F. R. Exchanges Messages With Italy's Premier

Fascist Party's Council Passes Resolution For Freedom of the Seas

ROME, June 1 (AP)—A new exchange of messages between President Roosevelt and Premier Mussolini was reported tonight while Italy's warlike motions multiplied, especially near the French border.

The messages, reported by a source usually competent, were described as "courteous" although their exact nature was not divulged.

The impression prevailed in diplomatic circles, however, that the reported exchange had not retarded Italian war measures. The fascist party's national council tonight adopted a resolution asking Mussolini to break "the foreign stranglehold" on Italy's commerce and give her "freedom of the seas."

The resolution declared that the Italian people were "defrauded" by the sacrifice of 600,000 men in the World war, "made the object of iniquitous sanctions when they wished to win a place in the sun" and now are "ready for any test."

Roosevelt Confers With Governments

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—The White House threw no light tonight upon the reported new exchange of messages between President Roosevelt and Premier Mussolini.

Informed of the reports from Rome that there had been such an exchange, Stephen Early, the president's press secretary, would say only that there had been an almost continuous exchange between the president and the heads of various governments.

Nazis Begin Industrializing

Northern France Taken In Battle of Flanders To Be Made to Pay

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER WITH THE GERMAN ARMY AT THE FRONT, June 1 (AP)—Germany is entrenching herself in the vast industrial area of northern France taken in the battle of Flanders.

Her plan apparently is to make the blitzkrieg pay for itself throughout. Stores of munitions and supplies captured in Poland, Norway, Holland, Belgium and now France were windfalls.

And Germany immediately puts industries in occupied countries to work again insofar as the state of destruction permits.

Military experts consider that the German capture of Abbeville, on the Somme, in reality decided the Franco-German issue.

(The French said today they were holding the Abbeville bridge-head, and the sector in general, but had not claimed the town itself.)

Surprise Movements By separating the army of the north from that around Paris and that in the Maginot line, in one of the greatest surprise movements of the war, Adolf Hitler tipped the scales in his favor, these experts say.

Army High Command Backs F. D. R. on National Guard

Roosevelt Asks Congress For Authority To Call Guards to Active Duty

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Amid mounting opposition in congress to President Roosevelt's request for authority to call the national guard to active duty, the army high command contended today that the possibility of "dangerous developments" in this hemisphere made it essential that the request be granted.

General George C. Marshall, the army chief of staff, issued a formal statement supporting the president's proposal after opposition among senators had reached formidable proportions.

Mr. Roosevelt already had authority to call the guard into service, General Marshall said, "But under that call it would be impossible to send any units of the national guard to assist a regular division in any one of the possible situations which might arise in this hemisphere."

"It is necessary that more troops be made available, trained and seasoned, to enable missions to be carried out without denuding this country of ground troops in a state of sufficient preparation to meet unexpected eventualities in some other direction."

U. S. Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge who prosecuted the case announced after the jury's verdict that federal investigators under his direction now would turn to Michigan as "our next base of operations."

He said he would go there "early next week."

Hitler's Blitzkrieg Plans May Have Been 'Borrowed'

America's Plans For Mobilization Appear Alike

Federal Government Has Evidence That Nazis May Have Copied

BY JOHN LEAR Copyright, 1940 BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, June 1—There is evidence in the files of the federal government that a substantial part of the plans for Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg were "borrowed" from the United States.

How have the Germans been able to strike such repeated sledge hammer blows without serious interruption over so long a time?

America's Plans For these plans are America's plans for mobilization in event we go to war, and they gear up men and machines and every other resource of the nation to win war as swiftly as possible.

They are plans for "total war." They cover every conceivable factor in preparation for battle. Nothing approaching their efficiency had been devised anywhere in the world before the organizing genius of the United States began drawing them up 20 years ago.

No treachery—not even clever espionage—is responsible for the fact that the nazis were aware of them.

The plans were available also to the English and the French, who did not "borrow" them.

Begins Study (1) Within a year after Hitler came to power in Germany in 1933, the nazi military attaché here began studying the American war mobilization blueprint.

The attaché had the right to do so under ordinary diplomatic procedure.

He spent six months making his examination.

(2) Not until a year after he completed his study was the first of the nazis' national defense laws passed—on May 21, 1935.

(3) The war mobilization system which took shape in Germany after that was a striking parallel to the American plan in all its principal characteristics.

Agents from this country, working in Germany, described it as a "conscious imitation."

