By JOHN A. MOROSO III
NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Capt. J. C. Townley brought the new 85,000-ton British liner Queen Elizabeth into the safety of New York harbor tonight after a 6-day zigzag transatlantic voyage which he declared was "just like a lovely cruise."

1,600 See 'Highlights of Iowa'

By BETTY GILLILAND
Over 1,600 persons last night informally viewed in two showings the premiere presentation in Macbride auditorium of "Highlights of Iowa," a new colored motion picture of university life as pictured by the visual instruction department.

with a little boy's verbal admiration of the plane. Beginning with an aerial view of the campus in color, the picture changed to detailed accounts of zoology, medicine, the hospital, nursing, pharmacy, engineering, education, physical education, fine arts, journalism, school of letters, school of religion, the graduate college, radio and campus dormitories.

All phases of university life—ranging through deformity correction at the university hospital, programs conducted by radio station WSUI, and freshman activities—are incorporated in the new film, first presented last month at the Founders' day meeting in St. Louis.

France Registers Her Case for Peace For President Roosevelt

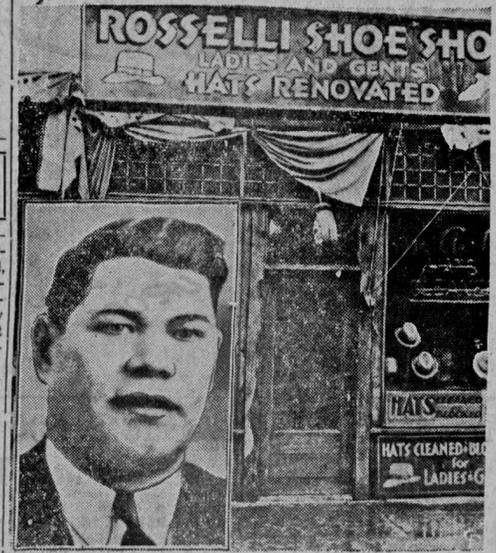

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—Sumner Welles came to the third of western Europe's four strong men today—inscrutable Edouard Daladier of France—to register the points of France's case for President Roosevelt in grave and lengthy conference.

Archbishop Stritch Installed Head of Chicago Archdiocese

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP)—Slender, scholarly Archbishop Samuel Alphonus Stritch ascended the throne of the nation's largest Catholic see today.

The prelate was installed formally as head of the Chicago archdiocese in a brilliant ceremony in the capacity-taxed Holy Name cathedral.

CENSUS OBJECTOR CHANGES MIND

James Rosselli and his shop. Census objector, James Rosselli, 43, has a change of heart as the government gets ready to press charges against him for allegedly chasing a census taker. Rosselli, shown above with his shoe shop at Kenosha, Wis., now says he will answer business census questions if they are put to him "politely." Business census began Feb. 20.

Soviet Utters Ominous Note Of Warning

Deadline May Be Today; Large Demands Make Peace Remote

A STORY ON THE STOCKHOLM NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE IN THE RUSSO-FINISH WAR WILL BE FOUND ON PAGE 6 OF TODAY'S DAILY IOWAN.

HELSINKI, March 7 (APP)—The Finnish government disclosed tonight it had received word that Soviet Russia has planned a peace offer, but indicated the details were not yet known. However, in some usually well-informed quarters it was stated the Soviet proposals already had been received.

These sources said the Soviet proposals were in the nature of an ultimatum, with the threatened alternative of intensified attacks if Finland failed to accept the Russian demands (Copenhagen reports said the ultimatum deadline was March 8.)

Despite official reluctance to admit knowledge of details of the proposals, it was believed their general nature was known to the Finnish government.

It was taken as a foregone conclusion that if the Soviet demands exceed those which preceded the Soviet invasion, they have no chance of Finnish acceptance.

(Scandinavian reports indicated the demands do indeed exceed the previous ones, the Russians now wanting all the Karelian isthmus, Viipuri, Lake Ladoga, the naval port of Hanko, the Hanko peninsula and part of the Arctic Petsamo district.)

U. S., Britain Plan Treaties Of Conciliation

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The United States, it was learned today, is negotiating treaties of conciliation with the warring British dominions—Canada, Australia, Union of South Africa and New Zealand.

The treaties will provide that any dispute arising between the United States and a dominion shall be referred to a permanent conciliation commission, to be composed of five members. There will be a separate commission for each dominion.

The treaties may become more than ordinary significance because all of the dominions are at war with Germany. Hence, it is possible that difficulties arising out of the present economic warfare will create disputes requiring conciliation.

Plan for Labor Board Laid Before Congress

Mrs. Roosevelt Given Decree From James

LOS ANGELES, March 7 (AP)—Betsey Cushing Roosevelt, whose brother testified "she had no desire for a divorce," was granted an interlocutory decree today from James Roosevelt, oldest son of the president.

Superior Judge Thomas C. Gould approved terms of a property settlement under which she receives $65,000 immediately and has a choice between $50,000 additional in five years or $5,000 annually until she remarries.

Would Make Major Changes In Wagner Act

Group Split Raises Question; Will House, Senate Be Able To Act?

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—A 17-point plan to replace the national labor relations board with a new agency and to make other major changes in the Wagner act setup was laid before an election-year congress today by a special house committee which investigated the board.

Representatives Smith (D-Va.), Halleck (R-Ind) and Rutzohr (R-Ohio), a majority of the committee, contended that the program would remove causes of the long and bitter controversy over the board and the act, but said the fundamental right of workers to bargain collectively would remain untouched.

Representatives Healey (D-Mass) and Murdock (D-Utah), the other two committeemen, heatedly dissented, arguing that the proposals "threatened the principles, purposes and objectives of the act."

The basic division within the committee, symbolic of the split in congress, immediately raised the question whether both the house and senate would act on amendments before they adjourn and go to political conventions in June and July.

'Bloodiest' Fighting Rages On Southwest Finnish Coastline

Reds Ignore Losses In Fierce Onslaught On City of Viipuri

HELSINKI, March 7 (AP)—Bitter fighting, described by military men as the bloodiest of the war, raged today across frozen Viipuri bay where the red army, ignoring losses in men and equipment, has been trying for five days to gain a foothold on the coast southwest of Viipuri.

The Finnish high command said the Russians had lost more than 30 tanks and uncounted numbers of men as they charged across the open ice fields all day yesterday, raked by coastal batteries and bombed from the air, but declared the invaders were continuing the assault.

Asserting the attempts to encircle the beleaguered city from the west thus far had failed, the Finns said their lines were holding firm from the capes at the bay mouth to Viipuri itself.

The Finns, as usual, said nothing of their own losses, but indicated the need for replacements.

Senate Backs Hatch Again

Votes 42-35 Against Move To Abolish Ban On Political Activity

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The senate stood fast today against a determined, last-ditch effort to abolish the Hatch act's ban on political activity by government workers.

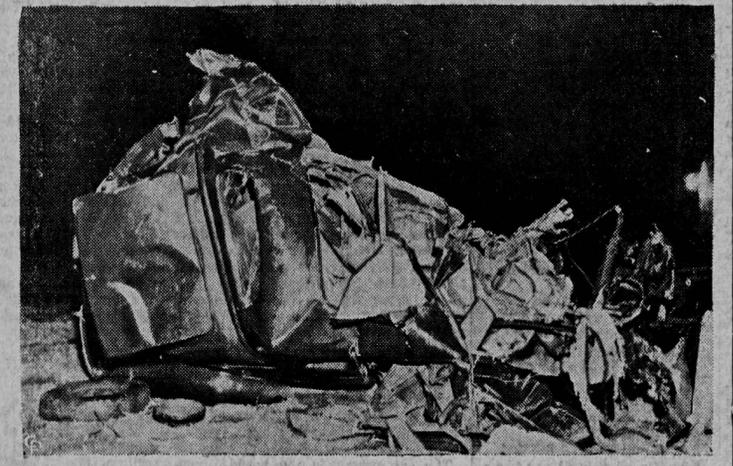

It rejected the proposal by a vote of 42 to 35—as compared with a ballot of 44 to 41 on a similar proposition yesterday. The trend of the voting encouraged Senator Hatch (D-NM) and his supporters to predict passage of the pending bill extending the law's restrictions to state employees paid from federal funds. A vote on this measure is expected tomorrow.

