Thousands Mass East of Old Capitol for Roaring Rally—

ENTHUSIASM HITS NEW PEAK

Virgil Hancher, C. A. Phillips Talk to Crowd

Kinnick Acts As Master of Ceremonies At Pep Gathering

By BILL HENTHORNE If enthusiasm is any indication of an Iowa victory this afternoon, then Purdue doesn't have a chance.

Last night Iowa spirit soared higher than the gilded dome of Old Capitol which looked down on thousands of Hawkeye supporters massed between Schaeffer and Macbride halls at one of the largest pep rallies in Iowa history.

Although the pep meeting was scheduled to begin at 7:30, a huge crowd was pressing against the fence guarding the speakers' platform by 7 o'clock.

As the speakers, led by President-Elect Virgil M. Hancher, came on to the speaker's platform, four parades of students, alumni and townspeople marched into the rally from various parts of the campus, led by the Scottish Highlanders and the university band.

Nile Kinnick acted as master of ceremonies. "If you expect your football team to go 80 minutes," he told the crowd, "you will have to go 80 minutes along with them."

Spirit of Old Gold Kinnick introduced Acting President Chester A. Phillips who proscribed, "By sunset this evening victory will have marched across Iowa field to the spirit of Old Gold."

Adjectives can't describe the enthusiasm and spirit displayed by the cheering throng. "Half of the state of Iowa must be here," one alumni declared as he looked at the thousands of Iowa rosters packed in front of Old Capitol.

A big smile spread over the face of President-Elect Hancher as he spoke to the crowd before him. He praised the Iowa football team and its coaching staff and thanked the gathering for their loyalty and spirit. "Iowa spirit will win for us today," he said. The roar from the hundreds of supporters asserted their agreement.

Prof. Carl Leib, chairman of the athletic board, told the throng that Purdue may have its three "B's," but Iowa has its two "M's"—Mike Enich and Ray Murphy.

Cheering Crowd When Dr. Eddie Anderson was introduced it took several minutes before the cheer leaders could quiet the cheering crowd.

"First we get them to yell, then we have to stop them," one of the cheer leaders exclaimed.

"Last year we played one of our best games against Purdue," Anderson said. "You can count on the team doing its best today also," he declared.

Captain Mike Enich drew a great ovation as he assured Iowa supporters that their team was out to win. Enich represented the Hawkeyes squad.

Other speakers who addressed the rally included Mayor Henry Willenbrock of Iowa City and E. G. (Dad) Schroeder, director of the athletic department.

"Dad" Schroeder will count this Homecoming as his 34th. He told the crowd that Purdue holds an edge on the series with Iowa, having won 9 games to 8 victories for the Hawkeyes. One game was a tie.

"We're going to tie that record tomorrow afternoon, he declared. Mory Eby, head coach at Coe college, who captained the 1900 team for the university, also spoke.

222 Men Will Be Drafted From Iowa

DES MOINES, Nov. 1 (AP)—Iowa's first quota under the selective service will be 222 men, Governor George A. Wilson's office was notified today by Major General P. P. Bishop of Omaha, seventh corps area commander. The men will be inducted into service at Fort Des Moines army post in groups of 74 a day, beginning November 27.

Enthusiasm at an Iowa Pep Rally

With the 1940 corn monument in the background, 5,000 enthusiastic Iowa boosters attended the giant Homecoming rally last night on the lawn of Old Capitol. Complete with the University of Iowa band and the Scottish Highlanders, the rousing festivity reached its height when Virgil Hancher, president-elect of the university, addressed the cheering crowd. Nile Kinnick acted as master of ceremonies.

Iowa Spirit Will Win for Us Today—Hancher

Highlighting last night's pep meeting and speaking to instill enthusiasm into the crowd and spirit into the Iowa Ironmen, were Virgil Hancher, president-elect of the University of Iowa; Acting President Chester A. Phillips and Nile Kinnick, master of ceremonies, Iowa's outstanding gridiron hero. "Iowa spirit will win for us today," Hancher asserted, and the crowd was with him.

Convention to Disclose Student Views Toward Governing Council Called for November 19

To determine the attitude of the University of Iowa student body toward a student governing council, composed of representatives of the university's colleges and organized living groups, an Iowa student convention has been called for Nov. 19, Lewis Lapham, A3 of Charles City, announced last night.

Lapham is a member of the student-faculty committee who investigated the question of such a council before the close of the last academic year. The committee had been appointed, in response to student committee requests, by Former President Eugene A. Gilmore.

The convention of Nov. 19 is a direct outgrowth of resolutions adopted by the joint committee last spring.

The Resolutions

Those resolutions provided: 1. That an all-university group be set up to consist of one elected representative from each college, one elected representative from each of the organized living groups (as one representative from the interfraternity council, one from the Currier council, one from the Law Commons, and so on), one representative from the town boys, one representative from the town girls, and one representative from the present student committee.

2. That this all-university committee be convened early in the coming fall to consider two problems: (1) whether the students of Iowa want a student council, and (2) if so, to devise a suitable working plan for such a council.

3. That any such plan drawn up by the all-university committee be submitted to the faculty for consideration and suggestions.

4. That the final plan for a student council as drawn up by the all-university committee be submitted to a vote of the entire student body.

"At present, no unified student organization exists on the campus," Lapham pointed out. "No charter is being proposed, and no aims will be stated at the Nov. 19 meeting.

"The question is, do Iowa students WANT such a central committee."

Chief Issue Now

The primary concern of the committee at this time, he pointed out, is that every campus group should send a conscientious representative to the Nov. 19 convention, to decide the question of whether or not students want such a central campus committee.

"Details of the meeting will be announced as the meeting approaches.

The Committee

The members of the student faculty committee whose resolutions were adopted last spring are:

For the faculty: Registrar H. G. Bernes, chairman; Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, Dean of Women Adelaide Burge, Dean of Men Robert E. Rienow, Prof. Odus K. Patton of the college of law, University Business Manager W. H. Cobb and Dr. Donald Mallett.

For the students: George Willoughby, G of Des Moines; Edward Hoag, A3 of Preepport, Ill.; Roland Christensen, A3 of Iowa City; Betty Addington, A3 of Des Moines; Mary Frances Arduer, A3 of Cedar Rapids; Ruth Sumy, A3 of Des Moines; Jerry Siegel, A4 of Vinton; Frankie Sample, A3 of Iowa City; Patricia Sleszer, A4 of Freeport, Ill.; and Lapham.

Nazis Account For 13 Ships, DNB Reports

BERLIN, Nov. 1 (AP)—German dive bombers screaming down on three British convoys off the shores of Britain today sank 13 ships—including one cruiser—totaling 47,000 tons and badly damaged nine others aggregating 36,000 tons, the DNB official news agency said tonight.

The agency said the attacks occurred as the convoys approached southeast coast harbors. One, it said, was in the mouth of the Thames river.

Near Great Yarmouth, DNB declared a single Heinkel bomber sank a protecting cruiser and three freighters out of a convoy accompanied by 20 cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

Striking at another convoy off Great Yarmouth, German bombers dropped eight bombs each on a destroyer and a merchant ship off the DNB report continued.

It said parts of the destroyer were blown into the air by the bomb blasts and the warship was left wallowing with its decks awash.

Two other vessels in this convoy were struck and the rest scattered, the report said despite a guard of 20 destroyers and a number of submarines.

Widow Will Receive Carnegie Medal

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 1 (AP)—Ted Woodruff's fatal and futile attempt to save a child from death beneath the wheels of a train won for his widow today a silver medal and death benefits of $45 a month from the Carnegie hero fund commission.

Greeks Drive Italians Back

BROOKLYN, Nov. 1 (AP)—

President Roosevelt charged tonight that an "unholy alliance" had been formed in the republican party by "the extreme reactionary and the extreme radical elements in this country," they having no common ground except to "produce dictatorial ends."

Starting a final intensive 24-hour campaign through New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, he spoke in the old Academy of Music at Brooklyn. The high-ceilinged old hall, where Mr. Roosevelt has spoken often in the past on the Friday night before elections, was crowded to its capacity of about 4,000.

James A. Farley, former democratic national chairman, and Edward J. Flynn, Farley's successor, were among those on the platform.

Turkey Plans To Continue Red Friendship

Radio From Ankara Announces Adherence To Russian Policy

ANKARA, Nov. 1 (AP)—Turkey will continue her relations with Soviet Russia "despite all other occurrences," the official Turkish radio announced tonight. "Turkish-Russian relations in this confused period are unique," the radio said. "Our country, despite all other occurrences, will continue its relations," with Russia.

Already, Turkey's President Ismet Inonu, heir to Kemal Ataturk as leader of this reborn nation, had informed his national assembly today that Turkey would follow Russia's lead and stay out of war for the present.

The president declared that "Greece, in whose security and well-being we are very interested and which lies in our zone of security, unfortunately has been dragged into the war."

To Fight If Attacked

But, President Inonu insisted, Turkey is weighing the whole situation in collaboration with her ally Britain. She will fight instantly if attacked, and "we remain loyal to our friendships; our obligations and ties of collaboration are unshakable."

