German Bombers Sweep London Sixth Time In 15 Hours as Nazi Air Assaults Intensify

Royal Airmen Still Obstacle To Invasion

'Thousands of Bombs' Fall on One Town In Full-Scale Attack

A NORTHWESTERN TOWN IN ENGLAND, Sept. 1. (Sunday) (AP)—Wave after wave of German bombers rained literally thousands of incendiaries on this town in a full-scale attack lasting six hours last night and early this morning.

Some casualties were reported unofficially, including some fatalities, but there were no reports of damage to military objectives. Offices and private property were damaged and one block of offices in the center of the city set afire.

An air raid shelter was hit, causing some casualties.

A terrific anti-aircraft barrage met the raiders.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LONDON, Aug. 31.—German bombers swept over the London area tonight for the sixth time in 15 hours, locking this city in an unrelenting air siege with blows growing steadily harder and more frequent.

Apparently the Nazi fliers' goal was to smash the royal air force, their chief nemesis and one of the main obstacles to any direct invasion of this country, by hammering repeatedly at British air defenses.

Getting Worse

The six alarms in the London district was a record number for the metropolitan area. They followed four Friday, including one which lasted for shortly after 9 p. m. to almost 4 a. m. today and gave the capital its worst night of the war.

While the sixth London area warning continued, enemy planes also were reported over a northeast town and over the northwest. They had been reported earlier over the Midlands.

Although the British acknowledged that successive waves of German planes charging against Britain's defenses had reached some objectives and taken an undisclosed toll of civilians killed and injured, a communique declared they were "dispersed without any serious damage being done to RAF air defenses, which again appear to have been the objective of the attacks."

Downtown Strafing

Earlier, however, the metropolitan area got a strafing and, in the southeast, evening raiders sprayed fire bombs in several localities.

In at least two instances, low-flying German planes dropped to within machine-gun range of suburban London and opened fire on the crowded streets. A number of bombs were dropped and several houses demolished in the London area during tonight's fourth raid of the day.

Labor Day

In order that employes of The Daily Iowan may spend the Labor day holiday with their families, there will be no issue of this paper on Tuesday morning. The next issue will appear Wednesday morning, Sept. 4.

Rumania In Nazi Protection

Nation's Armed Forces Withdraw to Permit German Units' Entry

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 31 (AP)—Adolf Hitler promised to protect Rumania with the German army as he has been protecting little Slovakia, foreign minister Mihail Manoilescu told the nation tonight.

(Slovakia, "independent" remnant of Czechoslovakia, is a virtual military protectorate of the Reich.)

Even as the minister broadcast, confirming the supreme place Nazi arms are to occupy hereafter in this country as a consequence of the axis-dictated settlement of the Transylvania issue, most of the Rumanian army of 1,300,000 was being demobilized to make way for German armored divisions reported coming here to occupy part of this country's territory.

Germany, said the foreign minister in a broadcast to the people, has given to Rumania an absolute military guarantee "unlike that ever given any other country in the world except little Slovakia."

Manoilescu had just returned from Vienna—where Germany and Italy forced the decision that took 17,000 to 21,000 square miles of territory from Rumania.

Berlin Warns 'Catastrophe' Is Approaching

Denounces 'Childish Optimism' of British; Air Assaults Intensify

BERLIN, Aug. 31 (AP)—Germany pulled the curtains tonight on a year of war and her military commentators declared that the heightened roar of battle over England meant that the "catastrophe" is approaching for "our last enemy."

They said the Nazi air arm, after trying for three weeks to "soften" England for the final blow, was "preparing the final defeat." In those three weeks, Nazis said, 1,193 British planes and 99 barrage balloons had been destroyed, not including today's operations.

'Childish Optimism'

The commentators professed scorn for the "childish optimism" with which, they said, the British were declaring that the worst is over. England, they insisted, doesn't yet know what modern war can be like.

One newspaper, the Frankfurter Zeitung, explained: "Catastrophes often develop slowly."

Adolf Hitler flung his bombers against London and nearby air bases in one of the most determined assaults yet of the battle for Britain—an immediate resort to the first British air raid on the heart of Berlin.

Tonight, German authorities declared 124 British planes had been destroyed during the day, including 20 smashed on the ground, and that 74 English barrage balloons had been shot down. The loss of 28 German planes was acknowledged.

Heaviest Fighting

Most of the heaviest fighting was reported north of London. Over the British capital itself the Germans said they encountered no anti-aircraft resistance whatever.

(The British reported 46 German planes downed to 21 British losses.)

Nazi informants said at least 11 of the British craft were shot down in air battles over Hertford county, north of London, alone. Additional "surprise" attacks were said to have set afire hangars and barracks of RAF airbases in southeastern England.

Four Believed Dead as Water Tanks Crash Into Bath House

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31 (AP)—Four persons were believed killed and seven injured today when two 20,000-gallon tanks of water crashed through the roof of the Florida avenue baths today.

Bodies of two unidentified women were removed after more than an hour of desperate work by a score of police and firemen. Both victims were unclad, apparently having just returned from the beach. Police Chief James A. McMenamin expressed belief two other persons were killed and the search for their bodies continued.

The bath house, located on the boardwalk a block south of the Convention Hall, was getting ready for a big Labor day week end business, and both tanks were filled, one containing fresh and the other salt water.

One woman remained semi-conscious until a few minutes before her body was recovered. She was in a bathtub when the crash came and one of her legs had to be amputated to separate her from the twisted steel about her.

Opposition Grows to Defense Plant Seizure by Government

House Expects Draft Passage During Week

Modified Proposal Of Industrial Draft May Be Part of Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Members of the military committee said today that informal surveys showed the house would pass the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill next week, but that there was considerable opposition to proposals to permit the government to condemn and take over private industrial plants for defense.

Some legislators went so far as to predict privately that the industry provision would be omitted from the house bill on the final vote. They said, however, that a modification permitting government operation of these facilities would stand at least an even chance of being accepted.

Coming quickly to the forefront of the capitol discussion on the legislation, this issue temporarily relegated to the background arguments over the fundamental provisions for registering men from 21 to 44, inclusive, and making them liable for a year's military training.

A battle is expected over the provision, however, as the senate voted for registration only of men 21 to 30, inclusive.

Confident that the conscription bill would be enacted without delay, congress leaders optimistically set their sights for a clean calendar within two or three weeks in order to be in a position to take an indefinite recess or, possibly, a sine die adjournment.

Many individual members have indicated they would like to go home soon to remain at least until after election day.

The senate amendment, authorizing the government to take over industrial facilities found necessary for defense if a satisfactory arrangement with the owner could not be reached, ran into some opposition in the house military committee.

Frank C. Walker Named to Fill Farley's Post in U. S. Cabinet

New York Lawyer Was Former Chairman Of Demo Committee

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 31 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that Frank C. Walker, New York lawyer and former chairman of the democratic national committee, would be the new postmaster general, succeeding James A. Farley who gave up his cabinet portfolio today.

Walker served during the first Roosevelt campaign as the party's national treasurer and his success in raising campaign funds and in handling the duties of that difficult office was publicly praised by the president.

At the close of the campaign, Walker resigned as party treasurer and became director of the old emergency council, charged with the duty of coordinating the far-flung federal set-up in the early days of the president's service.

Again he was praised publicly by the president when—his work completed—he stepped out of the public picture in 1935.

From the middle of the president's first term until the present, little was heard publicly of Walker's connection with the new deal and the democratic party.

While devoting most of his time to the direction of the Comerford-Public corporation, operators of many motion picture houses, and other business interests, Walker nevertheless kept in close touch with national affairs.

