British Left Calling Card

Three dead and many injured was casualty toll when British airmen bombed this building in Hanover, Germany, in the mass raids on more than 100 cities. The town was raked from end to end as British bombers searched for hidden nerve centers and rail terminals. Photo radiated from Berlin to New York.

Report 19 British Warships Leave Gibraltar for Atlantic

Start for Mediterranean But Cut Back Toward Ocean; Ship Damaged

ALGECIRAS, Spain, Aug. 6 (Tuesday) (AP)—Nineteen British warships were reported to have left Gibraltar hurriedly today, starting first into the Mediterranean but then cutting back toward the Atlantic ocean.

There was no information as to where they might be headed. Reports reaching La Linea, close to Gibraltar, said the 29,150-ton British battleship Resolution was damaged in an air-sea battle last Saturday south of Formentor, one of the Balearic islands off the southeast coast of Spain.

The same reports said a cruiser was hit by a bomb in the same fight and several British sailors were killed and wounded. It and the Resolution were said to have been left behind at Gibraltar when the 19 other warships left.

Senate Committee Passes Draft Bill

Debate Starts As Guard Call Is Considered

Senator Sheppard Asserts Belief Hitler Plans Attack on U. S.

DRAFT PLAN IN BRIEF
12,000,000 young men, 21 to 30 years old, inclusive, would register.
400,000 would be mustered into service by October, 1940; others later at president's discretion.
Period of service—One year, at $21 a month and allowances.
Exemptions—Men in essential pursuits, clergymen, men with dependents, the unfit, federal and state officials, judges, members of congress, conscientious objectors. (The last-named would be liable to noncombatant service.)

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Legislation for compulsory military training of the nation's youth finally received the approval today of the senate military committee, whose chairman, Senator Sheppard of Texas, asserted on the senate floor that he firmly believed Adolf Hitler intends to attack this country.

Ready, after many delays and postponements, for consideration in the senate proper, the measure awaited only the passage of a bill authorizing President Roosevelt to call out the national guard and army reserve officers for intensive training.

Feeling Deep
So deep is the feeling on the peace-time draft issue that although the senate debated the national guard bill throughout the day, the conscription question entered repeatedly into the discussion. A battle of unusual proportions obviously awaited it.

The conscription bill and the national guard measure were several times declared to be companion pieces, but opposition to the latter was apparently negligible.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), a leader of the anti-conscription bloc, said for one that he saw no objection to the guard bill. It was requested by President Roosevelt and the war department, on the ground that developments in the war abroad had shown that the guard needs special training.

Brisk Exchange
Sheppard's statement that Hitler plans eventually to attack the United States was made in the course of a brisk exchange with Wheeler.

After the latter had disputed Sheppard's contention that a national emergency exists at the present time, and argued that there was no need for compulsory military service, the Texan asserted that if Wheeler could not realize the existence of an emergency, no amount of talking could convince him of it.

"Does the senator think Hitler will attack the United States?" Wheeler asked with a note of scorn in his voice.

"He will try to attack the United States," Sheppard answered. "That is my firm belief and if it wasn't I wouldn't be here trying to get the senate to ap-

Tide This Week Favorable To Nazi Attempt at Invasion

Britain Releases One of Two Japanese Businessmen Arrested

Dr. F. A. Cook Dies in Hospital In New Rochelle

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP)—The strange, frustrated career of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who hovered between the roles of misunderstood explorer and spectacular charlatan in the eyes of the twentieth century public, was ended today by death.

The claimant to discovery of the North Pole succumbed at the age of 75 in the New Rochelle hospital having survived a cerebral hemorrhage just long enough to achieve a presidential pardon for an old mail fraud conviction.

Senators Flay Col. Lindbergh
Denounced as 'Chief Of Fifth Column Here' By Senator Pepper

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was bitterly denounced in the senate today by Senator Pepper (D-Ia) as "the chief of the fifth column in this country."

Pepper's remarks were occasioned by the filer's speech Sunday urging "cooperation" with Germany if Germany wins the war.

Meanwhile, General John J. Pershing's proposal that American destroyers are made available to Great Britain was denounced as a "direct step toward war," by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont).

Chairman Pittman (D-Neu) of the senate foreign relations committee, commenting on Pershing's proposal, suggested the possibility of swapping destroyers for a few British battleships, which he said appeared to be of little practical use in North Sea battles.

Pepper, rising in the senate toward the close of a day devoted to a discussion of conscription and related issues, said that "perhaps within a few hours, perhaps in a few days, perhaps within a few months, the American people will have to decide whether they are going to follow the chief of the fifth column in this country—Col. Lindbergh—or are going to follow General Pershing."

J. Streicher, Nazi No. 1 Jew-Baiter, Reported Dead

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch said tonight Julius Streicher, Governor of Franconia and Germany's No. 1 Jew-baiter, was dead according to reports from a well-informed source in Germany.

The news agency dated its story from the "German frontier."

Streicher, 55 years old, was with Hitler in Munich last Nov. 8 when a bomb exploded in the back hall soon after Hitler had departed.

Churchill to Bring Difficulty With Japan To Commons Today

Now or Next Year Called German Choice

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

This is bound to be an uneasy week for Britain. Time and tide, which wait on no man, favor a German attempt at invasion as they may not again until next spring.

There will be other high tides in the English channel and North sea before then, other moonless nights and other prospective fogs to screen a Nazi onset. Yet the time factor will not be the same. The September equinox is only six weeks away.

The Germans seem to be confronted with a choice of attacking now or waiting until next year. If the week passes without a break in the virtual stalemate that has endured since mid June it will go far toward convincing the world that whatever his own desire, Hitler's generals have ruled out invasion as too risky, until England has been "softened" by blockade.

Dubious View
If that is the case, and there have been strong hints from both Rome and Berlin that it is, it means that the axis military leaders view the invasion problem in about the same dubious way as do many American naval and military men. Such of them as have discussed the matter with this writer in the last six weeks believed that invasion would be the last recourse of German strategy.

What most concerned them was whether England could hold out against wholesale air attack (which has not yet developed) or against prolonged blockade.

To cap that view of professional observers there now comes a more precise expression. General Pershing voices an emphatic public plea that 50 or more American destroyers, built during the World war be turned over to the British to aid them in their hour of peril by "means short of war."

Destroyer Transfer
It obviously would take considerable time to make this fleet of sea hornets an active factor in the battle of Britain. Yet the former commander of the American expeditionary force, whose prestige and contacts make him thoroughly familiar with American military and naval opinion, reports that it is "nearly unanimous" in supporting the destroyer transfer.

