

NAZIS LAUNCH 5-POINT ATTACK

Great Britain Is Critical Of German Air Power

Nazi Bombers Have Effect In Scandinavia

Superior Air Force Dominates the Scene On Norse Battlefields

By DREW MIDDLETON LONDON, April 29 (AP)— Damaging attacks by low-flying German bombers on the allied troop landing bases of Molde and Andalsnes emphasized in British minds tonight the belief that control of the air will be the decisive factor in the major battle which slowly is developing in central Norway.

Aware that German planes also are harrying British lines of communication and protecting the German columns moving swiftly from the south toward the garrison in Trondheim, London was gloomy after a week of indifferent news from the north.

Plug Economic Gaps Meanwhile, however, Britain appeared determined to plug any possible gaps on the diplomatic and economic fronts.

The most welcome item of news in this connection was the disclosure that Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax had invited Italian ambassador Giuseppe Bastianini to discuss a resumption of British-Italian trade talks.

These were broken off last February, after Britain's seizure of coal being shipped by sea from Germany to Italy. The fact that the foreign secretary had issued the invitation, however, was hailed by authoritative foreign office sources and by the press as a "good omen" for the improvement of "rather uncertain relations" between the two countries.

Struggle In the North But the struggle in the north took precedence over this latest British feeler toward maintaining the status quo in the Mediterranean.

From Norway came reports that allied forces in the Gudbrandsdalen and Osterdalen, the valleys which provide the main lines of communication between Oslo and Trondheim, were facing increased pressure.

From the admiralty came a flat denial of what was said to be German claims that five British warships and 13 transports had been sunk or badly hit within the last 48 hours.

Authorizes State Unit To Make Treaties

Commercial Pact Ties With Most Nations Termed 'Out-of-Date'

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Secretary Hull, regarding the United States' commercial treaty structure as antique, has authorized the state department to undertake a wholesale negotiation of new treaties. Advance soundings have begun already with some countries.

Officials said that a preliminary survey showed that commercial treaty ties with most nations were not only out-of-date, but were "museum exhibits."

The commercial treaty with Great Britain dates back to 1815, for instance; that with Denmark to 1826; with Morocco to 1837; with Argentina to 1854; with Belgium to 1875; with Bolivia to 1862; with Colombia to 1848, with Costa Rica to 1852; with Liberia to 1863.

There are no commercial treaties at all with a number of countries, including some of the largest—France, Germany and Soviet Russia. With Italy, there is only an executive agreement guaranteeing most-favored nation treatment.

Russia, British May Negotiate

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Diplomatic sources reported that Ivan Maisky, Soviet Russian ambassador, in a talk tonight with Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary, declared Soviet Russia is willing to negotiate a wartime trade agreement with England.

Swedes Make Bomb Shelters, Just in Case

Trade Discussions With Germans Will Continue in Berlin

By ELMER W. PETERSON STOCKHOLM, April 29 (AP)—Pneumatic drills chattering like machineguns hammered air raid shelters out of solid rock—perhaps the most substantial affairs of their kind ever fashioned—as Sweden gave new evidence today of her determination to fight if necessary by heaping up subscriptions to a new defense loan.

Stockholm's air raid shelters are in startling contrast to those I saw the Poles throw up in Warsaw. Instead of shallow trenches in parks the Swedes have sunk concrete shelters reinforced with tubing and covered over with rocks blasted from the excavations.

It was announced officially that German-Swedish trade discussions had been completed here but that they were to be continued in Berlin on the basis of agreements thus far reached.

This brought new attention to the question of Swedish iron ore shipments to Germany this spring and summer. Shipping of iron ore down the Gulf of Bothnia is expected to begin shortly now as the ice is breaking up.

Wants Open Seas It was obvious that Sweden is trying to hold fast to her neutral position as regards ore shipments from Kiruna, only a third of which normally pass through Swedish port of Lulea and through the Baltic to Germany.

The route across Norway and through the North sea, however, has been closed by the warfare at Narvik.

Half-Million Appropriated For Highways

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The house roads committee recommended today a two-year federal highway program of $476,000,000 for the fiscal years of 1942-43.

FIVE NATIONS PREPARE FOR WAR IN MEDITERRANEAN

Warships of five nations—Great Britain, France, Italy, Turkey and Russia—are active as the possibility of the European war spreading to the Mediterranean sea increases. An Allied fleet is reported off the Greek coast prepared to take "counter measures" as an Italian fleet assembles in the Aegean sea for, what Italy terms are the "usual spring maneuvers." Meanwhile, Turkish warships are concentrating in the Sea of Marmora and Russian war vessels are reported active in laying mines in the Black sea, off Odessa. Scenes of these actions are indicated in above map.

Representative Involved in Plot To Overthrow U. S. Government

'Feeling Fine,' Mother Tells F.D.R. After Suffering 'Upset Stomach'

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the president's mother, suffered an upset stomach today while motoring and was treated and rested for two hours in a drug store near the New York world's fair.

Rallying quickly and returning her own car to her Manhattan townhouse, the unusually spry 85-year-old mother assured her son, who telephoned from the White House, that she was "feeling fine." "It was just a little stomach trouble," she told him. A statement issued from her home said no medical treatment had been required at home and that she was asleep by 7 p.m.

Mrs. Roosevelt was returning with a companion from a luncheon when she complained of nausea and ordered her chauffeur to the nearest drug store.

Thorkelson Connected To 'Action' Sector

Accusation Is Made Indirectly Through Government Statement

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—William Gerald Bishop, one of 16 men on trial for conspiring to overthrow the government, was represented today as having named Rep. J. Thorkelson, a Montana republican, as among the members of his "action committee."

This accusation was made indirectly, and not at first hand, in this manner:

The government offered in evidence a statement attributed to Macklin Boettger in which that defendant was quoted as having said of his accused co-conspirator:

"Bishop stated that (certain) members of the action committee, because of their being an integral part of the army, would necessarily assist the army in quelling any communist revolution; that after quelling the communist revolution they would put action committee men into congress and the senate.

