NAZIS TIGHTEN NOOSE ABOUT PARIS

Britain Pours Men, Guns Into France

British Island of Malta Is Italy's First War Objective

Tries To Cut Mediterranean With Mine Belt

Other Activities Against Allied Forces Regarded As Unknown Quality

By The Associated Press
ROME, June 12 — Italy moved to cut the Mediterranean in half tonight with a wide new mine belt intended to box in completely the British fortified island of Malta — Italy's first announced objective of the war.

Her other activity against the allies in this third day of her participation on the side of Germany was largely an unknown quantity, however.

(It is less than 100 miles from Sicily across the Mediterranean to French African Tunisia. Roughly half way lies the Italian island of Pantelleria. Apparently the mines are intended to keep allied naval forces and sea-borne supplies from the western Mediterranean from reaching the allied land and sea forces now in the middle east.)

Passage Blocked
Non-enemy ships passing from one end of the Mediterranean to the other now must go through the narrow straits of Messina, between Corsica and the toe of Italy proper.

It was stated that "measures have been taken to hurry their passage." The new mined zone, as described in a government communication, boxes Malta — the fortified British island — completely.

Control Stations Established
The mine zone extends on the western side from the French Tunisian coast north to a point off the Sardinian coast, thence southeast to the Sicilian coast.

On the other side, the mines were laid from the Sicilian coast to a point southeast of Malta, Britain's island fortress, thence to Anglo, southwest of Rasagadir.

Control stations were set up at Rasocolmo and Capo Delle Armi, on either side of Messina, to expedite passage of neutral ships through the straits.

The allies brought the war to Italy earlier in the day with bombing raids on the great industrial cities of Milan and Turin and other points in the north.

Five Persons Killed As Airplane Crashes North of Aredale

AREDALE, Ia., June 12 (AP) — Five persons were killed here this evening when an airplane piloted by Chester Barnett, youthful Aredale aviator, went out of control and crashed from a height of 150 feet, three and a half miles north of here.

The dead: Barnett, about 20, pilot and owner of the plane.

Mrs. Clarence Barnett, about 42, mother of Chester.

Clark Barnett, 18, brother of the pilot.

Miss Mable Van, 19, Dumont, Ia.

Carl Pfaltzgraff, 27, Hampton, formerly of Dumont.

The crash occurred about 7 p.m. Observers said that Barnett, a licensed pilot, had been flying over Aredale and was apparently preparing to land at his flying field on the farm of his father near here when the plane fell.

Witnesses said the plane appeared to go into a tail spin and then crashed into the ground nose first. All the occupants were instantly killed.

Backs Up Hard-Pressed Allies With All Materials Available

British Assert That 30 Civilians Were Killed, 30 Injured in Eighth Italian Bombing of Malta

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LONDON, June 13 (Thursday)—Great Britain poured men and guns across the English channel to the aid of her hard-pressed ally today, backing up far-ranging air raids pressed against the enemy from equatorial Africa to arctic Norway.

"Every gun that could shoot," every available soldier and tank headed for the continental battlefield to fight the Germans, while Italy replied to British air forays with deadly attacks on Malta, Britain's island fortress in the Mediterranean.

The British, counting their successes from tons of bombs aimed at the axis powers, also counted 30 of her civilians dead and 30 injured from the eighth Italian air raid on Malta. Seven soldiers also were wounded.

The Italians returned to the Mediterranean island early this morning and made two more raids — the ninth and tenth — and ran into a blaze of anti-aircraft gunfire.

The Germans feinted at Britain with a series of flights over the southern coast during the night and early morning but no bombs were dropped and ground defenses drove the raiders off.

"Every available man, rifle, gun and tank is being sent to the aid of France," the Daily Herald reported. "The war office is gathering every article of equipment to hasten their dispatch."

Prime Minister Churchill presided over a meeting of the war cabinet before he had a half hour audience with King George last night. Lord Lloyd, secretary for the colonies, returned yesterday from a conference with members of the French colonial office.

In connection with the reports of British troop movements to France it was recalled that a military spokesman here yesterday declared "it seems impossible that 30 divisions can be sent to France, but it must be done and if it is done we have won." He pointed out that evacuation of Dunkerque had seemed impossible but that it was done.

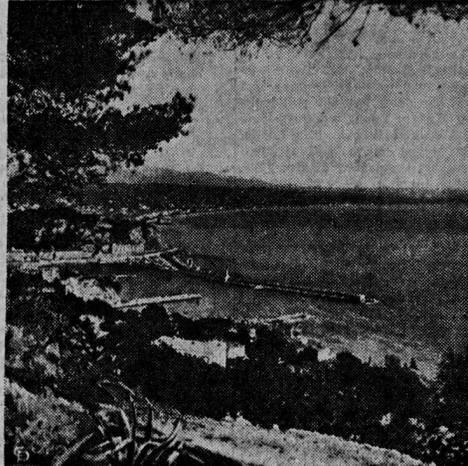

Outnumbered, the British air force carried the war to Italy and Germany yesterday.

ALLIES HOLD SEVEN STRONGHOLDS IN MEDITERRANEAN

This Central Press map shows the seven great Allied strongholds and bases in the Mediterranean sea. Immediately after Italian hostilities began, Italian air raids on two of the strongholds, the British fortifications at Gibraltar and Malta, were reported. Other possible points of Italian air and sea attacks are Corsica, Bizerta and Tunis (French) and Suez and Cyprus (British).

Battle Rages in U.S. Envoy's Garden 20 Miles From Paris

Nazis Thrust Toward Heart Of Capital

Cross Marne Where U. S. Marines Halted Kaiser's Army in 1918

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
TOURS, France, June 12—German troops crossed the Marne at Chateau-Thierry in a storm of fire tonight, and other forces struck down from the north to within 20 miles of the heart of Paris.