(4) The similarity was sharply illustrated in the nazis' very first conquest—the "Anschluss" with Austria.

War Needs Immediately after occupying Vienna, the Germans made a census of Austrian industries and allocated their respective share in supplying war needs.

Charts Point To War Boom

Steel Centers Feel Arms Spending Impulse As Consumers Buy

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Business charts pointed today to a war industry boom under the lift of Uncle Sam's multi-billion dollar defense program.

Steel centers felt the initial impulse of the greatest arms spending drive since World war years as consumers hurried to accumulate metal before government orders occupy mill capacity.

Many mills, trade reports said, planned to step up operations rapidly this month. Some observers suggested the busiest summer of steel-making in a decade was in prospect if the buying rush continued and Washington's expanded arms program gets going soon.

Industrial barometers were on the rise as result of a quick jump in steel production and preparations in various industries for the anticipated boom in war equipment manufacture.

Indications federal appropriations for the fiscal year starting July 1 may top $10,000,000,000 in the heaviest government spending since 1917-18 centered business attention on Washington efforts to speed the defense plans.

Eclipsed by the proposed $5,000,000,000 defense outlay were the new deal's "pump-priming" campaigns which absorbed the interest of financial circles in recent years.

Greece, Italy Reach Secret Agreement

ATHENS, Greece, June 1 (AP)—A secret agreement between Greece and Italy designed to keep Greece from bombing a battle-ground if Italy enters the European war was believed in allied and Yugoslav circles tonight to have been reached by Premier Gen. John Metaxas and the Italian government.

To avoid a possible lightning Italian attack observers said, the Greek government is ready to let the Italians occupy strategic points of Crete and other islands with only a formal protest as a token of resistance provided Italy spares the remainder of Greece.

It is widely believed that General Metaxas, Greece's dictator, has so informed Italy.

46 Persons Killed in Second Largest City In France; Wounded Number 100 As 56 Planes Are Destroyed

MARSEILLE, France, June 1—(AP)—The fury of Germany's air might fell heavily on southern France today in one of the biggest aerial forays of the war, leaving a path of death and destruction in a half dozen towns and cities down through the rich industrial Rhone valley.

At least 46 persons were killed, 30 of them here and in the harbor of this second largest city in France. The wounded numbered around 100.

Latest Paris reports said 56 German planes were destroyed or damaged by the French air force during the day with 16 French craft missing. French authorities said only that a "certain number" of the nazi raiders were brought down in the Rhone valley.

The attackers, in their first raid on the south of France, dropped two heavy bombs in this Mediterranean port. A cotton-laden English ship in the harbor was sunk.

Attacks Towns The heaviest attack was centered in the Lyon industrial region, 180 miles north of here, where 16 persons were killed and between 80 and 90 wounded in attacks on five towns.

Reports reaching Bern, Switzerland, said that the air armada flew in squadrons of 21 to 36 planes.

FOREIGN OBSERVERS IN SWITZERLAND SPECULATED AT ONCE ON WHETHER THE RAIDERS MIGHT HAVE BEEN A HITLER GESTURE TO ASSURE ITALY, ON THE VERGE OF TAKING SIDES WITH GERMAN, THAT NAZI AIR POWER WAS GREAT ENOUGH TO GIVE AID TO THE ITALIANS DESPITE GERMAN PREOCCUPATION WITH THE MILITARY CAMPAIGN IN NORTHERN FRANCE.

Lyon itself was not attacked but at an industrial town 15 miles southwest 15 persons were reported killed, 60 wounded.

High explosive bombs leveled several factories, schools and a dozen houses.

The famous peacetime health resort of Aix-Les-Bains near the Swiss frontier was showered with 11 bombs that destroyed a hotel, killed one person and wounded about 30.

In the Lyon area one of two French planes which went up to fight the attackers was shot down. Throughout the afternoon raid warning sirens shrieked several times in the Rhone region as well as in places opposite Geneva on the French side of the Swiss frontier.

Heavy Damage Reports via Bern, Switzerland, said heavy damage had resulted in the French industrial section near Lyon, with bombing particularly heavy in suburbs where factories were known to be turning out plane parts and motors.

Basel residents saw bombing squadrons leave their German bases shortly after noon and return several hours later across the Rhine.

One of two planes which came over Swiss territory was brought down by a Swiss fighter after failing to heed warning shots.

