Host To The High Schools

NEXT WEEK hundreds of high school and junior college students and their directors will be in Iowa City for the play production festival and participation in the Iowa Forensic league finals.

The importance of this function of the University of Iowa in the role of host to younger students is inestimable. Our welcome to the visitors should be a warm one. We must realize that the benefit to these students is so great as to be worth many times over the cost of these events.

The purpose of the play production festival is fivefold:

- 1. To develop a widespread interest in the theater.
2. To encourage organization of amateur players in communities and schools.
3. To encourage the production of good plays.
4. To bring forward new playwrights in the state of Iowa.
5. To bring together amateur players and their directors for mutual interchange of ideas and inspiration.

The development of personality, or any of the social and cultural benefits assigned to participation in the production of plays, is given additional impetus by festivals of this sort. As practical aspects justifying encouragement of play production, we offer the following dramatic example. At the Vinton school for the blind acting in plays is used to teach the blind students to use normal facial expressions. For the Vinton students participation in the Iowa festival is a chance to show the public that the blind can be, and in the majority of the cases are, surprisingly self-sufficient.

We could continue here extolling the virtues of play production or of forensics, but that is not necessary.

We believe it is sufficient to reiterate what we said in the beginning: the benefit to the participants from these theatrical and forensic events makes them among the most important of the university's activities.

Three Little Monkeys?

YOU HAVE heard it said by the scientists that drafts do not cause cold. The cold results because of your lack of resistance.

Mrs. Jean Kay of Brooklyn should be told that.

A supreme court suit, filed on behalf of Mrs. Kay, threatens to upset the appointment of the noted liberal thinker, Bertrand Russell, to a professorship of philosophy at City college in New York.

Mrs. Kay charges in the suit that the British peer's advocacy of free love might induce school children to put his theories into practice. The Brooklyn woman suggests that while Russell may be a world-renowned scholar, his teaching would endanger the morals of the mixed student body of the city-owned college.

We think that Mrs. Kay is one of two things, either (1) silly, or (2) the "front" for some organized group that is opposing the appointment of Russell.

The concept that people can be protected from evil by the "see no, speak no, hear no" process of the three little monkeys is false. It is as impossible to avoid all evil as it is to avoid the drafts which result in colds when a person's resistance is low.

Better tactics for Mrs. Kay, assuming she is principally desirous of protecting her own two children from the evils of Bertrand Russell, would be for her to handle that matter in her own home.

We are of the opinion that the best armor against undesirable theories, on the subject of sex or politics or what have you, is not avoidance of knowledge on the subject, but acquirement of sufficient knowledge to allow individual judgment and idealism to make the correct deduction.

We hope the officials of City college are successful in protecting themselves from the attacks of all the Mrs. Jean Kays.

Is Russia Really Satisfied?

ALL that Russia wanted was to prevent Finland from invading her, and a few strategic military forts and islands. Russia said so herself.

She got the latter. But Russia is still worried about poor little Finland or some other tiny Scandinavian land conquering great big Russia. We'll admit after the scourging she got that Russia has more reason to fear Finland now than she did when the attack on Finland was begun, but we fail to understand why (if Russia's interests were as limited as she said) she now forbids the Norse nations to consummate a joint defense pact.

The official Tass news agency has announced that it was authorized to state that Soviet Russia would regard any defensive alliance among Sweden, Norway and Finland as "aimed at the U. S. S. R." and as directly contradictory to the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

"The foreign press," Tass announced, "alleges that negotiations are going on among Finland, Sweden and Norway on conclusion of a so-called 'defensive alliance' for the purpose of military protection of the frontiers of Finland."

"It is also alleged that the Soviet Union does not object to such a defensive alliance among Finland, Sweden and Norway."

"Tass is authorized to state that these reports on the attitude of the Soviet Union do not correspond to the facts."

Russia, evidently, is not yet finished with Scandinavia.

Speaking Of Neanderthals

THE CHICAGO Daily News relates how Maurice Tillet, whom you'll recognize as the notorious French "wrassler," familiarly called "The Angel" took a trip to the Field Museum the other day to be compared with the museum's reconstructed skeleton of a Neanderthal man.

"The Angel" admittedly looks enough like a caveman to arouse the suspicions of even the laymen. No wonder the scientists thought he might be a throwback to the days of dinosaurs.

"Removing his beret and his bathrobe, the Angel posed before a case containing an entire family of Neanderthals, the only such group in the world," relates Robert Yoder, the Daily News writer. "He resembled the Neanderthals very closely. He also bore a strong resemblance to a wrassler. Thus while the experiment failed to prove that the Angel is a Neanderthal, it proved pretty plainly that the Neanderthals were wrasslers."

"All concerned were about the same size and had the same family characteristics—the cauliflower ears, the absent neck, the barrel chest and the general air of having been beaten around. The Angel looked a little more muscle-bound, but, after all, he has been in the ring nine years, whereas the records of the others are not known."

"After the Angel had posed with a stone ax, which he hefted as easily as though it were a posey, he was measured for the record by Henry Field, curator of the museum and an authority on prehistoric man. The Angel is of scientific interest because his tremendous jaw, his overhanging brows, and his height, five-eight-and-three-quarters, give him almost the exact appearance of the mysterious race of men or neanderthals that dwelt in the caves and forests of Western Europe when time was young."

Actually the "Horror Boy of the Ring" is an amiable Frenchman, "a former petty officer in the French navy, and a rugby player who made good marks in his university days."

Our only thought on the subject is that the scientists are barking up the wrong tree trying to prove that the Angel has anything in common with the neanderthals. They might better study the minds of some gentlemen who head the governments of modern Western European nations to discover why they have throwback to their Neanderthal stone ax brow beaters.

The man at the next desk says he hopes we don't have many more severe winters such as this one was. The polar bears are liable to start coming south each autumn.

True equality cannot be achieved in this world. It's impossible for everybody to have their breakfast served in bed.

Zadok Dumbkopf says a peanut politician is a would-be statesman who isn't all he's cracked up to be.

A spider, we read, has 82 eyes. When he's been up late the night before, how can he crowd a bag under each one of them?

Holy Week Daily Messages for 1940

(This program of Holy Week meditations has been planned and edited by Rev. Llewelyn A. Owen, president of the Iowa City Ministers' association, and minister of the First Congregational church.)

"LOVE" By The Rev. Herman Strub, Assistant Pastor, St. Mary's Catholic Church, Iowa City, Iowa

ALL ARE surely acquainted with the ancient and beautiful story of Damon and Pythias. It is a story that concerns the love and devotion of two friends each of whom was willing and anxious to give up his life for the other. Whether or not it is a true story makes little difference. But because it has been told and listened to with relish for so many centuries this simple tale witnesses to one of the finest of human characteristics. That characteristic is the high regard with which we men, as a race, look upon any act of self sacrifice made in the interest of another. And further if an act of self sacrifice is carried to its ultimate extent, the giving up of a life for another, then we regard it as not only heroic but as the greatest thing that human nature is able to do. "Greater love than this no man hath than that he give up his life for his friend."

We of the Christian dispensation live in the midst of such an act. We are, in truth, actual participants in an act of sacrifice which was accomplished for us. There is a Pythias who was not only willing but actually died for our good. His name is Jesus Christ.

