Swastikas Float Over Paris

Nazi Vanguard Occupies City, Main Army Is Expected Soon

'Before Some of the City's War Memorials Were Standing Old Women—Older Women Were Sobbing'

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

PLACE DE L'OPERA, PARIS, BY COURIER PLANE TO BERLIN, June 15 (AP)—The swastika banners of Nazi Germany floated over Paris today from atop practically every prominent and historic structure in this German-captured French capital.

I find myself in Paris as the guest of the German army, before the main forces of that army have arrived.

Only a vanguard is here. The main army is expected before this cable gets under way.

We arrived last night in this city that seems dead. I just do not recognize Paris again. Seventy per cent of its population has fled.

From the Hotel Crillon, where once President Wilson of the United States addressed French crowds, the swastika is flying.

The banner also is flying from atop the Quai D'Orsay, (the French foreign office); from the Arc De Triomphe, under which lies buried France's unknown soldier of the World war; from the historic city hall; and from the Eiffel tower.

It all seems unreal, like an Arabian nights tale come to life.

This dispatch is being sent from here at 9 a. m. (2 a. m., CST).

On first entering Paris last night, we drove to the tomb of the unknown soldier in the twilight.

As a background to the Arc De Triomphe, the sky was disfigured by an enormous ugly cloud of smoke emanating from the region around St. Germain.

That suburb apparently was in flames from artillery fire.

It was about 9 p. m.—and the arc was bathed in a mellow, reddish light.

Before the tomb of "Un Soldat Inconnu" were standing old women, young women, bearded old men and boys in their teens. Many of the older women were sobbing softly.

As we approached the tomb in company of our guides from the army their looks hardened for a moment. They appeared to relax somewhat, however, when the German officers, removed their caps, stood still and saluted the symbol of the brave French soldiery buried there.

To countless American tourists who know Paris it is probably as incomprehensible as it was to me that the old Paris was a ghost city when I entered.

We came by way of the Clichy gate. No Germans were visible anywhere along our drive through this section.

Such few citizens as stood around at corners or gathered about radio loudspeakers gazed at us in curiosity.

They apparently had not seen any German officers before.

It is an open question whether Adolf Hitler will duplicate his Warsaw performance, when in October, 1939, only two days after capitulation of the Polish capital, he reviewed a gigantic parade of his forces.

Perhaps he has decided to do as he did at Brussels last week. He came and left there practically incognito.

In one way or another, however, he is bound to come soon to Paris for the first visit of his life.

The Tidningen's correspondent declared that some Germans in Kaunas were concerned because "they expect an attack against Germany immediately and are afraid Germany would have to direct some troops eastward from the western front."

Senate Approves Relief Bill Loaded With Provisions for National Defense

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—A relief bill, loaded with provisions for national defense and a varied assortment of other matters, slid through the senate today on a voice vote after five days' debate.

The measure was returned to the house for consideration of numerous senate changes and additions that boosted its total to $1,224,791,357 in appropriations. The house had approved a $1,111,000,000 measure.

President Roosevelt's request for a $50,000,000 war refugee fund to be spent in this country for agricultural or medical supplies and distributed to European refugees by the Red Cross or any other agency designated by the president was approved. An administration plan for noncombatant training of 300,000 CCC youths also was sanctioned.

By a 58 to 16 vote, the senate also inserted a $100,000,000 fund for removal of surplus agricultural products that neither the president nor the senate appropriation committee had recommended.

Unchanged was the house total of $975,650,000 for the works projects administration, biggest item in the bill, although the senate imposed various new conditions for spending this money.

Although the relief funds are for the fiscal year opening July 1, the senate agreed with the house in granting the president authority to spend the entire WPA fund in eight months if needed. This would provide an average WPA employment of 2,032,000 persons for an eight-month period.

The senate earmarked $25,000,000 of these funds to help pay costs of national defense projects approved by the war or navy department.

Plunge Against Maginot Line; Other Units Reach Chaumont

French Fight Back With Fury of 'Men In Anguish' as Government Meets To Consider Plea to U. S.

(Editor's Note: The movement of the French government and communications facilities to the Bordeaux region has cut the news from France to a mere trickle. In London it is stated authoritatively that little military news from France may be expected until this transit is effected. The following story, however, has been received by wireless from Associated Press men in Bordeaux):

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BORDEAUX, June 15—Germany's armies threw a battering ram across the Rhine and into Alsace tonight in the face of the guns of the Maginot line.

