Bill Diehl to Lead Hawkeye Gridders

500 Persons Attend

By OSCAR HARGRAVE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
Before 500 persons who gathered at the all-Iowa football dinner to pay their last respects to the Hawkeye gridiron team of 1940, Bill Diehl, the rangy center from Cedar Rapids, last night took over his new duties as captain-elect of Iowa gridders.

Diehl, cagy and wise-cracking junior, was elected unanimously by his mates, as popular a choice as his predecessor, the mighty "Iron Mike" Enich. Retiring from the post of leadership of the Hawkeyes, Big Mike started Diehl off on his captaincy by reading to him the instructions written out for captains to follow, then delivering the scroll emblematic of the captaincy.

The father of one of Iowa's most highly-regarded football foes, George Franck Sr., of Davenport, drew a cheer when he was introduced at the all-Iowa football banquet last night. Franck's son George, star of the Minnesota team this year and an all-American halfback, played football and ran on the track team at Davenport high school.

Best Sophomore Center

A letterman and regular during the past two years, Diehl had hardly started his career as an Iowa football player before he drew praise from his coach, Dr. Eddie Anderson. "The best sophomore center in the country," Anderson termed the scrappy pivot man.

Injured in the Wisconsin game in 1939, Diehl was forced to the sidelines for the rest of the season and underwent knee operation the following winter. This fall he returned to the squad and won back his first string berth, playing three complete games during the season to become a regular member of the Iowa "60-Minute" club.

Anderson Thanks Team

Besides the announcement of the new captain and the awarding of 32 letters to members of the Hawkeye squad, the crowd heard Anderson, just finishing his second year as Iowa coach, thank the team and supporters publicly and say his football farewell to 10 seniors, Enich, Ham Snider, Joe Moore, Charles Tolleson, Henry Luebke, Max Hawkins, Ray Murphy, Ken Pettit and Bruno Andruska.

Also on the list of speakers who praised the spirit of the Iowa team of 1940 and spoke their appreciation for the game of football were the athletic commissioner of the Western conference, Major John Griffith; the Hawkeye grid star of 1939, Nile Kinnick; President Hancher and Prof. Karl E. Leib, chairman of the Iowa board in control of athletics. Leib, as toastmaster for the speaking program, introduced the other speakers.

Final entertainment of the evening was the showing of pictures of the Iowa-Notre Dame game, in which the Hawkeyes successfully invaded South Bend, Ind., home of the fighting Irish.

American Planes Used Against Italy

LONDON, Dec. 4 (AP)—American-built warplanes are being used extensively by the RAF in the middle east and the Mediterranean, a ministry of information communiqué disclosed tonight.

One of their outstanding performances was declared to have been the making of pictures of Taranto harbor, giving the story of the fleet air arm's recent blow at the Italian fleet.

Project Abandoned
MILWAUKEE (AP)—A proposed project of the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America to lay a pipeline across the Illinois state line into Wisconsin has been abandoned temporarily, it was disclosed yesterday.

Fascist Retreat Continues; Strategic City, Premet, Falls

Greeks Assert Italian Losses Heavy in Fight

Fall of Porto Edda, Important Base, Expected Momentarily

ATHENS, Dec. 5 (Thursday) (AP)—The Greek high command announced today the capture of the strategic town of Premet, in South Central Albania, with heavy Italian losses, and a Greek spokesman said the fascist forces also were hastening northward from their vital southern Albanian bases of Porto Edda and Agirocastro.

(Premet is north of Agirocastro and a deep thrust in that quarter could make a northward Italian movement difficult.)

Italian counter-attacks in some sectors were acknowledged, but the spokesman asserted they were all repelled "in whatever part of the front."

Summing up the situation, he said:

"Despite severe weather and difficult terrain our troops continue to advance and pursue the retreating enemy. At certain points fierce fighting is taking place, which has continued to our advantage."

The northern Greek wing was reported struggling on through icy mountains toward the Albanian capital of Tirana.

Fall of Base Expected

Early in the day the Greeks had declared the fall of Porto Edda and Agirocastro, an important supply center, was momentarily expected.

The spokesman, saying that Italian claims to have repulsed Greek attacks were "simply figments of the imagination for home consumption," asserted the efforts of the fascist high command to reorganize its forces "must be considered as having failed and one should even foresee that the position of the Italian army will become even more difficult."

"In the Pogradetz area (on the northern front) up to yesterday the enemy defended himself stubbornly on the heights northwest of Pogradetz but today they were no longer able to continue resistance and we drove them out. The enemy sustained heavy losses, leaving many prisoners and war material including three guns in our hands."

