BRITISH PLANES BOMB REICHSTAG

Fourth Consecutive All Night Raid on London by Nazis

Another Year, Another Squad of Hawkeyes

Third Longest Raid of War Takes Toll

List of Dead Mounts As Raiders Proceed In All-Night Onslaughts

LONDON, Sept. 11 (Wednesday) (AP)—An apartment house on one of London's squares was shattered by a high explosive bomb early today just before the all-clear signals signaled the end of an 8-hour and 29-minute German air raid, third longest of the war and fourth consecutive all night onslaught.

There was no immediate estimate of casualties or damage. (The British censorship apparently was becoming more stringent on details of the nightly assaults.)

All Clear The clear signal came at 4:40 a.m. Until early this morning, the attack was much less ferocious than the previous three.

Then the pace stepped up until four separate squadrons were wheeling about the capital at the same time at opposite points of the compass.

Heavier bursts of British anti-aircraft fire followed their course up the Thames estuary and over and around the city.

Streets Deserted The streets of central London were nearly deserted.

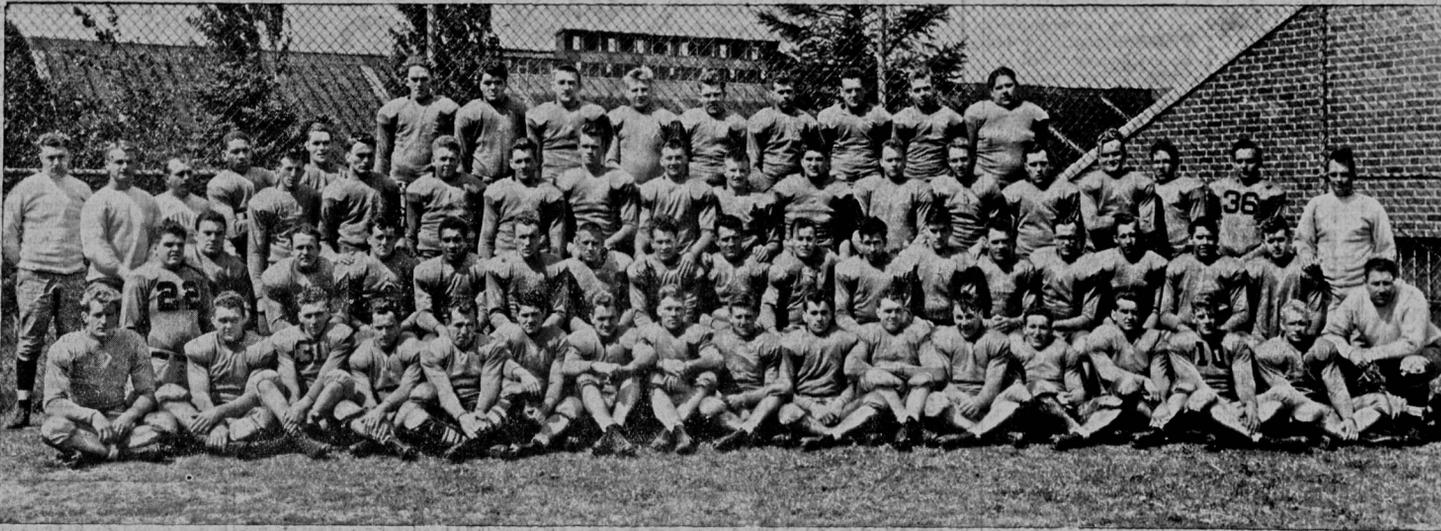

Police and air raid wardens cautioned any person seeking to take a shelter that "our guns are going" and that there was danger of falling fragments.

Some trains leaving London Tuesday were crowded with families going out of the city, but there was nothing to indicate any mass exodus was in progress.

The British press position was typified by the News Chronicle's assertion: "Bodies are weary and nerves (See RAIDS, Page 6)

Carol, Lupescu Go to Portugal

LUGANO, Switzerland, Sept. 10 (AP)—Former King Carol of Rumania and his red-haired woman friend, Magda Lupescu, crept out of the servants' door of their hotel here tonight and boarded the dethroned monarch's special train in the darkness to go to Portugal. Other hotel guests, who had been at the alert for a glance at the couple, thus were disappointed. The ex-king was driven to the railway station first, with three aides. Madame Lupescu followed. Soon after she had boarded the train, her maid arrived with a large bouquet of red carnations. Although Lisbon was understood to be Carol's ultimate destination, one of his retinue said he might interrupt the trip to rest for a while on the French Riviera.

Successors to the famous "Iron Hawks" of 1939, these squad members reported to Dr. Eddie Anderson and his coaching assistants yesterday to begin training for the 1940 gridiron season. It will be their job to try to equal or better the record of last year's sensational team, the winner of six games while losing only one and tying one contest. This will be a tremendous task, for two main reasons. Reason one is the strength lost through graduation, for, although not many of the 1939 team graduated, those who did were key members. Besides Nile Kinnick, who threw the passes that beat Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana, the Hawkeyes will miss Ervin Prasse, captain and star end; Dick Evans, the other first string end; Buzz Dean, halfback and Kinnick's understudy; and Ed McLain and Russell Busk, halfbacks.

Added to the troubles caused by graduation will be the toughness of the Iowa schedule, which includes eight successive games, starting Oct. 5 against South Dakota at Iowa City. The other games, all against major opponents, are with Wisconsin, Purdue and Illinois in Iowa stadium and Indiana, Minnesota, Notre Dame and Nebraska away from home. Raid Berlin In Mightiest Attack of War

500-Pound Bomb Falls Within 300 Yards Of United States Embassy

BERLIN, Sept. 11 (Wednesday) (AP)—British raiders blasted central Berlin today with incendiary bombs and explosives, hitting the German reichstag (parliament) building, and shaking government buildings along Unter Den Linden, in the hardest attack of the war on the capital of the reich.

One incendiary bomb fell through the roof of the reichstag building, gutted by the sensational fire of 1933 and, though still unused, regarded by the Germans as a "symbol of the reich."

Building Afire The building was set afire but the flames were said to have been extinguished quickly by watchmen.

A 500-pound bomb thundered into historic Unter Den Linden within 300 yards of the United States embassy building, which was undamaged. Heavy bombs smashed into the government building section, shattering windows and rocking administration buildings of the reich.

Other explosives ripped up parts of the avenue of splendor, handsome street through the tiergarten and known as an important east west axis which was Adolf Hitler's pride. Holes 8 feet deep were torn in the pavement.

Another explosive bomb fell near the ministry of the interior, blowing ground floor windows out of the building occupied by the Berlin bureau of the International news service, an American news agency.

An official German announcement declared that the raiders, aided by a clear, moonlit night, were trying to score hits on the government buildings of the Wilhelmstrasse—hitting back desperately after having their own capital bombed four successive nights.

Raid Heart of City Most earlier British raids have been beaten back at the outskirts of Berlin. But this time the raiders roared directly over the heart of the city.

Military experts said on a moonlight night and in the light of dozens of flares dropped by the bombers, there was no possibility of mistaking the government district.

14,394 Planes To Be Made

War Officials Give Go-Ahead Signals To 21 Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Placing tentative orders for all of the 14,394 army planes authorized yesterday, the war department tonight told 21 manufacturers to start buying tools and equipment to execute the orders. If no hitch occurs, formal contracts eventually will replace the tentative commitments, which totalled approximately $1,251,000,000 for planes, 28,282 engines, propellers and blades.

