Large Fleet Strengthens Belief In Diplomatic Quarters That Reich Is Backing King Carol

Nazis Feel Assured of Success in Attempt To Bring Peaceful Settlement Of Territorial Claims

BUCHAREST, July 2 (Tuesday) (AP)—A large fleet of German bombing planes arrived last night at the Brasov military airport, strengthening belief in diplomatic quarters that the reich is backing Rumania in its stand to prevent Russia from making further advances.

The planes' arrival at the airport in the center of Rumania, at a corner of old Transylvania, also reinforced the belief that Germany feels assured of success in its attempt to bring a peaceful settlement of Hungarian and Bulgarian territorial claims on Rumania.

Hungary claims Transylvania, while Bulgaria wants the return of southern Dobruja.

The possibility was seen that these two nations would cooperate in halting the Russian advance and in combating the spread of communist influences in southeastern Europe.

The number of bombers reaching Brasov was not disclosed.

Military observers said they were planes which had been purchased by Rumania, but delivery at this time was held to be highly significant.

The government however, re-doubled its defense preparations in Dobruja and Transylvania in fear of imminent Hungarian and Bulgarian attacks if German pacification efforts should fail.

Pressure Seen Incidents on the Hungarian and Bulgarian borders were held in some official circles to be forms of pressure intended to force Rumania to accept less attractive terms in mediation.

A confidential Rumanian diplomatic report issued Monday night said that apparently concerted Hungarian and Bulgarian attacks against Rumanian frontier posts occurred simultaneously Sunday night and Monday morning.

Hungarian Raid Without locating the scenes of attack, it said the Hungarian raid started at 10:55 p. m. Sunday and lasted until 1 a. m. Monday.

A number of frontier outposts were attacked with rifles, machine guns and even artillery, the report said, and there were a number of casualties on both sides.

During the same hours the Bulgarians were said to have attacked three Rumanian posts on the Dobruja frontier, where a number of casualties resulted.

The German bombing planes reached Brasov a few hours after the Rumanian cabinet had thrown out the old British guarantees of Rumanian territorial integrity and decided that Rumania henceforth must follow "the new orientations of Europe." Some diplomatic quarters interpreted this as strengthening the possibility that King Carol now has a good chance of getting German guarantees against further soviet encroachments.

Russians Pour In The spike-capped Russian troops who are taking over the provinces of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina, which Rumania reluctantly ceded to escape war, poured on in increasing numbers in the wake of the retreating Rumanians.

(Tass, official soviet news agency, said in Moscow that the occupation now is complete.)

The Rumanian renunciation of British and French guarantees, given April 3, 1939, moved this Balkan country further under the German political wing and ended a quarter-century of close association for Magyars.

Thousands of Hungarian-born Rumanian soldiers in Transylvania are refusing to fight for Rumania, the dispatches added, and the number of deserters was growing hourly.

The government has reiterated often that a Rumanian collapse would call for immediate entry of the Hungarian army into Transylvania to protect the Magyar minority of nearly 2,000,000.

It was no secret here that the Russian army's overstepping of the line of demarcation fixed in the Moscow ultimatum to Rumania is causing considerable worry for Hungarian officials as well as for Magyars.

Edwin Blythe Stason Of Michigan Latest Possibility for Position

(Editor's note: The search for a new president of the University of Iowa has extended beyond the date of President Eugene A. Gilmore's resignation—July 1. But the search, according to a member of the board of education, is not over.)

(Contacted last night regarding a report that Dean Edwin B. Stason of the Michigan law school "may be the next Iowa president," this spokesman declared that the Iowa State Board of Education has not yet picked a successor to Dr. Gilmore.)

(Dean Stason is a possibility in a field of possibilities. (The name of the Michigan dean joins a growing list of "presidential possibilities" that extends from the east coast to the west. Among those names may be that of Iowa's next president. Right now the search isn't ended.)

DES MOINES, July 1 (AP)—The Register says reliable sources from outside Iowa have indicated Edwin Blythe Stason, dean of the University of Michigan law school, may be the new president of the State University of Iowa.

The paper said it had learned Dean Stason is among the latest men to whom the Iowa state board of education has talked about coming to the university to succeed Dr. Eugene A. Gilmore, whose resignation became effective today.

Graziani Successor To Balbo in Africa

Willkie Drops Business Ties For Campaign

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie rid himself of business connections today, said he undoubtedly would campaign from one end of the country to the other and expressed the hope "Mr. Roosevelt is renominated because I'd like to beat him."

The republican presidential nominee held a press conference in the small, rather plainly decorated board room of Commonwealth & Southern corporation at 20 Pine street, in the financial district.

Later in the day the corporation directors formally announced Willkie had resigned the $75,000-a-year presidency and directorship of the concern, effective July 10.

The announcement said also that Willkie would resign all directorships and offices he holds in other companies of the Commonwealth and Southern systems. Directors said meetings would be held within a few days to fill the vacancies.

Uruguayan Senate Approves Compulsory Military Conscription

MONTEVIDEO, July 2 (Tuesday) (AP)—The Uruguayan senate approved early today after a four-hour session a bill authorizing compulsory military service and sent the measure to the chamber of deputies.

Observers predicted that the lower house would approve the bill without great discussion.

Although the measure provoked a public clamor when first proposed, resistance apparently has died down in the wake of an official investigation which disclosed allegedly extensive nazi activities.

War Veteran To Command Desert Forces

ROME, July 1 (AP)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, tough veteran of Italy's colonial wars, returned tonight to Libya, scene of his earlier triumphs, to succeed the late Marshal Italo Balbo as commander of north African forces.

His mission was to save from British invasion the territory which, between 1921 and 1929, he reclaimed from native rebels.

While Marshal Balbo's body began its long journey back to Italy, the circumstances of his death remained somewhat obscure. Italian correspondents reported that he rushed into an air battle which he found raging over Tobruk and British machine-gun fire shot down his plane, killing him and eight others.

(In London, however, the British foreign office recalled coolness of Premier Mussolini toward the marshal; declared "no British aircraft" were involved in the fatal crash.)

Graziani is chief of staff of the Italian army and commander of the army of the Po. He is expected to retain the staff assignment, but drop the army command.

At the start of the Ethiopian war he was placed in command of Italian armies in Somaliland where his men saw some of the bloodiest fighting of the war.

ROME, (AP)—Premier Mussolini concluded his tour of Italian positions in the maritime Alps and the Riviera yesterday. At San Remo he spent 50 minutes visiting wounded soldiers and a hospital maternity ward.

Eleven Killed, Score Injured In One Section

Two German Raiders Brought Down In Intense Air Battle

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LONDON, July 1—German air raiders roared high over the new coastal barbed wire barricades of England and heavily bombed this tight little isle tonight for the second time in less than 24 hours.

At least eleven persons were killed and a score injured in one northeast Scottish community.

Two raiders were shot down in a blow-for-blow battle of the air, which followed extensive British bombings in Germany and the destruction of a dozen nazi planes over France.

The spectacular aerial counter-punches came as Britain learned that at least part—an unknown part—of the French fleet has been saved for her by a doughty Gallie admiral, and posted a "keep out" sign for all the world on French mandated territory in the near east.

Vice Admiral Muselier, World war hero in the defense of Ypres and later a collaborator of France's great premier Georges Clemenceau in the old tigers' efforts to extirpate forever the German menace to France, was named to command "all free French naval forces." General Charles De Gaulle, head of the French national committee to continue the war, made the announcement here.

De Gaulle said there were "already several ships and air groups under his command," but their number and location were not disclosed.

While the British told all comers that occupation of the French mandates Syria and Lebanon would not be allowed, sweating British Tommies completed a ring of barbed wire entanglements around the British shore. There is a sentry on every beach and every pier head, alert for the nazi invasion which England is sure will come.

Nazis Take Channel Islands, Gain Foothold on British Soil

Surprise Move By Air Force Lands Troops

Guernsey, Jersey Admitted Occupied By British Command

BERLIN, July 1 (AP)—Germany claimed her first foothold on British soil tonight, occupying the channel islands of Guernsey and Jersey in a surprise stroke by the air force.

The two pastoral islands in the English channel, famed for their fine breeds of cattle, lie like stepping stones between the French coast—now also in German hands—and Britain. The islands are closer to France than Britain.

The high command gave little more than the bare announcement that they had been occupied, Guernsey on Sunday and Jersey today.

But its credit of a "coup de main" (surprise action) of the German air force hinted that troops had been landed on both islands by airplanes.