The raid on the Crete base, established by the British, when they went to the aid of Greece, was similar to the attack by British torpedo planes on Taranto harbor Nov. 11.

Nazis Expect Europe's Small States To Give Full Assistance to Axis

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 4 (AP)—The frank statement that Germany expects smaller European nations to lend their armies, their territories and their transport facilities to the axis for a spring offensive was made today by Curentul, the newspaper which frequently is called the Nazi mouthpiece of Rumania.

Romanians in particular were exhorted to look seriously upon their promise of military assistance to the axis, made, along with those of Hungary and Slovakia, in recent adherence to the "all for one and one for all" alliance among Berlin, Rome and Tokyo. Nazi troops already are in Rumania.

(The newspaper did not say which direction the offensive was to take, but the implications seemed clear that it referred to the German drive which is expected to descend through Bulgaria or Yugoslavia into Greece, Turkey and the middle east—aimed eventually at Suez; possibly to be coordinated with a German thrust through Spain at Gibraltar.

Curentul also forecast an axis league of nations at Vienna—in which the axis would make and pursue its own decisions without referring them to satellite states.

Huge Coalition

"Axis diplomacy," said the newspaper, "is preparing a huge coalition of all European states which will involve participation of their armies and the free use of their territories and transport facilities."

The newspaper did not say which direction the offensive was to take, but the implications seemed clear that it referred to the German drive which is expected to descend through Bulgaria or Yugoslavia into Greece, Turkey and the middle east—aimed eventually at Suez; possibly to be coordinated with a German thrust through Spain at Gibraltar.

Curentul also forecast an axis league of nations at Vienna—in which the axis would make and pursue its own decisions without referring them to satellite states.

United States Charges Nitrate Monopoly

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—An international chain of conspiracies to control and monopolize the price and production of nitrates essential to the manufacture of munitions and other industries vital to national defense was charged today against 11 corporations and 32 individuals.

The allegations were set forth in a series of six federal grand jury indictments, based on anti-trust laws, which were returned Sept. 1, 1939, and then sealed. The alleged conspiracies date back to 1920 and up to and including Sept. 1, 1939.

Why the indictments remained unopened for 15 months was not disclosed. The indictments were based partly, the anti-trust division of the attorney general's office said, on an investigation of fertilizers which started in 1938.

The indictments charged that the alleged conspiracies existed through restrictive and secret contracts with producers and marketers of various nitrates throughout the world, including such countries as Canada, England, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Germany, Poland, Belgium, Japan and Chile.

The nitrates which the defendants allegedly conspired to control are used as fertilizers in agriculture, steel mill operations, gas plants, water works and other industries.

Named in the indictments were the following corporations: Allied Chemical and Dye company, E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and company, the Barrett company, Semet-Solvay company, Imperial Chemical Industries (N. Y.) Ltd., Anglo-Chilean Nitrate Corp., (Chile), Lautario Nitrate Co. Ltd. (Great Britain), Chilean Nitrate Sales Corp., Synthetic Nitrogen Products Corp., Chilean Nitrate and Iodine Sales Corp. (Chile), all with headquarters in New York, and the Solvay Process company, Syracuse N. Y.

Italian reverses in the war with Greece were reported to be one of the main reasons for the conference at this time. Italian demands on the French empire have been one of the main barriers to closer cooperation between the Vichy government and the axis, while German attempts to persuade Italy to lower those demands were unsuccessful until the Greek war began, editors in Berlin and Rome were informed.

Berlin sources were evasive regarding recurring inquiries about Laval's reported visit but said: "There is no question that German-French talks will continue, but no dates have been fixed."

Chairman Eccles

Later, Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board said that in a speech Nov. 28 in New York, he had asserted: "I believe that congress, in considering all the interrelated elements of the monetary picture, should consider whether or not it would be wise to make credits available at low rates, as a means of aiding the British, taking as collateral their gold, as well as their security holdings here, in Canada or elsewhere."

Eccles released what he termed a "full and correct" text of his speech before the national industrial conference board. He said he was doing this because "incorrect and misleading accounts" had appeared.

Another major development bearing on aid to Britain occurred when Senator George (D-Ga.), new chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, told reporters that United States war materials factories should be placed in Britain to help Britain in the war.

As early as dawn this morning, the Greeks were officially declared to be in Porto Edda's outskirts and during the day their artillery went into action to cover the road running from that seaport northeast some 20 miles to Agirocastro. Italian resistance, which the Greeks had already had officially characterized as failing, was said to have been thus even more nearly broken.

