Italians Claim Malta Threat Eliminated

Bombers Blast British Fleet, Island Airfields

ROME, July 13 (AP)—Italians claimed tonight that their war planes have rubbed out Malta as an offensive threat to Italy after blasting with bombs a British Mediterranean battle fleet which split into three parts under punishment from the air.

Fascists said, also, that constant Italian air bombardment over far-flung fronts in the Mediterranean and Africa was preventing some 1,300 British planes there from ever being used in the defense of the British Isles against a German onslaught.

The official Italian radio in a broadcast heard in New York by the Columbia Broadcasting System declared that Italy "has definitely decided the controversy of the airplane vs. the warship." The radio said Italy "built up her air fleet while others built super-dreadnaughts" and for this reason Britain has been handed a bad defeat and will be handed others in the future.

Virginia Gayda, the editor who often speaks for Mussolini, wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia that the British, under renewed bombing of Malta, had withdrawn their heavy warships from that fortified island, which is only about 55 miles from

The big men o'war have been sent to Alexandria, said Gayda, and Malta now is only a temporary shelter for lighter craft.

Malta's airfields were reported heavily damaged.

Germans Claim Blockade Void

Successfully Challenge British Naval Power With Counter-Blockade

BERLIN, July 13 (AP)—Germany claimed today to have successfully challenged Britain's greatest historic weapon—the navy—in "successful operations overseas" by the nazi fleet.

The high command formally asserted that these operations—presumably directed from Norwegian waters—had resulted in the capture of valuable prize ships, and military commentators declared this proved the British blockade to have become "ineffective in a high degree."

But while that blockade is being torn apart, they added, the German counter-blockade is becoming "more perceptible day by day."

"Units of the German navy now can operate on the high seas without the English fleet being able to prevent the Germans from conducting the trade war in Atlantic and other waters," they said.

In the same connection, responsible quarters ridiculed the announcement of the British admiralty that it had cut off Germany from the Atlantic by a mine belt from the Shetland Islands, near the Norwegian coast, to Greenland.

"Besides," these quarters added, "the British apparently have overlooked the fact that we are in possession of an extensive stretch of the Atlantic coast since the collapse of France."

Democrats to 'Draft Roosevelt'

Delegates Determined to Nominate Him, Convinced He Will Accept

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Democrats determined to "draft Roosevelt," some happy and some unhappy about it but nearly everyone convinced he will accept the nomination, poured into this convention city today to join in a carnival prelude to next week's national convention.

Bushels of red and white and blue buttons bearing the motto "Just Roosevelt," and the silhouettes of a rooster rampant adorned hundreds of lapels, proclaiming in advance the keynote of the big party gathering.

Familiar big shot faces from Washington, cabinet members, members of important boards and commissions, senators and house leaders were commonplace in the gay hotel lobby throngs. Men who no longer ago than yesterday said (See DEMOCRATS, Page 6)

Belief that the needs of national defense might bring an end to organized labor's five-year-old Civil War was expressed at the White House today after 16 officials of the CIO, the AFL and railway labor unions had pledged cooperation in the defense program.

The promise of cooperation was given to President Roosevelt in a letter signed by the labor officials who make up the labor policy advisory committee of the national defense commission. This committee was created recently for the announced purpose of preventing stoppages of work in vital defense industries and preserving labor standards.

Expressing "full and unstinted devotion to our country and to the program of national defense," the union leaders told the president:

"We and our membership are united in our effort and determination to give effective and expeditious cooperation in the fulfillment of the defense program, and to contribute to a free and secure democracy."

Chester A. Phillips to Be Temporary S. U. I. President

State Board Head Reveals Appointment

Phillips to Remain On Indiana University Campus Next Week

Chester A. Phillips, dean of the University of Iowa college of commerce since 1921, temporarily will succeed Dr. Eugene A. Gilmore as president of the university.

The appointment of Dean Phillips as acting president was announced yesterday by President George T. Baker of the Iowa state board of education.

"The board of education at a recent meeting appointed Dean Phillips as acting president, pending the selection of a permanent president," President Baker announced.

Dean Phillips has accepted the appointment. He will be on the Indiana university campus during next week for a series of lectures previously scheduled.

Born in Scipio, Ind., July 17, 1882, acting President Phillips will be 58 years old next Wednesday.

Career Begins

His career as an educator began in 1904 when he served as principal of the high school at Weston, Ohio. He instructed in economics at Yale during 1909-10, and in economics and finance at Dartmouth from 1911 to 1913. He became an assistant professor there in 1913 and a full professor in 1918. Two years later he came to the University of Iowa.

He taught during summer sessions at Columbia University in 1919, 1920 and 1922, at the University of California in 1923, 1928, 1932 and 1936, and at the University of Chicago in 1931.

Bank Director

The new Iowa head is a director of the local First Capital National Bank, and is an economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

In this event—and only then—Eire will align herself with Britain without the formality of a declaration of war on the original invader, these sources reported.

But no British troops will transgress Eire soil from loyalist Ulster or from the shores of the Irish sea until another has first violated that soil, the reported agreement stipulates.

If a hostile raid should throw Ireland and Britain together in defense, Britain will gain this now: she will have the use of important ports on Eire's west coast, closer to America than her own, at which to receive munitions and supplies from the United States and Canada.

