Change in Tactics Directs Reich's Troops Away from Paris; Louis Lochner Pictures Destruction of Europe's Worst Warfare

Shift in Direction of Germans Eases Threat to Paris After Troops Were Within 80 Miles

New Objectives - To Drive Wedge Between Main French Forces Defending Paris, British Armies in Belgium

By HENRY C. CASSIDY PARIS, May 20 (AP)—Across the northern plains of France Adolf Hitler's men in rolling armor—60,000 strong in the advance guard—battered westward tonight on a new tangent, the English channel as their goal.

The shift of direction of this steel-plated spearhead of five mechanized divisions eased the threat to Paris after the vanguard had thrust to within 80 miles of the French capital.

The new objective—besides the oft-mentioned aim of bases for direct attack on the British isles—apparently was to drive an iron wedge between the main French forces defending Paris and the British-Belgian-French armies in Belgium.

(Berlin reports estimated that a successful drive to the sea might isolate 300,000 British soldiers on the allied northern flank.)

Northern allied armies were forced to drop back to intercept the threat, while the main body of French troops fought to stem the German advance. These movements recalled the "race to the sea" at the start of the World war which left the allies in control of the channel.

Whether Germany definitely had abandoned the idea of striking at Paris remained uncertain.

(Reports reaching Basel, Switzerland, said that General Maxime Weygand, new allied generalissimo, apparently was shaping a powerful pincers counter-offensive from the Valenciennes and Rethel areas—opposite sides of the German "bulge" into France.)

From St. Quentin, abandoned by the French after a see-saw battle of tanks and from the Le Cateau-La Fere sector—30 miles wide across the German "bulge"—it is roughly 100 miles to the channel port of Calais, which is directly across from Dover, England.

Most of the armored columns and aerial striking forces were concentrated in the Le Cateau-La Fere sector, where they reached the west bank of the canal running from the Oise to the Sambre river.

Charge Continued Their charge forward continued there, forcing the French to withdraw from St. Quentin—80 miles northeast of Paris—but 11 days of titanic struggle on the western front, with constant fighting, appeared to be slowing down the German advance. (Here 20 words were censored.)

French military advisers said an extreme advance German motorcycle squad touched Peronne—15 miles northwest of St. Quentin and westernmost point reached by a Nazi force—yesterday but withdrew at nightfall to avoid being cut off from main lines far to the rear.

French Counter-Attack The French in converging counter-attacks reported that they had blasted away German bridgeheads and captured two "detachments" of prisoners.

Another German attack was launched farther east in the Montmedy sector—where the so-called "little Maginot" line facing Belgium joins the original Maginot line—with heavy artillery preparation. (See BERLIN, Page 6)

The 18 men seized were listed as pickets and members of convoy crews. They were held on open charges.

Three men were shot near Volo, in Lake county, in the first major outbreak of the strike.

Court Upholds Price-Fixing In Ruling on Soft Coal Act

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—The supreme court, in a decision upholding the bituminous coal act, ruled 8 to 1 today that congress can constitutionally prescribe price-fixing, marketing controls and other regulatory remedies to cure "chaotic conditions" in interstate industry.

The act was passed in 1937 after an earlier regulatory law, called the Guffey coal act of 1935, was ruled invalid. The aim of the legislation was to curb the "over-production and savage, competitive warfare" which, Justice Douglas said in today's ma-

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER WITH THE GERMAN WESTERN ARMIES, May 20 (AP)—American newspaper correspondents, guests of Adolf Hitler, today saw the ruins of Louvain library, which was erected on Herbert Hoover square by cooperation of numerous American universities. The building had been gutted by fire.

Its 700,000 volumes must be considered lost.

All floors had been swept by the blaze.

No one seemed to be able to say by whom or how the blaze had been set.

From the basement wisps of smoke still rose.

Practically the entire population of Louvain, 41,000 had fled. The German military commander of the city, Lieutenant Colonel Engelmann, tried to form an emergency city council with a fire captain and the lone professor remaining as the nucleus. Engelmann indicated that most of the civil administration would be turned over to the council.

There was neither light nor water available. The city, studded by the ruins of the library, presented a picture of desolation.

Italy Speeds Up Preparations For War as Antagonism Grows

ROME, May 20 (AP)—Italy swung her war preparations into a new high speed tonight as the feeling grew stronger in many Italian minds that her entry into the conflict merely was a matter of time and new demonstrations against Great Britain and France broke out.

The war department ordered three days of air raid drill and blackouts in Rome province as well as at Terni, 45 miles northeast, where great arms and munitions factories are running full blast.

Nothing developed to indicate whether general mobilization was imminent but military experts said the closing of schools May 31, two weeks ahead of schedule, would make buildings available for temporary barracks if needed.

Premier Mussolini received a report from Marshal Pietro Badoglio on troops posted on the frontier. It followed a report last week on the Littorio line of fortifications in the north which II Duce ordered further strengthened.

Whether an Italian move would come on the French frontier or on the eastern borders facing the Balkans was a secret likely to be learned only after such a move was made.

Air raid drills and blackouts were ordered to start tonight in Terni, Rome, Milan, Turin and Genoa, to continue for three days.

'Secret Weapon Non-Existent' - U. S. Officer

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Brigadier General L. D. Gasser, deputy chief of staff, declared today that the war department was quite satisfied Germany had no secret weapon such as a "nerve gun" or other device.

His statement was made to the house military committee in response to an inquiry inspired by the German high command's recent report that a new type of weapon had enabled the nazis to capture Eben Emael, described as the strongest fort in Belgium's Liege defenses.

The bottom is the Belgian city of Charleroi, on the Sambre river.

The northern part of the "mouth," which opens westward toward the channel, is Tournai, Belgium, 50 miles northwest of Charleroi.

The southern part of the "mouth" is Cambrai, France, 35 miles southeast of Tournai and 55 miles southwest of Charleroi.

Many Belgians and French and perhaps British are believed almost surrounded in the "sack."

DNB, the German official news agency, saw in the possible losing of the "sack" a repetition of the Kutno battle in the Polish campaign last September where the Germans reported bagging 170,000 prisoners.

Greatest Destructive Battle The Germans called Kutno one of the greatest destructive battles of all times.

The news agency said there was great activity along the channel ports on the continent, indicating the British desired to withdraw "to their island."

DNB added that the British had been withdrawn from the Maginot line to channel ports.

