Britons, both of high and low degree, took the attitude that Hitler's latest peace overture had been answered in advance five days ago by Prime Minister Winston Churchill's declaration: "Be the ordeal sharp or long, or both, we shall seek no terms; we shall tolerate no parley."

Though Hitler is well aware of this consistent Churchill stand, and doubtless knew in advance what sort of reception his peace scheme would get, the British had been expecting him to make just such a gesture ever since the fall of France and the determined British actions which kept him from laying hands on the French fleet.

The general opinion was that the only surprising thing about it was the lack of anything concrete or even novel.

Of Hitler's threat to destroy the British empire, the ordinary Briton scoffed: "let him try it."

There were many to recall that this is the 352 anniversary of the Spanish Armada's arrival off Britain, and that the only Spaniards to land then were prisoners of the British navy.

Tired of speculating on when the German attack will come, the British did not even try to guess whether the Hitler speech presaged an immediate attempt at invasion.

At the same time the British navy was confronted with the threat of a fresh German sea raider "at large in the Atlantic" when it was announced that two British merchant ships, had been sunk near the West Indies.

The 5,069-ton Italian cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni, was sunk by the Australian cruiser Sydney off the Greek Isle of Crete, the admiralty announced.

Another Italian cruiser was put to flight by the six-inch guns of the Sydney and the smaller artillery of accompanying destroyers, the admiralty said.

The scene of the battle was near that which began July 8 when the British reported chasing the Italian fleet into the Ionian sea.

British aircraft, meanwhile, made repeated daylight attacks on barge concentrations—apparently being prepared for attack on Britain—near Rotterdam and Boulogne.

With Farley presiding, the president's stead, was left to a conference between the two nominees next Thursday in Washington.

Meantime, an acceptance speech Wallace had prepared for the convention last night remained undelivered. Because of the lateness of the hour, he explained, he changed previous plans to make the address before the convention adjourned.

Wallace will formally accept the nomination later, probably at ceremonies at Des Moines, late this month.

When a reporter asked Wallace what he thought of the opposition which was in evidence against him last night before his nomination, he smiled and said: "It was a democratic convention."

Cheering Neighbors Welcome Wallace Back to Des Moines

DES MOINES, July 19 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace's neighbors, 300 or 400 strong, greeted the democratic nominee with cheers for the "next vice president of the United States" tonight as he reached here by train for a short vacation.

Shaking hands with a dozen or so of his hometown well wishers, the secretary of agriculture said "this thing"—meaning the nomination—would require him to leave for Washington next Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

"I had intended to take a longer vacation," he explained, "but this thing came up and now I must go back and see the president."

American Theme Song

America, the land of opportunity, home of the free, land of the brave, give me liberty or give me death, all men are created equal, democracy, the American way. These phrases and others like them have provided a background, a theme song, for growing up in America. We can hum the tune, but do we understand the words?

What is the American way? Is it an orderly, intelligent, responsible way of living, of governing and being governed, or is there, perhaps a tinge of defiance, of undisciplined thinking and doing in our use of liberty, our way of life and our pursuit of happiness. In these days of looking about and counting our blessings, we have begun to give more thought to the words of our American theme song, to look for the meaning instead of the symbol.

Discipline. There's a word that has gradually been forcing its way into our consciousness. We have been told that we need disciplining. Is discipline compatible with freedom, independence—the American way? Perhaps we think of discipline as punishment inflicted by authority, as subjection to authority. But in America, we don't like to be forced, we don't like to be dictated to, we are free to think and to decide for ourselves. But we like order, we like our world to run smoothly enough to permit individual pursuit of happiness. We like discipline when it contributes toward our individual comfort. Could we accept discipline as an orderly training of our mental, moral and physical powers for the good of and subject to the authority of not a dictator, but the people?

Can the American way include discipline of the people, by the people and for the people in order that democracy shall not perish from the earth?

Can we write a new verse for America's theme song without changing the tune?

For Tomorrow We Die—

At a time when the editor was most upset about something upon which he might comment, there being nothing, apparently, happening in the world about us which deserves comment, along comes what may be hoped is the final chapter of the A. M. A. C. A.

You'll remember that that group (1) met at the world's fair for the purpose of amalgamating, and (2) decided to throw its weight to the democratic candidate for president since there are already 700 Willkie-for-President Clubs on the republican side.

The A. M. A. C. A., obviously, is the Association of Mad American Clubs and Associations.

In order to bring this epic to a close, we bring you the final communication from that organization, which followed the amalgamating meeting.

You can't appreciate this, of course, unless you read the other two. If you didn't, try to find solace this morning in one of the columns, or the editorial cartoon.

We regret the length of this particular epistle, but since the editor is concentrating on what he'll say tomorrow about the ills of the world, it's just as well that we be gay today.

"If Jim Farley is worried about the 700 Willkie-for-President clubs that will take a load off the republican national committee during the Willkie campaign, he can now put his mind at ease. Delegates from 50 organizations, representing close to 100,000 individuals met at Schaefer center at the World's Fair and decided that in the American spirit of fair play they owed it to posterity to throw their weight behind the democratic candidate, whoever he is. (Ed. note: "Who he is" is now known.)

"A few non-cooperating delegates suggested that their weight would be considerably behind, a long, long way behind the candidate, but nonetheless they will cooperate in so far as their charters permitted them. This, it was held, was a matter of tilting at windmills, because only one of the 50 organizations had a charter anyway.

