

REYNAUD CABINET WILL CARRY ON

New Government Fights for Life With Bare Majority

-FROM PARIS-

Vote of Single Deputy Retains 22-Man Cabinet

Premier Gives Chamber Promise To Push War, To Fight Communists

PARIS, March 22 (AP) - The new French government of Premier Paul Reynaud wrung an absolute majority of just one vote from the chamber of deputies today but decided to stick it out and fight for its life.

For a time it appeared that the seven radical socialist ministers headed by former Premier Edouard Daladier would desert the regime.

But after an hour and a half's pow-wow, the unwieldy 22-man cabinet agreed unanimously to carry on.

Whether this means a mere momentary arrangement or that by the time the chamber reconvenes April 2 Reynaud will try to whip up a larger majority, remains to be seen.

War Group To Meet At all events, the inner "war committee" formed by Reynaud to meet several times a week is gathering at 10 a.m. (4 a.m. EST) tomorrow to get on with the little premier's promise to push the war.

The government emerged from its first precarious day of existence shy only one man - the navy undersecretary Jean Le Cour Grandmaison, who resigned under pressure from his rightist party.

There are now 12 undersecretaries in the new regime, making a total government group of 34. Reynaud gave several clear-cut pointers in his talk to the chamber which returned him a majority of one today.

He said he intended to prosecute the war vigorously. Nevertheless, he intends to follow the policy of his predecessor, Daladier, in doing nothing rash. That is, he, like Daladier, will be "sparing in lives."

He will continue a relentless fight against communism. Speaking to the chamber he said: "It (the communist party) is an organization of treason. It acts against the country. We will crush it."

Today's close vote on the new coalition government showed 268 deputies voting in favor; 156 voting against. But 111 others present refused to vote at all, and had to be considered hostile. Thus Reynaud got a one-vote absolute majority of those present.

Little Difference So far as fundamental differences between the Reynaud government and that of Daladier which resigned Wednesday are concerned, the French already are saying that this is merely a "Reynaud-Daladier" cabinet instead of a "Daladier - Reynaud" cabinet.

The energetic ex-finance minister had a bitter day today, even if he did win. He was attacked in the chamber and faced many frosty benches. His ministerial declaration was not largely applauded and in general his commentary was termed uninteresting.

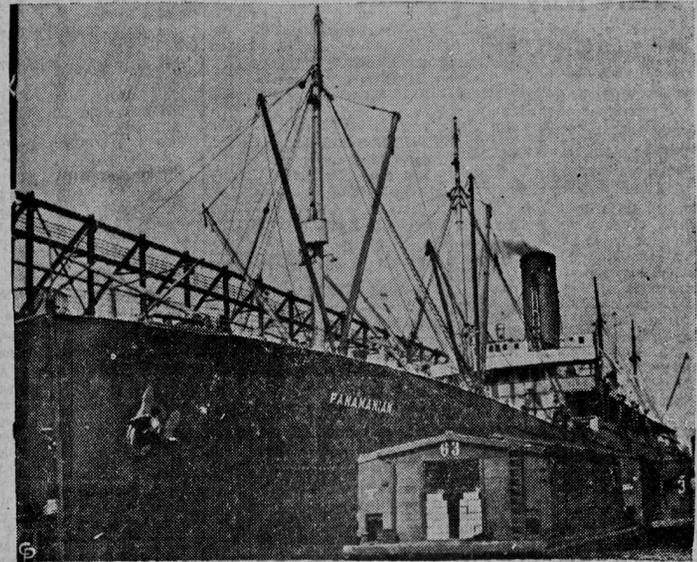

Until the last moment the betting odds were that he would lose. Even now, if today's abstainers became active oppositionists, he might be overthrown.

Conversely, he may win these votes, or most of them, over to his support. Also, 16 deputies were away on leave today and in such a tight race their votes could, in the future, swing the balance.

Feminine Jealousy, High Cost of Plural Marriage Sound Death Knell—

Egyptian Harems Are on the Way Out!

NEW ORLEANS, March 22 (AP)—Egyptian harems, background for many a tall tale of love life along the Nile, have been so blighted by feminine jealousy and the high cost of keeping up wives that there is a movement afoot to abolish polygamy.

That's straight from Abd El Wahab Dawood Bey, retiring Egyptian ambassador to Japan, who became so intrigued with the recent political news from Louisiana that he came by here en route to his new post as minister to Greece and Yugoslavia to look matters over a little.

Among other miscellaneous interesting news from the land that gave the world Cleopatra and the riddle of the sphinx, his excellency reported that feminine objection to being a second, third, fourth or fifth official wife, with her seniors snooting her, has permanently blighted the harem.

"And if you're a member of the Egyptian upper classes," he said in an interview, "it costs like the very devil to keep a harem in the style to which the ladies so swiftly grow accustomed. The harem continues as an institution only among the very lowest classes. And there is a movement now on foot, with every prospect of success, to pass a law making the harem there illegal."

He said Egypt has broken off diplomatic relations with Germany but has not followed Great Britain in declaring war.

"So thus far we still are using our famous camel corps only against drug smugglers. The smugglers use camels, too," he said. "They have the animals swallow sealed glass containers holding thousands of dollars worth of narcotic drugs. If they get through, they kill the camels and take out the drugs and peddle them."

British Sub Sinks German Ship

Nazi Freighter Caught Near Danish Coast

Accuse Germany Of Torpedoing Norwegian, Six Danish Vessels

LONDON, March 22 (AP) - The first German merchantman to be sunk by a British submarine since the start of the war was added proudly today to allied sea conquests while British sources accused Germany of "torpedoing without warning" one Norwegian and six Danish vessels in the last 48 hours.

Admiralty announcement that the 4,947-ton Nazi freighter Hedderheim had been torpedoed eight miles off the Danish coast was regarded in some quarters as indicative of a British campaign to cut off Scandinavian ore shipments to Germany, one leaky place in the allied blockade.

The admiralty merely gave the location of the sinking as eight miles off the Danish coast, but unofficial reports said it occurred in the Kattegat, entrance to the Baltic sea, shortly before last midnight.

In Denmark 35 members of the German merchantman's crew, rescued from small boats by a Danish coast guard cutter, said they had been given 15 minutes to leave the ship before the British torpedo was launched.

Nine-Year-Old Iowan Admits Killing Brother

Emmetsburg Youngster Accidentally Killed In 'Stick 'em Up' Game

EMMETSBURG, March 22 (AP)—Sheriff B. F. Montgomery said tonight that as far as he knew, no charges would be filed against 11-year-old William Mundus, who admitted he shot and killed his 9-year-old brother, Bernard, during a game of "stick 'em up" Sunday.

The sheriff said the shooting was considered an accident. William told the story of the shooting to authorities today and then returned to his parents' home with his father, Lee Mundus.

Father Glad It's Over "I'm glad it is all over," said the father. "It would be an awful thing for William to go through life trying to keep it a secret."

The boy carried his secret for nearly a week, the sheriff said, but told the story after ballistics tests showed the fatal bullet had been fired from a gun found in a kitchen drawer in the Mundus home.

