F.R. Would Double Canal Zone Defenses

ABOARD U.S.S. LANG AT SEA, Feb. 27—(AP via wireless)—President Roosevelt said today that doubling the present number of planes and guns defending the Panama canal was necessary for the long range defense of the vital link between the Atlantic and Pacific.

Welles Enroute to Germany

Paris, London Calls To Follow Stop at Berlin

Roosevelt's Emissary Concludes 'Successful' Mission in Italy

-FROM ROME-

ROME, Feb. 28 (Wednesday) (AP)—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles left early today for Zurich, Switzerland, en route to Germany to meet with Adolf Hitler and German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop on his fact-finding tour of Europe as President Roosevelt's personal emissary.

The American envoy will also confer with Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering during his two-day stay in Berlin before going on to Paris and London.

Visibly tired from his round of conferences here, Welles entrained at 12:15 a.m. (5:15 p.m. CST) after he and Myron C. Taylor, Mr. Roosevelt's envoy to the Vatican, launched through the opening stages of the president's double-barreled peace initiative.

American embassy attaches and Celia De Vegliaso, chief of protocol for the Italian foreign ministry, were at the station to see Welles off. The undersecretary boarded his train at 11:30 p.m. and retired immediately.

Earlier, he had bid farewell to United States Ambassador William Phillips, his host during his Rome stay.

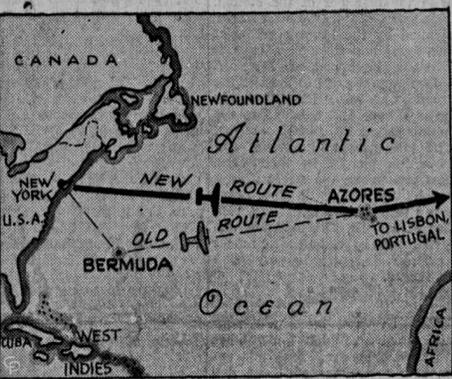

Welles will reach Zurich in mid-afternoon today and proceed to Berlin Thursday, arriving Friday morning.

While Welles spent yesterday in conferences with the British, French and German ambassadors, Taylor delivered to Pope Pius XII Mr. Roosevelt's assurances of American collaboration to bring together a Europe divided against itself.

Welles, whose next stop on a mission of inquiry is Berlin, rounded out his inquiries here in informal chats with the French, British and German ambassadors, following his "long and cordial" talks yesterday with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Reflecting the informality of these conversations was the simple ceremony at which Taylor established himself as Mr. Roosevelt's "channel of communication" between the White House and the Vatican.

Hitler To State Nazi Position To U. S. Envoy

Officials of Reich To Confer at Length With Sumner Welles

-FROM BERLIN-

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER BERLIN, Feb. 27 (AP)—The impression grew today that Adolf Hitler would give Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, due in Berlin Friday, a comprehensive exposition of Germany's claims to a dominant position in central and southeastern Europe as well as demands for return of her colonies.

Arrangements for Welles' visit were confirmed by Alexander Kirk, American charge d'affaires, in a visit to the foreign office.

According to present plans, Welles will go into a huddle Friday with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, who is recovering from gripe, and probably will see Hitler Saturday.

One foreign office official commenting on Welles' visit said "We hope he is bringing a thick notebook."

It seemed probable Welles also would confer lengthily with Hitler's "crown prince," Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering. It has become almost a part of protocol for visiting statesmen to be Goering's guests when coming to Berlin and his pivotal position as German economic dictator makes him a natural source for foreigners in quest of knowledge about the reich.

Hitler's speech last Saturday was regarded by many as furnishing the frame-work for his probable exposition of the German position to Welles.

Then he left no doubt Germany demands a free hand in middle and southeastern Europe, at least in contiguous nations to the east and southeast and at least as far as agreeable to Germany's two special friends, Russia and Italy.

The Fuehrer also reiterated demands for return of the colonial empire lost in the World war.

When Hitler goes after anything, he does it thoroughly, he said Saturday. From this it may be expected Welles will sit with the Fuehrer a considerable number of hours.

Premature Putting Practice?—Possibly!

Delays Permit Of $20,000,000 Grant to Finns

To Consider Today Amendments Permitting Military Purchases

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (AP)—A half-hearted house deferred final action late today on a bill to permit an additional $20,000,000 loan to Finland.

Although house leaders had announced they intended to complete action on the measure before adjournment, they subsequently left until tomorrow the disposition of a number of amendments, including some which would permit the funds to be used for military purchases.

A democratic member of the committee in charge of the bill said the delay was decided upon because many members went home early on account of a mild snowstorm and administration leaders feared the republicans might put through some objectionable amendments.

Acting chairman Williams (D-Mo.) said, however, that the reason was that he and other leaders were "tired" and had "talked long enough."

Six-Hour Debate Democrats and republicans took turns criticizing the bill during a six-hour debate—some because it did not specifically direct that a loan be made to Finland, some because it prohibited use of the money for purchase of arms and others on the ground that it was "a cloak" to increase the general authority of the export-import bank, through which the loans would be made.

The measure provides a $100,000,000 increase in the bank's capital. "We've equivocated and delayed on this thing long enough," shouted young Rep. Allen (D-Pa.).

Points to Lafayette Pointing to the portrait of Lafayette to the left of the speaker's chair, Allen asserted that had it not been for the financial and military aid France gave the American colonies in their fight for independence "there probably wouldn't be any republic of the United States today."

"I think that as representatives of a nation whose very existence depended upon military and economic aid from France," Allen continued, "we've been conducting ourselves in an untenable manner on this question of aid for Finland."

Russians Advance on Viipuri In Attempt To Encircle City

Soviets Attack Besieged Town Over Bay Ice

Finns Acknowledge New Red Successes In Far North Sector

-FROM HELSINKI-

By WADE WERNER HELSINKI, Feb. 27 (AP)—The red army tonight smashed at Viipuri and its environs, an artillery-raked no-man's land cluttered with ruins where more than 80,000 persons once lived, while Finland acknowledged another Russian success above the Arctic circle.

Attacking across the ice of frozen Viipuri bay the Soviet forces attempted to force their way past islands southwest of Viipuri, evidently aiming at outflanking Finnish defense lines on the western rim of the Karelian isthmus.

Encirclement of the battered city, already at the mercy of medium range Russian artillery, also was an aim of the Russian drive. Long range Soviet guns early in the war shelled Viipuri, once Finland's third largest city, and civilians were quickly removed.