The story is this. Man is a fallen being. Because of sin he has fallen from a high and exalted life, a life of union with his End, who is God. Not only did man's sin bring about his fall but, because it outraged God's justice, it created a barrier between man and his goal. If man is to live in God, (and he must if he is to live), some act of retribution had to be made. But man unaided could not make the necessary act of retribution because it was beyond his power and his strength. Man the finite had dishonored the infinite and perfect; after that the imperfect was unable to restore himself. So God arranged in his second person, the Son, to take a human nature. And when this perfect being, the Son became man, Jesus Christ, was on earth God willed his death. In our stead Christ, the all perfect, was to die in order that God's justice might be satisfied. We men can never thank our Savior sufficiently for having acquiesced to the divine fiat. "Father, if thou wilt, remove this chalice from me: but yet not my will, but thine be done." For now we can live again. Pythias was eager to give up his life for his friend Damon. But like all men his heroic act was necessarily limited. It was impossible to extend his act in an unlimited manner. No man can be devoted in the same degree to all men. We give our best to one or at most to a few. Not so with Jesus Christ. Since he is God there are no limits to his act. Christ's death on the cross was a giving of himself for each one of us as if each one of us were the only man. As Damon must have been eternally grateful to Pythias so must we be everlastingly grateful to Christ. Not to serve Christ is therefore treason. More than that it is a deliberate cutting of ourselves from Life itself.

A Little, Roomy Place

Billy Rose Turned 33 Beekman Place Into an Art Palace

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK — For a guy who has a burning thirst for size and who thinks of living space in terms of warehouses and regimental armories, Billy Rose has shown considerable restraint in choosing a home for his bride. It is a modest 14-room chateau built entirely of imported Dutch brick, and is located at No. 33 Beekman place over on the East river.

The little Midas picked it for a mere $140,000 cash, and while it isn't what he originally had in mind, it is, as he says, at least a roof over their heads.

For a while he thought of taking a 40-room "lodge" he found on a mountain top near Tarrytown, N. Y., but decided against it when someone pointed out how far Tarrytown was from Lindy's.

"We shouldn't go running off to the country anyway," the master says philosophically. "It would get so lonesome out there Eleanor and I might throw each other off a cliff."

This new house, from the Rose point of view, has only one defect. When he strolls to the broad bay windows and throws aside the curtains he finds that Billy Lee's yacht, which ties up there, ruins his view of the lovely muddy waters of the river.

But for those who can discipline themselves away from river-vistas, there are compensating distractions. Rose has turned No. 33 Beekman Place into a sort of personal museum of art masterpieces, and for a man who makes his money out of tigers and elephants the taste is exemplary.

He has a fine 18th Century canvas by Sir Joshua Reynolds, and at least four excellent studies by the old Flemish masters, one of which is a knight by Van Dyke. There are also paintings by Derain, the modern French painter, and one by Puga, a pupil of the Spaniard Valesquez.

There is, finally, a portrait of Jean Cocteau, the French actor-writer-producer, and it is a face of such frightening aspect that when Eleanor Holm saw it she burst into tears and said she would not stay in the same house with it.

Only by swearing to hide it in his own private room was Billy able to placate her. After seeing the portrait, one has the hunch that maybe the logic was all on Eleanor's side. Modigliani's Cocteau is a weird thing with cross eyes and a neck like a swan.

The house itself blossoms around a magnificent Adams spiraling stair-way. The dining room is in English paneling, with an open fire and mantel effects in porcelain and jade which came from Italy and Hindustan. John Murray Anderson, who produces all of Billy's extravaganzas, including his new Aquacade, which will open this year on May 11, was stunned by it.

"None of your friends will fit in here, Billy," he warned, "unless you give them powdered wigs and satin britches."

Billy's own room, compared to the lavish guest rooms and Mrs. Rose's private boudoir, is a mere monk's cell. Besides a desk in the French Empire style, a bed, and the portrait of Cocteau there is nothing. Those guest beds, by the way, are only 13 inches high, but any of them would sleep the Marx bros. and Primo Carnera.

In sum, life on the East river may not be as exciting as Mark Twain pictured it on the Mississippi, but it is a darned sight more comfortable.

How would you like to live in a house where you could wake up every morning, stick your foot out from under the covers and nudge a Rembrandt with your big toe?

The Coal Crisis Is Hampering Il Duce, But He's on the Spot and Can't Do Much About It

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Official Washington doesn't wish to see European conditions get any worse or more complicated. Therefore, it regrets the situation in which Italy finds itself. At the same time, precious little sympathy is felt for Il Duce Mussolini. Perhaps Benito is a trifle less disliked in this country than either Fuehrer Hitler or Comrade Stalin, on the ground that he's rather more rational than the former; not quite so much of an indiscriminate killer as the latter. Still, he's copiously disliked.

So far as Il Duce is concerned, if it weren't for its objection to any aggravation of the strain in Old World affairs, Washington would be inclined to snicker at his troubles with the British over Italian supplies of coal.

The diplomatic view in Uncle Sam's capital is that Benito's present difficulty isn't due to any especial bad management of his own; he's a victim of geography, geology and various other conditions over which he has no control.

It's obvious that Italy is in danger from Germany, to the northward and in the Balkans, if she doesn't stay friendly with the Reich. It's equally obvious that she is helpless in the Mediterranean so long as the British and French remain dominant there.

That means that Italy is completely surrounded, not necessarily by enemies, but by neighbors much more powerful than herself. So much for geography.

Duce Prefers Reich Benito evidently inclines to take his chances with the Germans rather than with the British and French. After all, he and Adolf are fellow dictators. Indeed, Benito says candidly that he isn't a neutral, though he's non-belligerent. He doesn't approve of Comrade Stalin, and the general impression is that he didn't approve of Adolf's approval of the latter, either. But he stood for it, rather than break with the Fuehrer.

If he could afford to do so, it's diplomatically guessed that he'd take military sides with Germany against the Allies. If he did that, however, the French immediately would break into northern Italy, the Germans would break in, too, to help the Italians, the whole northern part of Benito's realm would become a battleground, and fascist territory would be devastated, no matter how the campaign might develop.

Simultaneously, the British navy would be raking Benito's Mediterranean coast line, his own fleet probably would be smashed to smithereens and he might lose his recently acquired North African possessions. He couldn't stand that.

Italy is quite a highly industrialized country. Its industries need coal, though, and Italy doesn't produce a shovelful of it.

Adjoining Germany does and is glad to let the Italians have plenty of it, but not much of it can get into Italy from Germany overland, due to lack of adequate transportation facilities. Consequently coal shipments must be via the sea.

Now the British navy has shut off these shipments. "We'll let you have OUR coal," says the British. But the Italians haven't the cash to pay for it. "We'll take pay in your agricultural products," propose the British. Then it transpires that the British already have arranged to get all such products elsewhere. "Why not buy coal in the United States?" suggest the British. But the Italians have no money to pay US, and we don't need their farm stuff, either.

Danger of Ridicule In short, Italy can't get coal. Benito protested furiously to London. London was extremely polite

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

"QUIET KILL" is the title of the exciting "Perfect Crime" story written by Max Marcin for "Johnny Presents" over CBS stations tonight at 8 o'clock.

MUSICAL highlights will be under the baton of Johnny Green who will offer a special arrangement of Irving Berlin's "Easter Parade" as a salute to the holiday.

OTHER NUMBERS are "In An Old Dutch Garden," "Ma, He's Making Eyes at Me," "Too Romantic," "The Wind and the Rain in Your Hair," and "Easy Does It." Vocals are by Audrey Marsh, Bill Hargrave and the Swing Fourteen.