The Germans stressed the importance of the agreement, declaring, "Rumania now takes its ordered place in the economic scheme of the new Europe," and, "the struggle with Britain for access to Balkan products ends in another German triumph."

The Germans maintained, however, that the significance of the step transcended the fleeting needs of war, saying that the basis for post-war trade thus was being established.

The sums to be employed over the 10-year period and the specific nature of developments contemplated were not disclosed, but obviously large amounts are involved.

(A Nazi organ in Bucharest informed the smaller governments of Europe on Wednesday that the axis expects them to lend their armies, territories and transport facilities to a spring offensive; possibly the long-expected one through Turkey to the near east and Suez.)

The German-Rumanian protocol was concluded here in Berlin—after weeks of negotiations, it was stated—and the protocol announcing its terms showed that Rumania's part of the bargain was to improve markets within its border for German products.

The Germans, on their part, promised:

To extend liberal credits for the 10-year period, provide machines (See AGREEMENT, page 7) and machinery to Rumania.

To build a technological institute on the campus of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., to be completed in 1942.

If We Believe—

"We believe that freedom is still a cause! We believe that even now, after all the scorn, after all the violence, after all the victories of the enemies of freedom, freedom is still the greatest of human causes." Thus begins the credo for Americans written by Archibald MacLeish. We've stated it before.

The declaration of faith was written for the Council for Democracy, a new organization proposing to define and vitalize democracy and counteract totalitarian propaganda.

The current World war has been called the war of propaganda. Certainly the propaganda phases have been more far-reaching than the military phases. Hitler himself has said, in effect, that the bigger the lie, the more credulous the hearer. And working on that theory, he has proceeded to bombard the United States with a mass of propaganda put out by organized specialists in the art.

Presenting the Democratic View

To present the opposite view of the totalitarian philosophy of government—"to crystallize and instill in the minds of Americans the meaning, value and workability of democracy as the best way of life under which they could live"—is one purpose of the Council for Democracy.

Realizing that the survival of democracy depends upon the continuous support of the people from whom it is derived, the second aim of the council is "to engender the will to defend and promote that American democracy and to stimulate the participation of each individual in the activities necessary for its defense and promotion."

At least one of the totalitarian powers has openly said that lies were being used in the propaganda war, and the third purpose of the Council for Democracy is "to publicize and counteract the propaganda of all organizations and individuals whose obvious purpose is to supplant American democracy by a philosophy or form of government contradictory to our heritage."

Activities of the Council
The activities of the Council for Democracy will be along two lines: (1) education and morale and (2) research.

The first of the two activities will make use of the written word by pamphlets and handbills, syndicated articles, advertising and direct mail campaigns, and perhaps one or more periodical publications. It will use the spoken word for radio programs and platform speakers. It will present its material pictorially by cooperating with the motion picture industry, assisting in the preparation of scripts and research for pro-democracy films. Special courses are being prepared for schools and colleges to give students a better appreciation of and foundation in the principles of American democracy.

The second group of activities will be conducted by a research staff and its memora- da will be informational rather than policy-advocating. The committee of correspondence, of which Prof. Clark Byse of the University of Iowa college of law is a member, will concern itself with specialized aspects of first-line national problems.

Through two affiliated agencies having extensive files and facilities, the council's research on anti-democratic forces will publicize the activities of those groups and individuals acting to destroy American democracy. Recognizing the importance of national morale, the council has included in its activities a research project on the problems confronting America in that field.

A Product of the Masses
Because the democratic philosophy of government is so essentially the product of the masses living under it, the work of an organization like the Council for Democracy is likewise dependent for success upon the people for whom it is undertaken. Lukewarm approbation of the beliefs and aims of the council will not be enough to preserve the freedom that is our heritage.

We must adopt, and live, the last sentence of MacLeish's credo: "After all the violence, after all the victories of the enemies of freedom, freedom is still the cause to which we pledge our allegiance and for which we pledge our lives."

The Science of Phrenology

There's phrenology, the study of bumps on one's head.

The cornerstone for the foundation of phrenology was laid about 150 years ago by a Viennese physician. In order to get data for the beginning of his new science the doctor gave a party to which he invited all the lady's maids, cooks, footmen and coachmen in the neighborhood.

The doctor carefully observed and questioned each of his guests as to his or her degree of forcefulness or timidity; and when he sensed that he had sufficient insight to the qualities in question, the skull of each guest was measured. The results proved conclusively, to the good doctor at least, that the heads of forceful beings are remarkably wide between the ears.