Marseille is built at the foot of a hill, around which loftier heights rise in a semi-circle. It faces directly on the sea. Its foreign commerce is greater than that of every other port in France.

They may have graduated from the University of Iowa five years ago or maybe 55—but they were back on the campus yesterday for Iowa's alumni day 1,000 strong! Honored at many events during the day, the returning "grads"

who is here to present the 80th commencement address tomorrow. Honored guests at the luncheon were 24 graduates of the class of 1890 who received gold medals in celebration of the golden anniversary of their class. Nearly half of the returning '90 alumni were from the law class. Several members of the honored class are shown above (second picture) as they met at the luncheon in Iowa Union, a social center for students innovated since their graduation.

Four Killed In Crash of Transport; Possible Sabotage

LOS ANGELES, June 1 (AP)—Crash of a great new Douglas DC-5 transport while on a test flight for the navy killed four employees of the aircraft firm today and sent investigators scurrying for evidence of possible sabotage.

Douglas officials said, however, they found no such indications in their first checks.

Killed in the crash and explosion which followed immediately were test pilot Bug Bogen, William Benson, flight engineer, W. M. Mulvaney, crew chief, and James Jewett, inspector.

Witnesses said the ship was traveling at high speed as the pilot apparently attempted to "gun" it out of a sideslip. It smashed through a five-foot picket fence into a flower bed, bounced, skidded and ploughed its way nearly a quarter of a mile, strewing wreckage all the way.

Air Raid!

America Needs Strength, Both in Guns And Planes, To Ward Off Any Contemplated Attack

Warning System Against Air Attack, Fast Planes To Fight Off Bombers —Part of Defense Problem

By E. C. DANIEL

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Suppose the scudding shadows of a swarm of bombers should fall today upon the North American continent. How would the United States defend itself?

One month ago, on Wednesday, May 1, there was not one plane in the whole army air force that embodied the lessons of the European war.

The army did not have a single one of the 90-millimeter anti-aircraft guns which its ordnance experts deem necessary to reach high-flying bombers.

No industrial plant was ready to produce a secret, super-sensitive aircraft detector with which the army had been experimenting.

No warning net had been spread to spot approaching aircraft, to plot their course and put defending air and ground forces on the alert.

But neither was there any prospect of immediate attack, the military experts thankfully declared.

Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, assistant chief of staff, confidently stated that the country could not be attacked successfully if the Panama canal were kept open and an enemy were prevented from gaining sea and air bases in the hemisphere.

A mass attack launched from aircraft carriers also was remote.

"No nation in the world has that many carriers," one army man declared. While the chief of staff, Gen. George C. Marshall, told congress that "New York is subject to raids by carrier-based aviation," he added, "probably by not more than 150 bombers."

• But Since Then—

Since then, new questions have been asked:

What if a coalition of sea powers should seize Newfoundland, Puerto Rico, the Aleutians or Mexico?

What if a progressive, creeping air assault should bring enemy planes to the nation's gates?

The army experts say the United States should be ready with defense both "active" and "passive."

The active defense would be a warning system to alert the defense forces—the interceptor and fighter planes, the anti-aircraft artillery and possibly balloon barrages.

Passive defense would include such measures as segregating the population from places of military importance (it's called "evacuation" in the war news from Europe), scattering of air and land forces subject to attack, camouflage, secrecy, and blackouts, erection of air raid shelters and concealment of military objectives, such as air fields.

Use of all those devices and methods has been reported and pictured abroad.

At home—

An air defense command for the northeast has been organized under Brig. Gen. James E. Chaney to coordinate the elements of active defense: warning, pursuit and anti-aircraft.

Work of the air command is intended to provide experience and information for the future development of a unified national air defense system.

Army Gets Busy

Meanwhile, the army has asked for $6,000,000 to set up aircraft-detection stations at intervals along the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts as outposts of a warning net. Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska and the Canal Zone also would have stations.

tion of the enemy before he reaches the objective, obtaining and maintaining air superiority, as Germany has done, is the best defense against air attack."

Even a gunner expert, presumably partial to his own weapons, has said, "I doubt if you could ever get enough anti-aircraft artillery to stop an attack if the enemy wanted to risk it."

• 50,000 Planes—

While air superiority is a relative matter, United States policy-makers seem determined that American air superiority shall not be questioned—that is, at some future date when their goal of 50,000 planes is reached.

Less than 30 days ago, however, Senator Lodge (R-Mass) asked General Arnold, "Is it accurate to say that we have at the present time no airplane in service that embodies the lessons of the European war?"

