CALL MONROE DOCTRINE UNTENABLE

England Extends 'Defense Area' on East, South Coasts

Creates No-Man's Land In Preparing for Supreme Test

British Men-of-War Search Seas For Fugitive French Ships

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—In a vast extension of Britain's "defense area"—her last ramparts against German invasion—the government excluded the public today from the entire English east coast and substantially all of the southern coast, a 12,000-square-mile region.

While the creation of this big no-man's land signaled the intensity of preparations for the supreme test, British men-of-war searched the seas for the last fugitive units of the French fleet—and a final bitter dissolution of the old allied partnership appeared under way because of what already has been done by the British to the bulk of the fleet.

Drastic Protest

In an apparent preliminary to a formal break-off of all diplomatic relations between Britain and France, the French chargé d'affaires here presented, on orders, a "drastic and stern" protest against the British action against the French fleet in the Mediterranean.

The London News-Chronicle's diplomatic correspondent said it was confirmed officially at the French seat of the Marshal Pétain government, that France had broken off diplomatic relations with Britain. However, no notification of such severance had reached the British foreign office late tonight.

This action destroyed or put out of action a 22,000-ton battleship, a 26,000-ton battle cruiser, a 10,000-ton seaplane carrier and two destroyers. Along with seizure of other ships at Alexandria and in British ports, it made an end to the old French navy as an effective force and destroyed the plan of France to turn it over to Hitler as France had promised to do.

Disposition of Fleet

Just how many French warships remained at large was not discussed officially, but an authoritative source said that at the beginning of this week, this was the approximate disposition of the French fleet:

One third in British ports.

One third off Oran, in the Mediterranean, the scene of the British attack.

One sixth at Casablanca.

One sixth at Alexandria.

Aside from stating also that two units of the French navy now are in Scottish waters, all this suggested that the French ships not now in British hands or out of action were very few.

Nazis Continue Air Bombings Over England

LONDON, July 6 (Saturday) (AP)—Keeping up their nightly forays, German warplanes attacked Great Britain again last night and early today. First reports told of no damage.

The air ministry in a brief communique said enemy aircraft crossed the coast during the night and anti-aircraft defenses went into action.

Two German bombers were heard over northeast England early today. They were reported to have dropped bombs but it was believed all bombs fell in open country.

Other reports said German raiders dropped incendiary bombs on southeast England.

The ministry said "a few persons" were slightly injured in the southwest, and made no mention of any fatality.

War, Navy Departments to Give Views on Compulsory Training

Predicts New Peace Feelers In Few Weeks

German Overtures To End in Failure, Neutral Source Says

LONDON, July 6 (Saturday) (AP)—A neutral diplomatic source who has good contacts with both principal belligerents predicted early today that new German peace feelers will be made within three of four weeks.

However, he said most neutral diplomats were convinced by "the new British aggressiveness" that any such move would be a failure.

He explained that a trial balloon which had been sent aloft by a member of the Spanish cabinet had been exploded by the British seizure of most of the French fleet and by Prime Minister Churchill's fighting talk.

Nevertheless, he predicted acceleration of warfare on the diplomatic front as well as in the sea and air—to be followed by peace hints when the British are feeling the strain most.

There still are many, he said, who believe that "peace and appeasement possibilities" never will be definitely ruled out so long as Former Prime Minister Chamberlain is as strong in the government as at present.

Evidence that the British are strengthening the diplomatic offensive was seen in Prime Minister Churchill's reception last night of Ivan Maisky, the Russian ambassador—Churchill's first invitation to the Soviet envoy since taking office. It was understood they talked over the European situation in friendly fashion.

Britain, while wooing the Russians, also was said by the neutral source to be expected to grant further concessions to the Japanese, thus strengthening her hand in Europe in the "one war at a time" policy.

Such concessions, he speculated, likely would be limited only by the British wish to avoid injuring friendly feelings in the United States.

Britain is well aware, he said, that the United States would regard with a chilly eye, British "diplomatic capitulation" to the Japanese.

Senate Military Group to Hear Official Voice

Committee Holds Hearings on Bill Sponsored by Burke

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—The war and navy departments agreed today to give the senate military committee next Tuesday their official views on compulsory military training.

The committee had voted to suspend hearings until the war department was ready to present its views. Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) pointed out that department experts had been working on compulsory training plans since World war days and said it would be best to get their view before enacting any legislation.

The committee has been holding hearings on a training bill sponsored by Senator Burke (D-Neb.) and Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY).

During today's hearings Senator Minton, (D-Ind) asserted that Adolf Hitler was attempting to prevent compulsory military training in the United States.

