U.S. Must Prepare to Trade With Victorious Germany

Walther Funk Gives Warning In Interview

Uncle Sam Should Prepare to Trade On Germany's Terms

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
BERLIN, July 25 (AP)—The United States was warned by Adolf Hitler's minister of economics tonight that she must be prepared to trade with a victorious Germany on Germany's terms after the war or suffer a lockout from the commerce of a whole Europe geared to Nazi economics.

The warning was couched in vigorous terms by Walther Funk in a 45-minute interview.

"United Front"
He said also that the United States must give up the idea of forcing her conditions on Germany by a "united front" with the other American nations.

"The American people will never stand for it," Wheeler said, recalling that the recent democratic convention adopted a platform opposing participation in foreign wars.

"No peacetime conscription plank could have been put across in the democratic convention," Wheeler said. "There is no need to be stamped into this. Democrats who vote for this before election time will be driving a nail in their coffins."

The nearest thing to support for the bill during senate debate came from Senator Reynolds (D-NC), a member of the military committee, who said he favored "some kind of conscription." He asserted it would be "assinine" for congress to "vote $18,000,000 for national defense unless we have sufficient man-power to man this equipment."

Vandenberg interrupted to predict that a million "youths would volunteer for training" if the war department would try one-year volunteer enlistments instead of the three-year terms now required by the regular army.

"So far as I'm concerned I'm not going to be rushed into conscription unless men can't be provided on a voluntary basis," he said.

Wheeler said conscription of manpower and wealth had been the tactics of all the European dictators and then questioned the "emergency" cited by advocates (See CONSCRIPTION, Page 6)

Senators Flay Conscription As Step Leading Into War

Say People Oppose Draft In Peacetime

Wheeler, Vandenberg Lead Fight Against Compulsory Program

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Vigorous opposition to peacetime conscription of the nation's manpower broke out in the senate chamber today as military committees of the senate and house sought to speed action on a broad compulsory training program.

"Nothing is left except to pull the trigger," Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told the senate, while Senator Wheeler (D-Mon) said the draft proposal was part of "hysteria" tending to lead the United States "down the road to war."

"The American people will never stand for it," Wheeler said, recalling that the recent democratic convention adopted a platform opposing participation in foreign wars.

"No peacetime conscription plank could have been put across in the democratic convention," Wheeler said. "There is no need to be stamped into this. Democrats who vote for this before election time will be driving a nail in their coffins."

Committee Urges Federal Assistance For Nomads in Industry, Agriculture

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—A recommendation that the nation's nomad worker families be given increased federal financial assistance and more protection against labor exploitation was handed to President Roosevelt today by a specially appointed committee.

To give an idea of the scope of the migrant labor problem, the committee told Mr. Roosevelt that "the nomad workers of this country number millions. . . . Probably two million of them look to agriculture for a living and as many as to industry. . . . A third of them are children."

The report was prepared at the request of the president by an interdepartmental committee headed by Miss Josephine Roche, former assistant secretary of the treasury.

Among the committee's recommendations was one that a "general relief program should be established on a federal-state basis, federal funds being made on a variable grant basis," simi-

Wallace Delays Campaigning Until His Official Nomination

Ivan Sullivan, Lowell Haenze Plead Guilty

FORT MADISON, July 25 (AP)—Ivan Sullivan, 28, and Lowell Haenze, 27, pleaded guilty in district court here today to first degree murder charges filed against them in connection with the fatal shooting of a prison guard during an attempted break at Fort Madison penitentiary here July 8.

Sullivan and Haenze, together with Forrest Estes, 36, broke out of the penitentiary June 22 and on July 8 attempted to help three companions escape.

The attempt failed and Robert Hart, prison guard, was killed in an exchange of shots with the three "outsiders." William Cunningham, one of the three convicts who tried to escape, killed himself when the plot failed.

Rumania's Iron Guard Oppose Concessions Of Territorial Claims

BUCHAREST, July 25 (AP)—Rumania's potent iron guard handed King Carol a memorandum today expressing uncompromising opposition to any territorial concessions to Hungary and Bulgaria at tomorrow's conference of Rumanian and German officials at Salzburg.

The iron guardists said the Rumanian people would fight rather than surrender any part of Transylvania to Hungary or southern Dobruja to Bulgaria.

Many Rumanians fear Germany might dictate changes in their border "to stabilize southeastern Europe."