Although not telling definitely why the German steel-sheathed spearheads on the west side of the bulge had swerved from the road to Paris, the high command pointed out that they had plunged 20 to 30 miles westward from St. Quentin, which is 30 miles below Cambrai, in a day's attack.

300,000 British Within Pincers The Germans estimate that 300,000 British on the Belgian-French front would be in danger of being pinched off from the main allied forces if the Nazi drive toward the coast succeeds.

In addition to the British, they appraised the allied strength in their path through Belgium as roughly more than 1,000,000 French and 250,000 Belgians.

(In Paris, five German mechanized divisions—60,000 men attacking in tanks and armored cars—were said to be pushing the offensive across France's northern plains.)

Sudden Nazi Drive to Coast Aimed at Surrounding Troops; Allies Continue To Withdraw

DNB Sees in Closing of 'Sack' a Repetition Of Kutno Battle in Polish War When 170,000 Surrendered

By PRESTON GROVER BERLIN, May 20 (AP)—Germany's blitzkrieg troops pushed deeper into France today by capturing the city of Laon, 75 miles northeast of Paris, while, in the west, Nazi warriors created a huge "sack" which they sought to close and trap thousands of allied soldiers.

The German high command in a special communique declared that the German warflag "is flying from the citadel of Laon" and that the Germans had advanced to the canal connecting the Oise-Aisne rivers, 6 miles southwest of Laon.

Thus, with new ground gained on the eastern edge of the German pocket in France, the nazis were headed toward Noyon, only 50 miles north of Paris. Both Laon and Noyon were held by the Germans during most of the World war and Noyon then was destroyed by heavy bombardments.

In the west, where the German army swung toward the English channel in an attempt to isolate and destroy the British army of 300,000 in northern France, an authoritative source pictured the "sack" as follows.

The northern part of the "mouth," which opens westward toward the channel, is Tournai, Belgium, 50 miles northwest of Charleroi.

The southern part of the "mouth" is Cambrai, France, 35 miles southeast of Tournai and 55 miles southwest of Charleroi.

Foresee Fall Vote On Self-Government

Student Body May Get Ballot In September

Faculty Committee Approves Reference Of Issue to Students

Student self-government may come before the entire student body for vote in September according to proposals of the student government committee which have been approved by the faculty committee, George Willoughby, co-chairman with Louis Lapham of the student government committee, announced last night.

Following months of activity on the part of the student government committee, proposals to put the issue before the student body have been approved jointly by the student committee and the faculty committee appointed by the president.

Proposals Recommended The proposals as recommended by the faculty committee of which Harry G. Barnes, registrar, is chairman, provide:

1. That the present student committee be authorized to call a meeting of an all-university student group to consist of one elected representative each from the following: Colleges of Liberal Arts, Law, Medicine, Dentistry, Engineering, Education, Commerce, Pharmacy, and the Graduate college; Iowa Men's Panhellenic association, Women's Panhellenic association, Carrier Hall association, Quadrangle association, Hillcrest association, Nurses association, Law Commons; one representative from the town men, one representative from the town women, and one representative from the present student committee. Each group is to choose its own representative.

2. That this all-university committee be convened early in the coming fall to consider two problems—(1) whether students at the State University of Iowa want a student council, and (2) if so, to devise a suitable working plan for such a council.

Plan Submitted 3. That any such plan drawn up by the all-university student committee be submitted to the faculty committee for consideration and suggestions.

4. That the final plan for a (See FALL VOTE, Page 6)

Plane Builders Refuse Loans

Aircraft Companies Have Sufficient Capital To Meet Requirements

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—The RFC offered its credit facilities to industries which lack capital for expansion necessitated by the national defense program today, while out of a conference of aircraft manufacturers came official word that for the present at least they needed no help.

Jesse Jones, the RFC chairman, issued a statement saying his agency was ready to cooperate with the banks in making secured loans for national defense purposes, by taking 75 per cent of such loans or underwriting 75 per cent, leaving the bank carrying 25 per cent of the advance.

After conferring with the nation's principal aircraft builders in a hurriedly summoned session, Secretary Morgenthau told reporters the industry had sufficient capital, and enough skilled workers to meet the present demands of the defense situation, without sacrificing labor standards.

The development came as a surprise to some officials who had been discussing the possibility of RFC loans for the purpose of building additional plant capacity, or of having the government build new plants directly, retain ownership, and lease them to private builders.

Fight Starts In Chicago Milk Strike

Three Shot, 18 Arrested While Representatives Seek an Agreement

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP)—Three men were shot and 18 others were arrested along Chicago's milk strike front today while union officials and dairy farmers drafted plans to supply homes with milk.

Leslie G. Goudie, head of the teamsters joint council, said the unionists would buy milk from farmers, transport it to independent dairies for pasteurization and distribute it to their regular customers.

The major dealers, arrayed against the milk wagon drivers union, an affiliate of the teamsters council, would be ignored. Goudie said the plan would go into operation Wednesday if arrangements could be completed.

It was estimated that at least two-thirds of the normal volume of milk consumed in the metropolitan area had been cut off since the controversy began Sunday morning.

Differences over pay formed the crux of the dispute.

The 18 men seized were listed as pickets and members of convoy crews. They were held on open charges.

University Dinner Honors Gilmores

By ANNE MARIE SHEELY Daily Iowan Society Editor President and Mrs. Eugene Allen Gilmore were guests of honor last night, when members of the university "family" entertained at a formal farewell dinner in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Approximately 350 members of the faculty and student body shared the courtesy. The guests were seated at three long tables around the edge of the room and at smaller tables placed within the quadrangle formed by the larger tables. Bouquets of pastel colored snapdragons, trailing greenery and tall tapers decorated the tables.

After the five course formal dinner, Prof. Philip Greeley

Clapp, Prof. Hans Koebel, Prof. Arnold Small and Otto Jelinek played the first movement of Brahms' "Quartet for Piano and Strings, Opus 28."

Prof. George W. Stewart then spoke for the faculty and expressed appreciation to President and Mrs. Gilmore for their service to the university during their tenure here. President Gilmore responded to the toast. The entire group sang the university hymn, "Old Gold," Professor Koebel, Professor Small and Mr. Jelinek playing the accompaniment.

At the close of the evening President and Mrs. Gilmore greeted their guests at a reception in the main lounge.

The Fly In The Ointment

THE CURRENT issue of Collier's magazine brands the federal communications commission as "Public Enemy No. 1."

