FRENCH RESISTANCE STRENGTHENS

Nazis Swing Westward; Reynaud Reorganizes Cabinet

How Germans Broke Through Allies In Paris Drive

This Central Press map shows how the forces of Nazi Germany broke through the French defenses at Sedan in their drive toward Paris. The light arrow illustrates direction of the German drive, which has extended now to Laon. The apparent objective of the Nazi troops is to reach the Oise river valley, thereby cutting off allied forces in Belgium.

Battles 'Worse Than Verdun' Rage in North; French Strive To Halt Drive Toward Capital

Germans Advance to Guise, Landrecies; Columns Attempt to Cut French Units From Allied Forces in Belgium

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

PARIS, May 18—(AP)—Speeding German columns swung west across France tonight toward the Oise valley—the road to Paris—meeting stiffened resistance from Frenchmen fighting under a new government headed by Premier Paul Reynaud and Marshal Henri Petain, World War "victor of Verdun."

The French high command's night communique said the Germans were "attacking northern France which fighters and war correspondents say is like nothing ever witnessed in history."

One French officer told H. Taylor Henry, Associated Press war correspondent: "Two hours of this is worse than two days of the battle of Verdun."

Today the Germans advanced to Guise, 14 miles west of Vervins, and to Landrecies, 12 miles west of Avesnes and 85 miles east of the English channel.

Far ahead of the main German forces, advanced units struck in all directions. Six German motorcycle soldiers who reached Laon, 25 miles south of Guise, were captured.

Other light units were reported to have reached Saint Quentin, 15 miles west of Guise. (It was in this vicinity, in a railroad car in the forest of Compiegne, that the World War armistice was agreed upon.)

German parachute soldiers roamed behind the French lines, but "these can have no effect on the general development of operations," declared a French war ministry spokesman.

The German objective in turning to the west appeared to be: first, to try to cut off the main French armies from the allied forces in Belgium; and, second, to reach the Oise valley.

At the point of the triangle they have driven into France, the Germans were reported to have reached the Aisne in the Rethel sector, 30 miles south of the Belgian border where the French took their stand.

Most of the fury of the battle on the western front was concentrated in the Guise and Landrecies sectors. To the northwest in Belgium, where Brussels and Antwerp have been abandoned, and to the east on the Maginot line, where German assaults have been repulsed, tonight's communique said: "Nothing of importance to report."

German bombers visited the Paris region this afternoon at the moment Premier Reynaud was dropping a bombshell of his own with announcement of a cabinet shakeup, making himself war minister as well as premier.

Mussolini Sends Reply To Roosevelt

ROME, May 18 (AP)—Premier Mussolini has replied to President Roosevelt's latest efforts to prevent spread of the European war, it was learned from a reliable source tonight. The nature of the reply was not disclosed but it was believed to have been non-committal without being alarmed.

The reply, in courteous terms, was said in informed quarters to have been communicated to Mr. Roosevelt through United States Ambassador William Phillips.

William Graf, Local Business Man, Dead

Was 3rd Generation To Head Firm Here; Funeral to Be Tuesday

William R. Graf, 58, 109 N. Van Buren, prominent Iowa City business man, died in a local hospital at 10:20 last night after an extended illness.

A lifelong resident of Iowa City, Mr. Graf had been affiliated with the Graf Bottling works since his youth and represented the third generation in charge several years before his death.

He was born Jan. 28, 1882, and married June 7, 1905 in Iowa City. His wife preceded him in death three years ago.

A member of St. Mary's church, he was affiliated with the Moose and Elks lodges and Foresters.

Survivors include two sons, Robert W. and William A. Graf, all of Iowa City. Another son, Carl S. Graf, died in 1916.

Funeral service will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday at St. Joseph's church with burial in St. Joseph's cemetery.

800,000 of Hitler's Men Near Readiness to Launch Offensives On Belgian, French Coast Ports

'With These Ports Taken, Some Believe British Will Be Given Chance to Capitulate Or Deal with Nazi Bombers'

By LYNN HEINZERLING

BERLIN, May 18—(AP)—The iron legions of Adolf Hitler hoisted the German battle flag today on the city hall of Antwerp, fortified North Sea anchor of the whole allied line, and swept west and south toward the heart of France and the English channel ports needed for frontal assault on the British Isles.

Antwerp fell to the German motor columns in 9 days, 57 days ahead of World War schedule. The troops of imperial Germany entered the city on October 9, after shelling it for eleven days. They invaded Belgium on August 4, 1914.

The German plunge through Belgium and through the Netherlands, to the north, is so swiftly fluid that it is difficult to pick out its immediate objectives.

But the thrust through the French fortifications of the Meuse and over Maubeuge and the Sambre, further northwest, seems aimed at Paris.

Authoritative sources said German troops are within 60 miles of the French capital, but they declined to state just where.

What the authorities call complete "pacification" of the Netherlands is proceeding speedily, with Dutch resistance ended on Walcheren island and more than 2,000 Dutch and French troops reported captured on the islands of Schouwen and South Beveland, all in Zeeland above Antwerp.

When Zeeland's cleanup is complete this will release 800,000 men for a drive on the Belgian and French channel ports.

With these ports occupied, it is believed in some circles that the British will be given a chance to capitulate or deal with swarms of German bombing planes.

The spectacle of the German armies of the left lancing straight toward Paris seems to justify the conjecture among military observers here that Hitler has changed the classic Graf von Schlieffen plan for a flanking move on Paris.

Instead it looks like the German "bullet troops" are taking a short cut to the heart of France without waiting for envelopment of retiring allied troops by the right wing of the army.

The right flank, indeed, seems to be employed in seeking to cut off British forces from seaports and make their return to England impossible.

Official Dutch sources said Holland's air force was almost annihilated in the terrific aerial warfare that accompanied the invasion.

It was a hopeless fight, Van Kleffens reported after fleeing to Paris.

Rather than face possible wholesale slaughter of the country's civilian populace if the fight had continued with aerial bombardments and machine gunning, the army gave up.

Iowa City High School Saxophone, Clarinet Quartets Top Contestants

Other Soloists, Groups Annex First Divisions

St. Paul's Regional Contest Ends; Students Depart for Homes

Division one in saxophone and clarinet quartets characterized Iowa City high school's continuing high record at the St. Paul Regional National Music Festival which ended there yesterday afternoon, having started Thursday.

