How Shall You Think?

ALL FINISHED reading the first page? Now you begin on the page the purpose of which is to arouse your thinking faculties. Whether it fulfills its purpose is another matter.

For some people, pure down-right thinking is almost an impossible task. Even for the average man it is strenuous work. This does not refer to the deciding of trivial daily matters, but rather to the highly abstract type of thinking—the contemplating and solving of weighty questions by means of inductive and deductive processes.

It is hardly necessary to mention the vital need of such thinking by every man and woman of the present day. The greatest thinkers of the world have reason to be pessimistic toward the prospects for the present generation and posterity when they observe that unbiased reflection on the part of the masses is becoming a lost art, not only in Europe but in America as well.

Modern business spends millions of dollars through advertising in leading the masses to "think" along the lines necessary for its own selfish ends, whether these lines will work toward the general happiness or ruin of the common man. The path of least resistance is to submit to the innumerable slight but constant pressures upon the free and natural course of the mind. Everyone who submits becomes putty in the hands of those who wish axes to grind.

What good is a citizen to a democratic nation who doesn't know whether he sincerely believes anything or not? But if he doesn't know he is not entirely to blame. What sources of ideas, if there are any left, can he know are dependable for helping him in the forming of his beliefs? There is so much contradiction of facts and also of opinions by eminent authorities that he must conclude there are no such sources. If this is true, it is then necessary for him to depend solely upon his own logical reasoning in molding his beliefs, as the many contradictory facts and opinions pour in upon him.

Therefore, the prime purpose of the editorial page of any newspaper, or any other public medium of expression, should not be to urge the reader or listener to believe and act in a certain manner. It should be to excite his curiosity to the extent that he will want to investigate all the possible facts bearing upon that particular subject, to stimulate his deepest reflective powers into action, and to prompt him to act voluntarily as he sees fit.

Work Camps To Build America. ONE of the features of work being done by American churches which we admire most is the work camp program of the American Friends (Quakers) Service committee.

For the seventh year the work camps are being conducted to build where America has her most serious social problems. The members of each work camp live in simple quarters, work on needed projects, learn from local leaders, cooperate in group life, join in community activities, and discuss constructive and non-violent means of solving local and regional problems.

In addition to benefiting the people of the social area selected, the individuals who attend the camps learn much that is useful to them as individuals. In a world that is concerned mainly with destruction, it is heartening to witness actual constructive measures.

Who Said Spring Is Romantic?

BEFORE starting to read this editorial, you may safely assume that it will be a distinct failure as far as really accomplishing anything is concerned. It will undoubtedly be one of the least influential editorials of journalistic history, past, contemporary, and future. The reason is that this editorial will deal with love, a subject which no sane editorial writer would deal with.

All available and observable evidence points to the fact that it is spring. That is an elemental assumption, but very significant, nevertheless. Because spring, according to tradition, is the time for love.

The point is that tradition often is wrong. That's the idea of this editorial: logically speaking, spring is not the time for love. The actual thing, that is.

For one thing, it mangles nerves and robs you of sleep. It is quite probable that more nerves are frazzled and more sleep is purloined in the spring than during any other season of the year.

For another thing, it retards the progress of higher education. This may be an unimportant item to some, but it usually seems significant enough to parents, who are paying out good money for the process.

Term papers, theses, and finals are due to hit any day now. They don't mix with love, and vice versa. They can't be put off. Love can. Go canoeing? Sure. Rest on the river-bank? Definitely. Associate with the opposite sex? By all means. Just don't fall in love, that's all. Takes too much time, energy, and mint.

The successful editorial presents a problem, then gives a brilliant solution. That's where this editorial becomes a candidate for the wastebasket. Obviously, the solution to the problem of love would be a system of keeping out of love. Better typewriters than this have tried to tap out such a system.

If you think you've found the solution, forget it. After all, it's spring, and you can't junk tradition in a day!

The Shame Of The University

THIS WEEK end mothers and fathers will come to the University, expecting to see a campus made beautiful by spring. Instead they will see a campus scarred with paths across all the lawns.