"And he claimed that Congressman Thorkelson is already an action committeeman whom he stumped for in Montana. And he also claimed a personal friendship with Senator Reynolds; (claimed) that he knows Senator Vandenberg very intimately and that he is on intimate terms with Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

(In Washington, Representative Thorkelson denounced as "pure fabrication" that statement attributed to Bishop concerning him. "I don't know anything about this action committee," said Thorkelson, "and I don't care anything about it.")

Gov. Wilson Predicts 50% Cut In Iowa's Property Tax Levy

1941 Rate Would Be One Mill—The Result Of Efficiency, He Says

FT. DODGE, April 30 (AP)—Gov. George A. Wilson tonight said "it now appears" that the Iowa state property tax levy payable next year would be fixed at one mill, a 50 per cent reduction compared with the current two-mill rate.

Such a cut would lower to approximately $3,000,000 the contribution from property to state government support in 1941. That source now pays about $6,000,000 annually into the state treasury.

In a speech prepared for the eighth congressional district republican rally here, Wilson said: "With economical administration and without new taxes, we have met all necessary expenditures and I am happy to announce that it now appears we will be able to reduce by one half the state levy upon property for state purposes this next year.

"This has been made possible by greater efficiency in government."

Grinnell Man Injures Foot In Gun Accident

GRINNELL, April 29 (AP)—George Little, of Burlington, senior student at Grinnell college, was recovering in a hospital here tonight from an accidental pistol wound in the foot.

Little was returning from target practice in the country north of the college campus when he pulled his .22 calibre pistol from its holster to unload it before entering the city limits.

Ships Downed Near Sweden

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—The newspaper Handels Tidningen of Goteberg, Sweden, was quoted by exchange telegraph, British news agency, tonight, as saying five German ships had been sunk off the Swedish coast in the last few days, presumably by British submarines.

British Located Strategically To Fight Off Lightning Move

Cannot License Pinball Devices, Solicitor Rules

DES MOINES, April 29 (AP)—Safety Commissioner Harold Holden's plan to license pinball machines here ran afoul of the state law today.

Holden and other council members were informed by assistant city solicitor Sam Orebaugh that Iowa statutes do not permit such licenses.

A municipal court decision last week held that pinball machines unless equipped with "pay-off" devices are legal. It was the "legal" type of machine the safety commissioner proposed to license.

Germans Are Within 35 Miles of Dombas, Railroad Junction

STOCKHOLM, April 29 (AP)—Germany's lightning legions struck in a five-forked attack—four from the south and one from the north—against allied positions along vital railway lines in central Norway tonight.

The allies were described as strategically-placed, however, with machine-gun nests and light artillery defending their positions.

Up the Gudbrandsdalen, a valley lying northwest-southeast across Norway, the Germans were reported in Norwegian dispatches reaching here to have occupied Kvam, 35 miles southeast of the British-held railway junction of Dombas.

Senate Votes F. D. R. Special War Powers

Executive Would Have Control of Foreign Investments in U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The senate voted today to give President Roosevelt specific statutory authority to regulate transactions in foreign investments in this country during war or other emergency.

The measure, which now goes to the house, was passed on a voice vote after rejection of a series of republican-sponsored amendments to limit the president's authority.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the senate banking committee, who sponsored the legislation, said it was intended to "clarify" authority existing under a world war statute and an amendment granting the president emergency monetary powers in 1933.

The clarification was desired by the administration, Wagner told the senate, because a question had been raised as to the legality of the president's order earlier this month "freezing" Danish and Norwegian credits in this country.

The only controversy revolved around unsuccessful efforts of Senators Taft (R-O) and Danaher (R-Conn) to limit the proposed grant of authority.

Danaher urged an amendment to exempt from restrictions transactions in foreign exchange by American citizens, and asked that the proposed authority be automatically ended May 1, 1941. Both proposals were rejected by a voice vote.

House Makes Wage-Hour Law More Flexible in Application

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The house, in its first decision on a long string of suggested changes in the wage-hour law, voted 74 to 38 today to make the maximum hours provision more flexible as it applies to regularly employed, salaried workers.

The amendment provides that time-and-a-half pay shall not be necessary for overtime work performed by a person who has worked at an office or plant for at least six months on a regular salary, provided that in a 26-week period his average work week shall not exceed the maximum prescribed in the present law. That maximum is now 42 a week.

The effect of the amendment would be that a person might work, say 50 hours a week, for a number of weeks but would not have to be paid overtime if his working time during the rest of the half year was so shortened that the average was brought down to 42 a week.

At present the law calls for a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour for both salary and wage earners, and requires time-and-a-half pay for work in excess of the 42-hour maximum work week.

Supreme Court Upholds Right of Governing Branches To Set Standards for Purchasing

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The supreme court spoke out today against "judicial supervision of administrative procedure" in a decision upholding the right of the executive and legislative branches to set up any standards they see fit for government purchasing.

Specifically, the court said that the 1936 Walsh-Healey act requiring government contractors to pay certain minimum wages conferred no litigable rights upon the contractors—that government officials were responsible only to congress for any administration of it.

The court set aside an injunction by which the District of Columbia court of appeals had restrained Secretary Perkins from prescribing minimum wages for iron and steel workers engaged in filling government contracts. Justice Black's opinion, from which Justice McReynolds dissented, made this observation:

"The record here disclosed the 'confusion and disorder' that can result from the delays necessarily incident to judicial supervision of administrative procedure developed to meet present day needs of government and capable of operating efficiently and fairly to both private and public interests."

Some administration senators said these words of Black's could be applied against the pending Logan-Walter bill, which would facilitate court reviews of rulings by administrative agencies. Senator Wagner (D-NY) said that the justice's argument against court interference in ordinary executive duties was broad enough to apply to the Logan-Walter legislation.

there should have been an end to the race of armament programs, which have never proved to be a successful assurance of peace.

Instead of this five-fold program, one of ruthlessness and injustice was followed, contended Dr. Page, and it forced the German people, after 18 years of post-war agony, to turn to 'Hitlerism'—to accept totalitarianism in a moment of frustration, when they could do nothing else.

"Hitler may have started the present war, but first of all the Allies created Hitler," declared Dr. Page. "Where do we go from here?" he inquired, stating at the same time that "if human beings go along engaged in stupid actions, an accumulative situation will evolve to which there can be no immediate solution."

