● A Lesson From Blondie

We take off our hats to Blondie, Dagwood and the rest of the inimitable Chic Young family.

Blondie is one of the few persons we greet each day who is absolutely unaffected by the war or by politics, one who is absolutely unaffected by anything except the process of everyday living.

Everyday living has a tendency to go by the board before the impact of presumably more important things—the goals we seek, the "big" roles we play in life.

That's very bad. Everyday living builds the stepping stones by which we reach life's big roles. We can't jump from today into the big things we'd like to be doing tomorrow. There's a lot of everyday living in between.

And nobody ever just acquires qualifications spontaneously. It's like eating peas with your knife at home on week days and eating out on Sunday. You can't be graceful with a fork unless you use one occasionally.

And a certain amount of grace goes with the big jobs in life. We can't escape it. So hats off to Blondie. She preaches a vital doctrine while she brings smiles to the nation—the doctrine of everyday living—and a pretty important one at that.

● What About Billboards?

On most of our highways, we're bill-boarded stiff. Lining our highways from coast to coast these sign posts of the outdoor advertising agencies scream a relentless tirade of merchandise.

In every case the billboard is strategically located where the motorist's eye cannot help but attend. The billboard distracts the motorist's attention; that is its purpose. And that is why, at the top of hills, or at the head of curves, a howling ad appears.

At today's high speeds this distraction reaps annually increasing fatal results, for which accident insurance companies are not compelled to settle.

Billboards and Property Values

There can be no doubt that billboards lower property values. Who would purchase property whose beauty is disfigured by an advertiser's monument. The agencies who rent advertising space to merchants reap an annual net harvest of $6,000,000 and pay to the owner of the land bearing the sign $1 to $5 a year, and frequently nothing.

Such a nominal rate can never compensate for shutting off from the tourist America's beautiful landscape. The situation reaches the breaking-point when one encounters a travel agency's ad proclaiming on a sign 30 feet high and 150 feet long, that we "see America first." No other nation is so afflicted.

One objector records that he drove 167 miles through some superb country and observed 2,017 signs. Boiled down, that's 12 to a mile, or one every 150 yards. Driving at 40 miles an hour; you have a sign every 8 seconds.

The Constructive Approach—

There is something each of us can do about the billboard nuisance. We can join the other millions now protesting the outdoor ad's cause. For the only cure for this hazard is a big dose of public opinion crystallized in legislation.

But until that legislation can be enacted we can only live on hopes that someday our landscape will be as beautiful as it naturally is, and that means—no signs. Ogden Nash has summarized the condition in its true light:

I think that I shall never see
A billboard lovely as a tree.
Perhaps unless the billboards fall
I'll never see a tree at all.

Talking Over the Times
With Sammy Kaye's Manager

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—November nights in New York are deep-starred and velvet. They make a good backdrop for the city's lights. They also make good walking.

Last night I walked over to the Commodore to say hello to Jimmy Peppe and welcome Sammy Kaye back to New York. Peppe, an old friend of Ohio days, is Kaye's manager. We talked of those old days at a place called Valley Dale where three times a week 5,000 people would come to dance and to talk.

Thinking of that many people in terms of New York's small dance floors seems incongruous. Those were the days when Rudy Vallee was just getting started, when Kay Kyser was still very much a fresh Carolina boy.

For the last six months Sammy has been on the road, playing in theaters. "Toward the last," he said, "we were counting the shows. When you play the same routine, the same show, the same pieces five times a day, seven days a week, it gets tiresome. This is the first time I've been in front of a dancing crowd in months. I feel out of place."

We glanced around at the people who were having their dinners. Some had wine with their food.

"Remember," said Jimmy, "at Valley Dale there was no wine. We couldn't afford to permit it. If your best friend showed up with a bottle, out he went. We kept that place as it should have been kept, because our customers were all young kids. Their families knew they were all right at Valley Dale. I can still see them, all 5,000 of them, drinking soda pop and eating cheesecrackers. It's the only thing we ever sold."

"In a little while," said Sammy, "I want you to hear a new production number. We have a glee club, you know." I asked about that.

"It's tough," he said. "You hire men who know and can play music, not because they can sing. Most of them can't sing. But every one has one or two notes they can carry. Our arrangers blend the talents of the individuals into a whole. It's a tough job, but it works. When you hear them you think they're all trained singers."

I ask him what he thought the stand-out hit tune of the year would be. There's always one big one, like "Deep Purple," or "Jeepers Creepers."

"I don't know," he said. "I've been away from dance floors too long. I almost feel out of touch."

He may have felt that way but the dancers didn't. They like him at the Commodore. It's his third consecutive engagement there.

"I'm just getting over my train-legs," he said. "When you walk up and down the aisles for six months, you walk with a sway. It's like following the dip of a ship at sea. You learn to brace yourself instinctively. Then, when you go ashore, you get land sick. I'm not sick, but it sure is fun walking on this solid Manhattan pavement once more."

Note on Armistice Day

TO THE EDITOR:
Just what should be the policy in the presentation of an Armistice day program held on a university campus in a world like that of today—a world in which most countries are at war and in which those that aren't are going through the process of the first "peacetime conscription" in history.

Shouldn't Armistice day have an especially deep and heartfelt meaning to us young people of university and conscription age today?

Isn't an Armistice day program for the purpose of remembering and honoring those who gave their lives in the past war and to celebrate the signing of the Armistice which it was hoped would end all wars?

It has been my observation in the past two years that I have been on this campus that university officials, the university military department and the local American Legion plan and carry out a very nice program for Armistice day. It is held in front of Old Capitol at exactly 11 o'clock and consists of speeches, military drills and band selections.

I have witnessed two of these programs and I have been very much impressed by the programs themselves. But some other things that have gone hand in hand with them have distracted from the program for me. One of the distractions lies in the fact that classes are held at this hour. I have heard students come along and declare that they would like to attend the program but can't very well attend classes to do it.

I am not an advocate of dismissing classes for every little thing that comes along, but I do think there would be as much point to dismissing 11 o'clock classes on Armistice day as dismissing all classes for a football victory.

The other main distraction is the attention given Armistice day in the classroom. The very least that could be done to give due respect to the day would be for instructors and their classes to dispense with class long enough to face the east for one minute at eleven and to stand when the national anthem is played. This is not done in at least the majority of classes.

The day was celebrated with more respect and ceremony Nov. 11, 1918. Why can't it be today?
Armistice day should and could be made very significant to those of us today who would have to serve in case our country becomes involved in this great world war which is now raging.

Major Battle Ground Develops in Africa

WASHINGTON — Next big struggle of the war will be for Africa—the whole of it—and that is where the British will want us to come in. Now that the campaign lid is off here, discussions are developing among military men on the piecemeal official information picked up about the recent Hitler-Mussolini conferences. Clearly it indicates conquest of the African continent is the basic grand strategy of the dictators' 1940-41 campaign.

It has already started. German fifth columnists have been sifting into all British and French colonies there at a rate more rapid than was apparent in Norway and Holland before they were crushed. A report from Kenya Colony (British) on the southeast African coast pictures the activities of various political parties there now as "worse than in Berlin."

This ultimate goal is confirmed by open axis dickerings with Spain and the effort of Mussolini to clear the Grecian flank for a German invasion of Turkey. First step was the seizure of Dakar.

The idea is sound from the German standpoint. The war has become a struggle for economic existence. With all the raw materials of Africa, the axis will control the economic resources of two continents to fend off exhaustion.

PRESSURE ON U. S.—

The British well know what is afoot. In fact our information probably comes through them. But they rather like the new battleground. It offers a possible future opening for a military defeat of Germany where none exists now. Invasion of Europe would be just as difficult for the British now as invasion of England has proved for the Germans. If the Germans, however, string out their military forces through two continents, committing themselves constantly to an ever-widening front, they will thin their army out. Britain, too, will have full freedom of movement in the seas off the African coast. In the end the British might roll right back up to Berlin by any path the Germans could cut to Africa, across the Dardanelles and Gibraltar.