This is the shame of the university. We hope earnestly that the students who have cut the campus are the ones who will have to do the explaining to their parents.

Just A Reminder To Students

THIS WEEK END is planned as the university's Mother's Day celebration, just as early in the school year Iowa dad's are honored at a series of events planned by A.P.I.

Starting this evening with the May Frolic, the parents of university students will be guests of the university, Mortar Board and the sons and daughters attending this institution. A full program has been planned for Saturday. WSUI will sponsor a radio dramatic production at 9 a.m. The Governor's Day Review will take place on the parade ground west of the army at 10 a.m.

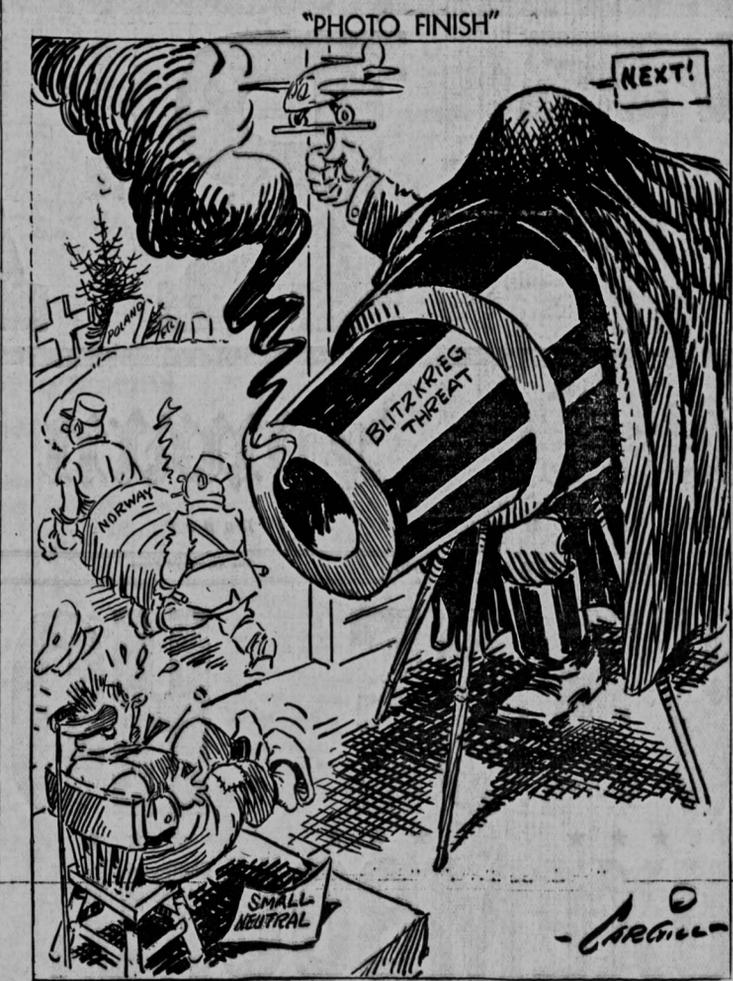

Our visitors will be given an opportunity to see the new Currier addition at an open house at the dormitory from 2 to 5 p.m. The Mother-Son-Daughter dinner will take place in the union lounge at 6 p.m. Concluding Saturday's program will be the showing of the most recent picture of the Iowa campus in technicolor in Macbride auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Sunday morning each mother will receive a rose from Mortar Board, providing the son or daughter has had her register at the registration booth in the lobby of Iowa Union before Saturday evening. All Iowa City churches will welcome visitors Sunday morning. In the afternoon, there will be a tea at the president's home beginning at 3 p.m. At 5 o'clock on president's point, Mortar Board will have its traditional tapping service and next year's Mortar Board will be announced. The concluding event of the Mother's day program will be the University Sing on the Fine Arts campus at 7:30 p.m.