A Popular Science

The new science swept over Europe like a prairie-fire, and spread equally as easily to America. Now at long last one was to know what went on inside his head by examining its exterior irregularities. According to the exponents of phrenology, each bump or depression on the human cranial structure, excluding those imposed through foreign sources, opened wide avenues to the character and inclinations of the individual.

The head of the criminal and other social misfits almost invariably exhibited a flat forehead and considerable horizontal dimensions from ear to ear. One phrenologist, visiting the prison at Charleston, found among the inmates of that institution, one prisoner who, he said, could never have committed a crime for he had none of the cranial characteristics peculiar to the criminal. The prison authorities had a good laugh at his observation, but later received a shock when additional evidence proved the prisoner guiltless.

An Upstart Newcomer

When a new and more logical science called psychology began to tread on the toes of phrenology, the latter science went into a period of decline. But it is still in its death throes, for one may still encounter the bump-readers, though their field has been chiefly restricted lately to street carnivals and county fairs.

Psychology on the other hand has made rapid progress from its rather insignificant beginnings; it has passed the tests subjected on all new schools of thought by the cynical and the skeptical, and has become an established field of endeavor. Phrenology and psychology are strikingly in parallel in their basic approach, but their applications and relative values are as separate as the poles.

There is a question which arises however; since phrenology was defeated by a new science, will psychology not suffer a like fate by some other study equally as fascinating?

A Man About MANHATTAN

Some of the Silent Film Actors Didn't Need Words—

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Old time "silent" pictures are a revelation in New York. They prove, after an absence of 10 years, that some of those early boys with names that now are legend, didn't need words to act.

There's Lon Chaney, for instance. A reissue of the old silent "Hunchback of Notre Dame" is on 6th avenue now at the same time the new and costly "Hunchback," with Charles Laughton in the title role, rolls about the country. We didn't think so much of the latter. Not that we loved Charles less, but that we remember Lon as if he were here only yesterday.

The original "Hunchback of Notre Dame" must have been filmed a good 15 years ago.

Much of it still is magnificent, as much of Chaney always was and always will be. He was Cleek, the man of the forty faces. . . . He was elown and hunchback and Singapore Joe with a white glaring eye. Remember? There wasn't any pupil in that eye—only a white glaring ball that looked like a hard-boiled egg with the shell removed. When he fastened that eye on you he left a mark on your memory for all the years to come. At least he did on mine.

Last night at the Commodore I saw something which explains amply why Sammy Kaye has made such a success of his "So You Want to Lead a Band" stunt. . . . They say almost everybody wants to lead a band at some time during his life. Sammy Kaye is capitalizing on this. Every night he invites people in the audience—you, your girl, anybody—to come up and direct. The band will play exactly as you direct. . . . It is a pleasant diversion for all who witness it.

Well, last night a man got up and walked up to the stand. . . . Sure, he said, he would like to lead a band. . . . All his life, he admitted, he had dreamed of leading a band. This man then began to lead—with his hands. Sammy offered him the stick but he refused it. He just led with his hands.

Pretty soon the people began to sense that this man knew what to do. It was a treat to watch him. And no wonder. When he sat down Sammy identified him. He was Otto Klemperer, one of the best known symphonic conductors in the country.

It happens about this time every year. Somebody comes forward with a suggestion that a censor, or board of censors, be appointed for the theater. It seems a dangerous recommendation. How can any man, or group of men, qualify as judges of what the theater shall or shall not do? The press is unengaged except indirectly by the people who read the newspapers. When the public doesn't like anything, it soon lets you know. And the same holds true for the theater.

TROUBLE IN AFRICA—

The main Italian force of General Graziani, bogged for months in the North African desert, has ceased to worry the British very much even as a threat to Suez, the center of the Hitler grand scheme of axis attack.

Latest information suggests two reasons why Graziani has not moved, and if either of them is true, he may never move. His

University Hospital Has 100 Stockings To Fill Christmas

Imagine, if you can, this situation, occurring on Christmas Eve, 1940:

"Twas the night before Christmas . . . read a white-clad nurse as she began retelling the old story which every child has heard and loved down through the years.

But, "So, what?" said a disappointed youngster in the children's hospital at the University of Iowa. And "So, what?" either spoke or implied, echoes through the rooms where 100 children were gathered.

That's impossible, isn't it? It's hard to visualize 100 American children, all in one group, who are unhappy at Christmas because they have no toys, clothes, games or books.

