Iowa Presidents Meet

Iowa's new president-elect, Virgil M. Hancher, chats with Acting President Chester A. Phillips, who has held the executive position since July 13. President-Elect Hancher lead the students and faculty in the oath of fealty to the university yesterday, appearing here for the first time in his "robes of distinction."

At the 1940 Induction Ceremony

On a surprise visit to the campus yesterday for the opening ceremony of the university's new year, President-Elect Virgil M. Hancher was enthusiastically received by the thousands of students, both new and old, and faculty members who attended the exercises to hear and see the university's new president. Shown are Prof. David Armbruster of the men's physical education department, left, and Prof. E. G. (Dad) Schroeder, director of athletics.

Vice-President Garner Makes One-Man Drive For Adjournment of Congress; Buttonholes Pals

Boasts That He Is In Best Physical Condition in Years

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Vice President Garner put all his force into a one-man drive for adjournment of congress today, buttonholing his friends about the capital and arguing that it was time to end the session. He returned to Washington today, after two months of resting, hunting and fishing in Texas, boasting that he was in his best physical condition in years, telephoned to the president, held a virtual reception at the senate rostrum, and entered upon his crusade. Ever since it had been unexpectedly announced in Texas several days ago that the vice president would resign, he has been talking with the new executive.

Governor of French West Africa Ready To Repulse Attacks

VICHY, France, Sept. 26 (AP)—The "Savior of Dakar," Governor Pierre Boisson of West Africa, relayed word to Marshal Petain tonight that he stands ready to repulse any new attempts by the British, "free French" forces, or anyone else, to storm his capital of black Africa. French officials described the British withdrawal from Dakar as a "wise decision." "It is hard to understand," one official said, "how the British admiralty could have been drawn into the adventure by De Gaulle who, pretending the colonies were ready for revolt, is truly responsible for the severe British reverse."

Continue Fight For Freedom, Haakon Says

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The exiled King Haakon of Norway, replying tonight to the German action in ending his monarchy and his government, said tonight: "The new ruling body (one selected by the Nazi high commissioner to Norway) has no basis except the German conquering force in Norway and it will be compelled to govern according to the orders of its German masters. . . . On behalf of the people, the king and government will continue the fight until our country has regained liberty and independence."

Rome-Berlin 'Monroe Doctrine' Seen

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (Friday) (AP)—A Rome-Berlin sponsored "Monroe Doctrine" for Europe and Africa, including a plain-stated notice to the rest of the world to keep hands off, appeared to be a certainty in a new phase of axis policy to be concluded today. Italian foreign minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, one of the planners of the axis new era, came to Berlin to help formally seal the border of their living space, and implies their determination to support these borders with all conceivable security factors. The authoritative news commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland reported that the battle of Dakar and America's "active interest in England's intentions of securing a foothold in West Africa" would figure in axis conferences tomorrow. Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, will arrive "somewhere in the reich" tomorrow to participate in war plans which may call for alignment of Spain and Japan as new allies against Britain. L'entst Aus Deutschland, which is close to the German foreign office, said "Wilhelmstrasse obviously intends to prevent premature unveiling of diplomatic steps now under way," but (See AXIS, Page 8)

Japan to Help Nazis if U.S. Fights

Plane Rescues Ship's Survivors Adrift for Week

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Adrift for more than a week in an open boat, 40 survivors of the City of Benares, torpedoed children's evacuee ship, have been rescued by British flying boats and a warship, the government announced tonight. The additional survivors—only six of whom were children—were found yesterday 600 miles from land, and were brought tonight to a northern British port. First spotted by one flying boat, they were picked up quickly by the warship with aid of another flying boat. An air ministry communique said with reserve that some of them "seemed to be in rather a bad way."

Informant Says U. S. Policy Is Of Opposition

TOKYO, Sept. 26 (AP)—Japan, convinced finally that the United States stands unalterably opposed to her "legitimate" expansion in the orient, can be expected to give Germany active support if America enters the European war, a highly qualified Japanese informant said today. The United States, he said, has followed a strong policy of opposition to Japan even at times when Britain offered conciliation and Japanese hopes for an agreement with America seem futile. (President Roosevelt yesterday ordered exports of scrap iron and steel restricted from Oct. 16 to shipments to the Americas and Great Britain. Japan has been among the largest purchasers of such metal in the United States and has depended on American sources for nearly all the supplies she needed solely for her huge armament programs and the war in China. (The Japanese long have feared such an embargo as Washington's reply to their policies. (Further evidence of American disapproval of Japan's course was seen in a new $25,000,000 loan to China by the export-import bank.) The informant, a Japanese with close government connections, indicated that Japan, facing the possibility of conflict to the south and east, was ready to mend her long-strained relations with Soviet Russia to keep her northern and western flanks free from menace. A Japanese-Russian no-aggression pact is not unlikely, he said. Sphere of Action "Japan is and always will be opposed to communism," he went on. "But this does not mean that a working agreement cannot be effected. "Japan has consistently sought only peaceful economic penetration in the far east. Our sphere of action lies here and we prefer not to send troops and warships to various corners of the far east to guarantee that penetration. "The United States consistently has attempted to block Japan. Even during times when the British offered conciliation, American policy has increased in strength." (The United States consistently has recorded its opposition to Japan's seizures of territory since the conquest of Manchoukuo in 1931-33 inaugurated the new era of Japanese expansion. Nevertheless Japan has occupied Manchoukuo, most of eastern China and now moved into French Indo-China.) Influential political circles here give indications that reports—still unconfirmed—of British-American discussions of a proposal that the (See JAPAN, Page 8)