Because such a fine program has been planned for the mothers, fathers, and guests, university students should make sure that they escort these relatives and friends to these events. It will be a pleasure for these visitors to get a glimpse of college life. Mothers and fathers will appreciate knowing what their sons and daughters do at school.

So, a reminder to students. You're guests this week end and will want to participate in the program that has been planned for them.

Report of O'Mahoney's Investigation Committee Will Form 'Library' When Volumes Completed

SENATORS GERALD NYE and Lynn Frazier, both of North Dakota, naturally are the two solons who take the bitterest exception to President Roosevelt's public condemnation, recently, of Germany's invasion of Denmark and Norway.

Paraphrasing the president didn't actually name Germany, but there was no doubt as to the country he was referring to.

Of course, there isn't a lawmaker in Washington who isn't dead set against any American participation in the European conflict, but some are more super-isolationist than others. The extra-super group holds that Uncle Sam shouldn't let out even a peep concerning the war, so long as it's raging. The less extreme element thinks were entitled to express our sympathies between the belligerents.

It goes almost without saying that Senators Nye and Frazier belong in the former category. Senator Nye, after a prolonged investigation of the causes which, he believes, led us into the last war, was the author of our original airtight neutrality law. It was somewhat modified, at this session of congress, but Nye fought its modification like fury.

"Unconstitutional" War. Senator Frazier, several years ago, put up a stiff campaign for a United States constitutional amendment to make war outright unconstitutional, so far as Uncle Samuel's concerned. How he figured that the United States constitution could make it unconstitutional for some other country to attack us never was very clear in my mind.

I asked Frazier about it, inquiring if he didn't think we should resist even if invaded. His reply was that no country on earth would be barbaric enough to attack another country where war was unconstitutional. Such a thing, he said, literally would be an impossibility. I wasn't altogether convinced. I neither was congress; it didn't vote to submit the proposed Frazier amendment.

Anyway, it's understandable why a couple of senators with these backgrounds are adverse to critical of the latest presidential utterance on the subject of Germany's Danish and Norwegian invasions.

The fact that Nye and Frazier both are North Dakotans is a mere coincidence.

Forsee Danger. Incidentally, Nye and Frazier have considerable congressional support in their contention that the presidential statement at best was unnecessary and that, at worst, it's a dangerous direction, from the standpoint of Uncle Sam's continued physical neutrality.

The Allies also are accused of having more or less justified Germany's Scandinavian move by mining Norway's territorial waters, in violation of Norwegian neutrality. The argument is that Norway, if really neutral, ought to have prevented it. To be sure, the Norwegians couldn't do so. They hadn't the strength to chase off the British mine-layers.

So, after all, wasn't Britain the first neutrality-violator? International lawyers find it difficult to answer this question negatively.

Denmark's Position. Denmark wasn't doing any neutrality-violating. The Danes are inside the Germans' Baltic pond. You can see that by a glance at the map. They didn't need to be invaded by Germany except to give the Germans a safe seaway into Norway.

Norway is Germany's objective. Denmark simply is stepped on incidentally. In the long run, the Danes doubtless are good German grabbing, but for the purposes of this particular war, they're just a highway to another goal.

Sweden—it would appear—can be attended to later by the Germans. As to northern Sweden and Norway (Narvik), presumably the Germans and Russians will disagree ultimately. Just now they're acting in concert.

Don't Believe Sports Gossip Bill Terry, Durocher Are Best of Friends—Unless One Loses

NEW YORK—The impression you get of Bill Terry and Leo Durocher after reading the sports pages isn't to be relied on too implicitly. As managers of the Giants and the Dodgers they are supposed to be implacable enemies with a craving to see blood spilled every time they see each other.

Actually, they live at the same hotel and are the best of friends. It is true that Terry will not speak to Durocher on those days when Durocher's hooligans whip the Giants, but neither will Durocher speak to Terry when the Dodgers are defeated.

