Shambaugh Memorial Service To Be Thursday

Students, Colleagues, Friends of S.U.I. Professor To Honor His Memory in Lounge of Iowa Union

Political Science Head Succumbs at Hospital After Week's Illness

He Was the Past and Future --

The University will pause at 4 p.m. Thursday to honor the memory of one of her greatest friends.

At that hour in the main lounge of Iowa Union, students, colleagues and friends of Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh will attend a memorial service in his honor.

The temporal ashes of the man who headed the Iowa political science department for 43 years will be sprinkled, at his own request, about the campus he loved, where he spent 53 of the 69 years of his life.

Ill One Week

Professor Shambaugh died at University hospital at 5:50 p.m. Sunday, a week after he had been stricken in his home with cerebral thrombosis. For a week, in semi-consciousness, he fought to overcome paralysis. He recognized relatives and friends at his bedside only intermittently; his condition, doctors said, had improved toward the end of the week, and his pulse and temperature had returned to normal. But through his improvement, little doubt had been held of his approaching death.

A statement dealing with the service of Thursday was issued last night by university authorities:

"To facilitate the arrangements for the memorial services for Iowa Union, cards will be available at the Union desk for Professor Shambaugh's students, colleagues and friends beginning Wednesday morning. Those from out of town will call for cards at the Union desk upon arrival."

The passing of Professor Shambaugh marks the end of an era. An Iowa historian, he was five score years in the history of his state. He was more than a historian; he was teacher and scholar, colleague and friend.

Generations of Iowa students have known him for the comparatively brief periods of their academic careers. Iowa City knew him longer. Yet city and campus alike found him the same. They recognized his rank as a scholar, just as they recognized his familiar tweed suits, his maroon tie, bright shirt and maple cane as he walked about the city and the university.

He watched the university grow as he watched his own department grow from an enrollment of 69 in 1897 to the near-2,000 students of today. Oldest professor from point of active service, he taught many of his prominent colleagues of today, was a student with many others.

His greatest contributions came in the field of Iowa history. He loved history, fought for historical accuracy, yet (See SHAMBAUGH, Page 5)

OSLO BOMBED!

PARIS, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—The Oslo radio announced today that the Norwegian capital had been bombed several times from the air and that the government had ordered that it be abandoned by the civilian population within two days.

Norway Orders Mobilization

PARIS, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—The Oslo radio announced early today that the Norwegian government had ordered general mobilization after an all-night meeting of the cabinet.

Nazis Mine Swedish Harbors

LONDON, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—A German naval broadcast intercepted by Reuters, British news agency, said that all of Sweden's important harbors on the Skagerrak arm of the North sea had been mined by Germany.

Nazis Land in Norway; Capital Reported Evacuated

LONDON, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—A special announcement of the German radio intercepted today by Reuters, British news agency, said German troops had invaded Denmark and Norway.

The agency only shortly before carried a dispatch from Paris saying that the radio at Oslo, Norwegian capital, had announced the landing of German troops at Norwegian ports at 3 a.m. (8 p.m. Monday C.S.T.).

"The high command of the German army announces that in order to counteract the action against Denmark and Norway (apparently the allied mine laying along the Norwegian coast) and to prevent a possible hostile attack against these countries, the German army has taken these two countries under its protection.

"The strong forces of the German army have therefore invaded these countries this morning."

The intercepted Oslo radio report said that the Norwegian government had abandoned its capital and was moving to Hamar. German forces were said to have occupied Bergen and Trondheim.

Nazi Armada of 125 Warships Heads Toward Norway's Coast

OSLO, Norway, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—Reliable sources early today reported an armada of 125 German warships, including one pocket battleship and several heavy cruisers, were off the Danish island of Lesoe in the Kattegat.

These sources said the huge German warship concentration apparently was headed toward the Norwegian coast. Lesoe is about 30 miles south of the northern tip of Denmark.

The German ships were believed making slow time out of the Kattegat into the Skagerrak, apparently because they did not want to approach the Norwegian coast at night since the Norwegian admiralty had ordered all lighthouses darkened.

Most of the armada was said to be composed of trawlers and coast guard ships but either the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral von Scheer or the Deutschland was reported in the group in addition to some of the reich's heaviest cruisers and many of her destroyers.

London Agency Announces Air Raid Alarm in Oslo

LONDON, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—The Exchange Telegraph agency reported today that an air raid alarm was sounded at 2 a.m. (8 p.m. Monday, E.S.T.) in Oslo, the Norwegian capital and that no all clear signal had been given three hours later. (A previous dispatch from Stockholm said that a one-hour alarm at Oslo had ended at 1:30 a.m., Oslo time.)

OSLO, Norway, April 8 (AP)—Norway tonight ordered all lighthouses and radio stations between the Swedish coast and Bergen closed down. This measure would force all ships to keep far out from the coast during the night and therefore out of Norwegian territorial waters.

Vessels Try Forcibly To Enter Oslo

Coastal Batteries Beat Off Attacks From Oslo Fjord

STOCKHOLM, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP) — Oslo, one of the capitals of neutral Scandinavia, was attacked by a mysterious naval expedition of an unknown power striking from the darkness of Skagerrak channel early today — less than a month after the northern countries had thought to escape war by the Finnish-Russian peace.

Authoritative quarters here confirmed previous reports that four warships attempted to force the entrance to Oslo Fjord, water gateway to the Norwegian capital, but were beaten off by coastal batteries which comprise one of the four most important of Norwegian defenses.

Presumably the attack was from a German fleet, which earlier was reported steaming through the Kattegat, near Denmark, from the Baltic in a northerly direction. However, British naval units also were numerous off Norwegian shores yesterday.

One of the latter, a submarine, yesterday sank a German troop transport within four miles of the Norwegian coast, killing and drowning 300 of the 500 men in German army uniform aboard.

Amid heavy burst of cannon fire from the warships, one of which was reported to be a heavy cruiser, an air battle was reported to have taken place between Norwegian planes and foreign fighting aircraft above the dark gorge of Oslo Fjord.

Oslo itself was blacked out, the city's communications with all Norway having been cut by censorship, the country's radio stations silenced, and the lighthouses darkened.

Oslo, however, was reported to have experienced an air raid alarm for an hour at the time of the naval cannonade.

The attack took place about 12:30 a.m. (5:30 p.m. Monday, C.S.T.), and was over within a short time.

The engagement was marked by heavy bursts of cannon fire. Thereafter the invaders were said to have retired into the darkness.

Some informants said the warship attack was accompanied by an air battle above the darkened gorge between Norwegian fighting craft and unidentified foreign warplanes.

Details of the air battle were not at once known but apparently the invading planes were driven off by the Norwegians.

Reports of the engagement could not be confirmed at once in official quarters.

Difficulties in obtaining details of the fighting were heightened by the fact that Norway snapped telephone communication with the rest of the world except for "state calls."

Danish Radio Station Shuts Down With Terse Message: 'Occupied by Troops'; Communications Halted

LONDON, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—The Exchange Telegraph News agency said today that German troops had crossed the Schleswig frontier into Denmark and the Danish garrison at Sonderburg is retreating north.

Three German cruisers have entered Middlefart harbor, the agency said. Soldiers were reported to have landed and occupied a nearby street in the port city.

At least one heavy gun has been landed it was said.

Three large ships—probably troop transports—were reported in the Little Belt, the channel nearest the mainland.

Middlefart lies on the Little Belt, 120 miles west of Copenhagen.

NEW YORK, April 9 (Tuesday)—The occupation of Copenhagen by German troops was reported early today in a service message from the Denmark radio picked up here by Mackay radio. The message announced that service was being closed down, adding:

"Occupied by German troops."

This supported advices to the New York Times from its Copenhagen correspondent that the Germans had occupied the city.