To those who are concerned with the preservation of American freedom, the FCC has long been a sore spot.

There have been several high points in the commission's overstepping of its bounds of "supervision" into the field of actual "censorship."

The second outstanding case in which the FCC interfered came as the culmination of a crescendo of agitation, allegedly encouraged by the FCC, against inadequate program levels.

The objections that Collier's magazine raises, however, is based on more recent activities. Since last September the commission has been under the chairmanship of James Lawrence Fly.

Student Government Progresses

THE months of effort by a group of University of Iowa students interested in the return to student government on the Iowa campus has brought their program to a stage where it is the responsibility of the student body itself to make the decision.

The faculty committee, appointed by the president, and the student self-government committee have agreed on a program for future action, bringing the agitation for self-government to the decisive stage.

The student committee is now authorized to call a meeting of an all-university student group to consist of elected representatives from the colleges and housing groups.

In September, the all-university student committee will consider two problems:

1. Whether students at the State University of Iowa want a student council, and

2. If so, to devise a suitable working plan for such a council. The committee, if it decides in favor of a student council, will submit the proposal to a vote of the entire student body.

The Iowa in these months of negotiation between the student government committee and the university has been dubious of all the proposals made. In this present course of action, however, we have nothing but hearty endorsement for the proposals.

There have been forms of student government on the Iowa campus in the past. Unless there is sufficient interest among the students themselves, however, self-government can not again exist.

Student government is not self-perpetuating. It dies unless there is enough interest on the campus to cause it to function properly and for the good of the whole group.

Kept on a high plane as a laboratory for honest democratic government, the value of undergraduate experience in self-government is inestimable.

Whether it still is Denmark's, since the Germans invaded the little kingdom, is problematic.

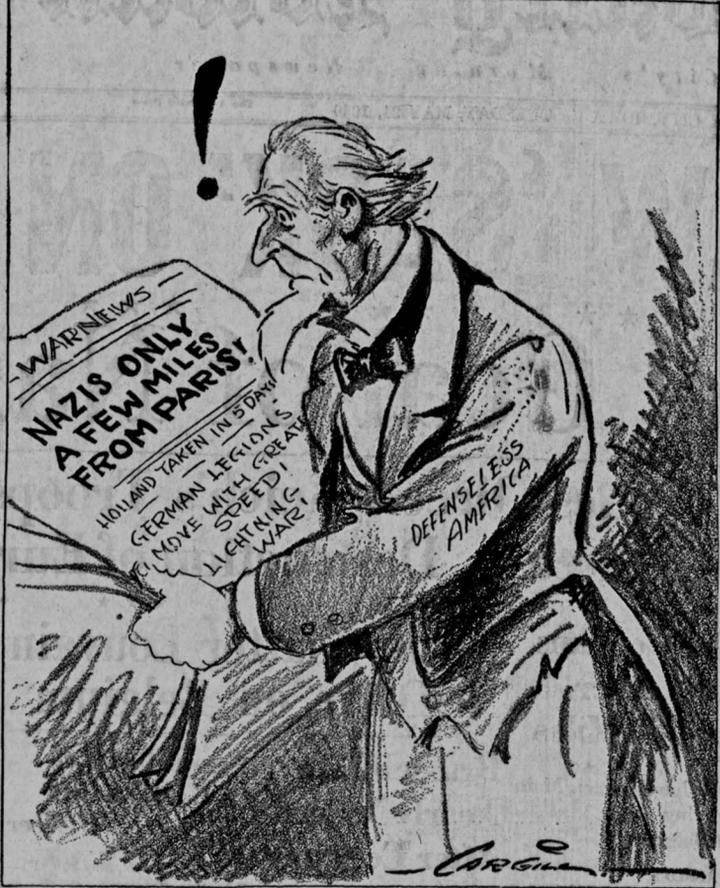

The general surmise is that, if Fuehrer Hitler wins the World War, he'll permanently incorporate Denmark into the Reich and then claim its overseas dependencies—Greenland and Iceland.

As in our national political organization, democracy on the campus will depend on the interest of the vast majority of students.

The opportunity to demonstrate whether Iowa students are sufficiently interested in their own welfare on the campus to govern themselves will be offered in the fall.

It is an opportunity to look forward to during these coming vacation months.

AND HOW FAR FROM WASHINGTON?

Why Own Greenland? Why, Because It's a Very Important Nation for Putting the Suds in Soap

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

"WHOEVER SAYS Greenland isn't worth having," remarks George Lehmann of Remington Rand's systems division in Washington, "doesn't know what he's talking about."

"It is the world's sole source of soap suds." This big island has belonged hitherto to Denmark, and George, as a native Dane and son of a former mayor of Copenhagen, resents the suggestion that it isn't a valuable possession.

what puts the suds in soap. It also has a few other utilities. It's an important ingredient in the production of aluminum.

Manufacturers of certain glasses, porcelain, enameled ware and sodium salts likewise depend on it.

However, it's in the making of soap that will lather up into suds that it's absolutely indispensable.

Says George Lehmann, "With no cryolite stirred into the soap, no suds."

The Suds in Soap. George makes it clear that we're Germany to get control of Greenland, and then have trouble to be put on suds rations while the row lasted.

What About Cryolite? "Greenland," points out George, "has the only appreciable deposits of cryolite on earth."

Strictly speaking, geologists do say that Colorado has a little of it, but it's a mere nubbin—nothing like the necessary quantity to go around.

It's Greenland's natural monopoly, like the United States' natural monopoly of helium gas.

Helium is nice stuff to inflate dirigibles with, because it doesn't explode, like hydrogen. And, except for a wee bit of it in Canada, it's to be found nowhere but in our own country.

The Germans make us all kinds of fancy offers for some of ours, with which to float their Zeppelins, but we won't let them have any on the ground that we want all we've got for our own use.

But to get back to cryolite. Cryolite is a kind of mineral, which the Greenland Eskimos regarded as a sort of snow.

The Danes discovered that it isn't. They also discovered that it's chosen from among 48 state popularity contest winners will compete tonight on the "Battle of the Sexes" program over the NBC-Red network at 7 o'clock.

The Pulitzer Controversy

Sinclair Lewis Says Some Things About Good Novels

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Big, ugly "Red" Lewis, the Sauk center, Minn., boy who wrote "Arrowsmith," "Elmer Gantry" and any number of other controversial novels, must have chuckled softly into his beard when he heard William Saroyan had turned down the Pulitzer award of $1,000 for the "best play of 1939."

