Hours Pass Without Word Of Decision

Molotoff, Stalin, Steinhart Take Important Roles

STOCKHOLM, March 12 (Tuesday) (AP)—Informed Scandinavians rated dragging Finnish-Russian peace negotiations at a critical stage today as hour after hour passed without word of a decision that will decide the issue of peace in Finland or continued war with its threatening implications for the rest of northern Europe.

Observers said the negotiators were in a race with the weather, already turning warm in Finland and threatening to bog down military operations even if a peace does not stop them.

The Finnish delegates were believed here still to be in Moscow with negotiations continuing yet today over new disputed points which had arisen in the conferences with Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotoff and Joseph Stalin, and in which United States Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt was reported to have taken an important role.

Swedish observers lost some of the optimism, which yesterday started stock exchange quotations on the rise, as the negotiations dragged along, and some circles said the result of the negotiations might not come as soon as they had supposed.

Considerable political activity was noted in Helsinki, however, where meetings of members of the parliament and the cabinet were held.

According to one version of Ambassador Steinhardt's activities, the conferees met at the American embassy in Moscow until the negotiations were moved to the Kremlin where Stalin took part. In this connection it was suggested that Steinhardt's recent trip to neighboring Baltic states was to prepare the groundwork for the negotiations by arranging telephones and courier posts between Helsinki and Moscow by way of the Baltic states.

7 Street Men Ask for Raise

Request City Council To Boost Hourly Wage to Fifty Cents

Pointing to an increase in their own expenses, seven employees of the street department last night petitioned the city council for a raise in wages from 40 to 50 cents an hour.

The request, referred by the council to the city engineer for an ultimate recommendation, was worded in part as follows: "Owing to the high cost of living and rents, we the undersigned employees of the street department petition your honorable body for an increase in salary from 40 cents an hour to 50 cents an hour, as we only work 44 hours a week."

The council also granted a class C beer permit to the Zimmerli grocery in the name of Herman Zimmerli. The business establishment is located at 931 N. Dodge.

A petition from the Varsity cab company to transfer a license from one automobile to another was granted.

Soviet Reports Closing Circle About Viipuri

Red Press Ignores Allied Announcement Of Aid for Finns

MOSCOW, March 12 (Tuesday) (AP)—Soviet troops closed a ring around Viipuri, by occupying the eastern and northern parts of the city, Leningrad military headquarters reported today.

The communique was the second to announce occupation of a part of Viipuri, one of Finland's largest and oldest cities, since the main offensive of the Red army got under way on the Karelian isthmus Feb. 1.

Nine days ago, the Russians said their troops had entered the southern part of the city and captured the railroad station. Subsequent communiques did not mention further progress in this part of the city, however, or whether the troops were forced to withdraw.

(Later Finnish communiques said the Russians had not been able to enter any part of the city, though admitting they were hammering at the very gates.)

For several days the Russians have reported their net drawing closer about the city. They claimed advances to the west, east and south of the city, and even to the northeast.

Today was the first time, however, they claimed to have actually encircled the city.

Russian troops still are advancing in successful actions along the western shore of Viipuri bay, the regular communique declared.

The Russian press ignored British Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge of allied aid to Finland, paid little attention to the conflict and printed only terse comments.

Bilbo Blocks Passage Of Deficiency Bill

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) blocked in the senate late today passage of a $92,769,021.52 deficiency bill which carried $60,000,000 for the 1939-40 soil conservation program.

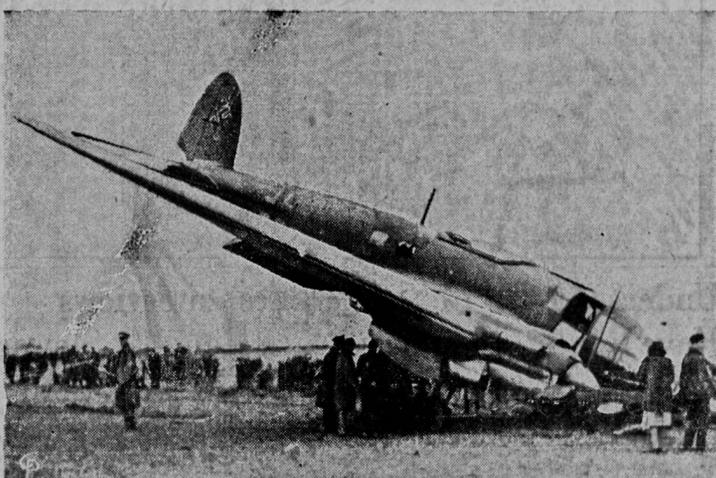

The Mississippi senator asked that the measure go over until tomorrow because he had not had time to study it.

Previously, the chamber had approved a series of amendments boosting the total in the bill $2,699,882.91 above the amount approved by the house.

Among the increases voted was $1,000,000 to continue construction of the Colorado-Big Thompson reclamation-power project in Colorado. The senate also increased from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 an appropriation for control of crop pests.

Allies Offer Finns 'All Resources'

Chamberlain Withholds Comment on Neutrality Of Norway, Sweden

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—Great Britain disclosed today, at a critical hour in Finland's peace negotiations with Russia, that she and France have offered "all available resources" to bolster the tired and hard-pressed columns of the Finnish army.

The allies, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of Commons, are prepared "to proceed immediately and jointly to the help of Finland" if the Finnish government should appeal to them for further aid.

Chamberlain said that Britain had "not arrived yet" at war with Russia, and he refused to tell the house whether Britain was proposing to send troops to Finland and whether she was prepared to violate the neutrality of Norway and Sweden in doing so.

Some diplomatic sources said they thought that the prime minister's pledge of aid by Britain and France in the form of "all available resources" indicated that the government was considering a combined naval and military expedition, with France supplying troops and British ships and planes.

Screen Writer Takes Life By Hanging

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 11 (AP)—John Monk Saunders, writer of Hollywood screen hits, was found hanging today in his waterfront cottage at a quiet island resort where he had come seeking renewed health.

Coroner Ray Lambertson said there was no doubt the 42-year-old former newspaperman and World war aviator killed himself, and ruled no inquest necessary. No messages were found in the house where Saunders lived alone but the coroner attributed the act to ill health and despondency.

Tragic Death In Initiation Dissolves T.N.E.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 11 (AP)—Dr. Albert K. Heckel, dean of men at the University of Missouri, said today representatives of Theta Nu Epsilon, a sub-rosa organization, had agreed to disband and cease all activity on the campus.

The officials had asked the organization to disband following the death of Hubert L. Spake Jr., university sophomore, who suffocated in bed after his initiation in T.N.E. Saturday night.

Post-Dispatch Hailed to Court

ST. LOUIS, March 11 (AP)—The Post-Dispatch was cited for contempt of court today by circuit judge Thomas J. Rowe as a result of editorials and a cartoon published in connection with the dismissal of a $10,000 extortion charge against state representative Edward M. Brady.

Concerts today were presented at Monticello and Cedar Rapids. The group will be heard tomorrow at Manchester, Oelwein and Waterloo.

LUNCH BOX BANKHEAD'S CASE HOLDS FOOD, NOT PAPERS

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—That brown leather case speaker Bankhead carries to the capitol every day is not filled with important state papers—it's his lunch.

Although he is a "favorite son" candidate for the presidency and already holds one of the nation's most powerful political offices, the speaker, like many an American workman, always carries his lunch to work. It is packed for him by Mrs. Bankhead.

Senate Votes To Keep Hatch Bill on Floor

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—With advocates of the Hatch "anti-politics" bill in clear command, the senate refused today to shunt that measure aside—even for the ever popular purpose of voting farm appropriations.

Its action left the bill, forbidding political activity to a large group of state employees, the pending business of the senate, but also left it facing what was openly denounced in the chamber as a filibuster.

The senate's decision came on a motion by Senator Russell (D-Ga) to take up the $923,000,000 agricultural appropriation bill, containing some $300,000,000 more than the figure approved by the house, and involving a spectacular contest over governmental economy.

Voting down the Russell motion 47 to 36, the Hatch proponents lost a few of those who have supported them on previous ballots but who, on this particular test, were more interested in the farm bill.

Report Asks Legal Action In Two Cases

DES MOINES, March 11 (AP)—Attorney General Fred Everett said tonight he was studying the report of a special audit of state bank receiverships which was turned over to him today by Governor George A. Wilson.

The governor sent the auditor's report to Everett with the notation that it was being forwarded "for the attention of your office and for such action as may be necessary."

Considering Action The report recommended direct legal action in two instances and criticized the state banking department in general for lack of "coordination of effort" and "insufficient supervision by the administrative heads."

"We can't tell yet what action may be taken," Everett said this evening. "The report has been released and it is in our hands. We can't tell in a few hours what we might do. The matter is all under consideration by this office."

Heated Denials From widely scattered points of the state this afternoon came heated denials of various charges contained in the report originally submitted to the governor in January by Frank D. Johnson and Nat Buck, members of State Auditor C. B. Akers' staff who conducted the audit.

The audit was ordered by Governor Wilson after Superintendent Bates instituted action at Iowa City to reopen a receivership in which Ben S. Summerwill had been examiner-in-charge.

The report confined its comment here to an observation that the Iowa City receivership office carried unduly large amounts of cash on hand during Summerwill's incumbency.

Engineers Uncover Blarney Stone After 'Hot' Search

The 30-year old blarney stone, traditional feature of the college of engineering's Mecca week, which officially begins tomorrow, was found late Saturday night by 11 senior engineers who had been digging for it in a small, underground room for nine hours.

Following directions left by last year's senior class, the engineers started digging for the stone with picks and shovels shortly after noon Saturday. The room, which adjoins a heating tunnel and is located under the main engineering building, has a constant temperature of over 120 degrees.

The only entrance to the room is through a hole about two feet square. The students crawled on their hands and knees about 30 feet through the heating tunnel in order to reach the dug-out.

An electric light bulb on the end of a long cord pulled through the tunnel after they provided the only light for the search. Almost every square inch of the dry-clay floor had been dug into before the stone was finally located about five feet underneath the ground. A wooden box covered the 65-pound stone. Decayed wood pieces of the box in which the stone was hidden for the first time 30 years ago were also in the container.

The engineers who found the stone were Harry Zweifel of St. Louis, Mo., president of the senior class; Francis Ohmer of McGregor, Adam Vogel of Milwaukee, Wis., Bob Arnold of Shrub Oak, N. Y., Paul Johnson of Ottosen, Bill Bowman of Downey, Harry Greenspan of New York, N. Y., Lawrence Pestal of Cedar Rapids, Martin Stiller of St. Louis, Mo., chairman of Mecca week activities, Curt Lindholm of Iowa City and Paul F. Aschenbrenner of Dysart.

The blarney stone is buried every year by the senior engineering class. Complicated directions, which only an engineer could understand, are left for the juniors to use in finding it the next year. This year's directions told the engineers to start at the cornerstone of the engineering building, go south for a certain distance, west a few feet, then 24 degrees down.

Entrance to the room was fairly easy—the students could crawl through the two foot entrance and drop to the floor, about five feet below. But one of them, who weighed a little over 250 pounds, had trouble getting out again.