Military sources said the Russian attack across the ice was likely to result in heavy Russian losses since the Finns have strong defense batteries along the jagged west coast of the bay.

Groundwork for their trans-bay assault was laid by capture of the Koivisto fortifications further south which had served as anchor of the Mannerheim line's western terminus.

On land, the Finnish communique reported a Russian attack at Somme about seven miles south of Viipuri and heavy fighting also on frozen Naykkijarvi, a small lake east of Somme along the Pero river, and at Lake Ayrappa, 25 miles east of Viipuri.

G. O. P.'s Win Two Special Ohio Elections

Win Democratic Seat, Place First Woman In Congressional Seat

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27 (AP)—Republicans won two special congressional elections in Ohio today. In one they captured a democratic seat. In the other they remained in power and named the state's first congresswoman.

The 17th district, ordinarily democratic, elected republican J. Harry McGregor over Byron B. Ashbrook, 27,437 to 22,894 after a campaign in which the new deal was a clear-cut issue.

The 22nd district, traditionally republican, chose wealthy Mrs. Frances P. Bolton over Anthony A. Fieger, 40,882 to 24,348.

McGregor succeeds Ashbrook's uncle, William A. Ashbrook, democrat, who died Jan. 1. Mrs. Bolton succeeds her husband, Chester C. Bolton, who died Oct. 29.

McGregor, 43-year-old contractor who has been republican floor leader in the Ohio house, promptly hailed the result as showing "A general trend away from the new deal."

A committee of educators recommended today that college training be provided free for every student of superior ability who desires it and whose family cannot finance it.

House Agriculture Committee Opens New Attack on Tenancy

Private Investors Would Raise Money To Relieve Situation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (AP)—A new, $350,000,000 attack on the problem of farm tenancy was recommended today by the house agricultural committee.

Under the plan, as explained by Chairman Jones (D-Texas), the money would be raised from private investors. The funds would be lent to farm tenants so that they could become farm owners, or would be used to refinance existing mortgages. The agriculture department would insure the mortgages securing the loans, for the purpose of making the investments attractive to private capital.

The measure would authorize $50,000,000 for the 1941 fiscal year, $100,000,000 for 1942 and $200,000,000 for 1943.

A mortgage could not exceed 90 per cent of the farm's appraised value unless the mortgagor had unencumbered supplies and equipment equal to at least 15 per cent of the value of the farm. The mortgage loan would bear no more than 3 per cent interest. In addition, the borrower would pay an additional 1 per cent, half of which would go into a fund for possible losses and the rest would be used to defray the cost of servicing the loan.

World War Liner To Put to Sea For Uncle Sam

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (AP)—A battered old liner which fired the first American shot in the World war—a blast that sent a German U-boat to the bottom—is returning to the seas after sleeping quietly and ingloriously for five years at dingy docks around New York and Newark, N. J.

Dutch Fire At Foreign Planes

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 28 (Wednesday) (AP)—Antiaircraft batteries guarding this neutral Netherlands city blazed sporadically from 10 p.m. (4 p.m., C. S. T.) last night until 3 a.m. (9 p.m., C. S. T.) today when they were still firing at unidentified foreign warplanes.

About 2 a.m. an unexploded shell fell on the roof of a house in the southern quarter of the city and penetrated three floors, but no one was injured. Sleeping occupants, however, had a narrow escape.

They'll Be Seeing America First

WITH WAR RAGING around the world and overseas tourism restricted by law, Americans are setting out to "see America first" on a bigger scale than ever before.

All together 58 percent of the money spent on travel goes for transportation. Another 22 percent goes for recreation, which means about one-quarter billion dollars for sporting goods manufacturers and all others who equip or serve Americans touring for fun.

This broad spread of the travel dollar among a variety of businesses is almost equaled by its geographic diversity. Every state in the union has a share of the tourist trade.

The Farmers' 100-Years Story

THE FARM CENSUS of 1940 will conclude a statistical story of 100 years of American agriculture. The first farm census was taken in 1840.

In 1935, there were almost seven million farms in the United States, which is six times the number of farms in 1850.

The great changes that have taken place in farm life since 1850 have been brought about largely by trends affecting the whole nation.

For the educated persons of the nation to take leadership in the campaign against social diseases is entirely proper.

preciating farm values and the problem of surplus in farm products.

Mechanization has created problems on the farm as well as in industry. The replacement of oxen, mules and horses by trucks, and tractors has created the question of the use of 30 million acres of land formerly used to produce feed for horses.

The replacement of the sickle by the combined harvester and thresher, the hoe by the four-row cultivator, the mechanical cotton picker by the individual cotton picker has greatly speeded up the process of farm production.

The farm tenancy problem, exploiting the land and men for immediate profits, is one of the biggest problems confronting us today upon which the census figures shed information.

Now, farmers are borrowing over seven million dollars on land mortgages. Consequently only about half of the farms today are owned by full owners.

HOW THE communists are to seize the United States in 1942 and how all the money men, government officials including President Roosevelt, and opposition leaders are exterminated, is told very picturesquely in the March issue of Click photo magazine.

President Roosevelt conferred a few days ago with a trio of very able American diplomats relative to conditions in Europe. The three were Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, Joseph P. Kennedy, our ambassador in London, and William C. Bullitt, who represents us in Paris.

Troubled Mr. Gitlow leaves nothing to the imagination in his revealing article. Taking the reader from the time in which Roosevelt is elected for the third term, Mr. Gitlow carves his way through a maze of intrigues until the seizure of power by Mr. Earl Browder and the Communist International.

But Mr. Gitlow has a saving grace about him. Before the reader loses his mind by dint of the horrible picture painted, Ben heaves a sigh of relief and explains that this can never happen here because the people of the United States are too much in love with democracy, the constitution, and that they have too much sense to fall for a communist line like this.

Which all goes to show that indignation can at times be cured!

Discusses Differences in Three of Uncle's Diplomats—Sumner Welles, Kennedy and Bullitt

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

President Roosevelt conferred a few days ago with a trio of very able American diplomats relative to conditions in Europe. The three were Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, Joseph P. Kennedy, our ambassador in London, and William C. Bullitt, who represents us in Paris.

When I met him initially I was running an American-language newspaper in the Argentine republic and he wanted something in connection with my editorial policy, that he didn't think I'd like.

Joseph P. Kennedy Joe Kennedy is a business man, a financier. He has made his own money, and a lot of it. He's a stock market expert. Issues of international exchange are his "meat."

Sumner Welles is a professional diplomat. He never has been anything else. He married most of his money. Not that he had some originally, but he was no plutocrat to begin with.

