SWEDES ANGERED BY RED BOMBING

His Theories 'On the Spot' Before Other Scientists—

Stoddard Will Compare 'Nature, Nurture' of Intelligence Tonight

Dean George D. Stoddard of the graduate college, director of the Iowa child welfare research station, will discuss "Intelligence: Its nature and nurture" in tonight's Baconian lecture at 7:30 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

As chairman of the committee, Dean Stoddard helped edit the 39th yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education, which will be presented next week to the National Education association at the annual convention in St. Louis. The purpose of the 1940 yearbook is to throw light upon the nature and nurture of intelligence.

Research workers are basing their programs, today, upon attempts to give the young child an enriched environment for mental growth in order to answer the question: What are the limits of environmental impact in producing demonstrable effects upon mental growth?

"Very likely the importance of the IQ at any age level has been overrated," states Dean Stoddard in the introduction of the yearbook. Measuring it employs such tasks as bead stringing, block building, puzzles, and other like devices.

The speeding up or the slowing down in a child's ability to perform these tasks is a change in IQ. "Any change related to environmental impact is all that is meant by nurture," he writes.

Some important results of the environmental impact upon the IQ, illustrating that nurture is at least of equal importance to nature, have been shown from experiments made by the Iowa research workers. These have been attacked by other workers who maintain that heredity is all important in determining intelligence.

In tonight's lecture Dean Stoddard will discuss the yearbook, the stand of the Iowa psychologists, and describe the work they are doing and that which has been done.

Attack Kindles Move To Aid Finns 'Actively'

Air Raid Believed To Have Been Meant For Finnish Territory

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 21 (AP)—Swooping Russian planes today bombed and fired the little Swedish border town of Pajala, an incident that threatened to rekindle the fiery Swedish movement for intervention in Finland.

Although all of Pajala's 3,000 residents escaped death and the shower of 134 bombs was believed aimed at Finnish territory just six miles away, neutral observers expressed the opinion that Swedish "activists" now would reopen their drive to help Finland "so vigorously that any other help is unnecessary."

Townpeople estimated that 34 of the bombs from the heavily laden raiders were explosive, the remaining 100 incendiary. The fact that there were no casualties was credited to a timely warning flashed from the border and by the heroic work of a girl telephone operator who stuck at her post.

Most of the lethal load was dropped in the center of town. Among the demolished buildings were an apartment house and a saw mill from which workers just had time to flee. Bombs rained about a church in which terrorized townsfolk had huddled, shattering many of its windows.

The weather was clear and the bombers flew as low as 3,000 feet.

The Swedish government ordered its envoy to Moscow, Vilhelm Assaion, to make an immediate and vigorous protest at the Kremlin.

Weight was added to the theory that there would be a resurgence of the "activist" movement by the chief of the Swedish Finland committee, just back from Finland. He announced tonight that an agreement had been reached with Finland whereby the Swedish committee would intensify the recruiting of Swedish volunteers.

The bombing, which set half of Pajala afire, had terror-stricken inhabitants either racing to the fields or crouching numbly in their homes.

It was the second Russian violation of Swedish neutrality and the occasion of a second protest. On Jan. 18, Russia apologized for violating Swedish territory, although in her admission she failed to specify the bombing of Kallaks island in the Gulf of Bothnia four days previously. Ten missiles, identified as the red army's, fell mostly on the shore ice.

Sport Fans To Vote for 'Athlete of Year' Next Week

Winner Will Receive Iowan Traveling Cup

Presentation Planned For Half-Time Period Of Final Court Game

By OSCAR HARGRAVE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

The right of the athletic fan to pick his own favorite athlete will be, for the second year, a fact next week. Iowa students will vote, starting Monday and ending Wednesday night, to choose Iowa's "Athlete of the Year."

Winner of the election will be awarded The Daily Iowan trophy, given last year for the first time. The award, a traveling trophy on which the name of each winner is inscribed, will be given in a ceremony between halves of the final basketball game of the season, between Iowa and Northwestern March 4.

Prasse First

Last year, by a goodly margin, the vote gave the trophy to Erwin Prasse, three-sport star and the only athlete here at present with a chance to win nine major letters. A regular member of the football, basketball and baseball teams, Prasse was also captain of last fall's grid squad and a part of one of the nation's most famous pass play combinations. He will not be eligible in this year's vote, however.

For Prasse's successor, fans may choose this year from a list of stars in several sports, including football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, wrestling, golf, tennis and gymnastics. Any letterman is eligible, just so he has competed during the past year and is still a university student.

Those to be considered by the voters form a list that is imposing and carries the names of nationally known performers, with Nile Kinnick as the most widely known.

Kinnick Eligible

Winner of practically every trophy awarded to football players, Kinnick is eligible for the "Athlete of the Year" vote. Football furnishes others of note, including Captain-Elect Mike Enich, all-midwestern tackle, and Dick Evans, an end on the second all-Big Ten team, and a regular on the basketball team.

Basketball also furnishes Tommy Lind, who topped the scoring with 14 points against Indiana Monday night. The sophomores on the basketball team are not as yet eligible, having still to get their first major "I" letters.

Others in Running

Others in the running are co-captains Al Armbruster and Tony Bremer of the swimming team, Capt. Clarence Kemp and Bill Sherman of the wrestling squad, Bob Sandler of the tennis team, co-captains Harold Haub and Jim George, Andy Kantor and Frank Kocur of the baseball team and leaders from the other sports.

Votes will be made with ballots that will be printed in The Daily Iowan. The ballots will be deposited in several boxes that will be distributed about the city and campus, to be counted by a committee.

Re-Election Wilson's Only Political Desire

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 21 (AP)—Gov. George A. Wilson of Iowa, a republican, told reporters today his only personal political desire was re-election.

First Trophy Winner

First winner of The Daily Iowan "Athlete of the Year" trophy was Erwin Prasse, above, who was voted Iowa's outstanding man in sports a year ago. Although ineligible to enter the poll again, Prasse is still one of the leading Hawkeye athletes, having starred as captain of the grid team last fall. He plays a regular guard post on Rollie Williams' basketball team and will also be a member of the Iowa baseball nine this spring.

British Increase Protection Of Ships Against Nazi Attack

Equip Fishing Boats With 'Stingers'—Guns For Aerial Defense

—FROM LONDON—

By ROBERT E. BUNNELLE
LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Neutral shipping, harassed by warfare between Germany and the allies, bore the brunt of mounting sea losses today as the British admiralty evinced new determination to protect vessels from German attacks and claimed a high rate of destruction of enemy submarines.

The admiralty disclosed that fishing ships were being equipped with "stingers"—anti-aircraft weapons—to fight off German aerial attacks such as Nazi planes carried out on a wide scale yesterday.

One trawler reported driving off a German raider with gunfire with a raking crossfire during a raid. (A German communique declared two British minelayers and an armed merchant ship were sunk during the raids.)

Royal air force planes during the night carried out scouting flights over Helgoland bight, an arm of the North sea where important German aviation and naval bases are situated.

Such scouting flights were given new significance by Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration in the house of commons that "our preparations for meeting and countering air attacks, on whatever scale they may take place, are continuously being developed."

One of 5 Papers To Place in Field of 85—

Iowan Wins I.D.P.A. Typography Award

CHICAGO, Feb. 21—The Daily Iowan today was awarded a certificate of award in the Inland Daily Press association's first general Typographic Excellence contest. Elmo Scott Watson, national president of Sigma Delta Chi, whose Northwestern university chapter provided the awards, made the presentation in ceremonies at the Sherman hotel here. Prof. Fred Pownall, publisher of the paper, accepted the award for The Daily Iowan.

The Daily Iowan won honorable mention in Class A of the contest, in which 85 newspapers were entered. Judges in the contest were Douglas McMurtrie, nationally-known typographic counselor; J. L. Frazier, editor of Inland Printer; and Dean Kenneth E. Olson of the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern university.

In giving the report for the judges at the Inland luncheon of which the presentation of awards was a part, Dean Olson praised the prize-winning papers as examples of the new trend toward greater readability and more attractive appearance.

"Our newspapers are more than ever concerned with the reader," he said. "They are trying to give him a newspaper that is easy to read and as attractive as they can make it."