U. S. Counters Japanese Drive Into Indo-China With Embargo on Scrap

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The United States countered Japan's drive into French Indo-China today by placing an embargo on all iron and steel scrap exports after October 15, except to western hemisphere countries and Great Britain. The action, it was generally believed, might prove damaging to Japan's war economy, inasmuch as an estimated 90 per cent of all Japan's imports of scrap iron, which is vital to the armament industry, have been acquired in the United States. Opposition to Japan's attempt to create "a new order in East Asia" and particularly to her military moves in Indo-China was further evidenced by Secretary of State Hull in an emphatic re-statement of principles governing American relations with other countries. Recalling a statement he made in July, 1937, he asserted that these principles included preservation of peace, self-restraint on the part of nations, observance of international agreement, modification of treaties by orderly processes, and respect by each nation for the rights of others. After citing these at his press conference, Hull asserted that he wished they could be engraved on the capitol of every nation in the world. He added that in any countries opposing or seeking to destroy them did so on their own responsibility. The scrap iron embargo was ordered by President Roosevelt after consultation with defense officials and the state department. The order was issued, an announcement said, "with a view to conserving the available supply to meet the rapidly expanding requirements of the defense program." However, it was clearly indicated that the immediate purpose of the embargo was to reinforce American policy for maintenance of the status quo in the Pacific. It quickly followed announcement of a new $25,000,000 export-import bank loan to China—a step also said to have been taken at this time to bolster Chinese morale (See EMBARGO, Page 4)

New Jap Invasion

This Central Press map shows where newest Asiatic complications have arisen as the Japanese invade French Indo-China at Haiphong and clash with Indo-Chinese forces at Dong Dang in an effort to invade China by the "back door."

British Bombs Set Fires In Many Cities

LONDON, Sept. 27 (Friday) (AP)—British bombers set off a 100-mile string of raging fires along the continental coast all the way from Zeebrugge, Belgium, to Cap Gris Nez, France, early today in a raid which dwarfed even their previous savage assaults. Starting at Dunkerque, the RAF set the first great fires to blazing, then struck next to the south of Calais, Boulogne and Cap Gris Nez, nearest Nazi-held French port to Britain, and completed the almost solid line of flames with attacks on the Ostend area to the north. German searchlights frantically stabbed the skies in an effort to locate the British bombers, but the beams virtually were lost in the bomb flashes and fires reflected brilliantly in the night skies. Nightly Attack The nightly attack on Adolph Hitler's potential invasion bases followed a day of raids that spread fire and destruction from Berlin to the channel coast, and an angry retort from German short batteries which shelled Dover. The counter-offensive ranged far and furiously—inland upon key military cities and along the bruised coasts of Holland, Belgium and France—and an authoritative journalistic voice warned that henceforth Berlin, too, regularly was to feel this systematic attack. For, said a headline in the Evening Standard—a property of Lord Beaverbrook, the minister for aircraft production—the Royal Air Force "will be over Berlin every night." Mighty Assault The city already had felt during the darkness of last night and early today such a raid as never before had been launched against it—a 5-hour attack declared by the British air ministry to have covered with explosives the great 300,000-kilowatt Klingenberg power station and other vital objectives. It was one phase of a mighty attack through the night and part (See LONDON, Page 8)

Japan Lands Two Thousand Armed Troops in Indo-China

Danes Cheer King on His 70th Birthday

COPENHAGEN, (Via Berlin) Sept. 26 (AP)—The Danes shouted themselves hoarse today in birthday greetings to 70-year-old King Christian X of this Nazi-occupied country. Fifty thousand persons gathered before the royal palace during the afternoon, many weeping, some fainting and otherwise conducting themselves in an unDanish manner. The king came to a balcony and made a short speech of thanks. "We are having hard times together but I am sure we shall serve our nation best by holding to each other and facing the world with dignity," said Christian, who accepted the German invasion of last spring without resistance.