During the recent democratic national convention Walker disclaimed any desire to become the democratic national chairman and maintained throughout that his preference for that office was Farley.

Minnesota's Senator Lundeen Victim of 'Worst Air Tragedy'

Washington-to-Pittsburgh Transport Explodes With Impact of Crash During Rainstorm; Toll Heaviest for Commercial Airlines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota and 24 others died tonight in an air crash about 40 miles from the nation's capital to register the heaviest death toll of American commercial aviation.

Twenty-one passengers and four of the Pennsylvania airliner's crew were killed when the plane splintered to fragments on the ground while flying during a heavy rainstorm.

Conflicting reports came from the scene. Some said the plane, enroute from Washington to Pittsburgh, fell in an open field after flying at a low altitude during a thunderstorm that flooded that section of Virginia and made roads impassable. Others said the ship "collided with a ridge."

Whatever the cause, it was the first fatal accident for commercial airlines since March 26, 1939, near Oklahoma City, Okla., when eight were killed. It was the first fatal accident for the Pennsylvania Central air lines in more than 13 years of operation.

Ill-Fated Plane Blown to Bits By Explosion

Plane Parts, Bodies, Bits of Clothing Cover Two-Acre Area

LOVETTSVILLE, Va., Aug. 31 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Central airlines plane which crashed at the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains near here today carrying 25 persons, including Senator Ernest Lundeen (F-L-Minn.), to their death, was literally blown to bits when it exploded after hitting the ground.

John Rhodes, 24-year-old reporter of the Winchester, Va., Evening Star, who went to the scene for The Associated Press, said the alfalfa field where the plane crashed presented an eerie scene with parts of the plane, dismembered bodies, and clothing scattered over a two-acre plot.

Investigation Begins

Civil aeronautics board inspectors, headed by Harlee Branch, chairman, went immediately to the scene of the crash to investigate.

Officials of the Pennsylvania airlines said the huge, two-motored ship left Washington 28 minutes late at 2:18 p. m. (EST) enroute to Pittsburgh where it was due at 3 p. m. PCA officials fixed the time of the mishap at 2:41 p. m. (EST).

Lundeen Flying Home

Senator Lundeen was on the way to his summer home at Lake Minnetonka, Minn., and had intended to return to Washington next Wednesday. Mrs. Lundeen is at the summer residence.

The plane hit and shattered in an alfalfa field on the farm of Clarence Bishop about three miles south of Lovettsville, Va., according to Henry Thompson, 24, an eyewitness. Thompson said there was no fire.

"I got there right away and saw one tire and two seats burning," Thompson told reporters, "but the plane itself was not on fire." When he first saw the plane, Thompson said it apparently was in trouble and headed down toward the ground with at least one of its two motors still turning. The transport, Thompson said, passed from his view below the (See PLANE, Page 6)

Willkie Warns of 'Dictatorship' Set-Up

Sees Danger To U. S. Labor

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Aug. 31. (AP)—Declaring that "we must not set up a dictatorship to fight dictators," Wendell L. Willkie told newspapermen today a confidential report of the now disbanded war resources board had opposed granting emergency wartime powers to existing executive and quasi-judicial agencies.

The republican presidential nominee recited what he said were quotations from the report in renewing his demand that President Roosevelt give his views on the Overton-Russell amendment to the senate conscription bill.

That amendment would permit the government to seize plants and other facilities needed for defense if the secretaries of war and navy could not reach agreements with the owners.

Willkie read to a front porch press conference a formal statement which included the following quoted, he said, from the report: "It is our considered judgment that co-ordination offers the only effective means of converting American industries for the purposes of war.

"American business men, like all Americans, are accustomed to democratic procedure. More effective results can be obtained through a voluntary co-operation than through force.

"The laying on the table of controversial questions of substantial policy is as essential as is unity of action among different divisions of the armed services or co-operation between agriculture and industry and labor in the fields of production.

"We recommend that wartime powers be vested in especially created wartime agencies which will automatically demobilize when the war is over.

"Should wartime powers be granted to existing executive or quasi-judicial agencies of the government it will be next to impossible at the end of the war to separate the wartime and peacetime functions of the government."

The report, prepared by a board headed by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., was filed with President Roosevelt (See W.L.L.K.J.E., Page 6)

They Were Historic Ones for America

(A Review of the Week's Significant Happenings)

Approach of Conscription

It may never be determined accurately how many votes the republican cause earned this week when Henry Wallace interrupted the football game at Chicago between the College All-Stars and the Green Bay Packers to accept the democratic vice presidential nomination, but it is certain that for football fans it was the biggest political faux pas of the campaign and may well cost the president a third term.

The content of the speech that monopolized 33 minutes of radio time, just when football fans were thirsting to know whether Kinnick would tie the game with the kick for extra point, was an appeal to defeat Hitler by re-electing Roosevelt.

McNary, But No All-Stars

His time chosen with more tact than was his democratic rival's, republican Vice Presidential Nominee Charles McNary accepted formally his designation as running-mate of Wendell Willkie this week. McNary scathed the new deal for its doctrine of "statism" in his acceptance speech and endorsed much of the new deal's social gains. The reciprocal tariff policy of the administration he condemned as injurious to the farmer and the nation.

McNary agreed with Willkie that hydro-electric power be developed by the federal government and urged purchase of private power companies by the government.

The campaign still promised to center about the need for national defense and the threat of the war in Europe.

Conscription at Last

The long-delayed, hotly debated Burke-Wadsworth selective service bill, the first peacetime draft measure in history, passed the senate by a 58 to 31 vote last week.

The unprecedented measure carried with it an amendment also unprecedented in American history. A last minute provision would permit the government to take over any "plants or facilities" deemed essential to defense if owners of the establishments were reluctant to agree on operation for national needs.

The registration of all males from 21 to 31 would be completed two weeks after the bill became law and all registrants would be liable to one year of military service within the western hemisphere.

The amendment drafting industry was immediately denounced by Republican Presidential Candidate Wendell Willkie as an act designed to sovietize the American economic system. Pointing to the dictatorial powers granted the president under the provision, Willkie declared that it would give President Roosevelt "absolute and arbitrary control of virtually the entire economic system of the United States."

Passage by the house is expected by the end of the week.

Training for the Guard

President Roosevelt during the week signed the bill authorizing the president to mobilize the national guard and the army reserves for one year's active service. The first contingent of 500,000 men will be called for training Sept. 15, according to the plan of army chiefs.

Under a stringent gag rule, the house passed and sent to the senate another measure important to national defense. The $200,000,000 excess profits bill provides for a 20 to 50 per cent tax on excess profits over the next five years and includes a plant amortization provision which would make it possible for industry to pay for plant expansion through tax savings.

'American Legion' Docks Safely

During the week the United States army transport 'American Legion' completed a stormy passage through mine-infested waters around the British Isles. On board were 870 passengers, including members of the Norwegian royal family, refugees from the war in Europe. The course of the little American vessel was followed closely by anxious members of the American state department who had been warned by the German government that the safety of the ship could not be guaranteed in view of the chosen course. Despite the fact that the captain and others regarded a more northerly route as safer, American officials refused to alter the course designated. "We will," they thought, "hold Germany to her earlier promise not to 'bother the Legion.' America once again played with fire . . .