"The delegates present at the convention represented such organizations as the Fred Smiths of America, the Blubber Society of America, the Society for the Prevention of Calling Toilets John, the International League of Leavers of Footprints in the Sands of Time, the Society for the Elimination of Pins in Shirts, Both New and Those Just Back from the Laundry, the Society of Former Elephant Water Toters, the Murderers Club of Sing Sing, Mother-in-Law association, the Spanked Wives Club of Sioux City, Co-Husbands Society of Tibet, the Monroe Horse Thief Detesting Society, the Ancient Order of Soakers and several others.

Program Held Up

"The program, which was scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, actually began an hour and a half later due to a fierce electrical storm which was adjudged at the meeting to be 'fitting and proper.'

"The high spot of the meeting was the arrival of James Moran, who once launched a whaling expedition to the west coast to rid San Francisco of a stray whale, who later achieved fame by hunting a needle in a five-ton haystack in Washington, D. C., and culminated his career last year by testing the virtues of Florida against California by getting half sunburned one place, and hopping by air to the second for a comparison. He eventually wound up in the hospital with blisters. 'It was a draw' he says.

"Mr. Moran, who lectured at infinite length on the subject of whales, is the president of the Blubber Society, and through his kind offices the delegates at the convention were able to have a first course of 'diced, crisp blubber with lemon juice,' prepared after the recipe of an Eskimo whom Mr. Moran met in Alaska while up there to sell an icebox (which he did). The diced, crisp blubber, with lemon juice was prepared after a slightly strenuous argument with Schaefer center's Chef Joseph Valligant, who refused to see the point.

'Farley, Here We Come'

"Between Moran's lectures on whales, blubber and vaguely similar subjects, the meeting dictated a letter to James Farley offering the services of the Mad Clubs, then in the process of amalgamating, in the coming democratic campaign. The letter was signed individually by each delegate excepting the one from the Murderers Club of Sing Sing who was a wooden substitute for the real delegate who was tied up and could not get away. At least that was the report the committee on arrangements got from Warden Laws.

"Now that practically all of the screwball societies in the United States are amalgamated into a single unit, it is safe to believe that nothing whatever will be done about it. This is because nothing things nothing, according to Harrison Forman, famed Tibetan explorer and representative of the Co-Husbands Society of Tibets, 'is still nothing.'

Beneficial Education

Higher education is a funny thing. It's there and yet it isn't. It's intangible, sometimes misunderstood.

After certain requirements have been met, a candidate is awarded a degree. Too often, after those requirements have been met, neither the candidate nor the world has gained thereby.

But in Iowa Union Thursday night, during the fine arts festival, we heard music written by University of Iowa graduates, trained here. Let there be no mistake about it. Those Iowa graduates have rare talent.

And when one of those young men received a Ph. D. degree for his composition, our faith in higher education was enhanced, for both he and the world benefitted thereby.

Mr. Willkie Brings Pine St.

Into Prominence Again—
BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Strange how Pine street continues to bob up in the diary of Manhattan. You read a lot about it now because it is where Wendell Willkie has his offices. Years ago it was the scene of a sensational murder, and once a play was written about it, "No. 9 Pine Street." The girl who played the lead in the play was Lillian Gish. Not that we want to cast a damper on any budding election campaigns that may be being formed around Pine street these days, but "No. 9 Pine Street," as a play, was a melancholy failure. It ran only a few performances.

Our award for the most heartening never-say-die spirit goes to a former Follies girl, Capi Grinder, who finally had to quit show business because of declining health. As a matter of fact, the malady was t. b., and her doctors told her she didn't have long to live. But that was 15 years ago, and today, at 49, Capi is the swimming instructor at Frank Seiden's Lido Beach club on Long Island. . . . "There may be people who feel better than I do," Capi says, posing for a plunge, "but if there are I haven't seen them."

Perhaps night prowlers and insomniacs will appreciate this information. New York's air is purest at 4 a. m. It is most polluted at 9 a. m. Back in 1932 the city installed a sensitive bit of apparatus that registers all these things, and I just thought you'd like to know.

Although New York is a sprawling city of five great boroughs, it is also a sort of loose federation of many picturesque named districts, such as Throg's Neck, which is in the Bronx, Hell's Kitchen, and Sugar Hill. Hell's Kitchen, best known perhaps of these districts because it has the reputation of being rough, tough, and ugly, is where George Raft grew up as a kid. It was notorious in the old days for its religious fights.

Note to Mr. James T. Higgins, Internal Revenue Service, Treasury Dept. . . . Dear Jim: Now let's get this thing straightened out. Yes, I filed a return for 1938. Don't you remember? You summoned me one day last July and I went down to see you, and after you went over my papers you turned to me and said, "Mister, you don't know how to file an income tax return." And when I said, "Okay, how much do I owe you?" you said, "You don't understand; it is we who owe you." And three or four months later you sent me a check. Remember? I'll come down again if you want me to. I just mention this because I thought you ought to know. G. T.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Incidental Incidentals Of the Convention

CHICAGO—The history of this democratic convention may be written with inner incidentals.

Creation of the vacuum necessary to bring on the draft at times threatened heavier casualties than you may have heard. It developed into an official whirlwind which became a problem of management, not because of its scope, but because so many vacuum welders were competing to lead it.