For such a campaign, the British would need every ounce of military might they can muster. They must keep large forces at home to meet the threat of invasion which will be kept constantly before them. Up to now they have not been able to use more American help than they have been getting. But they will be able to use it then. Pressure for American participation should be expected to grow accordingly.

FRANCE ON SPOT—

Don't expect anything from the French merely because 90 per cent of the French people are assumed to favor Britain.

The secret of all French governmental actions heretofore and hereafter is that Hitler has 1,800,000 French prisoners of war in German camps. If any German suffers slightly ruffled hair in France, Herr Hitler has let the French know it will be taken out on the prisoners. The French dare not do anything hereafter except by German bidding.

Hitler has been keeping a distance away from the Vichy government to give it a deceptive appearance of minor independence. Don't let that fool you. Hitler has perfected a system of running every detail of Vichy activity from a distance and without direct communication. He works through the armistice commission which is a continuing body functioning daily.

What he wants Vichy to do is communicated by his German commissioners across the table in Paris to the French commissioners who relay it to Petain. The British lost all chance of even hidden help from France when Petain failed to get the 1,800,000 French hostages released from Hitler's prisons.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Ann Sheridan's Justified Walk-Out

HOLLYWOOD—Ann Sheridan's walk-out on "Strawberry Blonde" (no raise, no work) has more justice than most similar strikes. She can be rated as potent a box-office draw as either James Cagney or Olivia DeHavilland, but her weekly take is peanuts compared to Jimmy's.

On the studio side, they can claim that Annie, minus the "oomph-girl" build-up, might be just another redhead.

And the one who gets the break is Rita Hayworth, who takes Annie's place in this re-make of "One Sunday Afternoon." . . . There's a girl who has served her apprenticeship and should rise fast now. She started in pictures with a bitter pill—the title role of "Ramona" snatched from her because she wasn't a "name." She swallowed it, did a trick in westerns, and worked up the hard way. . . .

They worked all hours finishing "Tin Pan Alley" so Betty Grable could get off to Chicago to fulfill an old stage contract. Alice Faye, who's had the flu, got up and worked, too, but the reports are around that Alice and Betty, rival blondes in the same picture, are not too chummy. Someone ought to talk to Alice, who somehow has become a Big Star instead of the friendly girl she used to be when she was climbing. . . .

"They Met in Argentina," the Lou Brock musical, will have 10 songs (all new Rodgers and Hart) where Brock's old "Flying Down to Rio" had four, which shows how mad about music the town is. James Ellison gets the call for this with Maureen O'Hara and Alberto Vela, the singer from Buenos Aires. Ginger Rogers, despite the reports, says she's like very much to do another Astaire-Rogers dance film. And why shouldn't she? It'll be a race between Paramount and Warner Bros. to get a conscription movie on the screen.

Association of American Medical Colleges' Aptitude Test to Be Given Nov. 8.

The test should be taken by all students who expect to apply for entrance to a medical school by fall of 1941. The test has been adopted by the association as one of the normal requirements for admission. The test measures one's ability to learn material similar to that which he will have in medical school. It also measures his general information and scientific background and his ability to draw accurate conclusions from a given set of data. Students should make application immediately to the registrar. The time of the test will be Nov. 8, at 3 p. m. This is the only time that the test will be given this year. The place of the test will be Macbride hall auditorium. A fee of one dollar is required of each student taking the test.

Local Service Clubs Offer Cash Prizes To Leading Schools

As Johnson county's diphtheria and smallpox campaign neared completion, Aila Hiltunen, county nurse, announced that additional orders of vaccine and toxoid were made to take care of the hundreds of applicants.

Request slips are still being received even though the campaign ends tomorrow, Miss Hiltunen said. Approximately 1,300 slips were on file when the program began Monday.

To create interest in the drive, the Iowa City Lions club has offered a $15 prize to the school with the highest per cent of protection in large rural school districts. Three $10 prizes are offered to the three highest in the small rural schools.

The Iowa City school with the highest per cent protected will receive $25.

Open to Adults
Miss Hiltunen emphasized that the program is not only open to school children but to adults as well. She said that the program will not be extended after the final day, tomorrow.

At a meeting of the county central nursing committee yesterday, progress of the campaign was discussed. WPA mid-morning luncheons in Johnson county schools was also discussed.

How the Japanese occupied Teiung, China, when they were stationed as missionaries there in 1937 was the subject of the Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Wiese, Nazarene church missionaries in China for 17 years, speaking before the local church of the Nazarene Wednesday night.

The Rev. Mr. Wiese exhibited several pieces of shell and one complete projectile which was projected up in his own dooryard in Teiung.

The couple lectured with pictures of their work in the Nazarene missionary field in China and told about the rebuilding of one church destroyed by a bomb. They also explained how war had ravaged the country and outlined the part the church is playing in rehabilitation work.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiese are home on temporary leave doing deputation work while in the United States. They plan to return to China next August.

Their next scheduled lecture is in Centerville.

Thief Escapes, Leaves Loot—4 Pairs of Pants

A thief apparently specializing in men's trousers was routed by the highway patrol Saturday as he was attempting to add a few more pairs of "jeans" from a N. Dubuque fraternity house to his collection.

The would-be looter paced a highway patrolman up the slope above Dubuque street and escaped unidentified.

After stealing four pairs of pants from one fraternity house while the owners attended the Homecoming football game, the burglar continued to augment his "pantry" in the next block where he was discovered but escaped.

In making his getaway, he left a suit case containing four pairs of pants.

Wilson Names District Board

Three Iowa City attorneys will serve on the eighth district state selective service draft board, it was learned here yesterday, as Gov. George A. Wilson appointed 21 advisory boards for Iowa's 98 counties.

The eighth district board, including Johnson and Iowa counties, is composed of Judge Harold D. Evans, chairman; William H. Hart, and Edward F. Rate, all of Iowa City, and Byron Goldthwaite, Marengo.

Iowa's 21 boards, serving without pay, will help draftees fill out questionnaires and will aid draft procedure in general. Each board, according to the governor's office, may appoint as many additional members as needed.

Check Final Requests for Immunization

Aila Hiltunen, Johnson county nurse, right, with her secretary, Shirley Hegg, checks the hundreds of diphtheria and smallpox request slips which have been received at her office the past few weeks. Approximately 1,300 slips are on file while more continue to arrive. Cost of the protection is $1 for the vaccination and the same amount for the immunization. The program began Monday and will end tomorrow.

This Year Is Bremer's 25th In Iowa City

Bremer's store celebrates its 25th anniversary of continuous business in Iowa City this week.

Coming from Monticello, Ill., in 1915, Joe and Harry L. Bremer, brothers, purchased the Willner's Golden Eagle clothing store and began the present Bremer clothing store business.

Through the 25-year period, more than $30,000 has been spent for store improvement, according to Harry Bremer, manager. The store was remodeled first in 1918 and again in 1924.

Eight of the 16 regular store employees have been with the organization for more than 10 years. Harry assumed complete management of the store after his brother's death in 1938.

Marian Farnsworth, 517 N. Gilbert, entertained friends yesterday evening at a potluck supper. After the dinner the girls attended the Iowa City high school Homecoming football game.

Sharing the courtesy were Susan Anne Showers, A1 of Iowa City, Dorothy Rankin, A1 of Iowa City, and Phyllis Draker, Doris Jones, Lorna Eymann, Virginia Simpson and Eunice Andriak, all of Iowa City.

Chest Drive Approaches Mark As Contributions Pass $17,000

Director Spencer Hopes to Reach Final Goal by Tomorrow

The Iowa City Community Chest fund swelled beyond the $17,000 mark yesterday. The drive will officially close tomorrow.

According to Director LeRoy Spencer, more than $320 has been received since Wednesday and the $18,100 goal is hoped to be reached before tomorrow noon.