His stress on the "friendly turn" of Turkey's relations with the soviet union, following "a critical period," gave foreign observers the idea that this was the key to Turkey's decision.

Thus Turkey, they believed, will wait for Russia's signal before entering the Balkan war unless she first is attacked or considers herself menaced by such a development as the entrance of Bulgaria into hostilities on the side of the axis.

"Soviet policy," said Inonu, "in this dark world is the one of the greatest security. We have decided to act for the interests of our nation without harming anyone else."

Early Incident Best Forgotten—Brown

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Edgar G. Brown, president of the United Government Employees, organization of Negro federal workers, urged tonight that the Stephen Early-James Sloan incident be left out of politics lest it fan "the flames of prejudice" and endanger "peaceful racial relations."

"I for one believe in all sincerity that the New York authorities should be given full opportunity to make a thorough investigation before passing judgment," he said in a statement.

Small Air Force Swaps Blows With Fascists

ATHENS, Nov. 1 (AP)—Greece's tiny air force swapped blows with the vastly more numerous warplanes of Italy today while Greek ground forces in the northwest declared they had pushed one segment of the Italian invasion back to the Albanian frontier.

Greek planes flew back and forth over the wild, mountainous border area, cutting loose with bombs and bullets at the Italians wherever they could find them. The fascist air arm itself was busy blasting at the islands of Crete and Corfu and the city of Larisa on the rail line running north from Athens; Piraeus, Athens' big port, and the port of Salonika.

British Report

(Reuters, British news agency, reported from Athens the Greeks not only hurled the Italians back to the Albanian frontier but stormed and captured an important mountain and seized an Albanian area embracing several villages.

(This advance apparently was in the vicinity of Koriza, just across the border in Albania, where Greek fighters captured a height dominating the town after fierce hand-to-hand fighting, Exchange Telegraph, another British news agency, reported.)

(Exchange Telegraph said Greek fliers dropped three tons of bombs on two Italian airdromes at Koriza, destroying one and badly damaging the other.)

A Greek announcement said 88 persons were killed and 206 injured in Italian raids on 13 Greek towns during the day. Twenty-five of the casualties were reported at Corfu. Fascist warplanes, apparently coming from the nearby Dodecanese islands, dumped two dozen bombs on Canea, Crete island, but the damage was said to have been slight.

In five days of fighting, the Italians have accomplished only a subdued form of blitzkrieg, declared the Greeks, who claimed that in addition to throwing the Italians back in the northwest they were holding firm everywhere else along the rugged frontier.

These claims (in direct contradiction to Italian assertions that the invaders' spearheads had slit the "Metaxas line" and penetrated 35 miles into Greece), were made while bombs thumped again in Piraeus, Athens' big port.

Vote Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The labor board ordered yesterday an election within 30 days to determine whether employees of the Mather Humane Stock Transportation Co., Waterloo, Ia., want to be represented in collective bargaining by CIO's United Packing House Workers union.

Takes Office Now at Request Of Iowa Board

New Administrative Head Comes to Iowa During Homecoming

VINTON, Ia., Nov. 1 (AP)—Virgil M. Hancher, Chicago attorney recently appointed president of the University of Iowa, who had not been expected to begin his duties until December, was asked to assume the presidency "as of today," Henry C. Shull, president of the state board of education, said this afternoon after a meeting of the board here. Hancher is expected to begin his duties Saturday.

Board Passes Motion

The motion was passed in executive session of the board after a representative of the alumni association was allowed a hearing on "new and vital information," Shull said. It was passed, reportedly, with only Thomas W. Keenan of Shenandoah voting "no."

Keenan, a board member, had charged that W. Earl Hall of Mason City, a fellow member, had known about a Chicago lawsuit in which Hancher was named a defendant, but that Hall had neglected to tell other board members until the appointment was made. Keenan earlier had asked that the election be rescinded.

Attends Homecoming

On Oct. 4, Shull said, the board decided to ask Hancher to move from Evanston, Ill., to Iowa City and begin his duties before December. The president elect had planned to attend Homecoming at Iowa and it was agreed that he would be inducted into office at that time, according to Shull.

Virgil M. Hancher assumes his duties as president of the University of Iowa today. He arrived on the campus yesterday.

He fills the position left vacant July 1 by the resignation of Former President Eugene A. Gilmore. Since July 14, Dean Chester A. Phillips of the college of commerce has dispatched the Iowa presidential duties as acting president.

Speaks at Mass Meeting

The new chief executive of the university first appeared before his students here Sept. 26 when he attended the induction ceremonies here.

Last night he spoke to them again, this time at the Homecoming mass meeting.

"I speak as one who is coming home," he said, "and I am happy to be here to meet you."

Then turning to the paramount subject of football, he said: "I believe in Iowa, and I believe in the training of men to play hard, to play fairly, and to play to win."

Speaks Over WSUI

At 9 o'clock, he spoke over WSUI. Fred Keller, A4 of Grand Haven, Mich., appeared with him in an interview on changes in Homecoming activities over the period of 16 years since he left the campus.

There was little change, he said. The spirit and loyalty are here. That, he pointed out, was demonstrated at the mass meeting.

Then, in response to a question touching upon his return, to this particular Homecoming, as president of the university, he said:

"I hope, in a small way, to influence the life of the student generations here, and of the student generations which are to come.

"I am deeply grateful, very humble, and I hope that I shall be able to do what's expected of me."

President Hancher will assume his Iowa duties without ceremony. Traditionally, the inauguration of an Iowa president comes some weeks after his tenure begins.

He is a native Iowan and a graduate with two degrees from the University of Iowa. Born on a farm near Rolle, he received the bachelor of arts degree here in 1918, and the degree of Juris Doctor in 1924. He went to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar and received two degrees there. He is 44 years old.

Was Alumni President

He was president of the Iowa Alumni association in 1938-39 and for several years had been a member of its board of directors. Mrs. Hancher, too, is a native Iowan. She was graduated from Paullina high school, and attended Northwestern university.

Homecoming

There Are Things About Iowa You Can't Change

Homecoming's here. It will be a gala week end of Old Gold and Black, of Homecoming buttons by the thousands, of yellow "maims" on colorful fall coats, of fraternity and sorority decorations, of pep and enthusiasm, streets lined with automobiles, of football fans, thrills and cheers.

It's the time when Iowa climbs down from her normal pedestal of academic decorum and opens her arms to the thousands who come back each year to alma mater.

An Old Friend—
What does it all mean to one who comes back, one who's been away from the campus for a year, 10 years—or 50 years?

Well, there's no friend like an old friend. The university is an old friend to thousands who have passed along her aging thoroughfares.

They knew her in earlier days. They knew her, some of them, when the west side was a wilderness—the west side where in only 15 brief years has grown one of the nation's leading colleges of medicine, a whole new campus.

Some of them knew her at a still earlier day, when Old Capitol stood alone on what is now the Pentacrest, when Iowa men wore high collars and Iowa women piled high their hair.

Perhaps some who come back today will recall when this "campus" of ours held Old Capitol, Iowa river and very little else.

Ever-Changing Home—
Yet, to those of every vintage—to graduates of last year, 10 or 50 years ago—the university is "home." It's an ever-changing, ever-growing home. Its physical characteristics expand, but its atmosphere is constant. The atmosphere of home doesn't change much, you know, even in 50 years.

It changes even less at Iowa because Old Capitol stands, unchanging as the center of things, and because the spirit of those great teachers and great men and women who lived here then are still about. Their spirits are very real to those who come back.

The University of Iowa will honor her old graduates today, and justly so. Because they are a part of Iowa, though they were here before we came.

They Are a Part—
They are a part, because they waged the battles we are waging, they won goals we seek to win. They built, upon these unchanging Iowa foundations, the worlds we seek to build.

Iowa and they and we are all the same. Welcome home, you graduates of Iowa. May this be your best Homecoming. You were the university of yesterday. We, too, will join those ranks one day.

And when Homecoming rolls around, we, too, will feel the urge to come back. We'll come with you. The Iowa of tomorrow will be here to greet us, and the university will still be an old friend—to all of you and all of us.

You Can't Change Iowa—
And things will be the same. You can't change Iowa. You may build her new buildings, give her new professors, send her new students. She'll still be the same.

The spirit her early founders gave her they gave to you. You have given it to us. And we will hand it on.

Fortcoming generations may change Iowa, but her spirit still will live—Old Gold spirit—from them, and you and us.

An Iowa Student Council?

In this morning's issue of The Daily Iowan is announced a forthcoming Iowa student convention for the purpose of talking over the question of a student central council, to knit the organized groups of the campus into a unified body.

The question of some form of student government or council has cropped up now and again at Iowa, and has died, chiefly from a lack of interest in the project. It has died at other times, quite simply, because it was mis-promoted and because it was therefore misunderstood.

But the preliminary ground work for this particular meeting, which will occur Nov. 19, has placed the question of whether or not Iowa shall have such a proposed unifying student council on a pretty sound basis.

