Hawkeyes Tangle With Hoosiers at Bloomington Today

Iowa Favored To Win Crucial Big Ten Tilt

Hal Hursh's Passes Feared by Hawks; Veterans to Start

BY OSCAR HARGRAVE Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa's fast-rising Hawkeyes, a durable squad of 36 men, boarded an eastbound train yesterday, bound for Bloomington, Ind., and a crucial Big Ten game today with Indiana's hopeful Hoosiers as the opposition.

Although there is a very real danger in the Indiana threat of hurling Hal Hursh, the William Tell of midwest passers, top-notch physical condition and a state of mental preparedness seem enough to give Dr. Eddie Anderson's Iowa team a favorite's role. Hursh will be troublesome, let there be no doubt of that, and the Hoosier line was good enough to force Nebraska to use the air lanes for its scores, but Iowa's walkaway victory over Wisconsin in its conference opener is too impressive to be ignored.

Hawks Are Ready Thus, the Hawkeyes seem capable of stopping the Indiana aerial thrusts and countering with both speed and power on the ground. In fact, the alert Iowa forward wall and the first two backfields, working in alternate shifts, might not only be able to Anderson, still depending on a varied offense that may feature practically every mode of attack, along with a judicious use of opportunities, will start his usual first string. In the backfield will be the rugged quartet of Gerald Ankeny, Bill Slaus, Bill Gallagher and Ray Murphy. It is, without doubt, the power quartet and Murphy may be as impressive as in his last excursion into Indiana, at Purdue a year ago.

Dies Predicts More Sabotage

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Outbreak shortly of a series of "sabotage incidents" like "the recent Hercules powder explosion in New Jersey" unless the federal government takes active steps at once was predicted today by Rep. Martin Dies (D-Tex).

"Foreign governments have placed agents and saboteurs in every key industry and unless the government acts within 30 days I predict a series of actual sabotage that will cripple the whole national defense program," the chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities asserted in an interview.

"The Hercules powder explosion is but the first of the destruction planned. Everyone laughed when a man named Van Hess, former Bund official, testified before our committee more than a year ago about plans to blow up the Hercules company.

"A full record was turned over to the federal bureau of investigation."

Next Stop May Be Hoosier End Zone

Here, Iowa's Iron Men were set to take the train for Bloomington, Ind., where they will meet Bo McMillin's Hoosiers in a football classic this afternoon. Left to right the players are Al Couppee,

"Oops" Gilleard, Max Hawkins, Bill Diehl and Charlie Tollefson. The little fellow in the center is Vic Siegel, basketball captain, who was there to see the Hawkeyes off. On the squad that went to Bloomington, Coach Eddie Anderson took 36 Hawkeyes, a larger squad than Iowa carried at any time last year. This trip is for the first out-of-town game of the current season.

HEAR THE GAME

Station WSUI, through a hook-up with WMT of Cedar Rapids, will bring football fans a play-by-play broadcast of the Iowa-Indiana game at Bloomington, Ind. today. Bert Puckett will be the announcer. The broadcast from the Indiana stadium will start at 1:45 with the kickoff scheduled for 2 o'clock.

200 Reported Dead in Flood

Water Fills Streets As Spanish River Overflows in Gerona

BARCELONA, Spain, Oct. 18 (AP)—More than 200 persons were reported by telephone company officials to have been drowned today in flash floods in Barcelona and Gerona provinces of Spain.

The streets of the city of Gerona were flooded by the overflowing river Ter, the waters in some places reaching balconies of homes.

Gerona is 53 miles northeast of Barcelona.

The public services, gas and water systems were halted by the floods and telephone communication with towns in the province was cut.

Many bridges were swept away. Eighteen persons were reported drowned at Gerona when one bridge went out.

The town of Torello, with 4,000 inhabitants, was hard hit. More than 20 bodies had been recovered there tonight. Many more were missing.

The swift rise of the Ter river and its tributaries, as a result of three days of continuous rain, isolated many towns and villages.

At the town of Manliu, a girl 'phone operator stayed at her board until the waters reached to her neck; then asked for help and was rescued.

Japan Strikes at Burma Road; Bombards Chinese Terminus

Nipponese Fliers Hit Objectives in Yunnan As Supplies Move On

HONG KONG, Oct. 18 (AP)—Japan struck her first threatened blow against the re-opened Burma road today by bombing and blasting the strategic city of Kunning, Chinese terminus of the storied "Road to Mandalay," over which are surging great motor caravans.

With the flood of arms-bearing traffic along the Burma road rising hourly, Hong Kong headquarters of the Japanese South China fleet announced that naval warplanes severely damaged military objectives in and around Kunning, capital of Yunnan province.

Japanese airmen flying deep into the province also heavily bombed the Burma road itself, causing considerable damage to bridges, the Japanese South China fleet headquarters announced.

None of the Chinese truck caravans was sighted, the announcement said.

Roaring down on their targets through gaps in heavy clouds, the Japanese bombers were reported to have rained explosives on Chinese munitions factories in the suburbs of Kunning and military establishments within the city itself.

Japanese headquarters said the raiders met no opposition from the air.

However, the Chinese were reported ready for the promised Japanese attacks on the vital road between British Burma and China. Anti-aircraft guns were said to be planted at many vantage points along the way.

Supplies started moving toward China in the early darkness today after a three-months suspension of traffic in a vain effort by the British to appease Japan.

Republicans Hit Hatch Act Slant Of Democrats

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—The democratic national committee's interpretation of the Hatch "clean politics" act, which National Chairman Edward J. Flynn said "speaks for itself," was denounced today by republican leaders as "strongly hinting of intimidation" of federal employees.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., republican national chairman, declared that the democratic strategists had "put more than 1,000,000 federal employes on notice that they are expected to stand and deliver to the democratic third term treasury, or else."

He termed a "cold-blooded, ruthless bluff," a letter and accompanying opinions sent to democratic workers regarding their activities as they are affected by the Hatch act.

Flynn, at his press conference, was asked specifically about a letter received by democratic workers in Minneapolis which indicated they could obtain support, financial and otherwise and still be within the confines of the Hatch act.

The democratic chairman said "the letter speaks for itself," and declined further comment except to say that "undoubtedly" similar letters were sent to democratic workers in other states.

Flynn's letter said: "You will find attached two legal opinions to guide you in what you are permitted to do with respect to soliciting and giving contributions under the Hatch act during the election campaign."

Russia Denies Sending Troops To Rumania

MOSCOW, Oct. 19 (Saturday) (AP)—Tass, official Soviet Russian news agency, today issued a denial of reports published in foreign newspapers that Russian troops had entered Rumania or that a clash occurred between Russian and German frontier guards in the vicinity of Galati, Rumania.

The agency also denied foreign reports that a Soviet destroyer sank a Rumanian ship in the Black sea.

"Tass is authorized to state that all the above reports are devoid of any foundation whatsoever," the agency declared.

McNutt Speaks At Rock Island

Assures Audience Roosevelt Should Be Retained in Office

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Oct. 18 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, told a democratic rally tonight that the nation's defense program was moving forward "magnificently" and that the people will be right in retaining in office the man who is furnishing the "inspired leadership in this national emergency."

