to his surprise, one of the older Indians said, "Him talk like Left-Hander."

Contacting a number of people who knew "Left-Hander," Snidecor learned that he was a half-breed Indian living on the reservation who stuttered, and that his handedness had in all probability been changed when he was a child in the Indian grade school. In view of a well-known theory that relates stuttering with a change in handedness, Snidecor found Left-Hander's case interesting, especially when he found out later on that neither the Bannock or Shoshone Indian languages have a word for stuttering. Snidecor's study of speech disorders among the Indians of Southwestern Idaho which he broadcast over WSUI last week, was carried on during his spare time while a staff member at Idaho university. The study is not a formal one, but grew out of his personal interest in American Indians and speech disorders. His hypotheses are based on his own observations, and, as he says, "should not be considered as conclusive."

Some anthropologists have said that Indians do not stutter. In connection with this theory, Snidecor said: "Traveling many times up and down the one-and-a-half million acres of the Bannock and Shoshone Indian reservation, I have contacted some 800 of 1,800 Indians living on the reservation, and indirectly through teachers and important members of the Indian group, I have reports on many more. But I can say that I have never heard a pure-blooded Indian stutter, although half-breeds can be found who stutter. "Although I have not by any means exhausted the field even in this Indian group, I do feel that stuttering is at least less common among the Indians than among our own population. Certainly one would expect to find at least from four to eight or more stutters among the group surveyed if the incidence is as high as among our white population."

Snidecor's conclusions on the prevalence of stuttering among Indians seems to conform with reports of others who have studied this subject. "Last summer I talked with Dr. George Devereux in Chicago who is an investigator and author of substantial reputation in the field of anthropology," Snidecor continued. "Dr. Devereux informed me that he has never heard an American Indian who stutters." Dr. Delyte Morris, who taught speech in Maine for some time, informed Snidecor that he has a record of a pure-blooded Maine Indian woman who stuttered. "I should mention that I finally heard of an Idaho Indian woman who stuttered," Snidecor said, "supposedly only when she was sober. Before I could get her to study the nature of her speech disorder, she died—it is rumored from chronic alcoholism! I have descriptions of her speech, and they would indicate that she was a stuturer."

Why don't Indians stutter, or why don't more of them stutter? In answering this question Snidecor related his own observations in the light of prevalent theories as to the cause of stuttering. Snidecor said, then we would expect the Indian to be relatively free of this speech disorder, because there seems to be no interference with native handedness among the Indians. White school teachers in this area have handedness of their pupils. "If birth injuries are a cause of stuttering," Snidecor continued, "the Indian has an advantage in two directions; first, birth is apparently easier, as evidenced by the short period of time that Indian women are incapacitated by childbirth. It is perhaps reasonable to assume that the birth is likewise on the child; secondly, those Indian children who may have been injured at birth have less chance of surviving than do white children injured at birth.

"The weak Indian child, for reasons that must be apparent, is not in the hands of a specialist who might save him should birth injuries be evident. I might add that I have heard statements from intelligent Indians indicating that these Indians have little desire for the survival of an unfit child. The facts are, then, that if birth injuries are the cause of stuttering, this cause is probably not so active with the Indian group as with our own group."

If emotional difficulties inherent in the speaking situation are a cause of stuttering, Snidecor explained, then the Indian has less reason for stuttering than does the white man. An Indian faced with a critical question does not feel obligated to snap back an answer, but will sit and cogitate the matter until he is good and ready to answer. Indians also have the advantage in this matter by being able to answer with signs instead of words.

Emotional difficulties in speaking are also lessened among the Indians by the fact that the public speaking Indian is only such a speaker by his own choice. A competent farmer or hunter may limit his speech activities to a few words spoken in unemotional circumstances.

"I hasten to say, however," Snidecor remarked, "that there are many excellent orators in the Indian group that I have studied. I think especially of Old Nenos Teton, Bannock chieftan, who can speak in such style that even the interpretations of his speeches reflect the dignity of fine rhetorical method." Speaking of general habits of Indian speech, Snidecor said that Indians show much greater economy in the use of the English language than white people do. According to a statistical survey, he found that white people use on the average 57 per cent more words than the average English-speaking Indian. Indians, Snidecor explained, use relatively more important words, such as nouns, adjectives and adverbs, and fewer verbs, articles, pronouns and prepositions.

