NAZI PLANES SWARM OVER BRITAIN

Nazis Try to Sway British With Words

English Told To Stop War Or Else Perish

Radio Broadcasts Repeat Adolf Hitler's Appeal to Reason'

BERLIN, July 20 (AP)—Germany unleashed a thunder of words today in an attempt to sway the English people over the head of Winston Churchill, and get them to end the war.

The alternative, Nazi Germany says, is destruction.

Radio transmitters dinned Adolf Hitler's "last appeal to reason" into English ears until, as authorized sources put it, every Englishman knows exactly what is in store for him unless he gets rid of the plutocratic ruling clique which wants to keep on fighting.

Repeatedly the English were told that Hitler has no desire to harm either England or her empire. It was suggested that only by getting out from under Churchill's control can England escape German onslaught.

Military Machine Ready

There was, moreover, not the slightest hint either in Hitler's speech or in the words of radio or press that Germany is slowing up one iota in her preparation for attack. It is assumed that the whole military and naval machine is ready to go at any time at the führer's word.

No further direct proposal to England may be expected from Hitler, the authoritative Dienst aus Deutschland said.

The initiative must now come from England," said this commentary. "Hitler has not set a time limit for the answer from England, but from that fact it cannot be concluded that England is able to claim an unlimited period to answer the peace offer."

The British press view that Hitler's reichstag speech yesterday was "not worth answering" was repeated in Berlin as not the true voice of the British people.

Plutocratic Voice

"This is merely the voice of the plutocratic clique," it was stated here. "What strikes us is the haste with which these insolent commentaries are issued—so quickly as to give the impression they were written in advance."

With the German radio broadcasting English translations of the Hitler speech over and over again, the high command made it plain that there is a much grimmer side to this "realization" campaign directed at England.

Today's communiqué detailed widespread air raids on shipping, harbors, power plants, warehouses and military positions from south England to Scotland; claimed the sinking of a 5,000-ton merchant ship and damage to three other merchantmen and a destroyer and reported the sinking of 24,700 tons of merchant shipping by a single U-boat.

Iowa Temperatures In Slight Retreat, But Hit 100 Degrees

DES MOINES, July 20 (AP)—Iowa temperatures retreated slightly today, but the mercury moved about the 100-degree mark for the third consecutive day.

With an unofficial 103 degree reading, Garner had the state's high mark. Boone, Estherville and Humboldt reported 100 degree readings.

Des Moines had a high of 96 degrees, compared with 100 on Tuesday and Friday.

The weather bureau predicted tomorrow's maximum would be still a little lower than today's, but there was no promise of a sharp break in the heat wave—the first this season.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for the northwest and extreme west portions of the state.

Sino-Hungarian Trade Pact BERLIN, (AP)—A German-Hungarian trade treaty, greatly increasing barter arrangements, was signed yesterday.

Wendell L. Willkie Receives Tips On Outline of New Farm Program

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 20 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie received a comprehensive outline of a new farm program today from George N. Peek, former agricultural adjustment administrator, but the nominee made plain that Peek's was only one of many suggestions he would consider in drafting the farm section of his acceptance address.

Peek, who left the new deal administration because of his disagreement with its reciprocal trade policies, read a lengthy memorandum on his views at Willkie's afternoon press conference.

In brief, the former AAA administrator offered this program:

1. Secure protection of the American market for the American farmer.

2. An American price for American commodities should be insured independent OK export or world prices.

3. Active and at times aggressive government assistance will be necessary in negotiating for the disposal of surpluses in foreign trade."

Two Legislators in Mexico Seen in Struggle for Congress

Dies Fears Red Sabotage Of New York

MEXICO CITY, July 20 (AP)—A product of a congressional struggle between Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan and Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, rivals in Mexico's recent presidential election, appeared tonight when Gen. Almazan's campaign manager, Eduardo Neri, said congressional candidates in the Almazan ticket would set up their own congress.

Neri added that he assumed the followers of the administration candidate, Gen. Camacho, would do the same and that "we therefore would have two groups, each claiming to be the legal congress." "Of course," Neri said, "ours will be the legal congress since our party got 90 per cent of the vote in the elections."

Gen. Camacho's followers also claim victory for him and his congressional slate. Neri stated that if the Almazan men were denied the use of the regular congressional halls, they would meet elsewhere in Mexico City and it would then be up to the people to decide which is the legal congress.

In New York, however, Lieut. Col. Breton B. Somervell, WPA administrator, said "no one need be alarmed" at the testimony, adding the writers project had obtained only information readily available to anyone interested.

★ ★ ★ Obliged to Make One More Appeal to Reason

Declaring he felt "obliged to make one more appeal to reason to England," Führer Adolf Hitler warned that the British empire would be destroyed if "England insists on continuing the fight." ## Continue Constant Assault With Great Fleet of Messerschmitts, Bombers Throughout The Isles

Steady Air Pounding Evidently Made to 'Soften' Great Britain for The Threatened Direct Onslaught

LONDON, July 21 (Sunday) (AP)—Nazi air raiders swarmed back to their almost constant assault on Britain early today, roaring as far westward as Wales before British fighter planes drove them off. No bombs were dropped in Wales.