(At 12:15 a.m. E.S.T. The Associated Press had been unable to contact its Copenhagen bureau since 9:47 last night.)

The Times correspondent, Svend Carstensen, also reported that three cruisers had landed troops at Middlefart, Denmark, immediately occupying the adjoining streets.

He also reported "German troops crossed the Danish frontier." His messages indicated that he had filed his story just ahead of a suddenly imposed censorship.

Meanwhile, the Copenhagen station, in a service message to Mackay radio here, said the station was closing down, adding "occupied by German troops."

U. S. Official in Norway Reports That Nation at War

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, American minister to Norway, notified the state department tonight that the Norwegian foreign minister had informed her that Norway is at war with Germany.

The state department issued the following statement:

"The American minister to Oslo, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, telegraphed to the department of state tonight that the foreign minister has informed her that the Norwegians fired on four German warships coming up Oslo fjord and that Norway is at war with Germany.

"In response to a request by the British minister to Norway, the American legation at Oslo has been authorized to take over British in Norway in case he is obliged to evacuate."

The Norwegian minister to the United States, Wilhelm de Morgenstierne, was in conversation with the state department shortly before midnight.

The department, where a night watch has been maintained constantly since the outbreak of the European war, stirred quickly to activity. Officials there hurried to their offices.

Across the street, lights burned in the White House executive offices although President Roosevelt was at his Hyde Park home.

There was no comment from officials here as to whether the president would take immediate steps to issue a proclamation under the neutrality act adding Norway to the list of belligerents.

Such action undoubtedly would be coupled with a proclamation forbidding American ships to enter Norwegian waters. The present "combat zone" from which these vessels now are banned ends just south of Bergen, Norway.

When the state department issued its dispatch from Mrs. Harriman, the Norwegian minister said he had received no direct word yet from the government at Oslo.

'Modern Women All Wrong On Beauty Ideas' - Grant Wood

By STAFF WRITER

Modern women are all wrong on their ideas of beauty, says Artist Grant Wood.

Streamlining may be all right in automobiles, but Professor Wood, who paints Iowa landscapes, doesn't believe the modern streamlined beauty queens compare with the ideal of civilization's great artists.

The Iowa professor last night cited Rubens and Titian—even the unknown sculptor who fashioned Venus de Milo—to support his arguments for the "good old days."

"The comparison of the 'Belle-of-the-90's-type' with the streamlined, serpentine charmers of today," asserts the artist, whose paintings are internationally known, "brings up one of the fundamental human issues: the conflict between shadow and substance in the standards of feminine beauty."

College girls who diet to keep thin, who are chosen as queens of this and that by the dozens on every college campus yearly could learn something about beauty from the great artists of civilization, because Venus de Milo's anonymous originator would look with astonishment on

Monuments To A Great Man

ON SUNDAY occurred the death of one of the great men with whom it has been the privilege of students at Iowa to associate.

His diligence uncovered facts about Iowa that might otherwise have remained buried in dusty files or locked in the minds of those who, living still, can remember the days when Iowa was a frontier.

But Professor Shambaugh did not occupy himself solely with matters of Iowa history. The realms of science and philosophy were sources of intrigue to him, and in addition to his books he left another monument to his memory in the campus course at the University of Iowa.

He taught yearly a large group of students the meaning of culture and a liberal education. He brought hundreds of young men and women into contact with great books and great authors that they, but for one who knew and understood, might never have known, and a new seed of culture was planted.

In these days of intense specialization and practicalization of curricula, purely cultural subjects tend to be crowded out. Yet there is place and need for cultural trails, no matter how technical our universities may become, and it was Professor Shambaugh who saw the need, supplied the place.

It is fitting that, as this man's personality dominated this institution so measurably while he lived, so should his spirit dominate now that he is gone.

War Strikes At A Neutral

The little Scandinavian neutrals, who have long suffered heavy losses in a war in which they are not belligerents, are now facing a graver crisis than existed when the Russian army was battering at Vilpuri.

Violations of Norway's neutrality by Germany and Britain have continued with increasing frequency. Three events yesterday: the British mining of Norwegian territorial waters, and the torpedoing of a German troopship off the Norwegian shore by a British submarine, and, finally, the attack on her capital, seem to be the climax which will precipitate Norway into the war.

accept even the severest of losses rather than engage in a war which would mean total losses and mass destruction of life.

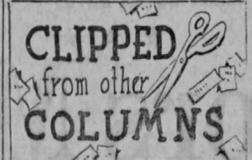

The end of this war, and the only sane policy for a neutral in the midst of warring nations, came last night when a foreign fleet attempted to force an entrance into Oslo.

It is tragic that the long-awaited spring offensive should have struck first at an innocent neutral.

The New York world's fair will be known this year as "World's Fair 1940 New York." This makes it the only exposition which has a serial number.

German North sea war planes, we read, are equipped with rubber self-inflating boats. To even matters up, the U-boats should carry airplanes.

Another nice thing about spring is that you no longer get post-cards from friends wintering in Florida and wishing we were there.

CONGRESSIONAL ANTICS MAR SESSION...

The university economics department has a habit of going through the news from Washington and clipping out bright sayings of congressmen.

Latest of such economic monstrosities conceived by Washington (and no doubt filed by the ec department) is that of Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

The bill "would reward those employers whose output is secured by the more-than-average use of manpower" and "require a contribution from those employers whose output is produced by more-than-average use of machine power."

Senator O'Mahoney goes on to explain in an article in this week's Electrical Workers' journal: the proposal "boils down in practice to the collection by the government of a small amount of differential collections from a relatively small number of large, more-than-average mechanized producers, and the distribution by the government of a like amount of differential payments to a presumably large number of small less-than-average mechanized employers."

Slichter, Bye, Taylor or any other elementary economics text will point out the errors the senator has made. A correct bluebook answer would probably be based on the argument that the senator is mistaking slack conditions for normal, exigency for the long-run view. He runs counter to the basic definition of economy—that of making the greatest possible use of resources in satisfying human wants.

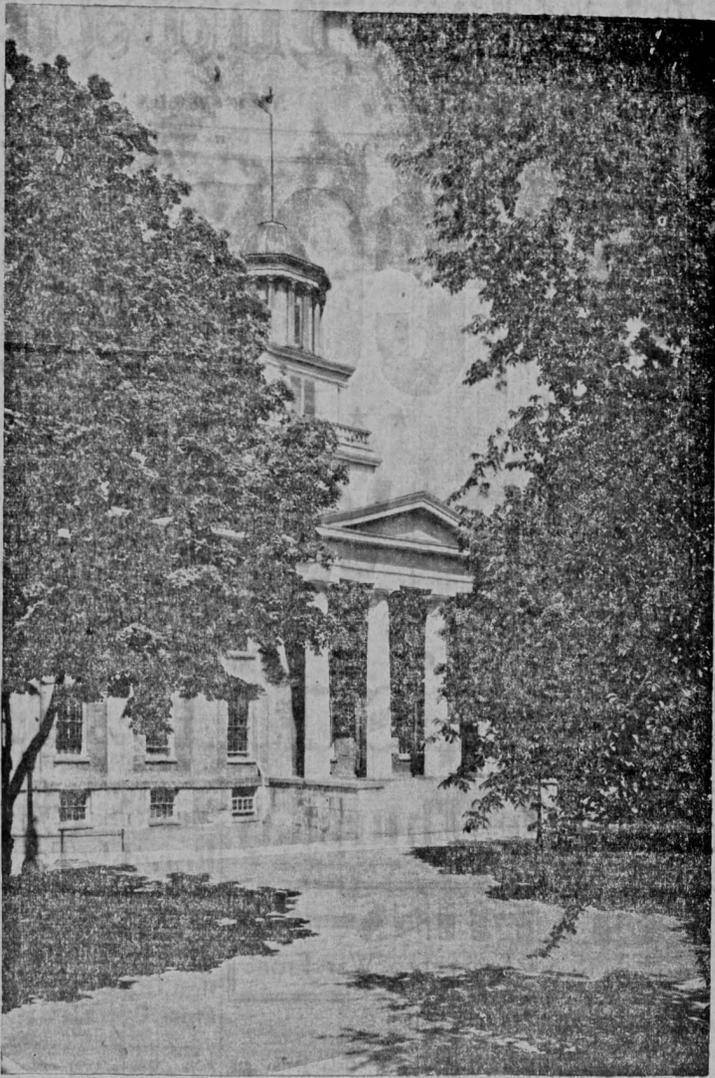

But what is of greater concern is that another congressman has so arbitrarily proposed legislative nonsense in order to please his constituents. It is difficult to believe that O'Mahoney had his tongue out of his cheek when he put his panacea on the docket. It is much easier to believe that this was a hollow, vote-seeking gesture, analogous to speeches printed in the Congressional record but never actually spoken on the floor of the legislature.