Instead of two intersecting lines. Other ballots were thrown out because the voter had balloted for more than two nominees.

Polling place was the council chamber in the city hall. Voters were checked for registration according to their wards, but the balloting in each ward was not kept separate.

The school board will make the official canvass of the ballots at 7:30 p.m. next Monday, Charles S. Gallier, secretary of the board, announced last night.

John P. Kelly, Mrs. Howard Beye Elected to School Board

John P. Kelly and Mrs. Howard L. Beye were elected yesterday to three-year terms on the school board of the Iowa City independent school district.

Mrs. Beye, the only woman in the running in a field of four candidates and the first woman to run for an Iowa City school board post in 16 years, collected 772 votes, second only to Kelly with 786.

Prof. Thomas G. Caywood was unsuccessful in seeking re-election to the board, tallying 667 votes to place third in the race. Alva B. Oathout gathered 630 ballots.

Mrs. Ernest Horn, received one "write-in" vote, technically placing two women candidates in the field. The appearance of women candidates after such a long interval can be traced in try, it is not one's social affiliations, but one's ability and interest and stick-to-it-iveness which are the deciding factors for the officers.

Gradually women are realizing their privilege—the right to decide who shall undertake the responsibility of working for the interests of the group as a whole. In the last few years, according to tabulations made for each housing group, as little as 20 per cent of one house's membership and as high as 92 per cent in another house have balloted.

Each year since, the percentage has increased. An increasingly greater number of students has gone to the polls to exercise its democratic right to govern itself.

Let us urge the women of the university to express their opinions in the selection of the heads of these three organizations. Therein lies the road to good government, for the university as for the nation.

Taking Iowa's Band To Iowa

THE UNIVERSITY of Iowa concert band departed yesterday on its first spring tour in a good many years, appearing yesterday in Cedar Rapids, Monticello and Dubuque and presenting concerts today in Manchester, Oelwein and Waterloo.

Those who heard Sunday night's concert by the band in Iowa Union were convinced, we believe, that this year's band is the most capable Professor Righter has yet produced. The value of this Iowa Tour from the point of view of taking the university to Iowa is doubly apparent.

Professor Righter, ably assisted by Associate Director Hugh Gunderson and Assistant Director Stanley Wilson, has coordinated the tour repertoire of some 30 numbers with the local musical programs of the 16 concert sites. Each local director has had a hand in arranging the band's program for his own town, asking the Iowa musicians to play numbers in which Iowa prep bandmen are interested, either as contest selections or for local concert performances.

The importance of the football band as a drawing card for Iowa high school musicians, after two years of top-notch fall performance, is already apparent to everyone. The current tour of the concert band does much to complete that important program. Band work in the auditorium is vastly different from marching in a stadium, and appeals to a vastly different but equally important audience.

So we take off our hats to Prof. Earl E. Harper, whose school of fine arts is presenting the band in its tour performances, and to Professor Righter and his assistants for arranging this tremendously worth while tour. It has taken an important section of the university into the home towns of a large portion of Iowa, and the performance of the band will be thoroughly a credit to Iowa.

The airplane of the future, according to an aeronautical forecast, will have no fuselage. What became of that prediction we read about a couple of months ago which said that it would have no wings?

A western state is experimenting with cast-iron roadways. Will the pedestrian of the future land with a resounding clang instead of a dull thud?

It isn't true, says Zadok Dumbkopf, that there's always room at the top. Otherwise, Dummy points out, we'd all live in penthouses.

What this country really needs, according to the man at the next desk, is a road map which can be opened without everyone first being forced to get out of the car.

Get in The Swing! Sing For the Sing!

HAS YOUR organization submitted an entry for the University Sing? Today, March 12, is a final chance.

Each year this event has grown. Each year it has proved its worthwhileness. Because of the enthusiastic reception on past competitions, University Women's association hopes that the Sing will become a lasting campus tradition.

A survey made by a Sing committee in 1938 revealed that Iowa has, in the Sing, a unique campus event. No other college or university has an affair such as Iowa's. Here—this one time each year—sororities, fraternities, dormitories, and town groups join together and sing their favorite songs. This sing promotes feeling of campus wholeness and breakdown of housing unit barriers.

Each organization should feel that the Sing is an attempt at university unification—a unique affair in an institution as large as ours.

Undersecretary of State Welles' Interviews Have Revealed No New Peace Hopes - - Stewart

UNDERSECRETARY OF STATE SUMNER WELLES' European trip, from all that has leaked out concerning it thus far, neither has been productive of any peace prospects nor general information.

There were few expectations when he left here that Undersecretary Welles would return with definite peace proposals in his brief case.

The supposition was, however, that his talks with overseas statesmen would lead him up with facts that Americans are not very familiar with—facts of a sort to prove very useful when the world (today's belligerents and neutrals alike) finally does get down to a discussion of international peace on a permanent basis.

Little Information Well, if Sumner Welles really succeeded in assimilating a particle of "inside dope" of the kind suggested, it's been kept a profound secret thus far.

Duce Mussolini, Fuehrer Hitler, and plenty of others undoubtedly told him lots of things but they appear to have been things that he must have known in advance.

As to Germany, Herr Hitler already had explained the Reich's peace terms. Besides what the Fatherland has grabbed of late in its own neighborhood, and the recovery of its lost colonies, he wants to put the British navy out of business, he wants Gibraltar and Suez and

By CHARLES F. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Singapore. That'll satisfy him, at least temporarily. And the British objective is to extinguish Herr Hitler.

Welles Trip Superfluous No foreign trip was required to assure as well posted a diplomat as Sumner Welles that Britain would sacrifice her last "Tommy Atkins" before yielding to Adolf's conditions or that Adolf will see his entire country go up in smoke before admitting that HE'S overthrown.

Sumner's chats with the French, the Italians and the miscellaneous small neutrals may have elicited a few additional expressions of opinion, but it's widely agreed that the fight essentially is between Adolf and Britain?

Between Adolf and Britain? Here's a distinction. The British unquestionably are united behind THEIR government.

Germans Behind Hitler? Are the Germans united behind the Fuehrer? Stories have been circulated to the purport that they're not—that he has lots of disaffection to deal with at home—that his country may blow up underneath him, as it blew up under the Kaiser. If so, the war might frazzle out quite unexpectedly.

But these reports are impossible to verify—or to disprove, either. Hitler and his lieutenants naturally deny them, and, even if they're true, probably don't believe them. The British and French PREFER to believe them, and perhaps believe them mistakenly.

Had Sumner Welles been able to secure some reliable evidence, one way or the other, it would be worth listening to. However, testimony has been weighed, pro and con, for months, by a big corps of competent observers, and they still are uncertain. It isn't likely that Sumner has been able to out-guess them dependably on the flying tour that he made.

Well Received Everywhere Undersecretary Welles has been cordially received everywhere. That was to have been anticipated.

Each capital he visited gave him its version of the situation with the utmost appearance of candor. Berlin dwelt upon the Reich's willingness to make peace—with the destruction of the British empire. London and Paris equally emphasized the Allies' readiness to stop fighting—with the extinction of Hitler and the smashing of Nazidom. Each side says it's winning.

That's the information that Sumner Welles is advertised as returning with.

He hasn't got peace in the sack—or any indications of it. He's had some interesting interviews. That's about all that there are any appearances of.

It was to have been foreseen, too. There was so much mystery about the trip that many people imagined the Washington administration might have something wonderful "up its sleeve." If so, it hasn't revealed it yet.

Income Tax Troubles?

C. J. Hutchinson At Your Service In Post Office Building

By DON C. McCLURG

Has your hair been thinning out recently? Maybe the local deputy collector of internal revenue is just the fellow who can help you.

That is, if you've been tearing your hair because of snarls in filling out your federal income tax returns, he can be of assistance to you. C. J. Hutchinson, deputy collector stationed in the Iowa City post office building, will advise all comers who are stumped by their income tax returns.

In fact, about all you have to do is bring your billfold or checkbook, for Hutchinson will receive the returns and the tax money and notarize the information. And the service is free!

Rookies in the income-tax paying ranks this year are all state, county and municipal employees whose incomes fall within the limits for the civilian.

They Must Pay Single persons with net incomes of $1,000 a year or married persons with net incomes of $2,500 must pay the federal income tax. If your gross income is $5,000, you have to pay the tax regardless of your marital status.

Hutchinson receives income tax from persons living in Johnson, Washington and Iowa counties and parts of Cedar and Muscatine counties. Returns may be mailed to him or filed in person.

He forwards the material to the Des Moines office for collection of internal revenue, to which taxpayers may mail their returns directly if they wish.

Deadline for the tax is midnight Friday. Hutchinson's office on the second floor of the post office building is open daily from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m.

For "last minutes," Hutchinson will keep his office open until 9 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. L. Nagle Will Entertain P. E. O. Friday

Mrs. Lee Nagle, 917 E. College, will be hostess to Chapter E of the P. E. O. sisterhood Friday at 2:30 p. m. in her home.

Dean Adelaide Burge will be in charge of the program. Mrs. R. A. Fenton, Mrs. Zina Griffin and Mrs. Mason Ladd will assist the hostess.

Vestermark Files Information Against Ross, Awaiting Trial

An information has been filed by Johnson County Attorney Harold Vestermark against Robert Ross, Moline, Ill., who is being held in jail awaiting trial on a charge of larceny.

Ross and a companion, Leo Lovell, Des Moines, escaped from the county jail Feb. 25 by sawing through the bars on one of the first floor windows.

The pair attained their freedom for less than an hour however because Sheriff Don McComas, upon seeing one of the men crawl through the window, notified the local police who broadcast the escape immediately over the city-county short-wave system.

According to the information filed by Vestermark, this was the second jail break made by Ross. The petition stated he had escaped from the state penitentiary at Lansing, Kan., where he was imprisoned for alleged auto theft.

No charge has been made against Lovell, county officials said.

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

HORACE HEIDT and his "Pot O' Gold" program tonight over the NBC-Red network at 7:30 will offer $2,800 on his telephone call to some lucky person in the United States.

ALTHOUGH the broadcast will originate in Milwaukee where Heidt and his orchestra will be playing a theater engagement, the call may go anyplace in the country.

"DENTISTS" will be the topic of tonight's dramatization and interview over the "Americans at Work" program on CBS stations at 9:15.

Tonight's drama on the "Cavalcade of America" program over the NBC-Blue network at 8 o'clock revolves around Benedict Arnold, American military officer of the 18th century.

TWO AMATEUR softball teams will meet on tonight's "Battle of the Sexes" question and answer program over the NBC-Red network at 8 o'clock. The women, from Linden, N. J., will compete with the men from Elizabeth, N. J.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York City will speak on MBS stations tonight at 10:30 on the topic, "Shall student America concern itself with politics?"

FINEST NEWS to emanate from musical plane in some time is the return to the Tommy Dorsey ranks of trumpeter Bunny Berigan, who scrapped his own band to resume his place in the Dorsey brass section.