When the contracts are signed they will represent the largest single purchase of aircraft ever placed in this country, matching in some degree the 201-ship, $3,861,000,000 building program launched by the navy yesterday. So-called "speed up letters" were sent to the 21 plane, engine and propeller manufacturers, the department announced, authorizing them to buy jigs, dies, tools, material and equipment to produce the planes.

Each letter, said a spokesman, contained an assurance that the manufacturer eventually would receive a formal contract for a specific number of planes at a specific cost.

Speaker W. B. Bankhead Stricken Before Campaign Address

17 Individuals, 9 Corporations Indicted for Anti-Trust Actions

Grand Jury Charges Conspiracy to Control Various War Industries

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Seventeen individuals and nine corporations, indicted by a federal grand jury investigating alleged anti-trust violations in various war industries, pleaded innocent today.

Pleading to an indictment for conspiracy to control the importation, production and sale of tungsten carbide, used in machine cutting tools, were: General Electric Co., and Walter M. Stearns, its manager of trade relations and special contracts; Carbonyl Co., of Detroit, Mich.; W. G. Robbins, its president, and Zay Jeffries of Cleveland, chairman. The Krupp Co., of Essen, Germany, failed to appear.

These defendants pleaded innocent to an indictment alleging a conspiracy to restrain importation, production and sale of glass bulbs used in the manufacture of electric lamps: General Electric Co., and Joseph E. Kewley, vice-president; Corning (N. Y.) Glass Works, and Amory Haughton, its president, William H. Curtiss, vice-president, and Vernon Dorsey, Washington, D. C., patent attorney.

Crop Prospects Raised: Harvest Seen 'Abundant'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The agriculture department reported today that favorable growing conditions during August boosted crop yield prospects at least five per cent and virtually assured an "abundant" harvest.

The department said that during August production prospects for major crops increased as follows: grain sorghums 20 per cent, cotton 12 per cent, spring wheat 11 per cent, oats 8 per cent, barley and flax 5 per cent, beans 3 per cent, corn, potatoes and sweet potatoes 2 per cent and sugar beets 1 per cent.

Yields per acre are expected to be about 1 per cent larger than last year and 16 per cent above the 10-year (1929-38) average.

The department placed corn production prospects at 2,297,186,000 bushels, an increase of about 49,000,000 bushels over the August 1 forecast. Such a crop would be considerably below last year's harvest of 2,619,137,000 bushels, but would about equal the 10-year average of 2,299,342,000 bushels.

Senate-House Committee Session Deadlocked on Age Limits in Bill

House Passes Bill To Provide Housing Near Defense Plants

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—A $150,000,000 program to provide additional homes near defense industries and military posts was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

The legislation was asked by the national defense commission. Sponsors said that the need was greatest in Atlantic coast cities where there are shipyards at work on naval contracts. The houses could be used either for civilian or military personnel.

Antonescu Rids Rumania of 11 Army Heads

BUCHAREST, Sept. 10 (AP)—Eleven Rumanian generals accused of using flattery to gain their appointments from former King Carol were ousted summarily today by Gen. Ion Antonescu in his drive to rid the nation of Carol's influence.

The generals included former Premier George Argeanu and former war minister Ion Ilcusu. All were said to have "practiced political activity contrary to the good of the state."

By decree, Antonescu also outlawed the use of the abdicated monarch's name as patron for any military unit, park or street. The military dictator, however, shot off angry press denunciations of Carol at the fearful behest of King Mihai to halt "these scurrilous attacks on my father."

Italian Planes Bomb Tel Aviv

Modern Jewish City In Palestine Suffers Attack Killing 150

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 10 (AP)—Late dispatches from Palestine said tonight that at least 150 persons were killed today in the Italian bombing of Tel Aviv, modern Jewish city.

In addition to large numbers of bombs dropped, the raiding planes also showered leaflets printed in Arabic, recounting achievements of the Rome-Berlin axis and urging the population to break with the British, it was said.

The British command here reported that at least 50 civilians were killed and scores of homes destroyed along the palm-lined avenues of the city.

One American citizen named Pears (first name unavailable) was killed.

The possibility arose that the casualties might run higher than first reports indicated.

Workers of the Air Raid Precaution service dug into the ruins of homes tonight with prospects that more bodies would be found in the debris.

Huge fires were started, the report declared, in an attack without warning and far from any military objective.

Five of the dead were children, the British said, and indignation spread throughout Palestine.

Sheppard Sees Agreement By Both Groups

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—A long session of the senate-house committee appointed to write a compromise version of the conscription bill ended tonight in a deadlock on the age limits of the men to be subjected to the draft.

The senate conferees offered to raise the top figure to 39 years and the house members held out for 44.

The bill as passed by the senate made all between 21 and 30, inclusive, liable to compulsory military service, while the house figures were 21 through 44. After the senate's compromise offer was flatly rejected, Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate group said it might be withdrawn.

Despite the disagreement on this point, the conferees reported rapid progress in other directions, especially in disposing of minor points. Sheppard, in fact, predicted that the job would be completed and the bill in its final form by tomorrow night.

However, the principal point of controversy, the Fish amendment providing for a sixty-day postponement of the draft while voluntary conscription is given a final trial, was put over for discussion later. This was done among accumulating indications that when it is reached, the amendment will be scrapped.

The agreements reached during the day included the adoption of the senate's limitation of 900,000 men on the number of conscripts to be in service in the land forces simultaneously, instead of the (See CONSCRIPTION, Page 6)

Representative Faints in Hotel In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (AP)—Sixty-six year old William B. Bankhead, speaker of the house of representatives, fainted in his hotel room here tonight from an "excruciatingly painful" attack of sciatica, suffered a short time before he was to make an address opening the democratic campaign in Maryland.

Dr. George W. Calver, navy physician and attending physician at the capital in Washington, found Bankhead on the floor unconscious 35 minutes before his address over a national radio hookup, was scheduled.

"His condition at present is quite satisfactory," Dr. Calver said, "but I am keeping him in bed here at the hotel at least all day tomorrow and possibly for several days. Mrs. Bankhead is here and a nurse can be obtained if necessary."

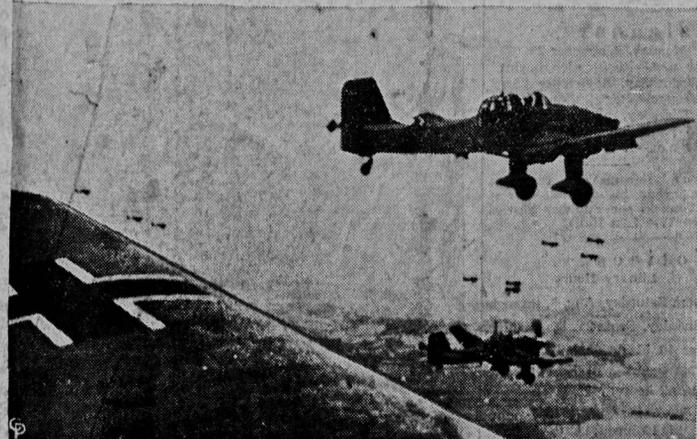

Dr. Calver said the speaker had been suffering from sciatica for the last five days and that he had suggested that Bankhead cancel tonight's engagement.

"But, he said he had promised the boys that he would come over, and would not let them down," the navy physician explained, adding that he had come along as a precautionary move.