And General Arnold replied: "I think that is a fair statement."

As for the navy, Senator Byrd (D-Va) estimated that it had only 500 planes which could meet modern European aircraft in equal combat.

Too, there was a shortage of trained pilots, mechanics and supplies. Remedying those deficiencies takes time.

Supposing the enemy evades the pursuit planes, what means of protection are left to the defense commander?

Principally, the anti-aircraft artillery, which Major Phillips said had been neglected.

No 90-MM. In an army table showing the number of guns on hand May 1, the column opposite "90-MM. guns" was blank. There were 448 3-inch guns, but Major Phillips had declared the 3-inch gun "practically useless above 20,000 feet" and the army had adopted the 90-millimeter (3.6-inch) gun as standard equipment. When the present re-arming program is completed, it expects to have 317 of the larger size, although production is admittedly laggard.

Official reports have termed the American gun "remarkably accurate." A gunner officer added, "we don't know what they'll do in active service, but they are as good, if not better, than any foreign guns."

Look at Finland— In Finland, official reports said every 54th anti-aircraft shot scored a hit. Army men declare that half the airplane losses in Spain were caused by gun-fire. In Canton, China, one German battery was credited with 60 percent of Japanese plane losses.

American-made anti-aircraft searchlights, an officer added, "should be better than foreign makes," and new American height-finders are "far superior" to those imported before the war from Germany, world leader in optical instruments. The army's bomb-sight, upon which might depend its effectiveness in attacking grounded enemy planes, is the nation's most prized military secret.

At the moment there are only 21 anti-aircraft regiments organized. Five more are being formed, which would give a total of 19 in the national guard and seven in the regular army.

General Marshall proposed 37 regular regiments and 30 in the militia. Then the total would be 139,100 men, an approach to Major Phillips' "irreducible minimum"—that is, a force equal to the 140,000 territorials, plus regular forces, which Great Britain kept on duty in peacetime.

However, General Marshall said, "What is necessary for the defense of London is not necessary for the defense of New York, Boston or Washington."

London is subject to a mass bombardment; New York presumably is not.

Ten or 15 of the 3 or 3.6-inch guns would "make quite a showing" around Baltimore, Philadelphia, or Washington, Colonel Crawford said, though London may have as many as 5,000.

Since Munich— Ever since Munich, American officers have been watching Europe intently and London's grief may be New York's lesson.

No fixed anti-aircraft batteries around United States cities are contemplated. At present mobile units that can be concentrated on any coast or border are being bought.

Where, then, will the enemy strike if he eludes the navy and the active aircraft defenses?

"Airplanes are most vulnerable in maneuvers at low altitudes," said Fort Bragg. "As the first mission of our air corps will be to locate and destroy the enemy planes, so will the enemy try to find and annihilate ours."

That statement was confirmed by the devastation of the Polish air force before it could leave the ground, by the German air force's seizure of Norwegian landing fields, by the capture of the Netherlands' airports.

So, an attack on the United

BEGINNING TO REALIZE HOW FAR WE'VE DRIFTED!

It's a Good Thing Russia and Japan Are Mutual In Distrust -- It Solves a Problem for Uncle Sam

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Our state department cordially dislikes the idea of a Japanese-controlled regime in eastern China, recently proclaimed under the nominal rulership of Tokyo's Chinese "stooge," Wang Ching-Wei. In fact, State Secretary Cordell Hull promptly refused to recognize the Wang regime, standing pat for the government of Chiang Kai-Shek, which still is desperately fighting the Japanese-backed Wang.

Britain and France equally (or even more so) are violently pro-Chiang and against the Japs puppet.

It's easily explainable. Nobody doubts that the Japanese plan is to crowd the Occidental countries' influence out of Asia. Britain and France have even better reasons than Uncle Sam for opposing the Japanese program, because they have territorial possessions in the Occident, and they foresee that the Japanese presently will be threatening them.

Our interests are commercial only. Of course, we don't want our commercial interests interfered with, either. Still, that wouldn't be as bad as having actual colonies taken away from us, which is what Japan evidently contemplates in Britain's and France's cases.

Japan Versus Russia All the same, the western powers are under a certain sort of obligation to the Japanese for diverting Russia from participation in the strife on their own side of the war front.