To illustrate the greater economy of the Indian in using the English language, Snidecor related the following incident:

An Indian at a soda fountain pointed to a picture of an ice-cream cone, and asked, "How much?"

"Five cents," the clerk replied. The Indian next pointed at a dish and said, "Ice-cream, here." When the clerk had placed before him a plate of ice-cream, he pointed to a dish of nuts. The clerk sprinkled crushed nuts on his ice-cream, and asked, "Is that all?" The Indian pointed to a syrup container, whereupon the clerk poured syrup on his ice-cream, thus making a sundae.

The Indian ate his sundae in silence, then asked, "Pay you?"

"No, pay the cashier at the door," the clerk said.

When the clerk and the cashier began to argue excitedly over the price of the sundae, the Indian said, "Him say five cents—me pay five cents." "The Indian on his own ground exhibits more intelligence than many give him credit for," Snidecor concluded. "He is capable, within the limitations of his educational status, of maintaining an objective attitude. The intelligent Indian is as interested as the intelligent white man in the social and economic problems of his own people. Once over the fear of being exploited, he will cooperate as an individual in helping one solve problems of relatively abstract academic nature. One may go to the Indian with curiosity, but if one stays long enough he will leave with respect."

Mock Jury Gives No Verdict After 15 Minutes Deliberation

Plaintiff Confuses State's Attorneys With His Testimony

After a deliberation of 15 minutes, the jury of the mock trial held in the law school yesterday came to no decision concerning the murder case of John Brown versus Carleton White.

John Brown, enacted by a university student, literally "stole the show" by mixing up the state's attorneys with his testimony about the murder.

The defendant's attorneys presented their evidence today. The state had made its charges against Brown yesterday when they declared first degree murder. Adding substance to the charge, the state produced evidence and witnesses which literally "sewed-up" the case.

Such was not the success, however, for the state. John Brown, in his testimony, declared that he had been brutally beaten and forced to sign a confession in a "mystical" place by some men whom he was unable to name. Attorney Arthur O. Leff, acting as judge, had to beat his gavel many times yesterday to quiet the court after a series of loud laughter from the testimony of "John Brown."

According to Brown, Carleton, now deceased, had threatened him with a sharp beer bottle which had been smashed over his head. In order to stave off this attack, Brown testified that he swung his carpenter's hammer against White and had intended to smash the bottle, not White's head.

Camera-men, jailbirds and beauty operators played an important part in one of the most interesting mock trials yet heard in the law school. Pictures, a hammer and signed confessions all played their part as "highly significant" evidence in the trial. Thomas Ryan, L3 of St. Paul, Minn., and Wendell Strom, L3 of Hartley, were attorneys for the state. Leroy McGinnis, L3 of Iowa City, and Albert Goeldner, L3 of Sigourney, were attorneys for defense.

The next trial concerning divorce, trial in equity, will be heard Feb. 15 and 16 under the same conditions as this week's trial.

Wheeee! Police Install Siren In Squad Car

If you hear any extra racket in front of your house today or tomorrow, pay no attention. It's just the police department's squad car showing off its new siren which was installed on the left front fender last night.

This improvement to the car not only makes noise but it casts a blinking red light at its target, doubling its power of warning. The old horn which was removed and traded in has been fastened inside the radiator.

But it's not modesty that's required of a siren. It's the noise it makes that counts, say the police.

Pelley police circular      Congressman Hook      —Central Press Photograph

Appearing dramatically before the Dies committee which had vainly sought him for questioning for months, William Dudley Pelley, right, author and leader of the Silver Shirt movement, denied knowing Congressman Martin Dies, top center, head of the committee. Earlier, Dies committee members had asked Attorney General Robert Jackson, top left, to investigate what they termed were forged letters purporting to link Dies and Pelley. The letters were put into the congressional record by Congressman Frank Hook (D) of Michigan, lower center. In lower left is a police circular which was distributed when Pelley was sought by police on charges of fraud and felony.

Davenport Man Found Dead of Gun Wound in Local Hotel

J. E. Kruse Ends His Life With Revolver

Dead 24 Hours In Room Before Found By Maid Attendant

J. E. Kruse, 57, a Davenport automobile dealer, was found dead late yesterday afternoon in a local hotel with a bullet hole through his head, a suicide victim, police said yesterday. It was said he had been dead for 24 hours when he was found.

Hotel attendants broke into Kruse's room after he had not come out all day. They found no note or other indication that would disclose the purpose of the suicide, police said.