These little brief flurries of coolness are spell-binders for those who observe them, after hours, in their hotel. After their first meeting of the year, during which the Dodgers gave the Giants a humiliating 12-0 beating Durocher planted himself in the lobby and waited for Bill to arrive. Bill showed up presently in something of a somber funk. Durocher, who is known affectionately to his ball playing pals as "Lippy," immediately began making gloating remarks. He stood there with a grin that stretched to the back of his neck, rubbing it in. "Sweet William," as the sports writers dub Terry, swept right on by without appearing to notice this gad-fly. Next day they were back in their usual moods. Come a day—if ever—that the Giants take the Dodgers and the scene will be reenacted in reverse. But those flurries never last more than a few hours.

BONNIE BAKER, the miniature Oh-Johnny-Oh Girl, was gently bewildered by a story that appeared in the papers about her recent. This story said she and Orrin Tucker couldn't get married because Orrin's family objected to the match. When I asked her about it, she said: "Everybody thinks we are married, or engaged, or in love. I've been with Orrin four years, working with the band. We're good friends, but that's all. You might even say we're too close for anything else. I'm not married. I'm not engaged. I'm not in love. I'm just one of the guys in the band."

A note from "Dude" Higgs says he will come back to America if he ever can find a way to get out of China. Higgs is an American flier who has been training Chinese aviators for their fight with Japan. Once, when he passed through French Indo-China, the French customs officials squeezed the toothpaste out of his tube. "I think they were looking for the Eiffel tower," he says. The most startling news in the note is about a "gift" that one of his grateful Chinese students sent him. He thought it would be a piece of jade, or something similar. But when the gift got there it came in under its own power. It was a concubine. Higgs politely put her on the train back to Shanghai that afternoon.

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

KATE SMITH'S celebration of her ninth anniversary in radio, originally scheduled for April 26, but postponed because of the illness of Ted Collins, her manager and producer, will be celebrated on the "Kate Smith hour" this evening at 8 o'clock over CBS.

AS IN THE original plans, Kate will celebrate by taking a dramatic role, unusual for her, in Ben Schoenfeld's "Johnny Applesseed." Perennially voted America's favorite female vocalist, Kate made her first microphone appearance when she inaugurated a matinee hour on CBS May 1, 1931. This will be only her second serious dramatic role.

IN THE COURSE of her Mother's day program this evening, the Songbird will tell little known anecdotes of her own childhood in Washington, D. C., where her mother was understanding, even when small, pigtailed Kate persisted in riding to fires on the hook-and-ladder wagon.

JOHNNY GREEN'S orchestra, with the maestro at the piano, will feature "You, You Darling," "Por Corleone Dna Una Conga" and "Ooh, What You Said." Ray Bloch's Swing Fourteen ensemble is set to revive "Three Little Words" and the group will wind up with the novelty number, "Playmates."

ENTRAINING FROM New York on the Commo-

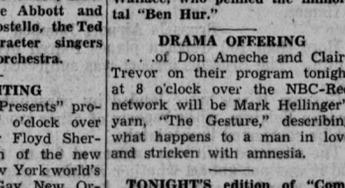

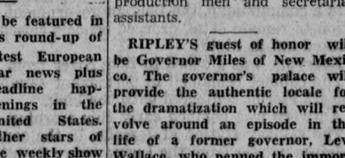

Ted Collins will be featured in his round-up of latest European war news plus headline happenings in the United States. Other stars of the weekly show are Abbott and Costello, the Ted Straeter singers and Jack Miller's orchestra.

HIGHLIGHTING the "Johnny Presents" program tonight at 7 o'clock over CBS will be tenor Floyd Sherman's interpretation of the new ballad from the New York world's fair production, "Gay New Orleans" called "It Wouldn't Be Love."

THE WOMAN responsible for Lanny Ross' musical education—his own mother, Mrs. Winifred Ross—will be Lanny's guest on a Mother's day program to be sung by the tenor this evening at 5:15 over CBS. Music will include "Until" and "It's A Wonderful World."

LAUNCHING his "See America First" series, Bob Ripley offers an "on the spot" broadcast from New Mexico tonight at 8:30 when his CBS "Believe It or Not" program originates in Santa Fe.

