British, Italian Clash in East

1,000 Fascists Captured in Big Surprise Raid

Large Scale British Offensive Expected On Egyptian Front

By EDWARD KENNEDY
WITH BRITISH FORCES IN EGYPT, Dec. 9 (AP)—Britain's armored desert fighters, striking at dawn with new and sudden fury against Italy's invaders in Egypt, captured 1,000 prisoners by nightfall, killed their commanding officers and seized his assistant, the British command announced tonight as fighting went on.

This "great raid" against Marshal Graziani's legions in the Sidi Barrani region, 70 miles from Libya's frontiers, possibly heralded the full-fledged offensive against Italy because of its gearing with Italian reverses at the hands of the Greeks in Albania.

Fighting still swirled south of Sidi Barrani late tonight, and more Italian prisoners were being rounded up, the British said. An Italian camp at Mabeya, a few miles south of Sidi Barrani, the coastal base the Italians occupied three months ago, yielded 500 prisoners, the British said.

Main Thrust
That many more were reported captured about 30 miles from the coast. This attack, on the Italian right flank, apparently was the main thrust and other British units surged around it and pressed on westward behind the Italian advance lines.

The staff of Lt.-Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander of Britain's middle eastern forces, gave no indication as to how extensive the operation would become, but showed high pleasure at the first day's results. The number of prisoners taken in a single day's fighting perhaps was the best gauge of the extent of combat.

For weeks British armored units have been probing Italy's defenses, even employing camels in one extended operation deep into Italian Libyan sands.

Many observers believed today's blow was the beginning of operations designed to trap the main Italian body of troops at coastal Sidi Barrani—a strike made while Premier Mussolini juggled his high command.

"Following Italy's debacle in Albania at the hands of the Greeks it's evident that the moment has been well chosen to make Marshal Graziani fight," one British military observer said.

The RAF was participating inland and the British navy off the Italian-held coast, it was reported.

The British offensive, described only as a "great raid," was the result of careful planning in utmost secrecy. Preparations were carried out in the dead of night. Troops moved supplies—including gasoline—across eight miles of no man's land and buried them under the sands.

Fascist General
A new Italian offensive is expected under the command of pro-Nazi General Ugo Cavallero, who succeeded Marshal Pietro Badoglio as chief of the fascist general staff. Gen. Cavallero had been commanding troops on the Italian French front.

Foreign Minister of Japan Sees No Need for Armed Conflict With U.S.

By MAX HILL
TOKYO, Dec. 9 (AP)—Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka declared today there is no need for current differences between Japan and the United States to lead to an armed clash "if both of us attend to our own business."

"It would be foolish for the United States and Japan to fight; I will make every effort to avoid such a conflict," Matsuoka said in an interview in which he freely discussed Japan's foreign relations with every nation except Soviet Russia.

"I do not blame westerners for misunderstanding our activities in China," he went on. "We are far away and it appears at present that we are not minding our own business, but the future will show our true intentions."

"However, I do not see any possibility at this time of altering our policy in China, even if it brings the prospect of bettering our relations with the United States, because we are convinced we are doing right."

Matsuoka declared the German-Italian-Japanese alliance to be the keystone of Japan's foreign policy and said his country would not "quibble" in going to the defense of Germany and Italy should the occasion arise.

He answered most questions put to him, but parried those regarding the status of Japanese-Russian negotiations, saying merely that they are "going on."

Also, in defining the extent of Japan's program for a "greater East Asia," he said only that it "extended beyond Japan, Manchoukuo and China."

Briton Reports Finance Status To Morgenthau

Decision on Credits Not Made Yet, Says American Secretary

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, was invited to Secretary Morgenthau's home tonight to present in private the facts of Britain's financial position.

But Morgenthau said in advance that he had "not been authorized to make any commitments" on extension of credits or other aid to England and that no statement would be available after the conference.

The American treasury chief said that the administration had not "made up its mind yet" on the question of British assistance and that Sir Frederick was merely presenting the "facts" of his country's resources and war expenses.

Morgenthau added that the British had made no "formal or informal" request for financial help. He would not comment on recent statements of British needs by Lord Lothian, British ambassador.

Sir Frederick had been scheduled to present a "balance sheet" of British resources and the cost of supplies in the United States at the treasury department during the day but this appointment was cancelled in favor of the night session at Morgenthau's home.