Five Civilians Killed, Eighteen Wounded As Planes Drop Bombs

HAIPHONG, French Indo-China, Sept. 27 (Friday) (AP)—Two thousand Japanese troops landed in Indo-China yesterday under the powerful silent French guns commanding the entrance to the Red river and marched across the hot countryside into Haiphong, the rail, highway and river gateway to the northern province of Tonkin and to southwest China beyond. Japanese planes heralded the approach of these land forces by dropping bombs on a railroad crossing, damaging several buildings and killing 5 and wounding 18 civilians, while the frightened population ran for shelter under the trees of the countryside. The Japanese commander said the bombing was a mistake. Last night, the French authorities announced that a strong protest of the incident had been lodged with Tokyo. En route to the barracks provided for them by the French, the Japanese regiments—marching behind a squadron of their light tanks—exchanged with the French nothing more hostile than curt salutes. The crack battalions of French colonial infantry moved out, their fine artillery and machine-guns muzzled—another undefeated army on the road back without ever having come to grips with the advancing force.

Nazis in North

According to reports from Helsinki, the capital of Finland, German troops have landed at Vaasa, Finnish port on the Gulf of Bothnia. The landing was made under a Finnish-German agreement. The route from Germany to northern Norway is shorter through Finland than by way of Oslo, Norway, according to military men.

House Passes Defense Bill

New Appropriation To Help Finance National Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—A new $1,469,993,636 appropriation bill to help finance the national defense program, including the draft, was approved by the house today a few hours after it was received from committee. Senate passage of the measure, which contained funds President Roosevelt requested the day congress enacted the conscription law, would send this session's total appropriations and contract authorizations for the nation's armed forces to a peace-time record of $12,136,832,516. Administration leaders indicated this would be the last major defense appropriation of the session. The house appropriations committee said that so far as it was advised, this bill, in conjunction with those previously passed, "goes as far in the marshalling process (of the nation's strength) as is considered feasible and practicable at this time by our military and naval leadership." (At the war department, Secretary Stimson said the army already had contracted for virtually all the tanks, machine-guns and other key weapons for which congress has provided funds. He said, too, that 13,389 out of 18,641 airplanes appropriated for had been ordered. Delivery dates were not announced.) The largest item in the bill—$1,082,976,496—would provide for the pay, maintenance and training (See DEFENSE, Page 8)

Bomb Scare Closes Labor Building

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins evacuated the labor department yesterday this afternoon, and it was reported that the order resulted from a rumor that a time bomb had been planted in the building. Guards cleared the rooms and halls about 4:45 p.m., when most of the employees had left, and no one was allowed to enter. The federal bureau of investigation was understood to have made a search, but bureau spokesmen declined any comment.

Nazis Continue Nightly Raids

Planes Drop Bombs In 20th Consecutive Attack on London

LONDON, Sept. 27 (Friday) (AP)—Scores of Nazi incendiary bombs and high explosives fell upon London early today in the 20th consecutive nightly German air raid, but as midnight passed there was not a single fire to be seen on the city's horizon. The incendiaries came down most thickly in two north London districts, and the center of the metropolis was shaken by one especially heavy explosion. The southeast coastal area also had been under heavy attack last night and at least six raiding planes were reported brought down in that section in a series of dogfights. The air ministry announced last night that altogether 31 German planes had been shot down before midnight—more than a third of them costly bombers. Eight British fighters were lost. Aside from this, it was said unofficially but authoritatively that at least nine other raiders had been destroyed. The 31 officially announced as bagged were understood to have been shot down in a furious 30-minute battle over the Isle of Wight; at least nine others in engagements over the industrial Midlands and northeast coasts. The daylight German assaults had been many and determined, including two major thrusts at London that were reported turned back. There was a considerable list of civilian dead and injured in a northeast town which was heavily hit. In three towns on the Yorkshire coast bombs fell thickly.

Threshold of Adventure

"I hope you will acquire discipline of mind and body and a courageous spirit. These are essential things which will be of value to you in the uncertain future, whether it be dark or bright."

President-Elect Virgil Hancher, himself on the threshold, he said, of the kind of new adventure facing Iowa's new students, spoke very briefly yesterday at the university's induction ceremony, and very profoundly.

He said what needed to be said, quietly and concisely. He was a new president speaking to his new students; he shared willingly their plans.

He won the friendship and respect of the hundreds who faced the rising sun—the sun of a new university year.

He administered the traditional oath of allegiance. He did more than that. In his new role as head of this, one of the nation's leading universities, he took the oath with his students:

"I pledge here and now, lifelong loyalty to the ideals of scholarship and character established by the founders of this institution, to the end that I may loyally serve this university, this commonwealth and this nation."

A New Idea or Two—

Archibald MacLeish, poet and librarian of congress, well known to the University of Iowa campus, has undertaken to sum up democracy in a few words—an almost impossible task.

"We believe," he writes, "that even now, after all the scorn, after all the violence, after all the victories of the enemies of freedom, it is still the greatest of human causes."

"We believe this because we believe that freedom is the one human cause dedicated to humanity. It is the one human cause which declares that humanity is not a means to an end but is itself an end. It is the one human cause which declares, and which proposes to demonstrate, that human beings, left to themselves, freed of the authority of masters, whether of the mind or of the soul or of the body, are capable of creating a good society and a humane life."

Now Mr. MacLeish has spoken of the things all of us daily think and feel. There's obvious.

But the greatest speakers and writers are those who can speak or write the obvious in such a way that common chords of understanding are struck in listeners or readers. Such a writer is Archibald MacLeish.