The tests were made in the state bureau of investigation laboratories in Des Moines. The boys' father found the body after he and his wife returned from a visit in town.

Bernard's Story Officials said William told the following story: "Bernard and I were playing together in the kitchen of the house. I pulled the .38 caliber revolver out of a kitchen drawer. I said let's go out and play stick 'em up. Bernard walked ahead of me. As he walked through the barn yard, I fired the revolver twice and it didn't go off."

"The third time I fired, the gun went off. Bernard fell in a sitting position and then fell over on his side. I walked back to the house and didn't tell anybody."

There are four other children in the family.

Army Clarifies Secrecy Surrounding New Uncompleted 70-Ton U. S. Bomber

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) - The army today lifted a two-year veil of secrecy surrounding an uncompleted 70-ton bomber, described as the world's largest airplane and believed capable of a round-trip flight across the Atlantic without landing.

The giant craft, designated the B-19, is nearing completion behind a screened section of the Douglas aircraft plant at Santa Monica, Cal. The imminent necessity of moving it outdoors to attach wings spreading more than 210 feet prompted the war department to give a cautious description—the first official admission that the plane existed. The first flight is tentatively scheduled for summer.

Costing more than $1,000,000, the plane is not expected to be duplicated, but officials said experience gained in its construction would be incorporated in bombers of less imposing bulk. Plans of the plane, congress was told recently by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the F. B. I., were stolen last year but recovered.

The announcement coincided with others that the army had adopted two new weapons used extensively in the European war.

Plunges 1,000 Feet to Death From Airplane Over California

24-Year-Old Woman Had 'Courage To Die'; Saw Cowardice in Life

SANTA ANA, Calif., March 22 (AP)—Louise Drolet, 24, plunged 1,000 feet to her death from an airplane today, leaving a note saying "It takes courage to die, but it is cowardly to live an empty, ill life."

Pilot Joe Hager said the girl, pale and nervous, purchased a $1 ticket for the fatal ride, explaining she wanted to go aloft to win a $5 bet with a boy friend that she wasn't afraid to fly.

When they neared a 1,000 foot altitude, Hager felt the plane lurch. Glancing back, he saw the woman about to leap. He attempted to seize her, but she tore from his grasp and lunged into space.

The body landed on a hillside field near Newport Beach, only a short distance from her Corona Del Mar home.

The note, found in her motorcar, read: "Forgive me. I just couldn't bear it any longer. It takes courage to die, but it is cowardly to live an empty, ill life."

Investigators for Coroner E. R. Abbey reported relatives of the dead girl said she suffered a nervous collapse six years ago. No inquest was ordered.

Boy Meets Dog...

... in the middle of the Iowa river. That's the story behind this picture of Vic Crepeau, A2 of Schenectady, N. Y., who is extending Iowa Union hospitality in the form of a juicy bone to a nameless and apparently ownerless chow dog. It seems that Chow was crossing the river on the ice when it broke through under his weight, and according to two small boys who witnessed the mishap, a smaller dog with Chow tried unsuccessfully to pull him out by the ear. The boys rushed to the Union where they explained the situation to Vic. Vic at once called the local fire department, and then, securing a ladder from the basement of the Union, began crawling inch by inch out upon the thin ice with only the ladder to support him. The story has a happy ending in that Vic saved Chow and Chow was thankful for a warm blanket and a bone.

Senate Passes $923,000,000 Farm Appropriation Measure

But Treasury Can't Handle Big Increase

Morgenthau Declares Reserve Won't Meet 'Unbudgeted Expenses'

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) - The senate passed the big $923,000,000 farm appropriation bill—$203,000,000 above the budget estimates—today in the face of a warning from Secretary Morgenthau that it should not expect the increase to be paid from the treasury's cash balance.

That balance, Morgenthau wrote to Senator Byrd (D-Va.), will run "about as low as it can be permitted to go," at the close of the present fiscal year, without dipping into it for unbudgeted agricultural expenditures.

Administration leaders in the senate had engaged in a controversy with Byrd as to whether the senate's increases could be financed in that way, with Byrd finally writing to the treasury head for information on the point.

Presenting Morgenthau's letter, he referred to the figures it contained, and said they made it "evident" that "it would not be prudent financing to reduce still further this working balance."

Congressman Indicted On Job Sale Count

Georgian Allegedly Peddled Postal Jobs; Investigations Loom

ATLANTIC, March 22 (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted a congressman today, charging sale of postal jobs, and a prosecutor from Washington mapped inquiry into other reports of political corruption in Georgia.

O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general who broke widespread Louisiana scandals, declined to say if Georgia holds the "similar situation" which he had said previously was slated for federal attention after the Louisiana clean-up.

Instead, he merely announced the indictment of Rep. B. Frank Wheelchel (D-Ga.) of the ninth district, and issued a brief statement saying he would return here "within a few weeks" to inquire into various other matters, apparently including charges of graft and corruption in the state government.

The statement said the tall prosecutor had gone into "evidence given before the state economy committee," a legislative body which made a general investigation of the state government last year and heard many charges of inefficiency and some claims of illegal collusive selling to state agencies.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. R. Expect 50,000 at 1940 Egg Event—

There'll Be Rolling Room Only Monday

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP) - While a cold will limit President Roosevelt's Easter activities, preparations went ahead tonight at the White House for a busy week end, including the world's biggest egg event, the traditional Easter egg roll Monday.

Ever since 1878, with the exception of the World War years, children have had the freedom of the spacious White House grounds to play and roll their gaily colored Easter eggs.

The tall iron gates will swing open at 9 a.m. Monday to boys and girls under 10 years of age. The small toddlers will be accompanied by adults.

White house guards expect them to come by the tens of thousands as they have done in the past—52,259 in 1937; 53,180 in 1938; 48,528 last year.

Mrs. Roosevelt planned to go through the grounds to greet her young guests as she had done the seven past Easter Mondays, rain or shine. In the afternoon the University of Rochester glee club will sing.

The egg roll got its start back in the days when Ulysses S. Grant was president. Some enterprising youngsters found it was great fun to take the eggs the Easter bunny had left up to the capitol grounds and roll them down the hill.

Easter Sunday will dawn early at the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt plans to attend the sunrise Easter services at Arlington national cemetery in the amphitheater near the tomb of the unknown soldier.

It had been the president's plan to attend Easter services with Mrs. Roosevelt at St. Thomas' Episcopal church, but his physician was doubtful tonight whether the chief executive would leave the mansion that day.

Another Trade Wall Weakens

THERE was a time when we thought as Americans that we were superior to our ancestors of centuries back, the ones who built walls around their cities and even around their nations to keep out invaders.

Lately the practice of building walls has been revived. We speak of the walls that you've learned to think of as "trade barriers" since there has been an active campaign to tear them down.

That campaign has brought results to a small degree, but the largest share of the labyrinth of state laws and administrative regulations that cause "Balkanization" of the United States still exists.

The campaign has resulted in a study of the whole subject of trade barriers by the Temporary National Economic committee in Washington, which should result in turning the tide of regulation even more effectively than the sporadic opposition previous to this current investigation.

