Greeks Report 700 Italians Taken in Drive

Ten Heavy Cannon Claimed Captured Along 100-Mile Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 16 (Saturday) (AP)—The capture of 700 Italian soldiers and 10 heavy guns in a continuing Greek advance along the 100-mile Albanian battlefront was reported by the high command early today. Both artillery and air actions were described as "intense."

Greek pilots were declared to have bombed Italian columns in action and to have shot down three fascist planes against two Greek losses.

Italians in Retreat

Summarizing the position briefly, a government spokesman said the Italians were retreating all along the front, although remarking that "quite serious battles" were raging.

The Italian guns were understood to have been seized by the Greeks in the recapture of an important hill; the prisoners in the Kalamas river region.

In the sector near the coast the Greeks declared the Italians had been pushed back up against the Albanian frontier in a retreat described as reaching the proportions of a rout. This is one of the few remaining points where the Italians still are on Greek soil after 19 days of fighting.

Greeks Block Path

Above this area in the Pindus mountains, where the Greeks are fighting on Albanian soil. Advances from the front said Greek mountain fighters had planted their artillery along the few good routes of invasion which had been open to the fascists.

It was in this rugged border area the Greeks know so well that they reported two Italian divisions—probably 30,000 men—were cut to shreds, one when it was advancing into Greece and the other when it attempted to come to the aid of the first.

Demand Action On Logan Bill

Burke, King, Hatch, Democratic Senators, To Ask Show-Down

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A group of democratic senators threatened today to complicate plans for early adjournment of congress next week by demanding a show-down on the controversial Walter-Logan bill.

Senators Burke (D-Neb) and King (D-Utah) announced that next Monday they would move for senate consideration of the bill which has been pending for more than two years.

They said they expected strong support from Senators Hatch (D-NM), McCarran (D-Nev), Ashurst (D-Ariz) and other members of the senate judiciary committee who also have been seeking senate action on the measure.

The Walter-Logan bill was passed by the house in June by better than a two to one vote despite opposition from administration legislators. In general it would facilitate court review of decisions and regulations of many new deal agencies, such as the labor board and securities commission.

Additional democratic opposition to adjournment was threatened by Senator Byrd (D-Va) and others who believe that an overhauling of taxes and appropriations is essential in view of the increased cost of the national defense program.

Fraternity Women Make Week End News—the Regional Pan-Hellenic Conference

Fraternity women from 17 colleges and universities arrived yesterday for the regional Pan-Hellenic conference here this week end. A group of visiting delegates is pictured above during registration for the opening session in Old Capitol. The local students in charge of the registration include Mary Ellen Hennessey, chairman, A4 of Council Bluffs; Dorothy Swift, C4 of Mason City, and Wilma Kelley, A4 of Davenport. Representatives of each local sorority chapter were on hand to greet the visiting delegates and to take them to their respective houses. Hostess chairman was Mary McHugh, A4 of Sioux City, assisted by Jeanne Gilchrist, C4 of Iowa Falls, and Fern Newcomer, A4 of Iowa City.

tives from national fraternity councils, city Pan-Hellenics, faculty representatives, college Pan-Hellenics and alumnae. All local members, active, alumnae or pledges, are urged to attend the meetings.

Military Coup May Be Result Of Conference

Keitel, Badoglio Meet At Innsbruck, Austria; Reveal No Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BERLIN, Nov. 15—The highest officers of the German and Italian military commands held a sudden and unexpected conference today and everywhere the supposition arose that some new military stroke of the greatest importance was afoot.

They met—Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command; Marshal Pietro Badoglio of Italy and their respective staffs—at the old Austrian town of Innsbruck near the Italian frontier, and of course had nothing to say as to what decisions had been taken.

But the official German news agency said that they had had "military discussions about the joint conduct of the war."

Almost coincidentally, it was officially announced here that Ramon Serran Suner, the Spanish foreign minister, would arrive in Germany shortly on the invitation of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

This coming visit was seen here as one more step in a plan of power politics which, along with military force, is intended to change the map of Europe, Africa and Asia.

Authorized persons in Berlin did not deny that the military situation in Greece—now under Italian invasion—was discussed in the Keitel-Badoglio conference. Nevertheless, they remarked that there had been no change in German-Greek relations.

New Italian Drive Conference Result?

ROME, Nov. 15 (AP)—A big offensive in the Mediterranean and new impetus for Italy's campaign in Greece were expected in foreign circles tonight to result from the conference of the chiefs of the German and Italian high commands.

The meeting between German Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel and Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio today at Innsbruck was described officially in a communique as "military conversations on joint conduct of the war." (This paralleled a similar, cryptic announcement in Berlin.)

Some usually well-informed sources predicted that pressure would be made on Turkey to allow German troops to spread their occupation from Rumania to the Dardanelles in a drive against the British at Suez and, beyond, in the oil-rich near east.

Others said German troops might aid the Italians against Greece through Yugoslavia or Bulgaria or both.

Newspapers indicated that Soviet Russia probably would help put pressure on Turkey to prevent her opposing German plans.

63 Debaters Square Off 13 Colleges Compete In Annual Tourney; Roskam Is Director

The second annual freshman-sophomore college debate tournament is being held on the campus today with 13 mid-western colleges participating.

William Roskam, G of Burbank, Cal., an assistant in debate activities on the campus, is directing the tournament.

Sixty-three students are expected to be present, who will debate the question, "Resolved, that the nations of the western hemisphere should form a permanent union."

There will be four rounds of debate, which will be judged by coaches from the visiting colleges. Wartburg college, Waverly, was last year's tournament champion. William Van Allen, A2 of Mt. Pleasant, representing the University of Iowa, had the highest individual rating.

Time and Place: 1:30 this afternoon, South Bend, Ind.

