MORE KILLED IN RUMANIAN PURGE

Thanks Giving—And Homeward Bound

Students of the University of Iowa went home for Thanksgiving in many different ways, with Dean Newman, Al of Martelle, left and Richard Berry, Al of Waterloo, right above, using the popular hitchhiking method. As many of the university students are unable to go home, most university institutions and campus groups are providing special Thanksgiving dinners. All students will be back for classes tomorrow morning.

Italian Naval Forces Attacked Near Sicily, British Announce

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The British Mediterranean fleet attacked a big Italian force at "extreme range" somewhere in the vicinity of Sicily today, the admiralty announced here, and the fascists were declared to have fled for their base under pursuit. In the RAF's offensive, British bombers were said officially to have sunk a 7,600-ton German tanker this afternoon off the Friar islands—which lie in the North sea off the German and Holland coasts—and to have "successfully attacked" a second fuel carrier.

Empire War Efforts Take Wide Offensive In Scattered Actions

The air ministry said the planes used aerial torpedoes, diving to within a few feet of the sea before releasing them. This mode of attack was similar to that which the British said they used effectively on the Italian fleet in the naval base of Taran- to, southern Italy, Nov. 11.

Greeks Report Italians in Flight

Claim Relief Troops Fail To Halt March
British Aviation Raids Port of Valona; Report Big Ship Hit

ATHENS, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Italian's stubborn resistance on the southern sector of the Albanian front with the aid of reinforcements of fresh troops and planes sent from Italy was declared tonight in military dispatches to have been broken after fierce fighting.

The Greeks, said a government spokesman, thus were "advancing in a quite satisfactory manner, mopping up the terrain."

Before the town of Pogradetz, Albania, which lies some 20 miles to the north of the strategic and captured Albanian base of Koritza, the Greeks crushed a "systematically fortified" opposition, he added.

Further Greek advances were claimed generally in the northern and central sectors.

A British royal air force communiqué said "highly successful raids" had been made yesterday on the Albanian port of Valona, on the Adriatic and opposite the port of Otranto, from which Italian troops and supplies presumably had been sent.

The communiqué said bombs hit a big ship which appeared to be sinking as the planes retired, and that damage was also inflicted on quays, the dock area and airport buildings, despite heavy anti-aircraft fire and the presence of fascist fighting planes.

(An Italian high command communiqué said "enemy aircraft bombed Valona without causing casualties or damage.")

The Greek high command limited its communiqué to the statement that Greek troops "continue with success in Albanian territory" and listed six abandoned Italian planes as part of the material seized in the Koritza area. A government spokesman, more communicative, declared that Italian reinforcements had failed to brace the Italians' sagging line of battle and that the fresh troops themselves were giving ground.

The indictments, returned before U. S. District Judge Arthur F. Lederle, leveled a double-barreled accusation at McKay, a former state treasurer.

The grand jury charged, McKay and his associates, including 11 of the defendants, capitalized upon his political prestige in order to "shake down" distillers hoping to do business with the state liquor monopoly. The shake-down, said the jury, amounted to more than $500,000.

The cabinet officer's announcement of plans for beginning the development of the bases followed closely upon word that agreement with British authorities on the sites for development, had been reached in all cases except one—Trinidad. Approval in that case is only a formality. The base sites, stretching from Newfoundland to the South American mainland, were acquired from Great Britain in exchange for a flotilla of 50 American destroyers.

Proposals Postponement
While the secretary was making these announcements at a press conference, the senate foreign relations committee postponed the consideration of all important legislative proposals—including modification of the Johnson act and an investigation of British financial resources here—until the regular session beginning January.

Senator George (D-Ga.), the new chairman of the committee, told reporters that he supported the administration's policy regarding material assistance to Great Britain, said there was no doubt proposals for additional help would be raised in the next congress, and added that the extent of the assistance should be determined by technical experts. He favored the investigation of British financial resources, proposed originally by Senator Nye (R-ND).

Sixteen States to Give Thanks Today, But Unlucky Draftees Miss Turkeys

(By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
It's Thanksgiving today in 16 states which disregarded the letter but not the spirit of President Roosevelt's proclamation—that "we give thanks for our preservation" from the "calamity and sorrow" which has befallen others.

The principal celebration will be at Plymouth, Mass., where a re-enactment of the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving will be presented. The traditional last-Thursday-in-November will be observed in all six of the New England states and the weather bureau promised an old-fashioned snow storm to go with it.

The other states having Thanksgiving today, instead of last Thursday as the president proclaimed, are Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and Nevada.

Men called into the army under the selective service program appeared to be the principal sufferers from the dual Thanksgiving situation (after the turkeys). Draftees from Pennsylvania and Kansas, for whom last Thursday was just a turkey-less weekday at home, will find themselves encamped today in adjoining states where the celebration is all over.

Government offices in Washington and the markets in Wall Street will be open as usual but the "second Thanksgiving" will see a number of football games, including three in states where it's just plain Thursday.

$50,000,000 Allotted to Supply, Equip Acquired Defense Bases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—A $50,000,000 allotment to provide oil and other storage facilities and ship and plane anchorages at the defense bases recently acquired from Great Britain was announced today by Secretary Knox.

At the same time, he disclosed that an additional 31,908 naval and marine reserves might be called to active duty at any moment and had been so advised. He said in addition that reserves from New York and New Jersey had been called to service with destroyers operating in the Panama canal area.

The cabinet officer's announcement of plans for beginning the development of the bases followed closely upon word that agreement with British authorities on the sites for development, had been reached in all cases except one—Trinidad. Approval in that case is only a formality. The base sites, stretching from Newfoundland to the South American mainland, were acquired from Great Britain in exchange for a flotilla of 50 American destroyers.

English Hope To Make U. S. Into 'Arsenal'

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP)—In answer to the sharpest parliamentary criticism of the government since Winston Churchill came to power, a member of the war cabinet acknowledged today that home production was "not enough" and declared he had made to the United States "a clean breast" of Britain's troubles.

He said plainly that Britain's hope lay in making a "second arsenal" of the United States and North America generally.

Facing in the house of commons impatient critics who complained of governmental shortcomings in fields ranging from employment policies to high strategy, minister without portfolio Arthur Greenwood thus summed up the position:

"I do not minimize our difficulties, but I do not think the picture is altogether gloomy, although the situation is not one which we relish."

"It is true, as the prime minister said recently, that we are far from being fully armed and, so long as that remains the case, there will be increasing calls for further effort."

But, he went on: "We are cooperating now with the United States in order that our joint needs shall be met with the least possible delay and in order to insure that we shall get that high priority that we undoubtedly need."

"I have made a clean breast of our difficulties to them in order that they could profit by our experience and that, I believe, they are doing."

"I think that before very long, if the cordial relations between this country and the United States continue—and I imagine they will become increasingly cordial—North America will be a second arsenal from which we can obtain increasing supplies to supplement and make good any of our deficiencies."

To all this, former war minister Leslie Hore-Belisha turned in dissatisfied comment.

Nazi Agency Says Additional Leaders Shot

Vice-Premier Asserts Those Guilty of Act Will Be Punished

BERLIN, Nov. 27 (AP)—The official German news agency DNB reported from Bucharest tonight that a number of additional former political leaders had been shot during the day in Rumania in addition to 64 already known to have been slain.

Among these latest victims of the purge, the dispatch added, was a former secretary general of the national peasant party named Magdeanu. Several political opponents of the iron guard, including former Premiers Ghergu, Tarescu and Ion Cigurtu, were arrested last night but released this afternoon, DNB said.

All were declared to have gone to the ministry of interior and there submitted to "voluntary protective confinement."

DNB reported that their arrest was explained as a protective measure in view of the excitement among the iron guardists. The agency said that Rumania's premier, Ion Antonescu, and Iron Guard Chief Horia Sima had promised severe punishment for those responsible for the execution of the political prisoners.

Antonescu was quoted as asserting that a group of iron guardists who were exhuming the body of Corneliu Codreanu, their leader who was executed under the Carol regime, had broken into the prison, and seized and executed the present political prisoners "whom they believed responsible" for Codreanu's death.

