French-Axis Parley May Lead to Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The United States, acting in cooperation with other American republics, was said reliably tonight to have plans ready for occupying French territory in the Caribbean area in case such a step is deemed necessary from a hemisphere defense viewpoint.
Signs of possibly closer cooperation between France and the axis powers were creating intense interest here. The talks of Adolf Hitler with Marshal Henri Petain and Vice Premier Pierre Laval were watched closely for any indication of a new trend in French policy which might affect France's colonial empire or its fleet.
The broad terms of the recent act of Havana allowed wide latitude to the American republics in determining the circumstances under which French or other European possessions in this hemisphere might be seized.
It provided for emergency action when any of these areas "are in danger of becoming the subject of barter of territory or change of sovereignty."

Hitler-Petain Negotiations In Final Stages

France Awaits Role Hitler Allots Her In Europe's New Order

VICHY, France, Oct. 24 (AP)—German-French negotiations, carried on today in a meeting somewhere in France between Chief of State Philippe Petain and Adolf Hitler, were reported here tonight to have entered a final, historic stage.
The government, without comment of its own, published the communiqué of DNB, the official German news agency, to announce the meeting, which also was attended by Vice-Premier Pierre Laval and Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister.
Neither Petain nor Laval had returned to Vichy late tonight and government sources professed not to know their plans.
Informed sources said the next step would be consultation by Petain with the Vichy cabinet, but pointed out that, if he chose, the old marshal had the power to conclude an accord without his ministers' assent.
Havas, French news agency, said Petain and Laval crossed the demarcation line into German-occupied France at 10 a. m., the marshal receiving full military honors from the Germans and snappy salutes from Nazi generals. His long talk with Hitler began during the afternoon, it said.

Coach, Hawks Speak
But for all of that, the rally attained its distinct objective. The crowd let the Hawkeyes know they'll be pulling for them with all their might when they meet Minnesota's Gophers in Memorial stadium tomorrow.
Backfield Coach Frank Carideo expressed the appreciation of the coaches over the display of loyalty. Big Mike Enich, the Hawk captain, promised his Iowa following the Hawkeyes would throw everything they have into the battle.
Mike no sooner had reached the public address microphone before a young colored admirer stepped up and looped his arm through that of the Hawkeye captain. Photographers' flash bulbs popped.
In their turns, Halfback Bill Green, Fullback Ray Murphy and Center Bruno Andruska addressed the throng, reiterating their captain's promise.
"We Want Walker"
From the crowd came shouts of "We want Walker," and the big colored Hawkeye tackle added his promise to the others. They shouted for Henry Luebeck, Oops Gileard and Al Couppee, but those boys and the rest of the squad decided to save their energies for the morrow.
A pep band from the ranks of Prof. Charles B. Righter's Iowa marching outfit handled the musical end of the program under the baton of Assistant Director Arnold Oehlson.
Pi Epsilon Pi's cheer leaders led the crowd's cheering.
After the festivities south of Iowa Union were finished, the thousands moved toward downtown Iowa City, chanting "Beat Minnesota!" It was an orderly, but highly enthusiastic crowd who turned out for the rally, showered cheers on the Hawkeyes, and urged them to trip the Gophers in the game tomorrow.

Spain Will Not Fight Britain, Germans Say

BERLIN, Oct. 24 (AP)—Informed Germans said tonight that it is too much to expect that Spain will actually go to war against Britain, at least for the present, but they declared that the new European diplomatic drama which Adolf Hitler is personally directing proves that England, "the encircler," is really tightly encircled.
Direct comment was strictly withheld on the meetings which the fuhrer has had on successive days with Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Vice-Premier Pierre Laval of defeated France, and Premier Petain. About the only thing said either officially or semi-officially was that Hitler and Franco began and ended their talk on the Hispano-French border yesterday.
However, authorized persons put it about that the world will find out "very soon" the material contents of the Hitler-Franco talk. As for developments in France, official sources said merely that they had received no word.
The general formula followed by informed commentators was that there was no longer any doubt about Spain's place in the axis plans in Europe; that "the new order in Europe" had been advanced another step and that the result would be unpleasant for Britain.