One of the most interesting of these barriers has been the perilsous city tax on cigarettes in New York. Thousands of commuting citizens of New Jersey have been in danger of arrest for carrying packages of cigarettes to work with them when they bought the cigarettes "across the river."

A fight against the one-cent city tax has been led by the New York Daily News. The campaign of those opposed to the tax was met by an official campaign to stem a flood of unstamped cigarettes from New Jersey and elsewhere—a campaign which resulted in scores of arrests.

A partial victory was won Thursday, however, when the city conceded that smokers may bring cigarettes from other states and cities without paying the city tax so long as the cigarettes are for the purchaser's personal use.

It sounds absurd, but before Thursday prosecutors had contended that transporting even one package of unstamped cigarettes, regardless of the use, was a breach of the city tax laws.

It is gratifying to see progress in the campaign against trade barriers. States rights are important in the American scheme of things, but reversing the process of federation is not American.

Are We To Stop Having Facts?

THE LESSON that James R. Young, correspondent for International News Service, learned in Japan is one he undoubtedly needed to learn: that freedom of speech does not exist in a totalitarian state.

But it is humiliating for an American to be convicted in a Japanese court on a charge of "sending from China extremely slanderous news reports regarding the Japanese forces" and of "spreading fabrications and rumors among Japanese and foreigners."

If the Japanese objected, which they did of course, it would seem more courteous to the United States for deportation to be the punishment for the "heinous offense."

"Jimmy" Young was lucky, no doubt, to get off with a six months suspended sentence, with release probably today.

Young was arrested Jan. 21 when he arrived in Japan from conquered China. He can be thankful, since he incurred the wrath of the Japanese warlords, that he spent but two months in jail, that he has been fined only the full costs of the trial, which started March 11.

The penalty to American newspapermen for reporting the news as they see it in the totalitarian states seems to have become greater than the usual censorship, or for a great offense, deportation. The precedent set by Japan in the arrest of the INS correspondent is a foreboding one. It can mean ultimately that the superior knowledge that Americans have had of the happenings in countries in which the native populations are kept ignorant of the facts is to become a luxury of the 30's.

It can mean that reporters who report the truth will not be tolerated in other lands, and that we will have to be satisfied to know only what the other governments want us to know. The shaded and scanty reports of activities issued from government offices in other lands have been inadequate. In- genious reporters have had to dig deep to find facts.

We hope that as the Jimmy Young case was the first of its kind in many years that it becomes the last for an equal number of years.

American Music For All The Americas

JULY 5 there will sail from New York on the liner Washington 109 of America's most talented young musicians. They will tour Latin-American nations, acting as good will bearers from the United States.

Even if the benefits to America of such a good will tour are discounted entirely, the rewards to these young musicians make this an invaluable project.

The idea of an all-American youth orchestra is Leopold Stokowski's. The great conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra will direct the musicians on their tour, giving them training under a great leader that they couldn't have received at all otherwise.

Preliminary auditions have been made in every section of the nation in these weeks. April 1 Stokowski himself will tour the United States to make the final selections. Only the most talented will make up the tour orchestra.

It is Stokowski's dream that this will become a permanent educational and artistic institution which in addition to being a "post-graduate course" to the talented youngsters, will provide them with employment and confidence to continue their careers.

One of the most promising aspects of the idea is that Stokowski expects many of the orchestra's members to return eventually to their home towns to organize additional youth orchestras, thus providing opportunity for others who are qualified for the all-American orchestra and at the same time propagating a modern American musical culture, with Stokowski's own new orchestral methods and technique.

The potential value of Stokowski's idea to the art of music in America is obvious. Consumption of his idea may not appreciate Stokowski's fame; it will, we are sure, expand his greatness.

The Romance Of Julien Poydras

OCCASIONALLY there comes in the day's news a story that is as full of whimsy and as intriguing as the romances sung by the troubadours.

Such is the story of Julien Poydras, which was retold Thursday when a dozen brides received dowries left more than a century ago by Poydras.

The newly-married West Baton Rouge parish girls' dowries come from the earnings of the fund established 115 years ago because a penniless Breton sailor became the richest man in Louisiana, but never found a bride.

The story tells that Poydras began his life in Port Allen as a house-to-house peddler. And when he died at 84, he had five vast plantations, hundreds of slaves, sugar mills, warehouses and mercantile interests.

Legend has it that after he left the sea he fell in love with a Creole girl who refused his hand because she was without a dowry. Another legend says the girl died before Poydras had accumulated enough money to support her.

Whatever the true cause, Poydras set aside $30,000 in his will to provide dowries for young couples who wanted to unite in marriage and were having financial difficulties.

(Although it's not nearly so romantic, the fact is that Poydras also endowed Louisiana's first public school, charity hospital and other institutions, and served the state in congress.)

Any girl living in the parish for five years may apply for a share in the dowry fund, shares varying with the number of applicants. Last year 20 brides split up approximately $2,000. One year there was but one applicant, and there have been years when only two or three brides got the entire earnings of the fund.

And just as though that weren't romance enough—the generous Breton spent the last few years of his long life writing poetry as an outlet for his romantic nature!

The strength used up in anger might well serve more useful and constructive purposes, which would also alleviate the nervous tension which causes it.

Holy Week Daily Messages for 1940

(This program of Holy Week meditations has been planned and edited by Rev. Llewellyn Arnold Owen, president, Iowa City Minister's association; minister, First Congregational church.)

PATIENCE By The Rev. Ralph M. Krueger, Pastor

First English Lutheran Church. If there is anything in this world that arouses most men's anger it is the ridicule of their fellow men. The sense of being held in derision has driven many an otherwise steady man to desperate deeds. But worse than ridicule is an insult—the open scoffing and mockery of those who once were called "friend."

That is what Jesus had to endure throughout the travesty of His threefold trial that awful night before His crucifixion. Hated by the crowd, taunted by His accusers, beaten and mocked by the Roman soldiers, He bore in those few hours more insult than many of us suffer through a lifetime.

And yet, the very manner in which He bore those indignities is among the best proofs of His divinity. "When He was reviled He reviled not again." Instead, He bore His suffering either in silence or in rejoinders calculated to turn the perpetrators' thoughts to themselves.

We must ask, "What was the secret of it all?" "What did Jesus have that made Him able to go through it all so patiently?" The secret of His willingness to endure these things is found in a principle which He Himself stated earlier in His ministry:

"Fear not them which will destroy the body; fear him which will destroy both body and soul in hell." In other words, do not fear what men can do to your body, but fear what sin can do to your soul.

Standing firmly in the way of His Father's will, Jesus knew that these little men could do Him no permanent damage, even though they mutilated His body to the death. For through those very acts they were releasing His soul and with it an innumerable host of souls that in Him would also be able to prevail against all evil and rise again to everlasting life.

Patience under trial—that was the secret of Christ's greatness. The sufferer on the sick-bed, the mourner before the open grave, the man who battles on in spite of life's overwhelming odds, the believer who stands for the Truth in spite of mockery and derision, these all share in the spirit of Christ.

In the words of the great Quaker poet, John Greenleaf Whittier, we see what it is that keeps a Christian patient, strong and calm when passing through the storms of life.