Getting closer home, Fred will interview David Ludmerer, one of Uncle Sam's custodians at the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's island in New York harbor.

FRED TRIED TO get a date with Miss Liberty herself, but she declined to descend from her pedestal for the comedian so Ludmerer volunteered to pay the funster a visit.

It's rumored that he may commute from Catalina to Hollywood this summer to make a follow-up moving picture after the success of "That's Right, You're Wrong."

THE ANDREWS SISTERS, who were due to bow off the Glenn Miller show after their first 13 weeks, will probably continue going on tour with Miller's orchestra.

PETER VAN STEEDEN and his orchestra will feature "Yip-I-Addy-I-Ay," "Hungarian Rhapsody," "Old Man River," and "Three Cheers for Anything."

"LEAF NO MORE, MY LADY" is the title of tonight's drama on the "Dr. Christian" broadcast over CBS at 7:30.

Golden Age Of Dempsey—Tucker Views That Famous Part of N. Y. 'Dempsey Square'

NEW YORK — The area surrounding Madison Square Garden should be named Jack Dempsey Square. It is that now in everything but name. Its fame rests on the glamor of Dempsey's clanging victories.

Just across the street, facing west, is his own restaurant, unofficial headquarters for most of the colorful and famous characters that make New York the sporting metropolis of the world.

Down the street, a block or so from Dempsey's restaurant, is a wax museum. You know what wax museums are. They take famous people, living and dead, and model them, and put clothes on them, and charge admissions for people to see.

It is the claim of this museum that in its rooms are all the famous characters who have made history for the last five hundred years. But the legend out front doesn't specify the years.

You may call it Eighth avenue and Fifth street if you care to; that's the way it is on the city maps, and in the Manhattan directories. But to the cab-drivers and the cops, the newsboys and the ex-pugs, and the reporters, it is something a little more intimate and personal than that. It is Dempsey Square.

United States that we must take some responsibility for peace and reconstruction after the war. On this first point he says: "There is an awareness today which was not present during the last war. For instance, when I landed in New York after my trip abroad, the reporters all wanted to know: 'When are we going to get into it?'

Ramblers Beaten by St. Ambrose, 26 to 15

PRESSBOX PICKUPS
By OSCAR HARGRAV

There was a phone call Monday night, between halves of the Purdue-Iowa basketball game, in which the Hawkeyes had started to fall behind, from an Iowa sports follower.

"What are you going to do about the basketball situation?" was the main point of the talk. The same question has been voiced on a number of other occasions.

To which my answer is now, and will continue to be, "Nothing." There are coaches hired for that job, the athletic board hires the coaches and I feel that the board can handle the matter satisfactorily. At least, things have been quite well taken care of at most times and it is a personal opinion that the athletic department will, at its own discretion, find the right answer to the present puzzle.

If there be anyone who wonders why I won't speculate, the answer is herewith submitted to all and sundry. It isn't, by any means, a desire to cloud any issue, nor is it ignorance of the fact that the Iowa basketball team hasn't won games. It's merely that I, for one, do not feel that all the trouble can be laid at any specific door and be stomped out with any specific step.

Add to that a distaste for stirring up squabbles to buzz around the noggin like a dispossessed family of hornets or butting the head into stone walls, and the personal reasons for leaving the matter to the proper authorities become quite sufficient.

And, for another conclusive argument, I wish to ask what can be done while the season is in its middle. The Hawkeyes lost game after game, but finally hit a sort of a stride. They looked good, in fact, while downing Wisconsin and Ohio State, but fell into the doldrums again and have lost four in a row.

The season is practically over and there isn't a chance to finish near the first division, but the Hawkeyes might make the end slightly more cheerful than the beginning. After that is the time to take stock and measure the season point for point.

And, despite invitations from any side, I will, personally, leave the matter in the hands of the voters and the office holders of the athletic government.

Nile Kinnick Leads in 'Athlete of The Year' Voting

Beginning to gain strength last night, the "Athlete of the Year" vote sent Nile Kinnick, Iowa's all-American gridder, into a lead as the first full day's voting ended. The balloting, at Whetstone's No. 1, Racine's No. 1, the D and L grill and The Daily Iowan office, will end tomorrow night at 9 o'clock.

Kinnick, with a vote of 185 up to the first official check-up, led a fellow gridder, Dick Evans, by a margin of 34 votes. Surprisingly enough, Erwin Prasse, last year's winner and announced as ineligible for the contest, polled a total that was nearly equal to those of Kinnick and Evans.

There was definite indication that, although Kinnick is taking the role of favorite and early leader, there will be plenty of competition from fellow gridgers, with strong opposition also offered by last year's championship baseball team. The football and basketball players have, thus far, dominated the balloting which is expected to move much faster today and during the final hours tomorrow.

Behind Kinnick and Evans comes Harold Haub, one of the baseball team's co-captains, and Mike Enich, football's captain-elect, with Jim George, the other baseball leader, not so far behind. Added to the leaders, this trio brings five names into the list of the leading contenders, the rest of the field receiving only scattered votes.

Prasse's total, of course, was thrown out by the counting committee. Having won the trophy last year, the three-sport star is automatically out of this year's vote, with all other Iowa letter winners still eligible.

The five leaders and number of votes cast for each: Nile Kinnick, 185; Dick Evans, 151; Harold Haub, 129; Mike Enich, 126; and Jim George, 112. Cagers Hope To Stop Hapac; Hawkeye Offense Is Erratic

HAROLD SHAPIRO Illinois Guard

CAPT. BILL HAPAC Illinois Forward

There's nothing for Iowa's cagers to gain this week end except for a dreary ending to an otherwise cheerless conference season. The Hawkeyes face Illinois and its high-scoring Bill Hapac Saturday night and Northwestern Monday, both at home.

Battered by Northwestern and Purdue last week end, the Hawks now rest in eighth place in the Big Ten standings with a record of three wins against seven losses, the last four defeats in succession. Both remaining opponents rank far higher in the Big Ten standing than the Hawks end, thus, rate as favorites over the Iowans.

Much, it might be said, of Saturday night's problem for Coach Rollie Williams will be in finding a defense to stop Bill Hapac, captain of the invading Illinois scoring pace-setter of the conference. Booming along at an average of nearly fifteen points to the game, the Illinois star leads a team that is still mathematically capable of taking a share in the title. The Illinois have won seven while losing three and rest in a second place tie with Indiana and Ohio State, two games behind Purdue's Boiler-makers.