Nazi Planes Bomb Midlands

LONDON, Oct. 25 (Friday) (AP)—German warplanes in heavy squadrons violently assaulted the industrial midlands last night and in one town in that area two public air raids shelters were hit by bombs.
An Associated Press correspondent reported from the scene that the loss of life was "comparatively small considering the hour of night at which the raid was made."
A motion picture house and a theater were among the buildings hit, and fire bombs of a new type were loosed upon the town, one of them falling upon a large drug store.
Business and commercial properties were damaged.
Here in London the all-clear sounded early this morning after an attack during which the Germans had come over in greater numbers than for the past several nights.
But the respite was only a brief one, for another alarm soon heralded the approach of new raiders.
This second alarm ended before 4:30 a. m. (9:30 p. m. Thursday, CST) and the British press association said there were no serious casualties or damage.
While the first raid still was on, the people heard a reassuring broadcast from Air Marshal Sir Philip Joubert. He explained the new defense strategy and spiked rumors of an ammunition shortage.
"As the Germans change their tactics in the air, so the methods used to attack them must vary," he explained.
"At first, when they came into London flying a straight and steady course, barrage fire was employed. But when they began to jink (dodge) it was obvious that this method would not do and so now firing is more intermittent but designed to effect surprise.
"If the enemy can be lured into a sense of false security so that he will fly straight for a short while, a salvo from several guns has a good chance of bursting near him."
"Hence the pauses in firing—we are waiting the opportunity to get in a good burst. I hope this explanation will dispose of some rumors that have come to my ears in which it is said that our guns are wearing out and that ammunition is running short. I can assure you that the situation is quite normal and is not causing anxiety to those responsible."

RAF Hits At Nazi Railroads

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Heavy British bombers cruised over Berlin for two hours early today, pounding electric plants, railway yards and other targets in their 22nd foray against the German capital, the air ministry announced tonight.
The pilots said they flew squarely through a great anti-aircraft barrage and dodged grouped searchlights to bomb such objectives as:
The Berliner and Klingenberg electric plants; rail facilities at Tempelhof-airports, the Lehrte station, terminal for Hamburg and Bremen, the Putlitz-Strasse station in northwest Berlin, the Potsdamer station, and the Charlottenburg power station.
Ice froze on their windcreens, the pilots said, but, nevertheless, they were able to set fires "right in the center of the city." Flares guided their bombs.

Petain Considers Hitler Bid

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 24 (AP)—The inescapable conclusion that France has finally agreed to limited cooperation with Germany against Britain in return for an easing of the Nazi yoke was drawn by informed quarters tonight from the personal conference this afternoon between victor and vanquished—Adolf Hitler of Germany and old Marshal Philippe Petain of France.
The two protagonists, the one in field gray, the other in the faded horizon blue of the French army of an earlier day, conferred at length in Hitler's private railway car near Tours, France, in the German-occupied area.
Informed observers in this neutral corner reiterated that France quite probably was regaining part of the area now occupied by Germany, with Petain achieving his dream of returning the tri-color to his beloved Paris.
The price, they said, was the handing over of French sea and air bases in the Mediterranean, Africa and the near east for German-Italian use against Britain, so recently France's ally.
The Petain-Hitler meeting must have been conclusive, they said, else it would not have been held. Hitler and his foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, already had conferred two days ago with France's Vice-Premier Pierre Laval.
The few details available in Berlin said the meeting of Petain and Hitler took place in the afternoon in the salon car of Hitler's special train. The location of the train was not disclosed.
"Marshal Petain, it was said, was met at the line between unoccupied and occupied France by Otto Abetz, German "ambassador" to Paris, who accompanied him by automobile to the meeting place, described as "a small railway station in occupied France."