Just to make sure a situation like that doesn't happen, Robert E. Neff, administrator of the University hospitals, makes his annual reminder to Iowans that all contributions for the children will be gratefully received. Some 300 individuals and groups responded last year.

FRIVOL'S Cartoon Character Will Make His Social Debut at the Pica Ball—

Dick Spencer's Personality Kid Is Going Places

By LOREN HICKERSON

Daily Iowan Editor
The University of Iowa has suddenly become aware of the fact that one of its most distinctive personalities, who hasn't even a name, is running Iowa's most personable young males a close race for popularity.

He is as real an individual as the Quadrangle's Whiffenpoof or Mickey Mouse, yet he exists solely in the quick mind and clever fingers of his creator.

He is the little fellow with the wide grin and the bow tie who's the principal character in the cartoons of FRIVOL, Iowa's monthly magazine, and he is the brain child of one of the university's most promising young commercial artists, Dick Spencer, A2 of Des Moines.

Of late this young bow-tied disseminator of good humor has escaped briefly from the pages of FRIVOL, and you've seen his beaming countenance in an advertisement here and there.

He makes his debut in a publicly social way tomorrow night, for his likeness graces the cover of the programs for the Pica Ball, annual journalists all-university dance, and sweater for no particular reason. The Daily Iowan news room scene which forms the center of interest of the big 18 by 12 ft. backdrop will hang behind Charlie Agnew's band at the party.

Size makes no difference, though, because he's the same happy fellow on the 3 by 5 inch program and on the 18 by 12 ft. backdrop, and there we run into the amazing abilities of Dick Spencer.

Dick is a graduate of Roosevelt high school in Des Moines. His official university residence is 7B at the Quad, where he hangs out with Roommate Gene Anderson, also A2 of Des Moines and an old Roosevelt high classmate.

Dick's interest in cartooning was first manifest in his pre-short pants days when he started rummaging around in his dad's drawing desk, shortly after he was old enough to get into it. His dad cartooned for Colliers and Field and Stream magazines back in the 1920's.

The Daily Iowan previews tomorrow night's Pica Ball and introduces Dick Spencer! Dick is the fellow in the inset at the right. He's also the fellow almost lost in the expanse of his work at the lower left-hand corner of the 18 by 12 foot reproduction of The Daily Iowan he's making for Associated Students of Journalism. It will hang behind Charlie Agnew's band at the annual Journalism all-university party. Dick, we have discovered, is quite a fellow. It takes quite a fellow to tackle a job such as this one. A graduate of Roosevelt high school in Des Moines, Dick is a sophomore. His distinctive cartoons appear regularly in FRIVOL, Iowa's monthly magazine of college life.

Desk for Junior

To keep him out of his own drawing utensils, Dick Spencer Sr. bought Dick Spencer Jr. a little replica of his own desk, equipped it with pencils and pads, and started his son on his grins.

Now Dick's headed for the top himself, very meticulously and via the road of painstaking labor. But he enjoys every minute of it.

Dick is one of these fellows who knows exactly where he wants to go and how to get there. So you can look for his name up in the ranks of Norman Rockwell, the Saturday Evening Post's ace cartoonist, his favorite commercial artist, one of these days.

In the meantime he's spending much of his time with the young rascallion of FRIVOL fame—he perfected a certain cartoon used last year in FRIVOL. Perfection is a by-word with him. If it isn't there, his stuff just doesn't look right to him.

That Favorite Character
But more about this favorite character of Dick's, and Dick himself is carrying on by putting the finishing touches to his character's bow tie so that he'll look right for the Pica Ball tomorrow night.

Dick admits that his favorite character possesses certain characteristics of his roommate and himself. For one thing you seldom see Dick without a bow tie. But the characters go beyond dress. They're to be found in facial contours too.

Roommate Gene does a lot of modeling for Dick. One day last year Dick had Gene standing for hours in an ROTC uniform while he perfected a certain cartoon used last year in FRIVOL. Perfection is a by-word with him. If it isn't there, his stuff just doesn't look right to him.

That Favorite Character
But more about this favorite character of Dick's, and Dick himself is carrying on by putting the finishing touches to his character's bow tie so that he'll look right for the Pica Ball tomorrow night.

He first appeared last year, smiling and bow-tied, in a freshman numeral sweater on a page of FRIVOL.

He appeared in a numeral partially due, Dick thinks, to the EXCEPT that Dick hoped himself to win a freshman numeral sweater. He did—in swimming, partially due, Dick thinks, to the example set by his own character.