They pushed forward on the capital in three main thrusts, and completed almost half of a ring about it, swinging from the Seine to Persan-Beaumont and Senlis and then down to Chateau-Thierry—the field where American marines helped break another German advance of 22 years ago.

Battle in Bullitt's Gardens
In Chantilly, near Senlis and Persan-Beaumont in the region 20 miles north of Paris, the fighting raged over the very gardens of United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt's chateau.

Into a mighty battle to take Reims, above the Marne, the nazis threw a whole mechanized army corps numbering 80,000 men or more and about 3,000 tanks, armored cars and shielded machine-gun-bearing motorcycles.

Concede Nazis Pass Rheims
The French did not acknowledge the loss of Rheims. Which the Germans claim, but they did concede that some forces had swept past it and across the Marne at Chateau-Thierry.

German efforts along the Seine likewise were spectacular. They put on all possible pressure from Rouen to Vernon in an effort to enlarge a bridgehead they had established on the south side of the river.

In that area, the French high command declared the invaders were being held in the region of Pacy Sur Eure and Evreux.

German scouting parties, however, were acknowledged to have struck off from the main body northwest toward Caudebec, which is only about 30 miles from the vital French port of Havre.

Enormous German Losses
Between the Oise and Ourcq rivers nazi advance units attacked violently around Crepy-en-Valois and Betz—a town some 30 miles northeast of Paris.

The French declared their "numerous prisoners" reported enormous losses among the Germans northeast of Reims.

Germans See City Doomed As Thousands Sight Eiffel Tower

Troop Divisions Smash Within Twelve Miles Of Paris Along the Oise Front; May Try Last Wedge

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BERLIN, June 13 (Thursday)—Tens of thousands of German troops, who saw the Eiffel tower of Paris clearly just a little way ahead, drew tighter their circle of fire and steel about that French capital today.

The city—doomed in German eyes—was within easy range of German guns from three directions.

German artillery opened up last night on the long-quiet upper Rhine front—perhaps as the prelude to an effort to drive one last decisive wedge into France—while divisions of the nazi center were smashing within 12½ miles of Paris along the Oise.

Spain To Be Nonbelligerent

Omits Word 'Neutral' In Decision on War; Justice Demanded

MADRID, June 13 (Thursday) —Spain tonight declared her non-belligerency in the European war in a reiteration of her previous declarations.

The government published the following decree: "It is made known to all the following decision. "War having been extended to the Mediterranean by Italy's entry into the war against England and France, the government has declared non-belligerency in the conflict."

The word "neutrality" was not used in the decree. This was in line with the attitude taken by the Spanish press of the past few days.

Demands for large areas of Africa for a "new Spanish empire" appeared in tonight's newspapers. The paper Alcazar said that Spain, in accordance with international treaties, rights of former Spanish conquests and explorations and the exigencies of the economic order, should possess 3,100,000 square kilometers (about 558,000 square miles) of Africa.

Of this territory, it added, 600,000 square kilometers should be in Morocco and northern Africa — "colonized by Spaniards"—and the rest in equatorial west Africa.

The paper added: "Whatever the issue of this war, justice should be done us."

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — James Allen, 29, was sentenced to 30 years in prison yesterday for robbing blind persons whose confidence he gained by posing as a doctor.

House Votes Huge Defense Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON, June 12—By the vote of 401 to 1, the house stamped quick approval today on an extraordinary $1,706,053,908 bill providing funds for 3,000 new planes, 68 warships, 95,000 additional men, for the army, a far-flung system of naval air bases and other defense measures.

Last of a series of big defense appropriations to start through congress, the measure passed the house and went to the senate with only Rep. Marzantonio (AL-NY) dissenting. It raises the session's total defense program to $5,021,619,622.

Among other items in the bill are funds for training for 87,000 civilian air pilots, to be conducted by the civil aeronautics authority, and to include primary, secondary and "refresher" training.

The bill also provides funds for an unspecified number of tanks and other mechanized equipment. The senate, meanwhile, approved the training of CCC boys in non-combatant army activities, such as cookery, photography and mechanics. The chamber rejected, 47 to 35, a proposal by Senator George (D-Ga) to give military training to those enrollees who volunteer for it. The latter met the opposition of such administration spokesmen as Senator Barkley (D-NY), the majority leader, and Senator Byrnes (D-SC).

At the same time, the top men of the army and navy held an unusual meeting with Secretary Morgenthau. He then conferred with allied purchasing agents who announced that the government had promised them an opportunity to "buy more surplus war materials" in line with the administration policy of all possible material aid to the allies.

In the senate, a group of legislators angrily assailed what they termed steps in the direction of war. "Every move is being made to take us down the road to war," Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) thundered. "War may have seen this country led away from neutrality to non-belligerency," said Senator Holt (D-WVa), "and if certain individuals in the government have their way we will strike out the word 'non' and be belligerent before the snow flies." Wheeler also asserted that if the democratic party should be-

The War Birds Flock Together

Italy's entrance into the war is the final proof that fascism has but one aim, and that is to exterminate democracy in Europe. The dictators Hitler and Mussolini want eventually to dominate the world, to warp the way of liberal civilizations into the selfish pattern of their sordid ambitions.

The whole matter is broader than the most condoning historians, than the Versailles treaty and the long-expounded inequalities and grievances supposedly foisted by unscrupulous statesmen upon Italy and Germany. The gist of the matter is that the imperialisms of these two countries did not get the lion's share as they intended, although they were on the opposite side in the former conflict. Now they have banded together so they may more easily continue their conquest that separately failed in 1918.

Like all rabid militarists, they did not learn that war is disastrous to international economy, that it bankrupts every participant, that revolutions and political disintegration are the payoff for both winner and loser.

The totalitarians are attempting to kill the living body of the civilized world, yet they hope to extract food, fuel and energy for their present and future crimes from the carcass of humanity.