THE INCREDIBLE story of how Leonardo Da Vinci unknowingly selected the man who had posed as Christ to be the Judas of his immortal masterpiece, "The Last Supper," will be told on Bob Ripley's "Believe it or Not" program over CBS tonight at 9:30.

ANOTHER PROGRAM highlight will be the guest appearance of three persons who miraculously escaped serious injuries in fires while listening to Ripley's broadcast last year of the dramatization of "Alice Ben Bolt," the inspiration for which was the flaming death of a 17-year-old girl.

Abbott and Costello will encounter competition when Nan Rae and Maud Davis, their female prototypes in zany comedy, make their radio debut on the "Kate Smith Hour" tonight at 7 o'clock over CBS stations.

KATE'S DRAMATIC guest will be Judith Anderson, presented in scenes from "Rebecca," Daphne Du Maurier's recently screened best-seller.

KATE SMITH will be starred in the musical portion of the show supported by Abbott and Costello, the Ted Straeter singers and Jack Miller's orchestra. Kate will sing "Say It," "Angel," "They Ought to Write a Book About You" and "I Concentrate on You." The vocal group will offer "In the Mood."

The Bob Crosby band put four new sides on wax this week between radio rehearsals. The tunes are "My, My," "Moments in the Moonlight," "Say It" and "Angels in Disguise."

AFTER 8 WEEKS, London, England, produced a final winner for "What Would You Have Done." He was John Alan who took his prize in the drama-dilemma program from Joseph Glantz of Arkville, N. Y., and Wayne Sutton of Douglas, Ariz., semi-finalists.

Britain finally permitted 13 Italian colliers to sail with their German coal for assurance that no Italian cargo steamers would be sent to neutral ports for German coal in the future.

And the last 200,000 tons of Germany's coal won't keep Italy's factories going for long. Italy's only hope lies in getting German coal by overland routes henceforth.

Around The Big Leagues

Cuban All-Stars Nick Reds, 11-7

HAVANA, March 21 (AP)—A home run by Alejandro Crespo, with the bases filled in the sixth inning, provided the Cuban All-Stars with an 11 to 7 victory today over the Cincinnati Reds in the first of a three-game exhibition series at Tropical stadium.

More than 10,000 fans widely cheered Crespo's feat, a tremendous blow off the servings of Southpaw Johnny Vander Meer.

The National league champions took an early lead, 4-1 by the third inning, but the Cubans belted Paul Derringer hard in the fourth and fifth to go in front and never were caught, even though the Reds rallied three runs in the seventh.

The second game of the series is set for Saturday.

Phils Outslug Columbus, 17-12

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Scoring 12 runs in bunches of sixes in the sixth and seventh innings the Phillies today outslugged Columbus, of the American association, to win a ragged game, 17 to 12.

A homer by Dan Litwhiler with one on and Ben Warren's triple with the bases full were among the most telling of the Phils' 23 hits. Columbus banged out a total of 18 safeties and scored six runs in a ninth inning rally off rookie pitcher Bob Frank.

Pirates Drop Chuck Klein

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 21 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates disclosed today they have decided to drop outfielder Chuck Klein from their roster.

The veteran slugger, who came to Pittsburgh from the Phillies in the early part of the 1939 pennant race, was granted permission to make a deal for himself. His departure will reduce the Pirates' outfield squad to seven, including the recently acquired Debs Garms, who can play infield as well.

Oklahomans Advance In Cage Tourney

DENVER, March 21 (AP)—A masterful second half rally struck off a 40-to-32 triumph for the Bartlesville, Okla., Phillips 66 team over Hollywood Twentieth century in a quarterfinal game at the national A.A.U. basketball tournament tonight.

Down 12-20 at the half, the Phillips outfit, runnerup for the national title last year, came back with a boring, driving attack that carried it into the tournament's semi-finals for the fourth straight year.

Fred Pralle, formerly of Kansas university, led the winners at scoring with 10. However, Frank Lubin with 13 points and Jack Hipp, his Hollywood teammate, an all-American forward in the 1939 tournament, with 11, were the chief sharpshooters.

Kenny Reid Helps Chisox

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 21 (AP)—Chicago's White Sox shut out Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league, 10 to 0, today behind the combined six hit pitching of three rookies—Orval Grove, Ken Reid and Ed Weiland. Reid is a former University of Iowa player.

Julius Solters hit his second home run in as many days for the Sox with two mates on base in the third inning.

Bosox Nick Cards

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Four Red Sox hits and four Cardinal errors resulted in three runs in the eighth inning yesterday as the Boston American league club defeated the St. Louis National leaguers 4 to 2.

Browns Trample Mudhens, 9-2

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 21 (AP)—Brilliant pitching by George (Slick) Coffman and timely hitting by Outfielder Chet Laabs gave the St. Louis Browns a 9 to 2 victory over the Toledo Mudhens today.

In stretching the Browns' winning streak to four games, Coffman allowed but one hit in hurling shutout ball for five innings, while Laabs got a double and two singles in three times at bat.

The Mudhens scored their two runs in the seventh off Roxie Lawson who had one wild streak and issued three consecutive walks.

Angel Homers Spill Athletics

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 21 (AP)—Homers by Gene Lillard and Lou Novikoff plus Paul Carpenter's single gave Los Angeles, of the Pacific Coast league, a 5 to 4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics today. It was the A's fourth straight defeat.

The A's pounded Lillard for a 4-0 lead, but the pitcher turned around in the second inning and hit for the circuit with two on. Novikoff's roundtripper tied the score in the fifth. Carpenter's single, following Donaldson's two-bagger, drove in the winning tally.

Pofahl's Arm Troubles Harris

ORLANDO, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Shortstop Jimmy Pofahl's weak arm has driven Manager Bucky Harris, of the Senators, to a complex defensive measure—third baseman Cecil Travis is being taught to leave his bag to handle relays from the outfield, while Pofahl scampers over and covers third.

Pofahl's arm has had the Washington bosses worried since he reported for spring practice, but they believe his hitting and fielding will make up for the weakness.

Cubs Wallop Pirate Hurlers For 12-5 Win

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 21 (AP)—The peppy Chicago Cubs clawed perspiring Pittsburgh hurlers at will today and easily trimmed the Pirates 12 to 5 in the final exhibition contest of the training season here.

Rookies William Nicholson, outfielder, and Clyde McCullough, catcher, got home runs, Glen Russell a triple and three other Cubs made doubles while pitchers Charlie Root, Vern Olson and Tubb were holding the Bucs to eight singles, two by Maurice Van Robays.

Catcher Joe Schultz' muff on a pop fly let in two Cub runs in the first and when outfielder Bob Elliott fumbled a single another run scored in that inning.

N. Y. U. Renews Stevens' Contract

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Dr. Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, head football coach at New York university since 1934, was given a five-year renewal of his contract tonight by the board of athletic control.

A native of Kansas, Stevens studied medicine while starring on Yale's football teams and became head coach at Yale from 1928

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- More Work
- Watch Them
- Bunting Drills

FT. MEYERS, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Bob Feller came bouncing through the bright sunlight toward the dugout. He had just finished his hitch as practice pitcher for the Cleveland batters. He was puffing slightly and perspiration dropped from his face and plastered his shirt to his back. But he grinned like a kid on a picnic.

"Feels good to throw with the wind at your back," he said. He took a few gulps of water, beeked to a catcher, and headed for the bullpen.