"Seeing the rise of tyranny and despotism in every part of the world," he writes, "hearing again the call to discipline and obedience, watching again the tactics of the preachers of authority, men remember how painfully, and by how many struggles, they have escaped these lies."

"They remember how painfully they have learned that the only discipline which men as men can accept in dignity and honor is the discipline they impose upon themselves for the sake of their hope of freedom."

"Men remember this in all nations which the rise of tyranny and despotism now threatens or has already overthrown."

"They remember it most sharply here."

"True freedom of all men and of all women has never yet been realized on this earth. It may never be realized altogether. But if it is ever to be realized, the people of the United States, with their tradition of political responsibility, their mastery of the skills of industry and agriculture, their ownership of the wealth of the richest of all lands, have a better right to hope for its realization than any other nation has ever had."

Too much has been recently and is now being written about aspects of democracy. The full import of such words tends to be lost in the flow.

We merely agree and forget. But if, through all the words, there comes a new idea or two upon which we may transform intangible thought into tangible work, the effort will not have been lost.

How to Change the World

There are contests and contests, prizes and prizes, but some are better than others. Minerva Desing of Collingswood, N. J., a student at the University of Pennsylvania, is the winner of a $1,200 cash award plus a round trip to Chungking, China, via the China Clipper, in an essay contest. American students throughout the nation participated by writing essays on "Our Stake in the Future of China."

Essays dealt with American interest in China, the largest country in the Orient, and how we should be affected if China should no longer be an independent and sovereign power, able to deal with us on terms in its economic, cultural and religious development as well as politically.

Ideas, it would seem, are the most valuable things in the world—ideas which may be of great value in the spread of doctrines upon which may hinge the future of the world.

Sometimes we even place a monetary value upon them.

Ideas have changed the world. They're changing the world now.

The process is slow or speedy, depending upon the attitude of man.

In Europe today, new ideas are being spread by force. In America, they're being spread by reason, by argument, by discussion.

Call it propaganda if we will. If still is the better way.

Pointing America's Way

Otto D. Tolischus, New York Times correspondent and Pulitzer prize winner has written a book called "They Wanted War," a picture of the European scene based upon his experiences abroad.

He outlines the step-by-step progress of the Nazi party as it emerged from obscurity, gathered followers, gained power and transformed the Reich into a mighty weapon of war—all under the cloak of legality.

The insidious appeal of the philosophy of force in Germany, the planned psychological breakdown of morale in such victim countries as Czechoslovakia and France, the attitude of the democracies are pictured.

He sounds a solemn warning that this is not just a war but a revolution to change our world completely, a revolution to establish a "master race" for whom all other peoples will be slaves.

He is one correspondent who, from close observation, has been placed in a position to point the way for America. He, and others, have warned the nation what NOT to do.

It's up to us to do the rest.

A Visit to a San Juan Distillery, the Carioca—

By GEORGE TUCKER
SAN JUAN, P. R.—Today we drove out through roads that were lined with coffee and Australian pine trees, and past pineapple and sugarcane plantations, to Puerto Rico's most modern rum distillery, the Carioca distillery, which has become one of the show places of the island.

If you have ever visited Ben Marden's Riviera in New York you will get some idea of how this place looks. It isn't at all real, in the sense that you expect to find a factory or a distillery. It is patterned along color and architectural designs that Walt Disney might have thought up.

On all sides is lush tropical foliage. Almond trees, and the flaming flamboyans throw patches of red against the darker background of the canebrakes. You see towering coconut trees, fronds waving in the light summer trades, which are never still, and you see boys shinnying up those trees with long, wicked machete knives (made in Connecticut), and chopping off the green coconuts.

Down here they cut them while they are green, for then they hold a quart of milk. There is a trick of dexterously flourishing the knife and trimming away one end of the coconut, so that you can drink the milk in comfort. It is quite a trick. I tried, but couldn't get anywhere with it.

After this refreshing drink we advanced upon the distillery. The air was heavy with the smell of molasses. It is pumped into the ground in storage tanks, much as oil is stored underground.

The Carioca distillery has several of these bright, new buildings, all of which look like night clubs. You could pass your hand over any part of it, and wear white gloves, without soiling the gloves. You see giant copper vats holding thousands of gallons of fermenting rum. You go into another building and a chemist is carefully analyzing the new rum and the old, and the ingredients he puts into the rum, in hundreds of test tubes. You go into still another building and there you will find the "assembly" line.

This is the bottling works. An endless stream of empties is fed mechanically into a central point, where they are filled by machinery. As the bottles come out one man places a stopper in the mouth. Another bangs the cork with a hammer, ramming it home. Women are next in line, and these are slapping labels on the bottles as they move past. Today they are bottling white rum, because the label says "blanca."