Offering the best course of action, but by no means perfect, Dr. Page advocated that the United States should by all means provide generous relief for the millions of victims of war at the present time, with no discrimination against any race. Of course the United States might be duped and these funds misused if not administered in the proper materials such as food and clothing and medical supplies, but they have to take this chance, Dr. Page stated.

"Secondly, United States must stay out of war," as a further solution to peace Dr. Page emphasized. "We must not destroy our resources by going to war and bring ourselves to a state of economic ruin," he urged. Presenting briefly arguments which have been used to refute this statement, he stated that "they" say that other democracies need our help today, which is the same argument used in the last war.

Just what would happen if we waged another war for the sake of democracy?" asked the evangelist. Inflation, economic ruin and unemployment would be the first results following the war, he answered. Furthermore, a dictatorship would be created in the United States to take care of these emergencies which would arise, added the speaker. Even worse, he predicted that civil war might follow—where would democracy be then.

After presenting arguments against the United States entering the war, Dr. Page suggested that another point in our program should be to help prepare the public mind to engage in a world conference to establish a unified world minus the use of armed forces.

"The program ahead of us is not a Utopian solution but it is the best that we can do at the present time," said Dr. Page as he concluded his lecture.

Following the lecture several pertinent questions were thrust at Dr. Page by members of the audience. "Could the United States shorten the duration of the war, Dr. Page suggested that

Allies Promoted War by 'Not Treating Germans as Human Beings'—Page

By IRENE SUTTON "We've got to do something about 'Hitlerism'; we can't ignore it or evade it any longer," charged Dr. Kirby Page, eminent evangelist, as he spoke to a responsive audience in the senate chamber of Old Capitol yesterday afternoon.

"Naturally, there is no immediate solution to the problem—any rational individual will admit that," intimated Dr. Page. On the basis that it took many years to start war the speaker said that he has no solution that will solve the problem in a moment.

First of all to understand what started the war, Dr. Page reverted back to "what might have prevented Hitlerism" by outlining a five-fold program. "It is my deep conviction," he declared, "that the Allies should have recognized the German people as normal human beings—brothers—following the last conflict, and treated them with justice."

More than that, he suggested that the Allies should have used their own strength to help Germany solve her own problems (economic, political, religious) since that war. And not content with these contributions, the Allies, Dr. Page believes, should have created effective international agencies to help all weak nations to get to their feet—created an international mind, heart, and machinery.

"United States should have set a 'good example' in her own policies for Germany to follow, together with the other nations of the world," added Dr. Page. She as well as Great Britain should have set free people from empirical rule in setting up this example.

Finally, Dr. Page advocated that

A Student In Germany

Harvard Exchange Man Tells Experiences Inside Hitler's Reich

THE "CELEBRATION" of Christmas and the mechanics of German propaganda were only two of many topics discussed by John J. Muller of Munich in a letter recently received here by his friend, Walter D. Rouzer Jr., A3 of Kansas City, Mo.

His expressions and viewpoints justified by his own experiences, Muller, an exchange student from Harvard who has been studying in Munich two years, writes impartially and for the most part without comment on his observations. They tell their own story.

Describing first his Christmas holiday, he explains that, in spite of the fact that he wrote long after the season, "the mail situation is abominable."

"How different things were this year!" he wrote. "The pals who were a year ago sitting together in that little village church (Schellenberg, near Berchtesgaden) listening to the priest preach 'Peace on Earth, Goodwill Amongst Men' and who in the course of two weeks skied, sang and sipped the good old Bavarian beer together are now enemies."

And as it happens in the movies, it happened here: "My first attempt to get into the Christmas spirit was at 'Weihnachtsfest' given by the local international club.

"At my table were a Norwegian, a Swiss, a German and a Swedish couple. I knew them from last year and had judged them as a very gay gang.

"It was amazing to see how the effects of the war had changed them. In the course of the evening we sang the usual Christmas songs, heard several poems, danced and went through all the rigmarole one generally goes through when one tries to have a good time under adverse conditions.

"But it was just impossible to get into the swing of things. The war and its effects haunted us all evening. It just seemed that the season added to the war on the nerves.

"However that evening no matter how hard we tried, we just could not dodge the war topic.

"First the Norwegian explained how he tried to enlist in the Finnish army and had failed because he was a reserve officer in Norway. . . . When on this topic, it is interesting to note that all the nationalities which are gathered here in Munich think that Finland's opponent is the enemy of the world. This coming from some sources is indeed remarkable."

Parallel to the next typed paragraph are the censor's boxed numbers "457" and "1645."

"After we had tried to forget this topic, we talked about Poland. This led the German girl to tell how hard it was for the family to forget that her brother would never return again.

"Finally the German soldier explained that he had very fortunately lived through the Polish campaign, despite the fact that he had always been in the thickest with his tank. But he said he did not expect to see another Christmas."

Muller summarized the food situation and mentioned the scant publicity given by German newspapers to the repeal of the American neutrality act before discussing propaganda Germans are making inside of Germany.

"Most of the propaganda posters," he wrote, "are addressed to the workers.

"Most of them have as their theme that one of the big reasons

England wants defeat and partition of Germany is because Germany's social legislation and socialistic program is too dangerous and contagious for England's aristocratic plutocracy hidden behind a democratic veil.

"They point to the wealth, colonies and power on one hand and then picture the slums and the awful unemployment and poverty of the workman on the other."

"Another favorite theme which one can see very often used on posters is meant to counteract the English talk of not wishing to harm the German people but that their only purpose is to wipe out the Hitler regime. One of the posters of this kind reads: '1899

"We are not fighting the Boers but only Kruger and his regime."

"We are not fighting the Germans but only the Kaiser and his government."

"We are not fighting the Germans but only Hitler and his regime."

"HOW STUPID DO THEY REALLY THINK WE ARE?"

"And one more thing you may already know:

"The present German government is not taking any chances. Police and other forces watching conditions inside of Germany have been considerably reinforced ever since the war started.

"Speaking with a rather prominent police official I was told that if the present precautions had been taken in 1918 the revolution would have been simply impossible."

The letter had no "How's Pete?" nor "How's your golf game?" because Rouzer and Muller met for only a short time last July in Munich when Rouzer was on one of his hitch-hiking tours through Europe.

Must

A Genius Starve?