Oscar Vitt sat in the dugout shade, sputtering and explosive as usual, his pale blue eyes taking in everything. Between shouted instructions and ejaculations he commented casually on his Indians. We were idly following Feller's movements.

"Look," we exclaimed suddenly.

Feller was standing with his left side toward the catcher, hands at his chest, head turned to give him an eye-corner view of an imaginary first base. He made a couple of threatening movements with a slight swing of his left shoulder, then abruptly threw the ball to the catcher.

"Didn't you ever see him do that before?" Uncle Oz asked.

"Yes, I could tell you more about that boy. For instance, one day I called the pitchers together and stressed the importance of bunting. I told them they could win a couple more games for themselves during a season if they learned to bunt."

Feller now was pitching with a normal, free motion. The fellow on first apparently had got around, or been caught off the bag.

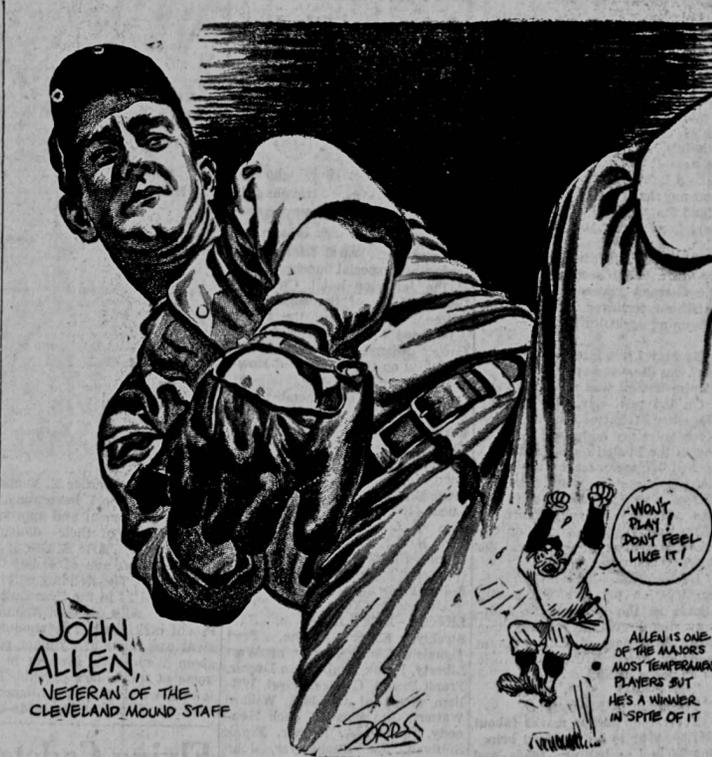

"Well," Uncle Oz continued, "after the practice Robert came up and asked me if he could have a pitcher for a little while. I said: 'Certainly, but what for?' And he said: 'I want to practice bunting.'"

Feller must have been a little wild, or his support was bad, for he had another imaginary runner on the imaginary first base now, and was holding him there with subtle threats. Far out in left field a very tall rookie pitcher was snagging flies. Hal Trosky, still woozy from a bump he took in the all-star game, dropped a ball at first base.

"Robert was the only one who showed that much interest," Uncle Oz resumed. "He'll do anything you tell him that he thinks might help him win a couple or more games when he's out there on that mound. They used to steal his glove off. They don't any more." Which is one reason everybody is predicting another fine year for the all-American kid year for the Iowa cornfields. He's about as sure a bet as any pitcher could be before a season started, and if Vitt could be sure of his other pitchers he'd be making faces at the Yankees right now.

Hubbell At Work
WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP)—It rained the Giant-Tiger baseball game out in the fourth inning yesterday—but all was sunshine in the camp of Bill Terry's men. For the "meal ticket"—King Carl Hubbell—blanketed the Tigers, fanning four and allowing only two hits in the first three innings.

Ben Hogan Cops North-South Open With Record 277 Score

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 21 (AP)—Ohio became baseball's newest 1940 "holdout" today, with tax commissioner William S. Evatt demanding a larger "cut" for the state from all the organized clubs within Buckeye borders.

Evatt decreed baseball franchises and player contracts were of real value to the clubs, and therefore were subject to a three-million annual levy as intangibles.

"If the baseball clubs want to protest this ruling, it's their privilege," Evatt said. "They may come in here and show cause why they should not pay taxes on their franchises and player contracts, but until they do that, and a different decision is reached, they are subject to the levy."

He declared the levy would be based on the true value of the franchise and players.

Ohio Is Baseball Holdout State Demands Bigger Cut in Taxes From Organized Clubs Within Borders

Baseball men were uncertain whether the proposed tax would hamper "farm" activities in the state, most of the smaller Ohio teams being financed by major league clubs. The parent club, in the last analysis, probably would be forced to pay the tax.

Cleveland's Indians have a contract payroll of about $250,000 for this year, and the franchise is believed worth in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, including the ball park.

At Cincinnati assistant Treasurer W. P. Bramham asked: "How could we tell what any player's contract is worth, or what the franchise is worth?"

Along with the major league clubs, all Ohio members of the mid-Atlantic league, Toledo and Columbus of the American Association, and the Ohio state loop are affected by Evatt's ruling.

Hawks Indoor Track Season Comes to End

The track team concluded its regular scheduled indoor season Wednesday by being defeated by a strong Wisconsin squad 6 1/2 to 2 1/4. Six men, however, will leave today for Chicago to compete in the annual invitational meet, the Chicago Relays, under the direction of the Chicago Daily News.

Coach George Bresnahan has named four men to attend the meet and after a time trial this morning will select two others.

Jim Wilson, Marilyn Gillespie, Hank Vollenweider and Art Schlauder are the men certain to make the trip. Wilson will run in the sprint series and anchor the mile relay team. Vollenweider will skim the high hurdles and Schlauder and Gillespie will run legs of the relay.

Four men will run this morning in a 440 yard dash to determine who shall make the fourth man in the relay event and who shall be the alternate. Joel Hin-

Ex-Pugilist Gets Sentence

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Solly Seman, one-time contender for the world's lightweight boxing title and alleged co-leader of a $1,000,000 nation-wide stolen bond ring, was sentenced to two years in prison today by federal judge John C. Knox.

Seeman and Morris Pollock, a securities dealer, were convicted of conspiracy to transport stolen bonds in interstate commerce. Pollock was given a four-month sentence.

RUSTON, La., March 21 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Iowa's diamondmen overcame a four run first inning attack to down Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs here today, 10-7.

Rangy Harold Haub, ace of the Hawkeye pitching staff, went the route after relieving Bob Stastny in the first frame. The big right-hander, who got credit for the win, struck out four men in the eighth inning he worked.

Although outslugged by 18 hits to 14, the Hawkeyes made the most of their chances, scoring three times in the second and five times in a big sixth inning.

Jimmy George, co-captain with Haub, and sophomore catcher Bill Welp led the Hawkeye attack with three hits each. George, with a double, collected one of the extra base hits for the Hawkeyes, while Erwin Prasse and Radics also clouted two-baggers.

Winners of four straight games in the southland, Coach Otto Vogel's defending Big Ten champs face the Louisiana Tech team twice more before their return to Iowa City. Probable pitching choice in Friday's game is either Hohenhorst or Dick Hein.

Wins $1,000; Sammy Snead Takes Second

By BILL BONI
PINEHURST, N. C., March 21 (AP)—Ben Hogan, the lad who had been second in almost everything but never had been first, proved he had the quality that makes champions today when he won the 38th annual north and south open golf championship with a record 72-hole score of 277.