The British channel island of Guernsey was occupied yesterday by a coup de main of the German air force.

"A German reconnaissance plane shot down two British fighting planes of the Bristol-Blenheim type in an air battle. "Surprise occupation of the British channel island of Jersey was carried out successfully in a similar way today."

(London admitted "enemy landings have been made" on the islands and added that all communications to them were suspended. Western Union said this included also the islands of Alderney and Sark.

Writer Asserts France Went to War Without Any Equipment, Enthusiasm

(Editor's Note: Taylor Henry, who analyzes the reasons for France's defeat, is singularly equipped for the task, being both an experienced newspaperman and a graduate of the U. S. military academy. A 30-year-old native of Minocla, Texas, he gave up his army commission to become publisher of the Palestine Press in his home state and eventually joined the Associated Press foreign staff.)

By TAYLOR HENRY SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 1 (AP)—France went to war against Germany last September without adequate equipment, without adequate man-power and—it can now be said frankly—without adequate enthusiasm.

Result: Utter defeat in a month-long blitzkrieg, casualties estimated at 1,500,000 killed, wounded or missing; a stunned nation only now beginning to realize what happened, a stunned leadership grimly groping toward the future.

This is the picture of France as I saw it, broken under the wheels of total war.

Two months ago the French army still was considered the most efficient military machine in the world. But on June 12, when France took the tragic decision to sue for peace, Marshal Weygand is reported to have told the French cabinet that the army had ammunition enough to last only three days more; that the advancing Germans were "slaughtering men who no longer have the means to defend themselves."

The cabinet members wept. But only now is the country at large beginning to realize the magnitude of the catastrophe.

Veteran Marshal Henri Petain and other leaders admit now there were three principle reasons for the collapse: 1. Lack of equipment. 2. Lack of man-power. 3. Lack of determination.

Marshal Petain described this lack of determination as due to the fact that, while in 1914 Frenchmen rallied enthusiastically to the colors, they failed to respond enthusiastically to the call of 1940 "because they did not understand the reasons for the war."

Hungarian Troops—Moving on Rumania

Taking advantage of Rumania's hostilities with Russia, Hungarian troops marched on the hard-pressed Balkan state, apparently in an effort to regain the Transylvanian territory taken from Austria-Hungary in the World War. A Hungarian anti-aircraft gun which can also be used against tanks is shown in action. The uniforms and helmets of these men closely resemble those of Nazi soldiers.

Hungary Ready With Troops

BUDAPEST, July 1 (AP)—Hungary was on a war footing tonight and the dispatch of troops into Transylvania—which Hungary lost to Rumania in 1918—was expected momentarily.

Excitement was whipped to fever pitch when the government, protesting to Bucharest against "incidents" on the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier, warned Rumania of "unpleasant consequences" and called up more troops.

Officialdom re-emphasized the "mission" of thousand-year-old Hungary as an outpost against the east, and let it be known that Rumania—which has just surrendered part of its territory to the red army—appeared to be "on the threshold of collapse."

Reservists flocked to mobilization centers. A full army corps was advancing toward the Rumanian border, officials confirmed. Restrictions were placed on the sale of alcoholic drinks and on railway travel, because of "unforeseen technical reasons." Tomorrow Budapest's buses will be off the streets, apparently because they are needed for troop transport.

In its reports from Transylvania (half Hungarian in population, according to Budapest) the semi-official Hungarian news agency spoke of urgently needed protection for Magyars.

• Maintaining Standards

The summer session offers an abundance of educational and entertaining events. Day after day, the culturally minded will find activities to satisfy his desires.

Today is a typical day in summer life at Iowa.

At 3:10 this afternoon Dr. Sudhindra Bose, lecturer in the political science department, brings a new discussion in his series on Oriental affairs. Vital it is—today's discussion of Emperor Hirohito of Japan. The Far East is rapidly becoming a trouble spot to augment Europe's trouble spots.

Dr. Bose brings a rare knowledge of the East to his listeners. Born and educated in part in India, his major field is Oriental affairs. Tempered today by rapidly changing conditions there, Dr. Bose's lectures are interpretations of a part of the world too frequently not understood by America.

At 4:10 today Lee Cochran of the visual education department will direct a showing of educational films in Macbride auditorium. Heading a department of great importance to secondary education in the state through its service of educational films to the local school room, Mr. Cochran and his staff have kept up with the moving picture field.

"Highlights of Iowa," the new color film to be shown today, is demonstrative of this progress.

Tonight, "You Can't Take It With You" has its second showing in University theater, bringing modern comedy to the Iowa stage under the direction of Prof. Vance Morton. After the ovation given "Don Juan" last week, summer students will enjoy this new play.

We've already commented on the place University theater fills in the summer program at Iowa.

There's a new and interesting experience here every minute.

The tenure of President Eugene A. Gilmore, now ended without ceremony, for his ties with Iowa are by no means ended, has been significant for just the sort of thing you'll find at Iowa during this one day—today.

For President Gilmore has been constantly on the alert to see that standards are maintained which would permit him to say, as he often said:

"There is much here for those who seek much."

A Man About MANHATTAN

You Can't Analyze Fiorello LaGuardia

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Hardly a week goes by that somebody doesn't let loose a blast at Fiorello LaGuardia, New York's indefatigable mayor. These blasts give him no concern whatever. The newest one was loosed at him by one of New York's Italian newspapers, which said it would rather have a Chinaman for mayor than a "false Italian."

This paper called the mayor a false Italian because Mr. LaGuardia had just let loose a blast at Italy for entering the war. Referring to Hitler and Mussolini as gangsters has been a custom of the mayor's for years. Although of Italian extraction, he says the entry of Italy into the conflict covers Italian history with shame.

If you tried to analyze Mr. LaGuardia you wouldn't get anywhere. He is a man who cannot be parsed, because there are too many conflicting elements to his career. He is, first, a Republican. But he was elected mayor on a fusionist ticket. And he is a supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Fiorello is an Italian word that means Little Flower. There has been lots of talk about the Mayor becoming vice president, or at least running on the ticket this fall. To these statements Mr. LaGuardia, who is short and squat and who wears black hats that make Lucius Beebe leap to his feet in horror, says, "How could anybody with a name like Fiorello be elected president?"

The Italians in New York have always played a vital part in its social and its cultural life. There are a great many protestant Italians hereabouts, as well as Catholic. Some time ago a Catholic spokesman made the remark that "no Italian could be a good Italian unless he was Catholic." To this blistering assertion came a blistering rebuttal. However, all animosities were erased after awhile and the various Italian elements became good friends.

LaGuardia himself is protestant. He is at times a man of some temper. He is a man who cannot sit still when the fire alarms clamor. Scores of conflagrations have found him working shoulder to shoulder through the smoking ruins with the firemen. One wonders when he ever rests. Seldom a day passes that he doesn't dictate hundreds of letters, confer with national and state representatives, travel throughout the five great boroughs, dedicating bridges, or meeting with visitors.

But the Mayor is not a gladiator in the sense that the still greatly admired Jimmy Walker was. LaGuardia refuses to pose with anybody, merely for "art's sake." He despises red tape. He is politically and constitutionally unconventional. He says only what he believes, no matter whom he offends.

All blunt, two fisted men speak in a two fisted manner. Once he prevented strikers from picketing a church, saying, "You can't picket God in this town." Again, at a convention of Negro physicians and dentists, he told them, "Microbes know no Jim Crow law."

The Mayor is seldom taken casually. You either like him or dislike him. Sometimes the newspapers call him "hot headed." But all agree that his administration has been characterized by honesty and vigor—traits that this metropolis has not always enjoyed.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Mr. Mallon Called the Turn

The only political authority to call the turn precisely at the republican national convention was Paul Mallon in NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS.

Not only was the exact basis upon which the convention worked out, set forth in the initial Mallon dispatch from Philadelphia last Sunday, but he suggested the exact ballot upon which the surprise nominee was chosen—the sixth.

That dispatch dated June 23 set forth that Wilkie's penetration was so fast and deep as to point to the necessity of a Taft-Dewey combination if it was to be stopped, and stressed the point that "unless they can get together and win early, Wilkie, the smiling dynamic business crusader is apt to drain their forces by the sixth ballot."

First and only news of a serious movement for Wilkie was likewise contained exclusively in NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS last April 25, more than two weeks before Wilkie says he first took his candidacy seriously, May 11. That column began:

"Not all the horses in the republican race have yet appeared in the paddock. Very soon you will see emerging from the stables the colors of Wendell Wilkie, popular utilities magnate. A serious movement for him is now being organized, not the casual ones you have noted so far, but a formidable national set-up."