Added to the defensive problems is the one of shooting, at which the Hawkeyes have been anything but remarkable this year. Against Northwestern last Saturday, they led in field goals, but fell to a miserable low at the free throw line. While the Wildcats counted 19 times on charity tosses, Iowa was able to count on but seven while missing 11. All told, the Hawkeyes have made an average of little better than half their free tosses this season. On field goals, Iowa has a slightly better record, with 260 against 264 for foes.

Although alternating between hot and cold of late, Vic Siegel still leads the scorers, with 167 points, 92 in conference games. Tom Lind has been coming up fast, now having 108 points, 62 in the conference, while Dick Evans is third with 74 for all games and 54 in the Big Ten.

Iowa Frosh Swimming Team Meets Ohio in Postal Meet

Bob Allen Believes That His Proteges Will Defend Laurels

The Hawkeye freshman swimming team will open the defense of its 1939 undefeated status when it meets the Ohio State frosh in a postal match Friday. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the yearlings will again swing into action when they battle the varsity in the fieldhouse pool in a tune-up for the Big Ten meet at Columbus, Ohio, next Friday and Saturday.

Since the freshmen have not as yet tasted college competition, it is difficult to predict their strength in the big time. Coach Bob Allen has been satisfied with their appearance in practice, however, and feels that they should give a good account of themselves in the postal series.

Varsity Coach Dave Armbruster has been giving some of his boys a short rest before starting to work in earnest on preparations for the conference meet. The men who were on the sick list have recovered, and should be in good condition by next week.

According to dual meet records this season, the Hawks should rate in the upper bracket, possibly in the top three with Michigan and Ohio State. Other teams have good individual performers, however, and, since a few first places in a championship meet count up faster than in dual affairs, they may upset the dope bucket.

Prep Swimmers Here Saturday

The three top high school swimming teams of the state will meet in a triangular battle at the fieldhouse pool at 4 p. m. Saturday

Trackmen Set For Minnesota Friday Night

The varsity track squad meets Minnesota here Friday night in the only indoor meet of the season to be held in the fieldhouse.

The contest will include 49 men from both schools, 30 representing the Hawkeyes and 19 the Gophers.

While setting themselves to try Friday for the seventh straight win over Minnesota in a dual indoor meet, the Hawk track and field athletes probably do not realize that their predecessors have compiled a ten-year record of 23 wins and 6 losses. Records show that the indoor teams in five of those seasons were unbeaten and that, figuring conference meets only, the record is 15 wins in 19 meets.

Minnesota, Northwestern, and Chicago have been most frequent victims of the Iowans coached by George Bresnahan. Defeats were inflicted by Wisconsin, three; Notre Dame, two; and Minnesota, one.

Everyone who reports for freshman basketball is given a fair chance to show what he has in the way of basketball ability. No one is ever cut from the squad. Whether or not they have made an all-state, all-conference or even all-city team has no bearing on who gets to play.

The freshman cagers get plenty of practice against the varsity and are used daily in scrimmages, both offensively and defensively. Before every home game they put on an exhibition scrimmage against the varsity reserves.

Iowa City's Basler Loses Decision In Opening Battle

CHICAGO, Feb. 27 (AP)—A crowd of 10,000 watched welterweights, middleweights, light heavyweight and heavyweight amateur hopefuls slug their way through first and second round matches of the 13th Golden Glove tournament of champions at the stadium tonight.

Ragon Kinney, a rugged 175-pounder from Fort Smith, Ark., indicated he'll make a strong bid for the division title by stopping Ed Purcell of Peoria, Ill., after two rounds.

Kinney, who was runner-up for the 1939 Golden Gloves middleweight crown, produced a two fisted attack which gave the Peoria youngster little chance to start many punches of his own.

Orlan Ott, Sioux City, Ia., heavyweight, stopped Russ Bennett of Richmond, Ind., in the third round with a display of sharp punching, while welterweight George Hayes of Des Moines, Ia., drew a big hand for a left hook in a first round knockout of James Forder, Rockford, Ill.

The flyweights, bantams, featherweights and lightweights went through the first two rounds last night. Tomorrow night's quarter-finals, with action in all weight classes, will cut the original field of 352 to 32 youngsters who will battle it out March 5 in the semi-finals and finals.

Little Hawks To Open Tourney Play Tonight

Coach Mike Howard's matmen will meet the strong Kansas State wrestling team at Manhattan, Kans., Friday evening.

The Wildcats have defeated Iowa State, Nebraska and Minnesota this year so it seems like the Hawkeyes are jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

Paul Whitmore will again be placed in the spotlight as he is scheduled to wrestle the Kansas State captain, Leon "Red" Reynard.

Reynard has quite a reputation in collegiate wrestling circles and if there is anyone who knows the holds and how to get out of them it's Reynard.

University of Los Angeles hopes he is successful.

Smith was to have directed the destinies of Loyola's gridgers next season. He accepted the bid several weeks ago and did everything but sign a contract. Last Saturday he said he had changed his mind and would remain in Pennsylvania.

The Loyola board of athletic control discussed the case last night and finally issued a statement declaring: "We graciously release M. J. Smith of his commitments to be head football coach at Loyola university. We wish him success."

Frosh Cagers Progressing Under Kistler

The learning of fundamentals is probably the primary job for anyone who intends to play a game well. With this in mind Coach Joy Kistler has been drilling his freshman cage prospects daily in the intricate skills of basketball.

The freshmen are taught to pivot, pass and guard in the manner which best suits them to the system of play that the Iowa varsity uses. For the most part this consists of the short pass and pivot system that works around a man in the center position.

Coach Kistler's greatest problem is in determining which men are suitable for the respective positions of guard, forward and center. Of course, the center position requires a man of considerable height, but in trying to learn whether a man is a better forward than a guard there is only one thing to do and that is to see him in action. So Coach Kistler shifts his men around until they fit into the right spot.

Everyone who reports for freshman basketball is given a fair chance to show what he has in the way of basketball ability. No one is ever cut from the squad. Whether or not they have made an all-state, all-conference or even all-city team has no bearing on who gets to play.

March, for the first time in many years, is a bigger month athletically for University of Iowa teams than was February, for twenty varied events await the Hawkeyes.

Reason for the advance of March to the ranks of the year's busiest month, except for May, is the fact that the baseball season begins much earlier than usual. Hawkeyes play six games in Louisiana during the week of March 18 to 23.

Of the twenty events, only four will occur at Iowa City—two basketball games and a track meet between next Friday and Monday, and the Northwestern swimming meet of March 18. But in addition, the sixteen finalists will battle for the state high school boys' basketball title in the fieldhouse March 14-16.