This manifest and deliberate evil has alarmed and shocked the entire civilized world. Nobody can judge how serious the reaction will be or how many lives will be lost in a gallant attempt to exterminate these hysterical ideologies and this quick-breeding force.

One thing remains certain. All liberal nations, however remote, are in serious danger and will have to arm supremely. All peace-loving peoples will have to become thoroughly militaristic to avoid or withstand the vicious and fatal strength of the totalitarian brand of militarism. This is a war of survival, an epoch of grim and horrible realities.

The war birds flock together. No nation dares close its eyes to the eventualities in a world which is not large enough, declare the dictators, for democracy and fascism.

Is Air War Supremacy Shifting?

The nazi air blitzkrieg seems to be slowing down. The complete air violence that hopelessly destroyed dozens of cities in Poland, Holland and Belgium appears to have lost its momentum if not its potency.

There may be several reasons for this. The highly fluid Panzer units have made sure and steady progress on land. There may be a more serious shortage of gasoline than realized, since tanks and armored cars burn the same fuel as airplanes. The allied defense may be stouter than the exuberant nazis realized. At least there have been no quick knock-out blows from the air.

Several facts of the last few days have been quite self-evident. France is a much larger country than Holland or Poland; less than a 10th of her area is occupied; her plants and refineries and communications are more strategically spaced; as in the past she suffers sorely but functions well.

English Hurricanes with extra cannon and improved machine guns have for their numbers been more than a match for the Messerschmidts. French pursuit planes have dissipated German attacks over Paris, Cherbourg, Marseilles and Le Havre. Allied bombers on revenge flights over German cities seem to have taken a great toll of bulk plants, munitions dumps, transportation systems and airplane centers themselves.

There is little doubt that allied air thrusts are beginning to match if not counteract the German. Although the swastikas still hold the edge in numbers, it is quite generally agreed that the British and French flyers are intrepid, that they are now making better quality machines, that they often outmaneuver and destroy their opponents even when against odds. Again the British have wreaked great damage with extra turret cannon and the French have developed a technique of dropping bombs from above even when in flight. All these improvements count in the total effect.

Throughout there seems to be a more effective organization of allied defense. Ground forces have chartered the heavens and have synchronized their anti-aircraft to a more deadly precision. The continued existence of the major French cities south of the battle lines is eloquent proof that air forces can no longer wipe out in a few days cities that are inured to war, determined, and prepared. Sporadic bombings may puncture isolated districts, but they cannot injure the tough fibre of the French people.

Finally there is the improved moral effect that ushered in the use of American-made planes in actual fighting. Easy to distinguish because of their radical change of design and motor and gun positions, these new destroyers proved their worth in hot fighting both over Paris and in the melees at the front.

A fourth or even a third of the nazi planes is judged by experts to have been destroyed. Each machine that goes down in smoke carries at least one aeronautical expert whose experience and hardihood cannot easily be replaced. And how can wartime Germany, harassed, feverish, maddened by interruptions and delays, be expected to build as good planes as in 1939? Can present standards in the Reich keep pace with calm research and unhurried construction in America? Can bombers still be turned out with the high tune and pitch that has won for Germany complete and unmitigated conquest in the past?

Or will the inevitable change of physical and moral weather, the fogs, mud, and lowered moral of the later war days bog these air monsters down in the mire of inefficiency and defeat.

That is another question only time can answer.

The comments of prominent newspapers prompted by the Monday address of the president are indicative of the feeling of representative sections of the nation.

A few of those comments, as reported by The Associated Press, are listed here.

DALLAS NEWS (Independent)—Mussolini's outrageous effort to wring profit out of misery and disaster matches the bloody record of totalitarian Germany. In contrast, the grim warning the president has given is the act of a courageous country that counts the cost.

Franklin Roosevelt spoke Monday for honest America, for right-thinking America. The country will go with him.

THE WASHINGTON (D. C.) POST—The truth and justice of Mr. Roosevelt's declaration is so obvious that no voice is likely to be heard in contradiction. But the present unanimity of American opinion only emphasizes the tragedy of the period, prior to September, when the president time and again drew much the same conclusion and the country failed to recognize its importance.

A Man About MANHATTAN

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The name that most of the reviewers lingered over in their judgments of "Louisiana Purchase" was Carol Bruce, a pretty 19-year-old girl who has something of a story behind her. Her appearance on Broadway as Beatrice in Mr. Irving Berlin's and Mr. Morrie Ryskind's pleasant fable of Louisiana politics must be marked up as something of a triumph for the judgment of a New York lawyer whose name is Martin Spector.