Great fleets of Junkers bombers and Messerschmitt fighters swept across the British coasts all day yesterday in one of the greatest air offensives of the war, keeping British anti-aircraft batteries and fighting planes continually busy.

While the German bombs, like exclamation points to Adolf Hitler's "final appeal" for an axis-dictated peace, found targets across the length and breadth of the island yesterday, Britons insisted they were looking beyond the defense of this gun-girt seat of empire to an eventual British offensive abroad, and handed command of this kingdom's greatest army to tough Ulsterman General Sir Alan Brooke.

Pounding steadily by air, evidently to "soften" Britain for the threatened direct onslaught, Nazi bombers took a toll of 336 civilian lives and left 476 other persons seriously injured in the month beginning June 18, the ministry of home security reported. It was the first of the monthly casualty totals which, alone, are now permitted publication.

A brief communiqué said "the largest number killed in any locality on any occasion was 32." Newspaper records show total casualties during the World War as the result of air raids to be 357 dead, 2,058 injured.

British defense planes brought down 12 of the aerial invaders, the air ministry said, and two German fighter planes were "severely damaged" attempting to drive off a British night bombing raid on Germany.

The air ministry said two British fighter planes were lost, but the pilot of one was safe.

Again, it disclosed, British fliers made their own night forays over German territory Friday, striking at air and naval bases along the coasts of Germany and Nazi-held Holland—potential jumping off points for invasion of England—and attacking Nazi aircraft factories, oil plants and railroad communications.

Shipping Attacked

Shipping in English southeast ports attracted the heaviest Nazi attacks today. Seventeen planes emptied bomb racks on ships in one lightning raid but apparently missed their mark.

In another, the British broke up a squadron of more than a score of German dive-bombers accompanied by fighter planes after a fierce half-hour battle.

One German plane was seen to plummet into the sea and eye-witnesses said they believed at least three others also were shot down.

Geyser of water and smoke rose from the sea as the Nazi bombers dived time after time at a group of British ships before the British fighters swept in with a blaze of machine-gun fire.

Battle Over Scotland

Elsewhere, German planes were given battle over southwest England, Wales and southeast Scotland.

In a reshuffle of army commands, Sir Alan—one of the northern Ireland family of "fighting Brookes"—replaces Sir Edmund Ironside as commander-in-chief of home forces. Viscount Gort, who led the British expeditionary force in France, now is inspector-general to the forces for training.

Neutral military observers regarded the selection of Sir Alan, who also fought with the B.E.F., as fresh evidence of a British shift from straight defense to a balance between defensive and offensive plans—aimed at wresting

Navy Department Promises Immediate Action on Fleet

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—

Prompt action to begin construction of the greatest fleet in world history was promised by the navy department today after President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing a 70 per cent, $4,000,000,000 increase in naval strength.

Within the past 40 days, officials pointed out, construction has been started on 92 vessels previously authorized, thus clearing the way for immediate negotiations on contracts for the first of the 200 combat vessels to be added to the fleet under the new act.

Upon completion of those 200 vessels, scheduled for 1946 or 1947, the United States will have a "two-ocean" navy of 701 fighting ships of 3,547,700 tons.

Funds to begin construction of the 200 new vessels were not provided in the bill signed today, but a $178,000,000 appropriation is included in a $936,176,540 bill on which a house committee is scheduled to commence hearings Monday.

Hearings will begin Monday also on President Roosevelt's request of July 10 for $4,848,171,557 in appropriations and contract authorizations for the army and navy to assure "total defense" for the United States.

Ivan Sullivan Surrenders

Second of Three Fugitives Captured In Less Than 24 Hours

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 20 (AP)—

Ivan Sullivan, survivor of two Kansas gun fights and a suspect in Nebraska and Minnesota bank robberies, surrendered on a highway today—second of three marauding fugitives to fall captive in less than 24 hours.

A chance remark credited to Sullivan by a hostage on his last flight led officers to speculate that the third member of the trio which fled the Fort Madison, Iowa, penitentiary June 22 might be dead.

Lowell Haenze, 27, Sleepy Eye, Minn., who escaped with Sullivan, was wounded and captured in a church at Marysville, Kan., yesterday.

Sullivan fled in the car of Francis Messick, farmer, forcing Messick to accompany him. As they drove they heard on the car radio that Haenze had been shot.

Believing him killed, Messick said Sullivan told him:

"Well, a few days ago there were three of us. Now I'm the only one left."

Forrest Estes, 36, Mountain Home, Ark., was the third man in the Iowa break. He was not named, as were the other two, as suspects in bank holdups at Winthrop, Minn., Wednesday and Diller, Neb., yesterday. But all three were said by officers to have robbed a Wilber, Neb., bank June 23.

Sullivan, 29, of Trenton, Mo., had eluded Atchison, Kan., officers in a gun fight this morning only a few hours before he was captured across the Missouri river.

Radio Network Cuts Off Hitler, Put on Blacklist

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—

The Mutual broadcasting system was black-listed tonight by Dr. Otto Dietrich, Adolf Hitler's personal press chief.