Urging all individuals and organizations to take part in the campaign, Spencer asked those who were not contacted to get in touch with the director of their division.

Collection Report
Following last night's tabulations, drive workers compiled the following report:

C. O. Ingersoll, business, $5,462.33; Dr. H. P. Smith, college of medicine, $1,110.25; Atty. G. A. Schlaegel, professional, $830; T. M. Rehder, university, $4,321; S. G. Darling, employes, $1,827.15; M. B. Street, public schools, $356; T. R. Baker, National firms, $1,787.50; Mrs. H. S. Ivie, residential, $1,011.90, and Verne A. Pangborn, University hospital, $327.

Spencer expressed optimism in reaching the 1940 goal which is somewhat larger than last year's quota and announced there were enough pledged and promised donations to carry the chest "over the top."

The 1939 drive, which ended in December with $17,439.55, was collected from the various divisions as follows: Employees, $1,795.05; business, $5,469.75; residential, $1,773.25; professional, $900; university, $4,420.50; college of medicine, and hospitals, $1,495.50; public schools, $374.50, and nationals, $1,911.

"This year's campaign," Spencer said, "is progressing far ahead of schedule due to whole-hearted public cooperation."

Louisa Vogt Funeral to Be At 9 Tomorrow

Service will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the St. Wenceslaus church for Louisa B. Vogt, 81, who died at the home of her niece, Florence Unash, Philadelphia, Wednesday.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Charles Unash, Iowa City; a brother, Carl A. Vogt of Moline; four nieces, and five nephews.

She was born here Sept. 23, 1859, the daughter of Charles A. and Bridget Vogt. For several years, she taught in local public schools.

Pork Designated Surplus Food Of Week in Iowa City

Pork has been designated as the surplus food of the week in Iowa City, it was announced yesterday by Gordon Brown, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Grocers and meat dealers of Iowa City, in cooperation with the surplus marketing administration, will feature pork starting today and ending Nov. 14.

'Baloney!', Student Says Minneapolis Report Does Not Tell All, Behrens Announces

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—Charles Behrens, University of Iowa student, today obtained permission from the Minneapolis park board to be married in one of the city's parks next summer.

Last summer, the Iowa student was here and saw "the most beautiful spot on earth"—in a Minneapolis park, he wrote the board.

He's forgotten the name of the park, but thinks he can find it again and wants to be married there. The park board acted favorably on his letter from Iowa City today.

Despite The Associated Press news release, Behrens, D3 of Waterloo, denied last night that he had requested specific permission for such a ceremony.

Also denying that he called the obscure area of the park "the most beautiful place on earth," the university student said he merely wrote to park commissioners to find out if a marriage ceremony would conflict with any city park ordinance.

Behrens said he was not even formally engaged.

Knights Templar Has Meeting Tonight

A special meeting of the Palestine commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. to confer the order of the temple on a candidate.

After the ceremony, refreshments will be served. Visiting knights have been invited to attend as guests of members.

Arrangements Completed

Patrolman Dolezal Announces Final Plans For Policeman's Ball Nov. 25

Joe Dolezal, left, local police patrolman and chairman of the committee in charge of the annual Policeman's Ball, was out to get his man yesterday. Officer Dolezal "pinched" Congressman

Tom Martin for the price of a ticket. Instead of giving tickets away, every officer this week is selling them. The annual benefit is scheduled for Nov. 25 in the community building.

Arrangements for the annual Policeman's Ball, scheduled for Nov. 25 in the Community building, were virtually completed last night and ticket sales are well underway, Patrolman Joe Dolezal, chairman of the committee in charge, announced.

Two orchestras, Leo Pieper, who has bookings the same week in Cedar Rapids and Davenport, and Joe Fisher, featuring "old

Group Attends State Teachers 36th Meeting

The 36th annual meeting of the Iowa State Teachers association in Des Moines this week end is the goal of F. J. Snider, Johnson county superintendent of schools, and a delegation of county teachers.

Election of a new association president and a decision by the 600 teachers expected to attend as to whether or not the delegate assembly itself will be reorganized will be highlights of the meeting.

A. E. Harrison, Buena Vista superintendent of schools, is president of the association.

Asks Increase In Red Cross

Sidwell Makes Plea On Behalf of Service Rendered to County

Termining Johnson county's highway first aid stations "important and significant aids to the county," Richard Sidwell, 1940 county roll call chairman, asked for a greatly increased Red Cross enrollment during the annual roll call, Nov. 11 through 30.

The county's highway first aid stations are established at Tiffin and Lake Macbride, Sidwell said but added that plans are now underway to set up two more stations at Sharon Center and North Liberty.

The county Red Cross, besides training the attendants, furnishes all equipment and supplies for the stations, he explained.

Besides the highway first aid stations established in the county, 5,700 similar stations throughout the nation aid county residents and tourists, Sidwell stated.

These emergency posts are established at police substations, rural fire departments and gasoline service stations at dangerous intersections on main highways, he concluded.

Emmett C. Gardner, county agent, has been named the rural division leader.

Holiday Fund Drive Planned

Plans for a drive for funds on Armistic day in the college of medicine were made at the regular weekly meeting of Bundles for Britain yesterday in the Episcopal parish house. Dr. E. D. Plass will be in charge of the drive.

Mrs. George P. Kay and her neighbors made blankets from mill ends of woolen acquired from the Amana mills.

A total of $35 was turned in from benefit bridge parties, to be used to buy wool for knitting. Already distributed is $50 worth of wool, and many garments have been completed and sent to Britain.

Bundles for Britain is still open for membership, the only requirement being desire and willingness to work to help Britain. Anyone wishing to join may attend the regular meetings on Thursday mornings in the parish house.

$1,187.92 Injury Suite Filed By Floyd Rummels

A suit asking for judgment of $1,187.92 was filed yesterday in the county clerk's office by Floyd Rummels against F. J. Bittner.

In the petition, Rummels charged the defendant with neglect while operating his car. He asked $1,187.92 for collision damages and injuries suffered by him and his wife.

The Bittner car collided with Rummels' at an intersection eight miles east of Iowa City on Oct. 12.

Clara Adrian filed suit yesterday for $10,000 against Julie and Ethel Kasper for bodily injuries incurred when she was attacked by a dog owned by Kasper.

Thiel Appoints Local Parents To Committee

The committee to take charge of the annual appreciation dinner of the Iowa City area council of the Boy Scouts of America, Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 6:30 p. m., was announced by Owen B. Thiel, area Boy Scout executive.

In the past, the dinner was given for scouts and their wives. This year, there will be a pot-luck dinner by units so that every Cub, Boy Scout and senior Scout can attend along with his parents. The dinner will be in the Iowa City community building.

In charge of arrangements are Mrs. E. D. Plass, Sea Scout ship number 1; Mrs. Morris Ward and Mrs. Carl Kringle, Longfellow school troop 2; Mrs. Clarence Conklin, Henry Sabin troop 7; Mrs. Frank Mahan, St. Patrick's church troop 10; Mrs. Alice Crawford, Roosevelt troop 11; Mrs. F. E. Housel, Methodist church troop 14; Mrs. John Hudachek and Mrs. Fred Goss, St. Wenceslaus church troop 15.

O. H. Benson, director of rural service for the Boy Scouts of America, will be the featured speaker of the evening. Benson founded the 4-H club movement in America.

The 4-H clubs of Johnson, Iowa and Washington counties are being invited to the dinner. About 500 are expected for the event, according to Thiel.

A large parade size American flag will be awarded to the troop having the greatest attendance.

Crows, $5 Yellow Tail and Band Are Necessary

You can receive five dollars by shooting a yellow-tailed crow this week end!

Prof. William B. Rowan, chairman of zoology at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, is studying the migration of crows. This week he released a large number of the birds with numbered leg bands and painted tails. They should begin to appear in Iowa this week end, he said.

Anyone seeing one of the birds is requested to shoot it, remove the band and return it with the date, time and place the bird was shot. Upon receipt of the band, five American dollars will be paid to the sender, provided the crow was shot south of the Canadian border.