It was Berigan, you may recall, who took all those torrid trumpet solos on Tommy's early hot records, including the ever-famous "ride" chorus immediately following the vocal on Tommy Dorsey's Victor recording of "Marie."

OTHER NEW FACES in the Dorsey ranks include Ray Linn at trumpet and Paul Mason at alto sax.

LARRY CLINTON has a new girl vocalist in Helen Southern, termed "a fair New Orleans belle."

LEO REISMAN will introduce the "Deep River Boys," a Negro vocal quartet, on his Victor double-back of "Nothing But You" and "Ev'ry Sunday Afternoon."

It's quite probable that Ezra Stone's "Aldrich Family," which moved into the Jack Benny berth last summer, will get another lease on the jester's spot this summer.

AFTER THREE YEARS of lathering the klyocycles with Hollywood gossip for a soap sponsor, Jimmy Fidler will be washed up April 23. He's heard tonight at 10:15 over CBS stations.

FRED ALLEN will spend approximately six weeks in Hollywood when he goes there for a picture with Jack Benny. Peter Van Steeden, the bandleader of the Allen show, goes along.

KAY KYSER, Andre Kostelanetz and Horace Heidt are among the bandleaders who contracted for feature pictures this year. Phil Spitalny and his all-girl "Hour of Charm" orchestra are another possibility. When they vacation in the summer, Hollywood is their destination.

AMONG THE BEST For Tuesday: 7:00—Johnny Presents, NBC-Red. 7:00—Big Town, Edward G. Robinson, CBS. 7:30—Horace Heidt, NBC-Red. 7:30—Information Please, NBC-Blue. 8:00—We the People, CBS. 8:30—Fibber McGee and Molly, NBC-Red. 9:00—Glenn Miller's orchestra, CBS. 9:00—Bob Hope show, NBC-Red. 10:00—Dance music, NBC/CBS, MBS.

Class B champion of the sixth district, McGregor rolls down upon the fieldhouse court Thursday to try one of the hardest jobs that will be offered—that of stopping the mighty Mohawks of Mason City in the opening round.

In a season that included 21 games up until the time of the district meet, McGregor comes to Iowa City with a record of 16 won and five lost, the defeats coming at the hands of Dubuque (twice), Greeley, Clermont and Campion, Wis. Seabiscuit's Owner Puts Fastest Horse On Retired List

LOS ANGELES, March 11 (AP)—Seabiscuit, greatest money winner of the American turf, went on the retirement list today.

Owner Charles S. Howard, who achieved a desire of several years standing to win the title for his seven-year-old thoroughbred, announced today that the famous son of Hardtack will go to stud in northern California this spring.

Seabiscuit's sensational comeback nine days ago, when he captured the Santa Anita $100,000 added handicap, raised his turf winnings to $437,730, breaking the mark of Sun Beau which, at $376,744, had stood for nine years.

Today's announcement settled the question of whether Howard would set the one-time plater for the half million dollar mark, pointing him for the $50,000 Hollywood gold cup handicap this summer here.

Howard said that he has been receiving about 100 letters a day asking when he was going to retire the game little horse, and so he decided today to give the answer. Seabiscuit's last race, and his greatest triumph of all, was his 89th, and was his 33rd win.

Ex-Hawk After White Sox Job

Bill Vogt, former Hawkeye outfielder and co-captain of last year's western conference championship team is now trying out for the White Sox outfield at their training camp in Pasadena, Cal.

Bill, who has been working in Chicago, took a three months leave of absence from his job and is trying to prove to the Sox on his own time that they can use him in their organization.

- Looks All Right
- Running Start
- Fielding Judgment

SARASOTA, Fla., March 11 (AP)—There's just one thing wrong with Dominic DiMaggio from a Boston Red Sox standpoint. He can't pitch, and to get down to the brutal, if ungrammatical, truth, pitching is the one thing the Red Sox have everything else but.

Otherwise, the No. 2 man of the DiMaggio clan appears to have everything it takes to be a No. 1 ball player, and the way he armloads them in from center field would indicate he might do a little pitching in a pinch, at that.

"Looks all right, doesn't he?" says the suave Moe Berg in that tight-lipped, confidential way of his. "Notice how he comes in for the ball."

"You really like him?" asks Skipper Joe Cronin, trying to hide the obvious fact he also is pretty well pleased with the new boy.

"He's smooth, and he packs enough power," says stocky, breaming Tom Yawkey, whose sense makes dollars and whose dollars make the Red Sox.

But School Claims New Wage Scale Is There To Stay

PITTSBURGH, March 11 (AP)—Freshman athletes at Pitt who complained about the support they were receiving were told in effect tonight to "take it or leave it."

The freshmen are paid 50 cents an hour for odd jobs on the campus under a new athletic code. Athletes who entered prior to 1939 are paid approximately 90 cents an hour for the same kind of work.

The Plebes, in an "ultimatum" released to newspapers, demanded the higher pay; cancellation of their debts to the school; payment of tuition and fees and compensation for injuries and illness.

Director of athletics James Hagan, who said only one freshman had come to him and he wanted to apologize for the appearance of his name on the "ultimatum," issued this counter-ultimatum:

"Those members of the freshman football squad who have been in the employ of the buildings and grounds department will continue on the same basis they have been for the past six months since their matriculation in September, 1939. So long as they continue to meet the standards of that department in regards to scholarship and work their status in no way will be affected by membership on any of our athletic teams."

Hagan's statement came on the heels of charges by the Pitt News, student newspaper, that investigation among the freshmen athletes disclosed "a badly jumbled and confused system of financial aid to Pitt athletes."

Ten of 17 athletes interviewed, the newspaper claimed, reported they had signed notes for tuition and fees on the understanding that signing was a "mere formality."

Running Start

So it would seem the San Francisco kid has a running start toward success in the majors, although he wasn't running much today. His speed got him into a slight difficulty in his debut against the Reds yesterday.

He thought it would be a good idea to score from second on a short line drive single to right, and he overtook John Peacock at the plate. Peacock had delayed, waiting to see if the ball would be caught, and the result was the off picture of two men sliding into home at once. Dominic went one way, his specs another, and his right ankle still another. He wound up with a strained tendon.

Dominic is a sample bottle of his famed brother, Joe. He's much shorter, but has the same general build and actions. He has the same dead panned expression on the field, with his glasses giving him an owlish stolid look. He spreads his feet wide at the plate, and swings flat-footed, again like Joe.

He runs with a sort of melancholy loping which leaves the impression he's in no particular hurry, but you suddenly realize he's getting to his objective much faster than some churning-legged dynamo who seems to be going with the wind.

His fielding judgment so far has been excellent. He has a good eye for balls and strikes, and when he connects right he gives the ball a ride, although his size would keep him from matching the sheer power of Joe.

He led the coast league last year with 164 runs and 366 total bases. He hit .360, and Moe Berg says: "If he hits .280 for us he'll be okay."

Which is giving the lad plenty of leeway, as anyone hitting .360

State Tournament Begins Thursday

Iowa City began final preparations yesterday for the cage classic of the state, the Iowa high school basketball tournament, which will begin Thursday morning at the fieldhouse in the clash between Ames' fourth district class A champs and Albert City, class A representative from the state's far corner.

Eight games are scheduled for the tourney's opening day and first round, which will slice the number of contenders to half in three sessions. It's a big card, with one game, possibly, to be called a feature battle on the basis of pre-tourney dope.

In the tourney's second battle Creston's defending champs, winners of the second district class A title, face Centerville, conqueror of the Panthers during the regular season. In another game that will draw more than a passing interest, Mason City swings into action against McGregor's class B titlists from the sixth district. Judge Grimsley's mighty Mohawks, semifinalists of last year, bring to Iowa City the season's most imposing record—they are undefeated this year and are rated as the team that might most easily topple Creston's crown.

Five Stations To Air Games

Five radio versions of the state high school basketball tournament will go over the air Thursday, Friday and Saturday, according to Charles Gailher, university athletics business manager.

Arrangements for broadcasting have already been made at the fieldhouse by station WSUI, Iowa City; station WOL, Ames; Central Broadcasting company; station KFJB, Marshalltown; and station KGLQ, Mason City.

Pressbox Pickups
By OSCAR HARGRAVE

Comes the report that, sad as it may seem it is true, high school teams will play football at Stagg field next fall—they'll work where Walter Eckersall and Jay Berwanger once trod toward all-American fame.

While not trying to say that all that is new is evil, I still would hate to see Iowa stadium, a place newer and less tradition wrapped than Stagg field, turned over to the sandlots. It's just the same feeling as pasting a picture on the wall with the remains of old Dobbin.

We also hear that the Yanks walloped the Cincinnati Reds in an exhibition game yesterday, which is certainly taking up the cudgel from where they laid it down last fall. And, the rumor is that Ernie Lombardi, who sat out the act where the Yanks scored their winning runs, had managed to stand up already.

From the conversations between Coach Eddie Anderson and Hawkeye gridgers comes the tale of a quarterback who called the wrong play.

Anderson was giving the freshman signal caller a little test on calling them. He asked, with answers expected quickly, how much were two and two, four and four, eight and eight, and so on down the line. Coming up into the hundreds, Anderson pulled a change of pace and asked, "Is Mickey Mouse a dog or cat?"

"A cat," said the freshman, with an air of assurance.

First of the high school teams to arrive in Iowa City before the state tournament will be Muscatine. Coach Bobby Kinman's Muskies will practice here today, but will return home afterwards, coming back in time to meet Sergeant Bluff Thursday.

Most of the other teams plan to be here tomorrow and get in a bit of work before the start of hostilities. This is especially important to teams that are used to smaller floors than the Hawkeye court.

And, the experts still pick Mason City as the team to beat, not suggesting any team that is apt to do the trick. However, there are still four games to go, which means the Mohawks can't have any weak moments as would be easily possible.

Pitt Lays Down Law to Frosh

Athletes Ask For More Pay

PITTSBURGH, March 11 (AP)—Freshman athletes at Pitt who complained about the support they were receiving were told in effect tonight to "take it or leave it."

A's Nick Angels In Exhibition

ANAHEIM, Cal., March 11 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics won their seventh exhibition game in eight starts today coming from behind an 8 to 1 score to beat Los Angeles of the Pacific coast league, 14 to 13.

The A's bunched most of their 17 hits in the third and fifth innings when they scored five and seven runs, respectively. Los Angeles piled up its early lead off Buck Ross, then was stopped by Elton "Chief" Hogsett who replaced Ross in the fourth. A strong wind made many fly balls fall for hits.

Before the game the A's second baseman, Benny McCoy, was hit in the adam's apple, but not seriously hurt.

Dom DiMaggio's Ankle Heals

SARASOTA, Fla., March 11 (AP)—The overnight swelling of Dom DiMaggio's sprained ankle was regarded as an encouraging sign today by trainer Win Green of the Red Sox.

"I was glad to see it go up," Green said, "but I fear he will be out of action for at least a week."

Allen Signs Cleveland Pact

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Pitcher Johnny Allen came to terms today with the Cleveland Indians, reducing the unsigned Tribesmen to two.