Minton made the assertion while Julius Ochs Adler, general manager of the New York Times, was testifying in support of the pending legislation, which would require registration and possible military training for all men from 18 to 65.

"This is subtle propaganda going around," Minton declared, that there should not be compulsory military training. It is part of the program of Mr. Hitler in his subtle way to weaken us at a vital point."

Minton's comment followed an assertion by Senator Downey (D-Calif) that he knew "no better way to create saboteurs and disloyal people than to conscript mechanics to service your planes."

"It would seem to me," Downey contended, "that the thing we have to do is to search out through every governmental agency for the number of mechanics we want, not just throw out a dragnet and pull in boys who are not married or who have no fathers and mothers."

"I would say, let us get 500,000 of the finest boys we can get for this mechanized war. We can't get the type of men we want at $5 or $21."

Under the bill, men called up for active training would be paid $5 a month in addition to transportation and subsistence. The starting pay of a regular army recruit is $21.

Germany Sends Note to Hull Challenging U.S. Interpretation As Conferring Special Favor

State Department Retaliates in New Assertion Vowing to Uphold Monroe Doctrine; Threatens German Diplomats

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Confronted with a challenging note from Germany calling the United States government's interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine "untenable," the state department today served notice anew that it would uphold the doctrine and, in addition, virtually threatened to oust any German diplomats in this country who publicly discussed American policy.

The latter action was evoked by the fact that Baron Edgar von Spiegel, the German consul general at New Orleans, had been quoted in the press as saying that Germany would not forget the aid given her enemies by this country.

A state department announcement said it appeared the consul general thought he was not speaking for publication and that it was "perhaps due to a misunderstanding" that publication resulted.

"The matter has been taken up with the German embassy here," said the announcement, "and it has been pointed out that public discussion of questions relating to this country's policies and attitudes does not properly come within the province of foreign government officials in the United States."

Then the department added pointedly that permission granted to foreign government officials to remain in this country is dependent upon observance of this rule.

The exchange concerning the Monroe Doctrine grew out of the United States' action in informing the reich on June 18 that it would not "recognize" or "acquiesce" in any transfer of western hemisphere territory from one non-American power to another. This amounted to a notice to Germany not to try to take over French, British or other possessions in the new world.

The German reply, as given in substance by Secretary of State Hull today, made these three points:

That Germany has "given no occasion whatever for the assumption" that she intends to acquire territory in this hemisphere and that the American note to Germany was thus "without object."

Interpretation Untenable

That the interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine implicit in the American note was "untenable" because it would "amount to conferring upon some European countries the right to possess territories in the western hemisphere and not to other European countries."

That the Monroe Doctrine's principle that Europe must not intervene in American affairs can be "legally valid only on condition that the American nations for their part do not interfere in the affairs of the European continent."

Hull's counter-argument did not take the form of a direct reply to Germany. He issued a statement saying that "no useful purpose" would be served by "any further communication" to the reich on the subject at this time.

But this statement went on to reiterate that the United States would not acquiesce in any transfer of new world land from one non-American power to another.

Sharply, Hull declared that the Monroe Doctrine has "not the remotest connection with the fact that certain European nations exercise sovereignty over colonies in the western hemisphere and that certain other European nations do not."

Report Raids On Gibraltar

First Attack of War Occurs on British Mediterranean Fortress

GIBRALTAR, July 5 (AP)—The first air raids of the war were made today on the great British fortress of Gibraltar, the western key to the Mediterranean.

Several bombs fell, but most of them dropped into the sea, and there were no casualties.

(A Madrid radio broadcast heard in London asserted that it had been "established" that the raiding planes were French. British sources would not comment.)

(Across the bay from Gibraltar, in Algeiras, Spain, it was reported that three British cruisers, damaged off Oran in Wednesday's British attack on the French Mediterranean fleet, had landed the bodies of 30 British seamen killed in action.)

(It also reported in Algeiras that a French armed vessel escaped from Gibraltar today despite the presence there of the most powerful of all warships, the mighty British battle cruiser Hood.)

Warns of Hay Fever Season

Rumania Suppresses Two Democratic Newspapers; Plans Anti-Jewish Action

BUCHAREST, July 5 (AP)—Rumania's new pro-German government suppressed permanently tonight, "in the interest of public order," two democratic Bucharest newspapers, Sannalul and Jurnalul.

It likewise was reported that decrees excluding Jews from journalism and the army were being prepared.

Aside from this, the government devoted itself to keeping the nation tranquil and at work despite reports in other Balkan capitals—denied here—that Russia was placing additional troops in Bessarabia.

The immediate concern of the new cabinet was restoration of more normal conditions after many days of deep unrest.