By OSCAR HARGRAVE Daily Iowan Sports Editor

There will be a different setting, and the tortuous gridiron trail behind them is a different one that led to the 1939 Iowa-Notre-Dame classic, but Iowa and its Hawkeyes move into the Notre Dame stadium at 1:30 this afternoon in a mood that might be productive of an upset.

The Hawkeyes this week have been a team with ambitions and precedent lends credence to their dreams of a victory over unbeaten and untied Notre Dame. Twice in the past, in the only games ever played between the Hawkeyes and the fighting Irish, Iowa has won. Both defeats crumpled Irish hopes for national titles and each time an Irish winning streak ended.

But, like all good things, the Iowa record against the Irish might come to an end, with Notre Dame backers figuring that this is the year to end that Hawkeye supremacy. A year ago, the margin was 7-6 in the favor of the Hawkeyes, with Nile Kinnick, Erwin Prasse and Dick Evans in the starring roles. Without those three, Iowa has suffered reverses this year—meanwhile, the Irish have rolled along without a pause.

But, in their recent defeats, the Hawkeyes have shown possibilities of becoming a dangerous team and one that might easily upset any eleven. Similarly, the Irish have shown weaknesses in recent games and barely squeezed out wins over Army and Navy, neither of which is rated very highly.

Facts against Iowa are just as impressive, perhaps more so. The Irish are rated highly as to personnel, with Capt. Milt Piepul, a possible All-American, at full-

NLRB Officials Resign Posts F. D. R.'s Appointment Of Dr. H. A. Millis Reason for Moves

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Nathan Witt, secretary of the National Labor Relations board and a center of the fierce controversy that has raged around that agency, resigned today after President Roosevelt appointed Dr. Harry A. Millis to succeed J. Warren Madden on the board.

Besides Witt, two other board officials also resigned. They are Thomas I. Emerson, associate general counsel, and Alexander B. Hawes, chief administrative examiner.

Dr. Millis, 67-year-old Chicago economist and labor mediator, is regarded as a member of the same school of thought as William M. Leiserson, a board member who has found much to criticize in the board's administrative procedure.

Leiserson had tried over a year ago to have Secretary Witt discharged, contending that he was unqualified and also questioning his impartiality in labor cases. His proposal to oust Witt was blocked by Chairman Madden and Edwin S. Smith, the other member of the three-man board.

100 Warplanes Intensify Raids Upon London

Nazi Fire Bombs Hit Capital Apartments, Bury Many Civilians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LONDON, Nov. 16 (Saturday)—More than 100 Nazi warplanes dropped explosives and fire bombs on London early today, starting scores of fires, leveling apartment buildings and homes, and burying more civilians following the devastating assault on Coventry Thursday night in which 1,000 were killed or injured.

One whole block of apartments caved in. Casualties were believed heavy.

"This is the worst night yet—at least in numbers," one air raid warden said. "I just counted 80 heavy bombers flying low in formation."

The attack grew more intense near midnight when the raiders found gaps in low-hanging clouds curtaining the city. Several hours later the clouds again obscured the city, but hundreds of fire bombs, explosives and bright flares whistled down.

Most of the fires in central London were extinguished quickly.

At least 18 Nazi planes were shot down during the day and another early last night to make the total bag 19, the British said.

RAF Strikes Back, Attacks Hamburg

BERLIN, Nov. 16 (Saturday) (AP)—Waves of British attacked Hamburg, Germany's great port, during the night but a majority of them were unable to break through German defenses to reach the city proper or its harbors, DNB, German official news agency, reported early today.

This news agency said both anti-aircraft batteries and night-flying German pursuit planes broke up the apparent British effort to carry out a mass raid on the port city.

F. R. Recognizes War, Applies Neutrality To Italy, Greece

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt formally recognized today that a state of war exists between Italy and Greece and extended the provisions of the neutrality act to that conflict.

In proclamations and executive orders by the president and the state department, various provisions of the neutrality act were applied.

There was no change in the present combat zone where American ships are forbidden to enter. Mediterranean waters already were banned.

Mr. Roosevelt had withheld action until today, on the advice of state department officials, pending developments in the hostilities between the two countries.

Japan Activity Alarms China

HONGKONG, Nov. 15 (AP)—Intensive Japanese military preparations which Chinese and other observers believe may signify an imminent "southward push"—possibly against French Indo-China—were reported today from various Chinese centers.

Japanese warships were said to be assembling off Hainan island, across the gulf of Tonkin from Indo-China, for "naval maneuvers" and considerable troop activity was reported in coastal towns along this strategically located island.

Reassertion of Treaty Rights Causes U. S., Spanish Friction

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Friction developed between the American and Spanish governments today as the United States re-asserted its 34-year-old treaty rights in the international zone of Tangier and Madrid announced a probable ban on operations of all American press correspondents in Spain.

The state department announced that representations had been made in Madrid over the recent Spanish seizure of full control at Tangier, the strategic international zone in Morocco which commands the approach to the Strait of Gib-

Iowa Team Upholds Question on Increase Of Federal Power

Iowa may have taken the small end of the score when they met Minnesota on the gridiron this year—but not so on the debate platform. Last night Iowa's representatives defeated the Minnesota debate team in a Western conference meet, the opening event on the annual speech institute here this week end.

Local debaters were Samuel Goldenburg, A2 of Burlington, and Roland Christensen, A4 of Iowa City.

Minnesota's defeated speakers were Richard Krueger and Elliott Rosenfield.

Question for the varsity debate was "Resolved, that the powers of the federal government should be increased." Iowa debated the affirmative side of the question.

Judge of the conference meet was Prof. Andrew Weaver, chairman of the speech department of the University of Wisconsin. Prof. Franklin H. Knower of the speech department here presided.