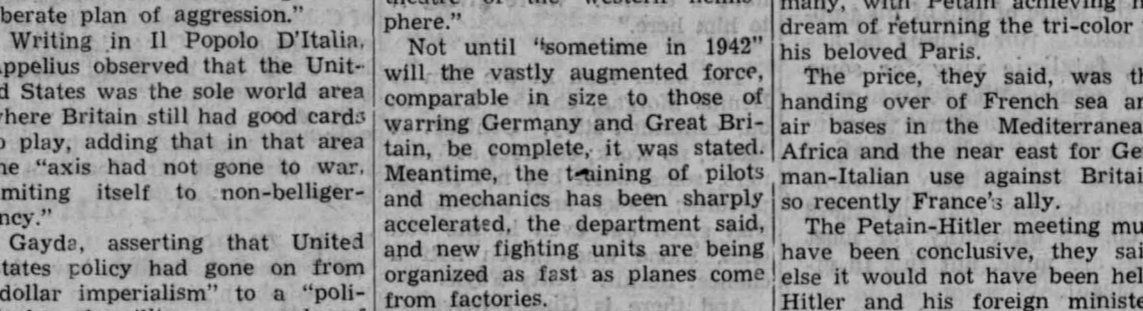

Air Corps Adopts Plan To Forestall Hemisphere Attack

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—A new air corps organization plan aimed at having more than 18,000 war planes ready to speed to the defense of any threatened point in the hemisphere was announced today by the army.
It involves the creation of four major air districts in continental United States and an increase in the number of combat groups from an existing 25 to 54.
"This highly mobile fighting force," the war department said, "will be so organized as to permit efficient operation by the whole or any specially organized portion in the defense of any theatre of the western hemisphere."
Not until "sometime in 1942" will the vastly augmented force, comparable in size to those of warring Germany and Great Britain, be complete, it was stated. Meantime, the training of pilots and mechanics has been sharply accelerated, the department said, and new fighting units are being organized as fast as planes come from factories.
The army now rates only about 500 of its more than 3,000 planes as first line fighting craft. Pilots, mechanics and other personnel number about 80,000, contrasted with 163,000 contemplated more than a year hence.
The air corps announcement coincided with these additional defense developments:
Announcing that army rifles and equipment were ready for home guard units authorized by congress, Secretary Stimson said that should the United States enter the war "much more dangerous attempts at sabotage were (See AIR CORPS, Page 3)

F. R. Declares Democracy Is Nation's Might

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt declared today that foreign propagandists "who seek to divide us with their strategy of terror" have their reply now in "characteristically American terms"—preparations for defense of the western hemisphere.
The chief executive spoke by radio from the White House to the New York Herald Tribune forum. His address closed the forum program.
Defense preparations, he said, were being made "in a mood of determination" but without fear and with a resolute will to peace.
"We are aware," he said, "that the dictators are quick to take advantage of the weakness of others."
Voicing confidence "in the ability of the democratic system which gives men dignity, to give them strength," Mr. Roosevelt said that the nation's strength today lay in a system in which government and people are one.
Words of Lincoln
The forum was on the subject, "Saving Democracy," and in his speech the president recalled the words of Abraham Lincoln warning people of his day against "fear-mongers and calamity howlers" whom the President called the "appeasers" of Lincoln's time.
Lincoln was quoted by the president as saying in 1860:
"Neither let us be slandered from our duty by false accusations against us, nor frightened from it by menaces of destruction to the government, nor of dungeons to ourselves. Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."
Mr. Roosevelt asserted that statement held "the right answer—the American answer—to the foreign propagandists who seek to divide us with their strategy of terror."
"Despising democracy and knowing our strength," the president continued, "those who have destroyed other free peoples deem the United States an 'effete, degenerate democracy.'"
"At first we dismissed this contempt with our traditional spirit of good humor," Mr. Roosevelt said. "We are now replying to it in characteristically American terms. We are preparing for the defense of the two American continents, and the oceans that (See F. R., Page 3)

Look Out, Minnesota, They're Coming!

Iowa Coeds Leave Today in Current College Fashions

Not only enthusiastic Hawkeye fans but attractive current campus fashions will journey to Minneapolis today, when the student special leaves Iowa City. Three-piece suits, costume suits, corduroys, and tweeds all enter the spotlight of the coeds' choice this week end. A two-piece black wool costume suit is the selection of June Hyland, A4 of Traer, for this football week end. The suit, which consists of a black wool dress and full length coat, has black Persian fur trim on collars and cuffs, and is fashioned with a softly gathered front panel. Miss Hyland completes the ensemble with black accessories. The current campus classics with added dressy touches appear to hold their own too. Adele Roman, A4 of Albany, N. Y., will wear a fitted beige wool dress coat for her week end in Minneapolis. The coat is trimmed with skunk fur, which forms a small collar and a wide band of trim down the entire front of the coat. A tailored brown felt snap brim hat and purse complete her ensemble.