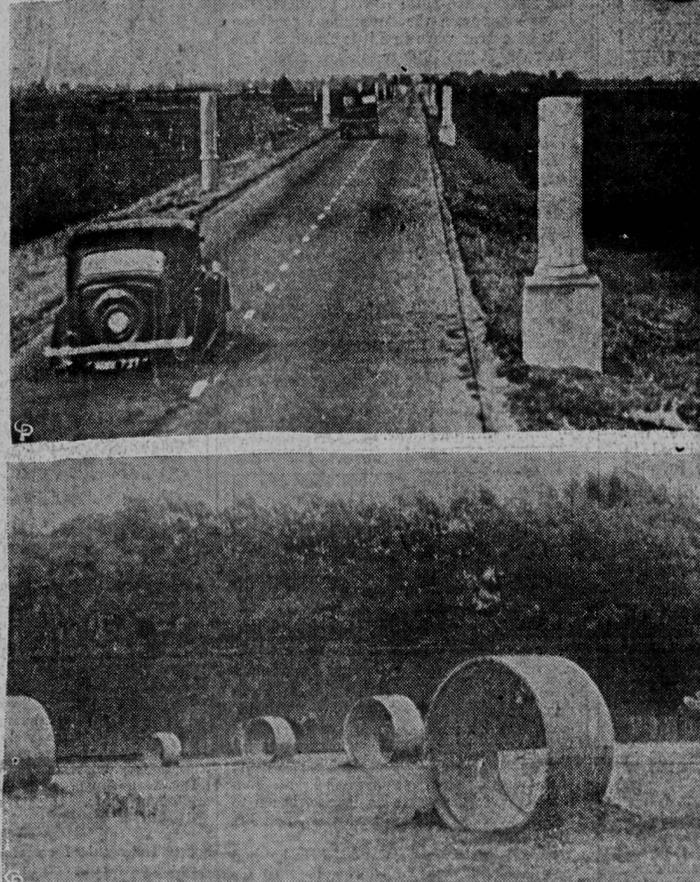

The iron guardists, though supported and harbored by German nazis during more than a year of blood purge against them by the former Rumanian government, are the most nationalistic group in this newly nazified country.

HOW ENGLAND PREPARES FOR GERMAN AIR ASSAULT

By erecting concrete culverts and pillars along roads and in open fields, England hopes to nip any plans Germany may have for an air blitzkrieg. The obstructions will make it impossible for Nazi planes to land with troops as successfully tried in the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Norway.

Nazis Inflict Great Losses In Sea Battles

King George Seeks Air Raid Shelter During Violent Attack

LONDON, July 26 (Friday) (AP)—German bombers by the hundreds made the English channel a streak of flame and death from dawn to twilight Thursday. The British pilots fought back, but in one fight alone they were outnumbered, 80 to 6.

The Germans came on a day when Britons were told that nearly 3,000 of their troops and civilian compatriots had been lost in the month-old sinking of a great and famous troopship by Nazi bombers and that a speedy German torpedo boat, during Wednesday night, had sunk a plainly marked French ship loaded with homeward-bound French soldiers, drowning hundreds.

Deadly Resistance
The British said that the masses of German fighters which attacked channel convoys all day Thursday had met a gallant and steady resistance and that they did little damage.

The Germans said their planes had sunk 11 out of 23 convoys ships for a total of 43,000 tons and had damaged others with their destroyer escorts.

The London admiralty did acknowledge the loss of three naval trawlers, but did not say where or when they were sunk, or give the casualty totals.

The air ministry said 20 German planes — 11 bombers and nine fighters — were downed during the day and that five British planes were lost. It said: "Hour after hour from dawn to late this evening Spitfires and Hurricanes (British fighters) roared into the skies to engage a large force of Nazi bombers with their protecting fighters which were attempting to bomb convoys."

Six Spitfires on patrol sighted 30 Junkers and 87 - type dive bombers escorted by at least 50 Messerschmidt "109"-type fighters, flying in layers thousands of feet above the bombers.

"The British fighters attacked. One Spitfire went for the bombers and thinks he got one of them. The other five Spitfires climbed to attack the enemy fighters. In the dogfight one of the German pilots was seen to bale out and a Spitfire pilot claims he seriously damaged another enemy fighter."

"One Spitfire is missing." Late last night, German planes were over southwest England and Wales.

The bombers, roaring swiftly across the channel that once was Britain's barrier inviolate, drove even King George to an air raid shelter. They came in swarms of eighty, to dive and blast at shipping, harbors, shores and island localities . . . sometimes strung out in long, seemingly endless lines.

There were mass attacks on the channel both in morning and afternoon. Late yesterday hundreds of German Stuka dive (See RAIDS, Page 6)

England to Expend Large Sums In American Airplane Industry

U. S. Output Is Now Only 1,250 Monthly

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The British have decided, Secretary Morgenthau announced today, to pour "colossal" sums into the American airplane industry, building factories which will expand the industry's capacity "far beyond" 50,000 planes a year.

On its part, the United States has pledged "every facility," Morgenthau said, to enable the British to buy 3,000 planes a month here in addition to large orders already placed. Officials declined to estimate how soon such a production level might be reached, merely confining themselves to saying the British hoped it would be attained early in 1941.

A spokesman for the aviation industry privately expressed confidence that the industry could produce 3,000 planes a month, if the British furnished the money and assured the necessary supply of machine tools.

He added, however, that present capacity for the manufacture of military planes is only 1,250 a month and that the industry is working at less than 50 per cent of capacity. With extensive enlargements already under way, particularly in west coast factories, he added, the industry could produce 22,000 to 24,000 warplanes a year by fall.

Morgenthau's announcement came amid a host of other developments with a bearing on the armaments program. Among these were a White House announcement that Louis Johnson had resigned as assistant secretary of war.

Stephen Early, presidential press secretary, said that Robert Porter Patterson, judge of the second United States circuit court of appeals, would succeed Johnson.

Heat Break To Continue

DES MOINES, July 25 (AP)—The heat wave break that began in scattered sections of Iowa today will continue tomorrow, the weather bureau predicted tonight.