Russia would be a big bother to the allies if it went wholeheartedly into the Germans' fight against the allies. It might ultimately become a danger to Uncle Sam. Its program manifestly is to get, if it can, control of the whole Scandinavian northern peninsula, making the Soviets formidable in the Atlantic. That wouldn't hit our direction. It wouldn't be immediate, but strategists see on it the future.

We're an Atlantic-Pacific country. It's a nuisance to have both coasts to consider.

German possibilities fret us to the eastward; Japanese possibilities toward the west. To have another country annoying us from both points of the compass would be a distinct pest.

No, we're not worried about Russia at present -- but subsequently?

A Buffer Country What we need is what diplomats call a "buffer country."

The Japanese may be totalitarian, but their government isn't communistic -- which it doesn't want it to be, but Russia is.

Now, I don't know that Chiang Kai-Shek is a communist. But Comrade Stalin thinks he is.

Therefore, Moscow inclines somewhat toward Chiang and has been helping him more or less with such supplies as it can get to him very inconveniently, due to primitive transportation facilities. By the same token, the Soviets are vigorously opposed to Wang, who, at Tokyo's suggestion, has noisily proclaimed his hostility to the communistic campaign he asserts that Chiang is waging. The Russians are extremely suspicious of the Japanese, also. They're traditionally unfriendly to the latter, and just now their belief is that the Japanese aim at gobbling at least a sizable part of Siberia. Indeed, there was Russo-Japanese fighting along their border only lately.

Weak Truce Not long ago a sort of an apology for a truce was patched up between Russia and Japan, but it, notoriously, is extremely undependable.

In short, the situation to Russia's eastward and to the south of Siberia is so precarious that it is easy to see why Comrade Stalin doesn't care to become too deeply involved in western Europe.

Stalin probably is quite right in his belief that Japan would attack him at the first good opportunity.

Such opportunity would present itself if he were preoccupied against the European allies in northern Sweden and Norway and, perhaps, was being harassed likewise by Britain's naval forces along his own Arctic coast.

To sum up, from the standpoint of the United States, Britain, France and other countries which have large stakes in the Orient and which do not want Russia pushing any farther to the westward, Japan and Wang, on the one hand, and Russia on the opposite hand, offset one another very handily.

AN ALL-ROMANCE program featuring romantic baritone Tony Martin will be presented by "Tune-Up Time" on the broadcast tomorrow evening over CBS at 6 o'clock.

THE FAMOUS De Koven "Oh, Promise Me" will be followed by the popular number which last week jumped from 22nd place to second on the list of most popular current tunes, "I Can't Love You Any More."

ORCHESTRAL highlights under the baton of Andre Kostelanetz will be the second part of a Victor Herbert medley just completed by the conductor and a two-piano-with-orchestra performance of the famous "Nola."

MAESTRO KOSTELANETZ' devotion to the great American composer, Victor Herbert, is well-known to "Tune-Up Time" audiences. The first part of his new Herbert medley, which included four songs, was presented on the broadcast two weeks ago.

The second half of the medley will include "Gypsy Love Song" and "Czardas" from the operetta, "The Fortune Teller," and "My Dream Girl" from the show of the same name.

OTHER SELECTIONS to be heard on the program will be "Let There Be Love" by JACK "SKIPPER" BENNY, ... back home after a nautical-but-not-so-nice week with his gang at Catalina island, will review his varied experiences at the famous ocean resort during the broadcast with Mary Livingstone, Phil Harris, Dennis Day and Don Wilson over the NBC-Red network at 9:30 tonight.

THINGS got off to a bad start when Jack had to hire a water taxi to transport the gang across the channel after Rochester's yacht developed submarine tendencies a few yards from shore.

AND THE BENNY disposition didn't improve

States would be aimed first at the dozen-odd air bases and major military fields scattered from Puerto Rico to Hawaii, and the hundreds of lesser fields and commercial airports suitable for military use.

Next would come communications systems, roads, railroads and bridges, then industrial plants, munitions and aircraft factories, ammunition dumps, supply depots, mobilization and concentration centers, army camps, gasoline and oil stores, docks and warehouses.

Most glaringly exposed are the aircraft factories clustered around major cities, mostly on the two coasts—a situation that inspired President Roosevelt's suggestion that new units be located inland.

JACKS most annoying experience, however, was trying to convince the gang that he spent a whole day draped over the rail of a fishing barge purely because of his intense interest in the marine life below him.

DENNIS DAY'S vocal contribution will be the ever-popular favorite, "Yours Is My Heart Alone," and Phil Harris' orchestra will play "Down By the O-hi-o."