The extension legislation would delegate the enforcement of the no-politics provision to the civil service commission, empowering it to dismiss any federal-state jobholder for playing politics, or to direct that the federal funds involved be withheld from the state or locality.

Two limitations upon these provisions were written into the bill during the day. The first would give the dismissed employee the right of appeal to the courts, and provide that he should hold his job until a final decision was handed down. The second would limit the amount of funds to be withheld to twice the annual salary of the offending employee.

But, the foes of the Hatch act were still dissatisfied. They rallied quickly behind an amendment by Senator Adams (D-Colo) to eliminate from the original law a single sentence forbidding political activity to government employees.

AND ONE MAN JUMPED—ESCAPED WITH HIS LIFE

Three college students were killed and a fourth narrowly escaped with his life when the Santa Fe steamliner going at 90 miles per hour struck this automobile at Strong City, Kan. Roland Smith, 22, of Elkhardt, Kan., jumped when he saw the train bearing down on the car and escaped alive. Victims were Mary Ralf, 20; Jessie Miller, 21, and Walter Larson, 20, all students at Emporia State Teachers college. Smith was engaged to marry Miss Ralf.

E. Markham, Famous Poet, Dies at 87

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Edwin Markham, 87, author of "The Man With The Hoe" and other famous poems, tonight made good a promise to himself. He went "to explore the mysteries of the dead."

Declared incompetent by the courts, plagued by a failing memory, beset by age and infirmities he would not admit, the aged poet said recently that when death overtook him it would find "not a querulous old man but a young fellow intrigued with the greatest adventure of all."

Markham was almost—but not quite—ready to die when pneumonia set in on Tuesday and drew him down to his death tonight. He had collected some and no other poet had the ability.

At his death, Markham had forgotten completely his famous lines which children often memorize and which adults frequently quote. He lived his last few months again as a child in the west, where he was once a cowboy. The 30,000 volumes that covered the walls of the old house in which he lived he saw as open cow country. He huddled, even on warm days, indoors in a great brown fur coat; but he talked continually of horses and hills. The people about him he fancied as his long-dead parents and companions.

He was the author of "The Man With The Hoe," a poem which he said in 1932 had brought him $250,000.

In 1937 he was declared mentally incompetent by a Brooklyn supreme court jury and a committee of guardians was set up to protect his interests in his closing years. In the same year he was elected honorary president of the Poetry Society of America.

Markham had been in failing health for the past year. Last Saturday he developed a cold which developed into pneumonia Monday. He would have been 88 April 23. The poet was a native of Oregon City, Ore. He is survived by a son, Virgil Markham, of New York City.

French, British Ships Under Heavy Guard At New York Piers

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Three "sleeping beauties" of the barnacled maritime social set, representing more than 100,000,000 in allied merchant tonnage, drowsed side by side tonight under a heavy and presumably inviolate guard.

The protection thrown over them as Gargantuan refugees from the horrors of war was tightened upon the arrival of the new British liner Queen Elizabeth.

Her 85,000 tons of shipping bulk and her brand newness overshadow, like a hulking debutante pushing her elders into the post-debut class, both the British liner Queen Mary and the French liner Normandie.

They sleep in peace, though, at pier 90 in the North river, nosed into neutrality "for the duration"—and obviously out of the oceanic "carriage trade" for some time to come.

You have less chance of getting aboard any of the three than you have of getting a bid to the coming-out party a year or so hence for Gloria Vanderbilt. Unless you have official business aboard—and there isn't any— or bona fide credentials signed by persons bearing such names as Churchill, Chamberlain and Daladier, it's no go. Sorry, you can't go aboard. You can't even get near the pier. You can't do anything except keep walking right on down under the west side elevated highway. Get along, now. No loitering in this block. There are ships you can see but not these.

Well, how about trying it from the river side, hiring a boat and getting into the slip? That wouldn't do any good in the way of getting aboard but you might try. Ever see a police launch, or a coast guard cutter? You will if you try that. You can't go aboard, but suppose you do get on the pier and up the gang-plank.

A peep-hole reminding of the old speakeasy days slides back and if the eye sees your companion is a part of the ship's company and you have papers bearing the proper seals and such the hatch swings open.

(The inside isn't pretty. Paint—See BEAUTIES, Page 8)

Britain Votes For Expansion Of Air Force

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—A secret appropriation to expand the royal air force, which air minister Sir Kingsley Wood declared is better and growing faster than Germany's, was approved without a record vote by the house of commons tonight.

The action came after Sir Kingsley assured the members that he and Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, were fighting Germany, not each other and thus apparently quieted an incipient row over agitation for giving coastal units of the air force into navy control.

Why Let 'Hell Week' Continue?

Speaking before the fraternity men of Iowa, Dean Fred Turner of Illinois Sunday night listed seven major indictments against "every fraternity system," which must, he said, be corrected to revise university and general public confidence in fraternities once more.

First on his list was "hell week," which he called "one of the greatest black marks against fraternities."

Hazing has been condemned by the National Interfraternity conference. Practices common to "hell week" have been legislated against in the Iowa Interfraternity council.

Yet, there is abundant evidence, in spite of opposition from the governing bodies of the groups concerned, that hell week has not disappeared from the Iowa campus.

Because hell week has been driven under cover does not solve the problem which faces the fraternity groups.

Iowa fraternities are not weak; they are far from being in danger of collapse. In many respects the fraternities at Iowa are today making more genuine contributions to student life on the campus than they did in their most prosperous days.

Nevertheless, that one of the nation's leading fraternity men indicates these organizations for practices of hazing should be sufficient warning to the groups at Iowa that hell week, in the open or undercover, must be dispensed with if fraternities are going to retain strength.

It may be a good old campus tradition to paddle the freshmen or shock them into respect for the upperclassmen, but a majority of American college students themselves, even members of fraternities and sororities, disapprove of the practices.

In a recent national poll, the Student Opinion surveys of America discovered that only 32 percent of all students approve of the pranks and punishments to which initiates and freshmen have been subjected for generations.

It should mean something to fraternities that the strongest opposition to hazing comes from independent men and women, from whom the groups must seek new members.

We believe that the Greek organizations have a place on the Iowa campus and contributions to make that are invaluable.

We as firmly believe that practices common to hell week must be dispensed with. In so saying we merely reiterate the opinion of the interfraternity court, as set forth early this semester. The future of fraternities at Iowa will look much brighter, when hell week is dropped.

Hell week is still a reality on the Iowa campus. It is time that fraternities take additional action to eliminate it.

Riding Through On Yellow

ONE OF the most common traffic errors made by drivers in a downtown district is that of driving through an intersection when the traffic light shows yellow—"caution."

Probably the reason for the frequency of this error is that the actual reason for the yellow light between the red and green is not known generally and therefore not observed according to any rule.

A recent resolution adopted by the Illinois Safety commission made clear the reason for the yellow light and explained under what circumstances it was to be observed.

In brief, the resolution pointed out that the intermediate light marked "caution" is included in traffic lights to give a driver who is in the intersection when the green light turns to red a chance to get out before cars begin moving from the other direction.

It seems that it has been customary, when in a rush, to regard the yellow light as much a "go" signal as the green and stop only when the light has turned red, many cars, therefore, entering the intersection on the yellow light and leaving on red.

A Chicago judge, hearing a case of a motorist who had gone through an intersection on a yellow light, explained that the entire purpose of traffic lights would be lost if motorists regarded the yellow light as green, thereby permitting those stopped to start on yellow just as those going to keep on going.

So it's go on green, stop on red and use caution on yellow, permitting cars in an intersection to clear before traffic starts from the other direction.

Loaming To Belligerents

—And Others

ALMOST LOST in the publicity of more sensational loans to the warring nations of Finland and China is the fact that the export-import bank is doing business with some other countries besides those that are hard-pressed by military invasions.