Suits Are Right
Suits seem to be just right and while all fall fabrics put in a word for themselves tweed seems to top them all. A two-piece suit of blue tweed will be worn by Margaret Ann Rivers, A1 of Topeka, Kan., when she boards the student special. The suit is cut with the new long jacket, which boasts huge slash pockets and man-tailored lapels. Brown accessories will continue the campus effect. Tweed will also be the fabric of the boxy-type top coat which Margaret Hardy, C4 of Washington, Ia., will wear to the game. Miss Hardy will use the coat to top a "flash red corduroy sports dress, fashioned with long sleeves and shirtwaist blouse. A gay red hat will complete this Hawkeye rooter's costume.

Wilma Kelley
Wilma Kelley, A4 of Davenport, will wear a three-piece "soldier blue" suit which will display pockets fashioned from beaver. The top coat is full length, made swagger style and will be worn with brown hat, purse and gloves. Fur will also be used in the game time ensemble of Winifred Scully, J4 of Waterloo. Miss Scully will top a wool sports dress with a brown beaver fur coat, cut swagger style. Completing the coat will be a tiny brown hat trimmed with the same fur as that used in the fur.

Safety Pins! Coeds Find Novel Use As Necklace

Safety first! No! Safety pins! Coeds have found an extremely novel use for safety pins—necklaces and bracelets. Big safety pins and small safety pins decorate the necklaces and bracelets these days. Gold and silver safety pins add variety as well as charm to these individual accessories. So popular is the safety-pin necklace that coeds wear them for all occasions—classes, dances, football games and even bull sessions! And speaking of novel necklaces university women have started wearing fur, cork, spoons, rings, and even feathers for necklaces. Perhaps this is the year for originality—even for selecting necklaces. In days of old, it was the sewing circle, but now it's the necklace circle. For coeds are busily manufacturing novel attachments for necklaces even if it means sewing rings together and tying walnut shells with cord. Fads come and go—meanwhile necklaces and bracelets have come to the campus, and not only the wearer of these decorations, but also the manufacturer deserves attention—if not for the beauty, certainly for the ingenuity!

Refreshment Committee
William Warner, A3 of Clinton, heads the refreshment committee. Assisting him are Richard Hinton, A2 of Davenport, and Victor Crepeau, A3 of Scheneclady, N. Y. Press box Pickups

In late weeks it has been quite plainly evident that the state of Iowa would welcome resumption of football relations between Iowa and its natural rivals, the Cyclones of Iowa State.

Yesterday the story came out that Iowa State students were campaigning for just that end. Which one can view as a rather favorable sign.

First advantage of the game would, of course, be its benefit to the fans, for backers of both sides would be able to get there.

If played as an opener, the game would be ideal from another standpoint. It is almost impossible to find a fitting opening opponent.

Brechler Gives Lineup

Coach Paul Brechler, U-High's grid mentor, yesterday named the starters in today's homecoming conference brawl with West Branch after sending the squad through a light offensive-defensive drill.

There was a time when the series was called off because of an epidemic of rowdiness, in which good posts were torn down and more than one fan was also torn.

I don't, at the present time, see any tremendous barrier to another series of Hawkeye-Cyclone football games. Possibly it could also be extended to some of the other sports.

Ham Snider Confined To Hospital Room With Case of Boils

As the Hawkeyes prepared for their departure for Minneapolis this morning, it was virtually certain that Bender would see service and that either he or Bill Stauss would begin the game at the triple-threat post.

Teaming with Bender will probably be Al Couppee at quarterback, Burdell "Oops" Gilleard at right half and Ray Murphy at fullback.

One change was also forecast in the line where Max Hawkins will team with Charles Tollefson at the guards.

James Fox Writes Newspaper Story

Palimpsest Publishes 'Crum and the Standard' in October Issue

The ups and downs of one of Iowa's first papers is described by James Fox, graduate assistant in the Child Welfare department, in "Crum and the Standard" published in the October issue of the Palimpsest.

"William Crum rolled into the frontier town that is now Muscatine with the hard-cider barrel of the Whigs," Fox writes of the young Pennsylvania printer who came "equipped with a press and some type, journalistic ambitions and strong political convictions."