"Dear Lord and Father of mankind, Forgive our feverish ways; Reclothe us in our rightful mind; In purer lives Thy service find, In Deeper reverence, praise.

"Breathe through the heats of our desire Thy coolness and Thy balm; Let sense be dumb, let flesh retire; Speak through the earthquake and the fire, O still small voice of calm."

The New Deal Government Didn't Hire Any Incompetents for Publicity Work - - - Stewart

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

I can best illustrate how I feel about it with a little biographical reminiscence. Back in the very, very early 1900's conservatives weren't so bitter against moderate liberals as they are against new dealers today—perhaps partly because the then liberals weren't so advanced; maybe partly because letism didn't look so near fruition.

Anyway, in this era I was telegraph editor of a big mid-western newspaper. On my desk was one of the brightest young men ever invented. Another rarely capable junior was on the reportorial staff.

We boarded together—were exceptionally chummy. I was as liberal as they were, but I didn't happen to like Theodore Roosevelt. They disagreed with me.

Parting of Ways. In due course we disintegrated. The premier bright young guy I have referred to quickly rose to the management of one of the greatest newspaper chains in America and one of the world's greatest news-gathering associations.

I went to work for his association, traveling over the earth as a correspondent, for 20 years or thereabout. Then I fell out with him and sought employment elsewhere.

The third member of our group hooked up with the newspaper chain about when I connected with the world news association. His connection was as an individual newspaper editor. Which was o. k. at that juncture, because the chain's original owner was a rampant liberal, not to say a radical. It didn't make much difference with me; my dope was plain news. The other fellow, though, had to take an editorial position.

How Times Change! But—consider. This is in terms of 40 years. The original owner of that newspaper chain died, and his son died, and the little copy-reading member of our initial trio had become the whole thing of our basic combination. However, it ran along for awhile, with the other guy as top of one of the chain's key newspapers.

Now, I submit that, to have lasted for 35 years, being steadily promoted meanwhile, he must have been a pretty fair editor. But out he went. Maybe he quit—because his stunt became impossible under the circumstances.

The government grabbed him, and made an acquisition. I'll say!

I'm referring to Lowell Mellett of the R. F. C.

The Man Mellett. If ever there was a moderate and modest liberal entitled to consideration it's that Hoosier newspaperman.

He's fought for righteousness throughout his life. He's never got a thing politically but that pewee of a publicity job. Gosh! Conservatives ought to like him—as a darned good citizen.

He's got some conservative publicity. Big towns get publicity. So does the country. But the little burghs? Now's the time to rally behind him, if ever.

QUOTABLE QUOTES (By Associated Collegiate Press)

"The youth of America comes to the doors of our colleges with hope and vision. Their spirit is the spirit of adventure. Their urge is the urge of growth. Their principle qualification for admission is curiosity. Their most valued recommendation is the desire for better things. Their finest equipment to succeed in a world of opportunity. They are endowed with the talents of normal human beings and are burdened with the frailties common to all men. This is the material with which the college works and no finer task may be found in all time than to create from this material a product that can be recognized as a gentleman and a scholar." Rutgers University's Dr. Fraser Metzger aptly describes the "raw material" of higher education.

"The academic year 1939-40 will be marked in the future as the turning point in engineering education in the United States—a turning point away from specialization on technological subject-matter in the basic four-year programs and toward the inclusion of an integrated stem of social-humanistic studies which will tend to make the engineers of tomorrow a more rounded man and citizen."

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Boudreau's Ankle
- Double Plays
- Trosky Clouts

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 22 (AP)—It's been 20 long years since Cleveland held the American league championship, and although even the free thinkers won't tell you that this is the year it will be given back to the Indians the idea is general that Oscar Vitt's team is one of the two or three with even an outside chance of finishing ahead of the Yankees.

Boudreau's Ankle
That is, the chance was there until three or four days ago, when Vitt sent Louis Boudreau for a precautionary X-ray of a lame ankle.

"He was running from first to third," Vitt explained. "When he came in he said he hurt his ankle stepping on second base. The X-ray showed a crack in the bone. He may be out three weeks, maybe indefinitely. You can't tell about those things.

"And he's the best shortstop I've looked at in a long while. I wouldn't trade him for any in the league. I don't care if he hits ought-two, he'll help me. But he should hit 280. You should see him on double plays—swish, swish, swish." Vitt illustrated with darting movements of his hands. "He'd be in on four double plays a game."

Double Plays
Boudreau came up late last year from Buffalo, along with second baseman Ray Mack, much to the distress of the Buffalo fans. Mack, a 195 pounder, handles his bulk dexterously, and he and Boudreau make an excellent double-play combination.

In fact, with Boudreau available, the Cleveland infield packs plenty of class, with large Hal Trosky on first and Ken Keltner on third.

It is the impression that the Indian outfield is a little on the light side, but Vitt bristles at the suggestion.

"I'm satisfied with it," he challenges belligerently. "Ben Chapman and Roy Weatherly are all right, and Geoffrey Heath has the natural ability to be one of the best players of the game."

"See that No. 34 out there? That's Clarence Campbell, an outfielder with New Orleans last year. I like him. He hit one nine miles the other day."

However, despite Vitt's expressed satisfaction with how his garden grows, the idea persists that the Indians could use some men out there who would send opposing outfielders shinning up fences. Heath got 14 home runs last year, Chapman six, and Weatherly only one in the 95 games he played, and all that doesn't add up to a half-pint of power when compared with the Williamses and DiMaggios and Greenbergs some of the other contenders boast.

Trosky Clouts
Trosky is the only real power hitter on the team, and it's going to take some blasting to get the Yankees out of there. You can't bluff them out.

The Indian catching seems to be well taken care of, with Rollie Hemsley on his good behavior these many months, and Frank Pytak a capable understudy.

With runs none too abundant, a heavy load will fall on the Cleveland pitchers, and it is the mound stuff which starts the fans arguing and worrying simultaneously.

The argument is that Bob Feller is certainly due for a fine year, that Mel Harder should win his share, that Willis Hudlin and Al Milnar should turn in workmanlike jobs, and that a couple of lads like Mike Naymik may help the credit side.

The worrying comes in with the question of Johnny Allen's arm and the possibility of Harder's wing going dead. All Vitt will say right now is that his pitchers "are coming along a little right."