These developments reflect the sound type of political judgment and news regularly presented in "NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS."

LaGuardia For The Democrats?

WASHINGTON—Today it sounds just as improbable as Wilkie sounded last April 25 when the first news that there would be a formidable national movement developing for him led this column, BUT

Mr. Roosevelt may choose Fiorello LaGuardia, the New York mayor for the democratic nomination, if he can get away with it. Feelers are out. LaGuardia has a friend who has been sitting on the arm of Mr. Roosevelt's chair for months, the former LaGuardia brain-truster, Adolph Berle, who has been acting in that same capacity at the White House since he was borrowed by the president from the New York City hall. Not for that reason but chiefly because of the political necessity, the New York labor fusionist has assumed logical proportions in many a White House eye. He is simply the only public figure they can see on the reform horizon who has a chance—aside from Mr. Roosevelt himself—to stand up to the republican nominee in intelligence or ability. None of the other alternates for Roosevelt in the new deal coterie measures up to what is required—the political necessities of vigorous campaigning, forceful appearance, shrewd judgement, in their not-very-humble opinion.

Mr. Roosevelt does not want it personally, at least he does not on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. The physical requirements of the tedious international and defense job he has been going through and will continue to go through have added probably insurmountable obstacles to another four years. Forced to cast about for a man, it is not unnatural that he would look for the ablest exponent of his point of view now that the republicans have chosen, with an utter disregard for the usual strictly party considerations, the ablest spokesman of the opposite viewpoint.

LaGuardia, of course, would be a bitter pill for many a democratic leader to swallow. But Mr. Roosevelt has the water to wash it down—the heavy majority of delegates to the forthcoming convention. He dominates them so completely, to the exclusion of the influence of the regular party leaders from the south in congress, that he could nominate practically anyone.

NOTE—LaGuardia does not now represent the choice of the Roosevelt letting group. They have been talking up Supreme Court Justice Douglas the past few days. In the end, of course, they will bow to Roosevelt's better political judgement.

EFFICIENT NOMINATION

Never was a nomination handled more efficiently than Wilkie's at Philadelphia. His is probably the only nomination of the convention system since Bryan that struggled up from nothing without making deals with the various factional party leaders. The surface scene is completely clear of any possible promises made by him to get the nomination. The only suggestion of an inside promise I heard at Philadelphia was that Wilkie informed all the leaders he would "let the republican party choose the cabinet."

That did not win him any factional support, however. The balloting showed he did not owe his nomination to Pew, Hoover, Dewey, Taft or any of the big blocs of votes. The London people came over to him early, but probably only because Hoover was throwing to Taft. When Vandenberg swung Michigan to him, he was already in.

That seems to leave him freer than a candidate usually is, to do as he pleases.

More Anti-Nazi Movies Coming?

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Maybe they won't be made, but there are more anti-Nazi movies on the Hollywood program... "Secret Army" (Column 5 stuff) has been rumored abandoned but the official schedules still have it—and Brenda Marshall, George Brent, Albert Basserman and Jeffrey Lynn are on the books to play in it... That's from Warner's and Columbia's new schedule announces "We Dare Not Love" (Brian Aherne-Joan Bennett) as "a story of a great romance threatened by the long arm of the Gestapo" together with "I Joined the Band," an "expose" film... None of which sounds like a Hollywood that's buckling under...

Search for a new "Tugboat Annie" wound up with Marjorie Rameau at the wheel, Alan Hale doing first mate duties.

It's to be Margaret Sullivan opposite Fredric March in "Flotsam," the story of hounded, wandering refugees... Frances Farmer stays on—she's the girl with Pat O'Brien and John Garfield in the projected "Flowing Gold," oil field yarn... Zanuck is keeping his fingers crossed over Ann Todd, the pretty youngster from "All This, and Heaven Too," now Zanuck-constructed and considered for some of the roles Shirley Temple vacated.

Gilbert Roland looks headed for the big time again, from what they're saying of his work in "Rangers of Fortune"—and it was his brother, Chico Alonzo, the assistant director, who boosted him for the job... Town lost three grand characters with the passing, close together, of Walter Connolly, Florence Roberts and E. E. Clive... Miss Roberts, grandma of the Jones Family, made her stage debut in the melodrama "Hoop of Gold," which introduced May Robson... With Jed Prouty leaving the series and now Grandma gone, the Joneses may be finished...

Bette Davis is scheduled for "Carmelita Jane" although Ann Sheridan was crazy for the part and Bette doesn't like fireworks, much less shooting... Maybe Sheridan will get the role back (it was given to her mainly in speculation) after the script shapes up—for Jane doesn't sound much like a Davis cup of tea...

What "Destiny" did for Dietrich another wild-western may do for Kay Francis... The Destry director, George Marshall, has Kay, already well-launched on a new popularity by "In Name Only" and "It's a Date," as the telegraph operator heroine in "When the Daltons Rode."

Jane Wyatt, who skipped town for the stage after a good beginning in "Lost Horizon," came back for "Girl from God's Country"—but is still stage-happy and not too movie-dreck... Warner Baxter, who drew a good in his last contract picture, "Earthbound," plays the father of five, faced with a changing world in "Legacy."

• Irony for the Red Cross

One of those things happened to the West-lawn workers now engaged in Red Cross knitting and sewing for Europe's homeless. One worker ironically discovered that her new knitting needles bore the imprint "Made in Germany." She exchanged them. There's probably something of world wide significance about this, but we're not sure what it is.

Within Old Capitol Walls Professor Pelzer Tells Its History

O. A. Byington Will Direct Celebration

Old Capitol Completed In 15 Year Struggle Against Many Odds

The story of the building of Old Capitol, which extended over a period of 15 years, will be told by Prof. Louis Pelzer of the history department tomorrow afternoon at 4:10 in the senate chamber.

The lecture on "Stones and Builders of Old Capitol" will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the oldest historic building in the state of Iowa.

Sponsored by the graduate college, the anniversary address is open to the general public.

Judge O. A. Byington of Iowa City, who when a member of the state legislature sponsored and secured the passage of a bill to restore Old Capitol from a cracking, sinking, decrepit old building to its present condition, will be chairman of the afternoon program.

In his talk, Professor Pelzer will trace the story of Old Capitol from the time that the contract for the building was let late in 1839 down to the completion of the structure nearly 15 years later.

After Iowa City was laid out in 1838 and designated as the capital of the territory, a headlong rush of settlers swarmed into the village. It was early in 1840 that the elaborate work of clearing the site and excavating for the building began.

Stone for the structure, which was almost white when first laid, was obtained from three quarries near Iowa City, Professor Pelzer said.

On July 4, 1840, the cornerstone of the building was laid, with territorial Governor Lucas officiating. On that day a 22-year-old surveyor stood on the site of the building and prophesied that there would rise a majestic city on the river banks before him.

Delay after delay marked the building of the capitol. It was not until December, 1842, that the first legislative assembly met in the chambers of the then uncompleted building.

Tomorrow's program is independent of the celebration scheduled for July 4th commemorating the same event.

Dr. S. Bose to Lecture On 'Hirohito, Emperor Of Japan'

Third Speech Scheduled For Campus Series At Old Capitol Today

The third address on the campus lecture series will be presented in the house chamber of Old Capitol today at 3:10 p. m. when Dr. Sudhindra Bose will speak on "Hirohito, emperor of Japan."

Dr. Bose, who has been in Japan and knows many of its leaders personally, will furnish answers to the questions prevalent today among students of the Japanese governmental system.

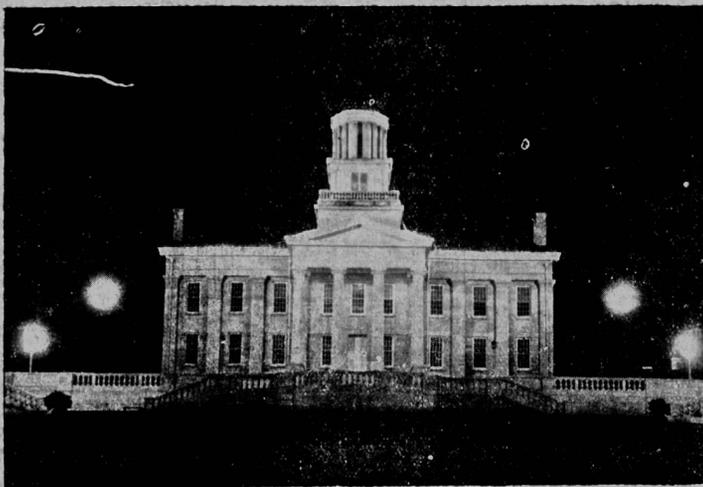

He will sketch the background of the Japanese civilization, and tell how Commodore Mathew C. Perry in the middle of the last century appeared knocking at the door of an obscure little island in the western Pacific and unconsciously gave birth to a world power.