Issues Message
Sima, who is vice-premier in the present iron guardist regime, was reported to have issued a message to his followers saying: "Only one law must be supreme—the god of the fatherland—and all must bow to that law. Those guilty of this outrage must be punished and legionnaires must obey the law with order and discipline."

All those executed were friends of the regime of King Carol and had been in jail awaiting trial since the iron guard seized power in September, forced Carol to abdicate and turned Rumania to an alignment with Germany.

Those reported executed included former premier General Argeseanu, General Gabriel Marinescu, former minister of security; General Morozou, former chief of the military intelligence, who was credited with building up the elaborate espionage service of King Carol; Radu Pascu, former president of the supreme court and the former gendarme commander, General Bengliu.

The vengeful tone of the executions is found in Bengliu's death. He and 14 gendarmes were accused of garroting Codreanu and his 13 followers in their cells at Jilava in 1938.

Former premiers Ion Gigurtu and Constantine Argetoianu were among those reported arrested.

It was not known whether the executions and arrests had Antonescu's approval but they followed shortly his return from Berlin where he signed the axis pact for Rumania.

The arrest of Gigurtu occasioned some surprise since he, as the last premier under Carol, sought to appease iron guard demands for an alignment with Germany.

General Ilasievici, the last chief of Carol's military council, also was said to be under arrest.

Codreanu and his followers were killed during their imprisonment on charges of treason growing out of the assassinations of Premier Ion B. Duca, in 1933, and Mihail Stulescu, an iron guardist, accused of betraying the movement in 1936.

Symphony Orchestra in Artistic Triumph

By STAFF WRITER
Burlington has in store for itself a real treat when the University of Iowa symphony orchestra repeats last night's program for them Dec. 1.

The importance of the occasion can hardly be overestimated, for Burlington will be introduced to a group of musicians who are as responsive and persuasive in their playing as some of the best.

If the orchestra acquits themselves in Burlington as well as they did here, an artistic triumph will have been achieved by the university worthy of only the highest honor; it should be as great a week end achievement as has ever been accomplished by any group bearing the University of Iowa flag.

Sibelius
It is said that Sibelius was thinking of his native Finland throughout the second symphony. From the opening whispers of the strings which expand and subside and introduce a rustic tune song by the woodwinds, on through the longing of the second movement, followed by the rush of the third movement, which is broken momentarily by the peaceful voice of the oboe, the symphony reaches the final movement.

The entire orchestra joins into a stirring "song of the homeland," with Sibelius taking the lead. At one time people were led to believe that Sibelius was austere and sounded like a blast from the cold winds; approaches to listening to his music were even written by well-meaning friends.

The music as played last night, however, needed no explaining—it was there, and was poetically and forcefully presented by the orchestra. There seemed to be no doubt in the minds of the members of the orchestra as to the task before them. Occasionally, to be sure, one might have desired a little more of this or that from the orchestra, and some sec-ons were in a few respects superior to others, but to dwell on such would have no particular point.

Understanding
The thing most important and singularly remarkable about the performance was the understanding with which the work was played. Artistic cooperation of all sections was in evidence. All accompanying parts and supporting melodies were fused into a beautiful architectural structure. The Sibelius is no orchestral "showpiece," although solo passages for nearly all members of the orchestra are prominent. Demands of the work are such that every player and section must be alert and aware as to the relative importance of his part at all times and play it that way.

Balance
It was this balance of ensemble—not forgetting the work in hand—that made last night's work so telling in effect, and it is the entire "completeness" of presentation that distinguishes routine and ordinary performances from inspired and musical performances. The Saint-Saens' "Carnival" found both the orchestra and audience eager for the fun it contained. At that, most of the humor and then some, was there. All the solo parts were nicely done, especially Prof. Hans Koelbel's playing of "The Swan."

The next performance of this work should find the musicians less tense and self-conscious—the pianists especially should lose their dignity and "swing" into the occasion.

Less humorous but equally gay and sunny the Tchaikovsky set of variations fittingly concluded the concert. This work is as brilliant a piece of orchestration as Tchaikovsky ever conceived. Spectacular, romantic, serious, melancholy, light-hearted, and vigorous, this impressive composition was bravely and nobly done.

Here-- AND NOWHERE ELSE

Thanksgiving at the University

Today is Thanksgiving. A couple of million words will be written in today's newspapers which will cover pretty completely what we have to be thankful for.

But not many of them will deal with the University of Iowa, to bring their sermon home to us.

Well, what have we to be thankful for? A good many things, probably, all of which will be largely obscured by the broad and flowing terms which today will be used to describe America's freedom—the theme of this Thanksgiving.

The Little Things

They're not broad concepts we're thankful for today. They're the little things characteristic of us alone, to be cherished by us alone.

What does freedom mean to us—the university?

Well, here, and nowhere else in the world, we can evaluate the events of our own lives, and we may cut a class if the value of staying away is greater than the value of going. The loss or gain will be ours alone, bred of our own decision.

Here, and nowhere else, we may gaze at the friendly old columns of Old Capitol, and be free to classify what we feel as pleasant emotion or stupid sentimentality, because no shackles determine what we shall think.

Our System, Like America's

Here, and nowhere else, we can sit late hours over coffee cups in a restaurant and discuss our own faculty and administration, disagree with their policies, and condemn them individually or collectively, and neither student revolution nor faculty condemnation will come of it. Our little system, like America's, thrives upon criticism.

These freedoms are ours alone, because here we are the people—here, and nowhere else.

At Rest With His Soul, Though He Be a Dollar Poorer

Each Christmas season, probably as far back as we can remember, the American Red Cross has staged an annual campaign for the purpose of securing funds for the fight against tuberculosis.

This week 6,000 Iowa City families are receiving packets of Christmas seals, seals which are representative of a beautiful deed far more noteworthy than the native beauty of the picture on the little stamp.

Christmas seals seem to be representative of a natural and humane action. When our neighbor is in need, we hasten to help. We help, generally, because we feel sorry for our neighbor.

A Philosophy of Life

But in the case of the American Red Cross we support a principle and a philosophy of life; we contribute to a fund which, for all we know, may in six months have to be expanded to put clothes upon our backs, food in our stomachs and roofs above our heads.

Catastrophe is no respecter of persons. The exploits of the American Red Cross, however heralded, can never be set down in a column of type. What the organization has done to alleviate suffering is a vivid story of a service and devotion to a cause which will live until the ends of time in the hearts of the peoples whom it has helped.

So we give cheerfully our mite, even as the poor widow in the Biblical story, toward a cause which is strong, upright, Christian and human.

Where Lie's a Man's Reward?

A man's reward is never manifest in the books which are written in his honor; his praise is never manifest in what his obituary says of him. His reward, if he merits one, lives forever in the hearts and the respect of the people whom he loved and who loved him—not for what he was, perhaps, but certainly for what he did.

So at this season of the year it is imperative that we recognize the quiet and unheralded work of the Red Cross by giving cheerfully what we can afford to help its cause.

Remember, the reward is not the sticker on the parlor window. The reward is in the heart of the poor soul whose miserableness is lessened by our dollar or two. It is a far greater thing to be at rest with one's soul and be a dollar poorer than to live close by the suffering of one's neighbor and be a dollar richer.

That Victory Celebration Raises a Question for Students (First in a Series of Three)

More than a week has passed since the Hawkeye grid team proved that the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame could be beaten—three times in a row—regardless of a sparkling reputation and sterling ability.

Iowa's student body has had more than a week in which to cool off from the effects of the memorable event.

Now we can view the student celebration of the Monday following the game pretty safely and pretty objectively. By doing that we can lay groundwork for the achievement of something without which a victory over Notre Dame, or Minnesota, or any school, is not complete. And that is the demonstration by Iowa students of the same qualities of integrity and fairness which enabled Iowa's Hawks to beat the Irish in a hard, clean fight—the only kind of an upset worth acknowledging.

Celebrations, By All Means

Celebrations are a fine thing! They demonstrate the spirit of an institution. They translate commendable and irrepressible feelings into action. They let the coaches, the team and the world know that the celebrants are proud of a significant victory, in this case over an institution whose unquestioned integrity and ability on the gridiron places it with those at the very top of the list of great American universities.