Four Hunters Die

DETROIT (AP)—Two hunters were shot to death, a third died in camp of a heart attack, and a fourth was killed by an automobile as Michigan opened its deer season yesterday. Thousands of hunters took to the northern woods.

It did not adhere to later conventions adopted by Mediterranean powers which gave Spain certain police rights at Tangier. Spain occupied the zone several months ago and less than two weeks ago seized full control.

Student Government Now; Is There a Case for More?

(Second in a Series)

Visitors from other college campuses come into our offices now and again and ask questions about Iowa, her faculty, her students, activities and so on.

Upon asking what campus group or groups represent the university student body as a whole and being told there is no such organization here, as often as not they raise their eyebrows in surprise and exclaim, in effect, "What! No student government?"

That, we have always maintained, is a distinctly debatable question.

Merits of the Present

Because while Iowa has no central organization of the type now under discussion for this campus, we have a goodly number of self-governing student organizations which, as far as we've been able to determine, have done a pretty fair job of handling their own affairs.

Such organizations are to be found within each organized student living group, in campus social affairs, in publications—everywhere you look.

But Iowa's present "student government" goes beyond that. Look at Iowa's interfraternity council, the Women's Pan-Hellenic association, the Inter-Dormitory council. All such organizations form a second link in a chain of student self-government.

If those organizations, set up to coordinate activities within broad living groups, aren't utilizing their facilities, that's nobody's fault but their own.

A central student council—the last link in the chain—can't hope to eliminate inadequacies which appear farther down in the chain.

The Case for the Council

So the question of whether or not this campus shall have such a central council evolves from another important question:

Assuming that existing organizations are operating efficiently and to the limits of their abilities, are there things to be done which can't be accomplished under the existing set-up, which is, from start to finish, under the finger-tips of students themselves?

We shan't suggest that there aren't such things which may, and should, be done. If they can't be accomplished under the organizational arrangement on the campus now, then there has been exposed a most forceful argument for the proposed central council.

And that argument will receive a hearing from a willing faculty—a faculty which, we suspect, asks only that students know what they want and why they want it. That's fair enough.

Completion of the Plan

It is a mistake to regard the proposed student council as "student government" for the Iowa campus. Iowa has student governing bodies which, even without a central council, put a good many student-government set-ups we've seen here and there in the shade.

But it certainly conceivably could be that a central council—that last link in the chain—is a necessary link. The fact that we've got along without it for a good many years isn't any argument against it.

It should be clear, therefore, that a case must be built for carrying to its logical completion a self-governing arrangement for students here, through the proposed central council—a case of need on the basis of things which should be done and can't be done without such a central body.

That, as we indicated yesterday, is the responsibility of no one but the students themselves. The decision, if there is to be one, is up to them, through representatives of their number who understand the issues and are willing to devote wholeheartedly their energies to the cause.

Passed by the Censor

A woman living in Berlin wrote to her sister in Los Angeles, telling about her comfortable home, the abundance of food, money, work. Hitler, she said, was wonderful and everyone in Germany was happy. As a postscript, she added: "The only place I can think of where I'd rather be is Forest Lawn." To the recipient of the letter that postscript was eloquent—Forest Lawn is a cemetery in Los Angeles.—Your Life Magazine.

Common Sense in Laziness

How often have we been chided, when we seemingly have overloaded our arms with bundles, with this familiar observation: "Lazy man's load?" Do you experience a sheepish feeling at this reprimand, or are you sufficiently acquainted with the advantages of being lazy to pity those who squander their energies?

Rather than retrace steps to get the few remaining bundles, we'll take them all in one trip, saving time and energy—we employ the principal of labor-saving.

And it is just this type of labor-saving from the earliest history which has prompted most of our energy-conserving inventions.

When Laziness Begun

When Early Man got thirsty he had to leave his cave and go to the spring for a drink of water. When he got sufficiently lazy he soon fashioned a rude bucket and in one trip brought home a day's supply.

In later generations it was the lazy man who, rather than carry a pail of water, constructed a trough diverting the water directly from its source to his abode. The problem of avoiding the task of carrying his water up a hill prompted a later achievement of the lazy man—the force pump, which is a direct ancestor to the water tower and reservoir of our own times.

It was through the farmer, to whom, as to all of us, the idea of sitting down has a strong appeal, that seats on farming machinery came into being; and to him who combined his laziness with comfort came the idea of springs for those seats.

Spending Money for Laziness

Granted, many of our labor-saving devices are produced by men who never would have occasion to use them, but the inventive effort is prompted because they know there are many persons who are interested in avoiding effort, and who will buy the machines.

Through the use of pedometers we learned that we walk literally hundreds of miles going up and down stairs, and acting on the principle of money in return for effort saved, the elevator came into being. Similarly, it was the winter-sport enthusiast, who could not tolerate walking up the hill in order that he might slide back down, who came out with the cable-chairs now common to most winter resorts.

We're All Lazy

Nearly every executive is lazy—he has to be. For what is it that constitutes an executive? The ability to cause other people to do for him rather than do for himself! Naturally we can achieve this position in life only through many years of hard work at being lazy.

Lazy mathematicians are those who arrive at most of our important laws and formulae by making mental short cuts in place of lengthy, painstaking methods.

It is in us who are lazy that the fortunes and furtherance of human existence lies! It is time we were realized and our due praises sung!

A Man About MANHATTAN

A Couple of People Who Look Like Oscar Levant

NEW YORK—Leonard Shure is a concert pianist frequently mistaken for Oscar Levant, the musical expert of the Information Please program. Both are swart, black-browed, and talkative.

One night while having dinner at Lindy's a smiling little man with gray chin whiskers walked up to Shure's table and said, "Levant?"