Saroyan's comedy, "The Time of Your Life," was nominated recently in the annual awards for literature, and the 32-year-old American-Armenian promptly declared he would have no part of it.

Back in 1926, Lewis was given the Pulitzer nod for his novel, "Arrowsmith." His action in declining it brought accusations against him that he was motivated by "self-exploitation."

But four years later when he received the Nobel award for literature carrying a cash award in excess of $45,000, the lanky debunker accepted it with alacrity.

"I intend to use the money to support a well known young American author and his family so as to enable him to continue writing," he said. The young author he referred to was Sinclair Lewis. He explained then that there was a vast difference between the Nobel and the Pulitzer awards.

"The Nobel is an international prize with no strings attached," he said. "It is given for excellence in literature. The Pulitzer prize shall be given for the American novel published during the year which shall best present the wholesome atmosphere of American life, and the highest standard of American manners and manhood. This suggests not actual literary merit, but an obedience to whatever code of good form may chance to be popular at the moment. As a result, the Pulitzer prize has been given to some extremely mediocre novels."

So, after a breach of 10 years, the members of the committee who make the awards in the name of Pulitzer again find themselves snubbed. William Saroyan, like Lewis, will have plenty of backing in this decision. Carl Van Doren thinks prizes are harmful. Saroyan thinks that to accept a cash prize for a play would be to compromise himself. "Besides," he said slyly, "I don't need the money. Had this happened seven years ago I might have accepted it as a loan. As a loan I doubt that it would have ruined me as a writer. As a gift it would have embarrassed me."

It should be pointed out that the NY critics, in their annual selection of a "best" play, also named "The Time of Your Life." This, presumably, leaves us as about the only person in New York not in agreement with the award. We thought Saroyan's play amusing but unimportant. It did not make any money, though this of course has no bearing on its merits as a play. We thought whole sections of it were too reminiscent of W. C. Fields, his manner, his way of speaking and his material, to be too original. Since almost anything is possible in Pulitzer selections, we thought that at least two other plays, "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "There Shall Be No Night," were more deserving. However, the Pulitzer committee neglected to ask our opinion, and we decided against offering it unolicited.

A COMRADE LOST

AND ADOLF SERVED

Typical of hush posters seen in Great Britain these days is this one drawn by Capt. G. LaCoste, an officer in the British Expeditionary force in France, who does the work as a hobby in his spare time. The warning is directed toward British youth.

ALBERT CANAL—PIERCED BY ONRUSHING GERMANS

This is a view of the famed Albert canal, which extends from Antwerp to Liege, Belgium, and which, according to reports, has been pierced by German troops in their encircling movement above Liege.

The German high command announced their success against the Albert canal fortifications was aided by the use of a "new, secret weapon," nature of which was not revealed.

Indians Send Yankees Back To Loop Cellar

Al Smith Keeps Southpaw Jinx Alive for Champs

CLEVELAND, May 20 (AP)—Al Smith, a southpaw pitcher resurrected from the minors by the Indians, held the New York Yankees to three hits today as Cleveland humiliated the World champions 10 to 2 and sent them back to the American league cellar.

Smith had the Yankees shut out on one hit (a double by Buster Mills in the second) for eight innings, but in the ninth Bill Knickerbocker singled, Joe Di Maggio walked and Bill Dickey doubled for two runs.

Dickey, benched because of the weakness he has shown against lefthanders, got into the game when Buddy Rosar hurt his hand on a foul tip in the second inning.

Chisox Win Home Game

Down Senators, 5-4 To End String Of Nine Home Defeats

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox won their first home game of the season today, squeezing out a 5 to 4 victory over the Washington Senators in the second contest of their series.

Johnny Rigney pitched two-hit ball for seven innings and then was blasted from the mound in the eighth by Washington's four-run spurge. Clint Brown came in, retired the side and finished the game. The final out came with the bases loaded.

Davenport Wins Diamond Title

MANSON, Iowa, May 20 (AP)—Davenport's Blue Devils climaxed an undefeated season by winning the state high school baseball championship here today, taking a pitching duel from Madrid by a 2 to 1 score.

Bob Redholm, fastball hurler, held the Blue Devils to four hits, but two hit batsmen and a single gave Davenport the winning run in the fourth inning.

Russ Gallagher pitched six-hit ball for Davenport, striking out five men and walking two. He allowed Madrid its only run in the first inning.

Redholm, however, had the edge in the strikeout classification, whiffing eight Blue Devils.

Hawk Diamondmen Face Western Teachers This Week End

Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich., an old-time nemesis of Hawkeye baseball teams, comes to Iowa City Friday and Saturday to oppose Otto Vogel's fast-traveling nine in the next to the last series of the season.

After that, with chances good to finish near the Big Ten top, the Hawks clash with Minnesota the following week end. Chances for a repeat on their title-winning drive of last year are gone, with Illinois or Northwestern certain of the championship, but the Hawkeyes still have a chance to finish with the best all-game percentage in history.

The to date record of 16 victories, three defeats and an 11-inning tie leaves it a certainty that the final percentage for 1940 will be well over .700. The Hawks could lose one of the remaining four games and still better the present record of 19 wins and five losses, or .791, set up by the 1939 Big Ten championship team. Most victories ever recorded here in one year was in 1929 when the Hawks won 21, but 11 ball games were lost that season.

This week's opponents, the Western State Broncos, are one of the few teams to hold a heavy advantage over Vogel's teams during past years. Winners of 250 games while losing but 95 since 1911, the visitors have beaten Iowa nines in 10 contests, while the Hawkeyes have taken but two.

This year's invading team is rated as well up to the Bronco standard, with a present record of 11 victories out of 14 games and five victories in six tilts against Big Ten competition.

Their pitching staff, with Frank Overmire and Harry Bailey listed as probable workers in the Iowa series, is highly rated. Overmire, a diminutive southpaw, has won seven straight contests this year to place himself in the same class as Iowa's Harold Haub, winner of five Big Ten games in a row before he was defeated in the Northwestern series. Overmire's wins have been over Northwestern, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Michigan State and Ohio university.

Back in stride again after the disastrous series at Northwestern, the Hawkeyes downed Michigan State, sister school of the Teachers, last week end in a pair of contests, shutting the Spartans out, 4-0, in Saturday's game.

Harold Haub will probably hurl against the Broncos Friday afternoon.