Iowa expects honesty and integrity from her representatives on the gridiron. She has a right to expect the same qualities from her student body, although they obviously, but just as surely, will be manifest in other ways.

Something Missing Last Week

And Iowa didn't get them in the student celebration after Notre Dame. All of us will agree to that, because all of us know it.

Iowa has not achieved all-round greatness until that situation is remedied. The faults lie with the student body and by the student body they must be remedied.

When that is done, then those subsequent victories over the teams we most want to beat, which should be the most meaningful victories to loyal followers of Old Gold, will be what they should be—something to be cherished always because they're victories in toto, not just victories for the football team.

A Man About MANHATTAN

Mr. Tucker Presents a Sports Parade of Manhattan Island

NEW YORK—Manhattan sports parade—a typewriter snapshot of the big shots as they come and go. . . . The streets crawl with them, like ants.

Ed Barrow, boss of the NY Yankees. . . . Nothing can interfere with his daily shave. Every day just before lunch his favorite barber reports to his office, and everything else can wait.

Eddie Brannick, secretary of the NY Giants. . . . He would wear a dunce cap and sit in Macy's window if that would help the Giants win. . . . A host par-excellence, but won't touch anything stronger than sarsaparilla.

The two most restless men in town—Jack Dempsey and Mike Jacobs, the latter forever moving in halftone through the maze of offices in his Twentieth Century sports palace. . . . Dempsey moves about with quick, mincing steps. . . . They used to call Jacobs "Banana Mike" in the old days. . . . It was a name he always resented.

As for Dempsey, he may wander into politics. . . . His handling of the role of mediator recently in a labor strike was hailed by both sides as shrewd and just. . . . During the campaign he took the stump for FDR.

Lou Little, Beau Brummel of football coaches. . . . He's virtually undressed without a white handkerchief in his upper coat pocket and a flower in his lapel.

Two other coaches, Jim Crowley and Mal Stevens, are among the town's best after-dinner speakers. . . . Crowley, a little heavy now—or maybe it's just muscle—has won success at Fordham. . . . He used to be one of Knute Rockne's Four Horsemen. . . . He is something like "Rock" in his speeches. . . . Jim always is listened to attentively at the Monday coaches' luncheon. . . .

Gene Tunney about town. . . . Here's a Greenwich Village boy with a Harvard accent. . . . an undefeated retired heavyweight champion. . . . a fellow who came up the hard way. . . . smart, aggressive, very, very human. . . . And yet he is somehow lacking in the homely qualities that make Dempsey beloved. . . . They like Tunney and respect him. . . . But the kids in the street never tag his sleeve. . . . Somehow, it is hard to imagine Tunney saying, "Come on in, boys. Take off your shoes and make yourself at home."

Larry MacPhail, boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers. . . . Something of a modern, suave, explosive Barnum. . . . He is well hated and well liked. . . . That is a good sign of a strong personality. . . . He would put brassieres on the Dodgers if that would win baseball games. . . . He has a big, earthy grin, this wide.

Joe Dey, golf secretary. . . . Lanky and boyish, and a perennial sophomoric for enthusiasm. Ray Benson of Ducks Unlimited, who commutes from New Haven every day, including Saturday. . . . Jimmy Bronson, still the Dapper Dan among fight managers. His bow tie is his trade mark. . . . And here's another dapper figure: alert, smart Jack Kearns. . . . Dempsey was his master-piece. . . . Mickey Walker was his watch fob charm—the "Toy Bulldog." You see him around, too, swarthy, quick, grinning. . . .

The Inter-American Economic Conference

WASHINGTON — Diplomatic Mr. Sumner Welles opened the inter-American ship rate conference here with the pleasant observation that it set a precedent for "gathering together responsible, experienced and expert representatives" of this hemisphere.

The gathering may have been responsible and experienced in diplomatic lines, but Mr. Welles seemed to swallow hard on that word "expert." From the press rows below the rostrum a majority of the delegations seemed composed entirely of ambassadors, consular officials and even naval attaches who could hardly be expected to talk the same language as the shipping rate technicians furnished by the United States and a few other countries, notably Brazil and Mexico. The official list gave the embassies in Washington and the consular offices in New York as addressees of perhaps three-fourths of the delegates.

This point was once considered so important by the sponsors of the conference that its originally scheduled meeting was postponed in order that a more expert group could be assembled to handle the difficult technical problem at hand.

To officials of this government, it must have been symptomatic of the difficulties encountered everywhere in more than a year of effort to work out hemisphere solidarity—an effort still unproductive of an outstanding success.

SURPLUS PROBLEM—

Inability of President Warren Lee Pierson of the Export-Import bank to work out an arrangement with Argentina has produced other symptoms, smoothed over by diplomatic politeness. Mr. Pierson went to Buenos Aires to finance trade, but returned with all his money and an added problem. As the Argentines see it, loans will not do them much good. Their problem is a surplus of beef, wheat and wool accentuated by their loss of European markets due to the war. What they need from the United States is a market for these goods, and a market cannot be furnished them without arousing the American farmers, who also have surpluses.

Latest turn of six months negotiations is swerving toward a $100,000,000 loan nevertheless, one which will not solve the predicament.

Envoy to France

Following General John J. Pershing's rejection of the post, Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, former chief of naval operations and now governor of Puerto Rico, was named by President Roosevelt as ambassador to France, succeeding William C. Bullitt.

SLOW PROGRESS—

Behind the pleasant activities of the inter American development commission lie the same unsatisfactory experience. Only two commission plans are anywhere near bringing results, one for a tapioca factory in Brazil, and the second for retail buying cooperation. The second phase is being handled privately by a group of retail buyers in New York City who are surveying Latin American products suitable for sale in the United States.

Even at the commission headquarters here, it will be admitted progress has been slow. The blame is passed conveniently upon Edward J. Noble, the former chair-

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

The Girl Who Hasn't Forgotten

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — It's good to find a girl who hasn't forgotten. She's Doris Davenport — the extra who made good. You probably saw her opposite Gary Cooper in "The Westerner." If you live in Dallas or Fort Worth, Tex., you may have seen her at premieres there, taking bows and handing out autographs and being treated like an established celebrity. If you live in Hollywood, you have seen girls lose their heads over getting half the attention she's had.

And yet today, if you want to ask her about extras in general—and their acting ability.

"It makes me wild," she says, "to see the studios going everywhere to look for talent—except right here at home. I know a lot of extras who can act, a lot of girls who are as pretty and capable as 85 per cent of those they bring from New York. But nobody can see them. One thing all the New York girls have is confidence—and Hollywood takes all the confidence away from its own girls."

Doris started, at 15, in the chorus of Eddie Cantor's "Kid Millions" at Goldwyn's. Cantor picked her from the line for a bit, and later she got a job in stock at Metro. She was there two years, playing bits and walk-ons as a glorified extra. And then she left Hollywood in disgust for New York and a job as a John Powers model.

Within two weeks she had offers to return to Hollywood but she declined. Within seven months, however, she was being tested for the role of Scarlett O'Hara. She had assumed the name of Doris Jordan, sure that Hollywood would lose interest if it learned she had once been an extra. When Selznick asked her to come to Hollywood for further tests, she pretended to know nothing of the city, to be unable to find her way to the studio—and then walked on a test stage where the crew was from Metro, all old friends.

"They were swell," she says. "As soon as I took one of them aside and explained I was trying to put something over, he spread the word around and not one acted as if he'd ever seen me before."

They liked the test, but then Vivien Leigh appeared on the scene. At Goldwyn's she had better luck, for he had seen her Scarlett test and turned her over to William Wyler for tests for "The Westerner."

"Mr. Wyler really took pains with that test," says Doris. "So many tests aren't fair. Getting a good director for your test is so important."

It was after the picture started that Doris' identity was revealed. Goldwyn didn't care. Today she's available in room 307 from Miss Nolan in "Behind the News" at Republic.