$25,000,000 is going to Norway and Sweden, but of more importance to the good will of the United States is that a part of the Bank's money will be loaned to the Latin-American countries of Colombia, Panama, Brazil, Costa Rica and Chile.

The amount is not as large as that going to the other nations but Chile can claim $5,000,000 or $8,000,000 for public roads and railroad construction and Panama wants payment of a credit granted last year for the construction of a transisthmian highway.

Not all of the American cash is going for war material.

Letters To The Editor

Davenport Editor, The Daily Iowan:

I have been asked for my opinion concerning the dam project at Coralville possibly because most of my lifetime was spent in and about Iowa City. Briefly and bluntly, this project is nonsense. But to further explain, may I ask what benefits and to whom are derived any benefits by the expenditure of $8,600,000 by the United States government under the guise of "planned economy?"

Who will benefit from this project? Possibly labor and contractor interests and some politicians. Oh yes, the promoters will get a "drag" from the contractors as usual.

Swamps will be created for wild life such as mosquitoes, frogs, etc. For the benefit of doctors an occasional case of typhoid and malaria fever, all of which are created by stagnant water and hot sun rays combined with rotted vegetation, may result. The alligator industry might provide some revenue but without the all-time Florida climate would prove impractical.

Some have claimed this project would benefit the Mississippi river regions. But why should Johnson and Iowa counties be so willing to make this contribution, if true, and suffer the consequences? If it is for generating more electrical power, the Keokuk dam has power going almost to waste and can be supplied to Iowa City territory at an extremely low rate per kilowatt hour.

In its efforts to balance the budget by excess expenditures, the government might well apply the sum to build 18-inch crushed rock shoulders on either side of paved highways, thereby saving many human lives and accidents.

The largest per cent of cost for the dam project would be for labor. Labor would likewise benefit for said road improvement and result in getting the same number of votes for the Washington administration.

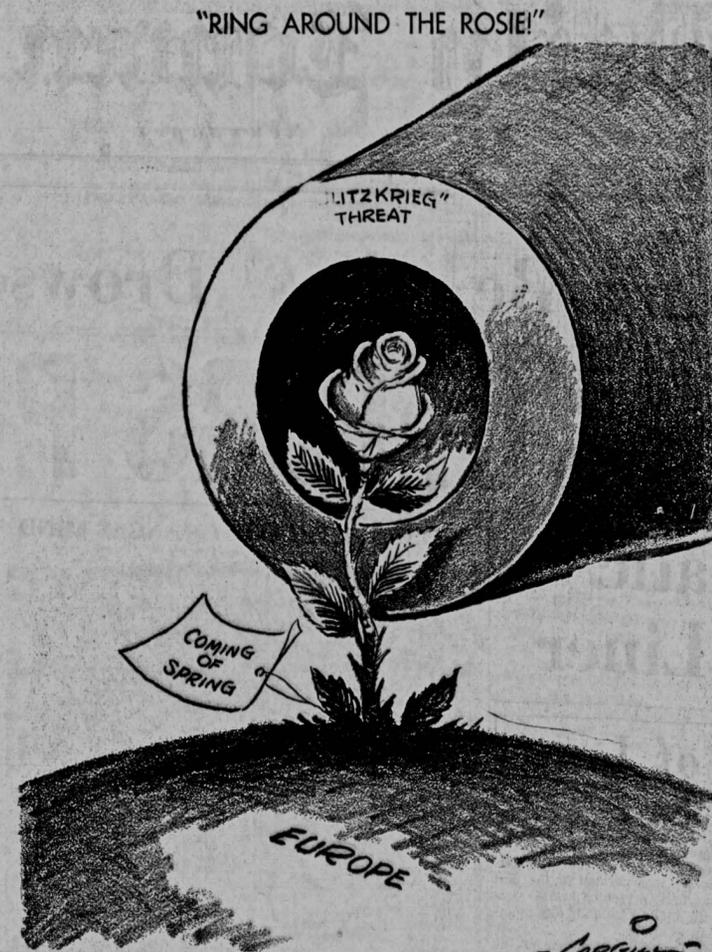

Robert N. Carson.

Red Oak Editor, The Daily Iowan:

This message is addressed to the women of Iowa City.

In The Daily Iowan I notice that the women of Iowa City are having a tea for Mrs. Howard Beyé, the first woman candidate for the Iowa City school board in 16 years. I want to congratulate you upon this forward step—a non partisan affair for the candidacy of a woman. Congratulations on your broadmindedness and far vision. If women would work together all over the country in this manner, we would go far places. My warmest greeting to the members of the Iowa City Woman's club and success to Mrs. Beyé. I shall watch the returns of the election with great interest—and pride.

Yours for victory and in warm-hearted support for a woman candidate, I am faithfully yours, Dorothy D. Houghton (Mrs. H. C. Houghton Jr.)

Naval Experts Advocate 70,000 Ton Battleships But There Isn't Enough Water To Float Them

Naval experts are talking now about battleships of 70,000 tons apiece. No craft of that size ever has been built but competent authorities testify that they'd be perfectly practicable. And gosh, but they would be strong!

Thirty-five thousand tonners are afloat now. Forty to forty-five thousand tonners are under serious consideration. But 70 is the latest guess.

There are three objections to 70,000 tons. One is that a vessel of that size would be enormously expensive to build. But that doesn't greatly matter. The money can be dug up by any country which spends well into the billions annually.

Objection No. 2 is that no yards are available on earth of sufficient capacity to do the building. Still, adequate yards can be provided.

Objection No. 3 presents a hard-problem to solve. There isn't much ocean with sufficient water in it for a 70,000-tonner to operate in. Seventy thousand tonners could swish around in mid-Atlantic or mid-Pacific, to be sure, but when that dead weight gets in-shore, where it can be useful, there wouldn't be depth enough to accommodate it.

For example, one of Britain's complaints, in connection with its maritime campaign against Germany, is that the North sea's

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

- RICHARD HAYDN, star of Broadway's new musical comedy, "Two for the Show," and Luther Adler, star of Elmer Rice's new drama, "Two on an Island," will be the double-header attraction of the Kate Smith hour tonight over CBS stations at 7 o'clock. Haydn, young British comedian, will present a specially written humorous dialogue of the type that is bringing him acclaim in "Two for the Show." Adler, supported by his screen and stage star wife, Sylvia Sidney, will star in an original dramatic sketch. KATE SMITH will head the musical portion of the program singing old favorites and current best-sellers. She will be supported by the Ted Straeter singers and Jack Miller's orchestra. SOMEWHERE in the United States there is a lucky couple who will be heard on the radio for the first time as king and queen of Honeymoon Isle, tropical paradise in the Gulf of Mexico off the coast of Tampa, Fla., on Bob Ripley's "Believe It or Not" program tonight at 9:30 on CBS stations. THE KING AND QUEEN, whose subjects will be 50 newlywed couples, will be selected by Clinton M. Washburn, New York broker and owner of the island which opens to honeymooners tomorrow for free two-week vacations. MR. WASHBURN, who will be interviewed in New York by Ripley, will select the royal lovers in time to assure their appearance for the program. WITH THE ENTIRE program devoted to romance, the dramatization will tell how Tahiti got its name when the island's 18-year-old queen, talking of love with the shipwrecked captain of a French frigate, discovered that there was no Polynesian word for honeymoon. LATEST of the Broadway hit tunes is "Friendship," from "Daddy Was a Lady," which the Swing Fourteen will offer in a special Ray Bloch arrangement on "Johnny Presents" over CBS tonight at 8 o'clock. THE "PERFECT CRIME" drama by Max Marcin will be "The Thrill Seeker," directed by Jack Johnstone and peopled with well-known radio names headed by Walter Greaza. Additional music includes "How High the Moon" by contralto Audrey Marsh and "That's Why Darkies Were Born" by Bill Hargraves, tenor, Johnny Green and his orchestra will revive "Lady Be Good" and feature "I've Got My Eyes on You." PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT will be heard over NBC tonight at 9 o'clock in commemoration of the seventh anniversary of the calling to Washington of

Takes Fancy Of Crowd Barrymore Gossips Loudly, Is Gay On Way to Stage Door

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK — It is interesting to watch John Barrymore play to street crowds while pretending to be unaware of their existence. As you know, the day of the real matinee idol in New York has long since past. We haven't had one since Leslie Howard was a young man just over from London, in the old Berkeley Square days, so to speak. But now and then some actor takes the fancy, and when his presence is poised about a considerable crowd gathers.