Deep behind the Maginot other Nazi columns—more than 100 miles due west of the crossing of the Rhine—plunged over the Seine and touched the heights of Chaumont some 135 miles southeast of German-engulfed Paris.

The French fought back with the fury of men in anguish.

The government met "somewhere in France." President Lebrun, Premier Reynaud, Generalissimo Weygand, Admiral Jean Darlan, the navy chief, and General Joseph Vuillemin, the air chief, were there.

In their grave position they dealt with the results of Reynaud's "final" pleas for American help, for "clouds of airplanes."

The semi official Havas agency said there would be no separate French peace with Hitler. Its dispatch was from London.

Official reports, the only ones available, said "a few detachments" crossed the Rhine after the most violent of bombardments.

The Maginot line, however, was not broken at "the point of resistance," tonight's communiqué insisted.

This was at Neuf Breisach, some 40 miles south of Strasbourg. The armies of Paris fell back "in the best of order."

The German armies of Champagne, seeking to engulf the French and to render the Maginot line helpless from the rear, were forced to fight one great battle after another.

Tonight these German armies had crossed the Seine at Romilly, some 65 miles southeast of Paris; had increased their pressure between Troyes and St. Dizier, still further east, and had sent advance guards to the region of Chaumont, which is the capital of the Haute-Marne department and lies between the Marne and the Suize.

This is in the heart of France. In the west, the high command said the situation was unchanged.

There was violent fighting west of Louviers, a city of 50 miles southeast of the German-taken port of LeHavre.

But, it seemed, the French were holding this German push toward the rest of the channel ports. South of Louviers, another battle went on in the region of Evreux.

F. D. R.'s Promise To Aid Allies Seen by British as 'Generous'

Roosevelt Will Help As Long as Powers Will Continue Resistance

LONDON, June 15 (AP)—British authorities expressed "sincere gratitude" tonight for President Roosevelt's promise of aid to the allies as long as they "continue to resist," while reports were published in this capital that Sunday might decide the fight for France.

It was said that the allied commanders in the field had made a fateful decision which might tell the tale across the channel, but there was no hint as to what it was.

The French cabinet, having met today without announcement, will meet again tomorrow. Then it can consider the Roosevelt message.

Mr. Roosevelt's response to French Premier Paul Reynaud's "final" appeal for help was called here a "generous" one.

His "assurance that the United States will redouble its efforts to send planes and munitions to the allies as long as the allied governments continue to resist," these sources added, "is especially welcome and his explanation that this assurance carries with it no implications of military character and that only congress can make such commitments is fully understood and appreciated."

(Specifically, President Roosevelt, in a message to Reynaud, cautioned that his promises "carry with them no implications of military commitment. Only the congress can make such commitments.")

French Lose Ship in Attack On Italian City

ROME, June 15 (AP)—A dawn naval attack on Genoa in which the French lost a destroyer, and the occupation of French territory on the Alpine frontier were reported today by the Italian high command.

The Italian advance across the frontier, experts indicated, was part of the plan for German and Italian soldiers to break the last French resistance after the fall of Paris.

The high command said that "some localities beyond the border" were occupied.

With France crushed, Italian sources explained, both axis powers could attack the British—Germans striking at England while the Italians assaulted British bases in the Mediterranean.

War Department Prepares To Order More Men for Duty

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The war department is preparing to order from four to five thousand additional reserve officers to active duty on short notice, as a part of the army's rapid expansion.

A large proportion of those to be summoned to command troops will be given orders next week to report July 1 or shortly thereafter, officials said.

All are volunteers, and will serve for periods of six months or a year each, with possible extensions. Most are expected to be youthful first and second lieutenants, recent graduates of college reserve officer training corps.

Reservists in most demand are R. O. T. C.-trained lieutenants, who will command platoons of 27 men or fewer.

Russia Sends Red Troops Into Lithuania

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 15 (AP)—A demonstration on the steps of the municipal theater, which authorities had authorized on the grounds it would be purely a pro-United States manifestation, was interrupted by police today when it turned into a pro-allied manifestation.

Brazil has remained neutral in the war and as a neutral has prohibited public manifestations for one side or the other.

(Two previous dispatches, heavily censored, said that a group carrying American flags arrived in front of the United States embassy to deliver a message to Ambassador Jefferson Caffery but that the contents of the message were not disclosed immediately.)