Registers Thursday
Kruse registered at the hotel about 3 p.m. Thursday, it was reported, without baggage. The maid opened the lock of his room door with a pass key late yesterday afternoon with the intention of making up the room but found the door chain bolted on the inside. Police were called and they forced the door open.

The bullet, from a .38 caliber revolver, had gone through the victim's head and ricocheted off the wall into the bathroom, the coroner said.

Family Notified
His family said at Davenport they had no knowledge of his whereabouts until notification of his death by Johnson county and Iowa City officials.

Kruse had driven here in his own car. His family was reportedly on their way here last night to take his body back to Davenport.

Colonel Hayek Gives Talk At Masonic Club

"As the offensive weapons of our modern armies become stronger," Col. Will J. Hayek told the Masonic service club yesterday noon, "the defensive weapons keep pace with them."

Speaking at the weekly meeting of the club, Colonel Hayek pointed out how the development of powerful tanks had been met with land mines and machine gun bullets which pierce tank armor.

"Despite the increasing mechanization of our armies," he said, "we must not underestimate the value of the cavalry in modern warfare. The conduct of the civil war in Spain proved the value of cavalry, especially in regions where the roads were bad."

The speaker pointed out that the principal duty of the cavalry in modern warfare is keeping in contact with the enemy in order to prevent any surprise attacks against the main column of the army.

Emphasizing the importance of getting supplies to the front, Colonel Hayek pointed to the Russian campaign against Finland as an example of what can happen when a continuous line of supply is not maintained.

Guests at the meeting included D. L. Gifford, N. Drobner of Rochester, N. Y., T. R. Baker, Earl Webster, F. J. Krall and Glenn Hope.

Masonic Lodge Meets Monday

The Iowa City Masonic lodge No. 4 will be opened in full form Monday at 8 p.m. in order that the members may participate in a state-wide meeting night program, it was announced by lodge officials yesterday.

This meeting of the lodges, proclaimed by Homer A. Benjamin, Des Moines, grand master of Iowa Masons, is the ninth consecutive program of this type to be carried out.

The purpose of the simultaneous meetings is to consider important business concerning the organization.

A special program will be presented to the local lodge by the grand master.

County Court House To Close Monday On Lincoln's Birthday

The city council which is scheduled to hold its regular monthly meeting Monday, will meet and adjourn immediately to reconvene Tuesday.

approving comments from senators, although there was some criticism also. The reaction ranged from a statement by Senator King (D-Utah) that it was a "very wise appointment" to a warning from Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) that "we ought to mind our own business."

Official circles in London heard of the development "with satisfaction" and it was stated that Welles would be given all available information. A government spokesman at Berlin said the news from Washington was "very interesting" but that no further comment could be made immediately because the purpose of the Welles trip "still is not clear."

Hull's announcement said that "in view of existing hostilities in many parts of the world, in view of the effect of such hostilities on the neutral nations of the world and in view of the evident desire of all neutral nations for the eventual restoration of world peace on a sound and lasting basis for all nations, diplomatic conversations of an informal character have been commenced with neutral governments and will probably be continued with all neutral governments."

Officials would not disclose with what governments the conversations had begun. It is presumed that several European neutrals that feel themselves directly affected by the war.

Preliminary Inquiries
Secretary Hull added, "It should be emphasized that these conversations involve no plan or plans but are in the nature of preliminary inquiries . . ."

President Roosevelt at his press conference steadfastly refused to amplify his formal statement. He said all speculation on the Welles trip would be untrue.

The president stressed only the necessity for having coordinated information from all the countries concerned. He said that it was possible to get good information through present diplomatic channels in each of the countries but four separate views might result, hence the necessity for having one man go to all the countries.

Ambassadors Home
Mr. Welles' trip to Europe occurs at a moment when the United States has no ambassador in any belligerent capital. Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to London, is home on leave; William C. Bullitt, ambassador to Paris, arrived by Atlantic Clipper this afternoon in Baltimore, having been summoned home for consultation; there is no ambassador accredited to Berlin.

Some officials believed Welles would take no plan or project with him, but would go with an open mind, talk with American diplomats in the four capitals he touches and seek to see the highest officials possible. He will then return with a mass of information and suggestion, on the basis of which the president may formulate a peace program.

British To Aid Sumner Welles

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—A semi-official British statement said tonight that Sumner Welles, United States undersecretary of state, would be given all available information on his visit to Britain to help President Roosevelt "form a clearer view of the European situation."