Latest incomplete results last night showed musicians from Iowa far in the lead in competition. The Associated Press reported.

Those receiving the coveted class one ratings can call themselves national champions for the next year since the contests are the nationals for the five-state area represented, officials pointed out.

Leave For Homes
Some of the 8,000 students who participated left immediately for their homes but many remained for the grand final last night and for final results.

Although competitions were still taking place last night, reports of Iowa City musicians who participated yesterday and their ratings are as follows:

Saxophone quartet, division one; clarinet quartet, one; trombone quartet, one; class A concert band, one; class A mixed chorus, two; class A orchestra, one; woodwind quintet, one; string quartet, one.

Louis Jenkinson, marimba-xylophone, one; Virginia Simpson, flute solo, three; Vir Jean Peterson, oboe solo, three; William Gower, B flat clarinet, one; Marjorie Sidwell, same event, did not appear, Robert Simpson, trombone, two.

Other Results
This new list complements other results:

Woodwind trio, one; Bonita Lansing, bassoon solo, one; Vir Jean Peterson, oboe solo, three; B flat clarinet quartet, one; Donald Key, French horn, one; string quartet, one and two.

Richard Smith, E flat clarinet, two; Verla Bales, alto clarinet, two; Gordon Flynn, tuba solo, two; Jean Taylor, harp solo, one; Ann Mercer, harp solo, two; Lester Taylor, bass voice solo, one plus plus; Robert Swisher, bass voice solo, two plus; string trio, two; Susan Showers, alto saxophone, three; Fletcher Miller, alto saxophone, two; Jean Mocha, baritone saxophone, two; mixed group, two; Marian MacEwen, viola, one; Albert Muenzer, violin, two.

Part of League of Nations May Move To U. S. if Switzerland Is Invaded

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—A shift of a portion of the League of Nations to the United States was considered a possibility in official quarters today as the Geneva institution began preparations for removal to Vichy, France, in case Switzerland is invaded.

The transfer would be in line with the desire of the Roosevelt administration to promote the non-political activities of the league—such as economic studies, control over opium, and suppression of white slavery. Well-informed persons felt this portion of the league would be the most logical to transfer to the new world.

Officials would not be surprised to see also a transfer to this country—temporarily—of the international labor office at Geneva, of which an American, John G. Winant, former governor of New Hampshire, is secretary general.

That organization, which seeks improvement of labor standards in all countries, is likewise preparing to move to France.

The danger of German or Italian invasion of Switzerland in an effort to turn the French right flank has resulted in the league's preparations to move.

Chicago Grain Market Suffers Its Worst Collapse in Years

CHICAGO, May 18 (AP)—It was "Black Saturday" in the Chicago grain market today at the close of the most sensational collapse of wheat prices in recent history.

As German armies pushed toward Paris, chilling investors all over the world, demoralized selling swept over the turbulent wheat pit and in other commodity pits as well.

Wheat crashed 10 cents a bushel, as far as trading rules would permit in one session, while rye tumbled 10 cents and corn 8 cents. It was the third time this week that wheat has plunged the daily limit of 10 cents and at the low point it showed losses of 32 to 34 cents a bushel for the past six days.

The decline was so drastic that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace sent telegrams to all grain exchanges in the country asking them to prohibit trading in grain futures below today's closing figures.

Fred H. Clutton, secretary of the Board of Trade, said directors would meet in a special session tomorrow to consider what steps shall be taken. This is only the third time since the turn of the century that such steps have been taken.

The Canadian government took similar action to halt the collapse of wheat values in the Winnipeg market.

British Report Slowing Down Of Nazi Drive

LONDON, May 18 (AP)—Waning power of the Nazi's massive blows was reported tonight to have eased some of the pressure on the western front but Britain steeled itself for bad news.

A calm military spokesman admitted that the allied armies in "the battle of the bulge" in northern France were being shoved back ever closer to the gates of Paris.

The British spokesman made no effort to minimize the "very serious" situation but declared it was "certainly no worse and possibly a little bit better" than Friday.

German progress, he said, "has very much slackened, perhaps only temporarily, but exhaustion of German units taking part in the operations is apparent."

The situation in France necessitated the British and Belgian withdrawal in Belgium, he asserted, and "there was no question of a break-through or of troops retreating in confusion." The morale of the troops is high, he said, and they were indignant at the withdrawals.

While Germany's ponderous tanks were approaching the time when lack of fuel is expected to halt them, at least temporarily.

But Nation Steels Herself for Bad News, Calls Situation Serious

German parachute soldiers roamed behind the French lines, but "these can have no effect on the general development of operations," declared a French war ministry spokesman.

The German objective in turning to the west appeared to be: first, to try to cut off the main French armies from the allied forces in Belgium; and, second, to reach the Oise valley.

The Parachutist-Fifth Column Combination of Blitzkrieg—

How Hitler's Lowland Invasion Happened

By JOHN LLOYD
PARIS, May 18 (AP)—Germany's drastically new methods of invasion, with emphasis on the parachutist-fifth column combination, took Holland entirely by surprise and set at naught her great system of water defenses, Dutch and allied military men said today in reporting on the German conquest of Holland.

These authorities disclosed how the modern blitzkrieg method and complete disregard of "the rules" accomplished the task in five days.

In Poland and Norway the Germans had given no real inkling of what they had in the bag. On Holland they turned loose tricks that in any circumstance short of the actual proof would have been termed fantastic pipe dreams.

At one bold stroke, for instance, the Nazis rendered the flood water defenses of the Rotterdam-The Hague-Amsterdam area useless. After that there was little hope in continuing the fight. The Dutch surrendered.

Parachute troops, dumped out of the skies from planes which had detachable bottoms, fell by the hundreds in the Rotterdam area.

Big hydroplane transports alighted on canals, rivers and in the ports.

The Rotterdam airdrome was seized. Stiff fighting ousted the invaders but more parachutists and more transports arrived.

Again the airdrome was seized by the Nazis and again it was retaken by the Dutch.

Then suddenly a mechanized column of Nazi troops which had been dashing through central Holland arrived at the Moerdijk bridge commanding Rotterdam's defense area.