(The first dispatch also told of shooting in dispersing a group of demonstrators, but this and the reference to the reported embassy demonstration were not mentioned in the last dispatch.)

Lindy Tells U. S. To Build

Asserts That America Should Stay at Home, Not Meddle in Politics

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh asserted tonight that the defense of the United States should be constructed with the "cooperation of all American countries," but that "we must insist upon military bases being placed wherever they are needed for our own safety, regardless of who owns the territory involved."

He embraced this idea of western hemisphere defense in an address prepared for radio delivery (NBC) in which he also asserted that "we must stop this trend" toward involvement in the European war and cease "these gestures with an empty gun."

Tonight's address by Lindbergh was the second of the same nature within a month. On the last occasion he condemned "meddling with affairs abroad" and denounced "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion"—a speech which brought criticism from various members of congress and praise from some others.

Tonight he reiterated this viewpoint in these words:

"This dabbling we have been doing in European affairs can lead only to failure in the future as it has in the past. . . . We demand that foreign nations refrain from interfering in our hemisphere, yet we constantly interfere in theirs. . . . We have been doing to England and France what they did to Abyssinia, to Czechoslovakia, to Poland, to Finland, and to Norway—we have encouraged them to hope for help we cannot send."

He contended that it was "useless to talk of sending American troops to Europe now, for we would need months of preparation before we could train and equip even a small army."

Allies Assured of Aid--F. D. R.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt, replying to the "last appeal" of Premier Reynaud for further aid for France, pledged redoubled efforts today to supply munitions, but told him that only congress could make military commitments.

As long as the French continue to fight "in defense of their liberty," Mr. Roosevelt said, they can be assured that increasing quantities of airplanes, artillery and munitions will be sent them from this country.

And the United States, he said, "will not consider as valid any attempts to infringe by force the independence and territorial integrity of France."

It was after making this pledge that Mr. Roosevelt referred to the question of military aid. "I know that you will understand," he said, "that these statements carry with them no implication of military commitments. Only congress can make such commitments."

It was the first time in any of his public communications with heads of the allied governments that Mr. Roosevelt had referred to the question of American military aid.

Reynaud directed the president last Thursday a message which the French premier described in a radio address as "a new and last appeal." In his address, Reynaud referred to the aid already received from America, declared that the French knew "what a high place ideals hold" in the life of the American people, and asked: "Will they hesitate still to declare themselves against Nazi Germany?"

This question was interpreted by many as a plea for the United States to declare war on Germany. In making public Mr. Roosevelt's reply, Stephen Early, White House press secretary, said that the premier's communication was not being given to reporters because it was the same as his radio address which had been published.

China's Capital Razed by Japanese Bombers

In a flash air raid lasting 23 minutes, Japanese bombing planes destroyed two-thirds of China's provisional capital, Chungking, and caused approximately 1,500 casualties. Reports claim it to be the worst single devastation of a city since airplanes have served a military purpose. Officials of the American embassy expressed incredulity that such havoc could occur in such a short time.

Converting Fifth Columnists

During and after the Bismark regime millions of Germans emigrated from the homeland to the New World. They were fed up with the imperialism that catapulted Germany into wars against the Danes and Austrians and that ended only with the Franco-Prussian war. Of a peaceful nature, they wanted to escape the compulsory military service, the high taxation, and the stern political regimentation all too common in Germany.

Just before and after the turn of the century, an estimated 20 million of these sturdy people settled in all parts of the United States. They were the sturdy middle class that Lenin cursed so profoundly; they had money, brains, and ambition; they bought farms, businesses, and factories; they founded Turner societies, built their own presses, and raised hundreds of towns that became prosperous German communities. Their numbers became legion, their influence, tremendous. In St. Louis and Milwaukee they established brewing industries and gradually worked into banks, railroads, and other empire-making institutions.

FRICION IN 1917

In 1917 some of these Germans still cherished a sentimental tie with the fatherland even to the point of disaffection with the American war program. There was considerable friction with violence here and there, although the great majority of these people were unwaveringly loyal and gave both their money and blood to the cause of the allies.

It is unfortunate but true; some of these feuds are still remembered. There is hardly a German-American who defended the Kaiser that does not have accusing fingers pointed at him whenever he enters a controversy. Always he is reminded of his past disloyalty or is talked about behind closed doors.