Behind that Pershing plea clearly lies the conclusion that a blitzkrieg against England, if attempted (See INVASION, Page 6)

Gas Fumes Kill Four Men In Bottom of Well

BRISTOL, N. H., Aug. 5, (AP)—Four men—three of them firemen attempting rescues—died today at the bottom of a 50-foot well as they were overcome by gas fumes and toppled into seven feet of water.

First of the victims was a workman engaged in pumping out the well water with a gasoline pump. The three firemen, one of them a bridegroom of a week, were overcome, one by one, as each descended when he saw the other topple over.

Police Chief Ernest Hopkins said an examination was underway to determine whether death was caused by fumes or by drowning.

The dead: Martin Kease, 45, of Gorham, the workman.
Earl R. Wells, 22, of Bristol, who was married a week ago.
Forest H. Martin, 40, of Bristol, Wells' brother-in-law.
Verne A. Tilton, 45, also of Bristol.

Fire Chief T. T. Goodwin, of Bristol, said Kease had been employed to pump out the well on the farm property of Arthur Farnieu, of Malden, Mass. With him, but working at the surface, was Morton Plankey, a contractor in charge of the pumping.

Goodwin said Plankey descended into the well when Kease failed to come up "and was almost overcome himself." Plankey summoned help.

Boasts Great Increase In Fighting Craft

Authorities Assert That Production Now Equals Germany's

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Tuesday) (AP)—German planes stabbed at various points in Britain early today with the sharpest activity of the widespread raids centered on the northeast coast of England.

Hundreds of persons in one northeastern town watched a raiding plane and a British fighter in a spectacular dogfight illuminated by white pencils of searchlights.

The raider finally fled with the British plane in such hot pursuit that the German jettisoned his bombs into the sea a short distance offshore. Windows ashore were shattered.

Nazi planes, apparently searching for one town, were heard circling about for a long time. When British fighters tried to locate them they sped away.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Britain's aircraft production now equals Germany's, it was declared authoritatively today.

Supporting evidence was offered in increasingly violent aerial smashes at potential continental hopping-off places for the Nazi invasion attempt believed close at hand.

Britons, alertly watching channel tides favorable for Adolf Hitler's threatened assault, heard that their airplane factories are running "neck and neck" with the German output and that, with United States and Canadian production, their monthly accumulation of planes actually exceeds that of the Nazis.

Carry War to Germans
Coupled with this were accounts of British planes carrying the war to the Germans with heavier and heavier attacks designed to smash any invasion before it can get started.

Tonight's air ministry communiqué said British bombers, carrying out their nightly forays, set ablaze an oil plant at Sterkrade in the Ruhr and a hanger at Krefeld last night without the loss of a single plane.

Fourteen tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs were rained on the synthetic oil works at Sterkrade, the air ministry announced, by British bombers attacking in waves from before midnight until the early hours of today.

Drop Incendiaries
The returning pilots said they first shattered the tanks then fired the oil flowing from them with their incendiaries. They told of earth-jarring explosions followed by flames which lighted up the countryside for miles around.

British planes reported three Messerschmitt fighters shot down, two within range of German anti-aircraft guns on the French coast. One British plane was lost.

Conscription With Caution

The debate over conscription is certainly nothing to be ashamed about. The mere fact that Mr. Average Citizen can still argue about how he'll join the army, and when, and if, shows quite conclusively that the United States is still an operant democracy. The draft law, if it goes through, will be the result of legislation reflecting common opinion. The different sections of the country have peculiar slants on the problem. The Pacific and mid-western regions still hold out for voluntary enlistment. Senators Norris, Johnson, and LaFollette maintain that an American army composed of those who sign up of their own freewill will be a more courageous and effective group than those who are told that they must go in or else. Eastern senators, particularly, seem to favor conscription.

Time for Thought

One thing remains certain. Regardless of the final plan, the American people will insist on time to think this thing over. England and Germany may have to burn and bleed, but the cautious Yank will have to have a continued baptism of ideas and arguments from the press, the radio, and the movie before he will sign his name to a mandate that will for a time at least take away a phase of his historic and constitutional rights.

Every professional politician in Washington knows this. And he will not venture too far. The two presidential candidates are proceeding with the utmost caution.

Not that the public is not interested in the customary struggle "over there." As usual, America is spending its money like water for everything from Red Cross to armaments to refugee relief. We have forgot the price we will pay financially. Right now we are concerned with our own flesh and blood that we have so painfully raised through a depression caused by World War I.

The Job of Building an Army

The whole matter, then, narrows down to methods and psychology. If the lawmakers and the generals move too fast, then something like the Civil War draft riots in New York may result. If the army pay remains as low as $21 a month, then thousands of young business and professional men, farmers and laborers, may find their dependents on relief. If armies of boys are hurried into camps before the camps are prepared to feed, clothe, and care for them properly, then riot, disease and despondency might demoralize their morale.

Surely the army, navy and air units will have to be brought up to standards at least near-equal to that of the average American home, office, farm and factory. As in Germany and Italy, the life of a soldier or sailor or flier will have to be made interesting and heroic enough to appeal to the imagination of youth. In America this will not be so easy. We've gone through one war.

Europe—A Permanent Battle Field

The most remarkable thing is that the present war will not be the last. Few people can ever believe that. Europe keeps peace only long enough to prepare for another conflict. When one nation or group of nations is defeated, new alignments are made and the old conflicts begin again. Thus Italy and Japan, who fought for the allies between 1914 and 1918, are now their bitter opponents. France, now a pawn for Germany, may never join with England again.

With this knowledge in mind, it will be forever hard for the American people to become too highly concerned about the broils of Europe. The narrowing of geographical zones, the necessity of world trade, the desire for balance of power, and the will to survive will probably draw America again and again into phases of foreign made wars. Like the totalitarians, we may have to adjust ourselves to the expense and perplexities of mechanistic slaughter. We may become permanently militaristic.

American Individuality

But we certainly will continue to keep our own hands in our own pie. We certainly will want to retain those elements of peace and liberty that have made America the blessed and the most envied among nations. We may want to give and give to save the world for this and that, but we surely will not surrender everything that heretofore has given us life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. So we proceed cautiously in this matter of conscription.

Iowa City's Accident Record

Interesting statistics on Iowa City's accidents of last year were released yesterday by the Iowa department of public safety in Des Moines.

Thirty-three persons were injured, three fatally, in local crashes during the year, according to the department.

There were 34 accidents caused by wet paving, and 46 caused by icy streets in Iowa City, state records reveal.

Intersections played an important part in local accidents, and 106 of them occurred at local intersections.

There were 423 vehicles and 390 drivers involved in the 232 local accidents.

Based on accident reports of 21 cities in Iowa of over 10,000 population, the state department reports that in 6,646 accidents in these cities, 86 persons were killed, and 4,979 others were injured. The figures show that 1,256 pedestrians were injured in these cities. Daytime accidents outnumbered night crashes.