Winners in all classes are:

Class A (under 5,000 circulation), First, Sedalia (Mo.) Daily Capital; second, Goshen (Ind.) News-Democrat; third, Harrisburg, (Ill.) Daily Register; honorable mention, Newton (Ia.) Daily News and Iowa City (Ia.) Daily Iowan.

Class B (from 5,000 to 10,000 circulation), First, Hastings (Neb.) Daily Tribune; second, Iron Mountain (Mich.) News; third, Idaho Falls (Idaho) Post-Register; honorable mention, Marquette (Mich.) Daily Mining Journal and Greeley (Colo.) Tribune.

Class C (10,000 to 25,000), First, Richmond, (Ind.) Palladium-Item; second, Kenosha (Wis.) Evening News; third, Aberdeen (S. D.) Evening News; honorable mention, Appleton (Wis.) Post-Crescent and Elgin (Ill.) Courier-News.

Class D (over 25,000), First, Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph; second, Green Bay (Wis.) Press-Gazette; third, Rockford (Ill.) Register-Republic; honorable mention, Flint (Mich.) Journal and Springfield (Ill.) State Journal.

Rep. Barton Praises Hull's Trade Pacts

Claims Tariff Cuts Stimulate Foreign Trade

Party Lines Slashed In House Debate Over Reciprocal Tariffs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Rep. Barton (R-NY) joined the house democratic majority today in the fight to continue the Hull reciprocal trade system for another three years.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the federation of young republican groups of greater New York, Barton pictured the tariff-cutting pacts as a means of stimulating two-way trade between the United States and other nations.

"We need to export in order to keep our economic machine running at maximum efficiency," he said. "It is a matter of common sense that we should take useful goods—rather than, to us, useless gold—in exchange for our imports."

Battle of Statistics
Poking fun at the battle of statistics going on over the program, he recalled the old saying that "there are three kinds of lies—lies, damned lies and statistics."

On the house floor, meanwhile, Rep. Reed (R-NY) delivered a burning denunciation of the trade pacts. He contended that increased exports of which democrats "boasted" were attributable to shipments of war materials to Russia and Japan rather than the pacts.

"While you are padding your export figures with this war traffic," he cried, "don't forget that the United States is going to be the most-hated nation in the world—hated by those who have suffered from our war exports of death and destruction; despised as a shylock by those from whom you are extracting blood money for war materials."

First Republican Supporter
Barton was the first house republican to support the pacts publicly. Reps. Coffey of Nebraska, Disney of Oklahoma and Cannon of Florida are democrats who have criticized the program in the house debate.

The house may take a vote on the issue Friday night. Democratic leaders express confidence that the chamber will vote to extend the program, under which the administration has been lowering American tariffs and other trade barriers in return for concessions from other nations.

Workers Idle In Detroit Strike May Be Paid

DETROIT, Feb. 21 (AP)—Approximately 27,000 Chrysler corporation employees, idle during the automobile industry's longest labor dispute last fall, looked forward tonight to a prospect of receiving nearly $3,000,000 in unemployment benefits.

Most of the workers who were away from their jobs for close to the full 54-day duration of the dispute may receive more than $100 each.

—FROM TURKEY—

Soviet Calls Experts Back From Turkey

Turkey Strengthens Fortifications; Expects War Over Oil Fields

ISTANBUL, Feb. 21 (AP)—Soviet Russia today called home hundreds of Russian technical experts employed for years in Turkish industry under a Russian-Turkish agreement.

Their exodus will follow closely that of technicians from Germany, Russia's partner. Russia already was liquidating her commercial organizations in this country and Germany, Turkey's World war ally, is doing likewise.

The Russian action came at a time when the Turkish press openly is discussing the possibility of war in this part of the world in the spring, perhaps centering about Russia's rich oil fields in the Caucasus, just across the Turkish border.

Usually reliable quarters reported today that 50 British engineer officers had arrived at Adrianople to inspect the fortifications on the Bulgarian frontier, where work recently was stepped up by the army.

Turkey, an ally of Great Britain and France but so far a non-belligerent, is virtually on a war footing and has been looking to her fortifications on all borders as well to her domestic establishment.

WINNER, LOSER IN LOUISIANA

Sam Houston Jones Here is the winner and the loser in the Democratic primary runoff election in Louisiana for the gubernatorial chair. The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

Louisiana Governor Plans 'Rehabilitation'

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Louisiana's next governor, 42-year-old Sam H. Jones, turned today from his smashing ballot victory over the old Huey P. Long dictatorship to plan the "rehabilitation of Louisiana."

Jubilant at his triumph by more than 20,000 votes over Gov. Earl K. Long for the four-year term beginning May 14, Jones nevertheless soberly called his "the greatest job any Louisiana public official has faced since reconstruction days."

In an interview he said "our simple objective is to restore constitutional, democratic, decent government."

"The second thing is to put Louisiana on a sound financial basis. And the third is we must never let this thing happen again in Louisiana—this set of conditions that for years has made every honest Louisianian bow his head in shame."

Governor Long declined comment, saying only that he would issue a statement when he saw official returns from yesterday's runoff primary for the democratic nomination, tantamount to election. He summoned his crestfallen administration leaders to Baton Rouge for a conference.

Louisiana Seeks A Second Reconstruction

The horrors of Civil war reconstruction belonged to the last century. Louisiana now faces another reconstruction, but this era's doesn't seem destined to approach the last one in notoriety, as some political thinkers are inclined to believe.

Voting in the gubernatorial runoff yesterday, while all the returns are not yet reported, indicate that Governor Earl K. Long and his powerful ring, founded by the late Kingfish, Huey, are being defeated.

Sam Houston Jones, a comparatively unknown country lawyer prior to his candidacy for the state's high office, has received a majority ballot. He received his support, voting returns show, mainly from the country parishes, where he campaigned successfully for the overthrow of the political "crooks" and "dictator" laws established by Huey Long and currently maintained by brother Earl.

Apparently the voters controlled by state officeholders failed to furnish sufficient oil for the Long machine, as shown by the annihilation of Long's majority in the New Orleans area, where state offices and voting control favored the old party, by the heavy Jones votes of the country parishes.

Jones' victory is the first one of any significance that has been scored against the Longs of Louisiana, or any of their candidates. So powerful was the Long ring control that opposing factions were never conceded more than an outside chance in any elections. Huey Long built his one-man government as soundly as any European dictator. When he died, his party gave its support to his lieutenants. Soon Earl came into power.

Always opposed by his more successful brother, the present governor of Louisiana gained the necessary popularity with the still powerful party and, last year, rose to the governorship when Richard W. Leche resigned in the face of numerous federal and state indictments.

Immediately, his party began the campaign for the 1940 elective year. Scorching speeches, violent rallies and libelous slanders mingled with the nation-rocking Louisiana fraud and embezzlement scandals to give the state its greatest headaches since the Civil War.

Now, though, Jones and his immediate supporters, and the votes show that a majority of Louisiana citizens are his supporters, are promising a reconstruction. A sane and sober recovery is given as his aim. No more deductions will be made from state workers' salaries to pay political party expenses, no more dual officeholding will be permitted. In theory all the "corruption" that has been forced on Louisiana's taxpayers by Longism will be destroyed by Jones.

Every candidate in the past has promised reforms, and Louisiana's elected leaders have been notorious for their failure to keep promises. We hope Jones will be a notable exception—for Louisiana's sake.

For Next Year's Freshmen

LAST NIGHT a group of leaders of women's activities on the campus got together for an annual dinner—a dinner expressly called as the beginning of a wide program to orient women coming to the campus as freshmen or transfer students next September.

Every woman student enrolled in the university is automatically a member of the University Women's association, which, among other activities, sponsors the great freshman and transfer orientation program, designed to acquaint new women—to make them feel they are a part of this university.

Probably because they, too, were once new to the university and appreciate the efforts of the orientation teas, parties and get-togethers, several women have undertaken the real job of putting next year's program into effect. Later, they will call on other women to help them.

War Or Peace Forums

"TWO HEADS are better than one." It's an old saying, but still applicable. We can find no better proof than to look at the graduate forums which have been a weekly occurrence on the campus. In discussing the problems of war the points of view of several men have certainly been more expedient than those designed by one.