Add to O'Mahoney's bit of nonsense a couple of suggestions made recently by Senator Tobey of New Hampshire. Tobey was the ringleader in the trumped-up opposition against the census. He declared: "It's another Declaration of Independence on the horizon." The senate can render no higher service than by striking down this attempt to pry into the private lives of our citizens.

These ludicrous antics that O'Mahoney and Tobey are performing have the obvious purpose of making political capital. They are the straw-grabbing tricks by which mediocre legislators hope to continue in office. But their ultimate effect is to further discredit a congress whose reputation is already sadly tattered.

A Couple of Incidents Make America's Need For GOOD Diplomats Apparent to Everybody

GERMANY'S story that a couple of American ambassadors (Joseph P. Kennedy in London and William C. Bullitt in Paris) committed the United States to a pro-Polish attitude against the Reich, in chais with Poland's envoys, before the pending European war started, is not going to be provable either way.

Minister Cromwell, our diplomatic representative in Canada, made a public pro-Ally speech in Toronto. It was a matter of stenographic record. A big crowd heard it. It isn't disputed.

he had money. He was just a plutocrat. He hadn't ordinary sense of any sort. Kennedy was a good business man. He made his own money. Generally speaking, it was taken for granted that he ought to be o. k. in world affairs, as intranationally. You can't tell about that, though. Inter-national and intra-national affairs are different.

Germany's Version The German version is to the effect that it got its information from papers it seized in Warsaw, when it gobbled Poland. Perhaps it did seize 'em. Or perhaps it's faking 'em. Berlin contends that they're photostatic copies. But who knows who wrote the originals? Most of them are written in Polish. However, plenty of Germans can write Polish.

It's proved against Cromwell. How about Kennedy and Bullitt? Cromwell? Kennedy? Bullitt? Cromwell didn't have any diplomatic qualifications except that are leaving the Hal Kemp crew and the Modernaires are parting from Paul Whiteman.

But what is of greater concern is that another congressman has so arbitrarily proposed legislative nonsense in order to please his constituents. It is difficult to believe that O'Mahoney had his tongue out of his cheek when he put his panacea on the docket. It is much easier to believe that this was a hollow, vote-seeking gesture, analogous to speeches printed in the Congressional record but never actually spoken on the floor of the legislature.

It's important at this stage of the game. State Secretary Hull is too honest about it.

This>About 'Jumpers' Part of New York Life Even Though Unpleasant Subject

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This isn't a very pleasant theme. I suppose one could complain that it is entirely uncalled for. I will not hold it against you if after a few paragraphs you turn elsewhere.

This is about Jumpers. Do you know what a Jumper is? If you walk up to any New York hotel man and say, "There's just been a Jumper," he will turn pale.

There are sometimes five or six Jumpers in a single week in New York. But if this seems high, consider that they were only five or six out of seven millions.

Hotels in this town have Jumper squads. They have special Jumper equipment. The news of a Jumper is bad news indeed for any hotel. It hurts business. Many people will not stay in a hotel where some headline figure recently has ended his life. Yet suicide is news; and news must find its way into the newspapers.

The hotel people minimize this news as best they can. The newspapers govern themselves by the newsworthiness of the name.

Jumper equipment consists of a large canvass cloth, usually eight by eight. A Jumper is not a very pretty spectacle, after he has jumped. The moment the alarm is given one squad hurries outside to cover the remains and keep the crowd moving.

While the ground squad is thus occupied, another begins a swift, systematic search of the hotel. The room from which the accident occurred, and the identity of the Jumper, must be ascertained at once.

Usually, this requires only a few moments. Jumpers almost invariably are people who have registered alone, in single rooms, and nine of ten are women. The first move is to check these guests, then go to those rooms. A careful search of these rooms is made. Frequently farewell notes are in evidence, directing that nearest of kin be advised. When there are no notes, no identifying clues, the work is turned over to the police.

Frequently old letters, or bits of paper with names written on them, are found. When possible, these names are identified and turned over to the cops. The police send out a call for these people.

Only seven out of ten Jumpers leave notes, and only in three cases of seven are these notes coherent, or even complete. Five of seven notes give only a first name. The suicide dockets of the police archives list scores of motives, but with Jumpers, unhappy love affairs are the dominant theme.

There was a Jumper in New York only yesterday. She was 26. The police are very accurate at determining ages. She was blonde, and pretty, and alone. There were no notes, no names, no clues. She checked into her hotel at 3:30 in the afternoon. By seven o'clock she was a nameless blot on the police docket, and an item in the newspapers.

Wishful Thinking

Vogel Selects 18 Hawkeyes for Baseball Road Trip

This afternoon Coach Otto Vogel will take his squad to Lafayette, Ind., where the Hawkeye baseballers will take on a powerful Boilermaker nine tomorrow afternoon to inaugurate the Big Ten conference baseball season.

The Vogelmen, having won eight out of nine pre-season games, will be attempting to defend their last year's Big Ten championship and to annex another title to make it three in a row.

It appears that Co-Captain Harold Haub, the Iowa ace moundsman and the best in the Big Ten last year, will get the starting assignment.

Giving him support afield will be Frank Kocur, Andy Kantor, Erwin Prasse and Rudy Radics in the infield and Bob Cook, Jimmy George, and Lloyd Smith in the outfield.

Behind the plate, Coach Vogel has two capable performers in the veteran Norman Hankins and sophomore Bill Welp.

The Iowa team, which is at the present time hitting an even .300, will face the curve ball pitching of Bob Bailey, who last year defeated the Hawks in the first tilt of the year.

However, Bailey will have to throw to six of the Hawkeyes who are batting over .300.

Erwin Prasse leads in this department with an average of .421 while close behind him is Jimmy George batting at a .388 pace.

The Hawks will play Purdue again on Thursday with either Fred Hohenhorst or Bob Stastny on the mound.

From Lafayette the travelling Hawkeyes will go to South Bend where they will meet a strong

Notre Dame team on Friday and Saturday.

Opposing the Hawkeyes at Notre Dame will be Orvil Huthausen, who held the Northwestern Wildcats to one hit last week.

Coach Vogel has selected 18 men to make the four game road trip.

Those making the trip are: pitchers: Harold Haub, Fred Hohenhorst, Bob Stastny, Wendell Hill, Ted Gordiner, Dick Hein, and Cecil Schomer; infielders, Frank Kocur, Andy Kantor, Erwin Prasse, Rudy Radics, Clark Briscoe; outfielders: Jack Jean, Lloyd Smith, Robert Cook, James George, John Brueckner; catchers: Norman Hankins and Bill Welp.