"I can bring you assurances," McNutt said in a prepared address which was broadcast over station WWHF, "that our national defense program is moving forward magnificently. It is a mass movement, participated in by labor, by industry, by congress."

McNutt quoted Wendell Willkie in a Cleveland speech: "If you were to entrust to me the safety of America in this critical time here is what I would do: I would first make some intelligent use of the experience of the World War and the careful plans of the army and navy. To carry out these experienced plans I would appoint the most experienced and ablest men. These national defense appointments would be made irrespective of political considerations."

"In other words," McNutt said, Willkie's "initial promise is to do exactly what the administration is already doing. His next sentence indicates that he is even satisfied with existing appointments. Hear him: 'Many of the men I would appoint are already in Washington.'"

"Presumably he refers to Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Mr. Knudsen, Mr. Stettinius and Mr. Hillman."

WSUI, Says Angell, Dedicated To Preserve American Way

Dr. James R. Angell, educational counselor of the National Broadcasting company, told an audience in Iowa Union last night that Iowa's pioneering radio station, WSUI, is dedicated to the "preservation and enrichment of our American way of life."

Approximately 200 persons attended the banquet of dedication in the main lounge, which highlighted the two-day conference on applied radio.

Radio's Power Telling of the tremendous power which radio today exerts over the minds and feelings of millions, Dr. Angell urged universities, especially, to accept their responsibilities and see that the power is used wisely.

"No other device remotely approaches the force of radio, a force which can be either for good or evil," the noted educator and psychologist asserted.

Nazis Resume Fierce Raids On London

Bombs Hurlled With Increased Violence On Industrial Points

BERLIN, Oct. 19 (Saturday) (AP)—Large-scale attacks on London and other industrial centers in England were resumed during the night, informed German sources reported early today.

Since early last night German bombing squadrons have been taking off for England "in uninterrupted succession," these informants said, "to continue their work of destruction."

Huge Bombs From Thursday to last night, they asserted, several hundred thousand pounds of explosives were hurled on London alone. Included in the bomb shower was reported to be a great number of huge bombs hitherto used only in rare instances.

German destroyers, sweeping into the gray Atlantic, attacked and chased a British cruiser and destroyer formation at "the exit of the Bristol channel," the high command declared yesterday.

Warship Hit The communique reporting the clash, in which a nazi torpedo was said to have hit a British warship, also described a fierce flurry of sea and air action in which warships, submarines, speedboats, airplanes and coastal artillery exchanged blows in wintry weather.

Authoritative German sources called the attack by German destroyers the first naval engagement of the war in the North Atlantic and said it was "extremely noteworthy."

To Challenge Navy It showed German naval forces no longer are restricted to the North sea, they said, but are in position, by conquest of the French, Netherlands and Belgian coasts, to challenge the British navy on the high seas and push ever closer the encirclement of Britain.

(The British admiralty said four German destroyers fled "precipitately" back to Brest when encountered by a British naval force 100 miles southwest of Land's End, and that no damage was suffered by the British in the long-range encounter. Informed British said the encounter was far from the Bristol channel.)

Informed Germans declared the air force had dropped between 200 and 400 tons of bombs on London last night, despite bad weather for air raiding.

English Score at Sea LONDON, (AP)—British light naval craft sank a German ship off the coast of France yesterday, the admiralty announced early today.

Wants Bases, Territory, State's Reorganization

By EDWARD KENNEDY CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 18 (AP)—Germany and Italy have made five all-inclusive demands on Greece, calling for territorial concessions to both Italy and Bulgaria, the use of Greek air bases by the axis powers, and reorganization of the government to fit the axis pattern, Greek diplomatic circles reported tonight.

The demands were said also to stipulate that Greece break off trade relations with Great Britain.

Germans Blast London Again; Attack Foiled

Nazi Forced to Split Onrushing Planes As Capital Hides in Fog

LONDON, Oct. 19 (Saturday) (AP)—A roaring barrage of fire and shrapnel thrown up by London's ground guns apparently broke up a strong German attack on the capital last night and early today and forced the nazis to approach the city singly from different directions.

It was London's 42nd consecutive night of air siege.

The defense fire was so intense that it appeared the guns were being loaded and fired on the recoil. Later, despite bad flying weather, the Germans spread out over all the United Kingdom.

Eighteen high explosive bombs were dropped on one area on a west midlands industrial town; anti-aircraft guns drove off a plane attacking a northeast England town, and raiders were reported over towns in Wales, and southwest and northwest England.

A "stick" of oil bombs fell in one London area shortly after the night's raid started but residents of the neighborhood said they did nothing but cover the section with thick black grease.

Four raiders were wounded seriously when their post was hit.

Dirty Weather London thanked the dirty flying weather for a day of comparative ease from attack. Only one daylight alarm was sounded instead of the customary half-dozen or so. Dense clouds hid the raiders from the man in the street but the drone of nazi motors could be heard distinctly.

September's terrific toll of dead was announced by the ministry of home security, which said 6,954 civilians were killed and 10,615 seriously wounded in air raids on the United Kingdom last month.

Prime Minister Churchill announced in commons on Oct. 8 that British civilian casualties from the beginning of the war up to Oct. 5 were 8,500 killed and 13,000 wounded.

Dutch Indies May Send Oil To Japanese

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Great Britain may be forced to witness a parade of increased shipments of aviation gasoline and oil to axis-placed Japan from the Dutch East Indies, foreign trade circles said today.

The Japanese government, through an economic mission in the East Indies, is reported bringing increasing pressure upon Indies oil companies to shut a larger proportion of their output to Japanese interests. The mission is said to be expressing willingness to purchase as much as 14,000,000 barrels of oil and gasoline annually.

The Art of Relaxation

The Daily Iowan turns philosopher this morning, with an eye to investigating a few common personal problems and responsibilities. The following editorials might be grouped together under a classifying head: "Lesson in Living, Number I." Who knows, perhaps we'll continue the series.

Relax? We don't know how. We have never learned the secret of relaxation. We live at such a rapid pace in this rushing world that we have lost an art we should all possess.

We may sit in a chair and pretend we are relaxed, but mere pretense does not bring rest.

You will not master this art at one attempt; many tries will be necessary to achieve success.

Here is a pattern to follow. Sit in a comfortable chair, don't sit straight, and don't slouch. Now lean back, let your head rest on the chair-back. Half close your eyes. Slide your feet ahead, find a comfortable position for them. Don't let your fingers tap a rhythm on the chair arm, this is an almost universal habit and a serious distraction to what we are trying to attain.

Now that your physical being is at rest, let us turn to the mind—here is where most of us fall short in attempts at relaxation.

Try to put everything out of your mind. Make no attempt at constructive thinking. Permit only a myriad of little half-thoughts to wander through your mind. Forget Europe and her wars. Forget conscription, and politics, and business. Concentrate on nothing save trivial things.