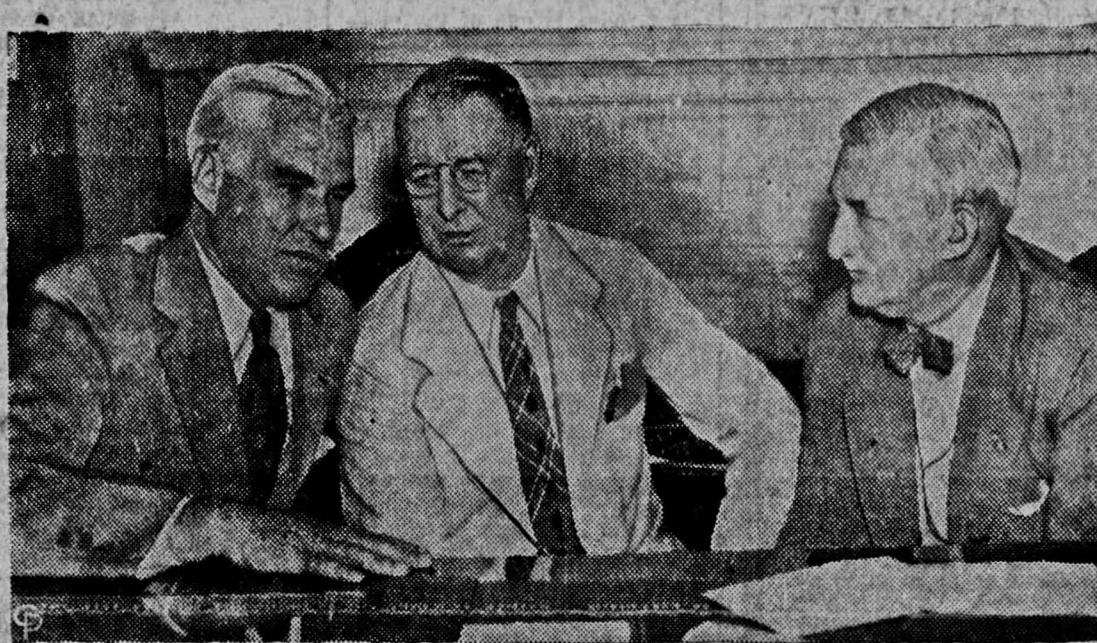

He is the author of three volumes in economics: "Readings in Money and Banking," 1916;

"Bank Credit," 1920, and "Banking and the Business Cycle," with McManus and Nelson, 1937.

The new Iowa head has four children: Jessie, Dorothy, Gordon and Van Lehn. He resides at 721 N. Linn street.

Air Fighters Send Six German Raiders to Destruction Into Straits of Dover During Battle

English Confidently Claim Repeated Nazi Raids To Soften Britain for Invasion Fail While Resistance Grows

LONDON, July 14 (Sunday) (AP)—Early this morning German bombing planes flew over northeast England for the third successive night, but they dropped no bombs and were driven off by British fighter planes which yesterday had accounted for a total of 12 nazi planes.

Britain's dashing and cocksure air fighters sent six German raiders spinning to destruction into the Straits of Dover in an afternoon air battle yesterday and Britain's leaders proclaimed the island's air defenses had proved themselves stalwart and deadly.

The British Straits triumph, reported in an air ministry communiqué, raised the day's total of felled nazi planes to 12, six fighters and six bombers.

At the end of another week of ceaseless air bombardment, Britons confidently claimed that repeated nazi raids to "soften" Britain for invasion had failed and that British power to resist had grown with each hour.

In all, official statistics showed the nazis have lost 91 planes from July 4 to tonight.

Three bombers were shot down earlier yesterday in raids which have become part of the daily pattern along British coasts in the nazi effort to starve and frighten the nation into impotence.

Two were downed during the morning, one falling into the English channel, and another in the afternoon in a fierce sky fight in clouds high over a southwest coast town.

Three German fighters were shot down off the south coast last night.

An air ministry communiqué reported only one British fighter missing—in the channel fighting—although it declared royal air force fliers twice had raided objectives on German-held soil.

Damage Nazi Bases
Despite adverse weather, it said, "damage was caused and many fires were started" by British bombers raiding nazi naval bases at Emden and Kiel Friday night.

"Daylight attacks have yesterday been carried out by our bombers on the airfield at Brussels, on objectives at Monheim in the Rhineland and on concentrations of barges on the Bruges-Ostend canal," it added. "All our aircraft returned safely."

Summing up the results of a week's air attack, British authorities said the Germans had lost more than $4,000,000 worth of aircraft and had inflicted only slight damage on shipping, the British Achilles' heel. They counted nearly four-score downed German warplanes as the week's "bag" for British air defenses.

"The German high command communiques are systematically minimizing German air losses," an authoritative British source commented.

Britain is adding 7,000 men a day to her armed forces in a high speed mobilization program and answering the German air blows with her own raids on German war industries, air bases and communications systems.

The Petain-Laval program calls for transfer of the seat of government to the palace at Versailles and most of the ministries back to the left bank of the Seine in Paris, with the Germans to move out of this area.