Allen, an uncertain factor because he won only nine games last season after an arm operation, signed a straight one-year contract, terms unannounced. The club had offered him a bonus arrangement to replace his previous $19,000-a-year salary.

Players Report To Dodgers

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Although first baseman Dolf Camilli failed to reach an agreement with president Larry MacPhail, the Brooklyn Dodgers got two more players on the active list today and expect manager Leo Durocher to return to action soon.

Upper D Trims Delta Upsilon

The Delta Upsilon class B team was eliminated from the championship round in the intramural basketball tournament as a result of its defeat at the hands of Upper D, Quadrangle champion, by a 35-18 score.

Upper D jumped into a 13-8 lead at the end of the first period, increased it to 24-14 at the conclusion of the second stanza and forged ahead to win, 35-18, in the concluding period.

Wilson was forced to go the limit of three games to capture the volleyball match with Mansie. Wilson downed Mansie by a 15-1 score in the first game but was the victim of a 15-10 score in the second game. But Wilson finally came back and won the third game by a 15-3 score.

Jefferson trounced Whelstone in the cooperative league by taking two consecutive games. Jefferson won the first game 15-4 and took the second game by a 15-7 score.

Kellogg won the first game over Grover 15-7 but was stopped to lose the next two. Grover came back in the second game to defeat the first game winners 15-11, and surprised the opposing team by winning the final game 15-7.

Texans Star In Cage Meet

East Texas C. C. Catches Fans' Fancy At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 11 (AP) Basketball teams from Texas, Missouri, Minnesota and Kansas triumphed in opening games of the third annual national intercollegiate basketball today.

East Texas State college of commerce caught the fancy of the afternoon spectators with a 49 to 39 win over Ripon, Wis., college. The Texans' tall center, Robert Carpenter, equalled his own record for high scoring pivots with 23 points.

Tarkio, Mo., college downed Alfred Holbrook college of Manchester, Ohio, 54 to 37; Hamline university of St. Paul spilled Pacific university, Forest Grove, Ore., 47 to 26; and Kansas State Teachers of Pittsburg, trimmed St. Joseph of Collegeville, Ind., 47 to 26.

The Hoosiers, definitely off shooting form, couldn't battle the taller Kansans and trailed at the half, 21 to 12.

Neal Mosser, limber-armed marksman for the Hoosiers, poured in 14 points.

Southeastern State college of Durant, Okla., eliminated Louisiana State Normal of Natchitoches, La., 33 to 27. Scoring and good play was at a minimum during the first half which ended with the Oklahomans ahead, 12 to 11.

Jack Briley, the 6 foot, 10 inch center for the losers, got six points—four from the free throw line.

Sooners Nip Missouri

WICHITA, Kas. (AP)—Oklahoma's Sooners checked a late rally by the Missouri Tigers last night, and 6-foot 6-inch Ford at center scored 9 points in a row to start a march to a 52-41 victory in the Big Six playoffs. Oklahoma will meet Kansas tonight, the winner to represent the conference in NCAA district competition against the Oklahoma Aggies, Missouri Valley title holder, at Oklahoma City Saturday night.

Trackmen Card Seven Contests

An outdoor schedule of seven meets has been drawn for the University of Iowa's track and field team, but only one of the contests will occur at Iowa City.  May 4—Minnesota at Minneapolis
 May 11—Northwestern at Evanston
 May 18—Wisconsin at Iowa City

Baseball Team Leaves Friday For Southern Training Trip

Southwestern Institute First Foe of Vogelmen; Play Six Games in South

No week end intercollegiate events are on the University of Iowa's sports schedule for the first time in many weeks but the baseball team leaves for the south for its card of six games in Louisiana.

And while the ball team is opening its 28-game schedule at Lafayette, La. against Southwestern Louisiana Institute next Monday, the swimmers will be seeking their fifth win in six Big Ten dual meets this season. Northwestern is the foe at Iowa City.

Eighteen athletes will be picked by Coach Otto Vogel for the southern trip. Three games will be played with Southwestern and three with Louisiana Tech at Ruston. All except two occur during the university's Easter recess.

Hawkeye Highlights

From second in football to tenth in indoor track, that's the range of places in the Big Ten won by University of Iowa athletic teams since last fall. Swimmers were fourth, gymnasts also were fourth (in a 4-team field), wrestlers sixth, basketball, eighth.

Three Hawkeyes wrestled for Big Ten titles in the final bout, but all lost. Billy Sherman, however, won second place but Loy Julius, 128; and Paul Whitmore, 175, lost their bouts for runner-up honors.

State university wrestlers may compete in the National A. A. U. championships at Ames April 5 and 6, and possibly the National Collegiate title meet at Champaign, Ill., March 29-30.

Station WSUI of the university will broadcast every minute of every game of the state boys' basketball tournament. The Iowa Band Presents Superior Concert Performance

By LOREN HICKERSON Daily Iowan Managing Editor

That scattering of individuals who left Iowa Union lounge at the intermission of Sunday night's concert by the Iowa band, thinking it was the end of the program, should be disappointed. They heard only half of a performance that may lay claim to being the band's best in a long, long time.

Prof. Charles B. Richter, just now on his third year as director of bands, has built the concert unit, no less than his marching aggregation, to a high point of efficiency in combined technique and showmanship, and he's still working.

The Iowa band displayed marked ability Sunday night to play well, to play together and to produce impressive and wholly satisfying effects through a wide range of predominately modern music and the soloists distinguished themselves.

The program opened with Karl King's salute to the university, "Hawkeye Glory," which certainly is worthy of wider presentation than it's had to date. A typical King march, it's a great number.

Next the band presented the Bach-Cailliet prelude and fugue in G minor and the Massenet-Safranek overture "Phedre" to lend backbone to the evening and to demonstrate the musicianship of its members.

Such numbers as the Begon "Prelude" were much in evidence, with their quiet tonal beauty, the predominance of reed over brass. Such a number as the Elgar-Hibbert "Sabbath Morning at Sea."

DeRubert's "Niobe" tone poem is a "director's" number — one which depends upon the technical excellence of its performance rather than an inherent beauty of theme for its effect. The band performed it exceptionally well.

Charles Beckman, A2 of Iowa City, with Clarke's "The Debutants," was the cornet soloist of the evening. Mr. Clarke, like other eminent composers of cornet solos, gets a bit difficult through emphasis on swiftly-tongued passages, but Beckman's technique and tonal quality were excellent. Nobody questions the difficulty of handling the cornet as a solo instrument, except perhaps Mr. Clarke et al.

The allegro movement from Ernest Williams' "Symphony in C Minor," an increasingly popular number, was adequately performed, and the first half of the program ended with a Winter arrangement of Strauss' inimitable "Perpetual Motion" to demonstrate the ability of Professor Richter's followers of the piccolo, flute and other reeds.

R. Vaughan Williams' clever march, "Seventeen Come Sunday," opened the second portion of the program, to be followed with three movements from Holst's first suite in E flat. The andante and variations from "La Source" ballet by Delibes were performed with alacrity and finesse.

If anyone had been lulled to sleep by Curzon's "Simonetta" serenade with its delicate themes, they awoke with a start when the band launched into Bennett's "Rhapsody in Rumba," and sat listening in awe as the Iowa band swung into in the pleasing tempos of the Latin. Soloists on oboe, flute, bassoon, trombone and trumpet took the lead, and the whole band took a bow over the striking performance.

Perhaps the most adequately performed number on the program was the last, the band doing Siegfried's Rhine journey from "Gottterdammerung" in a manner which might well have pleased Wagner himself. The Wagner was the high spot of the program. The band brought the concert impressively to a close with a full vocal arrangement of the university's "Old Gold" and the band's playing of the national anthem.

The band this week will travel some 600 miles to present 16 concerts through northeastern and central Iowa. After Sunday's performance, there can be little doubt that the Hawkeye concert band will be a credit to its university.

Sons Always Want Sports Clothes

This Season Slacks of Every Color, Pattern, Style Available

Father and mother stock their son up every fall with several suits and then say, "My, doesn't our son go in style!"

Father and mother are wrong in this particular case for son finds out when he gets to school that he doesn't want suits—he wants sports clothes. He also finds out that he doesn't have to worry about ever being dressed in wrong fashion if he is dressed in sport clothes.

Undoubtedly, sport clothes are by far the most popular attire of the college man. He finds their usefulness in nearly every occasion when he wants to look appropriate.

New Clothes
With spring in the air—son decides that he had better start sporting some new clothes. What does he do? He goes straight to the men's stores. What does he look for? The newest in spring sport coats and slacks.

And when he starts looking for that new coat and slacks, he is going to be amazed at all of the choices from which he can pick. He'll find every variety in color, pattern and style.

As for style, the best these days is the three-button, plain back sport coat. Style will show you folds in the sides to make the garment more form-fitting. Style will tell you that you wear the two top buttons closed or else just the top button.

Green Introduced
Last year, green was introduced in clothing and it hit such a place of popularity that nearly every thing one wore had to be in green. Green sport coats, green slacks, green shoes—green everything. And this year, it has not changed much. Green, in varying shades is shown in nearly every wearing apparel. Green, however, has lost some of its popularity and is being replaced by blue.

Blue has been introduced, however, with much less fervor than green was. It is being shown considerably less and therefore is making a much better impression upon the buying public. When a solid blue sport coat was shown last year, most buyers nodded with approval but didn't think they had better go that far in their choice of coat.

This year, the buyer can go to any extreme and feel perfectly certain that he is in the best of style. Solid blue coats are an excellent choice for the spring wardrobe.

Tweeds are still as popular as ever and are shown just as much as ever before. Well-speckled with many colors, they are especially handy articles for they can be mixed with nearly every type of color the man chooses for pants. They are neat and do not lose their appeal because of monotony of shade. They are shown prominently this spring and most college men who are of the more conservative type will buy and like them.

Checks and stripes in sport coats are on their way out! Having been overworked for many years, their buying public has finally decided that they are slightly tired of seeing the "same old thing." Colors are definitely coming out this year in sport coats. You'll find blues, greens, browns, maroons and even bright reds shown this year. One of the most attractive shades for spring is the shade of blended orange and brown. This mixed with a bright tie and light tan sport slacks is one of the best combinations shown.

The trend this year is to keep all of your clothes plain. Fanciness in design is not wanted and usually not requested. Therefore, the wisest choice is to keep the coat plain. It also mixes better with various shades of slacks if it is not too decorative.

When A Young Man's Fancy—

... turns to thoughts of a new spring outfit, his fondest dreams could be no better looking than that worn by Don Hersch, A2 of Cedar Rapids. With his green slacks, he is wearing a green pull-over sweater and a casual light tan sports jacket. His outfit is from Ewers' Men's Store.

Spring Porkie For J. College

New Pork Pie Hats Feature Dusty Colors, Contrasting Bands

One popular advertising slogan would have you believe that a man should not be seen without a hat! That depends purely upon whether you like a hat or whether you know what to choose in a hat. The campus man would have you believe that a hat is a necessary item at any time of day or night. He also would insist that the best choice for a hat is a "pork pie" hat. This traditional campus hat is by far the choice on the American campus scene.