Outside, laborers are leveling off a new drive which has been named Frances K Avenue. Landscape artists are fashioning new designs in the always luxurious tropic shrubbery. Off to one side hundreds of barrels are stacked, ready and waiting. They are pouring mortar for a new storage house. To the right, you can gaze out over the harbor, and to a tiny island in the mouth of the harbor, where once the lepers were kept. Beyond that is the sea and the old route which the pirates used to use as they beat up from Peru against the summer trades. From this point you can see also the mountains and the blue sky and the banana trees and the breadfruit trees and the mango trees and, indeed, all the beauty and warmth and color that help to make Puerto Rico what it is.

German Technique For U. S. Business

WASHINGTON—A Nazi campaign to line up American business has been frustrated. No less formidable a business power than Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears-Roebuck, looked up from his desk recently to find a representative of a German commercial agency. The Hitler man only wanted to leave a list of products for which his nation would like to place orders as soon as the war is over and the German victory is complete.

Wood looked over the list and found to his amazement it contained all industrial products in which he has a personal hobby-interest, certain goods produced in southern factories he personally promoted.

His interest aroused, Wood talked among business colleagues and soon discovered German commercial agents had approached many outstanding manufacturers with similar lists exhibiting an intimate knowledge of their personal interests.

The lists are now in the waste baskets or the FBI files.

G.O.P. STREAMLINING

All seams and cracks in the republican household have now been mended. A complete policy agreement has been effected in between both ends of the ticket. Willie's cheap-power speech in McNary's home state of Oregon poured the last cement into that fissure—and was made for that purpose.

The satisfactory working arrangement that has now been made will send the vice-presidential candidate upon a ten-day foray into the farm belt to sell his kind of a farm program. McNary will also carry the Willie torch into New England and finally to the Pacific coast just before election day. The republican campaign is getting stream-lined.

LODGE FOR WILLKIE

Watch for the young republican senator, Henry Cabot Lodge, to join the Willie campaign train. It will be more than a social event. Lodge will act as advising emissary from the republican block in congress which was none too pleased in the beginning with the internationalist tone of the Willie foreign policy.

LEWIS PUZZLE

The inconsequential puzzle which CIO's John Lewis has been able to make of his personal stand in the third term campaign was further complicated when he neglected to join the Corcoran-LaGuardia-Norris independent committee for Roosevelt. Lewis was invited to attend the organizing meeting in Senator Norris' office with Mayor LaGuardia, ex-ghost Tommie Corcoran, and David K. Niles, a former arranger for Harry Hopkins in the commerce department. The meeting was held but Mr. Lewis did not even send an eyebrow hair as a souvenir. Afterward the Norris office denied Lewis was invited. The Lewis office smiled and said only that Uncle John had not gone.

DEFENSE DELIVERIES

Forecast reorganization in the war department (it might better be called a modernization) is being worked out quietly. Civilian procurement experts are to be brought in to put some speed into contract deliveries. The top heads are now completely overburdened by the vast enterprise. They can see the next big trouble is going to come when the deliveries are not received on time. Expert buyers from the heavy good industries are to take care of that. A shift in jobs creating a new assistant secretaryship will take some weight from Robert Patterson's shoulder.

National defense commission publicity has centered wholly so far on the letting of contracts which of course is a wholly misleading indicator of the effectiveness of the program. Deliveries are what will count.

You know another big election is near when the posters of the last campaign finally disappear from telephone poles.

Corn beef and cabbage is now a popular item of diet among the Japanese, we read. No use. It'll take more than that to make the Japs as fine fighters as are the Irish.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Movie Producers And Hit Songs
BY ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—There's a big job here for some enterprising, gifted guy. All he'd have to do would be to hear a few songs and pick out the winners—before they get into a picture.
Hollywood is full of songs. They come fresh out of the pianos and heads of the amateur as well as the pro song writers. We'll skip the amateur (as the studios mostly do) and just bother with the pros.
Pros, you'd think, would know their business and turn out nothing but hits. Well, that's all they do turn out, but the public doesn't always agree with them. The public tabs this one a hit, this one a pretty good piece, that one a dud. But the public lends an ear too late, after the picture's finished. And if they try out the tunes on the air, they've got no surprise left. Sometimes the public hears the tune so much it doesn't want to hear it any more. Sometimes the public thinks the picture copied the hit tune off the air. It doesn't work.
Mark Sandrich was in a quandary the other day over this musical puzzle. Mark's picture, "Love Thy Neighbor," has spots for four tunes. Johnny Burke and Jimmy Van Heusen, his musical scribes, have written six. Mark and the rest had decided definitely on only one of the four. Mary Martin will sing it in the picture. There's no guesswork about that one. Mary Martin sang it before, the public liked her and the song both. It's "My Heart Belongs to Daddy."
Mark held forth on his perplexity, which he shared with the

HE'S A MAYOR AT 23: TRUCK DRIVER YEAR AGO

HENDERSON, Tex. (AP)—From truck driver to mayor in one year is the record of Pete McNee, mayor of Henderson at the age of 23.
A year ago Pete and his young bride returned home sadly from Baylor university at Waco. He had been expelled for marrying secretly.
Pete took a job driving a truck. He couldn't make enough money for a couple filled with dreams. Mrs. McNee opened a business training school and it prospered. McNee quit work to help. He also helped organize the Henderson junior chamber of commerce, became its first president.
His victory over Mayor M. E. Marvill and two other veteran politicians, crowned a year of achievement. Friends believe he is America's youngest mayor for a city of the size of Henderson (10,000 persons).