Dodgers Lose Third Straight

Bill Lee Credited With Victory Over Flatbush Club

BROOKLYN, May 20 (AP)—The Dodgers absorbed their third straight defeat today 6 to 4 from the Chicago Cubs, who kept up a more or less persistent barrage of 13 hits against four Brooklyn pitchers.

Bill Lee, in turn, shut out Brooklyn for five innings and got credit for the victory although he was knocked out of the box in the sixth with a four-run onslaught that centered around Babe Phelps' homer with two on.

Hugh Casey started for the Dodgers and met his third defeat. In the second inning three consecutive singles and a force out brought Chicago two runs and in the fourth a single, a walk and a single scored another, finishing Casey.

Chicago White Sox won their first home game of the season today, squeezing out a 5 to 4 victory over the Washington Senators in the second contest of their series.

Johnny Rigney pitched two-hit ball for seven innings and then was blasted from the mound in the eighth by Washington's four-run spurge. Clint Brown came in, retired the side and finished the game. The final out came with the bases loaded.

Walter Todd, the Henderson, Tex. sprinter and middle distance runner, is piling up the points on the Iowa freshman track team. In four postal meets he has made 64 3-4, . . . brother Ralph has made 33. . . Walter's best marks are 1:00 in 10; 2:20 in 22.1; 4:40 in 49.5; and 8:80 in 1:59.5.

Iowa's baseball team now has won 16, lost 3, and tied 1, but the three losses were ruinous ones. . . two to Northwestern and one to Illinois, the present No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the conference. . . Hawks can't figure in the title now, even if they should win the two remaining conference games with Minnesota.

A heavy week end exam schedule will keep Jim Wilson, Iowa track and field star, out of the conference meet. . . Wilson is the team's high scorer with 39 points in individual events.

Unless he slumps mightily in the four remaining games, Iowa's Erwin Prasse will win the batting title of 1940. . . now he has 402 average, on 33 hits in 82 times at bat. . . second is Bob Cook, with .373, while last year's leader, Jim George, is third with .345.

Batting average for the Iowa team for the twenty games is .285. . . 201 hits in 704 times at bat. . . and the Hawks don't expect to fatten it at the expense of Western State's pitchers, including unbeaten Frank Overmire, winner of seven straight.

Separation Jack Dempsey In Marital Trouble

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—The separation of Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight boxing champion, and the former Hannah Williams, was announced late today by her attorney, Moses Polakoff.

He declined to comment upon any future plans for divorce, pointing out that under New York state law separation cannot be agreed upon with the asserted motion of divorce.

The attorney's statement said: "Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempsey have separated. All matters pertaining thereto are being amicably adjusted. Mr. Dempsey is away on business and is expected back next week, at which time the arrangements will be made."

Boston Takes 13-4 Decision

Bean City Belters Hammer Loop Leaders In One-Sided Tilt

BOSTON, May 20 (AP)—The Boston Bees cavorted in two big innings today—a five run third and a six-run fourth—as they coasted to a 13 to 4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Lopez' homer, on a fast pitch from Junior Thompson, cleared the left field fence in the third inning, while Rowell's blow, on the initial toss of Red Barrett, who relieved John Hutchings, carried over the right field barrier in the fourth. Rowell also hit a single to drive in a total of four runs. It was his initial appearance since being forced out by an injury.

The Phillies went ahead in the fourth when Higgins got his first homer and Ervin (Pete) Fox followed with a single, scoring on George Tebbetts' double.

The Phillies, putting on a dramatic ninth-inning rally today, erased a six-run deficit and hung up their second consecutive triumph over Pittsburgh, 8 to 7. It was the third straight victory for Philadelphia.

Four Pirate hurlers worked in the wild ninth, Mace Brown going out with a sore arm, Max Butcher and John Lanning being knocked out of the box and Dick Lannahan ending the game.

Manager Frankie Frisch, and Bob Elliott, of the Pirates, and Joe Marty of the Phils were banished from the park for disputing decisions.

The winning run came in on a walk after the Phils had scored six times on seven hits and three Pittsburgh errors. With the bases full and two out Lannahan walked Morrie Arnovich.

Tiger Hitter Ties Record For Home Runs

Drives Seven Runs Across Plate To Victimize Box

DETROIT, May 20 (AP)—Frank (Pinky) Higgins hit three home runs in successive trips to the plate, batted in seven runs and enabled the Detroit Tigers to beat the league leading Boston Red Sox 10 to 7 today.

Higgins, who equaled a much-tied major league mark with his home run barrage, made the first two off Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove and the other off Jack Wilson. Rudy York was on base when Higgins homered in the fourth and fifth innings and Charley Gehring and Hank Greenberg were on the sacks when DID THE CENSUS TAKER MISS YOU?

Scores of Iowa City persons were missed by the census taker because of families being away at the time of his call, because of oversights, because of residents being busy, and because of the limited time provided by law, when the census taker made his original call. It is most important that Iowa City receive full credit for its full population - the final figure reported will stand officially for the next 10 years.

WHY THIS URGENT REQUEST FOR YOUR HELP!

A preliminary survey of census takers' return indicates that Iowa City will show a very small, if any, growth in the past 10 years. Persons active in civic affairs, city officials, and business men, know that Iowa City has had a very substantial increase since the last census - but Iowa City will not get credit for it UNLESS every man, woman, and child is listed on the census rolls. With other cities in Iowa assured of substantial population gains we simply cannot afford to fall back. The population is here to show a healthy increase but it will require an awakening of the civic pride of those persons who have been missed by the census takers to put Iowa City out in front.

WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT!

If you or your family have not been counted, or if you know of any neighbors or friends, or employees who have not been counted, please call the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, Iowa City, Iowa. Your cooperation will be most helpful and the final results will be most beneficial for the future welfare of Iowa City—your city! DO IT NOW!

'English Diplomatic Administration,' a New Book by G. P. Cuttino

(Ed. Note:)-Professor E. P. Kuhl, whose review of Dr. Cuttino's English Diplomatic Administration (1250-1339) appears in today's Daily Iowan, will teach this summer in the university. He will give a course on the Renaissance and another on Shakespeare.

"English Diplomatic Administration (1250-1339)" by G. P. Cuttino, Dr. Phil., Oxford University Press, 1940.