What makes the "pork pie" so popular is pretty nearly determined by the "Joe College" appearance it gives the wearer. And though most men will not admit it, that appearance is what they want when they are in college. It properly crowns the combination of saddle shoes, short coat and hat. It is part of the college man's eternal triangle of campus attire.

Felt "Pork Pies"
In past years the "pork pie" has been made of felt. This year, an innovation was made when one manufacturer introduced a corduroy "porkie." This apparently caught the college man's fancy for all over the campus these days, you may see the corduroy hat.

For colors, tans, browns, blues, greens are shown. At first they were of solid colors, that is the band was the same color as the rest of the hat. Newer styles show that band of a different but matching color. For instance a dark brown hat is shown with a deep shade of green. This change in band added a lot to the hats and will make them much more popular.

Wider Brims
Generally speaking hats are being shown these days with wider brims. And with the idea of spring in mind, they are shown in lighter, softer shades of blue, green, tan and others. It would be best this year to choose tan or a "dust" shade for they go very well with any color combination the man might choose.

As for folds in the hats, they, too, have changed. This applies specifically to "pork pies." Instead of the round fold, this year the fold goes to a point in the front and is more or less "rain-drop" shaped.

A big question today is—will college men ever choose the straw hat for campus wear? It is highly doubtful if he will for it is a hat for the more mature individual. His father and his father's father did when they went to college—but will this generation follow in their footsteps?

New Purse May Replace Pockets In Coed's Wardrobe

The "Diplomat's Portfolio" has come forth to challenge the tendency of the college girl to stuff things in her pocket instead of carrying in this new handbag without any loss of beauty.

It is large and yet not cumbersome with dressmaker treatment featured in shirtings and tuckings. Although patent leather is top ranking, soft leathers, felt, gabardines and combinations will not lack for following.

Woven straws and fabrics will aid in making this year's handbag both useful and attractive.

Born One Hundred Years Too Late??

Women in their quest for wasp waists have nothing on the men of an earlier day, it seems. In the 1820's in France men wore corsets in an endeavor to make their waists as small as possible.

Style Round-Up Indicates Plain Colors Popular In Man's Spring Wardrobe

A general round-up of the style for spring for men brings out one fact that cannot be overlooked—men's clothing is very plain. This has held true in nearly every apparel the men will wear.

In sports coats, plain colors hold sway. In slacks, you hold to the simple motif and in every detail, even to the tie you select, you should try to keep it plain.

This idea has replaced the worn-out idea of extra stripes here and extra pleats there. Men do not want fanciness in design but prefer to express their individuality in the colors they choose. The day has passed when men cannot dress individually and with good taste. No longer does the man feel that he can only wear a pair of pants and a coat. He wears the pants and coat, certainly, but he wears them with more color.

A man has grown to the stage where he is more particular in the clothes he wears. To meet this demand of men, manufacturers of men's clothing have brought out this spring everything that the man can ask for in way of color and design.

Ties, socks and shirts can be classed as accessories to a man's attire, however, he chooses these with the greatest of care. It is in this respect that a man may show all of his individuality. In his selection he attempts to keep harmony between the three. He will for instance, choose a blue tie to match his blue socks. Corresponding colors are especially appropriate this spring because of the tendency towards harmony throughout the complete outfit.

In the selection of ties, the conservative type of buyer has his Utopia. Ties are definitely steering away from "loud" plaids and stripes. They are shown in softer shades of blues, yellows, browns and tans. This matches into the scheme of keeping things conservative in design this year.

All in all, if you would keep appropriate this spring, you would keep to plain clothes—they blend with everything and are very economical.

No Prediction Fashions Inconsistent Says Ardeaux

"The only consistent thing about women's clothing is its inconsistency," said Georges Ardeaux, New York designer, when asked recently to predict the fashions of the future.

Women's tastes are highly susceptible to sales pressure, he added. In the past few years, fish nets, dog collars and a variety of other strange styles have appeared on the fashion horizon.

Should the truck farmer decide to stage a sales drive, we would, in all likelihood, see fresh tomato necklaces and cucumber collars.

In certain parts of the Philippine islands a separate stove is used to cook each dish. Each stove consists of a clay bowl which holds the charcoal fire above which the pot of food rests.

Easters A-Plenty! Here's Your Guide Of Holiday Dates For Next 25 Years

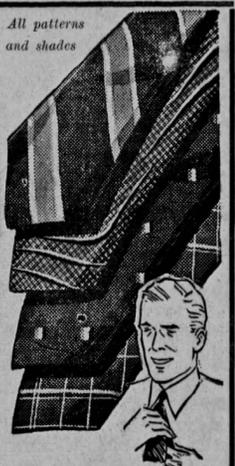

Do you like to plan your Easter vacations early? If so, here is an opportunity to figure them out for 25 years in advance. Here's a list of the dates of Easter up until 1965.

The whole question of when to have Easter began back in the second century when the medieval scholars, after much haranguing, decided that Easter Day should be on the first Sunday after the full moon occurring after March 21. If the full moon were to occur on Sunday, then the following Sunday should be Easter.

Their conclusion, however, was reached in accordance with the old ecclesiastical compilation rather than in accordance with the science of modern astronomy. According to the latter, you can plan to have your Easter outfit ready upon these dates.

'Gone With the Wind' Has Influence On Jewelry for Men This Easter

Although men do not prefer to call studs, watch chains and watches "jewelry," that is precisely what it should be called for now more than in recent years, men are becoming aware of the right thing to wear at various occasions.

Men wear jewelry for sport clothes, evening clothes and nearly every other affair these days. The greatest single influence on jewelry has come from the same place that nearly every other new idea has come this year—the movie, "Gone With the Wind."

In the picture, Clark Gable, well-outfitted by one of Hollywood's best designers, introduced heavy, gold chains. As this motif also worked in with the timeliness of the picture, it was a definite case of returning to the old to acquire the "new." Having heavy jewelry is not, therefore, a new creation for men's clothing. It is, however, the best choice that the college man can make for his coming spring outfit.

Gold should be the color for all men's jewelry worn during the daytime. It blends well with any colors and its luster adds to the appearance.

Now that the darker type of formal jewelry will be replaced by spring formal attire, it is necessary to prepare to wear a new color for strictly formal events. Here is where maroon studs enter the scene. When mess jackets are worn this spring, maroon accessories are the newest, if not the most appropriate to wear. This added color completes the well-dressed man's attire. White is, as always, an excellent choice for spring dances.

"Believe-it-or-not," but the inevitable has happened this year. Again agreeing with the "G.W.T.W." idea, men may now proudly place across their chest a chain on their vest. That, however, is not all to the plan for this year, the end of the chain contains a locket in which the "light of your life" may place her picture. The success of such an idea, however, can not yet be determined. It is shown—men can make of it what they will!

Men's Topcoats To Feature Many Novel Colors, Styles This Spring

Topcoats are one of the handiest additions to any man's wardrobe. He buys them this year with more confidence in being pleased than ever before because the manufacturers have placed many colors and styles on the market.

Raglan shoulders and beltless are the favorite style requirements. ago and the newer styles bring ago and the newer styles bring them right back and the college man is perfectly satisfied.

The gold-colored coat is again the highlight for the campus man. Shown in different shades of gold, sometimes even to tan, the coat is by far the easiest shade with any other clothes. It gives the wearer the campus "spirit" and completes the perfect selection of clothes.

Gold, however, is not the only good color shown this year. The trend towards blue comes out very well in topcoats. A "dusty" shade of blue is the newest in any color idea. It tends to the conservative side and will, therefore, be quite popular with buyers.

Greens, tans, and browns are shown in solid colors and are quite popular. For spring, the man should choose his coat with the season and should avoid any dark colors.

Tweeds are shown and with a good purpose. They are, like the gold coat, very easy to match with any other wearing apparel. They come in green and blues, however, gray, well-dotted with other colors, is the best to buy. Tweeds are very neat and are therefore handy in the new spring selections.

In this general line, and because spring brings a certain amount of rain with it, it is appropriate to mention raincoats. Water repellent materials are shown in topcoats and are very collegiate looking and practical. They may be worn as either the raincoat or light topcoat. They are nearly always shown in light tan. One of the prime requirements for this garment also is that it be finger-tip length. Gaining more popularity every year, the slouch-type of raincoat will replace many a topcoat this year for the campus buyer.

Play Suits And Slacks Come With Spring

Outings at Lake Macbride and "the quarries" are as much a part of spring as your new hat! That is why we're interested in slacks and play suits that are being shown.

Pastel shades are outstanding and there is less of the navy blue and brown this year. Slacks are made with full legs and a crease that is stitched-in to save pressing. Denim, cotton-cloth, spun rayon and heavy linen with a silk thread to resist wrinkles are the favorite materials.

Blouses for slacks have long sleeves and a convertible neckline that may be worn up or down.

Stripes and polk-a-dots are inevitable in the top to your slacks. Something different in slack suits comes with the regular suit jackets that are being worn with them. Some of the jackets are very tailored while others are full and "box-like." A separate shirt is worn with these suits.

Little-boy play suits, with matching shirt and shorts, have novelty button trimming this year.

Purses for Spring

A pocketbook that you'll want to have for spring is a huge pastel colored patent leather one that comes in a puckered, quilted style. You can have it in a variety of shades to match your spring accessories.

University Women Will Don New Outfits When They Join the Easter Parade

Coeds Choose Coats, Suits For Spring

Red, Blue Popular In Feminine Wardrobes, Campus Survey Reveals

By MARY KATHERINE HURN
Daily Iowan Assistant Society Editor

When the Easter Parade is forming, university women will be scattered far and wide to their respective homes so in order that we may know just how they will appear in the Parade, here is a preview of what is to come.

A red and white print silk dress with tailored top, short sleeves and a flared skirt will be worn under a black fitted coat of wool silk by Jane Arnold, A3 of Manchester, Delta Gamma. The coat is buttoned up the front with white pearl buttons and has white stitching on the buttonholes and pockets. The white lingerie collar of the dress will be worn outside on the coat. Black patent leather pumps and matching handbag and white gloves will serve as accessories to Miss Arnold's costume. Her hat will be a red straw sailor type.

Elizabeth Emmons, A4 of Clinton, Delta Delta Delta, will join the Parade in a three-piece suit of brown and white tweed. Two huge pockets are seen on the topcoat which has lapels and a collar. The inner cardigan jacket is fitted and buttoned to the throat. Her skirt is gored and the tailored blouse is in one of the newest shades, "hot pink." The pink breton and gloves worn by Miss Emmons match her blouse, and the outfit is completed with brown patent leather pumps and a large brown leather purse.

Frances Thornton
Currier hall will be represented by Frances Thornton, A1 of Ankeny, in a suit of black herringbone wool. The single breasted dressmaker jacket is fitted and the eight gores give fullness to the skirt. Miss Thornton will wear the collar of her rose silk crepe blouse outside of the jacket. A rose felt hat with wide brim and a black feather, rose gloves and a black patent leather handbag will complete her costume.