"Official circles have learned with satisfaction of the forthcoming visit of Mr. Sumner Welles to London," the statement said.

"Mr. Sumner Welles can be certain of receiving a cordial welcome as the president's representative and he may be sure of receiving all the information which the British government can provide him in order to enable the president to form a clearer view of the European situation."

The statement also said the British and French governments "noted with interest" Secretary Hull's announcement of peace conversations with the neutrals. It declared the British and French governments had "made abundantly clear" their war aims.

Germany Says Trip Not Clear

BERLIN, Feb. 9 (AP)—A government spokesman said tonight that President Roosevelt's announcement of the forthcoming European mission of undersecretary of state Sumner Welles was "very interesting" but added it was too soon to make additional comment because the "purpose of the trip still is not clear."

Iowa State Checker Meet Begins Feb. 19

Iowa City Players To Attend Tourney In Cedar Rapids

A number of checker players from Iowa City and surrounding towns are planning to attend the Iowa state checker tournament which begins Feb. 19 at Cedar Rapids in the Y. M. C. A., it was announced yesterday.

This annual tourney was held in Iowa City in 1935 and was won then by Vic Davis of Ft. Dodge. That year marked the largest entry ever recorded in an Iowa state meet. Bobby Martin of Ottumwa is the present champion.

B. F. Paul of Blairstown announced that a brief chess tournament would be held simultaneously with the checker meet, although the chess competition would not be for a state title.

Play in both checkers and chess will begin at 10 a. m., it was announced.

Center Changes Game Schedule

Revise Activity Time To Meet Increased Attendance Problem

To meet the problem of a greatly increased attendance, the Iowa City Recreational Center will operate on a revised schedule starting Monday.

Eugene Trowbridge, Center director, pointed out that the changed schedule would not apply to city league contests and other public activities to which spectators are invited.

The new schedule reads as follows: All week days except Saturday: 3 to 5:30 p.m.—boys under 14 and all girls in school; 7 to 9 p.m.—boys over 13.

Saturdays: 9 to 12 noon—boys of both age groups. 2 to 4 p.m.—girls only (program to be announced.)

The schedule applies to the game room and all regular activities conducted in other parts of the building, Trowbridge pointed out.

'The Ghost Walks'--

The Problem Was: Was Michael Dead, Or Was He Not?

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—William Geary, sorrowfully bound for a funeral parlor to view the body of his brother, Michael, turned white as a ghost today when he met Michael walking down a street.

Arm in arm they went to a police station and undertaking parlor and unraveled this account of the mystery:

A man, his face badly bruised, and resembling Michael, was killed by an automobile. A policeman who thought the victim to be Geary notified Michael's brother and sister, George Geary and Mrs. Anne Conley. They went to the funeral home and erroneously identified the body.

The two were in Michael's rooms looking for his army discharge papers when he and William appeared at the undertaking parlor. The accident victim remained unidentified.

Alice Dicken Hurt In Truck-Car Accident On Dubuque Street

Alice Dicken, 18, received hip and elbow bruises yesterday noon when a pick-up truck driven by P. A. McLamore, Washington, Ia., slid into the rear of the car in which she was riding at Dubuque and Burlington streets.

Both cars were going north at the time of the accident.

Roosevelt To Broadcast NEW YORK (AP)—President Roosevelt will broadcast today for the second time this week. His address before the American Youth Congress at Washington will be carried by NBC, CBS and MBS, beginning at 11:30 a.m. (CST).

In ancient ruined villages of Peru, houses have been found which extended two stories underground.

British--

did it identify the destroyer. Germany tonight broadcast the official Nazi news agency's claim that eight British or British-convoys ships had been sunk or made total losses today, along with the admission that one Nazi plane was lost.

This raised to 40 the total of ships which Germany claims have been sunk in the four raids, with four German planes acknowledged to have been shot down. The ship total has been vigorously disputed in London, and there was no confirmation from British sources of the eight claimed today.

Scottish Freighter Sunk
"Enemy action," whether by planes, mine or torpedo, sent a big Scottish freighter to the bottom of the sea off the northwest coast, however. The ship, the 5,406-ton Chagres, of Glasgow, sank after an explosion, with two of her crew of 64 missing.

Two other ships off the British east coast sent SOS messages during the afternoon but whether they were damaged was not made known. They were the Clintonia, 3,106 tons, and the Lord Darling, 256 tons.

