Two Important Projects Enhance Preparedness Program Here; Others May Be on the Way— S.U.I. Departments Line Up With Defense Preparations

BY GENE CLAUSSEN
Associated Press Correspondent
The University of Iowa is wasting no time in setting its departments in line with the national defense program, which is daily gathering momentum and which may affect thousands of college students either directly or indirectly this fall.

Other departments also have offered their facilities for student training in defense directions. The college of engineering and the mathematics department have already begun preparations to alter their courses for the fall term in this direction.

The government recently called back 10 of the students who finished their primary flight training this spring to take advanced work. Forty-five men are engaged in the summer primary course. It is indicated that upon completion of the advanced training the students will have an opportunity to enter the regular army flying corps training schools.

University hospital, which has gained national prominence for its work on blood storage, is one of four institutions named by the national research council of the army to carry out research work relating to the storage of blood for transfusions.

Modern mechanized warfare has created new problems for mechanical units—one of them the task of keeping medical assistance abreast of rapidly advancing troops in scattered regions. If the experimental work here is successful, one of the most serious problems will be solved.

Prof. H. L. Rietz, head of the mathematics department, expects a large increase in the number of students taking trigonometry and college algebra this fall. Navigation, exterior ballistics and astronomy courses are also expected to receive enrollment boosts due to their intimate relationship with military science.

Where Has the Week Gone?

A Summary of the Big and Little Events of Seven Days

The Battle Lines Lengthened

So swiftly do events happen in this crazy sphere of ours, we no longer dare contemplate of a Sunday morning what the next Saturday will mean to us—the world—from Adolf Hitler, star performer in the current footlight parade of events, to Jim Brown, the corner druggist of any small American town.

We've stopped calculating in terms of the number of days until Christmas or who's going to win the national league pennant, to a certain extent. We're thinking in terms of battleships and Garand rifles and the distance from Buenos Aires to Havana.

It's a bad sign.

The week opened on a threat of invasion that has hung over major sections of the world since way before last September. England fought off increasingly greater numbers of nazi planes through a long seven days. Churchill warned the house of commons a week ago that an attempt to land troops on the British Isles "still is imminent."

An attempt to land troops on the British Isles STILL is imminent. Now's the time, the strategists tell us. The tides, the moon and the weather are on Hitler's side.

But never has the distance from Calais to London seemed quite so great to nazi officialdom. It's growing greater.

Foggy Week in Budapest

The fog in the Balkans got foggier. Fears of communist disturbances in Hungary and of Hungarian disorders in Rumanian-held Transylvania led to preparations for an attempt on the part of Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania to settle their boundary differences to suit the Benito-Adolf interests.

Rome circles hinted the axis had asked Turkey how much she thought of Britain—surely not as much as she thought of the axis.

Russia quietly adopted Estonia into the soviet fold. Such moves have counteracted every German seizure of territory. Next please?

The War for an Empire

While invasion loomed over Britain, Italian troops marched into Egypt and British Somaliland, headed for the Suez canal, vital lifeline of Britain's empire.

And Britain once again held out the plum of independence and more-than-dominion status to India for support of "the world cause which is at stake." The vast reaches of fabulously wealthy India were silent. There was that feeling: "Let's leave. This is where we came in."

Far Eastern Rumblings

Commentators told the world the closing of the Burma road would not whip China, hinted that Japan will seek a temporary peace.

Japan herself indicated she would throw great resources into a plunge toward the Dutch Indies and French Indo-China when nazi parachute troops had turned Britain's full resources to the home front.

The march of fascism continued and spread.

Cudahy, the British And Belgium's Plight

WASHINGTON—Grim British frowns backstage have stopped cold, and silently, here the plea of American Ambassador Cudahy for shipment of our food surpluses into occupied European areas facing winter starvation.

It is a subject upon which neither British nor American officialdom likes to talk. No doubt exists about Cudahy telling the truth. France may be able barely to squeeze through a hard cold season without much outside help, but Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway will suffer fatally. In normal times, these four must import not only the grains, but fats for themselves and fodder for their livestock. They cannot live without imports. German occupation has cut them from their source of supplies and Germany has no substitute supplies to offer them.

NO CRITICS OF BRITAIN

Yet there is little criticism of the British position on top here. The British position is not regarded as inhuman by those who know the facts. British lives also are involved.

It is not merely that every sack of American flour which goes into Belgium will relieve Germany as much as the suffering Belgians. The Germans, of course, will not take the flour for their own use (unless they need it and apparently they do not) but its arrival will relieve them of the responsibility of keeping the Belgians alive. Hungry nations will be troublesome prisoners and improve British chances as much as the fighting of British armed forces.