They got on the bridge and, said Dutch Foreign Minister Eelco N. Van Kleffens, slaughtered the guards and threw their bodies into the river.

The city fell, the line of water defenses had been turned and its value was lost.

When the invasion of Holland began, literally thousands of parachutists descended onto the lowlands, mostly by night.

The fifth column inside the country was estimated to have numbered as high as 100,000.

The parachutists and fifth columnists started fights at points throughout the interior. A large part of the army had to be diverted to mopping up purposes.

Official Dutch sources said Holland's air force was almost annihilated in the terrific aerial warfare that accompanied the invasion.

It was a hopeless fight, Van Kleffens reported after fleeing to Paris.

Rather than face possible wholesale slaughter of the country's civilian populace if the fight had continued with aerial bombardments and machine gunning, the army gave up.

50 Years at Hull House

Only God Can Make a Tree

But Anybody Can Throw Garbage Under It

CHICAGO, May 18—(AP)—In the 20th ward, on the south side, they sometimes dump the garbage, raw and wet, into the gutters and philosophically wait for the city to come and shovel it up.

That's why garbage cans—sold at the bargain price of 30 cents apiece—loom large in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Hull house.

It is a long story, but it illustrates how slowly changes come to reward the grubby, conscientious work of social pioneers like the late Jane Addams.

Miss Addams founded Hull house half a century ago. It took five years for the neighborhood to even begin to realize what her settlement meant to them.

About 1895 it was, and Miss Addams had complained about the garbage.

Politicians in those days had a sense of humor. They made Miss Addams garbage inspector for her district.

The Potter Palmers

She used to make her official rounds in a hired hack, and sometimes the driver would pine aloud for more dignified destinations. So she knew it would please him when she engaged his equipage one afternoon to take her to the Palmer mansion.

He drove smartly under the porte-cochere and jumped down to open the door. In his enthusiasm, he gave such a wrench at the handle that the door came off the hinges and bore him crashing to the ground.

When the driver recovered his senses, Miss Addams went in to tea.

The Potter Palmers meant money. But money, important as it was, was not enough. Hull house bought garbage cans in large lots and sold them at a price slum dwellers could afford to pay—30 cents each.

Jane Addams has been dead now for five years, and Miss Charlotte Carr has replaced her as Hull house pilot.

Garbage is still a problem, and Hull house still sells garbage cans at 30 cents each. But Miss Carr is trying a new approach.

'We'll Have Trees!'

"If they have trees on Park avenue," she says, "there's no reason why we shouldn't have trees in the 20th ward."

She borrowed the thought from an old Italian who sat far back at a neighborhood meeting called to talk once more about getting rid of the garbage.

"He didn't have a thing to say, and I was beginning to wonder why he had come," Miss Carr relates. Then he climbed to his feet and waved his arms.

"When the garbage is all gone," he called, "we can sit out under the trees!"

If people wanted to sit out under the trees, they might be willing to keep their garbage out of the gutters under the trees—if there only were trees.

Kelly and the Trees

So Edward J. Kelly, the mayor of Chicago, is donating the trees, two whole streets of them. Planted during the Hull house anniversary week, they'll grow to shade the next generation of kids who come tumbling out of the houses in the 20th ward to discover that life can sometimes be a kick in the pants.

For 50 years Hull house has been a haven for those who have been kicked in the pants.

Bitter Fighting

A half a century of fighting—bitter fighting at discouraging odds—against sweat shops, gangs, filth, starvation wages, exploitation of the defenseless.

This history of Hull house glows with names of now famous former residents who shared their talents, time and enthusiasm with the under-privileged.

King, Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, Industrialists Gerard Swope and Walter Gifford, Swinger Benny Goodman and Labor Unionist Sidney Hillman are a few.

Hull house today has 100 residents—educators, writers, artists, musicians, welfare workers. They pay their rent and board and give some of their time toward fostering the settlement's educational and recreational program to take rough edges off life in the slums.

At the house are clubs of mothers and children, a cooperating play school, a restaurant serving low priced meals, a branch of the New York Public library and a wide range of school courses from citizenship to woodcarving.

The musically talented may play in the settlement symphony orchestra, sing in a chorus, or even build their own instruments.

A third new floor has just been put on the gymnasium, the first public gymnasium in Chicago. An interior decorator—a philanthropic one, of course—has done wonders to Miss Carr's small office. It used to be Jane Addams' bedroom where she lay awake many nights, planning and hoping.

Miss Carr talks about the old building wryly. "Fifty years' reputation is swell," she says. "But 50 years with the same plumbing is not so good."

Cost Per Year

It costs about $150,000 a year to maintain the 13 smoke-licked buildings that make up the modern Hull house. A third of the cost comes from endowments, the community fund helps, and individual benefactors make up the rest.

Hull house has a book value of $1,800,000. Its buildings cover two city blocks in the middle of the slums on South Halsted street. Forty-four thousand people went in and out of it in the month of March.

In one of the big back rooms, or in the courtyard under Miss Carr's window when the sun is shining, the neighbors rehearse for the anniversary play.

Naturalness
No lines, no recitations for these actors from real life. The only thing that is set down on paper is the situation. It is developed in rehearsals, garnished in gab fests afterwards, and then presented with vivid naturalness the night of the performance.

The Future?

The future of Hull house? "You know," Miss Carr says, "we can profitably spend the next 50 years achieving the goals set up by Miss Addams. She was amazingly far ahead of her times. She took minimum wages for granted. Her conception of the co-operatives has been put into practice almost everywhere. She spoke of the submerged tenth a long time before President Roosevelt observed that one-third of the nation was ill-housed, ill-fed and ill-clothed."