Ring Cleanup Planned

Around The Big Leagues

Waners Absent From Buc Lineup

WICHITA, Kas., April 8 (AP)—For the first time in 14 years the Pittsburgh Pirates seem likely today to take the field in the opening game of the National league season next week without one of the Waner brothers in the starting lineup.

Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, recuperating from an infected throat here while his team took another off day at Hutchinson, Kas., because of bad weather, disclosed his plans for the first game against St. Louis do not include the Waners as starters.

Instead he said he would use Debs Garmis in Paul Waner's accustomed spot in right field if the Cardinals use a right hand pitcher, and Maurice Van Robays in right if a southpaw is used.

Phils Batter Macon, 12-9

MACON, Ga., April 8 (AP)—A six-run uprising in the eighth inning gave the Phillies an uphill 12 to 9 victory over Macon of the Sally league today.

Macon led, 8-6, going into the eighth but the Phils combined four hits with three bases on balls and two errors to score their six tallies.

Dodgers Give Lesson to Yanks

OWENSBORO, Ky., April 8 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers gave the world champion New York Yankees their annual lesson in humility today by plastering a 10-6 defeat on the Yanks in the first game of their spring exhibition series which will wind up in Brooklyn next Sunday.

The Dodgers fell upon Spud

Chandler for seven runs in hte second inning then collected three more in the seventh on homers by Babe Phelps and Pee Wee Reese off Steve Sundra.

Joe Di Maggio was the only Yankee hitter who could do much against Hugh Casey, accounting for four runs with a homer and single.

A crowd of 3,200 thoroughly chilled fans saw the game.

Nats Outslug Bees, 14 to 12

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 8 (AP)—The Washington Senators beat the Boston Bees today in a free-hitting, loosely played game that ended with a 14 to 12 score.

The Nats went scoreless for the first three innings while Boston piled up eight runs, then bestirred themselves in the fourth with a four-run rally featured by Rookie Jimmy Pofahl's triple with two on base. The next inning brought them six more, with the big action centered on Gerry Walker's double with the bases loaded and Jimmy Bloodworth's home run with two aboard.

Moore's Homer Helps Cards

SHREVEPORT, La., April 8 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals thumped Shreveport of the Texas league, 9 to 5, in an exhibition game here today, although they were out of 11-11.

Terry Moore led the assault with a home run with two runners on base.

Bill McGee held the Sports to two hits for five innings but Bob Bowman was in for 10 hits in the four innings he worked.

Shreveport rallied with three runs in the ninth and had the bases loaded when the side was retired.

May Form Federal Body

Congressman Kennedy Asks Investigation Of Fistic Sport

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Criticizing professional boxing as a sport that "may not be worth saving," Representative Kennedy (D-Md) said today he would ask congress tomorrow to order a federal investigation of the sport and place it under jurisdiction of a government commission.

The Maryland congressman completed the draft of bills which would order a congressional inquiry and create a federal supervisory boxing commission.

His motive, he said, "is one intended to aid and better boxing rather than to harm the sport in any way." Kennedy said the bills were drafted on his own initiative and not at the request of the national boxing association. The N.B.A., he added, would "welcome" such an investigation.

In a statement, Kennedy said there was a tendency to "monopolize" the services of leading boxers and that he believed pugilists "should be free to negotiate with any promoter they choose."

"I mean to ascertain whether a deserving boxer gets his chance at the title because his record entitled him to the chance or whether he gets it merely because he signed up with one promoter," Kennedy asserted.

Kennedy said he also was opposed to such bouts as that between Joe Louis and Johnny Paycheck and between Louis and John Henry Lewis.

First Entry Filed for Prep Track Meet

Roosevelt high school of Cedar Rapids, with 22 athletes, is the first official entrant in the class A interscholastic state indoor track and field championships at the University of Iowa Saturday.

The high schools with enrollments over 600 will rally for their title meet a week after the class B schools competed with Fairfield being crowned champion.

Coach George Bresnahan does not expect as large an entry list as that of last Saturday when 42 schools enrolled. It will be the first time that the Des Moines schools have not entered, but the schools to support the Valley relays on the same date.

Events will be the same as those of last week. There are ten individual events and four relays, with 300 points to be divided. Winners of first and second in the class B meet are eligible to enter the same events in class A.

Pressbox Pickups By OSCAR HARGRAVE

Football visitors here today will be part of Iowa State's board of strategy, according to Dr. Eddie Anderson and Dad Schroeder. George Veenker and Jim Yaeger, athletic director and football coach at the university's sister institution, have signified their intention of dropping over for a visit.

Anderson, dishing out spring drills to prospective Hawks, tells the newsmen that the first scrimmage will come soon. "The first time you aren't here," he said yesterday.

Bill Stauss, freshman halfback, did a Dizzy Dean lately. He threw so many passes while practicing that the right arm became sore enough to have worried the Cubs had they payed a couple of hundred thousand for him. It isn't serious though and Stauss still looks like one of the more potent triple-threaters.

Baseball's trip for the notorious Iowa "hecklers," it has been decided, will be to Madison for the Iowa-Wisconsin series April 26 and 27. There is just one home series, with Illinois next week end, to get in shape, but the boys figure that they should reach their peak on that journey to the Badger state.

Erwin Prasse, Iowa second-baseman and all-around athlete, is one of the fustiest of the Hawkeyes when it comes to his bat. "With the bats that the little guys use," Prasse says, "I swing before the ball gets near the plate."

Thirty of the athletes to get letters yesterday in winter sports are native Iowans, while 16 are out-of-staters. The wrestling squad of eight is an all-Iowa delegation. The basketball letter awarded Erwin Prasse was his eighth, meaning he has one to go for a perfect record of nine. So far he hasn't been relieved at all from his second base duties on the baseball team and the chances are about a thousand to one for his coming up with the ninth major award.

Add to the odd question list: The newsmen stood around the door waiting for the athletic board meeting to break up. The passer-by wanted to know, "Are they firing Eddie Anderson?" The answer is, "They didn't."

Chisox Release Two HUTCHINSON, Kas. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, rained out for the third straight day, released outfielder Hal Cromer to Oklahoma City and Pitcher Harry Boyles to Ft. Worth, both Texas league clubs yesterday. Resumption of the spring series with Pittsburgh is scheduled today at Kansas City if the weather permits.

Maryland Quits N. B. A. BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland state athletic commission resigned yesterday from the National Boxing association as the result of a dispute over the world's featherweight championship. At the same time the Maryland body announced it would proceed with plans to give full title recognition to the bout scheduled here May 20 between champion Joey Archibald of New York and Harry Jeffra of Baltimore.

Dizzy Dean Starts Comeback; Hurls Five Scoreless Frames

Cubs Lick Browns In 15-2 Contest; Leiber Hits Homer

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 8 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, making his 1940 mound debut just 50 miles from the Arkansas town where he was born, hit the comeback trail today in sparkling fashion.

The eccentric Chicago right-hander, whose pitching career has been on the wane, went five innings against the St. Louis Browns, limiting them to two hits and no runs.

While Dizzy was pitching shut-out ball his teammates built up a 10-0 lead and went on to give the Cubs a 15 to 2 victory.

Dean walked two men in the first inning, but neither advanced further than second base. Sam Harshany gleaned a single off Dizzy in the second frame, but died on first base. The Browns threatened in the third when George McQuinn walked with two out.

Joe Gallagher singled, sending McQuinn to third, but Harland Clift struck out to end the inning.

The Browns went out in the fourth. Dean issued a walk to Joe Grace to start the fifth, then retired the next three batters on two infield pop-ups and an out-field fly.

Jackie Mooty took over in the sixth and gave up three hits and two runs the rest of the way. Meanwhile, the Cubs were slaughtering all offerings.