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

New York's Best Liked Comedian

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK — An informal poll among newspapermen who are assigned to the Broadway beat reveals that Joe E. Lewis is the best liked comedian in town. Lewis is a floorshow worker rather than a musical comedy entertainer. He looks a great deal like old General Iron Pants Hugh Johnson. When he gets his teeth into a story, or a song, he shakes it as a terrier shakes a rag. It isn't what he says when he talks or sings. It's the way he does it.
A prime example of the Lewis "stuff" is his current monologue on radio advertisements. Joe maintains that most people don't know how to listen to radio. They don't know what to listen for. Most folks waste their time with the comedians, or the heroes of the love story, or the newer songs. But not Joe. "I cock my ear for those announcers when they come on," he says. "I want to find out where I can get that $300 for nothing, with no questions asked. I like to play around with those puzzles that Don Wilson of the Jack Benny show tosses at you. Sometimes I have to sit around and wait fifteen minutes for those comedians to get off the air, but it's worth it. Then Don Wilson, the announcer, comes on. He talks sense. He doesn't fool around with gags. Of course, he doesn't tell you exactly where you can get it, but he gives you a hint. He says go out and look around until you see the big red letters on the box. That's the stuff I like to hear."
Of course, reading a comedian's lines in print means nothing. They will mean a great deal to anyone sitting in on a session of the Lewis fooliness. It's the Lewis voice, and the Lewis manner, and the Lewis gestures.

Still another poll recently concluded by Billboard, the theatrical trade weekly, points out that the three best known hotel men in New York are Frank Chase of the Algonquin, Bob Christenberry of the Astor, and Charles E. Rochester of the Lexington.

Chase has been identified with Broadway and the theatrical world for so long that he is accepted as a home grown product, though he is not a local boy. He is the author of two books which deal with the personalities of the thousands of famous guests that have come under his observation through the last two decades, and he knows more people by their first names than any four politicians you could name.

Bob Christenberry is a cultured southerner and an extremely well liked man about town. He came out of the war with a great record and only one arm. Despite this handicap he is an expert golfer.

Rochester is a Monroe, Louisiana, boy who made good in the big city. Among other things, he is noted for his wild game dinners, to which this reporter is occasionally bidden. He is also the man who inaugurated the Hawaiian vogue in Manhattan enter-

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

That New Picture, 'Lucky Partners'

By HUBBARD KEAVY
Associated Press Staff Writer (Seeing them for Vacationing Robbin Coons)
HOLLYWOOD — "Lucky Partners." Screenplay by Allan Scott and John Van Druten. Directed by Lewis Milestone. Principals: Ginger Rogers, Ronald Colman, Spring Byington, Jack Carson, Harry Davenport and Hugh O'Connell.
The airy and amusing piece details consequences of the purchase of a sweepstakes ticket by (these screen writers think of everything, don't they?) a platonically honeymooning trip to Niagara Falls.
It is very obvious from the beginning that Colman, looking almost boyish with his hair cut short and wearing sweaters, will win this lady of somebody else's choice, even though she is wearing her hair black and in a cumbersome manner (I think) down her pretty neck in something that I am told is a snood.
You know very well that the dope she is engaged to marry doesn't have an outside chance after Colman turns on the personality, but the dope, in the person of Carson, stays in and pitches to complicate matters and thereby amuse you and me. A story so frothy as this has many ways to go astray, but Milestone kept it in the right key except for one deviation into the realm of whimsy. That realm is exclusively Disney's, because he alone does it well, and I wish others would stay out. I refer to that sequence where Ginger and Ronald meet up with Peter Possum.

"The Great Profile." Screenplay by Milton Sperling and Hilary Lynn. Directed by Walter Lang. Principals: John Barrymore, Mary Beth Hughes, Gregory Ratoff, John Payne and Anne Baxter.

Imagine a man making fun of himself. That is what you will see in this. It is no more and little less than the story of Barrymore for the last two or three years, built mainly around the stage show in which he ad libbed and kidded himself and the audience.

Had Adolphe Menjou been cast in this, as was originally intended, it might have been uproariously funny. He could have made the character a clown you wanted to laugh at. Barrymore imitating himself is, I regret to report, a pathetic display. You feel sorry for the guy. You can't be feeling sorry and laughing, too, can you?

So far his efforts to prevent a contest in the national race have not been satisfactory. He simply has no one in his entourage capable of carrying the campaign burden in such a way that he can continue the appearance of side-line aloofness. The strategy of

Looks Like F. R. Will Have to Talk

WASHINGTON — The master democratic political minds are not sure Mr. Roosevelt can proceed with the type of campaign he started. His strategy is to win without a contest. It worked well in the primary campaign. He was in sufficient control of the party organization to ease himself coolly without a struggle.
So far his efforts to prevent a contest in the national race have not been satisfactory. He simply has no one in his entourage capable of carrying the campaign burden in such a way that he can continue the appearance of side-line aloofness. The strategy of the Ickes address was to build him up beyond criticism, but that failed. In the next move by the vice-presidential candidate, Mr. Wallace, it was made to appear Mr. Roosevelt is running against Hitler, but that seemed a little far-fetched also.

The president is very likely to be out on the stump battling for himself within a few weeks.

THE TAX BILL

No one seems quite sure what the final form of the tax bill specifically means. This includes authors of the measure on the house ways and means committee. They were obviously NOT clear or in agreement as to how the complex measure would work out. Said one frankly: "This is the most complicated bill enacted in congress in my 20 years of experience here."

If the authors cannot understand it, the ordinary members of the house and senate have no chance, but it will be pushed through anyway.

Already a quiet cloakroom campaign is being promoted on the excuse that congress will clarify it next January before anyone pays any taxes under it.

Farley for Willkie
No one knows how the democratic leader Jim Farley is going to vote in November. He has not said whether he will scratch the ticket. But all his friends now know his wife and brother intend to vote for Wendell Willkie, the republican.

It is almost certain the former chairman of the democratic national committee will NOT permit himself to be drawn into the third term drive. His withdrawal from the cabinet was effected to avoid embarrassing invitations.

WILLKIE OVERWORKED

A dozen or more leading republican congressmen slipped up to New York for a conference with Mr. Willkie, and back, unnoticed. They were amazed at the personal type of campaign the nominee is running. Apparently he makes all decisions. All unsolved problems of organization as well as policy are pushed up to him. As a result he has more work than he can do.

An optimist is a fellow, whose sore throat has reduced his voice to a whisper, on his way to a bingo game.

London's Citizens Slept Little

Bombs—and the Balkans

Nazi bombers came roaring out of the night sky last Sunday morning to drop their deadly cargoes on the largest city in the world, London. Throughout the week they came, pounding the heart of empire, robbing Londoners of their sleep. Meanwhile, they kept up their attacks of every section of the islands, concentrating on the great naval base at Portsmouth and other strategic points.

Balkan Flames

But while this second phase of the war for Britain got underway, Hitler's attention was called away from England by events of great moment in the Balkans. Soviet troops clashed with Rumanians; hundreds were killed. Hungary, whose negotiations with Rumania over the Transylvania she wants back had bogged down, prepared to seize the state should war develop. Rumania countered her move, sent troops into Transylvania. A conference was called for Thursday in Taking advantage of the Balkan crisis atmosphere, British planes disturbed a little sleep in Berlin, continued raids they began last week end.

This week nine of the 49 young men he met at that time met at the world's fair in memory of that occasion ten years ago. # Is Hitler the Conqueror, After a Year of Bloody Warfare?

Poland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, France Fell to Him Within a Year

But There's Still England—

BY E. D. BALL
Special News Service of
The Associated Press
A Europe dominated by Adolf Hitler in the brief span of 12 months passes the first anniversary of its latest war today a conflict without parallel in the old world's centuries of quarreling.

In this time the German conqueror, self-proclaimed builder of a "new Europe," in the words of his own press chief "equalled Napoleon" and the end is not in sight.

He subjugated nearly one-fifth of Europe's half billion population and more than one-sixth of its 3,750,000 square miles of territory.

France, the biggest prize, and Poland, where the war started, were conquered. Five other nations — Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg — bowed to the might of the world's greatest military machine.