This year it's Barrymore again, just as it was in the days of his Greek-coin youth, and on any fair matinee day you will see a couple of hundred people on the curb at that iron-gated alley next to the Belasco theater on 44th street. The crowd knows that if it stands there long enough it will see Barrymore in street clothes.

On these occasions Barrymore is very gay and jovial. From his manner you would think that he and his manager were all alone on a deserted street. But he suddenly thinks of something very funny to say. So he throws his arm around his manager's shoulder and as they move into the alley Barrymore makes gestures with his free hand while confiding some piece of intimate gossip in a loud stage voice to his friend. This pretense is maintained until the stage door shuts them from view and then Barrymore, for all I know, slumps down into a chair to rest.

Exact whereabouts of Lowell Thomas' office in Rockefeller Center must be a deep secret. He comes in every day and gets on the elevators—and disappears. The elevator boys are no help either. Ask them where Thomas is and they say, "Who, me? I dunno from nuthin'." They don't, neither. We don't know how it is elsewhere, but around this neighborhood the cut-rate drug stores aren't any cheaper than the pharmacies. Tube for tube, the tooth-pastes and shaving creams all have the same price. Us, we use 49-cent cream. What do you use? You can win bets by arguing that rubber and wax aren't used in phonograph records. There isn't an ounce of either in any records on the market today. The stuff is mostly resin and shellac, wadded into a biscuit and then spread out.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

- "Freedom of thought and of action is threatened in our world, and if we are to preserve the freedom which has been won for us at great cost, it is imperative that universities, and university men and women, be alive to the issues and alert in playing their part." Queens University's Dr. R. C. Wallace tells today's collegians to take their place in the world of affairs. "I would have those with the most immediate responsibility force our institutions of higher education to cease to strive for self-aggrandizement and to become in spirit and in very truth places of light, liberty and of learning." University of Michigan's Pres. A. G. Ruthven asks that institutions of higher learning cease their battle among themselves for glory and fame. "American newspapers on the whole are giving us objective, factual, straight news reporting which is unique in the world today. In a world that has turned black under government censorship, we can thank God that here in America, faulty as our press may be, it is nevertheless, free." Northwestern University's journalism dean, Kenneth E. Olson, lauds the U. S. press for its editorial integrity. The chinchilla's fur is the world's most expensive. But, like too many humans, the chinchilla hasn't a thing in the world except what's on his back. The one person in the world who is never hit for a small loan is the Emperor of Japan. He's so sacred no one is allowed to touch him.

Pressbox Pickups By OSCAR HARGRAVE

It's impressive, albeit a bit amusing, to see efforts of athletes to get back into shape after a spell of leisure.

Take Iowa's famous "Iron Hawks" for instance—right now they are coming out of the soft life of ordinary students and getting in shape for a siege of spring training.

Just a few examples of the conditioning work are rope-climbing, weight-lifting, running and various gymnastic work.

There's another little exercise that defies the biggest names and leaves the best of men gasping.

However, half a dozen muscular gridders grunted and stretched before Ham Snider and Nile Kinnick broke the losing streak.

That, though, is what must be done by a candidate if he wants to get in shape to play Big Ten football.

And, if anyone wants the odds, I would call it even money that Pittsburgh will be in the Big Ten before another year passes.

Machael, scoring in the high and broad jumps and high hurdles, was leading scorer with 57.1-2 points, followed by Wilson with 57 in the same events and the low hurdles. Walter Todd made 43.3-4 points, Vacik, 42; and Ralph Todd of Henderson, Tex., 21.3-4.

IT MAY BE SPRING—But the University's Studies of Coal Go On Just the Same!

By IRENE SUTTON

Spring may be on its way, but that doesn't stop the chemical engineers in their study of Iowa coal. In fact, nothing seems to stop the chemical engineer, even though his work may vary from "white-collar" analyses in the laboratory to actual manual labor in conducting an experiment.

At the present time on the Iowa campus, four chemical engineers are obtaining amazing results through their investigations of Iowa coal.

From their studies in the last few years, they have found that the ash content in coal can be reduced from 20 per cent to 10 per cent through a mechanical washing process.

Conducting this project, under the supervision of Prof. Hubert L. Olin of the chemical engineering department, are Eldon Bauer of Bunker Hill, Ill., Dick Duffey of Lafontaine, Ind., Harold Bice of Killdeer, N. D., and Elton Beverly of Steamboat Spg. Col., all graduate students in the department.

Iowa Coal Used
Selecting coal from several Iowa counties, the students take samples of it to the laboratory to analyze the various components.

From the laboratory the engineers proceed to weigh the coal into separate piles of 500 pounds each. The next step in the experiment is to start the coal through the Diester-Averstrom washer, located in the shops building just south of reserve library.

The only one of its kind in Iowa, the washer is a pilot-size plant, worth approximately $1,000. Other states, including Alabama, Illinois and Kansas, have utilized the regular size washers in their mines, but this far none have been set up in Iowa.

Running the 500 pounds of coal through a washer is no small job, but the process takes only six or seven minutes. During this procedure the coal goes through a washing and grading process.

Operating on the principle that coal is lighter than ash and other impurities, the machine grades the coal into two categories—the best coal coming off the center of the table and the "middling coal" falling off the edges.

The machine may be changed to fit various types of coal, which involves adjusting the slope of the grading table or changing the length of its stroke. In addition, the water weight can be varied according to the amount of coal. Following the washing process, the coal is placed in a hot-air compartment to dry for two or three days.

From the shops building the better grade of coal is taken to the laboratory to determine just how much the ash content has been decreased and to calculate the increased burning quality of the coal. Finally this data is correlated with the studies made on the samples before going through the machine.

The fine coal which has come out of the machine may be run through again for even further separation, while the pyrite or "fools' gold" is set aside for further investigation.

The engineers have stated that they intend to investigate the possibilities of pyrite as a future source of sulphuric acid. Additional experiments conducted by these graduate chemical engineers include work done with "picking-table gob" from coal mines. They have found that much of this material is usable after undergoing a washing process.

From Iowa coal mines to the furnaces in Iowa homes or institutions seems a long process, but this project has shown the possibilities of Iowa coal may be noticeably increased.

Interested in this type of study for the past 10 to 20 years the University of Iowa has sponsored fellowships to continue this work. Since the university uses 50,000 tons of Iowa coal annually, they are vitally concerned with any improvements in coal discovered in these projects.

Fifty Studies Issued Here

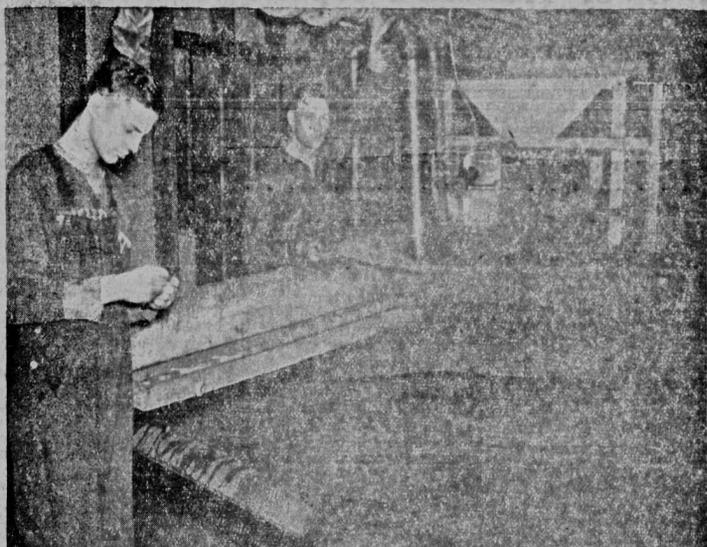

Engineering Staff Has Written Fifteen Television Articles

Results of research are contained in more than 50 publications written by staff members of the University of Iowa department of electrical engineering during the last 10-years.