Dr. Cuttino has made a scholarly contribution to English diplomatic administration. This we should expect. The author, a former graduate student of our university, then a Rhodes scholar, now happily a member of our history department, completed his work at Oxford under the guidance of two eminent medievalists, Professor Galbraith and Regius Professor Powicke, both trained in the great Manchester school of the late Professor Tout. That Dr. Cuttino's work should have been singled out by his masters for publication in the Oxford Historical Series is sufficient testimony of the high excellence of his study.

Dr. Cuttino's purpose, as stated in his preface, was to investigate "the structure of English administration of diplomacy, based largely on a hitherto unexplored collection of manuscript materials." Though his "main emphasis is placed on relations between England and France during the years 1259-1339," much of what he says "applies to the whole medieval period as well." He has attempted "to lay a basis for the vast amount of research that remains to be done in this field." He has "already begun a detailed examination of the larger problems that naturally grow out of a study of this kind, particularly the legal aspects of Anglo-French relations during the period preceding the Hundred Years War." The investigation of diplomatic relations between England and France six and more centuries ago may seem like mere antiquarian pedantry useful only to Dr. Dryasdust. Quite the contrary happens to be the case. In his well-documented study based on fundamental and pertinent sources, many of them hitherto hidden records, Dr. Cuttino discovers ideas we had thought modern. He sheds new light on the evolving civil service. He shows that the administrative machine, especially in the period with which he deals, was not static or disorderly, but an organization of government specialists.

Since chaos threatens to come again, Dr. Cuttino's discussion of the causes of the first of modern national wars, the Hundred Years War, has value today. He shows that Edward III was not the gangster imperialist as pictured in recent times; that instead this king's war of aggression with France was planned when he was still in the dark backward and abyss of time; that is, when William the Conqueror invaded England he at once created a difficulty by playing "the dual role of the English king as a vassal of France and a separate and distinct sovereign power." It remained for Edward III to throw "down the gauntlet in 1339," and the long war that followed "was his method of establishing his sovereignty" (p. 142).

Students of medieval literature will find Dr. Cuttino's study helpful. We can now see more clearly, for example, that Chaucer belonged to an intricate government organization. Our respect for the poet's stature increases when we find that he entered a political world highly specialized, when statecraft headed by a trained staff was already a science for the specialist, when diplomacy was as now a "see-saw." We get fresh glimpses of the workings of Parliament, a fact of no little importance for an appreciation of Chaucer's poetry. For Chaucer was the first English man of letters to sit in the House of Commons; and though the first in a long line of men who united letters with service to the state—More and Bacon and Clarendon, Addison and Steele and Burke, Disraeli and Mill and Bryce and Balfour—he still ranks among the greatest. He and his eminent successors helped to wed English letters to English politics for the benefit of the world; their presence endowed politics with ideas and letters with common sense. Dr. Cuttino makes a positive contribution to the knowledge of a period when mankind was beginning to shift its emphasis.

Problem of Illumination Being Tackled Improper Lighting Is One of Greatest Penalties of Civilization

When civilization brought mankind indoors, the change from an outdoor life to an indoor one was perhaps the most outstanding change which has come to the human race. This change brought many complications with it, including the problem of sight and seeing conditions.

Under natural conditions, we have distant-vision with thousands of footcandles but with our civilized indoor conditions, near-vision with only a relatively few footcandles is prevalent, according to A. V. Donnelly, G. of Bonaparte, research assistant who is working on this phase of engineering.

Present seeing conditions have made engineers light conscious and have caused an increased interest in the field of illumination, Mr. Donnelly says. There should be and will have to be some correlation between natural outdoor lighting conditions and the artificial indoor lighting conditions, he continues.

His research shows that millions of people do their daily tasks under less than one per cent of the illumination found outdoors in the shade of a tree. Lighting should be provided indoors of such quality and quantity as to enable the eyes to accomplish their task with accuracy, speed and ease, and without danger to vision.

This type of lighting has never been definitely specified in physical quantities because of the difficulty of adequate criteria. Researches are now in progress in various parts of the country in an attempt to obtain information from which a basic ideal lighting condition may be derived, he concluded.

In this field, the University of Iowa has been doing intensive research through the electrical engineering department of the college of engineering.

On the question of quantity, a thorough investigation is being made to determine the benefits derived from various levels of illumination from ten to two hundred footcandles. The other aspect of lighting, quality of lighting, is also being studied in order to determine the preferable type of light distribution.

The illumination section of the electrical engineering department has been greatly improved and modernized in recent years. New equipment has been added to make possible a better opportu-

Just Curious Jimmy Anderson Visits Currier

It wasn't a beautiful co-ed or a free meal that attracted young Jimmy Anderson into the dining room at Currier hall during dinner last night.

Three-year-old Jimmy, son of Dr. and Mrs. Eddie Anderson, was just curious. He had found the French doors of the dining room open and had sauntered in to look things over.

Actually it was the colorful fountain in the entrance to the room that had attracted his attention. He walked nonchalantly through the large room, calmly ignoring the "come-hither" gestures of the girls and headed straight for the fountain.

Bravely climbing the steps to the fountain, he found the plants and running water most fascinating. But Jimmy only admired it, making an unobtrusive exit after satisfying his curiosity.

Andersons reside at 9 E. Fairchild. Their home joins the terrace of the recently completed dining rooms at Currier hall.

Political Candidate, Student Are Same

Weldon Brown Up for Nomination for State Representative

By JOHN J. MUELLER

Weldon Brown, G of Boone, in the political science department, and Weldon Brown, candidate for nomination for democratic candidate for state representative from Boone county, are one and the same person.

Mr. Brown will be the youngest person to serve in the legislature in Iowa and the only Ph.D. candidate ever in the legislature. Only 24 years of age, he has had a wide experience for his background and campaign platform.

Mr. Brown's platform considers the state civil service system, elimination of property qualifications for old age pensions, highway patrol under civil service, pensions for teachers, redistricting of the state for senate of the state and stronger chain store tax.

In a proposed charter which the student committee presented during the course of its campaign for a "democratic process of student self-government" the powers of the student council were provided as:

"To act as a clearing house for all student grievances and opinions. To establish a coordinating agency for all student activities. To formulate and give expression to the policies of the association. To perform any other functions furthering the interests and general welfare of the association. Membership on the student council of the proposed 'Iowa Student's association' would consist of representatives elected at large from the student body, according to the sample charter.