Special Study

Dr. Bose teaches a course in Oriental politics and civilization, and also a course in imperialism and world relations in the department of political science. He has made a special study of the rise of modern Japan.

Commemorating the 100th Anniversary

Iowa Business Figures High, Says Prof. George R. Davies

The favorable trend in Iowa business, noted last month, has continued strongly, with May figures running well above those of April and markedly ahead of the 1939 levels.

Prof. George R. Davies in the current issue of the Iowa Business Digest declares that this is in line with the national business trend.

Largest percentage gains were those in total building contracts, 72.6 per cent in May over April and 41 per cent above the mark of a year ago. Public building contracts rose 192.2 per cent over April.

The charts show other gains in May, such as railroad carloadings, 8.1; farm products' prices, 5.7; and life insurance sales, 6.2. Prices of farm products, although gaining 5.7 in May over April, stood at the same level as a year ago.

Prof. Davies pointed out that the increase of business activity in the nation strongly suggests future gains in Iowa business during coming months.

Nationally, business derives its stimulus largely from rearmament orders and increased activity in those industries is influencing related fields, such as agriculture.

"As nearly as may be estimated, an increase of 20 to 25 per cent may be expected when and if the slack of unemployed capital and labor is taken up. This slack fortunately will serve as a buffer against the downward pressure on the standard of living, although some declines are to be expected," he said.

Centennial Era Recalls Scenes Of Early Days

July 4 Celebration To Re-Enact Laying Of Old Cornerstone

At 12 noon on July 4th, when the re-enactment of the laying of the cornerstone of Old Capitol will take place, Iowa Citizens will be experiencing the second of a series of centennial celebrations that started with last year's city 100th birthday party.

Those persons either dazed by centennials sprouting up like mushrooms these days, or intrigued by such celebrations, should know that the present centennial is only the beginning.

The centennial era really started in earnest for Iowans in 1938, when the 100th anniversary of Iowa as a territory was celebrated at the Iowa State Fair.

Last year when all Iowa City played at being 100 years in arrears, of 1939, the occasion was to commemorate the laying out of the town.

The centennial trend has been followed this year with local organizations celebrating their 100th year of survival. The Methodist church has held its centennial, while the Presbyterian and St. Mary's churches plan similar celebrations.

While centennials will come and centennials will go, the real celebration will be the state's birthday in 1946 when Iowa will celebrate 100 years of union membership.

Dean Kay Returns From Survey of Iowa Re-Examines Glacial Deposits in Extensive Geological Field Trip

with Part II as a single volume. Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts and geologist of the Iowa Geological Survey has returned from an extensive geological field trip throughout Iowa last month.

Accompanied by his research assistant, Jack Graham, G of Lincoln, Neb., Dean Kay travelled by auto more than 2,800 miles.

Many of the most significant glacial deposits in different parts of the state, which had been studied during the more than 20 years that Dean Kay was state geologist of Iowa, were re-examined.

The chief purpose of the trip was to review the evidence gained in former years as a basis for the preparation of additional papers already planned for publication.

The most comprehensive paper will constitute Part II of a monograph entitled "The Pleistocene or Glacial Period of Iowa."

Part I of the book was published and distributed several years ago. Five hundred unbound

DEAN GEORGE F. KAY

copies of Part I will be bound

To complete the undertaking will involve several additional years of work.

Through the studies and publications of Calvin, Shimek, Chamberlain, Leverett, McGee, Kay and other geologists, Iowa's fertile soils are known as the result chiefly of the work of ancient ice sheets and of wind.

The wind deposit, called loess, is the surface soil over about three-fourths of the area of the state. When it was deposited Iowa had "real dust storms." If the dust had been distributed uniformly over the state, the loess would have been 10 feet thick everywhere, Dean Kay explained.

The best evidence available indicates that the first dust storms prevailed over Iowa more than 50,000 years ago.

In single years Iowa has raised one-tenth of all the foodstuffs consumed in America. In addition to her fertile soils the rainfall is unusually adequate to give Iowa a bountiful crop.

46 States, 9 Foreign Countries Represented in Summer School

Only Nevada and Rhode Island are not represented by University of Iowa summer session students as the geographical representation equals the record established in 1938.

The official summary Monday revealed students from 46 states, District of Columbia, and 9 foreign countries, with about 1,325 of the approximately 3,100 students from outside of Iowa.

When the record for geographical representation was made two summers ago, the absentees then also were Rhode Island and Nevada. Forty-four states were listed last summer.

As usual, the states adjacent to Iowa have the greatest number of students, headed by Illinois with 305. Missouri ranks second with 181, while Kansas, 107; Wisconsin, 93; and Minnesota, 68, are next in order. Others in the first ten are South Dakota, 56; Nebraska, 54; Ohio, 40; New York and Texas, each 32. The rankings each year are in the same approximate order.

Far-off states have sent students in somewhat surprising numbers. For example, there are 15 from California, 11 from North Carolina, 6 from Utah, 9 from Washington, 7 from Florida, 12 from Alabama, 14 from Massachusetts, and 13 from Louisiana.

Regions outside the United States include Hungary, Turkey, Philippine Islands, Canada, China, South India, Hawaii, England and Holland.

U.S. Navy Orders 45 New Warships to Cost $500,000,000

Biggest Order In History For Defense

Army Promotes 1,350, Calls 9,000 Reserves For Special Training

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The navy placed the biggest order in its history today—for 45 new warships to cost about $500,000,000—just two hours after President Roosevelt signed legislation to speed up contract-letting and shipbuilding.

At the same time the army promoted 1,350 regular officers and called the first of 9,000 reserve officers to active duty for intensive specialized training while the president discussed with defense advisors a program for further army expansion with emphasis on mechanization.

Two New Agencies
Two new agencies set up by the Reconstruction Finance corporation arranged to buy 150,000 tons of rubber and 75,000 tons of tin for reserve stocks.

And work was started on a third set of locks for the Panama canal.

The navy, in its fourth contract-letting within three weeks, ordered 11 cruisers, 20 destroyers, 13 submarines and one LaRoe sea-plane tender—193,000 tons of warships. This brought to 150 the number of vessels now under construction or soon to be started. Additional contracts are to be awarded shortly for three airplane carriers and two more cruisers.

No Competitive Bidding
The contracts were negotiated without competitive bidding as authorized by the new speedup legislation. The new act also permits the president to increase the work-week in shipyards above 48 hours. Officials estimated that the elimination of the competitive bidding requirement would save $18,000,000 to $17,000,000 on the contracts let today and that the time required to build a vessel could be reduced 20 per cent if full 24-hour shifts were used.

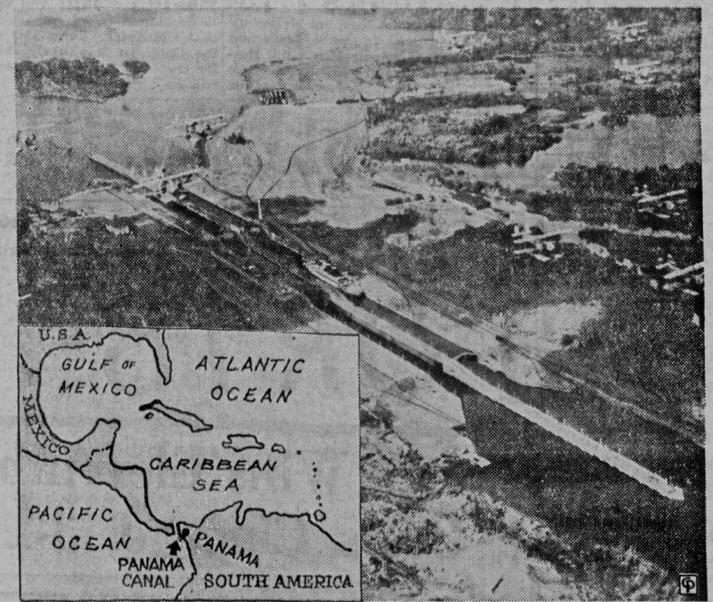

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) introduced a resolution during the day which would make it the sense of the senate that the war and navy departments insist upon contractors using extra shifts. "Time is of the essence," he said in a statement. "Plenty of labor is available. The program affords an excellent opportunity to train semi-skilled labor into the highest character of skilled labor."