The political rally went ahead as scheduled, with Governor Herbert R. O'Connor reading the speaker's prepared address. In the speech, Bankhead defended President Roosevelt's right to run for a third term and praised the administration's "good neighbor" foreign policy and defense program.

The speech reviewed the president's incumbency and asserted the republican platform "approved in principle the democratic legislative program of this administration."

LITTLE PLANE, YOU'VE HAD A BUSY DAY—AND HOW!

—Central Press Phonophoto

These German Stuka bombers are pictured here, according to the Berlin censor, returning to their airbase in France after a day's bombing of English objectives. These small, compact planes which are a poor fighting type are here flying in loose formation so as to be able to scatter easily in case of attack. Highly effective as bombers, they are no match for some pursuit planes.

F.D.R. to Speak at Union Convention

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL (AP)—President Roosevelt will make a personal, active bid for a third term tomorrow night in the first address since his nomination acceptance speech on which the White House or democratic spokesmen have pinned a "political" label.

He will speak to the convention of the International Teamsters' union in Washington. The president said today he was unable to determine whether his address would be political or non-political but Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters that the democratic national committee would pay for radio time on two networks—a sign the speech was considered political—and added:

"I expect the president in all probability tomorrow night will deliver the labor speech of the campaign."

Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn, in New York, termed it a "political speech."

Heretofore, the president had indicated he would be so pressed for time because of the defense program and world conditions that he would be able to do little or no active campaigning. He rejected challenges of republican candidate Wendell L. Willkie to debate campaign issues.

Early pointed out that in his acceptance speech, the chief executive had said he would not have the time or inclination to engage in "purely political debate."

To call the attention of the nation to deliberate or unwilling falsifications of fact" by political candidates.

Early said four networks had planned to carry the speech, but that national coverage would be obtained by two and that the committee did not wish to pay for four.

The other two can if they wish carry the speech free. But in that event, they would have to donate equal time on the air to Willkie under a federal communications commission ruling.

Blitzkrieg on London

The latest phase of Germany's air war against England is evidently the "total" war personally directed by Herman Goering that has long been threatened.

It is the phase of the war that has been most feared by the civilian populations. It has struck with most fury at those people who are always the most unfortunate victims of war. The men conscripted to fight on the battlefields are powerless to combat the destruction that the bombing plane brings to crowded city populations. It is instead the workman who lives in the crowded industrial districts so essential to keeping a nation at war that are the targets most sought after by the bombers.

German citizens in Berlin and other industrial cities have been driven to bomb shelters during raids by British planes and they have had their homes blasted apart and burned and some of them have been killed in the attacks. They have not been subjected, however, to the mass onslaughts that have devastated homes and tenements in the sprawling industrial and harborside areas of London.

Greater London is almost impossible to defend from attack by bombers that come in waves far superior in numbers to the defending British fighters. The British report that their plane production is now ahead of the rate of losses. Yet German planes still outnumber British planes in the sky over England.

The men and machines are meeting the test of battle. The heroic fight against odds by British pilots has been superb as has the morale of the people who are now daily undergoing destructive bombings. The government had repeatedly warned the people in the most vulnerable areas of the city to flee to the country. These are mostly the poor East-Enders, who had evacuated many of their women and children to country areas where they might find safety. When the full scale attacks were delayed most of those who had fled chose to return and have been trapped in their tenement homes. These are the people whose plight has been so vividly described in the accounts of eye-witnesses.

In raids over the last week end more than 600 were killed and unknown thousands have shown, too, that the bomb shelters erected to shelter the victims of the raids are not invulnerable. The blows struck at England in the last few days are not likely to bring about her downfall. The courage of the people in the face of this "total" war has shown that they will not plead for capitulation in order to spare themselves further horrors. Yet it is not likely—as the nazis threaten and the British predict—that the worst is past. The tempo of the air war, and particularly that part of it aimed at the industrial centers where women and children are most likely to be victims, is likely to increase.

The people of London have not a bright prospect ahead. But they are tough. They believe that they will survive. We know that they will survive in spirit and morale. And if they can hold out in machines and equipment and men—matters in which the United States has already moved to lend a helping hand—the final victory is already in sight.

For the Glory of God

The Daily Iowan carried last week a short item which was just a hint of a dramatic story.

It said that President Roosevelt had awarded to the Rev. Francis X. Quinn a medal for valor bearing the legend in Latin: "All for the glory of God."

Father Quinn, a short, stocky New York priest, earned the medal on Palm Sunday morning of 1939. Fifty policemen had cornered a gunman at a Manhattan apartment house. But they were afraid to close in on their prey because he held a gun against the temple of an elderly hostage to keep the policemen from approaching him.

Father Quinn prayed silently and moved toward the fugitive, his hands high above his head. For an hour the priest and the gunman argued. Then the man at bay dropped his weapon and surrendered.

Last week Father Quinn was ready to go to Washington to receive recognition from the president for his bravery when he was again called by tragedy in the city. Police summoned him to plead with a man who, crazed with grief, was about to jump from the same fourth floor window from which his bride had leaped to death in a recent fire. The suicide attempt was balked and the priest prayed with the rescued husband. In Washington Father Quinn accepted the outward evidence of his valor and returned to New York, where he may never again earn an inch of newspaper space but where, in a less spectacular way, he will continue to serve mankind.

Another Restricted Campaign

Earl Browder, communist candidate for president of the United States is going to be even more restricted in his campaigning than President Roosevelt.

The president has announced that because of the critical international situation he must conduct a "doorstep" campaign; he will at no time be more than 12 hours from the White House. The restriction on Browder's campaigning also arises out of his interest in international affairs but there the similarity ends. Browder's restriction is not self-inflicted. He has been convicted of passport fraud, and while he has a supreme court appeal pending, has not begun to serve his four-year prison sentence. Last week Federal Judge John C. Knox ruled that Candidate Browder could not leave the jurisdiction of his court, the southern part of New York state, until the southern part of Browder isn't even conceded an outside chance to win the election so the campaign restriction is not likely to trouble him much. Instead he may be troubled by the paradox that permits a person convicted of a crime to actively seek the highest office in the land. Actually it isn't a paradox; it's just part of the democratic process. But to one who advocates a system which has brooked no competition, which has "purged" all opposition and which recognized only one power, the situation should present some thought-provoking angles.

A Man About MANHATTAN

The Mysterious Mountain In North Carolina

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK — When Andy Anderson got ready to write that murder novel of his, "Kill One, Kill Two," he went back to the Blue Ridge section of his boyhood North Carolina for a back drop. In the book there is a mountain on which, at various times, mysterious lights appear. There is a legend among the Indians who inhabit the region that these lights mean death. When they appear, someone is certain to die.

We asked Andy if there really is such a mountain in North Carolina.
"Yes, sir," he replied, "in the Linville section, near Asheville. Only, we call it Brown mountain. I've heard about the Brown mountain lights all my life."
"Did you ever see them, Andy? Don't lie now."
"No," he admitted, "I never did. But I know plenty of people who have. The government even has investigated them. And a number of scientists in the south have made studies of them. They're some sort of phenomena, but they don't really mean that somebody is going to die. Sometimes there's just one light; and sometimes they come in clusters. It's a very funny thing."

Funny isn't the word for it. If you know any mystery writers, you'll know what I mean by that. Take Andy, for instance. Here is a tall (well over six feet), extraordinarily thin young man with prematurely grey hair. He speaks with a softly flowing North Carolina drawl. He has knocked about the south, middle west, and the metropolitan district as a newspaperman for twenty years. This is his first book.