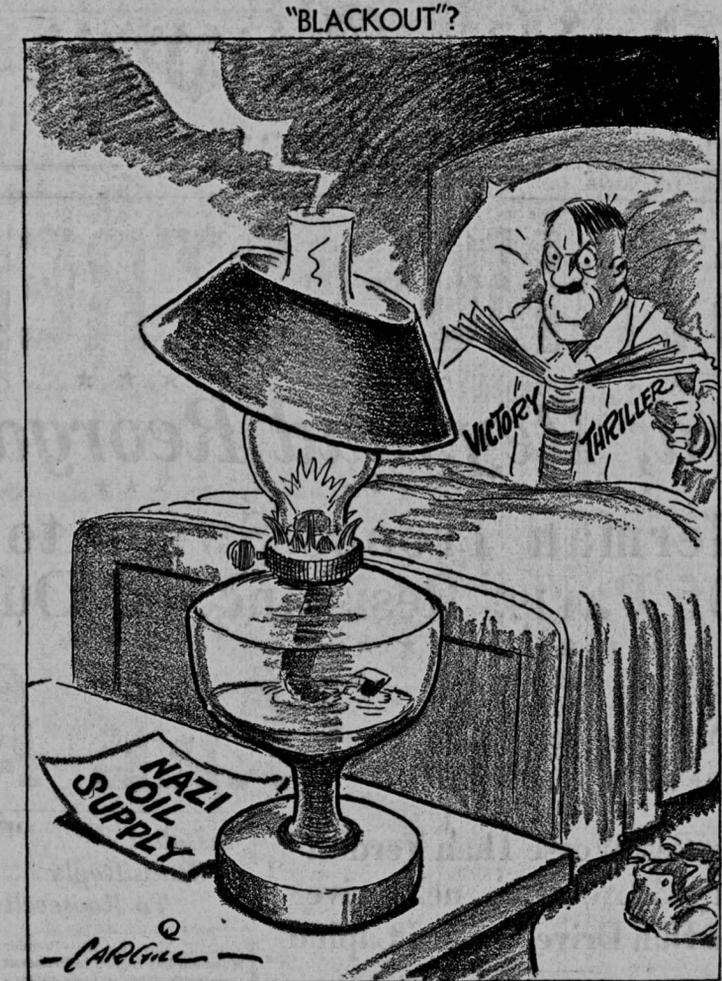

As for Miss Carr— "Jane Addams hoped to achieve world peace. I don't aspire to that. If we could get industrial peace I would be satisfied."

Housing, Miss Carr believes, is the great index to social conditions. In the area in which Hull house has most influence, the territory within walking distance of its doors, it's not only the tenants who have to bear with leaking roofs, precarious stairways and rats in the walls. The landlords also suffer, because they live downstairs.

All those government improvements the candidates promise us sound very nice, indeed, but what, demands the baseball fan, are they going to do about the Boston Bees?

A snake expert says that only one in 10 species of serpents can be considered even mildly dangerous. Gosh, wonder if the human race measures up to so high a standard.

Among others who are engaged in the back-to-work movements are all those baseball rookies who didn't make good in spring training camps.

Assassinate Adolf Hitler? This Ex-Consul Explains Why Hitler-Haters Don't Try the Job

Samuel Harden Church's recent offer of $1,000,000 for Adolf Hitler's delivery to the League of Nations, for trial as a criminal "against the peace and dignity of the world," has been taken with a certain amount of seriousness in some quarters.

Even in congress one hears the suggestion that maybe Samuel's proposal constituted a violation of our neutrality, and that perhaps his author has laid himself open to prosecution by the justice department. Not that I think the department will act on this hint. Nevertheless, it goes to show how sensitive many folk are to anything that they deem the least bit likely to involve the United States in overseas hostilities.

If Sam had offered a reward for Adolf's actual bumping off, it's possible that he might have risked subjecting himself to federal punishment. He was careful to specify, however, that the Fuehrer must be delivered "alive, unharmed and unhurt."

The bulk of congressional comment is to the effect that he made a hopelessly low bid. The Allies, these critics point out, are blowing in billions to attain the same end that Sam offers only a measly million for. If billions can't turn the trick, they ask, who'll be tempted by Sam Church's cheap promised reward?

Looks Like Joke
My own notion is that Samuel himself was joking. Still, there wouldn't make any difference whether the shot hit him or not. Everybody would be killed immediately. Then a massacre of all the Jews in Germany would follow.

"It's enough to make any well-meaning would-be assassin stop and think."

Subsequently, it will be recalled, there actually was an explosion at a Nazi gathering in Munich which was supposed to have been intended for Adolf's benefit, but he seems to have had an inkling that that gathering was an undesirable one for him to linger over. Anyway, he quit the building earlier than usual — and missed the explosion.

Popular Subscriptions
Sam Church didn't say he'd pay his whole anti-Hitler fund out of his own pocket.

He said he had subscriptions to it, to add to his personal contribution.

This popular subscription idea isn't altogether new.

The Chinese are taking one up now, to pay for the assassination of Wang Ching-Wei, Japan's puppet president of China, in opposition to the real president, Chiang Kai-Shek. Contributions as low as $1-Mex are thankfully accepted.

The Chinese are not as particular as is Samuel Church. They don't require delivery of Wang "alive, unharmed and unhurt." If he is so delivered he won't remain that way for very long.

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

FROM THE MAILS—
... comes a letter from Clair Trevor, the other half of the Friday night Don Ameche drama program. Following is the text of her correspondence.

Dear Editor:
I'd like to get some campus information.

It's about radio, but not any particular program. I'm interested mainly in what kind of radio dramas college students like to listen to.

That happens to be an important job with me just now. A few weeks ago Don Ameche and I started a series of dramas as part of a network radio program each Friday night, and we've been debating ever since which types of stories are most popular. So we decided to come right out and ask—and the most logical place to ask is on a college campus or in the newspaper editor's office.

Here's what I'd particularly like to know.

Does the average student choose humorous or heavily dramatic stories when he tunes in the radio?

Does he prefer tales of the city or the country?

Does he like collegiate atmosphere in radio dramas?

Would he prefer an old-fashioned love story to one told against a modern background of economic struggle?

Is he more interested in the story or in those who are acting in it?

How about "surprise endings"?

This is the first time Don Ameche and I have worked as a radio dramatic team, and we're very anxious to learn the answers to the above questions. I'll appreciate it immensely if you'll check with some of your college friends and write me the results.

(signed) Claire Trevor

SO HERE'S YOUR
... chance, students, to tell the radio program procedure just what you want and reasonably expect something will be done about it.

Answer these questions telling just what you like or list your one, two, three choices for radio dramatic programs. Mail your replies to me care of The Daily Iowan, and I'll forward them to Miss Trevor and Don Ameche.

Mr. Coward's U. S. Visit He Didn't Cross The Atlantic Just for a Ride

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — There are some interesting points to consider in connection with Noel Coward's visit to this country at this time. The man who wrote "Cavalcade," "Private Lives" and "Tonight at 8:30" did not cross the Atlantic just for the ride.