Approaching Decision
And the Nov. 19 convention will decide, just about once and for all, whether Iowa's students do want a central student committee composed of representatives from campus organizations.

Right now the most important business is one of thought about the question, on the part of every organization, so that the forthcoming meeting may produce constructive, tangible reactions upon which action, if it is to be taken, can be based.

No charter is to be presented at the meeting, no aims are to be discussed. The simple question is whether students want such a council.

A Student Responsibility
The student-faculty committee which met last spring adopted resolutions which set up a directed, clearly-defined method of settling that question. It now becomes the responsibility of the student body, through its various groups:

1. To think about the potentialities of such a central council.

2. To decide within their own groups whether they favor such a council, and

3. To elect a member of each group from within that group to carry its attitude to the Nov. 19 convention, on the basis of the terms of the student-faculty resolutions.

The conscientious carrying through of that preliminary phase on the part of Iowa's students, will spell success for the convention, whether the proposition is approved or vetoed.

If it is approved, a firm foundation has been formed for the construction of the council, for the consideration of its working plan by the faculty, and, finally, for a campus-wide vote upon the proposition by the student body.

Considering the Question.
The question of a central student council for the university is an interesting one. It should be discussed fully. The Daily Iowan will comment upon aspects of the proposition during this immediate period preceding the convention of student delegates to consider the question.

Our attitude will be purely analytical, insofar as we can make it so. So, too, should be the attitude of every student.

Think about this proposition, fully. Iowa's students must decide whether there is justification for such a council, and whether it shall be promoted or vetoed at the approaching convention.

A Man About MANHATTAN

The Ramblings of Our Correspondent From Broadway

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—About two years ago I dropped into one of the Broadway clubs and saw a lanky, red-headed comedian by the name of Danny Kaye, put on his act. To me, he seemed funny. Not all comedians do. A few minutes later Billy Rose walked up to him and told him he thought he was one of the cleverest comedians he had ever seen. That was high praise.

Looking back on that night I recall a little song that Kaye sang. It was "Sweet Molly Malone." "I picked it up in Dublin," he explained. "I heard somebody sing it on some crowded Broadway street, and I liked it."

Today, this song has become a great hit in the East. I suppose you can find it recorded by many people, but the one I like best of all is Maxine Sullivan. Her rendition of it is the record of the month.

Our coming-up-in-the-world note for the week concerns Charlie Chaplin. . . . In the old days Charlie signed himself simply as "Charlie." But since he has made "The Dictator" he has billed himself as "Charles" Chaplin. . . . Seems mighty august to me.

They are calling Lanny Ross' farm house, which has only four rooms, "Singer's Midget."

Jimmy Van Heusen, the composer and band leader, is also a pilot. He has named his plane "All This and Heaven Too," after one of his song hits. Van Heusen's real name is Edward Chester Babcock.

There's a fellow in this town, who came out of the box cars and hobo camps of America to become an operator of nightclubs and a producer of plays. Late the other night, through heavy-lidded eyes, he peered at me for a long time, then said, "When you're broke you've got lots of friends. But when you win a little success they seem to fall away from you." . . . Well, I should have said to him some of the things on my mind . . . I should have said, "Since you made a little money you've become a first class heel. On one or two occasions you've pulled some raw deals. What did you expect?" But I didn't. I took the easy way out, pretending not to hear him. . . . I wish now I had let him have it.

This new Cafe Society club on 58th strikes a responsive chord. It was the first time I'd been by there in years. Back in 1933, a week or so after repeal, Belle Livingston opened a nightclub there, and she sent me a little note saying, "I am endeavoring to make even repeal attractive."

But Belle failed. Then, in this order, the club became known as Joe Zelli's, El Rio, Mother Kelly's, and the Surf Club. All gave up the ghost. Cafe Society is redoing the exterior by painting murals on the outside walls. One little difficulty was encountered when the artist found a small window in the way of his mural. He solved his problem by painting a frame around the pane, causing it to resemble a framed painting.

One of my Japanese friends, a Tokyo correspondent, sums up his idea of Utopia thusly: "Marry a Japanese girl, eat Chinese food, and live in America in an apartment house."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

A Hot, Hot Race Looms on Tuesday

WASHINGTON—No wonder the polls have been hedging by keeping the election outcome somewhat doubtful. The unprecedented number of unpredictable factors involved has confused many leaders in both camps who, unlike their followers, do not permit their hopes to rule their judgment.

Workings of Tammany hall in vital New York are, for a prime instance, unfathomable even to those in that game. It can be said definitely the only orders that had been passed down by the middle of the week urged the workers to go for the state ticket. Not a word was said about FDR. While the leader, Christy Flannigan, sat on the Madison Square Garden platform for Mr. Roosevelt's speech, it is rather well understood within the outfit that the leaders are against the third term. They hold that they have been unable to appease the president, so there can be no benefit in helping him.

The regulars in the Bronx and Brooklyn seem to be working double time in the White House interests, but their activity is not matched by all democratic state organizations out in the country.

GREAT BIG IF—

A democratic chieftain has said that Mr. Roosevelt will win by a landslide if he can get everyone who is supposed to be for him to vote for him on election day. That "if" gets bigger, the deeper you pry into the prospects. An intimate loyal newspaper friend of a certain democratic senator from the west who has made a statement for Roosevelt is authority for a warning that the senator will vote the other way when he gets into the ballot stall and the curtain is closed. (If you want to guess his identity, eliminate Senator Burke of Nebraska for he is not the man.)

THE LEWIS SPEECH—

A great impponderable also is the voting effect of the John Lewis break from Mr. Roosevelt. Those who have looked over the favorable telegrams Lewis has received have been impressed, although these are not all from labor leaders. Lewis himself is very well pleased. Since last Friday he refers to the new deal as "the opposition." He is proud of his speech, says it had "impact."

KENNEDY'S TALK—

Few new dealers measured the effect of the Kennedy speech in tons of ballots. The other stumping ambassadors were careful to avoid the mistake of making definite commitments to Roosevelt by name. Also the ambassador to London came in late to the campaign show and strongly asserted that the only crisis in which the United States is involved is a crisis of production—the necessity of arming in time. He founded his whole argument on that assumption. What troubled the new dealers is the fact that the republicans have built up the same assumption as their primary reason for electing a business man.

F.D.R. MISSES BOAT—

Draft headquarters naturally has kept quiet about it, but a large volume of letters was received before the draft drawing from mothers of sons within the age limits, setting forth political arguments against the president. Many a democratic authority has the feeling that the president switched far too late from the war-crisis campaign motif which was used at the outset to justify the third term. Willkie's rise they attribute mainly to that issue. Whether the new peace motif will be effective in rallying such votes back before Tuesday cannot be answered before then.

CLOSE RACE—

A heavy majority of political newsmen around town still think Roosevelt will win. In a dollar pool at the state department press room, Roosevelt's expected electoral vote averaged 376. On the other hand private business services here are this year, for the first time in their history, frankly advising their clients the outcome cannot be guessed with any reasonable degree of assurance.

DOOR BELL RINGING—

All these incalculables sit down to the probability that the election may go to the side most efficiently organized to get its voters to the polls and voted on election day. Republicans, for the first time in 12 years, have youthful and enthused groups of legmen and women to see that their full vote is cast. Democratic campaign emphasis, however, has largely leaned on grand strategy rather than singing doorbells.

FIRST YOU SEE IT, THEN YOU DON'T

PIERRE, S. D. (AP)—The state treasurer just had reported a $3,000,000 general balance at the close of the fiscal year.

A grocer, collecting first of the month bills from statehouse employees, thought it would be a cinch to get a dime changed in that office.

Deputies advised him it was merely a "paper balance," but dug into private purses to accommodate the merchant.

Lichtenstein and Prussia still are technically at war, due to oversights in the drafting of treaties after the war of 1870.

Tests have been made to determine which type of motion pictures makes a person feel the coolest in hot weather.

Iowa Experimenters Report Success in Transporting Preserved Blood

Results of investigations on the transportability of preserved blood, completed at University hospital here at the request of the National Research Council, were reported yesterday in Chicago by Dr. Elmer L. DeGowin, Dr. Robert C. Hardin and Dr. E. D. Plass of the college of medicine.

The paper was given before the Central Society for Clinical Research which met yesterday and today in Chicago.

Dr. DeGowin reported the effect of transportation on preserved blood, the best methods of transportation and methods of shipping blood for military purposes.

The research work in blood transportability was done at the request of the U. S. army as part of the national defense and preparedness program.

In addition to University hospital's work three other hospitals in the United States were assigned to conduct investigations on dried plasma, plasma administration and blood storage as part of the research program.

The University of Michigan at Ann Arbor specialized in storage, Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., specialized in shock and hemorrhage and Bryn Mawr hospital, Bryn Mawr, Pa., conducted work with dried plasma.

British Army
Though the British army is using plasma, which is blood minus the corpuscles, in its field work, the problems which now confront military surgeons is the use of whole or preserved blood on the field in time of war.