The responsibility is solely Germany's. Hitler could solve the problem simply by restoring the nations he seized to an independent status thus permitting them to trade with the outside world. They could sell their own goods in exchange for food and fodder.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

He's a Second Will Rogers

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Harry Carey has the same sort of homespun, ingratiating appeal that made the late Will Rogers so beloved. If you called Harry Carey a second Will Rogers I think he would resent it. He isn't trying to be another Will Rogers. He sells an entirely different brand of peanuts. But they had a lot in common, especially in their speech. I mean, Harry talks out of his heart, and that is the way Will talked too. Harry likes to tell stories, and to discuss crops, and he can tell you all about a new antidote for the hoof and mouth disease, if you own stock or care about such things.

You sometimes think of a leather-skinned, bronzed cowhand sitting on a fence whittling a stick when you think of Carey. That is because he owns a ranch, and because he can really ride, and because he has played so many cowboy parts in the movies.

But actually, he is a former New York lawyer. Actually, he used to play football for N. Y. U. He is up in Maine now. He and his son "Dobe" are playing father-and-sons in "Ah Wilderness" in Skowhegan. He says he wants to play on Broadway before he does any more work in pictures.

That picture work brought out one of the countless stories that Carey can tell, if you pin him in the corner.

This story happened in Africa, where MGM had sent Carey and so many others after the story that is now cinema history, "Trader Horn." Originally, it was to be a silent. They had walled in the jungles and parched and thirsted until they began to think that if they ever got back to civilization they would never leave it again.

But there came a cable from MGM, with a change in plans. "Trader Horn" was to be a talkie, after all. "Cabling dialogue," the studio advised them.

In one of the scenes, as Carey recalls, he was in a canoe being paddled up a river by a group of natives. The lush foliage of the jungle was on every side. Monkeys screamed in the branches above.

Carey was supposed to be giving some confidential information to one of the chiefs. . . As he voiced his lines, the sound engineer said, "Make that a little louder, Harry." Carey repeated the scene. . . "Louder," said the sound-man. . . Again Carey went through the scene, with the cameras grinding and the microphones picking up his words. . . "Louder, louder!" screamed the sound engineer. "You aren't talking loud enough."

This puzzled Carey. He was supposed to be whispering confidential information, but was almost screaming.

Even the natives knew something was wrong. Finally they went ashore and built a camp and cooked dinner, and while they were eating the doctor who was with the group on location yelled something to the sound engineer. The man made no response. Everybody looked up. The doctor led the sound man into a tent. A few minutes later they came out, the doctor laughing and the engineer grinning sheepishly.

They were in Africa, remember. Mindful of the perils of jungle fever, the sound engineer had been barricading himself by taking 25 or 30 grains of quinine a day. As a consequence he had become temporarily deaf.

BULLITT MAYOR OF PARIS—

Bill Bullitt, the American ambassador to lost France, is telling it only where he knows it will not be repeated, but he was mayor of Paris for three days. Fear of diplomatic complications has caused his caution about disclosing what is probably as unique a job as a foreign diplomatic emissary of this country has performed.

When the French government departed just before the arrival of the Germans, they asked Bullitt to take charge and run the city to prevent disorder. He was actually in control of both the police and fire departments for three days before the Germans were able to take over. Apparently he was a pretty good mayor. Looting was held at a minimum.

Afterward at Vichy, the new French-fascist government chief, Petain, personally thanked the ambassador for his work.

From the incident springs Bullitt's fair-minded attitude toward the Petain government. Since his return his private comments about the menace of communism and democratic corruption in France necessitating some such action, has caused the new deal leaning group to turn strongly upon him. He has become a whipping boy for the same set of which he formerly was the darling.

LEGITIMATE THEFT—

Pictures are coming through from Berlin to verify Cudahy's additional compliment to the complete order which Hitler is maintaining in the seized nations, but they do not give the whole picture. German soldiers are shown buying French cigarettes, for instance, and paying for them, instead of stealing them in accordance with old custom. But what the pictures do not show is that the soldiers are paying in money that is not truly money. The Germans are issuing special kinds of marks for use in occupied zones, marks which do not represent any value upon German books in Berlin. In effect, they are not marks at all, merely receipts.

When peace is finally established, Berlin will decide the value of these receipts. It is no secret that Hitler intends to throw them back upon the occupied governments as part of the cost of occupation. Thus what looks orderly to the eye is really just a deft and orderly theft, camouflaged by economic ramifications.

THE EARLY BIRD—

Heavy taffy pulling with Louis Johnson by a White House squadron failed initially to bring the bounced ex-assistant war secretary back into the fold. Presidential Press Secretary Stephen T. Early who has been known to lasso a recalcitrant across the continent with one swing of the taffy, went to San Francisco for Johnson and spent an entire day in the St. Francis hotel sticking him with arguments that he should not go away mad.

Johnson went home to West Virginia to think it over, will probably see the president next week, and get a better job than the one previously offered.