In a black tailored suit with white pin-stripe, Lois Lippold, A3 of Wauwatosa, Wis., Chi Omega, will be dressed for Easter. The long, fitted topcoat is double-breasted and the inner coat is single-breasted. Tucked pleats in front will be the only decoration on her red silk tailored blouse. Miss Lippold will wear black patent leather pumps, black gloves and carry a black purse with a bit of red trimming.

Betty Thomas, A2 of Monticello, Pi Beta Phi, will wear a coat and dress combination. The navy blue reefer coat has a white pin-stripe, is double-breasted and fitted. She will wear a white scarf at her throat and carry a little white handkerchief in her upper left pocket. Her dress is high-waisted, with a navy blue flared skirt and pink silk top. The sleeves are long and very full with a wide, snug cuff at the bottom. Blue, pink and white embroidery trims the neck, cuffs and back of the blouse, which is gathered in front. Miss Thomas will wear a blue breton, blue suede shoes and purse and blue gloves with white stitching.

Blue Again
Blue is seen again on Sylvia Halpern, A1 of Rock Island, Ill., Sigma Delta Tau. Her rose silk crepe dress is trimmed with a wide belt of navy blue suede. The coat worn by Miss Halpern is a fitted navy blue model with a wide belt and white ascot tie. Navy blue pumps of combination gabardine and kid gloves will match the ascot tie.

A dusty pink silk dress with long, full sleeves that tie at the wrist will be worn by Betty Jane DeGroot, A2 of Humboldt, Gamma Phi Beta. The princess style dress has rectangular white pearl buttons all the way down the front. Her loose black coat has full sleeves and huge pockets. Dusty pink gloves and a black purse will serve as accessories, as will a little "sweetheart hat" which is decorated with small pink flowers and has black jersey bands that tie in back.

Mary Callahan, A1 of Osceola, Eastlawn, will come forth in an aqua silk dress worn under a beige box coat. Her "schoolgirl hat" will be black as will her gloves. Purse and shoes worn by Miss Callahan will be of black patent leather.

White Lingerie Blouse
A white lingerie blouse will be worn with the black and white tweed suit of Marian Capwell, A4 of Iowa Falls, Kappa Alpha Theta. The jacket of the suit is buttoned up cardigan-style. She will wear a plain felt snap-brim hat. The hat will be black, matching her other accessories.

A flush pink lace blouse will be ruffled in the best of feminine fashion as it is worn by Dorothy Yeager, A4 of Ft. Madison, Phi Mu. Pink gloves and handbag of quilted leather match the blouse which is worn with a powder blue two-piece suit. The coat

Suit Yourself in Tweeds

Tweeds can be American! They're casual and comfortable and smart, and now they can be patriotic. The suit sketched above from an actual model in a local shop is American tweed, made in our own country for our own college women. Gray-rose, pale green and pink with full skirt, short sleeves and tailored top. The white lace collar of the dress is worn outside of the coat. The breton hat worn by Miss Kelley is dusty pink and matches her purse. Her gloves are navy blue with white stitching as are her suede, "Dutch-toed" shoes.

of Miss Yeager's suit is three-quarter length with large patch pockets, and the skirt is gored. A powder blue ribbon trims her blue "scatter-brain hat" and her shoes are of blue suede.

Arlene Hanson, A2 of Britt, Coast house, will greet spring weather in a navy blue fitted dressmaker suit with a slightly flared skirt. Her white sheer blouse is matched by the little white ribbon on her navy blue "sweetheart hat." Miss Hanson's pumps, kid gloves and purse are all of navy blue.

Dusty Pink Silk
Dusty pink appears again in a silk dress with full skirt and sleeves and huge pockets worn by Betty Coffin, A3 of Farmington, Alpha Xi Delta. Her black swaggar coat is topped by a black hat which is trimmed with dusty pink flowers. Glass heels, the latest fashion in shoes, are seen on the black patent-leather pumps which match her patent-leather purse. Black suede gloves complete her costume.

Red, white and blue serve as the patriotic trimming for the blue sailor hat worn by Beth Kensing, A4 of Cedar Rapids, Clinton Place. Her blue pin-striped dressmaker suit has a slightly flared skirt and is worn with a white chiffon blouse. Blue gabardine shoes match the hat as do the red gloves and red purse.

A navy blue full length coat of sheer wool, fitted and with raglan sleeves will be seen on Wilma Kelley, A3 of Davenport, Alpha Chi Omega. The large pockets of the coat are "saddle-stitched" around the outside with white angora. Under her coat, Miss Kelley will wear a printed silk dress of dusty Shirley Lamb, J4 of Little Falls, Minn., Alpha Delta Pi, is wearing a tailored suit this spring, the tweed skirt of which has a deep kick-pleat both in front and in back. The fitted jacket is delphinium blue and has reverse of tweed which matches the skirt. Tweed-covered buttons are also seen on the jacket. Miss Lamb will wear a maize-colored angora sweater with this suit, blue spectator pumps, blue gloves and blue handbag.

A powder blue dress of light weight wool with a belted reangote of soft brown wool will be worn by Fern Newcomer, A3 of Iowa City, Zeta Tau Alpha. Reverse of the redingote matches the dress, as does her light blue suede hat. Brown gloves, snake-skin purse and shoes will serve as accessories for Miss Newcomer's costume.

Feel Like Spring In a Flowery Hat

If you're the type that can wear a frivolous, frothy, flowery hat, then this is the season for you. You'll find all the Iowa City hat shops showing as gay a collection of flora as you'll find in any of the florist shops. So if you're feeling like spring, why not take time out today and go down and get yourself a flower hat for spring?

These Reds for Spring

Fingernail Polishes Will Take Over In Every Conceivable Shade

By JESSIE LOU KING
Gay red tulips in a March wind, the flash of a cardinal among budding twigs; these are the reds of spring. With red the coming color of 1940, the spring's shades may be seen on either hand—literally. For fingernail polishes this year have taken over every conceivable bright red in the iris.

Morning, noon and night they may be worn, and Morning, Noon and Night are among the best bets for those times of day. They offer three deepening degrees of clear red, not the fuchsia tones of last year but the "red" of this. Navy red is another of those that seem to call for a navy blue suit or a reefer coat. Styled to go with navy, black, the golds, the powder blues, especially dawn blue, the gold-greens or beige are Gadabout and Hijinks, which have a slightly rose cast.

Red Dice
Entirely without yellow or blue tints are Bravo, Red Dice, Amoa Red and Pink Lemonade. Bravo, just as exciting as its name, is at its best in a patriotic combination of red, white and blue, while of us that our polish will stand the wear and tear of classes or cooking if such a base is applied before the polish. And too, the base protects the nails themselves from the heavy coat of paint.

And just a final hint to the future. Before the spring is over, you'll see many nails gleaming with an opalesque luster which is softer than the brightly shining hardness of other polishes. So remember these opalines for a coming and really becoming trend.

"Gadgets" in the jewelry line aren't very new. In the period immediately after the French revolution miniature guillottes worn as earrings became a fad.

No Trimmings Easter Fashions Will Be Simple

Gloves to match your Easter bonnet will be very simple this year. Well constructed and definite in color... even the pastels are a deeper shade... the gloves are not trimmed too much.

Stitching is the most important trim. Whipped stitching is exceptionally smart; and cording stitch makes an interesting back for an otherwise plain slip-on glove.

Fabrics are best-sellers but do-skein in all the colors of spring will be worn for a dressier occasion.

Wrists on gloves, no matter what their length, seem to be more snug than usual but the wider wrist can never be replaced for those "easy on-easy off" wearers.

Spring Perfumes Have Flower Scent

Perfume is another one of mid-lady's accessories that needs to be changed come spring. And this spring the change will be for the better, if you select one of the new flower bouquet scents that a well known cosmetician has put on the market. It comes in cologne and perfume and in such spring-like scents as apple-blossom and red clover.

Easter Recalls Many Superstitions

Holiday Really Didn't Evolve From a Desire for New Suit!

As far back as we can remember, we have felt a certain joyous expectancy about Easter. It is often considered the most important and most joyful of all festivals of the Christian year and was known of old as the "happiest of days," "Sunday of Joy" and other such descriptive names.

The name "Easter" was derived from "Eostre," an ancient Teutonic goddess of the 17th century. She was the personification of spring, of the rising sun, of all things new, and to her was dedicated the month corresponding to our April, the Eastur-month, as it was called then.

Bede, the historian, seems to have been the originator of this tale which, though very romantic, is not true and the goddess evidently existed nowhere but in the brain of the venerable Bede. The Eastur-month did exist, however, and was named for the old heathen feast of Eostur, so-called because the spring sun had its new birth in the east. Practically all of the many customs and superstitions connected with Easter have been derived from the festival as it was celebrated in the old Teutonic forest.

The old wide-spread superstition was that the sun participated in the general happiness of day by dancing in the heavens.

The problem was solemnly discussed and debated by the old scholars. It was only after presenting many irrefutable arguments that they could bring themselves to declare it untrue.

In Devonshire, people got up early on Easter Sunday, not only to see the dancing sun, but also to see a lamb and a flag in the center of its disk. In Scotland, the sun was even more active. It was believed to whirl around like a wheel and then give three leaps by way of expressing itself on Easter. Of course, such unusual feats were observed by watching the sun's reflection in a pond or pail of water where any movements upon the surface would serve to strengthen the illusion. Peasants lighted Easter fires on the tops of the mountains which blazed in celebration of the triumph of spring over winter.

Many things were omens of good and evil on Easter Sunday. For instance, to omit wearing new clothes upon that day was practically to tempt fate and no good could be expected to come of it. If an east wind was blowing that day, it was considered wise to draw water and wash in it to avoid ill effects from the east wind throughout the year.

The best of luck was sure to come to anyone who was so fortunate as to see a lamb upon first looking out of the window on Easter morning. This would be particularly lucky if the lamb had its head turned in the direction of the house. Of course, it was always considered lucky to meet a lamb, whatever the time of year, since the devil may take any form except that of a lamb or a dove.

But the oldest of all the customs which has survived through the years is that of having Easter eggs. The practice has been traced back through the theology and philosophy of the Egyptians, Persians, Greeks and Romans and still it is the significant thing about Easter to children everywhere. The egg is the symbol of the germinating fertility of spring and has been colored and decorated in various ways since the days of the heathens. It was used as a religious trophy, as an Easter food, for Easter games and for Easter gifts long before we took up hiding them about the house on Easter so that the little ones might find them and blame it on the "Easter bunny."

So you see, Easter didn't just evolve out of someone's desire for a new suit or because someone thought that it was a good time for university students to have a vacation... it is a festival of age and meaning.

Coats in the Easter Parade

There'll Be Color and Style A'Plenty For This Year's Fashion Era

Even before the days of Little Audrey and the jump from the second story window, "spring" coats were an important part of the Easter fashion horizon, and this year, what with Easter coming early, is no exception. At least that was our opinion after we saw the wide selections being shown in local shops.

For campus wear this spring, if you don't already own a camel's hair coat, you'll want to get a light weight tan fleece coat. The styles in these coats vary to suit your own particular figure. There are swaggers and classics, double-breasted and single-breasted models, and a hundred variations to fit—and flatter—your silhouette.