"I wrote most of it in an apartment on 14th street between 5th avenue and Union Square, and if you don't think that is a peculiar environment for a murder mystery you don't know what it means to hear Communist brawls, shells screaming insults at taxi-drivers, and shoe-string salesmen squabbling with the cops. It's Coney Island and Hell's Kitchen wrapped around Sugar Hill, with a blob of the Bowery thrown in.

"Finally I went out to Jackson Heights and finished the thing in comparative peace. But nobody wanted it. One night we ran out of tally sheets during a hot bridge game and I kicked over the manuscript, looking for some extra paper. Sitting in the game was a literary agent. He said, 'What is that thing?' Which was a superlative question, as anybody who has ever seen a manuscript can tell one a mile. The upshot of this was he took the manuscript. Twenty-four hours later it had been submitted, and accepted."

We also asked Andy if he, himself, was a mystery novel fan. "I eat 'em up," he admitted. "I've read a thousand of the things. They get you. All great men read mystery stories—Winston Churchill, President Roosevelt, Henry Ford. Don't you?"

We told him that, strange as it may seem, we never had read an out-and-out modern mystery novel, but that, come midnight, we were a cinch to get started on the right track, as a copy, neatly autographed, of "Kill One, Kill Two" was even then under our arm and we were all set to get going.

Roosevelt Tries A Goebbels System

WASHINGTON—The Goebbels system of national defense commission publicity—the one which produced the grand confusion on plane figures—is to be liquidated or at least re-surfaced. Mr. Roosevelt has sanctioned an inside reorganization to be directed by Secretary William McReynolds of the commission. While Her Horton, instigator of the grand confusion, may retain his publicity directorship, the censorship ban is to be removed from the defense commissioners, at least to the extent of permitting them to speak publicly in their own names. The commission itself is no longer to be hermetically sealed. More or less open public relations comparable with the other government departments are to be maintained. The reorganization is under way. Perhaps no public mention will be made of it officially. But you may see it start to produce more accurate facts and figures concerning the progress of the vital American rearmament program.

ADVENTURE IN PROPAGANDA

This most amazing of all new deal adventures in propaganda was the original work of the president's new adviser, Lowell Mellett. It may now be told that Defense Secretary McReynolds originally suggested to the president that Mellett work out a method of handling defense developments for the public, and the president agreed. Mellett, a former Scripps-Howard editor, appointed Robert Horton, who was then in charge of maritime commission publicity and they worked closely together thereafter.

Messrs. Knudsen, Stettinius and the other commissioners were gagged by this centralized control. The war and navy departments' publicity staffs were superseded in their own business. The only official statements came out under Mr. Horton's name or anonymously from him, thus reversing the usual procedure. In other government departments statements invariably are issued upon the authority of the officials rather than their press agents.

Two cabinet officers were actually requested by letter from the centralized office to have most of their publicity clear through Horton. A mimeographed appeal was made to all government departments suggesting that all radio material in relation to defense be cleared through the Horton bottleneck. Newsreel photography was even subjected to the same restrictions.

Army and navy contracts actually awarded by the army and navy and cleared only through the commission, were nevertheless announced by Horton.

INSIDE SQUABBLES

The effect was the creation of a single-headed, dictatorial publicity arrangement somewhat like the Creel committee established during the World War, channelizing the most important news of the nation through a single fountainhead. It caused not only the mess on plane figures which has become public property, but innumerable inner squabbles, such as upon four occasions when Horton announced contract information which the army and navy considered secret data. Mr. Horton actually wrote under his own signature suggested articles for newspapers, which were printed at government expense and sent to newspapers throughout the country, in a form so they could be published without changing a word—as if an impartial reporter had written the account.

WHY ARE BARNACLES?

ANSWER WORTH MILLIONS

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—What makes barnacles cling as tight as barnacles? A U. S. navy observer, Dr. Austin Phelps of Austin, Tex., is trying to find out. He carries on his investigation sometimes at sea, sometimes in a small college room. If he can find out, and find out also how to stop it, he could save U. S. shipping interests alone $100,000,000 each year. On top of that, fouling by barnacles is an important hazard to warship efficiency in time of war.

Air distance between New York and Le Havre, France, is 3,676 miles.

FORT COLLINS, Col. (AP)—Riddle: If a woman has a chicken pen that is tightly fenced and locked how can thieves get in to steal the chicks? Deputy Sheriff Ray Barger was summoned by Mrs. Carl D. HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

This Dance Routine Is 'Slightly Mad'

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The girls in the blue flannel shorts and neat striped sweaters were going through a dance number.

A dance number is what their mentor, Miss Merriell Abbott, called it. It looked to me like a routine designed for slightly mad persons who wish to knock themselves out spectacularly. The girls, nine of 'em, were doing a conga affair embellished by "splits" and "aerials" and other contortions and when they landed resoundingly on the floor, all together, it hurt. Me, not them. They just bounced up and kept on dancing.

You've seen them before, these Merriell Abbott Dancers, in the Jack Benny movies. You'll see them again in the Benny-Fred Allen piece, "Love Thy Neighbor," wherein this conga number will be one of their specialties.

The Abbott Dancers don't have to dance. They're taught dancing by a woman who doesn't have to teach dancing, either. They dance, and Miss Abbott teaches dancing, because the whole shebang just plain likes dancing.

"My girls — I mean most of them—could live at home very comfortably without working," says Miss Abbott, a nice-looking matronly type with steel-gray hair. "My husband is a successful orthopedic surgeon in Chicago. So there's really no reason for our working except that we all love it. I've thought of giving it up, but I can't—like it too much."

Miss Abbott is the touring

"foster-mother" of all the girls, whose ages range from 18 to 21. She knows every boy who "dates" each girl. She knows where they're going and what time they'll be in, and she takes care of them just as they would be looked after in their good Chicago homes.

Each girl is assigned a weight beyond which she must not go on pain of a fine. Weigh-in day is Thursday. The girls can eat all they please and what they please during the week, but come Thursday they must be on the scales at the prescribed weight. When any girl protests about a penalty for a mere three or four pounds, Miss Abbott hands the rebel a four-pound sack of sugar and commands, "Now let me see you do an aerial carrying this sack." (An "aerial" is a terpsichorean stunt, like a handspring done without touching hands to floor. You must try it some time, heh, heh!)

Many of the girls have been in the Abbott school in Chicago since childhood. There's Jean Guest, who was four when she enrolled, and Valerie Thon, who was seven. Aside from the salaries they earn, they get travel. Miss Abbott has taken troupes to Europe and South America and had them in several Broadway plays.

She herself used to be a kindergarten teacher, with a suppressed desire for the dance. Her parents thought no decent girl went on the stage. By the time Miss Abbott declared her independence she thought it was too late for her to dance professionally so she did the next best thing — took up dance instruction.

She still dances, though not all the acrobatic, aerial, ballet and ballroom steps her pupils undertake. "But I can still do a split," she chuckles, "and at 47 that's pretty good!"

Winds Up Rural Tour

Henry A. Wallace Attacks Corn Proposal By Hugh Butler

By CLIFF SANDAHL FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 10 (AP)

—Henry A. Wallace wound up his two-day Nebraska rural tour here late today with an attack on the proposal of Hugh Butler, state republican senatorial nominee, to lend government corn to drought-stricken farmers with the understanding that they pay it back in kind within the next five years.