"Another Cornwallis"
In the senate meanwhile, Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) said Phillips was "another Cornwallis." The Englishman, he added, was a director of the Royal Insurance Co., Ltd., and the Liverpool and London Insurance Co. Ltd., these concerns, Holt added, control a number of American companies which have directors on American banks and corporations.

"This drive to get us into war has somewhat of a financial tinge," Holt said. "British finance now exerts pressure on our American business."

Senator Clark (D-Mo) and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) criticized the treasury for making loans to other nations from the stabilization fund. Such loans for China and Argentina were recently announced, and as a preliminary to the Chinese advance Morgenthau obtained the approval of the house and senate banking committees. Some have suggested that a loan to Great Britain could be made from the stabilization fund.

Vandenberg said that he was not discussing the desirability of any particular loan, but only the method of making it. The stabilization fund was "not intended to be an international kitty for the purpose of making international loans indiscriminately," he said, and the action of the committees was insufficient to legalize the loan to China.

Vandenberg urged that the treasury be required to make periodic reports to congress on its use of the stabilization fund.

Clark said the fund had become "a new lending agency, contrary to the spirit and the purpose of the law."

Officers Say Fascists In Wild Rout

Monarch Praises Army Commanders, Men For Victories

VALONA NEXT PRIZE

ATHENS, Dec. 9 (AP)—The entire right wing behind the Greek-occupied port of Porto Edda has been put to flight and a whole series of strategically important peaks in the northern sector of the front has been captured by the Greeks, a government spokesman declared tonight.

The spokesman said that the Italian right wing had been put to flight since yesterday noon. The Greek warriors, with a fifth of Albania's territory behind them, were making a vast twin drive against the Italian armies between them and the port of Valona, the city they expect to be their next big prize.

King Is Proud
King George addressed his congratulations to Greek commanders and soldiers, declaring he was "full of joy for the occupation of Argirocastro and proud of the new brilliant victories of my army."

Occupation of Argirocastro was a "victory both of great military and moral importance," he said. "The government spokesman said 'in the north the enemy has been compelled to abandon important strategic positions and withdraw in full flight after fierce attacks by our troops. If the enemy was able to avoid annihilation it was due to bad weather.'"

The flight of Italians was general along the entire front he declared.

Passing Argirocastro, last of Italy's southern Albanian bases which was captured Sunday, the Greeks swiftly organized their campaign aimed for the east and south toward Valona, 40 miles northwest, an entry point for fascist men and supplies.

Exact positions were withheld as military secrets.

"On to Valona!"
The Greeks shouted, coupling this slogan with their battle cry of "Tirana by Christmas." Tirana, Albania's capital, some 60 miles above Valona, is the object of another Greek drive from the east.

The immediate objective of both drives was Tepeleni, a road junction, about 20 miles from Valona. The army fighting in the south reported fierce resistance from the Italian rear guard, strongly entrenched to cover the retreat of the main fascist body to the north and west.

Spurring the Italian withdrawal were constant charges from Greek cavalry and harassing raids by planes with machine-guns and bombs.

The Valona campaign developed as all Greece joined in a three-day celebration over the capture of Argirocastro, two days after the fall of Italy's southernmost Albanian port, Porto Edda. Shaming Greek enthusiasm was news of President Roosevelt's promise to help the embattled Balkan kingdom.

"Mr. Roosevelt's message is causing joy through the entire Greek nation as showing the extent of friendship and mutual assistance existing between our people."

Fascist Magazine Sharply Protests Price Rise Of Necessities While Wages Remain Unaltered

High Command Admits Fall of Agirocastro; Quiet on Egyptian Fight

ROME, Dec. 9 (AP)—A sharp protest against steeply rising prices of necessities in Italy was published today in the Italian monthly magazine Lavita while on the military front the high command confirmed the fall-back of fascist troops from Argirocastro, Albania.

Meanwhile, the day passed without new resignations or replacements in the military command or government, although some observers expect further changes.

Whether a major battle was under way in Egypt as indicated by Cairo dispatches could not be confirmed in authoritative quarters.

Also, a British report that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani had asked to be relieved of his command in Africa could not be confirmed. That report was said to appear doubtful, however, in view of a telegram Marshal Graziani sent fascist headquarters thanking them for greetings sent two days ago and saying his troops joined him in "raising" their thoughts to Mussolini "in certainty of victory."

Lavita Italiana, published by Roberto Farinacci, secretary of the fascist party and member of the fascist grand council, said it costs "more than double" to dress this year compared with last year's prices before Italy entered the war.