Each representative of his respective field has presented specific authoritative information concerning peace or war. Economist, historian, geologist, political scientist, psychologist—all have presented their ideas. Panel members have not intended to solve any great problems, but are confident that an exchange of ideas leads to the formation of new and better ideas. They have been informative in their endeavors, but not propagandists. One of the most significant virtues of the forum has been its informal democratic presentation. People have been welcome to come and listen, agree or disagree, and offer their own suggestions at the close of the discussion. Faculty members have been anxious to hear the audience side of it and encouraged participation by the group.

The deeper significance of the forum lies in the fact that it is just one of many which are conducted. Other universities and community groups are carrying on informal discussion of war or peace. The scope and breadth of this plan make it important. By this conference method there is a presumed gain of efficiency through the process of synthesizing the abilities of several individuals.

The panels may not decide whether our civilization is threatened, or if Germany wants colonies, or if free trade is the answer; but their merit is getting people to think on the subject. They represent forerunners of international groups which will be able to evolve peace plans, and where two heads get together to save thousands.

Stripping The Rose Of Its 'Thorns'

DISREGARDING Shakespeare's assurance that "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet," the Mother-in-Law association, has made a change in its title, a usable synonym which will enrich the English language etymologically and socially.

The association, organized for recognition for its contributions to humanity of love and service, has put a good deal of emphasis on finding a new name. At its second annual meeting, a name was chosen.

Several hundred were suggested. "Mother Rat," "Our Ma," "Cupid's Creation," "Famagrace," "Lawma," "Motherette," and "Blitzkrieg Mother," were among those tentatively listed.

The winning name was "Kinmother," which is certainly less objectionable than many of the possibilities. As to putting an end to the jibes and ridicule at mothers-in-law, it may be questioned whether this new name can do the job or whether it will not itself become the butt of fresh jokes. The mother-in-law jingle has been dying out in recent years because it has come to be generally recognized as not funny. The new term may just revive the lagging interest of comedians in the subject.

"With the approach of spring," writes the poet, "the world again greets the red-breasted robin." Yeas and, also, the green onion eater.

The Balkan countries came to agreement so quickly they gave Europe something brand new—the Blitzpeace.

England is collecting bones from homes to convert them into glue and fertilizer. Zadok Dumbkopf thinks this would be a swell chance to get rid of that family skeleton.

The man at the next desk says he won't believe Tom Dewey is really a presidential candidate until he sees a photo of him fishing while wearing overalls and an Indian war bonnet.

Apple pie, according to a survey, is still the favorite dessert—news item. News item? When apple pie isn't—THAT will be news.

Brotherhood in a World of Conflict

(Editor's note: This is the third in a series of articles arranged by Llewellyn A. Owen, president of the Iowa City Ministers' association and minister of the First Congregational church of Iowa City, in observance of Brotherhood week.)

BROTHERHOOD WEEK OR BROTHERHOOD? By The Rev. Father Donald Hayne, Professor of Religion, University of Iowa

Americans, it seems, like 'weeks'. Nor is it a bad idea, that of setting apart weeks or days for the special commemoration of this or that worthwhile aspect of American life. But it does involve the risk that, after we have celebrated the worthy object of our commemoration in its allotted week, we shall feel a disposition to forget about it until Such-and-Such week comes around again.

With this risk in mind, there seems something anomalous about the designation, Brotherhood week. Brotherhood, after all, should not occupy precisely the same place as cheese in the American scale of values. Every week ought to be Brotherhood week.

But the only way that can be brought about, practically speaking, is through the creation of some framework within which the continuing experiment of brotherhood can be brought to fruitful accomplishment. Perhaps the foremost fact to be reckoned with in a realistic approach to the problem is that any attempt at effective brotherhood based upon a least common denominator of belief is foredoomed to fail.

Not to 'transcend,' but to recognize and respect our differences is the first sensible step.

But it need not be the last. There are many areas of community life in which we can work together without compromise and despite differences even of attitude towards the problems in those very areas. A few come readily to mind: religious instruction of public school children as provided for in Iowa law; common counsel to stem what someone has called the march of slime in the professedly salacious periodicals newsstands; effective measures to secure economic justice for the Negroes in our midst; the building of an attitude of respect for the prior rights of conscience in the face of a drift towards totalitarianism by no means confined to the anti-democratic regimes. Action by any one group in these or the numerous other fields of common concern may lay that group open to the risk of disregarding their neighbors' rights or to the charge of being engaged upon a merely sectarian crusade. Common action would be well-nigh irresistible.

Many of us are earnestly hoping and praying for the day when mankind will realize an organic religious unity in fulfillment of the prophecy of one fold and one shepherd. Humanly speaking, that day is far off; and all of us may well examine our consciences for some of the reasons why. But Brotherhood week offers us a challenge to pursue the only kind of unity now humanly within our reach. Are we going to take it up or forget about it until next February?

Visit by Sumner Welles to Britain, Germany, Italy and France May Increase Nippon Tension

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, off for Europe to talk with neutrals generally, including semi-neutral Italy, and with belligerent Britain, France and Germany in particular, may be engaged in a promising job of peace missionary work, in so far as those particular groups of nations are concerned, but certainly Uncle Sam isn't improving his own relationships with the Japanese, to his westward, or with the Russians, in the other direction.

The very day that the Welles prospective trip was announced the influential Tokyo newspaper, Miyako, was serving editorial notice, presumably with governmental approval, that the Japanese situation has "reached the danger point"—that the leaders must prepare, "economically and militarily, to cope with increasing Yankee pressure."

Only one day later President Roosevelt himself told the American Youth Congress that 98 percent of our people sympathize with Finland against Russia, that we're not neutral, though we're not belligerent, in that conflict, and that the Moscow regime is an "absolute dictatorship." All this was true enough, no doubt, but it's hardly to be expected that Comrade Stalin will like it.

The Japs, already aggravated by our cancellation of our commercial treaty with them, are furious at the prospect of a big American loan to China, and the threat of an outright American embargo on sales of war supplies to Nippon. Their hint at "military preparations" actually begins to look bilious.

Russia hasn't said anything definitely ominous, but Ambassador Oumansky has been conspicuously, though not quite officially, snubbed in Washington, and our Moscow ambassador, Laurence A. Steinhardt, has been given the "run-around" at the Soviets' end of the line.

As yet the administration hasn't mentioned the idea of breaking diplomatic relationships between Washington and Tokyo, Washington and Moscow.

But congress has shown signs of desiring to force such a policy, as between the United States and Russia. Congress can't outright recall an ambassador, except by definitely declaring war. The White House and state department boss our foreign policies pretty completely — not the legislators. When the president appoints an ambassador the senate has to confirm him. Once he's in, though, he stays in at the presidential pleasure. The house of representatives has no voice in the matter at any stage of the game.

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Well, Ambassador Steinhardt is in Moscow. The administration evidently doesn't think that the time has quite come to recall him. Members of the house of representatives, however, recently grew impatient. Accordingly, as the representatives couldn't recall him, an attempt was made in the lower congressional chamber (which is supreme financially) to cut off Steinhardt's $17,500 salary — which would have terminated him as effectively as his recall would have done. The plan failed — but only by a 3-vote margin. It was a job at the administration — to win so narrowly. Yet it wasn't so bad, either, considering that the administration so obviously is anti-Soviet also. It was a worse crack at Russia — because it revealed the strength of anti-Soviet congressional sentiment.

Japan Versus Russia. Undersecretary of State Welles isn't going to Russia on his European trip.

Seemingly it isn't considered that the Soviets really are in the European war. They're not, as to any formal declaration. Japan isn't either, as per any formal declaration. Furthermore, it would be mighty inconvenient for Sumner to include Japan in a European tour.

All the same, the situations are involved with one another. How Sumner is going to deal with Europe independently of Russia and Japan is a puzzle.

A Poor Interview

But Oscar Levant, That Busy, Busy Man, Had An Alibi

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK—Interview: Oscar Levant is a hard man to reach. You don't just move in on him and start talking. Between writing books, dispensing wisdom on the Information Please half-hour, and composing scores for musical plays, he is a busy man.