That idea, carried out widely enough, would settle a lot of international problems.

Dick's young Personality—Without a name carried on in this month's FRIVOL, and Dick himself is carrying on by putting the finishing touches to his character's bow tie so that he'll look right for the Pica Ball tomorrow night.

He first appeared last year, smiling and bow-tied, in a fresh-

China, Single-Handed, Holds Japan to Stalemate—Says Bose

"China has succeeded single-handed in bringing a first-class world power to a stalemate," Dr. Sudhindra Bose of the political science department pointed out last night at the meeting of the Iowa Council for Peace and the Preservation of Democracy.

Over a million Japanese soldiers have invaded China in an effort to carve out an empire by force, he said, adding that the destruction, casualties and human suffering of the Asiatic conflict has dwarfed the European war.

gle since Japan has joined the axis powers.

"For three and one-half years China has had to fight the industrial interests of the United States and Great Britain, and Japan's advance has been strengthened by the commodities sold her by these nations."

"The most remarkable thing in the struggle is that China, a pacifist nation, has been able to halt a first-class warlike country. China has become stronger, more independent and self-confident through resistance," he pointed out.

Dodgers Acquire Owens; Cincinnati Gets 3 Cubs

Brooks Finally Find Catcher; Trade Mancuso

Reds Swap Myers for Gleeson, Mattick, Later-Named Player

By JUDSON BAILEY

ATLANTA, Dec. 4 (AP)—The trading tempo of baseball's big winter meetings reached top speed today with completion of two major deals in the National League and the rumored nearing of several others.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, continuing their fabulous spending in an effort to build up a pennant winner, acquired the coveted catcher, Mickey Owen, from the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for Catcher Gus Mancuso, rookie pitcher John Pintar and a "large amount" of money, variously estimated at $65,000 or $75,000.

Before this deal was two hours old the world champion Cincinnati Reds, who had come to town telling everybody they weren't interested in the trade mart, gave up Billy Myers, their 30-year-old shortstop to the Chicago Cubs for outfielder Jim Gleeson, shortstop Bobby Mattick and an additional player to be named later. No cash was involved.

Confusion Reigns

The net effect of these swaps was to confuse everybody at the 39th annual convention of the minor leagues and make the National league outlook for 1941 a charming uncertainty.

At the first glance it looked like the Dodgers benefited most in their transaction with David Harum Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon getting the money they like so well, while the Reds and Cubs broke about even.

The money paid in the Owen deal goes on the same side of the Brooklyn ledger as the $150,000 they put out to get outfielder Joe Medwick from the Cardinals and the $100,000 they gave the impoverished Phillies last month for pitcher Kirby Higbe.

And Players Yet

There were players given in addition to the cash in each instance, and in spite of this tremendous outlay, President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers still was the most active bargainer in Atlanta tonight.

He was hidden away with President Bill Benswanger and Manager Frank Frisch of the Pittsburgh Pirates and was known to be striving to get an outfielder, of which the Pirates have seven. Pittsburgh wants a pitcher badly and may come out of the huddle with Luke (Hot Potato) Hemlin, who is not one of the Dodgers' chosen people.

Brooklyn wanted Gleeson, but Cincinnati cooked that one. The Reds' one weakness last year was lack of hitting and Gleeson, 27 years old and just finished with his second campaign in the majors, batted .313 in 129 games last season besides playing fine defensive ball.

Myers Had Slumped

Myers, although he was the former captain of the Reds and a valued player, slumped to 201 in hitting in 1940 and played in only 90 games. His bad season had cooled off his popularity of the year before among fans in the Rhineeland city and his loss will be no major blow.

Walter Todd Leads Sprints

Competition in the annual sprint sextathlon, consisting of the 30-, 40-, 50-, 60-, 70- and 80-yard dashes, has reached the end of the first day's events in both the varsity and freshman divisions.

Walter Todd, Henderson, Tex., leads the varsity with a total time of 8.4 seconds, followed closely by his brother, Ralph, with 8.5 seconds.

Lee Farmer, Negro speedster from Maywood, Ill., paces the freshman competitors with a total time of 8.4 seconds.

Kouba Wins Triathlon

Assistant Coach Ted Swenson announced last night that Wilson Kouba in the varsity event, and Harold Hughes in the freshman event, had won the annual weight triathlon.

H. C. "Moon" Mullen finished second to Kouba, and Art Schlauder came in third. Al Smoldt was runnerup to Hughes, while John Ross was a close third.