And now playing for the biggest stake of all, the Germans are battering at Britain with "total" war by land, sea and blockade.

Except for Poland, which was finished off in a month, Hitler's conquests have been achieved since the April 9 invasion of Norway and Denmark.

Up until now, from the time the war started in Poland Sept. 1 and the British entry three days later, the war's inaction led some people to call it a "phony." It wasn't "phony" long.

What Is the Cost in Blood?

The cost in blood to date is a matter for the historians of the future to record.

So far, 236,603 dead have been admitted officially, and reliably estimated. But this does not include official Polish, Norwegian, Netherlands, Belgian, French or British figures.

From various compilations, the total of dead, wounded and missing is fixed at 3,300,000 to 5,300,000 — according to whose figures you are reading.

German official reports place the missing in Poland alone at 1,000,000. Red Cross estimates say 80,000 to 100,000 Frenchmen were killed and 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 captured.

Winston Churchill, on Aug. 20, announced Britain's dead, wounded and missing — including civilians — up to then numbered 92,000 compared with 365,000 casualties in the first year of the World War.

But remember this war is being fought under vastly changed conditions, with the airplane largely playing the part formerly played by massive troops in land offensives.

Of the British casualties, upwards of 30,000 were acknowledged officially in the historic British retreat from Dunkerque.

Britain has acknowledged the loss of 2,514,199 tons of British, allied and neutral shipping, compared with the German claims of having sunk 5,078,038 tons.

Admitted British naval losses include one battleship, two aircraft carriers, three cruisers, 29 destroyers, 14 submarines and many converted merchantmen and smaller craft. Against these 47 units, the Germans claim to have sunk 269 units.

On the other side of the ledger, the British assert they have driven Germany from the seas with the sinking and capture of 1,211,500 tons of enemy merchant shipping. Most of this was German, with some Italian included.

Germany has admitted few of the losses reported inflicted by the British. She has acknowledged the loss of one pocket-battleship, three cruisers, 10 destroyers, six submarines and 17 other craft. Italy has admitted the loss of one cruiser.

The spread in rival reports of planes bagged is just as wide. Britain says 3,191 German planes have been destroyed, the Germans admit 626; the Germans say 5,106 allied craft have been destroyed, the British admit 449.

Hitler's March To the North—

When Germany sent her grey-green legions marching northward Britain offered no resistance.

Britain and France went into the war to help Norway, who elected to fight, but it finally gave up the struggle June 9. Norway's King Haakon fled to England. His brother, King Christian of Denmark, stayed at home.

Then came the invasion of the low countries, Luxembourg, Belgium and the Netherlands. Tiny Luxembourg had no opposition to offer; the Netherlands, whose Queen Wilhelmina had fled to England, gave up after four days; King Leopold of Belgium capitulated May 28, and now is the "guest" of the Germans.

With the low countries conquered, Hitler launched his campaign against France, following the tramped path of invasion down through the north.

His "iron ring" tactics of dividing and conquering brought the downfall of France after a month and 12 days of fighting, and the British withdrew to fight it out alone from their "tight little isles."

In France, Hitler unleashed the same tactics used so successfully in Poland—coordinated offensives by his air and motorized land forces. First the dive-bombers would blaze a path of destruction, followed by swift tanks by the hundreds and finally mopping up forces.

Maginot Falls
France, relying on her Maginot line, attempted to beat off the invaders with her classic war of position, but these tactics failed before Germany's new war of movement.

Crushed, she signed Hitler's dictated armistice terms June 22 in the same Compiègne forest setting and the same ancient railway car where the Germans capitulated to the allies in 1918.

This time Hitler sat at the head of the table, where Foch sat 20 years ago.

Italy, coming into the war at Germany's side against her World War allies 17 days before the French surrender, brought the French to terms four days after the signing of the French-German armistice.

Premier Mussolini got little except military occupation of a small border strip of continental France, but the demilitarization of France's African and Mediterranean possessions cleared the way for war against Britain in Africa.

Italian Victory
The Italians, confining their fighting to Africa, the Mediterranean and raids on Gibraltar, on Aug. 19 won their first major campaign when the British withdrew from British Somaliland, in East Africa on the Gulf of Aden. It Duca hopes eventually to smash British control of the Mediterranean and the Suez canal.

The United States, watching European developments with growing apprehension, launched a huge national defense program.

In addition, President Roosevelt announced on Aug. 17 that negotiations are under way for acquisition of naval and air bases on British possessions in the western hemisphere.

The day after this announcement, Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada reached an agreement on a permanent joint board of defense for Canada and the United States.

The American republicans, in an effort to insulate themselves from the war, set up a neutrality

"safety zone" around their shores in the Panama declaration of Oct. 1, 1939.

War in This Area
Nevertheless, the war came close to home with frequent attacks by European nations on each other's shipping by rival sea raiders and the south Atlantic sea battle between British cruisers and the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, disabled and subsequently scuttled in Montevideo harbor last Dec. 17.

In a further move to protect themselves from the threat of the European war, the 21 nations of the western world meeting at Havana Oct. 2 agreed upon a declaration of continental solidarity and served notice that transfer of any European-held territory in the western hemisphere to another power would not be tolerated.

RUSSIA, Invader In Her Own Right—

While Hitler was going about his task of "righting the wrongs of Versailles," Soviet Russia, his new-found partner in a nonaggression pact signed Aug. 24, 1939, did some territory acquiring of her own.

Russia sent her red army into Poland 17 days after the Sept. 1 German invasion and in the split-up of Polish territory got the western Ukraine and White Russia.

With Hitler freed by his pact with Moscow to wage war in the west, the Russians next invaded Finland, acquiring the Karelian Isthmus and the Hanko naval base on the Baltic in a dictated peace signed after three months and 21 days of war with plucky little Finland.

Baltic States Bow
Only a little sabre rattling in Moscow was necessary after that to get back Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, which like Finland formerly belonged to Russia. The three Baltic states bowed to Moscow's demands in August and were incorporated as republics of the soviet union.

Russia also seized Bessarabia and northern Bucovina from Rumania, which held an allied territorial guarantee and had leanings in that direction until Hitler's conquests changed King Carol's mind.

Carol, always a realist, saw the way the wind was blowing and immediately nazified his government to fit the German pattern. He reluctantly capitulated to German demands to settle territorial claims on Rumania by Hungary and Bulgaria. These negotiations are in progress.

TURKEY
Turkey, another holder of an allied guarantee in southeast Europe, turned to Moscow for instructions after the fall of France.

Italy recently turned full blast on Greece, neutral friend of Britain, with a propaganda campaign threatening invasion unless the Greeks submitted to Italian claims in behalf of Italian-annexed Albania for territory along the Albanian-Greek frontier.

A Greek cruiser was sunk in a mysterious submarine attack early in August, and two of her destroyers were attacked by planes of undisclosed nationality shortly after the Italians turned on the heat. Rome disclaimed any knowledge of these attacks.

Whatever the outcome of the European struggle, Britain's Prime Minister Churchill repeatedly proclaimed the empire's determination to a finished fight. The British have announced plans to take the offensive in "1940 or 1941," and the Germans reputedly are accepting orders from South American customers for October delivery.

Since the British blockade has shut the Germans off from their South American markets since the war's start, this would indicate a nazi belief the conflict will be over before another winter sets in. The British offer a different view.

Norma Miller, Jacob Wentz Married Here

Rev. E. E. Voigt Officiates at Local Candlelight Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony Norma Jean Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Miller of Conway, and Jacob G. Wentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wentz of West Branch were married at 8 p.m. yesterday in the Methodist church steeple center here.