Mentioning Iowa baseball crowds and conducts now is perhaps a trifle unnecessary since the season has ended, but the Iowa athletic department might be sensible to make measures before next spring to curb the grammar school foul ball chasers who made a couple of scenes yesterday, one of which constituted a veritable beating for a spectator who had caught a foul.

It may be necessary to run down the balls that land out of bounds and such equipment costs money, but there is such a thing as overworking when it comes to food and, by the same figuring, the athletic department's relations with its public might come in for a little too much trying if the public is annoyed at Iowa contests. The trouble this year, or in other years, has been small, but it could quite easily develop.

It's been tough, with locals unanimous in their good opinion of this year's Hawkeyes, to drop the Big Ten championship. Known in some quarters as the Yankees of the Western conference, the Iowans had won in 1938 and 1939, but didn't turn in as impressive records as this year. One game lost to Illinois and two to Northwestern were the only defeats and it happened they came in conference games.

Next year, though, it is quite probable that Coach Otto Vogel will have more trouble getting his team near the top of the Big Ten. The Prasse-Kantor combination around second base is probably the best such combination in college baseball and it has functioned for the last time at Iowa. The work of Jim George and Harold Haub, co-captains, is equally important and the loss of Fred Hohenhorst and Haub will leave only Stastny of the really experienced pitchers.

There is promise, however, in the rapid development of Smith and Cook in the outfield, Radics at first and Bill Welp as one of the best catchers seen here in 1940. Frank Kocur, captain-elect, can be counted upon to handle third base in very passable fashion, while the sophomore pitching talent of this year is good, with Ted Gordnier, Dick Hein, Wetzell Hill and Cecil Schomer looking able to give Stastny plenty of help.

The "Heckle Section" found new material at yesterday's game in Sec Taylor, the Des Moines Register's sports editor, who was present through the Minnesota series. It was Taylor's one-time belief in John Paychek's boxing future that put him on the spot.

700 S. U. I. Graduates Gather for Annual Alumni Luncheon

Honor Paid Pres. Gilmore By Old 'Grads'

1915 Class of Medicine Presented Loving Cup For Largest Attendance

Seven hundred University of Iowa graduates gathered in Iowa Union yesterday noon for the annual alumni luncheon, where honor was paid to the retiring university president, Eugene A. Gilmore, to the graduates of fifty years ago, and to the old university "grads."

A silver loving cup was presented to the 1915 class of medicine as the class with the largest percentage of members registered. Of the 18 living, 13 were present making a percentage of 72.22.

The 1915 class of law with 23 of its 43 members present was second in the group.

1895 Class
Tied for third place was the 1895 class of medicine with 24 living and 12 present, and the 1895 class in dentistry with two living and one present, each having a percentage of 50.

President Gilmore presented medals to the class of 1880, graduates of fifty years ago.

Their numbers included: 1890 liberal arts, C. R. Musser, Muscatine; Carl Stutsman, Burlington; and Mrs. H. F. Wickham, Iowa City.

1890 law: Edwin Arnold, Chicago, Ill.; J. M. Grimm, Cedar Rapids; S. A. Hays, Winterset; F. W. Lohr, Sioux City; F. G. Orelup, Ottumwa; Charles Reynolds, Carroll; C. A. Robbins, Winterset; Chester F. Stephenson, Chicago; Truman S. Stevens, Des Moines; and Abraham Hollingsworth, Keokuk.

1890 medicine: L. W. Harding, Los Angeles, Calif.; A. L. Hull, Joplin, Mo.; W. S. Lessinger, Mt. Pleasant; and Sophie Bennett Peattie, Peoria, Ill.

1890 dentistry: Andrew Dingwell, Clinton; J. W. Gleusing, Iowa City; John G. Hildebrand, Waterloo; J. W. Hubbard, Columbus Junction; E. H. Naumann, Mission, Tex.; William H. Simpson, Sycamore, Ill.; and Charles Tiffany, Buena Park, Calif.

Oldest Class
James F. Slaughter, Liberal Arts, 79, of Pendleton, Ore. represented the oldest class.

The retiring president of the alumni association, Atty. Benjamin F. Butler of Waterloo, 1910 liberal arts and 1912 law, presided at the meeting. He introduced the new president of the association, Dr. Sumner B. Chase of Ft. Dodge, a member of the 1915 class of medicine.