Eleven shots under par for the famous Pinehurst No. 2 course, the Texas-born professional took down first money of $1,000 in beating Sam Snead by three strokes. Hogan was in front from the time he tied the course record with a 66 the first round, and he wiped out any doubts of his ability to stand up under pressure by being a winner even though he was a front-runner all the way.

The task wasn't made easy for him. An overdose of caution caused Ben to underclub on some of his iron shots this morning. As a result he finished the third round with a 74, two over standard figures, and had lost one shot of the seven-stroke margin he held at 36 holes.

In the afternoon the going got tougher. Ben, with Clayton Heafner and Johnny Revolta, was in the last threesome of the day. Up ahead of him were Sam Snead and Gene Sarazen, who were tied for second place after 54 holes with 213 strokes, six back of the White Plains pros.

Sarazen faded out of the competitive picture with a closing 75 that pushed him down to a tie for fifth place.

But Snead wasn't wavering. The hardhitting shotmaker from Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., turned on the hottest round he'd had to date. Slugging the ball for all he was worth, he came to the 18th green and rammed home a 20-foot putt for a 67. That put the pressure squarely on the 140-pound Hogan's shoulders.

But Ben responded nobly. The iron shots that had been dropping just short in the morning were spitting the pin. Those iron shots gave him a 3-foot putt for

WHAT'S WRONG? Iowa Heckle Section Gets Started

Much of the Iowa baseball team's success in the south has been due, members of the Iowa "Heckle Section" feel, to a series of telegrams sent by the hecklers to the team.

After Monday's 6-4 victory the hecklers wired the team, "How come they got four runs?" The Hawkeyes won, 3-0, Tuesday so Wednesday morning's wire commended the Iowans on their defensive work, but asked what was wrong with the hitting. Yesterday, remembering Wednesday's 18-1 victory, the hecklers said, "The hitting is all right, but the defense is bogging down. How come they scored?"

A birdie on the third hole; a four-foot putt for another on the fifth, and brought him home in two on the par-5 16th for another birdie.

Since he had bogeyed the eighth, that meant Ben needed only to finish par—par to cut 20 strokes off the tournament record set by Vic Ghezzi in 1938. That's just the way he did finish. Even on the home green he tried, boldly for a birdie—he missed it by inches—when he could have been conservative without criticism.

A Year Ago Today, Hitler Took Memel--His 'Last Demand'

Lochner Views Reconstruction Of Territory

—A Reconstruction Made Disappointing By German Conflict

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
MEMEL, Germany, March 21 (AP) — Memel celebrates tomorrow the first anniversary of its return to the Reich with many fulfilled hopes but also with many disappointments because of the conflict between Germany and the allies.

The return of this strip of 940 square miles of Baltic territory and 150,000 people of German stock to Germany represented Adolf Hitler's last bloodless conquest before he drew the sword to regain Danzig and the Polish Corridor and conquer what once was Poland.

As Hitler made a triumphant entry last March 23 in the sunshine into Memel, which only a few hours before had seen a blinding snowstorm, the fuhrer exclaimed cryptically that "I believe that in the main we have now arrived at the conclusion of this process of reparation."

In the official version of the speech as released to the press, these words were missing. They had been plainly heard, however, by millions, listening on the radio and had followed Hitler's assertion that "We Germans have no intention of doing harm to the rest of the world. The damage which that other world did to Germany, however, had to be repaired again."

This cryptic remark generally was interpreted as meaning an end of the surprise maneuvers characterized by the annexation of Austria, the Sudetenland, the Bohemian-Moravian protectorate, and Memel.

A little more than five months later, Danzig declared itself independent of Poland and Hitler's conquering forces overran the Polish republic. With the former German colonies still in the enemy's possession, it is doubtful whether Hitler today would repeat. Even if peace were established, that "in the main, . . . the conclusion of this process of reparations" had been reached.

Hitler's Caesar-like entry into Memelland on March 23 was preceded by a week of dramatic events.

On March 19, the statute of Emperor Wilhelm I was ceremoniously put back in place in Memel as the Nazi leader Ernst Neumann cried out amidst ecstatic approval of his followers that "We want to get home into the Reich."

On March 20, the Lithuanian foreign minister, Jozas Urbys, arrived in Berlin for a "voluntary" conference with foreign minister Joehim von Ribbentrop.

On March 22, the Lithuanian government yielded and agreed to relinquish Memel while at the same time the Memel diet, meeting in an extraordinary session, voted for anschluss. On the same evening Hitler boarded the pocket battleship Deutschland (since renamed the Leutow) and, accompanied by a veritable naval parade, steamed for Memel.

Later that night, von Ribbentrop sent the fuhrer a message that an agreement had been reached with Lithuania regulating the terms of the Lithuanian evacuation, providing a free harbor in Memel for Lithuania and concluding a non-aggression pact between Germany and Lithuania.

The next morning, German troops crossed the international bridge at Tilsit and took possession of Memelland.

No sooner had Germany regained Memelland than reconstruction began according to the Nazi ideology. Memel was incorporated administratively into the province of East Prussia. German signs replaced Lithuanian signs. Jews who had not fled were given to understand that the anti-Semitic Nuremberg laws were effective in Memel also.

East Prussian farmers voluntarily contributed seed grain while the German government donated sufficient fertilizer for this overwhelming agricultural area.

By May 1, the interim "directorate" was dissolved and the German administration was now complete.

On the next day, May 2, the Gauleiter (district leader) Erich Koch solemnly addressed a meeting in the Memel civic theater attended by members of the now-defunct directorate and diet, 68 Germans who figured in the Kaunas sedition trial of February, 1935, and representatives of the army, navy, the air force, and the Nazi party.

He unfolded a pretentious reconstruction program which still stands as the Nazi regime's unwavering desire. But the execution of a great part of the program must be deferred until the world is at peace again.

The main points were: Forty-four million marks (about $17,500,000) to be spent on bringing Memel agriculture, roads, and cities to the standard of East Prussia, of this sum 6,000,000 marks for road building and improvement, another 6,000,000 marks for housing projects, a Memel meeting hall for 6,000 persons, a new city hall, a theater for 1,000, a hospital with 500 beds, an electric power development, a gigantic spa for the "strength through joy" labor organization, modern schools, gymnastic halls, Hitler youth homes, and representative buildings for administrations of the Nazi party and the nation's armed forces.

With much vigor, the Nazi regime went after the realization of this program. May, June and July saw many tasks undertaken. During August, however, everyone in Germany expected international complications, with the result that all energies including those of Memel, were devoted to defense purposes.

When war finally was declared, many projects in Memel as elsewhere had to be held up. The main effort in the Memel region now appears to be devoted to intensifying and improving agriculture. As an example Koch points out the rye yield in Memel territory, as compared with East Prussia, is in the ratio of seven to twelve.

AMONG IOWA CITY PEOPLE

Mariana Tuttle, daughter of Mrs. Davis Tuttle, 340 Ellis, a junior at St. Katharine's school in Davenport, is at home for spring vacation, March 21 to April 1. Miss Tuttle holds a place on the school honor roll, and in addition to maintaining this academic record, has taken part in the dramatics and sports program of the school.

Mrs. Evans A. Worthley, 10 S. Governor, spent yesterday in Chicago.

Betty Lou Voigt, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Voigt, 127 E. Fairchild, has returned home from Miami, Fla., where she spent a two-week vacation.