The Hopkins-Kelly arrangers, for instance had well planned their noise arrangements. There was to be a respectable, short demonstration when Senator Barkley first mentioned Mr. Roosevelt's name that fateful night the wind rose, on order. The big blow was to be reserved for later, after Barkley had read the president's inspiring message.

With all the politics knowing the bandwagon was coming, it was obviously a tactical error to expect them all to wait until Mayor Kelly could lead. A couple of Massachusetts boys, who were restlessly out on the sinking limb of support for Jim Farley, naturally decided this was the time to get off—and first. They waited panting for the Barkley mention of FDR's name, and were first in line for the premature parade by three delegate lengths.

Mr. Barkley's best work with his sledgehammer gavel could not save the energies of the delegates for the later demonstration until these had been wasted for 20 minutes.

STALKING SEN. PEPPER

Some of the highest official laundry in the party, starched and otherwise, was nearly wafted through the convention hall roof on one occasion by the vacuum exuberance of an official welder, Senator Claude Pepper of Florida.

Mr. Pepper, who had been crowded off the platform composition committee to make room for such unexpected and infrequent new deal guests as Senator Wheeler and the isolationists, decided at the height of the demonstration that the time had come for him to make it a tornado. He was to get recognition of the chairman and move to suspend the rules so Mr. Roosevelt could be acclaimed the nominee unanimously at that premature moment.

Unfortunately, Senator Worth Clark had a nominating speech for Wheeler in his system and was otherwise opposed to the idea. Finding that a motion to adjourn would take precedence over Pepper's motion, he told the senator flatly he would make such a motion if Pepper moved. "If you try anything like that the country will hear about it," was substantially what he said.

Clark thereafter followed Pepper around the hall like J. Edgar Hoover follows the communists. Everytime Pepper made a dash for the platform or got near a microphone where he might get the attention of the convention,

Clark figuratively interposed: Jersey delegations had stopped "Not tonight."

The linen was saved.

A FAST ONE

But the best trick of all, used to preserve as much of an outer appearance of unanimity as possible, was the one some of the Oklahoma delegates worked on one of their leaders. During the Roosevelt parade he stood there holding the Oklahoma standard out of it, like Atlas holding the world, only tighter. He was surprised to see none of the Roosevelt members of his delegation trying to take the standard from him, but not half as surprised as a moment later, when he saw these same delegates out in the thick of the parade carrying an Oklahoma standard just like his. They must have dug up a spare on the sly.

Atlas dropped the world and sat down.

WHEELER LOSES OUT

The Massachusetts boys may have jumped the gun on Mayor Kelly, but his gun was louder when he finally got it started. The screaming voice over the radio: "So and so wants Roosevelt!" came from the Illinois microphone. The official screamer mentioned "Illinois" and Mayor Hague's similarly mechanically regulated state of "New Jersey" most frequently. Before the evening was over he had covered nearly everyone as wanting Roosevelt, except the most important one. He neglected to mention Roosevelt also apparently wanted Roosevelt.

A Wheeler leader was heard to growl that if the Illinois and New Jersey delegations had stopped "you could have heard a delegate drop," but this was pique. Fully three-fourths of the convention was properly in the designated groove.

KELLEY vs. WHEELER

The Chicago papers reported Kelly brought for noisemaking "some of John Tuohy's boys from the 27th ward," which I judge is just about what you would surmise. Plainclothes ushers handled the Roosevelt banners, but when some interloping Wheelerite tried to lope out on the floor with some youngsters carrying a flock of inappropriate "Wheeler-for-president" placards on high sticks, Mr. Kelly's orderly police rounded up and kept most of them off, to save their lives, no doubt.

It was nearly all like this here most of the way—good humored but not necessarily friendly, and very, very drafty.

The Douglas Voting Record

CHICAGO—A complete summary of Supreme Court Justice Douglas' democratic voting record, which clarifies the limited assertion in this column some days ago that he had not voted in New Haven in 1938, is now available as result of investigation made by the local paper there.

Douglas did not vote in 1938 but was on the democratic registered list of that year. In 1937 he was not on the list and did not vote. From 1936 back to 1932 he was listed and voted each year except 1935.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

The Cameras Calm Down

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—The cameras has taken a sedative. It's calming down. It's shaking off the jitters. In fact, it's so calm that it's standing still—which is practically revolutionary. "Reactionary" would be a better word, for in standing still it is going back to the habit it formed of necessity in pioneer film times.

For, once upon a time, the moving picture camera never moved. It stood on a tripod and aimed its lenses in one direction, and the actors moved in front of it. If they moved too far, they were "out of the scene" and they had to move back to get in again.

Then the camera began pivoting on its tripod, began to look around from side to side. The it limbered up some more and climbed on a truck, or "dolly." This permitted it to travel a little, to move up close to the actors as move away from them without "breaking" the scene or cutting.

After a while a "dolly" was enough of a trick. The camera called for and got a crane. This allowed it not only to move forward and back, but to swoop down on or away from a close-up.

Directors, especially the imports from Europe, espoused the jittery camera and vied with each other in obtaining trick effects. The camera developed "monkey blood" and swung from ceilings, stood on its head, climbed rafter. It went on a spree, and then talkies brought the morning after.