Prof. Edwin Kurtz, head of the department, said that 15 of these are contributions on television. The department has operated a television station for several years and faculty members have done much research on this subject.

He said that a series of papers is being issued on transient studies in electrical machinery, while lighting investigations is the subject of other publications. Eight books have been written by staff members.

Washing Mineral Impurities From Iowa Coal

Investigating the coal samples after the washing process are Dick Duffey of Lafontaine, Ind., and Elton Beverly of Steamboat Spg. Col., both graduate students in chemical engineering. Mr. Duffey and Mr. Beverly are inspecting the coal at the laboratory in the chemistry building to determine just how much the ash content has been decreased. Their results will be compared with the studies made of the coal just after it was brought from the mines.

Iowa Women Debaters Meet Ohio Today

Debate Will Question The Advisability Of Renewing The F. H. A.

Ohio State university women will debate against the women from the University of Iowa in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 3:45 this afternoon.

The question will be, Resolved: That the Federal Housing Administration program should not be renewed.

Iowa will debate the affirmative side of the question, with Alberta Ewoldt, A3 of Oakland, and Helen Zastrow, A2 of Charles City, appearing for Iowa.

Ohio is debating the negative side of the question and the members of their team will be Dorothy Baker and Ruby Kay Zurcher.

Malvin L. Hansen of the speech department, will act as chairman. Timekeepers are Betsy Johnson, A1 of Kewanee, Ill., and Helen Evans, A2 of Davenport.

At the conclusion a forum will be conducted in which the audience will participate.

The university team is under the direction of Carroll Arnold of the speech department.

Station WSUI will broadcast this Western conference debate beginning at 3:45 this afternoon.

Board Jobs To Be Open University Hospital Offers Employment For Spring Vacation

As vacation time rolls around again, board employment positions are open to students or non-students who make applications at the university employment bureau in the old dental building.

By March 16 anyone interested in obtaining daily board jobs or board accumulation should report to the employment bureau. The employment will last through the Easter vacation period from March 20 through March 25.

The positions open include board accumulation jobs, consisting of nine hours of work daily, and also daily board jobs for three meals.

In order that regular student employees can have the privilege of a vacation, all persons interested in this employment are encouraged to report to the employment bureau.

Bartley Gives Alumni News Over WSUI

Alumni News, presented for the first time by Bill Bartley, who edits the monthly University of Iowa News bulletin, will be broadcast from station WSUI today at 12:30.

Bartley will comment on the alumni association election, which is now being conducted, alumni in the news, new books by Iowa authors and current articles on Iowa alumni.

There will be a brief tribute to

Dean Burge, U. W. A. Representatives To Attend Cornell Conference Today

Dean Adelaide Burge, Eulalia Klingbeil, J4 of Postville, president of U.W.A.; Beth Jane Richards, A3 of Merville, and Margaret Kuttler, A3 of Davenport, both members of the U.W.A. council, and Julia Weaver, A2 of Shenandoah, will go to Mt. Vernon today to attend a conference for Iowa coeducational college women students held at Cornell college.

Dr. Paul Popenoe, author, biologist, journalist, hygienist, agricultural explorer and at present lecturer in zoology at the University of Southern California, will present three lectures in connection with the day-long meeting.

The morning topic will be "Making Marriage a Success." The theme for the whole meeting, "How Can Colleges Prepare Their Students for Marriage and Parenthood?" will be the subject for the afternoon discussion, and "Looking Forward to Marriage" will be the subject for the chapel meeting before registration.

What's New In Books?

Iowa Students Read 15,000 More Books Than a Year Ago

Although February had 29 days this year, the 15,000 increase in circulation of books from university libraries over the circulation for February, 1939, was nothing short of phenomenal and probably hasn't occurred before in the history of the university, Grace Van Wormer, acting director of university libraries, said yesterday.

While almost 75,000 books were circulated during January, 1940, when final papers and examinations completed the first semester of the school year, 80,904 books were circulated during February. Only 66,158 books were circulated a year ago February.

Extra help in the circulation departments and extra hours spent by regular assistants were required to meet the increased demand for books.

The circulation from the reserve reading room at the library annex was more than 4,000 greater than that for last February, and is indicative of the increase noted in all departmental libraries as well as in general library.

Members of the foods committee are Mina Scott, A4 of Benton Harbor, Mich., chairman; Eleanor Hurka, A4 of Cedar Rapids; Katherine Armstrong, A3 of Milan, Ill.; Wendelyn Warner, A3 of Maxwell; Virginia Ivie, A2 of Sehnandoah; Barbara McCann, A2 of Iowa City, and Betty Jane Prochnow, A4 of Davenport.

Joan Snyder, A4 of Burlington, will be chairman of the decorations and entertainment committee. She will be assisted by Helen Rose, P3 of Iowa City;

Keystone Shows Needle-Eating Trick Monday

Magic in its most weird manner will be presented by Keystone, the well-known magician at 8 p.m. Monday in the Moose auditorium. Proceeds from this program, which is being sponsored by the Iowa City Junior Drum and Bugle corps, will be used for its band equipment.

Besides rabbits and doves appearing from what appears to be empty space, the audience will see the East Indian needle-eating trick. Keystone will have someone in the audience feed him a package of needles and three yards of thread. He will then endeavor to restore the needles threaded.

Ray L. Kauffman is chairman of the Drum and Bugle corps. The public is invited to attend this program.

Women Bowl In Tournament

Armstrong, Bookey Make Highest Scores Bowling in Singles

Isabelle Armstrong, A4 of Hutchinson, Kan., and Betty Bookey, A4 of Des Moines, are high point winners in the singles competition of present women's intramural bowling tournament.

Miss Hutchinson and Margaret Saunders, A3 of Oskaloosa, are leading the advanced tournament and Miss Bookey and Martha Morrison, G from Indianapolis, Ind., have the highest beginners' scores to date.

Twelve organizations have teams entered in the bowling tournament, the first ever to be offered to women on Iowa's campus.

Eastlawn and Alpha Delta Pi are leading in the advanced group and Gamma Phi Beta and Sigma Delta Tau are highest scorers among beginners.

Points for participation and winning in the bowling tournament will count toward the annual intramural trophy, according to Helen Poulsen, A4 of Iowa Falls, intramural manager.

Liner's Refuge, Peace Move Rumor Take War Spotlight

INTERPRETATIVE— Episodes Stem Out of Fear Of Spring War

'Elizabeth' Would Be Target for Germans If Air Attack Came

Interpreting the War News
By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Two striking items stand out in the recent grist of war news:

(1) The arrival of Britain's huge merchant liner, Queen Elizabeth, to take refuge in American waters and (2) the rumors of Swedish-fostered peace feelers in the Russo-Finnish conflict.

The two incidents are related in one respect: both stem out of fears that the spring may bring new horrors of war to Europe's neutrals and belligerents alike. And both are tinged with implications that fascinate students of the situation.

Major Target

The certainty that the 85,000-ton British sea queen would be a major target for German bombers, if a Nazi air blitzkrieg were unleashed against Britain, was reason enough for risking the liner's dash to New York.

Yet safeguarding the vessel from German air attack might not be the only British purpose. With the Queen Elizabeth and her dowager colleague, the Queen Mary, secure in American waters, Britain has twin sea-power units available on this side of the Atlantic for more spectacular use, if she desires to put them to it.

Either could be converted readily from palatial liners to giant cargo craft for transporting American and Canadian food supplies to England. Or they could be refashioned in a Canadian port into mighty aircraft carriers.