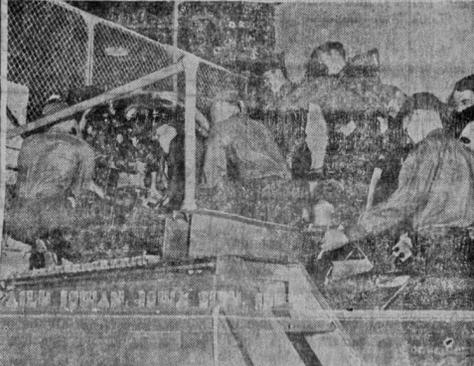

Mrs. E. F. Wickham, 935 Iowa, left yesterday morning to spend a week visiting her son in Chicago.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Werner E. Voelkers, 1234 E. Davenport, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Lieut. Arlo R. Gill of San Antonio, Tex., son of James Gill, 731 Bowery. The wedding will take place April 24 in the Zion Lutheran church with the Rev. Arthur C. Proehl officiating. The announcement was made at a dinner party given Wednesday evening in the home of the bride's parents. Teatime, which the guests heard, bore the names of the bride-elect and Lieut. Gill and the date. Miss Voelkers is a graduate of Iowa City high school and at present is a freshman in the university. Lieut. Gill was graduated from the university last June and is now stationed at San Antonio. Guests at the dinner included Margaret Bittner, Alice Benda, Jeanette Benda, Margaret Proehl, Doris Libyack, Dorothy Stevens, Charlotte Hegland, Katherine Ruppert, Virginia Schooley and Pauline Voelkers.

Flying Cadets Have To 'Know Their Engines' at Randolph

After the theory of internal combustion engines has been taught in the ground school at Randolph Field, Texas, the flying cadets go to the long row of test blocks where there are mounted aviation engines of all types and sizes. Practical work is performed on these motors including "trouble shooting" that is, determining the cause of improper operation of the engine. Minor faults in either carburation or electrical system are intentionally caused in these engines and then the game of hide and seek begins with the flying cadets searching for the cause of the elusive misfire. In the above photograph several flying cadets can be seen working on the engine itself while another member of the group, in the foreground, is operating the throttle.

Student pilots are protected from the whirling propeller by the heavy wire screening seen on the extreme left.

When the difficulty is finally discovered, a "critique" is held by the instructor in charge of the group during which they discuss the method of finding the particular fault.

This practical work in "trouble shooting" is part of the course given the future pilots for, unless they are completely familiar with all the inner workings of the motor of their plane, they are not qualified to make decisions should an engine falter while in the air. During the entire course, which lasts nine months and results in

Baker Urges the Development Of 'Adequate' American Culture

"Should we look upon America as a mere province of Europe, culturally, and our South and West as mere provinces of our North Atlantic states?" asked Prof. Joseph E. Baker of the English department in an article which appeared in the March issue of "College English."

Professor Baker contrasts the two extremes, provincial and chauvinistic — provincial culture such as Frederick the Great and his court's dependence on Paris, and chauvinistic as evidenced in Nazi culture which refuses to enjoy the best that has been thought and said in Paris.

"Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson were not provincials but heirs of the very latest European culture, making their own contribution to that culture and at the same time recognizing the peculiar possibilities of their own land," Professor Baker pointed out.

The author goes on to differentiate between regionalism and provincialism. "Regionalism aims

MERCURY Economy Run SURPRISING EVERYBODY

The hundreds of people who saw the Economy Run Mercury 8 at Iowa City expressed real surprise at its official mileage record. In the first 408 miles of the Run, this stock Mercury has averaged 20 miles to the gallon of gas!

TEST PROVES OWNERS RIGHT

One of the reasons for the success of the Mercury has been the word-of-mouth praise of its owners. "Big-car performance, size, comfort, driving ease," they said, "Plus Economy we didn't expect in such a big car!" . . . up to "20 miles per gallon!" Name the time and the place—and we'll put a car at your disposal. Stop in or call us today and arrange for the drive of your life!

CONGRESS NO LAZY MAN'S CLUB

Representative Patrick

Representative Patrick

If you think being a congressman is a soft snap, just ask Representative Luther Patrick (D.) of Alabama who, after three years in the house of representatives, ought to—and does—know. Patrick, in a speech before the house, reminded his colleagues that an efficient congressman is "a messenger boy, an employment agency, glad-hander, controversy settler, convention booker, business promoter, namer of babies, soberer of delegates, friend of underdog and uppedog," and many other things. He must also, Patrick says, "cheerfully entertain constituents, their wives, their sons' wives and see that the daughters meet the midshipmen at Annapolis."

Russell O. K.'d

Says Axis Maps N. Y.

The New York board of higher education has confirmed the appointment of Bertram Russell, English philosopher and writer, to a teaching post at the City College of New York, despite vigorous protests from Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal church and Catholic religious groups on grounds that Russell was a "recognized propagandist against both religion and morality" and a "defender of adultery."

That the German and Italian governments possess aerial maps of New York City is the statement of Lieut. Col. Harold E. Hartney, commander of the United States first pursuit squadron during the World War. Hartney says the photo maps were made by the late Capt. Ernest Lehman of the ill-fated commercial Zeppelin, Hindenburg, and Gen. Italo Balbo who led a "goodwill" flight to America in 1933.

College Students Favor Cuts in Governmental Expenditures --- But Not N. Y. A.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 21—Being debated in Congress and in committees is the president's economy budget. American colleges and universities, often far removed from the hustle of national life, this time have a keen interest in at least one item: the proposed reduction of the number of National Youth administration jobs. Although other polls of the Student Opinion Surveys of America have shown that collegians favor cuts in governmental expenditures, in this instance an overwhelming majority is opposed to the recommended 32 per cent reduction of NYA positions for college students. What is even more significant is that at least 12 per cent—approximately one-eighth—of the students, favor a reduction. Some of these declared that if the jobs were given only to students who were in absolute need of them, expenses could be cut. As was perhaps to be expected, students who now hold these jobs were emphatically in favor of continuing the program, a good many telling the Surveys interviewers that the number should even be increased. The poll points out, however, that students who are not NYA employees are of the same opinion by almost identical percentages. The national tabulations follow:

Table with 3 columns: Category, A, B, C. Rows include 'Approve of reduction', 'Disapprove of reduction', 'Reduce less than 32 per cent', 'Increase number of jobs', 'Don't know'.

not have NYA jobs) NYA workers, who perform hundreds of tasks from floor sweeping to book writing, earn about $15 a month. President Roosevelt's recommendation calls for the 1940 — 1941 fiscal (millions) for the 1940-1941 fiscal year to go to the National Youth Administration, $9,500,000 to be spent on college and graduate aid, the rest on other projects away from the campus. This would mean a college employment of 88,000 persons, as compared with 130,000 this year.

Lions Club Plans Child Benefit Show Monday, Tuesday Nights

R. Sherman To Be Starred On Program

Local, Imported Talent Scheduled To Provide Entertainment at Shows

The Lions club 1940 vaudeville and child welfare benefit show, to be held Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Iowa City high school auditorium, will star Ransom Sherman, master of ceremonies and comedian, who regularly appears over the NBC network.

Sherman made his radio debut in 1923, and in 1931 became a member of the National Broadcasting company's staff of artists. Previous to his radio career, Sherman took up the job of banquet song leader.

He studied to be a musician as had been the wish of his parents. They were talented musicians, and according to Sherman, hopefully looked forward to the day when they should hear their son at his first concert. They did, once, when he played the bass fiddle in a university orchestra. Then they urged him to try something — anything else.