Notice the breath-taking beauty of that rose on the table; notice the graceful lines of its vase. Feel that warm patch of sunlight falling on your hand through the window. How many times have you walked over this rug? Have you ever noticed its patterns?

When you can achieve this state of restfulness you are regaining a valuable quality to your mental, as well as your physical being.

There can be no estimation of the value this habit of relaxed tensions—this relaxation could bring were it practiced by all of us a few minutes each day. A rested mind is much more efficient than one constantly at work. And it lasts longer.

About Personal Problems

Most of us would probably like to be free from personal problems.

But we seek to lose something that can't be lost. For they crop up in our attempts to satisfy desires, and authorities on the subject say that human desires are boundless.

Thus our problems are boundless. We can't avoid them. If we try to, new problems arise in the attempt. But constant thinking of our difficulties will magnify them way out of proportion to their true size.

We have various forms of relaxation to make us forget our worries. We can go to a show and become absorbed in the difficulties of people on the screen. We may get excited in watching a close football game—or any game in which both sides have their troubles.

But these amusements have only a temporary value—as soon as they are over, our problems loom up again. We ought to have something more permanent to divert our thoughts.

Now is an easy time to become interested in affairs of the world. When foreign countries aren't fighting we think of their people as people of another world who have no effect on our lives. But when war with them seems near and we see that they might affect us very much, we pick up interest in them.

We like to know the power of their armies and navies, the amount of their natural resources. We should follow the battle for England's lifeline more closely if we were able to attach significance to Italian advances in Africa as easily as we can understand the importance of a first-and-ten acquired by the opposing team in a football game.

Familiarity with world issues in the future will make problems of the world very interesting, and should provide us with a yardstick with which to measure problems of our own.

The Importance of Inquiry

It is absolutely wrong to believe anything on insufficient evidence. It is always wrong, because, since actions are based on convictions, wrong actions may be done, and a wrong action forever remains wrong.

Regardless of the staunchness of the belief of the individual, it is his duty to examine firmly his beliefs. It is right to do this because he still has a choice in regard to the action suggested by his beliefs. He can not excuse this duty merely upon the solidity of his faith. It is necessary because those who can not manage their own feelings and thoughts must guide themselves by definite rule in their open acts. However, it must be realized that men of strong belief can not perform an unbiased investigation.

The Road to Defeat

True belief will influence the holder of this belief. He will confirm mentally similar beliefs, and disapprove dissimilar beliefs. The entrance to his mind will be open wide to receive like faiths. He must investigate his convictions thoroughly or he will defeat himself.

Faith and belief are not private in their influence. Posterity depends on us for their tenets. We must take care to hand down carefully investigated beliefs. Every belief has its effect. The influential must search carefully over their beliefs lest they lead all astray; the seemingly insignificant man must also perform his duty of inquiry lest posterity and his fellow man be misled.

Robbery of Self

It will be a difficult duty to inquire into all of our beliefs when we find that we have been wrong, our sense of power will be gone, but we must do it or our sense of power will have been stolen.

We must inquire and ascertain the validity of our beliefs or our fellow man, like us, will become careless. If we are careful, our fellow man will be careful.

If anyone kills truth it is not only a sin against humanity, posterity, but a robbery of self.

One Way of Picking Up Pin Money at Norris Lake

Whenever fishermen lose their false teeth or other articles pertinent to their well-being in TVA's Norris lake, they call for Barton Jones Jr.

Barton, 16, has made out of odds and ends diving equipment which will permit him to descend to a depth of 70 feet although he has gone down only about 55.

His apparatus consists of a helmet made from an oil can, to which is attached two air hoses operated by automobile tire pumps and weights. He also has a two-way telephone apparatus.

The boy weighs only 140 pounds in swimming shorts and tennis shoes, so he puts 36-pound weights on his shoulders and waist.

Barton, son of a consulting design engineer who was in charge of construction of Norris dam, said he has made more than $100 recovering lost articles which have included bridge work, keys and fire extinguishers.

A Man About

MANHATTAN

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The glittering displays that make Fifth Avenue the window-shoppers' paradise are miraculously coming to life.

For years the strollers from every corner of the globe who swarm the Avenue night and day could, by strict ruling, see nothing but inanimate objects in the windows.

But now the displays have suddenly blossomed out with motion, sound and human beings, and undoubtedly soon will approximate Broadway floor-shows.

The taboo on action in Fifth Avenue windows was imposed long ago by the Fifth Avenue Association—the merchants' governing body—because it feared that unrestricted competition for eye-catching displays would degrade the swanky thoroughfare to a Coney Island.

Having decided that, the merchants of course immediately set about to outdo each other with spectacular static displays.

The leading stores wound up by hiring stage designers to produce exhibits that would attract attention from the other fellow's window, and the trend hit a hysterical peak one night when the surrealist artist Salvatore Dali and a fur-lined bathtub somehow crashed through the plate-glass window of a bizarre display he was arranging.

That was as far as the stores could go in that direction, so they plunged into a frantic scramble for trick ways of circumventing their own inanimate-display rule.

A cosmetic firm put a tall, gushing colored fountain in its second-story window. Technically it was action, and there were a lot of raised eyebrows among other Avenue tenants, but it was relatively conservative and not on the street floor, and would have cost a lot to rip out, so they let it stay.

That started the ball rolling. Another second-floor establishment smuggled in a life-size scantily-clad mechanical drum-majorette that caught every male eye—and got away with it. A department store at Christmas put swinging bells in its ground-floor window, with amplifiers to carry their clanging out to the sidewalk.

Finally the other day a big department store, swept off its feet by style-show enthusiasm, decided to go overboard and put living models in its window.

Then at the last minute it had qualms, so the store hit on a unique compromise. They borrowed from peep-shows the girl-in-the-fishbowl illusion, in which the image of a real person behind the scenes is projected by lenses and appears dwarfed in a globe a few inches from the spectator's nose.

From there it's obviously only a step—a few months in terms of Fifth Avenue conservatism—to putting real living people in the windows.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

The Children Boo The Candidates

WASHINGTON—Newsmen on the Willie train are daily recounting a perplexing phenomenon in American politics—the booing of a presidential candidate almost solely by children. Correspondents have reported the shrill voices of the dissenters have betrayed their size even when they could not be seen. As heretofore children have always stood in respect or even awe of presidential candidates, I asked several child psychologists for their explanation.

The radio, they all suggested, is primarily responsible. Children pick up an extraordinary amount of information through the ear that never drew their interest before when it was presented to their eye. They have accumulated smatterings of data and names which they think they understand sufficiently to reach violent opinions.

Children are imitative, the experts say. When they read or hear of some youngster shying an electric bulb at anyone, they are faced immediately with necessity to do likewise. They have a tendency to gang-up against grownups, especially when they feel they may not be detected for punishment. Class hatreds have been stirred unjustifiably in this campaign and the children undoubtedly hear a lot of talk around the table at home that would otherwise be kept in the home.

That is what the child psychologists say, but it may well be just a manifestation of inadequate parental management in this age of freedom when even adults are encouraged to express themselves fully, apparently with boos, tomatoes, cantaloupes or whatever, if necessary for fear that if they behave, it will spoil their little egos.