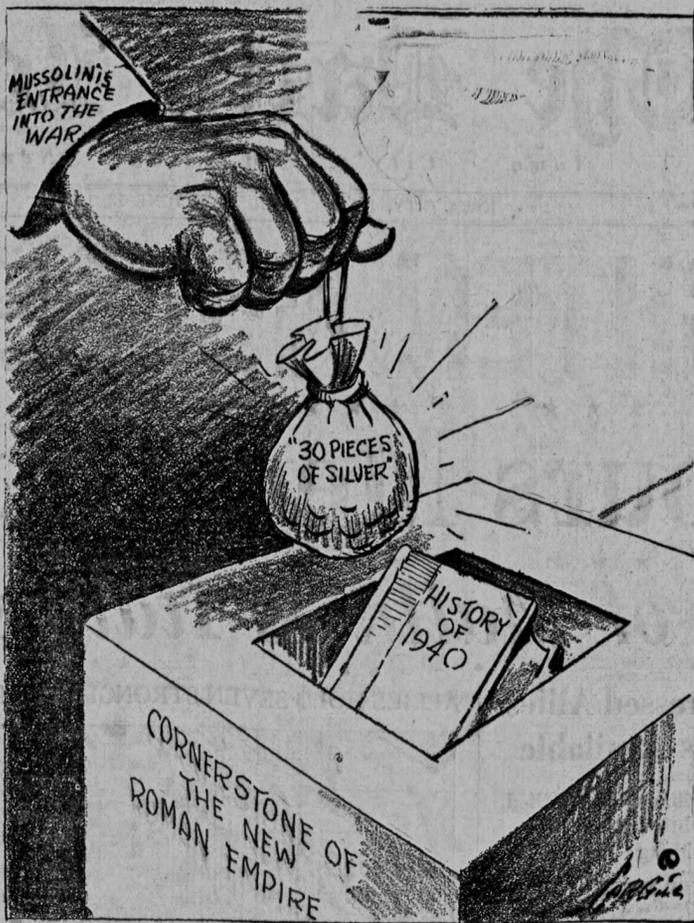

Mr. Spector, known as "Mike" to his friends, had known Miss Bruce's father for years. They were old friends. While talking one day the girl's father asked Spector if he knew of a good agent for his girl, who had been told that she possessed a likable voice and who was desirous of trying for musical comedy.

Mike ascertained that the girl was modeling sweaters at a place in New York. He went to see her. They had a long talk together, and Spector promised to give her the benefits of his judgment and experience.

Having a lawyer for a benefactor was a break. It wasn't long before Miss Bruce appeared in the supper room of a Manhattan hotel for $50 a week. From there she went into NTG's "Midnight Sun," which isn't running anymore, for $100 a week. From there Spector guided her up several additional rungs, turning down one bid by Paramount for $350 a week. "She needs only one good show on Broadway, and we can add another either to her salary," he said.

Apparently she had it. She got a break by being practically the only new name in the east. Victor Moore and Zorina and the others are stars, but there is nothing especially new to write about them. They gave expert performances, just as everyone knew they would, but that must have been said of them so frequently that it is no longer news. When Miss Bruce, with her pleasant manner appeared out of nowhere everybody began asking questions. Everybody liked her. She has a toe-hold now, and if she doesn't hold it she will have only herself to blame.

We ran into a big fellow we admire as much as anyone we ever saw the other day—Freddy Fitzsimmons, who pitches for the Brooklyn Dodgers. It was the first time we had seen Fitz since he was tossing them high, wide and handsome for the Giants, back in the old days when he and Hub and Parmelee were prime, and the Giants were winning. Fitz, for one thing, has the most unusual delivery, and one of the most interesting to watch, in all baseball. When he winds up he merely waves his right hand and wrist in a circle, then turns his back to the batter and looks at second base. Fitz hasn't been beaten this year yet. As the ball players say, he is 4 for 4, which means he has four wins in four starts. What has he got, now that he is 39 and approaching the athlete's border-line? The answer is heart. It's as big as all out doors. On the days he works he hangs that heart of his out on a line. We ourselves are a Giant fan, but not on the days Fitz pitches. In his career (which, during the off-seasons, is devoted to a California chicken ranch) he has won 196 major league games—just four to go before he reaches the coveted 200-game total which is the goal of all moundmen.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Unit in Interests Of National Defense

WASHINGTON—Unity is being quietly achieved to a workable degree between the downtown new dealers and the non-new dealing democratic leaders in congress. It is a tentative, wholly business arrangement for national defense purposes only, and not a complete political reconciliation.

REALLY BIG ARMAMENTS

NOTE—The incident is a convincing hint that the president's rearmament plans contemplate much greater efforts than have yet been disclosed.

HURRIED UNITY

Such estranged counselors as Senator Byrd of Virginia and Budget Director Smith have likewise been working on ways to put into effect Byrd's long-declared economy program for a 10 per cent horizontal cut in non-defense activities. Some trouble has been encountered over details. In the consultations Smith has insisted some non-military items must not be cut as much as Byrd desires. Yet the mere fact they are getting together shows the extent to which a politically torn democracy can unify itself hurriedly for action.

PSYCHIATRIST FOR IL DUCE

Mussolini's entry into the war surprised no one within a mile of the top. For some weeks in his dealings with Mr. Roosevelt he had made no secret of his intention to go in at the moment he thought allied defeat certain. It is hardly a disclosure to report that disgust here with the Duce's sordid purposes was practically unanimous.

Mussolini, like Hitler, while glorying in arms and the justice of his trumped-up cause, claimed he had been "forced" by the allies to take this just step. While the dictators profess not to believe in our ideals of justice and right, they somehow always go to the trouble of finding an excuse in accordance with our ideals to justify their actions. A psychiatrist might have a good answer to that one.

ONE ON CONGRESS

The reformers may have slipped one past the congressmen in the tax bill. Heavy defense taxes were supposed to be laid for a five-year period to amortize expenditures, but when the bill came out, the La Follette plan of reducing exemptions and increasing surtaxes was made permanent. Only the additional 10 per cent surtax and the increases in excise taxes had a five-year expiration date.

WHO'S TO BLAME?

Housing Administrator Nathan Straus has issued a statement claiming the racially mixed occupancy in U. S. H. A. and P. W. A. housing projects is attributable to local housing authorities. U. S. H. A. has not suggested such a policy, which now extends federal funds to 3 U. S. H. A. mixed racial projects in New York and one each in New Jersey, Ohio, and Nebraska, as well as 13 under P. W. A.

NO WAR NEST EGGS

On the inside Treasury Secretary Morgenthau counseled against an excess profits tax now. The senate was planning to put one on the bill nevertheless, so the house committee adopted a promise of such a tax next session.

Such a tax sounds good politically because it implies greedy souls will not be able to make money out of the war. But as a practical fact, the income taxes are sufficiently confiscatory on high incomes to prevent accumulation of over-sized nest eggs.