For this reason two of the hospitals were assigned special research on storage and transportability of whole blood, the local hospital having the latter project.

Transporting
By working out the proper methods of transporting and storage of blood, containers can be sent and kept at the front lines where the blood can be administered immediately upon need.

During the summer University hospital carried out its investigations in transportation of blood, using two methods of transportation—the airplane and the automobile.

With refrigeration it was found possible to transport blood over 3500 miles via airplane or over 700 miles in cars without any appreciable deterioration of the blood.

Refrigeration
The Iowa workers described the method of refrigerating the transported blood. Ten flasks of blood were packed in ordinary 10-gallon milk can and covered with ice. A commercial shipping jacket over the milk can kept the temperature low for 24 hours without re-icing.

Using this simple method no special equipment will be necessary. This obviates the production of special equipment in a national emergency, it was pointed out.

By Plane
Containers of blood were sent from Iowa City to Oakland, Cal., and return in United Air line transports. Forty-six hours elapsed during the round trip and the distance amounted to 3539 miles. The blood was found to have withstood the trip successfully.

The distance flown is equivalent to a flight from the southern United States to South America or from the United States to Alaska.

Via Auto
In the investigations concerning the transportability of blood via automobile, hospital ambulances were used. Containers of blood were carried during routine trips around the state; a round trip averaging 720 miles and taking 30 hours, including stopovers. The same successful results were attained.

Following the completion of the research work by all the hospitals the medical men who have carried on the project will be able to recommend to the military forces the proper methods for collecting blood, separating the plasma, and the containers for transporting the blood and how to care for it.

Blood Donated
Blood used for these experiments in transportation was donated by residents of Johnson county at the request of the Red Cross. Sixty-four donors gave a pint of blood each. Each of the institutions working on the project is using blood donated through such Red Cross appeals.

With this work accomplished, if a national emergency should arise where blood would be needed for army use, the Red Cross chapters could very easily set up blood collecting stations whereby civilians could supply the necessary blood to save the lives of fighting men.

Dr. Plass
Dr. Plass, head of the department of obstetrics and gynecology, is a member of the committee of the National Research Council which will consult with the army on the use of blood in warfare.

The work at University hospital involved the cooperation of the entire hospital staff. Dr. DeGowin commented. He also commended the United Air lines and the hospital ambulance service, through whose cooperation the transportation investigations of blood were carried out, and the Johnson county chapter of the Red Cross and the volunteers who supplied blood.

Arms Display Drill to Be Exhibited

A display of military equipment, including the automatic rifle, machine gun, 37 mm gun and three-inch trench mortar, will be exhibited for Homecomers this morning in the armory, Col. H. H. Slaughter, professor of military science and tactics, announced.

A pontoon bridge model and map reproduction exhibit will also be displayed.

Both displays will be accompanied with appropriate charts. The weapons will be exhibited in the south half of the armory. The map and pontoon display will be set up on the north side.

Exhibition drills by the Pershing Rifles and Pontoniers, honorary military societies, will be provided for field house visitors today.

Both companies will drill alternately from 10 o'clock to noon, demonstrating close order drill and manual of arms.

'One Foot in Heaven' Author Hartzell Spence Visits His Alma Mater Here

By CORINNE HAYES

"Mr. Spence, have you ever thought of putting your father's anecdotes in a book?" Two days after those words were spoken by a New York publisher at a dinner party, Hartzell Spence had the first two chapters of "One Foot in Heaven" completed.

Using a fiction technique, he sought to avoid having an ordinary biography which he feels "is too stiffly written."

For three months Spence worked on his compilation of his father's experiences as a minister in numerous Iowa towns, and May 15, 1940, saw the final draft completed.

Warner Brothers' studio purchased the manuscript before it was published and even now they are preparing it for the screen.

"The production involves so much time, it will probably be next fall before you will see the book on the screen," according to Spence.

The author was given a screen test which more than satisfied studio officials, but because he lacked dramatic training, Spence rejected the acting offer.

15th Year Of Hockey Homecoming Game For Coed Athletes, Alumni Today at 10

With a hitch of their bulbous trousers, a tug at long wool sweater sleeves, the alumnae and the majors of the physical education department were off in a fast, and doubtlessly furious, game of hockey.

It was 1925, and the alumnae returning for Homecoming were out to prove that they still had it all over the youngsters.

The instructors now in the department had to delve deep into old recollections to reconstruct the scene of this first game—the stumpy outfits of baggy pleated bloomers, long high-neck sweaters, and dark wool stockings fastened securely above the knee.

Who won? Everybody has forgotten. But the series is still going on. This morning at 10 o'clock the alumnae and the majors in physical education will take up the old controversy once more.

Ruth Summy, A3 of Des Moines, will head the team of majors and the alumnae team will be made up of former students who are in town for Homecoming. The game will be played on the women's athletic field, and everyone is invited to come and watch.

800 'I's' Quad Windows Reflect Iowa Spirit

The Quadrangle has over 800 windows. When each one is fixed to represent a huge "I" the effect is inspiring.

Early Homecomers who chanced to pass the Quad last evening gazed at countless "I's" shining forth from the Quadrangle windows.

"This is really Iowa," one passer-by remarked.

"The entire dormitory seems covered with illuminated "I's," another commented.

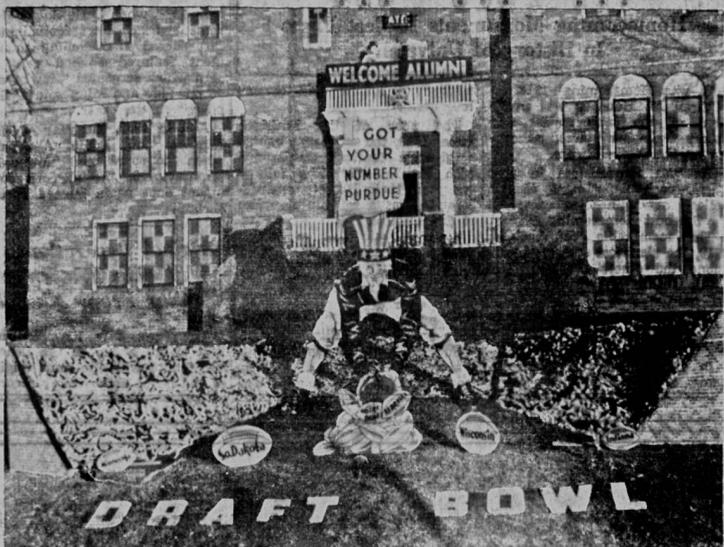

And Quad men exclaimed, "We're behind Iowa to the last man and we've got an "I" in every window to show it."

The window "I's" were made by fastening two sheets of paper on each side of the rectangular windows, leaving the windows uncovered up the center and at the top and bottom.

Room lights shinging through the uncovered section produce the effect of an "I" the height of each window.

And 800 "I's" is an eye full.

Uncle Sam Drafts Purdue Next—Says ATO

You can't dodge the draft, as Iowa Homecoming fans hope to see demonstrated to Purdue in the game this afternoon. "I got your number, Purdue," warns Alpha Tau Omega fraternity's football-playing Uncle Sam, who holds a pigskin entitled Purdue. Illinois, Nebraska and Notre Dame, schools yet to be played, have not been drawn yet from the pile of registrants, although their names are coming up. Conspicuously placed in the foreground of the Draft Bowl are the footballs of Wisconsin and South Dakota, while Minnesota and Indiana draftees are placed insignificantly to the side.

Highland Lassies to Execute Dance Of Swords for Football Fans Today

Shades of medieval Scotland will greet Homecomers in Iowa stadium this afternoon during the half time ceremonies when eight Highlander lassies will dance the centuries-old sword dance.

The legendary origin of the sword dance was explained by William L. Adamson, director of the Scottish Highlanders.

The dance dates back to the battle of Bannockburn in 1314 when Scottish troops under Robert Bruce routed a superior English force and freed Scotland from foreign dominance.

Scots

The Scots, outnumbered three to one, were taking a terrible beating from the attacking English. Bruce, trying to resist the enemy as long as possible, sent couriers into the near by town of Bannockburn to get recruits. But the inhabitants misunderstood the couriers to say the Scottish were winning.

Field of Battle

To witness the defeat of their enemies the entire town crowded toward a hill overlooking the field of battle.

The English saw the horde coming over the crest of the hill. Thinking they were Scottish reserves, the English army turned and fled, leaving Bruce's highlanders in possession of the field.

It was the custom after a victorious battle for the Scots to lay their bare swords upon the ground. The people were so happy over the defeat of the English and the gaining of their freedom that they began dancing around the swords, symbols of their victory.

A good test of a sword dance performer is to execute the fast steps correctly without touching the crossed swords.

They had to be good dancers in Bruce's day, Adamson said, or they would cut their feet. The old Scots fought and danced barefoot.

Lassies who will dance the sword dance before Homecomers today are Laura Dempster, A2 of Chicago; Mary Gillen, A2 of Des Moines; Terry Rae Tonnesson, A2 of Baltimore, Md.; Dorothy Campbell, A3 of Mason City.