There is apparently nothing wrong with American youth that a good old fashioned trip to the woodshed now and then, wouldn't cure.

INVESTIGATION

In the new government drive to uproot the Zapps in this country, an American radio news syndicate is being investigated by federal authorities. Seized books of the Nazi newsman Manfred Zapp indicated he paid more than $40,000 over a period of months to the syndicate.

40-HOUR WEEK

Possibility that the 40 hour week beginning (October 24) may break down our defense production as it did in France is not seriously considered either by the new dealers or business representatives here.

The commonly accepted reason is that defense is being manufactured mainly by the largest industries and most of these already have a 40 hour week. Three bottlenecks industries worked more than 40 hours per man in September—machine tools 48, engines 43.8 and aircraft 43. These industries must pay time and a half for overtime. The cost of defense materials therefore runs higher to the government and taxpayers. But any industry can work more than 40 hours by paying 50 per cent more, whereas in France the 40 hour edict was compulsory.

Average work week for heavy (mostly defense) goods in September was 37.9; for consumers goods 36.7; for both 37.3. All of which indicates production is not humming very high yet.

The small manufacturers will be hardest hit by the new step.

Those South American military men who made the 10 day inspection trip of American defenses saw many unimpressive sights that are not being advertised.

The review of an armored tank division at Fort Knox showed vacant holes in many tanks where guns will be, when they are produced. Commercial airplanes were rented for observation purposes at some points. At one fort, the tent homes of recruits were without floors. Flying cadets at some places were housed in hangers.

NO MINE BILL

All the political might of Uncle John Lewis, the CIO boss, and Mr. Ickes, the interior secretary has failed to bring the Neely federal mine inspection bill up through the house. Lewis made an inside deal with the Magnuson old age pension crowd ($30 per month) which enabled him to accumulate 202 signatures on his petition. But that was 16 short of the amount necessary to write the bill out of committee and the drive stopped when the house began to take three-day recesses.

ITALIANS OPPOSE F. R.

Democratic headquarters has been aroused by reports from city machines indicating the Italian vote is solidly against Roosevelt. That is why Mr. Roosevelt worked in a good word for them in his Dayton speech. They might prove vital election factors in New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

'It's Too Late' Says Speaker

Prof. C. A. Siepman of Harvard university yesterday opened the afternoon session of the conference on applied radio with "The Race Against Time."
According to the former program director of the British Broadcasting Corp., the race against time is lost in Europe. Life there is reduced to an issue of survival. In America, however, the people have many more things to occupy them, the speaker said.

"The basis of the democracy is the realization of, and respect for, the individual," Professor Siepman declared.

"It is not the function of radio to influence the people. Radio is to present them with the facts in an unbiased manner," he added.

Prof. H. C. Harshbarger of the speech department was chairman of the session in the absence of Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering.

Plans Canvass Of Community, All Businesses

4,500 Contact Cards Prepared to Aid In Three-Day Campaign

Iowa City's Community Chest drive, which directors hope will be more successful this year than ever before, will begin Monday with the proverbial "bang."

That was the statement of Chairman LeRoy R. Spencer, who is directing the campaign this year for a $18,000 collection goal.

On the opening day, Spencer said, between 350 and 400 solicitors will be turned loose on the city and nearby area. They will contact every family and business house following a thoroughly organized canvassing program.

Throughout this week, drive workers at the Community Chest headquarters in Jefferson hotel worked steadily preparing some 4,500 contact cards.

The workers plan to complete the campaign within three days, Spencer said.

Power Station Opens Doors For Inspection

New Coralville Plant Plans Open House Today, Tomorrow

Residents of Iowa City and environs who wish to see how their electric power is generated are welcome at the new Coralville station of the Iowa City Light and Power company today and tomorrow.

Hours for public inspection of the new plant, considered a $1,500,000 investment, are from 1 to 5 p. m. The 16 employees of the station along with company officials have arranged interesting tours for the expected visitors.

At dinner meetings throughout this week, the power company entertained members of the Iowa City Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, and Masonic Service clubs.

Steam Turbine
To be seen on the scheduled inspection tours are the new boiler, condensing equipment and $175,000 steam turbine. Other sights include the water purification tanks, coal conveyor system, economizer equipment and the hydro-electric plant.

"The newly installed equipment more than doubles the capacity of the plant," Roscoe E. Taylor, general manager, said. "It will enable us to serve Iowa City and the vicinity for many years to come."

The present total electric current output of the generating unit is about 12,000,000 kilowatts a year. The utility has 6,600 patrons, Taylor said.

WLW Director Cites Colleges As Good Radio Training Place

G. C. Biggar Tells Of Changes Coming To Radio Industry

Discussed Radio

"We in radio must definitely look to our colleges and universities to train many of the young men and women who will be added to our staffs of the future," George C. Biggar, program director of WLW, Cincinnati, Ohio, told the conference on applied radio at the general session yesterday morning.

In his talk on "The Fifth Five Years," Mr. Biggar predicted the changes to be looked for in radio programming during the next five years.

Education in College

"Educational institutions offering practical courses of instruction in program writing; production and announcing under competent instructors, plus the necessary laboratory experience in a broadcasting station, are doing a really constructive job for the radio industry," he continued.

Speaking of the need of being community-minded in planning programs, Mr. Biggar observed that "radio provides the most intimate form of entertainment, information, and education ever developed. It reaches right into the homes of people—into family groups." He noted that the response to religious, educational and other more solid types of broadcasts is evidence of the fact that no large percentage of the radio audience is "night-life" minded.

Development

The WLW program director foresees much development in news broadcasting and a vast influence of world affairs upon programming during the next five years.

"Probably no one service to listeners ranks as high as news broadcasting in creating and holding—day after day—a tremendous audience of people of all classes," he pointed out.

"I believe that there is a genuine dearth of really good radio

100 Hear English Discuss Opportunities Of High School Journalism

BY WILLIAM HENTHORNE

One hundred high school journalists from throughout the state crowded into a classroom on the third floor of University hall yesterday afternoon to discuss "The newspaper's real job—serving the school."

The discussion was led by Earl English, instructor in the school of journalism here, who spoke in the place of two speakers originally scheduled to appear but who were unable to attend.

English offered suggestion after suggestion on how their school papers could serve their schools. Those junior journalists gobbled it up and came back for more.

That they were there for business there was no mistake. For 45 minutes English discussed with them the school paper's real job, exchanging accounts of the services their own papers accomplished or were attempting.

By the end of the session they had learned that a high school paper must sponsor worthwhile projects.

"The high school paper is in the position to sponsor things," English told them. "It can provide the publicity, it has the respect of the school and its staff usually includes good personnel."

"Thus by sponsoring worthwhile projects the paper can be of great aid to its school. It can get things accomplished which otherwise might remain undone."

A school paper should serve the entire school, it was also pointed out. Don't leave out the elementary grades in your columns, English cautioned.