The jittery camera had to be enclosed in a "sweatbox" to deaden its operating sounds. Actors worked and perspired in tiny stuffy sets, practically stood directly under microphones as their voices could be recorded. This lasted nearly two years, until the engineers began to take the mystery out of sound and learned to control it and the talkies went outdoors again. It wasn't long before the microphone, as well as the camera, was traveling. Rouben Mamoulian had himself a dolly spree at his first picture, "Applause." He made the camera and mike wander down and up corridors and streets and rooms until the audience got fairly dizzy trying to keep up with it.

Lately John Ford made a picture called "The Grapes of Wrath." His chief cameraman was Gregg Toland. Together they slipped the camera a powder, they made it stand still through most of the footage. More recently they made together a picture called "The Long Voyage Home." They doubled the powder. The picture has no "dolly" or crane shots. They "panned" only when strictly necessary. They let the characters do the moving while the camera stood still.

Toland says the method helped to keep audience attention on the story and characters and away from movie mechanics. It kept the camera out of the scene, gave better "composition," eliminated softness and blurring, gives clear definition and character to actors' faces.

It also saves time, he says. And time saves money, and for that reason if no other—the cameras of Hollywood may be expected to calm down even further in the near future.

Annual University Song Fest Tonight

Don Mallett To Be Leader For Singing

Iowa Union Campus To Be Scene Tonight For Singing, Dancing

The annual summer song fest, sponsored by the physical education department, will be held on the south Iowa Union campus tonight from 8 to 9 o'clock.

Featuring American songs and American dances, the song fest is planned for the enjoyment of the entire student body as well as Iowa Citizens, according to Chairman Florence Owens, visiting faculty member in the women's physical education department.

Purpose of the annual sing is to show school administrators the entertainment and recreation that can be derived from community participation in group song fests and dances.

Pediatrics Department Says Diet Affects Decay of Teeth

A long range program of study of the relationship between children's diets and tooth decay, already extending over a period of 14 years, is being carried forward in the University of Iowa's department of pediatrics.

Under the general direction of Dr. P. C. Jeans, head of the department, it has been established that tooth decay not only can be reduced to a negligible level through continued use of proper diets but active decay can be arrested and held at a standstill within a matter of a few months.

Special Diets Set

As reported in The Medical Bulletin, "the diets employed have been those designed by dietitians and recommended by the department of pediatrics for optimal nutrition of the child."

Observations have been made with the close cooperation of the department of children's dentistry, and repeated checking of several hundred children has been accomplished.

Studies now in progress deal with the effect of certain diseases and metabolic disturbances on tooth decay and the relationship of local and general factors in the prevention of decay.

Yankees Pulverize Cleveland 15-6, to Continue Upsweep

Assault Four Tribe Hurlers With 13 Hits

Champs Pound In First Seven Runs In First; Gomez Hit by Ball

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—The roar of the onrushing Yankee machine sounded louder and louder today as the champions pulverized the Cleveland Indians, 15 to 6, to sweep a three-game series with the erstwhile league leaders.

Clubbing the ball as of old, the Yanks assaulted four Cleveland hurlers for 13 hits, including four home runs; two of them by first baseman Babe Dahlgren. Seven runs off Lefty Al Smith and Joe Dobson in the opening frame settled the issue.

The victory, however, was not without its cost. Lefty Gomez, who started for the Yanks and was pitching with fair success, caught a terrific drive off Roy Weatherly's bat on the heel of his huriling hand in the fourth inning and was painfully injured. It is doubtful if the veteran will pitch again for several weeks.

The Indians got all five of their runs on two mighty drives. Hal Trosky pounded his 19th home run of the season off Gomez with a triple off Johnny Murphy with two on. Murphy set the Tribe down with three scattered hits the rest of the way.

Buddy Rosar, second string catcher, led the Yankee attack with a single, a double, a triple and a home run in his first four times at bat.

The way they fell upon Smith in the first inning was brutal. A home run by Joe Gordon, triples by Rosar and Buster Mills and Henrich's double propelled six runs across the plate before Oscar Vitt could get Smith out of there. Dahlgren, first man to face Dobson, slapped one into the stands for the seventh run of the inning. Mills cleaned the sacks with a double in the second inning, and after that the crowd of nearly 19,000 practically lost interest.

Amateurs Show Them How Eight Simon-Pures Even Or Under Par; Ferrier Leads With 66

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—A husky star from "down under"—Big Jim Ferrier of Australia—threw the heaviest punch today as a surprisingly strong amateur contingent gave the professionals a rousing battle in the opening round of the $5,000 Chicago Open Golf championship.

Ferrier, who writes for a Sydney newspaper, went around Tam O'Shanter's tree-lined layout in 66 strokes, six under par—a brilliant performance in a day which saw eight amateurs fight their way into the par or under bracket as numerous professionals slipped over regulation figures.

Holder of the Australian Open and amateur titles, Ferrier turned in nines of 34-32, getting seven birdies and going over par on only one hole. With a putter red-hot, the Australian clipped regulation figures by dropping putts of from 10 to 45 feet.

A stroke off the pace was Johnny Revolta, the veteran professional from Evanston, Ill., who went out in 32 and came home in 35 for a five under par 67. Willie Turnesa, former National Amateur champion from Elmford, N. Y., had identical nines of 34 for a 68 which tied the effort of Dick Metz, Chicago professional, while three other pros tied at 69—Ed

Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., and Ralph Guldahl and Johnny Bulla of Chicago. Ed Wysowski, Kewanee, Ill., had a two under par 70, just a shot under three amateurs, George Dawson of Chicago, Alex Welsh of Rockford, Ill., and Tom Sheehan of Detroit. Three amateurs hauled Detroit. Three amateurs were par of 36-32. They were Wilford Wehrle of the home club, Art Andrews of Peoria, who had a double-eagle two on the par five 15th as he sank a 200-yard iron shot, and Jack Hoerner of Chicago.