Dorothy Rankin, A1 of Iowa City; Ruth J. Anthony, A2 of Waterbury, Conn.; Katherine Chase, A1 of Des Moines, and Mrs. Frances Adamson, Iowa City.

Little Chance For Murderer, Says Teeters

"If a murder is committed in the United States, the chances are three to one that the murderer will be arrested, 12 to one that he will be convicted and 100 to one that he will be put to death."

This was the statement of Dean Wilber John Teeters of the university college of pharmacy in his talk on murder trials at the luncheon meeting of the Masonic service men's club held yesterday at the Masonic temple.

Teeters pointed out that it is often the little things that make the big difference in a murder trial. He explained how a case often hangs on expert testimony. An honest expert witness can make or break a case, he said.

Teeters told the club that motive, method and opportunity are necessary to convict a man outside of circumstantial evidence. It is often very difficult to prove, he added and every individual should have all the protection entitled him by law.

Local Police Get Reinforcements

The entire Iowa City police force, aided by reinforcements from Davenport, will be assigned to special duty today to handle Homecoming traffic, Police Chief F. Burns announced yesterday.

Sgt. Donald Thimmesch, West Liberty, and Sgt. Clarence Day, Cedar Rapids, will be in charge of 35 highway patrolmen who will work all the highways leading to Iowa City, the state public safety department disclosed.

'Hank the Hawk' Merchants' Display Windows Show Everything From Pompons to Donkeys

"Hank the Hawk" perching atop the corn monument is the city's virtual dictator over the week end.

As peer of the town's Homecoming decorations, he dictated to local merchants and brought them through in grand style.

In shop display windows may be seen pompons, pennants, autumn leaves, cornstalks, footballs, statuettes and silhouette photos of past and present Hawkeye players.

One display showed a republican elephant eleven lined up against a democratic team of donkeys—neither team labeled.

Window signs from "Welcome to Purdue" to "Put 'Em in the Doghouse" reigned. Outstanding was the "Fresh Shrimp Today" slogan in honor of Purdue's Boiler-makers. Another establishment embellished its usual potted palm display with the notice, "Closed Election Day."

Sausage footballs, corn kernel obelisks, miniature football scenes, old Homecoming badges, mixed in with "I" blankets, cowbells, miniature football helmets and Big Ten banners added to the gridiron motif.

Hank Hawk, decreed from his hangout, "If'n this isn't the purtiest town you ever seen, you can fry ma' hide this afternoon when my Iowa team wins."

They've Seen the Glory-- Homecoming Monuments Reflect Pages In History of University

It was Homecoming—1919. Virgil M. Hancher was president of the senior class and James Gallagher starred at center on the football team.

As was the custom in past years, each department of the college of engineering competed for the best Homecoming display.

That memorable year, back in 1919, the electrical engineers outshone the others with a huge, brilliantly-lighted rectangle placed on the roof of the physics building. It blazed forth "SOAK UM, IOWA!"

In 1922 before the Minnesota game, a similar lighting effect

read: "For Iowa's Grid Honors Joujourns—"

The year of the Michigan game, 1923, the engineers lighted a gigantic football emblazoned with the letter "I." The following year, their Homecoming decoration was a miniature replica of Old Capitol.

In 1929, the year of shorter skirts, Wall Street crashes and Bill Glasgow, All-American, the Homecoming monument was a huge poster of the gridiron surrounded by lighted "I's," one for Iowa and one for Illinois.

For the Indiana game in '31, the engineers placed directly in front of Old Capitol a lighted goal post above which was suspended a giant hawk with the letter "I."

In 1934, when Ossie Solom first came to coach Iowa football, the three-tiered Homecoming monument featured shelled ears of corn which screamed "Hawkeyes" on one side and Minnesota's "Gophers" on the other.

And in 1939, the year of Nile Kinnick and Eddie Anderson, when the score read "Iowa—13, Minnesota—9," the tall corn monument once again burned to the ground!

Homecoming Number Two for Anderson and His Hawkeyes

Track Team Looks Stronger This Season

Eight Lettermen, Strong New Squad Bolster Iowa Hopes

"We will be stronger than last year by at least 50 percent if all eligible men return" is the belief of Assistant Track Coach Ted Sorenson concerning the outlook of this year's track team.

Eight lettermen will be back for another year of competition, with only five men of last year's squad gone. The team is expected to be much improved in at least seven divisions over last year, including the quarter mile, half mile, pole vault, high jump, javelin throw and broad jump.

Schlender and Vollenweider
 Returning lettermen in the 100-yard dash will be Art Schlender and Hank Vollenweider. Schlender is the former Illinois state high school champion from Downers Grove, Ill., and can do the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat.

Vollenweider, Dubuque star, is now out with the football team, and can be counted upon for a time of 10.3 in the same event.

Other outstanding men in this event who consistently turn in good times are Ralph and Walter Todd from Henderson, Tex., with times of 10.2 and 10.1 respectively; Bill Smith from Gallopis, Ohio, with 10.1, Bill Green, Newton, flash with a 9.9 in high school and Ed Wilkerson from Terre Haute Ind.

In the middle distances of a quarter and half mile, Ed Baird, Rochester, N. Y., and Joel Hinrichs, Williamsburg, are the only two minor lettermen expected to return.

Todd Brothers Star

Byrd's best time has been 31.8 for the quarter mile, while Hinrichs has come through with a 51.7. Again outstanding in this field are Walter and Ralph Todd, who both can be counted upon for a .49 flat quarter.

Among the middle distance leaders are Art Schlender with a 31 quarter mile; Irvin Wolf, Sterling, Ill., with :50.7; Meyer Markovitz, Iowa City, with :52; Louis Laphan, Charles City, with :51.8 and Roger Briggs of Chicago.

One of the strongest prospects in the distance events of one and two miles is Bill Kelso who won all but two of the two-mile races he competed in during his freshman year.

Kelso Leads Milers

Kelso does the mile in 4:31 and the two mile in 9:52. Arnold Carlson, Des Moines, minor letter winner, is another who is expected to be outstanding in the distance events. Carlson has done the half mile in two minutes flat.

Others showing promise in the distances are Don Arganbright, Guthrie Center; Ed Mahoney, Kansas City, Kan.; Glenn Sparks, Okaloosa; George Vaick, west Branch; Ray Fritsch, Long Island, N. Y.; Larry Zuccola and Dick Stuntz.

Hank Vollenweider leads the field in the 120 yard high hurdles, with a mark of :14.9. Norman Pullman, Sidney, last year high hurdles champ, is next in line with a mark of :15.6.

Other fast men in this event are Bob Machael, Clinton, with :15.7; Bob Eiel, Osage, :15.9 and Fred Bone, :16. In the 220 yards low hurdles Vollenweider again leads with the fast time of :24.2. Joe Moore, Ida Grove, and Meyer Markovitz, Iowa City, have both turned in times of :25 flat for this race.

Lopin in Pole Vault

Vito Lopin, Rockford, Ill., last year Illinois state champ in the pole vault heads the squad with a leap of 12 feet, three inches. Ken Steinbeck, sophomore from Rubio, has proved himself adept at pole vaulting with a jump of 12 feet.

Karl Ryerson is the returning letterman, and has made a mark of 11 feet, nine inches in the vault. Other men expected to be of help are John Parry, Vinton, and Don King, Cedar Rapids, who have both attained marks of 11 feet, six inches. Jack Moyers, Guthrie Center, rounds out the pole vaulting squad.

In the high jump, the best mark in 10 years was turned in last year by Bob Machael with a leap of six feet, three and three-quarter inches. Dick Goenne, Davenport ace, is second among the high jumpers by virtue of a six foot leap.

Vollenweider Again

Vollenweider again turns up in this event, together with Vince Harsha, who have both attained five feet, 10 inches. Two other men on the high jumping squad who have made five feet, nine inches are Tom Drybrough and Chester Cowden.

The six man broad jump team, lead by Bill Green and Bob Machael, who have jumped 23 feet, and 22 feet, six inches, respectively, should give any squad hot competition. The four other men who complete the team are Ed Wilkerson, Bill Smith, Ken Steinbeck and Ralph Todd.

Chapman Heaves Javelin

A great throw of 194 feet by Tom Chapman, Storm Lake, leads the other men on the javelin squad. Ray Murphy, Great Neck, N. Y., plunging fullback of the football team, has also mastered the javelin with a throw of 185 feet.

Letterman Karl Ryerson has made 176 feet, and Wilson Kouba of Luzerne, 170 feet. Henry Luebecke, massive 270 pound guard of the Hawkeye football team, leads the shot put team with a heave of 44 feet. Mill Kuhl and Ed Thomas, both masters of the shot put and the discus throw, together with Leland Sargisson complete this squad.

Other strong teams in the Big Ten that will bear watching are Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana.

200-Pound Boar Shot by Agent

TELLICO PLAINS, Tenn., Nov. 1 (AP)—In the wild and rain-drenched Bald river section of the Cherokee national forest, H. J. Anslinger of Washington, D. C., brought down a 200-pound wild boar today in the second day of the bear and boar hunt sponsored by state and federal governments.