Besides the reports of further Russian encroachments, the Hungarian press continued to charge that troubled conditions prevail in Transylvania, where a substantial Magyar population remains a constant source of Hungarian concern.

With Rumania generally considered completely allied now with the Rome-Berlin axis, British citizens were reported liquidating their interests in anticipation of governmental measures against them.

American authorities formally requested the Rumanian government today to grant an extension of stay for three of 30 British oil men ordered to leave the country within 24 hours.

Two large American corporations would be directly affected by expulsion of the three British citizens, the Rumanian government was informed.

The men are William R. Young and Albert A. Luce of the National Supply corporation of New York, one of the largest firms dealing in oil machinery in the Balkans, and Harry Wist of Refoil, Incorporated, an oil company.

A government communique today said withdrawal from Bessarabia and Bucovina had been completed July 3.

Small Rumanian military losses were acknowledged.

The communique said that in Bucovina "where the Russians inadvertently went past the agreed line, they have fallen back."

The reports that Russia had moved new troops and mechanized equipment into Bessarabia and is planning new demands upon Rumania were published in Budapest.

Mexico Ready for Election

Capitol Teems With Excitement Over Approaching Contest

(Editor's note: Martha Lois Koch of Evansville, Ind., last year's editor of The Hawkeye, at present in Mexico City, Mexico, finds the city tense over tomorrow's election. The candidates: Avilo Camacho, administration candidate, and Gen. A. Juan Andreu Almazan, popular candidate. The Daily Iowan is pleased to present this picture of the Mexican capital as election day approaches. Current American interest in the event makes Miss Koch's comments doubly significant.)

By MARTHA LOIS KOCH

MEXICO, D. F., July 3—This city, in which vigorous elections are not unusual, is teeming with excitement over the approaching contest between two presidential candidates, Sunday, July 7.

The reason seems to be that there is more than the average chance for the people's candidate to be elected. The administration in power has usually been successful in nominating its successor but because of the unusual trend of popular opinion toward the opposing candidate, this election promises to be one that Mexico will long remember.

Second Fiddler

In the capital city the administration's choice, Avilo Camacho, seems to be playing second fiddle to the popular choice, Gen. A. Juan Andreu Almazan, whose name is heard and seen at all times, even to the extent of popular acclaim in the bull fights, night clubs, and the streets.

Due to general discontent with the policies of the present regime, the people have turned eager ears to the promises of their supposed liberator.

Almazan, they say, has promised better housing conditions, liberation of the working man, better educational facilities, and promotion of business enterprises.

(Both Almazan and Camacho in their public addresses have repeatedly urged a United America, both North and Hispanic, for the defense of the continents and the prosecution of their common ideals.)

Whether or not Almazan will be able to do what his party claims the present head of Mexico has not done is a matter of conjecture, but the average citizen—laborer and upper class alike—seems to feel that his particular station in life would be bettered if Almazan were to be elected.

Historic Event

Because of his connection with the government, Camacho is in much the better competitive position, but there is a question as to whether the labor unions, governmentally dominated, will follow their leaders and elect the president's choice or whether they will act as they appear to feel and place Almazan in power.

It is this unusual element of doubt that will make this election go down as a colorful chapter in Mexico's already colorful history.

Detectives Seek Persons Guilty Of Bomb Blast

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Detectives tonight sought to connect the theft of 39 sticks of dynamite with a bomb which blasted two of their comrades to death yesterday soon after it had been hustled from its hiding place in the New York world's fair British pavilion.

The dynamite was stolen May 29 at gun's point from a magazine guarded by a watchman for a synagogue excavation.

Investigators said the weight and size of the dynamite sticks approximated the weight—20 pounds—of the bomb explosive.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine described the bomb as a "dynamite shrapnel" type which was powerful enough to have blown asunder a wall of the pavilion.

Meanwhile, as police continued their roundup of all known radicals in an unprecedented effort to track down the terrorists who planted the bomb, detectives arrested Caesar Kroeger, 38, whom they described as a former member of the German-American band.

Tunney Backs Youth Group

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., July 5 (AP)—Gene Tunney and his young "Pro-American" Friends today gave the initial push to a new youth movement designed to rival the American Youth Congress.

The former heavyweight boxing champion, after traveling to near-by Williams bay from New York by plane and motor, said the movement had no definite form yet but probably would have shortly.

While the annual American Youth congress was in session in College camp here, Tunney established himself at the home of Robert Burton, just outside Williams bay, and there conferred with some 65 young people who had been refused official recognition as delegates to the AYC.

"I am convinced that the American Youth congress is controlled by communists," Tunney said later in a press conference on the Burton lawn. "In fact, I don't think there is any sensible person who doesn't believe the AYC is a communist organization."