The change possibly would occur in two weeks.

In addition to these questions, the French government confronts the great problems of getting millions of refugees back to their homes and setting industry and agriculture to work again.

Rumania Orders Peasant Soldiers Back to Farms

BUCHAREST, July 13 (AP)—Rumania, following in the totalitarian footsteps of the axis powers, headed German advice today and ordered hundreds of thousands of peasant soldiers back to the farms in time for the wheat harvest.

The decision to "deconcentrate" the army coincided with reports that German farm experts would be called in.

Many technicians were released from military service, too, in the move to keep Rumania's production of foodstuffs and other materials—which the German reich needs badly—up to par.

German and Rumanian diplomacy, meanwhile, were linked in a common pressure to turn the totalitarian regime of Premier Ion Gigurtu still further toward the axis. Sheppard has referred to this legislation as on the "must" list, although President Roosevelt has not directly endorsed it.

Sen. Norris Will Oppose Conscription

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), who has supported all administration defense proposals thus far, said today that he was opposed to compulsory military training and would speak against it if any bill reached the senate.

The 79-year-old independent has declared that there is more reason now to fight Germany than there was in 1917 when he voted against the declaration of war.

But he said he did not believe this country should enact conscription legislation now.

Senators Holt (D-WVa) and Lundeen (FL-Minn) also announced opposition to any conscription or draft legislation at this time.

Despite these statements, Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate military affairs committee said he was confident that compulsory training legislation would be approved by congress before the present session ends.

Sheppard has referred to this legislation as on the "must" list, although President Roosevelt has not directly endorsed it.

Why We Haven't the Money

What's Wrong With America's Blind-Alley Economy?

And What's Being Done About It?

Paving the Way for an Answer

The temporary national economic committee has finished its deep researches and has marshalled its findings as to just what is wrong with the production relations of this country, as to just why we have so much unemployment of manpower and mechanical power, why we can't buy the things we'd like, and so on.

The findings are an old story, from all reports, but they are, nonetheless, sufficiently embarrassing "to be temporarily withheld from publication, pending a short propaganda campaign to prepare the way."

The facts are essentially the same now as when Hoover's committee on recent social trends made its report. The same tendencies have strengthened. But in order that the TNEC may make some rather obvious recommendations, which were not made in the previous investigation, it would appear that Stuart Chase and Thurman Arnold have been drafted to write books for late summer publication to popularize further the official suggestions.

Complicated Simplicity

No doubt the findings of the TNEC will be very thorough and complex, but there is nothing difficult to understand about the essence of the situation. The American system is a system of private enterprise, in which the production of goods is regulated by the prospect of money profit to those who own or control the means of production. Technological improvement in industry, resulting in mass production, has given an accelerating impetus to the consolidation of industry and business, the concentration of wealth through accretion, and the centralization of financial control in the hands of a small group.

The vast majority of us, having lost control of the land and the mechanical instruments of production, are forced to sell our services to those in control for cash payments—wages. The owners or controllers of the productive system, being primarily motivated by prospect of profit, do not like to have to pay more for their labor than it costs to produce it, maintain it, and replace it. Labor, like other natural resources, must be placed on a commodity basis.

The Lack of Demand

As capital accumulates and technological advances are made use of, worker productivity increases sharply while the increase in real wages is relatively slight. The difference between the wage and the value added by the worker with his tools goes to the owners as rent, interest, or profit. If these receipts are not large there is no incentive for investment or enterprise. But the receipts are all dependent, finally, on the marketing of consumers' goods. And this requires the existence of some economically effective demand for the goods.

The rich spend prodigally, but most of their income is necessarily reinvested, turned into capital goods to produce more consumers' goods, or left idle, a dead loss, in the banks. We who work for wages, however much we may desire to clear the markets, cannot do so, because our income is far less than the value of the goods produced. Under our system this must always be the case, and we can make out only so long as it is possible to build for the future in terms of horizontal expansion; vertical expansion yields a decreasing rate of interest on investments.

The Obvious Conclusions

When the rate of increase of production begins to slacken we begin to have depression. The lack of consumer demand leads to unemployment of men, capital equipment, and new liquid capital for which there is no desirable investment opening. This situation leads to a vicious downward spiral unless checked by the interposition of some force external to the unrestrained working of the economy.

Obviously the conclusion is that we need to have some such external force consciously and systematically applied to our economy to bolster consuming power to the point where it is adequate to clear the market of the consumers' goods produced. Obviously, too, this will necessitate some kind of overall planning of the production and distribution of the national income. Obviously, furthermore, this means a broad expansion of governmental regulation of business.

And lastly and most obviously, that is why the TNEC must step carefully, report exhaustively, and prepare the way by means of a high-powered attempt to popularize the facts.

Time Out of Joint

The English are famous for their smug confidence in their ability to "muddle through." A new popular song in England and Canada (to be whistled in the dark) is called "There'll Always Be An England." H. G. Wells says, in his book, The Work, Wealth and Happiness of Mankind (1931): "In England we have to rely upon a comfortable time-lag of fifty years or a century intervening between the perception that something ought to be done and a serious attempt to do it."