And 'The Villain Still Pursued Her'

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — "The Great McGinty." Written and directed by Preston Sturges. Principals: Brian Donlevy, Muriel Angelus, Akim Tamiroff, Allyn Joslyn, William Demarest, Louis Jean Heydt, Steffi Duna.

Fresh in treatment and timely in theme, "The Great McGinty," tells the story of a city bum who got in with a crooked political machine and rose, by logical if unconventional processes to be governor of a state.

Dan McGinty (Donlevy) came from a breadline to earn a few bucks voting, at $2 per vote. He voted so industriously that the Boss (Tamiroff) saw a future for him. He was as tough as the Boss, and took no back talk.

Pretty soon Dan was a city slicker, and ripe for the mayoralty—on the reform ticket. To win women's votes, they figured, he had to have a wife, and there was a nice girl (Angelus) who didn't mind marrying him on a platonic basis. He fell for the dame and vice versa, and then when he won the governorship she talked him into trying to be honest. It was fatal.

That's how you get the story as Big Dan, now a barkeep in a tropic joint, tells it to a torrid rhumba canteen (Duna) and a suicide-bent youngster (Heydt) who had been dishonest for "one crazy minute" just as Dan for one crazy minute had been honest.

There are no big names in the cast, but there's more good acting than in a raft of epics. The Angelus girl is strikingly good. Donlevy is a riot, Tamiroff and Demarest as the politicians are perfect. But the real star is Sturges, who wrote the story and directed the picture (his first) to bring out every laugh, every satirical jibe, and every story value.

"Queen of Destiny." Anna Neagle, Anton Walbrook, C. Aubrey Smith. Directed by Herbert Wilcox.

As in "Victoria the Great," Miss Neagle again triumphs in a characterization of the queen who gave her name to a golden era of British Empire progress.

Not a "plotted" movie, but rather an episodic and authentic account of outstanding events in Victoria's reign, the film is impressive for its pageantry and performances. The young queen's romance with Albert (Walbrook), his wise counsel through their married life until his death, make the more interesting portions.

Done in color, in England, with the royal castles at the film's disposal, it is an interesting contribution to movie biography.

"The Villain Still Pursued Her." Hugh Herbert, Alan Mowbray, Nita Louise, Buster Keaton, Joyce Compton, Richard Cromwell, Margaret Hamilton, Diane Fisher.

Based on a century-old play, "The Fallen Saved," and played straight, this is a novelty which doesn't quite come off. The audience is invited to hiss the villain and cheer the virtuous, just as in various stage presentations re-creating the lush over-acting and scenery-chewing of that period.

But Things Happened There

The usual comeback to that remark is "it isn't the heat, it's the humidity," and usually senators and the representatives and politicians and lobbyists add to that: "and aren't we glad we're not in Washington!" But during this August they are in Washington, and they're accomplishing things in spite of the sultry summer heat of the nation's capital.

This situation, unheard of since world wars, arises out of a unanimous desire to protect this America from the more disastrous effects of the conflagration in Europe. Legislators are striving to build up and man the armed forces of the United States as a bulwark against what has become a real threat of invasion.

The senate, after a hot debate marked by cracked tempers and personal exchanges, finally approved and sent to the house a bill granting to the president the power to call the national guard to active service.

Secretary of War Stimson ordered a 65 per cent rise in production at six United States arsenals, and authorized three shifts a day at the plants and the hiring of additional employees. Largest of the arsenals affected is the Rock Island arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., which employs 5,500 men.

blitzkrieg by air and by sea that Hitler has promised for Britain.

Matching Brother Diplomat James Cromwell, former minister to Canada, for indiscretion, United States Ambassador to Belgium John Cudahy was reported to have told newspapermen in England that the conduct of German troops in Holland was admirable, in fact, better than that of many American soldiers he could remember. Ambassador Cudahy's remarks aroused the ire of his chiefs in the state department, caused much resentment in London.

The implication that the British blockade would cause the starvation of 8,000,000 Belgians this winter was coldly received in Britain and was answered by the statement that the blockade would not be lifted.

The Political Front

Amid speeded defense activity the political campaign of this presidential year was not forgotten. G. O. P. Candidate Wendell Willkie passed the most active "vacation" in history with a massive farm conference in Des Moines and by sailing into the machine background of President Roosevelt's democratic party. Willkie charged Roosevelt of catering to the odoriferous organizations of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Boss Kelly of Chicago and other noted political machines. Newly appointed democratic chairman Edward Flynn, accused of belonging to this class, answered in kind.

Candidate Roosevelt, meanwhile, limited his campaigning to conferences with Postmaster General James A. Farley and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace of Iowa, his running-mate. Most significant result of the conferences so far evident is the remark of Roosevelt that he hoped to resume with Wallace that old, old argument—Dutchess county versus Iowa corn—for another four years.