The German plane which the royal air force's defenders caught and downed was a big black Heinkel which swung darily over the Firth of Forth and dropped a bomb through the 102-ton dredger Foremost. Two of the dredger's crew of nine were feared lost when their lifeboat, pulling away from the crippled ship, swamped.

As the Heinkel turned loose its guns on the Foremost a British patrol of three swooped on its tail, guns spitting vicious streams of bullets.

Fate of Crew Unknown
A few minutes later residents of North Berwick, near Edinburgh, saw the big raider crash in a suburban field. The fate of its crew was not made known immediately.

Two other Nazi "bomb blockaders" registered a direct hit on a coastal steamer off the Scottish coast, shattering her hatches, damaging her bridge and machine-gunning the crew. The ship, not named in official reports, managed to limp into port.

British hurricane fighters racing to the scene fired bullets into the two raiders before they disappeared in a cloudbank, and official reports said it was believed both were "seriously damaged."

Shore watchers could see the bombers dive on the ship and the water spouts made by the bombs. The British fighters chased away a Junkers plane as it was bombing a tanker near Peterhead, Scotland, and attacked three Heinkels which were flying low over the water off Arbroath.

Kinnick Rates Movies Again For New Award Presentation

Nile Kinnick will again break into the movies when he receives the "most valuable player award" Monday evening at the all-Iowa football banquet held at the Iowa union, it was announced yesterday by Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the university extension division.

According to Professor Mahan, the pictures taken Monday night will be added to the collection of movies taken of the Iowa football games and the film taken when Kinnick received the Heisman trophy in New York City. The banquet is to honor the football squad, the coaching staff and their wives. Tickets are now on sale at Whetstone's No. 1, Gibbs drug store, Jefferson hotel and the office of the secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Esther Swisher, publicity chairman of the Altrusa club, announced yesterday that the club had made reservations for 20 members.

Weather permitting, several out of town delegations are expected to attend.

SIX ABOVE ZERO Workers Digging Out Of 3.1-Inch Snow

A temperature of 6 above was recorded late last night after a warm afternoon sun aided county and city workers to dig Iowa Citizens out of a 3.1 inch snowfall.

All available equipment was put into use yesterday to clear county roads of drifted snow in rural areas. State crews had highways opened by noon yesterday in this vicinity.

Eagles Lodge To Have Deer, Buffalo Meat

The Iowa City Eagles lodge, Aerie No. 195, will hold a banquet tomorrow for new candidates and regular members of the lodge, it was announced yesterday.

The banquet, which will be the main event of the day's program, will feature deer and buffalo meat.

Initiatory ceremonies for the new candidates will begin at 2 p.m. The Cedar Rapids degree staff will be in charge of the ceremonies.

Attorney Will J. Hayek will be the principal speaker at the dinner, which will be served at 5 p.m. Members, candidates and guests from other Aeries are expected to attend.

Gordon M. Hall, worthy president, is in charge of the banquet and initiation.

Rhodes--

volve a constitutional question and in previous Iowa cases has involved the "due process" clause in the constitution.

A prominent criminal attorney here said today that a previous death conviction, that of William O. Olander, 29, of Webster county, was carried to the highest tribunal under that clause and the court rejected the plea, establishing a precedent of national scope.

The supreme court held then that if the "due process" had not been raised in the original trial it could not be brought before that body.

Olander was hanged Sept. 7, 1923.

Rhodes was convicted of the murder on Feb. 9, 1937—three years ago today—of his wife, Mabel, 31. He tricked her into firing a dynamite loaded shotgun in the basement of their Iowa City home.

The supreme court once agreed to give him a new trial, but later reversed itself when the state appealed and affirmed his conviction and death sentence.

Today's action was the final one the court can take.

A BOY and his dreams

BOY SCOUT WEEK

On some evening, when the family is gathered in the living room, have you ever lowered your newspaper and looked covertly at your boy? Perhaps you've seen him enthusiastically poring over his studies. He might, however, be rapturously engrossed in an adventure story. Or maybe he is wrestling Brother! But—have you seen him with his guard down . . . when he sits, chin in hand, regarding the wall with unblinking eyes? What are his dreams? Does he envision great things or is he idling? No one of us can know. But we can help any young boy to greater dreams and aspirations if we nurture his mind on such stuff as real men are made of. We can open his mind to the cultivating and enriching ideals of the Boy Scouts of America.