The points to consider concern his present post with the British propaganda ministry in France, and the fact that he is rich and has sizable holdings and investments in this country.

For 15 years Mr. Coward has been writing books and plays, and most of them have made money. Of the million he is reputed to have earned, at least half of it was earned in this country. It has been a matter of pride with him that none of this money has been taken out of the country.

Now England is at war and must look to the United States, through "cash" legislation, for a considerable portion of her war materials. There will come a time when Allied credits in this country will be exhausted. Coward's holdings, like the widow's mite, when added to the incomes of Laughton, Olivier, Brook, Leigh, Howard and innumerable other popular and high-salaried British actors and authors in this country, are certain to be enlisted in British credits. This is not a new move. It has been going on since the first days of the war. What arrangements his own government has made with him, and with his popular countrymen over here, is a guess.

It will be remembered that last September Charles Boyer, the French Apollo, hurried back to France to join his regiment when war was declared. Within a few weeks the man who has caused the hearts of thousands of American women to flutter was in uniform. He was detailed to some prosaic chore that had something to do with counting army mules. This seemed rather absurd. The French government wisely considered that Boyer would serve his country better if his salary, a big one, were piled up credits in American dollars in this country. Therefore, Boyer hurried back to the U. S., more of a heart-flutterer than ever. He had been in the army. He had satisfied all questions as to his physical courage.

Noel Coward, it seems logical to conclude, is here in a similar capacity. He brought along two new plays. These were turned over to his friend and manager, Mr. John C. Wilson. After a few days in Manhattan, he hurried on to Hollywood, where he has many friends and business interests. He will not remain long in this country — only a matter of a few weeks. Then he will return to his post in the propaganda ministry in Paris.

What is this post? When he bobbed up in his old haunts on Broadway all of the boys bombarded him with questions. "Had he been bombed yet?" "Coward may have confided the nature of his duties to his intimates, but to his public he has remained pleasantly vague. He has, however, made it unmistakable that war has turned his life inside out, like a hastily removed sock. How? "Well, I have to be up, bathed, dressed, fed and at my desk by 9 a.m."

Plainly, if war has done this to Noel Coward, Sherman was right.

AMERICAN YACHT REACHES YUGOSLAVIA

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslav newspapers treated as an important—and surprising—event the arrival of an American yacht at the little port of Pirovac.

William Shirley of Baltimore dropped the anchor of his yacht, "Baltimore," in Yugoslav waters at a time when the government was closing most of its tourist offices.

Accompanied by his wife and child, Shirley announced he would stay several months, despite the fear of Balkan countries that the European war may spread.

MARJORIE CAMP

Mr. Bertrand Russell's Views

(Editor's note: The following excerpts are from "Freedom and the Colleges," by Bertrand Russell, an article in the May issue of The American Mercury.)

Academic freedom in this country is threatened from two sources: the plutocracy, and the churches, which endeavor to be between them to establish an economic and a theological censorship. The two are easily combined by the accusation of communism, which is recklessly hurled against anyone whose opinions are disliked.

If I held power, I should not seek to prevent my opponents from being heard. I should seek to provide equal facilities for all opinions, and leave the outcome to the consequences of discussion and debate. Among the academic victims of German persecution in Poland there are, to my knowledge, some eminent orthodox Catholics. I should do everything in my power to obtain academic positions for these men, in spite of the fact that their coreligionists do not return the compliment.

No man can pass as educated who has heard only one side on questions as to which the public is divided. One of the most important things to teach in the educational establishments of a democracy is the power of weighing arguments, and the open mind which is prepared in advance to accept whichever side appears the more reasonable. As soon as a censorship is imposed upon the opinions which teachers may avow, education ceases to serve this purpose and tends to produce, instead of a nation of men, a herd of fanatical bigots.

Taxpayers think that since they pay the salaries of university teachers they have a right to decide what these men shall teach. This principle, if logically carried out, would mean that all the advantages of superior education enjoyed by university professors are to be nullified, and that their teaching is to be the same as if they were to have no special competence. The exercise of power is agreeable, especially when it is an obscure individual who exercises power over a prominent one. The Roman soldier who killed Archimedes, if in his youth he had been compelled to study geometry, must have enjoyed a quite special thrill in ending the life of so eminent a maker. An ignorant American bigot can enjoy the same thrill in pitting his democratic power against men whose views are obnoxious to the uneducated.

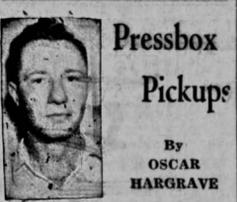

LIGHTNING STRIKES ONE PLACE ONLY

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Flight Capt. A. F. Olsen, flying many years, says the bolt of lightning that played with his plane near Helena recently was something new in his experience.

It was snowing, Captain Olsen reported, and there was no warning of an electrical disturbance. "Suddenly a bolt of lightning that seemed to come from nowhere lighted for the barest fraction of a second on the aileron of the right wing," Captain Olsen said. Except for a slight lurch the bolt caused the plane no distress. But when it landed at Billings, a four-inch hole had been burned in the fabric covering the aileron. Among the 21 passengers and crew of three on the ship, the incident caused no serious alarm.

Glanders, a disease affecting horses, asses and mules, is communicable to man.

Iowa Baseballers Drub Michigan State, 4-0

Pressbox
Pickups
By OSCAR HARGRAVE

The boys who sit up in the stands to do the umpiring that Bert Hayden and Chuck Semuth are paid for might well call themselves victims yesterday—the rain chased them and, considering the spirit of the heckle section, they would have enjoyed the latter part of the ball game.

In the dugouts, after the third inning was over, there were counter-plots going on, each of which concerned the winning of a ball game. Iowa's Coach Vogel, with his team out in the lead, wanted the game to get past the middle of the fourth before it was called. Michigan State, on the other hand, didn't.

It was before the fourth frame that the maneuvering got under way, with calling of the game a practical certainty within a matter of minutes. An attempt to stop the contest failing, the Spartans wanted to keep going after the game, with Iowa ahead, had passed the deadline, making it a contest.