But so is Al Goldstein busy. He represents the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in New York. When people become newsworthy and things begin to happen he writes about them. After quite a bit of trouble he arranged for an interview at the St. Hubert's hotel, where Levant lives.

Arriving at the hotel, Goldstein presently saw a distracted composer advancing to meet him. They sat down to talk, but it was clear that Levant's mind was a thousand miles away. Questions put to him received only perfunctory answers. After about 15 minutes of this, Goldstein put his pad back in his pocket and said, "We aren't getting anywhere with this, Mr. Levant; so maybe we'd better forget about this interview, or arrange it for some other time. I'm wasting your time and, as things have turned out, you're wasting mine. I can't write a story on what you have said."

With this Levant swung around and asked, "Can you keep a secret?" Goldstein thought this over for a moment. "If it's anything that belongs in the paper, you'd better not tell me," he said.

But Levant was insistent. For one thing, he didn't want to be misunderstood. He didn't want Goldstein to think he was rude or was submitting to an interview with bad grace. So he said frankly, "I'll tell you something if you won't say anything about it."

By this time Goldstein was feeling better himself, and he figured he might as well share Levant's confidence as go without it. So he said sure.

"Well," cried Oscar, "I'm getting married — tomorrow. To June Gale. I just got a call that a hitch has developed, and the wedding might not come off."

Which, after all, was enough to distract any man. Even a strong, brave man. But that hitch was avoided. And it is Al Goldstein's hope that they live happily ever after.

COINCIDENCE: There is an anti-Nazi play on Broadway in which a young German Nazi finds out, in the third act, that he isn't German after all. He is part Jewish. When this "disgrace" breaks around him he is almost persuaded to take refuge in suicide.

By some curious chance in casting a young woman playing an important role in this play happens to be a refugee from Vienna. She was born in the U. S., but moved to Vienna with her family when she was a child. One day, like the young baron in the play, she learned that she held a strain of Jewish blood. That is why she had to flee Austria. This is a story that isn't generally known. But it is true, and she will tell you this herself.

MARGARET LINDSAY, film star, will be a guest highlight on tonight's "celebrity program" with George Jessel over the NBC-Red network at 7 o'clock.

SHE WILL take part in a special sketch with Jessel and Singer Benay Venuta. Another personality will be Dave Irwin, author and explorer, who had the Eskimo village at the New York world's fair last season. Music is under the baton of Peter Van Steeden.

DR. HOWARD HANSON conducts the Rochester Philharmonic orchestra tonight over the NBC-Blue network on the American Composers' concert at 8 o'clock.

"The Autobiography of an Egoist" is the title of tonight's drama on the CBS Columbia Workshop program at 9:15.

GLENN MILLER and his orchestra with the Andrews Sisters precede the drama program on CBS stations. Their 15-minute show starts at 9 o'clock.

BING CROSBY and company present another Kraft Music Hall broadcast tonight at 9 o'clock on the NBC-Red network. Included in the cast are Bob Burns, comedian; Ken Carpenter, announcer, the Music Mails, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra.

TONIGHT'S "Vox Pop" interview on the street program will originate from the Gadsby tavern in Alexandria, Virginia, a Washington shrine. The weekly program, heard over CBS at 6:30, is conducted by Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth.

SIDNEY MEAR, trumpet player from the Eastman school of music, will be tonight's featured guest on the "Musical Americana" radio show over the NBC-Blue network at 7 o'clock. Presenting the program, under the direction of Deems Taylor, will be a radio orchestra conducted by Raymond Paige and the 100 Men of Melody.

AT 8:15 TONIGHT Sen. Lister Hill will talk on "George Washington" over the MBS network. Locally, WMT, Cedar Rapids, will carry the talk.

I HOPE that all the dear student readers are at present well pleased with the news of Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra coming to the Iowa campus for a university party.

THE DIFFICULTY now arising is that unless party committees keep on getting the top-notch bands which the dancers are becoming accustomed to, the smaller dances will not be patronized.

Not that I'm not as glad as anyone to see J. Dorsey come, and I'll be there, too — I hope, but with a few of these big bands, the majority of the students won't be able to realize that 600 times

$1.50 won't bring a $1,400 band to Iowa City.

SAMMY KAYE's band was voted most popular in two contests conducted by Chicago radio stations featuring recorded dance music. Eddie Chase of WAAF's Mythical Ballroom and Bill Leyden of WCFL's Make Believe danceland revealed that Kaye, dancing on Victor, romped off with first place in fan mail response and in number of requests for his recordings.

AND SPEAKING of honors—Dinah Shore's Bluebird recording of "Careless" has been named disc of the month by students of St. Peter's college, Jersey City, N. J.

HIT FARADE songstress Bea Wain's next recording will be her own tune, "It's You That I Love," which she wrote in collaboration with Walter Gross, leader of her recording orchestra.

Phi Delt Fraternity Will Adopt South American Bear, 'Eve'

Hunting for bears in zoos isn't exactly in the line of Howard C. Reppert Jr., commerce junior from Des Moines. But if all goes well and Howard has his way, there'll be a South American bear from an English zoo acting as mascot for Phi Delta Theta fraternity this spring. Hearing that English zoos were having "war" trouble, Reppert sent a query to the North of England Zoological society last month. Yesterday, much to his own amazement, he got an affirmative reply. "Yes, it will be quite possible for you to adopt an animal from Chester zoo if you wish," wrote Elsie Shuttleworth for the society. "I am very sorry to say that we have not got a Quaila bear but we have in our collection a South American bear. She is a very friendly creature and I should appreciate it very much if you could adopt her. "Should this be too much for you I think I could find you something smaller among the animals, but I should consider it a favor if you would adopt 'Eve' the bear I have mentioned." Reppert claims that this "isn't too much for him" and says he'll tell the Zoological society to ship "Eve" to him at once.

By BILL BUCKLEY
St. Mary's fell last night, a 32 to 31 victim of Loras Academy of Dubuque, but not before a wild fourth quarter drive by the Ramblers almost pulled the game out of the fire.

Featuring a fast passing attack that alternated between bogging down and then springing to life, St. Mary's gave the highly touted Gubs the scare of their lives, scoring 12 points in the final quarter against seven for Loras.

Fast Break Clicks
The Ramblers led 9-6 at the first quarter, mostly by virtue of Tony Brack's fine work on the Iowa City fast break.

Chadek and Ray Cole collaborated with Brack in the second quarter to bring the count to 16-14 at the half. The third quarter was all Loras and Mickey Marty, with Dubuque hammering out a 25-19 advantage going into the final quarter.

With the Loras offense working smoothly and St. Mary's resorting to wild efforts to regain the lead, it looked like just a matter of time until the Gubs would have another ball game in the fold. The stage was merely set for a crowd-pleasing, rip-roaring Rambler rally, however, and the Supleemmen went to work.

Brack Gets Busy
After Tom Tierney and Marty of Loras had scored a free throw and a field goal, Brack of Iowa City dropped in a free throw to start the fireworks. Chadek dropped in a long one, Brack put in a push shot and a setup, Chadek sank two free throws, and Bock made a gratis throw, before Loras scored again. Tierney's free throw tied the score at 29-all, but a free throw by Marty and a field goal by Tierney just offset Chadek's long one, and that's the way it ended.

It was a rough ball game from start to finish, with Loras' accuracy from the free throw line the margin of difference. Each team made 11 field goals, but Dubuque counted on 10 free throws against the Ramblers' nine. Four of the St. Mary's starting lineup—Brack, Cole, Bock and Eakes—went out on fouls.

Fight Goes to Jersey
NEW YORK (AP)—Mike Jacobs finally found a home yesterday for the fight between Tony Galento and Max Baer. It will be staged over the 15-round route late in May at the Jersey City, N. J., ball park with Finnish relief cutting in on the receipts. Jacobs originally had hoped to stage the fight in New York but Galento refused to appear here when the New York state boxing commission refused to grant a license to his manager, Joe Jacobs.