"The Nebraska republican grain trade is interested only in getting farm votes, destroying the commodity credit corporation with its corn and wheat loans, and in lowering the price of corn," Wallace asserted.

The democratic vice presidential nominee, however, withheld comment on a suggestion of Gov. R. L. Cochran, democratic senatorial candidate, to release corn through the surplus commodity corporation without the farmers' obligation to pay back.

Referring to Butler's plan, which embraces lending of 10 bushels of corn per acre to every drought-stricken farmer, Wallace said:

"Obviously, a proposal of this sort, if put into action, could not be confined solely to Nebraska. For example, there is a very serious drought this year in Kansas, Oklahoma, Indiana and parts of Illinois. If started, it could not be confined to one year.

Population Shifts "Unfortunately farmers in the drought stricken areas of the great plains do not always live on the same farms for five years. Even in the central corn belt there is a tremendous shifting in farm population in a five year period. There is no certainty whatever that as much as one-half of the corn proposed to be paid out would ever be returned."

The apparent object, he added, is "to use the very serious necessities of drought stricken farmers in Nebraska to bankrupt the commodity credit corporation, give business to the grain trade, and ruin the price of corn."

It is not fair, he continued, to livestock farmers in 1941 and 1942 to "break the price of corn this fall by shoveling tens of millions of bushels out of the ever normal granary at no cost to the farmer."

"We had experience with this in the fall of 1938 when we made many millions of bushels of ever normal granary corn available at a cheap price. This had a lot to do with breaking the hog market in 1939 and 1940. The federal government does not have enough money to eliminate the effects of drought and flood on crops."

service bill the Fish amendment is eliminated."

This amendment, sponsored by Representative Fish (R-NY) and supported by many house republicans, passed the house and now is before a conference committee seeking to adjust differences between senate and house consent measures.

It would provide that the army accept voluntary enlistments for 60 days before drafting men for a total of 400,000 new recruits. Willkie's statement, drawn up at 6 a.m., and distributed to reporters two hours later, also said he was "enormously gratified" by the republican victory in Maine.

Willkie said he had telegraphed his congratulations to Sumner Sewall, the governor elect, and Rep. Ralph O. Brewster, who was elected to the senate.

While the candidate spent a quiet day, additional members of his staff were arriving for the 15-day trip through the middle and far west. The journey will be made on a 12-car special train, to leave Rushville shortly before midnight Thursday.

S. U. I. Adds Sound Films

University Prepares To Aid Schools With Educational Service

Now the University of Iowa is better prepared than ever before to aid the state schools with film and slide service.

Lee Cochran, supervisor of visual instruction department, said that about 100 new films have been added to the collection. Most of these are sound films.

Schools rapidly are installing projection equipment as one of the important necessities of classroom instruction, according to the university man. And the university is keeping pace with the demand for the latest educational films.

Sound films now are available in such varied fields as arts and crafts, athletics, biological science, geography, health, physical sciences, music, and safety. Within the past few years, films largely have supplanted slides in the classroom.

Lefty Grove and Bosox Knock Detroit Out of American League Lead, 6 to 5

DETROIT, Sept. 10 (AP)—Robert Moses Grove, the aging but still potent Tiger-tamer, went the route for the Boston Red Sox in a 13-inning baseball thriller today to drop the Detroit Tigers into second place in the American league race.

Tom Carey's single off Relief Pitcher Alton Benson scored Joe Cronin from second with the winning run to give Boston a 6 to 5 decision and Grove his seventh victory of the season.

Detroit's defeat restored the idle Cleveland Indians, rained out of their game with the New York Yankees, to the league leadership, with a .5714 to .5704 margin over the Tigers. The Yankees are only two points back of Detroit, at 5.68.

Old Moses' prospects didn't look rosy in the first inning as the Tigers pounced on the veteran southpaw for three hits and as many runs. Hank Greenberg parked one of Lefty's pitches in the upper left field pavilion with Bruce Campbell and Charley Gehring on base. It was Greenberg's 13th home run of the year.

Grove, who admits to an age of 40 years, settled down to blank the Tigers for five innings while his mates pecked away at the Detroit lead and finally overcame it.

Big Louie (Buck) Newsom started for Detroit, seeking his 19th victory of the season, and pitched for 12 innings, finally retiring for a pinch-hitter. Benton was charged with the defeat.

In the end it was Grove's mastery over Rudy York, chunky first baseman, that decided the game. York, whose home runs have broken up two games in the Tiger's favors in the past week, to the plate seven times and connected safely but once.

With the score tied and the bases loaded in the ninth inning, York hit a grounder to Cronin, forcing Greenberg at second to retire the side. Grove fanned York for the third out in the 11th, with Greenberg on first and Gehring on second, and struck out again in the 13th, with Campbell on second, for the game's final out.

Tuck Stainback was Grove's only other strikeout victim. Lefty issued seven bases on balls and allowed 10 hits.

The Sox started trimming Detroit's three-run lead in the second inning when Ted Williams walked and scored on Lou Finney's triple to right. Singles by Dominic DiMaggio and Roger Cramer, and a walk to Jimmie Foxx loaded the bases in the third, DiMaggio scoring as Williams hit into a force play.

Williams singled in the sixth, reached third on Cronin's single and scored the tying run as Bobby Doerr hit into a double play.

Boston took a 4-3 lead in the seventh on DiMaggio's sixth home run of the year, only to see the Tigers tie it up again on doubles by Campbell and Greenberg.

The Sox filled the bases with none out in the 12th, Grove and DiMaggio singling and Cramer bunting safely. Foxx's liner to right scored Grove with Boston's fifth run, but a double play in which DiMaggio was thrown out at the plate cut off further scoring.

Again Detroit rallied to tie the game. Pinky Higgins, making his first appearance at third base for Detroit since a recent injury, walked, reached second on a sacrifice and third on an infield single, then scored as Dutch Meyer, batting for Newsom, grounded to Carey.

After Cronin doubled to open the 13th, Benton fanned Doerr and gave Finney an intentional pass; then Carey, who replaced Gelbert at third in the 11th, singled Cronin home with the winning run.

The defeat snapped a Detroit winning streak at five games.

Trio to Coach Iowa Freshmen

Freshman football players at the University of Iowa will be called out Sept. 30, with a three-man coaching staff in charge.

Dr. Eddie Anderson, head varsity coach, said that Glenn Devine, former Iowa halfback, would serve with the other two men already selected — Bill Hofer as head freshman coach, and Nile Kinnick, the 1939 all-American.

Anderson said he hoped the squad would be a large one. If necessary, a couple of assistants from the athletic coaching course will aid Hofer, Devine, and Kinnick.

It is likely that the varsity coaches will give the freshmen some attention after the close of the schedule. Thorough schooling in the Notre Dame style of play will be given the athletes throughout the fall.

Capt. Mike Enich Heads Linemen; More Reserves

BY OSCAR HARGRAVE
 Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Beneath the fading shadow of 1939's famed "Iron Hawks," relegated to perhaps an even more mysterious role than last year's Iowa eleven and faced with another of Iowa's traditional "suicide" schedules, Dr. Eddie Anderson's 1940 football squad reported yesterday for its opening fall workout.

Nearly a 100 per cent response to the invitation to report was the record, with only two of the men failing to arrive for the first day's practice. The two, James Nelson of Waterloo and Ed Wilkerson of Terre Haute, Ind., will probably report today.

There is, as compared to last year, far more confidence along the sidelines, with players and coaches also expressing the belief that the 1940 team will be a capable one. But, as before last year, no one is predicting how many games the Hawkeyes will win.