Pioneer
"As in many pioneer races to be first it was a small matter that made William Crum's Iowa Standard and not Thomas Hughes' Bloomington Herald the first newspaper in Muscatine," Fox explains as he describes the rivalry between the two young printers from Pennsylvania. "The publishers of the Herald had waited a week for the room which was to house their paper."

Iowa's Editors
Crum, a devout Whig, was the second to espouse the cause among Iowa editors, says Fox. Four of the five newspapermen who had preceded Crum and Hughes were Jacksonian democrats, he explains.

Financial insecurity was the specter that haunted Crum during his first year at what was then Bloomington, writes Fox. Sometimes the press was silenced completely, and it was quaint in lean weeks, he says.

News Plentiful
News was plentiful even if money was not, he adds. Abolitionism, the Oregon question, removal of the Iowa legislature from Burlington to Iowa City and agriculture were some of the subjects covered by the editor.

and that some advertising appeared on the front page. "The Standard seems to have weathered well the winter of 1840-41," says Fox. Crum enlarged his paper four columns and surprised his readers by adding Stephen Whicher, Jr. to the staff. Whicher was a young Bloomington lawyer, whose writing ability added much life to the newspaper.

"Old Tips"
"Crum must have sunk into despair at the news of the death of 'Old Tip,'" says Fox of the Standard's suspension from publication. The lapse was only temporary, he points out, for Crum moved his press to Iowa City and set up the Iowa City Standard.

The ancient rivalry between Hughes and Crum was renewed in Iowa City, for the democratic editor soon arrived on the scene and established the Iowa Capitol Reporter, Fox says.

"The first anniversary of the Standard in Iowa City was marked only by Crum's pleas that patrons pay their subscription bills," writes Fox.

"We have labored hard, and worked our way thus far without receiving enough from our subscribers to purchase the paper required for printing," he quotes from the Standard.

As William Crum continued publishing, his work became easier, Fox says, pointing out that by the fall of 1842 he was able to go east to buy new type and a new press.

In 1849, although the paper exchanged hands and was known as the Iowa City Republican under the ownership of Dr. S. M. Ballard, Crum stayed in Iowa City. For many years he was treasurer of the board of trustees of the University of Iowa.

Thomas Cromwell, in 1838, instituted the registration of burials in England.

Two Former Iowa Students Wed Recently

Word has been received here of the recent weddings of two former university students.

Wilkin-Raymond

Martha L. Wilkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wilkin of Albia, and Arnold O. Raymond of Des Moines, were married last Saturday in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. R. Imbric Barnes officiated.

Mrs. Raymond attended the Albia junior college and the university here. Mr. Raymond is employed in the Rollins Hosiery mills in Des Moines where the couple will live.

Quinn-Sears

Shirley Marguerite Quinn, daughter of John Quinn of Bridgeport, and Duane Oakes Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Sears of Davenport, were married Oct. 20, in the Sacred Heart church in Davenport. The Rev. Father Murphy officiated.

Mr. Sears attended St. Ambrose college and was graduated from the university here. He is an accountant with the General Electric company. The couple will live in Bridgeport.

Hoover Flays New Deal

Says Present System Leads to Road Of National Socialism

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24 (AP)—Herbert Hoover asserted tonight that the New Deal is creating an economic system which drifts "down the suicide road of national socialism."

The former president declared that his successor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, had obtained extraordinary powers which point to "an American breed of totalitarianism," that in the past seven years people's liberties had been shackled and that a third term would violate "an unwritten provision of our constitution."

Urging the election of Wendell L. Willkie as president, Hoover in his prepared address to a nationwide radio audience viewed the third term tradition as a check upon personal power which he said President Roosevelt had built "to a dangerous point in this republic."

To National Socialism

"In building up these powers the independence of the supreme court, congress and the local government had been degraded," Hoover said. "A political machine has been built which places all free election in jeopardy. An economic system is being created which drifts steadily away from free men and free enterprise down the suicide road of national socialism."

"Under assumptions of personal power we are steadily drifting toward war. And one result of the use of these powers has been to stifle the restoration of productive employment and a prosperous agriculture and to involve the peace of the American people."