Hancher Highlights S.U.I. Induction Ceremony

A new year—a new president—and the University of Iowa is officially opened for the 94th year of service to the students and to the state. Highlight of yesterday's traditional induction ceremony was the initial appearance of President-Elect Virgil M. Hancher, who came to the campus, his own alma mater, to greet the students and lead them in the oath of fealty to the university.

"In the name of the State University of Iowa, I extend to you a most cordial welcome. I commend you for the interest that you have shown by coming here, and hope that the years ahead will justify the decision you have made.

"In this pleasant valley, the people of the commonwealth of Iowa have generously provided you with a great university—great not only in the physical plant and equipment which are visible to you, but greater still in respects which are not now visible to you.

"For here there has been collected a community of scholars and teachers who will guide you in the fields of history and politics, science and philosophy, languages and literature, economics, commerce and the professions. They will be a stimulus and an inspiration to you.

"But what you accomplish here will depend as much on what you bring to the university as on what the university brings to you. No man can deny you an education if you are determined to get one; no man can lead you to an education unless you have the will to get it. I trust that you will do your part.

"You will be told frequently that you will be the leaders of tomorrow. No one can assure you of leadership. But one can assure you that you are the persons to whom opportunities for leadership will come.

"And how will you prepare for these opportunities? By the acquisition of learning, of course.

But in addition, I hope you will acquire discipline of mind and body and a courageous spirit. These are essential things which will be of value to you in the uncertain future, whether it be dark or bright.

"You and I are in a peculiarly close relationship today, for we are both standing on the threshold of a great adventure. Therefore, I shall ask you to join with me in an oath of allegiance which has been taken for many years by successive classes of students as they have entered the university.

"Some of you who are present have taken this oath before, and I ask you to join with us and take it again. Therefore, I ask you to raise your right hand and solemnly join with me in this pledge of loyalty:

"I pledge, here and now, lifelong loyalty to the ideals of scholarship and character established by the founders of this institution, to the end that I may loyally serve this university, this commonwealth and this nation."

As the New President Meets the Oldest Dean

Congratulations on his recent selection as president of the University of Iowa were heartily extended yesterday by many faculty members, students and friends when he appeared on the campus for the induction ceremony, President-Elect Virgil M. Hancher, who will become the 18th executive of

ale and military resistance to Japan.

The president's order brought all types of iron and steel scrap under the export licensing system, effective October 16, and provided that licenses be issued only to permit shipments to the countries of the western hemisphere and Great Britain.

It supplanted an earlier order requiring licenses for export of number one heavy melting iron scrap.

When Hull was asked about the specific exclusion of Great Britain from application of the embargo, he remarked only that it was explained by American opinion.

The government previously imposed export restrictions on numerous strategic materials declared to be needed in the national defense program but it had been indicated that supplies of scrap metal were sufficient to make further restrictions unnecessary.

A complete embargo also has been imposed on shipment of aviation gasoline outside the western hemisphere.

The advisability of extending the embargo to lower grades of gasoline and oil was considered in connection with the far eastern developments but officials were understood to have decided it would be largely ineffective as an economic weapon against Japan unless the supply from the Netherlands East Indies also could be cut off. It was said to have been feared also that such an embargo might be used by Japan as a pretext for starting military operations against the East Indies.

During the day, President Roosevelt took another step with a bearing on the international situation when he signed a bill empowering the export-import bank to make $500,000,000 of loans to bolster Latin America's economy, and authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend $1,000,000,000 for defense activities and other purposes.

Soon afterward, Brazil and the United States signed an agreement under which a $45,000,000 steel plant is to be built in Brazil. The United States export-import bank is to lend $20,000,000 toward the plant, and Brazil is to supply $25,000,000 capital.

Supporters of the export-import loans have argued that they would lead to closer economic relations between the United States and nations to the south, and help prevent inroads by Hitler in Latin America.

Harshbarger Returns to Air This Afternoon

"Through the Garden Gate with Gretchen Harshbarger" returns to the air over WSUI this afternoon at 1:15. The program will be heard three times weekly on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Mrs. Harshbarger will tell of flowers and plants in her own gardens, as well as stories about the gardens of her radio friends.

Mrs. Harshbarger comes from a family of horticulturists, and is a member of Iowa's Field family, known for years as experts in dealing with flowers. Her uncle is Henry Field, one of the first to see the possibilities of radio as a means of advising gardeners.

Her mother, Mrs. Helen Field Fischer, has been heard regularly for a number of years over another Iowa station. Mrs. Harshbarger and Mrs. Fischer collaborated earlier this year in writing "The Flower Family Album."