After reading the latest dispatches from Europe we can't blame spring for disregarding the calendar and arriving as late as possible.

Shirley Temple retires. We didn't get a chance to read the farewell address of the Grand Old Lady of the Screen, but we'll bet it went something like this: "Goodbye—see you all in Junior high."

Harvard university plans an observatory which will predict storms. Perhaps the old school song will be changed to something like this: "Fair Harvard—With Moderating Westerly Winds."

A California community is planning to stage the world's biggest picnic, with a table loaded with eats two miles long. Calling all ants!

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Potpourri From Filmdom

By ROOBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Joan Crawford found that role she went to New York for—and it's her greatest: motherhood by adoption. Recommended nerve-tonic to jittery Americans: Lincoln's good-bye address at the close of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." If you've missed the movie, you can hear it on records.

Katharine Cornell, last of the stage greats to hold out against pictures, may be weakening if local reports are true. She's supposed to be intrigued by "Jane Addams of Hull House." Once Miss Cornell rejected flatly a movie offer of some $100,000 PLUS the right to destroy the completed film if it didn't suit her. She said "no" because she figured she was doing very well on the stage—and the contract could boomerang: if she didn't like the film, and kept it, the fan assumption would be that she was bad in it. Miss Cornell sold film rights to her "Barrets of Wimpole Street" for a reputed $75,000, of which she retained a third. At the time, her stage show was flourishing, but when she reopened, after the picture's release, her own business dived.

Ben Hecht, the writing man, has a powerhouse script for his production at Columbia and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., may have a hand (besides acting) in the handling. The story Bob Taylor really wants to do is "Balloon Busters," script Metro bought from RKO.

Those brave new production schedules being announced by the companies sound more like hopes than plans, in the light of local jitters over the foreign situation. Hollywood is due for some terrific belt-tightening. Symbolic was the Paramount sales convention, almost monastic in its quiet attention to business utterly lacking in the free flow of champagne, star and studio parties. Once again studio's pep gatherings were conducted like fiestas.

Carole Landis, the "Ping-she makes you purr-Girl," may live that one down, but she still looks like Loretta Young when she puts on a brunette wig. Ping Landis has more oomph and it than Oomph Sheridan or It Bow, but not so much as Mary Martin.

Henry Wilcoxon was launched on a local movie career by C. B. DeMille when the latter happened in on a Wilcoxon test while looking for a "Crusades" lead. Henry got the part, and stayed on. Lately the Wilcoxon career has been limited, and he was on Paramount lot looking for an interview with DeMille—at the right time, because they were looking for a hero for "Mystery Sea Raider," and Wilcoxon got the part, plus a term contract later. That's like Steffi Duna, who has been buffeted around plenty. Steffi is doing all right now, since she started anew in "Magnificent Fraud."

Autographs Exhibited

Rossetti Collection In Ranney Library Has Famous Letters

Autograph and manuscript letters centered about Dante Gabriel Rossetti are being displayed during June in the Ranney Memorial library in Shaeffer hall.

Pauline Cook, foreign language librarian, in arranging the exhibit has used that part of the university's autograph collection acquired by Charles Aldrich of the State department when he wrote William Rossetti, English writer, for autographs of himself and his more famous brother in 1884.

When Mrs. Ada North, librarian from 1879 to 1892, started the autograph collection, Aldrich gave the Rossetti material to the library.

Particularly interesting in the Ranney exhibit are the letters to Dante Gabriel Rossetti from his friends and associates in the Pre-Daphneite movement. The most entertaining of these is a letter from the painter Edward Burne-Jones requesting the return of his model's clothes which Rossetti had borrowed and neglected to return. Autographs displayed are those of such later 19th century figures as Robert Browning, the poet, Thomas H. Hales, professor of English literature at Kings college, Harry B. Forman, editor of works of Keats and Shelley, Jules Andrieu, member of the Paris Commune of 1871 and William Bowman, so-called father of general anatomy in England.

Letters of Richard Garnet, Edmund Gosse, Ford Madox Brown and Frederick J. Furnivall are also included in the Ranney library exhibit.

Other items displayed are a prescription for Rossetti from his physician, a letter commenting on his sonnets, a receipt from an artist for the sale of a picture and a note on the meaning of an Italian word about which Rossetti was in doubt.

The exhibition is one of the regular monthly displays arranged in the Ranney library and open to the public from 3 to 5 p.m. each afternoon.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Share Headaches
- It's a Mystery
- No Ballyhoo

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Occasionally Harry Markson gets a chuckle out of his work, such as Mushky Jackson provided when he called up from Joe Louis' camp to inform Harry that "Louis will work out at 3 o'clock weekdays and 3 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays," but on the whole the job is a large daily headache.

Share Headaches
Harry shares the headache with Walter St. Denis. The two, with a corps of mushkys and other stamp lickens, handle the publicity for the 20th Century Sporting club, sometimes known as Mike Jacobs.

For three years now Harry has been telling the world about the Jacobs' boxing enterprises. Mike signs the fighters, then hands the drumsticks to his tub-thumpers and lets them do the rest.

"The rest" is a daily program of press releases, training camp trips, idea quests for fuzzy-minded scribes (ain't we all), arranging press accommodations, compiling records of fighters from the greenest four-round boy on up, answering dizzy questions over the telephone and other items too numerous to mention.

On a fair day he'll bat out 15 stories ranging from Joe Louis' punching power to the promise shown by Joe Doakes, who will be making his first start in a four-round preliminary. Releases for the big fights go to about 400 papers as far west as Chicago, with special stories going to scattered territories which might be interested in a particular fighter.

It's a Mystery
How he does this with an incessant stream of interruptions is a mystery, but he does it, in addition to keeping up an amazing comprehensive file on every fight and fighter. In fact, it is this collection of data that is his pride and joy. He's his own filing clerk, and can find any information with his eyes shut.