AROUND THE BIG TEN

CHAMPIONSHIP week end will roll around for Big Ten teams March 8th and 9th when the conference's winter sports program reaches its climax. . . Feature meet will be the indoor relays which will be held at Chicago with Michigan the defending titleholder. . . Ohio State will be host to conference swimmers with Michigan the defending champion and likely winner again this year. . . Wrestling will be held at Purdue, fencing at Northwestern and gymnastics at Chicago. . . Over 600 athletes will participate in these events over the two day period.

Iowa Swimmers, Cage Team Go Abroad This Week End

Tankmen Face Badger Team Tomorrow

Taking no chances on further illness developing in his squad of Hawkeye swimmers, Coach Dave Armbruster is limiting the practice sessions to light workouts as he prepares his boys for a strenuous week-end at Wisconsin and Chicago.

Leo Biedrzycki, sophomore diver who was bothered with a cold earlier in the week, was sufficiently recovered yesterday to take part in practice. The other members of the team who were on last week's sick list are back in harness and have been working out regularly. Faced with consecutive meets against the Badgers tomorrow afternoon and the Maroons on Saturday night, plus a water polo game with the Chicagoans, Coach Armbruster is planning on taking a larger squad than usual. This should give the Hawkeye mentor an opportunity to view some of his less experienced men in actual competition.

Hostak Signed To Fight 'Anybody'
SEATTLE, Feb. 21 (AP)—Al Hostak is already signed to fight Ceferinio Garcia, Ken Overlin or "anybody else," Eddie Marino, the NBA-recognized middleweight champion's manager, said today. The NBA today ordered Hostak to sign for a title defense by March 15.

Graves left off last year—in fact they were a good share of the team. . . with plenty of good distance men in Bob Campbell, Ed Elliott, Merlin Erickson and Carl Schnoor. Bresnahan has been having trouble finding sprinters—that's where Green is likely to come into the limelight. . . also in the broad jump where a record or two may go tumbling before the season ends. . . Other gridders on the thinned squad are big Henry Luebke who will enter the shot put events and Henry Volenwieder, former state hurdle champ, who will make his varsity debut Saturday when the Hawks-eye go to Lafayette, Ind., for the triangular meet with Purdue and Northwestern.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Plenty of Thrills
- Zone Defense
- High Quality

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The fire department still is with us in basketball, but it gradually is slowing down to a brisk center. The teams this year, although anything but turtles on parade, nevertheless seem to have deserted the hold-your-hat-here-I-come game which reached a peak about four years ago. That was the year Gene Johnson's McPherson (Kas.) Oilers roared to the National A. A. U. title by playing a game which resembled a shuttle relay race, Johnson just gave his Giants the address and told them to go find the fire, and not to spare the horses.

Packed With Thrills
That type of game was packed with thrills, but it wasn't basketball as it was intended to be played, and when teams began to discover how to slow down such a style, it was on its way out, although it left its stamp and the consistent winners of today combine a driving, fast-breaking offense with clever ball handling. There still are a few teams which have the type of men who can get by with a ride 'em cowboy style. Hugh McDermott at Oklahoma came up with a bunch of sophomores three years ago who were made to order for that game. They were nicknamed the "boy cats," and they're seniors now, but it is rumored that Bruce Drake, who succeeded McDermott as coach, plans to put on the brakes next year when the seats are gone.

However, such teams are the exception. Two of the best teams to appear in Madison Square Garden this season are the undefeated New York U. quintet and the once-defeated Oklahoma Aggies, and both feature expert ball handling combined with a driving style.

Zone Defense
The zone defense also appears to be on its way out among college teams, for which the customers may be thankful. It is effective, but slows the game to a walk, and coach Bill Chandler of Marquette thinks that, although there is no law against such a style, coaches should arrive at a gentlemen's agreement not to use it. The zone is so effective, in fact, that when, on the eve of his team's game with Long Island U., the Michigan State coach opined that it was next to impossible to beat a good zone defense, Clair Bee of Long Island took the advice and sent his team against the Michigan Staters with orders to zone them to death, and Long Island won.

Matmen Meet Panthers Tonight in Dual Meet

Paul Whitmore Leads Iowans

Will Seek To Protect Clean Slate Against Teachers' Bolinski

PROBABLE LINEUPS
Iowa State Teachers: Bill Sherman 121 Delbert Jensen Loy Julius 128 Bill Breitbach Newell Ingle 136 Bill Kirstein Phil Millen 145 Roger Isaacson Capt. Kemp 155 V. Hassman Ralph Geppert 165 Hugh Roberts P. Whitmore 175 A. Bolinski Art Johnson HW Allen Creel Referee—Harry Sievers (South Dakota State).

The Iowa State Teachers college wrestling team will be the host tonight to the Hawkeye grappling squad in a dual meet at Cedar Falls.

Having finished all of the scheduled dual meets in the Big Ten with a record of two wins and two defeats, Coach Mike Howard's men are seeking to keep a clean slate in outside competition.

Coach Howard, however, is a little bit skeptical about the Hawks' chances tonight. The match will either be all Iowa's or else it will be in favor of the Teachers. This is due to the fact that the teams are balanced pretty evenly as far as scoring power goes. The feature match of the evening should be in the 175-pound class when Paul Whitmore of Iowa will tangle with August Bolinski, Panther veteran who has won four, lost one, and drawn one this year. Whitmore is the only Iowan who has not been defeated this year.

Two of the Iowa State Panthers who will be protecting unbeaten records are Delbert Jensen, 121-pounder, and Robert Isaacson, 145 pounder. Jensen will be trying for his fourteenth consecutive win.

Iowa's scoring power lies in the heavier weight divisions and if the Hawkeyes can score in the lower weight classes they should emerge victorious.

Set Date For All-University Mat Tourney

Entry blanks have been sent to men's dormitories and to fraternities for competition in the intramural wrestling tournament which will get under way March 1. Separate tournaments will be held for Quadrangle, Hillcrest, the co-ops and fraternities. There is no limit to the number of men who may enter from each section or house. Winners are automatically entered in the all-university tournament. Preliminary matches will be held Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 4:30. Each competitor must obtain a health card from Student Health and turn it in at the intramural office before he will be permitted to compete. Each competitor must weigh in and present his health card Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 27. He must be prepared to weigh in before each match.

All entries are requested to be in the intramural offices by Friday, Feb. 23.

'Corrigan' White Sox Hold Out On Hurler

CLEVELAND, Feb. 21 (AP)—Clint Brown, ace relief pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, wondered if he still had a job. Brown said he returned his unsigned contract to the Sox front office more than a month ago and hadn't heard from the club since then. He has received no instructions about leaving Chicago next Monday for the Pasadena, Calif., training camp with the advance squad of players.

Lafayette, Here We Come

Trackmen Meet Purdue, Northwestern Saturday In Triangular Meet Competition

The Bresnahan-coached varsity track squad will leave for Lafayette, Ind., tomorrow afternoon and may run into some heavy weather on the road. Whether the Hawks encounter such weather or not they are bound to find plenty of head-on competition in their triangular meet with Purdue and Northwestern. Both of these squads have had two previous meets this season, while the Iowa men will be getting their first taste of true competition this year. Coach Bresnahan is carrying a well-balanced squad of 17 men which is fully able to net many points in this conference meet. The facts seem to show that the three teams are pretty evenly matched and the affair should be a close one.

Little Hawk Cagers Journey To Mason City Tomorrow

Phi Psi's Nip Delts, 30 to 20 In Loop Game

Phi Kappa Psi rallied to win over Delta Tau Delta in a championship game in the intramural pledge league last night by a 30-20 score. The Delts started with a small lead and were on the long end of a 10-7 score at the end of the first period.

The second period presented a different Phi Psi team as it rallied to take over the lead at the end of the second period, 17-13. The Phi Psi's went on to stop a rally in the third period by the Delts and continued to pile up a lead. The offensive and defensive game of Hertzler was the feature of the game. Hertzler shared scoring honors with Jennings of the losing team as both scored eight points.

Wilson House swamped Gables, 36-9, in a co-operative league game. Richman and Buttner paced the Wilson attack by caging ten and seven points respectively. Page was high scorer for Gables with four points.

Demaret Nips Tony Penna

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 21 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret, Houston's pride, won the western open championship today, swamping Tony Penna of Dayton, Ohio, in their 18-hole playoff after a rocky start.