Hank Leiber accounted for three runs in the first inning with a home run. Dominic Dallessandro homered in the fourth, scoring Leiber ahead of him and Dean followed later with a double to score Bob Sturgeon who had singled. Al Todd drove in four more runs in the fifth with a circuit smash with the bases full.

Yanks To Honor Colonel Ruppert

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—The world champion Yankees will pay tribute to their late owner, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, when they start the 1940 home season with the Washington Senators at Yankee stadium April 19.

A memorial plaque will be unveiled on the center field bleacher fence to perpetuate the memory of Colonel Ruppert, who owned the club 24 years until his death last year.

All Ready Price Decided For Grid Opener

Football tickets for next fall's opening game will be priced at $1.10, the board in control of athletics decided at its meeting yesterday. The first appearance of Coach Eddie Anderson's 1940 Hawkeyes will be here Oct. 5 against South Dakota university. The other games will be the usual $2.75.

According to Iowa athletic officials, orders are already coming in for the games, with no one of the four home contests a distinct favorite. Besides South Dakota, there are three contests on the home card, Wisconsin on Oct. 12, Purdue Nov. 2 and Illinois Nov. 23. The Wisconsin game has been designated as Dad's Day and Purdue as Homecoming.

It has also been decided that Knothole club tickets, available to school children, will be sold again next fall.

Co-Ops Reach Title Round

Two co-operative dormitory league teams entered the championship round of the intramural badminton tournament yesterday afternoon.

Whetstone II won its way into the quarter-final round by virtue of a 2-1 victory over Kellogg. Parry, Kellogg, downed Smith. Whetstone II, in the opening singles match of the day, 15-4, 15-3. In the second singles match Rasputnik, garnered a point for Whetstone II by defeating Fife, Kellogg, 15-10, 15-11.

Smith and Rasputnik captured the doubles tilt for Whetstone II by downing Parry and Fife, Kellogg, 11-15, 15-10, 15-7.

Gables also entered the quarter-final round by defeating Whetstone I, 3-0. Boughton, Gables, took the first singles encounter from Steel, Whetstone I, by a 21-13 score. Johnson captured the second point for Gables by defeating Swanson, 21-15. The third and final point also went to Gables when Boughton and Johnson defeated Steel and Swanson in the doubles encounter.

Cancel Cup Matches

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—England's golfing officials notified the United States Golf association today that because of "the present emergency" Great Britain would not send a team to oppose the Americans for the Walker cup matches this year.

York Hits Homer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Rudy York swatted his fifth homer in four days yesterday as the Detroit Tigers routed the Knoxville Smokies, of the Southern association, 13 to 5. The clubs play here again tomorrow.

Swimmers Set For Y.M.C.A. Meet Saturday

Having already broken several state records in the district meets, a fast field of swimmers is expected to take to the water as the annual Y. M. C. A. swimming finals get under way at the Iowa fieldhouse pool at 2 p. m. Saturday. Dave Armbruster, Hawkeye swimming coach, will have charge of the meet.

Competition in the state Y meet has always been keen, with attractive plaques given to individual winners, and trophies to the division winners. The boys have been divided into four classes, senior, intermediate, junior A, and junior B. Especially surprising, Coach Armbruster commented, are the exceptionally fast times turned in.

Qualifiers for the finals were named Sunday by Gurney Day of the Des Moines Y. M. C. A. They were chosen on a time basis from the competitors in the three district events at Ottumwa, Cedar Rapids and Burlington.

Before the finals, a meeting of all the coaches will be held at the fieldhouse at 1:15. No admission will be charged to the meet.

Nead Fourth Hawk To Win A.A.U. Title

When Wilbur Nead won the National A.A.U. heavyweight wrestling championship last weekend, he became only the third University of Iowa-trained grappler to earn a title of this classification.

Nead, although a year out of competition, won all of his matches in a brilliant display of wrestling at Ames. He now is a graduate student at the university and the

Iowa Trackmen Compete Today In Shot Put

All university weight men will get a chance to show their worth in a series of spring weight events starting today when the first tosses of the DeHeer shot put event will be measured.

Previous winners of the DeHeer trophy have been Bill Leuz, Mill Kuhl and Hank Luebcke, all varsity track men. These men are not eligible to compete this year in the shot put event.

On April 16, a week from today, the Dutton discus throw will be staged, inviting all university men to compete.

The shot put event to be held this afternoon will get under way at about 4:15 o'clock. If weather conditions permit, the affair will be held on the outdoor field instead of in the fieldhouse.

Coach George Bresnahan announces that the events are open to all men in the university including the freshman and varsity track squads.

A.A.U. meet was his first appearance since winning the Big Ten title in 1939.

Six years ago Earle Kielhorn of Iowa took the National A.A.U. 155-pound championship and in 1927 Leroy Pfeffer was the 112-pound winner.

Married Women Discharged Only When Inefficient-Daykin

"If marriage hurts a woman's efficiency as a member of industry, she will be laid off," was a conclusion drawn by Prof. Walter L. Daykin of the university college of commerce, speaking on "The Role of Women in Industry" at a luncheon meeting of the League of Women Voters yesterday in the foyer of the river room of Iowa Union.

"The ordinary employer runs his business not on whether his employees are married and have children but on how efficient they are," he added.

The roles of women in industry in Europe and in the United States were compared by Professor Daykin, who described the state in Europe as one in which both married and single women must work, and single women are encouraged to marry because of the emphasis placed by the governments on an increased birth rate.

"There are 11 or 12 million women in industry in the United States," Professor Daykin asserted. "The trend is growing until women are now found in practically all industries but those like steel and smelting."

Of the women in industry, the speaker classified 14.2 per cent as employed in the professions, 17.5 in manufacturing, 8.5 in agriculture and 29.6 in domestic trades. The five factors responsible for the present drift to industry were explained as (1) the increase in mechanized labor, which makes actual physical effort less; (2) the change in the attitude toward working women; (3) the migration of tasks from the home into industry; (4) the training of women to become more versatile, and (5) the developing of the "independence" theory about women.

"The most significant role of women in labor is the auxiliary movement," stated Professor Daykin. "It solidifies and gives a singleness of purpose to women active in labor."

The place of women as labor leaders was not emphasized by the speaker. He reported that very few became leaders, but most women found a useful position in picketing because they could "get by" with more than men pickets.

Professor Daykin explained several attempts to control the problem of women in industry, a problem which he found very real because of present unemployment figures. The attempts included emphasizing the tradition of "women's place in the home"; discouraging "pin-money" workers; unionizing women, which is difficult because of the prevalence of women in the low-salaried industries naturally hard to unionize, and by legislating against married women.

Several states with proposed laws on married women in industry were cited by the professor. The laws recommended the dismissal of women if the income of their husbands or of both equaled a certain set amount. The agitation for the laws was begun, he said, by "public-minded" people who are disturbed because "they realize we are near the 1929 level of production in all but the building trade and yet we are faced with a large number of unemployed."

"The social security and child labor laws are efforts to cut down the supply of labor," explained Professor Daykin. "This is another way."

SHAMBAUGH: He Symbolized Iowa's Past, Future

Shambaugh--

cherished fictitious traditions that oftentimes were accepted for fact because they added that invaluable touch of romance that evolved from the legends of the people. So, even as he produced evidence to discount the belief that Father Charles Mazuchelli designed Iowa's Old Stone Capitol, he clung to the legend itself.

University His Life
The university, sprung from the soil of Iowa, was his life. To it he gave his life. He made university lectures vital and important, and his introductions, now profound, now solemn, now witty, were an institution. He promoted the democratic roundtable discussion. With Albert Shaw, Albert Bushnell Hart and W. W. Willoughby he launched the "American Political Science Review." Under his supervision the State Historical Society of Iowa became the leader in Iowa's historical research.