Now there is talk everywhere and proof here and there that a fifth column is active in the United States. The bund continues as usual. A group of youths in New York were detected by the F. B. I. and found guilty of subversive activities and the possession of firearms that suggested future violence. The Yorkville section of New York has many active Hitler-ites that spread active propaganda, as does every other major city where the numbers of German-Americans are great enough to include the rabid sort who are eager for the downfall of America through armed violence.

THE DANGER HERE

Although these movements have reached alarming proportions in South and even Central America, there is not so much reason for concern in the average American town and countryside. Cities are not representative of the country at large. Neither do they contain the bulk of the citizens. Cities always have violent and partisan groups who precipitate trouble always.

Very few Germans today approve of Adolf Hitler. Hundreds of them who were pro-German in 1917 are now loud in their denunciation of totalitarianism. Most of them are obviously sincere.

They have reaped the material gains, the education, and the spiritual freedom of America. They realize these blessings would disappear under a Hitler dominated world. They are willing again to pour their life and soul into the struggle to halt the new invasion.

It is the stern duty of every citizen to see that these loyal and sincere Germans are not persecuted or boycotted, mauled or disgraced as some of them were in 1917. They must be protected, too, from the Hitler-ites who will probably do all they can to influence or intimidate them.

COMBATING FIFTH COLUMNS

City and town authorities would do well to discourage mob violence in the treatment of the minority that is obviously or supposedly fifth column. Lynchings and street brawls are always inaccurate and disastrous. The true criminals are seldom caught. Only the innocent suffer. It would be far better if the police, the F. B. I., and other authorized organizations were allowed to make the investigations, conduct the trials, and impose sentences. In this manner there could be hardly any evil done that would turn the loyal Germans back into the wrong camp.

These same sentiments would, of course, apply to the great Italian areas of population found mostly in the larger cities. It is apparent, even now, that there is little to fear from these people.

When America is well organized, strong and prepared, she will be even more attractive to all these groups of power-loving, flag-waving people.

As America becomes more and more a prepared nation, their desire for centralization, organization, and focus can be satisfied in the struggle for the preservation and glory of democracy.

Hitler Enters Paris

Hitler will enter Paris as he entered Vienna, Prague, and Warsaw. This is beyond the wildest dreams of anybody except Hitler and his fantastic prophet, H. G. Wells. The former lance corporal is having his day as did Alexander, Caesar, and Napoleon.

Like Alexander, Caesar, and Napoleon, Hitler will meet his fatal disaster. Mr. Wells, who is also a fairly solid historian, might also prophesy this. Like all other historic killers, the natural forces of destruction that so far have aided the nazi dictator, will turn to destroy him. This seems inevitable and in the scheme of things.

The fuhrer's plot was complete and well nigh faultless. Almost everything conspired with him to create his transcendent success. The bickering jealousies of the small countries, the blundering stupidity of England, the lack of mechanization in France, what with clear weather, supreme good luck, and the momentum of success have all combined to effect one of the most startling military campaigns in the bloody annals of war.

One thing the world surely has learned. The old-fashioned virtues of hard work, co-operation, centralization, and the subordination of petty and private interests have been the dynamic powers back of the grimly welded German machine. The same spontaneous force that drove England over the seas in French Revolution, that drove prairie schooners into the rich empire of Midwest America is now rampant in the Reich. Unfortunately the moral element dominating the nazi drive is false. It is like the fever before the inoculation of a dread disease that for a time obsesses the patient with a strange dynamic strength.

But the seeds of destruction are inherent in this body, and what stimulated the organisms to superhuman productivity will in turn sap and destroy until death. The maniac Hitler will have his day until this reaction sets in. Then the revenge will be equally bitter and complete.

A Man About MANHATTAN

The British Empire, Fate, and a Stage Play

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The Players Club of New York has put on a revival of the Congreve comedy, "Love for Love," that first was produced in London in 1695. But the dramatic aspects of this revival are not to be found in the comedy itself, which simply is a robustly cheerful and bawdy piece of Restoration play writing. They are to be found in the singular and ironic parallel of figures and circumstances that face Whitehall today.

This play's premiere took place during the reign of William and Mary. Seven years earlier Britain had been invaded from those same Dutch channel ports the Nazis hold today. This invasion was led by William of Orange, who was Mary's husband. Mary was the daughter of James II, against whom the people revolted.

Most of the fighting took place on Irish soil, and at the Battle of Boyne the Stuart adherents were defeated decisively. Their leaders then took refuge in France, and this, for all practical purposes, was the end of their dreams of restoration.