"One event that makes us sad," said Attorney Butler, "is Dr. Gilmore's leaving. The university under his administration has made progress in every conceivable field, it has merited legislative approval, the heads of the departments have been wisely chosen and educational measures inaugurated and expanded. This could not have been done without a man of ability and integrity in charge."

President Eugene A. Gilmore paid tribute to Lewis Brown, president of Johns Manville Corp. He told of Brown's coming to the university as the "greenest" of freshmen, how he worked his way through the university, "as one third of the student body is doing today," and how he rose to the leadership of one of the largest industries in the United States.

Helpful Cooperation
The president credited his success to the helpful cooperation of the alumni.

"You don't come back to university alumni days because of the buildings on the campus, or the erudite research done then or since, or because of the learned professors. You come back because of the ties of human relationship," President Gilmore pointed out.

The president said he felt that in the long run the success of a university depends as much on sentimental reason as the intellectual.

"That's the reason that old Hawkeyes are more interesting than the university catalogues," he concluded.

Our Home Town GRADUATES

By Charles Beckman

Here you come, in your young thousands, to take your places in the world—the world you are to re-make for your own and succeeding generations. And, frankly, we'll be glad when we can turn the job of running things over to you. We'll be glad when you have demonstrated a real fitness to take over. Of course, we're skeptical. You cannot blame us for that, because in our lifetimes we have seen many come forward with sure cures for all human ills. Good plans, too—except that they wouldn't work. But don't let our skepticism fool you. Down underneath, we are childishly eager to believe in you. We know that some of you are to give us freedom from many diseases we now suffer. Some of you are to revise and improve all our present standards of transportation, of architecture, of finance, of economics, of government, of agriculture, of teaching—and such revision and improvement are sorely needed.

The world's morals will be higher or baser according to the standards you impose upon it. The demands of the world will be for shoddy, tawdry merchandise or for sound, craftsmanlike products, according to your taste and requirements.

We need your fine, young enthusiasms, your staunch, high ideals. We salute you and welcome you. Give us of your best!

Next Sunday Mr. Beckman of Beckman's Funeral Home will comment on The Clergyman.

Church Group Makes Journey

David Mott To Be Guest Speaker at Pilgrimage To Old Quaker Church

David Mott of Indianola, father of Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the university school of journalism, former curator of the historical library in Des Moines for many years, will be one of the guest speakers at the service at 11 o'clock this morning when members and friends of the First Unitarian church in Iowa City journey to the old Quaker church at Scattergood near West Branch for their ninth annual pilgrimage to the historic church.

The traditional pilgrimage was instituted when the Rev. Evans A. Worthley first began his pastorate at the Iowa City Unitarian church.

The meeting house where the group will have their service this morning was built in the early 60's and embodies the plain and sincere simplicity of its builders and former worshippers.

Following the service, which will be in keeping with its history, a picnic dinner will be held in company with the men and women who are now living temporarily at the Scattergood refugee hostel under the sponsorship of the American Friends Service Committee.

A general invitation is extended to all who wish to unite with the members of the congregation for the observance of the day.

Iowa City Primary Election Polls Open at 7 Tomorrow

5 Iowa City Men Listed As Candidates

Party Leaders Urge All Voters To Cast Ballots in Election

Iowa City and Johnson county democratic and republican voters go to the polls tomorrow along with the rest of Iowa to nominate their candidates for township, county and state offices which will come up for vote at the national election Nov. 5.

A heavier vote than is usual for primary elections is expected in Johnson county tomorrow because of the many interesting contests on both tickets.

Polls in Iowa City's nine precincts will open at 7 a. m. and will close at 8 p. m. while the other 22 voting places of Johnson county will open at 8 a. m. and close at 8 p. m.

Delegates to Convention
In addition to nominations for township, county and state offices, voters will also express their choice for delegates to the county convention. At these county conventions delegates will be selected to go to the state judicial and congressional conventions.

Johnson county democratic chairman William J. Jackson yesterday urged voters to cast their ballots tomorrow. In a statement to The Daily Iowan, Mr. Jackson said, "I urge the democratic voters of Johnson county to take part in their primary June 3rd to the end that the most qualified men may be selected as democratic candidates for congress, for offices in the government of the state of Iowa and for county and township positions."

Atty. Robert L. Larson, county republican chairman, also urged all voters to take an interest in the primaries tomorrow so that the best men might be chosen to represent their parties in the fall elections.