"The crescendo continues," the publication said.

"With things increasing at this rate are wages and salaries to remain unaltered? Is there anyone who imagines prices are blocked and profiteers have disappeared while the mass of people are submitting with admirable discipline to the limitation in their standard of living?"

Confident on Morale
Authorities expressed confidence in the Italian morale. They said the shake-up in the high command would "give the gas" to the military machine for a faster and more efficient war.

Foreign reports of riots in Italian cities were denied as "ridiculous and without foundation."

Taking notice of interpretations abroad that the shake-up showed a weakening of the Italian morale, fascist authorities declared in a statement that "this uproar, if anything, will only sharpen the will to victory of the Italian people and their reverent and absolute faith" in Mussolini and his commanders.

"No one has ever thought of denying in Italy that the undertaking of its liberating war is vast and arduous and that in it might be harder moments," the statement said. "But the same organs which have seized on the pretext of the change in the high command to look for dangerous symptoms and indications of pressure and discord and the possibility of delays, are drawing from them with too evident joy catastrophic forecasts for the future."

AFL Strike Ties Up Construction Work on $4,500,000 Home of War Dept.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Mich said in a statement that construction was being held up "because the union men cannot decide who of their number is to do the work." He added:

"They are union men and they are holding up our defense while they quarrel among themselves as to who is to do a particular job."

Earlier, Hoffman said in a house speech that "union racketeers" were delaying national preparedness and increasing the cost. He asked what the difference was between a man who blows up ammunition factories and one who "bars the gates against the man who would operate the plant."

About the same time Isador Lubin, labor department statistician, told a house committee investigating labor migration that both labor and industry should be consulted on their record so far in the defense program.

There have been fewer strikes in the first five months of the year than in the same period last year.

British Pilots Drop Bombs On German U-Boat Bases

Direct Hits Believed Scored on Bordeaux Submarine Lair

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP)—British bombers dropped tons of high explosive bombs on the Bordeaux raid of German U-boats which scored direct hits on some submarines moored at the main work dock, the air ministry news service said in its report of last night's raids by the royal air force upon Germany's war machine.

Other RAF bombers caused "great destruction" at Duesseldorf, Germany's second most important steel center, it declared, and raided the submarine base at the German-occupied French port of Lorient, the harbors of Brest, Flushing, Dunkerque and Gravelines, and "several enemy airdromes."

The news service said the Germans were using Bordeaux as a base for submarine attacks in the Atlantic in "their much advertised 'new phase of the war.'"

(This was taken to mean Germany's declaration of a stringent blockade of Britain by air and sea.)

In the other raids last night, the British said, the entire Duesseldorf area was pelted with hundreds of incendiary bombs and heavy bombs were dropped on steel works.

(However, foreign correspondents were flown from Berlin to Duesseldorf to survey the city after the raids. They said they saw no evidence that the steel center had been crippled by the attacks.)

Court Will Pass On Legal Status Of A. S. C. A. P.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The supreme court today promised a decision which may clarify the legal status of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP), whose current dispute with the broadcasting companies threatens to bar all its music from the air.

The tribunal agreed to review litigation between ASCAP and the state of Nebraska in which this issue arose:

Is ASCAP a legitimate organization of song-writers and composers formed to protect their rights under the copyright law and to provide a practical collection agency for royalties whenever their music is played?

Or is ASCAP an illegal monopoly to fix and control prices for the music and for commercial performances?

The society controls the performance rights of all music by its members, who include such favorites as Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Jerome Kern and the late Victor Herbert and George Gershwin. The radio companies have paid ASCAP at flat fee for the right to use the music it controls but refused to meet demands for higher payments when current contracts expire, and they set out to develop their own source of music, especially popular songs, from new composers.

Hitler Will Speak to Workers Of Reich From War Factory

Observers See Chance That Fuehrer Might Tell Plan to Aid Italy

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Exactly a month after announcing Germany was strong enough to meet any combination of nations in the world, Adolph Hitler will speak today to the workers of the Reich.

The fuhrer's speech will come close on the heels of the heaviest attack yet launched against London.

DNB, official German news agency, announced that Hitler would speak at noon (4 a.m., C.S.T.) in a war industry factory to the workers.

It said the speech would be carried over all broadcasting stations.

It was expected Hitler would devote at least part of the address to reminding workers that Germany had delivered smashing blows in past months against London's war industries without receiving in return any approximation of similar bombardment.