Ships for British Children

Most heart-warming of the news emanating from Washington was the legislation approved by the house amending the neutrality act to permit refugee children from Europe to come to the United States on American ships. Americans are more than willing to risk the sinking of a ship flying the United States flag if by so doing they can spare the children of Great Britain the horrors of the

Movie Colony Influences Latest Painting by Grant Wood

Grant Wood's first visit to Hollywood inspired this latest painting (upper left) titled "Sentimental Ballad." Brought to the movie colony on a commission to paint any scene or character during the actual filming of the Eugene O'Neill war story, "The Long Voyage Home," the noted artist was impressed with one of the closing scenes depicting seven sailors on shore leaving singing sentimental songs in a Limehouse pub. The seven actors posed for him on the Walter Wanger lot in Hollywood and the artist completed the painting in his studio in Iowa City. It is the first time that Grant Wood has painted seven portraits in one canvas. The painting, which is owned by Walter Wanger, is one of a collection completed by nine artists simultane-

Baby Vevia's Career Began in a Stove Oven

The Amazing Story of a Two-Months-Old Baby and a Capable Woman

By JACK B. KRUEGER, Associated Press Staff Writer

VAN, Van Zandt, Tex., Aug. 10 (AP)—Vevia Marie Camper, two months old, spent the first night of her premature life in a cook stove oven and wears a doll dress 22 years old. But if she draws into her infant soul nothing more than a spark from her guardian angel and namesake, nothing the years may bring can ever defeat her. Here is the story of Vevia Marie, and it also is the story of Mrs. Vevia Swinney, 45: Two months ago next week, in a tiny three-room farm house on a sandy road not far from Van, this infant girl came into the world—three months ahead of time. She weighed two and a half pounds. Mrs. Tommie Camper, Vevia's mother, is Mrs. Swinney's second cousin and has six other children, the oldest 13. The father did not have a WPA job but hasn't now, their eighth child died. Dr. James Montgomery despaired of keeping Vevia alive. He knew the chances were one in a thousand. Mrs. Swinney, standing at the bedside, asked if she might take care of the baby. She ordered someone to build a fire in the kitchen stove. Then she placed the babe in the oven, cradled on a pillow. Next to the pillow she put a milk pan of steaming water to keep the oven moist. Every 30 minutes through that night and until 3 o'clock the next afternoon Vevia Swinney fed her charge—three drops of sugar water from a dropper. With the sun still at full strength, Mrs. Swinney carried her meager burden over the sandy hill the half mile to her home, its unpainted three rooms squatting next a cotton patch. On a little iron bed the baby was laid. Three quart bottles of hot water and fraying blankets were fashioned into Vevia Marie's second makeshift incubator. Day by day the baby grows stronger, now weighing three pounds two ounces. She is fed

A Deer It Almost Bags Driver In Hollywood

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Violet Leavy got her deer today on the first day of the season—in front of the Walt Disney studio. For a time it was a question whether Mrs. Leavy would get the deer or the deer would get Mrs. Leavy. The two-year-old doe hurled itself into Mrs. Leavy's automobile as she drove past the studio, smashed the machine's hood and windshield and its own rear legs. Park officials put the animal out of its misery.

'Hawkeye' Has Birthday

American Dictionary Lists Nickname Origin For State of Iowa

"Hawkeye," nickname for the University of Iowa or any Iowan, reaches its ninety-fifth birthday this year, according to the 10th section of the American English dictionary, now being compiled at the University of Chicago. The 10th section of the dictionary, beginning with "goldenseal" and ending with "holler" was completed this week. The dictionary is under the direction of Sir William Craigie, co-editor of the Oxford English dictionary and Prof. James R. Hulbert of the English department at Chicago university. It includes words invented in America and those which have acquired new meanings in this country. "Hawkeye" was first recorded in "Cincinnati Miscellany" in 1845, the dictionary reveals, quoting a sentence from the publication: "The inhabitants of Iowa are called Hawkeyes." First reference to the "Hawkeye State," according to the dictionary editors, was in 1859, when Harper's magazine asserted that "The Solons of the Hawk-eye State were not all in the Legislature of 1851." Another early reference was in Moore's "Songs of Soldiers," published in 1861. A line in one of the songs was "We have come from the prairies of the young Hawk-eye State."

Our Home Town

BE A PARTIZAN

BY CHARLES BECKMAN

In this country, the presidential election, there is a duty owed by you to America. It is a duty, not only to vote, but also to influence as many people as you can, to vote YOUR WAY. And this is true, no matter what your political belief may be. If, on their records for honesty and disinterested patriotism, if on their DEEDS, not merely their expressed opinions, you believe that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace promise so much to America that even the third term tradition should be thrown into the discard, get out and hustle for them and swing just as many votes as you can for them. They're apt to need those votes. If, on the other hand, you have become convinced that heavy spending and increasing debt point to disaster, that this great business enterprise of the United States needs a powerful and competent business executive at its helm, instead of a politician, that what we need is to "swap horses" if we are ever to get across the river of doubt and distrust and depression, then your duty is to convince as many people as you can, that they should earnestly support Mr. Willie and Mr. McNary. This is no time for shilly-shallying. It is a time for patriotic partisanship. Make up your mind which man can do the most for AMERICA—not merely which promises the most for YOU—but the most for AMERICA—and then get out and work for him. Let's get the whole subject thrashed out thoroughly. Next week Mr. Beckman of the Beckman Funeral Home will comment on Women in Business.