Christmas Parade Opens Shopping Season Saturday Morning

Huge Balloons, Santa to Star In Festivities

Stores Open Until 9 From Dec. 16 to 23; Men's Night, Dec. 11

At 10:30 a.m. this Saturday, Iowa City will swing into another Christmas shopping season, anticipated to be one of the largest and busiest in a decade.

With lighted decorations already lending a holiday air to the streets, merchants are busy getting displays ready for the big opener, a Christmas parade which will bring Santa Claus to town.

Starting at the community building and traversing the mid-town streets, the parade will end on Washington street between Dubuque and Linn where Santa will give away Candy to children.

A police escort will lead the parade, followed by a Boy Scout flag detail, the Iowa City high school band, a detachment of Sea Scouts, five "Broadway Balloons," children in costume, the Iowa City Grenadiers and then—Santa Claus.

Big Feature
The chamber of commerce has supplied the big feature of the parade, five balloons, huge grotesque figures originated by Tony Sarg and designed by some of the world's leading artists.

Hand painted, they are made out of cotton fabric impregnated with rubber, and inflated with helium. They stand about 15 feet above the street.

One of the greatest novelties designed for advertising, they have been shown at some of the largest fairs and expositions in this country and Canada.

Arrangements have been made by the chamber of commerce and the recreation center, co-sponsors of the parade, for these balloons to be taken to the children's hospital after the parade for the entertainment of the children there.

To Award Prizes
Facilities of the community building will be open for children to dress in their Mother Goose and Christmas costumes before marching in the parade. Parade sponsors will award prizes for the best costume in both divisions.

Since this season is expected to be the busiest in the last 10 years, merchants have set aside two evenings next month for early shopping. It is hoped that this will relieve some of the usual late season rush.

The first of these "early shopper" nights will be Dec. 5, when everyone is invited to shop until 9:00 p.m. Special attention will be paid to men shoppers on the night of Dec. 11. Stores will have special displays for men and suggestions for wise purchases will be featured.

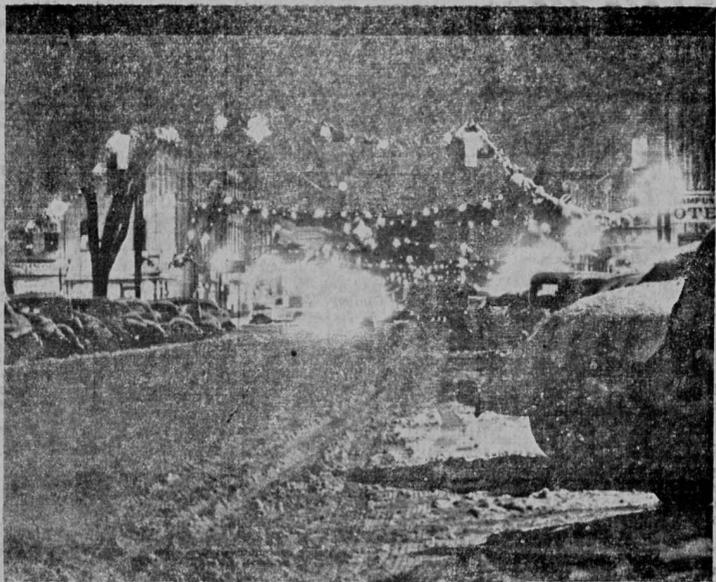

Beginning Dec. 16 and continuing through Dec. 23, all stores will remain open until 9 p.m. On Christmas Eve, they will close at 6 p.m.

Rotarians, Lions Hear Speakers

Rev. Evans A. Worthley, pastor of the First Unitarian church, spoke to members of the Rotary club at their Thanksgiving luncheon held yesterday at the Jefferson hotel.

Dr. J. A. Greene of the university hospital staff spoke at the regular Lions club meeting yesterday in Reich's Pine room. He illustrated his talk with slides on internal gland secretions of the human body.

Iowa City Spruces Up for the Christmas Holiday

In preparation for the Christmas holiday season, Iowa City's lighted street decorations were turned on Saturday night for the first time, transforming the business district into a mid-way of brilliant color. The Christmas shopping season is scheduled to open this Saturday with a parade. From that day until after the New Year, the holiday decorations will be lighted nightly. Stores will remain open until 9 p.m. beginning Saturday and continuing through Christmas day.

happy with that little tiny printing set that had 200 pieces of type and inks and a little black and red printing press that really printed. And then that little microscope that made things oh so much bigger would please him, too. There were glass slides and tiny specimens to look at under the microscope. All those things were together in a neat little box.

Oh, Santa Claus, Those Wonderful Toys

'Mother Said I Could See Them and I Can't Make Up My Mind'

Dear Santa Claus,
My mother said I could go down town and look at all of those wonderful toys and things. I was awfully happy then but you know I saw so many things that I thought it would be worth being awfully good for, that I just can't make up my mind at all. Really I can't, Santa Claus.

By AGNES AGNEW
to play an organ, and today I really did. There's a little red and white metal church down in the store and when they let me turn the little handle at the side, organ music came out.

My brother, the one I told you about, likes to print and be awfully scientific. I know he'd be

First I met Mrs. Bratchet. Well, maybe you don't know her. The lady in the store told me about her. You see she's a dog. That's what they called small hound dogs when King Arthur was king. Mrs. Bratchet is really a variety of snow white dog with very big ears and she plays a tune when you take her hand and start walking. There's also a Mr. Bratchet and a Benny and Betsy, I like them all.

Speaking of music, there's a little wooden cradle that rocks and that I'd like oh-so-well, because I can't sing very well and this plays the song "Rock-a-Bye-Baby." Lots of other things play, too—little white jacks and animals of all sorts.

My big brother (the one that's 10) would like those drums, too, that they told me were real authentic Indian drums like the ones the Indians used years ago, and I do think they sounded like it.

Pennies to Save
You know mother always wants me to save my pennies. I do sometimes but it's so easy to get them out of my bank again. But this lady showed me one that you open a drawer, but a penny in, shut the drawer and when you pull it out again the pennies are gone. You can't ever get them out until the bank is real full and then it's pretty hard. Oh, yes, this bank plays a tune too when you put the money in.

Of course a lady wants clothes for Christmas and I want a muff. I found one that looks just like a little black and white panda doll, but when you pick it up, it's all soft and furry and you can put your hands in it.

There are just lots and lots of dolls, little run dolls with tiny prayer books, real bright red and gold monkey dolls with eyes that

Some Solutions To Christmas Gift Problems

Suggestions Can Cure 'Yuletide Headaches' Suffered by Many

To cure that annual "Christmas headache" that usually starts about this time of the month, glance over the suggestions below. Your problems will vanish like the proverbial bubble.

Wondering what to get for Mother? Why not a set of musical chimes, to take the place of that jangling doorbell that has given her a headache for so, these many years?

Girls, if he is always borrowing your one and only pencil, give him a memo tie clip, with its own little matching yellow gold pencil that fits inside, ready for instant use.

And if she likes to keep her things pretty and neat, try giving her one of the new transparent hat boxes, with plastic sides. The top and bottom are covered with Victorian Rose pattern washable paper.

What to get your roommate? Try a set of eight quilted satin hangers, to use only for her "best" things. (Then she won't be "borrowing" yours.)

Even if she's the practical type, she'll love a musical powder box, to tinkle bright tunes while she "gilds the lily."

He'll love a desk set, with a blotter, memo pad, stationery rack and letter opener. It makes his desk look businesslike, and neat—whether it is or not.

You will please both her and yourself when you give her a caressingly soft bunny hood and mittens for sports, daytime, or evening wear, because she'll look so cute in them.

For Mother, hostess, housemother, or even a girl friend who entertains with fancy "feeds," the new "lap buffets" are just the thing, for they save nerves, as well as furniture finish, by preventing that knee-balancing act that only a professional could really master.

And there is the one thing she can never get enough of—the college girl's best friend—ankle socks, in all shades and materials.

So she's always losing her gloves and then using yours, while your gallant but freezing hands are exposed to the wild winter winds? Then buy her a glove guard, that fastens them to her handbag with a little gold chain.