What makes this such a dramatic page in history to study and ruminate on is this: the leader of the successful British forces was a man named John Churchill, who became the Duke of Marlborough, ancestor of Winston Churchill, Britain's great wartime Prime Minister.

It should be pointed out that the revival of this play was more of a family affair than a public event, for the aristocratic Old Players club is an institution in New York that puts on its plays only once a year, and then only for a week. "Love for Love," therefore, is only a memory. No manager could pay the salaries demanded for a commercial engagement with such a cast. Originally the Players began with the Booths and the Drews back in the 80's. Today the club includes famous writers and authors as well as the distinguished names of the theater. Two hundred and fifty years ago the Players hadn't yet been invented. But a man named Churchill was wielding a sword in defense of England during her hour of need. Today Congreve's old comedy is something for New Yorkers to giggle over, while 3,000 miles away another man named Churchill is wielding a sword in defense of an empire that sorely needs him.

Oscar Serlin, in his elation over the good luck "Life With Father" has enjoyed, has published a very fancy album for his newspaper and theatrical friends, each with the name of the recipient embossed in gold on the front. It is a handsome piece of work, profusely illustrated and carrying a fund of interesting information about the players, authors, the famous old Empire theater at 40th street and Broadway, and something, too, of the real father, Clarence Day, whose life inspired the play. Serlin loves the play, he says, because it "celebrates an era when life was peaceful and gracious, and the future secure."

This phrase, "and the future secure," no doubt comes from Serlin's heart; he was born in Yalowka, Poland, and Poland, as we have seen, has been anything but secure.

An Exiled German Scholar, Past His 65th Birthday—

Thomas Mann Likes U. S., It's So Free of Red Tape

BY JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor
PRINCETON, N. J. — Life in America seems very attractive to Thomas Mann today, not long after his 65th birthday, of June 6. It seems, too, almost miraculously free of small annoyances—those small checks and counterchecks which even in peacetime wrap Europe in a tangle of red tape.

One reason there are so few of these annoyances, Dr. Mann feels, may be because this is a big country in every sense, and this also may be part of the reason for its greatness.

First-Rate Americans
In any case, although the Manns have spent only two winters in America, these have made, he says, "first rate Americans of us."

Mann looks younger than 65. His hair is grizzled, but his skin

Mrs. Mann is the volatile one. She is shorter than her husband, talks faster, and is more eager. She is likely to change chairs while talking, and grows vehement, pushing back her carelessly arranged hair, when the European debate is mentioned.

And although the Manns are living in a huge house close to the "mansion" class, the atmosphere is entirely that of a lived-in home. There are six Mann children, in their teens or older, and all of them are about at one or another time, bringing life to the huge drawing rooms.

There also is a ninth member of the family, a handsome black poodle named Nikko. When Mann, frequently called the greatest living man of letters, enters a room, Nikko flings himself at him, sometimes knocking the wind out of him with an eager thump in the belly.

U. S. Press "The Finest"
Dr. and Mrs. Mann have been here such a comparatively short time, they notice a number of things about America that we overlook, sometimes. One of these is the American newspaper.

"I think no papers in the world have finer groups of correspondents," he says.

The quality of American university life also impresses the Manns. Princeton reminds Mann of one of the small German universities—Jena, or Heidelberg, in the old days. He also has enjoyed his connection with Princeton as lecturer, but it gives him pause at times. This because although he speaks English readily, he does not feel sure enough of himself to lecture in the language without careful preparation.

American food was a little puzzling at first, particularly, Mrs. Mann says, because of our habit of putting sweet things like fruit in our salads—"pears for example," although she pronounced it "peers."

"Then, I thought, why not? Peers are good that way."

Our language seems, at first, very easy, Dr. Mann says, "and then the subtleties appear." But because it is easy at first it has great colonizing power; it is today the universal language, the real Esperanto, he believes.

A Boost for California
The next Mann book to appear in America will be a novel about the Weimar of Goethe's Sixties. It was called "Lotte in Weimar" in the German edition. When it appears here next August it will bear the title, "The Beloved Returns." It concerns the experience of an old flame of Goethe's who comes back to Weimar when the poet is 67. This summer, Mann plans to do the last volume of his Joseph series, which will take his elaboration of the Old Testament story up to the death of Jacob.

He does not feel he can write the Joseph book in his big, book-crusted study in Princeton. He is going to California, and his reason would please the climate boosters.