Helen Jacobs Reaches End Of the Trail

Alice Marble Beats Ex-National Champ In Straight Sets

BY BILL WHITE
 RYE, N. Y., Aug. 10, (AP)—The end of the trail came today for Helen Jacobs, four-time national champion, and one of the few women believed capable of extending Alice Marble, queen of the world's tennis courts.

Her game ready and her strategy carefully planned, she took the field against Alice, hoping to end the ruthless domination of the blonde Californian but Alice won with ridiculous ease—6-1, 6-0.

Third Straight Title
 That gave the girl who hasn't been beaten since the semi-finals at Wimbledon in 1938, her third straight eastern grass court tennis championship, a margin of four matches in the six times the two bitter rivals have met—and left her atop her field by a margin as wide as any champion ever enjoyed.

In gaining the trophy—one of tennis' most coveted possessions—Alice lost only one set, and that to Pauline Betz, another coast girl. The 32-year-old Miss Jacobs, who planned to keep the ball right at Alice's feet all day, couldn't give her strategy an airing. Marble was on top of the match all the way, running Miss Jacobs dizzy, getting her out of position, forcing her to shoot hurriedly, and breaking her heart by picking up spurts of white dust as her drives hit the baselines.

Never in Doubt
 Seven times Miss Jacobs forced the games to deuce, but never once was the outcome in doubt. In the day's other headliner, national champion Bobby Riggs was far from good—but even then he was far better than Henry Prusoff, winning 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 in a thoroughly uninteresting semi-final struggle.

The victory sent Riggs into tomorrow's final against Don McNeill, Oklahoma City's national clay court and intercollegiate champion. Gardner Mulloy and Prusoff defeated Charles Matman and Bob Harman, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 in one semi-final doubles match while McNeill and Frankie Parker took care of the veteran duo of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, in the opener.

Giants Win Gumbert Shuts Out Phillies, 1-0

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10 (AP)—Harry Gumbert of the New York Giants was the victor, 1 to 0, in a rattling good pitcher's duel with old Si Johnson of the Phillies today.

Though he didn't strike out a man, Gumbert allowed only five hits and supplied the winning run himself when he doubled in the third inning, was sacrificed to third and scored on Joe Moore's long fly.

Feder Picks Conn to Decision Pastor As Principals Ignore Other's Chances

BOB PASTOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Although you'd never know it to listen to 'em Billy Conn and Bob Pastor tangle Tuesday night in what shapes up as the classic heavyweight boxing show since Tommy Loughran was dotting "is" with his left jab.

From talking to the two principals in the Polo Grounds battle, you get the idea that to each the other guy doesn't mean any more than the color of his shirt. Each is ignoring the other to spend his time talking up a heavyweight title shot at Joe Louis for himself in September. Mike Jacobs has promised that doubtful reward to the winner.

Just why either of them would want this is a major mystery. First off, each would need a third arm to weigh 185. Pastor already has tried to stand off the Louis artillery twice. Once he dodged it for 10 rounds, the next time the roof fell in during the 11th.

Conn has just stepped down from the light heavyweight throne and shouldn't be hollering for the Bomber until he grows up some more. He and his manager, Johnny Ray, have been like

Mioland Wins $62,000 Derby

Howard Horse Puts Three-Year-Old Race In Perplexing Puzzle

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Splashing through a sloppy track in a driving rain, Mioland galloped to a three length victory in the $62,000 American derby at Washington park today to throw the three-year-old championship into a perplexing puzzle.

Mioland, owned by Charles S. Howard of San Francisco, led from start to finish. Sirocco, winner of the Arlington classic, finished second, and Weigh Anchor third, four lengths back of Sirocco. Gallahadion, winner of the Kentucky derby, finished fourth after running last most of the way, with Super Chief fifth in the five horse field.

The race lost much of its appeal by the last minute scratching of Bimelech, Col. Edward R. Bradley's potential three year-old champion of 1940. An hour before the race, a terrific thunderstorm drenched the racing strip and thousands of spectators jammed under the stands. Most of the 35,000 received a soaking, nevertheless, since a strong wind blew the rain under the stands.

William Hurley, trainer of Bimelech, decided against sending his three year old into the race because of the sloppy track. Mud was fetlock deep along the rail, and only a few seconds before the race started the rain broke in a deluge.