Now the average number of accidents, according to these figures, in cities over 10,000 was 316 per city. Iowa City had 232, 84 below average.

Average number of deaths was four; Iowa City had three.

We're below the average for cities our size, therefore; the record, none the less, can be improved.

From these statistics, possible solutions to local traffic hazards should be apparent.

Century of Traffic Control

The creation of a Wisconsin state traffic patrol has completed the establishment of a law enforcement agency—either police or highway patrol—by every state in the Union, according to the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

This occurs just 105 years after the famous Texas Rangers became the grand-dad of modern state law enforcement agencies.

That's a century of progress in law enforcement which took a century to complete.

A Man About MANHATTAN

Air Conditioning, Straw Hats, and Shattered Illusions

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sherman Billingsley, the genial Oklahoma refugee who is the genial impresario of the Stork club, spends a cent and a half or so to send me a post card describing the wonders of his new air-conditioning system. During an evening, it filters out of the natural atmosphere more than 150 quarts of water—or, he adds, more liquid than all the customers are consuming during the same period.

Air-conditioning is a fine thing. Nevertheless, it would be nice if everybody would get together on it. The trouble is that nearly every establishment has its own separate air-conditioning system, and no two of them seem to agree on what temperature is right for the so-called human body, with the result that if you chase around much during the day you pass through a variety of atmospheres comparable to that inflicted on a piece of annealing steel.

Outdoors, it's 90. You step into the building lobby, unair-conditioned, and it's 80. You walk into the elevator, which runs between the unair-conditioned offices, and it's 75. You go into the air-conditioned office, and it's down to 65. And you've just been in that atmosphere a couple of hours getting acclimated when it's time to go out to lunch—to some restaurant that has its system down to 50. The only solution seems to be W. C. Fields' classic gag. In one of his shows he played a butcher, and every time he stepped into the refrigerator, he carefully donned a sealskin coat.

This Associated Press building of ours in Rockefeller Center is just a graveyard of shattered illusions. Downstairs there is a restaurant, and the two leading delegations of regular patrons are the AP men and the glamorous Rockettes from the neighboring Radio City Music Hall, who every day dazzle thousands of people from all over the country with their precision dancing.

Every day the Rockettes march into the restaurant, looking exactly like any other 50 girls in the world getting through with a hard day's work, and everybody asks, "Are those the Rockettes?"

And every day the squads of newspapermen amble into the restaurant, looking pretty much like any other group of men getting through the day's work—although many of them are men who have had adventures all over the globe and whose names are famous. And the waitresses remark, "You fellows don't look like newspapermen."

The only answer I can think of is that the waitresses must have been fooled by that old canard of Ben Hecht's, who pictured all reporters in one of his plays as scribes, who went around with a pint of whiskey in one pocket, and a copy of the American Mercury in the other.

If some fellow has a patent on cocoon-straw hats with a blue band, he won't have to work again and his grandchildren probably won't either. Four out of five (well, maybe it's only three out of five) men around town are wearing them.

Also, an unusual number of girls are abroad on the Manhattan streets without hats, a condition which has concerned the hat people who are high-pressuring with the propaganda that "A woman can't look well without a hat." Conversely, the "progressives" are shouting the plausible argument that an attractive coiffure can be as beautiful as anything from milliners can manufacture from cloth. It's total war, and the casualties are legion.

Britain Conquered in Thirty Days

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

WASHINGTON — War Secretary Stimson's astounding suggestion that Great Britain may be conquered within 30 days may have seemed to be part of the administration's campaign to scare the draft bill through congress, but it has well-grounded roots in inside reports. A collective summary of information and opinion from the latest, most reliable and accurate sources abroad (not in any way connected with the war department, but no doubt available to Mr. Stimson) has brought the following diplomatic intelligence to authorities here.

The Germans are going to invade England.

Before they can do it they will have to destroy the effectiveness of the British air force.

To clear the British skies, the Germans will have to deplete their own air force to a point where it will be less than the combined Italian and Russian forces, a prospect they distinctly dislike.

Their air blitz contemplates the use of mustard gas against British landing fields in order to make the airports untenable.

It must strike before October because the weather always has been unfavorable after that.

There will be no moon over England for a period of a week beginning in a few days.

NOTE—Even the best of military authorities are as often wrong as not. Their business is one in which surprise is the rule rather than the exception. But the above, at least represents the best of their calculations now available.

INVASION LOGIC

Their reasoning goes like this: Invasion of England cannot be attempted as long as the British have the plane strength to bomb and machine-gun landing parties. Shallow draft boats and barges in which the Germans would come are extremely vulnerable to air attack, especially machine gunning. Furthermore, the particular areas to be invaded must be thoroughly cleaned out by German bombing before landing can be attempted. The situation, therefore, calls clearly for the type of German preparatory air campaign used in Poland to "neutralize" the Polish air force before the land forces moved in.

How long this "neutralization" would require is a question upon which the experts lack agreement. The Germans have a heavy preponderance in planes. British morale is high. British pilots and planes are superior. Thus the authentic signs only indicate the greatest air battle of all time may now be developing, with arithmetic evidently favoring the Germans, and the incalculable human attributes of sheer British desperation and hope working against them.

NOTE—A long range German-Italian blockade of British sea lifelines, such as Gayda and Berlin press puppets have been suggesting, is regarded everywhere here as sheer nonsense. There are a few good military calculators who believe Hitler will decide against sacrificing the major portion of his air fleet and stall for a break but these are in the minority.

HOPKINS ANGRY

It was no surprise that Farley and Garner, or even Interior Secretary Ickes, were disappointed in varying degrees with what happened in Chicago, but it is something of a stunning suggestion that Commerce Secretary Harry Hopkins, the man who ran the show, has dropped a few weeks in his beard also.

Hopkins' friends know he wanted the job as national chairman, in fact he appears to have had it in his vest pocket until the bad reaction to Chicago events made it necessary for Mr. Roosevelt to choose someone else.

Some of these friends are suggesting Mr. Hopkins was sufficiently angry to have quit the cabinet at one time but that prospect seems to have passed.

Elsie, the Cow, Will Steal the Show

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Well, there's nothing for it. I've got to write about Elsie. I've got to, because the way things are going Elsie is going to steal the picture. Jack Oakie and Kay Francis and the others won't have a chance in "Little Men."

I'll start off by saying Elsie is wonderful, beautiful, and good. She's also the most surprisingly agreeable guest of honor a Hollywood cocktail party ever had.

That's how I'll start off, taking it for granted that you know Elsie is a cow, American Jersey Cattle Club No. 998632 (real name You'll Do Lobelia). Her poise and serenity may be inherent, or may have been developed at the New York World's Fair. Believe me, she needs all the poise and serenity she can muster.