The eight-day heat wave was cracked today in the northern part of the state, but the rest of Iowa continued to swelter. Scattered showers fell, but for the most part they brought only temporary relief.

Nine additional heat deaths were reported in the state today, bringing the total for the week to 16. At least nine persons drowned during that time.

The weather bureau's forecast for Iowa tomorrow was partly cloudy and cooler, scattered thundershowers in southeast.

Highest reading in the state today was 110 degrees at Williamsburg.

Cunningham Wins G. O. P. Nomination For Sixth District

DES MOINES, July 25 (AP)—Paul H. Cunningham, 49, a Des Moines attorney, tonight captured the republican congressional nomination of the sixth Iowa district on the 10th ballot of an 8-hour "Turkish bath battle" in the district convention here.

With 146 votes constituting the majority of the convention, Cunningham polled 164 votes on the last ballot.

State Sen. George Faul, another Des Moines attorney and only other survivor of the day-long conflict, collected 103 votes in a final futile effort to stall off the Cunningham groundswell.

The convention was called to order in the stifling heat of a hotel ballroom at 10 o'clock this morning, fought through three ballots before lunch and finally reached an exhausted decision at 6:30 this evening.

Opposes 'Trusteeship' Plan

HAVANA, July 25 (AP)—Leopold Melo, head Argentine delegate, declared tonight his country was opposed to Pan-American trusteeships or mandates over European possessions in this hemisphere.

The future status of those possessions should be determined by the people involved and without outside pressure, he told a press conference.

Thus, Argentina, big question mark of Pan-American solidarity, fulfilled the predictions of most conference observers that she was opposed to the "collective trusteeship" idea advanced by the United States, Brazil and other American republics.

Argentina was willing to debate the question at the conference, he said, but was not prepared to "sacrifice" her "fundamental juridical principles."

Delegates from European possessions should be heard at the conference, he said.

Proposals before the conference on Pan-American security were aimed at forestalling the transfer of French, Dutch or British possessions to any other non-American power.

Earlier some delegates expressed the belief that Argentina's viewpoint could be reconciled.

But Melo said his own proposal would block the conference from taking any measures regarding those possessions which were based on "hypothesis." American nations have no right to dedicate such powers to themselves, he said.

Argentina could not countenance the application of force over American territory "even in the guise of treaties or conventions effected among the Americas," he said.

He explained that cessions of European territories in this hemisphere, if arranged by treaty between European powers, should be acceptable to the American republics if it was acceptable to the people in those territories.

Nebuchadnezzar's Method

The common cold has brought forth more home remedies, patent medicine "curealls," to say nothing of human discomfort, than almost any other human ailment. Goosegrease, turpentine and lard, bitter pills, fizzy acidity counteractors, various laxatives and whatnot have been smeared on the chests or forced down the gullets of sneezing snifflers.

Dame Nature must have laughed and laughed at man's frantic efforts to conquer this most sociable of the filterable viruses. For all the time she knew that stored up in leaves and grass and nettles was a substance far more effective in treating colds than any of our pet remedies.

Chlorophyll has been found to be spectacularly successful in the treatment of the common cold. To Dr. Benjamin Gruskin of Temple university goes the credit for this discovery. A report recently published in the American Journal of Surgery revealed that in more than 1,000 cases of colds and sinus infections that were treated with chlorophyll preparations, there was not one in which either cure or marked improvement did not take place. Chlorophyll packs, nose drops, or injections have been used, the chlorophyll itself usually being derived from nettles.

Dr. Gruskin is not quite sure how the chlorophyll works—whether it increases the resistance of cells to bacteria, or whether by releasing oxygen, it prevents bacteria from forming poisons. It is doubtful if the cold sufferers will care, so long as it works. The current summer cold sufferers might look into this, or they might try eating grass. Perhaps Nebuchadnezzar had method in his madness!

Beating the Heat

While there are among us some ascetic souls who still plod perspiring over miles of sun-burnt terrain, blasting a miserable little pellet before them, and others who chase madly up and down a blistering clay court after a furry little ball, most of us these days are trying to beat the heat wave.

In the experience of mankind, a good many suggestions on keeping cool have been recorded. All of them have been found wanting. Cold drinks, watermelon, and ice cream cones give but a momentary respite. The ice pack and foot tub formula is cumbersome at best. All other methods heretofore proposed have been found to possess serious defects.

Let's Look Further

However, certain aspects of the process of keeping cool have never been adequately investigated. The following suggestions are offered in the spirit of the typical heat sufferer, who will try anything once to get relief.

The first thing to remember is that it's all in your state of mind. When you get up in the morning, look in the mirror and admit to yourself that you're not so hot. Keep telling yourself this all day long. After all, heat, like any sensation, is a relative thing. In this connection it is comforting to reflect that heat is merely another name for kinetic molecular energy. The physicists say you can't get away from it until you get 273 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. Incidentally, don't pay too much attention to this man Fahrenheit. Heat waves always passed unnoticed until Galileo invented the thermometer. Both of these men were foreigners, anyhow.

Simple Remedies

If you can't escape the defeatist attitude of the heat sufferer as easily as this, there are a number of other simple remedies which have never been tried and found wanting. If you ask your friends for ten dollars till the first of the month you will get a cold shoulder and an icy stare. Insist on going down town with nothing on but a pair of shorts. You are sure to get cold feet.