This, of course, is where Vogel and his men reached their peak. The field was wet enough for a mud fight and the Hawks had the game pretty well sewed up, but the umpires wouldn't call it yet.

In the fifth frame, with another rally apparently ahead, Hohenhorst nearly missed his time at bat. He ended up with the Iowa batter running frantically to the plate without his war club.

He didn't do any good when he finally got the club, but Hohenhorst had his fun in the next frame, which turned into an opportunity for the Hawks to show their disgust at the failure to halt proceedings. Hohenhorst, standing on a mound that splashed every time he stamped a foot, paused occasionally to stroll leisurely to the dugout, where he proceeded to clean his shoes off with a stick. In between trips he kicked the mud off occasionally.

But, in spite of the difficulties, the Hawkeyes looked like a top-notch ball team again. Erwin Prasse turned in a great day, starting off two double killings and clouting out another homer. Hohenhorst did his best hurling job of the year and there was but one error charged against the Hawks.

Four or five seniors are getting a looking over from big league scouts, of whom two were in the stands for the series. The list includes Prasse, Kantor, George, Haub and Hohenhorst.

Paul Derringer Loses 8-3 Tilt For Cincinnati

PHILADELPHIA, May 18 (AP)—Righthander Paul Derringer, usually a certain winner over Philadelphia, was just another pitcher to the amazing Phillies today as they pounded him from the mound for an 8 to 3 victory over Cincinnati.

Derringer had beaten the Phils 11 consecutive times in two and one-third years prior to today's contest.

Hughie Mulcahy got off to a bad start for the Phils in the first inning, but thereafter he was never in trouble. He allowed only seven hits, half as many as his teammates collected off Derringer and Whitey Moore.

Bill Atwood, Joe Marty and Morrie Aronovich led the 12-hit assault on Derringer with two blows each.

Badger Tracksters Topples Hawks By 46 Point Margin

Iowa closed its most dismal track season in years yesterday afternoon on its home field, overwhelmed by an all-around Wisconsin cinder aggregation, 88 1-2 to 42 1-2.

While the Badgers were making a clean sweep of the pole vault, discus throw and broad jump, Iowa runners were managing to garner firsts in the 100-yard dash, the 220, the two mile run, the 220-yard low, and the shot put. Altogether, Wisconsin took ten firsts, placing all the Hawkeyes first, using all-around team strength to pile up its huge advantage.

Hank Vollenweider and Art Schlauder were the Iowa stars for the day, Vollenweider winning the 220-yard low and taking second in the 120-yard high, and Schlauder winning the 220-yard dash and placing second in his teammate, Jim Wilson, in the 100. Besides Vollenweider, Schlauder and Wilson as Iowa winners, Bob Campbell won on a fine last lap sprint to take the two-mile and newly-elected Captain Bill Leuz took the shot put.

Notable performances on the part of the Badgers were Buxton's 1:55.3 time in the half and Ed Smith's 14.6 effort in the 120-yard high.

Homers Give Cardinals 6-2 Win Over Dodgers

Bimelech Had No Excuse
Bradley Horse Second in Withers Mile; Corydon Is Easy First

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP)—Bimelech didn't have it today. The "great horse" of the blue grass ran second to Mrs. Payne Whitney's Corydon in the 65th running of the Withers mile at Belmont park and there appeared to be no excuse for the colt who was touted as the "second Man o'War."

Backed down to 1 to 5 in the betting, Col. E. R. Bradley's galloper was never in front, didn't have the run to poke his way into the lead when he made his bid in the stretch, and had to call on the camera to take second money.

Before a crowd of 29,842—largest of the metropolitan season—Bimelech was beaten badly by a colt that had won only one race previously in his career.

This Whitney colt, a son of St. Germans out of a royal minister mare, Sylvan Song, came home first last Oct. 18 in a mile-and-sixteenth maiden race. Since then, in three starts, he had never been better than second.

But today he was a lot of horse. Eleven lengths back, a dead last, in the backstretch, he seemed to have no chance. Then Jockey Eddie Arcaro turned him loose. He was sixth at the half-mile pole, a fast moving third at the three-quarters, and second as the field of eight turned for home.

Arcaro put him on the outside down the run for the wire, and he caught the leaders just inside the eighth pole, finally finishing two lengths on top in 1:37 1/5 for the mile.

Meantime, Bimelech, after breaking slowly, had been running in a contenting spot all the way, while Joseph E. Widener's Roman, set all the pace. As they turned into the stretch, Jockey Freddie Smith ran at Roman, and was just up for second place at the wire, a nose in front of Roman. Mrs. E. Graham Lewis' General Manager was fourth, 10 lengths farther back, trailed in order by William Ziegler Jr.'s in Charge, Sonny Whitney's Parasang, Jock Whitney's Calory and Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson's Call to Colors.

McGee Marked With Victory

Mize, Terry Moore Each Clout Two Round-Trippers

BROOKLYN, May 18 (AP)—Five home-runs gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today and kept the Flatbush fighters from taking over first place in the National league from the Cincinnati Reds, who lost to the Phillies.

Johnny Mize and Terry Moore each got two round-trippers and Ducky Medwick the other.

The game went glimmering for the Dodgers in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings when Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin, starting dodger pitcher, served up his famous home-run delivery to Medwick, Moore and Mize, one per inning.

Hamlin then left the mound but the Cards hadn't had enough homers. So in the ninth, with Carl Doyle pitching, Mize and Moore each got another.

Fiddler Bill McGee was the winning pitcher but did not go the route. He was lifted in the eighth when the Dodgers threatened, and Clyde Shoun finished.

CHICAGO, May 18 (AP)—The New York Yankees climbed out of the American league cellar today and started on the long trek towards their fifth American league pennant.

A brilliant two-hitter by Monte Pearson gave them a 3-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox and hoisted the champions into seventh place. They had been in the cellar for 10 days.

Tommy Henrich was the ace of the Yankees' power attack, driving in two of their three runs. His powerful homer in the sixth was the chief blow in the Yankees' 11 hit attack on Thornton Lee.

It was Pearson's third victory of the year. The two hits he gave up were both singles—one each by Bob Kennedy and Mike Kreivich.

The last chance for Iowa to finish on top in the Big Ten baseball race evaporated yesterday when Illinois downed Indiana by a 7-0 score to end the season with a record of nine victories against three defeats. The best Iowa could do now would be eight wins against three losses.