Harry's days get longer as the day of a big fight approaches, with the day of the fight bringing the granddaddy of all headaches. That's the day the scribes roll in, all expecting front-row seats. There is always a substantial quota of phonies, but St. Denis, who has developed press arrangements to an art, says he can smell them a mile away, and it's a pretty smart Samuel who can crash through with fake credentials.

No Ballyhoo
Markson's word is as good as gold among newspapermen. They know he's not dishing out any ballyhoo for ballyhoo's sake. A former newspaper man himself, he says:

"When I took this job I made up my mind I'd just give out the truth. I never try to build up a fighter except on his accomplishments."

Markson was graduated from Union college at Schenectady, N. Y., in 1927, and knocked around in various newspaper jobs before lining up with Uncle Mike. He and the doleful-visaged St. Denis make an ideal team, combining long experience with youthful energy.

But it's a tough racket, even if it is spiced with such interludes as Mushky's voice drifting in from the next room, where he is trying to tell somebody where a fighter was training.

"It's Bier's camp," he was saying, "B-I-e-r-Apostoli-Biers"

Des Moines Wins Title In Golf Meet

Robinson, Dengler Pace Roosevelt To Team Championship

Rangy Wendell Robinson and his long-driving teammate, Ed Dengler, braved a drizzling rain yesterday to stroke Finkbine field in consistent under-80 golf and lead Roosevelt high school of Des Moines to the Eastern Iowa junior title.

Robinson, playing steady golf, despite the unappreciative weather, turned in a morning round of 78, then bettered it with a 76 in the afternoon to carry off medalist honors and the individual championship trophy. One stroke behind him was Dengler, who shot a 79 in the morning and tied Robinson's 76 in the final round.

In winning the four-man team title, the Roosevelt squad shot a low 647 total, just ahead of Davencourt's 655. The remaining teams placed in the following order: Muscatine, 728; Anamosa, 765; Iowa City, 799, and Belle Plaine, 824.

Anamosa was unopposed in the team section of the junior division. Roy Wilkinson of Anamosa took the medalist trophy with a 90 and a 96 for 186, while Jim Rasley of University high was second with rounds of 105 and 99 for a 204 total.

Tootsie Holt of Ft. Madison defeated Joanna McIlree of West Union for the girls' title. Miss Holt shot 104 and 94 for 198, with her opponent totalling 231 on rounds of 115 and 116.

ST. LOUIS, June 12 (AP)—One stroke above regulation figures. Standing right up against the big-name women golfers, Phyllis Otto, 15-year-old Iowa state high school champion, blasted her way into the quarter-finals of the Trans-Mississippi tournament with the most decisive score of the day.

There seems, after examination of track and field marks, little reason to believe that the human race is weakening and getting ready for physical disintegration. The kids who take the bus to the fieldhouse for their workouts are running faster by the clock than their grandfathers ever did.

It isn't that an occasional track mark is broken—the marks steadily get better. The average for the Drake Relays is faster in almost any season than during the preceding meet. And a year ago, Iowa's great mile relay team of Fred and Carl Teufel, Mill Billig and John Graves bettered its own record of the year before, only to finish third.

Keller's 7th Homer of Year Gives Yanks Win Over Tigers

Dempsey Spars Two Rounds With Godoy

CARMEI, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Jack Dempsey joined the Joe Louis - Arturo Godoy ballyhoo forces today by donning the gloves and boxing two abbreviated rounds with Godoy at his training camp here.

The rounds were held to a minute each. The boys bounced around fairly fast and the old Manassa Mauler was puffing after each. No damage was done.

Dempsey said it was the first time he had really boxed since he went a round each with Max Schmeling and Max Baer before their bout in New York in 1933 which Dempsey promoted.

Godoy, fighting in a stand-up position for a change, reddened Dempsey's face with a few short jabs and once Jack caught the Chilean with a back hand lick that sent Arturo reeling.

Dempsey wasn't as beefy about the midriff as might have been expected, but he took care to warn Godoy to "lay off the old stomach" and keep his punches around the head.

Champions Overcome Early Detroit Lead For 7 to 5 Victory

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Charley Keller's seventh home run of the year with two teammates aboard in the seventh wiped out a lot of early-inning monkey-shines today and gave the world champion Yankees a 7 to 5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

With Dick Bartell hitting a two-run homer in the second, the Tigers bunched five of their seven hits in the first two innings to give Big Buck Newsum a four-run working margin.

He squandered it all in the face of a Yankee bombardment in the second and third innings that tied the score, but was leading when he left the game in the fourth because the Yanks went to sleep to allow a run on no hits.

Bump Hadley, who succeeded Marvin Breuer, gave only two hits in seven innings, but walked three successive batters in the fourth. Charley Gehring forced one of them at the plate and when Catcher Bill Dickey threw to first Bartell raced home before Babe Dahlgren remembered to throw back.

Athletics Nip Chisox, 3 to 2

PHILADELPHIA, June 12 (AP)—Thornton Lee, veteran Chicago White Sox southpaw, held the Athletics to three hits today but two of them were home runs by Bob Johnson and Sam Chapman which gave the A's a 3-2 victory.

After Johnson hit his 11th homer of the season in the first inning, scoring Benny McCoy from first, Lee held the Athletics until the fifth. Then Chapman blasted out his fourth four-bagger of the year.

Milnar Chased From Mound In Big Inning

Jim Bagby Saves Game for Boston As Relief Hurler

BOSTON, June 12 (AP)—By sending 12 men to bat for a six-run rally in the eighth, the Red Sox came from behind today to thump another Cleveland pitching ace and protect their first-place lead with a 9-5 victory.

The Soxers were two runs behind Al Milnar today until they blasted him from the mound with none out in the eighth.

He was replaced by Mel Harder with the score tied at five-all and two runners on.