Then, too, of course, one can always contract a summer cold. The best way to do this is to stand for an hour in the hot air draft of a campaign speech and then go out into a sultry afternoon without putting on any wraps. Another technique for thwarting the heat wave is to "Fan with Van." All those who tried it at Philadelphia, where Mr. Vandenberg certainly went down swinging, report that this was very successful. Before the balloting they gained relief by fanning; afterwards they were left out in the cold.

Formulae and Formulae

If none of these things produce results, you might try doing an imitation of a cucumber. Another easy trick is to pursue some mild non-conformity with the law and get thrown in the cooler.

When it gets down to going places to get out of the heat you are in the last stage of heat suffering. There are a few air-conditioned buildings around town, notably Iowa Union. But the Union lounge is as crowded as Coney Island on the Fourth of July, and there has been standing room only during the past week. The movie houses are all right, but the dark interferes with such operations as knitting, writing letters, reading and working cross-word puzzles. If you really like this movie theater proposition, the thing to do is to get a summer job as an usher and save your money.

Home Remedy

A home remedy along this line is to remove all the food and shelves from the refrigerator and crawl in. Don't forget to take a pillow. Leave the door open just a crack, so the light will be on, if there is one in your refrigerator. It was put in there expressly to permit one to read mystery stories during the heat wave. Leaving the door open also allows breathing.

If none of these suggestions produce a sufficiently cooling effect, you are a desperate psychopathic type of heat sufferer. You need a rest cure in little America. But don't expect too much if you go there. The latest news from the Antarctic Expedition tells of a heat wave in Little America. The other day it was 18 degrees above zero.

Trees by the Roadside

Michigan's development of roadside tree-planting to beautify state highways and to prevent drifting winter snows is beginning to serve its purpose, according to the American Society of Planning Officials.

The landscaping of the highways has a utilitarian basis and safety factor in addition to beautifying them. The lines of trees serve to warn motorists of curves ahead. They have been omitted where foliage would obstruct the roadway.

The cost of removing snow from the wooded sections in northern Michigan has been reduced by one-half, the society indicates, and snow fences are becoming outmoded.

And several birds, it appears, are there by killed with one stone.

A Man About MANHATTAN

Taking Tips Is an Envyable Business

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There is an Italian on 50th street whose name is Sam and who owns quite a restaurant. Sam, as so many of his countrymen were during the prohibition era, is a product of the speakeasy and made his money in purveying illegal drinks behind closed doors. When repeal came he set himself up openly, procured a license, began to serve steaks as well as Scotch stew, and has prospered.

Now Sam has a brother-in-law who had no job. He managed to gain employment for his brother-in-law as a doorman at one of New York's highest priced restaurants. His tips there averaged $20 a day. No kidding. Tipping is an unexplored avenue of revenue in this town. With his earnings this fellow opened a restaurant of his own. He is doing well.

There is a waiter in the famous Twenty-One club who is said to own a yacht. He is known to many of his friends and clients as "Winchell" because he is always in the "know." This waiter, it is alleged, and I believe it, practically paid for his yacht with the tips that he has received from spenders and celebrities whom he has served through the years.

Some time ago I was told of a head-waiter who paid $5,000 for his job. He earns no salary. But the tips he receives run into an enviable annual figure.

Much has been recently and wisely written against the evils of tipping but, in New York at least, it is so firmly entrenched as a custom that it can never be abolished. It is an unhealthy and sometimes a most annoying custom. Unless the size of one's gratuity measures up to the recipient's expectations one is likely to be snubbed, if not insulted. I know waiters who are good at names and at remembering faces who will not serve certain people because of their reputation as indifferent tipsters. I suppose the reason for this is that tipping is an old world custom and most of New York's waiters are either French, Italian or German.

Once a colleague and myself decided upon a little experiment. We had dinner in a restaurant in 45th street, tipping the waiter before the dinner was served. He served us all right, but there was none of the briskness and the alert attention squandered on us that would have been ours had we waited until after the dinner to do the tipping. The man's idea was to get whatever was coming to him, and to put himself out being attentive after he received a tip didn't make good sense to him.

Tipping, as everyone knows now, is largely a matter of greasing the poke for those who own the concessions in this town. Sherman Billingsley of the Stork told me that he sold his hat-checking privileges for $20,000 a year. So, before a single customer had entered the place he was $20,000 ahead. This means that when you give the pretty little blonde a quarter for her smile and for holding your coat for you that, actually, you are giving a quarter to her boss, some well-heeled guy who at the time is probably off on his yacht somewhere. Shoeshine boys, hat check girls, cigarette girls, and others rarely are able to keep their own tips. They go to the "Boss," who in turn hires his tip-collectors at a minimum wage.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Stronger Government To Follow Defense

WASHINGTON—National economic labyrinth yet undreamed lie ahead of the national defense commission in rearming the country. At least they appear to be undreamed in the public mind, but the farsighted government economists associated with the commission are daily giving thought to prospects that seem fantastic. They see the present road leading eventually to a stronger government directed national life, controlled production, a high geared government spending economy beyond the hitherto astronomical imagination of the new deal spenders themselves—an eventual budget of perhaps $20 to $25 billions a year, nearly double its largest new deal size.

