Leading of British troops in the evacuation of Norwegian forces from Narvik today was a turning point in the war. As the German news media reported, the move was aimed at keeping the British from capturing the strategic port before the German forces were ready to defend it.

The German troops are expected toaran in safety, although the British have been reported to be closing in on the area. The evacuation is a sign of the German military's recognition of the importance of the port and its strategic value.

The British forces are expected to reinforce their position in the area, and the evacuation will likely delay any further German advances in the region.

New Mystery: Who Stole Our Stagecoach?

CHICAGO, April 15 (AP) — The stagecoach which was the property of a local blacksmith, was found along the banks of the Lake Michigan in the pursuit of the stagecoach. The coachman had left the vehicle at a nearby cabin after he had gone to a store to buy supplies.

Gilmore, who was the only witness to the theft, said that the stagecoach was last seen being driven by a man in a red coat.

The coach was valued at $100 and was found by a passing motorist.

Amendments Directed At Wheat, Cotton, Tobacco

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Secretary Wallace urged people to purchase wheat, cotton, and tobacco in the future. He said that these goods were essential to the success of the war effort.

The Secretary, who is the head of the Department of Agriculture, said that he was concerned about the future of these crops and the need to ensure that they are grown in sufficient quantities.

He also called for the creation of a special committee to oversee the production of these crops and to ensure that they are marketed efficiently.

Military, Transport Requirements Before Foreign Orders

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Rumania has placed new restrictions on the export of wheat and coal to other countries. The move is part of the country's efforts to ensure that its military and transportation needs are met before it considers foreign orders.

The government has also announced that it will increase the amount of oil it reserves, as part of its efforts to ensure a stable supply.

The changes are expected to have a significant impact on international trade, as Rumania is a major producer of wheat and coal.

AFTER THE FROZEN DESERTS OF THE GREAT DEPRESSION, WHAT COMES NEXT?

The WGAN-Beverly Hills Republican, in an atmosphere of moderate optimism, has decreed that the next wave will be a continuation of the existing depression, with only minor changes in the level of activity. In fact, the Republican's forecast is so pessimistic that it predicts that the next wave will be even worse than the present one.

The Republican's prediction is based on the assumption that the present depression is merely a temporary setback and that the economy will eventually recover. However, the Republican is wrong, and the next wave will be even worse than the present one.

The next wave will be characterized by widespread unemployment, a decline in consumer spending, and a general decline in economic activity. The Republican's prediction of a moderate optimism is therefore a deceptive and misleading forecast.

We should be prepared for the next wave, which will be even worse than the present one. The Republican's prediction of moderate optimism is therefore a deceptive and misleading forecast.

University Theater Players Have a Lot of Fun with ‘Gay 90’s’ Politics

By EDWARD MANSON

The University Theater has once again presented a production that is sure to bring a smile to the faces of those who enjoy a good laugh. The play being performed is "Gay 90’s Politics," which features a cast of characters who are more than happy to dish out some good-natured humor.

The play follows the lives of several political figures from the late 19th century, including Grover Cleveland, Mark Twain, and even President Teddy Roosevelt. Each character is depicted as having their own unique way of thinking about politics and the world in general.

The most memorable moment of the play occurred when Cleveland, played by one of the directors, declared, "I'm not going to sign that paper!"

The audience was left in stitches as they watched Cleveland, who is known for his strong opposition to the spoils system, refuse to sign a document that would have made him a wealthy man.

The play also features a number of other memorable moments, including when Mark Twain, played by one of the actors, declared, "I'm not going to write that novel!"

Twain's character, who is known for his wit and humor, refuses to write a novel that would have made him a millionnaire.

The final curtain call was met with applause from the audience, who were no doubt impressed by the talent and creativity of the cast and crew.

The "Gay 90’s Politics" production is a must-see for anyone who enjoys a good laugh and a bit of historical fiction. The show runs through the weekend, so be sure to catch it while you can!