American Legion Conclave Votes Against Strict U.S. Neutrality

Milo Warner Elected New Legion Head

55-Year-Old Lawyer Chosen Unanimously Midway on 1st Ballot

BOSTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — In a series of tumultuous scenes, the American Legion today elected Milo J. Warner of Toledo, Ohio, as its new national commander.

At the end of a four-day session, marked by harmony, the legionnaires broke into noisy disagreement over a resolution which would have reaffirmed the organization's 16-year-old position in favor of a "hands off" policy toward foreign disputes.

Not Ready
Proponents shouted that this country "was not ready for involvement and we should not abandon our historic policy of keeping our powder dry and our mouths shut."

A spokesman for the opposition, Department Commander Alfred Kelly of Oregon, replied: "The people of America want courage from the American Legion, not appeasement. Appeasement will lead us to war."

The resolution was roared down on a voice vote, with opponents among the 1,451 delegates all but drowning out those in favor.

The election of Warner, a 55-year-old lawyer who was forced to give up an army career because of wounds he received in France, was marked by all the trappings and the tumult of a major political convention.

So vociferous were his adherents that the new national commander was all but pushed from the speaker's platform into the press seats before he came forward to thank the throng of former doughboys and sailors for his election.

Tight Contest
The commandership contest had been advertised in advance as probably the tightest in any of the last 15 legion conventions, but the original field of 10 candidates was cut to seven before the final session opened and two others withdrew after being nominated.

Warner's victory by a landslide became assured almost from the outset as state after state, with a voting power of more than 700, seconded his nomination. Midway in the first ballot his closest rival, Raymond Fields, Guthrie, Okla., newspaper publisher, conceded defeat and, on his motion, Warner was elected unanimously.

The new commander is married, and the father of three children. He served as a captain of artillery in the regular army during the war but severe wounds suffered in July, 1918, forced him to remain in hospitals in France and the United States for eight months.

Civil Service Bill Approved

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — The senate approved today the Ranspeck bill, which would permit the president to put approximately 200,000 employees of "temporary" government agencies into the civil service if they passed non-competitive examinations.

The measure now goes back to the house for action on amendments.

Specifically exempting WPA employees from such procedure, the measure would give the president discretion to extend civil service classifications to those workers who had "served with merit" for six months, had passed the examinations and had been pronounced competent by their department heads.

The senate amended the bill to exclude United States attorneys, their assistants, marshal, deputy marshal, internal revenue collectors and deputy collectors and various policy-making officials, as well as employees of the Tennessee valley authority, from the bill. It struck out a house-

Wallace Asserts Farmers Have 'Momentous Decision to Make'

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 26 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace, democratic candidate for vice president, today termed the national election a referendum on the whole farm program in which "farmers have a momentous decision to make."

"On one side," the former secretary of agriculture told a throng that filled the city's 3,000-seat auditorium, "are those who have helped them build the foundation of a real farm program. On the other side is a party that talks one way and votes another."

Wallace said the "$215,000,000 in triple-A funds sent into Kansas the last seven years have meant the difference between success and failure of many Kansas businesses."

"We have built up the best farm program the farmers of any nation ever had," he said. "We built it by emphasizing democracy, not by sacrificing it. The program is in fact one of our great democratic achievements."

"Rural retail sales increased 102 per cent from 1932 to 1939," the former secretary of agriculture said in outlining benefits of the farm program. "This increase in rural retail sales is proof that as farmers gain in income the small town business man gains also. As one prospers the other prospers, and if one suffers, the other must also suffer."

At Enid, Okla., Wallace pictured the democratic party as the "party of peace," adding that "as the president knows, as all Washington knows, and as all the nation should know, there is no difference between preparedness and peace."

"Not until we can command the respect of all nations, all belligerents, can we have peace. It's necessary in this day that we be prepared to adequately defend ourselves."

"Look what happened at Dakar. What would it mean if Spain, the mother of the Latin American countries, lined up with the axis? The airplane trips are short between Spain and the Azores, the Azores and Bermuda, and Bermuda and New York City. On this we might well stop and ponder and give thanks that we have a president who understands our dangers—the dangers of any combination of dictators."

approved provision requiring apportionment by states of the appointments involved.

The chamber added to the measure a provision by which employees of representatives and senators, after they had served four years in Washington, would become eligible to compete for civil service positions in other branches of the government.

Willkie's Farm Program Wants to Take Over and Improve Present Elements

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 26 (AP) — Wendell L. Willkie said tonight that he wanted to "take over and improve" elements of the present farm program, and then offered these proposals which he said would "go to the roots" of the agricultural problem:

"We will try to eliminate discrimination between different areas and different branches of agriculture."

"We will simplify regulations and make them easier to understand."

"We will have less bureaucracy and more local control. We will operate the program so as to favor the family type farm."

"We will cut down the cost of administration and eliminate unnecessary employees."

Farm Objectives
The republican presidential nominee, speaking in a midwestern farm center, asserted that if he were elected he would "choose as secretary of agriculture a man who knows agriculture, a man who holds as firmly as I do the absolute conviction that our national objectives for American farmers must be attained."