Potential Threat

Those two ships are a potential war threat to Germany as well as a symbol of British sea power so long as they remain afloat and free to go and come on the open sea. The safe arrival of the Queen Elizabeth in New York has important psychological values for the allies as well. It gave British public opinion, attuned to look first for security to the British navy and merchant marine, a stimulant hardly less important than that supplied by the defeat and scuttling of the Nazi pocket battleship Graf Spee.

Uncontradicted reports of Swedish peace moves, with possible Berlin support, to end the war in Finland fall into another category. Some such development had been preshadowed as a result of Russian successes on the Karelian isthmus, bringing perilously close the hour when Sweden might no longer be able to maintain a role of neutrality.

For Germany, as for Sweden, termination of the conflict in Finland is urgently desirable before Russia overruns her little neighbor and menaces Scandinavia, or before possible allied intervention in Finland makes the Baltic an active theater of the bigger war. Yet the reputed terms on which Russia might consider an armistice make it doubtful that diplomatic moves to that end will succeed.

The terms are more drastic than Ever Hear Dinosaurs?

Hollywood Writes To Find What Noise The Creatures Made

The movie studio which wants to reproduce the sounds of the prehistoric dinosaurs probably will have to use imagination, despite its desire to be scientifically accurate.

An appeal for the best knowledge about the sounds of dinosaurs has been made to University of Iowa scientists by the Hollywood studio which has finished a film depicting ancient creatures. "No one really knows, of course," said Prof. A. K. Miller of the geology department and a skilled paleontologist. "The best approach to the question is to consider the modern reptile relatives of the dinosaurs."

He said that the closest living relatives to the dinosaurs are the giant lizards found on certain islands. These emit only a hissing sound.

Prof. Emil Witachi of the zoology department pointed out that the throat of the dinosaur was free. Therefore he might have had powerful vocal cords and a loud booming voice.

This information has been sent to the research and sound engineering departments of the studio. Whether the monsters in the film will growl, roar, scream, or hiss will now be up to the Hollywood experts to decide.

Will Speak At Club Council

Six members of the university faculty will go to Des Moines today to speak at the meeting of the state council of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs. They will discuss "The Fine Arts" at a dinner at the Hotel Fort Des Moines.

Those who will make the trip are Prof. Earl E. Harper, chairman; Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, Prof. Grant Wood, Prof. Frank L. Mott, Prof. E. C. Mabie and Paul Engle.

The demands Moscow made on Finland before the war. Only despair or sheer inability to prolong the fight could induce Finnish acceptance now. That is particularly true in view of Russian failure, after days of close investment, to complete reduction of the Viipuri bastion at the Karelian isthmus gateway.

There are symptoms that Red commanders have reached a point of near desperation in their supreme effort to smash across the isthmus into the heart of Finland before a weather change again stalls them. Heavy Russian attacks with tanks and massed infantry westward across the precarious ice-covered Viipuri bay have that look.

In the circumstances, Finnish rejection of any such terms as Stockholm dispatches attribute to Moscow seems a foregone conclusion. The Finns are fighting for time, the Russians against it.

Three weeks or less could see the weather break to save Finland again, or developments in London, Paris or Scandinavia could insure ultimate help for her.

Negotiations Underway Over Russia's 'Spiked' Demands

FROM COPENHAGEN

New Demands Exceed First Soviet Terms

COPENHAGEN, March 7 (AP)—Closely-guarded negotiations toward an armistice and possible settlement of the Russian-Finnish war are definitely underway and Stockholm is the center of discussions, it was learned reliably tonight.

The Soviet government's conditional demands for peace, in the form of an ultimatum calling for acceptance by midnight tomorrow, have been submitted to the Finnish government which thus far has not given any indication of its attitude, informants stated.

(Informing Moscow observers discounted the possibility of success for any peace moves at this time.)

The latest Russian demands were reported to include the surrender of the Karelian isthmus; Viipuri, capital of Karelia and Finland's third city; Lake Ladoga; Hanko, naval port in southeastern Finland; the Hanko peninsula and part of the far northern Petsamo region.

These demands are far more inclusive than those presented by Russia in Kremlin negotiations which broke down and preceded the Red army's invasion of Finland on Nov. 30. In the pre-war negotiations the Russians asked for cession of a strip of territory north of Leningrad on the Karelian isthmus in exchange for a part of Soviet Karelia; naval bases on Finland's southern coast; some concessions on the Arctic coast and demilitarization of the Finnish-Russian border. Soviet premier-foreign commissar Molotov specified then that Russia was not asking for Viipuri, now objective of the main Russian offensive.

That Russia had hiked her demands was confirmed in part by the Finnish official press bureau in Helsinki which issued this statement:

"According to information in possession of the Finnish government the Soviet government is believed to have planned presentation of demands to Finland more far reaching in character than those presented last autumn. Details of these demands, however, are so far lacking."

Swedish authorities this afternoon imposed a sudden censorship on all telephoned news relating to the reported negotiations.

Informed opinion here tonight was that the Soviet demands, as far as could be learned, are excessive but might serve as a basis for negotiations leading to an armistice.

A Bigger War? The Soviet ultimatum, if the Russian demands were so phrased, was believed to give the alternative of continuance of the war on an increasing scale.

Aside from the possibility that the ultimate character of the Soviet demands might be forcing the issue, foreign observers expressed the opinion that Sweden was being motivated as negotiator by the belief that, if the war in Finland is not stopped, events might complicate Swedish neutrality beyond endurance.

Not only is Finland believed ready to appeal to the western powers for direct assistance but the expected arrival of a great flow of foreign volunteers—especially British—has led to reports of a German warning to Sweden that such volunteers must not be allowed to pass over Swedish territory.

Sweden therefore faces pressure from two sides which might force her into war. This situation, it was assumed, has led Swedish statesmen to bend every effort for restoration of peace in Finland.

To Speak At Hillel Services

Mrs. Zeffren Will Discuss 'Problems Of Youth' Tonight

Mrs. Jerome Zeffren of Rock Island, Ill., will be the guest speaker at the Hillel Sabbath services tonight at 8 o'clock at the Agudas Achim synagogue. Mrs. Zeffren will discuss "Problems of the Youth Today."

Mrs. Zeffren was an outstanding personality in Hillel work at the University of Illinois from where she graduated. She was oratorical champion of the foundation and won honors in the national tournament.

An active communal worker in Rock Island, Mrs. Zeffren is an officer of the Haddassah and B'nai Brith Ladies' auxiliary. She is known throughout the state for her brilliant oratorical ability.

With the assistance of Robert Hurwitz, A3 of Des Moines, Rabbi Morris N. Kertzer will conduct services. A social hour will follow.

Professor J. J. Hoeltje Portrays Friendship Of Emerson, Alcott at S. U. I. Baconian Lecture

Portraying a lasting friendship of more than half a century, Prof. J. J. Hoeltje read a chapter from his book, "The Sheltering Tree," in last night's Baconian lecture in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The kinship of thought, similarity of tastes and convictions, and bonds of understanding between Ralph Waldo Emerson and Bronson Alcott, two inveterate writers during the transcendentalist movement in America, were described in grandiose terms by Professor Hoeltje.

Professor Hoeltje traced the lives of the two men, telling of their exchanges of ideas, criticisms of one another's writings, and their buoyant conversations. Frequently Alcott visited Emerson at his new dwelling in Concord, where he received inspiration for future writings. At other times, following Emerson's lectures in Boston, the two men met to compare notes on the regeneration of thought in America.

"A life of the mind," said Professor Hoeltje, characterized these two men. "There was nothing externally dramatic about their lives—Alcott, the elementary school teacher, and Emerson, the theologian," continued Professor Hoeltje, "but both existed in a life of thought."

"Psyche," still unpublished, stated Professor Hoeltje, represents persistent endeavor on the part of Alcott.

Alcott considered the publication of "Psyche" a revision of "The Breath of Childhood," many times during his life, but gave it up finally on the recommendation of Emerson, whose judgment he revered. Alcott respected Emerson in almost everything he said, only occasionally criticizing him for his Socratic view that knowledge is virtue.