Parents who have children in the grades will take an increased interest in the school paper if it devotes part of its space to little poems and essays by children in the grades.

By the time the session ended, quite an imposing list of projects that would be of service to the school had been named. The school paper, by sponsoring such projects, would find an excellent way of serving its school.

A few of these projects named and discussed included drives to raise interest and attendance in the Parent-Teachers association, social activities, student directories and assembly programs.

Corinne Johnson, Oskaloosa high school, introduced English and acted as student leader of the session.

Panama, which has no army or navy, has a national police force of 115 officers and 1,350 men.

Experts Reach Conclusion-- Special Training for Specialist

General as opposed to specialized radio training in college was the main theme of the discussion conducted by Prof. Orville A. Hitchcock, head of the speech department at the University of Akron, yesterday afternoon.

Members of the panel, who represented both the educational and radio executive factors, agreed that a certain degree of training is not only a distinct advantage but also a necessity for a person contemplating work in radio. However, the extent of that degree of training was a subject of controversy.

Three degrees were presented. The first, that a very general background in related courses such as journalism or speech with very little specialized work would suffice, the contention of these supporters being that, as Professor Hitchcock maintained, a good speaker can easily speak over the radio without actual radio training.

In direct opposition to this opinion were those, who like Dean-emeritus Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college, advocate the other extreme—that of complete specialization beginning from the first year. They believe that few people are capable of fitting all types of work and so the best talent of each student should be concentrated upon and developed.

In their opinion, as Craig Lawrence, commercial manager for the Iowa Broadcasting com-

U-High Hands 21-13 Beating To Mt. Vernon

Bus Smith Paces Iowa City Eleven To First Loop Win

By STEVE PARKE

Sparked by the power of Half-back Bus Smith, a rejuvenated U-High Bluehawk team yesterday crushed Mt. Vernon and waltzed into its first conference win of the year to the tune of 21 to 13 at the university practice field.

Blues Take Early Lead

The Rivermen dominated the play from the first seconds of the game when Young blocked and recovered a Mt. Vernon kick on the visitors six-yard line. Smith cruised around right end on the next play to score standing up. He returned to run the point after to territory.

The boys came right back later in the period when right end Bill Halvorsen broke up a Mt. Vernon lateral, D. Herring to Current on the Mt. Vernon 40, and Lehman picked up the loose ball. With Bus Smith doing most of the ball-carrying, the Blues pushed to the one-yard stripe where they lost the ball on downs.

Mt. Vernon kicked out to its 35 and the Rivermen had gotten the ball to the 27-yard line as the quarter ended.

Bob "Peanuts" Alderman came in early in the second and stayed just long enough to touch-down and point after for the Blues. Coach Paul Brechler was taking no chances on aggravating the star halfback's injured leg.

The Bluehawks scored again in the third period after Quarterback Sieglund had plucked a Mt. Vernon pass out of the air on the visitors' 35. Smith found several good holes in the invader's line and finally scored from the 11. He made the point after on an end run.

Visitors Score

Mt. Vernon set up its first score late in the second quarter when Blue full-back Evans fumbled and a visiting lineman dropped on the ball on the U-High two-yard stripe. Herring scored on the first play and then converted the extra point.

The most spectacular play of the game came in the fourth when Mt. Vernon halfback Current slipped through tackle on his own 18-yard line, outsmarted the Blue secondary, and rambled 68 yards to the U-High 14 before he was tagged from behind. In four plays he tallied to make the count read 21 to 13. Herring failed to convert.

The quick score seemed to hearten the visitors and they started back on the touchdown trail but the game was over before they could reach the Riverman 20-yard stripe.

Bender in Lineup

Bluehawk Captain Bob Bender was back in the line-up after his recent injury. Speaking of injuries, there was only one in the game. Stimmel got a severe charlie in the fourth and had to be taken out of the game.

The Rivermen looked good, proving that they can be good if they want to despite the loss of their last two games. That six-year record of never having lost a home game is still preserved.

Alderman showed that he really rates his reputation even in his brief stay in the game. In five plays he had scored a touchdown and the point after. No telling what would have happened had he played the whole game.

Underdog Owls Beat Spartans

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18 (AP)—An underdog Temple university eleven, inspired by Jimmy Powers' 105 yard return of the opening kickoff for a touchdown, scored one of the major upsets of the football season tonight by beating Michigan State, 21 to 19, in a sea-saw battle before 15,000.

Powers, starting his first game of the year, took the kickoff five yards in the end zone, started down the middle of the field, then cut to the sidelines and sped for the touchdown that put the Owls ahead before the game was 30 seconds old.

Boni Takes Hawks Over Indiana; Picks Vols, Gophers

BY BILL BONI

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—The football interest indicator, which gravitates toward every section of the land at least once each season, bears south this week, on Birmingham, Ala.

There, tomorrow afternoon, Alabama and Tennessee will play the game of the week. Victory in this duel, is likely to bring with it victory in the Southeastern conference race, and the odds-layers are riding with Tennessee.

A year ago, coming up to this game, "bama" presumably had proved its worth in beating Fordham while Tennessee was as yet untested. This time the roles are reversed. Tennessee has played and whipped one big one, Duke, while the Crimson Tide has needed little more than orthodox power to get by three rivals. A year ago Tennessee won, 21-0. This one may be as decisive.

As for crowds, the biggest of the day, 72,000, is expected in the Ohio State stadium to see the Buckeyes, Western conference defending champions, attempt to stand off Minnesota.

Yale's higher-ups, incidentally, no doubt will be shocked to find that, in utter disregard of their de-emphasis credo, some 45,000 customers are going to file into the Yale bowl to see the Bulldog play Dartmouth.

To detour around such crass commercialism, however, and lay the predictions on the line, here goes (home team first, probable attendance in parentheses):

Alabama-Tennessee (25,000)—The Vols' defense appears as stout as ever, the offense to be powerful despite the loss of Cafego, Tennessee.

Cornell-Syracuse (20,000)—Bill Orange recovered nicely last week, but has injury trouble now. Cornell would be the choice even if Syracuse were at full strength, Cornell.

Ohio State-Minnesota (72,000)—The Gophers are well-rested and well-primed. Despite an apparent wealth of material, Ohio State has had one (disputed) close call, one defeat, Minnesota.

Texas A. and M.-Texas Christian (15,000)—The Aggie's first conference test also should be their first conference triumph.

Michigan-Illinois (40,000)—23-point-a-game Harmon may not maintain that average forever, but a vote for Michigan.

Washington State-Stanford (22,000)—The word from the west coast is that Stanford's one-point-over Santa Clara really was sump'n. Strictly on hearsay, Stanford.

Penn-Princeton (60,000)—Biggest eastern game, from an attendance standpoint, and one that should prove whether the Red and Blue has or hasn't got it. Believing it has, Penn.

Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech (35,000)—They say the Irish, like a new car, have been operating under the restraint of a "governor." They probably won't have to open the throttle wide here. Notre Dame.

Yale-Dartmouth (45,000)—Despite de-emphasis and that Penn-drubbing, Yale—with Anderson and Sessour ready to go again.