Did Some Acting Taking up acting as a profession, his first role was that of Nanki Poo in the Gilbert-Sullivan opus, "The Mikado." However, he said the tenor sounded questionable, even to himself, so he dropped the idea of an "operative" career, even if it meant the wasting of three hard and difficult years of musical re-

Sherman will conduct a program of varied entertainment, consisting of imported as well as local talent. Jean Fahrney, formerly a vocalist with Horace Heidt's orchestra, will be guest soloist along with Bob and Babe Leefer, WMT novelty act; Larry Hays and Bob Perry, comedy wrestling act, and LeRoy the Mystic, sleight of hand artist.

Local talent to be used in the show will include Walter Good, G, national champion radio controlled model airplanes; Ted Cole, A1, tapdancing; Vernon Leonard, A2, and Martin Yoseloff, A3, novelty drum act; the Lions Club Singers with Virginia DeButts, A2, as soloist, and the Avalon orchestra.

The sale of tickets for the show began this week, and it is reported that a large number of tickets have been sold. All seats for the show will be reserved. Tickets may be purchased at Reich's cafe.

Gower Reveals Contest Plans

Prep Instrumentalists Compete Tomorrow; Winners To Advance

Plans for the annual Iowa City music contest, to be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. in the Iowa City high school auditorium, were announced yesterday by William Gower, bandmaster.

The contest, for instrumental soloists only, is being held for the purpose of selecting winners to compete in the district contest which will be held in Muscatine, March 29 and 30, Gower said. There will be 32 contestants in local competition from which 16 will be selected to represent Iowa City in district contest.

No admission charge will be made to the contest, and the general public is invited to attend, Gower said.

Johnson Fined $100 by Kadlec

Elmer F. Johnson was fined $100 yesterday by J. M. Kadlec, justice of the peace, for allegedly operating an over-loaded truck. The fine will be remitted upon Johnson's purchase of a license costing $279, Justice Kadlec said. Johnson's truck is being held awaiting payment of the fine.

Guest Artist

Jean Fahrney, formerly a vocalist with Horace Heidt's orchestra, will appear as soloist in the 1940 vaudeville and child welfare benefit show, sponsored by the Lions club and Parent-Teachers association, which will be held in the high school auditorium Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. Ransom Sherman, NBC radio comedian, will act as master of ceremonies. The program will be made up of varied entertainment, consisting of both imported and local talent.

3 Petitions For Divorce Filed Thursday

2 Plaintiffs Charge Defendants With Cruel, Inhuman Treatment

Petitions for three divorces were filed in Johnson county district court yesterday.

In the first petition, William E. Wilson asks a divorce from Edna Wilson, charging her with desertion. The couple were married in Phoebus, Va., June 27, 1932. The plaintiff asks custody of one minor child.

Attorney Ingalls Swisher is representing the plaintiff. The second petition was filed by Maurine Lemley, who is asking a divorce from Dwight I. Lemley, charging the defendant with cruel and inhuman treatment. The plaintiff asks that she be permitted to resume her former name, according to the petition.

The petition was filed for the plaintiff by Attorney Ingalls Swisher.

Lillian Wineke Burgess asked a divorce from Ernest P. Burgess, charging cruel and inhuman treatment. The plaintiff asks the custody of three children and alimony of $15 a week. Attorney Paul Toomey is representing the plaintiff.

Kite Contest

Youthful Flyers Will Compete Here Saturday, March 30

Saturday morning, March 30, will see the annual kite meet sponsored by the Recreation Center again getting underway, the scene of the contest being the university practice field which is directly behind the fieldhouse.

The contest is open to any Iowa City youth under 18 years of age who can produce a kite that will fly.

Kites in the meet will be grouped into three general classes. In each class ribbons will be awarded for the best flyer, highest flyer, the most novel or best decorated kite, the largest kite and smallest kite.

The three classes are as follows: (1) Single plane two or three stick kites. (2) Novelty kites of unusual design or decoration. (3) Compound or box kites.

A hundred yard dash for kites will climax the event. It is necessary to have a hundred yards of string attached to the kite to enter this event. The boy who is able to launch his kite, let out all the string and rewind the fastest is the winner. Reels may be fastened to belts or the ground.

Community Good Friday Service Today

Local Ministers To Lead at Meeting From Noon to 3 P. M.

Community Good Friday church services will be in the Trinity Episcopal church from noon until 3 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced last night by the officials of the Iowa City Ministerial association, sponsors of the service.

Ministers of the Iowa City Protestant churches will conduct the services. An invitation has been extended to all those who wish to attend.

An introductory and concluding address and meditations upon the seven words from the Cross and nine 20 minute devotional periods are planned.

Conducting the opening periods will be the Rev. Richard McEvoy. Other speakers will be the Rev. M. Estes Haney, the Rev. Robert H. Hamill, the Rev. Llewelyn A. Owen, the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, the Rev. Iilton T. Jones, and the Rev. Edwin E. Voigt.

to set a new date for the execution, the original date for the hanging having passed, or to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Joe B. Tye, Marshalltown attorney employed by Rhodes' parents to present the plea for clemency, argued that the court should not have been allowed to reverse itself, since the court's membership changed in the meantime as a result of an election.

Grothe Replies

Grothe replied that "as a result of some catastrophe all of the members of the court might have been killed and an entire new tribunal appointed." In that case, he said, it could not be said that a petition for rehearing could not be presented.

The state's attorney also brushed aside the pleas of the dead woman's parents for executive clemency.

Grothe said: "The state is not asking the death penalty to avenge the murder of Mabel Rhodes. We have long since abandoned the ancient law of 'an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' The theory upon which the state asked the death penalty . . . as we view it, is upon the assumption that by taking the life of the defendant we may preserve the lives of others; . . . that by putting to death the defendant in this case we may prevent other little children from being deprived of a mother's love and protection, as were the two children to whom Mabel Rhodes gave birth."

Rhodes May Answer Governor Wilson has allowed Rhodes' attorney until next Monday, March 25, to answer the state's arguments.

County Attorney Harold Vestmark of Iowa City, who prosecuted Rhodes, assisted in preparation of the state's argument.

G. Marland Asks Judgment Of $13,375 Against Company

Charges Negligence, Carelessness While Operating City Bus

A jury was selected yesterday in Johnson county district court to hear the damage case which Georgia Marland has brought against the Iowa City Coach company, asking that a judgment be levied against the defendant for $13,375.

The plaintiff charges negligence and carelessness on the part of the defendant while operating a bus.

According to the petition, the plaintiff suffered injury when, after entering a bus at Grant street and Sheridan avenue, the vehicle jerked in such a manner that she lost her balance and fell.

Attorney Will J. Hayek is representing the plaintiff. The defendant is represented by Attorneys Henry Negus and D. C. Nolan.

Members of the jury selected to try the case include John Parizek, J. E. Grace, John J. Teefy, Dorothy Ruth Stronks, Roy Strong, Charles Feisler, Jessie A. Seger, Marie Condon, Frank Panzer, Frank Miller, Lee J. Burns and Bess Fox.

Mrs. E. Ham Dies Thursday

Funeral Services Will Be Tomorrow For Aged Resident

Mrs. Evaline Ham, a resident of Iowa City for 83 years, died at 6:50 a. m. yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. J. Maher, in Iowa City. Mrs. Ham, who had suffered from ill health for many years, was 84.