It's that he thinks the bright, clear air of California is better suited than the New Jersey sky to the incubation of a story of the Holy Land.

"SO THIS IS PARIS!"

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

How Russia Was Rumored at War

WASHINGTON—The rumor that fooled the world—apparently including the New York stock exchange—for 24 hours was the one that Russia had entered the war on the side of the allies. It was not an invention of nazi fifth columnists in France as has been suggested on the radio from Tours. Nor was it a French diplomatic fabrication to sound out current Russian feelings following the reception there of the new British and French ambassadors.

Certain official authorities have made it their business to run down the source of the story and they have traced it to a French military officer in charge of a small detachment of troops on the battlefield outside Paris. He passed the story to his troops last Monday in order to stir them to greater effort at a time when their morale needed stimulation. The condensed version swept through the French army and populace, and by Tuesday night had reached Washington. Thereafter it appeared Wednesday on the Stock exchange in New York although not a word had been printed concerning it in any newspaper at that time.

Superiors of the imaginative officer in the French government appreciated that the backfire of disillusionment following the story could be dangerous, so the French censors Wednesday night passed stories out of Tours attributing it to fifth columnists.

DIPLOMATIC JUGGLING—While Stalin is recognized here as being always in the market for the highest bidder, there has been little hope within officialdom that the allies could raise the price to sufficiently attractive heights.

Hitler has done a slick inside diplomatic job of reconciling Russian antagonisms in the Balkans for his own purposes. He persuaded Italy to restrain its appetite for Balkan expansion and has played Russia off against Turkey. For his own purposes, he induced Stalin to threaten Turkey with Russian action of Turkey declared war upon Italy as she has contemplated doing. Thus the Berlin fakir not only reconciled as partners two opposite ends of the known idealistic poles but succeeded, momentarily at least, in preventing the British and French from getting the aid of their Turkish ally, and kept the Balkans off his neck.

This juggling required Hitler to keep more balls in the air than any previous diplomatic performer and it has been evident two or more of them are going to bump sometime.

F. R. PUTS ONE OVER—Three days after this government started slipping planes to the allies, no announcement had been made directly or indirectly by any government official, and the war department was still insisting it had no information on the subject.

To a discerning eye it was apparent inside the war department that the army generals had no relish for the business. Up until deliveries actually started, officials there had insisted planes would not be delivered, only obsolete equipment such as old rifles and machine guns.

BUSINESS COOPERATES—The way businessmen of all kinds have been descending upon Washington to offer their cooperation for national defense will furnish a folklore of democratic inspirations when they are fully told.

But even the commerce department bureau handling the hundreds of such offers reached the limit of its defense imagination when a patriotic New York manufacturer came in, announced that he was a producer of brassieres, and asked if there was anything he could do.

His name was taken. There might be.

Louis Plans To Carve Godoy Like Cake Thursday Eve

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Joe Louis is throwing a party in Yankee stadium Thursday night to celebrate the end of the third year in his record reign as king of the fight world.

weight championship—an all-time total which already has doubled the "high" for successful title defenses by any of the 15 previous heavyweights champions since the Marquis of Queensbury made a science out of the gentle art of scrambling ears.

jinx. Louis, who took the title from old Jim Braddock in June of '37, laughed at the "unlucky six" more than a year ago when he belted out old Jack Roper in Los Angeles.

without getting his hair too mussed. So, now he is of the definite opinion Louis doesn't even have to show Thursday night, because he hasn't a chance to win anyway.

Godoy's chief hop lies in the fact Louis is something less than the greatest ring general in the world. He "befuddles" easily and the Godoy style is a right smart "befuddler."

In many ways the two are physically similar. Louis is 26; Godoy admits to 27. They'll each weigh around the 200-pound mark and both stand a little over six feet. The chief difference lies in the damage each carries in the cannon on the end of his arms.

Right-hander to swallow his third consecutive defeat after winning nine games in a row. Five of the seven hits Walters gave were doubles and one homer.

Cincinnati battled valiantly with an eight-hit offensive that included four home runs, two of them by Ernie Lombardi, and succeeded in routing Tex Carleton in the fourth frame, but Tot Pressnell squelched them with two-hit relief hurling for his third triumph of the season.

Although the teams have met 10 times this spring, this was the first time either had turned back the other twice in succession and it gave Brooklyn a 6-4 advantage for the season's play.