EVER SINCE Darwin wrote first about the "survival of the fittest" it has been used as scientific evidence that doing things the hard way leads to the best results in the end. Good things, you've heard, don't come easy.

Democracy, you've been told, is paid for in constant vigilance. The girl that you don't have to fight for isn't worth getting, you learned early.

Now comes Raymond E. Manchester, dean of men at Kent State university to reiterate "You, who would reach for the stars should be thankful for poverty, for obscurity, for attic, for thread-bare overcoats, for criticism, for ridicule, for despair, for melancholy, for persecution,—for all the spurs that combine to whip your creative energies to the extreme limit."

And he adds this punch line: "But, perhaps, you are more interested in feather beds and thick steaks!"

We will agree that the dean is right in his observation that comfort breeds indolence.

But we don't see why attics and empty stomachs are necessary spurts to achievement.

We'd be willing to give up the feather bed and the thick steak—but it's our opinion that a cotton-stuffed mattress and a bit of hamburger mightn't hurt a genius too much.

Iowa: The Dairy State

WE'VE ALL become so used to thinking of our state as the "State Where the Tall Corn Grows" that we have neglected some of its other fields of leadership. Governor Wilson has proclaimed May 10 as Dairy Day, an occasion on which Iowans will learn that their state is a ranking leader in dairy products production as well as in corn.

That Iowa should be considered a dairy state is shown by the fact that in 1938 it ranked fourth in volume of milk produced, and second in amount of creamery butter manufactured.

As a producer of wealth, dairying needs more appreciation in Iowa than it has been given in the past. In 1938 total milk production was about 7 1-2 billion pounds. From this there was made 229 million pounds of creamery butter, 6 1-2 million gallons of ice cream, nearly 4 million pounds of cheese, and 11 million pounds of farm butter. Nearly three billion pounds of milk went into market milk outlets, while an estimated 16 billion pounds was condensed.

The total 1939 dairy production in Iowa represented more than $105,000,000 in value. This was 29 per cent more than from corn, 30 per cent as much as from hogs, and 68.5 per cent as much as from both cattle and hogs. As further proof of the income value of dairying to Iowa, more than 75 per cent of the 229 million pounds of creamery butter churned was shipped to markets outside the state, principally in the east.

The welfare of the state of Iowa is to a great extent dependent on the dairy industry.

Zadok Dumbkopf thinks it would be nice if the British would loan us their oversupply of gas masks for use by citizens during the coming political campaign.

G. O. P. Observer Would Rather See Dewey As Next Attorney General Than as President

BY CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

To do much very reliable analyzing a war expert needs some dependable information to base his reasoning on. That's what our American army and navy wizards are extremely lacking in, relative to the Baltic-Scandinavian situation. Reports from German sources, on the one hand, and from allied sources on the opposite hand, are so conflicting that no Yankee guesser can guess with better than the merest modicum of probability. The expert's job is to be an expert, however, and ours are hard at it. Generally they admit that they haven't more than the haziest idea what they're talking about. A few profess to be fairly confident, but even their "ifs" and "buts" profusely decorate their summations.

The last World War's early progress was comparatively obvious. The Germans told of the progress they were making and the allies had to recognize it.

Too Much Lying This war was a stalemate until the Germans invaded Norway. Since then there's been such a deal of lying, on one side or the other, or both, that no report means anything in particular. In short, our experts haven't had any sure-enough facts to draw conclusions from.

On an average our army and navy folk surmise that Herr Hitler is out on a limb in Norway. This, though, is on the supposition (as the allies assert) he lost one-third of Germany's navy in effecting his Norwegian landing.

If he did (an "if" again) the experts don't believe he can keep his expeditionary army reinforced or supply it. If he can't do that, the experts' opinion is that his northern expeditionaries will be chewed up piecemeal, between out-right fighting and lack of ammunition.

Hitler's Problem The distance from northern Denmark to southern Norway isn't great, but it's too far to swim. Troops, guns and explosives have got to be ferried across somehow. And the allies' war craft, by concentrating on that particular strip of water, perhaps can make this an extremely precarious business, if not an impossibility.

One surmise is that Herr Hitler believes he can do his ferrying by airplane. Many aviators think so, too.

Surface land and sea critics think otherwise. They say that flying men are over-enthusiastic as to the airplane's possibilities as a troop and ammunition transport. They speak of it as a "valuable arm" of both their services, but contend that it can't transport troops in any appreciable numbers or seriously bother up-to-date fighting vessels. And certainly, in the surface experts, planes can't deliver supplies in any such quantity as a good-sized army requires.

THE KING'S MEN quartet will highlight the musical portion of the Fibber McGee and Molly program this evening at 7:30 on the NBC-Red network with the singing of "With the Wind and the Rain in Your Hair."

BILLY MILLS' orchestra will swing out with "Bojangles of Harlem," "So Far, So Good" and "Night After Night After You." Fibber McGee and Molly will entertain at 7:30 Wistful Vista with fun and more fun.

ONE of the most unusual stories of an unclaimed legacy totaling more than $10,000 in cash will be told on the Court of Missing Heirs program tonight at 6:30 over CBS when the estate of Ida Rebecca McConnell, a spinster in a family of four brothers and two sisters, all of whom remained unmarried and are now dead, is told.

There's no conclusive answer yet. The question hasn't been tested out long enough.

If Adolf Loses? Suppose Adolf's Norwegian campaign does fizzle out—how bad a defeat will it be for him?

The experts concur that it will be a crushing blow. They point out that Hitler will have sacrificed all the men he sent to the northward and that his navy, if not altogether destroyed, at least will be badly depleted. But more than all that, argue the critics, his prestige at home will be so damaged that it may well cost him his fuhrership. Oh, it's true he'll try to hush failure up, and may manage to do it for awhile, through his censorship, but most of the experts say the news will be sure to leak out ultimately.

But won't the fuhrer be able to offset a disaster in Norway by some brilliant stroke into the Balkans, where he'll need no shipping?

And, maybe, might not Russia give him some real help?—also Italy?

The experts generally predict that, if he comes a cropper in Norway, Hitler won't last long enough to start anything in the Balkans, and that Joe Stalin and Benito Mussolini, if they see luck turning against him, will drop him like a hot potato.