Championship events will test Iowa track, swimming, wrestling, and gymnastic teams, and the swimmers also will compete in the National Collegiate championships at New Haven, Conn.

Phi Psi's Wallop Phi Epsilon Kappa; Harris Hall Drops Intramural Tilt

Fraternities and town league teams held the spotlight in intramural basketball tournament last night.

Phi Kappa Psi downed Phi Epsilon Kappa, 27-17. The Phi Psi's took an early lead and never were headed. The winning team had a 15-5 advantage at the end of the first period and led the losers, 21-13, at the end of the second stanza.

Young was high scorer for the winning team with eight points, and Miletich scored eight points for the losers.

Section I eked out a victory over Harris Hall in the town league, 23-20. Bob Otto led the victors' attack with 10 points and Bill Gallagher and Red Frye each caged six points for the victors. Switzer led the losers with eight points.

Section II swamped over Section III, 41-24. It was Harder who led the winners' attack with 10 points and Holloway aided the losers with seven points.

Delta Theta Phi took a decision over Phi Kappa Sigma, 37-25. Townsend starred for the winners by scoring 10 points. Andruska sank three baskets to lead the scoring for the losers.

Delta Tau Delta took Phi Gamma Delta's measure by a 31-27 score. Ahman and Jennings led the Delt scoring parade by caging 10 and eight points, respectively. Carson was high scorer for Phi Gamma Delta with nine points.

Delta Upsilon trounced Delta Chi, 29-16. Pine led the D.U. scorers by notching 10 points. Burger was second with six. Van Heel and Cockerill were on top of the Delta Chi scorers with six and five points respectively.

DAVENPORT, Feb. 27 (Special to The Daily Iowan) — Inability to hit on shots from the field cost St. Mary's the Davenport Diocesan tournament, St. Ambrose winning, 26-15, before a capacity crowd at Leclair gym tonight. After winning their first three games in the tourney, the Iowa City boys missed many shots that were close in.

The defeat didn't hurt St. Mary's chances in the state tournament which will be held at Ft. Dodge on the dates of March 4-6.

This year the three best teams in each tournament of the four diocesan groups will compete for state honors. Central Catholic high of Ottumwa won third place honors at Davenport by downing St. Mathias of Muscatine, 40-16.

St. Mary's started out like a bang when on the tip-off Tony Brack sank a setup, but Ambrose came right back with a setup by Tofanelli. Bock sank a free throw to put St. Mary's ahead 3-2, then Moylan made a free throw, followed up a little while later by a charity toss by Tofanelli. Then Chadek made a neat basket to put the Ramblers ahead for the last time in the game.

Ray Cole, St. Mary's center, held down Rudy Moylan, the ace center of the Little Saints, who got but three points each half. Cole also was the high point man in the Rambler offense with five points.

Bill O'Keefe Developed an Interest in Carving That's Paying for College

S. U. I. Symphony To Present Outstanding Numbers Tonight

Concert Begins At 8 o'Clock In Iowa Union

Program To Highlight Bruckner Symphony, Chausson's Violin Poem

The university symphony orchestra concert at 8 o'clock tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union will include two of the season's most outstanding musical performances—the playing of Bruckner's seldom-heard "Romantic Symphony" and Prof. Arnold Small's solo part in Chausson's "Poem for Violin and Orchestra."

Tickets are now available free of charge at the Iowa Union desk for the concert, which is the fourth of the current season.

The "Romantic" is almost never played by students because it requires so much "musical maturity," according to Prof. Philip G. Clapp, conductor of the orchestra.

In fact, Bruckner's compositions are not very well known in this country, Professor Clapp said yesterday, although the "Romantic" was played over a nation-wide hook-up by the National Broadcasting company's symphony orchestra under the direction of Bruno Walter, a few weeks ago.

Praises Orchestra
The university students have been permitted to perform the work because they have shown a great deal of interest in it and are advanced enough in musical ability, Professor Clapp commented.

Bruckner is chiefly famous for his composition of nine orchestra symphonies. The "Romantic" is the fourth of the compositions and was written in Vienna, Austria, where the writer was, it is said, inspired by the "poetic beauty of his surroundings."

Poverty-stricken in early life, always quiet and unassuming, Bruckner began his training in composition at an age when most musicians have finished it. He received many honors from Austrian royalty during the latter part of his life.

Small To Be Featured

Professor Small, who will be the featured soloist in the "Poem for Violin and Orchestra" tonight, is concertmaster of the university symphony orchestra and head of violin instruction in the music department. He is also a composer in his own right.

The complete program for tonight's concert is given here.

Jimmy Dorsey on the Typewriter

Jimmy Dorsey, maestro who'll play at the Senior Hop in Iowa Union Friday night, March 8, looks like this to a clever typist. The portrait required a lot of typewriter keys, plus a great deal of ingenuity. Dorsey, whose brother Tommy presided at the Military Ball, is called "the world's greatest saxophonist" by prominent American musicians. Robert L. Ripley billed him as the only sax man who could play "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" by Rimsky-Korsakov in only two breaths. Whereupon Dorsey, on the CBS "Swing Session" program, played it in one breath.

Monks Enhance Culture

Dr. Henry Willard Stresses Monasticism As Factor in Development

By BETTY GILLILAND

Monasticism has contributed more than any other single element in the forces working toward international-cultural development, Dr. Henry M. Willard, president of the Bureau of University Travel, told his audience yesterday afternoon in Old Capitol where he spoke on "The Abbey of Monte Cassino as the Center of Medieval Culture."

Dr. Willard explained that the records of St. Gregory were important in that it is he who tells the story of St. Benedict after the latter became head of the monastery.

"St. Gregory tells us that when St. Benedict came to the site in 529, he found the people still worshipping in the old pagan temple," Dr. Willard said. Then, continuing with a history of the construction of the buildings and their renovation later in 1068, Dr. Willard demonstrated "how the various elements were caught up in the monastery and brought up to date and spread over Italy and throughout parts of Europe."

Although built before the time of Gothic architecture, the church structure had pointed arch and pointed vault features, influenced by the far east. In that abbey of Monte Cassino is one of the most important of ancient scriptoriums, Dr. Willard said.

There monks occupied the time which they set aside for labor in copying manuscripts and illustrating them. Today also is one of the best collections of ancient manuscripts, the educator-traveler continued, although about half of the original number was pillaged and scattered over the country.

Illustrating his lecture with slides, Dr. Willard showed pictures of both the ancient and modern plans of the monastery where he studied manuscripts.