Anslinger, chief narcotic agent in the Washington division, killed the huge tusker with one well-placed rifle shot while hunting with Ralph Oyley of Detroit, who bagged a boar yesterday.

Press box Pickups

BY OSCAR HARGRAVE

The conscientious objectors to getting beat, now waxing strong as the grid season reaches its halfway mark, seem overstocked with the conviction of their own courage or some such reverse English sort of virtue, if their protests are scanned carefully.

With the Carl Snavely and Cornell set-up still under the suspicion of having gotten too good to have done it by fair means, fans are suspecting some skull-duggery from the bench every time a halfback scores. The Cornell method, according to charges from Ohio State, is for the team to follow Snavely's advice on everything as he signals with a small cylinder he holds in his hands.

Now this isn't saying that coaches couldn't occasionally sneak in an idea or two when it would do some good, nor would I claim that football mentors haven't thought of just that. In fact, if they didn't ever run across the idea you can take it that they have neither belonged to the Boy Scouts or had a wife kicking their shins under the table. Even in kindergarten they should have discovered that there was a singular difference between holding up the hand as a fist or in raising two fingers in a sort of spread formation. Given signals—we can't imagine that (See PICKUPS, Page 8)

Iowa Writers Plan Awards

Association to Honor State's Outstanding Team, Coach, Player

The leading college football team in the state of Iowa during the season of 1940 and the individual, either player or coach, who has done the most for football, will be honored by the Iowa Football Writers' association, it was decided last night.

The awards for both the team and the individual, the association voted, will be large plaques, with presentations to be made at the end of each season. Last year the association honored Eddie Anderson and the University of Iowa's "Miracle Team."

Members of the association who were at last night's meeting, with the newspapers they represent, were: Bert McGrane, Des Moines Register; Ted Ashby, Des Moines Tribune; Leo Kautz, Davenport Times; John O'Donnell, Davenport Democrat; Oscar Hargrave, The Daily Iowan; Ed Moore, Waterloo Courier; and Loren Schultz, Iowa City Press-Citizen.

Tait Cummins, Cedar Rapids Gazette; and Ike Skelly and Ted Metzger, Associated Press; other members of the association, were not able to attend the meeting.

Director Names Two Coaches For West Team

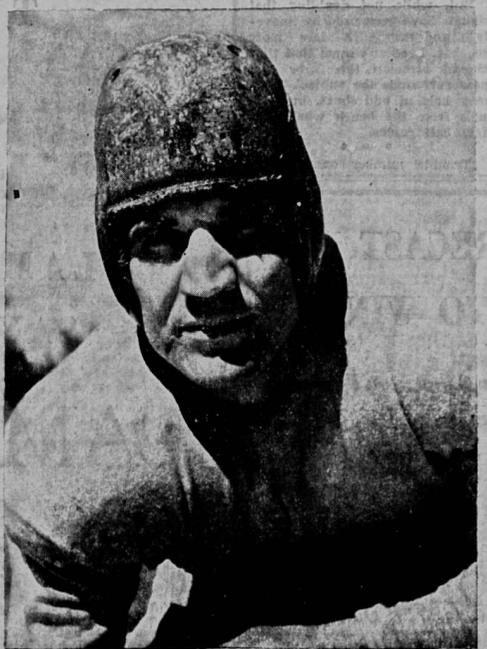

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 1 (AP)—Coaches Orin "Babe" Hollingbery of Washington State and L. M. "Biff" Jones, Nebraska university, will coach the all-west team in the Shrine hospital east-west charity football game at San Francisco New Year's day, Percy Lacey, Oregon State athletic director, said today.

Enich Heads for Honors

Hawkeye Captain and Right Tackle Sets Pace For Iowa Forward Wall

For the second year in a row, his reputation, making almost half of the Hawkeye line is depending on Capt. "Iron Mike" Enich to set the pace of the tackling, with the Hawkeye leader moving nearer to national honors.

Chosen before the season started as one of the probable all-Americans, Enich has lived up to

he was picked on all-Big Ten teams and on the all-midwest team by Colliers magazine.

Nile Kinnick, all-American teammate of Enich a year ago and now a member of the Iowa coaching staff, says about Enich, "The thing that makes Mike a great tackle is that he's never where the opponents want him."

Coach Eddie Anderson says that having Enich on the field is just like having an extra coach, a tribute to the Iowa captain's shrewd analysis of plays.

Asa Bushnell Clears Snavely

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Asa Bushnell, who assigns officials for eastern football games, said today an investigation showed no evidence of Coach Carl Snavely calling signals in last Saturday's game at Ithaca, N. Y., between Cornell and Ohio State.

The reports of the officials "include no evidence of coaching from the sidelines and some definite indication of opinion that it was non-existent," said Bushnell in a letter to L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State.

Matmen In Early Drills

Mike Howard Has Promising Squad For Coming Year

Coach Mike Howard is beginning his 20th year as the "man behind the scenes" for the University of Iowa's wrestling team. He first coached the Hawkeye grapplers in 1921.

Again this year, Howard's matmen can be seen jogging along the countryside in their cross-country runs in an effort to get in shape for those gruelling matches to come. Three major and two minor "I" winners are among the 25 men working out with the varsity wrestling squad. Workouts consist of two cross-country runs a week and light exercising and workouts on the mats for the remaining afternoons.

Billy Sherman, 121 pounds; Loy Julius, 128, and Paul Whitmore, 175, are the major letter winners from last year's team getting in shape for this year's competition. All three wrestlers advanced to the final round of the Big Ten wrestling meet in their weight divisions in the last season. Art Johnson, heavyweight, is also a major letter winner but has been unable to work out with the squad because of football activities.

Newell Ingle, 135 pounds, and Ralph Geppert, 165, minor "I" winners in wrestling last year, look promising in pre-season workouts. Virgil Neubauer, heavyweight, who wrestled the initial match of last season but was unable to continue the sport, should show up well in the 1941 matches.

Newcomers who show great promise include three sophomores and one junior. Robert Fleming, 155 pound sophomore, and Everett Linn, a junior in the same weight division, look as though they will develop into rugged opposition for contenders in the coming matches. Russell Miller, 136 pounds, and Harold Schrader, 128, both sophomores, also show up well.

The opening match of the current wrestling season has been tentatively set for the second week in January, when Iowa meets Bradley Tech here.

Anderson has groomed Art Johnson, the stocky sophomore, to alternate with Green and may use Henry Vollenweider, another of the speedsters at the same post. In the reserve backfield are Gerald Ankeny, a dependable veteran, to fill in for Coussepe at quarterback, Bender and Farmer to spell Youel at the triple-threat post, and Bill Stauss to handle right half. Stauss, rangy and rugged, has been switched from left half this week. Another who may break in at right half is Bernard "Bus" Mertes, a loose hipped sophomore who is about due to hit his stride.

There has never been much doubt this year about the inner part of the Iowa line, but the end posts were a question at the first part of the season. Ken Pettit has performed capably at the left flank and the return of Bill Parker gives Iowa another man for the same spot. Parker, fast and a good pass catcher, will bolster the aerial game if Youel's tosses hit the mark. However, Pettit will probably continue to hold down the first team berth. At the other end Wilford Burkett will probably get the call ahead of the veteran John Maher and Steve Mizen, the big sophomore.

Enich Stars in Line
Capt. Mike Enich was the big margin in Iowa's 4-0 win over the Boilermakers a year ago as the Hawkeye line let Purdue's fast backs through for only 44 yards of gain and also blocked a pair of punts to score two safeties. Enich, now on his way toward national honors, is pairing with Jim Walker, the big colored defensive star, at the tackles, while Ham Snider and Charles Tollefson are expected to start at guards again. Bill Diehl, one of three capable veteran centers, will get the call ahead of Bruno Andruska and Red Frye to complete the veteran line.

The chances are that the Hawks can stop the Purdue running game or at least hold it to a fairly small yardage for the first string forward wall did the same thing a year ago. But, the Boilermakers are stronger through the air this season, while Iowa may not be potent at all in that department this week unless there is a marked improvement over previous games.

Pickups--
they would be forgotten entirely. But, while not doubting that signals have been used by Snavely and maybe a few more coaches, it doesn't seem that they should occasion the furor that now surrounds the subject. They may help at odd times, but signals from the bench would win few ball games.

Yrs. Exp. indicates number of years athlete has been member of Iowa varsity squad but does not necessarily mean that he has had game experience.

signalling coach would be the inaccuracy of transmission of code messages. Even back in the old two fingers or hand days I discovered that, through my own fault or the teacher's, I might find myself in an uncomfortable and ignorant recital instead of in the desired place. Such could happen on the football field too, especially if the code was as extensive as charged in the case of Cornell.

Therefore, back to football. Most good football teams take the close ones by alertness and by mental pitch, not by better judgement of a factual type, than the other team has.