However, the "ifs" and "buts" and "ands" are too plentiful to make all this guessing very clarifying.

A Pamphlet inspired the Declaration of Independence. A second by the same author spurred Washington's bedraggled army to victory against the Hessians at Trenton on Christmas day, 1776.

THE STORY of Thomas Paine and his pamphlets, "Common Sense" and "The Crisis" will be broadcast on the "Cavalcade of America" program tonight at 7 o'clock. Frank Readick, well-known radio actor, will play the role of Paine.

EDDIE CANTOR, a doctor who stumbled on a fabulously rich gold mine, a Scot who pushed a wheelbarrow across the continent, and the widow of composer Edward MacDowell are included among the guests whom Gabriel Heatter will interview on "We, the People" this evening at 7 o'clock over CBS.

WMT, Cedar Rapids and Waterloo at 6:00 on your dial, is now Iowa's most dependable CBS outlet. The inaugural program for the station was Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, Raymond Scott's musical show. The station will carry all the best CBS shows—a real service to the state and surrounding listening area.

That Frances Lederer and Walter Huston walked into a Chinese restaurant the other night and ordered a chicken sandwich and when it was set before him Lederer threw away the chicken and ate the bread, explaining that he only wanted bread but was too embarrassed to ask for it? . . . That Ruben, the restaurateur, who has made a habit of naming sandwiches after celebrities for the last 15 years, now names drinks after them, including The Jolson Jilt, the Saroyan Sling (three of these and you are able to understand his plays), and the Barrymore Bite? . . . That Gray Gordon and his orchestra has replaced Blue Barron and his orchestra in the Green room of a NY hotel because Gray is just in off a tour and Blue is just leaving on one, and the Green room doesn't care what color your name is, so long as you can play? . . . That Harold Lamb, who is an American, although British army officers insist only an Englishman can have written such a book? . . . That Rockwell Kent's son is a student at Columbia? . . . That Jimmy Rae, the acrobatic dancer, is a Baltimore boy who became an expert swimmer after studying pharmacy in a college in Illinois? . . . That Basil Fomeen's car is equipped with a horn that plays melancholy gypsy airs? . . . That "Coffee With the Meal," "Lucy Lake," and other scrawb ball verse by Ogden Nash has been recorded by Victor in the prize album of the year? . . . That Hillbilly music is enjoying a tremendous return to popularity? . . . That a lot of high grade pitching will go to waste this year because the Giants can't hit their way out of a tissuepaper sack? . . . That Lillian Russell's real name was Helen Louise Leonard? . . . That the Rockefeller are planting a lot of European Plane trees in 6th avenue, now that their elms are doing so well in 5th avenue? . . . And that the only people in NY who ought to know how to speak German, French, Italian, Spanish, Croat, Greek, Turkish, Japanese, Chinese, Hawaiian, and the Scandinavian, plus a little Russian, a little Polish, and a little Czech are—the census takers?

In 1849 a Pittsburgh druggist found some rock oil in a nearby brine well and sold it as a remedy for a variety of ills. This was the first commercial use of oil in America. Ten years later the first oil well was drilled and the petroleum industry started.

Reds Down Pirates, 3-2 Derringer Wins; Craft, Bill Werber Clout Home Runs

CINCINNATI, April 29 (AP)—Home runs by Harry Craft and Bill Werber in the seventh and eighth innings nullified five-hit hurling by Max Butcher today as the Cincinnati Reds swept their series-of-three with Pittsburgh, 3 to 2.

A first-frame balk by the big right-hander sent in Werber with the only other tally, although he likely would have scored on Frank McCormick's single—second and last hit allowed by Butcher until Craft connected later with his first circuit smash of the year.

Paul Derringer, who scattered nine hits in chalking up his second pitching triumph, set down the first seven Pirates who faced him.

With one out in the third however, Jeep Handley singled, took second on Eddie Joost's wide throw to first, stole third and scored as Butcher followed through with a single to left.

Lloyd Waner also nicked Paul for one base in the third but the champions' inner defense tightened and the threat ended as Waner was forced by Deb Gams and Frank McCormick speared Paul Waner's fierce liner.

Handley tripled with one gone in the fifth and romped home as Butcher doubled but again the Bucs were cut short as Mac was trapped on L. Waner's grounder and they retired Gams.

In the Reds' first inning rally Handley got his glove on Werber's single; the third baseman took second as Fletcher nipped Lonnie Frey and third on Ival Goodman's long fly.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29 (AP)—Boston smashed three Philadelphia pitchers for 19 hits including four each by Lou Finney and Ted Williams and submerged the Athletics, 11 to 3, before 5,000 fans at Shibe park today to win the odd contest of the three game series.

Base on Balls Gives Detroit Winning Run

Defeat Drops Tribe Into Tie With Bosox For League Lead

DETROIT, April 29 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers scored their second straight decision over Bob Feller today as they downed the Cleveland Indians 4 to 3 in a game played in a drizzle.

With the bases full in the eighth, Feller walked Dick Bartell to force in Bruce Campbell with the winning run.

The Tigers got their other runs in a big opening inning on a pass to Barney McCosky, singles by Bruce Campbell and Charley Gehring and a double by Hank Greenberg.

In the ninth the Indians filled the sacks with one man gone but Alton Benton, big Detroit right hander, relieved Henry Pippen and fanned Ken Keltner and Rolli Hensley.

The loss today dropped the Indians into a tie with Boston for the American league lead and prevented the Tribesmen from sweeping the three game series.

Captains Lead Hawkeyes

Harold Haub, Jim George Boast Averages That Are Impressive

Iowa's baseball squad elected co-captains late last spring to lead the 1940 line. It's still almost a race to see who is leading between the co-captains, Jim George and Harold Haub—the statistics are still almost equally impressive for Haub, ace pitcher, and George, center-fielder.

Highlights of Haub's record in three years include: 19 victories against five defeats, with the last 13 in succession, seven this year. In 1938 he pitched in 13 games and won four while losing four. In 1939 the record was eight won and one lost.

This year Haub has won seven. In fact, his last defeat was at the hands of Louisiana Tech on April 6, 1939. Four of his wins in 1939 were in Big Ten games, two of which were shutouts.