Hawkeye baseball team pounced on Michigan State again yesterday and battered out a 4-0 victory before the game was called in the seventh inning.

The win, second in a row over the Spartans, didn't count in the Big Ten standings, but it marked a definite return to the form of Iowa's early drive in the conference. The Hawkeyes looked like champions all the way; they grabbed up every scoring opportunity, and just as important, they promptly squashed any Spartan threat that developed.

In the first inning, and with little warning, the Hawks tucked the game away, making later events mere formalities, albeit interesting ones. The opening blast, good for two runs, was Erwin Prasse's second home run of the series, driving Rudy Radics home ahead of him.

That was the ball game, although the Hawks paused long enough in their race against the rain to add another pair of markers in the fifth on a walk to Frankie Kocur, a three-base knock by Rudy Radics and Andy Kantor's single.

The Spartans, in contrast, were impotent before the five-hit twirling of lanky Fred Hohenhorst. The Big Iowa right-hander was in trouble several times, but bore down in the clutches and left six Spartans, all told, stranded on bases. Brilliant fielding, including a pair of double plays, aided Hohenhorst materially.

Prasse, with a homer and single in three trips to the plate, topped the batting for the day. Radics' triple was the only other extra-base knock of the afternoon.

Mrs. A. Small Elected Study Club President

Mrs. Dean Lierle Named Vice-President At Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Arnold Small was elected next year's president for the Iowa City Child Study Club at a luncheon meeting yesterday in the foyer of Iowa Union. Mrs. Dean Lierle was elected vice-president.

"Reading for Fun" was discussed by Mrs. Fred M. Pownall, the guest speaker, who talked on books for children and described the formation of a good library.

"Children's books have more literary value now than in the 'Little Elsie' days," Mrs. Pownall stated. "But the American Library Association today indicates that children are getting away from fantasy. They're getting their fairy tales from the movies."

Candy Literature

The fact that many college students were coming to school without preparation in good reading was regretted by the speaker, who described their background as a "cotton candy type of literature."

"Give children good books early, and if the parents are not too arbitrary, the children will have good taste in reading," Mrs. Pownall asserted. "They will get a perspective and be able to tell good books later."

The values of reading aloud were stressed by the speaker as an excellent way of getting acquainted with books. She recommended it as a way of bringing the family together with "an open fire, popcorn and apples and a good reading voice."

Club to Hold Picnic

The Athens Historical circle will meet tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. for a picnic at the home of Mrs. John D. Cameron, rural route 3.

Our Home Town Telephone Employees

By Charles Beckman

I had occasion last week to call a number in New York City. From the time I took my receiver off the hook until my party said "Hello," it was just two minutes and 10 seconds.

Thought travels fast and, while I waited, I let my mind follow my call to our own exchange, where a n efficient operator snapped a switch over mountains and through the clang and bustle of several big cities to its destination in the biggest city of all.

I don't know how many people were directly concerned with that call—perhaps eight or ten. But think of the thousands of others—from the lineman, keeping wires clear through mountain storms, to the experts who keep in perfect function the incredibly intricate mechanisms—without whose help such service would be impossible.

Granted that the Telephone Company is a great and valuable public servant and with due appreciation of their efforts to improve their service, my highest praise still goes to the rank and file of their workers. Like most folks, my only contact with the company is through the pleasant-voiced girl on the other end of my phone. But back of her are those innumerable other loyal employees—always dependable, always willing, always courteous and always potentially heroic, as the records of any great catastrophe will show.

Next Sunday Mr. Beckman of the Beckman Funeral Home will comment on Memorial Day.

Admiral Yarnell, retired, still maintains residence at Independence, his birthplace. The holder of the distinguished service medal for outstanding service to America in handling the problems occasioned by the Japanese invasion of China, he is an outstanding authority on the political, military and economic history of the Orient.

Background

A graduate of the United States Naval academy and the Naval War college, Admiral Yarnell first became rear admiral in 1928 and shortly after was appointed chief of the bureau of engineering in the navy department.

He has served as commander of the aircraft squadrons, battle fleet, and served in the Spanish American war and in the Philippine insurrection and the Boxer campaign. He was commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet from 1930 until his retirement this year.

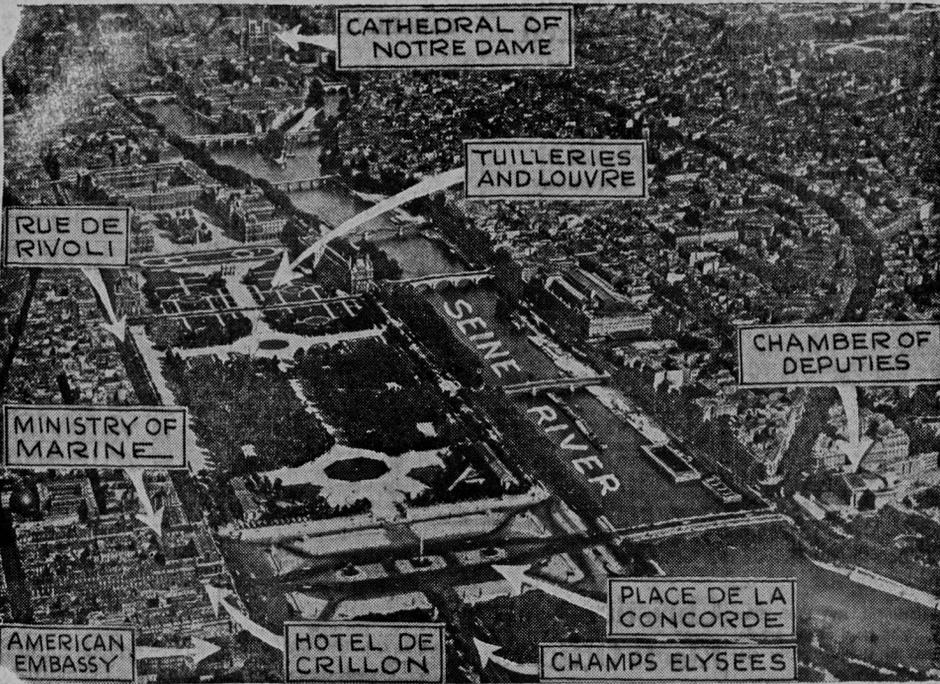

He was a member of the technical staff of the American delegation to the conference on limitation of armaments in London in 1930, and of the American Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers and the Society of Naval Engineers. He belongs to the Army and Navy club at Washington.