Lawson Little, the National Open champion, had a one over par 73, as did Sam Sneed and Ben Hogan, two of the brightest stars of the game's professional camp. Gene Sarazen, who tied Little for the Open crown at Cleveland and then lost in a playoff, came in with a 74, as did such veteran performers as Horton Smith and Harry Cooper.

Ellsworth Vines, former world amateur and professional tennis champion from Los Angeles, had a 77. The second 18 holes of the 72-hole battle will be played tomorrow, with the 48 low professionals and 24 low amateurs, plus ties, qualifying for Sunday's 36-hole final duel.

Two Fighters Given Purses

Jacobs Announces Second Armstrong-Jenkins Go in Sept.

By SID FEDER NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—The state athletic commission cleared the way today for Henry Armstrong and Lew Jenkins to get paid for their fight Wednesday night, and Promoter Mike Jacobs immediately announced plans for a return match between the two in Madison Square garden September 27.

The commission, which had held up the fighters' purses without giving any reason yesterday, cleared up the "mystery," and then soothed its ruffled dignity by pinning a 60-day suspension on Eddie Mead, Armstrong's manager, for an unimportant row over hand bandages a few minutes before Wednesday's bout started.

The commissioners explained that they held the purses only because they wanted Welterweight Boss Armstrong and Lightweight Champion Jenkins to post forfeits of $2,000 and $1,500 respectively to make the next defenses of their titles in this state. Promoter Jacobs immediately returned to his office and mailed the forfeit money to the fistic fathers. The commissioners, after lengthy thought, decided Armstrong must fight for his 147-pound crown "on or about" October 26 and Jenkins must put his lightweight title up around November 11.

Both fighters agreed to a replay of Wednesday's fight in which Armstrong stopped the Texas thin man in a six-round thriller. Conditions would be the same—12 pounds, non-title, with both coming in under 140 pounds. Before the return, however, each probably will have one or more tune-ups. Jenkins may meet Bob Montgomery, highly-touted Negro youngster, in Philadelphia within 30 days, and Armstrong may take on Mike Kaplan in Boston or Freddie Zivic, the Pittsburgher. Another suggested opponent for Jenkins was Dave Castelloux, the Canadian champion, and Mead said he might put Armstrong in against Red Cochrane in Newark.

The commission also got itself straightened out on Jenkins' managerial situation by issuing a manager's license to Fred Browning of Dallas, thereby making him responsible for all contractual obligations for the lightweight ruler. Up to now, there has been no "manager of record" for Jenkins listed with the commission, although Hymie Caplin has been handling him here. Browning explained that Caplin is still the co-manager.

The suspension of Mead doesn't figure to work any particular hardship on the large manager just now, because his fighter probably won't show in New York within 60 days anyway. The commission chairman, John J. Phelan, said he cracked down on Mead because the manager had refused to let his fighter go into the ring Wednesday if the commission insisted on removing the bandages already on Henry's hands. Mead explained he and Caplin had a private agreement concerning the amount of bandages to be used, and the commission held this amount was in excess of its rules.

Cards Snatch Doubleheader From Phillies

ST. LOUIS, July 19 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals snatched both games of a double header from Philadelphia today in late innings, winning the first 3 to 2 and the second 5 to 3.

In the first, Kirby Higbe had allowed only one scratch hit for six innings and had a 2 to 0 lead until a Cardinal uprising in the seventh and eighth.

Manager Doc Prothro announced he was continuing play under protest after a freak play in the fourth. Dutch Mueller singled, Rizzo hit Jimmy Brown and Mueller beat the throw to Oregeno at second. Oregeno threw wild to first and Rizzo reached second. But Mueller thought he had been called out and started for the dugout as Rizzo passed him. Oregeno then tagged Mueller, the Cards claimed Rizzo was out for passing Mueller and the umpires upheld them.

Kinnick Polls 170,000 Votes; Leads Balloting

Prasse, Evans, Dean Also In Challenging Spots for All-Stars

Only four days remain for football fans to cast their votes for their favorite all-stars to play against the Green Bay Packers on Soldier Field, Chicago, the night of August 29. The deadline for voting is midnight of July 23.

Iowa's Big Four—Nile Kinnick, Erwin Prasse, Dick Evans and Buzz Dean—showed a big leap in the rankings as concentrated voting from Iowa City and state balloting spots boosted all four into challenging and leading places in the poll.

Nile Kinnick, all-American halfback and player of the year, is not only leading the halfbacks in votes, but is leading the whole poll with 173,497.

Erwin Prasse and Dick Evans, Hawkeye end candidates, are very much in the running for end positions on the star-studded squad. Prasse occupies sixth spot with 103,148 votes, while Evans in entrenched in the eighth slot with 91,486.

Buzz Dean, Kinnick's running mate, and thought by many to be worthy of all-American mention, occupies the sixth position among the halfbacks with a grand total of 99,362 votes.

Yesterday The Daily Iowan tabulated over 19,000 ballots for the Big Four and over a hundred for other all-Americans. Voting seemed to be slowing down, with only scattered results from the Iowa City vicinity.