Doc Cramer opened the rally with a single, which was duplicated by Lou Finney. After Captain Jimmy Foss scored both with a double, Milnar surrendered by passing Ted Williams.

Manager Joe Cronin was the first to face the Cleveland relief pitcher and after he sacrificed, Harder filled the bases by passing Jim Tabor. Stan Spence, pinch-hitting for Gene Desautels, brought in Foss with a long fly and then the Soxers counted three more runs on singles by Jim Bagby and Bobby Doerr. Mike Nymick took over, and, after Cramer made his second hit of the inning, Foss fanned with the bases jammed.

The Indians, who outbit the victors 13-11, made all but one of their bingles before starter Mickey Harris was yanked with none down in the sixth. Jim Bagby held them to one hit during the remainder of the game and wound up as the winning pitcher.

Henry Vollenweider, also credited with the longest touchdown run ever made in Iowa stadium, made the 120-yard low hurdles in 14.9 and the 220 yards in 24.9, both times better than made by Iowans in 1939.

Similarly, although losing most of its meets, Iowa's 1940 track team bettered half of the marks of the year before. Five individuals, to be exact, turned in better performances than any Hawkeyes did in 1939, when Iowa won most of its dual meets.

Henry Vollenweider, also credited with the longest touchdown run ever made in Iowa stadium, made the 120-yard low hurdles in 14.9 and the 220 yards in 24.9, both times better than made by Iowans in 1939.

All except Vollenweider have completed their intercollegiate competition, but the 1941 team will be strengthened by such men as Walter Todd, 10 seconds in the 100 and 48.9 in the 440; Bob Michael, six feet, three and one-half inches in the high jump and 22 feet, four and one-half inches in the broad jump and Bill Kelso, 9:52 in the two mile run.

Billy Conn, Pastor Sign Fight Contract

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight and Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, the light-heavyweight champion, today were signed for a 15-round fight at the Polo Grounds here, Tuesday, August 13, Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting club, announced.

Johnny Ray, representing Conn, agreed to terms yesterday and today James J. Johnston visited Jacob and signed for Pastor.

It is believed there is an understanding the winner will be in line for a heavyweight title shot in the fall.

Conn, who intends to fight exclusively as a heavyweight in the future, is expected to formally vacate the 175-pound title within the next few days.

Royal Cafe Triumphs, 20-19

In a wild and wooly game, marked by numerous errors, Royal cafe nipped the Power Boys last night in a city league softball game, 20-19. Although outbit, the cafe boys bunched bingles and opponents' errors to grab the nod.

The Power Boys started strong with four runs in the first, but the cafe team scored six runs in the third. From then on it was Royal cafe until the seventh, when the Power Boys tied it up and filled the bases with none out, only to have a triple play kill the threat.

Royal cafe pushed across a run in the last half of the inning on a series of errors to decide the game.

vances, where for a time communications had been only general in tone.

Compiègne Occupied

Occupied, too, was Compiègne—a city of bitter memories for the nazis. There German generals in the first World war signed the armistice with Marshal Foch. From Compiègne the invaders reported finding a French plaque which said: "The criminal arrogance of the German reich died here."

German sources declared it would be a "crime" for the French to attempt to defend Paris. No repetition of the "miracle of the Marne" of 1914 could save the city, they said.

The jubilant claims for a victory over France were based on these circumstances, as the newspaper Dienst Aus Deutschland itemized them:

1. The German right flank, which in 1914 was uncovered is now a powerful destructive force making full steam down the French coast, while the Marne is being crossed on the other side of Paris.

2. Germany now has but one front, while before she had the Russians at her back.

3. France entered this new decisive battle weakened by the loss of much of her armies in Flanders.

4. France stands alone now, while in 1914 she had the British with her.

5. Last time, the French could withdraw troops from the Italian frontier, but now she must defend that frontier.

London--

of explosives she struck along the German front in France, across the border in Germany, over the Alps to Italy's centers of industry and into Africa against troops, ships and airdromes.

Britain's empire around the world joined in the blows against the foes of the allies.

Along a farflung fighting front from equatorial Africa to arctic Norway:

1—Low-flying waves of bombers gave the German right wing encircling Paris a 10-minute shower of death with high explosive and incendiary bombs poured down at a rate of more than 100 a minute. Other raiders crossed Germany's border and bombed Cologne and military objectives at other western German towns. Home defense planes shot down a German bomber off the English coast. Winging to the north, bombers claimed direct hits on German warships in the Norwegian port of Trondheim.

2—Military objectives at the Italian cities of Turin and Genoa were bombed. One British plane was reported missing.

3—Warplanes based in British Kenya and Egypt struck repeatedly at Italian troops, ships and air fields in Eritrea on the Red sea, Libya on the Mediterranean, and the Italian-conquered Kingdom of Abyssinia (Ethiopia). Wave after wave of British Blenheim bombers were reported to have swept the skies over the Italian naval base at Trbruc harbor, on the Libyan coast, setting a warship afire and hitting two submarines. Airdromes were bombed in Eritrea and British South Africa planes dumped bombs onto Italian hangars in Abyssinia.

4—Italy's losses of the merchant marine that plies her vital trade routes rose to more than 70,000 tons as the Indian government seized the 9,515-ton Calabria at Calcutta and the crew of the 9,780-ton Romolo set her afire in mid-Pacific when sighted by an armed Australian merchant ship.

5—Egypt, ancient guardian of the Suez canal, was reported by Reuters (British news agency) to have broken off relations with Italy and the canal was closed to Italian ships.

Fully equipped for battle, Canada's first overseas division stood ready in England for the war to strike. In the near east—Palestine and Syria and Egypt—Britain's part of an allied army of black, brown and white soldiers of the empire was poised. That army several months ago was estimated at 200,000, including 20,000 to 30,000 Australians and New Zealanders. Whether it has been increased, or how much, has not been disclosed.