Squad Heavier
 More beef is evident on the squad—more reserve strength and probably more power. On the list of candidates are 17 returning lettermen, with Capt. Mike Enich leading off the list. Enich, all-midwest tackle in 1939 will be at right tackle again and even the most pessimistic admit that Enich might well be Nile Kinnick's successor as Iowa representative on the all-American teams. The presence of Jim Walker as Enich's running mate gives Iowa what may become the most feared tackle combination in the nation.

The line, in fact, looks much better between the ends, with the flank posts depending completely on the replacements for Erwin Prasse, fleet-footed pass snatcher, and Dick Evans, now with the Green Bay Packers. Thus far, it looks as though the wing duties would be handled by Ken Pettit, a top-notch guard last year, John Maher, a veteran reserve, Jens Norgaard, another veteran, and Bill Parker, a speedy sophomore.

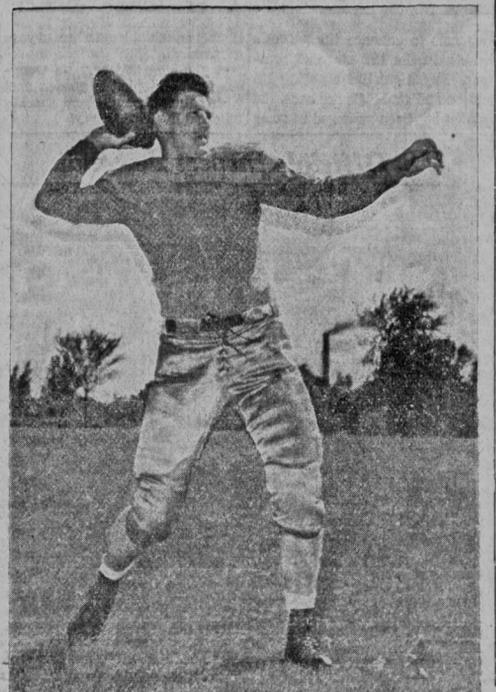

Veterans in Line
 Between the ends are Enich, Walker, Bob Otto, all veterans, and Al Urban, a sophomore, at tackles, with both veterans and sophos on hand for guard and center posts. Seasoned guards include big Henry Luebecke, Charles Tollefson, Ham Snider and Max Hawkins, a quartet of capable seniors. Reinforcing the guard spots will be Bob Penultima, Dick Dickerhoof and Francis Curran. Bill Diehl, Bruno Andruska and Red Frye are the veteran centers, while Bob Lauterbach and Tom Hand top the newcomers.

Backfieldmen are plentiful, although there is still no definite answer to the question of who will succeed Nile Kinnick at left halfback. Bill Stauss, Tom Farmer, Jim Youel, Bob Bender and Tony Komlanc, all sophomores, are still in the running, with Stauss and Farmer possibly to be conceded a slight edge.

Outside of left halfback, the offensive threats will depend largely on veterans, although Bob Mertes, a newcomer, may come through at right halfback and Art Johnson may break in at right half or fullback for part-time duty. However, there seems little doubt but what Al "The Dictator" Coussepe will call the signals, with Ray Murphy and Bill Green dividing the fullback job and Ope Gilleard, Bill Gallagher and Mertes handling right halfback.

In yesterday's drills Anderson and his aides, Frank Carideo, Nile Kinnick, Bill Hofer and Nile Kinnick, gave little indication as to whether or not they would do any shifting around of some of the candidates. The morning session was confined mainly to picture-taking by newspaper photographers, while the players went through a drill on fundamentals and signals in the afternoon.

Bender Only Veteran On U-High Squad

Coach Paul Brechler, U-high mentor who last year turned out one of the best teams in its conference, is putting his 35 candidates through their second week of practice. Although school doesn't start until next Monday, Brechler has been holding practices twice a day in order to get his boys in shape for their first game with Richland Sept. 20.

Only one letterman besides Capt. Bob Bender is returning from last year's outstanding team. Bender, who last year regularly held down a guard position, will be shifted over a notch to tackle. The rest of the team will be made up entirely from last year's reserves and new candidates, many of whom are underclassmen.

HOLDERS are entitled to reserved seats for the major home football and basketball games.

Chase Yields Six Hits; Jack Knott Loses First Game in Six Starts

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Washington Senators combined a triple play, an extra base hit attack and Ken Chase's sixth-inning pitching for a 5 to 2 victory over the White Sox today in the first of a two-game series.

The triple play, second in the American League this season, came after Taft Wright walked and Mike Tresh singled. Bob Kennedy lined to Jim Bloodworth who tossed to Sherry Robertson to catch Wright. Robertson then threw to Jack Sanford, catching Tresh off first.

The Nats sewed up the game in the fifth when Jack Knott yielded doubles by Chase and Case and a triple by Buddy Lewis in succession in a rally that netted three runs. The loss was Knott's first in seven starts.

Midwest Teams Begin Drills For Football

54 Men Report To Bo McMillin Of Indiana U.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 10 (AP)—A squad of 54 players, described by Coach A. N. (Bo) McMillin as "the best physically and mentally I've seen here in six years," opened Indiana University's 1940 football campaign today with morning and afternoon workouts.

Twenty-two of the candidates have had at least one year's experience in college football. There are 25 sophomores on the squad.

Purdue Candidates Get Scrimmage

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 10 (AP)—Seventy-four Boilermakers reported to Mal Elward today for the opening of football practice at Purdue University.

They went through limbering exercises in the morning, worked on offensive maneuvers in the afternoon and concluded with a 15-minute scrimmage session. The squad's only other double drill will be held tomorrow.

Mike Byelene and John Petty were the only veterans used in the backfield. Pete Timperman, out last season with a broken leg, participated in the drill.

Layden Shifts Irish Lineup

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 10 (AP)—Coach Elmer Layden shifted his Notre Dame football lineup to fill vacancies caused by graduation as gridiron drill opened today.

Bernie Crimmins, Louisville junior, was shifted from right halfback to fullback and is expected to alternate with Capt. Milt Piepuls.

Tom Miller, right halfback with the frosh last fall, was moved to right end to replace the graduated Capt. John Kelly, and Howard Petschel, reserve lineman who enlisted in the air corps instead of returning to school.

Sixty men reported.

Hawklets Set For Opener

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 10 (AP)—Ohio State university's famed pass offensive was stressed today as the Big Ten's defending champions launched stiff twice-a-day workouts. Two out of every three offensive plays ordered by Coach Francis A. Schmidt in "tag" scrimmage involved some goal-line passes, punting, plunges and end runs.

Although several of the boys have been on the wrong end of some jarring knocks, it isn't likely, according to Coach Cormack that any of the boys will be unable to participate in the initial battle. Taking it easy last night's session were big Paul Miller, tackle, and end Ed Crossett, Miller with an injured leg and Crossett favoring a sprained wrist.

Call Promoted At Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 10 (AP)—Normal Call, 170-pound junior from Norwalk, Ohio, who failed to win a varsity letter a year ago, was named to Michigan's starting backfield as 51 football candidates began practice today for the opening game Sept. 28 with University of California at Berkeley.

Coach Fritz Crisler said Call would play right halfback in the backfield with all-American Tom Harmon, Capt. Forest Evashevski and Bob Westfall. With Call in the lineup, Crisler indicated Harmon would do the punting this season and Cliff Wise, sophomore who is the best punter on the squad, would be groomed as Harmon's understudy.