Feller Blanks Yankees, Indians Win, 4-0

Champs Get Three Bingles Off Young Bob

Tribe's Sluggers Clout Monte Pearson For Four Scores

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP)—Bob Feller made a gesture toward a second no-hit game today and scared the world champion Yankees into their sixth consecutive defeat as the Cleveland Indians finished their eastern swing with a 4 to 0 victory.

At the finish Feller had given three hits, but for six innings he held the Bombers helpless with his fireball and the 14,790 fans were just beginning to get a throb in their throats when Joe DiMaggio singled off Shortstop Lou Boudreau's glove in the seventh.

This removed the tension and Joe Gordon singled past first base in the eighth and in the ninth Charley Keller rapped another single to center. Keller, however, was the only Yankee to get as far as second base.

Feller's fast one was at its best as he proceeded to fan seven batters and allow only three walks.

His slugging teammates gave him plenty of help with a run in the second and three more in the fifth off Monte Pearson, last man to pitch a no-hit game before Feller's show on opening day this season.

Hawks Drive Toward Big Ten Diamond Title

Well out in the lead and rolling along at a terrific pace, Otto Vogel's University of Iowa baseball team begins its stretch drive toward a Big Ten championship in the first of a two-game series today at Northwestern.

The Hawkeye record of six victories against a lone defeat leaves the Vogelmen odds-on favorites to cop the title for the third successive time. The Hawks meet in Northwestern one of their main threats, but the Wildcats, who have won four out of six to date, would have to sweep the present series to overhaul Iowa, while Illinois and Wisconsin would have to win all their games to nose out the Hawkeyes, even should Iowa lose half the remaining four games.

In other words, the chances for other clubs to win are little more than mathematical and would necessitate Iowa hitting a terrific slump.

In today's series opener Coach Vogel will start Co-Capt. Harold Haub, ace of the Hawkeye mound staff and the Big Ten's leading hurler. Thus far this year Haub has marked up five conference wins without a single defeat. Four of the games were complete, while the Iowa star won the last game of the Wisconsin series when he went in as a relief hurler.

While it is known that opponents usually save their best hurlers for the second game, after practically conceding the first contest in a series to Haub, it is probable that John Goidak, number one man of the Wildcat mound staff, will face the Hawkeyes today, with either Fred Rosch or Dick Klein hurling Saturday's tilt.

Vogel will, no doubt, send Fred Hohenhorst, senior right hander, Bob Stastny or Wendell Hill to the mound Saturday, with Hohenhorst expected to get the nod. The veteran relief hurler appears to have fully recovered from his early season illness, which may have cost him a regular starting assignment in previous games. Last week he finished the second game of the Chicago series here, holding the Maroons hitless for the final four innings.

Hill, who got credit for the Chicago contest, hurried five full innings and allowed but six hits and a pair of runs, while Stastny has been effective in his performances to date.

There's much in the probable starting lineups for the inter-squad grid game of Saturday to tell what the main value of such a game will be to a coach. It isn't in the matter of training that such a game will help—that much should be pretty obvious.

To begin with, Coach Eddie Anderson isn't keeping his probable first string of next fall intact or anything like it. Capt. Mike Enich is playing on one team, with Jim Walker on tackle on the other and so on down the line. Which means that the game doesn't do anything at all towards putting a team in shape, although there is the possible angle of experience under fire to be considered.

There is, though, the opportunity it will give a coach to see the newcomers in action under difficult conditions—something he can't do in regular practice season. If there is a tendency insofar as any player is concerned to blow up when on the spot Anderson will probably find it out Saturday, for the freshmen predominance on both teams, with practically all first year men scheduled for action before the game is over.

It's still important who develops in the left halfback position—probably the biggest "if" of the whole team. Bob Bender is the most elusive candidate, Bill Stauss the hardest runner, Tom Farmer the best passer and Jim Youel is probably the best kicker. Which leaves things still a bit in doubt, with work under fire probably about to have something to do with the ultimate solution.