She needs it because the Messrs. Towne and Baker, her movie bosses, will stop at nothing. They didn't hesitate to give her a cocktail party. They gave it at Ciro's, a night spot with a maroon-and-blue decor, silky and satiny, reminiscent of bouidior scenes in romantic French novels.

Elsie arrived in her special truck, its sides modestly emblazoned with her name and the purpose of her visit to Hollywood (something, I hear, to do with a movie). She entered via the rear door, to thwart autograph hunters no doubt, and took her stance in a square of prop glass enclosed in daisy-garlanded rope. Elsie was accompanied by her retinue. This includes her mentor, Mr. Boyce, who trained her from calfhood and reared her horns to symmetry. Also in attendance (for purposes apparently purely decorative) were two gingham milkmaids, Misses Pauline Easterday and Terry Sher, recruited through RKO's casting office and earning $11 a day as photographer-bait for Elsie.

As guests entered they were announced, in stentorian tones by a dress-suited dignitary who turned out, on investigation, to be Hugh Harrison, actor. Simultaneously, the orchestra (which strangely neglected pastoral music throughout the afternoon) toolted a greeting and Elsie toolted her tongue around her copious cud.

Guests saw Elsie in her party clothes, and she was a bovine dream. She wore a daring chequered with flowers, yards of purple and green tulle studded with sequins framing her face softly, she wore a throw-around robe of violet velvet, monogrammed in gold letters. Around her tail was a big pink satin bow, around her neck a garland of metal daisies, on her left front ankle a gold bracelet, with bells. Her shoes were white kid—custom-made and costing $50 a pair, or rather quartet. Costume-designer Eddie Stevenson could take a bow.

Elsie took her Hollywood as it came, unruffled. She never smiled, neither did she yawn, not even when Jack Oakie posed for pictures with the inevitable bucket. Elsie posed graciously with almost everybody, except Kay Francis, who arrived after Elsie had gone home.

America's First Lady Likes His Shoes, and Therein Lies a Tale—

Mrs. Roosevelt and James Fikany, the Shoemaker

By JAMES T. CARTER

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—When Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has time to see James Fikany and when James Fikany has time to see her, she will become the possessor of:

One pair of silver-and-gold evening slippers boasting of a T-strap.

One pair of sport shoes of brown gabardine, trimmed with brown patent leather and equipped with the regulation instep strap.

And her feet will feel fine.

This will be very soon, now, because Mrs. Roosevelt likes Mr.

Fikany's shoes—and therein lies a tale.

The key to this tale is a number: U. S. Patent No. 2,044,751.

Two-score years as a cobbler and the expenditure of his life savings of $90,000 is the reason James Fikany can make Mrs. Roosevelt's feet feel fine. A secondary reason is that Mrs. Fikany had "terrible trouble" with her feet nine years ago.

One day in 1931 Mrs. Fikany came to her husband in his little shoe-making and repair shop in Carbondale, Pa., and said: "Jim, my feet feel awful. Can't you make me a comfortable pair of shoes?"

Mr. Fikany had some other things on his mind—although he was and is always willing to do anything to please Mrs. Fikany, which is nice—but a couple of months later a woman customer entered his shop and sowed the seed of an idea.

"Why can't you make me a shoe with an adjustable arch?" she complained.

Mr. Fikany, (who always looks at a foot before a face), watched her limp out, bit his lip and started thinking. He thought and he thought and finally began work on a little metallic device now known as U. S. Patent No. 2,044,751.

It took the cobbler, now 56, four years to perfect the device that has taken him from his tiny shop to a large shoe factory in Rochester, N. Y., where he plans to turn out 1,500 pairs of Fikany adjustable arch shoes daily with the aid of 300 employees he already has hired.

Four thousand pair already grace and brace the feet of many ladies throughout the land. Mrs. Roosevelt has bought 16 pairs.

The shoemaker, Syrian-born, who began repairing shoes in his native country at the age of 11 and who continued his profession when he came to the United States four years later, told of all this today in his suite at the Hotel McAlpin, where he proudly announced the opening of his factory upstate.

He exhibited his device, which through an intricate sliding system can not only lengthen or shorten the arch of a shoe, but can raise or lower it independently of length—that is, his mechanism can provide a short high arch, a long high arch, a short low arch or a long low arch.

Oh, yes—the first lady wears a size 7 1/4 A.

Dr. Anderson Appears Certain Of All-Star Coaching Position

Iowa Coach Keeps Margin Over Faurot

Has Huge Lead Of Million Points Over Missourian

There appeared little reason to doubt yesterday that Iowa's coach Eddie Anderson was under the wire with enough votes to make him head coach of the College All-Stars, who meet the Green Bay Packers at Soldiers' field, Chicago, August 29.

With four of the stars of his 1939 "Iron Man" eleven named to places on the squad, with three of the men scheduled to compete, Anderson joins the greatest delegation of Hawkeyes ever to belong to any all-star squad. All-American Nile Kinnick, 1939 Captain Erwin Prasse, Buzz Dean and Dick Evans are the Iowans who have been voted to the team, with Prasse not expected to play since he is tied up with professional baseball.

Although the final tabulations will not be released until Wednesday, the lead of nearly a million points Anderson held over his nearest rival shortly before the voting ended Sunday night could easily be considered large enough to see the Iowa mentor through any last minute spurt by Don Faurot of Missouri, the second highest man.

Even a miraculous finish by the Faurot backing couldn't keep Anderson off the staff, for the "Miracle Coach of 1939" was leading all Big Ten competitors by a margin of nearly six to one at the last accounting and, whether he leads the nation or not, one coach will be elected to represent the Big Ten.

The Anderson total as it stood at the last checkup had 972,216 first place, 163,857 second place and 159,706 third place votes for 3,404,068 points, while Faurot, who drew tremendous support throughout the state of Missouri, trailed with 2,436,987 points. Mal Elward of Purdue was second to Anderson in the Big Ten with 575,509 points, while Frank Hood of Rockhurst was second to Faurot for the midwest exclusive of Big Ten.

In the other districts from which coaches will be selected, the races appeared to be toss-ups. Tad Wieman of Yale held but a small lead over Fordham's Jimmy Crowley in the east, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara led Jimmy Phelan of Washington by 250,000 points in the far west and Lowell Dawson appeared to be drawing away from Harry Mehre of Mississippi in the south. None of these candidates, however, appeared likely to endanger Anderson's chances.

Pirates Set Fast Pace Steady Pitching Gets Most Credit In Bucs' Revival

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5 (AP)—Payoff pitching brought the Pittsburgh Pirates home today from their most successful road trip in several years with a record of 10 games won and four lost.