The Rev. E. E. Voigt officiated at the double ring service. Special music was supplied by Fern Newcomer, who sang "I Love Thee" and "Because."

The bride wore a white sheer dress with navy and white accessories. Her arm bouquet was of pink roses.

Vera Current of Webb was the maid-of-honor. She wore a dress of dusty rose with dark accessories. Her bouquet was of white gladioli.

John Wentz of West Branch, a brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The couple left for a short wedding trip and will be home after Sept. 7 in Lancaster, Wis. Mr. Wentz is employed by the Interstate Power company of Dubuque there.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding ceremony, which was attended by a few relatives and close friends of the couple, included Mr. and Mrs. Scott Walker of Amana and Mrs. Emma Douglas of West Branch.

The bride was graduated from Conway high school in 1937. She attended Iowa State Teachers college in Cedar Falls and the university here. For the past year she has been teaching in the primary grades in Exira.

New WSUI Radio Serial James Nelson Writes, Presents Program To Begin Tomorrow

A new serial, "Uncle Dan's Boy," will begin tomorrow over WSUI at 10 a.m. and will be heard daily at that time. The program is written and presented by James S. Nelson of Anita.

"Uncle Dan's Boy" is a story of a lovable old man, faced with the problem of caring for his 10-year-old nephew, orphaned in an auto crash. How Uncle Dan cares for his nephew, Jimmy, despite the protests of the small town busybodies, is the subject of the first part of the serial.

Designed to appeal to women, the program will be built about incidents in the lives of Uncle Dan and Jimmy and their friends who live in a small mid-western town. There will be seven main characters in the serial and many other minor ones.

All of the characters will be portrayed by Nelson, who also writes and presents "Uncle Jim's Nature Club," heard over WSUI at 7 p.m. Tuesdays, and "Windy's Tall Tales," presented at 8 p.m. Wednesdays.

Indians Beat White Sox, 5-4 in 12 Innings

Pytlak's Single Wins Game; Appling's Errors Help Tribe

Ed Smith Allows Tribe Two Hits Until Ninth Frame

BY TOM SILER
 CHICAGO, Aug. 31, (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, battling desperately to retain their league leading margin, defeated the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 4, today in 12 innings after being shut out for the first eight innings.

Chunky Ed Smith held the Indians to three hits and no runs until the ninth. Ken Keltner opened the rally with a grounder to Luke Appling, who booted the ball. Smith then walked Ray Mack and Rollie Hemery and Clint Brown took over the mound duties.

Appling Errors
 Beau Bell, batting for Harry Eisenstat, knocked an easy double play ball to Appling, but the veteran Sox shortstop again bobbed. Keltner scoring Ben Chapman lined a single to right, scoring two runs and a fourth run came on Roy Weatherly's fly to left.

Mack singled in the 12th with one man out and stole second. Frankie Pytlak, who relieved Hemery in the last of the ninth, drove home the winning run with a single to center.

In the last of the 12th Mike Kreevich opened with a double, a hard grounder that bounced off Mack's shin into center field and advanced to third on Joe Kuhel's infield out. Julius Solters lifted a short fly to center. Weatherly catching the ball and nabbing Kreevich at home plate with a perfect throw to Pytlak.

Get 15 Hits
 The Sox had innumerable chances to score, getting 12 hits off starting pitcher Al Smith in the first six innings and three more off Eisenstat and Allen, but were unable to hit in the pinches.

The Indians got only seven hits off Ed Smith and Brown but drew nine free tickets to first. They had 14 runners stranded compared to nine for the Sox.

The uphill victory left the league race unchanged as second place Detroit and third place New York also won.

Dodgers Nip Giants, 7 to 6

Weird Pitching Beats New York in Brooklyn Park

BROOKLYN, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Dodgers and New York Giants performed some weird rites in the guise of baseball today and Brooklyn emerged with a 7 to 6 victory that strengthened its grip on second place in the National League.

The Giants outthrew their rivals 13-10 and used no less than six pitchers in an effort to keep the turbulent Dodgers in check. But in addition to the hits, this pitching sextet gave up an even dozen bases on balls and one of them by Roy Joiner in the seventh inning forced across the deciding run.

The usually careful Carl Hubbell started for the Giants and gave up six of the walks, four hits and a hit batter before being driven from the mound by an uprising in the fifth inning that resulted in the banishment of manager Leo Durocher and coach Fred Fitzsimmons of the Dodgers for protesting a decision at first base.

Connie Mack Hails Rise of Bud Kennedy

Athletics' Manager Calls White Sox Third Baseman 'Rookie of the Year'

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31, (AP)—"They're both great players but it's Kennedy for me. He's a fine fielder, can run like a deer and is a hard batter to fool. He ought to be even better next year."

"Bud" passed his 19th birthday less than two weeks ago and is perhaps the youngest regular with a leading team. In fifth place, the White Sox are 8 1/2 games behind league-leading Cleveland.

Kennedy's batting average is better than .250 and he's around the 40 mark in runs driven in. In fielding, he ranks well up in the league.

A native Chicagoan, Kennedy was picked up by a White Sox scout while playing with a junior American Legion team when he was only 15.

As for Mack's own team, he's a bit disappointed with their last-place spot but believes the season will be the best financially in five years. He expects attendance to exceed the 500,000 mark before the season ends.

"One thing the fans have been sure of when they came to Shibe park," he said, "was that they'd see the Athletics put up a good fight. We haven't played one of those 23-2 games like the one the Yankees licked up last year and there haven't been five badly pitched games all year."

Yanks Trample Senators, 7-1

Donald Hurls 3-Hit Game

NEW YORK, Aug. 31, (AP)—The onrushing New York Yankees crowded the American League leaders a little closer today by trampling on the Washington Senators 7 to 1 for their fifth straight victory and 11th in 12 games.

Atley Donald, wild as a rabbit, giving seven walks, nevertheless permitted the Senators only three hits and had no trouble acquiring his fifth triumph of the year.

He received grand help from his mates, who made ten hits off three Washington hurlers. They included Joe Gordon's 24th homer and Tom Henrich's ninth.

The Yanks scored once without a hit when Joe Kraskauskas issued two passes and wildpitched Frank Crossetti home from second base in the fourth. Crossetti also stole home in the eighth, after walking to first, going to second on a sacrifice and to third on an infield out.

Washington's only run came in the second on a walk, a single and a double play.

Drake Invites 50 Gridders

DES MOINES, Aug. 31 (AP)—Fifty Drake football candidates, including eight seniors, 20 juniors and 22 sophomores, today were invited by Coach Vee Green to report for the opening practice Tuesday, Sept. 10.

Included in the half-a-hundred gridders asked to report are 16 lettermen, with 11 other letter winners of last year lost by graduation.

Coach Green said he planned to start practice Sept. 10, but asked his charges to report the day before to be issued equipment.

With almost half of the squad newcomers, Green must start hard work early as the Bulldogs open against Montana State just 17 days after the opening of practice.

Reds Hold Lead by Snatching 5 to 4 Victory From Chicago

Cloudburst Stops Semi-Finals In Golf Tourney

By GAYLE TALBOT
HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 31 (AP)—After fooling around in a lighthearted sort of way all week, the rain finally cut loose in dead earnest today and washed the finals of the Professional Golfers' association championship into Monday.

The two semifinal matches just had passed the 18th hole, with Sam Snead three up on Harold (Lug) McSpaden and Byron Nelson, leading Ralph Guldahl one up, when the skies opened wide and the water poured out.

Course Flooded
 When, after an hour, the torrential rain was coming down and the course was flooded beyond hope, President Tom Walsh of the P. G. A. sampled a green up to his ankles and called off the other-half of the semi-finals. The two matches will continue on the second 18 tomorrow afternoon, with Snead and Nelson retaining the margins they won by brilliant golf today.