They figure this way: Of the 14,000,000,000 Mr. Roosevelt is proposing for national defense about 5 to 6 billions will be spent this fiscal year before next July 1. This will have the economic impetus of 10 to 12 billions. The letting of contracts for sums larger than the actual expenditure naturally will start purchases of raw materials and buying preparations, which will stimulate the country's economic condition greater than ever before.

As a result the national income which was $70,000,000,000 in 1939 is likely to reach 75 billions this year and soar above 80 billions for 1941. This increase in purchasing power, the economists believe, will cause a tremendous new demand for consumer goods, like autos, refrigerators, radios, washing machines, clothing—the implements of the peoples' daily lives—but the necessities of defense for the production of tanks, airplanes, guns, textiles will require so much of the production capacity of some of these consumer goods plants that a government rationed production system is likely to become necessary. They conclude so many people will want so many more automobiles, that if the automobile manufacturers attempt to satisfy the demand, the motor industry will not be able to turn out the tanks.

The automobile people feared just exactly this when the program was initiated, and dashed down to Washington privately to consult with their ex-colleague, William Knudsen, production commissioner. They were assured the defense program would be planned in the beginning so as to prevent such a situation from arising, and they went back to Detroit satisfied. But if they had consulted some of the economists around the commission, they would have felt far less confident.

The economists believe this bottle neck cannot be avoided. What they foresee is the government stepping in to tell producers in all vital lines what portion of their production can be devoted to public consumption and what portion to national defense.

MORE TAXES?
Not half the tax bill of de-

25 BILLION A YEAR— This rising spiral of government expenditures which they conjure from current economic statistics might eventually reach, one of the foremost government economists privately says, the aforementioned figure of 20 to 25 billions. He is figuring on a German victory and sharp trade competition from a German dominated Europe, which will require from us not only increasing sums for larger fighting fleets and continuously more armament but heavy government subsidies for the maintenance of our foreign trade in competition with such a system.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Hollywood Faces

The Facts—at Last!

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's the little things that tell the tale. Like the last rose of summer, the robin in the snow, the look in the eye of a skid-row bum just before he empties the vial into the cuppa coffee. Like the preview notice that came today.

It was a simple card, white, printed in black. It said such and such a picture would be shown at one of the picture houses and would I come?

In the course of years in Hollywood you get hardened to preview notices. After a month or so, you take 'em as they come, and never bat an eye. And how they used to come!

Only a while ago this household decided what to do with the very elegant silk topper that arrived one day to tell us RKO was showing a picture. The title was "Top Hat." Get it? Oh, get it nothing. You get so you get it in a flash. "Top Hat"—and a top hat. Amazing! And nice too — only it presented a problem.

Not that I've anything against top-hat wearers, but I'm not one of 'em. Fact is, I don't know anybody who wears a top-hat—if he can get out of it. That's not counting movie stars, who are different. Wearing top hats is part of the price they pay.

So there we were with a top hat. It felt sort of plushy to be "a top hat family," like needing two garbage cans or throwing away a new car because it ran out of gas. We could use it as a flower container, or let the baby bounce on it, or amaze our friends—but all the while it was usurping valuable storage space. So when a friend came to town from a top-hat-wearing country we took advantage of his good nature and now we no longer worry about it.

Once a preview notice came by airmail all the way from Culver City. To let us know that "Test Pilot" was coming up, M-G-M inaugurated a one-flight-only "shortest airline in the world." It made a nice stamp-collector's item.

The "Robin Hood" notice was an illuminated scroll, delivered—as I recall it—by one of Robin's merry men, in full costume, who amazed the neighbors no end. "Room Service" brought just that—the usual items glued to a tray.

Skipping over the dozens of trinkets and gadgets (like a clover for "Three Cheers for the Irish" and a sack of borax for "20 Mule Team") which have brightened our mail box we can turn to consideration of a bleak future in which gala premiere programs may be shorn of zip. There was a gold-paper affair for "All This, and Heaven Too" but maybe never again will we have one like the masterpiece that healded "A Midsummer Night's Dream"—the carved-wood cover on which the Warner Brothers modestly shared credit with W. Shakespeare.

Photographers Here to Learn New Tricks of the Trade

Some take pictures for fun—the world of the camera. Sponsored by the school of journalism, the special course is open to the general public without fee. Special exhibits of outstanding photographs are included. Registering in the west foyer of the art building for the course is Gayle Bennett, shown above, editor of the Lovilia Press, Lovilia, Ia. Mrs. Ray Cooney of Iowa City, seated, explains the day's program.

Speak at Short Course Photography Experts Open First Day Sessions With Lectures, Discussions

"Artistic pictures, while at a premium, may not mean much to the advertiser if the lines of the article to be sold are not sharp and clear," asserted Tom Ryan, advertising manager of The Daily Iowan, in the opening session of the third annual news photography short course here yesterday.

Although Ryan believes that line drawings are far superior to photographs in the advertising field, he stressed the value of newly advertising campaigns which involve the use of good photography.

Speaking on the subject "News Cameras, Large or Small?" Ray G. Carlstrom of the Folmer Graflex corporation, Rochester, N. Y., suggested the use of the speed graphic cameras in newspaper work. One of the most important advantages of this type camera, according to Carlstrom, is the single lens system for focusing and taking pictures.