It has been estimated that the Hawk candidates will need 100,000 votes in the next four days to be elected to places on the all-star squad. So come on, Iowa City, let's do our part toward getting Kinnick, Prasse, Evans and Dean on the all-star squad.

NOTE NOW FOR YOUR FAVORITE ALL-STAR CANDIDATES. USE THE BALLOT ON THIS PAGE.

All Four Conroys Vote for All-Stars

The Conroys of Copperhill, Tenn., a long line of University of Iowa men and women, voted yesterday in the college all-star poll to pick a team of college graduates to meet the Green Bay Packers on Soldier Field the night of August 29.

The Conroys, all four of them, agreed on an all-American eleven that would take second to none in the land. Of course, as loyal graduates of S.U.I., the Conroys chose Nile Kinnick, Erwin Prasse, Dick Evans and Buzz Dean on their eleven. And, of course, as loyal Tennesseans, the Conroys picked Bob Sniffridge and George Cafego on their all-star team.

The ballot was signed: E. H. Conroy, E '15; Edward Conroy, E '42; Elizabeth Conroy, A '44; and Richard Conroy, '49.

Don Saforek Hurls No-Hit, 9-1, Game

Kalona swept aside Western Auto in a junior league game Friday morning as Don Saforek pitched his team to a 9 to 1, no-hit victory. Several times Saforek had to pitch his way out of holes earned by teammates' errors.

The winners tallied one in the first on an error and a hit and led the game in the second on four runs from four hits and a walk.

This ballot is for your use in selecting your favorite high school football stars who graduated either in January or June, to play in the first annual high school all-star game to be held in Des Moines Aug. 30. # Iowa Seeks To Extradite Lowell Haenze

DES MOINES, July 19 (AP)—R. W. Nebergall, chief of the Iowa bureau of investigation, today said "every effort" would be made to return Lowell Haenze to Iowa for prosecution on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of a Fort Madison prison guard.

The guard, Bill Hart, died July 9 of a bullet wound received when he escaped convicts attempted to engineer a prison break for three of their "pals" still inside the Fort Madison state penitentiary walls.

Haenze was shot and captured near Marysville, Kan., today.

Nebergall said Kansas authorities would have first claim on the captured 27-year-old convict but that Iowa authorities were certain to ask the privilege of pressing a murder charge against him.

Haenze, Ivan Sullivan, 28, and Forrest Estes, 36, cut their way through an electrified fence June 22 and escaped from the penitentiary. Haenze had been serving a 20-year sentence for breaking and entering and auto theft, Estes five years for chicken stealing and Sullivan 30 years for kidnaping and robbery.

Fifteen days later a trio identified as the same men appeared outside the walls of the penitentiary after a reported wild career of holdups, auto thefts and one bank robbery throughout the mid-west.

One of the men shot Hart and tossed a shotgun over the electrified fence. Gunfire from other guards, however, routed the three insiders attempting the break.

William Cunningham, serving a life sentence for bank robbery, was wounded twice and finally killed himself with the shotgun when he saw the attempt had been frustrated. Hart died the following day.

Estes previously had escaped from an Iowa prison farm and also from the state penitentiary at McAlester, Okla.

Penitentiary officials said the escaped men cut their way through the fence with bolt cutters and fled into the timber behind the institution. They were on yard duty and presumably were in full view of a guard at the time.

They were credited with a string of filling station holdups and car thefts in Iowa after their escape. Then, after the Wilber robbery, officers charged them with attempting an unsuccessful delivery at the Fort Madison prison in which a guard and a convict were shot to death.

Sheriff Young said the license plates used on the car in the Diller robbery were stolen last night at Alma, Neb., and that the same men were believed to have held up a Grand Island, Neb., filling station early this morning, taking $24 from C. W. Anderson.

Today the pair met assistant cashier W. E. Anderson outside the still unopened bank about 9 a.m., and asked him when it

"We'll do our business now," growled one of the bandits, producing a gun.

Anderson was forced to let them into the bank and, while one man guarded Willard Beckman, teller, and cashier O. J. Mayborn, the other forced Anderson to open the vault. Scooping up all available cash in the vault and till, one man went out to start their car while the other locked the three bank employees in the vault.

The bank employees declined to disclose the amount taken, but authorities estimated the loot at $5,000.

Wennerstrum, who had 1,124 3-5 on the first ballot, was nominated on the second with 1,639.

The number required for nomination was 1,290.

District Judge Norman Hays of Knoxville, who received 1,000 and a fraction votes on the first ballot, received 876 on the second.

Other candidates and their vote on the first ballot was: District Judge Earl Peters, Clarinda, 966.7; Dwight G. McCarty, Emmetsburg, 509 7-12; and H. W. Stowe, Fort Dodge, 312.1.

Walter Newport of Davenport withdrew at the beginning of the balloting.

J. H. Milroy of Vinton, former chairman of the republican state central committee, was convention chairman, delivering the keynote address.

Governor George A. Wilson, who arrived in Burlington early today from Colorado Springs, Colo., told the delegates of his visit yesterday with Wendell Willkie, G. O. P. presidential nominee.

Wilson said Willkie desires to confer with Iowa agricultural leaders in Des Moines about August 5.

Re-Nominated Judge Oliver, elected two years ago to fill out the unexpired term of the late James Parsons, was re-nominated for the regular term.