The lecturer has uniquely combined educational value with foreign travel. He received a Ph.D. in history from Harvard university and was active in the bimillenary celebrations of Vergil and Horace.

Dr. Willard gave a second lecture, "Paths of European Culture," in the senate chamber last night. This lecture was illustrated by kodachrome views.

He was introduced at the lectures by Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of classical languages, the departmental sponsor of the lectures.

S.U.I. Theater To Withdraw Fourth Play

'The Texas Steer' Named To Replace 'Family Portrait'

No "Family Portrait" will be drawn this season by University theater which will produce instead Charles H. Hoyt's "The Texas Steer" ("Money Makes the Mare Go") as the fourth play in the community series, according to an announcement made yesterday by Prof. Edward C. Mabie, head of the dramatic arts department.

"Family Portrait," a play about Christ's family by Lenore Coffee and William Joyce Cowen, has been withdrawn at the request of the Catholic foundation.

Under the direction of Prof. Hunton D. Sellman, "The Texas Steer" will be presented on the evenings of April 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19 and the afternoon of April 20. Rehearsals and try-outs for this comedy are already underway.

Joseph Becker, G of Elgin, who scored a hit as Canon Matt Lavell in "The White Steed," will play the part of the Texas senator. This play, a comedy of political intrigue, is particularly timely this year in view of Vice-President Garner's possible candidacy for the presidency.

Iowa Graduate Earns Honor For Research

Highest technical recognition which can be bestowed by the gas industry has been won by Elmer G. Hammerschmidt, University of Iowa graduate.

Hammerschmidt, who won the bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering in 1923, was awarded the Beal medal by the American Gas association.

The award was made in honor of a report of research made by the former Iowan, judged the best ever given at a meeting of the association.

Now chief chemist for a natural gas company in Fritch, Tex., Hammerschmidt had the added distinction of being the first natural gas engineer ever to win the Beal medal.

Interpreting the War News—

Warlike Nazi Gestures May Be Prelude to Another Hitler 'Peace Offensive'

Doubt Persists That Germany Plans Drive

Pending Welles Visit Heightens Probability Of German 'Strategy'

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Despite world war precedents and a sudden flare of warlike gestures by the nazis on the long dormant west front, doubt persists that Germany is definitely planning a drive into France next month in a desperate effort for quick victory.

At the first glance, mass German air demonstrations in the Paris area suggest that such an assault might be coming. Extensive German troop movements along the Nazi west wall also seem to point that way.

In February, 1918, Germany was massing for her last smashing attack of the World War, launched against the British fifth army in France on the first day of spring. There was no German effort to conceal preparations for that offensive; it was advertised for weeks.

Nevertheless, the real German purpose may be to wage only an intensified war of nerves against the French public. The flurry of Nazi air and troop activity may presage another Hitler "peace offensive," aimed at cracking Franco-British solidarity.

That impression of German strategy is heightened by the fact that Sumner Welles, United States undersecretary of state and President Roosevelt's personal envoy, is heading from Rome to Berlin to confer with Chancellor Hitler. It cannot be doubted that his none too clearly defined mission includes an effort to assess for the president the possibilities of averting the threatened horrors of "complete war" in the spring.

Appearance of a massed flight of Nazi planes in the vicinity of Paris might have been intended to back up whatever Hitler planned to tell Welles concerning Nazi terms for immediate peace. There has never been any abatement of Berlin's effort to woo French public opinion away from the British. Hitler and his spokesmen have said repeatedly that Nazidom wants nothing of France; has no quarrel with Germany's ancient foe on the continent.

'British to Blame'
This war is laid wholly on British shoulders by Nazi leadership. The Nazis picture the French as deluded by British intrigue into entering a war in which France has nothing to gain and everything to lose.

Whatever Welles has learned from Premier Mussolini as to Italy's real attitude toward Hitler and the Nazi regime, in view of the Nazi-Soviet Russian partnership, and what Hitler might tell Welles of Berlin's readiness to guarantee France security would be intended for French ears when the American envoy reaches Paris. And a certain corollary of Nazi peace gestures toward France is that, failing their acceptance, France will ultimately pay even more in blood and ruin than will England.

If Germany launches her threatened "complete war," France, not England, could be the first target of ruthless air attack. That might be the warning the German mass flight to the Paris area was intended to impress on French public opinion on the eve of the Hitler-Welles talk. It might also explain the Nazi troop movements along the Siegfried line.

There is more than a hint in some British press comment that Welles' trip is not entirely welcomed by the allies. In neutral and highly important Rome, however, the first lack of interest in his mission by the controlled press, was quickly replaced by flattering attention.

There are indications that Berlin hopes to profit in some fashion also from the new stir of peace talk that the Welles trip has occasioned in all warring countries. It could represent to Hitler an opportunity for another dramatic "peace offensive" on his part, such as followed Poland's dismemberment. That could be a prelude to "complete war" in spring if it failed. If that is in the Nazi cards, the resurgence of German air and army activity on the west front is an understandable move in the game of "force politics."

Tourney Nears Completion

Ping-Pong Competition May End Tomorrow, Committee Announces

The university ping-pong tournament has advanced into the fourth round, which should be completed by tomorrow night, Dick Feddersen, A3 of Iowa City, Union Board member in charge of the games committee, announced last night.

'Iowa Transit' Celebrates Its Fiftieth Anniversary

By JEAN DAVIS
Perhaps you've never been in the engineering buildings, but you'll be interested in seeing the latest issue of the Iowa Transit being distributed to engineering students today.

It's the 50th anniversary of the local engineering magazine, the oldest publication of its kind west of the Mississippi. Through 40 pages they have shown by words and pictures the progress the local college has made since its first publication began back in 1890.

The engineering society crest printed on the front of the first issue of the Iowa Transit has been revived and reproduced on the cover of the February, 1940, issue.

Published by the Associated Students of Engineering, the monthly magazine is headed by Odif Podolsky, E4 of New York, N.Y., editor-in-chief. Fifteen engineering students make up the editorial staff. General manager for the publication is Parke Woodworth, E4 of Ipswich, S.D., and business manager is Paul Wise, E4 of Boise, Idaho.

Urging student engineers to "practice the human side of engineering," the editors in the dedication of the anniversary issue say, "We, the engineers, have dreamed, planned and executed the building of this country's physical plant. Now we run it. But there is another plant in our society; the SOCIAL PLANT. The physical plant cannot function to its fullest efficiency while the social plant remains inefficient."

Dean Francis M. Dawson of the local college applauded the work of the staff in preparation for the special 50th anniversary number. In paying tribute to the faculty and student body, the dean said, "All are trying to do their best and with this spirit Iowa engineers can succeed anywhere."