Tunney posed for newsreel cameras with Eddie Church, chairman of the Wayne County (Detroit) Young Democrats, and Henry Groehn, chairman of the Wayne County (Detroit) Young Republicans, two of the "pro-American" leaders.

"I think it is a splendid thing for these young people to unite on an issue of such importance," Tunney said, "and this is no time to allow any trojan horse to get control of any important youth movement."

Groehn said, "We are united for Americanism and against fifth columnism."

Samuel Mines and Murray Plavner of New York, two more of the "pro-American" leaders under the wing of Tunney, stated that developments today did not constitute actual formation of a new patriotic youth organization but that a statement on that subject might be forthcoming from a committee appointed to work out details tomorrow.

Map above shows how Rumania has grown and shrunk again since 1914. (1) Heavy outline shows extent of post-war Rumania. (2) Black area is Rumania as of 1914. (3) Transylvania, former Hungarian province which Hungary would like to regain. (4) Dobruja, once part of Bulgaria, now sought again by that nation. (5) Bessarabia and northern Bukovina, Rumanian provinces recently occupied by Russia. Should all the ambitions of her neighbor nations be realized, Rumania is doomed to become, at best, a tiny, helpless state smaller even than she was in 1914.

War Pictures At State Fair

Present War Photos Will Be Exhibited At Educational Building

DES MOINES, Special—Iowans will be taken into the front line trenches of the European war at the Iowa State Fair next month—and into the thick of the air, sea, and land battles on all major fronts—according to plans for an unique war photo exhibit revealed here today by exposition officials.

The story of the war, as told in news and action pictures from every theater of operations during the past year, will be presented in an exhibit on the mezzanine floor of the educational building at the fair, officials said.

It will include a photographic record of the war in Poland, Finland, Norway, France, England, Africa and on the high seas. Key pictures of tank battles, sea engagements, the war in the air, and other critical phases of the conflict will be enlarged to several times natural size, to give the public closest details of the operations involved.

A new three-cent postage stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of Idaho's statehood was placed on sale at the Iowa City post office yesterday.

The central design is a reproduction of the state capitol at Boise which occupies the entire lower part of the stamp with the dome of the building extending to the top. The words, "50th Anniversary Idaho Statehood, 1890-1940," arranged in three lines, appear in the upper left corner.

In the upper right corner are the words, "U. S. Postage," above the denominational designation, "Three Cents."

The stamps were first issued Wednesday in Boise and were received in Iowa City the same day but were not distributed until yesterday because of the holiday, July 4.

Yarnell Discusses Wars Asserts That World Conflicts Should Be 'Our Business'

"Affairs in the shrunken modern world make any war our business," declared Admiral H. E. Yarnell, former commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, as he discussed the Asiatic and European wars with their possible outcomes at last night's summer lecture.

Declaring that the eastern and the European struggles were part of the same world wide turmoil, the former Iowan advocated American participation in the war if necessary to prevent an English defeat at the hands of Germany with the hope that a better world order might emerge.

Terrific War. Asserting that the China war, started in 1937, is just as "terrible" for the East as the more recent German-Allied war is for the West, Yarnell traced the history of the two Asiatic countries and their warfare.

The overthrow of the 250 year old Manchu dynasty with the establishment of a theoretical republic in 1912 was materialized by the Cantonese army under General Chiang Kai-shek in 1927.

According to Yarnell, the government was firmly established and was becoming stable when the Japanese started their invasion.

Japan's history as traced by the admiral, emphasized the existence of the oldest dynasty which claims direct descentance from the sun and which from time to time has had its political powers dominated by military cliques.

Army, Navy Power. In discussing the army influence over the Tokio government, Admiral Yarnell said that westerners too often did not realize that constitutional provisions give the heads of the army and navy tremendous power.

Yarnell had little to say about the Japanese "Monroe Doctrine" or for what may be the new order in Asia. To put the far East under the Japanese emperor politically and economically is the end result. American interests in China were stated to be not "so large" by the retired commander.

He praised however, the efforts that American missionaries, hospitals and educational institutions have done "before, since and during the war."

"It is hard to think of Americans having to give up these activities, but the whole American set-up in China is in a precarious condition," the speaker warned.

Discussing the world interest menaced in Asia by the Japanese, Yarnell said that the Dutch Indies are the biggest "prize" tantalizing the Japanese today. He added that the trend of events has made the Philippines none too anxious for the political independence from the United States that they are to receive in 1946.

"The greatest worry of the United States in the far eastern question is Japanese control over the rubber producing areas," stressed Admiral Yarnell in advocating Hull's policy of 1937 as the best doctrine for United States to adhere to now.