Purchase Raw Materials
The rubber and tin will be purchased by separate corporations which the RFC set up Friday, Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, announced. They were capitalized at $5,000,000 each. Authority for their creation was contained in an act which the president signed last Tuesday.

The rubber company has agreed with the international rubber regulation committee to buy 150,000 tons at 18 to 20 cents a pound, two cents below today's market price.

The tin company has agreed with the international tin committee to purchase 75,000 tons at 50 cents a pound. It also will acquire manganese and other strategic raw materials.

UNITED STATES STRENGTHENS CANAL ZONE DEFENSES

Sudden moves, shrouded in a deep veil of official secrecy, have been made by United States defense forces to strengthen the defenses of the Panama canal, the nation's vital link between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. Both entrances to the waterway have been mined and heavy coast artillery moved from the Pacific to the Atlantic end of the canal, but military officials have insisted that the moves have been only an "emergency rehearsal." Whether the defense moves at the canal have any connection with the sudden disappearance of the battle fleet from Hawaiian waters has not been revealed. The above picture is an air view of the vital Gatun locks and a section of the canal as a squadron of navy fighting planes flies over. The map inset shows the canal zone.

Ben Turpin, Stage and Movie Star, Famous for '108' Somersault, Dead

BY HUBBARD KEAVY
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ben Turpin, the funny little guy with the crossed eyes who always maintained he could do a "108" better than anybody else, died yesterday.

A "108" is a somersault from a standing still start. Ben made such somersaults, and himself famous because he didn't come out of them on his feet as others did. He always fell on his face or his head or some other unconventional part of his wiry body. "Look, I'll show you," he said one day in the den of his modest home a few years ago. "I'll show you I don't get hurt." He stood up, flipped his feet over his head and landed on his face. He came up smiling.

Ben started in the movies more than a quarter of a century ago, at the old Essanay studio in Chicago. He had been in burlesque and vaudeville when Bronco Billy Anderson began making pictures. Ben's first film starred Charlie Chaplin. Charlie knocked Ben all over the studio with two-by-fours. And props weren't made of balsa wood in those days, either.

Ben came west about 1914 and soon he was working in Mack Sennett's Keystone comedies.

Little is known about Mrs. Turpin; she stayed in the background. Ben appeared in good health last year, when he was in "Hollywood Cavalcade," but his physicians said today he had been suffering from asthma for several years. He suffered a stroke Sunday afternoon and died early yesterday.

Turpin was born in 1869 in New Orleans and he began acting in the window of his father's candy

Theater Ticket Defense Tax Effective Now

Prices Agreed Upon At Owners' Meeting At State Capitol

DES MOINES, July 1 (AP)—A new theater price schedule which will include the new federal defense tax on theater tickets was agreed upon here today at a meeting of approximately 150 Iowa theater owners and managers and distributors.

G. Ralph Branton, general manager of the Tri-States Theater Corp., said theater operators throughout Iowa would adhere to the following price schedule, effective immediately.

Admissions up to 21 cents are not changed. Tickets formerly 26 cents will be sold for 30 cents; tickets formerly 31 cents will be sold for 40 cents; tickets formerly 41 cents will be sold for 46 cents.

The defense tax is 10 per cent on admissions above 20 cents. Theater prices above 41 cents are not changed because a tax on such tickets already was in force.

Branton, Leo Wolcott, president of the Allied Theater Owners of Iowa and Nebraska, Inc., and Harry Warren, general manager of the Central States Theater Corp., spoke at the meeting of theater men Monday.

Afterwards the men issued a statement declaring:

"Throughout the United States this new defense tax has been philosophically accepted by the general public. Everyone feels the whole procedure is a real necessity and the public will find it easy to pay, since it only involves a few pennies."

Ware is their stepmother.

President Asks That Excess Tax Be 'Steeply Graduated'

Urges That Levy Be Applied to All With No Favoritism

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Declaring that no one should be enriched by the national rearmament effort, President Roosevelt asked congress today to pass a "steeply graduated" excess profits tax.

The levy, he said, should be applied to all individuals and corporations "without discrimination."

"We are asking even our humblest citizens to contribute their mite. "It is our duty to see that the burden is equitably distributed according to ability to pay so that a few do not gain from the sacrifices of the many."

The message was immediately turned over to the house ways and means and senate finance committees, now engaged in a cooperative effort to prepare such a law.

'Guarantees Teamwork'
Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house group said the message "guarantees teamwork" between the White House and congress.

Mr. Roosevelt made no suggestion of how much money might be raised. Rep. Rayburn of Texas, house democratic leader, said, however, that the proposed levy would be along the lines of World War period excess profits taxes.

Profits Tax
One of these laws—there were several between 1917 and 1921—levied 8 per cent on an individual's earnings above $6,000 provided he had no invested capital. For corporations, partnerships and individuals with invested capital, the formula was more complicated.

As an example of the excess profits tax on individuals, a salaried man earning $10,000 paid $320. This was in addition to his income tax but the $320 was deductible from income subject to income taxation.

The levy was dropped after having been applied just one year—to 1918 earnings.

Other Levies
Chairman Doughton expressed the view that tax legislation, now in the formative stage, would include levies other than that on excess profits, but he would not predict what they would be. He gave as his opinion that there was no need, at the present time, for an increase over the $9,000,000,000 debt limit authorized in the recent $1,000,000,000 defense tax law.

As to the excess profits levy, Doughton asserted that treasury and congressional tax experts were working "as fast as they can with due regard to doing a good job." The senate and house ordered these technicians to submit a proposed excess profits bill not later than October 1.

New Revenue Bill
Doughton added that if congress remained in session late into the year, as it may do, a new general revenue bill probably would be enacted sometime in the fall.

Managers Face Big Jobs Picking All-Star Starting Lineups

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—If anybody thinks it was difficult to pick the 25-man squads for baseball's big all-star game at St. Louis a week from tomorrow, just consider the job of narrowing these crews down to starting lineups.

Last year Joe McCarthy, piloting the American leaguers, made the thing easy by starting six of his own New York Yankees and Bill McKechnie countered with five of his Cincinnati Reds.

But McKechnie and Joe Cronin have different problems this year. There still will be seven of the world champion Yankees on the American league squad, but they don't stand head and shoulders above their rivals this time and they won't be playing for their own manager.

As a matter of fact the squads appear more evenly balanced within themselves than they do against each other, where the American league again will have an advantage both in the batting and pitching records.

Cronin might ease his burden by leading off with the nucleus of the first place Cleveland Indians. He is generally expected to name Bob Feller as his starting pitcher. This would logically lead to the selection of Rollie Hemsley to catch.

He might likewise try for smoothness in his infield by using Ray Mack at second, Lou Boudreau at short and Ken Keltner at third, all from the Indians. Jimmie Foxx is an obvious choice for the first base assignment.

Cronin will have his own outfield available, but likely will find a spot for Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees. Ted Williams and Lou Finney of the Red Sox probably will round out the outer patrol. McKechnie will have four Reds on his squad, but can start no more than three. Either Paul Derringer or Bucky Walters looms for the first pitching call with Emil Lomax catching. Frank McCormick is the leading candidate for first base, but McKechnie might defer to the St. Louis fans by using Johnny Mize. Bill Herman of the Cubs, Bill Jurges of the Giants and Harry Lavagetto of the Dodgers would round out a smart infield.

If the National league is to have a .300 hitter in its outfield, Joe Moore of the Giants will have to be started in left field ahead of Joe Medwick. Terry Moore of the Cardinals is a likely choice for center and Mel Ott probably will hold down rightfield.

"Smash the Big University Clique" is the password for the association that sent a form letter in yesterday's mail. Hood of Rockhurst college is the man the small college group is backing in the all-star coaches' vote and the literature makes several charges against big colleges, including an insinuation of subsidization among the big outfits.

They also speak slightly of "The High-powered Windbags from the 'Great' Universities."

"Surprise of the Week" comes from a chance look at an old football action shot that was laying around University News Man Eric Wilson's office. "Waddy" Davis used to have hair and he played without a helmet. The picture is from the days, back before 1920, when Davis was a star quarterback at Iowa. It shows him breaking loose on a wide sweep around his own left end and, apparently, touchdown-bound in old Iowa field.