"The Ex-Dean's Pen" was the title of a contribution by Dean Emeritus C. C. Williams, now president of Lehigh university at Bethlehem, Pa.

Prof. F. G. Higbee, head of the engineering drawing department, traced the progress of the local college in his article, "These Fifty Years."

"From a small department in the college of liberal arts with few students and limited facilities, to an engineering college ranking near the top in the university family of professional colleges."

Professor Higbee describes the 50 years of advancement here.

Copies for Alumni

Two thousand copies of the anniversary issue were printed and each alumni member will be sent a copy, officials said. Of special interest to the graduate student body is the alumni directory, appearing in this issue. Through the use of the local alumni office and homecoming cards, the student staff have compiled the 14-page record from the first graduation class of 1876, when three engineers received degrees, through the last year's graduation class, with 84 graduating engineers.

The directory notes by years the names of students graduating, their major department and present location. Thus, to the alumni members, the issue will prove invaluable, authorities believe.

A personalized life story of the first engineering college's dean, is the article, "Dean Raymond, As I Knew Him," written by a member of the faculty who served under him. Prof. Byron J. Lambert, the author and one of the oldest present faculty members, speaks of the first dean as an able educator, excellent disciplinarian and "everybody's friend."

'Time Marches On'

David Dall, E3 of Clinton, points to the parallel growth of university and the local engineering college in his contribution, "Time Marches On!" In the early years, the university had in its possession $494.05 worth of surveying equipment, which was the only mention made of anything pertaining to engineering, according to Dall.

The student-contributor discusses the establishment and growth of the various societies and organizations together with the yearly achievements of each engineering department.

Looking back in retrospect, the head of each department writes detailed articles in the anniversary issue on the progress of his department. Pictures taken in the various laboratories give the reader at a glance the activities and type of work with which each department deals.

A short resume of some of the college's outstanding alumni describes the accomplishments of men who received their basic training here. The growth of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research and the integral part the laboratory plays in the activities in Iowa and Iowa's engineering college are traced by Dean Dawson, its director.

And, perhaps, some of you have wondered about the pebble-studded walk down from the Quadrangle. A note in this issue of the Iowa Transit explains that the walk wasn't an intended work of rustic simplicity as many seem to think. Rather it is simply the result of a heavy washing rain upon a concrete mixture which was poured a little too cold!

Oh, Time! Four Clocks Wrong, One Right

She was in a frenzy to catch a mid-afternoon cross-town bus; so she glanced apprehensively at the clock in the tower of the city hall as she hurried toward the intersection. 10:25 said its hands.

She raced around the corner and confronted the clock face in the window above a restaurant. 1:30 said its hands.

Keeping an apprehensive eye cocked up the street she dashed along the block to see the clock on the Iowa state bank corner. Its hands had stopped at 12:30.

With a strangled wail she burst into a drug store for a glimpse of the electric reliable on the back wall. Complacently its face grinned back at a 4:30 angle.

Happy ending—she caught her bus and as it sailed past St. Mary's church she read the white hands of the clock in the spire. It was 2:10.

Twenty-eight entrants are scheduled so far to compete in the discussion contest, which will be directed by William Pugh, G of Wenchew, Wash., assisted by Elton Abernathy, G of Brownwood, Tex. The subject for discussion is "What policy shall the United States follow toward the belligerents in Europe?"

The contest will progress through preliminary rounds with the speakers divided into groups of seven or eight from which the highest ranking persons will be selected to compete in the final round. The four persons with the highest scores will be announced at the end of the competition.

All judging will be done by representatives of the competing schools, Arnold announced. No debate results will be disclosed until the luncheon Saturday noon.

Local representatives who shoulder the responsibility of upholding the rank of the University of Iowa include Marvin Chapman, A2 of Iowa City, entered in the extempore speaking contest, and Roland Christensen, A3 of Iowa City, who will compete as an after-dinner speaker.

Students who will participate in the discussion contest are Spencer Smith, A3 of Ottumwa; Nathaniel Singer, A1 of Sioux City; Wayne Book, A2 of Storm Lake; Gerald Siegel, A3 of Vinton; David Scott, A2 of Galena, Ill.; David Watts, A3 of Murray; Fred Bower, C3 of Dubuque, and Willard Nelson.

Besides the above-mentioned group, local debaters will include John Fishburn, A4 of Muscatine; Roland Christensen, David Sayre, A3 of Ames, Norman Krause, A3 of Hutchinson, Kan.; William Rivkin, A3 of Davenport; William Van Allen, A1 of Mt. Pleasant; Dick McMahon, A3 of Ft. Dodge, and Marvin Chapman.

Student who will represent the University of Iowa in the original oratory contest will be selected by an elimination contest in Schaeffer hall at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Entries in all divisions of the tournament will probably be increased as schools arrive for the contest, Professor Baird said.

Two Davenport automobiles sideswiped on highway No. 6, five miles east of Iowa City at 7:45 last night, but the drivers escaped uninjured, local police reported.

R. McCormick was reportedly driving east passing a truck near the crest of a hill when he met R. C. Hemphill's car coming in the opposite direction. Before McCormick could regain the right side of the road, Hemphill's left front bumper hit the left rear fender of McCormick's car.

Damage to Hemphill's automobile was estimated at $25, and to McCormick's, $15.

Cars Collide On Highway 6 East of City

It was open house yesterday at the Iowa City Recreational center, and all through the day Iowa Citizens came to see what the center had to offer to the youths and adults of the city.

Supervised tours under the guidance of Eugene Trowbridge, director of the Center, and members of his staff, showed local residents the permanent quarters in the community building. They saw a game room, in which the annual city ping pong tournament was taking place.

They watched members of the Iowa City rifle team shoot in the remodeled rifle range. They saw a large, regulation-size gymnasium, with its equipment and locker rooms. In the craft shop they saw Iowa City youths making toy guns and ash trays, using power machinery donated by the Iowa City Kiwanis club.

They heard their guides explain the full program of the Center, with its gym classes for both men and women, its program for boys and girls. It was pointed out to them in what ways the Center program had grown since it had its first feeble beginnings in 1934 in an abandoned grocery building.

It will be open house again today.

Included on the basketball play day program will be basketball participation between the visiting teams, group discussions, ping pong, badminton and swimming activities followed by a tea in the social room.

The group will attend a luncheon for which Mildred E. Anderson, A3 of Las Vegas, N. Mex., and Gail Kivell, A1 of Aurora, are in charge of arrangements.