Babe Phelps and Pete Coscarart were the big guns in the Dodgers' bombardment, but Brooklyn's hits were divided seven ways. Phelps batted in four runs with a homer, a double and a single and Coscarart sparked a five-run explosion in the seventh by tripling with the bases loaded.

Phelps' homer came with one on in the first after Brooklyn already had scored on a double, a hit batsman and a double play. In the third Phelps doubled with two on and came home on another double by Dolph Camilli.

Walters was removed for a pinch hitter in the fourth and Milt Shoffner and John Hutchings finished.

Shoffner checked the Dodgers until the seventh when Brooklyn batted around and scored five times on six hits that included Coscarart's three-bagger.

Louie Frey homered for Cincinnati in the third and Frank McCormick and Ernie Lombardi led off with successive home runs in the fourth. When Harry Craft singled and John Rizzo doubled, Carleton gave up the ghost.

Two long flies scored the two runners, and closed the gap in the score to 6-5 but thereafter Cincinnati's only run was Lombardi's second circuit clout.

The game was delayed 45 minutes by rain and the combination of uncertain weather and expectations of a sellout held the crowd to 16,155 paying customers and 5,012 boys, guests of the Dodgers.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15 (AP)—The Western conference still is looking for its first dual meet track and field victory over the Pacific Coast conference, and the goal seems about as far away as it ever did.

The picked squads from the two conferences will compete for the fourth straight year next Monday night on the Northwestern university track in a twilight meet starting at 6 p. m. (C. S. T.)

In the three previous meets the west coast galaxy more than doubled the score on its midwest rivals, and this season has a better than outside chance of doing it again. Last year the margin was 94 1-3 to 36 2-3. The Big Ten squad never has scored more than 44 points and its rivals have always scored 92 or more.

Betty Jameson Wins From Patty Berg

ST. LOUIS, June 15 (AP)—Betty Jameson, the tousel woman's national golf champion of San Antonio, Tex., burned up the Glen Echo course in 8 under par today to defeat Patty Berg, the defending champion, 2 up in a thrilling 36-hole bout for the trans-Mississippi championship.

It remained anybody's game to the seventeenth hole, where Betty won with a par 4 after Patty was forced to recover from a trap for a bogey 5. All the Texas had to do was halve the home green but Patty's resistance was completely broken by now and she overrode the green with her third shot for another bogey 6, while her opponent was in nicely for a par.

The match see-sawed back and forth all day and Betty, a tough customer in match play when her putter is working, was pretty downhearted coming up to the fifteenth one down.

But here she cracked in the most spectacular shot of the day—a chip-in from a foot off the green. She aimed for nearly two minutes, then threaded the needle

Census Takers Report Iowa City Population Now 17,157

Iowa City Census Lists 1,817 Increase

Some Time Required Before Detailed Report Will Be Completed

Census officials yesterday reported to the Iowa City chamber of commerce that Iowa City's official 1940 census figure is 17,157, an increase of 1,817 over the 1930 census, Gordon Brown, chamber secretary, announced yesterday.

The increase represents a little more than 11 per cent, Brown said, which is above the average for cities in the rest of the state. Other increases have averaged about 10 per cent.

Census taking was started in Iowa City early in April and census officials have been working nearly two months. Saturday, June 8, was the deadline for counting in Iowa City.

Brown said that some time yet would be required before the detailed report of the 1940 figure could be obtained. Officials will divide the 17,157 total into men and women, children of various ages, occupations and other divisions when complete tabulations are made.

The local chamber of commerce cooperated with the counting after census takers had made their rounds by calling for names of persons who had not been contacted. They secured some 400 additional names with this canvass, Brown said.

Three Settlement Petitions Involving Ben Summerwill To Be Heard Tomorrow

Three petitions for settlement of court tomorrow morning and afternoon. At 9 a.m. tomorrow, Acting Judge W. W. Scott of Davenport, who has conducted previous hearings on the receivership matters, will hold a hearing on the proposed settlement with the Farmers Loan and Trust company. This offer involves payment of $10,000 to settle for transactions involving the sale of the Iowa apartment building to a company in which W. D. Bates, receiver for the three Iowa City banks of which Summerwill was examiner, previously claimed Summerwill had an interest.

The other two settlements will come up for hearing in the court at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon. In the second proposal, Bates states that Summerwill is offering to pay the Johnson County Savings bank $1,000 for a Packard automobile, one of four cars accepted in payment of indebtedness of the Simmons Motor company, Orville and Mattie Simmons, to the receivership.