Dietrich, in a cable from Berlin, banned MBS from broadcasting from Germany or German-controlled areas in Europe because 31 Pacific coast stations cut off Hitler's 95-minute speech yesterday.

Arthur Whiteside, MBS production manager, said Dietrich asked for a complete report and explanation of the incident.

The company, Whiteside said, cabled Dietrich that MBS supplied Hitler's full speech and that individual stations were free to take or leave it, or otherwise control their own programs.

F.D.R. Rests On Potomac

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—

President Roosevelt extended his Potomac river cruise today as he rested from the late hours he kept during the democratic national convention.

The chief executive left the heat of the capital Friday night on the yacht Potomac, intending at that time to be gone only 24 hours.

But, evidently enjoying the trip thoroughly, he sent word to the White House that he would not be back until Sunday.

On his return from the cruise, Mr. Roosevelt will leave by train for a visit to his home at Hyde Park, N.Y. He may be accompanied by William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, who has just returned to the United States.

His candidacy was welcomed by John E. Jackson, republican national committeeman for Louisiana and southern member of the Senate.

"Louisiana is going republican this time," Jackson said, adding that the sugar belt revolt was inevitable "after years of what amounted to persecution of this once loyal democratic section by a democratic national administration."

"Pan-American Talks Begin

HAVANA, July 20 (AP)—The United States delegation became the center of intense activity tonight in informal conversations aimed at formulating proposals on hemisphere defense and economy at the second meeting of American foreign ministers opening here tomorrow.

The arrival of Secretary of State Hull, with his staff of diplomatic, trade, monetary and agricultural advisers, opened preliminary consultations in which officials of the other American republics sought first to hear details of the United States proposals.

The quiet, unostentatious Hull, however, adopted the role of a "listener" to get a clear picture of the problems facing each of the other countries, before disclosing just how the United States proposes to help them.

Absent from these preliminary talks was the Argentine delegation, from which is expected to emanate the chief obstacles to this meeting to immunize all the Americas against any military or trade threats that may grow out of the European war.

Despite the absence of military experts from the United States and most of the other delegations, (See PAN-AMERICAN, page 6)

Has Not the Time Arrived When This Nation Must Face Realistically a World of Dictators?

(Note: The subsequent remarks may sound extremely cold. They undoubtedly will call forth criticism from those (and they include the most of us) who view this modern world with altruistic faith and hope—in the power of America's democratic idealism to prevail where lawlessness now holds sway, hope that America can somehow stem this tide of lawlessness in the interests of a civilization weakened day by day by the ravages of war.

(But 20th century events have done much to darken faith and hope. American democracy may soon stand alone. Alone, America cannot generate enough of her own idealism to save the world.

(Yes, cold though it may seem, our passing wreathes of hands over fallen and fallen nations cannot buck the tide of world revolution.

(If democracy is to be saved, we must face a fact which daily becomes more apparent: we cannot but deal with lawbreakers in a world of lawbreakers.

(Today, even as we slip into national changes in the national interest, we must philosophically slip into a new idealism founded upon the admission that we are surrounded by hostile powers.

(If the world were ours it would be a different kind of world, but the world is not ours, and we must therefore look to the time, build for the time, when the world shall have returned to civilization.

(That necessitates a cold view of cold world. Sympathy of moment for suffering humanity must be displaced in favor of an altruism built upon the long range view of an eternal world.

(So, faced with the necessity of placing a new emphasis upon American diplomacy in a world which discounts her own peculiar brand of the philosophy of nations, The Daily Iowan considers today the problem of America and the Far East, in a sense of objectivity which must sacrifice the noble touch because of exigencies of the moment.—The Editor.)

Both of our great national political conventions have drawn a great deal of attention of late to our foreign policy. Both have pledged us against "wars of aggression." Sincere as this may be, it is well to remember that no country in modern times has ever admitted fighting a war of aggression. By implication, at least, it would seem that the American people have let it be known that we intend to do what fighting may be necessary somewhere within this hemisphere.

With attention in this country centering on the national political scene and the impending blitzkrieg in England, the danger exists that the course of events elsewhere will be allowed to creep upon us unawares. The president has assured us that we are not going to Europe to fight a war. No such assurance was necessary; since the fall of France this has not been a military possibility. But what about the Far East? What of our policy there? It is time that the American people should form their opinions on this vital question.

What Is Our Policy?

Secretary Hull says we are continuing to pursue an "independent" policy in the Orient. This in itself is uninformative. Just what does it mean? A clue may be found in the state department's recent statement regarding the British submission to Japan's demand to close the Burma road to war materials (mostly American) moving to the central Chinese government of Chiang Kai-shek. Secretary Hull lost no time in asserting that the United States looks with disfavor upon this British act, as it is effect cuts off all our remaining trade with China.

Now it must be admitted that the Nine Power Pact pledged us, along with Great Britain and France, to respect and maintain the territorial integrity of China. And it is true, too, that Japanese pressure has now closed the only effective avenues by which China might receive supplies from the outside world. The last railroad has been sealed. China, clearly, is in for Japanese domination on a greater scale than ever.

And along with China—who knows? The Dutch East Indies? The British Malayan states? The United States gets 90% of its crude rubber and 75% of its virgin tin from these two groups. What will happen to the Philippines? These are questions that haunt the state department.