Garfield and Wennerstrum were nominated for the places now held by Paul W. Richards of Red Oak and W. H. Hamilton of Sigourney, democrats.

Re-election of Oliver and Wennerstrum in November would give the republicans a majority on the state supreme court, which they have not had since 1932.

War Officials Place Order For Powder

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Anticipating construction of a $25,000,000 smokeless powder plant intended to triple United States production, the war department today placed an order for $20,000,000 worth of the explosive, ten months in advance of the plant's opening.

It also signed its first contract for bi-motored training planes—an undisclosed number of AT-8 planes with two 280-horsepower engines each. The contract went to the Cessna Aircraft company of Wichita, Kans., for $900,378, with the delivery date not disclosed.

The contract for smokeless powder went to E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Company of Wilmington, Del., which contracted with the war department only this week to build and operate a plant at Charlestown, Ind., near Louisville, Ky., on a fixed fee basis. The plant will employ 5,000 men and have a daily production of 200,000 pounds.

Attacks Demo Convention

Vandenberg Asserts Ticket Product Of 'Totalitarian' Meet

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) asserted today that the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket was a product of a "totalitarian convention."

Declaring that a "political dictatorship" had reduced the democratic convention to the "status of a ditto mark," Vandenberg told reporters:

"The national defense of democracy against totalitarianism in Europe is a military problem but the national defense of democracy in the United States against totalitarianism Roosevelt is a political question which must be settled next November."

As for the third term issue, the Michigan republican said it "instantly throws all other issues into bold relief."

"It emphasizes all the hazards, mistakes and errors of the new deal because it proposes to perpetuate them in the personality which is their trade mark," he said.

From Senator Burke, Nebraska democrat who pledged his support yesterday to Wendell Willkie, the republican nominee, came a forecast of a national organization of democrats opposed to a third term.

This, he declared, would be "an inevitable development."

Burke said he had received scores of telegrams congratulating him upon his stand. One from James W. Mellen, of Los Angeles, said California had an organization of "Jeffersonian democrats" and suggested a conference at some central point to form a national anti-third term democratic group.

Through the republican national committee here, Stephen Chadwick, former national commander of the American Legion, issued a statement saying he would support Willkie because he considered a third term "a danger to our democratic processes."

Chadwick was one time democratic nominee for congress from the first Washington congressional district.

Roland Hill, youthful auditor in the government's general accounting office and 1935 president of the Washington junior new dealers club, resigned from his job and said he would campaign for Willkie.

Despite these evidences of democratic disaffection, Senator Hatch (D-NM), one of the first delegates to return here from the Chicago convention, said that the "third term issue will not play a very important part in this election."

The New Mexico democrat lauded the nomination of Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, as President Roosevelt's running mate.

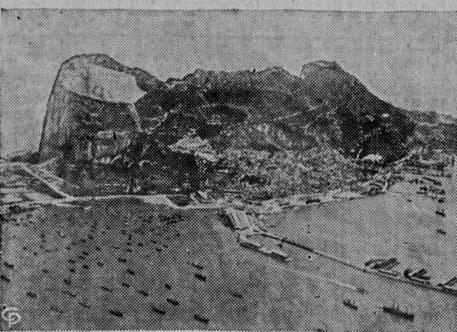

"I worked with Secretary Wallace for five days on the platform committee at Chicago and his nomination for the vice presidency is an excellent choice," Hatch said.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) also praised the nomination of Wallace.

"The progressives of the country ought to line up solidly now," Norris said.

Vice President Garner declined to see reporters but sent them word that he had nothing to say about the nomination of Roosevelt or Wallace.

American Middle Class Is Fertile Ground

Norman B. Cousins Explains Methods Used by Fifth Column Exponents

"Forces of confatism"—exponents of communism, fascism and totalitarianism—together with the well established fifth column movement, have found fertile ground in the middle class of America.

That was the opinion of Norman B. Cousins, young executive editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, who spoke here last night on "The Fifth Column in America" and coined the new phrase "forces of confatism."

Using the new expression for emphasis, the speaker believes the people should know the extent of the recent intensification of Hitler's propaganda in North and South America.

"In Chile, the fifth column movement is very extensive. The German head has struck as always at the minority—at the lower one-third, spreading to the other populace after gaining first a firm foundation for his movements," Cousins pointed out. But in explaining that fifth columning begins with the minority, he urged "pessimistically but not as a pessimist" that the talk of fifth column in the United States is not fantastic.

"We must teach the people in the country that the dreaded 'activities' are all around us, deliberately trying to confuse us."

"Suspense of the mind" is the method used by the fifth column rather than "surprise by action," according to Cousins.

In dealing with the leaders of the fifth column, we must remember that the man at the head—is a man with a "Sunday supplement mind." We must learn to cope with it and think in his terms, he urged.

Fifth columning, according to Cousins, originated in the recent Spanish revolt, where four columns of troops were to be met by the fifth to form a unit strong enough to overthrow Madrid.

"Hitler realizes that he must first undermine our basic institutions and the institutions of those near us, so he is fast at work with his fifth column in Latin America."

South America, however, is actually closer to Europe than to the United States, pointed out Cousins in explaining that the two American countries are "competing" rather than "complementary" forces. Latin America has no real stake here, while in Europe she has markets.

Expressing the opinion of Henry Wallace, democratic nominee for vice-president, whom Cousins interviewed in Chicago yesterday, the young editor declared we must organize North and South America into a single unit. We will then trade with Germanized-Europe but probably on their terms.