Other outstanding features of the speed graphic camera include its versatility and sturdiness, together with a revolving back, interchangeable lens and synchronized front shutter.

Carlstrom doubted the advisability of using all steel cameras in news work, stating that they are too heavy for transportation and are hard to handle in cold weather.

With the use of slides, Alden F. Megrew, member of the art department here, compared the works of famous artists and sculptors as far back as the 5th century B. C. to modern photography.

"News photographers, as opposed to artists, face many problems especially in the arrangement of articles to create good focal points," Megrew asserted.

However, he suggested the use of cross and triangular balances with proper lighting to emphasize the center of interest, explaining that geometric patterns create more interest and avert flatness.

"Features are the best methods of selling the American way to advertisers," declared Gerald Young, industrial and illustrative photographer, Chicago, Ill., in his talk on "Money for Your Paper."

Another method of advertising suggested by Young is the running of feature stories concerning a new style or fashion of the article. Of course, Young explained, the advertising is charged for this additional service, which brings surprising results.

Although "Streamline Darkrooms for 1940" was the topic of the phototechnical department, Wabash Photolamp corporation, Brooklyn, N. Y., was to discuss, he asserted that there was no particular need for darkness when developing films.

"Darkness," declared Arnold, "merely causes unnecessary problems to the average photographer, while a green room without powerful lights will serve the purpose equally well."

The institution where work in shorthand and typing was pursued.

The letter must be addressed to George M. Hittler, room 218-A, University hall, University of Iowa.

The letter must state the number of weeks in instruction, the number of periods in each week and the number of minutes in each period. Such a statement should be provided for each subject in which the candidate wishes to be examined, according to the official announcement.

In addition to 180 clock hours of instruction, candidates who wish to qualify upon the proficiency examination basis must have to their credit two semester hours of collegiate training in methods of teaching typewriting and shorthand.

Diplomat, Religious Leader Will Also Lead Round Table Discussion

T. Z. Koo, Chinese diplomat and international religious leader, will give the seventh and final university lecture of the summer session series tonight at 8 o'clock on south Iowa Union campus.

Using perfect English in grammar and enunciation, the lucid speaker vividly paints word pictures that firmly impress themselves on his listeners.

He will also lead a round table discussion tomorrow morning at 9 a. m. in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

A picturesque character in his Chinese dress, Dr. Koo combines a wealth of Oriental insight with a vast outlook of world statesmanship to interpret the Christian message.

With the practical directness of the West, he compares the ethical culture of the Chinese, "the relation between men," with the scientific culture of the West, "the relation between men and the external world."

Attributed as "an Asiatic personality whose message and influence would be the most helpful to America at present," Dr. Koo displays the "forcefulness and grace of the seasoned lecturer" to fulfill his purpose—the cultivation of better international relations.

A graduate of St. John's university, Shanghai, Dr. Koo served for nine years as an official in the administrative department of the Chinese railway service, and later joined the staff of the national committee of the Y. M. C. A. of China.

He has spoken in such world gatherings as the Oxford conference, the Amsterdam youth conference, the conference on the world mission of the church, at Madras and in countless other international conferences.

During the past two years he has talked with students in Australia, New Zealand, India, Java, China and many of the important civic and church assemblies throughout the United States and Canada.

At the University of Washington where Dr. Koo's visit preceded the student relief campaign, the Student Daily said editorially: "It is regrettable that more lecturers of Dr. Koo's mental stature are not brought here."

On some occasions Dr. Koo may be persuaded to procure his flute, and entertain his listeners with plaintive Chinese airs—traditional songs of the past.

He appeared on the University of Iowa campus last year in connection with the religious emphasis week activities.

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion and summer lecture chairman, will introduce the speaker tonight, and will supervise the round-table discussion tomorrow morning.

Will Interview Mrs. H. J. Dane

Mrs. H. J. Dane, Johnson county home project leader, will be interviewed on WSUI tomorrow at 11:45 a. m. by Ray Heinen, farm editor, on the Farm Flashes program.

Temperature Drop of 13 Degrees Follows Cooling Showers

106 Degrees Reached Three Times Here

Rain Brings Relief After Heat Wave Threatens Dry Spell

Rain clouds coming into a clear hot sky about 6 o'clock last night brought the long awaited cooling relief to Iowa City with a temperature drop from 92 at 6 o'clock to 79 degrees at 7 o'clock after .13 of an inch of rain had fallen.

The mercury reached an all-year high yesterday afternoon at three different times when the thermometer at the Iowa City airport registered 106 degrees. This figure was recorded at 2:15, 4 o'clock and 4:35 yesterday afternoon.

The weather bureau observer reported that yesterday's high mark equalled the all-time high for July 25 set in 1901. With a low of but 76 degrees recorded Wednesday night, it was the hottest night yet this year.

Scattered Showers

Rain fell last night from 8:15 to shortly before 7 o'clock at varied intervals reaching down-pour tendencies in some areas part of the time. Dark clouds continued to pass over following the rain and more scattered showers were expected during the night.

The rain brings relief to an intensive heat wave of near and over 100-degree temperature readings which moved into Iowa the latter part of last week bringing to a climax the year's most serious dry spell.