Each of them shot a 69, four under par for a 7,000 yard course, which was playing much longer than that because of the soggy fairways and mushy greens that coated their balls with mud.

Ten holes were won in the course of the two match rounds, and every one of them with a birdie. Par golf for a hole never won better than a half as the four sharpshooters tied into each other.

Snead Blasts McSpaden
 Snead virtually knocked the supports from under McSpaden with a 33 on the first nine of their match. That put him three up and a 36 on the way back enabled him to hold his advantage.

Guldahl and Nelson fought more closely and grimly. Guldahl only barely missed a putt on the 18th that would have hauled Nelson back to all square.

Hartnett's Strategy Fails as Lombardi Belts Winning Hit

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31, (AP)—Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs had some well-planned strategy blow up in his face today as the Cincinnati Reds snatched a 5 to 4 victory out of the fire.

With the score tied at four-all from a Cub uprising in the top of the ninth, he ordered relief pitcher Vance Page to walk Frank McCormick, fully expecting Ernie Lombardi, one of the leading producers of double play balls, to cooperate.

Ernie Connects
 The big catcher instead took a Sunday out. The ball went out on a line and Bill Werber, who had walked and been sacrificed to second, totted in with what the Reds needed.

Bucky Walters, the Cincinnati ace, started the game fully intending to ring up his 19th victory. However, after holding the Cubs to seven hits and a run for eight innings, Bucky lost his stuff and the Cubs put over three runs to make things even-strepen in the ninth.

Big Bats
 Doubles by Hank Leiber and Jimmy Gleeson, and singles by pinchhitter Dom Dallesandro and Bob Mattick produced the runs and the uprising ends in confusion. Werber cut off Mike McCormick's throw-in of Mattick's single and then threw wild to the plate. Mattick tried to come in but Beggs, backing up Lombardi, retrieved the ball and threw him out at the plate.

Red Sox Pound Out 10-6 Win Over Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31 (AP)—

The Boston Red Sox landed on George Caster for four runs in the first inning and went on to a 10-6 victory over Philadelphia despite a pair of homers rapped out by the Athletic's Bob Johnson.

For Boston Bobby Doerr poked one over the fence in the ninth inning with the bases clear. The Red Sox scored two more runs in the second and added three in the third, sending Caster to the showers. Chubby Dean finished for the A's.

In the free-hitting contest Boston collected 15 safeties and Philadelphia 13. Boston was guilty of two errors and the Athletics bungled three times.

Boston Bees Outslug Phils For 9-4 Win

BOSTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Boston Bees outslug the Philadelphia Phillies today to grab a 9-4 decision in the first of a three-game series.

Boston jumped into a four-run lead in the first when Albie Gleason opened with a pass, was sacrificed by Johnny Cooney and came home on Max West's double. West scored ahead of Chet Ross, when the latter belted his 11th home run out of the park. Eddie Miller followed suit with another home run.

The Phillies got two back when Johnny Rizzo hit a homer in the fourth after Dan Litwiler's infield single. They tied it up in the seventh when Rizzo doubled and Ben Warren homered, sending Nick Strincevich to the showers. Joe Sullivan finished for the Bees and got credit for the game, yielding two hits.

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins Favors Complete Selective Service

Would Avoid All Voluntary Enlistments

Calls Draft Only Way To Properly Place Men For Training

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP) — Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, said today that he favored reliance upon selective service for national defense to the point of prohibiting volunteer enlistments.

"The whole effort in any selective service," he averred in an interview, "is just what the name implies—to put people where they belong. Volunteering defeats that. You can't leave it up to the people to select the places for which they are best suited. Men volunteer, as a rule, not because they have aptitudes for certain branches of military or naval service, but because relatives or friends have enlisted previously, and they join up, usually, with the outfits closest to their homes.

"If we go to war again, there will be tremendous social pressure to volunteer. The only way to prevent that, and to be reasonably sure that persons are placed according to their qualifications, is to forbid volunteering."

Only Way

"The principal virtue of selective service," Dr. Hutchins emphasized, "is one seldom mentioned: it is the only way we have of putting the right man in the right place. Manifestly, the effective operation of selective service depends upon a highly intelligent administrative personnel."

The 41-year-old university president, himself a veteran of the World War, cited a passage from Adolph Hitler's "Mein Kampf" which he said indicated the futility and wastefulness of haphazard volunteering:

"Hitler said the worst mistake Germany made in the last war, causing an irreparable loss to the nation, was admitting to the army a host of enthusiastic young volunteers—the best blood of the country—which was sent into battle and mowed down."

Military Justifiable

It should be understood, Dr. Hutchins continued, that "all this military business is justifiable for national defense, not on the ground that it has any educational, moral or spiritual value. The greatest discipline of all is to have to do a job on your own, go through with it and deliver. The life of an army private is the opposite of that."

Dr. Hutchins said he was opposed to any attempt to link military training and education. "Our principal mistake, educationally, in the last war was the effort to combine military preparedness and education, particularly in the organization of the student army training corps. The result was bad military training and bad education.

Education, Defense

"You cannot train men for the army in colleges and universities any more than you can train industrial workers there. In order to get the best results in education and national defense the two must be separated."

The distinguished educator supported President Roosevelt's view that young people should continue the normal course of their education, unless and until they are called, but he said he was not in favor of exemption of college and university students as such.

"I cannot imagine anything worse," he asserted, "than to degrade our educational institutions by making them places to go to avoid the draft."

Wallace Plans Quiet Week End Before Tour

DES MOINES, Aug. 31 (AP)—Democratic vice-presidential nominee Henry A. Wallace will spend a week-end at home, in seclusion from political problems, before starting his midwestern campaign tour, his aides said today.

Wallace will leave Monday morning for Chicago, where he is to deliver an informal address to an Afro-American exposition that afternoon.

That appearance will be a prelude to a week of campaign talks through Illinois. No definite plans have been made beyond his previously announced campaign tour covering the next week, James Le Cron, his campaign assistant, said, although Wallace declared he would continue campaigning in the Midwest.

Accompanying Wallace to Chicago will be Le Cron, Rep. Marvin Jones (D-Tex.), and Clifford Gregory, editor of Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Homestead, the publication founded by the nominee's grandfather.

Rep. Jones gave Wallace the official notification here Thursday night of his nomination.

Edward J. Flynn, national democratic chairman, who also spoke at the notification ceremonies, will leave for New York by plane tomorrow noon.

DOGS REJOICE Judge Sets World Aright For Canines

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 31 (AP)—There was wild rejoicing in Charlotte's canine world today.

Fido and Rover strutted around everywhere and didn't give a hang whether they had a city license tag or not.

The reason? The dogcatcher is in jail for 60 days. He pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving.

Cry of 'Run!' Starts Stampede Near 'Falling' Tower at Fair

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31 (AP) — A panic-stricken crowd stampeded at the Golden Gate Exposition today after an unidentified woman shouted, "run, run, the tower of the Sun is falling!"

Police estimated that 50 persons of the 700 in the stampede were bruised or hurt. Eleven required hospital treatment.

The spectators, mostly women and children, were watching Jo-Jo, the clown, in a tree, outdoor candyland review near the tower of the Sun, tallest structure on Treasure Island in San Francisco

Fog clouds hanging around the sun sometimes give the illusion that the tower is leaning.

Of the eleven hospitalized all but three were released after cut and bruised knees and scraped shins and elbows were bandaged.

J. G. Kelly, 43, of Oakland, tried to stem the panic. He jumped to a bench and shouted for calm, but a phalanx of terrified women and children, rushing from behind, knocked him from his perch and battered him against the benches.