For the others, it might be said that we will see more in the future of Tom "Wampy" McCauley, a hard-blocking quarterback, Al Urban, rugged tackle, Dick Hoof, Ross Anderson, Penaluna and Curran, guards, Hand and Lauterbach, centers, and Parker and Henry Miller at ends. It will also be the first good look locals will have at Bus Mertes, the squad's most dangerous ball carrier, and Art Johnson, also famed as a heavyweight wrestler.

It's a pretty good guess, I think, that the crowd will hit somewhere near the 5,000 mark, with considerably more than that very easily possible.

Big Day of Tennis Ahead

Iowa, Illinois, Purdue Start Net Meet Here This Afternoon

The round-robin tennis tournament between Iowa, Illinois, and Purdue will start at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the Library Annex courts with nine doubles teams scheduled to see action in the first of the two-day tourney.

The Hawkeyes will be represented by the same teams that have worked together all year. Capt. Bob Sandler and Bob Wolniewicz will form the number one combination for the Iowans, with John Paulus and Bob Jensen comprising the second team. Lou Wurl and Earl Crain will match strokes with number three teams from Illinois and Purdue.

Capt. Sandler will top the list in singles competition tomorrow, while John Paulus will take over the number two duties. Bob Wolniewicz and Bob Jensen will appear in number three and four, with Lou Wurl and Earl Crain holding down the last two assignments.

Last Allotment of Tickets For Sports Dinner Put on Sale

The committee for the all-university intramural sports dinner announced yesterday that the last allotment of tickets had been distributed. They are now on sale at the Union desk, the field house office, and Whetstone's drug store, or can be purchased from any of the intramural managers. The dinner will be held in the River Room of the Union at 6 p.m. next Tuesday. All university men are invited.

Prof. George Haskell will head the speaking program, with Don Mallet, student counselor, leading group singing. Bob Sandler will act as toastmaster. E. G. "Dad" Schroeder will also speak.

Dave Armbruster, varsity swimming coach and men's physical education director, had this to say about the intramural dinner, "It is the one opportunity of the year for all university men to get together. We should have more of these affairs."

Right pert and cool is Miss Ries' gay Pinafore costume just off a hanger in STRUB'S sports department. The free an' easy, ready-for-action skirt is made of white sharkskin—being the wrap-around style, the opening blends discreetly into the flaring fullness. Even so, when a skirt gets in the way, there's a nifty pair of shorts underneath. That bright tailored blouse is red and white polka dot with tiny pearl buttons down the front. As for foot

Ready for action, too, Miss Hunter wears the maroon and white striped silk jersey blouse with the white sharkskin shorts of her three-piece Loomtag sport ensemble. A flaring white sharkskin skirt with twin patch pockets completes her STRUB'S outfit. Sticking to those classic campus comfies, she does her share of the pedalling in brown and white saddle shoes—out of a STRUB'S box, too. Fuehrer Hitler Once Again Duplicates Blitzkrieg Tactics

Assures Low Countries Move Is 'Protection'

Louis P. Lochner
Pictures Long-Fearing Western Front Blow-Up

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
BERLIN, May 10 (AP)—Adolf Hitler sent his troops into Belgium and Holland shortly before dawn today. Duplicating his tactics with Norway and Denmark, he demanded that they accept his "protection" of their neutrality without resistance.

Germany's Ruhr valley was threatened by an allied attack, he informed the governments of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg through his foreign minister, and the Dutch and Belgium governments were conniving at it.

Wherefore, Germany was declared to act to anticipate the blow.

Assurances
The German government solemnly assured Holland and Belgium that their territorial sovereignty would be restored to them, unchanged and that their overseas possessions would go untouched.

To Luxembourg likewise was assured territorial and political integrity.

The pre-condition to these assurances was that these countries accept Germany's "protection" without resistance.

Any resistance, Germany warned, will be broken resolutely.