"That's right," said Shure. "I'm glad I ran into you," the man went on, "I want to congratulate you on your new baby."

"Great Scott," cried Shure, lunging to the telephone, "has it happened?"

Later in the evening, in Monte Carlo, close to a million dollars worth of furs and jewels worn by Mrs. George Vanderbilt, Gloria Baker Topping, and Brenda Frazier moved by a table occupied by Actress Doris Dudley, currently being heard as the ingenue lead in "Meet Mr. Meek."

Miss Dudley quickly bent down and peered under the table. "Just in case," she explained, "they dropped $25,000 or other small change."

The time has come, as it must to all who rise from obscurity to any degree of prominence, for Carol Bruce to look trouble squarely in the eye. This column has devoted quite a bit of space from time to time to this young woman who became a toast with the premiere of "Louisiana Purchase."

For her part in the show she is paid probably $125 a week. She promptly was asked to sing in various after-theater supper clubs, including the Waldorf, and for this she earned many times as much as her "Louisiana Purchase" salary.

Now comes her first tussle with old man litigation. Equity says Buddy De Sylva has priority on all her services. Technically, they are right. But her appearance away from the theater in no wise interferes with her part in the show. If she can capitalize on her current popularity it seems unfair to keep her from doing so. This corner has applauded Buddy De Sylva many times. We hope, having won his point, he is gracious enough to withdraw his claims.

The sweetest parody of recent weeks was an election night sketch at Town Hall in which Dorothy Thompson, George M. Cohan, Sam Harris, and Maurice Maeterlinck appeared. It was written by Luther Davis and John Cleveland. Two pals of Ernest Hemingway, whose new novel, "For Whom the Bell Tolls," is the current literary sensation. The name of this sketch was "For Whom the Gallup Polls."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

New Deal, Business Are Still at Odds

WASHINGTON — Under the olive branch, the front row of thinkers in the New Deal foregathered again with the front row of business the other day—but the branch had withered.

It was one of those meetings of the minds arranged by the Savings Bank Journal. Discussions went on for hours in the afternoon and evening. Reporters were barred, so some minor inaccuracies may have developed in the conflicting reports afterward. But it was nevertheless clear that if the minds had met at all, the encounter was more of a clash than a mingling.

Mr. Roosevelt's lieutenants, led by smart spending theorist, Richard Gilbert, adviser of the national defense commission, laid down their ideas which might be considered a congealing economic basis for the third term. It was along lines set forth in this column yesterday—at root a much higher tax system to siphon off savings which would be poured out in government expenditures. Discussed were the prospect of price controls, inflation, bottlenecks, monopolies, and the defense program. It was clear from the viewpoint of the economists that they see the nation entering upon an era of unprecedented necessary spending which will thoroughly alter the economic structure to the point where it will become an experiment in spending along the social lines they have so long advocated.

Whereas everything had been calm in a similar meeting last September when the New Dealers stuck to generalities, this time some of the business men present were obviously upset or suspiciously inquisitive. They saw the theories advanced as leading into a permanent policy of deficit government spending to which there would be no end as long as the treasury could borrow more money.

Afterward a few New Dealers expressed personal doubt as to whether the meeting had been worthwhile or whether more should be held. The business men, obviously shaken up, thought they would like to hear more and that the meetings should be resumed in the future as soon as their blood pressure has been sufficiently lowered to stand the strain.

WHAT "WE SHALL DO"—It is clear that less has been changed by the election than the midnight enthusiasm of the New Dealers had led them to expect. At one point when Mr. Gilbert was explaining that "we" shall do this and so, a business voice from the audience was heard to ask: "Does that 'we' include us 23,000,000 who voted for Willie?"

At another point, Lee Pressman, counsel for the CIO and friend of Lewis even in his hour of present tribulation, indicated pressure for wage increases could be expected if prices were to increase as indicated. A business representative pointed out there had been substantial increase in wages without a corresponding increase in prices during the last seven years. There were other stronger indications that the dove of peace that had been ordered failed to arrive.

BUSINESS VIEW—As the business men were inclined to look at it, the New Dealers just wanted to find economic excuses for using the defense program to carry forward their spending theory. At one point, Mr. Gilbert said the reason the spending program had failed in the past was because a government expenditure of $12,000,000,000 to $16,000,000,000 a year would be required to absorb unemployment. Only $3,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000 of such deficit spending had been tried, he complained.

Business also understood that the New Deal wants it to "expand, expand, expand" and if it fails to expand, the government will find it necessary to consider some methods for requiring expansion. What this meant the B.M.S. did not all seem to know, but apparently it meant the government would build additional plant capacity for such things as steel if such action were found necessary.

CONFUSION CLUB—An unprepared keynote of the gathering was sounded when one of the business delegates arose and asserted after following one of the complicated discussions for hours:

"I am ready to join with the two speakers who have preceded me as charter members of the Confusion club."

Another effort will probably be made in a few weeks.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

How Sherwood Got To Be a Director

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—You ought to meet Robert Carlton Sherwood, 29, a lad with a way about him. It's a half-million-dollar way, so you know it's good.

You won't be amazed at Bob's exploit if you know first about his conquest of the oboe. This may seem irrelevant, but it's intimately tied into his movie career. He "tooted" his way into pictures, in fact, on his oboe.

That was some years ago. Bob had already been itching for years to produce pictures—since he was 11—but the immediate problem was to find a job in music. He wanted to get in the Los Angeles Philharmonic, and he picked on the oboe because oboe-players were scarcer than fiddlers or drummers. He knew music but he didn't know the oboe. So he found himself a nice quiet basement, to spare the family, and practiced, and in no time at all he, and oboe, got a job.