The pulse of Britain has slowed, with his. It was not thus in the days of Francis Drake. Then England struck when the iron was hot. Since then the world has come to move faster, ever faster. The armadas of the air are swifter than those of the sea. We are living in an age when time and timing count for more than anything else. It is a mechanized age; and the most important part of a gasoline engine is the timer.

More than ever is it true that military strategy and tactics are a matter of timing. Timing has been so plainly the simple secret of German military effectiveness. The old rule of warfare—"getting there firstest with the mostest"—has taken on a new significance. Hitler, as well as the English, has relied on their "comfortable time-lag" of procrastination.

It is not so comfortable for the British now. Well may England say, "the time is out of joint." Well may she say now, "There is no time to lose." The time is lost. England is out of date. After centuries of British bungling and muddling, the sun is setting swiftly on the British Empire.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Two Tycoons in the New Deal

WASHINGTON—The way the two industrial magnates, Knudsen and Stettinius, are promoting expansion of Mr. Roosevelt's pet social reform in TVA has inspired facetious comment about "tycoon radicalism" and developed the suggestion that "if business wants to keep government out of competition it had better get Messrs. Knudsen and Stettinius out of the new deal." But few know the extent to which they went to get additional TVA power facilities built.

The new dealers were afraid to recommend the extension because of certain strong legal difficulties. The house had already grown publicly against TVA going any further, and the new dealers knew they could not get away with legal shortcuts.

So Defense Commissioner Edward R. Stettinius took hold. Convinced that the expansion was necessary, he decided to seek legal justification. The suggestion was advanced to him that he should request an opinion from Attorney General Jackson, in accordance with usual government practice.

But Stettinius apparently decided that if he needed legal advice he might as well get the best, and thereupon violated all procedure by calling for the personal view of the chief justice of the United States supreme court, Charles Evans Hughes. He got it, and the matter proceeded forthwith.

The incident, marking another stanza in the saga of the amazingly successful "adventures of two tycoons in the new deal," will be kept quiet because such procedure is highly unorthodox, although actually government officials have, in unusual cases, always found their friends on the high bench personally willing to help.

PACKARD MOTORS

Real unconfessed reasons why Packard rejected the 9,000 plane contract from the national defense commission were many, any one of which was enough. Main difficulty was the refusal of the treasury department to give concessions for depreciation tax allowances if the company entered upon such a large plant expansion investment. You may have noticed immediately after the contract was rejected, the treasury announced it would allow five year amortization of such investments, which theretofore set that.

Still remaining then was the refusal of both the British and United States governments to make satisfactory promises of what they would do if Britain was defeated before her 1,000 planes could be delivered. It was only natural that the contractor should expect the British to deposit in this country the money to pay for the planes, or require the United States government to take the British share.

These obstacles became rather formidable when you consider that a $30,000,000 investment for plant expansion, construction and tooling would be necessary.

Perhaps Mr. Ford had some thoughts of the same in mind when he turned down the deal.

BUSINESS INDEX

Revision of the government's key business index is being planned by the federal reserve board but not without trepidation. The industrial production figure, used frequently in this column, has for 8 years been based on 1923-25 averages as 100. A new base using the new deal years of 1935-37 as 100 will be submitted to the public in the August issue of the FRB bulletin.

The change will boost the business figures considerably and no doubt draw charges that it was inspired for presidential campaign purposes, although federal reserve board is supposed to be non-political.

Justification is the great number of new important industries built up since 1923-25, including aviation, radio, chemicals. The old index was obviously too heavily weighted with the old dominant products, such as steel and textiles.

HENDERSON BOLD

Price Administrator Leon Henderson has exceeded the former recognized limits of new deal boldness by refusing to appoint several recommended friends of Thomas G. Corcoran, the president's ghost, to his national defense organization. A row developed. Words were exchanged, but Henderson's standing at the White House is reported unimpaired and perhaps enhanced.

'Damnation of Faust' to Be Presented at Iowa Union Tonight

Iowa's Second Arts Festival To Open at 8

University Summer Chorus, Symphony Orchestra to Participate

Presenting Berlioz's brilliant "Damnation of Faust" in concert form with original instrumentation, the university summer session chorus and symphony orchestra will open the University of Iowa's second fine arts festival in the main lounge of Iowa Union tonight at 8 o'clock.

The summer session chorus of 160 members and the 98-piece symphony orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Thompson Stone, one of the country's leading choral directors.

Considered the most ambitious program ever attempted by summer session musical organizations, the "Damnation of Faust" will be heard tonight for the first time in this vicinity. WSU will broadcast the concert.

Soloists for the opening performance will be Prof. Herald Stark, tenor, of the music department; Mark Love, baritone, from Chicago Opera company; and Onabelle Ellett, soprano, of Iowa City.

Written in French in 1803 by Berlioz, who conceived the idea of putting Faust to music, the production profoundly effected the Faust works of Wagner and List.

Stage Performance

Originally intended for stage performance, the difficult work has seldom been staged in concert form because of the elaborate technical effects needed.

Inaugurated on the Iowa campus last year as an experiment unique in the history of the fine arts, the festival attracted a total attendance of more than 25,000 persons.