If he likes gadgets, (and what man doesn't?) try the "cigarette valet," a little chrome and black metal arrangement that holds his smokes, and when he opens the lid, out one pops, all lighted and ready for the lazy "lord of creation."

L. Nagle Appoints Committee to Choose Director Candidate

Leland Nagle, president of the chamber of commerce, yesterday appointed a nominating committee to nominate candidates for the office of director for the new term starting Jan. 1, 1941.

John Nash, chairman, R. E. Taylor, LeRoy Mercer, Delmer Sample and Everett Means are the men on the committee which will meet some time next week. William H. Simpson, Emmett C. Gardner and Glenn Hope have been named on the committee of election judges who will have charge of the conduct of the election.

Age Only Limitation To Naval Enlistment Announces Recruiter

With enlarged training facilities and lowered restrictions on the number of recruits from counties and states, enlistment opportunities in the United States navy for men between 17 and 31 years of age are now unlimited, announced C. A. Pierce, naval recruiting officer in Cedar Rapids.

The current naval expansion program enables training schools to handle 9,000 recruits a month. Applicants between 17 and 18 years old can serve until they're 21 with parental consent, Pierce said. High school education is not necessary but the young men must pass the general classification test.

The recruiting station in the Cedar Rapids post office is open daily from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and after hours by appointment.

Zadok Dumbkopf says he now knows what becomes of the water in which experimenters are growing vegetables without soil. He says it's sold as soup in the restaurant across the street from his house.

Men Take Over Spotlight Tomorrow Night as They Dance at the Spree

Party Features Swing Music Of Joe Venuti

JOE VENUTI

Not just the eligible bachelors but all of the men attending the Spinsters' Spree from 9 to 12 p. m. in Iowa Union will hold the spotlight, as current masculine fashions are worn by the men attending the dance with the committee members.

Tweeds and pin-stripes hold the lead for fabrics, and the double breasted suit for style. White seems to be the shirt favorite and accessories run the gamut of dark colors from browns and greens to black and maroons.

Dancing with Margaret Kuttler, A4 of Davenport will be Bob O'Meara, A4 of Cedar Rapids. He has chosen a dark blue double breasted suit with white shirt and maroon tie for his evening at the Spinsters' Spree. Black socks and shoes complete his outfit.

Chuck Brockway, C4 of Muscatine, will attend the party with Agnes Agnew, J4 of West Liberty. For his apparel, Brockway has chosen a tan covert suit with which he will wear a dark brown tie, handkerchief and socks. Tan calf-skin shoes will be his footwear.

Escorted by Harriet Harlow, A3 of Toledo, will be Paul Montgomery, M2 of Iowa City. He has selected a double breasted suit of chestnut brown with a corkscrew stripe of beige. White shirt, dark green tie and socks with brown calf shoes will be his accessories.

Attending the party with Marilyn Cook, A3 of Davenport, will be Bob Young, A3 of Peoria, Ill. A dark blue pin-stripe suit in a double-breasted style and completed with a white shirt and maroon tie will be his outfit. Maroon socks and brown shoes will complete the accessories.

Jim Thomas, L1 of Traer, who will go dancing with Marguerite Davis, C4 of Rochelle, Ill., will wear a suit of gray tweed with an overplaid forming a pattern in the material. A maroon and gray striped tie, gray socks and black shoes will add the finishing touches to this outfit.

Harriet Hoerner, A3 of Dubuque, will escort Lee Dvorak, A4 of Cedar Rapids to the Spree. Dvorak will wear dark green pin-striped suit, fashioned double-breasted and he will complete it with a white shirt, a brown and white tie, white handkerchief and green striped socks. Brown shoes will complete the evening's apparel.

Wearing a brown and green plaid sport coat with beige and brown trousers will be Dave Duncan, A2 of Davenport. A pale green silk shirt, brown tie, two-tone brown shoes and socks of green, yellow, red and white plaid will be his accessories. He will be escorted by Terry Rae Tompness, A2 of Baltimore, Md.

Jeanne Rowe, A3 of Cedar Rapids, will be seen with Bob Meek, A2 of Cedar Rapids, at the party. Meek will wear a dark green suit, fashioned after the three-button single-breasted style. A white shirt and brown shoes, socks, and tie will add the finishing touches.

Kirk Snell, E4 of Marion, will attend the party, escorted by Alice McGowan, C3 of Marion. A dark double breasted suit with white shirt and black accessories will be his apparel.

Bill George of Des Moines will attend the party with Mary Lou Winslow, A3 of Des Moines, and Hugh Wild of Chicago will go dancing with Barbara Murchison, A4 of Sidney.

Joe Venuti, the swing king of the violin, will play for dancing at the Spinsters' Spree.

The Eligible Bachelor and his two attendants will be presented at intermission.

Cuttino Announces Election of 28 Students to Phi Beta Kappa

Initiation to Be Held Dec. 16 In Old Capitol

Students Must Have Grade Average of 3.2 To Become Eligible

Twenty-eight students have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, George P. Cuttino, instructor in the history department, secretary of the society, announced yesterday.

The men and women chosen are the following:

W. Wayne Adams, A4 of North Liberty.

Beverly Ann Barnes, A4 of Sioux Falls, S. D.

James R. Barron, A4 of Iowa City.

John R. Beebe, M2 of Wever. Phillip B. Bergfield, L2 of Sheldon.

James W. R. Brown, L1 of Mason City.

Delbert Buchman, M2 of Ottumwa.

Elwood Buchman, M2 of Ottumwa.

Paul F. Clemmensen, A4 of Atlantic.

Arthur Dishman, A4 of New York City.

Robert S. Enabnit, A4 of Des Moines.

George F. Fieselman, M2 of Garden Grove.

Laurence D. Goodwin, A4 of Iowa City.

Mary E. Hennessy, A4 of Council Bluffs.

John A. Hutch, M2 of Cedar Rapids.

Robert S. Ivie, of Iowa City. L. LeRoy Jurgemeyer, L2 of Waverly.

Robert M. Kane, L2 of Corning.

Mary E. Lahr of Washington, D. C.

Cathryn S. McCleery, A4 of Iowa City.

Margaret Meikle of Belmont. Barbara G. Murchison, A4 of Sidney.

Shirley A. Porter, A4 of Humboldt.

Robert Harry Smith, G of Kansas City, Mo.

Thomas C. Teas, L2 of Dallas. Dorothy R. Ward, A4 of Iowa City.

G. Travis Westly, M2 of Manly.

The students were elected at the last business meeting of Phi Beta Kappa. They will be initiated on Dec. 16 at 5 p. m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Prof. George Coleman of the chemistry department, president of the society, will preside.

Requirements

One hundred and five academic hours in the university and an average of 3.2 are necessary for eligibility to the fraternity. It is confined to students of the college of liberal arts or students who have B.A. degrees from the university.

Another election will be held next spring, at which time additional students will be chosen.

Officers of the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa are: Professor Coleman, president; Prof. Harrison Thornton of the history department, vice president; and Cuttino, secretary.

Outstate Firms Hire Graduates Of Commerce

Firms located outside of Iowa secured the services of about two-thirds of the employed commerce college graduates of the University of Iowa in 1940, figures from the office of Dean C. A. Phillips have revealed.

Sixty-two companies in other states investigated the availability of Iowa graduates, while the list from Iowa totaled about 25.

Numerous companies sent representatives to the university to interview seniors, most of the firms being out-state organizations.

Men were placed with such companies as General Electric company, Aluminum Company of America, Eastman Kodak company, New York Life Insurance company and United Airlines.

Active in Women's Discussion Groups on the Campus

Radio Drama WSUI Will Present Greek Play

A bitter quarrel between famous military leaders of ancient Greece will be dramatized in this week's episode of "Ten Years at Troy," heard over WSUI tomorrow at 3:30 p. m.

This week's production, "The Wrath of Achilles" is based on the first book of Homer's "Iliad" and portrays Achilles' mounting anger at Agamemnon, leader of the Greek army. Other well-known mythical characters who appear in the show are Nestor, Patroclus, Briseis, Odysseus and Chriseis.