Paramount studio workers had an orchestra and the orchestra yearned for an oboe. The members offered inducements, including a job, if he and his oboe would join. The only movie job that really interested him was producing. Modesty forbade his mentioning that. So he didn't take a job, although he did visit the lot often, his oboe serving as a pass, in order to watch movies being made.

There ensues a time lapse here . . . devoted to restless Bob's acquiring a name in radio with a voice that in early youth had won him a national oratorical contest. He also acted at Pasadena playhouse and produced his first movie on $500 he scraped together. This was a short, a "Chinese fantasy," which Sid Grauman spotted on one of his programs. Somebody at M-G-M saw it and offered Bob a job making "shorts." They told him that if he were a good boy, in 10 or 12 years he might get a chance to produce features. Bob said, "No, thanks." He was in a hurry. So we move to a scene of Bob Sherwood, rapidly aging to about 27, buying a script for Janet Gaynor. Janet liked the story but was retiring to have her baby. Then Bob saw the Charles Bonner novel, "Legacy," before publication and bought it with his radio savings. He thought of Warner Baxter for it although he knew it would be tough getting Baxter, who was sick of pictures and thinking of retiring. But Baxter liked the idea, and so did some others, and so . . .

"I made my first trip to New York to get some money," says Bob Sherwood. "I went into the bank and I told them about the story and I came out with half a million dollars. No, I'm not a good salesman. I let the book sell itself, and I found them interested. It wasn't hard."

"Producing? Well, it's not exactly like I pictured it. There are a lot of financial details to tie you down, and I like creative work better. But nobody will be able to say I'm 'young' when we've finished. I'm getting gray-haired by the hour."

They Picket Papa's Office

The real estate office of Jack Ackerman, Jonesboro, Ark., is the scene of picketing by his five children and former wife, Mrs. Velma Ackerman, who seeks alleged back alimony of $7,500. The picketing took place during a patriotic parade and drew the attention of many townsmen. Left to right, Betty and Bobby, 11-year-old twins; Georgianna, 17; Virginia, 16; Mrs. Ackerman, and Lorraine, 20.

The Movie Guide--

C. GRANT STARS IN STRAND FILM

Shares Honors With Martha Scott in Lloyd's 'The Howards of Virginia'

The man who made "Cavalcade," that epic of Empire, and "Mutiny on the Bounty," that epic story of men against the sea, recently turned his moving cameras to a monumental event in the history of the world—the American Revolution. "The Howards of Virginia," now playing at the Strand theater, is the splendid result, a picture which is not only a page torn out of history, but a stirring, dramatic answer to the problems confronting America today.

She's Martha of the moo-cows now! Paramount's star songstress takes on the title role of "The Farmer's Daughter," the comedy frolic which comes tomorrow to the IOWA theater. Following the adventures of a Broadway theatrical troupe in the barnyard country, the picture features Charlie Ruggles, Richard Denning, William Frawley and Gertrude Michael. James Hogan directed.

'ARISE, MY LOVE' OPENS AT ENGLERT

Claudette Colbert, Ray Milland Take Top Roles in Current Hit

Locking arms and lips, Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland swing out together as a pair of light-hearted battlers in the cause of freedom. Their story, delightfully portrayed, comes to the screen in "Arise, My Love," the Paramount picture which opens today at the Englert theater.

unflatteringly matched in the leading roles, the picture boasts a gallery of splendid dramatic portrayals. Walter Abel is outstanding in the role of the harassed editor who is Claudette's boss. Ann Cordee is magnificent as a French woman.

'RAMPARTS' NOW AT THE VARSITY

Careful reporting of U. S. life during the year of World War I in "The Ramparts We Watch," opening today at the Varsity, impressively shows the similarity between the problems of preparedness facing the country twenty years ago and those which face us now.

THE CO-HIT

"Melody and Moonlight" is the co-hit. Dancing feet and singing hearts are the keynotes of the film, which stars Johnny Downs, Mary Lee, Jane Frazee, Jerry Colonna and "The Kidoodlers."

PASTIME 25c TO 5:30 THEN 30c

TODAY ONLY 'WEST OF PINTO BASIN'

Local Draftees May Escape 1st Quota Call

If Eight Volunteers Win Official Approval, None to Be Drafted

If the eligibility of Johnson county's eight conscription volunteers is approved, county draftees will not be among those called for the first quota, the local selective service board announced yesterday.

As its first quota, Johnson county will send three men to Ft. Des Moines, Nov. 28, officials said. The board began mailing questionnaires Wednesday at the rate of 20 a day.

Questionnaires must be filled out and returned to the office within five days after receipt by the registrant, the board emphasized.

Official word has not yet been received by the board as to whether the local national guard units will be counted as volunteers.

Funeral service will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock for John B. Musser, 65, who died in University hospital Thursday.

Musser is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mrs. E. E. Hale, West Liberty; Mrs. Jack Sherburne, North Liberty; and Mrs. Howard Stock of Lone Tree; seven sons, Harry, Fay, Robert, and Dana, all of Lone Tree; Willis and Donald, both of Walford; and John, Philippine islands, and one brother, J. R. Musser, Lone Tree.

Local Police Arrest Youths For Auto Theft

Two youths, aged 14 and 16, picked up by Iowa City police Thursday near Coralville, driving a stolen car, were returned yesterday to New Hampton to face charges of automobile theft.

The boys allegedly escaped from the Glen Lake, Minn., reformatory. They stole two other automobiles and musical instruments during their journey south.

A total of 3,325,009 cubic yards of concrete were poured for the Grand Coulee dam in the 12 months ending July, 1940.

Dr. A. Woods Tells Masons About Brain

"The brain is always working overtime to keep us pleased with ourselves," said Dr. Andrew H. Woods, director of the university psychopathic hospital, in his talk to the Masonic service men's club yesterday.