"Second Biggest Surprise" is the return to form of Jake Mahr, whom the long Yankee slump was a living death. He deals in figures, not hunches, and the Yanks are the team on paper, only Jake's figures acted for a long time like the Brooklyn Dodgers of the days of Dazzy Vance and Babe Herman. Yesterday Jake showed up at the office early and, "Sure Nuff," the Associated Press wire started its afternoon work with the story of a Yankee victory.

University athletic contests, some of them, will cost a little more this coming year, thanks to the new tax program. The admission tax, of one cent for each 10 cents or fraction thereof, was formerly applied only to admissions of more than 40 cents. It now comes down to a 21 cent lower limit and will reach everything in the way of an athletic admission here.

"Iron Mike" Enich, as 194 Hawkeye grid captain, is the feature of this year's Iowa football posters, the most impressive of us have seen here. Enich is featured against an Iowa stadium background on which the schedule is printed. The posters have been ordered and will be out soon, according to Charley Galhier.

Iowa-Minnesota tickets are going fast at the Gopher institution, with chances good of a sell-out long before game comes. Iowa fans will have 10,000 ducats at their disposal out of the Minnesota stadium total of about 60,000 seats.

Al Schenck, Iowa griddler of a couple years back, was in Iowa City selling small statues of Minnie Kinnick, each with the 1939 Iowa record engraved thereon.

Jersey Prepared for Baer-Galento Squabble Tonight

Tony To Fight Despite Injury By Empty Glass

Doctors Decide That Sliced Chin Won't Hurt Galento

By SID FEDER
JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 1 (AP)—The case of the gashed chin, the final daffiest touch to an already hilarious set-up, was more or less cleared up today, and it appeared only the constabulary could prevent Tony Galento and Max Baer from keeping their fistie date in the local ball park tomorrow night at 8 p.m. (C.S.T.).

A beer glass, thrown by Tony's brother, picked out Tony's chin in Galento's "soft-drink emporium" in Orange last night, and the results threatened for a time to force a postponement of the "battle of the bums." The glass sliced Tony's chin for about an inch.

Minor Abrasion
A couple of doctors looked it over today however, and reported to state boxing commissioner Abe J. Greene that if the sliced chin was the only cut Tony received in there tomorrow from the playboy of the Pacific, he needn't worry. So, Greene asked Promoter Mike Jacobs and Herman Taylor, one of Two-Ton's managers, how they felt about it. All hands, including Tony, decided the "minor abrasion" was not serious enough to keep this epic from an eager public.

An interesting sidelight on the episode came to light with more thorough investigation. It seems Tony made a slight mistake, during an argument with his brother, Russell, by placing the glass on the bar between them. He should have locked it in the safe or at least put it out of reach. For when the two got excited, Russell picked up the glass and threw it. His pitching arm and aim looked so good that after being taken to headquarters by police and then released, he spent most of the rest of the night turning down offers from major league clubs.

Tony Not Concerned
Galento didn't realize for several minutes he had been cut. When someone pointed out the blood, he put a small square of adhesive tape on it, and went about his business of taking over his other manager, Harry Mendel, in a game of rummy.

He felt less concerned about the injury today. He did a stretch of roadwork and turned in a few rounds of calisthenics in the gym to put the finishing touches on his training. Baer also was on the road for a while and then, like the true artist, spent the rest of the day taking in the beauties of the New Jersey countryside at his camp at Pompton Lakes.

Inasmuch as this battle for the championship of the screwballs has a certain appeal to lovers of both the sublime and the ridiculous, officials expect more than 20,000 and a gate flirting with the $150,000-mark.

Sliced chin and all, Galento still was the betting "cherry" tonight. The only change made by his little scrape was with Russell that the betting fraternity cut the price from 5-9 to 5-8 with Tony favored.

Haub Named 'Most Valuable' Baseball Player In Big Ten

ATLANTA, July 1 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, the former world heavy weight champion of the ring, knocked out a husky wrestler, Clarence (Cowboy) Luttrell of Texas in the second round of their scheduled 10-round fight tonight.

Dempsey, weighing 205 pounds, battered down the 224-pound Luttrell after one minute and 58 seconds of the second frame. The former champion, while showing none of the old fire and dynamite that carried him to the heavy-weight crown, badly beat the awkward and clumsy wrestler who was almost out at the bell that ended the first round.

Luttrell hung on almost from the opening gasp as Dempsey cut his face to ribbons. After Luttrell had gone down for counts of seven and eight in the second round, Dempsey moved up and cut loose with a looping left that caught Luttrell flush on the chin and knocked him all the way out of the ring.

The Texas bad man, who challenged the one-time Manassa Mauler to settle things with the six-ounce gloves after Dempsey had clashed with him in refereeing a wrestling match, failed to get up off the ground and had to be carried to his dressing room.

Somebody Always Wins

Errors Account For Majority of Scoring Dodgers Nip Phils;

PHILADELPHIA, July 1 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers pushed their way to a 4 to 3 triumph over the Phillies today in a sloppy session that was decided principally through a three-run first inning assault on Hugh Mulcahy. Brooklyn moved up half a game behind Cincinnati's National league leaders.

The Dodgers were outhit, 8-7, but in that big first inning Cookie Lavagetto walked, Dixie Walker doubled, Joe Medwick tripled and scored on a wild pitch.

Brooklyn's other run crossed the plate in the fourth on one of two errors by Bobby Bragan. Two were on base and two were out at the time.

Tot Pressnell got credit for his fourth victory, but had to be rescued in the ninth. He gave up a run in the first on Ham Schulte's double and Chuck Klein's single. The Phils filled the bases in the fourth on a single, an error and a hit batsman and scored on an infield out. Their other run came in the seventh on an error, a single and a wild pitch.

Haub Named 'Most Valuable' Baseball Player In Big Ten

Harold Haub, ace of the 1939 and 1940 University of Iowa pitching staffs, has been named the Big Ten's "Most Valuable" baseball player, Athletic Director E. G. "Dad" Schroeder announced yesterday.

The Hawkeye hurler was picked by a vote of conference diamond coaches and will receive a gold ring emblematic of the honor. He is the second Iowan in the last three years to achieve the distinction and, by a rare coincidence, the other was Jim George, co-captain with Haub of Coach Otto Vogel's 1940 team. George was called "Most Valuable" in 1938 as a sophomore.

In winning the Western conference's highest baseball honor, the big Hawkeye right-hander turned in more league victories than any other hurler. In this, his senior year, Haub won six conference games while losing only two and

Warneke, Slaughter of Cards Whip League-Leading Reds, 3-2

Slaughter Belts Two Homers For St. Louis Scores

ST. LOUIS, July 1 (AP)—Enos Slaughter, Lon Warneke and Ernie Koy were key men in St. Louis' 3 to 2 defeat of the Cincinnati Reds today.

Slaughter's two home runs, his third and fourth of the season, accounted for all the Cardinals' runs. Warneke allowed only seven hits and was tight in the pinches. Koy made a great catch of Bill Werber's long clout for the last out of the game which, had it been a hit, would have tied up the score.

And it might have been a hit. Koy crashed into the left field wall but held onto the ball and apparently was unhurt. Morrie Aronovich was on second at the time through his lone hit of the game plus Eddie Joost's sacrifice.

Slaughter's first home run was in the third and scored Warneke, who had walked, ahead of him. His second came with the bases empty in the fifth.

Werber opened the game with a double into left field which the Cardinals futilely argued was foul. After Lonny Frey fled to Koy, Ival Goodman singled off Warneke's glove, sending Werber to third. He scored as Frank McCormick forced Goodman.

In the eighth Frey walked, stayed on first as Goodman and McCormick forced Goodman.

raced home on Ernie Lombardi's double. Manager Bill McKechnie quickly sent in Mike McCormick to run for the big catcher but Harry Craft fled to Terry Moore.

A's Mangle Bosox, 9-1

BOSTON, July 1 (AP)—The high-powered slugging of Frank Hayes, all-star game catcher, and Al Rubelling, whose combined total of seven hits went for 15 bases, enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to overwhelm the Red Sox, 9-1, in today's series opener.

Both of those A's had perfect days at bat but Hayes led the attack by knocking out two homers, a double and a single to score four runs and drive in three more. Rubelling connected for a two-bagger and a pair of singles.