Demaret raced around the treacherous River Oaks par 35-36 —71 course in one under perfect figures as Penna folded after a brilliant beginning and finished with a 74.

Prep Cage Meet Tickets Go Fast

The sale of state high school basketball tickets continues at a steady pace, according to figures released yesterday by Charles Gallher, business manager of university athletics. About half of the reserved season tickets that were placed on sale have been taken, with the demand for individual session duets reported as brisk for the Saturday sessions particularly. The season ticket sale yesterday had reached a mark slightly above fourteen hundred.

PRESSBOX PICKUPS By OSCAR HARGRAVE

The pros and the cons are a part of history and probably neither will ever become else than it is, but, the rights of Germany in the World war notwithstanding, there is much to be said for the psychological angle and its part in athletics.

This isn't, by any stretch of the imagination, an argument for the "do-or-die" spirit as against the finer points of organized physical activity, but a statement to the effect that a hungry man is apt to snatch the last pork chop away from an unenthusiastic boarding house dweller. Such is the evidence offered by this year's work on the part of Dick Evans. "Whitey" wasn't unenthusiastic in the past; he just didn't find himself until last fall.

It is a matter of history that Evans has been a fairly regular member of Iowa grid and basketball squads for three years, but he was only a mediocre performer at best. Last fall changed things, especially the later part of the football season.

It began about the time of the Wisconsin game. Interference on end runs, that would normally have upset the rangy Hawkeye, found itself spilled across the sideline, with the yardage marked up in the yards lost column.

As practically everyone remembers, Evans was named on a couple of second all-Big Ten teams—that in spite of the fact that a school has a hard time landing two wing posts anywhere and that Capt. Ervin Prasse was rated as one of the nation's best.

The truth is that Evans was, last fall, becoming about the best defensive wingman you could find and he kept getting better. At least, Purdue, Notre Dame, Minnesota and Northwestern wondered where Iowa got that guy who stopped all their pet "down the sidelines" plays.

Leaving the football question with the feeling that they don't make much better ends than Evans was during the late 1940 season, we come to the basketball question. It might be only that the ex-grizzer is improving with practice and age as a cager, but popular opinion holds that Evans has just gotten around to the very useful notion that he is quite able to take care of himself in most any sort of endeavor. It isn't a cocky attitude—just a personal feeling that you can do the job yourself.

If anyone wants to read the box scores of recent Iowa games, they can note that opposing centers haven't lived up to expectations on the scoring. Englund of Wisconsin, Schick and Sattler of Ohio State and Bill Menke of Indiana all came into the games against Iowa with reputations as point getters. They all ended up with totals that were not a bit more impressive than that of Evans, if as good.

The local viewpoint seems to be pretty much, "Them guys may be better than Evans, but he tackled too many good halfbacks to care about their reputations."

Members of the Alpha Xi Delta mother's club will be entertained at a bridge party tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the chapter house with Mrs. Mabel Haugh, Alpha Xi Delta housemother, serving as hostess.

Metz Dupes Lawyers

Pretends Insolence, Sleep To Announce Ball to Law Class

Sleeping intruders just aren't tolerated in classes in the college of law. Students in Prof. O. K. Patton's freshman class in contracts yesterday noticed a somnolent visitor in the back of the classroom as roll was being called.

After the students near him had aroused the unwelcome guest, Professor Patton recognized David Metz, L3 of Burlington, and ordered him to leave the room.

Metz picked up his books, stumbled down the aisle, and started to leave. But he was a bit annoyed by Professor Patton's remarks and the rude interruption of his sleep. When Professor Patton reminded him that the Law commons was built for sleepy lawyers, Metz retorted:

"I don't know that I have to get out. I don't think that I will. I don't like your attitude."

"Now get out of here and hurry up about it," the law college professor ordered.

Dramatically Metz turned to the class, which was a bit nonplussed, to plead his case. "I came in here to tell you about the Barristers' Ball," he began.

Realization that the whole scene was a realistic publicity stunt for the lawyer's party, to be given Friday, March 1, made the 100 or more prospective lawyers squirm a trifle uneasily as they understood with what ease they had been duped.

Women's Group Meets Today

Mrs. Josie C. Moon and Mrs. William P. Mueller will be co-hostesses at a 1 o'clock luncheon today at Youde's inn. The Past Presidents club of the Women's Relief corps will be guests.

Dr. Paul Talks To Club Today

Glass Collections To Be Shown, Discussed For University Group

Dr. William Paul will discuss, "Early American Glass" at a colonial tea given by the University club today from 3 to 5 o'clock in the clubrooms of Iowa Union.

Dr. Paul will exhibit some of his items. Among his collection he has examples of the green-headed grape, the hobnail, the frosted lion, the ribbon glass, the milk white glass and other patterns. His special interest is in salt shakers, and he has a number of varieties. Items from the glass collections of other local people will also be shown at the tea.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. S. N. Reger, Mrs. O. E. Schlanbusch, Alma Hovey, Mrs. Charles Bundy Wilson, Carrie Stanley, Mrs. B. J. Lambert and Mrs. A. W. Bryan.

AMONG IOWA CITY PEOPLE

Washington's Birthday First Noted in Bakery

Former Negro Servant Celebrated Anniversary With Free Feast

In August, 1790, the national capitol was moved from New York to Philadelphia. The following February, one of the first celebrations of George Washington's birthday was held in an obscure little bakery shop in New York.

In fact, every year until the death of the shop's proprietor, a Negro, the feast was celebrated there. It was not a function that was described in the society columns of the New York newspapers but it is significant, nevertheless.

The Negro was Mary Simpson, a former servant of the Washington family, who had been given her freedom when they left New York and was doing a thriving business in her little bakery shop.

A Picture and Trunk

Before Washington left, he gave the servant an old portrait of himself as well as a small leather trunk which was decorated with his initials in brass-headed tacks. She treasured these keepsakes and when the birthday of her former master came, on Feb. 22, she hung the portrait on the wall of her shop.

The trunk was placed on a stand below it and, on a table nearby, she placed a huge cake that she had made according to Washington's favorite recipe. Steaming coffee and cool punch were also placed on the table, and all of her customers were invited to partake of the refreshments while admiring her treasures.

According to history, Washington is the only man—with the exception of royalty—whose birthday was celebrated during his life. He was, however, often the guest of honor at birthday celebrations.

Iowa Faculty Members Will Attend Educational Convention

Will Discuss 1940 Yearbook At St. Louis

University Reunion Dinner Will Follow Week-End Meeting

Faculty members and other University of Iowa directors will go to St. Louis, Mo., this week end to attend the meeting of the American Association of School Administrators of the National Education association, which will be followed by the annual State University of Iowa dinner and reunion.

One of the main features of the convention will be a discussion of the 1940 yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education, which deals with the subject of the nature and nurture of intelligence. Dean George D. Stoddard of the graduate college and child welfare research station, who is chairman of the committee editing the yearbook, will participate in the discussion.

S. U. I. Exhibit

In charge of the University of Iowa exhibit, booth K-15, Iowa headquarters for the convention, will be Lee Cochran and Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division.

The dinner to be held Sunday following the convention will be a general reunion for faculty members from the university, schoolmen from the state, Iowa educators from Maine to California, and alumni from St. Louis and vicinity. Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the education college will preside at the dinner, and greetings will be given by President Eugene A. Gilmore of the University of Iowa.

Moving pictures in color—"Highlights of Iowa" and "Iowa-Notre Dame Game"—will close the program. "Highlights of Iowa," a new picture of the university at work and at play, will have its premiere showing at this meeting under the supervision of Mr. Cochran.

Among Those Going

Faculty members from the college of education to attend the St. Louis meeting will include Dean Paul C. Packer, Prof. E. T. Peterson, Prof. E. F. Lindquist, Prof. Ernest Horn, Prof. George B. Smith, Prof. James B. Stroud, Prof. Herbert F. Spitzer, and Prof. Harry A. Greene. Prof. Beth L. Wellman will be one of the representatives of the child welfare research station at the convention.

Tickets for the dinner, to be held in the Hotel Jefferson, may be ordered in advance by mail from the extension division or obtained later at the Iowa headquarters booth, St. Louis municipal auditorium.