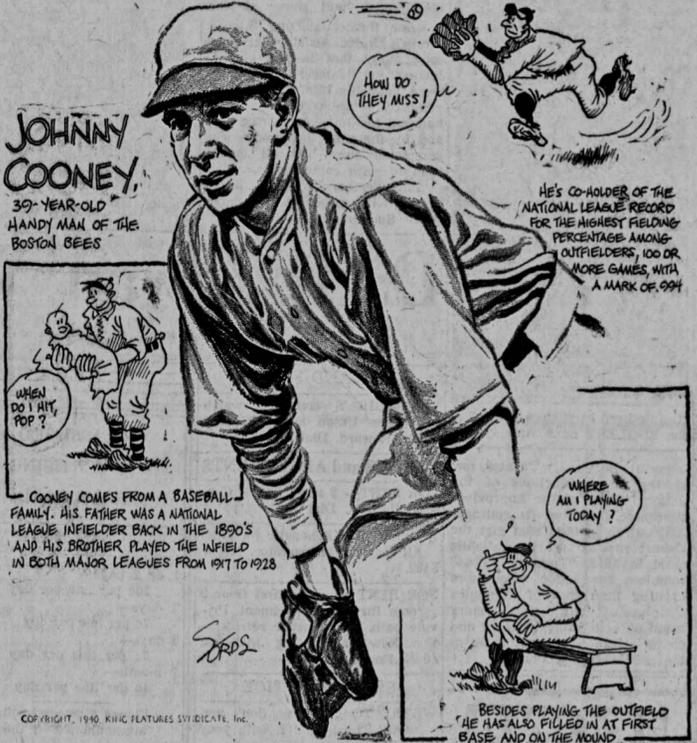

As a whole, the team's chief drawback would seem to be the lack of sheer power on offense, particularly in the outfield, but that drawback can't be shrugged away. It's hard to find a good substitute for a home run with the bases loaded.

Cubs Shade Pirates, 7-6

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP)—Lynn Heitzelman, Pittsburgh rookie, threw one ball in the ninth inning today and Dominic Dilesandro knocked it over the fence for a home run to give the Chicago Cubs a 7 to 6 exhibition game victory.

The Cubs lambasted four Pittsburgh pitchers for 14 hits, but it took the rookie outfielder's long blow to decide the game.

St. Mary's in National Meet On Loyola Floor Next Week

St. Mary's, one of the state parochial powers, steps into national competition next week when the Ramblers compete in the national invitational Catholic tournament at Loyola university in Chicago.

The Marians will be the only Iowa team besides the state tournament champion and runner-up, Dowling of Des Moines and Loras of Dubuque, to compete. It is the practice of the tourney officials to invite only the state champion, the runner-up and one other outstanding quietest. The Ramblers were chosen on the basis of their outstanding season record against top-notch competition.

Eight players, Coach Francis Sueppel and an athletic director will leave for Chicago either next Tuesday or Wednesday. Pairings will be announced Sunday night, and the tournament will start with three games Wednesday night. All teams playing the first night must be in Chicago Tuesday. All other teams must arrive Wednesday. Although the usual starting five, Flicker Chadec, Tony Braek, Ray Cole, Bill Bock and Ray Eakes, will undoubtedly make the trip, the other three squad members are as yet undecided. Coach Sueppel will make a choice between giving his seniors a last fling before ending their competition, or letting his promising sophomores acquire some much-needed experience. A final drill today will be the deciding factor in the choice.

Thirty-two teams from all over the country will compete in the tournament, with teams coming from as far as California to play. Outstanding Indian teams from the reservations will also be listed among the entrants.

St. Mary's will stay in Chicago for the duration of the tournament, which will last until Sunday night. If at any time the Ramblers are beaten, they will automatically drop into a consolation tournament which will run along with the championship melee.

Angels Nick Chisox
ONTARIO, Calif., (AP)—An eighth inning rally gave the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league a 3 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday although the major leaguers got almost twice as many hits. Two rookie pitchers and the veteran Clint Brown gave up only five hits, but the Sox made three errors and collected nine hits.

Engleman cut through the Texans' defense for 10 baskets and a single free throw.

The Jayhawkers will meet the winner of the Colorado-Southern California game in the finals tomorrow night.

Jim in the sprint series of 40, 50 and 55-yard dashes, Vollenweider will be matched against the nation's best in the high hurdles series of 40, 50 and 60-yard distances.

Two Men Added to Iowa Entries in Chicago Relays

Ed Baird and Joel Hinrichs were added to the squad of six Iowa men that left yesterday afternoon for the Chicago relays after a time trial was held earlier in the morning in the 440 yard dash.

Baird and Hinrichs will join Jim Wilson, Art Schlauder and Marilyn Gillespie in making up the mile relay team which will compete on the board track with Wisconsin and Minnesota tonight in Chicago's huge International amphitheater.

Iowa holds the relays record along with Ohio State in the mile event with a time of 3:20.4 set in 1939 with the great team of Carl and Fred Teufel, Milt Billig and John Graves.

Wilson and Hank Vollenweider will compete in the individual events, Jim in the sprint series of 40, 50 and 55-yard dashes, Vollenweider will be matched against the nation's best in the high hurdles series of 40, 50 and 60-yard distances.

Kansas Cagers Wallop Rice In 50-44 Tilt
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 22 (AP)—Howard Engleman, a curly haired blonde, led Kansas to a 50 to 44 victory over Rice Institute tonight in the first game of the western NCAA basketball playoffs.

Engleman cut through the Texans' defense for 10 baskets and a single free throw.

The Jayhawkers will meet the winner of the Colorado-Southern California game in the finals tomorrow night.

Stastny Checks Losers After Shaky Start

Andy Kantor Paces Iowa Batting Attack With Four Bingles

By FRED HOHENHORST
RUSTON, La., March 22—(Special To The Daily Iowan)—Bob Stastny, who was clouted from the mound in Thursday's tilt, came back today and limited Louisiana Tech to 10 hits to win himself a ball game, 7-4, for the fifth straight Iowa victory.

The Hawkeye righthander was off to a shaky start, allowing four runs in the first two innings, but blanked the southern team from there on out. Meanwhile, the Hawks scored once in the first stanza, four times in the third and once each in the fourth and sixth innings.

Outhit, 10 to 9, the Hawkeyes were able to bunch their hits to score, while Stastny kept the Bulldog hits well scattered. Andy Kantor, Iowa shortstop, paced Hawkeye hitters with four bingles in five times at bat, while Jim George and Smith each counted two hits in four trips to the plate.

The Hawkeyes play their final game of the southern trip here tomorrow and then leave immediately for Little Rock, Ark. They will probably arrive in Iowa City some time Monday.

Watch Those Lymphocytes Scientist Finds Way To Forecast Jitters Before Ball Games

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 22 (AP)—Errorless baseball and football without fumbles by keeping athletes with subconscious jitters on the bench is science's approach to the coaches' and spectators' millennium.

It's a doctor's idea, not yet fully developed but with much of the ground work already done.

The basis, says Dr. Edmund J. Farris of Philadelphia, is a method of determining scientifically whether the halfback or pitcher about to be sent into the game is in such a mental state—that he's a cinch to pull a Riegels or a Merkle.

Dr. Farris says the question of uncovering the subtle, unsuspected sort of jitters boils down to a simple (to him) business of counting lymphocytes.

Take it easy, now, because lymphocytes are just one of several kinds of things that make up the "white" part of blood.

Dr. Farris told the American association of anatomists today about trying out his system on the University of Pennsylvania football team last fall. Before games he took a drop of blood from each player and—using a microscope and some other things—tabulated the jitter signals by counting the lymphocytes.

It wouldn't be normal—watch out for this paradox—for football players, about to give their all for Gravel Switch, to register the general normal which is a count of 25 to 30 (in percentage). What happens, says Dr. Farris, is that the players, even those who seem calmest and feel "just right" emotionally, give counts that look like winter book odds on a plow horse.