George, named the Big Ten's most valuable player as a sophomore two years ago, has a record something like this: In three years he has made but six errors, five in the outfield and one at third base. He has batted a total of 221 times and cracked out 91 hits for an average of .411. His conference average is an even .400.

George's average this year is .418 for all games and .368 for Big Ten tilts. In 14 games he has been hitless by only two hurlers, Carey of Luther and Saxer of Wisconsin. This year's record includes but one error by George, in Saturday's game at Wisconsin.

Louis To Meet Arturo Godoy On June 20

Yankee Stadium Will Be Scene Of Rematch Bout

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs today got around to making the announcement everyone has been expecting since last February.

It is that heavyweight champion Joe Louis will meet challenger Arturo Godoy in Yankee stadium June 20 in what everyone hopes will not be a repetition of their 15 round crouch-and-kiss affair of last winter.

In that experiment, Godoy, a husky 27-year-old Chilean, emulated the antics of a tortoise concerned only with keeping strictly within his shell. And Louis, with no more of a target to aim at than the top of Godoy's head didn't risk those valuable hands of his by shooting any of his death-dealing punches.

As a result the thing dragged along the entire distance and Godoy got so elated toward the end that he actually kissed Louis, thus providing the only excitement of the last ten rounds.

This time things are going to be different, voluble Al Weill, Godoy's manager, promised at the announcement party. "Right now Godoy thinks of himself as the next heavyweight champion," chuckled Al, "what with all he learned about Louis the first time. And maybe he's right."

But how can Godoy hope to win the title without being the possessor of a punch, a hecker asked. "Whaddya ya mean my boy can't punch?" he howled. "Louis' best shot is that right hand, isn't it? Well, he didn't let it go all right the first time we fought him, because he was busy using it to block Godoy's left hook to the body. Godoy hits 'em where they don't like to be hit, that's his secret."

And maybe, as Weill insists, Louis isn't so keen about meeting the cautious Chilean, because in the contract for the fight there is a clause putting $25,000 of Godoy's share of the purse in Escrow as a guarantee that if Godoy wins he'll give Louis a return match within 60 days. Weill thinks that shows, plain as day, that the champion thinks he has a chance of losing.

Wild Bill Boyd Wins 10-Round Holyoke Fight

HOLYOKE, Mass., April 29 (AP)—Wild Bill Boyd, 187 of Alabama, won an unanimous 10-round decision tonight over Carl Johnson, 191, of Norway, in one of the most spectacular boxing bouts staged here this season.

Both battlers hit the canvas for no-counts during the engagement, but Boyd uncorked a tremendous drive to pile up the points that swayed the officials in his favor.

2,700 Expected To Participate in First Annual Music Festival

Pupils To Stay In Iowa City Over Saturday

First Group Expected To Come Tomorrow; 54 Schools Enrolled

First of nearly 2,700 participants in the University of Iowa's first annual music festival will arrive tomorrow ready for the crowded three-day program which opens Thursday.

The pupils will come from 54 schools of 50 towns and all were selected because of outstanding previous performances and records. No competition is involved.

Up to Monday afternoon, the roster showed 2,615 pupils enrolled. Girls outnumber boys 1,361 to 1,254. Fairfield is the only school which had not submitted the number of its entrants.

Joint Concert
Simultaneously at five centers, the 34-event program opens Thursday morning. It will continue through Saturday, with the joint concert by the festival orchestra, chorus, and band as the concluding feature.

Final arrangements for housing were being made Monday and the machinery is expected to function smoothly. The majority of the pupils will remain here for the duration of the festival in order to absorb its educational angles.

All of the pupils will be guests of the university Thursday evening at the concert by Richard Crooks, Metropolitan Opera company tenor, in the fieldhouse. Hundreds of reserved seat tickets, as well as general admission tickets, still are available to the public.

7 Reproductions Added to Union Loan Collection

Seven new reproductions, including a print of Frederick Waugh's "Windward Shore," have recently been added to Iowa Union's loan collection of fine reproductions, Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of Iowa Union, announced yesterday.

The new paintings are "Red Deer" by Marc; "The Seine" by Cezanne; "The Gold Weigher" by De Hooch; "Central Park" by Prendergast; "Still Life" by Dickinson; "Windward Shore" and "On the Terrace" by Renoir.

The New York Graphic society made the color reproduction of "Windward Shore" through special permission of the university, which owns the original. The reproduction will be shown along with the original, Professor Harper said yesterday, so that differences between the two may be observed.

Waugh is an internationally known artist who has won the Carnegie popularity award many years in succession for his seascapes.

Iowa Union now has 56 framed reproductions in its collection. Dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses and private homes on the campus are allowed to exhibit one of these prints each month.

Mrs. Shafer Writes Book

Mrs. Carlisle Shafer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Larsen, 411 S. Dubuque, and University of Iowa graduate, has, with Dr. Shafer, written and published a book, "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Bread."

The former Carol Larsen, Mrs. Shafer graduated from the Spencer high school, attended Morningside college in Sioux City and received a master's degree from the university.

After graduation she became a social worker, working in Hull house, Chicago, under Jane Addams. She married Shafer in 1932 and since that time has made her home in Menominee, where Dr. Shafer is head of the social science department.

Dr. and Mrs. Shafer have incorporated in their book letters which are the combined product of their experiences as teacher of the social sciences and a social worker, respectively. The book concerns five problems which social workers frequently meet: the need for medical attention and care, unemployment, old age, low income and broken homes.

Teacher! Future Pedagogue Misses Cue

Educational psychology students have been trying their hand at making tests over their own subject matter the past few weeks. Yesterday the prospective teachers were taking turns reading aloud examples of the test queries they had prepared.

A small brunette in the back row raised her hand and proceeded to read a multiple-choice "catch" question.

"Well, come, come," said the professor when she had finished. "What's the right answer?"

"Oh! the maiden cried in distress. 'I forgot to mark it!'"

Campus Band To Play in Yellowstone Park

—Daily Iowan Engraving

summer. Some of the men in the band will have daytime jobs as well as their orchestra playing in the evening. For Dodge, leader of the band, this will be his second season in the park as an accountant. The men will leave about June 15th and will return in time for the opening of the next school year. Old Faithful lodge is located near the famous Old Faithful geyser, known throughout the world.