Lipstick! Five Barns Worth

Scientific Study Reveals Extent of Iowa Coeds' Lip Makeup

Harold Gibbons, E4 of Burlington, last semester did a bit of scientific research on the Iowa Campus, involving the amount of lipstick worn by Iowa coeds. His research led to some astonishing conclusions!

By VERNON LANGILLE

Five barns worth of lipstick is applied to the lips of Iowa coeds every year. Granted that an average barn contains somewhere around 6,000 square feet of paintable surface, it is just enough to paint five of the rural palaces.

Commenting on the exactness of his first campus-wide "lip census," Gibbons adds that the coefficient of expansion of lipstick in winter is lower than during summer.

"It isn't a rash guess at all," he said, "to say the girls could paint six barns were the weather a bit milder."

Gibbons contends 3,000 women of the normal S. U. I. student body are devout lipstick users.

goldfish, phonograph records and telephone directories, Gibbons, armed with "T" square and slide rule, busied himself measuring the surface of coed lips and proceeded to compare them to barns.

The average pair of lips, according to Gibbons, measure slightly less than two square inches. These surfaces are delicately painted three times each day, (if one is to be in keeping with the best habits as handed down by Emily Post) 240 days of the school year.

Or, in Square Inches—
Final calculations reveal 4,320,000 square inches of lips, are being painted every year. Granted that an average barn contains somewhere around 6,000 square feet of paintable surface, it is just enough to paint five of the rural palaces.

Display Literature

Fiction, Non-Fiction Plays Available In Library for Interested Readers

George Washington lives again—in fiction, non-fiction and plays collected on special shelves in the reading room of general library.

There are many browse over new books and old books and new re-prints of old books, all with George Washington as the central theme.

A four-act play in book form, "Colonel George of Mount Vernon" by Augustus Thomas, is beside a collection of Washington's own papers, called "Washington's Political Legacies" and printed in Boston in 1800.

Both sides of the Parson Weems story of George Washington and the cherry tree are presented, first in a reprint of the book which the parson, Mason Locke Weems, printed first in 1800 with the cherry tree episode and later in 1806 with the story, and Harold Kellock's modern "Parson Weems of the Cherry Tree."

A reprint of Washington's map of Mt. Vernon and reprints from the New York Tribune published at the time of the Washington centenary celebration in New York in 1889 are included, as is Michael J. O'Brien's "George Washington's Associations With the Irish," which presents a little-publicized phase of Washington's life.

Among other books is an auto-graphed one, "The Boy George Washington, Aged 16, His Own Account of an Iroquois Indian Dance, 1748," written and compiled by Albert Cook Myers in 1932.

The display is located near the circulation desk in the general reading room.

Close Hall On Way Out

Journalism Group Saves Three Stones For New Building

The Iowa chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, has completed arrangements for saving the three identification pieces from the tower of Close Hall, the journalism building, now being partially dismantled following damage by fire last New Year's day.

The three pieces to be saved are the large "Close Hall" stones from the upper center part of the tower and the "Y. M. C. A." and "Y. W. C. A." stones from the lower part of the tower.

The "Close Hall" stone, made up of five large tile pieces, has already been removed in the process of taking the tower off and the other two pieces will be taken out within a few days when the remainder of the tower is taken down.

According to present plans, these pieces will be stored and when a new journalism building is constructed they will be incorporated in the structure in some way as historical relics or they will be placed in a museum to be sponsored by the local Sigma Delta Chi chapter within the new building.

Further plans for preserving the memory of 50-year-old Close Hall which served the Iowa campus in so many ways and housed The Daily Iowan offices and the school of journalism for over 15 years include securing of the corner stone when the remainder of the building is dismantled and possibly other pieces of interest.

Kuever Calls Sulfanilamide One of Greatest Discoveries In Pharmaceutical History

Sulfanilamide, used in the treatment of some 30 diseases, has been characterized by Dean Rudolph A. Kuever of the University of Iowa pharmacy colleges as one of the greatest of all pharmaceutical discoveries.

Dean Kuever said that it has been known since 1935 but only within the past year has it come into prominence as an effective remedy for such ailments as pneumonia, gas gangrene, scarlet fever, peritonitis, and streptococcal meningitis.

He pointed out that the drug also has special value as a healing agent, being used in the eye disease, trachoma, and the surgical wounds of malarial. Some of its derivatives are being investigated for special properties to control

Women Debaters To Compete In Tournament March 8, 9

Freshman-Sophomore Tourney To Be Held Here March 9 Also

Women debaters will convene here March 8 and 9 for the invitational forensic tournament for women and, for the first time in the history of the university, a freshman-sophomore college debate tournament will be held, also on March 9, according to an announcement by Prof. A. Craig Baird, university debate director. Assisting Professor Baird with the contest arrangements is Mal Hansen of the speech department.

Institutions besides the University of Iowa which have already entered the women's tournament include Sioux Falls college, Sioux Falls, S. D.; Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill.; and Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill.

Five Schools Enrolled

Five schools have thus far indicated that they will participate in the freshman-sophomore college tournament. They are Waldorf college, Forest City; Burlington Junior college, Burlington; Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls; Wartburg college, Waverly, and Augustana college, Rock Island. The Iowa freshman squad under the direction of James W. Parkinson will compete in this contest.

The women's competition will include contests in debate, oratory, extempore speaking, discussion and after-dinner talks. Debates will consist of four rounds on the topic: "Resolved: That the United States should follow a policy of strict (economic and military) isolation toward all nations engaged in armed international or civil conflict."

Extempore Contest

The extempore speaking contest will be on the subject, "Should Congress pass legislation providing for a more rapid increase of military and naval airplane expansion?" The topic for the discussion contest is "Should Mr. Roosevelt have a third term?"

The freshman-sophomore college debate tournament will be four rounds of debate on the isolation question. The people ranking in the upper 25 per cent of the affirmative and negative teams will be announced at a luncheon Saturday in the Union in conjunction with the women's tournament.

Ross Livingston Re-Elected Head of Social Service League

Dean Stoddard Speaks Before Annual Meet

Discusses 'White House Conference on Children in Democracy' Report

Meeting at its annual business session in the D and L grill last night, the Social Service League of Johnson county re-elected Prof. W. Ross Livingston of the history department president for the coming term.

Mrs. J. D. Boyd was re-elected vice-president and Irene Keating will fill the secretary post in place of Frances G. Wilson, who resigned to do some special studies in the field of social administration at the university of Chicago.

Board of Directors
Elected to three-year terms on the board of directors were G. F. Ramsay, J. A. Swisher, Kenneth Deming, Mrs. E. R. Means and Sam Saltzman. Mrs. Tom Farrell will fill the incomplete term of W. P. Porter, which expires next year.

The nominating committee was under the chairmanship of Harold M. Schuppert and included Prof. Kirk Porter and Mrs. William Weeber.

The main speaker of the evening, Dean George D. Stoddard of the graduate college, discussed the report of "The White House Conference on Children in a Democracy" which was held last month in Washington, D. C.

Meets Every Decade
The speaker explained the conference meets every decade to formulate a program which will govern its actions for the next ten years. The last meeting was the third since the establishment of the conference.

Dean Stoddard praised the report for setting up machinery for future work along state lines and for its call for democratic action, but criticized it for being too general and not realistic. "It didn't have a clean-cut line," the speaker said. "It needed more in the line of blue prints—more statistics, more tables, more charts and more specific proposals."

Eleven Points
He then discussed five of the eleven points of the report in detail explaining them to the league. The five points were employment, housing, religion, the school and health.

Dean Stoddard also announced a follow-up conference for the state on June 18 for the purpose of formulating specific suggestions on the basis of the national report. He pointed out that a survey is now being taken on the child problem in Iowa through state agencies.

In her annual report on the activities of the league, Miss Wilson outlined the organization and work of the league during the past year.

"We lay emphasis on helping people to help themselves," she said.

School Election On March 11

Voters Must Register In City Clerk's Office By Next Thursday

Those expecting to vote in the school board election in the city hall here March 11 must be registered in the city clerk's office by next Thursday, it was announced yesterday. Those who have not voted in the past four years will be required to re-register.

Others who will be affected by the registration deadline will be those who have married or changed their names or street addresses.