The highest Dr. Farris got last fall was 75 and this, he says, shows that the player was ready to commit some sort of tactical mayhem, which is what happened.

After about five minutes of play, the count settles down somewhere in the neighborhood of 50. That, says the doctor, is about the level of greatest efficiency for football.

Dr. Farris has an idea that by perfecting a quick sort of round-up condition test—lymphocytes, blood pressure and a few other factors—many a potential athletic blunder could be choked off before it happened.

Pitchers could be yanked before the start of the inning in which they were destined to have a physical or mental blow-up.

The specialist about to be sent in for a place kick could be sent to the showers instead, before he camouflaged the ball off the left end's head.

Around The Big Leagues

Phils Battered By Columbus

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Knocking southpaw Clyde Smoll out of the box in the fifth with a nine-run splurge, Columbus, of the American association, battered out a 17 to 7 victory over the Phillies today.

Hugh Mulcahy held Columbus to one hit for four innings, but once Smoll entered the game the A. A. boys went to town. In the fifth they combined seven hits—including two triples—with three bases on balls to win easily.

Dan Litwhiler's second homer in as many days had given the Phils a 2-0 edge until the fifth.

Senators Depend On New Hurler

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris, of the Senators, desperately in need of pitchers, has all but handed a starting assignment job to Sid Hudson, a rookie from the class D Florida State league.

"As far as I can see," said the veteran manager, "Hudson's got everything. As I've said before, he's the most promising young pitcher I've handled since Schoolboy Rowe and now it goes double."

Hudson won 24 and lost but four games for Sanford last season. In spring training games, he has allowed only four hits in nine innings of hurling.

Browns Win Two Games

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 22 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns split their squad in two today and won two exhibition games, the regulars going to New Braunfels, Tex., and defeating Toledo of the American association, 3 to 1, while the "B" team remained at training camp.

Bill Conn Won't Fight Again Until Completely Recovered

PLANT CITY, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Frankie Croucher, possible heir to Charley Gehring's second base job, tripped in two runs in the eighth and then scored himself to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 7 to 5 verdict over the Buffalo Bison today.

Slapping out a single and double in addition to the three-bagger and scoring twice, Croucher was the big show in turning back the International leaguers after they had rapped Lynn (Pine Drive) Nelson for a 4 to 0 lead early in play.

Manager Says Fight With Lesnevich May Wait Till Summer

PITTSBURGH, March 22 (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Billy Conn won't fight again until his siege of boils has been cured "once and for all" and that may take until summer, his manager, Johnny Ray, said tonight.

He handed down the edict after Mike Jacobs announced in Detroit that a recurrence of boils forced a second postponement of Conn's title defense against Gus Lesnevich. The bout was shifted to Detroit for April 5 when the ailment overtook Billy during his training at Miami, Fla., in February.

Returning to Mercy hospital here for treatment today, Conn was advised by his physician not to go to Detroit.

"He's just got a mess of boils in him that have got to come out," Ray quoted the doctor as saying.

Hence, Billy will make daily trips to the hospital until all the infection is drained from his powerful right arm, Ray said.

Bo Sox Cancel Exhibition Tilt; Hurler Released

SARASOTA, Fla., March 22 (AP)—A scheduled exhibition game between the Boston Red Sox and the Kansas City Blues of the American association was cancelled today without any reason being given.

Manager Joe Cronin, who took advantage of the holiday to join owner Tom Yawkey in a visit with Judge Kenesaw M. Landis at Belleair, announced before his departure that Alpha Brazle, left hander from Little Rock, would be returned to that club. Brazle won 14 and dropped 16 for Little Rock last season.

The Sox open their four-game city series with the Bees tomorrow, journeying to Bradenton next Monday for the second encounter.

Bees Win Giants Hit, But Can't Win

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 22 (AP)—In seven innings of their exhibition game today the Boston Bees were held hitless and runless with a minimum of 21 men going to bat.

But they beat the New York Giants 4 to 3 today with little effort. They scored on one hit in the first and in the fifth rookie Bob Loane smacked a three-run homer after two were out.

Altogether the Bees got five hits and the Giants eight.

Feller Stars, But Tribe Loses

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 22 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians could get only five hits today off two Rochester pitchers, Mike Ryba and Bill Seinfot, and the Redbirds won 5-1.

Bob Feller started for the tribe, and fanned two men in each of the four innings he pitched. He allowed two hits, one a pop fly that fell safe in the pitcher's box.

The Red Wings had a field day in the eighth, with Earl Center, rookie up from New Orleans, on the mound. Center allowed only one real hit, but a pair of passes and two errors helped give Rochester three runs.

Russ Peters, who has been substituting for the injured Lou Boudreau at shortstop, was himself benched today—with a sore arm.

Lou Rogino took his place. Beau Bell replaced first baseman Hal Trosky, who is suffering with sore ankles.

Leiber Signs Cub Contract

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP)—Hank Leiber, center fielder for the Chicago Cubs, signed his contract today and Manager Gabby Hartnett said he would be in uniform tomorrow.

Hartnett said the contract was unchanged from last year. He did not disclose its terms.

Frank Croucher Clouts Triple; Tigers Win, 7-5

PLANT CITY, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Frankie Croucher, possible heir to Charley Gehring's second base job, tripped in two runs in the eighth and then scored himself to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 7 to 5 verdict over the Buffalo Bison today.

Pressbox Pickups

There's reason for optimism about the Iowa baseball team again this spring—if victories in the south can be called a reason. Most of us think they can.

While the wins in themselves can hardly be marked down as proof that the Hawkeyes will be a great outfit, the manner of winning is promising. Especially in view of the circumstances surrounding practice before the journey.

Northern coaches don't see a rule, expect the best of baseball from their teams on the spring trips. They aren't ready as yet. The northerners will, however, accept victory if it comes their way as it has been doing in Iowa's case.

Main idea, of course, in taking the journey is to get as early a start as possible. Coach Otto Vogel of the Hawkeyes figures his teams reach their best form nearly a month earlier than would be the case if they had stayed at home. And, with the conference season beginning early in April, they have to be in shape.

Coming back to this spring in particular, the Hawkeyes had not a single workout outdoors before they left, the weather doing its best to retard things. It was a singularly unpromising start, practices being confined to half hearted infield work around the fieldhouse, batting in a cage and pitchers playing catch without a chance to try it out in practice.

It isn't so surprising that Iowa has been winning. The Hawkeyes apparently have a lot of power, the makings of a good pitching staff and a good defensive outfit, but it's still amazing to note the lack of errors in the box score.

A fair team can overwhelm a poor one if it has a couple of hitters, but it is going to make errors unless it is much better than average, especially this early in the season. Yet, the Hawkeyes made but three bobbles the first day and one in the third game, while they played errorless ball in the second—a very impressive start.

Add to that hopeful sign the apparent ability of the newcomers, Radics, Smith and Welp, and things look still more favorable. The pitchers, too, seem to be holding up fairly well, with Hohenhorst, Hein and Wymore looking able to give a lot of aid to Harold Haub, one of the co-captains and probable ace of the mound staff.