On July 11 and 12 the weather bureau reported 1.13 inches of rainfall in Iowa City and .01 of an inch on July 16. This was the last rain in this vicinity until last night.

Last night's shower brings the year's total fall to 13.61 inches. The normal fall this far this year in 1932 leaving Iowa City yet 6.21 inches behind on rain fall.

Temperature readings a year ago yesterday were 84 degrees high and 66 degrees low. Normal readings for July 25 are 88 and 64. Iowa City's high reading yesterday was 18 degrees above normal and the low mark was 12 degrees above normal.

More Arrangements For 4-H Club Show Will Be Considered

A meeting to make further arrangements regarding the coming 4-H club county show Aug. 14, 15 and 16 will be held in the farm bureau office in the post office tomorrow at 8 p.m., it was announced yesterday by County Agent Emmett C. Gardner.

Attending the meeting will be the 4-H club men's county committee as well as county baby beef club members and their fathers. The beef club will attend to decide on what method they wish to use this year in selling their beef calves following the show.

of the training bill.

"I don't believe we're in any emergency," Wheeler said. "The only emergency is that conjured up in the minds of a few people who want to see us go to war and send our youths to Asia or Europe."

During the day, members of the senate military committee approved additional sections of the Burke-Wadsworth bill giving the president authority to order the registration of an estimated 42,000,000 men 18 to 64 years old, inclusive.

In an effort to retain jobs for all men drafted for the one year of training, the committee voted to define as an "unfair labor practice" failure of an employer to rehire a worker who had returned from training. Chairman Shepard (D-Tex) said employers subject to the national labor (Wagner) act thus would face penalties if they failed to re-hire a demobilized conscript.

The committee also provided that all federal government workers should regain their jobs after training and added a section that it "was the sense of the congress" that all conscripts should be rehired by employers.

Language was approved covering "conscientious objectors" who would be exempted from combat training or service "by reason of religious training or belief."

Local selection boards were directed to classify such objectors and refer all cases to the justice department for a checkup. Bona fide objectors might be assigned to noncombatant training or to "work of national importance under civilian direction."

No 'Dictatorial' Powers

Another provision approved by the committee would prevent the president from inducting anyone into military service "until congress shall hereafter appropriate funds specifically for such purpose." Sheppard said this would "answer all this talk about giving the president dictatorial powers."

Public hearings on the training bill continued before the house military committee with a war department witness estimating the first year's cost at $1,100,000,000. Major George L. Everle testified that this cost included construction of barracks and similar items which would be unnecessary in following years.

Benjamin Marsh, opposing witness appearing for the people's lobby, described the compulsory training as "Hitler's first victory in America."

Early made clear, was chosen by Henry L. Stimson, new republican secretary of war. The White House made public a telegram from Mr. Roosevelt asking Johnson to become a White House assistant and his liaison man on defense matters.

Export Licenses

Another development was an announcement that licenses would be required hereafter for exports of petroleum products and scrap metals. President Roosevelt instituted last July 2 a licensing system for export of materials essential to the national defense, but oil and scrap metals were not on the initial list.

Shortly before the announcement that they had been added to other products for which export licenses were required, it had been disclosed that two shipments of oil to Spain, totalling about 200,000 barrels, had been held up. No reason was given, but it was understood that officials believed the oil was destined for Germany and Italy.

New Supply Chief

General Marshall announced during the day that Brigadier General Richard G. Moore had been appointed deputy chief of staff in charge of matters relating to supply, construction, the armored force and air corps.

An engineer officer, Moore commanded the regiment of engineers in the first of the experimental triangular divisions organized by the war department.

Asked whether reserve officers would be exempted from compulsory training under the proposed law pending in congress, General Marshall said the plan was to place the 117,000 reserve officers in the same category with the National Guard. It is proposed to mobilize the Guard for use in training conscripts. All reserve officers, he said, will not be needed.

He also said that the reserve officers training corps in colleges probably would continue without regard to the compulsory training program.

"We are certainly not going to allow the ROTC to die," General Marshall said. "It is far too valuable in furnishing officer personnel."

bombers, German fighters and British fighters fought above a 20-ship convoy which the Germans first bombed and dispersed, then bombed again when it reformed. More than fifty attacking bombers dived 8,000 feet, and explosions were felt on the English cliffs three miles away.

The admiralty announced that the two naval trawlers Kingston Galena and Rodong were "lost as a result of an enemy air attack" but did not disclose where or when. The number of casualties was not given.

(A German radio announcement said the convoy raiders sank at least 11 of 23 ships attacked today and gave the aggregate tonnage sunk as 43,000 tons.)

Nine raiders were shot down, one by a Norwegian motor torpedo boat.

In the midst of all this the government announced that "a deliberate and callous" attack by a German torpedo boat, off the heavily guarded Portland naval base, last night had sunk the 6,127-ton French merchantman Meknes, crammed with 1,300 French naval officers and men on their way to repatriation in their homeland. From 300 to 450 were lost.

Then, after waiting for a month to soften the blow, the censorship permitted publication of the fact that 2,823 British troops and refugees, some of them women and children, still are missing from the bombing and sinking of the 16,243-Cunarder Lancastria, while she lay at anchor in the French harbor of St. Nazaire on June 17, evacuating the last of the B.E.F.