Take the Iowa-Wisconsin game. as an example, with the Hawkeyes pretty much wrecking the Badgers when Jim Walker scooped up a blocked kick and charged downfield for a touchdown. Walker has been charging in all year to rush passers and kickers, with that time providing the big break to reward his efforts. It would be hard to imagine a scene whereby the big colored boy took a hasty glance at the bench, saw Coach Eddie Anderson scratching his ear (the left one), then grabbing the ball and racing downfield, meanwhile taking furtive glances at the coaches for further instructions.

On the plays that are called, the players know about as well as the coach what might work. They have, before the game ever starts, formations for various purposes and it's probably only a couple times during an afternoon the quarterback is in doubt. Even then, I would guess that

Hawkeyes To Win 'Board' Also Picks Gophers, Wisconsin, Ohio State Elevens

Iowa, Minnesota, Ohio State and Wisconsin will win the four Big Ten games on today's schedule, according to WSU's "Football Scoreboard of the Air," in yesterday's broadcast.

The board, four local sports writers, and Sports Announcer Jim Dower, ventured predictions on the following major games.

- Minnesota over Northwestern.
- Notre Dame over Army
- Stanford over U.C.L.A.
- Nebraska over Oklahoma
- Iowa over Purdue
- Duquesne over Marquette
- Baylor over Texas Christian
- Michigan State over Kansas State
- Ohio State over Indiana
- Georgetown over Syracuse
- Duke over Georgia Tech
- Oregon State over California
- Wisconsin over Illinois
- Temple over Bucknell
- Villanova over Kansas
- Missouri over New York U

the players might be as apt to make the right choice. I admit, of course, that signals can be used and probably are quite often, but still can't feel that a coach could kibitz over the quarterback's shoulder on more than one or two per cent of the plays.

Big Ten Fans Pack Stadiums

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP)—Western conference football, benefiting by an increased scoring tempo and a close championship race, may draw a larger number of spectators this fall than in any campaign in the last decade. Figures compiled by William Reed, director of the conference service bureau, show that the season's first 28 games, which included 18 in non-conference competition, drew 1,031,455 fans. The total attendance in 53 games last fall was 1,729,290, a figure which represented an increase of 3 per cent over the 1938 total.

While no attendance figures are available, the 1937 season was the attendance high point for the conference. Receipts that year amounted to $2,777,000. The low point was in 1932, when receipts totaled $973,389, according to conference service bureau records. The possibility that the 1940 season may approach the receipts point of the 1927 campaign is seen in attractiveness to fans of remaining games, of which there are 19. Late stages of the campaign will find Michigan's strong eleven battling Minnesota, Northwestern and Ohio State, while Northwestern's Wildcats close their season against Notre Dame, one of the game's best drawing elevens.

Iowa Swimming Prospects Good; Regular Workouts to Start Soon

Coach Armbruster Must Replace Four Of Last Year's Stars

The Old Gold swimming prospects appear to be best in several seasons. Although the swimming season does not open officially until next semester, the varsity and freshman paddlers have been conditioning themselves at the field house pool under the watchful eyes of Coaches Dave Armbruster and Larry Morehouse. Regular workouts will start next week after the completion of the Dolphin show.

Only four men were lost from last year's squad which won five Big Ten dual meets while losing one to Michigan. Graduating seniors were Co-Captains Al Armbruster and Tony Bremer, and Ed Gerber. The hardest to replace of these will be Armbruster, stellar back stroke performer. Bob Jones, entering his first year of competition, may get the call in this event. Captaining this year's team will be Carl Ahlgren, distance star and second high scorer in dual meets last year with 43 points. A junior, Ahlgren holds the university record in the 220-yard free style of 2:16.8. Don Westrom led the scoring column with 45 points and is expected to again carry much of the load this season. The sprint relay team will be built around Westrom aided by veterans Walt Bureisa, Nick Karaffa and Ahlgren, and possibly sophomores Ed Armbruster, Vito Lopin and Clyde Aloor.

Coach Armbruster Must Replace Four Of Last Year's Stars

Kernitz. These men will also be competing for spots in the regular sprint events. George Poulos and Dwight Johnson are the returning breaststrokers. Poulos ranked fourth on the Hawkeye scoring list, and Johnson showed such improvement at the end of the season that he will be watched with interest this year. The veterans will be pushed for the starting positions, however, by sophomore Al Povallitis. An all-American prep star in 1936, Povallitis unofficially broke the world record in the 100-meter distance last year in an exhibition at the Iowa pool.

The diving department should be the strongest of the whole squad. Leo Biedrzycki and Vic Vargon are so well matched that they feuded throughout the whole season last year for first and second places in the dual meets. They may have to take a back seat for Nick Connell, however, who was ineligible last year. Connell has served advance notice of this by his exhibition in the Dolphin show. An incomplete list of men who have reported for workouts to date includes Capt. Ahlgren, Don Westrom, George Poulos, Dwight Johnson, Nick Karaffa, Walt Bureisa, Vic Vargon, Leo Biedrzycki, Nick Connell, Clarence Moore, Hal Krizan, William Spencer Jr., Bob Jones, Al Povallitis, Robert Mahood Jr., Dale Lounsbury, Clyde Kernitz, Jim Cupp, Bob Becker, Ed Armbruster and William M. Aloor.

Brilliant Sophomores Bring Strength to Purdue's Boilermakers

Dave Rankin, All-American End, Returns

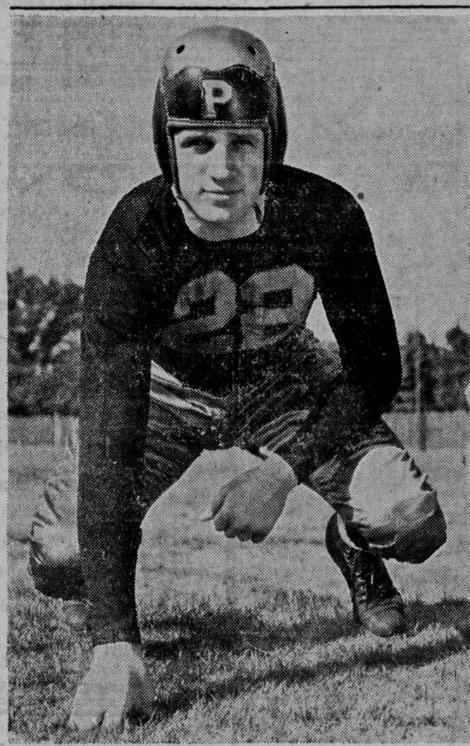

Mike Byelene, Last Of 'Three Bees,' Bolsters Newcomers

When graduation losses riddled the ranks of the Boilermakers, Purdue was written out of the Western conference race for 1940 by the experts. Lou Brock and Jack Brown of the famed "Three Bees" graduated, leaving only Mike Byelene to carry on and it looked as though the Boilermakers were on their way down.

Coming back, though, to provide the nucleus for this year's team were Byelene, All-American Dave Rankin, captain and left end, Johnny Galvin, Pete Timperman and John Petty as a few of the leaders. Combined with a brilliant sophomore crop, these veterans have played good ball, even though losing some close games. In their conference opener the Boilermakers dropped a close one to heavily-favored Ohio State and they dropped a one-point decision to Wisconsin last week in a game that was so incredible it should have been ruled out on the grounds that "it couldn't happen."

Stars of the team include, of course, Rankin and Byelene, although injuries have impaired their usefulness of late. Among the sophomores, Tony Berto and Marion Carter have shone. Carter is the brother of a former Purdue great. Other new men of note are Bryan Brock, brother of one of last year's backfield aces, Ted Kersey and William Combs.

Besides Rankin, the line lists Al and Italo Rossi, tackles; James Miller and Tom Melton, guards; Ted Atxon, center; and Timperman and Bruce Warren, tackles; as standouts. Irel Pence, a center, also is listed as a comer.

Wilson Rallies to Stop Grover

Breaks 7 to 7 Halftime Deadlock to Win On Two Passes, 14 to 13

A first half deadlock at 7 to 7 ended in a 14 to 13 victory for Wilson House over Grover in one of five touch football games played yesterday in the intramural leagues. Buttner passed his team to victory pitching two scoring aeriels to Richman. Opheim and DeGeus pulled two of Roalson's passes out of the air for Grover.

The Gables cooperative dormitory team outclassed the Folsom sextet 27 to 0 in their contest. Gables held a 21 to 0 lead at halftime. Johnson scored two touchdowns for the winners on long runs from the field. Van Dyke pitched an aerial to Guthrie for another Gables' score. One safety was scored by the victors in the first period of the contest. Vaughns led the attack for the Folsom sextet.

A second half rally pulled a 26 to 19 victory out of the hat for Jefferson over Whetstone. The teams were deadlocked 6 to 6 at the midpoint of the contest. Smith and Stuntz alternated receiving and throwing passes to score all four of the winning team's touchdowns. Whetstone tallied on a recovered fumble and two long pass plays.