Avalon Band To Play at Yellowstone In Addition to Playing for Dancing, Group Will Do Park Work

A mass movement of students from all over the United States is bound to take place in just a little over a month to the lodges, inns and hotels of Yellowstone Park, Wyoming. Along with this "Park Rush of 1940" will be Don Dodge and his Avalon orchestra who are going to spend the summer playing for tourists from all over the country instead of students on the University of Iowa campus.

Although the band has 11 members, only eight will play at Old Faithful lodge, located right next door to famous Old Faithful geyser in the heart of Yellowstone park. Don Dodge, its newly-elected leader, will not play with the band for he will serve as an accountant for Old Faithful lodge. Other members making the trip will have other jobs than orchestra work during the daytime. They work as orchestra members only one and a half hours during every evening.

Cooperative
The Avalon band has the distinction of being a cooperative organization. Earl Harrington has been leader for the past year but in accordance with their policy, a new leader is elected each year by the band. A similar system is used by Glen Gray and his orchestra. The band owns itself—it owns its instruments and all payments for work are done upon a cooperative basis.

According to leader Dodge, this idea holds the band together and makes for better feeling among the whole band. The band has been active on the campus playing both for sorority, fraternity and club dances and also appearing regularly over radio station WSUI.

The band has been organized for five years and throughout this time they have changed men continually as each year graduates various members of the band. This is the first time in the band's existence that they have worked during the summer months. They will be in Yellowstone park from the middle of June until the middle of September. Since Dodge cannot play with the orchestra, a member of Vette Kell's band will fill his trumpet spot.

Second Season
This is the second season in the Park for Dodge. He worked last year at the tourist cabins at Old Faithful. Following the legend of the park that once you're there you will always want to return, Dodge is more than anxious to get back to the park.

Members of the band are John Shotwell, A4 of Des Moines, piano; Clarence Langerak, A3 of Pella, (called Chic Lang) vocalist; Rex Harrington, A3 of Maquoketa, saxophone; Frank Kluesner, A1 of Dyersville, saxophone; LaVere White, A1 of Irwin, saxophone; John Patrick, M4 of Marshalltown, saxophone; Earl Harrington, G of Iowa City, bass fiddle; Ed Byers, A1 of Cedar Rapids, drums; Don Dodge, L2 of Oelwein, trumpet; Sheldon Chubb, G of Iowa City, trumpet, and Fred Mueller, A2 of Emmetsburg, trombone.

Fred Mueller is arranger for the band which uses "Avalon" as a theme song. The band made one of its most spectacular appearances last fall when they played for the Dolphin Follies.

Different Location
Playing in Yellowstone park will mean an entirely different type of location for the band. They will be playing in a large ballroom that is supported by large shaven logs. More than 1,000 people will visit the Old Faithful lodge, hotel and tourist cabins during the day.

Speaking in the language of Yellowstone, members of the Avalon orchestra will be named "savages." Peculiar to the park, this "lingo" extends to every employee of the park company.

Anyway they look at it—this is a new chapter in the story of a band, a University of Iowa campus band!

Before joining the University of Madison faculty last September, McCloy taught at Drake university, Des Moines.

Prof. C. H. McCloy is a member of the local physical education department faculty.

Political Science Meeting Will Be Attended by 8

Five professors of the University of Iowa political science department will attend the second annual Midwest Political Science association meeting May 3 and 4 in Turkey Run Inn in Turkey Run State Park, Ind.

Prof. John E. Briggs, head of the department, Prof. Ethan Allen, Prof. Kirk Porter, Prof. H. H. Trachsel and Prof. Frank Horack will attend the meeting.

Three graduate students, George Willoughby, G of Des Moines, Hugh Kelso, G of Iowa City, and Thomas Driscoll, G of Charleston, Ill., will accompany the professors.

To Lead Roundtable
Professor Briggs will lead a roundtable Saturday afternoon which will concern "Aspects of Contemporary Ideology." Professors from the University of Illinois, University of Chicago and Notre Dame university will present papers at this roundtable.

Other topics to be considered will be "Problems of Teaching Political Science" and "The Issues in American Politics." On all of these problems, free discussion will be held by those in attendance.

"The unusual thing about the association," Professor Briggs said, "is that there are no officers, no constitutions and no laws." The association met last year at Turkey Run State Park and met with great approval. Nearly 100 attended.

"The ideal location as to beauty and surrounding makes this a very enjoyable meeting place," Professor Briggs stated.

It's the same among nations as it is among individuals. The smart ones call the cop when a big bully says: "What you need is protection."

New Army Drill To Be Presented by R. O. T. C. Units Today

Cadets Parade For Inspection Near Armory

General Pershing Paris Formation New For Training Corps

The new army drill, introduced into the university R. O. T. C. last fall, will be viewed for the first time by the public today when cadets join in mass formation on the parade ground west of the armory at 3:15 p.m. for their annual parade drill before federal inspectors.

Climaxing the three-day federal inspection which began yesterday, cadets will parade in the old General Pershing Paris formation, according to Col. Homer H. Slaughter, head of the military department. The mass formation, which will pass the battalions by the reviewing stand in one-fourth the length of time required by the old battalion formation, was first viewed by General Pershing in 1917 when it was performed by Russian refugees in Paris. So impressed was the American commander that he adopted it for the use of his American troops.

Four Federal Inspectors
The university military staff will be joined in the reviewing stand by four federal inspectors, including Lieut. Col. R. J. Halpin of Creighton university, Omaha, who is in charge of infantry inspection; Maj. Harry A. Skerry from Iowa State college at Ames, who is conducting inspection of the engineer unit; Lieut. Col. James B. Owen of Iowa City, inspector of the medical corp, and Col. R. W. Briggs of Creighton university, administration inspector.

The military staff has also invited the deans of the colleges represented by cadets on the parade grounds to attend the review.

Assembly at 3:15
Assembly for the event will sound at 3:15 p.m. with the first adjutant's call following at 3:30. On the second adjutant's call about 3:45, the battalions will move from a standing mass formation on the west side of the field to pass in review. The column of battalions will be led by the University of Iowa Scottish Highlanders.