Hawklets Face Davenport Five In Loop Tilt

Valley Cage League Begins 13th Season Tomorrow Evening

The Mississippi Valley basketball conference begins its 13th year as six of the nine member teams clash tomorrow night. Besides the Iowa City-Davenport game on the Red and White floor, McKinley of Cedar Rapids will play at Clinton while West Waterloo's cagers travel to Cedar Rapids to meet the Franklin Thunderbolts.

In addition to the above games, all other conference schools will play non-conference opponents Friday night. Included among these will be Dubuque at Freeport, Ill., Independence at East Waterloo and Roosevelt (Cedar Rapids) at Marshalltown.

Coach Paul Moon, Davenport coach for the 13 years the conference has been organized, brings his aggregation of last-year conference champions to Iowa City with a team he considers better than last year's. Of the nine Blue Devil lettermen returning, Popp, Kelling, Seiffert and Olds graduate at mid-year. Three of last year's regulars, Gadien, Nagel and Rathjen, were lost by graduation.

In the Little Hawk camp, also with prospects of a better quintet than last season's, Coach Francis Merten is putting his boys through extensive drills in preparation for the game Friday night. Leading scorer of the Hawklets is Capt. Ray Sullivan who in the three non-conference games played so far this year has scored a total of 53 points.

Latest victim of the Merten men were the Washington Demons who fell before the City high onslaught Tuesday night by the score of 37-16. Coach Peck Geneva's Washingtonians were not able to get started even though Iowa City substitutes played a big part of the game. Geneva, former Clinton high mentor, is in his first year at the Demon school.

A week from Friday, Dec. 13, the Red and Whites will travel to Cedar Rapids to meet another conference rival, Roosevelt. The next home game after the Davenport tilt Friday will be Dec. 20 when the locals clash with West Waterloo.

Brechler Seeks Team's Strength

Coach Paul Brechler will send his surprisingly strong U-High bunch against an untried Teachers High of Cedar Falls quintet there Saturday night, with an assignment which will show the Blues for what they are—winners or losers.

Last week, against a Vinton crew which was rated an easy winner over U-High, Brechler's boys played heady, scrappy basketball to win going away from Coach Howard Moffitt's five. If no, the Blue Hawks looked good in that game, and the test before them will undoubtedly bring out their full strength.

Last night in practice, Brechler gave his squad an intensive fundamentals drill, before turning them loose on a fraternity team. The Blue Hawks more than held their own, and showed promise of developing into a high-scoring combination.

Cyclones Whip Cornell

AMES, Ia. (AP)—Iowa State defeated the Cornell college basketball team, 37 to 22, in a rugged game which opened the season for both teams. The Cyclones took command midway in the first period, and by half-time had stretched their lead to 19 to 7. Cornell rallied at the beginning of the second half, but the closest they were able to come to Iowa State was 30 to 28.

Relays Date Set

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—The thirty-second annual Drake relays will be held here April 25 and 26, Director M. E. (Bill) Easton announced last night. The program will include special events in honor of Drake university's sixtieth anniversary.

ATLANTA (AP)—Spencer Dean of minor league managers, became pilot of the Williamsport team in the Eastern league yesterday. Abbott, nearing his 38th year in baseball and his 36th as a manager, succeeds Fresco Thompson, Club Secretary J. Roy Clunk announced.

To give both financial and technical help for developing Rumanian industries, to cooperate in improving Rumania's transport systems, including railways, highways and pipelines.

To give financial credits to private Rumanian banks so that they might participate in the program; to send both agricultural and industrial experts to Rumania.

To sustain permanent and dependable markets for Rumanian products and to protect those markets from "the vagaries of economic crises."

"Both governments," said the official statement, "announce with satisfaction that German-Rumanian cooperation in all contemplated phases already has begun. They are determined to continue this cooperation in the interest of both peoples."

For weeks large numbers of German troops—some estimates putting it as high as 500,000 men—have been quartered in Rumania, keeping guard, among other things, on Rumanian oil production.

(Conditions approaching anarchy have been reported from various parts of Rumania in recent days because of the revenge-taking by the native fascist group known as the iron guard upon politicians associated with the regime of the deposed King Carol.)

tempt to determine the cause of the crash.

The crash was the second Airplane accident within a month. On Nov. 4, 10 occupants of a UAL plane were killed when the snap hit a Utah mountainside.

The only other fatal crash of an airliner within the last 20 months was that of a Pennsylvania Central airline plane which carried 25 persons to death in a crash near Lovettsville, Va., last Aug. 31.