Cliff Melton Whips Bees, 7-1 For New York

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Cliff Melton, one of the National league stars not chosen for the all-star game, rang up his seventh victory of the season today as the New York Giants overpowered the Boston Bees 7 to 1.

Buck Newsom Wins Eleventh Straight; Beats Chicago, 3-1

Gives Six Hits, Whiffs Seven

Lone White Sox Run Unearned As Rigney Loses On Wildness

DETROIT, July 1 (AP)—Louis (Buck) Newsom won his eleventh consecutive pitching victory today, holding Chicago White Sox batters to six hits and fanning seven as the Detroit Tigers won a 3-1 decision.

The big right-hander has not been charged with a mound defeat since the opening game of the season.

Except in the fourth inning when the Sox scored their only run, Newsom did not permit a single runner to pass second base. He issued only one base on balls.

Even the one Chicago run would not have scored except for an error by Dick Bartell, Detroit shortstop. After Mike Kreevich doubled, Newsom picked him off base with a throw to Bartell who tagged the runner but dropped the ball. Kreevich moved to third on a sacrifice and scored when Moose Solters singled.

John Dungan Rigney pitched seven innings for Chicago and limited the Tigers to four hits, but he walked four batters and was charged with all the Detroit runs. Pete Appleton finished after Rigney gave way to a pinch hitter.

Hank Greenberg batted in Detroit's run in the first inning, his double scoring Charlie Gehringer who walked.

Gehringer tripled in the sixth and scored as Eric McNair fumbled Greenberg's grounder. A wild pitch sent Greenberg to second; he took third on a sacrifice and scored when Red Kress lifted a fly to center.

Stinocher's three-hit hurling was largely responsible for the win, the winners only managing six bingles off Lucky, Western Auto to hurler. Stinocher pounded out two of these to aid materially in the Bob and Henry attack. One of the bingles allowed by Stinocher was a homer by Brown.

County Board Grants Eight Cigaret Permits

At the adjourned regular June meeting of the Johnson county board of supervisors held yesterday in the court house, eight cigaret permits were granted and regular monthly bills were allowed.

Cigaret permits were granted to the Frytown general store, the Morse general store, the Oakdale general store, the Shueyville general store, W. F. Wetzel, cafe operator on U. S. highway No. 6 in Scott township, Oak Crest service station near Riverside on U. S. highway No. 218 and the Hockettler service station at Frytown.

sociation with the western powers. (Several days ago Rumania took political and economic steps in line with Nazi policy generally.)

The latest Rumania step should increase the possibility that Germany may give guarantees against further Russian encroachment, Rumanian officials had opined.

"Unpleasant Consequences" Practically general mobilization in Hungary coincided with a series of frontier "incidents" between Rumanian and Magyar troops.

A protest filed by the Hungarian government with the foreign office here, warning of a "possible unpleasant consequence," added to the gravity.

The Hungarian protest asserted the Rumanians had penetrated into Hungary at Visk. Rumania's defenses in Transylvania have been at top strength, but some pessimism was heard in military quarters that the debacle in Bessarabia and Bucovina had disorganized King Carol's army.

Ominous Tension Bucharest was under ominous tension tonight. Guards were redoubled around public buildings and the royal palace. Defense guards appeared with full equipment.

Further clashes were reported between Rumanian and Russian troops, as the soviet army increased the tempo of its occupation of the ceded provinces in the north. At Herta, a soviet tank opened fire on a Rumanian detachment, killing the commander, one lieutenant, two non-commissioned officers and four soldiers, it was reported.

The cabinet fixed July 3 as a day of national mourning for Bucovina and Bessarabia.

Further Clashes A cabinet communique admitted further clashes between Rumanian and Russian troops during the day, but said they were "settled satisfactorily."

The capital and railroad stations were full of refugees tonight. Trains were piled with bundles of household goods wrapped in blankets, baby cribs, and even supplies of corn and other foodstuffs that the peasants had managed to salvage in the scramble before the advancing red army's tanks, planes and motorized columns.

Because of the mobilization, there was a conspicuous absence of men in Bucharest.

Residents Cross Border Nearly 200,000 residents of Bessarabia and Bucovina managed to cross the border by nightfall, it was announced. Many families were separated. Depots were established for lost children—some of whom were just learning to walk. Hundreds of cases were reported in which some members of a family safely reached Rumania, but others were overtaken by Russian troops and forced to remain in Bessarabia.

Hungary--

their German and Italian friends. In official circles it has long been emphasized that Hungary would be forced to seize the Carpathian mountain barrier in Transylvania for "self protection" should the red army persist in advancing towards the Danube basin.

Support of the Rome-Berlin axis was claimed in this plan. Transylvania, rich agricultural province, was part of Austria-Hungary before the World war.

In diplomatic circles in Budapest it was reported that Russia had asked Turkey for permission to participate in defense of the Dardanelles, important straits which link the Mediterranean and Black seas. Turkey now has sole control. Balkan capitals took the view that Russia is endeavoring to make the utmost of the opportunity to extend its sphere of influence while Germany and Italy are busy in the west.

Rhodes Scholars Asked to Take Refugee Children

OMAHA, July 1 (AP)—Former Rhodes scholars, of whom there are about 12 in Nebraska and Iowa, have received letters from Secretary Frank Aydlette of the American Rhodes association asking them to agree to take English children for the duration of the war. ### Maurice F. Donegan Named United States District Attorney

DES MOINES, July 1 (AP)—Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey today swore in Maurice F. Donegan of Davenport, former Iowa supreme court justice, as United States district attorney for southern Iowa.

The oath of office was administered in the clerk's office in the federal building here. Donegan, a democrat, said he would begin his new duties immediately.

Donegan was appointed to succeed John Valentine of Centerville, who resigned to run for governor on the democratic ticket.

The new district attorney began his public career as city attorney in Davenport in 1908. He served as seventh district judge from 1912 until 1921, and was on the state supreme court bench from 1932 until 1938. Since 1938 Donegan has been in private practice in Davenport with former Judge James W. Bollinger. As district attorney he will keep his residence in Davenport and devote a part of his time to private law practice. Donegan's son, Maurice F. Donegan, Jr., a graduate of the State University of Iowa, was admitted to the bar last week and will join his father's firm.

Final Returns Announced By Red Cross

War Relief Drive Nets $2,917; County Tops Minimum Quota

Final returns of the Johnson county Red Cross war relief drive yesterday revealed that $2,917 was collected over the minimum quota of $2,840. The final total was $2,917.09.

The original county quota was $1,420 and this figure was doubled when the national quota was raised from 10 to 20 million dollars. At that time, all chapters had their quota doubled and were told to consider the new figure a minimum quota to collect.

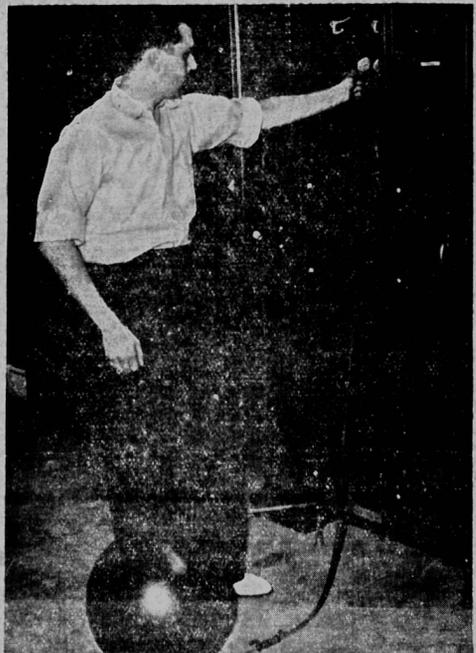

Donations were taken at all Johnson county banks and through the mail to the local Red Cross office. A rummage sale was held all day Saturday in the Iowa City community building and this netted $128.43 toward the relief fund from Johnson county.

Johnson county was one of the few communities in the state to reach the quota by June 29, the date set for the close of the campaign. It has been reported that many cities and counties have not yet reached their original quota figure.

John Schneider, chairman of the local war relief committee, has announced that anyone wishing to make additional donations may do so by mailing them to the Red Cross office in Iowa City.

Two donations which were not reported Saturday night included the Neighborhood club of Oxford, $1, and the donation box in the Iowa City liquor store, $3.53.