Currently, the Pirates' form is about the best in the majors and is attributed mainly to the steady hurling, in sharp contrast to the sorrowful spectacle presented earlier in the season when the Bucs were staggering under poor pitching.

Rip Sewell, The Plant City, Fla., right-hander, seems to be shaping up as the ace of the fast-developing Pirate hurling staff. He notched three more victories on the eastern trip, including his four-hitter against the Phils yesterday, to bring his triumphs for the season to nine against two losses.

"Fireman" Mace Brown, who several times has been graduated from the bullpen to a starting assignment, likely will matriculate again into a starter as the Pirates open a drive tomorrow to push into the first division. He pitched a three-hitter Saturday.

Other hurlers contributing to the improved game of the Pirates are Johnny Lanning and Danny MacFayden, both of whom have shown flashes of brilliance, and Ken Heintzelman and Dick Lananhan, a pair of steadily improving lefthanders.

Ostermueller Hurls Bosox To 4-1 Victory Over New York

Fritz Allows Seven Bingles

Jimmie Foxx Slams Out 25th Home Run; Henrich Pulls 'Boner'

BOSTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Lefty Fritz Ostermueller, who couldn't get going in the first half of the season, pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4 to 1 victory over the New York Yankees today.

It was his second triumph in four starts within the last two weeks and his third complete game in the same period although he hadn't gone the route before this sudden renaissance.

Ostermueller kept seven hits well scattered, no more than one to an inning, had a shutout until the eighth, when he walked two men and Joe DiMaggio singled one of them home.

Before Henrich's "bonehead" Finney fouled out, Jim Tabor walked, Bob Doerf popped up and Ostermueller singled to left, Tabor stopping at second.

Dominic DiMaggio fled to Henrich, who snared the ball, but let it fall to the ground with the seeming purpose of trying to get two outs. Then he appeared to realize that two outs already had been made, but hoped his momentary catch would be allowed and instead of throwing, he rolled the ball toward the infield.

The umpires ruled there was no catch, however, and Tabor's run counted. During the mixup DiMaggio tried to reach second, but Henrich retrieved the ball and threw to Babe Dahlgren and DiMaggio was run down between first and second to retire the side.

Dodgers Blank Hated Giants In 6-0 Battle

BROOKLYN, Aug. 5 (AP)—To the audible enjoyment of 31,790 happy Flatbushers, the Brooklyn Dodgers humbled their hated rivals, the New York Giants, 6 to 0, tonight behind the six-hit hurling of Whitlow Wyatt.

It was the first time the two teams ever had met at night. With Dixie Walker contributing four hits and scoring three runs, the Dodgers landed on Harry Gumbert for a run in the first frame, piled four across at the expense of Gumbert and Paul (Daffy) Dean in the sixth, and finished up with one in the seventh.

Meantime Wyatt, posting his fourth shut-out and 11th win of the campaign, mowed down Sweet William Terry's Terriers with little trouble. He had only a few moments of anxiety, such as the second inning when Hank Danning led off with a single, and the fourth frame when Burgess Whitehead singled and Danning doubled.

For the second straight game, Ducky Medwick, the Dodgers' $200,000 outfield beauty, was on the sidelines—benched for weak hitting—but his absence wasn't noticeable from the Dodger attack.

The final run came across on singles by Walker and Reiser and Jimmy Wasdell's double.

NO FIGHTS

'Price of Peace' Is $500

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5 (AP)—If Roy Weatherly quits sassing the umpires he'll receive a $500 bonus at the end of the season, the Cleveland News reports today.

The Indians' center fielder was promised the sum with the flat stipulation he doesn't get tossed out of any more games, the newspaper says. Sent to the showers twice this season, Weatherly has been threatened with indefinite suspension by the league if banished from another game.

John Whitehead Hurls No-Hitter Over Detroit

Browns Take 4-0 Victory In Short Game

Loss Drops Bengals Out of League Lead; Win Opener, 9-2

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5 (AP)—Back at their pastime of knocking off the league leaders, the St. Louis Browns used a no-hit no-run pitching performance by Johnny Whitehead to dump the Detroit Tigers today, 4 to 0, in a 5 1/2-inning nitecap of a double-header.

Although they won the opener, 9 to 2, the loss in the second game, which was cut short by rain, forced the Tigers to yield first place to the Cleveland Indians. It was the third time this season that the Browns had knocked a team out of the lead.

They did it first in June when they beat Boston four games in a row. In July, the Browns took two games in succession from Cleveland and the Indians' dropped out of the lead temporarily.

Doing the trick to the Tigers gave the Browns a record of a league leader disposed each of three straight months. Only two men reached first base against Whitehead in Detroit's six turns at bat, Frank Metha getting a base on balls in the third inning and Hank Greenberg being safe on an error in the fourth. Neither advanced to second base.

Whitehead, whom the Browns obtained from the Chicago White Sox last year, was ineffective at the start of this season and was sent to the minors. He came up again two weeks ago.

Walter Judnick hit his 20th home run of the season for the Browns with a man on base in the third inning of the game. The Browns added an error-tainted run in the fourth and another through Tommy Bridges' wildness in the fifth.

Baseball Tragedy Puzzles Fans

Peewee Reese Boasts a Record; Yanks Top League in Boner Plays

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—Baseball people have temporarily quit talking pennants to try to fathom the tragedy of Bill Hershberger. He was the friendliest player we ever knew and a few nights ago when we rode downtown on the subway with him he was cheerful and clowning. Maybe the Reds can win this flag "for Hershberger".

Peewee Reese, Brooklyn's kid shortstop, had one string of 32 games in which he never failed to get on base. When Jim Bloodworth made his major league start as a first baseman for Washington last week he borrowed Hal Trosky's big mitt and liked it so well he coaxed Hal into letting him keep it.

The Philadelphia Athletics will play an extra night game this month. The weather was bad the first time they pitched Cleveland at night in Shibe park, so the American league bosses okayed another night game for the Indians and A's Aug. 28. Next thing you know the A. L. will forget that seven-game limit.

The best way you can tell this year's Yankee team isn't the same old championship club is not through hitting or pitching figures, but through the foolish things the boys do in the field. Like forgetting how many outs have been made in an inning or throwing to wrong bases.

Mel Harder gets 7th victory; Hurls 5-hitter for Indians

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—Little Elizabeth Hicks, 110-pound golfer of Long Beach, Cal., fired a two over par 78 today in the first round of the Women's Western Derby, taking a two-stroke lead on the field of 99 starters.

Miss Hicks, who set a tournament record of 307 in this 72-hole medal play event a year ago, was scrambling all the way today, her shots catching nine traps. She used 38 strokes on the front nine and 40 coming home.

Beatrice Barrett, Minneapolis veteran, and Eleanor Dudley of Chicago, had 84's along with Phyllis Otto, Atlantic, Ia., and Mary Wilder of Chicago.