"Ten Years at Troy," a half-hour dramatic show telling the story of the Trojan war, is written by Robert Stuh, G of Anita. Georgia Bowman, G of Liberty, Mo., directs the series.

A Gift to Please Those Who Sneeze; Try Handkerchiefs

Flash! Have you racked your brains thinking of gifts for Christmas—only to find you just couldn't think? Here's just the practical gift you should be thinking of—handkerchiefs—the "all-around-practical-prudent-purchase!" Handkerchiefs are a gift he or she will always appreciate.

This is the season for gaiety in color. If it's for her, you can choose from a variety of laces, linens, silks, chiffons or pique; rolled and tufted hems, embroidered and initialed corners, floral patterns or the always lovely plain white linens. "Handkerchiefs will please—and you can't do without when you sneeze!"

They'll solve that perplexing gift problem—for they're practical.

Grants-in-Aid For Research Received Here

Three members of the college of medicine staff have received grants-in-aid for research here, officials have disclosed. Studies on infantile paralysis, internal medicine and infant nutrition will be conducted, one doctor assigned to each project.

Dr. William D. Paul of the department of internal medicine has received a $3,500 grant from the Emerson Drug company to study the action of bromides.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has granted Dr. Harry M. Hines of the physiology department $5,000 for the study of regeneration of nerve and muscle.

Dr. P. C. Jeans, head of the pediatrics department, was granted $3,000 from the Mead-Johnson company for the continuation of research on infant nutrition.

Enrollment Dental College Ranks Eighth in U. S.

Rank of eighth in enrollment among dental colleges of American state universities is the 1940-41 place of the University of Iowa unit.

A report of enrollments, published in the Journal of Dental Education of which Dr. Thomas Speidel of Iowa is editor, shows that Iowa has 112 students.

Enrollments at other state universities which are placed numerically above Iowa are topped by Pennsylvania's 225, Illinois' 224 and Ohio State's 222.

Dental Students To Take Exam

Several students of the college of dentistry will take part I of the examination given by the national board of dental examiners on Dec. 2 and 3.

The national board of dental examiners is sponsored by the American Dental association and gives examinations in the theoretical field of dentistry.

Successful candidates are issued a certificate which is accepted by a number of the state board examiners.

Photographic supplies and equipment provide the centralized theme for this week's pharmacy display, recently completed by five sophomore students in the practical pharmacy class which is conducted by Prof. Louis C. Zopf of the drug service department.

The five students in charge of the window display were Francis Braley, Shenandoah; Eugene W. Junk, Guttenberg; Claude R. Davis, Aurelia; John Bolle, Elgin, Ill., and Glenn Kimmel, Sanborn.

In carrying out the theme, the students have displayed photographic equipment in chronological order, beginning with the camera and flash bulbs, following through the developing and enlarging processes, and finally presenting the printed pictures in the snap-shot album.

The developing process was illustrated by the use of four porcelain trays for the developer, acid bath, fixing solution and washing processes. In each tray the necessary materials were placed in labeled bottles.

Other equipment shown include an enlarger, tripod, developing box, photography books and films. The display bears the inscription: "You snap the picture, we furnish the supplies, and you preserve the memory."

Enich Named 'Most Valuable' Gridder

Mike Polls Big Majority In Balloting

Becomes Eligible For Tribune's All-Conference Award

The most welcome honor that can go to any football player, recognition by his mates, was given yesterday to "Iron Mike" Enich, captain and star right tackle of the 1940 University of Iowa eleven.

Enich, awarded all-star recognition both last year and this by sports experts, took a heavy majority of the votes as the Hawkeye players cast their ballots for the team's most valuable player. He automatically becomes one of the eligibles for the Chicago Tribune's silver football, awarded annually to the Big Ten's "Most Valuable." That award went to Nile Kinnick a year ago.

Rated by his own coach, Dr. Eddie Anderson, as "the best tackle in the country," Enich last week ended a college career that earned him a reputation as one of the football's most durable performers. During his career he has been credited with full-time performance in nearly all games, including six full games against major opposition during 1939 and four complete contests in 1940.

Among his sensational feats this year, Enich can list a number of recovered fumbles and intercepted passes. One of the former, a fumble scooped up in mid-air, led to the Iowa victory over Notre Dame, when Enich carried the ball nearly 50 yards to turn the tide of battle.

Coach Anderson of the Hawkeyes, when told that Enich had been named, paid tribute to his star tackle with this summary: "Mike was a great boy and a great ball player. He deserved that and any other recognition he may get."

Bill Green, the blazing blond fullback who scored the winning touchdowns in several Iowa games this fall, was Enich's only competitor.

Snow Plagues Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 27 (AP)—A heavy blanket of snow on old Carter field today caused Coach Elmer F. Layden to postpone until tomorrow resumption of football practice at the University of Notre Dame. The Irish team has been on "vacation" since its 20-to-0 drubbing at the hands of Northwestern last Saturday at Evanston, Ill. The Notre Dame eleven finishes the season Dec. 7 with a game against the University of Southern California at Los Angeles.

Harmon Gets Heisman Award

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Tom Harmon, brilliant halfback of the University of Michigan's football team, was announced tonight as the winner of the Heisman Memorial trophy given each year by the Downtown Athletic club of New York to the nation's outstanding college gridder.

Harmon polled an unprecedented number of points, 1,303, in the countrywide balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters to beat out John Kimbrough of Texas A. and M., who received 841.

The presentation will be made at a dinner at the Downtown Athletic club December 9.

The voting was conducted through five sections and Harmon dominated in all except the southwest, where Kimbrough led by 12 points. The big Texas Aggie back was second in the east, southeast, midwest and Pacific coast.

The next three choices nationally were George Frank of Minnesota, 102 points; Frank Albert of Stanford, 90; and Paul Christman of Missouri, 66. Last year the award was won by Nile Kinnick of Iowa.

Lash Figures in Turnabout

Professional Criminal Chaser Will Be Chased Today by Trackmen

DETROIT, Nov. 27 (AP)—Don Lash, the 26-year-old former Indiana university foot-racing marvel, turns the tables on himself again tomorrow.

As a vocation Lash spends his working hours pursuing criminals as a member of the Indiana state police. Tomorrow, as an avocation, he plans to be chased, not by criminals but by the country's top-ranking runners, in the National Amateur Athletic Union cross-country championship.

Barring a sudden and unexpected change in the weather, Lash and the rest of the field will compete under conditions disheartening even to as hardy a soul as a cross-country runner. Today workmen attempted to remove some of the snow from the course over the Meadowbrook Country club. No sooner was their task completed than it started to snow again. The United States weather bureau forecast was for continued snow with the temperatures remaining in the low twenties.

Challenging Lash, who will compete unattached, will be the two men who were closest to him at the finish last year, Gregory Rice, formerly of Notre Dame but now representing the South Bend Athletic association, was second a year ago while 29-year-old Joe McCluskey, of Manchester, Conn., was third. Lash's time as he defeated Rice by 20 yards was thirty minutes and 36 seconds.

Seventy-four runners filed entries for the race but because of the bad weather officials of the A.A.U. do not expect more than 50 men to start.

The team championship will be defended by the Millrose Athletic association of New York. Track experts predict that the New York Athletic club team will dethrone Millrose. Gene Venzke, McCluskey, Jim Rafferty and Luigi Beccali are the headliners on the New York A. C. team.

The run is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. (C.S.T.).

Season's End Draws Nearer For Nation's Football Teams

Texas Aggies Face Texas This Afternoon In Day's Headliner

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—The free-scoring, fun-for-all 1940 college football season comes to a fitting end this week with a double-feature program of games on the old Thanksgiving day and on Saturday.

When the statisticians get around to figuring things out, this may prove to be the greatest season ever for high scoring, with such notable examples as Penn's 46-28 win over Princeton, Manhattan's 45-41 score over Marquette, and Alabama's 25-21 thriller over Vanderbilt.