In his statement to The Daily Iowan, Mr. Larson said, "The importance of the primary election as well as caucuses has been sadly neglected in the past, and if the citizens desire to maintain a democratic form of government they should drop all other matters long enough to cast their ballots on Monday."

He went on to explain that it is too often the case that a lack of general interest in the primaries provides opportunities for men not as well qualified for public office to be nominated and ride into office on the strength of a winning ticket.

WHERE TO VOTE
Iowa City's nine voting places are given here by wards.

FIRST WARD
First precinct—Johnson county courthouse.
Second precinct—Letts Oil company, 213 S. Madison street.

SECOND WARD
First precinct—City hall.

THIRD WARD
First precinct—C.S.A. hall, 524 N. Johnson street.

FOURTH WARD
First precinct—Old Alert Hose company house.

FIFTH WARD
First precinct—Iowa City Bottling works, 525 S. Gilbert street.
Second precinct—Villhauer garage, 813 7th avenue.

The 22 county polling places outside of Iowa City are Big Grove, Cedar, Clear Creek at Oakdale, Clear Creek at Tiffin, East Lucas, Fremont, Graham, Hardin, Jefferson, Liberty, Lincoln, Madison, Monroe, Newport, Oxford, Penn, Pleasant Valley, Scott, Sharon, Union, Washington and West Lucas.

The Candidates
Five Iowa Citizens are candidates for nominations for state offices. These are Leroy S. Mercer and Samuel D. Whiting on the democratic ticket and Herbert J. Ries on the republican for state senator from the 25th district. Dr. Frederick C. Schadt of Williamsburg, incumbent, is the other candidate for this office on the republican ticket.

John J. Swaner of Iowa City is unopposed on the democratic ticket for nomination for state representative of the 41st district and William F. Morrison, incumbent, is unopposed on the republican ballot.

Thomas E. Martin of Iowa City, incumbent representative in congress from the first Iowa congressional district, is unopposed on the republican ticket for nomination for the same office.

Candidates for congressional representative on the democratic ballot are James M. Bell of Burlington, James C. France of Tipton, Zoe S. Nabers of Ft. Madison and Herbert G. Thompson of Muscatine.

Other state officers to be nominated on both tickets are governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor of state, treasurer of state, secretary of agriculture, attorney general and commerce commissioner.

County Offices
Eight incumbents in Johnson county offices are seeking nominations for re-election in the primaries tomorrow. Ed Sulek, present county auditor, is opposed by William J. Emanuel on the democratic ticket. This is the first time Emanuel has been a candidate for any office. Robert J. Reilly is the republican candidate unopposed. He is the son of Prof. John F. Reilly, Iowa City councilman.

Republican W. E. Smith, county treasurer, is seeking re-election to that office and is opposed on his ticket by W. L. Davis, former owner of the Iowa City Poultry and Egg company and now running for office for the first time. Lumir W. Jansa, present mayor of Swisher, is the unopposed democratic candidate for the treasurer's office. Jansa is also the assessor of Jefferson township.

R. Neilson Miller, incumbent who has held several terms as county clerk, is unopposed for nomination on the democratic ballot. No republican has entered the race for county clerk.

For Sheriff
Two candidates for sheriff have filed on each ticket. Don McComas, incumbent is opposed on the democratic ticket by R. H. Irving who is running for the first time. Republican candidates are Floyd Myers of North Liberty, running for the first time, and Will L. Rowland. Rowland has been a candidate for this office before and his father, Evan Rowland, was Johnson county sheriff for many years before and during the World war.

R. J. (Dick) Jones, republican incumbent, is unopposed either on the republican ticket or by a democrat for the county recorder position.

County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark, who has held the county office for two terms, is candidate for re-election and is opposed on the republican ticket by Atty. A. C. Cahill of the Iowa City law firm, Messer and Cahill. Democratic candidates for the office are Atty. E. A. Baldwin, former county attorney and former member of the state legislature, and Atty. Lee J. Farnsworth, who has been a candidate for the office but was never elected.

Dr. George D. Callahan, democratic incumbent, is unopposed on his ticket for county coroner. The one republican candidate is Dr. C. O. Parks of Oxford who is running for the first time.

For the board of supervisors term beginning in 1941 there is one candidate on each ballot. Democratic candidate is Elmer M. Dewey who is running for the first time. Willard W. Waters, who ran for the board of supervisors post four years ago, is the republican candidate.

For the term commencing in 1942 incumbent Earl Webster is