The History and Future--
He was the history of the university. "Recalling the past, picturing the present, and dreaming of the future," Professor Shambaugh spoke on his "more than" university" in 1934:

"The university of today," he said, "is often looked upon as a mass production institution. The individual is forgotten in the crowd. Some people picture the university as a huge department store with professors as high powered salesmen who strive to sell all kinds of facts and academic knowledge to students who neither want them nor will ever use them.

"Some universities are factories, which taking the green product, turn out standard products of higher education, marked with the standard labels B.A., B.S., M.A., Ph.D., M.D. Universities are too often fact finding institutions that lay no stress upon the state of mind and the attitude of soul."

Picturing a university 40 years ahead, of a generation of students yet unborn, Professor Shambaugh wove the dream around Old Capitol which links the spirit of the past with that of the future. The major emphasis, he believed, will be placed upon freedom, state of mind, attitude of soul, inner approval, creation and use of leisure time. The professors will be teachers of the imagination, stimulating and inspiring the students instead of stuffing them with useless facts, he said.

"There will be less of organization, registration, supervision, testing, grading, classifying and more of the creating of critical, analytical, philosophical, sympathetic, contemplative, cultural attitudes of mind. There will be less memory work and more creation, less of the crowd and more of the individual, less of the jazz and more of the joy, less of the factual and more of the 'more than.'"

In March, 1932, came the first announcement of the creation of Professor Shambaugh's "campus course"—an approach to a liberal and cultural education, offered for the first time during the summer session of that year, embodying freedom of research and thought along the student's own trails of interest.

It embodied its originator's belief in the importance of the individual in the terms of which he spoke in 1934. Within two years, the course had been praised by educators throughout the nation and from as far away as India.

Soon after the inauguration of the course, Professor Shambaugh was quick to predict the spread of his philosophy on the Iowa campus.

"The campus course is not the antithesis of science," he asserted in June, 1934. "Rather it is the salvation of research. We must discover some way to throw the results of scientific research and experiment into the stream of common thought. The campus course is the romance—the adventure—of education."

Professor Shambaugh dealt with the academic; he dealt also with the practical.

Viewing the "present revolution in political and social affairs" in October, 1934, the Iowa professor said:

"We may run away from the revolution, or we may run with it, or we may run it. The first choice seems cowardly, the second futile, the third seems to be the most intelligent.

Revolutions
"I should like to think that the present revolution will bring... a new state based upon moral and spiritual values, a new government based upon a sense of human obligations, a new democracy based upon an equality of cultural opportunity—the opportunity of fulfilling life and of making our world richer, not

Linking the Past with the Future--

"... picturing a university 40 years ahead, of a generation of students yet unborn, Professor Shambaugh wove the dream around Old Capitol which links the spirit of the past with that of the future. ## Two of the Best-Known, Best Loved--

—Daily Iowan Engraving English department. Both had been faculty members for more than 40 years. Professor Sloan resigned last spring for "a well-earned rest."

in things, but in mental and emotional experiences.

"In particular I want to think that the democratic state will weather the stress and strain of the hour. If we stand firm in support of the American dream, democracy shall not fail."

Professor Shambaugh as a social being sprung from the man as an individual. He liked to be alone with his thoughts. He often visited the Canadian Rockies. "There is a rugged strength about the mountains that is inspiring, that makes one dream of great achievements," he said. "There is strength in the sea, too. But it is a different sort of strength—it is calm and vast."

Liked Solitude
"Solitude means much to him," wrote Tom Yostoff in 1933. "When there is a lull in his daily activities, he likes to sit and dream. Not idle dreams, no fuzzy reveries, but dreams which may someday become real achievement—actualities which he has built up in his mind."

"Do dreams ever come true? Sometimes—more often they don't. But whether they come true or whether they remain dreams is not important; the dream is the thing."

"All achievement must begin as a dream," he said, "and the man who cannot dream has not the vision to create things." He looked at the wide shelves of books before him in his office.

"More than 15 years ago I dreamed of gathering the history of Iowa between the covers of books. It was a wild, seemingly impossible idea—yet there they are before me."

An Iowa History
"He picked up a book from his desk, and opened it slowly, thoughtfully. Years ago, when I thought of this, it seemed absurd. Where could I find someone to gather these facts, to devote the amount of time necessary to write it? Now it has been written."

"When I leave my office and go home in the evening, I don't sit down and work jig-saw puzzles, or play cards—that doesn't interest me. I sit down and just think—let my mind build up dreams."

That was Benj. Shambaugh the personality. From him came Benj. Shambaugh, the scholar, the teacher, the historian.

He became head of the university's political science department in 1897, two years after his first professorship in political science here. Since 1907 he had been superintendent of the State Historical Society of Iowa.

Affiliations
He edited the Iowa Journal of History and Politics, was a member and ex-president of the American Political Science Association and belonged to the American Historical Association, the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, and the Political Science Club of Iowa.

He was noted as an author. His "History of the Constitutions of Iowa" appeared in 1902, "The Constitutions of Iowa" in 1934 and the 450-page history of Iowa City and early Iowa government, "The Old Stone Capitol Remembers," last year, in honor of the 100th anniversary of the founding of Iowa City.

He edited "Documentary Material Relating to the History of Iowa" in 1895, "Fragments of Debates of the Constitutional Conventions of 1844 and 1846" in 1900, "Messages and Proclamations of the Governors of Iowa" in 1903, and publications in the Iowa biographical series, Iowa economic history series, Iowa social history series, Iowa applied history series and Iowa chronicles of the World War series.

Historical
Born at Elvira, Iowa, Jan. 29, 1871, Professor Shambaugh received his Ph.B. at the University of Iowa in 1892, his M.A. at Iowa the following year and his Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania two years later.

He married Bertha M. Horak in 1897, an Iowa historian in her own right and one who collaborated with him in much of his work.

He is survived by his widow; a sister, Mrs. Roger Mahon of Clinton, and a brother, Dr. George Elmer Shambaugh, prominent Chicago specialist.

Colleague and Friend --

"... the passing of Professor Shambaugh marks the end of an era. An Iowa historian, he was five score years in the history of his state. He was more than historian; he was teacher and scholar, colleague and friend..."

Twenty-seven graduate and undergraduate students entered 59 pieces in the art exhibit sponsored by Union Board. The pictures will remain on exhibit this week. Four classes, oil, watercolor and pastel, monochrome and sculpture, were exhibited.

Sound Effects Man Aids Illusion of Reality Sought in Radio Sound With Varied Apparatus

To create an illusion of reality, radio employs the sound effects man, who, with the dramatist, can at times stimulate the imagination far beyond the effect of mere words coming to the listener over the radio.

The engineer, with the sound effects man, constantly works toward a perfection in dependability, ease of operation, realistic reproduction, economy and simplicity—all to make the voice coming over the air convey the impression which only real experience would do otherwise.

Much money and much time is being spent by the large chain networks for developing new effects and new means of producing sound, a survey made by Arnold M. Levine, G of New London, Conn., shows.

Award Kuney Fellowship For Theater Work

Clark G. Kuney, G of Boston, Mass., is one of seven persons awarded a $1,000 fellowship by the National Theater conference for the 1940-41 season, according to an announcement by Fred McConnell, chairman of the fellowship project and director of the Cleveland playhouse. On the local stage Kuney played the role of Father Shaughnessy in the university production of "The White Steed." He also has directed the work of many stage crews.

The six other men winning a fellowship are George Blair, Bloomington, Ind.; Robert Gault, Hiram, Ohio; Robert Gill, Pittsburgh, Penn.; Vincent Jukes, Athens, Ohio, and Richard Moody, Urbana, Ill.