Five games overshadow all the rest on this climactic card. Tomorrow's headliner is Texas A. and M.'s invasion of Austin to meet Texas. Saturday it will be Stanford against California on the Pacific coast, Tennessee against Vanderbilt in the south, Boston college against Holy Cross in New England, and Army against Navy at Philadelphia — the game that once again will bring 102,000 fans into Municipal stadium, even though the soldiers haven't won a major game since they beat Navy in 1938.

This corner goes into its one-man huddle and comes out of it with these Thursday predictions (home teams first, probable attendances in parentheses):

Thursday, Nov. 28
Texas-Texas A. and M. (45,000)
—The Aggies have to whip a double jinx — playing at Austin and needing this one to be the southwest's first repeating champions. Despite an injury to ace quarterback Marion Pugh, a vote for the form chart and the Aggies.

Brown-Columbia (20,000)—Columbia on alertness and versatility.
Kansas-Colorado State (7,000)—A gamble on State.

South Carolina-Wake Forest (10,000)—With Red Mayberry back, Wake Forest.

Tulsa-Arkansas (10,000)—Tulsa, which has been more consistent.

TOUGH SPOT

Texas Aggies Face Oldest Jinx

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 27 (AP)—Nineteen triumphs behind them, a second successive Southwest conference title and a possible Rose Bowl invitation just ahead, the Texas Aggies tomorrow play a football game that carries rich rewards than this cattle country history records.

Some 45,000 fans will bulge old Memorial stadium to watch the giant Red machine try to subdue its oldest enemy—University of Texas.

Never has a greater football team worn the maroon of Texas A. and M., but tomorrow that makes little difference against a Texas team which carried the inherited jinx that has kept an Aggie eleven from winning in Austin since 1922.

The riotous Aggie team that boasts Jarrin' John Kimbrough, the All-America fullback; Jim Thomason, one of the nation's

Army, Navy Join Forces For Parade

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 27 (AP)—Now the Middies and Cadets are going to smash precedent.

They're going to join forces in Philadelphia's municipal stadium Saturday to treat a capacity crowd of 102,000 to a dazzling pre-game military spectacle that will shatter a custom established a half-century ago for Army-Navy football classics.

Heretofore each regiment has held the spotlight alone for the grand entry. This time they'll share the honors. The 1,800 gray-clad cadets will parade into the stadium first, followed by the 2,600 blue-clad midshipmen.

Then 4,400 strong, they will stage colorful joint evolutions and will stand at attention while the massed Army and Navy bands play the national anthem before breaking ranks for the scramble to seats.

Cantor Loses Terrible Tommy

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Tommy Harmon proved to be about as elusive off the football field as on today after he flew in here for an appearance on Eddie Cantor's radio program tonight.

Cantor missed him cleanly at the airport, and it was a couple of hours before the little comedian finally nailed him at a downtown hotel, where they mugged together for photographers and combined on a couple of bars of "Sweet Adeline" to prove that Harmon could sing baritone.

Tonight's performance, for which he receives $500 and expenses, makes the great Michigan star a professional as far as college athletics are concerned, but will not prevent his playing in the east-west all-star game at San Francisco on New Year's day.

outstanding blocking backs and tacklers; Guard Marshall Poch Robnett, perhaps the best in southwest history and Marion Pugh, rated one of America's top collegiate forward passers, is the odds-on choice.

U-High's surprising Bluehawks, tenacious, tricky and tireless, raced to an upset 26 to 15 victory over Coach Howard Moffitt's highly rated quintet here last night.

U-High controlled the game all the way, running up a superior 12 to 2 halftime lead, fighting off several threatening uprisings from the visitors and playing all-around steady ball to coast to the win.

Evidently keyed up for the battle, Coach Paul Brechler's lads worked smoothly, and efficiently in the first quarter to shut out Vinton, while counting six points from the field themselves, indicating the outcome with a vengeance.

Big guns in the Blue Hawks attack were Evans, a forward, with seven markers, Huesinkveld, a guard, with six markers, and Bus Smith, a guard, with a like total. In addition, Smith played a good floor game. For Vinton, Hart, a forward, looked best, both offensively and defensively.

In the preliminary game, the Vinton seconds trounced the U-High reserves, 25 to 12.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Iowa's Parallel
- One Difference
- Good Coach

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Next to Stanford followers, there probably is no group getting a bigger wallop out of Stanford's glorious football season than the good citizens of Iowa, to whom the coast school is a mirror reflecting the Hawkeyes' 1939 delirium.

The 1939 Iowa and the 1940 Stanford situations are strangely parallel, so much so that Stanford could be referred to as the Iowa of 1940 without using too much rubber in the imagination. In 1938, Iowa was used for punting practice by practically all opposition, winning one game, tying one and losing six. In 1939, Stanford won sympathy until the final game, when it beat Dartmouth.

Iowa started the 1939 season with a new coach, Eddie Anderson, but nothing much was expected of him the first year as he was working with the same boys who were losing Lesters in 1938. Stanford started the 1940 season with a new coach, Clark Shaughnessy, but he wasn't expected to do more than make a better showing with the same boys who in 1939 were a whistle stop for rivals.

Iowa's 1939 season exceeded all expectations. It won six, tied one and lost one. Stanford is undefeated to date and singing "California, Here I Come." If the Cards get by the Bears Saturday, it will close out an astonishing season.

The major difference in the Iowa and Stanford situations is that Iowa hired a coach who was riding the crest of success. Doctor Eddie's 1938 Holy Cross team won eight of nine games.

Shaughnessy was hired by Stanford after a Chicago season to end all seasons, which it did as far as Chicago is concerned.

Shaughnessy's success with a squad which had shown little promise the year before rather scrambles the idea that it is the material that makes the coach. As a matter of fact, it indicates the material and coach jointly are responsible for success. You can't have a ham and egg sandwich without the ham or without the eggs. You've got to have both. Good Coach

That Shaughnessy was a fine coach, despite his difficulties at Chicago, readily was acknowledged. He was just trying to play 10-cent chips in a dollar game.

He developed Jay Berwanger, one of the greatest athletes ever to wear a Chicago uniform. Now he has come up with Frankie Albert, a guy who squats behind the center, takes the ball and dares the opposition to guess where it is. He also has Norman Standlee, a better than fair full-back.

Neither of these young gents has received the national recognition accorded Nile Kinnick at Iowa last year, for which they may be duly thankful on the Thanksgiving day which suits their fancy. They won't have to make the banquet circuit. Kinnick ate a trench from Iowa City all over the east and back, and if he hadn't already earned the nickname of "iron man," he would have had it tacked on after surviving that gastronomic ordeal.

One thing stands out as a major factor in the success of the 1939 Iowa team and the 1940 Stanford team—spirit. Here were two clubs starved for victory. When they got a taste they became gluttons. They were coiled springs just waiting for someone to trip the trigger to release them. Anderson and Shaughnessy were the gents to do it.

Last year, Iowa, This year, Stanford. Next year? Who knows. UCLA? Could be. The Uclans have set the stage for just such a comeback.

But right now we'll make our best bow to Clark Shaughnessy, who has discovered that life begins at '40.

Wildcats Get Set
MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas State Wildcats brushed up on offense yesterday on a field still wet from recent rains. Most of the practice was devoted to passing and running but Coach Hobbs Adams tapered off the workout with a defensive drill.

Sealing Price To Be Raised

Changed Corn Plan Designed to Stabilize Price, Help Producer

After Dec. 1, the new sealing price of 61 cents a bushel will be made available to eligible Johnson county farmers who desire loans on their 1940 corn, it was announced yesterday by Joe G. Raim, county AAA chairman.

All loans will bear three percent interest and will mature Aug. 1, 1943. Loans may be satisfied, however, prior to the date of maturity under any of the following conditions:

- (1) Payment by borrower of the face value of the note plus interest.
 - (2) Upon demand by the Commodity Credit Corporation.
 - (3) Delivery of the corn collateral during August, September or October, 1942, upon 30 days prior notice written to the county committee.
- The third condition applies only if the loan was completed before April 1, 1941, and the producer has lost possession of the farm on which the corn is stored or has received a notice from his landlord requesting removal of the corn from the structures in which it was stored.
- The above procedure must be filed with the county AAA committee and the landlord and the tenant are required to sign a joint note regarding the removal of the tenant's part of the corn.
- To be an eligible producer, a farmer must have stayed within his corn acreage allotment and have his corn stored in acceptable cribs. Also, his corn must grade No. 3 or better, with a moisture content not in excess of 20% per cent, according to Raim.
- The purpose of the three-year loan is to eliminate the reselling of corn each year, to help stabilize the price of corn and to help the producer make plans for more storage on the farm.