It should be a good season, with the Hawkeyes finishing up the year among the best of the Big Ten.

Mize Clouts As Cards Win

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Johnny Mize, the National league's home run king, belted three prodigious homers off Hugh Casey today to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 10 to 6 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Rookie Joe Orango was just a swing behind in the long distance hitting spree with two circuit blows.

Pete Coscarart and Dolph Camilli, starting his first game for the Dodgers, also hit balls over the fence, but the left hand slants of Max Lanier and Preacher Roe kept Brooklyn slowed down.

Grid Squabble Investigated

DENVER, March 22 (AP)—Colorado university regents interviewed Coach Bernard F. (Bunny) Oakes today about dissemination in Colorado's Big Seven conference champions' football camp and a subsequent petition signed by 35 players which asked dismissal of Oakes.

Saying they had "nothing to report" tonight, the regents will resume their conference tomorrow.

Coach Oakes has made no direct answer to the players' criticism of his hard practice methods.

A's Conquer San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 22 (AP)—Chubby Dean's pinch-single with the bases full climaxed a ninth-inning six-run splurge and gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 7 to 4 victory over San Francisco of the Pacific coast league today.

The Athletics had been held to three hits for eight innings by southpaw Larry Powell.

Three Winners From Each County To Enter State Competition

A statewide amateur photography contest for Iowa sponsored by the University of Iowa school of journalism was announced yesterday by Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school, and Vernon Putnam, school of journalism photography instructor.

The contest will be carried on first in each Iowa county by one selected county newspaper. Three winners will be selected by the newspaper in each county and the county winners will automatically be entered in the state contest.

The announcement was made in the form of a letter, sent out to the 99 Iowa newspapers selected to conduct the contest in their counties. Rules for the county contests will be left up to the respective papers, but Professor Mott included a suggested set of rules in the announcement letter.

Purpose of Contest
The purpose of the contest is "to encourage photographic endeavor by the people of the community and to offer a promotional device to newspapers."

Any amateur Iowa photographer is eligible to compete. In explanation, an amateur is anyone who does not earn part or all of his living through photography or the sale of pictures or photographic materials.

There will be no entry fee, it was announced. The closing date for the county contests will be June 30 and the closing date for the state contest will be July 15.

Any picture of photographic merit may be entered except hand-colored prints and those made on blueprint paper. Usually snapshots have little pictorial value, it was explained, while a carefully taken photograph may be a prize winner.

County Prizes
The second announcement stated that county prizes should be awarded to first, second and third place winners. The suggested prize for county winners is traveling expense, meals and lodging for two days of the school of journalism's annual photography short course, July 25 to 27. Other prizes, however, may be cash, photographic supplies (possibly through cooperation with local photographic supply stores) or simple ribbons.

First prize for the state contest will be $25 worth of photographic supplies at the Henry Louis drug store in Iowa City. The announcement also stated that if any newspaper wishes to set up a small prize in the state contest, it may do so in its own name.

Size of Entries
Pictures of any size may be entered but for convenience and legibility it is suggested that all county contests require prints at least two by three inches in size. Prints sent to the state contest must not be less than five inches on the smallest dimension and not more than 18 inches on the largest, the announcement said. Prints sent to the state contest must be suitably mounted for exhibit on heavy stock not under 11 by 14 inches or larger than 16 by 20 inches.

All prints must be identified on the back by title and name and address of the photographer.

As county judges, the letter recommends that the newspaper choose three local men who have some professional reputation in photography. Any picture entered in the county contest may be published in the sponsoring newspaper without payment to the entrant, according to the rules.

Special Classes
Special classes were also announced for the state contest. These include eight or 16 mm. amateur movies and color photographs submitted on two-inch slides.

Moving picture films for the special class may be entered either in color or black and white. These entries will not be judged in the county contest, but will be sent direct to state judging. Persons desiring further information on the special sections should contact Mr. Putnam at the school of journalism.

In addition to the statewide contest for amateur photographers, the school of journalism will again sponsor a contest for news photographers with classifications for spot news, daily papers; spot news, weekly papers; feature pictures, daily papers, and feature pictures, weekly papers.

These pictures should not be less than five inches on the smallest dimension or more than 18 inches on the largest and must be suitably mounted for exhibition on heavy stock not under 11 by 14 inches or larger than 16 by 20 inches. The deadline for this contest is July 10.

LAUREL, HARDY FILM COMING TO IOWA

'Flying Deuces' Opens Here Tomorrow With Famous Comedy Team

Laurel and Hardy, Hollywood's most prolific and popular comedy team, return to the screen in "The Flying Deuces," their first feature-length comedy in more than a year.

This time the veteran comics have taken to the airways as a background for their misadventures, a thrilling and hilarious climax being provided in the final sequence, when the boys, as two Foreign Legionnaires sentenced to die for desertion, take flight in an endurance ship.

The colorful background of Morocco and the Legion provides a natural and dramatic setting for pageantry and tomfoolery.

'U-Boat 29' On Iowa Bill

The whole shocking story of submarine warfare filmed by Columbia before the headlines are dry! It's "U-Boat 29," the most astounding screen achievement of the year! Coming to the Iowa theater tomorrow, "U-Boat 29" features Conrad Veidt, Valerie Hobson and Sebastian Shaw in a mighty epic of undersea terror and undercover spies plotting charts of doom!

Technicolor Epic Of British in Sudan To Come to Pastime

When Alexander Korda set out to repeat history in his technicolor production of "Four Feathers," which will show at the Pastime theater starting Sunday through United Artists release, he soon found that instead of following the historic facts they were following him. He and his company were constantly being haunted by the ghost of the past and by the time the picture was completed they had all grown used to eerie coincidences.

"Four Feathers" has as its background Kitchener's 1898 campaign in the Sudan.

Warner Baxter and Alice Faye appear in "BARRICADE" opening at the STRAND Wednesday.

Outcome of European War 'Certain' to Japan

Nation Won't Stand in Way Of Germany

Welles' Tour Spells Knowledge of Allied Defeat to Japanese

TOKYO, March 22 (AP)—Members of Japan's diet, posing the question as to whether Japan should not take some positive role in support of "Germany and Italy," were informed tonight by Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita that Japan already was "certain" of the way the European war would come out.

The matter, he added, is too delicate to talk about further. However, he did say that "Japan will not put any obstacles in Germany's way by joining hands with Britain or America" during the European conflict, although Japan's entry into the western affair is inadvisable since she is concerned solely with the construction of a "new order" in Asia.

Questions Arita was badgered with such leading questions as these: "Don't you think Japan should discard her policy of uninvolvedness and openly side with Germany and Italy?"

"Why, while mouthing phrases about uninvolvedness, has Japan promised Britain not to transport German nationals or armament to Germany?"

"Since both Germany and Italy appear to have recognized Japan's aims in East Asia, should we not take some positive measures to cooperate with them?"

"Were not the expansion of the United States navy and the recent tour of Europe by United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles predicated on the assumption that the allies would be defeated?"

"Our Eyes Are Open" To Arita's somewhat evasive replies, Admiral Zengo Yoshida, the navy minister, added this:

"We are going to dispose of the China incident with our eyes wide open to the world situation."