This was the first time the authorities had permitted any mention of the Lancastria disaster. It ranks as the greatest sea catastrophe of the war, so far as is yet known.

Seek Safe Transportation For Children

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—House foreign affairs committee endorsed the principle of bringing European refugee children to this country today, but questioned the possibility of getting assurances of safe conduct for the ships.

Marshall Field, president of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, said that the youngsters could be given good treatment at no cost to the government once they reached American shores.

He made the statement as hearings began on bills by Representative Hennings (D-MO) and Celler (D-NY) to permit American refugee ships, unarmed and unconvoyed, to enter belligerent ports if the warring nations give assurances of safe voyages.

Hennings raised the subject of getting "safe conduct."

"Suppose, for instance, Germany should say that they were not going to do that?" he asked.

The committee probably will study the problem at a closed meeting tomorrow when, Chairman Bloom (D-NY) said, the legislation may be sent to the house floor.

Dr. Rankin Enumerates Points Regarding Garbage Disposal

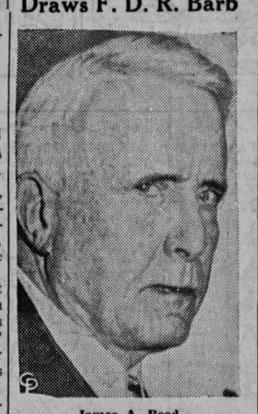

Provisions of the city ordinance regulating disposal of garbage in Iowa City were pointed out yesterday by Dr. Isom A. Rankin, city physician, following several violations of requirements.

The state code provides that garbage shall be adequately disposed of to protect public health. The particular method of its disposal, however, is left up to the several municipalities, the physician said. In some cities it is burned in an incinerator and wrapping the garbage in a paper is an advantage in this case.

In Iowa City, he explained, contracts for garbage collection are given to farmers who feed the garbage to hogs. The food value of the garbage is considered in these contracts and wrapping the garbage in paper is not permitted under the Iowa City code.

The city ordinance, he said, is specific in its provisions. Accord-

James A. Reed

Former U. S. Senator James A. Reed of Missouri leads anti-third term Democrats in a "grass roots Jeffersonian Democrat" conclave in Chicago. President Roosevelt paid his respects to Reed and the opposition group with barbed phrases in a press conference at Hyde Park, N. Y. Referring to Reed's convention plans the president said it seemed to him that Reed had done much the same thing in 1928 and 1936 and maybe in 1928 and so was well qualified from experience.

WASHINGTON—In the house, Rep. Taber (R-NY), replied to a recent press conference comment by Mr. Roosevelt that the mind of Lewis Douglas and John W. Hanes, former federal officials who are supporting Wendell Willkie, ran more to dollars than humanity.

"Could any meaner thing be said by one man about another?" Taber asked.

KANSAS CITY—James A. Reed, former democratic senator from Missouri, likewise replied to the president's remark at the same conference that Reed had forsaken the democratic party in 1936 and in 1932 and probably in 1928. Reed displayed a letter addressed to "My Dear Friend Jim" in which, he said, the president thanked him for aid in the 1932 campaign.

DES MOINES—A conference of farm problems between Willkie and the republican governors, gubernatorial candidates and farm leaders of eight midwestern states was arranged.

NEW YORK—John J. He said "90 per cent of the delegates" at the Chicago democratic convention were "disgusted" with the third term effort.

ing to it the garbage can must be water tight and must be large enough to hold three days' supply. The can must be kept covered at all times, also.

The garbage can may be placed at a convenient place in the rear of the lot or property near the alley in easy access to the city garbage collector. Before placing garbage in the can, all kitchen slops must be drained off.

Also, he pointed out, the garbage can not contain empty cans, bottles, broken glass, old iron or other rubbish.

The garbage collector is not required to take garbage failing to meet with these requirements, the ordinance provides. The collector makes regular collections and must cooperate with the householder in meeting the necessary requirements.

Dr. Rankin said that any requests for service or information relative to garbage collection may be phoned to the office of the city clerk in the city hall.

State Fair Program

Night Entertainment Features Road Show, Musical Extravaganza

DES MOINES — A complete change in the Iowa State fair's evening entertainment programs as compared with former years—eliminating the state fair rodeo, and substituting a combined musical extravaganza, circus, and fireworks show for the entire eight nights of the exposition, was announced here by the fair board.

The feature of the night shows from Aug. 23 to 30 will be "State Fair Revue," a road show of more than 200 people, including a Broadway beauty chorus and well-known stars of stage, screen and radio. The production, in five episodes, with elaborate scenic settings and lighting effects, will cover nearly three hours of open air musical and circus entertainment, fair officials said.

The show is so large, they report, that present fair stages are inadequate, and workmen are now building three new stages in front of the grandstand to accommodate the production. The central stage is to be 60 feet wide, with wing stages 38 feet wide, and two side stages each 60 feet wide. This will give a combined stage setting of more than 360 feet for the fair's night shows.

In addition to the musical revue, the night programs each evening will feature an open-air circus of trained animals, elephants, equestrians, trapeze performers, high-air acts, clowns and other favorites. The shows will be climaxed by a special display of world's fair fireworks and a "festival of light."

"This is the most elaborate evening entertainment program the fair has ever planned," Secretary A. R. Corey said.