4-Year-Old Girl Dies Of Pneumonia Here

Susanne Ball, four-year-old daughter of Earl Ball, Oxford, died of pneumonia at University hospital at 2:30 a.m. yesterday.

Student Saves Drowning Man From River Near City Park

Dave Downey, C4, 112 E. Bloomington, saved the life of Wayne Sherman, 27, Davenport, after the latter fell in the Iowa river near City park late last night.

Sherman was unconscious when Downey finally got him to the shore, but was revived after only a few minutes work.

While driving over the bridge at City park, Downey was stopped by an elderly man who told him that someone had fallen into the river.

Downey drove to the west bank and located the victim clinging to a pier under the bridge. Weakness fast, Sherman was forced to release his grip on the pier and began floating down the river, Downey stated after the rescue.

Without bothering to remove his clothes, Downey pulled the unconscious man to the bank where he administered artificial respiration and revived him.

After drying his clothes and warming up, Sherman returned last night to Davenport. He had been visiting friends in Iowa City.

Pep Rally I.C.H.S. Holds Public Yell Session

Filled with Iowa City Homecoming spirit, more than a 100 City high school pep "rallyers" instigated minor disturbances along the main streets here Wednesday night — the final act of an earlier - in - the - evening pep rally for last night's City high-Davenport football game.

For longer than an hour, three policemen "herded" the throng of students along the streets as they attempted to storm theaters and invade stores for cheering sessions. One officer, armed with an orange crate slat, stood ready to paddle the first peacebreaker while another kept a watchful eye on the "gummed up" traffic.

With a 9:30 "home-in-bed" deadline for some of them, not all could make the most of the occasion. One lad, wearing a brightly trimmed green hat and trousers rolled up knee - high, strolled out of the crowd declaring: "Aw, this is Kid stuff! Let's go home, Kids."

Mercury Plunges 9 Below Freezing

The mercury slid down the thermometer scale yesterday to a low of 23 degrees, nine points below the freezing mark. The highest temperature was 51 degrees, according to the local climatological weather bureau.

Average normal temperatures for the day were 55 and 33 degrees, ranging close to figures of a year ago, 56 and 35 degrees.

Polish Lecturer Will Discuss Critical Phenomena at Meeting

W. Swietoslowski To Address Chemical Society Tuesday Night

Speaks at Kent U.

Prof. Wojciech Swietoslowski, a guest lecturer on physical chemistry in the university this semester, will talk on "Pre-critical, Critical and Post-critical Phenomena" at a meeting of the Iowa section of the American Chemical Society which will be held Tuesday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p. m. in the chemistry auditorium.

Professor Swietoslowski, who speaks five languages, Polish, Russian, German, French and English, was active in Poland prior to the German invasion.

A minister of education and a member of the Polish senate, he has also been a professor of physical chemistry and director of the physical chemistry section of the Warsaw Institute of Technology.

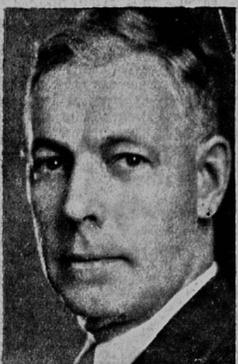

To Rumania Professor Swietoslowski went to Rumania when the Germans entered Poland and after spending several months there, he was invited to the University of Pittsburgh. While there he lectured during the second semester and summer session of 1939-40. Last summer he spent some time in the bureau of standards, Washington, D. C.

At the meeting on Tuesday, Professor Swietoslowski will give a general discussion on phenomena with particular mention of some observations made in the last few years. A new apparatus for continuous observation of the phenomena will be demonstrated.

New Facts According to the new observations, the so called critical phenomena of a liquid are not observed at a critical temperature but at some lower temperature. Some consequences from this statement will be pointed out.

At one time Professor Swietoslowski was chief of the department of fuels in the Chemical Research Institute in Warsaw. He has also been vice-president of the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry, and has acted as chairman of the committee on physical chemical data.

The meeting of the American Chemical Society will be preceded by the usual dinner at the Alpha Chi Sigma house at 6 p. m.

PROF. A. C. BAIRD

Baird Speaks At Kent State Inauguration

Prof. A. Craig Baird of the speech department will be a featured speaker at the inauguration of the school of speech of Kent State university, Kent, Ohio, today and tomorrow.

"Factors in the Formation of Public Opinion" will be Professor Baird's subject when he speaks to the group this morning.

He will also participate in a panel discussion, "Reevaluating the Function and Services of Honorary Speech Fraternities in Relation to the National Scene, 1940."

Other panel members will be Charles R. Layton of Muskingum college, Ohio; H. S. Woodward of Western Reserve university, and Paul F. Opp of Fairmont State college.

Professor Baird will give an interpretation of the high school debate question, "Resolved, that the power of the federal government should be increased," on tomorrow's program.

Later he will preside at an address given by Prof. O. A. Hitchcock of the University of Akron. Professor Hitchcock has M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Iowa and taught here last summer.

Ceremony Included In Business Meeting Opening Convention

Seven men were initiated last night into Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, at a business meeting which officially opened the Pi Tau Sigma convention.

The convention, marking the 25th year of the existence of Pi Tau Sigma, will continue today and tomorrow. Representatives from 21 schools are attending.

Those students initiated into the organization are LaVerne Grosskopf, E4 of Davenport; Milton L. Galinsky, E4 of Sioux City; Melvin G. Sogge, E4 of Sioux City; Robert Welp, E4 of Ft. Dodge; Raymond A. Latimer, E3 of Red Oak; T. Cyril Noon, E3 of Cedar Rapids; and Donald L. Spencer, E3 of Iowa City.

Business Meeting On the program today will be a business meeting at 9 o'clock following registration in front of the engineering building.

At 1:30 this afternoon a convention picture will be taken on the west steps of Old Capitol, and the afternoon business session will be held in studio E, radio studios, engineering building at 2 o'clock.

Highlights of the banquet to be held at 6:15 this evening will be speeches by charter members of Pi Tau Sigma and national and past officers from Minnesota, Oklahoma, Texas, Purdue, Wisconsin and Missouri.

Dance Following the banquet, Bill Meardon's orchestra will play for the informal dance to be held at 9 o'clock in the river room of Iowa Union.

Inspection trips, scheduled during the convention, will include visits through the Quaker Oats company and the Iowa Electric Light and Power company in Cedar Rapids.

Prof. Huber O. Croft, head of the mechanical engineering department, is chairman of the faculty advisory committee in charge of the convention and Robert Sykes, E4 of Des Moines, is president of the local Pi Tau Sigma chapter.

Is Iowa City a Crow Stop?

Ornithologist Traces Bird Migration; Asks Aid of Farmers, Sportsmen

Attention farmers and sportsmen! Your help is wanted.

As the crow flies, so is the riddle of migration solved, according to Prof. William B. Rowen, head of the zoology department at the University of Alberta, Canada.

Professor Rowen, a well known ornithologist, is carrying on an experiment on the migration of birds, and is seeking the aid of all Iowa farmers and sportsmen.

Experiment He will release a large number of crows today for his experiment. All of these crows will have a numbered band on one leg and will have their tails painted yellow. Since cold weather has already started in Alberta they will fly south. They are expected to fly through Iowa on Sunday or Monday, the professor said.

Farmers and sportsmen have only to shoot down any of these birds and send to Professor Rowen the numbers of the birds and where and when they were found. Certain of these numbers are lucky numbers and will bring cash awards to the persons sending them in.

Crows The crows released are young birds and have never flown south before. The purpose of the experiment is to see if they will fly to Kansas and Oklahoma, the winter home of their parents.

The parent birds have left already. Professor Rowen is interested in seeing if the young birds can get there by themselves and if they can, what route they will take and if it will be the same as their parents have taken.