The guilt for any bloodshed will fall on Britain and France, as well as the Belgium and Dutch governments.

In the text of the memorandum directed by the German government to the Belgian and Netherlands governments it was stated, "Germany has respected and recognized the integrity of Belgium and the Netherlands under the self-evident precondition that these two countries, in case of war between Germany and England and France, would observe the strictest neutrality."

Scores Low Nation
Belgium and the Netherlands have not fulfilled these requirements. Hitherto, they sought to maintain the outer appearance of neutrality. In reality, however, both countries completely and one-sidedly favored the war opponents of Germany, and fostered their intentions.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels personally informed the German population of the latest developments in the European war.

In a nationwide radio broadcast, the propaganda minister read the memorandum to the Belgian and Netherlands governments to his listeners.

This was the first news that was given to the millions of Germans that the reich overnight had moved into Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg in order to "safeguard the neutrality" of these three countries.

Lyons, French Airport Bombed

PARIS, May 10—(AP)—German planes today bombed an airfield near Lyons, on the Rhone river in southeast central France, during flights over the country that gave Paris its second longest air raid alarm since the war started.

Brussels Raid: 400 Killed, Hurt

LONDON, May 10—(AP)—Four hundred persons were killed or wounded in the first German air raid against Brussels, Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, reported today.

AMSTERDAM (By radio to London), May 10—(AP)—It was announced today that the Netherlands had been informed from Luxembourg that the Luxembourg government had left its little country.

ministers and the Luxembourg charge d'affaires were summoned to the foreign office early this morning to be advised of the situation. Germany had been prepared for the move several weeks, eventually expecting an attack to develop in that western sector.

Seventy-five newspaper correspondents were called to an early morning conference at the foreign office and were held two hours before the announcement was given to them officially.

The expectation in many quarters here was that the movement into the low countries would precipitate the long-awaited blow-up on the west front.

There were no details of the fighting during the early morning hours, however.

Germany has announced repeatedly she was ready to strike wherever the high command felt there was a source of danger.

What Does it Mean?
On April 19 that meant Norway and Denmark; today it meant Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The best divisions of the German army were understood to be concentrated north of the Moselle river where they would be of the most effective use.

Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop summoned foreign press representatives to the foreign office for a 7 a. m. conference, but apparently his talks with the Belgian ambassador, the Netherlands minister and the Luxembourg charge d'affaires—to whom the situation was imparted— took longer than the mere handing over of the memoranda.

Not until 8:25 a. m. (2:25 a. m. E.S.T.) did Ribbentrop, pale, sleepless and with a voice husky and deep, address the foreign correspondents.

Allied Attack Planned
"England and France at last dropped the mask," he declared. "The attack on the Ruhr valley was definitely planned. It was to come via Belgium and Holland."

"This attack was planned with the knowledge and connivance of the Belgian and Dutch governments. Our fuhrer was not willing to have this important region submitted to new aggression."

"The fuhrer therefore has decided to take the neutrality of Belgium and Holland under his protection."

"Germany now will talk only the language which the English and French governments seem to understand, and settle scores once and for all with them," von Ribbentrop declared.

The foreign minister then read the text of the memorandum to the three governments which be-

Work Progressing on Signal Safety Project on Crossing

Rock Island Constructs New Crossing Gates

Dubuque, Clinton Street Mechanisms To Warn Motorists of Trains

Work has been progressing rapidly the past few days on a new $10,000 safety project at Dubuque and Clinton street Rock Island railroad crossings.

watchmen whose duty has been to warn motorists of approaching trains. H. R. Hough, crossing flagman at Clinton street, said that he had been working with the railroad for 33 years, and would now be able to retire on a pension provided for Rock Island employes of long-time service.

L. E. Fort, signal foreman on the safety project, described the new gates as being semi-automatic since they will operate automatically when a train comes into the yard, or may be operated by the depot agent.

Each of the four gates will have two red electric lanterns fastened to them. The lanterns will light alternately when the gates are down, thus attracting motorists' attention, the signal foreman explained.