The committee in charge of the festival this year includes Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts; general chairman; Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department; Prof. F. G. Higbee, director of convocations; Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the art department; and Prof. Edward C. Mabie, head of the dramatic and speech department.

Other festival committee members are Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension department; Prof. Frederick M. Powell, director of the university publications, and Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department.

Hold Band, Choral Concert Tomorrow

Second Event Of Festival At Iowa Union

Dr. Thompson Stone, Charles B. Righter Concert Conductors

The summer session symphonic band, conducted by Prof. Charles B. Righter and the all-state high school chorus, conducted by Dr. Thompson Stone, will combine musical talent to present the second concert of this year's fine arts festival tomorrow night in the main lounge of Iowa Union at 8 p.m.

The second concert will be broadcast over station WSU at 8 p.m. All tickets for the performance have been distributed.

Busch's "Symphonic Episode—A Chant from the Great Plains," and Goldmark's "Rustic Dance," from the "Country Wedding" symphony will be played by the symphonic band as opening selections on the program.

After the presentation of secular and sacred music selections by the all-state high school chorus, the summer session symphonic band will conclude the concert by playing Bach's "Adagio," from "Organ Suite in C Major," and Wagner's "Farewell and Fire Chariot Music," from "Die Walküre."

The all-state high school chorus, conducted by Dr. Stone, will introduce their portion of the program with Grieg's "Ave Maris Stella," and conclude their selections, written by American and foreign composers, with Sir Arthur Sullivan's "When the Farmer Bares His Steel."

The complete choral program follows.

Pink and white will be the colors used at a small wedding breakfast for members of the family, served after the ceremony in the pine room of Reich's cafe. The bride's cake will center the table.

John Paulus Beats Al Butterworth to Win Men's Singles in Tennis Tournament

Champions were determined in three divisions yesterday in the all-university summer session tournament on the reserve library courts, when Louise Kuhl, Beatrice, Neb., won the ladies singles, John Paulus of Iowa City, won the men's singles and John Ebert of Iowa City teaming with Ralph Nichols of St. Paul, Minn., copped the men's doubles championship.

Miss Kuhl was the first champion crowned yesterday when she defeated Helen Gilbert, Clinton, Mo., in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1. Paulus then took the courts to win a hard fought extra set battle from Al Butterworth, Hinsdale, Ill., winning 6-3, 0-6, 8-6. In the men's doubles, Ebert and Nichols won after a shaky start from Paulus and Butterworth 5-7, 6-3, 6-1.

Paulus played excellent tennis to upset Butterworth, the number one seeded player and favorite

The third set was the best of the day, neither player building up a commanding lead. With games at six all, Paulus broke through Butterworth's service, and won his own to cap the set and match.

Louise Kuhl proved her superiority over the field in the ladies' singles when she went through the tournament without the loss of a set. In her match with Miss Gilbert yesterday, she was extended for the first time in the first set which she won 6-4. After splitting the first four games the Nebraska girl took three straight games the lead at five to two, only to have Miss Gilbert tighten her game to win the next two. At this point the champion broke her opponent's service to capture the set.

Miss Gilbert won the first game of the second set, but then Miss Kuhl turned on the pressure and ran out the set winning 6-3, 6-1.

Paulus played excellent tennis to upset Butterworth, the number one seeded player and favorite the next six games at 6-1—the first set at 5-7. Ebert and Nichols then hit their stride and won 12 of the next 16 games, well placed lobes by Nichols and slashing placements by Ebert winning point after point, and forcing their opponents into numerous errors. The winners displayed some of the best teamwork of the entire tournament to nail down the title.

In eliminating Nichols in the semifinals Saturday morning, Butterworth played some of the best tennis of the tournament, rushing into a lead of four games to one, and then running out the set with a series of blistering forehand shots that nicked the corners, to win the set 6-1.

Nichols came back with his best tennis of the tournament to win the second set 6-3. After spotting Butterworth two games, the St. Paul player came back to win the next three to go into a lead of three to two. Butterworth won the next game deucing the set, Miss Gilbert broke her opponents' service and won to take the match at 7-5.

Louise Kuhl ran through Mrs. Albert Husa, Iowa City dark horse with the loss of but one game to win her semifinal match 6-1, 7-5. Miss Horn, second seeded player could not withstand the steady play of her opponent in the first set and the Clinton, Mo. miss quickly built up a lead of five games to nothing and after allowing Miss Horn one game, ran out the seventh game settled the issue shortly. It was the second straight match in which Miss Kuhl had won the next game but had to come from behind, as decisively, as she won her quarterfinal match against Miss Horn went into the lead four games to one, on a series of sizzling chop shots which forced

Miss Gilbert into numerous errors. At this point the Missouri girl braced and came back to win the next four games, making the set five games to four in her favor. After Miss Horn won the next game deucing the set, Miss Gilbert broke her opponents' service and won to take the match at 7-5.

Louise Kuhl ran through Mrs. Albert Husa, Iowa City dark horse with the loss of but one game to win her semifinal match 6-1, 7-5. Miss Horn, second seeded player could not withstand the steady play of her opponent in the first set and the Clinton, Mo. miss quickly built up a lead of five games to nothing and after allowing Miss Horn one game, ran out the seventh game settled the issue shortly. It was the second straight match in which Miss Kuhl had won the feature match of the morning saw John Paulus of Iowa City defeat his fellow townsmen, John Ebert in an extra set contest, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 to score a mild upset. Ebert, seeded number two, was expected to win after a close battle, but found it difficult to check the lanky Paulus. Accurate lobbing by Paulus won him numerous points while his ground game was hard, er throughout than Ebert's.