Willkie declared that if he were elected he would call a White House conference "of all our great groups, farm, factory, labor and consumer and tackle the job at long last of ending economic stagnation and of preventing a common disaster."

Saying that the administration's policy had been to handle problems of each group separately, Willkie declared that instead of working together each group has found it necessary to fight for whatever advantage it can gain.

"The farmer, the worker, the investor and the business man have been like four horses attached to the same plow, the reins in the hands of a reckless driver and all horses plunging spasmodically in all directions," he said. "These horses must pull together."

"If you will charge me with that responsibility, I will see to it that the plow is strong and smooth."

National Income
"Fundamentally," he said, "the farm problem arises out of the fact that our farm population, comprising 24 per cent of our total population, receives only 12 per cent of our national income."

The candidate declared that this "basic lack of balance" had culminated in enactment of the agricultural adjustment law and that the announced purposes of the act had been to "reduce burdensome surpluses, adjust the supply of agricultural products to demand and bring agricultural prices and incomes to parity."

"These purposes still constitute our national farm policy," he continued. "That policy is established. It is not a partisan issue. There must be no abandonment of it."

America can never go back to the situation in which agriculture, because of the ignorance of both parties, was treated like a step child."

Willkie said he proposed to continue the following existing farm programs and to seek to improve them by:

First: The soil conservation benefits should be continued and payments should be based on genuine conservation practices.

Second: Commodity loans should be retained until a better method of financing surpluses is worked out.

Third: The rural electrification program should be developed and extended.

Fourth: An adequate system of farm credit should be supervised by a federal agency independent of the agriculture department and the ultimate goal of government credit should be farm ownership.

Fifth: Crop insurance "has benefited insured producers and should be continued until its value has been fully tested."

Democratic Security
Declaring that the administration farm programs have not even come within "striking distance" of their objectives, Willkie asserted that agriculture is the foundation of America and is vital to the preservation of a democratic society based on private property.

He was happy, he said, that he had Senator Charles McNary as his running mate, adding that the latter "for 20 years has been a great leader in the fight for agricultural equality."

Willkie charged that the new deal, "intrigued with elaborate economic theories," has failed to "go to the roots of our problem."

"The simple laws of American economics have slipped through its fingers," he said. "The farmers should get a greater share of our national income, but this objective would be immeasurably easier to reach if our national income were growing rapidly instead of remaining practically stationary."

Willkie then renewed his previous assertions that agriculture and industry must go up and down together and said that "in failing to establish recovery the new deal has failed the farmers just as much as it has failed the businessman and the worker."

De Tristans Give Reward To Rescuers

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Sept. 26 (AP) — The wealthy parents of baby Marc de Tristan arranged a cash reward tonight for the two men who rescued the child and subdued his kidnaper last Sunday in the mountains near Placerville.

Recipients of the money will be Cecil Wetzel, sawmill owner, and Ellis Wood, a logger, who were credited by agents of the federal bureau of investigation with capturing Wilhelm Jakob Muhlenbroich, German alien charged with the abduction.

The Count and Countess Marc de Tristan, parents of the three-year-old boy, said they, at the request of Wetzel and Wood, would not reveal the amount of the reward; but the San Francisco Chronicle said it would be "between $25,000 and $30,000."

Wetzel and Wood will split the reward, and "everybody is very happy," the Countess said.

Muhlenbroich, whose custody was given San Mateo county authorities last night by the FBI, said he expected "no sympathy from anyone" and commended the

See Dissension On Handling Of Guard

State Militia Officials, War Department Do Not Agree

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Indications of dissension between state militia officials and the war department over the latter's handling of the national guard mobilization were evidenced here today following a state adjutants general conference.

Adjutant General Charles Grahl of Iowa, president of the Adjutants General association, told the group that organization delay in fully mobilizing the guard "has played havoc with certain of our personnel, particularly medical officers and other professionals."

People Stymied

Grahl added: "In general our people have been stymied. They have been unable to conduct their various affairs, business and otherwise in a normal manner. They have been and still are in a state of utter uncertainty."

Grahl declared in his opening remarks that it was "passing strange" the guard had not been advised completely concerning probable induction dates although, he said, schedules labeled "confidential" and not to be shown to anyone but regular army officers had been prepared.

System Criticized

Grahl also criticized the guard's medical examination system in connection with promotions. He called "silliness personified" the procedure under which one guard colonel was disqualified because he was a pound overweight and a lieutenant colonel because he was a pound overweight.

"There is more than a possibility that the national guard will be either relegated to an inferior position in the national defense system or ultimately revert to a home defense force with purely state or militia basis.

"The place which it now occupies may be usurped by an organization comprised of trainees under the selective service act, and thus after 25 years, the continental army scheme will prevail, irrespective of whether we call it by that term or some other," Grahl said.

A pack of hounds was shipped by airplane from Long Island to North Carolina and not a single gaster, so far, has referred to them as "bird dogs!"