Upper D kept its slate clean except for a lone defeat by trouncing Upper C 20 to 6 in the only game scheduled in the Quadrangle touch football league. After leading at halftime 6 to 0 on a pass from Snyder to Duffy, Upper D came back strong to score on two more aeriels. Snyder to L. Moore and L. Moore to Reid. Upper C's marker was the result of a long run by Kennedy who skirted his own end to score. Hayes looked well defensively for the winning team.

In the only game scheduled in the Hillcrest touch football league, Second North battled Second South for a 31 to 13 win. Wee Max Landes ran wild for the winning team, intercepting a pass for one of Second North's markers and showed up well as a triple threat man. Chard scored for the victors on a long pass in the closing minute of the contest. Seaton and Gillotti turned in a good game for the losing sextet.

Predicts Northwestern Will Upset Minnesota and Fordham Over N. C.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP) — You need look no farther than Dyche stadium at Evanston, Ill., for tomorrow's most important football game.

There Northwestern and Minnesota will play the first episode in a three-team round robin that will settle the Western conference championship and should have a strong bearing on all national championship pretensions. Michigan, the other member of this all-winning trio, is resting up for its home stretch drive in which the Wolverines will meet both the Gophers and the Wildcats.

This will be the day's only game pairing two major unbeaten-untied teams, and it will pack Dyche stadium to its 48,000 capacity. Elsewhere there will be larger crowds, but it's doubtful that there will be more bone-crushing impact anywhere.

Notre Dame and Army, as usual, will take the attendance palm, with 78,000 due at Yankee stadium despite the fact an Irish victory is almost a foregone conclusion. Unbeaten Navy against once-beaten Penn will bring 68,000 to Philadelphia's Franklin field.

Manfully fighting down the memory of last week's surprises, your correspondent fights his way out of his corner thusly (home teams first, probable attendances in parentheses):

Northwestern-Minnesota (48,000)—Northwestern will be outweighed, and DeCorrevont is limping. In spite of these omens, a 209-pound Minnesota line and two very fine Minnesota backs, a vote for Northwestern.

Army-Notre Dame (78,000) — Any way you pronounce it, Notre Dame.

Penn-Navy (68,000) — The bookies side with Penn. We'll string along—sink, if necessary—with Navy.

Tulane-Clemson (40,000) — Clemson, and should be close.

Texas A. and M.-Arkansas (20,000)—Those Aggie 60-minute men may be getting weary, but they're still the choice.

U.C.L.A.-Stanford (55,000) — One of these days the Uclans will win one, but this doesn't seem the spot. Stanford.

Cornell-Columbia (12,000) — A year ago Cornell won by one touchdown on two blocked kicks. But Matuszczak and McCullough played only one period. That's a big difference. Cornell.

Tennessee-Louisiana State (20,000)—Tennessee. Bob Neyland, we trust, has brought 'em out of that Florida game slump.

Oklahoma-Nebraska (35,000)—Nebraska, but no landslide.

Harvard-Princeton (25,000) — Since the Tigers have found a running attack to go with Allerdice's passes, the pick is Princeton.

Boston College-Manhattan (18,000)—The Jaspers outmanned for the third week in a row. Boston.

Syracuse-Georgetown (17,000) — The Georgetown line looks too good.

Ohio State-Indiana (47,000) — The Buckeyes seem to know too many plays for their own good. A flyer on Indiana.

Iowa-Purdue (40,000)—Could go either way. Iowa.

Duke-Georgia Tech (30,000) — Taking Duke.

Kentucky-Alabama (10,000) — Alabama, with a week's rest.

Texas-Southern Methodist (30,000)—Texas, if Crain can get back to full-time duty.

Fordham-North Carolina (30,000)—Fordham to come back.

Wisconsin-Illinois (30,000) — Wisconsin by a shade.

Texas Christian-Baylor (12,000) — Off the way that Baylor line played the Aggies, Baylor.

California-Oregon State (40,000) — Even-Stephen. California.

Vanderbilt-Mississippi (12,000) — Ole Miss.

Missouri-New York U. (15,000) — Missouri.

Yale-Brown (35,000) — Taking Yale, the under-dog.

Detroit-Tulsa (20,000)—Detroit, in a real battle.

Penn State-South Carolina (15,000) — State to continue unbeaten. But it may have to pile up a big

Happy Homecoming
Hello to all of the old friends, to the fathers and mothers of the Iowa Students from Iowa

Yes, Don't It! Jaretz Shaves Record In Exhibition

The old man shook his shaggy old head, spat into the gutter and with fervor said, "By Gum, don't that beat all!"

He was standing with the crowd dispersing from last night's second edition of the "Dolphin Folies of 1941," the 29th annual University of Iowa water carnival in Iowa pool.

Before a capacity crowd Otto Jaretz, sensational freshman who has just been named several times to the all-America swimming team, snipped two-tenths of a second off the pool record for the 50-yard free style. Jaretz, the lithe Chicagoan, negotiated the distance in 23.8 seconds. The old record was 24 seconds.

The old man, however, was far from wrong with his observation. The show just about did beat all. The balancing acts of George Nissen, Xavier Leonard and Bob Parry drew tremendous bursts of applause from the spectators. The same trio returned as silly sailors to astound and delight the crowd.

Trapeze artists Leonard, Parry, Billy Sherman, Hal Leffler and Lyle Felderman electrified the house with double spins and reverses in a delightful little game of "pitch and catch" some 40 feet over the water.

Divers galore, excellent teamwork in drills, colored lights, five university beauties, comedy, "Mrs. Jones," "The Dionne Quintuplets"—no, old man, you weren't wrong. We, too, say "Don't it beat all!"

U-High Beats Tipton, 13-12

Paced by Fullback Bus Smith, the U-High Bluehaws cracked across two first period touchdowns and converted one of them to set down conference rival Tipton in the last game of the year, 13 to 12 last night.

Smith went over for both of the touchdowns and Bob Alderman converted for the point after Dunker shone for the opposition.

Mt. Olympus, in Greece, mythical home of the gods, is to be converted into a national park, American style.

'NO TIME FOR COMEDY'

'No Time for Comedy' at the ENGLERT Theater, starting today, for a four day engagement, boasts of three top flight stars in this huge comedy smash—James Stewart, Rosalind Russell and Charlie Ruggles.

'SAPS AT SEA'

Oliver Hardy and Stan Laurel in their funniest laugh hit "Saps at Sea" now showing at the VARSITY Theater.

'TORRID ZONE' NEXT AT PASTIME

To one who has often pondered the meaning of motion picture titles, a visit to the setting where Warner Brothers film "Torrid Zone," opening Sunday at the Pastime, was in production proved most enlightening.

Only a casual glance was needed to prove that the name of this picture was inspired by more than the presence in the same cast of James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Ann Sheridan.

In "Saps at Sea," sad-faced Stan and round Ollie are presented as a pair of horn testers in a musical instrument factory. It is their job to test D flat horns, but after a while the work gets on the nerves of Hardy. He proceeds to go berserk. Stan consults a medico and a Torrid Ann Sheridan has an "oomph" role in "Torrid Zone" with Caribbean background. James Cagney makes torrid love to her in the picture which opens on Sunday at the PASTIME.

'TURNABOUT' NOW AT VARSITY

"Turnabout," based on the highly humorous Thorne Smith novel, is one of the gayest and sprightliest modern comedies seen in many a moon. It was excellently directed by Hal Roach himself, and its starring cast is headed by Carole Landis, John Hubbard, Adolphe Menjou, Mary Astor, Verree Teasdale, Donald Meek, William Gargan and Franklin Pagnborn.

'SAPS AT SEA'

Uproarious fun and side-splitting laughter is provided in the second feature, "Saps at Sea," which stars Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy.

sea voyage is prescribed plus a diet of goat's milk. The comics engage a boat that is destined to sink if it goes out to sea—so they decide to remain in port. Then the wild fun begins.

'TYPHOON' NEXT AT IOWA THEATER

Teamed for the first time in films, lovely Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston supply the romance in Paramount's technicolor South Seas adventure film, "Typhoon," which starts tomorrow at the Iowa theater. Lynne Overman and J. Carol Nash will be featured with them in supporting roles.

Main setting for the colorful story of "Typhoon" is a small island in the Dutch East Indies peering grounds. The picture of course, takes its title from the seasonal storms that lash these waters, one of which forms the climax.

Dorothy Lamour, sarong of sarongs girl, this time wears a "lava lava," which, reports say, is a Polynesian wrap even briefer than the sarong. Robert Preston literally follows suit; he wears a "pareu," which is the masculine equivalent to Dotty's bright brevity.

'THE PHANTOM STRIKES'

Secret doors and unexpected blackouts are typical of mystery films, but in Monogram's "The Phantom Strikes," the Iowa co-hit tomorrow, the ticking of a clock creates the eerie atmosphere. Maurice Meister, played by Wilfrid Lawson, receives a death threat which will be executed in 48 hours. In order to protect him from intruders in his palatial home, Scotland Yard and the local police fortify his home with steel doors and windows. Alone except for servants and police guards, Meister's only real companionship is that of a mantle clock which, with each tick, brings his death hours closer. And each time the pendulum swings the audience has that same feeling of pending disaster.