Ebert and Paulus were forced to play their semifinal double match, postponed from Friday to get into the finals. They won from Dale Hatch, Keokuk, and John Winnie, Clear Lake, 6-2, 6-2.

Kinnick Leads in Voting For Halfbacks on All-Star Ballot

HEAVY BALLOTTING

Heavy balloting by use of petitions to elect Iowa's four favorite sons—Nile Kinnick, Erwin Prasse, Buzz Dean and Dick Evans—to the All-Star squad continued yesterday, but little use was made of the printed ballot to elect other stars of national reputation.

Evidence that local interest is purely toward putting Iowa men on the squad which will meet the Green Bay Packers under the lights of Soldier Field the night of August 29, almost 1,500 names attached to petitions were collected and tabulated yesterday.

This brings Iowa City's contribution close to the 2,000 mark. FILL OUT A BALLOT OR SIGN A PETITION NOW.

Midwestern Athletes Dominate Field In First Day's Returns

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Midwestern athletes dominate the early returns from the nationwide poll to select an all-star college football squad as an opponent for the Green Bay Packers pro eleven in Soldier Field Aug. 29.

Voting started last Friday and continues until July 23.

A squad of 22, all of whom completed their college careers last fall, will be selected to oppose the pro champions in the annual charity spectacle sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

The two leaders at each position follow:

Ends—Lorry Lorentz, Illinois college, 10,143 votes; Esco Sarkkinen, Ohio State, 3,854.

Tackles—Tad Harvey, Notre Dame, 14,586; Howard Fletcher, Northern Illinois Teachers, 12,154.

Guards—Frank Bykowski, Purdue, 6,893; Lyle Rockenback, Mich. State, 5,134.

Centers—Clyde Turner, Hardin-Simmons, 6,329; John Haman, Northwestern, 3,116.

Quarterbacks—Tony Sacco, St. Ambrose, Ia., 38,127; Ken Heinman, Texas Mines.

Halfbacks—Nile Kinnick, Iowa, 8,706; Lou Brock, Purdue, 7,933.

Fullbacks—Joe Thesing, Notre Dame, 13,592; George McGurn, Northwestern, 10,664.

Pro League Formed

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—A new American professional football league was organized here today and incorporated under the laws of New York state.

The league in its present form is composed of teams in Buffalo, N. Y., New York, Columbus, O., Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Boston. St. Louis, Hollywood and Kenosha, Wis., have applied for franchises for the impending season.

Chisox Blank Boston Twice

Knott Wins Nightcap On Two Hits, 7-0; Lyons in 5-0 Opener

BOSTON, July 13 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox blanked the Boston Red Sox in both ends of a doubleheader today, capturing the first game, 5-0, and completing the sweep, 7-0, in the nightcap behind the two-hit pitching of big Jack Knott.

Little "Skeeter" Webb, Taft Wright and Lanky Bob Kennedy continued the assault in the second game as the Dykesmen pounded 15 hits off the service of Jack Wilson, Fritz Ostermueller and Charlie Wagner.

49 Degrees Yesterday
Same as in 1910

Cool weather prevailed in Iowa City all day yesterday with a low mark of 49 degrees recorded for Friday night by the University of Iowa hydraulic department weather station.

This low mark equals the 1910 record which was also 49 degrees, the coldest July 13 on record. High mark for yesterday was but 77 degrees, 10 points below the 87-degree normal. Normal low was 63.

Readings a year ago were 93 degrees high and 72 degrees low.

School Board Discusses 1941 Budget for City Public Schools

Sets July 26 as Date For Public Hearing; Appoints Instructor

The Iowa City school board, at a special meeting last night, reviewed and discussed the proposed 1941 budget for Iowa City public schools and set Friday, July 26, at 7:30 p.m. as time for a public hearing on the budget.

R. D. Sellhorn of North Bend, Neb., was hired by the board last night as instructor in industrial arts in the Iowa City high school. Sellhorn received his B.A. degree from Penn State Teachers College in 1934, his M.A. at the University of Minnesota in 1939 and took graduate work at the University of Nebraska.

He has 13 years of teaching experience to his credit including two years as a rural teacher, four years as a grade principal and instructor in industrial arts at Wood River, Neb., six years as a junior high school principal and instructor of industrial arts at Auburn, Neb., and one year as assistant professor of industrial education and supervisor of the training school at Penn State Teachers college at Penn, Neb.

Sellhorn is a member of Epsilon Pi Tau, national honorary professional fraternity in industrial arts and industrial-vocational education, and Phi Delta Kappa, national educational fraternity for men.

The school board also approved purchase of various books for use in the high school.

goodbye to each other in the capital stopped to shake each other's hands and gather in groups to resume a briefly interrupted discussion of the one question mark of the convention, whether the president would accept the nomination.