Mioland, fourth in the Kentucky derby, and second to Bimelech in the Preakness, never was headed, with jockey Johnny Adams piloting him to victory. Mioland splashed over the mile and one quarter route in 2:05 4-5. The winner returned $14.20 to win, $5.00 to place and $3.40 to show. The place price on Sirocco was $3.00 and $2.60 to show. Weigh Anchor returned $3.20 to show. Gallahadion, holding a reputation of great mud-running ability, went to the post at two to one with heavy backing. Sirocco, entry of Charles T. Fisher, Detroit automobile body manufacturer, was an even money choice with the betters.

With the field reduced to five, the race had a gross value of $62,150. Owner Howard collected $44,900. Fisher received $7,500 as second money, while W. E. Simpson, Chicago, owner of Weigh Anchor, drew down $5,000. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, Chicago, owner of Gallahadion, collected $2,500 as fourth money.

Yankees Blast Athletics, 13-0

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Yankees scored their second straight shutout over the Philadelphia Athletics today, 13 to 0, as Rookie Ernie Bonham held the Mackmen to five hits to score his first American league victory.

The youngster from Kansas City struck out three and didn't give a single base on balls, while his mates plastered three Athletic flingers for 13 hits, including home runs by Charley Keller, Joe Gordon, Babe Dahlgren, Red Rolfe and Joe DiMaggio. DiMaggio also slugged a double and drove in four runs.

Rip Radcliff Fools Them

St. Louis Browns' Outfielder Still Leading American League Hitting Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Rip Radcliff of the St. Louis Browns is doing quite a thorough job of disproving the familiar old belief that he is only a good "spring hitter."

Spring has long since turned into summer, but the 33-year-old outfielder has shown no sign of dropping out of the American league batting race. He lost seven points the past week, including Friday's games, but most of his rivals were slipping too, enabling him to hold the lead.

He collected 10 hits in 38 times at bat, dropping to .360, but even this descent left him with a 12-point edge on Barney McCosky, Detroit, and Lou Finney, Boston, pegged at .348.

Chicago's Luke Appling lost an even 10 points, but remained in fourth place with a .337 mark and his teammate, Taft Wright, is fifth at .335. Others in the first 10 include Ted Williams, Boston, .333; Frank Hayes, Philadelphia, .332; Cecil Travis, Washington, .329; Joe DiMaggio, New York, .328, and Hank Greenberg, Detroit, .328.

Greenberg held onto his runs batted in leadership, his total now standing at 96, but lost the double honors to Lou Boudreau, Cleveland, who has 37. McCosky and Finney are tied in triples with 13 each.

Jimmy Foxx of Boston banged out three homers to run his pacesetting total to 26. McCosky has the most hits, 142, and Williams has scored the most often, 90 times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers stretched their American league lead to a full game today with a 5 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox in a five-inning, rain-shortened contest before 17,247 spectators.

The rain, which held up the game an hour and 29 minutes in the third inning, forced postponement of the second game of a scheduled doubleheader.

The victory was Schoolboy Rowe's 11th of the season as against two defeats, although he was hit freely in the early stages.

Detroit pushed across three runs in the second inning. Rudy York opened by drawing a base on balls off Southpaw Thornton Lee. Frank Higgins hit a grounder to Luke Appling, who threw wild to second in an attempt to force York, the runners advancing to third and second. After Birdie Tebbetts fouled out, Frank Metha tripled to right-center, scoring York and Higgins. Rowe then singled Metha home with the third rally.

In the fifth, Dick Bartel singled and scored ahead of Hank Greenberg, who smashed a line drive into the left field stands for his 22nd homer of the season.

The Sox got at least one hit in every inning off Rowe but could score only in the first two frames. Mike Kreevich doubled in the first inning and came home on Joe Kuhel's single. Bob Kennedy singled in the second and scored from first on Lee's double down the left field foul line.

The drizzling rain started again in the fourth and continued intermittently until the downpour ended proceedings just as the Sox concluded their turn at bat in the fifth.

The victory, coming as second-place Cleveland was rained out at St. Louis, enabled the Tigers to gain a half game in the two-team battle for first place.

'We're Getting Into Our Stride' on Defense Program, Declares Roosevelt

Defense--

... Sunday at sea, the president was glad to know the armament was operating at about 75 percent of capacity and that the navy yards "also are working pretty near to capacity."

whether anyone within the administration had approached Wendell L. Willkie about a rapprochement on foreign policy.

Newsmen wanted to know whether the president had seen a statement by the republican nominee in morning papers to the effect that certain persons had approached Willkie to suggest an agreement to be reached between the two candidates on international policy.

"I haven't seen any papers since yesterday morning," Mr. Roosevelt responded.

Noisy but skimpy crowds turned out as the president drove about the Boston area. But his route from the navy yard to the arsenal lay along the scenic Charles river and touched a mere corner of Boston proper, at Portsmouth, people by the thousands had jammed every street.