When he knows where and when these "crows" were shot down, he will be able to chart the course they followed and compare it with that of the parents.

Scientific Professor Rowen has been given money by the Rockefeller foundation to help him carry on his experiments. He is the first person to have a scientific viewpoint on the migration of birds. He believes that the bird's scientific approach is due to production or withdrawal of hormones in the blood stream.

Professor Rowen, who wrote "The Riddle of Migration," gives his scientific curiosity as the fundamental basis for the experiment.

Similar work has been done at this university under the direction of Prof. Emil Witschi of the zoology department.

Glass Houses And Caves

'Modern Architecture' To Be Discussed By Alden F. Megrew

Visitors Will Select Work of Distinction To Receive Prize

Man's first house was a cave—a dwelling far removed from the glass houses which Alden F. Megrew will describe tonight in the third modern art lecture to be given at 8 o'clock in the art building auditorium. The talk is entitled, "Modern Architecture."

Megrew, an instructor in the art department, will emphasize the modern house, tracing the development of today's home from the 18th century to the present.

He will discuss the new materials and methods of construction that have developed in recent years and question traditional forms if they have outlived their functions.

A. Trowbridge To Read Paper

Geologist Will Attend Dedication of Illinois Resources Building

Prof. Arthur C. Trowbridge, head of the geology department and director of the Iowa geological survey, will read a paper at the Illinois mineral industries conference and the dedication of the state natural resources building which will be held at the University of Illinois, Nov. 14 to 16.

Professor Trowbridge is officially representing the Iowa geological survey at the convention.

The paper on "The Devonian System in Iowa" was written by Prof. M. A. Stainbrook, a former student here who is now teaching at Texas Technical college in Lubbock, Tex.

Professor Stainbrook received his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Iowa.

Jack Graham, G of Lincoln, Neb., who is president of Gamma Alpha, scientific fraternity, and president of the Zoology club, will accompany Professor Trowbridge.

By MERREL GOLDBERG
A keyed-up, confident squad of Blue Devils from Davenport last night handed Coach Herb McCormack's Little Hawks a 38-6 defeat before a homecoming crowd on Schrader field last night. Last night's victory gives Coach Jesse L'Jy's eleven an uncontested Mississippi Valley championship.

Unable to penetrate Davenport's land defenses at any time, Iowa City was forced to rely entirely on an aerial offense. Thus Bill Sangster and Johnny Schuppert took over the flinging end of the ground-gaining department for the Red and White, with every eligible receiver being tried at the other end.

But Davenport's complete mastery of the situation, both by air and on the ground, rendered almost every Hawklet attempt a futile one.

The locals were not able to score until the last frame. With the fourth quarter well underway, Bill Sangster tossed a lateral from his own 17 to John Schuppert who then flipped a beauty from the far side of the field to Bud Lemons that was good to the 45. On the next play Sangster threw a short one over the line to Herb Davis who lateralled to Laughlin. Laughlin outran the Davenport backs and scored for the Hawks. Dean Williams' attempt at conversion was unsuccessful.

The Blue Devils scored early in the first period after recovering Bert Miller's fumble on the Iowa City 33-yard line. With Junior Franck and Popp doing most of the toting, and a 15-yard penalty on City High helping them, the Daymen moved methodically toward the end zone. Franck did the scoring on a right end run from the 6-yard marker.

From there on the visitors had little trouble with a weakened

City high defense. Gaining possession of the ball by Popp's interception of Sangster's pass on the 50, the Blue Devils needed only four plays to score again, Scherrf doing the honors, this time from the one-yard line. Peebles, shifty colored halfback of the Ozzie Simmons type, scored the third Davenport touchdown after Franck intercepted another of Sangster's tosses.

Interrupting his beautiful ball-carrying feats for the moment, Peebles faded back to toss a touchdown pass to Rissman from the Iowa City 35-yard line for the fourth Davenport marker. The halftime score stood at 26-0 for Davenport.

The Daymen scored twice in the second half, once on an end run by Franck and again after recovering a fumbled punt on the Iowa City one-yard stripe.

Hawkeyes Leave Today; Face Nebraska Tomorrow

Sophs Slated To Open Game On Iowa Team

Bill Stauss Draws Quarterback Post; Gable on Varsity

With sophomores still performing at the several "question mark" posts, Coach Eddie Anderson last night sent his Hawkeye squad through its last full length workout before tomorrow's game, then named 34 men to make the trip to Lincoln, the Nebraska stronghold.

It was obvious in last night's practice, a combination of offensive and defensive drill, that at least two of the newcomers to the varsity would draw starting assignments tomorrow, with two others listed as probable starters.

Stauss at Quarterback
Bill Stauss, the reformed left halfback, still barked signals from the quarterback post formerly held down by the veterans Al Coupee and Gerald Ankeny. Also on the books as certain to open the game for Iowa was rugged George Gable, who has taken the left tackle assignment away from Jim Walker, the rugged colored boy. At guards, although this doesn't appear quite so certain, Francis Curran and Ross Anderson, a pair of scrappy sophomores, will probably start ahead of Ham Snider and Charles Tollefson, the former first string guards.

With Wilford Burkett still holding down left end, there remain but three line posts for veterans to handle. Capt. Mike Enich, who has played sensational football even while the Hawks were losing, will be at right tackle as usual, with Ken Pettit at left end and Red Frye or Bill Diehl at center making up the rest of the veteran contingent in the forward wall.

Youel Again
Along with Stauss in the backfield will be Jimmy Youel, the slender little sophomore who stepped into the Purdue game last week and turned in a sparkling 60-minute performance. Oops Gilleard at right half and Bill Green at fullback. Green, withheld from practice Wednesday night because of a bad cold, was back in action yesterday, running through signals in a huge sheepskin coat as the Iowa coaches took the utmost precautions with the star ball toter's health.

The squad will leave Iowa City from the Rock Island station at 8:18 this morning, journey to Omaha tonight and work out on Creighton field.

The Traveling Squad:
Centers: George Frye, Bill Diehl and Bruno Andruska; Guards: Francis Curran, Ross Anderson, Charles Tollefson, Ham Snider, Max Hawkins, Henry Luebeck and Bob Penaluna; Tackles: Capt. Mike Enich, Jim Walker, George Gable, Al Urban, Bob Otto and Joe Byrd; Ends: Wilford Burkett, Ken Pettit, Glenn Mentzel, Bill Parker and Joe Moore; Quarterbacks: Bill Stauss, Al Coupee, Gerald Ankeny and Larry Paul; Left Halfbacks: Jim Youel, Tom Farmer and Bob Bender; Right Halfbacks: Bus Mertes, Oops Gilleard and Bill Gallagher; Fullbacks: Bill Green, Art Johnson and Henry Vollenweider.

Huskies Polish Aerial Attack
LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 7 (AP)—Nebraska's passing attack received a final polish today as the Cornhusker football team prepared for Saturday's game with Iowa. Two Huskers—Marvin Thompson, end, and Francis Leik, tackle—will be on the sidelines. Bus Knight, quarterback, had a practice bruise but probably will be available. Otherwise the team was in top condition.

An unofficial forecast of rain raised questions of how Nebraska's passing attack and power drives would fare in wet weather against Iowa's slightly lighter team. The field cover was spread tonight.

Spartans Face Hoosiers
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State's Spartans left last night for Bloomington, staking their 1940 football record on Saturday's game with the University of Indiana. With two victories, two defeats and two ties on their record so far, the Spartans felt possible improvement of their .500 percentage of last year hinged on the Indiana result.

Draws Starting Assignment

Back with the first string again, but in a different role, will be Bill Stauss, above, when the Hawkeyes face Nebraska at Lincoln tomorrow. The Iowa sophomore started the year as a left halfback, but gave way to Jim Youel, Tom Farmer and Bob Bender. After a try at right half, the rangy newcomer finally was moved up to quarterback and will get the starting assignment in the Husker game. Stauss is one of six new men who are expected to open tomorrow's contest.