Pitt-Fordham (50,000)—Fordham, though it's weak on reserves.

Washington-Oregon State (35,000)—Manpower is plentiful at State. There was a pre-season boom for Washington. Out of a hat, Washington.

Georgia Tech-Vanderbilt (25,000)—The Vandy defense did fine against Kentucky. The Engineers have one of the best little backs in the business in Johnny Bosch. Taking the home team—Georgia Tech.

Columbia-Georgia (20,000)—Columbia, in a close one.

Harvard-Army (30,000)—Harvard, the same way.

Tulane-Rice (25,000)—Rice to hand Tulane another.

Wisconsin-Northwestern (30,000)—Looks like all Northwestern.

Southern California-Oregon (45,000)—Southern Cal.

California-U. C. L. A. (30,000)—U. C. L. A.

Indiana-Iowa (20,000)—Iowa to keep going.

Colgate-Duke (15,000)—Duke.

Kansas-Nebraska (13,000)—Nebraska looks too good.

Here 'n' there elsewhere:

East-Navy over Drake handily.

Midwest-Oklahoma over Kansas State and Missouri over Iowa State.

BY OSCAR HARGEAVE

Note on today's game: In pass defense Hawkeyes will have to be versatile in the extreme. Archie Harris, the giant colored end, is taller than any of the defending Hawkeyes and they will have to climb him. Red Zimmer, the fast little halfback, is about the same size as Russell Busk, Iowa player of a year ago. Which means that such guys as Ray Murphy will have to stoop over and run for it if they bottle him up.

Experts are divided on the Hawks and Hoosiers. Iowa gets the nod in almost all instances, but some predict an extremely close contest, while others forecast a fairly easy win for the Hawks. Tait Cummins of the Cedar Rapids Gazette is one of the former. Tait says, "Indiana's line made Nebraska use passes to score and Nebraska's ground game isn't so weak."

Gripe Department: Right now, I want to go on record as being in complete disagreement with those who pick the Tennessee-Alabama game as number one on it in that sector, but look at their records to date. Tennessee beat Duke, 13-0, in its only major test. The Vols also beat Mercer and Chattanooga by lopsided scores, but those two wins rate about like the Iowa victory over South Dakota.

As for Alabama, the Crimson Tide could be at a pretty low ebb and still trounce Spring Hill, Mercer and Howard, the three Alabama victims to date. Both are rated highly in the pre-season dope departments, but that means little more than their early season victories over teams that would have little more than an intramural classification in any major university. Even John J. Pachek, the flopping bellhop, was able to build up a rep on that sort of opposition.

Coming Attractions: Purdue, at the Nov. 2 game in Iowa stadium, will be playing an Iowa Homecoming for the first time. Most frequent rivals have been Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois. Hawkeyes have appeared in several Purdue Homecomings.

For the Minnesota game a week from today at Minneapolis it is reported that tickets are still available in the Iowa section. However, a capacity crowd of 65,000 is expected. The wise-crackers have found material in the fact that the Gopher celebration is named the Barnyard Homecoming and Iowa has a halfback named Farmer. Also, the Hawks have a tackle named Urban.

Creighton in Shape

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The usually dour Maurice Palrang, after watching his Creighton Bluejays go through their final hard workout before their homecoming game here with Marquette, predicted last night the visitors "are in for a long afternoon Saturday." Palrang was cheered by enthusiasm on the part of the Jays that translated itself into a peppery backfield and swift charging line in yesterday's scrimmage.

Kansas State Set

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Kent Duwe and Bill Quick, first and second string tailbacks, respectively, sparked the Kansas State running attack yesterday as the Wildcats completed the last home workout before the Oklahoma game. Both backs ambled through the freshman line almost at will.

Grinnell Loses, 7-6

GRINNELL, (AP)—A determined Washburn eleven scored a 7 to 6 victory over an outplayed Grinnell football team here last night.

Fresh Golfers Meet Varsity This Afternoon

Freshman and varsity golfers clash this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the only golf meet of the fall season. The match will be an 18 hole medal play affair with twosomes of a varsity man and freshman competing against each other. Approximately 20 men from each squad are expected to tee off.

With only two lettermen returning, Captain Bob Lattig and Ralph Bohlin, the play tomorrow should help determine the make-up of the first team for early matches of next spring. Coach Kennett will also have his first good look at the freshmen under competitive fire.

The freshman turnout is larger this fall, and some classy shot-makers are expected to be uncovered. So far this season the scores racked up by the two squads have been about equal, thus a closely fought battle is predicted.

Showboat Theme for Dolphins Many Highlights in Annual Aquatic Show; Louis Wurl Designs Backdrop

The Dolphin Follies, only annual water show of its kind, will open at the field house pool Thursday, Oct. 31, for a three night stand. The Dolphins have announced the theme of their show to be that of the old Mississippi sidewheeler showboat.

The scenery depicting the theme is being designed by Louis Wurl and will be painted on a huge backdrop.

The show itself is one of the top university entertainment features of the year and has achieved national recognition. Some of the highlights include spectacular aquatic drill teams, flying trapeze performers, fancy diving, comedy acts and unusual lighting effects.

One of the big events in each show will be the presentation of the Dolphin Queen and her attendants chosen from the women's organizations on the campus. The queen will be selected this year by a famous Chicago orchestra leader.

Many of the performers have been practicing on their acts since last summer and promise to present performances of professional caliber.

The freshmen, headed by Clyde Kennitz, Ed, Chicago, are drilling diligently on a formation water ballet. Committee members, painters and swimmers are all cooperating to make this year's show the best in the history of the event. The Dolphin Follies are only two weeks away.

Iowans Get Set for Battle With Minnesota Next Week

Old Series to Be Renewed; Both Teams Have Rugged Lines

It's almost Iowa-Minnesota game time again—and the Hawkeyes of 1940 Monday begin preparations for the game with the Gophers at Minneapolis next Saturday.

Oldest Football Foe

Oldest Iowa football foe, the Gophers will be played for the 34th time—but not since 1921 has Iowa been able to win at Minneapolis and seven straight defeats there are in the records.

Minnesota will celebrate its homecoming before a record crowd of some 65,000 persons and will be loaded for revenge after the surprise 13-9 whipping at Iowa homecoming last season.

Iowa's efforts this week will be centered on developing a defense for the speed and power of the Minnesota attack, headed by George Franck, the Davenport halfback.

Tough Forward Wall

The Hawkeye line will be fired up for its battle of the season, for the Minnesota forwards are large, active, and smart. It's likely that the line play will decide the battle.

This is the official student trip, and the throng in the Iowa section of the stadium will approximate 10,000. Iowa's 120-piece band and the Scottish Highlanders bagpipe unit will also make the trip.

Gophers have a 24 to 9 lead in the all-time series and some of the Midwest's greatest battles are included in the records since the first game in 1891.

Conn Decisions McCoy in Non-Title Contest

BOSTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Billy Conn, from Pittsburgh, cut loose with all of his power tonight to gain a unanimous decision over Al McCoy, the veteran Boston heavyweight, in a 10-round non-title bout at Boston Garden.