State Officials Confer With County Nurse

Dr. C. L. Putnam, medical director of the state health district No. 3, and Paul Bolton, public health engineer of the same district, conferred yesterday with Aila Hiltunen, Johnson county nurse, on public health campaigns and a possible new setup for the administration of public health in Johnson county.

85 Turkeys For Dinner

University Hospitals Serve 1,500 Persons Thanksgiving Meals

How would you like to have started roasting 85 turkeys at 1:30 this morning or prepare 1,500 Thanksgiving dinners for today? That is the task the cooks and dietitians of University hospitals' nutrition department have undertaken.

This noon Thanksgiving meals for 1,500 patients, staff members and employees will be served, complete with turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie. Some 800 patients in all the hospitals, including 100 boys and girls at Children's hospital, will be treated to a Thanksgiving dinner that would make anyone's mouth water.

A large percentage of employees enjoying dinner at the hospital today will be students.

The menu which has been planned will include turkey, mashed potatoes and giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, fresh peas, grapefruit and apple salad and pumpkin pie with whipped cream.

Even patients who are on liquid diets, although unable to have portions of turkey, won't be overlooked. They'll have turkey broth.

Children attending the Perkins school at Children's hospital have helped make favors and for a number of years the nutrition department has also made and placed unusual and clever favors on the trays of patients. This year nuts and candies will be placed in little decorated cups guarded by strutting turkeys.

Faiths Combine For Services This Morning

The Iowa City community building will be the setting for the community Thanksgiving service in which members of the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths will participate. The hour of the service is 10 a.m.

The offering, of cash or staple foods, will be turned over to the Social Service league, a custom of some years standing, and will be used in meeting some of the special needs of the organization in its care for needy families.

The committee for the community Thanksgiving day service wishes to remind all "of the religious basis of Thanksgiving day in the national life and of the special meaning of the day in these anxious times, with the hope that such an inter-faith religious service for the blessings of life and peace may add to the sense of our unity as a people; our relationship to sufferers in other stricken countries, and the necessity of a common loyalty to God who is the source and meaning of all blessings."

Arranging the service is a committee composed of the Rev. Richard E. McEvoy of the Episcopal church, the Rev. Elmer E. Diekels of the Baptist church and Dr. M. Willard Lampe of the university school of religion.

State, Local Funds Will Give Educations to Child Invalids

Even invalidism and paralysis won't deprive three Iowa City children of their opportunity to get an education—not if the state of Iowa and the local school district continue to be successful in their efforts to aid them.

Through the use of state and local funds, a substitute teacher, Mrs. Ethel Kessler, has been hired to give private instructions to two invalid children at their homes. The third student has been granted the privilege of riding to and from school in a taxi.

Fern Albright, 8, 1217 E. Burlington, one of Mrs. Kessler's pupils, is in the second grade now and attended Longfellow school before she was stricken with a chronic case of scarlet fever.

Mrs. Kessler's other pupil is

David H. Kerr Receives Honor

David Harold Kerr, apprentice seaman, has been selected honor man of his company consisting of 120 men who graduated Nov. 25 from the Great Lakes Naval training station. He is the son of John F. Kerr, 113 Varsity Heights.

Kerr was graduated from Iowa City high school and enlisted at Des Moines Oct. 8. His selection as honor man is based upon his proficiency in his subjects, the degree to which he has assimilated the course of instruction and upon aptitude for the service.

During his training period, he was given drill and instruction in infantry, boats, signalling, rifle range, seamanship, swimming, various athletics and lectures on phases of naval life and customs of the sea.

Ping-Pong Tourney To Be Dec. 6 to 8 At Recreation Center

M. Eugene Trowbridge, director of the Iowa City recreation center, has announced that registrations are now being taken for the second monthly boys' ping-pong tournament to be held at the center Dec. 6, 7 and 8.

This will be a double elimination tournament, Trowbridge said. A boy must lose twice before he is eliminated.

Boys eight through 13 years of age are to register in the junior division, while the senior division includes boys 14 years and over.

Richard Gough Dies At Local Hospital

Richard Gough, 88, Iowa City, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness. The body is at the Hohenschuh mortuary awaiting completion of funeral arrangements.

He is survived by two sons, Richard and John, both of Iowa City; three daughters, Mrs. Walter Wiebeler, Davenport, Mrs. Mary Maher and Mrs. Nell Fitzpatrick, Iowa City; 19 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Day Off Teachers Eat Turkey Out of Town

University high school teachers are eating Thanksgiving turkey in many Iowa towns today. Sam Houston, social studies instructor, is visiting his family in Cedar Rapids while Helen Eddy, head of the language department, is spending a few days with her brother in Des Moines.

Prof. M. F. Carpenter, head of the English department, is spending Thanksgiving with friends in Monticello.

Kathryn Edscorn, social studies instructor, is driving to Muscatine with Margaret Englund, English instructor.

William Messon, commerce instructor, is visiting friends in Gowrie.

Ryland Cray, social studies instructor, observed Thanksgiving last week when his family from Dallas City, Ill., visited here.

J. A. Swisher Talks Before D. A. R. Group

Dr. J. A. Swisher of the State Historical society was the guest speaker at the first anniversary dinner of Nathaniel Fellows chapter of D.A.R., held in the home of Mrs. W. F. Boiler, 1016 E. College, Monday evening. Twenty-seven guests were present at the dinner, and the tables were decorated in seasonable motif with D.A.R. colors predominating.

Dr. Swisher's talk on the Iowa legislature followed a toast program after the three-course dinner. Gertrude Dennis, regent, presided. The toast-mistress was Mrs. Lois Carson.

Mrs. W. F. Boiler spoke on "The Birth of Our Chapter," Mrs. Helen Slavata spoke on "The Naming of the New Chapter," Sylvia Nofsinger's subject was "The Christening," Mrs. Margaret Albert spoke on "The Birth of a Sister Chapter," and Mrs. Theodore Rayner on "The Birth of a D.A.R. Society."

Plans were made for the chapter to attend the organization dinner and exercises of Open Prairie chapter at Tipton Saturday. National and state officers will be guests, and Mrs. W. F. Boiler will be the presiding officer for the occasion.

Second Open House Will Be Sponsored By 'Y' Tomorrow

The second Y.W.C.A. open house of the year will be held tomorrow from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Y.W.C.A. conference room.

Mary Penningroth, A3 of Cedar Rapids, will be in charge of arrangements.

A special music program will include Anne McKeever, G of Farley, pianist, and songs by a trio; Kathryn Fieselman, A1 of Garden Grove; Carol Green, A1 of Lone Tree, and Rosalind Walls, A1 of Yorktown.

Perplexing, Isn't It?

"See yourself as others see you" was written by Robert Burns with no thought for the modern Christmas shopping problem, but nevertheless, pretty Lucy Clave, A2 of Webster City, above is pictured in the same dilemma in which many students will find themselves in the next few weeks. She is checking an endless shopping list of friends and relatives with the boxes of all sizes and descriptions which are piled around her. Miss Clave exemplifies the methodical shopper, who makes a list long before the actual buying begins, and checks off each person as his gift is selected. This is a method used by many—probably most—people. But others are famous for leaving everything, and everyone, to the last minute, and dashing madly about the night of Dec. 24 with a maniacal gleam in their eye, trying to remember which friends sent them gifts and which cards last year—and usually awakening on Christmas morning with the sinking feeling in the pit of the stomach which comes with the realization that Aunt Hetty, of all people, has been forgotten! This is obviously a very hectic and slipshod way of doing one's Christmas shopping. Then there is the so-called shopper who disposes of the problem with one sweep of the pen as the checks are signed.