Bert Miller and Paul Ware can usually be counted on to give defensive ends and line-backers a good run for their money. Add to these men Bill Sandger, sophomore passing threat, Bud Lemons and Dean Williams and it's easily seen why Mississippi valley coaches may be casting respectful glances in Iowa City's direction.

If the weather permits tonight, a final stiff drill before Friday's game will be handed the Little Hawks at Shrader field at about 7:30.

England Sends Fire-Secreting 'Calling Cards' to Germany

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Sept. 10 — Britain disclosed tonight a new "secret weapon" in the form of innocent-looking bits of chemically treated cardboard dropped by the millions on Germany as delayed fire-bombs which burst into flame in unexpected quarters.

Germany, in first making public the new British tactics, acknowledged the fire-secreting "calling cards" carried more than a mere nuisance threat.

British authorities, in subsequently admitting use of the new weapon, described it only as a "self-igniting leaf," and declined to furnish details.

But the authentic German description, given after chemical analysis, sounded like a sequence from some fertile adventure cartoon or a passage from a sixpence detective thriller.

The cards are about two inches square, composed of gun cotton and phosphorus, and are carried in a moist state, the Germans said.

Scattered over the countryside in lots of a quarter-million from a single plane, they dry out naturally and spring suddenly into flames about eight inches high when warmed by natural processes to a moderate temperature.

Implying that the cards may bear a printed message, the Germans said they were particularly dangerous because people had been picking them up for souvenirs, only to have them burst into flame in a pocket or a bureau drawer.

They are poisonous, too, according to the Germans.

A British authority derided

this last charge, saying, however, that "if handled, they would of course cause burns." He said nothing about the other description.

The Germans suggested that small bundles of the cards had been scattered widely over Germany, particularly in Westphalia, Hanover, the Harz mountains and southern and middle Germany.

The British merely called attention to the fact that recent air ministry communiques have told of fires in the black forest.

"The leaves are designed to set fire to military stores standing in the open at arsenals or ammunition factories or to military supplies in open railway cars or trucks and similar objectives," said the British authority.

"It is known that the enemy has concealed such targets in woods," he remarked.

One item which seemed especially to provoke German authorities was the fact that the cards burned at different times, depending on the amount of warmth and sunlight they received.

They might even lie dormant for 10 years, said a German spokesman, and still be a constant threat. He demonstrated one card to foreign correspondents in a Berlin alley. It flared up in 10 minutes.

that Willkie's statement "shows the kind of harmony that exists between the republican candidate and his congressional leaders."

The Maine Weather Vane

G. O. P. Hails Victory But Democrats See Election as No Index

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Republicans yesterday hailed the Maine election results as foreshadowing a republican victory in November, while democrats replied that Maine no longer was a reliable political weather vane.

As the leaders of the opposing parties exchanged views, reports of eight states voted in primary elections, selecting nominees for state and federal offices. In addition, Alaska held a general election to choose a delegate to congress and territorial officials.

Primaries
The states which held primaries yesterday were Arizona, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Vermont and Washington. In three of these, United States senators sought renomination — Ashurst (D-Ariz.); Shipstead (F-L, Minn.); and Vandenberg (R-Mich.). In Vermont, Senator Austin, republican, was unopposed.

Meanwhile, Stephen Early, White House press secretary, said in Hyde Park, N. Y., that President Roosevelt probably would make "the labor speech of the campaign" when he addresses the convention of the International Teamster's union in Washington tonight. Early added that the broadcast of the speech would be paid for by the democratic national committee.

Maine Returns
The Maine returns, showing that republicans had been elected to the governorship and to congress by margins which were in most cases far larger than in 1936 and 1938, were viewed by Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the republican national committee as evidence that "an aroused nation is determined to clean house at Washington."

Martin said in a statement, issued in Washington, that the Maine results meant "the election in November of Wendell Willkie, Senator McNary, and a republican majority in the house of representatives."

So Goes the Nation
Asserting that the slogan, "As Maine goes so goes the nation," had not always been "literally true," Martin contended that it was the size of the republican vote that mattered. He added that "when Maine republicans in their September election in a presidential year, receive approximately 60 per cent or more of the vote cast, it is an omen of a national republican victory."

Yesterday's returns, he said, showed that the republican candidate for governor received 64.5 per cent of the vote cast.

But Rep. Patrick H. Drewry of Virginia, chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee, placed an opposite interpretation upon the returns.

"If they 'mean anything,'" he said, "they merely indicate that Maine is behaving according to form and that it is not yet in touch with national thought." He added in a formal statement that "probably no state is a more inaccurate index of national political trends."

The military conscription issue brought another exchange of comments by republicans and democrats.

Wendell Willkie expressed the hope at his Rushville, Ind., campaign headquarters that congress would eliminate the Fish amendment postponing conscription for 60 days.

Rep. Rayburn of Texas, the democratic leader, said in reply that Willkie's statement "shows the kind of harmony that exists between the republican candidate and his congressional leaders."

Rep. Fish (R-N.Y.), author of the amendment, said in Des Moines, Iowa, where he had gone for a speech, that Willkie's statement would "make me fight all the harder" for the amendment.

Infantile Paralysis Spreads In 25 Counties, Reports Show

Authorities Describe Situation as Most Serious Since 1910

DES MOINES, Sept. 10 (AP)—Infantile paralysis spread in Iowa today as 25 counties reported new cases in what state health department authorities described as the most serious epidemic since 1910.

The 31 cases reported today brought this week's total to 58 new cases, and the total for September thus far to 138. Eighty new cases were reported last week.

During August, health department figures showed, 174 new cases were reported, and the total for the year—including August and September thus far—is 358. During the entire year of 1910, 565 cases were reported—just 207 more than are reported to date this year.

So far this year, 78 of Iowa's 99 counties have had poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) cases reported. The counties reporting new cases today were Henry (four cases), Black Hawk (three), Van Buren (two), Adair, Adams, Benton, Buena Vista, Cass, Clinton, Dallas, Davis, Des Moines, Fremont, Hardin Harrison, Howard, Jefferson, Johnson, Lee, Lynn, Monroe, Polk, Union, Wapello and Webster (one each).

Dr. W. L. Bierring, state health commissioner, explained that doctors do not know exactly how infantile paralysis spreads, but human contact in crowds seems to be an important factor in epidemics of the disease.

Raids—

are strained but London's spirit is unbroken."

School Victims
A stick of six bombs fell in one area of the city; in another two heavy bombs jarred the earth. Hours later, salvos were falling at intervals, but they appeared to be dropping in the outskirts.

Just after midnight, the tempo of anti-aircraft fire was stepped up against these outlying invaders.

German planes also were over northwest England and Wales, and eight bombs were reported dropped squarely in the center of one town in the southeast.

As the new raid on London went on, the list of dead in Monday night's attacks was tragically lengthened. From the shambles of what had been a school bodies still were being dragged this morning, and it was said that 24 hours would be required to pull out all the victims—perhaps hundreds of them.

In four daylight appearances yesterday the Germans had dropped no explosives—confining themselves to reconnaissance for what was to come later and survey of the previous damage they wrought.

It came—the fifth raid since yesterday morning—just at 8:11 p.m. (1:11 p.m., CST) last night, the late English dinner hour.

While the British air force went on with the defense as best it could, the authoritative British Press association reported "many bodies" already had been recovered from an east London school wrecked Monday night by a direct hit. The search went on.