Conn spent the last half of the bruising bout trying for a knockout but the only damage his opponent suffered was a half-closed left eye.

Conn, who started as a top-heavy favorite, displayed a marked weakness for McCoy's left jab, which the latter worked to good effect during the early rounds, and then almost ignored that potent weapon.

Both started slowly and when they came out for the fifth round, the action was even. Conn then started to close in and slug with both hands, a change of tactics that rendered McCoy's light left harmless. The Bostonian tried a few lefts and was punished severely about the body every time he missed, which was often.

A furious last-minute rally in the fifth put Conn into the lead and he started to build it up from there to the finish.

Rattlers Win, 18-0

MANCHESTER, N. H., (AP)—St. Mary's Rattlers of San Antonio, Texas, played heads up football in near freezing weather last night to whip St. Anselm college 18 to 0 before fewer than 2,000 fans who braved the cold to watch the southwesterners put on a dazzling display.

Expensive Stuff PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Theodore Carver, who objected strenuously last night to paying 10 cents each for four flowing bowls of Philadelphia peppercorn, a soup, was convicted yesterday of disturbing the peace and fined $10—or $2.50 a bowl.

IT'S ABOUT TIME WARSAW, Ind. (AP)—Eighty-seven years after it was issued, a military land grant written on sheepskin and signed by President Franklin Pierce was filed with the Kosciusko county recorder. The patent deeded 40 acres to Jesse Evans of the Virginia Militia. It was dated May 1, 1853.

WILDCATS Heavily Favored Over Badgers

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 18 (AP)—Northwestern university, victor over Ohio State and Syracuse, meets a crippled Wisconsin football team in a western conference game Saturday.

Two regular Badger linemen, Guard Dick Embick and Tackle Dick Thornally, were injured in last week's Iowa game, and probably will not see action.

Although Wisconsin held a weight advantage, Northwestern, well supplied with regular and reserve backs, rated a decided favorite.

Illini Primed For Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 18 (AP)—Coach Bob Zuppke brought his underdog Illinois football team and his bag of tricks here today for a battle tomorrow with vengeance-seeking Michigan in the Big Ten opener for the Wolverines.

A crowd of 40,000 homecoming guests was expected to sit in on Michigan's effort to square accounts for last year's upset triumph by Illinois. That defeat, 17 to 7, started Michigan downhill and away from a possible conference title.

Should the starting combination with its power fail to make a dent in the Hoosier defenses or should Hursh's passes find their marks, the Iowa speedsters can well be expected to enter the game. Not as rugged as the starters, Green and Gilleard are the ball hawkers of the Hawkeye backfield men and both can run, while Coupppe is certain to play a big share of the game, no matter who his backfield mates are.

All told, it's mainly a question of the Hawkeye defense

Minnesota In Favored Spot In Loop Game

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 18 (AP)—Minnesota's gigantic Golden Gophers come out of the north-west Saturday to offer a "make or break" test as to whether Ohio State can rebound from last week's Northwestern defeat and salvage something from the early-season wreckage.

The Minnesotans, with victories over Washington and Nebraska, are definite favorites. But 72,000 fans will pack the Buckeye horseshoe to watch the Gophers attempt to prove their superiority—the largest crowd since Notre Dame beat the Bucks 18-13 with that last-period three-touchdown spurge in 1935.

For the first time in many moons, the Ohioans will take the field outweighed in every department.

Two lineup changes for Ohio were definite Coach Francis Schmidt said. The shifts send Lennie Thom to left guard in place of Eddie Bruckner, and Jack Stephenson to right tackle in place of Maag.

Irish Face Carnegie Tech

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 18 (AP)—Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech, collaborators in some of football's greatest intersectional thrill-shows, will get together again tomorrow in Memorial stadium, with Notre Dame favored for the victors' role.

The Irish bid for a third victory in as many starts this season by built around a strong first-string line and a smart offensive sparked by Milt Pieput, slashing fullback. Tech, shutout last Saturday by Holy Cross, 18 to 0, pinned its hopes on the running talent of Frank Jordano. George Mutha, another Tech star, was a doubtful starter.

Some 35,000 spectators were expected to see the resumption of a series in which each team has scored several upset triumphs.

Sooners Ease Up

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma footballers tapered off for their Big Six date with Kansas State tomorrow by hustling through their best pass defense drill of the season yesterday, battling down or intercepting everything the freshmen threw at them.

CENTERVILLE, Oct. 18 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—An inspired Centerville eleven came back in the second half to blast a faltering City high outfit from a 6 to 0 lead to a 13 to 6 deficit on the Big Red home field tonight.

Both Centerville markers were preceded by penalties on the hard-charging Little Hawks.

City high scored in the second quarter, when "Bullet Bill" Sangster threw a 30-yard pass to Dean Williams on the 25-yard line and Williams scored standing up. His placekick, however, was no good.

The first Centerville counter came when Valentine Lazzertto recovered Bob Towell's fumble on the Iowa City 30. Bill Main then passed 20 yards to Bernard Johnson, and Jack Dalponte shot off tackle to the four. Claude Mayfield, speedy little Negro back, then scored on a plunge off left tackle.

The Big Red scored again when Tom McConville intercepted Sangster's pass on the Red and White 40-yard marker and returned it to the nine. Parsons took a pass from Mayfield on the next play to score. Mayfield passed again to Parsons for the extra point.

Jack Fetig and Bill Bothell were outstanding for Iowa City on defense, while Mayfield proved the fly in the soup against the Hawkllets.

that started last week's game, with only two exceptions. John Maher will probably take the place of Wilford Burkett as Ken Pettit's end partner, while Bruno Andruska is expected to start at center instead of Bill Diehl. Othertwise, the forward wall will feature Capt. Mike Enich and Jim Walker at tackles and Ham Snider and Charles Tollefson at guards.

Facing this team of Hawkeyes will be an almost entirely veteran eleven of Hoosiers, most of the players entertaining memories of the 32-29 Iowa victory in last year's mighty duel of passing arms between Nile Kinnick and Hursh. Hursh's backfield mates will be Dolaway at quarterback, Bob White at right half and Dumke at fullback. Ready to take their places in the lineup are Jolting Joe Toft, line-cracking first string fullback, and Red Zimmer, the 145-pound pass-grabbing speedster.

The line also lists a seasoned crew, with Archie Harris and Eddie Rucinski at ends, Al Sabol and Emil Uremevich at tackles, Mike Buchianeri and Gene White at guards and Dwight Gahn at center all listed as capable performers. Harris and Rucinski are important cogs in the passing attack.

Although both teams are fairly well stocked in reserve strength, the advantage probably rests with Iowa in that department. While the Hoosiers will be holding out a couple of prize threats in Zimmer and Toft, Anderson will also be holding back some backfield talent, chiefly the combination of Al Coupppe, Tom Farmer, Oops Gilleard and Bill Green.