Far Eastern Appeasement

British Far Eastern policy may fairly be characterized at present as one of appeasement. The charge of a "Far Eastern Munich" is being heard daily in Parliament. But Great Britain is hardly in a position to make a stand; she cannot take on Japan in open warfare. There is little she can do but stall for time, and this she is doing very well. If worst comes to worst, Britain will probably defend Hong-kong, Singapore, and Malaya, but her prospects of success are not bright.

The Soviet Union would like to smash Japan and bring the Chinese Republic into the U. S. S. R. More than half of Greater China is already under the Red star. But Russia, too, is fully occupied with the situation on its European frontier.

There remains the United States. For twenty years we have maintained a Far Eastern military expenditure of about half a billion dollars a year, mostly for the maintenance of a Pacific navy. That is ten billion dollars we have sunk in the project of "stabilizing" the Orient. The whole idea has been to keep up in a position to take care of a situation like the present one. Otherwise, that ten billion dollars maintenance cost has simply been thrown away.

A Half-Ocean Navy

But when the time for action comes it is discovered that our one-ocean navy is actually a half-ocean navy. Naval experts now say we do not have bases near enough to Japanese waters to conduct a sound naval campaign there. Military analysts say the Philippines cannot be successfully defended.

Well, we can try, anyway, some will say.

Yes, we can try. But should we? Before we go 6,000 miles from our shores to endanger our fleet, the only sizeable protection this country has against any foreign military threat, whether from Europe or Asia, it is at least pertinent to ask, "Why?" Why have we always made a show of our naval power in the Pacific? Why do we now make threatening gestures toward Japan?

It is a good thing that we ask these questions. For the sketchiest investigation indicates, and the most detailed research confirms that there is no good reason at all.

Our Stake in the Far East

What stake do we have in the Orient? Our Asiatic revenues amount to less than 1% of our national income. Forty per cent of our Far Eastern business is with Japan. Clearly, we are not protecting our Japanese investments and trade with our navy; all our protections are taken against Japan. When we eliminate this part of our stake in the Orient we find that our military expenditure is greater by far than the total revenues from the protected area. Is our Far Eastern policy sound?

Secretary Hull says he is worried about our trade with China. But he knows that our total capital investment in China is about 150 million dollars, or one twentieth of one per cent of our national wealth. Mr. Hull knows that our trade with China is less than 1% of our total foreign trade, or one twentieth of one per cent of our national business. Nothing we get from China—tung oil, carpet wool, tea and spices, primarily—is vital to our national economy. China is even more insignificant as a market for our goods.

And What of Japan?

Our trade with the Philippines is as large as that with China. We don't have any great stake there, either. While the hemp and coconuts products they furnish us are valuable, they are not absolutely necessary. Our real stake in the Orient, in terms of the requirements of the national economy, is in the Dutch East Indies and British Malaya, which supply us with 90% of our crude rubber and 75% of our virgin tin.

These are important to us. Would Japanese domination endanger our rubber and tin supply? The answer, distinctly, is "no." Only a war with Japan can endanger this or most of the rest of our Asiatic trade. Japan is entirely too dependent upon the United States for vital and strategic materials and manufactures to think of shutting off our trade with the Far East in time of peace—especially if the Japanese are doing the trading. Japan simply cannot afford not to do business with us.

The Aspects of Trade

There are excellent reasons for believing that our Asiatic trade will increase, rather than dwindle, as Japan extends its sway. The best way to weaken our assurance of this trade is to engender suspicion and ill-will in Japan by threatening gestures. Our opposition will encourage Japan in her efforts to build an imperial autocracy; our friendly trade cooperation will do more than anything else to deter it.

The fact of the matter is that this nation has long suffered from jingoistic boogies created by special interests anxious to make the Pacific Ocean an American lake. The threat of "Pan-Asianism," the "Yellow Peril," the "Japanese trade menace," are all whole-cloth fabrications. Impartial trade analysts say that 90% of our Japanese imports are non-competitive. About 2% of Latin American imports come from Japan; 36% come from the United States.

Interests Us Possibility

Of course we have interests in the Far East other than economic, although if we want to survive in a world of Real-politik

ONE "PLANK" WE'RE ALL UNITED ON!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS By PAUL MALLON

Inside Story of a Cynical Convention

CHICAGO—The inside story of this democratic convention is simply told:

Mr. Roosevelt was unable to unify the democratic party behind the third term so he took over its machinery to form what can only be called the Roosevelt third term party.

Hull refused to take the vice-presidency. The president refused to take Garner again. F.D.R. found that such a party stranger as Douglas would be too much for the convention to accept. The Garner people did not want their friend Jesse Jones in it. So there was no one left but the agricultural member of the cabinet, Henry Wallace.

Farley, the party man was crowded out by his principles.

All his friends, noting the handwriting on the wall, practically stopped work at the convention. No fully adequate replacement for him could be found. So FDR had to make the second best of that, too. He had to rely solely upon his most devoted friends, to whom there is no principle except Roosevelt, and the opportunists among the politicians who were more anxious for national protection and favors than anything else.

The strict democratic party men (not alone the conservatives) sat down.