The parade drill will be followed by a competition between the best engineer and the best infantry company, the winner of which becomes the best company in the local R. O. T. C. The contest will be judged by Colonel Halpin and Major Skerry.

At S. U. I. for 'Middletown Mural,' Maibaum Predicts Serious Movies

By JACK HAGENS

"The American moving pictures are going to be more of a serious nature in the future," Richard Maibaum, 31-year-old Iowa playwright prophesied yesterday in an informal interview concerning activities in the motion picture industry.

Maibaum is on the Iowa campus at the present time for "two good reasons," as he pointed out. His recent play, "Middletown Mural," will have its premier showing on the Iowa campus beginning May 6. As per his belief that better work is done if the writer and director can work together, Maibaum is assisting in this first presentation of his play.

Back Home

His other purpose, which he told while smiling broadly, was to get away from the "rush" of Hollywood. In other words, he wanted to be back home on the University of Iowa campus.

As a writer of moving picture scenarios, Maibaum sees a great deal of the inside of Hollywood's "merry mixup." He stated that at certain times, he has been called in to collaborate on a story with a gentleman whom he has never seen before. Together, they must weave a story around a simple whim of a producer.

"And that isn't all," he stated. Sometimes as many as 26 writers are called in for the story conference before the final script is prepared for the director's use.

The playwright was very definite when he said—"Too many cooks spoil the soup." He thus pointed out that this continual infiltration of writers on one story resulted in a jumbled mess that sometimes carried the story plot completely from where it originally started.

"If you were to take five American moving pictures and send them to Mars to be viewed by the Martians, they would have a completely distorted picture of real American life," Maibaum said. Because of this situation, he said that the censorship activities of the Hays office have been losing their grip.

"The only type of villain you can have in a picture must be a pure white American," he said laughingly.

Maibaum's play "Middletown Mural," is laid in a town much the same in type and size as Marshalltown. His "plot behind the plot" concerns Americanism, which he pointed out is so emphasized in present times. The play concerns the attempts of a young man to paint a mural to which the "nice" ladies of the town object. Maibaum has covered the theme of the story by humorous continuity.

Beery Pictures

Back in the Hollywood vein, however, Maibaum disclosed more of the behind-the-scenes of the movie capitol. He has written many scripts for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, home company of Wallace Beery. Maibaum has been assigned numerous times to the Beery pictures.

"The public is a bit weary of biographical pictures," Maibaum said. He added that one particular company has over-worked the idea and has not put enough research into the plots to make them convincing to the public.

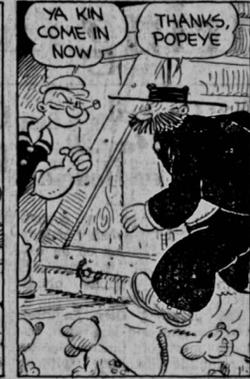

Pictures like "The Grapes of Wrath" are making Hollywood's productions much better, he emphasized. Better writers, directors and other assistants are making pictures decidedly better, he said.

Although fewer plays are being brought from Broadway, the author said that stories are becoming more interesting all the time. The appearance of Broadway stars has also helped these Hollywood pictures because they have a head start on Hollywood performers, he said.

Maibaum, attired in an attractive brown tweed suit, spoke very casually on this topic of Hollywood. His favorite sport is swimming—possibly responsible for his well built physique.

And for hobbies, the playwright finds his greatest amusement in history and bridge!

City Council Sets May 20 For Hearing

Members of the city council last night set the evening of May 20 for public hearing on an extensive proposal to construct sidewalks in various blocks throughout the city.

The proposal, City Engineer Fred Gartzke said last night, includes most of the blocks in Morningside addition without sidewalks.

The city engineer and city clerk were instructed last night by the city council to write requests to the state highway commission for permission to move highway No. 218 off Dubuque street and onto Clinton in an effort to relieve traffic congestion in the downtown area.

Although no specific route was decided upon, some members of the council voiced the opinion that Clinton street, of greater width, would move through traffic faster and with less obstruction to local automobiles.

In addition the clerk and engineer, at the order of the council, will suggest that highways 1 and 261, from the north, which are also on Dubuque street, be re-routed east of the business section to join highway 6.

The council discussed various possible routes for a shortcut from highways 1 and 261 to No. 6, which runs east and west on Burlington street through the city, but delayed official action until response from the commission.

The first two days of examinations will be for eighth grade students only and will consist of tests covering a large portion of their grade school work. The students will be examined on six subjects which will include reading, arithmetic, civics, grammar, spelling and history.

Seventh grade pupils will be tested in geography and hygiene on Friday.

Eleanor Herdliska's Condition 'Improved' After Car Accident

Justice J. M. Kadlec To Remove Office

This little piano has been around the world with Dick. He has learned "Lohengrin" on it, practiced most of his other roles and a good part of his exhaustive concert repertoire besides. There have been moments in his travels when Dick had the only piano on the horizon and this was it.

For instance, during his recent tour of Australia, New Zealand and points in the vicinity, the ship stopped for a day at Pago-Pago, Samoa islands. Dick called upon the governor and invited the dignitary and all other Americans on the island to the boat for cocktails.

It developed that Dick had the only piano on the island, so he gave an impromptu concert on the boat, which delighted the audience no end.

That Piano Richard Crooks Has Small Favorite

Among the proud possessions of Richard Crooks, American tenor, who is coming here for a song recital Thursday evening, is a battered little piano, a miniature upright two and a half octaves short, and the kind of little piano that you see pushed around a night club floor, to keep the blond crooner within smelling distance of a tune.

war by entering the conflict" was asked by one listener. In reply Dr. Page referred to the last war, stating that we lengthened it by entering—certain authoritative information reveals that the war would have ended in 1916 if England had not depended on the United States entering the conflict.

Another question uppermost in the minds of many, "What will happen if Germany wins this war?" was directed toward Dr. Page. Answering, he asserted that Germany's condition would be so disastrous that she would be unable to invade the United States. He added that a state of economic ruin would exist, with man power, resources, and finances exhausted. By annexing these weak nations, Germany has weakened her own strength, he contended.

In summary, Dr. Page stated that the war will probably be a long one, having lasted eight months already, and the best course for the United States to follow is to keep out of actual conflict.