Asks Action Against Tavern Owners for Liquor Violations

Vestermark Names Six Establishments

Seeks Injunctions In Application Filed In District Court

Evidence secured by several special investigators working out of County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark's office during the past two weeks was presented in Johnson county district court yesterday when the county attorney filed applications asking temporary and permanent injunctions against six tavern owners.

In securing the evidence the investigators tried to secure both liquor and beer "buys" at the taverns, the county attorney said yesterday. Both were secured at four of the six places. One other sold only liquor and no beer and another sold only beer, he said. None of the six places are now holders of beer permits, Vestermark declared.

Hearing Time Set
Judge James P. Gaffney set 9 a.m. next Wednesday for hearings on the temporary injunction applications. Permanent injunctions cannot be secured until the September term of court convenes on Sept. 16.

The applications filed yesterday ask personal injunctions against all operators and injunctions against owners of property adjoining the taverns in four of the six cases.

"The first object of these injunctions," County Attorney Vestermark explained, "is to enjoin the operators and restrain them from in any manner bootlegging or engaging in the sale of liquor by the drink or the sale, delivery or distribution of beer without a permit."

Seek Further Injunctions
Secondly, the injunctions sought against the premises and property owners, he said, are asked in order to enjoin them and restrain them from permitting such practices to be engaged in upon their land.

Victor and Marge Oliva, operators of the Rivera, according to the information, allegedly have been selling beer without a permit and selling intoxicating liquors by the drink; Arthur C. Nellie B., Merle and Dorothy Stimmel, proprietors of the Village tavern, for the same two alleged violations; Don and Helen Alberhasky of the Green Gables, for the same alleged violations.

Lee and Marie Schneider of Cosgrove, were named for allegedly selling beer without a permit; George and Irene Alberhasky, operators of the Sunset club, for allegedly selling intoxicating liquors by the drink; Ernest J. and Edna I. Smith, proprietors of a tavern and filling station four miles east of Iowa City on highway No. 6, for allegedly selling beer without a permit and for allegedly selling intoxicating liquors by the drink.

Land Owners Named
Land owners named in four of the applications for injunctions are Ed Shea, owner of the property on which the Village tavern is operated; Carl and William Linder, named as owners of the property occupied by the Green Gables; Lee and Marie Schneider, owners of the property surrounding their tavern at Cosgrove, and Joseph Schreiber, owner of the property on which the Smith tavern four miles east of Iowa City is located.

Files Report On Receivership

Seeks to Distribute To Bank Depositors Eighth, Final Dividend

A supplemental report to the Farmers Loan and Trust company receivership was filed yesterday in district court by D. W. Bates, state superintendent of banking, applying for approval and permission to distribute to depositors of the bank an eighth and final dividend amounting to $9,217.02.

According to the report, this figure was determined by the recent receipt of $10,000 as ordered by the court last June 18 minus disbursements of $782.98. The $10,000 was the amount paid to the receivership by Ben S. Sumnerwill, former examiner-in-charge of the receivership, in final settlement of a bond dealing in Iowa City.

In Bates' petition, he states that the depositors claim $756,966.80 and that this dividend would amount to 1.2176 per cent if approved.

Judge James P. Gaffney set Sept. 7 at 10 a.m. as time for the hearing.

Surprise, This War Has Shown, Still is the Deadliest of Weapons

BY EDWARD E. BOMAR

The war that started just a year ago with the sudden invasion of Poland has served as a continuous demonstration that surprise is still the deadliest of weapons.

Statesmen, army general staffs and military experts almost without exception have been as mistaken as the man in the street in anticipating the conflict's course.

Even Adolf Hitler and his advisers, who possessed the initiative from the start, must have been startled repeatedly at the power of the military and psychological forces they called into being.

The prestige of the prophets has gone with the reputation of the generals who erred. There were a few forgotten predictions of an eventual burial of differences between the Nazi and communist dictators, but who aside from the principals themselves anticipated the actual alliance between Hitler and Soviet Russia's Joseph Stalin?

Complete Surprise

Hardly a military man foresaw with any degree of certainty the destruction of Poland three weeks after the first blitzkrieg was launched last Sept. 1. The invasion of Norway was as complete a surprise to the world at large as it was to the unsuspecting Norwegians themselves.

Not even the gloomiest of allied cassandras voiced a warning that the army of France, which neutral officers often termed the world's finest, would be wiped out as an organized force in less time than required for the conquest of Poland.

It is no secret that the foremost American army men were as deceived as French and British leaders as to the striking power of the German army and air force.

After Munich

After Munich, France and Britain were far less confident, but they felt fairly secure behind the Maginot line and the British fleet. If war came, it was to be relatively economical, with the allies on the defensive while Germany was squeezed into submission by a blockade. What was feared was "total war" by air on civilian populations before the allies built up their defenses against this new peril.

For months the strategy appeared so effective that an Italian general in February suggested the possibility of another 30 years war like that of the seventeenth century.

It is mostly forgotten now, but the predictions were confounded as completely a quarter century ago. In 1914 a short war of maneuver was generally anticipated instead of the bloody four-year stalemate that eventuated. Generals were deceived as well in 1870 when France went under so quickly.

With the upsets of the last year fresh in their minds, military men are inclined with reason to be cautious now. The greatest surprise of all would be that there were no surprises in store. If Hitler's bag of tricks should be nearing exhaustion, stubborn Britain appears still capable of startling the world.

Weddings Up County Clerk Reports Great Increase

"All is fair in love and war" and, in spite of which ever case may be responsible, County Clerk R. Nielson Miller issued 67 wedding licenses during the month of August compared to only 38 marriage permits over the same period last year.

Last month's total even surpasses the total for the month of June this year when 58 licenses were issued at the court house. During July, 1940, 33 licenses to wed were issued by County Clerk Miller.

Enter Farm Sports Festival

Johnson County to Be Represented at State Contests at Ames

Eighteen Johnson county farm bureau men and women, boys and girls in individual events and a junior farm bureau softball team will enter the Iowa Farm Sports festival at the Iowa State college campus in Ames on Sept. 6 and 7, County Agent Emmett C. Gardner said yesterday.

All entrants in the state sports contest from Johnson county are the first place winners from the Johnson county farm bureau picnic held at the City park Aug. 1. The two-day festival at Ames will draw similar entrants from all parts of Iowa and will include games, marching bands and other contests.

The local softball team was first in district competition at Muscatine recently thereby winning the right to go to Ames.

sevelt last year but never made public. Willkie said he had received excerpts from a person in whom he had "the utmost faith" but who did not want to be identified because he feared "reprisals."

For the second time, Willkie advocated that the president make public the entire report. When he suggested that course a few days ago, Mr. Roosevelt said it was now largely a historical document.

Danger to Labor
While William L. Hutcheson, president of the United States Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL), sat nearby, Willkie declared that consequences of the Overton-Russell amendment "will fall heaviest upon American labor and those of small means."

"This amendment is a cheap political proposal of the kind which brought France to its destruction," he said.

"The slaughtered millions of brave French soldiers constitute a tragic monument to such demagogic legislation."

In time of emergency, the statement continued, the people must "be willing to lend our government enough extraordinary powers to speed up the defense program."

Avoid Dictatorship
"But we must never lend it—much less give it—more power than it needs to help us accomplish the job. We must not set up a dictatorship to fight the dictators."

Under the Overton-Russell amendment, Willkie asserted, "an administration that so desired could... step into any radio station, newspaper, manufacturing enterprise or any other facility and take it over. The sole pretext would be failure to reach an agreement with the owner."