The National Theater conference fellowships are derived from a Rockefeller foundation grant of $25,000 covering a period of three years. ## 73 Fellowships Announced By Foundation

Seventy-three fellowships with stipends totalling $165,000 to assist research and creative work were announced yesterday by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial foundation. The foundation was established in 1925 by former United States Senator and Mrs. Simon Guggenheim as a memorial to a son to assist original work by scholars and artists.

Thirty-seven of the fellows are free-lance scholars and artists and 20 are not college-trained. Five are women. Two of the fellows are Negroes. The 73 fellows were chosen from among more than 1,700 applicants for their giving promise of adding to the world's "scholarly and artistic power," according to the words of Senator and Mrs. Guggenheim.

This year because of the wars in Europe, all fellows, with the exception of one whose work takes him to the Near East, will work in the western hemisphere. Twelve will go to Latin America and the rest will work in the United States and Canada.

Additional fellowships for Latin American scholars and artists will be awarded in June. In the past 15 years the foundation has granted 913 fellowships and $2,082,000 to assist its fellows to carry on their work.

University Art Conference To Be Held This Week End in Conjunction With H. S. Exhibit

The 10th annual University of Iowa art conference will be held in the university art building this year on Friday and Saturday in conjunction with the Iowa High School Art exhibition.

The high school exhibition and conference has had a consistent growth since 1931 and last year was expanded to include the college and university field.

By this means the whole problem of art education was considered and understanding encouraged between high schools and colleges which heretofore had been largely separate entities.

Over 300 art teachers, administrators in universities, colleges, secondary and elementary schools in Iowa and neighboring states are expected to attend this year's meeting.

The program will be inaugurated at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the auditorium of the art building with Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts presiding.

Four lecturers will appear at this time. Alden F. Megrew, head of the art department at Lawrence college, will talk on "The Development of the Sky-scraper"; Prof. Otto Brendel of history of art at Washington university, St. Louis, on "The Revival of Antiquity in Italian Renaissance Painting."

Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the art department here at the university, on "Criticism and Modern Art," and Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department on "Special Ability with Particular Reference to Artistic Aptitude."

Special interest is attached to the talk by Alden F. Megrew because Mr. Megrew will become a member of the University of Iowa faculty this summer as an instructor in the history of art.

Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, will preside at the dinner session in the river room of Iowa Union at 6 p.m. The address of welcome to the conference visitors will be delivered by President Eugene A. Gilmore.

At 8 p.m. Friday Dean George D. Stoddard of the graduate college will preside at the meeting in the exhibition gallery of the art building at which time Ruth Reeves, internationally known designer of handprinted textiles, will give a demonstration-talk on "Modern Design," and Grant Wood, Iowa's own artist of international reputation, will talk on "Regional Art."

Saturday morning the entire session, presided over by Prof. Edna Patzig, head of the art department of university high school, will be given over to high school art. The three judges of the Iowa High School Art exhibition will submit comments on the exhibition.

Each will present a talk. Otto Ege, head of teacher training, Cleveland School of Art, will talk on "Recent Progress Made in High School Art Teaching"; Muriel Sibell, head of the fine arts department at the University of Colorado, on "Drawing, Painting, and Sculpture in High School Art," and Ruth Raymond, head of the department of art education, University of Minnesota, on "Design in High School Art."

Dean Paul C. Packer of the college of education will address the noon luncheon Saturday in the river room of Iowa Union. Professor Harper will preside.

Under the direction of Professor Longman, the Saturday afternoon program will begin at 2 p.m. Emil Ganso, artist in residence at Lawrence college, will give an illustrated lecture and demonstration of lithography in the auditorium of the art building. Ganso is well-known throughout the country for his painting and his achievements in the graphic arts.

A colored motion picture of the Iowa art students at work, at 3:30 in the auditorium, a business meeting at 4 p.m., and a tea in the exhibition gallery at 4:15 will complete the activities of the conference.

Iowa City To Vote on Water Works Purchase Plan May 7

Council O. K.'s Water Service Company Offer

Utility Prices Entire Location, Equipment To City at $750,000

A resolution to hold a special city election on Tuesday, May 7, to determine the "proposition of establishing a municipal water works system in and for the city of Iowa City" was passed last night at the regular meeting of members of the city council in the council chambers.

Mayor Henry Willenbrock and members of the council were faced with the problem of whether a new municipal water works should be financed through an out-of-state investment concern or by bond firms of Iowa.

After three hours of deliberation, it was decided to authorize the mayor and city clerk to sign a contract offered by the Iowa Water Service company, which is represented by an out-of-state investment firm.

In this contract, the council was offered the location and entire equipment of the present Iowa City water system at a price of $750,000 with bonds at two and three-fourths per cent interest.

C. D. Beh of Des Moines represented seven Iowa investment companies, and Harry B. Graef of the Graef Investment and Securities company, also of Des Moines, presented the council with a certified check for $50,000 as initial backing for his contract, should it be accepted.

The individual Iowa bond houses were united in the principle that bonds should go to Iowa firms. However, each firm offered its own proposition to the council.

In his address to the council, Beh, representative of the Iowa firms, stated:

"The Iowa bond dealers should be given consideration in this bond sale.

"Local bond houses are continually prepared to protect local interests.

"Surely there must be some way to distribute these bonds to Iowa firms."

Agreements other than the one offered by the Iowa Water Service company were not read before adoption.

The resolution to hold a special city election was introduced by R. J. Phelps, fourth ward councilman, and was seconded by E. R. Means, alderman-at-large.

According to the resolution, all Iowa City polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. so that citizens of Iowa City may vote on this question.

Invasion--

capital were told that only these official calls would be handled.

All telephone connections with Oslo were ended, apparently by Norwegian censorship shortly after an air raid alarm of one hour was lifted at 1:30 a. m. (6:30 p. m. Monday, CST).

The nationality of the foreign warships reported driven from Oslo Fjord was not known here. Within the past 24 hours both British and German warships had been reported near the Norwegian coast.

The battle apparently took place early today shortly after Norway ordered all coastal light-houses darkened and radio stations silenced.

These emergency precautions were taken when reliable sources in Oslo had reported a German armada of 125 ships including a pocket battleship and heavy cruisers in the Kattegat, apparently headed toward the Norwegian south coast.

The fleet was said then to be at Lesoe off Denmark a little over a hundred miles from Oslo Fjord.

The fleet then was leaving the Kattegat and entering the Skagerrak.

The Skagerrak, strategic waterway between Denmark and Norway and connecting the North sea with the Baltic, gives access to Oslo Fjord.

This narrow arm of the sea, but 70 miles wide, was the scene of the most famous naval encounter of the World war, the battle of Jutland.

Retaliation for Loss
These meager reports of an attack on Norway followed reports that the German armada might be approaching to retaliate mining of Norwegian waters and against the British fleet for the sinking of a German troop transport but four miles off Norway with the loss of 300 of 500 soldiers aboard her.

(Amsterdam dispatches to the London Daily Mail quoted neutral observers in Berlin as saying they had seen German troops entraining for German garrisons on the Baltic, whence they could be embarked for Scandinavian objectives.)

Officers Seize Slot Machines At Roadhouse

Raiding Party Finds Gambling Devices, Liquors at Casino

Sixteen slot machines were seized at the Casino roadhouse at the west edge of the city on highway 6 yesterday noon when the establishment was raided by three Iowa City police officers.

Reports that frequent Sunday night parties had been held at the roadhouse prompted the raid, according to Police Chief Frank Burns. Formerly the Casino was used only for private parties.

Lately, however, public Sunday night parties were held with an admission fee of 25 cents a person, according to reports made to local police.