Two members of the board, Prof. Thomas G. Caywood and Elza Means, will see their three-year terms expire this year.

It was indicated last night that two candidates will declare their intentions today to run for the positions. Those seeking election must file papers with Charles Galher, board secretary, by noon of March 1.

Shay Services This Morning At 9 o'Clock

Funeral service for Peter Shay, 88, Iowa City, who died in a local hospital Tuesday afternoon, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's church. The Rev. P. J. O'Reilly will officiate. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. Shay was born at Brockport, N. Y., Nov. 22, 1851. Survivors include a brother, T. E. Shay of Iowa City; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Dolmage and Mrs. Ellen Gerlitz, both of Iowa City, and several nieces and nephews. His wife, three brothers and one sister preceded him in death.

Courthouse Clocks Gone

Tardy Relics To Be Replaced With Five New Electric Clocks

Courthouse business is destined to have a higher degree of punctuality in the future, and workers will no longer need to depend upon the city whistles to provide the correct time.

The county board of supervisors ordered that the five old clocks on first floor of the courthouse be replaced with modern electric models. Installation work was begun yesterday.

According to Ed Sulek, who has been Johnson county auditor for 20 years and has been connected in some way with the courthouse since it was built, most of the old time pieces are older than the courthouse, which was built 40 years ago.

"Although I don't remember how many," Sulek said, "some of these clocks were transferred from the old courthouse when this one was built in December, 1899."

Settle Stormes, Andrews Case Out of Court

Two Parties Dismiss Claims Against One Another in Note Suit

Settlement out of court yesterday ended the case which Mariam E. Andrews brought against Bernice E. Stormes, seeking payment of $120 allegedly due on a $400 note. Miss Stormes had also filed a counter-claim of $7,500 against the plaintiff.

The two parties reached a settlement just before the prosecuting attorney presented his arguments to the jury. Each party dismissed the cause of action against the other. Payment of one-half of the court costs by each party was required by the court.

Judges James P. Gaffney adjourned Johnson county district court until Saturday morning after the settlement.

Tomorrow the courthouse will be closed because of Washington's birthday, and on Friday Judge Gaffney will conduct the Washington county district court at Washington, Ia.

Anna Parrott Funeral Rites

To Be Held At St. Wenceslaus Church Saturday Morning

Funeral service for Anna M. Parrott, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Parrott, 1123 N. D'Age street, who died early yesterday after a lingering illness, will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday in St. Wenceslaus church. She will be buried in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Until recently she had attended the Iowa School for the Deaf at Council Bluffs.

Survivors include, beside her parents, her grandmother, Mrs. M. M. Parrott of St. Paul, Minn.; three sisters, Henrietta, Celeste and Ursula Parrott, all of Iowa City, and eight brothers, Charles Jr., Stephen, Robert, Leo, Joseph, Donald, Herman and Kenneth Parrott, all of Iowa City.

The body will be at the McGovern funeral home until time of the service.

City Bonds Purchased

The Scott McIntyre company yesterday purchased city special assessment bonds to pay for costs of materials for the Sunnyside sewer project, it was announced at the city clerk's office.

Totalling $8,927.41, the bonds were sold at par with accrued interest.

First 'Community Players' Tryouts For Play Parts Will Be March 16

Tryouts for the first presentation of the "Community Players" will be held March 16, it was announced yesterday by Winston LaPorte, in charge of the project. Those wishing to try for a part, he said, must have their names on file in the Recreational Center office.

Until 5:30 this afternoon pledges to buy season tickets for the plays will be accepted, he announced.

Tryouts for the second play will be given March 29, and those wishing to participate must file their names before March 16. Directors for the plays needed,

Industrial Mobilization Plans For U. S. in Event of War Are No Secret, Says Huling

Would Create Board To Coordinate Army, Civilian Needs

The United States government is not secretive about its plans for industrial mobilization, Maj. John Huling Jr., shops officer of the U. S. arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., declared at a National defense week dinner last night in the Jefferson hotel.

Demonstrating this point, he explained the government's plans to coordinate needs of the armed forces and civilians in event of mobilization.

Intervention
"In a national emergency, the war resources administration would intervene in only that part of industry which failed to cooperate," Major Huling said. Congress would create this administration, which would be made up of civilian business leaders as would its subordinate committees of control, he asserted. They would receive suggestions from military officers.

"The rapidity with which similar agencies passed out of existence after the World War should answer persons fearing the perpetuation of industrial control in peace-time," the speaker pointed out.

Elements Involved
Major Huling listed these economic elements subject to control: public relations, labor, raw materials, factory facilities, capital, power, fuel, food, foreign trade and communication.

Possible means of government control in the war resources administration's hands would be passing on priority in supplying service branches, price control, profit control, allocations, embargo, licensing rationing, propaganda, selective service (draft), establishing government corporations, conservation and commanding, as a last resort, he said.

"In peace time the planning branch of the war department studies military necessities and methods of supplying them in time of emergency," Major Huling explained.

Manufacturers' Move
Ten thousand manufacturers have made plans to switch to production of war supplies, he declared. These programs are filed with the planning branch.

The war department also embraces branches which buy army supplies and a college to instruct procurement experts, he said.

Major Huling outlined the work of the Rock Island arsenal. His talk was illustrated by slides.

Open to the public, the dinner was sponsored by the Reserve Officers' association in culmination of National Defense week.

Druggists Hear Dr. J. I. Routh On 'Vitamins'

"Vitamins" was the subject upon which Dr. J. I. Routh of the chemistry department spoke at the dinner meeting of group 16, Iowa Pharmaceutical association, last night in the dining room above Smith's cafe.

A report of the annual convention, which was held last week in Des Moines, was presented by Dean Rudolph A. Kuever of the college of pharmacy.

Druggists from Johnson, Cedar, Washington, Iowa and Muscatine counties were represented in group 16 of the association.

District Court Admits Arthur Smith Estate, Kelly Will to Probate

One will and one estate were admitted to probate in Johnson county district court yesterday.

Katherine Hart was appointed executrix of the will of John William Kelly, who died Feb. 6. No bond was set.

Emma T. Smith was appointed administratrix of the estate of Arthur W. Smith, who died Feb. 15. Bond was set at $500 by the court.

Light Snow Normal Temperatures Yesterday

For the third consecutive day yesterday, the highest temperature in the last 24 hours reached one degree below the normal high of 35 degrees with a low reading of nine degrees above normal.

A light snow fell early last night tended to keep the level nearly constant, counterbalancing in volume that which melted during the day.

A year ago yesterday Iowa City was cold. Six to nineteen degrees represented the range then.

Janson Presents 2nd Lecture Before Pilgrimage to Chicago

By MADELYN MILES
H. W. Janson last night gave the second of the lectures on Picasso explaining and interpreting the many phases of the great artist's works, before students and faculty view the exhibition Saturday and Sunday at the Chicago Art Institute. The lecture was in the auditorium of the art building.

Mr. Janson announced that there are still a few seats available for those who wish to make the "Picasso Pilgrimage" this week end.

After giving a short review of last week's lecture on the first 20 years of Picasso's career, Mr. Janson reviewed the artist's career from 1920 to the present.

Again using slides in the darkened auditorium upon which to base his talk, Janson began with a discussion of the classical period of Picasso which began in 1920.

In 1923 and 1924 Picasso's paintings became almost sentimental but in 1925 he reacted strongly against sentiment by re-summing his previous cubistic means of expression, although the influence of classicism is shown by a more balanced and restful cubism than that of his previous period.

Likening Picasso's phases to that of many streams which finally unite to form one large river Janson pointed out that none of these streams is stagnant.

A synthesis of all the various phases of Picasso's career seems to have formed about 1930. Picasso's study of medieval stained-glass windows is shown strongly in his art during the last ten years, Janson pointed out.

It was during the Spanish war that Picasso took for the first time an active part in the affairs of his time. His hatred of Franco and fascism was the theme of most of his most recent pictures. His greatest monumental work was painted for the Paris World fair, said the art instructor.

Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the art department, in introducing Janson, pointed out the practical influence that Picasso has had over American painters, sometimes unknowingly, and the cubistic tendency of modern advertising.