Cousins suggested the Inter-American conference in Havana this week end as an opportune place to gain Latin American cooperation.

"Our delegates to the conference must impress upon Latin America the fact that we can furnish her with armaments in abundance—Germany can not. For only by convincing her of greater protection from the United States can the fifth column movement there be squelched," concluded the lecture speaker.

that as a defeated man but as a victor."

Briefly touching on Russo-German relations, Hitler declared these had been "fixed once and for all by a clear delimitation of spheres of interests," and that British efforts to lure Moscow into an anti-German front were not only futile but foolish.

Victory in this war, Hitler also asserted, will be a victory for both Italy and Germany, and "the wrongs of both will be righted."

Italy, the fuhrer said, had entered the war entirely of her own accord without any pressure from Germany.

Resistance Hopeless This action, however, had helped to make the French realize more speedily the hopelessness of further resistance. And, once Italy was in the war, Italo-German military and political cooperation was complete, "and the end of it all will be a joint victory."

Arriving today from Rome, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister and son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, occupied a place of honor in the front row of the diplomatic corps box.

Ciano will discuss axis problems with German officials tomorrow and will catch a night train home.

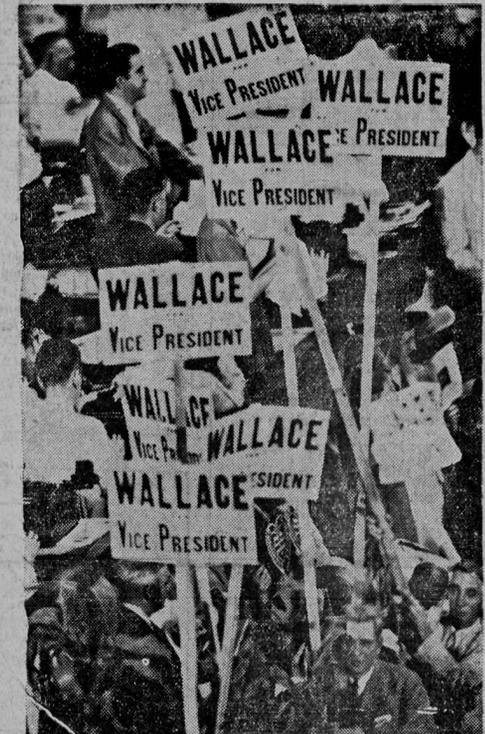

All the bloodshed of the past 10 months could have been avoided, Hitler said, for it was not Germany who wanted war. The great aim of the Nazi movement, he explained, was simply to "strike off the shackles of Versailles"; and it would have been possible to achieve this aim peacefully.

Saw Peace at Munich His pre-war policy in pursuit of this aim, he said, was twofold: "Real friendship with Italy and a similar relationship with England."

At Munich, in September, 1938, it even seemed as though this peaceful revision actually would be realized, he told his unformed audience.

It was a time when, "Thanks to growing common sense, it appeared as though international cooperation might lead to peaceful solution of the remaining problems. But the agreement to this end, signed in Munich on Sept. 29, 1938, by the four leading interested states, was not only not welcomed in London and Paris but was actually condemned as a

Heat Sends Mercury Over 100 Degrees

DES MOINES, July 19 (AP)—A burning sun sent Iowa temperatures beyond the 100-degree mark today as various new records for the summer were established.

Waterloo's unofficial reading of 106 degrees was the highest reported in the state. Logan had a top of 105. Readings of 104 were reported at Sioux City, Spencer and Waterloo.

Elkora, Marshalltown, Garner, Newton and Fort Dodge reported 103. It was 102 at Council Bluffs and Cherokee.

Des Moines, Washington, and Spirit Lake had 100-degree readings. The summer records were made at Washington, and at Centerville and Burlington where thermometers showed 97 and 98 degrees, respectively. Other high marks included:

Marshalltown, 99; Iowa City, 98.3; Charles City, 98; Davenport, 96; Cedar Rapids, 95; and Keokuk, 92.7.

The weather bureau here saw no immediate break in the heat wave.

sign of abominable weakness." Peace Sabotaged The Munich agreement was condemned and sabotaged, he went on, because peaceful revision threatened to upset the plans of "Jewish capitalist warmongers. . . Free Masons, armament manufacturers and war profiteers, international business men, stock exchange jugglers."

And so it came about that Poland was "pushed into war" and the peace offer Germany made after conclusion of the Polish campaign denounced as "cowardly."

In the subsequent Norwegian campaign, which he explained was necessary because of an allied attempt to hit at Germany through Scandinavia, German soldiers met "very brave" resistance from Norwegian troops. But the British there, he continued, were poorly trained, badly equipped and "definitely inferior in every respect."

Turning to the great westward push through Holland, Belgium and France, Hitler disclosed that the capture of Paris was not in the original plan of campaign, but after Paris was taken, encirclement tactics made possible the crushing of organized French military resistance and left Marshal Henri Petain no choice but to sue for peace.

In asserting there was "no ground for prolongation of the war," Hitler confessed he felt only "disgust" at the prospect of a fight to the finish.

But "from Britain I now hear only a single cry—not from the people but from the politicians—that the war must go on."

"In neither this world nor the next," he exclaimed bitterly, "can (Prime Minister) Churchill and Reynaud (former French premier) answer for the suffering they have brought upon their peoples."