Three chuck-luck cages, four punch boards and other games of chance were also seized in the raid, police said. Chief Burns said that beer and cigarettes had been sold at the Casino which does not have a permit to sell either. Beer, alcohol and whisky were also picked up by the raiding party, police reported.

Charges of possession of gambling devices will "probably be the charge" that is to be filed against the operator of this roadhouse, according to Police Chief Burns. According to County Attorney Harold Vestermark, charges will also be filed against the owner of the tavern as soon as its legal owner is identified.

Enemy Shot Down
"It is now known that two of the enemy aircraft which took part in the raid were shot down by the royal air force fighter aircraft and it is believed that a third which was severely damaged by machine gunfire and was last seen diving towards the sea met with the same fate."

National Labor Relations Board Wins Victory; Supreme Court Refuses To Review Steel Case

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The national labor relations board won one of the biggest victories of its history when the supreme court refused to review a board order directing the Republic Steel corporation to reinstate and pay back wages to thousands of participants in the bloody "Little Steel" strike of 1937.

The order was upheld last Nov. 8 by the third circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia and thus the supreme court, in turning down the company's petition for review today, permitted the order to stand.

Labor board officials said that a plan was underway for putting a staff of checkers in the field within two weeks to work on back pay claims of approximately 9,000 men. Both the labor board and the company said that most of the former employees affected by the re-instatement order had already been re-employed. Therefore, the company added, today's decision will not "involve any serious re-employment problem."

The order against Republic, the largest "reinstatement case" ever decided by the board, said that the corporation was guilty of unfair labor practices and ordered it to disestablish certain "dominated" unions and to re-employ with back pay workers declared to have been discharged for union activity.

William F. Donovan, a district director of the CIO's steel worker organization committee — which called the strike in May, 1937, after Republic and other independent steel producers had refused to bargain with the union — said at Cleveland that the court's order was "the greatest victory ever achieved by organized labor."

Nazis Drop Incendiary Bombs On Scapa Flow Naval Base

British Shoot Down Two German Planes; Third Raid in Month

By DREW MIDDLETON LONDON, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—German warplanes dropped incendiary and high explosive bombs in their third raid within a month last night on Britain's Scapa Flow naval base, the air ministry reported early today.

At least two German planes were shot down, the British said, and a third was believed brought down before the attack ended.

The raid, which came while the allies stood fast in their defiant mine-laying in Norwegian territorial waters despite vigorous Norwegian protests, resulted in no damage to shipping, the British added.

A civilian was buried under the debris caused by a high explosive bomb, a communique added, but suffered no injury beyond shock.

The statement issued by the air ministry and the ministry of home security said:

"During a raid on Scapa Flow yesterday (Monday) evening a number of incendiary and high explosive bombs were dropped. No damage was caused to warships or other shipping.

"A civilian was buried under debris by a high explosive bomb but sustained no injury beyond shock. There were no other casualties.

"Small fires were started in the heather by the incendiary bombs which fell on the moorland and the roof of an outlying farmhouse was damaged by the fire of high explosive bombs which fell near. No other damage to property was caused.

Enemy Shot Down
"It is now known that two of the enemy aircraft which took part in the raid were shot down by the royal air force fighter aircraft and it is believed that a third which was severely damaged by machine gunfire and was last seen diving towards the sea met with the same fate."

Hold British Dynamite Boats In Danube

BUCHAREST, April 8 (AP)—Detention of a fleet of dynamite-laden British barges, charged by Germans with being designed to blow up a narrow Danube gateway and block a German supply line, today electrified southeastern Europe with the fear war soon might spread to this quarter of the world.

Rumanian police, acting on a tip said to have been supplied by the pro-Nazi iron guard, halted the fleet near Giurgiu, Danube river port where Germany ships much needed Rumanian oil supplies.

Aboard were tons of dynamite. Germans alleged the British planned to blockade the spot in the Danube known as the iron gate by sinking the barges and wrecking the narrow channel where the river cuts through the Carpathian barrier between high cliffs. The iron gate is 280 miles up river from Giurgiu.

Official British quarters, acknowledging the barges were loaded with explosives, insisted they were to be used only for destroying allied rivercraft in case of a German invasion of Rumania.

Group Holds Business Clinic

Businessmen Discuss Needs Of Iowa City

Meeting Sponsored By Local Chamber Of Commerce Unit

More than 100 Iowa City physicians met in three sessions yesterday in the Jefferson hotel dining room to diagnose a patient.

The patient was the city of Iowa City and the doctors were Iowa City citizens who came to talk and to listen in at the Iowa City chamber of commerce "business clinics" being held in Iowa City for the first time. The purpose of the clinics, as explained by Leland Nagle, chamber of commerce president, was to receive a cross-section of ideas from as many different people as possible on the problems that confront Iowa City and to put into the program of the chamber of commerce definite steps to meet these problems.

Gordon H. Brown, chamber of commerce secretary, began the first clinic at 10 a. m. with an outline of the chamber of commerce program, stressing town-university cooperation.

Clinic To Arouse Spirit
He was followed by L. C. Townsend of Chicago, business analyst and writer, who pointed out that these clinics were not an experiment, but a time-tested device to shake civic groups from their complacency. He pointed to the advantages that towns of comparable population do not have, and included the university and the lack of an industrial problem in this category.

The meeting was then thrown open to the "doctors" under the chairmanship of Roscoe Taylor. There were businessmen and professors, housewives and farmers and one former mayor who was listed simply as "unemployed."

Itinerant Peddler Problem
A young merchant, with a small shop of his own, brought up the question of the itinerant peddler and what should be done to curb him. A professor in the school of religion urged that Iowa City advertise its moral assets to counteract the prevailing belief throughout the state that the town and university are lower morally than other cities in the state.

Someone wanted the chamber of commerce to do something about the extension of highway 261 to Dubuque and several speakers pointed out the advantages of the community swimming pool.

The problem of parking was discussed thoroughly in the afternoon session at 4 p. m. One farmer complained at some length about the trials of the farmer trying to find a parking place in town for

William Rivkin Wins National Hillel Oratorical Competition

Iowa Representative Defeats Speakers From 12 Colleges

William Rivkin, A3 of Davenport, captured the national Hillel oratorical contest at the Covenant club in Chicago Sunday night. The new champion spoke on "Melancholy—1940," which was his subject at two previous contests.

Representing the northern region, Rivkin spoke against students from the University of Illinois, University of Wisconsin, Ohio State University, University of Michigan, University of California, Cornell University, University of Texas, Northwestern, University of Alabama, Penn State college, University of North Carolina and University of Indiana.

After winning the local tournament, Rivkin emerged the winner in the semi-final round at Madison, Wis., March 3, which earned him the right to compete in the final round.

The Iowa organization is the first extension unit of the Hillel foundations to win the national title. The first was won by Illinois, the second by Michigan and the third, last year, again by Illinois. Thirty foundations and extension units participated in a series of elimination contests in every part of the country. These were zoned and the winners were sent to Chicago for the finals.

DES MOINES, (AP)—The Finnish relief fund reached $20,107 today when donations amounting to $104 were received.

Saturday night shopping. Others urged the establishment of a free parking lot in town.

The agricultural theme of the afternoon meeting was followed by other speakers in their views on improving the relations of the town and the farmer. A regular meeting of farmers and businessmen was suggested. J. J. Swamer presided at the session.

The evening meeting at 7:30 p. m. with Albert Sidwell presiding, considered the beautification of the city, better street markers, the support of a local community band, and the problem of the greater use of Iowa agricultural products by the university. It was suggested that clerks in Iowa City stores should be educated in regard to courtesy and service.

The clinics will be continued today at the same times with Milton R. Petersen, Dean E. M. MacEwen of the college of medicine, and Prof. C. Woody Thompson of the college of commerce presiding at the three sessions.