Election of republican candidate Willkie, Hoover said, will safeguard "representative government under which only limited powers rest in any one man's hand."

Draws Parallel

Hoover spoke in Columbus while Willkie visited industrial centers in Warren and Akron in his drive to capture Ohio's electoral votes in the Nov. 5 election. Hoover will discuss foreign relations next Thursday at Lincoln, Neb.

Peacetime expansion of presidential powers in the past seven years has exceeded any granted in the nation's previous 160 years, said Hoover, who drew a parallel between New Deal activities and Europe's "one party" dictatorships.

"A few days ago Mr. Roosevelt sought to dismiss all of this by the statement that no dictator ever dared to run the gauntlet of a really free election," Hoover added. "That is not the answer. The answer is that there can be no free election with such a political machine as the New Deal. Does any man believe that even today ten million householders are not tied to this party by other forces than pure reason?"

Rubber Stamp

Hoover asserted "Nobody will deny that the majority of congress have been reduced to a rubber stamp" and added: "You may think the president's power dive on the supreme court failed. It did not. We have seen the court weakened steadily with complaisant appointments. Who will say that the court now is as great a check upon the personal power of the president as it has always been in the past?"

The former president reiterated that the New Deal has failed to solve problems of poverty, unemployment and agriculture, that free enterprise was paralyzed and that "we have a country disunited and divided by class hate."

On, Jean, Proudly at the Fore!

Iowa Drum Major to Be High-Stepping Attraction at Minnesota Game

BY BOB RUTENBECK
High-stepping Jean Hedlund, A3 of Des Moines, will be a featured attraction, when the University of Iowa football band takes the field tomorrow afternoon.

Lanky Jean is a drum major in the band, but he is also one of the top-notch baton twirlers of the nation. Among his achievements are a superior rating at the national high school twirling contest, in 1937; a first division rating in the Heart of America music festival, at Kansas City, Mo., in 1939; demonstrations at a band-master's marching band clinic, in Waterloo; three years as drum major of the East high school band in Des Moines, and drill master of the Cedar Falls municipal band for the past summer.

Third Season
Here on the campus, Hedlund is in his third season as drum major of the football band, and has given several exhibitions in the Silver Shadow, Iowa's dry night club.

Jean is also in demand as a twirling instructor for many young hopeful drum majors. Several high school students from surrounding towns make weekly trips to Iowa City to take lessons from him.

Music Major

Not satisfied with drum majoring and twirling batons, Jean, a music major, also plays oboe in the university concert band and symphony orchestra. When in high school, he tried to play oboe in a marching band, but found that the jolts of marching made him chew the flimsy reed to slivers.

Old Walking Stick

In exasperation, he turned to twirling, practicing at first with an old walking stick. His slim fingers and flexible wrists became stronger as he practiced, and he soon bought a regular baton.

Since he could find no recognition for his work, he soon discovered that he was a regular attraction.

Iowa Drum Major

JEAN HEDLUND

The Man With the Twirling Batons

Steps Into Action At Minnesota Tomorrow

nized instructor, from whom he could take lessons, Hedlund had no guidance but an illustrated book and his own ingenuity. Nevertheless, he soon accomplished the feat of using two batons at once. He uses two now, except when conducting the band.

Spectacular Stunts

Most people think of a drum major as using only his hands, but watch Jean. He uses his elbows, knees, feet and shoulders for his fancy routines. One of his most spectacular stunts is throwing a spinning baton over the goal posts and catching it on the other side, as he marches under.

So when the football band is on the field, keep an eye on that tall, gold-and-black figure with the twin sticks of spinning silver—that's Jean Hedlund.

New Books

List Includes Willkie Autobiography

Among the books of current interest recently added to the university library is, "This is Wendell Willkie," by Wendell L. Willkie.

Other new books include, "I Saw It Happen in Norway" by Carl Hambro; "Mobilizing Civilian America" by Harold Tobin; "Forgotten People" by George Sanchez, and "You Might Like Socialism" by Charles Lamont. "Commonwealth or Anarchy" by Sir John Marriot; "The Theory of Idle Resources" by William Harold; "The Quaker Influence in American Literature" by Howard Hintz and "Labor's Civil War" by Herbert Harris, are also included.