It was in New England that the biggest crowds of the 1936 campaign showed up.

Mr. Roosevelt's tone was somewhat resentful when some one popped a question pertaining to the New Hampshire gubernatorial race. "My Lord," he retorted, "why can't you cut out politics and talk something else?"

To an inquiry whether operating defense establishments at full production meant three shifts, the president responded that it would depend on the article produced. Three shifts would be cheaper in some instances and not in others, he said.

The navy yards are using a third shift, he said, primarily to eliminate bottle necks in production of specific items.

Secretary Knox was in the car beside him and reporters thought it would be a good time, while they were together, to ask about a secret mission on which the secretary sent Col. William Donovan, World war commander of the fighting sixty-ninth regiment, to Europe last month.

"He went over to be my eyes and ears," Knox explained.

"Can you tell us what he found?" a newsman asked.

"No," the president declared, "because it's his mouth."

by the president as one of those Washington rumors.

The presidential yacht Potomac moved down the harbor at 6:23 p. m. (CST) tonight to anchor for the night in Massachusetts bay.

Mr. Roosevelt went aboard shortly after 4 p. m., but the yacht waited nearly two hours to permit the chief executive to have dinner at the pier.

L. A. Downs, Rail Magnate, Dead at 68

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Lawrence A. Downs, 68, who rose from the humble job of a $60-a-month roadman to the important position of chairman of the board of the Illinois Central Railroad system, died today.

He had been in poor health for two years and entered a hospital two weeks ago for treatment of a heart ailment and high blood pressure.

Downs became chairman of the I. C. board in December, 1938, after he had served 12 years as president of the road's extensive rail network.

Under his administration a progressive policy was pursued. Streamlined trains were placed in operation. New records for operating efficiency were established. Downs, son of a section gang fireman, began his career by carrying rods for a surveying crew on the old Vandavia road in Indiana after his graduation from Purdue university. Eighteen months later he joined the I. C.

10,000 Feet, Pretty High! But Explorer's Wife Is First Woman To Reach Peak Afoot

Editor's note: Bradford Washburn, director of the New England museum of natural history expedition, succeeded in reaching the hitherto unclimbed 10,000-foot summit of Mount Bertha in the Fairweather range of Alaska on July 30. Here-with is his story of the trip, in which he discloses that his wife, Barbara, was among the five of the party of eight who reached the top.)

By BRADFORD WASHBURN (Written for the Associated Press) JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 10 (AP)—I suppose I'm more tickled over the fact my wife, Barbara, was the first woman in 30 years to successfully climb a virgin Alaska peak than I am in the fact that our party reached the summit of 10,000 foot Mount Bertha in the Fairweather range July 30. The trip started June 30, when we dog teamed and back-packed our way from Glacier bay for nearly 30 miles through coast range mountains to establish camp at the base of the peak on July 22.

Supplies From Air A thousand pounds of supplies were thrown to us from an airplane on Brady glacier, 15 miles into the mountains, in order to speed our advance. We established an advance camp at 7,000 feet on the east ridge of Mount Bertha July 25. There we waited over several days of stormy weather before finally succeeding on our climb on the 30th.

The route which we were forced to use to reach the summit was extremely steep but magnificent. We had been forced to give up an attempt by an apparently easier route on account of a terrible series of avalanches of rock and ice.

Members of the party which reached the peak were Maynard Miller of Tacoma, Wash.; Michel Feuersinger, Sugar Bowl, Cal.; Thomas Winship of Boston, my wife and myself.

Beautiful Peak Mount Bertha is one of the most beautiful of the big peaks in the Fairweather range. I have long been intensely interested in climbing and exploring her unknown eastern approaches, since we saw her from the peak of Mount Crillon in 1934. We carried a special flag of the National Geographical society which has been planted on every peak recently climbed. This flag, and also an American flag which went up with it, has flown twice over Mount McKinley, highest peak in America; was carried across the St. Elias range from Canada into Alaska in the winter of 1935; and was also carried to the peaks of Mount Sanford, Mount Lucania, Mount St. Agnes and Mount Cillon. The flags are in a small aluminum cylinder which is kept between expeditions at the society headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Patriotism to Be Found in Newest Dance Sensations

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10. (AP)—Patriotism dominates the new dances accepted for next season by the Dancing Masters of America at their national convention today.

Among them are the "Plymouth Rock," and a military dance, "The Liberty Parade." Of the latter, LeRoy Thayer, Washington teacher and president of the dancing masters, declared:

"It will sweep the country as the 'Chestnut Tree' and 'The Lambeth Walk.' Patriotism is the keynote of all our thinking and cannot help but influence our dancing."

Population of Barrow Alaska, farthest north habitation on the North American continent, has increased in 10 years from 330 to 362. Most are Eskimos.