Should the starting combination with its power fail to make a dent in the Hoosier defenses or should Hursh's passes find their marks, the Iowa speedsters can well be expected to enter the game. Not as rugged as the starters, Green and Gilleard are the ball hawkers of the Hawkeye backfield men and both can run, while Coupppe is certain to play a big share of the game, no matter who his backfield mates are.

All told, it's mainly a question of the Hawkeye defense

Pittsburgh Optimistic

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18 (AP)—Although rated on the short end of 8-5 odds, Pitt's Panthers were optimistic over their chances of throwing a monkey wrench into undefeated Fordham's high-powered offensive machinery tomorrow. Coach Jim Crowley, boasting his most potent outfit in 10 years at Fordham, although admittedly weak in reserves, will field the same eleven that hung a two-touchdown defeat on Tulane last week.

Madigan Signed

OAKLAND, Calif., (AP)—Edward "Slip" Madigan, football coach of St. Mary's until his release last spring, signed a three year contract yesterday as general manager of the Golden Gate Turf club, which plans to open at Albany this winter. Madigan's three-year contract calls for $15,000 a year.

Found: A Self-Belittler Columnist O'Brien Defines His Trade, Analyzes 'Sinister' Influences

Howard Vincent O'Brien, columnist for the Chicago Daily News and principal speaker of the Iowa High School Press association convention, addressed the convention dinner held in the river room of Iowa Union last night.

In his talk on "Tribulations of a Columnist," O'Brien belittled himself and his ability as a writer saying—"A columnist writer provides a name and address for letters beginning, 'Dear Sir, your cur.'" He told of some of the letters he receives from readers, containing both constructive and "other" criticism.

Editor to Columnist He explained how he advanced from literary editor to the position of a columnist "merely by chance."

In Vienna he had an encounter with John Gunther and H. G. Wells about which he wrote an article. When he returned to his paper his editor called him into his office and asked him to give up his position as literary editor and to continue to write in the manner which the article proved he was able to do.

From Readers O'Brien also discussed the pressure that readers influence. He cited several examples when reader interest influenced writers and policies of the paper.

In a humorous manner he explained how he catalogued the letters he receives by nationality. "The meanest," he said, "are from the Irish, the most intense, from Jews; and the intelligent ones from the Scandinavians. But the most intelligent people of all are the Italians. They write no letters at all!"

"As to the influence of the here; 'I'm Nobody's Baby,' from the current movie 'Andy Hardy Meets Debutante'; and 'That's For Me,' from Bing Crosby's picture, 'Rhythm on the River,' will be heard.

Earle McGill In Iowa City Flies Here to Attend First Radio Parley At University

Just how a professional radio director takes a script, handles the intricacies of balancing his actors' voices, adds sound effects and music bridges to mold them all into a finished production will be demonstrated in the auditorium of MacBride hall today at 2 o'clock in the concluding session of the first annual conference on applied radio held on the campus.

Earle McGill, casting director, director and producer of the Columbia Broadcasting system, who flew here from New York for the conference, will take University radio students through the first to final steps of a production of "A Drink of Water."

At the conclusion of the demonstration, the meeting will be thrown open to discussion. William Sener, staff announcer at WSUI, is chairman of this session.

The first meeting of the Gavel Club will be held Tuesday, Oct. 22, in room 7, Schaeffer hall at 7:30 p.m. It was announced by the president, William R. DeMougeot, A2 of Brooklyn, N. Y.

United Press Editor Urges Accuracy in News Reporting

How is radio news accurate? How much opinion should be in radio news? How should domestic and foreign news coverage be divided?

These questions were introduced by J. Oren Weaver of the Columbia Broadcasting system, Chicago, Ill., at the discussion conference on "Radio News," the afternoon meeting of the applied radio conference held here yesterday.

Other leading press and radio men who discussed at the meeting up-to-the-minute problems in radio news were: Ed Brant, central division radio editor of the United Press associations, Chicago, Ill.; Prof. C. L. Sanders, of the school of journalism here; Douglas Grant, program director of WMT, Cedar Rapids, and George C. Biggar, WLW, Cincinnati, O.

Brant spoke of accuracy as the most important part of any press service. "A correspondent has to be sure of his news—sure enough to stake his reputation on it," he said.

He explained how accuracy was maintained in foreign news. Foreign correspondents, working under propaganda and censorship restrictions send their stories through "cable desks," where more experienced men, who have done correspondence work and are able to "weed out" other elements, recognize the truth of a story.

Douglas Grant asserted that broadcasting stations can best maintain accuracy in the news by subscribing to the most reliable news services.

He added the explanation of "processing the news," which means taking the facts from news centers and rewriting them to give the best report to listeners. "No station," he emphasized, "should make any effort to change or shade straight news—especially in any controversial issue."

WSUI Plans Aztec Program For Studio E

City, Frank Alusow and Jay Les-senger, A3 of New London. Others participating in the demonstration are Beverly Barnes, A4 of Sioux Falls, S. D., Marold Glaspey, A4 of Hills, Don W. A4 of Ida Grove, Gale Richards, and Bob Smylie, U of Eagle Grove.

Religious Education Director To Discuss 'Confused' World

Rev. John Adams Talks to Westminster Foundation Sunday

To Speak Here

REV. J. M. ADAMS

He was a teacher at the Women's Christian college and Meiji Gakuin, in Tokio, Japan. On his return to America he became university pastor at the University of Oregon and at Northminster Presbyterian church near the campus of the University of Ohio at Columbus, Ohio.

Christian Leader

Woman's Place in Home?

Absurd Conception Ridiculed By Sturdy Hockey Enthusiasts

BY BARBARA EMBREE

"Who says the woman's place is in the home?"

This illusion seemed rather antiquated as many enthusiastic young women with hockey sticks poised for action ran up and down the women's athletic field. The all-star touring team whose arrival had kept the women's gym tense with excitement for days was finally here.

"Hockey certainly is progressing rapidly in the middle west," observed Jane Kenworthy, half-back on the visiting team, as she watched the college players pursue the ball up and down — "tackling back," lunging, sometimes obstructing, sometimes scoring a goal.

"Of course," she added as she "doodled" with her hockey stick, "Philadelphia has always been the women's hockey center, but schools in the south and middle west are becoming more and more intrigued with the game."

With the autumn breeze, "Ken" (that's what her pals call her) drifted to the subject of the hockey camp located in the Pocono mountains of Pennsylvania.

"Here a hockey enthusiast can spend three weeks of September acquiring much valuable knowledge of the game. Until just recently the coaching was handled entirely by a top ranking English player. Whenever—"

"Ken" stopped short as the sharp blast of the umpire's whistle pierced the air. On the opposite side of the field a group of players helped a limping form of humanity to the safety of the bleachers.

The woman's place is in the home? Well—maybe.

They're here! The long awaited arrival of the U.S.F.H.A. touring team is finally a realization to the members of the women's hockey club. It's a "field" day for the hockeyites as the activities get under way. Pictured are Jane Kenworthy, member of the touring team from Philadelphia, Pa., and Carol Dunger, A4 of Aurora, Ill., member of local Hockey club, as they practice for the hockeyites as the activities get under way.