Pressbox Pickups

This is about a couple of accidents—one of them has happened and the other is supposed to come off next fall.

First mishap, to Orville Fox, Wisconsin guard candidate, cost Coach Harry Stuhldreher one of this year's promising candidates. The accident wasn't especially startling, but Fox's slant on it is. We quote from his letter to Stuhldreher, informing the coach of his present incapacity.

"Six ball games and most of them headliners and I was going to pitch against Whitefish Bay at their high school field last night. For five innings, I held them to a scratch single. With the score 'one-all' in the sixth, I singled through the infield. On a passed ball, I made a 'beeline' for second but, somehow, the ball got there an instant before I did. In the time it takes to make one step traveling at high speed, I saw that there would be no chance of sliding safe. The second baseman knew baseball and was holding his ground.

"A good second baseman covers the base, forcing the runner to hook into the base. I anticipated the play and drove through him and was safe—safe, with the winning run in scoring position. But on that play I broke my left leg. The doctor says I cannot play football this year and that I may not be able even to return to school."

And so the Badgers lose, not merely a player, but a dramatist. The other accident (Glenn Devine please notice) is only promised. W. C. Edson of Storm Lake writes: "The members of the 1900 championship team plan to be present for the homecoming game. We will probably challenge Glenn Devine's 1920 team for a game to be played on the morning of November 2. I note that the university has 21 ambulances. Can you arrange to have all of them there at that time (for Glenn's team)."

Facts and figures may not exactly prove yet that the Dodgers bought a "lemon" in Ducky Medwick, but Ernie Koy has a better batting average with the Cards than Medwick has with Brooklyn. Pitcher Curt Davis, the "ballast" in the trade, seems to be doing the Dodgers more good than Medwick.

So, it's still pretty near an even bet that, even if Medwick isn't a lemon he will be hanging from a tree before fall.

Maid-Rites Trip St. Mary's To Clinch Title

Maid-Rite clinched the junior league softball championship yesterday morning by whipping St. Mary's, 8 to 1. The only chance any team has of tying the Maid-Rite team lies in the protested game played by Racine's and Brown's. If the protest is recognized, Racine's has a chance to finish even up with the Maid-Rites.

Dave Danner, Maid-Rite hurler, was in top form yesterday, allowing only three hits and striking out seven. He was a trifle wild walking seven. Bob Roth led the attack for the winners with two doubles in three trips to the plate.

Wendell L. Willkie Comments on France's Defeat And—

Asserts That Widespread Decentralization of Industry Is Needed for Defense

BY WILLIAM B. ARDERY
DES MOINES, Aug. 5, (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie said today that widespread decentralization of industry was one answer to the country's defense problem and then told a luncheon meeting that "candy stick government" in France had enabled Germany to crush that nation "like an eggshell."

In a day of intense activity, the republican nominee talked farm problems with midwestern agriculture leaders and then said to a crowd gathered at the state capitol: "In the defense program and in the industrial development that must come in connection with that, those who lead the affairs of government must see that many of the plants that will be built will be located in towns like the towns scattered all over the state of Iowa."

resources than the Germans. "Yet France was crushed like an eggshell. Why? Because they had adopted the candy stick theory of government. When a child cries you give him a piece of candy and try to quiet him."

reference—he would seek the views of numerous other persons in the solution of "all the problems I shall approach in the next four years, the next eight years, but not the next 12 years."

"is the type of man who understands the practical problems of industry—the type of man who understands your problems."

There was applause and scattered boos at Willkie's remark. The candidate shook his head and frowned slightly.

Stukas--

Not until we were on the ground could we see the rows of anti-aircraft guns guarding the field or the fighter planes backed under trees.

At a rocket signal six of the planes roared out from shelter. The last was in the air within 50 seconds. We were told pilots in relays sit in six or more of the planes day and night, ready for instant action jobs.

"Our main job," the flight commander explained, "is to accompany bombers which come from farther inland for business over England."

I questioned a young flier about the actual fighting. His comment was: "It's becoming harder and harder to make them (the British) come out and fight. We almost never have dogfights over our side of the channel. We must go over to their side, or well over England, to get them out."

He said he had brought down three of 73 planes credited to his squadron since the war began. I watched the dive bombers in a demonstration. They have sirens attached to each wheel support, operated by tiny propellers. They climbed to 15,000 feet, then screamed down on us making the most horrifying noise I ever heard. The sound swelled as the planes came down until the whole sky seemed filled with it.

The planes pulled out of the dive and went over us at a hedge-clipping elevation, wavering and dodging to show how they evade anti-aircraft fire.

German officers said the Stukas are of tremendous effect because of their extreme accuracy, the awful force with which they hurl their bombs and the "utter demoralization" they cause among troops.

Thirty Stukas in the group we saw claim to have sunk "several times 10,000 tons" of English shipping, and forced the surrender of 18,000 Netherlands troops within an hour near Dortrecht.

Taking off near Ghent with a party of foreign newspaper correspondents we headed for the channel coast northeast of Dunkerque to get as close as possible a view of air operations carried on in the long period of "preliminary attacks" before the long-awaited direct assault on England.

Flying southward along the English channel coast, sometimes over water, sometimes over the shore, we saw ruined Dunkerque from the air for the first time since it was smashed by German dive-bombers and artillery during the removal of the British expeditionary force in the last days of the Battle of Flanders in June.

We cruised in a huge three-motor transport circling over Dunkerque, then continued to the southwest along the coast.

It could only be speculated whether we actually saw the coast of England. Using field glasses I focused on the far horizon in the direction of England and at one time seemed to be able to detect a dark blue line apart from the light mist over the water.

A diligent search of the channel shipping lanes through my glasses failed to discover a single ship afloat. The Germans have said the British are unable to use the channel shipping lanes because raids have made losses too costly, even in guarded convoys.

We did see Dunkerque from 600 to 1,000 feet above. It was a spectacle from a nightmare. Although our plane circled again and again I could not see a solitary individual in the ruins of what once was France's Atlantic City.

Officials Investigating Death Of Youth Found Unconscious Near Williamsburg Saturday

Seek Some Clues For Coroner's Jury; Inquest Date Not Set

No date for an inquest into the death of Samuel Fleming, 16, farm hand who was found severely injured along a country road near Williamsburg early Saturday morning, had been set late yesterday. Iowa county officials, however, were investigating the case and indicated that an inquest will be held as soon as some sort of clue on which a coroner's jury may work is found.

Fleming, the son of R. E. Fleming, Johnson county farmer living eight miles south of Oxford, died at University hospital in Iowa City at 12:20 p.m. Sunday. He was brought to the local hospital by Iowa county Sheriff Milford Engelbert Saturday morning after he was found unconscious along the road.