Among those found in the wreckage were two babies—one nine months old, the other six months old. Arrangements had been made to take them, and the others who were in the building when the bomb struck, to the country today. All of them had been blasted out of their homes.

The Daily Mail said there were hundreds of men, women and children trapped in the school, and that of the first 90 extricated only one was alive. All the victims had been evacuated from another east end district.

It was an aerial torpedo, it was reported, that reduced the building to a rubble.

"I was in the Napier earthquake in New Zealand, and I've been in raids in almost every other east end area," said a clergyman, "but I've never seen anything so appalling as this."

The streets filled suddenly again with running men and women and children, carrying suitcases and bundles, patiently preparing to spend another night in shelters below the earth.

Coralville Schools To Close Because Of Infantile Paralysis

Because of the infantile paralysis case discovered at Coralville Monday, Clem J. Shay, president of the Coralville school board, yesterday ordered the Coralville schools closed as a precaution against possible spread of the disease.

Only one case has been reported in Iowa City although there is a total of four throughout the county. Shay indicated that the Coralville schools will probably be closed a week.

Last week the Cosgrove Consolidated school was closed after discovery of the county's first case of infantile paralysis there Thursday. The school was closed for a 10-day period.

McLaughlin, 79, Dies Here

M. J. McLaughlin, 79, 610 Iowa avenue, died at a local hospital shortly after 4 p.m. yesterday.

Born on April 9, 1861, Mr. McLaughlin was married in Iowa City on Sept. 2, 1886, to Mary Corcoran.

He is survived by his widow, one son, John McLaughlin of Duluth, Minn.; a daughter, Mary McLaughlin of LaSalle, Ill., and one grandchild. Two sisters preceded him in death.

Tentative funeral arrangements made last night are to have the services at 9 a.m. Friday at St. Mary's church with burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. The body is at the Riley chapel.

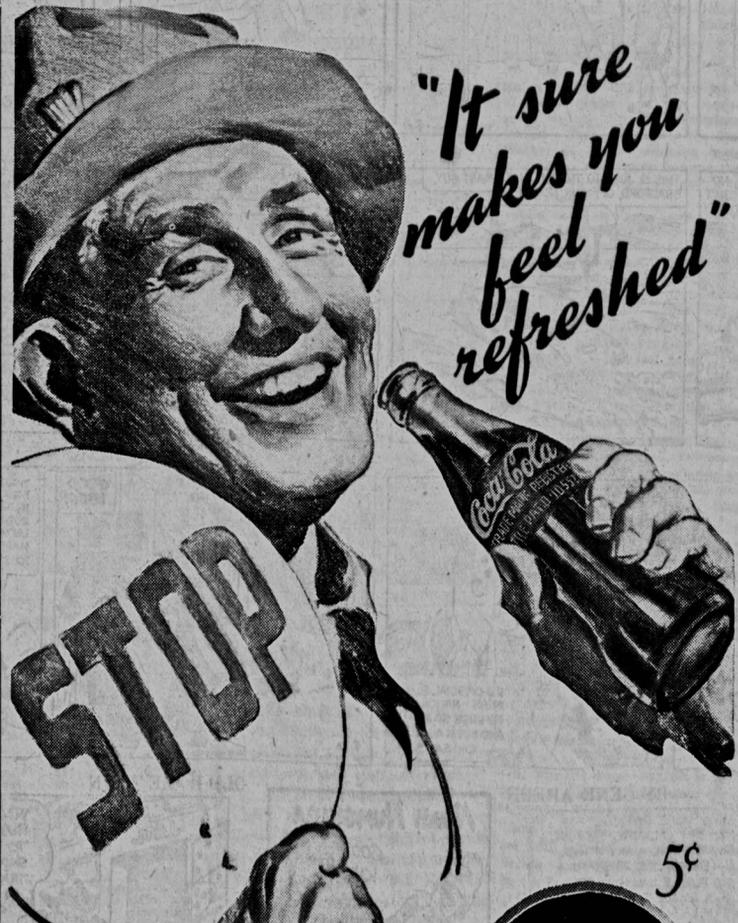

supply is "restored to its full quantity," thus illustrating the damage already done to vital mains.

"There must be increasing cooperation from every consumer," the board warned.

Utilities service was restricted over several London areas. The teashops contrived to go on making tea, but they sometimes rationed it, one cup to a customer.

Only cold food was available in some restaurants—ham, tongue, tomatoes, salads and the like.

The dislocated transit service was heavily taxed. Buses were forced to detour, in some cases to shorten their routes. Long queues were waiting for them at every stop.

ent is not used and is being reconstructed slowly after the 1933 fire, which communists were accused of starting.

The raiders also hit two hospitals, a home for aged Jews and one apartment house. Blasts in the streets broke hundreds of windows.

The most extensive damage was done to an apartment house where three persons were injured.

Correspondents inspecting the damage reached a Jewish home for the aged in August street just as calm was being restored among its residents. Adjoining the home is a Jewish hospital. Incendiary bombs fell on the hospital roof. None of the 80 persons in the home and hospital was injured.

It was announced officially also that incendiary bombs fell on St. Hedwigs hospital in one of the most thickly populated parts of the city. Another hit a German engineer's house.

Still other British bombs were said to have exploded in residential and business sections of Berlin.

The official announcement said bombs also hit the famed Brandenburg gate and Berlin's famous avenue, Unter Den Linden.

Foreign correspondents who were taken on a quick tour of damaged areas were told that the British raiders apparently were trying to hit government quarters.

This comment immediately aroused speculation whether the German airforce might retaliate, making Downing street in London and the houses of parliament their targets.

Alice Smith Seeks Divorce

Plaintiff Asks Action On Grounds of Cruel, Inhuman Treatment

A petition for divorce was filed in district court yesterday by Alice Smith against Merrill Smith on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

According to the petition, the couple was married in Kankakee, Ill., on April 30, 1939. The plaintiff explains in the petition that the couple was married once before, on July 8, 1931, and a divorce from this marriage was granted later.

To the first marriage, the petition states, there were three children born and one was born during the second marriage. The plaintiff now has custody of all four children.

Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday granted a temporary injunction asked by the plaintiff restraining the defendant from molesting or speaking to the plaintiff, going near the plaintiff's premises or in any way interfering with the plaintiff or any of the children. Judge Evans also issued a requested writ of attachment to the amount of $1,000 for lands, tenements, chattels and all rights and credits of the defendant in order to secure alimony payments to the plaintiff.

In the petition, in addition to the injunction and attachment, the plaintiff asks temporary alimony, suit money and permanent alimony in amounts to be determined by the court and asks that the costs of the action be charged to the defendant.

The petition was filed by Atty. Henry Negus.

house restriction of 1,000,000 for both the army and navy. The navy, it was said, preferred the senate provision.

Exemptions

In addition, the conference committee approved the senate's provision on the exemption of government officials from the draft, the principal distinction being that it included a clause deferring the draft for officials whose continued service was deemed necessary to the public health or welfare. The house had merely stated that men holding certain specific posts should be placed in a deferred class.

Sheppard described as "surplusage" a house section saying that the men conscripted would be "subject to the laws and regulations concerning that branch of the land and naval forces to which they are assigned," and said it was eliminated on that basis.

Into Huddle

On the question of age limits, Sheppard told reporters that the senate conferees "went into a huddle," and agreed to offer the 39 year maximum. When it developed that this was unacceptable to the house, he said, Senator Thomas (D-Utah) on his own behalf proposed 35, but this also was rejected.