Other books in the new addition are "These Men I Knew" by Mrs. Rosita Forbes; "Country Squire in the White House" by John Flynn; "The Family" by Nina Fedorova; "The Dark Stranger" by Mrs. Constance Dodge, and "United States Policy Toward China" by Paul Clyde.

Law College Celebrates 75th Anniversary November 22-23

"Information, Please," a program on modern developments of the law conducted by Atty. George C. Murray of Sheldon, class of 1918, will inaugurate the 75th anniversary celebration of the college of law November 22-23, according to an announcement yesterday by Dean Mason Ladd.

Alumni arriving early enough Friday, Nov. 22, will lunch with the students at Law Commons. The "Information, Please" program, featuring questions and answers, will be held in Macbride auditorium at 2:30 with the following participating:

Justice Richard Mitchell of the Iowa supreme court, Ft. Dodge, class of 1913; Prof. Percy Bordwell of the college of law; Atty. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, lieutenant-governor of Iowa, Cedar Rapids, class of 1922; Atty. E. Marshall Thomas of Dubuque, class of 1932; Atty. Herschel G. Langdon of Des Moines, class of 1931, and Prof. Charles B. Nutting of the University of Nebraska college of law, class of 1930.

Roscoe Pound

After the 2:30 p.m. program, there will be a brief intermission. At 4 p.m. Roscoe Pound, former dean of the Harvard college of law and a distinguished American jurist, will give an address on "Activities and the Law" in Macbride auditorium.

Dean Ladd announced that after a sufficient number of seats have been reserved for law students, faculty and alumni, tickets for Dean Pound's address will be available for SUI faculty members and students until the auditorium is filled.

"Still, Nobody Knows the Law," an address by Judge Benjamin Clark Hilliard of the supreme court of Colorado, class of 1891, will be featured on the program of the banquet at 6:30 Friday evening in Iowa Union.

Law students, members of the college of law faculty and alumni—the latter seated by classes—will attend, with Dean Ladd serving as toastmaster.

Also scheduled for the dinner program are entertainment by students and remarks by Acting President Chester A. Phillips, Dean Pound and Judge Jesse A. Miller of Des Moines, class of 1891.

Saturday Program

Saturday morning the law school will be open to visitors. Climaxing the 75th anniversary celebration of the college of law will be the Iowa-Illinois game in the afternoon.

Judge Miller is chairman of the alumni committee, which is composed of the following: J. W. Bolinger, Davenport; Alfred E.

Walt Disney Employs Stokowski

Symphony Orchestra, S.U.I.'s Bill Cox Work Together on Film

William Goodman (Bill) Cox, graduate from the university in January, who is now associated with Walt Disney Productions of Hollywood, Cal., has been working as assistant art director on a new Mickey Mouse full-length feature production.

Started two years ago, the new feature was based on the story of Paul Dukas' familiar "The Sorcerer's Apprentice." Mickey was to star as the "Apprentice," with Dukas' music for the background.

Production

When production was well under way, the possibility of combining this musical picturization with other selections crowded out the original idea. So Disney sent a studio technical staff to Philadelphia, where over 430,000 feet of celluloid music, composed of eight numbers, were recorded by the Philadelphia symphony orchestra, under the baton of Leopold Stokowski.

The art staff, back in Hollywood, synchronized the animation of the picture, called "Fantasia," to the music, and a new Disney full-length feature was born.

New Method

For the presentation of "Fantasia," the Disney engineers created a new method of sound projection, which will necessitate special equipment in every theater where the picture will play.

The usual sound equipment of the modern motion picture theater consists of one, or perhaps two, large horns behind the projection screen.

These are connected to a single sound track along the edge of the film. Therefore, all sound the audience hears comes from one sound track and from a single horn. Of if there are two horns, the same sound comes from each of them.

Sound Direction

In a stage production, the audience is aware of direction of sound. Until now, that factor had been completely disregarded in the motion picture industry—all sound came from a single source, even if the speaker or performer were not directly in front of the reproduction horn.

For "Fantasia," the Disney engineers have designed a special projection apparatus, consisting of a number of horns, covering all parts of the screen. In addition, several sound tracks have been added to make a better balance between sight and sound, and to