Two men knew, and they, secreted in the fastnesses of the huge Stevens hotel, the convention headquarters, were in busy conference with their aides and casual callers. The two—Chairman James A. Farley of the democratic national committee, who has been averse to a third term for the president, and Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, the president's confidant and personal convention representative—in fact went into conference with each other during the day. Hopkins called on Farley.

"I had a very pleasant talk with Mr. Hopkins about the pending situation," Farley jovially told a press conference later. "We had an interesting chat. He said Farley was running all right."

Farley is a candidate, and one whose name is to go before the convention whether the president's name is presented or not. He has been planning to relinquish his post as national chairman. However, much pressure was being exerted upon him to continue for time, as a gesture toward party harmony, and many considered it an open question whether the expert political technician, who directed the 1932 and 1936 Roosevelt campaigns, would also get the president's 1940 drive started, at least. When a reporter asked whether Hopkins had endeavored to persuade him to do so, he declined to answer, and said he would reply "in due course" to the direct question whether he would retain his present party position.

"Did he (Hopkins) bring you any news?" Farley responded to an outburst of laughter.

Two floors below, Paul V. Nutt, a candidate but one whose name will not be presented if the president's is, opened headquarters in keeping with the sumptuous coming out party that got his candidacy started in Washington two years ago.

Prof. J. M. O'Neill Stresses Speech Education in Schools

"Speech education should have a place in the basic fundamentals of a school's curricula," asserted Prof. J. M. O'Neill, head of the speech department at Brooklyn College, at the closing session of the first annual speech conference here yesterday.

Speech, being a comparatively new field of study, has undergone a definite change from an unorganized frontier to a well planned society with set rules and regulations, stated the educator.

In the specific field of public speaking and debate, Professor O'Neill believes that there are signs of integration and a turning away from the original objectives of the speech program.

Phonetics

At present there is too great a swing toward the teaching of phonetics in many public schools, the speaker declared, and a neglect of speech education, particularly in the east.

Autos Collide In Iowa City: $65 Damage

Two autos collided at the Iowa avenue and Dodge street intersection shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon resulting in slight damage to both machines. Oramel Stoner Sr., 420 S. Madison street, driver of one car going south on Dodge street, reported $50 damages to his car.

The other car, proceeding west on Iowa avenue, was driven by Guy L. Carlton of Cedar Rapids. Carlton reported $15 damages to his car.

Defense--

(Continued From Page 1) George C. Marshall, the army chief of staff, that enactment of a conscription law was immediately essential to defense, senators Norris (Ind-Neb), Hold (D-W. Va.) and Lundeen (Fl-Minn) said they would oppose such a step. Several other senators indicated opposition.

Otherwise the day brought these defense developments:

The navy reported that 850 young men had enlisted for a special three-months course in its program of training 5,000 reserve officers. Six hundred are to sail Monday from New York on the training battleship Wyoming for a four-weeks cruise, and on their return will undergo training ashore. A second group of 1,200 is to be taken on a similar cruise aboard three battleships probably Aug. 10-Sept. 14.

Secretary Perkins suggested a program of medical supervision and health education for industrial workers, young people in training for industry and children.

Nearly 1,000 Persons From First District Expected to Attend

Iowa City and Johnson county democrats will move onto Chicago "en masse" today for the opening tomorrow morning of the democratic national convention in the Chicago stadium, local democratic party leaders said yesterday.

Because of the relative proximity of Chicago to eastern Iowa, it is expected that this portion of the state will be well represented at the convention and it was estimated that nearly 1,000 persons from the 11 counties of the first Iowa district alone would be in attendance.

Forty-four delegates, each with half vote, will attend and will be accompanied by 38 alternate delegates from all parts of the state.

Atty. William R. Hart of Iowa City is one of the official delegates, four of whom come from the first district. Attorney Hart was a page at the democratic national convention in Baltimore, Md., in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson was nominated. He served for two years as Johnson county democratic chairman and is now a member of the state central committee, which position he has held for four years. The only public office he has held was that of city attorney in Iowa City for four years.

Many local democrats will not go to the Chicago convention until later this week in order to be present for the nominating work which is expected to begin about Wednesday.

Iowa is entitled to 22 votes at the national democratic convention. These are on the basis of two for each representative and senator from Iowa in Washington. The state has nine representatives for which each congressional district is entitled to choose two delegates and four are chosen at large for the senatorial representative.

It is the privilege of the state

Professor Barnes

Prof. Harry G. Barnes, registrar and former member of the speech department, also participated in the re-emanation of speech objectives.

In discussing the various methods of teaching speech in secondary schools, Professor Barnes warned the audience that extensive drill, unless directly associated with the individual, will not aid in the student's development and progress.

Especially in the speech department there is a need for increased individual attention rather than a general leveling off of the educational program to meet the average student. According to Professor Barnes, the teacher must not merely be satisfied with adequacy, but should drive the student to achievement.

'Coriolanus' to Open

Thomas Wood Stevens to Direct Fourth Production

The dramatic arts department keeps in tune with the fine arts festival on the Iowa campus this week by presenting Shakespeare's "Coriolanus," which opens tomorrow night in Prof. E. C. Mabie's University theater for a five-day run. The play is the fourth production in the schedule of six for the summer session.