Weather Forecaster Explains Ascendancy of Helium Balloons

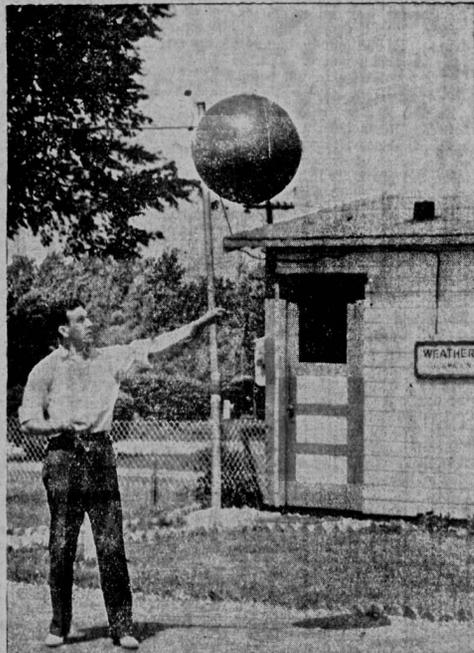

Ceiling zero, unlimited, or what?—those are all questions asked of the United States Weather Bureau at Iowa City, and answered by the use of the helium balloon that G. L. Stanton, station attendant, is shown filling and preparing to send up in the first picture above. The balloon which is made of black rubber and is of uniform size with all balloons used for this purpose, is attached to a hose running from the tank of helium gas, and inflated with the gas until it will lift a specified weight from the floor. In this way the rate of rise can be accurately calculated. After the balloon is inflated it is ready to start its journey to the clouds which is considered as the "ceiling." In the second picture, Stanton has taken his place just outside the weather station, and is ready to "send it up." The balloon is no longer weighted now. The weight has been removed and the valve closed with tightly wrapped rubber bands. Stanton holds a stop watch in his left hand. As soon as he launches the balloon he will start the watch and time its flight to the clouds. As soon as it "hits a cloud" and disappears into the cloud the watch will be stopped and the ceiling calculated. Since he already knows the rate of rise of the balloon, all he must ascertain is the time it takes to reach the ceiling. "There she goes." In the last picture Stanton has just released the helium balloon which he will continue to watch on its way to the ceiling. At the moment it is launched the stop watch is started to time its flight. Of course the balloon does not stop when it "hits a cloud" but continues on up until the air pressure becomes so light that the balloon bursts unless the valve begins to leak. In that case it eventually falls to earth, sometimes landing hundreds of miles from Iowa City.

Frank J. Strub Funeral Rites This Morning

Prominent Iowa City Business Man Dies Suddenly at Home

Funeral service for Frank J. Strub, 70, who died suddenly at his home, 225 E. Fairchild, Sunday night, will be held at 9:30 this morning at St. Mary's church with the Rev. Father Herman Strub, nephew of the deceased, officiating assisted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Carl H. Meinberg. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

A prominent business man for the past 43 years, Mr. Strub was a life-long resident of Iowa City except for a nine-year period spent in South Dakota. Upon his return to Iowa City in 1897, he took up the association with the present Strub-Warham store, then owned by his brother A. Strub, who retained it until his death.

Mr. Strub was born in Iowa City Sept. 20, 1869. His wife preceded him in death 35 years ago. Survivors include one son, Carl F. Strub, and one daughter, Mrs. P. G. Rawland, both of Iowa City, seven grandchildren, and two sisters, M. Agnes Strub and Mrs. Rose Ebert, both of whom made their home with their brother.

He was a member of the Elks lodge and a life-long member of St. Mary's church.

'You Can't Take It With You'

S.U.I. Theater Audience Receives Play Enthusiastically on First Night

The University theater's presentation of "You Can't Take It With You," with its cheerful corollary that you might as well enjoy it here, was enthusiastically received at its opening performance here last night.

The choice of play was well calculated to counteract the depressing effect of the idiosyncrasy and the high pressure scholarship at home.

The mad Sycamores displayed the charm expected in one of Prof. Vance M. Morton's performances and at times an insanity peculiarly their own.

As the curtain rose the obvious confusion of Grandpa Vanderhof's home set the pace for the unexpectedness of the family. General harmony of style, pace and degree of exaggeration was preserved with a few exceptions.

General colors in costumes and sets were bright to please the stuffed fish which rested on the back wall with a satisfied smirk.

There is something cheerful about noise. A well staged eruption of Vesuvius would probably leave the audience rolling in the aisles and certainly the fireworks added to the general effect.

Since the play has been steadily popular since 1936, the audience is prepared for the general impossibility of the action which moves from improbable situation to improbable situation with a cheerful abandon that is in complete harmony with the fireworks of the second act and the kittens of the first.

By JAMES D. ALLISON

For sheer human appeal the kittens (Harpo and Groucho) should receive top billing. Animals seem to have a naive way of keeping things moving.

Bertha Heetland, as Penny, handled the pets with good nature, tact and naturalism. Many a famous actress has been thrown for a loss by a stage animal and the good sense to treat an animal naturally is rare.

Elsie's interpretation of the perpetually dying swan was continually fresh and amusing even if not in the classic tradition. Margaret Roach played the part.

A rose to Mary Ewing for her dancing to be shared with Ronald Hopkins for his sprit up the stairs. Kolenkhov (Jack Pollock) was sufficiently Russian and in all the wrong places at the right time.

Dale Kohn, as the remnant of the Russian nobility, had a laugh that began at her boot tops and she swirled a mean trap.

Stanley Hamilton spoke with "a dying fall" that was a complete surprise to those who are accustomed to his usual bellow. Mr. Kirby blustered. Mrs. Kirby looked down her nose. Donald dashed. Rebeba wiggled. Pa Sycamore moved competently in the background. Alice and Tony agonized in the throes of thwarted passion.

The general effect of the performance was one of charm and good humor, with occasional flashes of revelation in character and situation. On the whole the play was remarkably successful.

Bits of the action did not quite succeed. The fireworks may have been a bit badly timed. No New York architect of the Vanderhof period would have built a stairway with that turn but it is probably more interesting as it is.

The lovers seemed to have some difficulty in getting together and, at times, touched with too much diffidence. But it is inconsiderate to mention flaws since the cast and director had little more than two weeks for rehearsal, few of which were held on stage. That sort of thing follows as a necessity with a high pressure performance schedule.

For those who remember the old stock performances, the play had a surprising degree of finish. It's easy to take.

children. The body of Ella, 18, is still missing.

Alice Wilson, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson, found the Tebo girl's body as she was walking across a field on the Joe Micholac farm. Sheriff Frank Matz of Dakota county, who investigated, said the field was about 30 rods west of the drainage ditch which was one of the streams that overflowed.

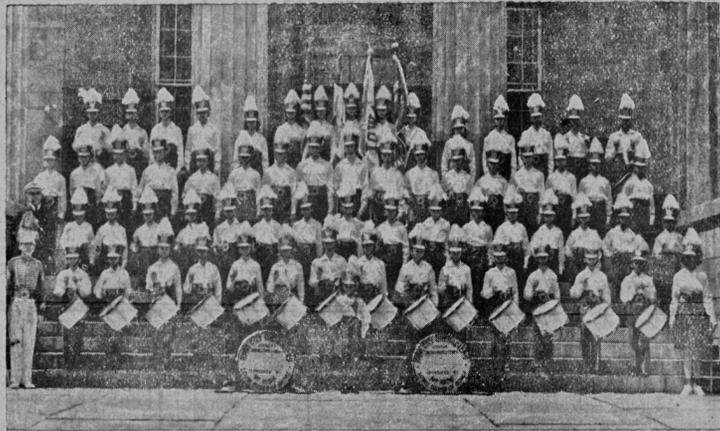

The body was taken to the Barber funeral home at Homer.

4-Year-Old Found Month After Flood

WINNEBAGO, Neb., July 1 (AP)—One month to a day after the flood that claimed 11 lives struck Winnebago, Homer and several other towns in northeast Nebraska, the body of Carol Jean Tebo, 4-year-old Indian girl of Winnebago, was found tonight in a field two and a half miles north of Homer.

Still clutched in the hand of the little girl was a tiny purse containing three pennies. Awakened from her sleep when the torrent struck, she was dressed in a night gown. Like her elders, she had tried to save what she thought was her most valuable possessions.

Carol Jean had been living with the George Lipp family at Winnebago. Today only one member of that family, Edith Lipp, is alive. Drowned were George Lipp, the father; his wife; and Paul, Eva Mae and Ella Lipp, their

The remainder will be selected from the unemployed on the rolls of state-federal employment services, and from among workers already employed in industry who wish to improve their skill.

Hillman said that vocational training facilities of public schools would be utilized under the supervision of the United States of-