Zupke Names Starting Team

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 7 (AP)—Coach Robert Zupke announced his starting backfield for the Northwestern game Saturday as the Illinois squad wound up practice today with a signal drill and a dummy scrimmage.

Zupke said Ralph Ehn would be at quarter, John Worban and Cliff Peterson at halfback and George Bernhardt at fullback.

Wolves After 'Brown Jug'

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—The unbeaten University of Michigan football squad entrained tonight for Minneapolis, promising to wrest the "little brown jug" from the powerful Golden Gophers of Minnesota by winning Saturday's game.

Milo Sukup, veteran guard and the team's best downfield blocker, was left behind, hospitalized by head injuries suffered earlier in the season, but despite his loss the Wolverines expressed confidence they would defeat Minnesota for the first time since 1932.

Ken Steinbeck Beats Record In Triathlon

Iowa Track Star Takes First Places In Two Events

Ken Steinbeck, versatile track star from Rubio, established a new high in the annual Jump triathlon by amassing a score of 2,372 points.

The old record was made last year by Vito Lopin, with 2,810 points. Steinbeck took first place in the pole vault and high jump, and finished second in the broad jump.

One of Coach Swenson's top flight pole vaulters, Steinbeck cleared 12 feet yesterday afternoon, which was good for 1,024 points.

First in the high jump with a leap of five feet, seven inches, gave Steinbeck 704 points more. A jump of 19 feet, 10 inches, was good for second place in the broad jump and 644 points, completing his total.

Second place in the meet went to Don Hesselshwerdt, Kalona, with a score of 1,516 points. He captured second place in the pole vault with a leap of more than nine feet, good for 472 points.

Hesselshwerdt's other points came as a result of third place in the broad jump and fourth in the high jump.

Ralph Todd, Henderson, Tex., took third place with 1,228 points. Todd captured first place in the broad jump with a jump of 19 feet, 11 inches, just one inch better than Steinbeck's leap.

A total of 952 points garnered fourth place for Dick Stuntz, Don Thompson was fifth with 844 points, and Melvin Stone was sixth with 836 points.

Steinbeck will have his name engraved on a traveling trophy.

Former Minnesota Greats Come Home, But— They're Now Members of Michigan Staff

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—This "pal" stuff is all off between the Michigan coaching staff and a host of their Minnesota friends Saturday.

Under ordinary circumstances Head Coach Fritz Crisler and his assistants, Clarence Munn and Earl Martineau, might be in for a warm welcome, but not Saturday. That's the day that trio is bringing a football team to Memorial stadium, once the site of Minnesota gridiron achievement for each of them, to ruin the Gophers if it can.

The game between two great undefeated football teams is the top gridiron duel in the nation, and in keeping with that a record breaking crowd that may approach close to 64,000 will be on hand. A sellout sign was hung out at the university Wednesday.

Crisler was once a popular head coach at Minnesota; Martineau was one of the school's greatest halfbacks, and Munn was one of the most powerful linemen ever developed at a school noted for bruising forward walls.

There've been many triple threat backs in Minnesota's history, but Munn was the first "triple threat guard." Captain of the Minnesota team in 1931 and all-America that year also, Munn was used as a punter, ball carrier, and even did some passing to fill an all-around role.

Martineau's exploits on the gridiron which won him all-

America honors in 1923 are legendary at Minnesota. His name ranks on a par or above such Gopher heroes as Bronko Nagurski, Herb Joesting, Pug Lund, and many others.

As for Crisler, he guided the teams of 1930 and 1931 before leaving that position to go to Princeton and eventually to Michigan. His team of 1930 won three, lost four and tied one and in 1931 seven of 10 games wound up in the victory column.

Meantime football is the hot topic of discussion in Minneapolis pending the duel between two evenly matched teams, each of which has a powerful line and fast backs.

Winners Take Early Lead In Loop Tilt

Delta Theta Phi turned back Sigma Phi Epsilon, 19 to 12, in one of the scheduled games in the interfraternity class B intramural touch football league yesterday.

Campbell and Stuart scored on passes from Estey and Casterline in the first period of the game to put the winners out in front at halftime 12 to 6. Mitvolsky took a pass for a marker and Hildenbiddle dashed around end for Sigma Phi Epsilon's scores. Casterline pitched the aerial which resulted in the winning points to Stuart for Delta Theta Phi's last marker.

Morrison scored both of Delta Upsilon's touchdowns in their 13 to 6 win over Phi Gamma Delta. He scored in the first half on an intercepted pass. Duxbury converted on an end run to give his team a 7 to 6 lead midway in the game. Carson returned a punt from his own 3 yard line to tally Phi Gamma Delta's lone score. A pass from Pine to Morrison was good for the touchdown which put the game on ice for Delta Upsilon in the second period of the contest. Boyd stood out for Phi Gamma Delta with his accurate passing.

Russ Conkling and Jim Bowers paced the Phi Kappa Psi sextet in their decisive victory over Delta Tau Delta 20 to 0. Krabbenhoff and Minnick, center and back respectively for Delta Tau Delta, played a nice game for the losers. The Phi Kappa Psi steamroller scored freely in both periods of the contest.

A fourth touch football contest, that between Sigma Nu and Gamma Eta Gamma, was postponed until Saturday.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—The extra point in football seems to be with us to stay despite annual rumblings that it is unfair to stake the outcome of a game on one set play with one man's ability to kick bullseyes the deciding factor.

And in view of the perennial nature of the extra point it is surprising that so many schools consider it such a minor factor in their football curriculum, apparently figuring there is no use worrying about the extra point when there is the little preceding matter of touchdowns.

The Northwestern-Minnesota game provided a striking example of the weakness of college teams in this after-touchdown activity, as when teams of the caliber of those two can convert only once in four attempts, it means the goal posts are just something for the freshmen to rip up.

Northwestern has good company in this pointless argument. Other teams losing games this fall through failure to plant the ball in the right place include Mississippi, Auburn, Baylor, California, Harvard, Santa Clara and North Carolina.

It is an odd commentary on the judgment of the fans that when a team loses a game by failure to convert, it immediately drops several notches in the ratings, although in every other phase of the game it is equal to its opponent.

A one-point defeat is a defeat, that's all there is to it, and a defeated team is a defeated team, and that's all there is to that.

On the other hand, there is little satisfaction in a tie, and the extra point provides a decision, which is a life-saver for the citizens who like to put their two-bits on those five or seven or 10-team parlay cards which rule that a tie counts as a defeat.

That extra-point artists can be trained has been proved. The pros have athletes who can kick goals with their eyes shut. Oklahoma had a young fellow a year or two ago named Boudreau who ran up an impressive string of conversions.

It's a little tougher to get the ball over there when an opposing line is coming through like nobody's business than it is in practice.

Chicago Plans 'Homecoming'

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—The University of Chicago holds its annual homecoming this week end—the first in the history of the school without an intercollegiate football game to serve as a rallying point for the old grads.

Saturday, about the time the alumni in other years converged on Stagg field to see the Maroons push another team around or vice versa, student guides plan to conduct the visitors on tours of 14 exhibits prepared for the university's 50th anniversary celebration. The displays include medieval art, rare editions of the Bible, research in cancer, skin grafting and sulfanilamide, and a big atom smasher in action.

Also on the program are a variety show, a comic opera, a dance, a forum on "America and the war," a tug of war between freshmen and sophomores and the traditional bon fire.

Football, abolished as an intercollegiate sport at the end of the 1939 season, will have a place in the series of events on Saturday morning. But this time it will be confined to a demonstration of the six-man team games as now played in the school's intramural leagues.

Indians and wave their arms frantically.

Today there at least is the element of contest in the extra point play, and if a team can succeed in blocking the try or hurrying the kicker so he boots a curve the defending team deserves some credit, and maybe it's a one-point victory.

A team doesn't have to kick for the extra point. It can run with the ball or pass, but that's trying for it the hard way and if the strategy succeeds a team has really earned the point. In fact, maybe it wouldn't be a bad idea to count two points for such conversions. That might eliminate a lot more ties.