Until the Pennsylvania Central crash, most disastrous in point of lives lost in the history of American commercial aviation, there had not been a fatal accident on commercial airlines in 17 months and four days.

William A. Patterson, president of United, said he had ordered a full investigation and would remain at the airport "until morning."

if necessary."

"I can't understand this plane hitting a power line," he declared.

Richard Rocas, an attendant at the Northwest airlines hangar at the airport, said the plane's approach to the field was "perfectly normal" and that it looked as though the pilot would land easily.

"But suddenly I heard the motors roar," he said. "The plane's nose dipped down and it turned slightly to the left. Then it hit the ground at about 84th street and Cicero avenue and broke into flames at once."

Edward Fisher, who resides near the scene, said he saw a red flare drop from the plane. Sensing trouble, he rushed toward the airport but that the plane swooped down and crashed so suddenly I couldn't tell how it happened."

Burning Plane

Fisher said about 25 persons reached the scene ahead of him and everyone hesitated to enter the burning plane because wires were down around it.

"Another fellow and I opened the door of the plane and went in," he said. "There were flames in the front part of the ship, the cabin. We pulled out the stewardess and Haig (a passenger). Haig said he believed his arm was broken. He was able to walk to an ambulance.

"I pulled a big fellow out of the cabin, but he seemed to be burned to death."

Manville's condition was reported critical several hours after the accident.

Woodbury, a New York financier, told police that the plane had circled the airport for several minutes when he noticed that one wing "tipped" badly. A woman screamed, he was quoted as saying, and the next thing he knew he was lying on the ground underneath the plane.

Haig's injuries were limited to a fractured arm and singed hair.

Scott, 34 years old, once was a University of Minnesota hockey star, captaining the Gopher team of 1923. He graduated from the university and took naval air training at Pensacola, Fla. Shortly afterward he began flying for United. His widow and a two-year-old son survive.

Mail Packages Before Rush, Barrow Says

Do your Christmas shopping and mailing early!

That was the advice offered to Iowa Citians yesterday by Postmaster W. J. Barrow as the local office prepared to handle the holiday rush.

"During the holiday season, mail volume increases nearly 200 per cent," Barrow said, "and it is impossible to handle it efficiently and promptly within a few days."

To be sure that greeting cards, letters and gifts reach their destinations by Christmas day, Barrow suggested all such matter be in the mails at least 10 days early.

For mail traveling great distances, even more time should be given, the postmaster said.

Following an early mailing schedule not only assures mailed matter to reach its destination in ample time but also is a great help to the postal system and post office employees working under the pressure of a holiday rush, he added.

The State University of Iowa yesterday cleared itself of a three-year delinquency in interest payments on the long-standing stadium bond issue by paying $96,000 to the Iowa Des Moines National Park and Trust company, bank officials disclosed.

Estimating that its net receipts for the 1940-41 athletic program would total $113,654, the board in control of athletics here decided to make the payment at a special meeting this week. The interest payments were in default for 1937-38 and 39.

Steel Giant to Store Iowa City Water

Construction of the million-gallon water reservoir shown above, located north and east of the N. Summit-Dodge intersection, is rapidly nearing completion. The reservoir is 75 feet in diameter and 32 feet high. Work on the concrete base was begun by O. H. Dunlap and Son last October and in early November the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company began work on the steel skeleton work.

An underground booster station for the reservoir is being constructed near the corner of Dodge and Brown streets. The purpose of the reservoir is to furnish the surrounding area with a higher and more uniform water pressure and to provide an extra supply of water in case of emergencies, according to Verne C. Schillig, auditor of the Iowa Water Service company.

Gas Heating System of City Explained by Roy Weekes

With the necessity for efficient operation of heating units growing as winter weather continues, Roy Weekes, engineer for the Iowa City Light and Power company, yesterday reviewed the city's system of gas heating.

Gas heating units in Iowa City now number over 500. Weekes estimated. About 15 million families, half the population of the nation, use gas for cooking, refrigerating and heating purposes. Two thousand companies furnish the fuel.

The fuel used in Iowa City is piped underground from the Panhandle district of Texas, the engineer revealed.

Weekes explained that very little attention is needed for the average gas heating plant in homes. The local utility company inspects safety controls, adjusts burners and sets thermostats for Iowa City consumers at the start of each heating season.

"After a preliminary going over, the units tend themselves," Weekes said.

Strict company requirements on types of burners used and methods of installation, the engineer said, protect home-owners against possible failure later on.

He warned that leaking gas, no matter how slight, should not go unremedied. A call to company offices will bring trained "trou-