House--

signed legislation providing the funds.

At the same time, the White House disclosed that the government was turning reserve manufacturing equipment over to private industry to make possible the "immediate" manufacture of sizable quantities of smokeless powder, ammonia and small arms munition. It said, too, that "excellent progress" had been made in surveying army-navy stocks for the determination of what may be declared surplus and be made available to the allies.

The army-navy chiefs, including Secretary of War Woodring, Lewis Compton, acting secretary of the navy; General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, Admiral Harold R. Stark, the chief of naval operations and Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, met in Secretary Morgenthau's office.

They had hardly left when Arthur B. Purvis, the chief allied purchasing agent, and Sir Henry Self, British aircraft production expert, entered. Upon their departure, they made their announcement that more supplies would be made available.

"I understand some more material will be declared surplus, which we will have an opportunity to obtain," he said. "I cannot tell you what the material will be, but we are naturally encouraged to know that some more will be available."

In asserting his determination to split with the democratic party, if it becomes a "war party," Wheeler said he did not want to break with the administration or the party, but that he would unhesitatingly do so "if it becomes necessary."

He said that Great Britain had interpreted the American policy of material assistance to the allies as meaning eventual American involvement in the war, and added:

"We ought to serve notice that a great majority of the senate is not going to vote for war, and we're not going to get into it. We ought not to fool Great Britain and France into thinking we're going to send American boys across the water again to be shot up."

Referring to a full page advertisement urging "Stop Hitler Now," which appeared in many papers yesterday, Wheeler said "Everybody knows somebody is paying" for it, and "We ought to know where the money is coming from." He asked what had become of the resolution of Senator Clark (D-Mo) to provide an investigation of propaganda activities in the United States.

Flag Day Service to Be Sponsored By Elks Club Friday

Local Lodge Joins Nation In Observance

Flag Celebration To Be Conducted In Elk Club House

A public flag day service for Iowa City will be conducted tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Elks club house by the Iowa City Elks lodge, no. 590, it was announced yesterday by Judge Harold D. Evans, chairman of a special flag day committee of the Elks lodge.

The public service is the only one of its kind in Iowa City and is sponsored annually by the Elks lodge. Elks lodges all over the United States conduct similar services on the day set aside for all of the United States to pay tribute to the American flag.

"The purpose is to honor our country's flag, to celebrate the anniversary of its birth and to revere the achievements wrought beneath its folds," Judge Evans explained in his announcement. "The Order of Elks is distinctively American and it is quite appropriate that it should hold such a service," he continued.

Prof. H. J. Thornton of the University of Iowa history department will deliver the principal address of the service and Judge Evans will give a history of the flag assisted by Jean Taylor at the piano who will play music appropriate to each flag in our nation's history. The Iowa City Sea Scouts will also assist in this portion of the program.

Other music for the program will be furnished by Lester Taylor who will sing "Spanish Gold" and "I Stood on the River Jordan," and Miss Taylor will play two harp solos, "The Fountain" and "God Bless America."

Flag day is observed annually by every Elks lodge in the United States. The Iowa City Elks service is the only one open to the public. Everyone, especially children, is invited to attend.

Here is the complete program as announced by Judge Evans.

- 1—Song, "The Star Spangled Banner," by all.
- 2—Introductory exercises, exalted ruler and officers of local Elks lodge, No. 590.
- 3—Prayer, chaplain.
- 4—Solos by Lester Taylor, "Spanish Gold" and "I Stood on the River Jordan."
- 5—History of the flag by Judge Harold D. Evans assisted by Jean Taylor and the Sea Scouts.
- 6—Altar service, esquire and officers.
- 7—Harp solos by Jean Taylor, "The Fountain" and "God Bless America."
- 8—Address by Prof. H. J. Thornton.
- 9—Song, "America," by all.
- 10—Elks tribute to the flag, exalted ruler and all.
- 11—Closing.

In addition to Judge Evans, the committee includes Atty. Will J. Hayek and B. M. Ricketts.

Student Total Will Compare With Last Year

A summer session enrollment practically equal to that of last year was estimated Wednesday by University of Iowa officials as students continued to enroll.

Last summer some 3,000 students of the collegiate level were present upon the campus. The incomplete figures to date are running practically even with those of the corresponding date a year ago, officials said.

Late-comers will continue to enroll this week and next. These include mostly teachers from schools which close near the middle of June.

In addition to the collegiate level students, nearly 300 music and speech students now are enrolling to begin work Monday.

Rayburn Suit Against Maher Is Deferred

Draw Jury Monday In Prosecution Case, Brought by Halligan

District Court Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday continued to the September term of court the case between E. D. Rayburn doing business as the Iowa City Distributing company, plaintiff, and J. B. Maher doing business as the Maher 7-Up company, defendant, by agreement of all parties. In the suit Rayburn asks $1,500 damages for breach of an oral contract.

Petit jurors will report at 10 a.m. Monday and a jury will be impaneled to hear a malicious prosecution case between Vernon Halligan, plaintiff, and the Lone Tree Farmers' exchange, defendants.

Halligan claims that on April 17, 1939, F. H. Lenz, president of the farmers' exchange company, signed information in an Iowa City justice court against the plaintiff charging him with larceny which charge he knew to be "false and untrue."

The plaintiff asserts further that on May 2, 1939, Lenz appeared before the Johnson county grand jury and submitted information which led to the indictment of Halligan. This indictment was dismissed later upon the advice to the court of the county attorney, according to the petition.

Halligan asks $2,325 for actual and special damages and $2,000 as punitive damages, both sums with interest and costs.

Atty. Edward L. O'Connor and Arthur O. Luff represent the plaintiff and Welch, Acra and Welch of Logan represent the defendants.