The speaker pointed out that the elements of behavior are the same everywhere — men laugh, love, cry and fight the same all over the world.

"Dreams," he explained, "reveal a great deal about the real feelings and yearnings of people. Dr. Woods illustrated this statement with several cases with which he is familiar."

"All of us enact the little dramas that our brains direct us to," he concluded. "It is just as well for us to realize this so that we may live closer to sanity and reality."

Home Sweet Home - - - ?

This Business of Week End Homecomings Not What It's Cracked Up to Be

The transient population on the campus knows about going home for week ends. It is a little gesture towards the home folks that starts as a perfectly sound idea, but usually ends in a hectic sojourn which might well not have happened.

The week finally ends on Friday afternoon. You've got a lot of studying to do over the week end, but you wrote you'd be home, so you grab an arm-full of books and go down to catch the car for Cedar Rapids.

Why aren't connections to Iowa City better? It seems that people are always going to or coming from there. Anyway, at Cedar Rapids you board the bus which is in no hurry—and the rest of the afternoon, you ride. (You'd look at the books, but reading while riding isn't well, you'll look at them before going to bed.)

You get home at night, tired, and hoping there will be something good to eat waiting for you. You're greeted by the folks in between bids in the bridge game that's going on. You should have known the Browns would be there. When AREN'T the Browns there?

"You must be eating a lot at school," observes Mrs. Brown. "Hasn't he grown?" she puts in for good measure. Mr. Brown demands less of your energy. All he expects is an expert's analysis of the football season. And so the evening wears on—until out of a sheer propriety that even the Browns observe they go home.

By that time everyone is worn out. And you did want to talk to Dad about money—he'd understand. But they all go to bed, and you don't get the chance. (You'll look at the books tomorrow.)

On Saturday, you sleep until noon even in the face of the carpet sweeper. You get up and find notes saying everyone has left. Saturday afternoon is a busy time. Besides, things are getting along without you by now.

At night, you go down town and push through the crowds. You see the old friends. "Are you still in town? Didn't you go to school?" they say.

After doing the town, you go home to look at the books. You turn on the radio. Two hundred years from now, what will be the difference if you learn the genus and species of the grasshopper? And it's more comfortable now not to learn them.

Sunday is hectic. You have to be ready to catch the bus at 2 p. m. to go to Cedar Rapids to get the trolley for Iowa City. You still haven't asked Dad about the money—and he might have understood. And you haven't spent much time with the folks.

Well, you can write a letter when you get back on the campus . . .

Chilled Women Object to Sock Opposition

Warmer, Colorful Economical Hose Cause Cry for 'Emancipation'

Just a few of the women on the Iowa campus who are ruggedly determined to remain comfortable and independent in their dress, despite criticism, are Mar-

advocates of the new knee-high style in socks. Midwestern university women only this year are taking up the tradition which eastern college women found "tops" years ago.

Down with the ban on knee-high socks! Louder and more exuberant is the cry of women on the Iowa campus who have been booed, hissed and black-mailed out of their warm knee-highs by "influential disapproving elements."

Stolen from the Swiss mountain climbers, (who knew how to keep legs from freezing) the rage of three-quarter length woolen stockings took eastern campuses by storm. At Vassar, Wellesly and Bryn Mawr, college women looked for comfort as well as fashion, and when old man winter let down his hair they merely pulled on their knee-highs and grinned in his face.

The years passed. Knee-high socks came to Iowa. And what happened? They were tabooed, to be worn only by the braver members of the sex who knew what they wanted—comfort and warmth as well as fashion.

Other members of the same sex have fought for the rights of pixie glasses, striped shirts, peasant scarves, rubber boots, ear muffs, ski pants and leather boxing gloves. And still others are holding out for the establishment of the three-quarter (you-wore-them-at-12) stocking for the following reasons: (1) warmth, (2) fewer chapped legs, (3) economy, (4) added color, and (5) rugged determination to protect the woman's independence.

They would make nice Christmas presents, too!

A. P. O. Elects Russell Jones

Williamsburg Senior Heads Service Club In Annual Election

Russell Jones, C4 of Williamsburg, has been elected president of the local chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. Jones held the office of vice-president in the organization during the past year.

Other officers elected are John Stull, A3 of Corwith, vice-president; Roy Herrmann, P2 of Middle Amana, secretary, and Kenneth Kool, A2 of Iowa City, treasurer.

Retiring officers are Hugh Ellsworth, C4 of Adel, president, and Lewis Lapham, A3 of Charles City, treasurer.

Herrmann, new secretary, also served in that capacity last year.

The election was held Thursday evening in Alpha Phi Omega's remodeled chapter room on the second floor of the theater annex.

A telephone has recently been installed there to enable students and faculty members to contact Alpha Phi Omega if events or situations arise requiring the services of the fraternity.

Alpha Phi Omega, being a service fraternity, offers its services to campus groups or individuals who desire help concerning campus programs and improvements, student help and information.

The telephone number, not listed in the directory, is ext. 8621.

Initial plans were discussed by the local chapter for a program Dec. 15 in connection with the 15th anniversary of Alpha Phi Omega as a national fraternity. All other chapters throughout the nation will observe the day.

Plans were also outlined for Christmas activities, part of which will include the erection of a large Christmas tree on the campus east of Old Capitol. Last year the organization sponsored a Christmas sing in Iowa Union before students left for the holidays.

Cellist Featured On Union Hour

"Concerto in B Flat Major" by Boccherini will be featured on the special program in the music room of Iowa Union from 1 to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Pablo Casals will play his violoncello with the London symphony orchestra conducted by Sir London Ronald.