In some ways it looks like a new farmer-labor party, a national uprising vaguely suggestive of the labor party's rise in England. It might grow into that, if successful. Certainly, there would be no reason for Mr. Roosevelt to consider any other viewpoint than his own in a third term. He has left no one in his party with whom he would have to compromise, or even consult. He has shed himself of restraints.

The farmer-labor strain does NOT however run either deep or wholly true in the new regime. Wallace does not bring into the organization any farm influence that Roosevelt did not have before (American Farm Bureau federation particularly.) It does not imply any new farm action. The president may have acquired John Lewis by platform bargaining at this convention, but he already had Lewis' CIO organization with him all along (Murray, Kennedy, Hillman, and the rank and file). What will come out of that in the way of future stronger labor action by the government cannot even be guessed now.

So, in the last analysis, while the Wallace and Lewis viewpoints have been pushed further up front to the chairs vacated by the democratic leaders, they are not bringing him any fresh political strength. There are no more new chairs in the board of management.

Actually Roosevelt has, therefore, come out of the convention with less strength than he had when he went in. He has only made his new party exclusive.

Wallace, a former republican, is highly respected everywhere in politics for his honesty and sincerity, but not for his political judgement or his ability to handle congress (the job Garner did well for Roosevelt.) Wallace's experience has been in other lines, and if he becomes president some day, he will be a wholly new type. His selection as the next best one to Hull was apparently predicated on the hope of offsetting the grim political visages of Hague and Kelly and the choice of Farmer Charles McNary by the republicans.

Newsmen who pass their estimates of public men on to you are apt to become cynical occasionally. They see so much political insincerity they may sometimes see it where it does not exist. But I have never covered a national convention in the past 20 years where they were so unanimous in their cynicism as here.

From a technical standpoint it may be true the Hopkins-Kelly-Byrnes control managed the routine here fairly well for newcomers. They had excellent direction from Washington. They minimized their losses as much as possible by steaming up that sincere majority portion of the convention which worships Roosevelt as a bread and butter god.

But if there was a news-man here who was NOT dismayed and discouraged by the callous indifference to facts and common fairness, I did not meet him. Reporters generally do not ask that politicians be candid, but false spectacles such as Mr. Roosevelt saying he did not wish to run in such a way that he would be drafted, was a little too much for most of them to enjoy.

Advanced Flying Program for Students Will Begin Tomorrow

Croft Reveals Training Plan For Pilots

Ten Students Selected For Advanced Work Pass Examinations

The advanced flying program for the training of pilots under the Civil Aeronautics Authority plan will begin here tomorrow, Prof. H. O. Croft, director of the training program, announced yesterday.

Ten students who have their private pilot's licenses and who have passed the Army and Navy flight examinations tentatively have been selected for the course.

Students scheduled in the new training program here include Jens A. Norgaard, Iowa City; William W. Thomas, Marion; Lawrence J. Milch, New Brunswick; N. J.; John J. Russell, Cedar Rapids; Miles J. Hamilton, Sac City; Carroll M. Schumacher, Sigourney; Jacob K. Snell, Marion; Harry C. Zeisloft, Gloucester, N. J.; F. R. Littleton, Creston, and Robert W. Reed.

Under the advanced training program, the university will handle the ground school work and the Shaw Aircraft company will give flight instruction at the Iowa City airport.

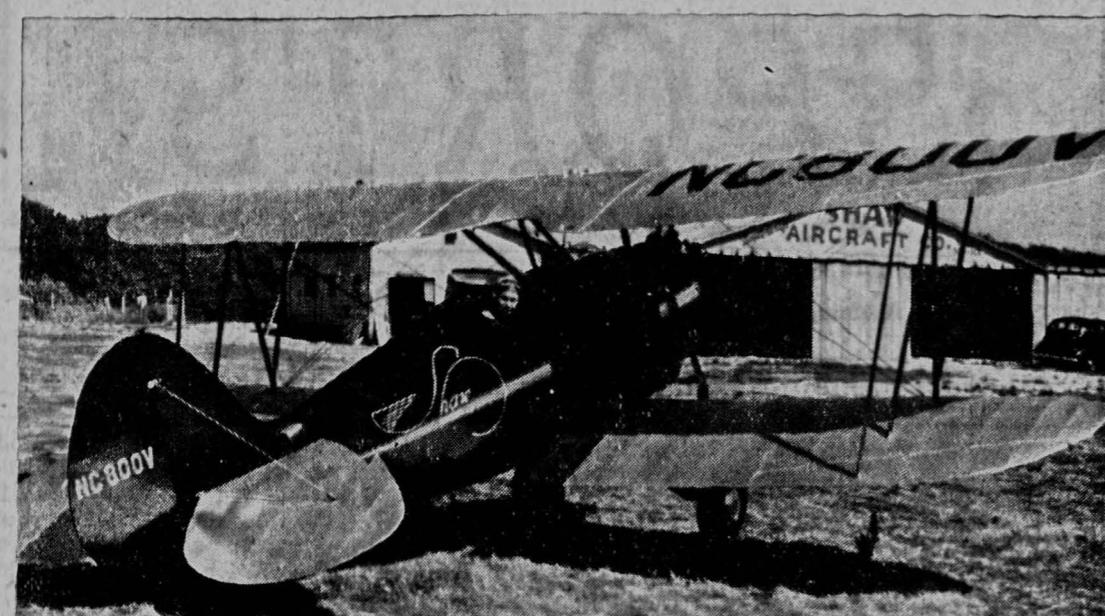

Ground school courses totalling 145 hours will be supervised by Elmer C. Lundquist, who will work in aerodynamics, aircraft construction, civil regulations, engines, instruments and navigation.