Neire Dame expects a crowd of 45,000 for the game against Iowa at South Bend Nov. 16, the Irish business office announces. More than 4,000 Iowans are expected to be in the mob. Tickets are still being sold in the Iowa stadium.

Wrigley May Retire From Baseball Post

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—Owner Philip K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs revealed today that he was seriously considering firing himself as president of the club.

"I want to quit as president and devote more time to my other interests," Wrigley stated, "but I haven't found anyone to take over the presidency. So right now I don't know what I'll do."

He added he offered Vice President Charles (Boots) Weber the job again today, but Weber turned him down. The vice president announced several weeks ago that he was planning to retire from the Cub organization this winter and return to his native California.

Wrigley said he had been thinking about retiring for some time, but he had been unable to find a suitable successor.

From an Iowa alumnus, A. J. Plath of Cincinnati (class of '27), comes a note pledging unqualified support to Dr. Eddie Anderson and his Iowa footballers. Plath asks that all alumni do the same, something that I feel will be the case.

It has been, in the last week or two, a rather trying time insofar as Iowa spirit is concerned and there may be more defeats ahead, but I am inclined to believe that the Hawkeyes will show a definite improvement this week end, with perhaps a victory or so coming up. And, I am not going to waste much time over the defeats marked up against the Hawkeyes. It is encouraging, therefore, to find that most others are pretty much of the same mind.

Going on from there, it might be sensible to recall few incidents to support a statement that the Hawks might stage some sort of a comeback after their disastrous string of lickings. First incident is last year's loss to Michigan, one that apparently wrecked every chance for a successful season. But, the Hawks turned a bad start into a final tremendous triumph.

Then there were Michigan and Northwestern a year ago. The Wolves rolled along easily in early games and looked like champs. At Illinois stadium they ran into trouble in the form of an inspired Illini eleven. Before they could recover from the surprise of that licking, the Wolverines took a tremendous lacing from Minnesota, but hit their stride again to pound Pennsylvania and Ohio State later in the season.

Northwestern started the season of 1939 as potentially a national champ, but withdrew in the early games. Only toward the end of the year did the Wildcats begin to win ball games. This year, with an entire new line, they have been one of the Big Ten's best outfits. Meanwhile, Ohio State fell before three straight opponents, only to bounce back with a resounding triumph over Indiana.

The Big Ten, in the final analysis, is a rugged conference where a team has to be at the top on every Saturday. If a couple of cogs start slipping in a football machine there is little chance to stop for repairs—they have to be made on the run and a couple of defeats are pretty likely to come while the repair work is going on. Such has happened to Iowa.

This isn't a prediction that Iowa will win Saturday or any other day, but statement of a belief that the Hawkeyes may yet partially recover from the three setbacks and give a much better account of themselves. More than that one can't promise, especially when the definite weaknesses of recent games are remembered. But, it "can happen" in the game of football.

Treasury Asks Debt Increase To 65 Billion

Morgenthau Suggests New Taxes to Cover Rising National Deficit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Declaring that "we have just begun to rearm," Secretary Morgenthau urged today the levying of new taxes and an increase in the federal debt limit from the present $49,000,000,000 to $65,000,000,000.

He added that the latter increase was expected to care for the government's mounting debt through June 30, 1942, but would not see the treasury through the next four years.

Morgenthau's expression of views, given at a press conference, drew a quick statement from Senator Byrd (D-Va.), a member of the senate finance committee, that congress should not approve a debt limit increase of more than $5,000,000,000 at one time. Byrd, however, agreed with the treasury secretary that there should be increased taxes.

Offering his belief that it was impossible to put financing of the huge defense program on a "pay as you go" basis, Morgenthau declared that there should be levies on "all forms of securities." He asserted specifically that all future governmental issues—federal, state and local—should be taxed.

"It is this tremendous volume of money which escapes paying taxes," he said. "I think that the time has come when we need money for national defense from the people who invest in that type of security—and they should pay taxes."

The treasury secretary discussed with newsmen two complementary proposals to loosen the strings on government borrowing. First, he said, it would be "very helpful" if congress immediately removed all restrictions from a recent special $4,000,000,000 borrowing authority, specifically earmarked for defense.

This special authority, added to the general treasury limit of $45,000,000,000, makes the present $49,000,000,000 limit. Removal of restrictions would make the $4,000,000,000 available for general treasury financing and also would lift the present requirement that issues against this sum must be matured within five years.

Morgenthau also asserted that he would go before the new congress next year to ask a boost in the general borrowing limit to $60,000,000,000 or $65,000,000,000.

He added that he preferred to give the public "the top figure" and would "rather be on the high side than on the low side."

American Ship May Not Be Sent For 1,200 U. S. Citizens

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Germany's refusal to join Italy in giving assurances of safe conduct made it unlikely tonight that an American ship would be sent into the European war zone to bring about 1,200 United States citizens home from the British Isles.

The state department announced that Italy "very promptly responded favorably" to a request from the United States for a safe conduct. Germany, however, replied, in a note delivered yesterday that it was "not in a position to furnish any sort of assurance of the nature requested."

In view of this, officials here indicated they could not assume the risks of sending a ship into the combat area.

Thus the only means by which the Americans can reach home is to take a plane to Lisbon, Portugal, and then board a clipper or American ship. Under the neutrality act, they are forbidden to travel on vessels of belligerents.

Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, had called at the state department yesterday and expressed the hope that a vessel would be sent without delay to bring home an estimated 1,200 or 1,300 Americans seeking to return.

The variance in the positions taken by the axis partners attracted interest in diplomatic quarters here.

Although Italian planes are said to be participating in the raids on Great Britain, the favorable Italian response was interpreted in some circles as an indication that Italy was more concerned with military operations in the Mediterranean area.

The request was made to Germany and Italy on Oct. 27. It was planned to send the ship to a western Ireland port, probably Galway.

The British port of Liverpool has 36 miles of quays.

Britain Must Tell Greek Strategy

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Now that Mussolini's forces in Greece are again on the march, Great Britain must soon disclose her strategy and the extent of her ability to aid her little Greek ally.

Rome and Athens agree that the Italian right flank is on the move after a floundering start and an unexplained eight-day halt on the Kalamas river line in Epirus. The exact nature of the fascist thrust is not clear, however. Even if it represents, as Athens and London observers believe, the real "big push" of the Italian attack on Greece, there are circumstances which tend to make it a more costly operation for Italy than it would have been eight days ago.

That eight-day Italian halt on the Kalamas certainly means a far heavier toll of Italian lives in the new drive, even if it can fully regain lost momentum. Within that time Britain has moved up both her air and sea power.

From British bases on the Greek island of Crete, or possibly on the Greek mainland, a shuttling air attack on advancing Italian columns is not only possible but already proceeding. And the resumed fascist drive also is now exposed to attack from the sea. It is aimed down the Ionian coast of Greece from the Kalamas river jump-off.

Protection of that open sea flank from British assaults must necessarily be a task assigned to the Italian navy as well as to fascist air units. That suggests the stage is being set in the Ionian sea, between the boot of

Dr. Isaac Starr Scheduled To Present Paul Reed Rockwood Lecture Nov. 13

Amphitheater Talk Scheduled At 4:30 P. M.

College of Medicine Series Is Provided By Endowment Fund

Dr. Isaac Starr, professor of research therapeutics at the University of Pennsylvania, will speak before university students and staff members at University hospital Wednesday, Nov. 13, in the fourth annual Paul Reed Rockwood lecture to be given on this campus.

The lecture is scheduled to begin at 4:30 p.m. in the medical amphitheater.

Dr. Starr's subject will be "The ballistocardiograph; its contribution to our knowledge of the commoner diseases affecting the heart and circulation."

The ballistocardiograph is a bed-sized balancing table suspended from the ceiling on wires, three feet above the floor. While a patient lies quietly, the table oscillates back and forth to the throbb of his heart.