Hostesses for the play day, members of the local honorary organization, are Margaret Kuttler, A3 of Davenport, chairman; Betty Brown, A2 of Philadelphia, Pa.; Betty Embick, A3 of Hutchinson, Kan.; Margaret Hunter, A3 of Des Moines; Carol Dunger, A3 of Aurora, Ill.; Helen Straight, A1 of Conway; Katherine Hepperly, A3 of Rockwell City, and Margaret Taubee, A1 of Webb.

The new Iowa City community players club emerged from its embryonic stage as a group of interested Iowa Citizens met last night in the basement of the Community building to formulate plans for this new dramatic organization.

Elected chairman of the group was E. L. Bladow, Leone Harris was elected secretary. Correspondence will be handled by Elenore Lee White, 609 State Bank building.

The first open meeting of the new organization will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the basement of the community building. Daily Iowan City Editor
The $6,600,000 Coralville dam question, which was discussed, treated, argued and well salted in the Johnson county courthouse here Feb. 14, will be decided before March 15, Fred J. Poyneer, a member of the Iowa conservation commission, told The Daily Iowan last night.

He estimated the commission would reach a verdict on the same day it convenes to consider its recent objection to the federal government's offer to build the reservoir for flood control purposes.

Written proceedings of the hearing have not yet been forwarded to the commission, Poyneer said, adding that this would mark the first meeting since the hearing.

Roscoe E. Stewart of Ottumwa, chairman of the group, is the person with whom lies the power of calling such a special meeting. The conservation commission meets in Des Moines regularly four times a year.

Quick Decision
Poyneer said a quick decision is expected since the group has heard the important evidence both in favor of and against the proposed reservoir. The proceedings, he said, would be used merely to refresh the commission's memory on the facts presented to them verbally two weeks ago here.

The public hearing Nov. 14 saw everyone in the county courtroom put Lieut. Col. Charles P. Gross of the United States army engineer's office at Rock Island, Ill., "on the spot" for three hours in the morning. Colonel Gross was the man who was most instrumental in the planning, and he was the man upon whom both sides depended to a great extent for their facts.

The type of evidence Gross gave however was largely on the side of dam sympathizers. He told the government's intentions — the authority, the purpose, how it would operate, what its benefits would be, what damage it would cause and how the federal government would correct that damage.

Both the opposers and proponents of the dam claimed to represent a long list of fin and feather and women's organizations in most parts of the state.

Previous Objections
The commission had previously objected to the dam contending it would cause damage to Lake Macbride and Lake Macbride state park. Several scientists were called to the witness stand during the hearing in an effort to prove both sides of the commission's original argument.

To the question of silting, Colonel Gross remarked at the close of the hearing, "This is flood control work primarily. Let us not forget that. Experience has shown that wildlife may be helped. If trouble results from silting, it will be our duty to make a swath so that the next flood would enlarge it and keep the channel open."

Organized labor of Iowa pleaded for workers of all classes contending that half the $6,600,000 would be used for materials and labor on the dam.

Several property owners from near the proposed dam site, among them Joseph C. Coufal of

Barry Appointed Service League Secretary

The appointment of John Barry as executive secretary of the Johnson county Social Service league by the directors of the league board was announced yesterday by Prof. W. Ross Livingston, board president.

Barry will succeed Frances Wilson, who is leaving to do further study at the University of Chicago March 19.

A member of the local social service league staff for three years, Barry was granted a leave of absence last October to go to Des Moines to serve in the research department of the Iowa state board of social welfare. He will take over his new position here about March 15.

Approval of the appointment has been made by the Johnson county board of supervisors. The board also announced that Barry's salary will be $175 a month, and four cents per mile will be allowed as automobile traveling expenses.

Barry graduated from Cornell college at Mt. Vernon and is now working on his master's degree at the University of Iowa. He has worked in the emergency offices in Albia and Dubuque and has done student training work here. Among his duties here will be overseeing the county poor and directing county social welfare.

Jefferson township, and Paul Krall and Peter Stuck, secretary of the Amana society, claimed the construction of the dam would result in damage to many families.

It was explained that the federal government could build the reservoir in spite of the objections but opined that it would not insist on its construction. In case the group changes its opinion, Colonel Gross said he already has $423,000 with which to proceed.

Poyneer said the Coralville dam would probably be the first problem to be settled at the conservation commission's meeting next month, although one of 35 or 40 matters.

Besides Poyneer and Stewart, other members of the commission include J. D. Lowe of Algona, who was appointed to preside at the hearing here; W. A. Bents of Cresco, E. B. Gaunitz of Lansing, Ralph E. Garberson of Sibley and Mrs. Addison Parker of Des Moines.

Garey, Civil Service Counsel, Addresses Public Employes

Believes Must Pass State-Wide Act For Strong Employes' Group

A. R. Garey, civil service counsel for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal employes, told public employes last night at a meeting in the Woodman hall that the only way to have a strong employes' organization is to pass a state-wide civil service act regulating hours, wages and disciplinary measures.

"Today the public and governmental service is standing at the same place it was 10 years ago," Garey asserted, "and while we are stationary, our industrial brothers are continually advancing."

Garey emphasized continually the public employes in this country like employes in industry should begin to fight for a civil service system and a retirement system that will provide higher wages, shorter hours and better working conditions in general. "Federal employes," the speaker said, "have obtained better pay levels and better retirement systems by a thorough organization of all their groups, and state and local employes can do the same."

Garey advocated an eight-hour day and a five day week for all workers holding local and state jobs. This system would not make for an extravagant state government, Garey asserted, but rather would reduce our unemployment and relief situation.

Organizations represented by their presidents at the meeting included the university hospital employes, represented by Frank Kuncel; university grounds and building employes, by E. J. Soens; highway commission employes, by C. A. Conklin; the Muscatine city employes, by W. A. Wells and the Davenport city employes, by Floyd Hasson.

ARE SORORITIES AND FRATERNITIES SNOB FACTORIES?

ARE SORORITIES merely homes for moneyed-husband-hunters? Do fraternities foster un-American class prejudice? Or is all the hullabaloo over Greek-letter organizations inspired by the soured few who don't get pledged? Why does it so often end up with disappointment for the boy or girl, and heartaches for the parents?

A STORM OF LETTERS from readers came in following Mrs. Jackson's first Post story about Greek-letter societies, Many Are Called, a few weeks ago. Sticking to her guns, she now writes a sequel. But in fairness to the subject, we have asked Dean Turner to tell you frankly in this week's Post, what colleges think of the "snob factory" question.