Sir Thomas Beecham will conduct the London Philharmonic orchestra in Beethoven's "Symphony No. 2, in D Major, Opus 36."

Snow bound Gophers Tackle Purdue Today

Bierman Fears Tricky Attack Of Indianans

Minnesota May Clinch Big Ten Pennant; Weather Clears Up

By TED PETERSON
MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—It's very good Santa Claus weather in these parts, and Coach Bernie Bierman is hoping that old gent will drop a victory over Purdue into his stocking.

This week's early snow storm, which covered the playing field with a foot of snow, sent Bierman and his Minnesota football team into the field house.

Bierman has been preaching a sermon of fight and more fight to his players in an effort to offset any let down after the 7 to 6 victory over Michigan in a rain storm last Saturday. They just weren't enough snow shoes available for the team to get any out-of-doors work.

May Clinch Title
Minnesota is in a position to clinch at least a share of the Western conference title in the game and possibly gain the title outright if Michigan defeats Northwestern.

A small army of workers finally lifted the snow blanket in Memorial stadium to find the turf had not frozen during the storm. It was covered with a tarpaulin immediately after the game Saturday.

Weather Conditions Good
With rising temperatures into the middle thirties — predicted weather conditions may be fairly good.

Purdue's Boilermakers invade Minnesota with a trick attack led by Mike Byelene, who was one of the principal reasons the Indians gained a 13 to 13 tie a year ago. Minnesota again will rely on a powerful running attack led by George Franck, Bruce Smith, and Bob Sweigert, and a 200-pound average line.

Game time is 2 p.m. CST. The probable starting lineups:

Purdue	pos.	Minnesota
Rankin	LE	Fitch
Neff	LT	Widung
Miller	LG	Kuusisto
Axton	C	Bjorklund
Melton	RG	Paschka
Timperman	RT	Odson
Combs	RE	Johnson
Smerke	QB	Paffrath
Carter	LB	Smith
Anderson	RB	Franck
Petty	FB	Sweigert

Officials: referee, Laverne Dilwig, Marquette; umpire, W. D. Knight, Dartmouth; field judge, Rollo Barnum, Wisconsin; headlinesman, Perry Graves, Illinois.

Press box Pickups

BY OSCAR HARGRAVE

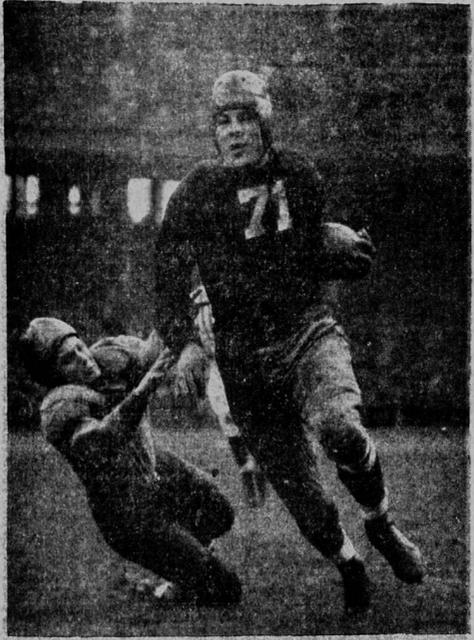

(Again this week Gene Clausen of The Associated Press is pinch-hitting for your regular columnist, Oscar Hargrave, who is in South Bend, Ind., to report the Iowa-Notre Dame game today.)

That unvarnished record Iowa holds over Notre Dame looks a little shaky today. . . The experts don't give Iowa much chance to win but take it from this corner that those Hawks will give the Laydenmen one of their toughest games of the season. . . Spirit and enthusiasm reached an all-time high for the season at the drill we watched Thursday afternoon in the fieldhouse. . . These boys are out to pull an upset, so don't say we didn't warn you if the scoreboard reads in our favor.

This is a unique contest in many respects. . . In the first place, Iowa is the only team that Notre Dame has never defeated on the gridiron. . . On two previous occasions — in 1921 and just last year — the Hawks have come up with victories that broke 20- and 6-game winning streaks. . . And also there's the coaching angle. . . Both Elmer Layden and Dr. Eddie Anderson, as most of you already know, are Notre Dame products. . . And it is also the first time Iowa has invaded South Bend.

That Northwestern-Michigan game is as hard to pick as they come. . . Tom Harmon isn't in top-notch shape due to a leg injury and tackle Ed Wistert's condition isn't up to par. . . And Bill deCorveant may not last

Lead Irish Attack Against Iowa Today

MILT PIEPUL

BOB SAGGAU
left-footed kicker, heads the aerial game of the undefeated Irish. His favorite receiver is Walt Juzwik, the leading Shamrock scorer and ground-gainer to date. The Ramin' Redhead is one of the best passers and kickers in the country. As a sophomore his chief fame or tied. Nor has either one been tested since early in the season.

Gophers, Stanford, Texas Ags on Spot

For Michigan and Northwestern there will be a two-fold stake. With 85,000 watching from the Ann Arbor stands these two, each beaten only by a Minnesota extra-point, will fight it out for runner-up spot in the Western conference and a chance to tie the Gophers for the lead if by any chance they should slip.

To get down to cases, here's how they look from this corner (home teams first, probable attendance in parentheses):

- Boston College-Georgetown (39,500)—The lines look about even. Taking Boston college on backfield versatility.
- Michigan-Northwestern (85,000)—This vote for Northwestern also is based on the backfields—the fact that the Wildcats, to match Michigan's Harmon, can call DeCorveant, Clawson, Hahnenstein, Soper and Chambers, all of them better than average.
- Stanford-Oregon State (40,000)

Next-to-last step into the Rose Bowl for Stanford.