Professor Hoeltje referred to the disparity of ideas of the two friends as inconsequential. Emerson and Alcott differed to some extent in temperament, but for the most part basked in the light of one another's substantial contributions in thoughts and ideas. Their friendship represented "one of the rare joys and comforts of life" to one another.

In conclusion Professor Hoeltje proclaimed that the thoughts of Emerson and Alcott give us a cross view of the transcendentalist movement in America, a dawning of a new age of ideas.

Y. W. C. A. Office Candidates Represent Various Activities

Candidates for office in the Y. W. C. A. which will hold its election Wednesday with U.W.A. and W.A.A. during the women's elections in Iowa Union, represent a variety of activities, both within the "Y" and on the campus.

Betty Addington, A3 of Des Moines, who is running against Patricia Sleezer, A3 of Freeport, Ill., for president, just this year transferred from Simpson college, Indianola, where she was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi sorority and Alpha Phi Omega honorary dramatic fraternity.

At Iowa, Miss Addington is a major in economics with a minor in home economics, has participated in Eastlawn dormitory activities as a resident, has taken an active part in intramurals, Home Economics club and committee work for both U.W.A. and Y.W.C.A.

Miss Sleezer, a political science major, is secretary of the Currier hall association and was a council member last year. She is a member of "Y" cabinet, belonged to the "Y" council last year, was chairman of the religious activities drive and as state chairman of collegiate Y. W. C. A.'s is a member of the national board. She belongs to Zeta Phi Eta, national honorary speech sorority.

Josephine Sidwell, A3 of Iowa City, candidate for secretary, is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, which she has served as officer; was appointed to the Freshman, Junior Prom and Spinsters' Spree party committees; is a member of a Union Board sub-committee and of the Y.W.C.A. council.

The other candidate for secretary, Mary Penningroth, A2 of Cedar Rapids, is an Alpha Chi Omega, serving as treasurer this year. Active in Hawkeye work, Freshman Orientation, W.A.A., P.E.P. and intramurals, she has belonged to the Y.W.C.A. for two years.

Mary Ellen Hennessy, A3 of Council Bluffs, and Dorothy Gley-steen, A3 of Sioux City, are candidates for treasurer of the Y.W.C.A. Miss Hennessy has been elected recently to the presidency of Pi Beta Phi sorority and was treasurer and Pan-Hellenic representative last year.

Among her activities have been debate, Freshman Orientation, religious activities drive, I.A.W.S. conference program chairman and Y.W.C.A. cabinet.

Miss Gleysteen, affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, is house president and has participated in Seals club, I.A.W.S. conference, university chorus and Freshman Orientation council. She is an editor of the Y.W.C.A. paper.

The two candidates for the two-year term representative to the Student Christian council, Virginia Ivie, A2 of Shenandoah, and Josephine McElhinney, A2 of Iowa City, have taken active parts this year in the Y.W.C.A. Miss Ivie is a member of Currier council, Orchestr and the Home Economics club. She has taken part in Freshman Orientation and the Y.W.C.A. council.

Miss McElhinney, a member of Delta Gamma sorority, was a member of the Freshman and Spinsters' Spree party committees, a member of the executive council of the religious activities drive and a Freshman Orientation assistant leader.

Winifred Coningham, A1 of Middletown, Ill., candidate for the one-year term representative to the Student Christian council, is a speech major, belongs to Kappa Phi, Gavel club, Y.W.C.A., Wesley Players and was a member of the Freshman party committee.

The second candidate for the one-year term has not been announced.

The Y.W.C.A. is governed by the officers to be elected Wednesday, a cabinet and a council. Mrs. James S. Youtsier is executive secretary, and is assisted by an advisory board.

Conservation Commission Will Consider Dam Next Tuesday

Statement On Flood Control Dam Expected

Meeting Will Be Held In Des Moines; Facts Forwarded for Use

The Iowa state conservation commission will meet in Des Moines Tuesday to consider its recent objection to the proposed $6,600,000 Coralville dam project. Fred J. Poyneer, a commission member, told The Daily Iowan last night.

Although Poyneer said the session will probably last two days, he said previously the reservoir question would likely be decided by the end of the first day.

Written proceedings of the hearings were forwarded to the commission less than a week ago.

This meeting, called by Roscoe E. Stewart of Ottumwa, chairman of the group, will mark the first get-together of the six men and a woman since they came to Iowa City on their fact-finding tour Feb. 14.

Pro and Con
Their trip here was to conduct a hearing of both proponents and opponents of the dam project.

The commission had previously objected on the grounds the reservoir would cause damage to the "made" lake Macbride and Lake Macbride state park.

The view was expressed yesterday that since Stewart told the 500 spectators and arguers who jammed the courtroom here during the public hearing that the commission had come to Iowa City with an "open mind," that actually no objection exists. However, the group went on record in opposition prior to the hearing, according to reports.

Governor Silent

Governor George A. Wilson was asked by four Iowa Citizens Wednesday to express favor to the dam in the name of the state of Iowa, but refused to respond either way.

The governor told his visitors he had not been asked for an opinion when plans were being laid and surveys were being made. He said his scant knowledge of engineering and the fact that an attorney general's opinion stated the government may put in the dam if it wishes made it inadvisable for him to render a "personal opinion."

Those who talked with Wilson for 45 minutes were Gordon Brown, secretary of the Iowa City chamber of commerce, Representative William F. Morrison, Attorney D. C. Nolan and Attorney Kenneth M. Dunlop.

Judge Finds Anton Guilty

Patrolmen Halt Car With Faulty Brakes; Driver Minus License

Shelton L. Anton of La Porte City faced $40 in fines yesterday after he was picked up by a state patrolman in the outskirts of Iowa City and adjudged guilty of driving without a chauffeur's license an overloaded truck with defective brakes. Cedar Rapids police had wired Iowa City officials warning them of the truck's condition.

Two other traffic violators were fined by Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday. They were Henry Allanson and Scott Beiter, each fined $1 for parking in a prohibited zone.

Contracts For Landscaping Will Be Let

Contracts for planting of trees and shrubbery around the new Iowa City high school will be let at 7:30 tonight by members of the school board at a special meeting in the office of Iver A. Opstead, superintendent of schools, Charles S. Gallier, secretary, announced yesterday.

Members of the board will convene at 7:15 to hear and discuss the plans, specifications and contract documents, Gallier said.

Chicago Youth Released By Local Police

Frank Roginski, Chicago youth who surrendered himself to local police authorities late Saturday night and confessed taking $19 from a Chicago theater, was released yesterday, according to officials, with instructions to return home.

Announce Total Sales During Seal Campaign

In a final report on the annual Tuberculosis Christmas Seal campaign in Johnson county this year, Alice Stewart, chairman, announced yesterday that subscriptions totaled $1,760, an increase of $73 over last year's total.

Members of this year's committee, other than Miss Stewart, are Frank J. Snider, county school chairman; Mrs. Cloyde U. Shellady, city school chairman; Atty. William F. Morrison, city chairman; Mrs. Sadie Seagrave, Oakdale chairman, and Mrs. H. J. Long, mailing chairman.

Typing classes in Iowa City high school and Brown's business college typed return addresses on subscription envelopes, Miss Stewart said.

Spring? Mercury Said 6 Above A Year Ago

Mercury again failed to reach the normal high spot yesterday but the 38 degree reading early in the afternoon helped the spring atmosphere over the city.

Yesterday's low of 27 was four above the normal level. A year ago yesterday spring was delayed by readings as low as six above zero.

Export Bank O. K.'s Loans To 3 Nations

China Gets 20 Million, Denmark 10 Million Under Latest Move

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The export-import bank announced today its trustees had approved loans of $20,000,000 to China, $10,000,000 to Denmark, and $1,000,000 to Iceland to finance exports to those countries.

Proceeds of the loans may be used only for non-military purchases in this country. China received a $25,000,000 loan about a year ago, but the loans to Denmark and Iceland are the first by the export-import bank to those countries.

All Scandinavian countries now have received financial assistance from the bank.