A total of .37 of an inch of rain had fallen up to 7 o'clock last night and the intermittent showers continued into the night.

The couple will make their home in Cedar Rapids. Given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Streed wore a floorlength gown of white lace, fashioned with a dropped waistline and a flared skirt. ## Wellman Plans Celebration For Aug. 22

Unique in its position as "The Turkey Center of the World" Wellman will present a mammoth Thanksgiving Town festival Aug. 22.

A pageant entitled "The Romance of Thanksgiving" which will depict the history of Thanksgiving in other lands in America will be the highlight of the festival. The pageant will be presented on Wednesday and Thursday evening, Aug. 21 and 22.

The Pilgrim's first Thanksgiving and the part that Wellman plays in the annual observance of Thanksgiving day will be important parts of the pageant, to be presented in the Wellman Park.

Wellman is the home of the Maplecrest Turkey Farms, Inc., which annually ships out some 300 cars of drum sticks for the nation's Thanksgiving and holiday dinner tables. As many as 600,000 turkeys are annually produced in the Wellman community.

Wellman's leadership in the turkey industry is recognized nationally and the town is known nationally as "Thanksgiving Town." Considerable publicity has been given to "Thanksgiving Town" as a result of articles published in the Country Home and Readers Digest.

Britain--

when favorable weather returns in the spring the British are determined to seize the advantage.

"We're not afraid Hitler will try to invade us," one officer commented. "We're afraid he won't."

No Longer Haunted

No longer haunted by expectation of a direct German assault at any moment now that this perilous week has passed, the British are increasingly aware of the mushrooming power of their own forces itching for a chance to take the offensive.

This week was one of the most favorable for sea-borne invasion because of high tides which would have carried nazi troop barges farthest up British beaches.

Now, as far as Britain is concerned, the war of nerves is over. Today's wholesale raids were regarded as aimed to crack public morale which, the British say, is far higher than in jittery August, 1939, before the war and daily air raids began.

Free Days For Kids! Iowa State Fair To Offer Children Special Entertainment

DES MOINES — Two "free" days for children at this year's Iowa State fair have been announced by fair officials.

All youngsters under 15 years of age will be admitted to the fair free on Friday, Aug. 23 and Friday, Aug. 30, officials announced.

The first children's day will feature a statewide party for youngsters in the grandstand, starting at 9 a.m. The party will include entertainment by circus acts, clowns, daylight fireworks, and "Mine," Iowa boys' and girls' own baby elephant.

Rube Liebman, who has presided over the children's day parties for a number of years, will act as announcer, and music will be provided by the Des Moines Playground band.

The second children's day, Aug. 30, has been planned to give boys and girls a last outing before the opening of most Iowa schools on the following week. Children will be admitted free at the outside gates, and will be given special reduced rates for the afternoon auto races, the midway shows and rides and the evening musical revue in the grandstand, officials said.

Preparations are being made by the state fair board to accommodate between 25,000 and 30,000 children on each of the two days.

70 Persons Volunteer to Give Pint of Blood for Research

The number of persons offering to donate a pint of blood to aid in blood research at University hospital now stands at 70, it was announced yesterday.

The blood which is being donated will be used by Dr. E. L. DeGowin and his staff in University hospital's blood laboratory in working out certain preliminary problems in the use of blood on the field and at the front lines in time of war.

The nation-wide project has been assigned to four hospitals of which the local institution is one. The special project in addition to general work which has been assigned to the local hospital is transportability of blood.

In line with this work, blood samples are being sent out to various parts of the state and the United States by plane, bus, truck and train to test the effects on the blood of various modes of transportation under a variety of conditions.

The work is being done under the direction of a six-man committee appointed by the National Research council at the request of the army. Dr. Everett D. Plass of the University hospital staff is a member of the committee.

The American Red Cross is co-operating with the work in securing blood donors at the four hospitals. Goal of donors at Iowa City is 125 persons who will volunteer a pint of blood each for the research work.

As American as Pork and Beans

SOMEHOW we've come to look upon the newspaper boy as a purely American phenomenon—much like freedom of speech. The right of an individual to earn money in an honest endeavor is just as typically American as pork and beans. It's one of the rights that we've fought for—with battles and with words.

he's proud of it. It helps to finance his education, or to make things a little easier at home. Many of our prominent business and professional men right here in Iowa City were newspaper boys. And they don't pass up the opportunity to mention it, either! The training that these boys get serves to make them self-reliant . . . teaches them the value of money . . . the wisdom of saving.

HERE and there, perhaps, we've come off a little the worse for it. But in the main, the privilege is still untarnished. No group expresses this American trait as much as the newspaper boy. The money he earns is earned the hard way—and

WE don't know of any group that's more deserving of praise and encouragement. We salute every newspaper boy in the country, and especially our own Iowan staff. His diligence and initiative is a shining light for all of us!