Thomas Wood Stevens, who staged the season's opener, "Don Juan," directs this production. Stevens directed the Globe theater shows at the Chicago world's fair. He has never previously staged "Coriolanus," which is his nineteenth Shakespearean production.

Earl R. Harlan of Des Moines, recruited from radio work for the summer theater, steps into the title role as Coriolanus, his first appearance on university stage. Harlan was a three-letter athlete and star theater performer at Drake university. Among other roles there, he played the lead in "Death Takes a Holiday" and Duke Orsino in "Twelfth Night."

Harlan is supported by the popular university theater stalwarts, Henderson Forsythe of Monroe City, Mo., and Dorothea Carlson of Battle Creek. Forsythe played "Don Juan," but this is Miss Carlson's first role this season. Forsythe is cast as Tullus Aufidius, general of the Volscians and Miss Carlson plays Volumnia of Iowa Falls.

The set for "Coriolanus" is constructed with three stage levels, so that the five-act tragedy moves swiftly from one scene to another. There will be just one intermission.

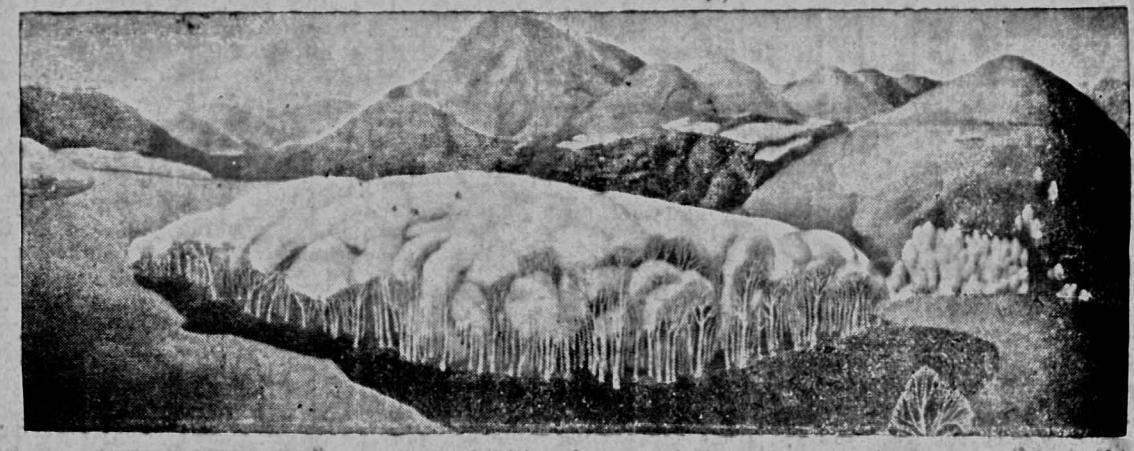

It is estimated that over 150 costumes are used in the show. Elizabeth Hooker Parsons, New York designer, was assisted in this department by Anne Raike of Chicago, Frances Spence of Iowa City and Marjorie Jackson of Iowa Falls.

Three distinct exhibitions of works of art, highlighted with the showing of Grant Wood's famous "Parson Weems' Fable," will open on the campus today as a part of the second fine arts festival.

Exhibition of American paintings and etchings, loaned by the University of Nebraska and the Nebraska Art Association, will hang in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Forty-five pictures, representative of the highest standards of achievement of American art, are included in Nebraska exhibits, outstanding among university collections in the United States. The university exhibition of painting and sculpture can be seen in

LEONARD'S "HI-HUMID" REFRIGERATOR—KEEP FOODS FRESHER FOR DAYS LONGER

New Principle of Refrigeration Eliminates Necessity for Defrosting—Controls Humidity and Temperature Throughout Refrigerator!

HERE'S THE BIGGEST refrigeration news of the year—in fact, the biggest in many years—a revolutionary new system to control humidity and temperature in household refrigerators.

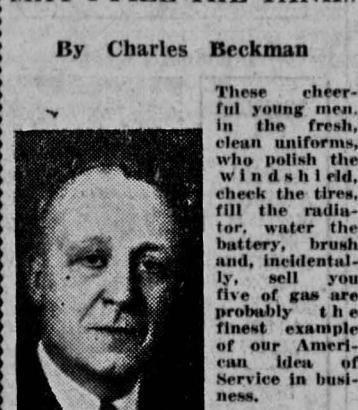

Leonard's exclusive, new "Hi-Humid" Food Freshener System keeps foods fresher for days longer. Food need not be covered. And under normal conditions there is no necessity to defrost.

And in addition you get a Built-In Cold Storage Chest that keeps meats fresh for days—and a Frozen Food Compartment for the safe storage of the new frozen foods.

Then, too, the Hi-Humid model Leonards, such as the one illustrated, give you a big Vegetable Bin, sliding glass-covered Crisper, automatic light and many other Leonard features to save you time and money in the kitchen.

Come in today and get all the facts on the Leonard Hi-Humid models. See the complete line of 1940 Leonards, every one powered by the silent glacier sealed unit that uses current only a fraction of the time and saves many dollars a year on operating costs alone. You'll be surprised to learn that prices are as much as $60 less than last year.