If you're looking for color you'll find some adorable pastel wools in youthful styles. Along color lines you'll find green, rose and blue being shown. And, best of all, these coats are trimmed with the same velvet collars that you liked so well this winter on dress coats. Only this spring the velvet is a rich chocolate brown shade.

Dressy coats are being shown, but they are on classic lines this year, and you'll find that the "dressiness" comes from the material. Black is, as in other years, the color. Materials include various sheer wools in crepe and novelty weaves. On these coats white pique is again adding that feminine touch that was so popular last spring.

Pockets are very important where spring coats are concerned. The creators of these are calling them panniers, knapsack, saddle-bag and patch pockets (and the saleslady will tell you the same.) But whatever you call 'em, you'll find them conveniently placed on all the sports coats.

Since Easter does come early this year, you'll need a coat to wear over your new suit or your new frock. So choose a crisp wool with pique trim, a sheer Botany made with that molded look or a soft sheer crepe coat with matching frock and you'll be able to step out in the Easter parade feeling on "top" of the world in your "topper."

One thing we like about March is that it is the only month during which all baseball teams look like potential champions.

Patriotism To Show Itself In Spring Clothes

American women are going patriotic in a big way in their color schemes this season. Waves of nationalism have spread over the fashion frontier to make red, white and blue the favorite color combination for spring.

With any one of the three for a basic color, distinctive effects may be achieved by using the other two for contrast. Navy blue, always a favorite for spring, wins the most votes for the basic costume.

Spring Introduces Six New Shades To Accent Milady's Skin

Now is the time to check up on your fashion notes. There are six new colors for spring: foam green, a soft blue green; blue haze, a pale sky blue; pink mist, a rose beige; scandal red, a bright clear military red; yippee yellow, a bright sunny yellow; and blue streak, a deep royal blue. Among these you can find just the colors which will accent your own skin tones.

To brighten your lips you should have on hand four colors of lipstick. These include a pure red, a blue red, a brown red, and an especially dramatic shade which only you can find through experimenting with all new shades. You want the one that will give you that different look and highlight your coloring when worn under electric lights or for evening formal glamour.

You should list among your fashion notes this spring that printed silk with a shaded third dimensional effect or one that has a feeling of motion in the design is very smart for that new spring dress. Long full sleeves, hooded dresses, big pockets and military accents are new features out of the ordinary this season. Grey, navy blue, red white and blue, and white outfits are very new because of the military influence this year.

Silhouettes follow two designers: Schiaparelli's subtly corseted one for evening and Molyneux's raised belt and straight skirt with melting hips.

The note that should be remembered is according to a fashion broadcast from Paris, new modesty in evening clothes is just the thing. This is to give you that demure chic which is so popular.

Topping your list should be the reminder that clothes are designed for you this spring—to bring out your best features and coloring. To be smart both in style and otherwise one should endeavor to find the right color, lines, and make-up for her own individual personality.

Build your wardrobe then on three things: color, style, and your personality.

Now Jewelry Is 'Tricky'

Ocean and Jungle Influences Appear In New Accessories

Accessories are no longer the chorus of the show—they are the star performers! You must have them for every costume and for every occasion. A big item in accessories this spring is trick jewelry.

Sea shells retain their popularity and small shells on acetate discs are held together with a braided silk cord. Light weight plastics make gay necklace and bracelet combinations and red, white and blue balls on white plastics are as patriotic as the flag.

"South of the Border" influence is seen in leather and wood combinations. Leather thongs are also braided through acetate rings in a novel style. Multi-colored strands of tiny beads add another South American note of style.

"Jungle Jewelry," a product of the Bahamas, consists of actual nuts, berries and seeds that were picked on the islands. Cork balls or rings of bamboo make light weight but very effective necklaces which are excellent for sports wear.

Lapel gadgets are very big this year, and gaining in importance also are pocket pieces like the fob of yesteryear.

Wear them now under your coat—and they'll be smarter than ever later without your coat! Lovely soft rayons that fit beautifully—they'll just "make" your spring wardrobe. Distinguished by fine workmanship and exquisite styling. Sizes 12 to 44. 6.90

Shoes are here to stay! It seems we'll always have them, and these are two of the cleverest that have reached Iowa City this spring. The party shoes have a strap which doesn't seem to help to hold them on, but they'd be lost without it. Rounded heels and squared toes give a cubical aspect to the saddle-stitched pumps, which may be seen in navy or gray. The bag can do double duty as a canister if you like; it's bright red, too! Cork-tipped cigarettes inspired the necklace to the left, only the entire cigarettes are cork, tipped with red and blue and yellow, all strung on a braided suede strap. Cork balls with colored butters dangle from the other braided cord.

Worn Daily! Slacks Will Feature Narrow Bottoms

Slacks, especially pleated slacks, are shown prominently this year for a good reason—they are worn every day, everywhere, for every occasion. They are one of the prime requisites in every man's collection of clothes because they can be very individual looking.

As has been mentioned, slacks should be pleated if they are to be worn by the college man. Also they should be cut short, at least an inch or half-inch above the shoe top.

Coming from an eastern influence, slacks are now being shown with the extra-narrow bottoms. This idea has not gained considerable momentum on the Iowa campus but it is bound to appear more in the future.

Some manufacturers have done the job for the buyer and put slacks and coats on the market in blending shades. They have mixed dark blues in the sport coats with light tan slacks. It is one of the best selections that could be made for it is somewhat militaristic in appearance.

Striped designs have given way to the plain shades in most of the spring slacks. They have chosen various shades of blues and greens to the best advantage of the buyer. The college man can choose nearly any shade that he requires.

'Gone With the Wind' Has Its Effect On Costume Gadgets

A gadget used to be a handy little mechanical jigger for lightening some task; now, to the fashion-conscious woman, it is a colorful little bit of costume jewelry for brightening her new spring outfit.

Necklaces, pins, bracelets, lapel ornaments—all are included in the brilliant display on the "gadget" counter. Their colors and styling represent a number of very definite fashion influences.

The "Gone With the Wind" influence has had its effect on jewelry as well as dress fashions. It is shown in the pastel colors—delicate shades of pink, blue, green, yellow and lavender. Feminine frills may be decorated with pins and necklaces in dainty flower patterns, or miniature reproductions of Scarlett O'Hara and Rhett Butler may adorn the lapel of a new spring suit.

In strong contrast to the old-fashioned loveliness of "Gone With the Wind" styles is the brilliant, almost garish, beauty of "South of the Border" jewelry. Its gaudy reds, greens, blues and yellows reflect the gaiety and sunshine of Old Mexico. Jewelry designers have allowed their imaginations full play in the choice of materials, using wood, cork, composition and even yarn. Yarn flowers, not so different from the products of our grade school days, are back as lapel ornaments.

With war clouds hanging over most of the rest of the world, a wave of nationalism has spread over the American fashion scene. Its influence is seen in the abundance of "patriotic" jewelry, patriotic because of its color scheme of red, white and blue.

Most of the pieces in this group are in two colors—red and white to be worn with the classic navy blue, or blue and white to be worn with red. They are also characterized by their over-size. Huge pins, necklaces with large dangling pendants, and heavy clanking bracelets will please the woman who likes her costume jewelry large.

A wide range of selection is offered, so that every woman's tastes may be satisfied. But the wise woman will remember that, for the most distinctive effects, the rule of "moderation in all things" applies to costume jewelry as much as to anything else.

Silk Jerseys 'Swell' For Spring Formals

Silk jersey which came into its own last spring for print date dresses, that hit new highs last winter in smart black, is now being featured in white for formals and it promises to be as popular in its new use as it was in its old. You'll find that local dress shops are showing this figure flattering material in long dresses that will be just the thing for spring formals.

Spring Suit—Plaid and Plain

The sun shines bright on Barbara Miller, A2 of Sioux City, as she steps forth in this two-piece spring costume. The fitted jacket is dusty pink and blue plaid with high lapels. Her dusty pink swing skirt is in contrast with her blue cashmere sweater which has a high crew neck. The sailor hat and gloves worn by Miss Miller are dusty pink and her shoes and purse are blue. This costume was purchased at Townner's.

You'll Want To Sport These

"Sittin' on the ol' top rail," is Miss Iowa of 1940, who is dressed for perfect comfort and comfortable perfection in a smartly-tailored slacks suit of wool alpaca. The outfit, which is blessed by an appeal to every girl who wanted to be a tomboy and probably to half spring's ladies of fashion as they come forth with hats trimmed in red, white and blue. It is the most popular trimming of all and a striking thing of beauty.

Wrap-Around Turbans are still a favorite in every color and of every material. They're easy to manage, they hold your hair in place and they're good-looking. Who could ask for anything more?

Have You Seen The New 'Swaydoe' Belt?

Have you seen the new "swaydoe" belts? They are a crushable cross between suede and doeskin about five inches wide and may be worn either on a dress or with a blouse and skirt.

All of the pastel shades of turquoise, coral, dusty pink, blue and green are available and, with a "swaydoe" purse to match, you may be able to give new zest to one of last year's dresses!

Some Name! Spring's Favorite Is 'Rowdy Dowdy'

"Rowdy-Dowdy" may be old slang but it's the new name of this spring's favorite sweater. Believe it or not, it out-cardigans the cardigan!

Almost finger-tip in length and with crinoline in the shoulders to give it shape, the sweater is very like a jacket. The two huge patch-pockets are bordered with grosgrain ribbon of the same color.

Aqua seems to be the color of the "Rowdy-Dowdy" but all pastel shades are available.

Here Are Headlines for Spring

New Styles Include Flowers, Veiling, Onion Skin For Hat Trimming Features

By MARY KATHERINE HURN Daily Iowan Assistant Society Editor

Sweet 'n Simple is the best way to describe the poke bonnet for spring. It is old and still it is new. With its very wide brim in front and perhaps a ribbon under the chin you are bound to be a success with either your father or your current boy friend.

Flower Power is seen in and on almost every hat this year. Whether it is a cluster of red, white and blue on a saucy breton or a dainty bit of white on an off-the-face straw, if it's flowers, it's new.

Calot-Conscious college girls are still convinced that the calot is the most casual and comfortable thing in the way of a hat. A few years ago we called them "dinks" but this year we find a bright feather stuck in the same bit of knit or suede and call it a "calot."

Salad - Bowl Bretons are still standout fashion news. You may have one in any of the pastel shades to match your suit or in navy blue that will match everything. Veiling galore is their decoration.

Onion-Skin is something new for your Easter bonnet. It has that sleek look of cellophane and is particularly good with patent leather accessories.

Straw Hats have always been one of the first signs of spring. Trimmed with currants or cherries, a dainty little straw is smart.

The Red Riot has no political significance but plenty of fashion significance. Wherever glamour lives, there live hats of bright, blazing red.

Warble While You Walk

Even Stockings Go Musical For The Easter Parade

Even stockings have gone musical this spring. It's a sort of warble while you walk idea, for there is a certain hosiery line which has named each shade of their stockings after an old American favorite song.