Finland has obtained two loans aggregating $30,000,000. Norway $10,000,000 and Sweden $15,000,000.

Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, told reporters today that China was ahead of schedule with payments on the $25,000,000 loan.

Finland, Jones said, plans to purchase rye, oats, lard, peas, cotton, soy bean oil, tractors, trucks, wool, telephone wire and soap with its recent $20,000,000 loan.

In connection with the Chinese loan, Jones said in reply to a question that he "never heard of any objections" from Japan to United States loans to China.

Plan To Start Barge Service On Missouri

May Extend Federal Barge Line as Far North as Sioux City

OMAHA, March 7 (AP)—Inauguration of federal barge lines service on the Missouri river between Omaha and Kansas City will be given "every possible consideration in the very near future," Chester Thompson, president of the Inland Waterways corporation, said here today after conferring with shippers and waterways boosters from Omaha and nine surrounding cities.

Although Thompson hesitated to make any definite statement about beginning operations, he added he was "very favorably impressed" by the facts presented and interest shown by the shippers.

At a conference following Thompson's speech at a public affairs luncheon in his honor at the chamber of commerce, C. E. Child, transportation counsel, presented results of a survey showing an estimated 3,768,000 tons of commodities would move in and out of Omaha annually by water if proper barge services were available.

The conference brought out two plans for barge operation in this territory by private groups.

George R. Call, president of the Sioux City-New Orleans Barge Lines, Inc., recently organized corporation, said the corporation plans to start river transportation on a small scale "soon."

Mark W. Woods, of Woods brothers, Lincoln construction firm, said that company plans to operate barges they have been using for construction purposes for commercial navigation on the Missouri.

Shippers at the meeting emphasized that a "proper" freight-rate structure would have to be established to make operations in this area profitable for barge lines and helpful to shippers.

Shippers from Council Bluffs, Onawa, Missouri Valley, Sidney and Sioux City, Ia., and Nebraska City, Lincoln, Auburn and Plattsmouth, Neb., attended the conference.

A report of tax collections for the month of February submitted yesterday by Johnson County treasurer W. E. Smith revealed a total collection of $53,319.31 in current and delinquent taxes. Miscellaneous collections totaled $53,877.02, which included a bond sale of $26,000 for the Johnson county poor fund.

Disbursements for the period included warrants paid amounting to $78,642.33 and miscellaneous disbursements totaled $16,594.15. Special assessments including

Bombs Disperse South Americans After Ortiz Orders Buenos Aires Managed by Interventor

BUENOS AIRES, March 7 (AP)—Tear gas bombs thrown by police dispersed hundreds of excited persons outside the provincial capitol at LaPlata today after President Roberto Ortiz had ordered a federal interventor to administer the affairs of Buenos Aires province, center of the bulk of Argentina's wealth and one-third of its population.

Ortiz took the drastic step in the face of threats of armed revolt and the resignation of at least two members of his cabinet.

The replaced governor, Manuel Fresco, greeted the action with defiance, declaring the intervention was unwarranted use of force, defending his own administration and recalling President Ortiz' political debt to him.

As provisional interventor with powers almost equivalent to martial law, Ortiz named General Luis A. Casinelli to replace Fresco, whose administration of provincial affairs had been called a "fascist reign" by his political enemies.

The intervention decree was a sequel to the provincial elections of Feb. 25 which produced more than 700 complaints of fraud, most of them by spokesmen for the radical party (liberal), against the national democratic party (conservative) which was in power in the province.

The president's action was seen as toppling a conservative coalition from the dominant position it has occupied in Argentine political life since its advent on the crest of armed revolution in 1930.

President Ortiz, who is a member of a conservative faction of the radical party, was elected with support of the coalition.

Ernesto Boatti, president of the radical party, issued a manifesto in which he urged members of his organization to remain calm and avoid street gatherings.

The ballots still were being counted when the decree was issued. Two members of the cabinet, both conservatives, declined to sign the decree and resigned. They were minister of agriculture Joe Padilla and minister of public works Manuel Alvarado.

While an army general was named provisional interventor, it was understood a civilian eventually would be appointed to the post.

Allied Purchasing Group Announces Plans for New U. S. Airplane Purchases

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—The allied purchasing mission announced today it would begin negotiations next week with American airplane manufacturers for the purchase of possibly $1,000,000,000 worth of aircraft.

The mission, after a brief conference with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, said that plane manufacturers would be called to New York "the early part of next week" to discuss American production facilities, plane types, and production capacity.

Arthur B. Purvis, chief of British-French purchasing in this country, said the allies have no preconceived ideas of what types of planes they will buy, except that they want "the best articles, at the best price, at the best deliveries possible."

If possible, he added, the allies want delivery on the new orders—which will supplement several million dollars worth of already placed purchases—this year.

mandie is but a foot, one single foot, shorter than the Elizabeth. There will be a slight pause for insertion of figures. Elizabeth—length, 1,030 feet; Normandie—length, 1,029 feet.

It might be added, too, that whereas both queens, Elizabeth and Mary, are in their drab wardrobe, the Normandie still wears her party paint, the French line not having bothered to swab on the grey for a similitude of imminent war-time activity, such as the Cunarders did as soon as Mary was tied up indefinitely at the start of the war. Elizabeth probably never had any dress up paint.

While official figures are lacking, those who figure in fair round numbers say it costs about $1,000 per day above pier rental maintenance of the idle gaintesses.

Figuring to save money or to get out of the way of active shipping, the French liner Ile De France after her arrival in the first week of the war went into exile at a Staten Island pier. The cost of dredging a deeper bed for her across the bay was $20,000. Officials figured a similar digging job to lay up the Normandie over there would have been around $100,000.

W. J. Pratt Dies Following Long Illness

Life-Long Resident Of Johnson County Succumbs at Home

W. J. Pratt, 503 Melrose avenue, died at his home at 7 p.m. yesterday after a lingering illness.

Pratt had been a life-long resident of Johnson county. He had been connected with Iowa City business circles for a generation and was formerly a partner in the Pratt and Strub department store.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. George Lawrence of Anamosa, and one brother, L. L. Pratt of Long Beach, Cal.

Pratt was a member of the Iowa City Masonic lodge, No. 4. Funeral arrangements had not been made last night. The body is at Beckman's.

Another Row Over Census!

Justice Department Opposes Dropping Suit Against Cobbler

MILWAUKEE, March 7 (AP)—Two branches of the federal government—the department of justice and the census bureau—were not in complete agreement tonight over the case of James Roselli, brewer Kenosha, Wis., cobbler suddenly lifted from obscurity by his differences with a business census taker.

W. L. Austin, census director at Washington, said a charge against Roselli, that he refused to answer census questions, would be dropped.

Donald M. Farris of Racine, Wis., census area manager ordered by Austin to withdraw the charges, said that Assistant U. S. District Attorney E. J. Koelzer of Milwaukee had promised that the warrant would be withdrawn.

But Koelzer said no such promise had been made. "A warrant has been issued," he said. "The decision on whether it shall be tried or dismissed is entirely up to the justice department."

Roselli, under $200 bond for an appearance March 14 before a U. S. commissioner, smiled when he heard of the dismissal order and punned:

"I see census man come to his sensus."

Annual Local Street Renovation Program May Start Today

Fred Gartzke, city engineer, announced yesterday that the annual street renovation program of Iowa City will begin today providing a carload of asphalt packing material for mending damaged streets arrives.

Work on the streets which were damaged by the usual snow, temperatures, traffic and thaw has not been possible until now due to the wet conditions, Gartzke said.

No extra labor will be employed on the program which will include $1,500 in repairs, he revealed. The regular city crews and trucks will spend two weeks mending the pavement, using 50 tons of the asphalt coldpatch material, he added.

The city engineer said another car of asphalt will be obtained by the city to use on the streets during the summer.

The first work will be on Dubuque street, a main highway which has holes in sections.

of the Elizabeth, "and will be faster."

William Suteliffe, the Elizabeth's chief engineer, thus described the voyage: "When we slept, we slept with one eye open."