Prof. L. A. Ware of the electrical engineering department will instruct in radio and F. S. Atchison, graduate assistant in physics, will teach meteorology.

Using the 125 horsepower plane, the students will receive flight instruction of from 40 to 50 hours of dual and solo flying, and will work in elementary and precision maneuvers, confidence maneuvers, cross country flight and night flying.

Single Ring Ceremony Performed in Rectory Of St. Patrick's Church

Catherine Marie Donovan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Donovan, 123½ S. Clinton, and Felix M. Muller, son of Mrs. Esther Payne Muenzer, 1145 E. College, were married at 1 p.m. yesterday afternoon in the rectory of St. Patrick's church in a single-ring ceremony at which the Rev. Father Lollick officiated.

The bride was dressed in a street length brown sheer dress made with a short jacket and short sleeves. The cowl collar was of blue, and she wore blue accessories. Her corsage was of white gladioli.

Jean Opstad, the bridesmaid, wore a short dress of rose with which she wore rose accessories. She had a corsage of white asters.

Bride's Mother

The bride's mother wore a navy blue sheer dress with white accessories and her corsage was of white asters and rosebuds. The bride-groom's mother wore a white silk jersey dress with white accessories and her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses.

Eugene Hogan acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a luncheon was served to members of the immediate family on the sun porch of Iowa Union.

The bride was graduated from Iowa City high school in 1938 and she has been employed in Iowa City since then.

Mr. Muller was graduated from Eudora, Kan., high school, attended the university here, and he is now employed at the Hotel Jefferson.

The couple will make their home at 404 S. Dubuque.

Things Look Black'--Cousins

Editor Points to Strong Nazi Influence In South America

Taking a pessimistic attitude toward fifth column activities in the United States because "things do look black," Norman B. Cousins, executive editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, answered numerous questions on propaganda and its effects throughout the world here yesterday morning in a round-table discussion.

Reiterating his views as expressed in his lecture Friday night, Cousins explained the examples of propaganda in Germany, Great Britain, France and South America. He emphasized the importance of the press and the radio as propaganda organs in the United States.

To illustrate his points, the writer ridiculed the seriousness with which the American people interpret as propaganda the actions of anyone having "an axe to grind." Cousins contended that a shortcoming of the Dies committee has been its investigation of activities not related to "Un-Americanism."

"The United States has not been entirely asleep at the switch in infusing propaganda and creating United States sympathy in South America," he said.

In the same connection, Cousins reminded his audience of the cultural similarities of Latin America and Europe, and of the facility with which German propaganda can be spread there because of the large proportion of Spanish, Italian and German elements within its borders.

Discussing examples of worldwide propaganda, the young editor outlined the reasons for the French defeat, Cousins gave their optimistic interpretation of their wanng morale and their reliance solely upon a defensive plan of military strategy, as major reasons for France's downfall.

Considering the British cause as virtually lost, Cousins stated that England's only hope in the present conflict is dependent upon the ultimate intervention of the United States, or a possible famine on the mainland of Europe.

"On the other hand," he stated, "should Great Britain win this war, she will feel bitter toward the United States. There is an ever-increasing animosity growing between the two countries because we are not helping her to the fullest extent."

She has taught dancing and dramatics at the Phyllis Wheatley branch of the Y. W. C. A. in Lynchburg, Va. Her husband who is a physical education director in the same town is now working on his Ph. D. degree here.

This spring she wrote and directed "Mine," a satirical comedy which was produced in the experimental theater by an all-white cast. Critics liked the varying shades of black she used. And she said, "Well, that's the way Negroes are."

But acting isn't Mrs. Stewart's only interest in this field. Fox Mr. Lamb's original one-act Negro comedy, "She Dyed for a Prince," Mrs. Stewart directed the make-up on the all-white cast. Critics liked the varying shades of black she used. And she said, "Well, that's the way Negroes are."

This spring she wrote and directed "Mine," a satirical comedy which was produced in the experimental theater by an all-white cast. "The satire is more pointed with a white cast," Mrs. Stewart said.

Mrs. Stewart was graduated from West Virginia State college, a Negro land-grant school, in 1937 with a major in English.

She has taught dancing and acting and there's no race distinction."

Lon Warneke Holds Brooks In 3-2 Victory

Medwick Hits Homer For Brooklyn Runs; O'renko Decides Issue

ST. LOUIS, July 20 (AP) — Long Lon Warneke fed Duckie Medwick a home run ball with one out in the first inning today, but clamped down tight after that and pitched the Cardinals to a 3 to 2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The defeat dropped the Dodgers to four full games behind Cincinnati in the National league race.