Brain Injury
The youth died, officials said, of a severe brain injury. Other injuries sustained were extensive bruises and friction burns on both arms and the chest as well as around the head. The blow on the head which resulted in death was on the right temple.

Iowa county officials yesterday were investigating the possibility of murder as well as the death being the result of a hit-and-run driver. No motives for the former theory could be advanced, however.

According to friends and Fleming's father, the boy had no enemies and he had no money at the time he was injured. Friday night he attended the Williamsburg "Fun Days" with his sister, Loretta, 18, and her boy friend. She last saw him about 11:30 p.m. at which time he borrowed 50 cents from her, authorities said.

Last Movements
At 1:30 a.m. Saturday he talked to the Williamsburg town marshal at Williamsburg. This is the last definite evidence of his movements early Saturday morning although a motorist reported seeing a boy of Fleming's description walking on a road out of Williamsburg shortly after 1:30 a.m. Another farmer living two miles east of Williamsburg was awakened about 2 a.m. Saturday by his barking dogs and saw a person walking along the road answering to the description of the youth.

He was found lying partly in a ditch about four miles east of Williamsburg about 6 a.m. Saturday by Elton Stohman, Iowa county road worker who was operating a maintainer along the road. The boy was found near what is known as Harrington's corner. Sheriff Engelbert was notified and he brought the youth to the Iowa City hospital.

He was walking to the home of his uncle, E. W. Wallace, where he worked on the farm.

Attended Carnival
Authorities said that when the boy went to Williamsburg Friday evening he had about six or seven dollars with him. He was playing the various games at the carnival in Williamsburg, but apparently had won nothing, they said.

Wounds on the body were confined to the upper portions, no wounds being found below the chest. This factor leads authorities to believe that the youth may have been struck by a hit-and-run driver, probably a truck and trailer because of the location of the wounds. If struck by an auto, they said, wounds would have been lower on the body.

Sheriff Engelbert said the friction burns on the youth's arms and chest might have been caused by sliding in the gravelled road but he did not believe that the blow on the head was the result of a fall.

'Foul Play'
The youth's father advanced the theory that Fleming may have been riding on the side of a car and was struck by another car traveling in the opposite direction. It was the opinion of the Iowa county sheriff last night that some one has knowledge of the accident or murder and is refusing to talk because of fear or because he may be guilty of criminal negligence. The boy's father did say yesterday that he thought there was some sort of "foul play" connected with the death.

Fleming is survived by his father, six sisters and one brother, all older. The family moved to Johnson county in 1936 coming from St. Louis. Mrs. Fleming died that spring.

The body was taken Sunday to the Jones mortuary in Williamsburg. Funeral service will be held this morning at the Windham church southeast of Williamsburg and burial will be in the Frytown cemetery.

The coroner's jury which has been appointed to investigate the case upon discovery of any clues, consists of Oran Peterson, Bert Yerian and Thomas McDonough.

Willkie Talks To Newsmen Asserts He Would Approach Problems By Reading, Studying

By DON McCLURG
DES MOINES, Aug. 5 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Wendell Willkie appeared fresh and buoyant at Des Moines yesterday despite a "vacation" so active that newspapermen almost invariably enclosed the word with quotation marks.

His dark blue suit had wrinkles in expected places, but it didn't look as if he had slept in it to make it seem rumpled. Characteristically, Willkie's locks usually dangled down to his eyebrow. (A note in the New Yorker magazine reports that Willkie has his hair trimmed every two weeks, however.)

Lamoyne (Lam) Jones, Willkie's press secretary, has a hair-muss that rivals his chief's.

The morning conference with farm leaders and the subsequent press conference were delayed about 45 minutes by a session with newsreel photographers. Willkie shook hands (with almost anyone, it seemed), sweating under high-powered lights. Between shots the G. O. P. nominee's expression became serious but not bored.

At his noon press conference Willkie said that he intended to approach all problems in the same way he did the farm problem: by reading and studying a lot to "saturate myself" with the various theories, and then by talking with the "men who do the jobs" in order to arrive at practical conclusions.

There was no attempt at agreement among yesterday's spokesmen, Willkie said, because the meeting's purpose was to air all views, not to draft a program then and there. He referred to the "stimulating clash of intellect with no holds barred." Willkie did not present his views. He listened.

The press was not admitted to the morning farm conference. While newspapermen cooled their heels in an adjoining room, they had a chance to observe the speed with which the Willkie staff produced "handouts," mimeographed copies of statements Willkie made for the newsreels and endorsements by farm leaders. Four sets of "handouts" were released during the morning.

Albert Schmidt Enlists Friday In Marines

Capt. John F. Talbot, officer in charge of the United States marine corps recruiting station at Kansas City, Mo., announced yesterday that Albert Schmidt, son of Albert and Angie Schmidt, New Burkley apartments in Iowa City, was enlisted in the United States marine corps last Friday. The announcement also said that Schmidt was on that day transferred to the marine corps base at San Diego, Cal., where he will undergo recruit training before assignment to duty at one of the marine corps stations on foreign shore or in the United States or aboard one of the ships of the United States fleet. Captain Talbot said that Schmidt will have the opportunity of enrolling in the marine corps institute and studying one of the many courses offered.

O. A. Byington Elected Head

Chosen President At Meeting of Lucas Memorial Association

Atty. O. A. Byington was elected president of the Governor Robert Lucas Memorial association at an organization meeting held last evening in the Senate chamber of Old Capitol. Atty. George D. Koser was elected vice-president, William T. Hageboeck, secretary, and Thos. Farrell, treasurer.

The executive council of 25 members elected at last night's meeting is as follows: Atty. Byington, Atty. Koser, Mr. Hageboeck, Mr. Farrell, Prof. W. J. Petersen, Mrs. Mildred W. Pelzer, Myron J. Walker, Dr. E. J. Anthony, W. W. Mercer, Lee Nagle, Dr. J. A. Swisher, Atty. Edward F. Rate, Mrs. Jessie B. Gordon, Atty. Edward W. Lucas, Harry Bremer, Atty. Ingalls Swisher, Mrs. A. J. Cox, Mrs. S. E. Slemmons, Mrs. George Stoddard, Mrs. George S. Carson, Mrs. Erling Thoen, Frank J. Krall, Atty. Emil Trott and Atty. William R. Hart, all of Iowa City, and R. M. Work of North Liberty.

Honorary Directors
A list of honorary directors will be announced later which will include members in Johnson county and throughout Iowa.

Attorneys Byington, Koser, Lucas and Rate along with Leroy S. Mercer, Rep. William F. Morrison and Mrs. Pelzer were chosen as a committee to go before the interim committee for the purpose of buying the Robert Lucas home at 727 Switzer avenue by the state as a shrine to be maintained by the local organization which met last night.