Honored by Edison

In presenting Admiral Yarnell with the distinguished service medal, Charles Edison, secretary of the navy, said "You were awarded the distinguished service medal for exceptional ability, courage and tact in handling with the greatest skill the many delicate situations that arose during the continued emergency in China."

Admiral Yarnell's address is one in a series of seven to be presented during the summer session in June and July.

Electrical Oddities Observed Graduate Student Makes Study of Electrical Energy Transmission Lines

Electrical energy transmission lines often are disturbed and some peculiar unbalanced effects as regards voltage and current are observed, according to H. G. Frus, G of Iowa City.

The transformer bank may contain the cause, and so the bank itself is an important factor, Frus has found in his research work.

The unbalanced effects are studied by the oscillograph, an instrument which records on film a plot of current or voltage against time. In this manner any dissimilarity of wave form between line currents or voltage is quickly and easily discernible.

As a result, one can readily detect the super and sub-harmonic phenomena in three-phase transformer banks. The sub-harmonic which sometimes causes the unbalance in the wave under consideration which has a component of less than fundamental frequency.

The engineer considers this interesting in view of the fact that customary analytical explanations of transformer theory and operation do not mention it.

The balance is not always a stable condition, indicating that there must be some factor which causes this instability, small in itself, but possibly the causal factor of much larger and more pronounced disturbances.

THE BURDENS THAT COME WITH OFFICE

HELENA, Mont., (AP)—Up to the time he was elected mayor of Helena, John Joseph Haytin was known simply as Jack.

After the ballots were counted and Haytin was proclaimed the winner, folks began calling him John. He was referred to in print as John J. And some people even addressed him as Mr. Haytin. "Shucks," Haytin told a reporter whose aid he enlisted. "Nobody ever called me all those names before. Please put a piece in the paper that my name's still Jack." In 1939, for the first time in 100 years, the slums in America ceased growing and began to shrink.

That Last Hectic Week! Here Are a Few Campus Modes of Study

Exam week begins and the final hour of cramming is all that interests University of Iowa students. Here's how some of them

the world for their books. Norman Shepherd, A1 of Ankeny, and Doris Laporte, A1 of Boone, shown in picture no. 2, mix cokes and studies for the afternoon as they pour over an art textbook. Ice cream cones are chosen by Herman Westfall, A3 of Iowa

they concentrate on remembering just what it was the professor said he would ask for. But spring sunshine and a friendly tree seem more appealing to Alice Marie hall while they wait for the hour to come. Like these students, men and women over the campus join in that final hectic rush of the year—studying for exam week.

Forget Those Exam Questions! Read a Good Book!

By JESSIE LOU KING
Will you be glad when final exams are over?
The chances are that when they are, you will be anxious to relax and forget them for a bit. And if not, then there's always a whole summer to enjoy yourself in. So why not choose a book right now!

The reading public, we hear, wants to forget war news blaring from headlines and news broadcasts. The season's novels are aimed at that wish with history, mystery and romance on every shelf—and first rate examples too. Even Scarlett O'Hara is soporific when compared to a new heroine from America's past, Honoria in James Street's "Oh, Promised Land." It's a story of the Georgia border with Indian fights and slave trading and land speculating, and it comes highly recommended by its readers.

"Wolves Against the Moon" is the intriguing title for another historical romance of the early days of Canada. A third romance, "Show Me a Land," is set in a horse-racing background of Virginia and Kentucky from 1816 to 1875.
Definitely controversial is the novel by Rayner Heppenstall, "The Blaze of Noon." The chief character is a blind man, who to recompense himself for losing his career as a surgeon, developed his other senses to an abnormal degree. "Sioux City" by J. Hyatt Downing is another book guaranteed to cause discussion.

Echoes from Europe can be found on the bookshelves if you like. "Fandango" by Briffault and "Paris Gazette" by Lion Feuchtwanger are significant as well as entertaining. And the popular Provincial Lady again makes her appearance in "The Provincial Lady in War Time."

"Charming" is the word to describe "A Quaker Childhood" by Helen Thomas Flexner, which recounts experiences of her family. And just as enjoyable beginning with its title page is "My Mother Is a Violent Woman," by a 13-year-old American boy with a lively mother.

Serious books, which are always with us, include James Truslow Adams' "Empire on the Seven Seas," which carries on the history of Great Britain from the French Revolution to the present World war.

FLIES WORLD'S FASTEST PLANE!

TEST PILOT HOMER BERRY
LIKES ALL THE SPEED HE CAN GET IN A PLANE, BUT HE LIKES HIS SMOKING S-L-O-W!
SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS
ARE HIS CIGARETTE

"FASTEST PLANE off the production line today!" That's how Homer Berry describes the amazing new Bell Airacobra. This veteran test pilot started flying in 1913... started smoking Camels the same year. "No other cigarette ever gave me anything like the pleasure of a Camel," he says. "They burn slower, smoke milder and cooler. In 26 years, that slower burning has given me a lot of extra smoking." Try Camels. Enjoy Camel's slower-burning costlier tobaccos. Penny for penny your best cigarette buy!

TEST PILOT HOMER BERRY SAYS:

"No fast burning for me in my cigarette. I've smoked Camels ever since there have been any Camels. They burn slower and give me more pleasure per puff and more puffs per pack. 'I'd walk a mile for a slow-burning Camel!'"

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

Traveling Exhibition

Photography is the most popular hobby of collegians . . . and proof that many students are becoming masters of it is reflected in the quality of prints submitted for this special issue. Hundreds of excellent photographs were entered by Shutterbugs from every corner of the country. Interest in the contest has increased yearly. To support this interest, Collegiate Digest and the Associated Collegiate Press are preparing a group of outstanding prints for a traveling exhibit. Last year's Salon Contest winners were viewed by thousands on many campuses.

If you are interested in obtaining this unusual display for your school, write to the Salon Editor, Collegiate Digest, stating the week you'll want it. Responsible parties such as Camera Clubs or Student Union officials must take charge of it and express it to the next scheduled point of its itinerary.