On the other hand, life in Brussels, on the surface at least, went on unperturbed. The scene there was in marked contrast to that at Sternoczeel, the Belgian castle of the ex-empress Zita, the pretender Otto and others of Zita's numerous family.

Wandering from one desolate room to another, I found in Zita's boudoir the carbon copy of a letter she had written in French to a relative. She observed "as you saw in the papers, Otto has gone to America." Of Otto's brother, Felix, also in America, she wrote, "I suppose he talks Yankee."

The swift movement caused newspaper correspondents several dejected moments. It was necessary to obtain his approval for the specific section of the report which we wished to visit. Adjutants of the high command assigned to escort us were unable to contact general headquarters so quickly did it move.

These contrasts in the battle area stand out in my memory following 16 hours of observation. But the eye also cannot forget that group of 25 to 30 English Tommies whom we encountered almost as soon as they were captured.

Another memorable scene was the shambles of the chateau of Sternoczeel—property of Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne.

More Than Three Hundred Dollars Collected By Local Red Cross Chapter for War Relief

A second report of the local Red Cross chapter of collections toward the $1,420 goal to aid war relief was made yesterday by John Schneider, chairman of the drive.

A new subtotal of $106.50 was added to the previous report of $208.45 to bring the latest sum to $314.95.

Schneider announced the following donations being made at banks throughout the county:

Tomorrow, however, we are to be back at the front, closer than ever to the fierce battle. Col. Gen. Walther von Reichenau asked us to visit him in the late forenoon tomorrow.

In this endless march I noticed how many Belgian and Dutch private cars now bore German troops. In other words, the machines promptly were requisitioned. I also noted in various villages that horses were being taken for German war service.

As we left Louvain and motored toward Brussels we saw that same sad trek homeward of dejected civilians who had fled from Louvain before the fighting started. It was the same old refugee story—babies fastened onto baskets on bicycles on which papa also had loaded bedding and other necessities.

Tomorrow, however, we are to be back at the front, closer than ever to the fierce battle. Col. Gen. Walther von Reichenau asked us to visit him in the late forenoon tomorrow.

When we inquired whether he was near the front he signified "Quite near." Reichenau is the man who achieved fame as a tactician in the Polish campaign.

From what I have heard, it is evident that Nazi Germany's tremendous air force dominates the fighting in Germany's blitzkrieg attempt to bring France and Great Britain to their knees.

Regiment after regiment of infantry, detachment after detachment of well-nourished cavalry, and seemingly inexhaustible reserves of air force and artillery poured into the operations area.

Main connecting roads from Germany, via Holland, and in the conquered sector of Belgium toward western Belgium and northern France, were jammed.

One Tommy, among 25 young British infantrymen who were taken prisoners, remarked "they (the Germans) have been very decent in taking care of our wants." He exhibited bandages on his head which he said the Germans had provided "immediately."

The Britons were worried about not having been able to send word home. I interpreted their wish to the German lieutenant in charge of the prisoners.

"Please make them understand," he explained, "and I sincerely mean it, that just as soon as they've been passed on to German soil, which will be in a day or two, they'll be permitted to write daily, via the Red Cross."

"Have they any other wishes?" asked the lieutenant. "Any chance at Lager beer?"

piped up a doughty Welsh sergeant. The lieutenant smiled, explaining "I fear not over here in the operations area."

"May we have tea?" chimed the Tommies. "You bet," said the German lieutenant. Asked why they had surrendered, a young prisoner from Liverpool said "Oh, 'twas the incessant bombing and shelling of the past five days of hell. So finally when we were surrounded and trapped we just gave up."

paration followed by waves of infantry. After submerging one small advanced pillbox, the French reported, the German attackers were beaten off by the crossfire of the Maginot line, leaving their dead piled high in front of the main forts.

TRIES ON GIRLDE; GETS A TICKET
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) - A young woman appeared at the traffic bureau with a ticket for over-time parking. She said her car was parked outside a downtown department store while she was inside buying a girde. "The girl fitted the girde on me and zipped it up," she said. "Just then the telephone rang and the clerk went to answer it. She stayed a long time and I couldn't unzip the zipper so I had to wait until she got back. That's what made me late." "Case dismissed," Police Sergeant Calvin Figley said, tearing up the ticket.

Entertainment Places in City Must Close by One o'Clock

City Council Passes Law

Will Affect All Places Not Touched by Beer Rule; Penalty Listed

All local clubs, dancing houses and other places of entertainment, hitherto unaffected by the midnight rule, must close by 1 a. m. until 6 a. m., each day, according to an ordinance passed through its three readings by members of the city council last night.

Violators, the amendment states, will be fined from $10 to $100 or imprisoned from one to 30 days. The new law will affect all private clubs and inns as well as lodges throughout the city.

An ordinance passed over a year ago declares unlawful the operation of beer taverns after midnight.

Purchase Caps

Members of the council by resolution authorized the purchase of 12 policemen's caps at approximately $3 each.

The city clerk was directed to ask for bids on an electrically cooled drinking fountain to be placed in the main floor hall of the city hall and report back to the council.

Action Delayed

Action on a resolution to authorize the purchase of a Buchanan reloading machine for reloading .38 calibre cartridges at a cost not to exceed $100 for use by the police department was postponed for further deliberation.

The council granted renewals of three taxi licenses for the Hawkeye Cab company.

William Graf Funeral Today

Burial in St. Joseph's Cemetery After Rites in St. Mary's Church

Funeral service for William R. Graf, 58, 109 N. Van Buren street, who died late Saturday night in a local hospital after a lingering illness, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's church. He will be buried at St. Joseph's cemetery.

He was born here Jan. 28, 1882, and lived here his entire life, having represented the third generation in charge of the Graf Bottling works. He was married here Jan. 1, 1905. His wife preceded him in death three years ago.

Survivors include two sons, Robert W. and William A. Graf, and a daughter, Margaret M. Graf, all of Iowa City. Another son, Carl S. Graf, died in 1916.

The body was taken from the McGovern funeral home to the residence Sunday.

Chest Board To Include Nine; Commission Votes Increase

Rotation of Office Plan Adopted With Election for 1941

An election, in which the board of trustees for 1941 of the Iowa City Community Chest was increased from eight to nine and the principle of rotation in office was introduced, was held last night in the Press-Citizen building by a commission which includes members of various civic and fraternal orders and churches of the city.

By the rotation plan three new officers will be elected each year to serve three years, thus giving the board continuity. Last night initiating the new policy, three officers were elected for three years, three for two years and three for one year.