The local committee has secured a $5,000 option on the house and the four acres of land surrounding it to be made into a state historical landmark.

Representatives of the state interim committee and of the conservation commission who visited the Lucas homestead in June expressed favorable opinions toward its purchase, but the interim committee deferred action at a recent meeting when it was scheduled to act on its purchase by the state.

Three types of membership may be obtained in the local organization—regular membership with yearly dues of $1, family or sustaining membership at $5 a year and life membership without dues at $50, according to Mrs. Thoen, chairman of the membership committee.

Auto Thief Arrested Here

Stop Bettendorf Youth In Iowa City Charging Several Auto Thefts

Iowa highway patrolmen yesterday afternoon returned a youth giving his name as James Golbski, 17, of Bettendorf to Muscatine where he is wanted for theft of two automobiles in Muscatine county.

The youth was arrested by Iowa City police here yesterday morning driving a car which police said he had stolen in West Liberty after driving there from Muscatine in another stolen car.

Chief of Police Frank J. Burns said yesterday that the boy confessed to the two thefts and a third in Eldora. Local police had been notified to be on the lookout for the youth driving the stolen car after West Liberty police reported a hit-and-run driver headed toward Iowa City.

The car driven by the youth when he was arrested here belonged to James White of Iowa City. It was stolen from where it was parked near a West Liberty church where White was attending a funeral.

Southeastern England on Guard

Hundreds of tanks are rushed to the heavily fortified coast of southeastern England as Great Britain girds for a life and death struggle with Germany, expected to make first attempts at invasion in this area. Top, more heavy tanks arrive in the danger zone. Bottom, men of a heavy artillery unit on guard against any blitzkrieg invasion.

Girl Drowns In Big Dipper

Marilyn Blair, 12, Of Fairfield Drowns After Wading Too Far

Marilyn Blair, 12, of Fairfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verle Blair, was drowned in the Big Dipper swimming pool at the City park Sunday afternoon.

The girl, who was on a picnic with her family at the park, went swimming with her sisters. Two of the girls walked into deep water and one was pulled out. When Marilyn failed to come out, the smaller girl told her mother who was standing nearby. Mrs. Blair called the lifeguard.

The girl's body was found after she had been at the bottom of the pool for nearly 15 minutes. Local firemen, police and County Coroner George D. Callahan worked on the girl for more than an hour in an attempt to revive her. Her father told Dr. Callahan that she could not swim.

prove this legislation." Wheeler went on to assert that most of "emergency" had been created by "propagandists," who wanted to frighten the people and the senate "into giving dictatorial powers to some one."

"I can see an emergency and the only emergency I can see is that the election is coming on," Wheeler shouted.

Vote 12 to 3
The conscription bill went through the military committee on a vote of 12 to 3. The opposition votes were cast by Senators Johnson (D-Colo.), Thomas (R-Ida) and Lundeen (FL-Minn).

Those voting for the measure were: Sheppard, Reynolds (D-NC), Thomas (D-Utah), Minton (D-Ind), Lee (D-Okla), Hill (D-Ala), Chandler (D-Ky), Smathers (D-NJ), Austin (R-Vt), Schwartz (D-Wyo), Gurney (R-SD) and Holman (R-Ore). Senator Bridges (R-NH) was absent but asked that he be recorded in favor of the measure.

Late in the day, the committee minority issued a report on the bill saying "regimentation of American life" as provided in the measure "in peace time is abhorrent to the ideals of patriotic Americans and is utterly repugnant to American democracy and American traditions."

Voluntary Enlistments
It urged voluntary enlistments for a one-year period, with army pay increased from $21 to a point not less than the $30 monthly paid to CCC enrollees.

"No proof or evidence was offered," the report said, "that all of the personnel needs of the army cannot be obtained on a voluntary basis in the traditional American peace-time manner. . . . Voluntary enlistment should be given a thorough trial before any Hitlerized method of peace-time conscription, with its far-reaching implications of militarism and imperialism, is adopted as a permanent policy in America."

"After a thorough trial, if the voluntary enlistment plan fails in part or in whole, then before

Sample Blood Returns Here

Blood Will Undergo Tests After Journey To Coast and Back

The first blood samples from University hospital sent to Oakland, Cal., by United Air Lines Mainliner Saturday arrived back in Iowa City last night on the eastbound Mainliner.

After flying some 3,444 miles to Oakland and return, the blood is now undergoing various chemical tests to determine the effect of the trip by air on the blood.

A part of the special project assigned to University hospital, blood will be sent out on planes, trains, buses and trucks to determine transportability on various means of transportation for different distances and in various climates.

Dr. E. L. DeGowin, chairman of the blood research work for the army at University hospital, said last night that the blood would undergo its first test immediately upon its arrival in Iowa City with others to follow. Results of these will not be revealed until other tests under various conditions of transportation have been made, he said.

More blood will be sent later this week after any faults found in the first shipment have been corrected. The bottles of blood are packed in ice in a specially constructed insulated box. After the 33-hour trip of the first samples to Oakland there was still ice in the box.

Invasion--

ed during this week of high tides and dark nights, would be beaten off. The help for England he urged could not possibly be made available to participate in the defense of Britain for some weeks, yet he expressed confidence that as a stop-gap until Britain's own destroyer program reaches full production within "a few months," the American destroyers would be of invaluable assistance. They could be used, he said, to "convoy merchant ships, to escort warships and hunt submarines and to repel invasion."

"By sending help to the British we can still hope with confidence to keep the war on the other side of the Atlantic," Pershing said. And in so saying he very definitely indicated the opinion that it was the German air and sea blockade, not invasion, England had most to fear. Whether that is a correct estimate of the situation, so far as nazi war plans are concerned, we may be decided within this week.

Suggest Invasion
Several factors would seem to suggest invasion. Hitler himself is back in Berlin from a week of recuperation on his Bavarian mountain top, presumably ready to take the field with his armies if an attack is ordered. After this week the next high-tide period will occur so close to winter that launching a major offensive would be unthinkable. Weather records for the North sea and English channel give them an unsavory reputation before and after the September equinox. Beach landings for troops, guns, tanks and other heavy equipment would be a serious undertaking in rough seas.

Tides Important
And it is beach landings that make the tides important. Much of England's eastern coast shelves away to deep water gradually. At high tide, light draft craft or barges carrying tanks or guns could be run well up on the beach for unloading quickly on firm sands instead of the softer bottom farther out that might prove quick-sand.

Hitler recently told the reichstag that the German invasion of Norway was the most "daring" military adventure in history. Attempted invasion of England, unless Britons had first been brought close to despair by bombing and starvation, would make the Norwegian campaign a minor operation by contrast. The elements argue for it; but every rule of military produce against it.