Earlier, War Minister General Shunroku Hata had asserted the budget committee of the lower chamber that Japan was going to continue its efforts to crush Chiang Kai-Shek, who he said still had 2,000,000 Chinese soldiers in the field.

Marlas Jury Still Undecided

Testimony, Arguments In Bus Injury Case Completed Yesterday

The petit jury still remained undecided at 7 o'clock last night after seven hours of deliberation in the Georgia Marlas damage case.

According to the petition, the plaintiff is seeking $13,375 for injuries alleged to have been received on March 6, 1939, when she was a passenger in a bus operated by the Iowa City Coach company, defendants in the action.

Testimony and arguments of the attorneys in the case were completed about noon yesterday, and the case was submitted to the jury.

The plaintiff charges the defendants with negligence in the operation of a bus on March 6, 1939, according to the petition. She states that she was walking to her seat in the bus when a sudden jerk allegedly caused her to fall on the floor.

Attorney Will J. Hayek is representing the plaintiff. The defendant is represented by Attorneys Henry Negus and D. C. Nolan.

Ray Allison Spencer, curator of the Grand Rapids Furniture museum in Grand Rapids, Mich., will deliver two lectures in Cedar Rapids this week end, according to word received here.

Monday evening Mr. Spencer will discuss "Furniture as a Background to Living" at the art gallery of the Cedar Rapids Art association. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock.

Tomorrow evening at the same time and place, Mr. Spencer will talk on "Poets and Poetry." Mr. Spencer has known Edwin Arlington Robinson, Amy Lowell and John Masefield and will tell of his associations with them and also read from their works.

Mr. Spencer has had a varied career, including the managing of Bramhall playhouse in New York City, the writing of radio programs for Rudy Vallee and Philip Lord and the serving with the United States navy submarine contingent during the world war. He has lived in England, France and the United States and speaks half a dozen languages.

Both the lecture tomorrow and the one Monday will be open to the public.

Strickler Jury Dismissed By Judge Gaffney

Fail To Reach Verdict After Long Deliberation On $15,000 Suit

A jury that had deliberated in vain for 39 hours on the Strickler damage action was dismissed by Judge James P. Gaffney in Johnson county district court at 8:15 a.m. yesterday.

The case, which Bertha Strickler, administratrix of the estate of Elmus J. Strickler, brought against the Keeshin Motor Express company, involved a claim by the plaintiff for $15,000, the alleged damage caused to the Strickler estate.

The defendant had filed a cross-petition of $742.58, when the accident occurred, Feb. 4, 1937. Strickler was fatally injured as a result of the collision.

Members of the jury which were dismissed include John Mentzer, Minnie Hastings, William J. Coen, J. J. Wanek, Frank Kopecky, Esther Bireline, Hugh B. Wright, Mae S. Grimm, LeRoy J. Belger, Ludwig Bettag, Clara Hotka and Charlotte Meardon.

Rudolph G. Kasel Receives New Position As Chief of U. S. Geological Survey Branch

Rudolph G. Kasel, district engineer for the United States Geological survey, stationed in Iowa City for the past eight years, has been promoted and will become chief of the surface water division of the water resources branch of the United States Geological survey with headquarters in Washington, D. C., it was announced yesterday from the office of the Iowa Geological survey.

Mr. Kasel will move from Iowa City to Washington soon after April 1. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Kasel and their 6-year-old daughter, Helen. They now live at 512 Clark street.

Mr. Kasel was born in St. Louis, Mo., and was graduated in civil engineering from the Missouri School of Mines in 1923. In 1924 he became a member of the water resources branch of the United States Geological survey as a junior engineer. Since then he has become chief of the largest of the four divisions of the surface water division.

Previous Work The work of the surface water division is done by the federal government cooperatively with the states. Before coming to Iowa in October, 1932, Mr. Kasel worked in Arizona, Idaho, Ohio and other states. He came to Iowa under the sponsorship of the late Prof. Floyd A. Nagler and the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic research.

In making the announcement of the promotion, Prof. A. C. Trowbridge, head of the university geology department and director of the Iowa Geological survey, explained the work of the surface water division.

"At first the state funds for matching the federal funds were meager and uncertain," Professor Trowbridge said. "At different times state funds have come also from the old board of conservation, the present conservation commission, the state department of health, the highway commission, the Iowa Geological survey and an ad interim committee of the state legislature," he commented.

In 1939 the 48th general assembly of Iowa made a direct appropriation to the Iowa Geological survey for this work and a major part of the program is now carried on cooperatively by the United States Geological survey and the Iowa survey, the director explained.

The Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research and the state conservation commission still cooperate directly, however, he said.

Accomplishments in Iowa Under Mr. Kasel's direction 62 gaging stations have been built and put into use on Iowa streams and 10 on Iowa lakes. Data thus secured on low and flood flow of streams and on lake levels are used in designing dams, various other flood control projects, municipal water supplies, sewage disposal plants, bridges, highways and in soil erosion studies.

In his new position, Mr. Kasel will direct all such measurements in all 48 states.

Mr. Kasel is a member of the Iowa City Kiwanis and Masons. He is a member and past president of the Iowa City Engineers society and the American Society of Civil Engineers. He belongs to Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific society.

Lawrence C. Crawford, who has been with the United States Geological survey since his graduation in civil engineering from Purdue university in 1930, will take Mr. Kasel's place as district engineer and director of this work in Iowa. With Mrs. Crawford and their small child he will arrive in Iowa City about April 1, it was announced.

Rush Week Is One Big Hurry After Another

"Rush Week" is the busiest seven-day period of the year for many collegiate fraternity members. Especially is this so at Duke University, where eighteen undergraduate fraternities practice deferred rushing — no social contact between frat men and freshmen until second semester, when a week is allowed for regulated rushing. During rush week the freshman is king; after pledging he is servant to all the brothers.

● According to rushing regulations, Greek men cannot enter frosh dorms until 2 p.m. each day of rush week. Here is a crowd of upperclassmen waiting for the deadline.

● The freshman is usually taken first to the chapter room (Duke has no separate fraternity houses) and introduced to the brothers. If most of the members give the nod, the frosh is given a convenient corner seat and a sales-talk, as shown here.

● Not every frosh, however, gets the simultaneous attention of three brothers. The one standing above is seriously discussing the situation with a lone Kappa Alpha at a "cabin party" in Duke Forest.

● Co-eds often are called in to help the fraternity men entertain their guests and, of course, to help impress frosh with the desirability of joining the group.

● Faculty members are popular with their undergraduate fraternity brethren during rush week. These three rushees are listening to an upperclassman in a Duke faculty home.

● In the wee small hours, in the smoke-filled chapter room, the brothers compare views on freshmen entertained during an afternoon and evening of rushing. Some will be rushed more vigorously next day; others will receive the polite suggestion to look over some of the other fraternities.

● If the group decides to "bid" a freshman, he is immediately invited to become a pledge. If he accepts, he "shakes hands" with the fraternity. The hand-shake is a virtual pledge, though formal pledging is not allowed until after rush week.