New Officers

The new officers elected for three years are J. J. Swaver, Roscoe Taylor and Luella Reckmeyer; for two years, F. D. Francis;

Things moved along smoothly at the meeting of the Community Chest committee last night to review last year's business until it came time to elect new officers. Prof. E. W. Hills made a motion that the number of trustees be increased from eight to nine and that three be elected for three-year terms, three for two-year terms and three for one-year terms.

One of the electors decided that Professor Hills' motion should be made into two motions: that the board be increased from eight to nine and that three have three-year terms, three get two-year terms and three, one-year terms.

Secretary E. S. Rose had his own ideas, and decided that three motions were necessary: increasing of the board size from eight to nine, the same terms of office and a third that no one could decipher.

There was almost a fourth motion but Attorney Will Jackson came to the rescue. He dissolved it into two motions which subsequently passed.

Harry Shulman and Prof. C. E. Cousins; for one year, Ben Whitebook, E. S. Rose and Mrs. F. B. Olsen.

Outgoing trustees include Chairman Alva B. Oathout, secretary; Mrs. J. B. Records, treasurer; Rose, Lee Nagle, Mrs. F. B. Olsen, Francis, Attorney Will J. Jackson, Prof. E. W. Hills and Ben Whitebook.

A motion to allow the board to fill vacancies that occur within it was passed.

In the future the chairman of the board will each year select a nominating committee to select candidates for office on the board.

Rose announced that on May 1 the year's collections totaled $17,439.55 of which $11,204.32 had already been collected. An audit of Community Chest funds on hand and disbursements for Jan. 1 of this year was read by Professor Hills and a motion passed to continue audits every year.

According to this report, the Community Chest had a total of $20,015.78 on that date. The report included equities.

City Council Votes Down Construction

A resolution of necessity proposing the construction of sidewalks on streets and parts of streets throughout the city was rejected by the city council last night at a public hearing in the council chambers of the city hall.

Twelve of the 14 sites and parts of streets named in the proposition were first individually refused upon filing of five petitions signed by from two to 65 residents each.

The proposed sites included two sides of Ferson avenue, one side of River and Clinton streets, two sides of Franklin avenue, two sides of Morningside drive, two sides of Wilson street, Seventh avenue and Lowell street, and the east side part of Keokuk street.

Sixty-five signed the petition objecting to sidewalks in Morningside addition.

The annual report of the sewage disposal plant was received and placed on file by the council.

Upon application of Charles S. Meardon and other property owners, the council named the street, lying one block east of Fairview avenue and extending between College and Court streets, College Court.

The council also granted renewal of a class C beer permit for the Parizek grocery.

Civil Service Commission Announces Examinations for Several Positions

The United States civil service commission has announced open competitive examination for several governmental positions, applications to be on file in the commission's office in Washington, D. C., not later than June 10 for the first position and a week later for the others.

Open positions are: Junior inspector in the wage and hour division of the department of labor, which carries a salary of $2000, subject to a retirement reduction of three and a half per cent. Applicants must be between 21 and 53 years of age.

The requirements are that applicants must have had experience in governmental, industrial, or other organizations, which must have included, or been supplemented by, specialized experience in one of the following fields:

Appraising living conditions and costs or home working conditions, as an investigator engaged in administration of state labor laws; as investigator or attorney investigator in making field investigations concerning payrolls and time and other records; as a representative of either management or employees in negotiating satisfactory employer - employee relationships.

Positions in the REA include associate merchandising specialist, $3200 a year; assistant associate merchandising specialist, $2600; utilization representative, $3200, and field home electrification specialist, $2600. Applicants must be under 53.

Experience requirements are as follows: Merchandising specialists, experience in advertising or promotional work, including certain writing experience.

Utilization representative, experience in the field of electrification, part of which was in connection with the utilization of electric power and equipment in rural areas.

Field home electrification specialist, experience in commercial and other home service demonstration work with electrical equipment.

Full information concerning the positions may be obtained at the local post office.

Twenty Years of Flying

May 19, 1920, First U. S. Airmail Pilot Landed in Iowa City

Twenty years ago Sunday, May 19, 1920, United States airmail pilot W. N. De Wald brought the first official consignment of air mail for Iowa City—film for a motion picture at Maquoketa.

Iowa City, the only stop between Chicago and Omaha, boasted a fairly convenient field one and a half miles southwest of town, and the people who owned the land had a telephone in their home. The field was 440 yards square, had no trees or brush and included a four-way landing.

Airmail service in the United States began in 1917 when Congress appropriated $100,000 for the establishment of air mail service and authorized the war department to provide airplanes. Regular service between Washington and New York followed after May 15, 1918 and mail planes started flying between New York and Chicago July 1, 1919.

May 15, 1920

Iowa City was included when the mail plane service was extended to Omaha. It wasn't until four days later that Iowa City, one of the regular stops, received its first air mail.

Despite poorly marked and muddy fields, not to mention the comparatively ancient machines, the air mail continued to grow, and the Iowa City airport with it.

In 1920 the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce leased the 88-acre Benjamin tract for $2,200 a year, which the government took over in 1922.

Walter J. Smith, the first pilot to land in a mail plane in Iowa City, died in Indianapolis, Ind., September 8, 1922, after cracking up at the Indianapolis fair grounds. When the post office wrote to Iowa City, asking for a name for the Iowa field, the Chamber of Commerce voted to call it Smith field.

After improvements, including the installation of Iowa's first airport radio station and the erection of hangars, Smith field was enlarged to a 192 acre tract and the name was changed to the Iowa City Municipal airport, purchased by bond issue by the city for $56,610.50. A contract with the Boeing company whereby the city granted the company free use of the airport in return for financial aid brought the value of Iowa City's airport to $200,000 in only ten years' time.

Jury Impaneled To Hear Suit For Damages

A jury which will hear the damage suit brought by Irving G. DeFrance against Pearl Brysse in Johnson county district court, was impaneled yesterday.

The jury includes Lynn Taylor, Louis Schnoebelem, Eugene T. Platt, Noah E. Miller, Susie Marner, Ethel Larew, Robert Langenberg, Clarence Kouba, Mary Ham, Sadie Ford, J. M. Clair and John Beecher.

The jury reported at 2 p.m. yesterday before Judge Harold D. Evans. Attorney for the plaintiff is Will J. Hayek and Attorney Paul Toomey represents the defendant.