She was born July 18, 1856 in New York, daughter of Justice and Jane Oathout, and came here with them the next year. She married Milton Ham in 1876 and is survived by him. Mrs. Ham was a member of the First Christian church here.

Other survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Emmet Oathout of Wellington, Kans. and Mrs. Milton Howe of Wichita, Kans., one brother, J. E. Oathout of Caldwell, Kans., four daughters, Mrs. L. J. Maher, Mrs. Jessie Hill and Mrs. Will Harper, all of Iowa City, and Mrs. William Seymour of Davenport; two sons, Walter Ham of Iowa City and Ray Ham of Council Bluffs and 11 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Oathout funeral chapel. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery. The body is at the Oathout funeral home.

C. Swindal Dies in West

Charles Swindal, former Iowa City resident and for several years an employe of Racine's Cigar store, died Sunday in Arizona, it was reported yesterday.

Swindal, who was born in Brooklyn, Iowa, attended the State University of Iowa. He married Loretta Norris of Grinnell.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Phyllis Jane Swindal; his mother who lives in Brooklyn, Iowa, and two sisters.

The funeral service, which is to be held in Brighton, has not been definitely arranged, relatives said.

The letter was presented to the senate foreign relations committee in the form of a petition by Walsh along with a protest from the Harvard university chapter of the American Independence league. Hull's telegram to the young diplomat, who has been at his post only two months, said:

"Public discussion of controversial policies of other governments, particularly with governments engaged in war, without the prior knowledge and permission of this government, is not in accord with such (standing) instructions."

Hull sent his telegram after receiving this afternoon an official text of Cromwell's address and examining it.

The state department issued the following statement:

"The secretary of state has now examined the text of the address made at Toronto on March 19 by the American minister to Canada, Mr. James H. R. Cromwell."

"Secretary Hull found that the address contravened standing instructions to American diplomatic officers, as public discussion of controversial policies of other governments, particularly with governments engaged in war, without the prior knowledge and permission of this government, is not in accord with such instructions. Such public statements by our diplomatic representatives are likely to disturb the relations between this and other governments."

"Secretary Hull has telegraphed his views to Mr. Cromwell and has asked that in the future he observe the standing instructions."

Mrs. Anderson Dies Thursday

Mrs. Robert Anderson, for seven years a resident of Iowa City, died at her home, 1001 Kirkwood, at 1:30 a. m. yesterday after a short illness.

She was born in Chemung, Ill. She was a member of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid society and the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Anderson is survived by her husband, Robert Anderson, whom she married in 1915; one daughter, Betty Anderson; one son, Robert Anderson; one sister, Mrs. Priscilla Rushton of Chicago, Ill., and a brother, George Blackington of Chicago, Ill.

The Rev. Iilton T. Jones will officiate at the funeral service which will be held at the McGovern funeral home at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Local Woman Dies at Mercy

Mrs. Carrie Ackerman, 814 Newton Road, died at 10:30 last night at the Mercy hospital after an illness of several weeks.

She is survived by one son and one daughter. Her husband, George C. Ackerman, preceded her in death Aug. 29, 1931.

Funeral arrangements have not been made. The body is at the Oathout funeral home.

Music Students Begin Fund Drive Today

Iowa City High School Musicians To Canvass City for Rummage Sale

A fleet of cars containing music auxiliary members and high school music students will start a drive to raise money at 8:45 a. m. today by canvassing the city for rummage.

The money that is secured will be used to send Iowa City high school band, orchestra, glee clubs and chorus to Minneapolis this May to participate in a regional music contest. Winners in these regional contests will be eligible to enter the national music contest.

When collected, the rummage will be sorted and made ready for the sale tomorrow in the Community building. Magazines and bundles of newspapers will be packed, pint and quart bottles will be sorted, clothes will be marked and coat hangers gathered. Posters prepared in the art class of Lucia Otto will be distributed in the business district.

Chairmen on the various committees include Mrs. S. R. Ranshaw, general chairman, Mrs. Frank A. Kinney, publicity, Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, magazine packing, Mrs. Lloyd, bottle sorting, Mrs. W. H. Simpson, clothes sorting, Mrs. P. O. Norman, coat hangers and Mrs. J. W. Willard, collections.

curiously examining the craters. 40 Bombs Fall

Officers estimated that about 40 bombs fell on the extensive grounds of the airport in the south. We could see no signs that any hangars had been hit directly. An incendiary bomb fell on the great steel crane which boosts seaplanes out of the water but the bomb had sputtered out on the iron platform.

Explosions near the hangars had shattered windows and bombs falling into the sea had caused great cakes of ice to fly about.

German fliers said the hangars and the crane probably were the objectives of the raiders but that the bombs were released from too great a height for any accuracy. "Of course our anti-aircraft guns harried them and they seemed to be nervous," said these Germans. "There was lots of noise but little if any military effectiveness."

Take To Cellar Everyone was saved in the bombed building which the Germans described as an infirmary but the roof was blown off and the walls cracked. The occupants were in the cellar.

The only other building we saw which showed extensive signs of damage was a small structure in which practice range targets were scored.

The Germans claimed three British planes were shot down, one near this little community.

This latter plane sank in the sea but the body of an officer, who apparently sprang from the plane as it was about to crash, was found on the ice the next morning.

The insignia had been removed from his uniform. The German army will give him a military funeral tomorrow.

Dam Inspected On our way across the Hindenburg dam we were able to climb over the great stones of which it was built and inspect the dam, rails and cars.

As far as we could see there were no signs of damage to the dam. Sylt in peacetime entertains tourists and supplies lobsters to the more expensive restaurants of Europe. In wartime it is part of Germany's air front against England; a frequent jumping-off place for British-bound German bombers.

District Court Convenes In Late Session

No Verdict Ready In Suits for Damage At 10 o'Clock Last Night

Johnson county district court was convened last night at 10 o'clock by Judge James P. Gaffney to determine the advisability of having the jury in the Bertha Strickler damage case continue its deliberation after being out nearly 30 hours without reaching a verdict.

The damage action, which was instigated by Bertha Strickler, administratrix of the estate of Elmus J. Strickler, against the Keeshin Motor Express company, has been before the court since Monday.

The plaintiff is seeking a judgment of $15,000 for damages allegedly caused to the estate of Elmus Strickler who was fatally injured in an automobile accident Feb. 4, 1937, when the car which he was driving collided with a truck near Wilton Junction.

Cross Petition The defendant filed a cross-petition asking $742.58 damages allegedly caused to the truck in the collision. The cross-petition charged Strickler with negligence in the operation of his car.

The jury had been called before the court at 4:45 p.m. yesterday by Judge Gaffney, and at that time indicated that the vote was tied. Members had deliberated almost 24 hours.

After a brief walk under the bailiff's supervision and a rest period, the jury resumed deliberation.

At the second appearance before the court last night, the foreman of the jury announced that the body had been resting, and without indicating which way, he stated that the last ballot had polled eight to four.

Jurors Capable A vote was taken by Judge Gaffney on the mental and physical condition of each member on the jury; after this examination, there appeared no objection to allowing them to return to the jury room for further deliberation.

Judge Gaffney stated: "The court does not desire to unduly punish any juror or to unduly coerce any member, but since 5 o'clock, you seem refreshed and I think I'll send you back."

The majority of the jurors were cheerful about the decision. Women on the jury, under the close supervision of Judge Gaffney and the jury bailiff, gave orders to their husbands for cosmetics and other necessities required for life in a jury room.