The deciding run in this tight pitching duel came across in the seventh when Joe O'renko tripled to center and continued home on Dixie Walker's bad throw to the infield, thus giving long Lon his seventh victory of the year.

Third Annual 'Battle of Champions' Scheduled for August 7

Six Musical Groups to Take Part in Event

Iowa City Grenadiers Will Be Hosts At Shrader Field

The Iowa City Grenadiers will play host to Iowa City's third annual "Battle of Champions" Wednesday, Aug. 7, at 8 p.m. in Shrader field, it was announced last night by Ward Coulter, manager of the local group which is sponsored by the Iowa City Moose Lodge.

Participating in the event will be six musical groups including some 450 boys and girls, it was announced. There will be one band and five drum and bugle corps, two with an all-girl membership.

The national championship American Legion band from Chariton will be the only band and other championship groups to take part include besides the Iowa City Grenadiers, the Cedar Rapids girls' Cavaliers, the Boone Spanish Musketeers, the Cedar Rapids V.F.W. Musketeers and the Des Moines Sons of the Legion corps.

Championship Groups
All champions, the Iowa City group received its most recent honor three weeks ago at the Moose national convention when it was given the national championship. The Cedar Rapids Musketeers are state champions and the Des Moines corps was state champion for three successive years.

Organized three years ago, the Iowa City group now has a membership of 60. The unit is outfitted in new red, white and blue uniforms.

The Iowa City "Battle of Champions" is a part of a round robin tournament being conducted among the six participating groups. The first event was held about a month ago in Cedar Rapids with both groups there as hosts. Iowa City will hold the second and tentative plans call for the third at Chariton, fourth at Boone and the fifth and last at Des Moines.

Compete in Two Classes
Competition at Iowa City will be in two classes, A and B. Class A groups are those which have been in national competition and class B those which have not. Participating in class B will be the two all-girl outfits, the Cedar Rapids Cavaliers and the Boone Spanish Cavaliers. All other units will take part in class A competition.

Judges, to be selected yet by the committee on judging, will rate each group on timing, music, maneuvers, drumming, bugling and on inspection. There will be a separate judge for each of these points.

Alice Gilpin Funeral Rites Tomorrow

Funeral service for Alice Gilpin, 65, lifelong resident of Iowa City who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. B. Schwaigert, 943 Maiden Lane, yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow at 9 a.m. in St. Patrick's church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Surviving Miss Gilpin are two brothers, John and Henry Gilpin, and one sister, Mrs. Schwaigert, all of Iowa City, and several nieces and nephews.

The body is at the McGovern funeral home.

NYA Officials To Meet Here Tomorrow

County Representatives To Conduct Discussion On Work Program

There will be a meeting in the senate chamber of Old Capitol tomorrow at 1:15 p.m. of high school officials in charge of the NYA in-school work program in Johnson, Iowa and Cedar counties at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, according to an announcement by Theodore P. Eslick, state NYA administrator.

F. J. Snyder, Johnson county superintendent of schools, will head a discussion period following introductory talks by Dean Robert Rienow, dean of men at the university, and Ray F. Myers, principal of Thomas Jefferson high school in Council Bluffs. Frederick A. Welch, director of the in-school work program for the national youth administration in Iowa, will preside over tomorrow's meeting.

L. H. Norman, representative of the finance division of the state NYA office, will speak at the meeting on the topic, "Co-operation in Handling Records and Reports," and the latter part of the period will be devoted to questions and general discussion.

Those particularly interested in the program who are expected to attend and participate in the discussion are the teachers enrolled in the summer session at the university as well as high school principals, superintendents and county superintendents from the three counties included.

By the time the summer session is over, it was announced, similar schools of instruction will have been held in 15 colleges in various parts of the state.

Hull said he preferred to let others take the leadership when they were disposed to do so. Asked whether the United States had definite proposals on all subjects on the agenda, Secretary Hull said his delegation had ideas to offer and these would be outlined in his speech Monday.

Amid speculation on whether some nations might adopt measures without the assent of others, Hull said the whole scheme of solidarity rested on the principle of equality and as a rule it was the sense of Pan-American meeting that unanimity should prevail.

Between talks with other delegations, Hull worked on his Monday speech to which other countries looked for an answer to the question of how much support will be forthcoming from the United States on economic, defense and other problems.

The meeting here is watched closely by German, British and other "unofficial" observers, despite Secretary Hull's statement in Washington that it is strictly an American affair.

He made it clear on his way here also that the purpose of the meeting was to develop cooperation and friendship among the American nations in "common cause" which he said was wholly divorced "from any thought or aggrandizement or domination." The same form of cooperation, he said, is open to any other nation willing to work on that basis.

the first time since he fought as a Tennessee volunteer for its independence in the Spanish-American war, Secretary Hull said he had no doubt that the meeting here would produce another demonstration of "the vigor and vitality of the American republics working together in their common interest."

Urgent Problems

Secretary Hull told a press conference that he had gone over more important phases of the meeting with delegates from some other countries, including the foreign ministers of Cuba and Paraguay and the Venezuelan ambassador to the United States, but he would not comment on what he or other delegates considered the most urgent problems.