Each heartbeat of a normal man moves the bed back and forth about 16 one-thousandths of an inch. Connected to a powerful spring at the foot of the table is a tiny mirror. The mirror amplifies this motion 8,000 times. The magnified motion is recorded on a moving photographic film.

Dr. Starr's machine can be used to detect early and hitherto invisible cases of heart disease, show the relation between high blood pressure and heart function, and differentiate between various types of heart disease.

The latest issue of Time magazine, Nov. 11, considered the ballistocardiograph of such medical importance that it devoted half of its medical news space to Dr. Starr's device.

The ballistocardiograph was described by Dr. Starr at the National Academy of Sciences meeting in Philadelphia last week.

The Rockwood lectures are brought to the college of medicine every year through an endowment left to the university by the late Paul Reed Rockwood, who graduated in 1921. Since the university accepted the gift in 1936, three lectures have been given by prominent men in the field of medicine. The first was given by Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of the Rockefeller Institute in New York. Dr. E. M. K. Geiling, head of the department of pharmacology at the University of Chicago, was the speaker last year.

In accordance with the terms of the trust indenture, the lecturers are selected by a faculty committee appointed by the college of medicine, and the invitation is extended to the speaker by the president of the university. Each year the lecture covers a different field in medicine.

Paul Reed Rockwood was the son of the late Dr. E. W. Rockwood, who had been head of the chemistry department and a member of the faculty for 47 years at the time of his death in 1935. The former died in 1927.

The Pennsylvania lecturer will be a guest of Dr. Horace M. Korn of the college of medicine while he is visiting Iowa City.

successful against World War U-boats, they added, it failed to insure merchant ships against combined air-naval attacks with their "progress in technique and tactics." In the English channel, another factor is the fire of guns mounted on the German-occupied French coast.

The German high command reported that artillery fire today damaged one ship so badly that it had to drop out of a British convoy southeast of Dover.

Still another complication for British shipping is the almost continual aerial mine-laying.

Wellcome Home Party
Mr. Roosevelt reached the city early in the day from his Hyde Park home, and found that Washington had organized a welcome home party. Union Station plaza was jammed with a crowd which police estimated at 50,000 to 60,000 and the national guard was out. All the way from the station to the White House crowds thronged the president's route, sometimes as much as 20 deep. Another crowd was waiting at the White House grounds.

But before proceeding, Mr. Roosevelt stopped on the plaza long enough to express his thanks. The president's conference with Purvis stimulated speculation that aid to Britain may be increased soon. Purvis, himself, told reporters he was flying back to England, and undoubtedly would return soon with more orders for war materials. Morgenthau also attended the conference, and all three lunched in the president's office.

Few thought Ickes' resignation from the cabinet would be accepted. He took similar action after the 1936 election.

"I for one," he told reporters, "believe the president should be free at the beginning of a new administration to reshuffle, re-create or do anything he pleases with his official family, especially in view of the mighty task ahead of him."

Bridge--

Gov. Clarence D. Martin, who came to view the wrecked structure, said it would be rebuilt immediately.

C. E. Andrew, chief engineer of the bridge, said the collapse probably was due to the fact that flat, solid girders were used on the sides of the bridge, offering resistance to the wind. He said original plans called for open trusses but that plans were changed by another engineer.

Professor R. B. Van Horn of the University of Washington engineering school at Seattle, explained that the peculiar topography of the narrows, over which the bridge was built, virtually doubled the wind velocity, creating a sort of wind tunnel.

The bridge's central span was exceeded in length only by the Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco and the George Washington bridge in New York.

Tacoma Reporter Sees Bridge Fall, Crawls 500 Yards to Live

Editor's Note: Leonard Coatsworth Tacoma News-Tribune reporter, barely escaped death today as the Tacoma Narrows bridge — third longest in the world — crumbled and fell into Puget sound. Here is his story:

By LEONARD COATSWORTH
Tacoma News-Tribune Reporter
(Copyright, 1940, by the Tacoma News-Tribune)
TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 7 (AP)—I saw the Narrows bridge die today and only by the grace of God escaped dying with it.

I have been near death many times in my life, but not even in my worst experiences in France did I experience the feeling of helpless horror that gripped me when I was trapped on the bridge this morning.

Before starting over the bridge I had driven underneath the approach to watch the motion. The undulations were more rapid than I had ever seen before. This, however, was the only difference I saw from other times when a strong breeze was blowing.

I started across. In the car with me was my daughter's cocker spaniel, Tubby. Not until I reached the first towers did I realize something was terribly wrong.

Either just as I reached the towers, or just as I drove past them, the bridge began to sway violently from side to side. This was something new in my experience with the bridge. Heretofore, the noticeable motion has been up and down and undulating.

Lost Control
Before I realized it, the tilt from side to side became so violent I lost control of the car. I jammed on the brakes and got out, only to be thrown onto my face against the curb. I tried to stand and was thrown again. Around me I could hear the concrete cracking. I started back to the car to get the dog, but was thrown before I could reach it. The car itself began to slide from side to side on the roadway. I decided the bridge was breaking up and my only hope was to get back to shore.

On hands and knees most of the time I crawled 500 yards to the towers. Across the roadway from me I became aware of another man, alternately crawling and then running a few steps in a crouched position.

My breath was coming in gasps, my knees were raw and bleeding, my hands bruised and swollen from gripping the concrete curb. But I was spurred by the thought that if I could reach the towers I would be safe.

Finally my breath gave out completely and I lay in the roadway, clutching the curb until I could breathe again, and then resumed my tortuous progress.

Toward the last I risked rising to my feet and running a few yards at a time. The man on the other side gained the towers before I did and I envied his better endurance.

I believe that right at this minute what appalls me most is that within a few hours I must tell my daughter that her dog is dead, when I might have saved him.

Illini Schedule Drake
CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Drake university will replace Chicago on Illinois' 1941 football schedule. Athletic Director Wendell Wilson said yesterday. Drake will play at Champaign on Oct. 18, Chicago's date on the Illini schedule until the Maroons dropped football.

burg; railway yards and junctions at Halle, Pretsch on the river Elbe, and near Cologne; a factory at Salzbergen, northwest Germany; a cluster of shipping at Cuxhaven, Germany.

Butler's remark about Rome was made in the house of commons. Italy, which had declared Rome an open or undefended city after she entered the war last June 10, joined the aerial attack on London Oct. 24.

(Rome has not been bombed, but last Monday, when British pilots bombed Naples, the capital had an air raid alarm. On the same day an unofficial Vatican source said that Pope Pius XII would remain at the Vatican and probably would protest any bombing of Rome because of the church properties in that city.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr., of the republican national committee, today declared that his party came very close to victory in the presidential election and that its defeat represented only a temporary setback in a "great crusade."

"It is our purpose," he said in a statement, "to take full advantage of the new and progressive leadership and support that has come to us in this campaign. We are for national unity. We are for a strong defense. We shall support the president when not in conflict with the great principles for which we fought in this crusade."

Meantime, he said, preparations would be made for the next election struggles. He predicted that "in 1942 we will elect a republican congress and prepare the way for a greater victory in 1944."

Asserting that nearly 23,000,000 voters approved the principles for which the Willkie-McNary campaign was waged, he added:

"The margin between victory and defeat was very small in the large states which could have produced a Willkie and McNary majority in the electoral college. When the full returns are analyzed it will be a surprise to the country to note how very close we came to a national victory."

Another who stressed that a shift of comparatively few votes would have meant a republican victory was Roger W. Babson, statistician, economist and prohibition party candidate for the presidency. From his home at Wellesley, Mass., he sent President Roosevelt a telegram saying:

"Hearty congratulations. A defeated statistician, however, humbly reminds you that one per cent of the vote properly allocated would have elected Wendell Willkie. Therefore know you will work for coalition, both with republicans and minority parties. Please keep well. Four great years are ahead."