The third offer, also to be heard by Judge Harold D. Evans, involves a claim for rent for a dwelling property owned by the Iowa City Savings bank receivership. In this, Summerwill proposes to pay the receivership a sum of $840 representing a $10 per month additional rent for the property for the 84 months it was used by Summerwill.

Regarding this latter settlement offering, the petition states that Summerwill has already paid the receiver the sum of $2,940 as rent for the dwelling for the 84 months, this being a monthly rate of $35.

Wednesday, 4:30 p.m.—The annual Sunday school picnic will be held at City park. Ice cream and coffee will be served by the Royal Helper's class, Mrs. Catherine Hope, teacher. Committees on transportation and games have been appointed.

Halligan Case Begins Monday

Malicious Prosecution Suit Brought Against Lone Tree Exchange

A petit jury will be impaneled beginning at 10 a.m. tomorrow to hear a malicious prosecution case between Vernon Halligan, plaintiff, and the Lone Tree Farmers' exchange, defendants.

In his suit, Halligan claims that on April 17, 1939, F. H. Lenz, president of the farmers' exchange company, signed information in an Iowa City justice court against the plaintiff charging him with larceny which charge he knew to be "false and untrue."

The plaintiff asserts further that on May 2, 1939, Lenz appeared before the Johnson county grand jury and submitted information which led to the indictment of Halligan. This indictment was later dismissed upon the advice of the county attorney, according to the petition.

Halligan asks $2,325 for actual and special damages and $2,000 as punitive damages with interest on both sums. He also asks the defendant to pay court costs for the suit.

Attys. Edward L. O'Connor and Arthur O. Leff represent the plaintiff and Welch, Acrea and Welch of Logan, the defendants.

Continue C.I.O. Action
DES MOINES, (AP)—The Iowa supreme court yesterday continued until Sept. 1 action on the appeal of William Senter, C.I.O. union official of St. Louis, Mo., from a conviction under the Iowa criminal syndicalism law carrying a $2,500 fine.

The receiver states in the proposal that the additional sum will constitute a fair and reasonable rent for the property.

The three petitions were filed in district court Friday, June 7 by Floyd A. Philbrick, assistant attorney general of Iowa, and Roscoe Thoma, special assistant attorney general, for Bates, the receiver.

Johnson County Old Settlers Will Hold Annual Picnic July 4

Old Capitol Lawn To Be Meeting Place On 100 Anniversary

The Johnson county Old Settlers' association will hold their annual picnic meeting July 4 this year instead of the customary time in September, it was announced yesterday.

Also changed was the place of the meeting. Formerly held in the City park, this year's meeting and picnic will be on the Old Capitol lawn of the University of Iowa campus.

The occasion for the change in date and place is the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Old Capitol. The cornerstone of the historic building was laid July 4, 1840. The Old Settlers' association planned the meeting in conjunction with this anniversary because no other observance has been planned by the city, university or state.

Following the association's annual picnic lunch at noon, a program which will be open to the public will begin on the Old Capitol lawn at 1:30. Details of this will be announced in a few days.

He was married in 1888 to Isabelle Dawson at Audubon. She preceded him in death in 1934. In 1893 Mr. Abrams became an Iowa City merchant and operated stores here until 1915. He was an active member of the Methodist church and for many years was a member of the official board of the church.

He is survived by two sons, Paul R. Abrams of LeGrange, Ill., and Ward C. Abrams of Oak Park, Ill.; one sister, Mrs. Evan Davis of Los Angeles, Cal.; one brother, H. H. Abrams of Ana Cortes, Wash., and four grandchildren.

THUMB-NAIL SKETCH OF A FATHER

By Charles Beckman

He has criticized you bitterly for not trying but never for not trying. He has known all your bad points and he has reminded you of them as dangerous enemies to be conquered but he has also called your attention to your good points. He has treated you like a somebody, when you didn't even know one. He has taken your word—and nothing else. He has gone out of his way to stay out of yours. He has been at your side when you were on your back and he has been at your back when there was no one on your side.

He has tried to get the best FOR you—not OF you. He has loved you as much when you were hit as when you were a hit. He has been far more interested in what you needed than in what you had.

And his bitter disappointments have come when you have failed to measure up to the full capabilities which both you and he have known you possessed.

Next Sunday Mr. Beckman of Beckman's will comment on Shut Ins.