All of the shades in one or more ways fit the song, such as the "Merry Widow" shade is gay, bright, and rather flashy and can be worn well with emerald green, signal red or salt-water blue, the gaudy colors, which would suit the merry widow. In direct con-trust, "Madelon" is a darker, more subdued shade to be worn with conservative colors, just as "Annie Laurie" is dark and should be worn with dusky rose, blue, black, wines and topaz.

"Scarlett" or "Dixie" named after Scarlett O'Hara, the heroine of "Gone with the Wind," is by far the most popular stocking shade for spring and summer. It possesses sort of a red tone and may be worn with anything except red.

The prevailing trend this spring is toward lighter hose with copper and red tones. "Susanna" is a tan and looks lovely with red. Then there are "Sweet Adeline" and "Sweetheart" — stocking shades. "Sweetheart" has a blue tone and goes exceptionally well with pastel shades, typifying the sweetness of the song.

For the spring of 1940, black, navy blue, white and red are the outstanding colors in fashions. All eight shades of these musically named hose, are designed to be worn with these basic colors.

Fashion leanings in hats, bags, dress and coat styles are toward the Old Fashioned, so why shouldn't stockings as well go back to America's old favorites in songs for their titles.

You will see a lot of English rib anklets this spring as well as plain ones. You will also be able to find anklets to match most every shade of sweater that you have, even to the newest, striking colors.

GLASS HAT

Made of spun glass, a new hat is on the market which is guaranteed to keep your head cool. The material is said to deflect the sun and is stain and rain-proof.

A rifle is said to "kick" because the force that starts the shot forward exerts an equal force backwards.

Bare Shoulders Going, 'Under-Cover' Look New for Formals, Fashion Expert Believes

By ANNE MARIE SHEELY
Daily Iowan Society Editor

Gone are the days when bare shoulders and back were a "must" for formal evening wear. Kay Silver writing from New York in the March issue of Mademoiselle describes the spring evening gowns in the "city of bright lights" as having "that under-cover look."

However, Miss Silver hastens to add, there's nothing prim about it—since the necklines are slashed low and wide in front. And Iowa City is following close behind the New York fashions judging by the evening gowns that are being displayed in the local shops and those worn last Friday evening at the annual Senior Hop.

Red, white and blue are the leading colors for spring, the experts report, and certainly the first two named were the leading colors for evening wear at the Hop.

"Red" Representatives

Representative of the "reds" was the formal worn Friday evening by Helen Ries, A4 of Iowa City, Pi Beta Phi. Miss Ries' silk jersey dress had a white bodice and a red skirt. Among the other wearers of the color, that definitely predominated on the dance floor, were Beverly Barnes, A3 of Sioux City, Delta Gamma; Arlene DeMots, A2 of Sioux Center, Currier hall; Patricia Heller, A2 of Cherokee, Alpha Delta Pi, and Della May Nash, A4 of Cedar Rapids, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

White net skirts fashioned with several layers of net over white taffeta and bodices of white or contrasting color taffeta and satin or net trimmed with gold and silver applique or sequins are being shown in all of the local shops.

The white net styles were worn by Nona Seberg, A4 of Mt. Pleasant, Currier hall; Dorris Feldman, C3 of Applington Eastlawn; Elenor Wild, C4 of North Charleton, S. C., Delta Delta Delta, and Luana Campbell, A4 of Des Moines, Chi Omega. Blue net formals made on similar lines were worn by Nancy Ilgenfritz, A1 of Winterset, Pi Beta Phi, and Miriam Kircher, A3 of Butler, Mo., Delta Gamma.

Black for Formals

Black, the color that is always good for formal wear, so those who know say, was also well represented at the Senior Hop. Among those who appeared in black formals were Eise Hansen, C4 of Bettendorf, Alpha Chi Omega, and Kathleen Hogan, A4 of Monticello, Kappa Alpha Theta. Both black nets and black chiffons are being worn this spring, especially the nets fashioned with full skirts and tight bodices with that new "undercover" look.

Red highlighting on neutral colored frocks is another sign of "Spring 1940" and a number of feminine party-goers Friday evening used red effectively as trimming on white gowns or reversed the procedure. June DeVall, A4 of Sidney, Eastlawn, combined the two colors very effectively when she trimmed her white dress with one of the new shades of red.

The "covered-up" trend was evidenced by the number of university women who have appeared in gowns featuring sleeves of varying lengths. The extreme in this direction was reached by those coeds who wore sheer long sleeved white blouses with their black evening skirts. Margery Hansen, A3 of Brooklyn, N. Y., Delta Delta Delta, was seen dancing in one of the most effective of these gowns. Another university woman who attended the Hop in an evening skirt and sheer blouse was Susan Kraetsch A1 of Des Moines, Pi Beta Phi. Betty Keyser, A2 of Iowa City, Alpha Xi Delta, also wore a black floor length skirt and white blouse.

Quaintest Frocks

One of the quaintest evening frocks seen at the Hop was the black and white checked, lace trimmed gown that Doris Bone, A1 of Grand River, wore.

Although the popular trend in the matter of flowers for formal occasions dictates hair corsages, several of the university women attending the Hop Friday evening carried small old-fashioned bouquets that matched their feminine evening frocks. Kathryn Klingbeil, A2 of Postville, Pi Beta Phi, carried a frilled nosegay, as did Carol Jane Osterholm, A3 of Waverly, Pi Beta Phi.

Although the actual advent of spring will find sheerer and daintier evening frocks being worn at university parties, the preview of spring styles that was evident at the Senior Hop is proof that the "covered-up" look with longer and longer sleeves will be the trend for spring and that red and white will be important colors.

Place Found For Makeup

Trend Towards Large Patch or Saddle Bag Pockets for Women

Are women becoming more independent? Apparently so, if the present trend toward more and larger pockets for women continues. As pockets, especially the patch or saddle bag variety, grow, no longer are the men concerned with carrying about those feminine odds and ends that will not fit into a bag.

Pockets on coats and suits seem to be approaching the size set by kangaroos, and sports dresses are not far behind. And now comes the formal gown with pockets, offering the bashful miss a place to put her hands, instead of letting them hang.

Further assistance is found in the "cash and carry" belts, making their first appearance. They are thin suede or leather straps for your double-belted skirts, and are distinguished by an ample pocket hanging at the side. Pockets zip shut safely or button tightly, lending safety to your change or lipstick and comb.

Fashions In Shoes—

Seasons may come and seasons may go, but fashions in campus shoes go on forever, it seems. While Paris is experimenting with such things as "sled" sandals—slippers with unsupported insteps—college women will be sporting around in the old stand-by, saddle shoes, or their newer counterparts, two-toned brown and white moccasin type "flats."

For dress-up occasions, however, the college woman is willing to veer a little from the conventional and step out in something a bit more tricky unless she has simple tastes satisfied by a pair of classic spectator pumps.

Wedge heels, worn by a few daring souls in previous seasons, will be more in evidence this spring. This style of shoe has been streamlined this year, so that they are graceful in appearance rather than orthopedic, as one New York

If You Would Dress Smartly This Spring, Learn One Important Fact

By LEONA KECKLER

There is a theory that if you know one important thing about the various fashions of a new season you are pretty well equipped to step out and collect a really decent bevy of clothes. Acting on that theory here is one important thing about each type of garment in spring fashions:

One important thing about spring coats is their huge pockets. Schiaparelli started this with her over sized "cash-and-carry" pockets. "Perhaps this grew out of the accents on military lines and interests. Also spring coats are fashioned with big unpressed pleats in the back. Thus the smart reefer and swaggers are in good taste this season.

One important thing about suits is the color grey. Grey is the new color for sport clothes. Keep in mind the fact that suits with feminine lines and a "soft" look are the best although some suits have gone definitely military.

One important thing about spring dresses is hoods. Hoods are not styled only for winter. They are not to keep your ears warm, not to shade your eyes, not to preserve your finger-wave, but just for style.

One important thing about jacket dresses is that silk frocks may have wool jackets. If the dress is a print dress the jacket matches or contrasts some color in it.

One important thing about shirtfrocks is their unseasonable long sleeves. Long or three-quartered sleeves are very smart, so why care if they are hot!

One important thing about certain tailored frocks is their slight military air. This is the effect of officer's pockets, or metal buttons, or a belt run through buttoned straps, or a military color.

One important thing about spring hats is the flowers on them. And one important thing about shoes is that they are getting put it.

As for materials and colors, they're as varied as can be. Materials range from shiny red patent leather to a brand new South American frogskin, more delicate in appearance than snakeskin.

One of the most unusual shoes of the spring season has a new "half-moon" last, straight on the inner edge and curved on the outer.

'Cognac' In Spring Shoes

Formerly Only In Bottles, Now Just A Shade In Footwear

One of the most important changes in shoes this spring is the trend toward lower heels. "Play shoes" are sensational for dress wear for the first time in many a day. There is also a trend towards novelty in heels as stylists create pyramid heels, peg heels and plastic ones that look like glass. No longer will shoes only be a necessary evil.

"Hot pink" comes forth even in shoes, the heels of which are open and again without toes. Brown is not brown this spring. It is "cognac" and a favorite combination with beige.

Reptile skins are in vogue with the new model of grey lizard combined with black gabardine. Plain gabardine is also good, as is patent leather.

Saddle shoes, our old stand-bys, seem to be giving way to something different this spring, a shoe that is patterned after the standard Girl Scout shoe. This moccasin toe combination in brown and white has taken up where the saddle shoe left off as an all-around favorite.

Trend in Hosiery Goes to 'Colonial' Colors for Spring

The colonial theme is being used even in hosiery, as is evidenced in the names of the spring colors. "Locket," "Rebel," "Victoria," and "Calico" hose are all in keeping with this season of ruffles and ribbons.

The trend in hosiery is to get away from the bright, contrasting shades of former years and towards a more neutral color. Mostly tan, with a slight "pinkish" cast, they will blend nicely with the rest of your costume.

European belligerents continue to drop leaflets on the enemy populace. This is one war which is being fought down to the last printing press.

New Clothes Fool Weather

Warm Spring Coats Give Puzzled Coeds Late Winter Wear

Due to the fact that the weather is bad, that spring is late and that this is just naturally a bad time of year, the "what to wear" problem is even worse than usual. It is too cold for spring suits and dresses but everyone is so tired of wearing the same old things!

One idea that might prove helpful for the university woman faced by this problem is that of a spring coat—one that looks new and "springy" and yet is warm enough to suit the

May Let Your Slip Show This Spring Season

Femininity is the keynote of everything fashionable this spring and slips are not exception. Ribbons and ruffles and eyelid embroidery are as prominent for trimming as they were in grandmothers' day.

Materials may be satin, cotton batiste or rayon knit and colors may be white or pink but a lace ruffle and pale blue ribbon will be at the hem of almost every one. It won't be a social disgrace to let your slip show this year!

Something new and different in this line is the plaid taffeta "petticoat" with a ruffled or pleated hem to wear with your suit. Bright plaids with outstanding colors of blue, red or green are available at the stores downtown.