Declaring the amendment "is completely analogous to the little subterfuges by which dictatorships have been established in Europe," Willkie said:

Still Up to F. R.
"I do not believe that we can make American democracy strong by slipping things over on the representatives of the American people. The intentions of an administration that attempts to govern us in that way are necessarily suspect."

"It was for that reason that I put the Overton-Russell amendment squarely up to Mr. Roosevelt

Four Accidents Reported Here Yesterday

Cedar Rapids Man Injured in Upset West of Coralville

Four minor automobile accidents occurred in and near Iowa City yesterday afternoon and early evening. Injuries were reported in only one of the mishaps.

Howard Henderson of Cedar Rapids suffered a laceration of the head and one broken rib when the car he was driving left the road on a curve a mile west of Coralville on U. S. highway No. 6 and overturned in a ditch. The accident happened between 3 and 4 p.m.

Eleanor Telsrow of Bennett reported about $22 damages to a car driven by her and owned by Howard Telsrow of Tipton when it collided with a car driven by Mrs. Myrtle Smith of Perry. The autos collided when the Telsrow machine was backing out of a parking stall on College street in the downtown area about 2:20 p.m., it was reported. The rear of the Telsrow car was damaged and Mrs. Smith reported about $22 damages to the front end of her machine.

Clair Bailey of Riverside reported about $15 damages to his auto when it was struck in the rear by another car on highway No. 218 a short distance south of Butler's bridge about 5:45 p.m. He reported that he had slowed down behind a load of hay near the top of a hill when he was struck.

About $50 damages were reported on a car driven by Mrs. Charles Skriver of Hills about 6:45 p.m. yesterday when she sideswiped another auto in passing on highway No. 6 near the Casino west of Iowa City. She struck an auto reportedly driven by C. H. Gould, 206 Park Road, Iowa City, who made no report of damages.

ground of a slight hill and then, he said, "I heard it go whoo."

Thought Plane O. K.
"I said to myself 'well they made it all right,'" Thompson continued explaining that he thought the pilot had succeeded in getting altitude.

The actual scene of the crash was a field planted with alfalfa muddy from heavy rains, with a corn field adjoining. What impressed later arrivals was that the terrific explosion had scattered bits of the plane over a wide area—some neighboring farmers said half a mile.

The wreckage indicated the plane hit the ground nose first and cut a deep crater in the field. But only a small portion of the nose of the ship remained in the hole. The rest was shivered into hole. The rest was shivered into small pieces of tangled metal and fabric.

Dr. John Gibson of Leesburg, Va., coroner, visited the scene and attempted to view the bodies.

Cause Unknown

Before leaving for Lovettsville, Branch, chairman civil aeronautics board, said that "at this hour and until the investigation of the board's technical experts is concluded, I do not care to hazard any opinion as to the cause of the accident."

"Until a thorough investigation is completed," Branch said, "any suggestion by anyone as to the probable cause of the accident will of course be simply an individual opinion and unsupported by any facts."

Captain Gill Robb Wilson, president of the National Aeronautics association commented: "We in aviation are profoundly shocked at today's tragic accident which comes after a perfect safety record of more than 17 months. . . . We do not yet know the causes of today's accident but we do know that a competent investigation is already being made by the civil aeronautics board to determine the facts."

Senator Lundeen Opposed War Entry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)— Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota, killed today in a Pennsylvania airlines crash, was an opponent of what he termed United States "intervention" in European affairs.

Sixty-two years old, Lundeen was a veteran of the Spanish-American war. First elected to the house in 1916, he attracted national attention the following year when he voted against this country's entry into the World war.

The Minnesota farmer laborite was elected to the senate in 1936. As a senator, he supported most legislation favored by organized

Our Home Town

THE FISHERMAN BY CHARLES BECKMAN

He is patient beyond belief—for he knows you cannot hurry a fish. He is persistent beyond credence. There is no meanness in his soul because it is filled to the brim with happiness and hope. His interest is not alone in the fish but in the fishing where-in he throws back to his care-mom-ancestors who found fun as well as food in the teeming waters of pre-historic eras.

When a man climbs into his comfortable, disreputable fishing clothes, tops his head with a battered, hook-torn hat and starts for lake or stream, he says goodbye to nerves, inhibitions, business cares and domestic troubles. And though he may sport a $75 hand-made wonder of a rod and may have, in his tackle box an assortment of lures and ladders that represent heavy expenditures, he is blood-brother to the freckle-faced, bare-legged kid with the willow pole and the can of worms who fishes the next pool and who speaks him as an equal.

Next Sunday Mr. Beckman of Beckman's Funeral Home will comment on This Easy Age.

labor and war veterans, but opposed many of the social and farm measures advocated by President Roosevelt.

He declared, however, that his opposition to the farm and social legislation was because it did not go far enough.

Army Service

Born at Bereford, S. D., Aug. 4, 1878, Lundeen graduated from Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., and studied law at the University of Minnesota, being admitted to the bar in 1906. He served several terms in the state legislature before his election to congress.

After his service in the military forces during the Spanish-American war he held a commission in the Minnesota national guard, and was a member of the national championship rifle team of 1909.

Lundeen visited Russia in 1928, returning to this country to urge recognition of the Soviet Union.

Supported Labor

Advocate of a strong united labor movement, he once declared that "if the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. would get together they would hold the 1940 election in the palm of their hand. The farm vote would swing in, and they could march into the White House."

Ivan B. Bott Seeks Separation From Wife In Divorce Action

A petition for divorce was filed in district court yesterday by Ivan B. Bott seeking separation from Rosalind M. Bott on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married in Iowa City on Oct. 12, 1919, according to the petition. Atty. Ingalls Swisher filed the petition.

Sets Hearing In Car Theft

Judge James P. Gaffney yesterday set Sept. 21 at 9 a.m. for hearing on the case of three youths charged with larceny of a motor vehicle. The youths appeared in juvenile court yesterday for hearing.

The judge ordered the youths to start school and appear for hearing on the later date. He also ordered them to pay back to the county sheriff all expenses incurred when he had to go to Tulsa, Okla., recently for them. He also prescribed certain rules of conduct for the trio.

County to Enter Its Largest 4-H Livestock List at Chicago

Exposition Total, Including Winners Here, May Be 15

County Agent Emmett C. Gardner yesterday announced that the largest list of 4-H club livestock ever entered from Johnson county will be made for the International Livestock exposition in Chicago Nov. 30 to Dec. 7.

Five calves which were shown by Johnson county 4-H members will be sent to the exposition as well as several other calves which will make a total of nearly 15 head of livestock.

Bill Hunter will enter two Angus calves, one of which was the grand champion at the West Liberty fair, reserve grand champion of the entire Johnson county 4-H club show and first in its class at the Iowa state fair. Dale Burr will enter a Hereford and a Shorthorn calf. The Hereford calf was grand champion of the Johnson county 4-H club show and was reserve grand champion at the West Liberty fair. The Shorthorn steer was first in its ### class at the local club show. The fifth 4-H animal to be entered at Chicago from Des Moines is a Hereford calf raised by Imelda Miltner. Other stock which was not shown at the state fair but will go to Chicago includes a Shorthorn calf by Clair Yeggy of Solon, an Angus by John Griffith and an Angus by Howard Yoder. Others will be added to this incomplete list later, the county agent said.

Cattle Congress Entries Listed

An entry list of 4-H club dairy stock was being prepared yesterday by County Agent Emmett C. Gardner to send to the Waterloo Dairy Cattle congress there from Sept. 30 to Oct. 6.

Entries which the county agent listed yesterday include those of Lowell Adams, Herbert Hill, Gerald Schwimly, Martha and Louise Warren and Jack Anderson.

These calves were shown at the Johnson county 4-H club show here last month and have been entered in other fairs since.