Prepares for Short Course

Amateur and professional photographers from all over Iowa have submitted entries in the statewide photocontest, conducted by the school of journalism, which will be judged publicly in connection with the news photographers short course scheduled on the campus Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Vernon Putnam, director of the course and instructor in the school of journalism, checks over a few of the photographs entered in the contest. Open to all persons without fee, the short course will feature non-technical talks, demonstrations and round tables. Experts in the field of photography will come here to discuss such subjects as "Streamlined Darkrooms," "Color for the Future," "Speed Demons," and "Under the Lights." All sessions of the short course, to be held in art auditorium, are open to the public. Camera and equipment exhibits will be on display during the three-day course in the art building.

Thursday evening, Aug. 15, the annual saddle horse show, one of the big attractions of the show, will be presented at 7:30 on the cinder track east of the stadium where both night shows will be presented.

Judging of livestock will continue until 3:30 p.m. Friday when the grand champion prize winners of the show will be introduced.

Committees headed by Lee Schwimer of Kalona, chairman of the boys' 4-H county club work, and Mrs. Lloyd Burr of Lone Tree, county chairman of 4-H girls' club work, are now making final plans and the complete program will be announced soon, Mr. Gardner said.

County Agent Gardner explained yesterday that since Johnson county has no county fair, the annual 4-H club show is made one of the best such shows in the state of Iowa. He pointed out that this county has one of the best sites in the state for the show and for the evening entertainment programs.

According to the action, the plaintiff claimed that the defendant piled trash, ashes, rock, earth and other materials against the west wall of his building, the pressure causing his wall to collapse resulting in damage to machinery and apparatus contained.

Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher represented the plaintiff and Messer, Hamilton and Cahill, the defendant.

The Gagautzi, a Mongol group which lives principally in Bessarabia and Dobruja, are Christians, speak Turkish and use the Greek alphabet.

The saddle horse and pony show is held in connection with the 4-H club event which is held at the Iowa stadium and fieldhouse Wednesday, Thursday and

Settle Damage Case for $1,500 Out of Court

A case between the Paris Cleaners, plaintiff, against the Sinclair Refining company and Clifford W. Hoing, defendants, in which the plaintiff sought $3,235.40 for a wall allegedly damaged by the defendant, was settled out of court yesterday for $1,500. The defendant had been scheduled to come up in district court tomorrow morning.

"Promotion" of Sir Edmund Ironside to the rank of field marshal was not commented on by military circles. His star has been wan.

Military circles, however, were quick to dispute any suggestion that Lord Gort also had been kicked upstairs.

"We expect to have perhaps four million men under arms by fall," they declared. "There is no greater expert in training men than Gort."

Gunner Specialist

Brooke, a specialist in gunnery and mechanization, has been an unswerving advocate of more and more mobility for combat troops.

Both he and Gort, military circles point out, can apply the lessons learned in Flanders and France to their new posts.

With the 1907 class registering today, Britain enrolled the third group called to the colors this month. When youths who reached the age of 20 since June 22 and the class of 1906 register next Saturday, it is expected that Britain's army strength will reach 4,000,000 men. It was officially announced that 312,641 registered in the 1907 class.

Factories Damaged

Amplifying the communiqué on Friday's night air action by the R.A.F., the air ministry said the Focke-Wulf airplane factories at Bremen had been damaged in an attack which lasted an hour and a half.

Dornier plane factories at Wismar and Wenzendorf were set afire; the Wilhelmshaven docks were bombed and the main rail line south of Recklinghausen, manufacturing and mining town in Westphalia, was cut.

Republican candidates for county offices and members of the state central committee will also participate in the celebration.

Any republican candidate for office who is present will be introduced from the platform, officials said.

Atty. Will J. Jackson, county democratic chairman, said yesterday that there will be a prominent democratic official on the same speaking program. This man will be named sometime this week, he said.

Johnson County 4-H Club Show To Start Evening of Aug. 14

Displays, Exhibitions, Demonstrations Given In Fieldhouse Armory

The 12th annual Johnson county 4-H club show will officially open at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 14 with the first two night shows scheduled for the three-day event.

Throughout the day Wednesday, Aug. 14, entries will be brought to the Iowa stadium where boys' livestock exhibits will be shown and girls' displays will be set up in the fieldhouse armory.

Judging will start in the livestock projects Thursday morning, the second day of the show, and also in girls' exhibits in the fieldhouse, County Agent Emmett C. Gardner said yesterday.

Boys club members are planning to exhibit some 250 head of livestock and 10 4-H girls' clubs will have a large number of individual exhibits and booth exhibits in canning and the nutrition project studied this year, the county agent announced. Eight girls' 4-H demonstration teams will enter the county contest and present their demonstrations in the armory on Thursday and Friday mornings.

Growers who have been receiving indemnities covering losses on 1940 crops are under the impression that they must obtain commodity loans immediately in order to utilize the privilege of borrowing on wheat purchase with the proceeds of the indemnities. However, Rains said, little wheat is now available in the country and growers can wait until after harvest to buy wheat with crop insurance indemnities and obtain commodity loans.

Practically any farmer can buy wheat to fill his needs with his indemnity payment because of the flexibility of the requirements.