- Rice-Texas A. and M. (27,000)—Too much experience, power and poise on the Aggie's side.
- Dartmouth-Cornell (12,000)—The same applies to Cornell, only more so.
- Tennessee-Virginia (12,000)—Tennessee all the way.
- Minnesota-Purdue (30,000)—Minnesota.
- Princeton-Yale (50,000)—Princeton make it three straight over the Elis.
- Notre Dame-Iowa (50,000)—One back as good as Bill Green doesn't look like enough to halt the Irish.
- California-Oregon (35,000)—California in a close one.
- U. C. L. A.-Washington State (35,000)—State.
- Elsewhere: Brown over Harvard, Kentucky over West Virginia, George Washington over Kansas, unbeaten Penn State over New York U., Michigan State over Marquette, Kansas State over Iowa State.

DODGER HARTNETT MacPhail Wants Ex-Cub For Coach

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Add the Brooklyn Dodgers to the list of clubs where Charles-Lee (Gabby) Hartnett might find employment now that he has been deposed as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

Larry MacPhail, president of the Dodgers, says he has the highest regard for Hartnett both as a player and as a teacher of players.

"There might be room for him with our club as a coach," MacPhail said, "but that's up to (Manager Leo) Durocher. I would be glad to get him, for my part."

First the Dodgers go on a buying spree, then the Indians get a new manager, and finally the Cubs go out looking for one . . . Tough luck Gabby, you're just not cut out for a manager's uniform I guess but we hope to continue seeing you in the business.

Syracuse's Joe Coffin Always Places; Unusual Thing Is, He Runs Barefoot!

SYRACUSE, N. Y., (AP)—"Shoelless" Joe Coffin's naked, horny-soled feet which have paddled unshamed to scoring position in every college cross-country race he has run for two years, await the gun starting Monday's ICA championships in New York City.

Coach Tom Keane, the shoeless one's mentor at Syracuse university, has abandoned efforts to confine Joe's tootsies to regulation spiked footwear.

"I just can't run with shoes on," Joe explains. "Coach Keane made me wear them once. By golly, I ran my worst race."

Coffin, a sophomore, has been indifferent toward the advantages six veterans and five sophomores today in the best combination he has been able to find to date.

Against the famed Irish backfield, Anderson will start an offensive quartet that lacks but one thing, power, with even that liable to be supplied on a part-time basis by Ray Murphy, the rangy fullback who is just coming back after a shoulder injury. Jim Youel will draw the starting assignment at left halfback, with Tom Farmer as an alternate. Both can do a good job of punting, both may be ready for big days in the aerial game and both have been improving as ball carriers.

Making up the rest of the first string will be the "Backfield Bills" of the Iowa team—Stauss, Gallagher and Green. Stauss, who turned in a good job at Nebraska a week ago, will take the field as the Iowa quarterback, ahead of the veterans Al Coupee and Gerald Ankeny, while Gallagher and Green will man the right halfback and fullback posts. Performing in place of the ailing Ows Gilleard, Gallagher may alternate with Bus Mertes, the slippery sophomore. Gilleard probably will see very little ac-

An Electric Eye Does Everything

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—When you drive your car through New York's new $58,000,000 tunnel, there's an "electric-eye" that will do almost everything but change your oil.

The two-tube, PWA-financed tunnel from midtown Manhattan, under the East River to Queens, was formally opened to traffic today.

Should a truck more than twelve-and-a-half feet high approach either entrance, an "electric-eye" sounds a warning signal and a guard informs the truck driver he'll have to take another route because his truck is too high.

Michigan, Northwestern Meet for 'Hot' Battle

Cold, Cloudy Weather Hits 2 Contenders

Both Have Chance For Big Ten Title; Harmon Closes Stand

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 15 (AP)—Cold and cloudy weather but a fast field, were predicted tonight for the football battle between Michigan and Northwestern, a struggle promising to be as hot as any Big Ten fight this season.

It's the last game at home in the career of touchdown Tom Harmon, the Wolverine ace for three seasons, and against him and his tough line the Wildcats will pit their own brigade of backs and a powerful forward wall.

Fans are so excited about it that favorable weather probably will bring out a capacity crowd of about 85,753.

Each team has an outside chance for the Big Ten title, depending on what Minnesota, conqueror of both, does in its remaining games.

The probable lineups:

Northwestern Pos. Michigan Smith . . . LE . . . Rogers
Batum . . . LT . . . Wistart

Low Punching Lets Zivic Win From Al Davis

LOW PUNCHING
NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Fritz Zivic, recently crowned world welterweight champion from Pittsburgh, was awarded a victory over Al (Bummy) Davis of Brooklyn tonight in Madison Square Garden when the referee disqualified the Brooklynite for low punching in the second round. Each fighter weighed 147½.

Before a screaming near-sellout crowd, Davis, who has been a highly unpopular fighter, at best, in local rings, swung half a dozen low blows at the Pittsburgher, and for each punch was warned by Referee Billy Cavanaugh.

When he persisted in continuing these punches, the referee ended the bout in 2 minutes, 34 seconds of the second round.

When Cavanaugh pulled them apart and stopped the fight, Davis tore from the referee's grasp, dashed at Zivic, and the fight broke out again. Davis was seen to swing his left foot in the melee, and Cavanaugh said, "he kicked me."

The fighting continued until police and Zivic's handlers climbed into the ring to pull the boxing champion and his rival apart to the tune of boos from the crowd.

Farley Visits Judge Landis

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP)—James A. Farley, former postmaster general who heads a syndicate which plans to purchase the New York Yankees baseball club, visited Chicago today and conferred with Commissioner of Baseball Kenesaw M. Landis.

Farley came here from Kansas City and it was understood the trip is one of the final steps in raising the $1,500,000 down payment necessary to complete the transaction.