Rejected Compromise
In the last speech, made in Munich before the comrades of the unsuccessful 1923 putsch, the fuhrer declared "I reject now and here any compromise."

Whether the speech would be merely to encourage the workers to carry on in the face of the advancing winter or may be a prelude to widening the war was not known in advance.

Lacking any formal occasion for a talk, such as a special anniversary, observers could only speculate that something special was in the wind, including the possibility that he might announce a plan to aid Italy in what has developed into a tough assignment against Greece.

Recent days the foreign press has carried intimations that peace proposals are in the offing but none of these has found a comfortable resting place in Germany, where authoritative spokesmen have brushed them aside.

Germans Fail To Raid London Or Other Cities

LONDON, Dec. 10 (Tuesday) (AP)—Although a brilliant moon lighted the English channel early today German warplanes failed to follow up their previous night's savage assault on London or other parts of Britain.

There were no alarms nor reports of raiders up to midnight.

The authoritative British Press Association speculated that retaliatory RAF raids or a German desire to marshal its forces en masse for a series of heavy blows later might explain the interlude, but concluded "the now constant guessing as to why the Luftwaffe fails to raid night after night still is without an authentic answer."

"There is nothing to report," was the welcome news given by the government at the end of this raidless, alarmless day.

The Germans apparently attempted to come over, for the ministry of information announced an enemy bomber was shot down in the afternoon over the North sea.

Civilians Will Guard Navy Yards; to Free Marines for Fighting

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The army and navy acted today to free their fighting forces as far as possible from routine guard duty during war time.

James Forrestal, acting secretary, announced that the navy was creating a civilian force to take over police duties in navy yards and establishments. About 2,500 men will be selected for a force to be headed by Jerome Doyle, former federal bureau of investigation agent and recently on the staff of United States Attorney John T. Cahill of New York.

In a step interpreted as intended to encourage creation of state guards, the war department announced that such forces could obtain World War rifles from the government for the cost of packing and transporting them.

85 Perform in 'Abe Lincoln in Illinois'

By ED MANNION
No thesaurus is needed in venturing an account of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

University theater took advantage of its opportunities last night with Robert Sherwood's Pulitzer prize-winning play, and a huge cast of 85 students in period costumes gave it a memorable performance.

As directed by Prof. E. C. Mabie and Bess Whitcomb, the play moved through its 12 scenes at a measured pace which swiftened perceptibly with vigorous third act. It proved a happy divorce though it took a long time, for the story told of the hesitant, awkward years when the young Lincoln stumbled forward neither believing in himself nor realizing his destiny.

Two problems were inherent in the more than three-hour drama of how the Great Emancipator got that way. Not only was atmosphere necessary, but many episodes had to dovetail perfectly so their force could become cumulative.

Last night's production was successful especially in drawing together the episodes—spanning from a New Salem post office to the White House—and much of the credit goes to the quick, smooth scene changes engineered by Arnold S. Gillette and his assistants.

Clark Kunej, playing his great-uncle, dominated the cast as Abe Lincoln. His fine talent and remarkable technique carried him through scene after scene with only minor let-downs.

Kunej remained true to the author's intent by avoiding austerity and glorification, though one suspects that he endured the "B" part of a double feature in order to sit a second time through the motion picture version of the play starring Raymond Massey.

But his was a gently human Lincoln, one who could easily tell a shady story to a wayside farmer possessing a vote. He was good with wry lines like those which first introduce the Todds:

"They spell their name with two D's—which is pretty impressive when one considers that one was enough for God."

The supporting cast was almost uniformly excellent. Lois Tallman as Ann Rutledge proved that rare creature, a girl with an effective voice. Ruth Weber played an ungrateful part as Mary Todd, Lincoln's wife who based her marriage on ambition and saw it increase in bitterness.

Special words of praise should go to Richard Smith's Ninian Edwards, Michael Enseroff's Stephen Douglas, Arden Sutherland's Mentor Graham, James Andrew's William Herndon, Ted Ritter's Ben Mattling and William Porter's Judge Bowling Green.

What Will Yugoslavia Do?

The success of the little Greek army in pounding back time after time at an admittedly superior Italian force, probably resulting in Il Duce's decision to rid his forces of Badoglio in favor of a younger chief, has overshadowed the importance of the role of another little Balkan country, Yugoslavia.

Up to now, Yugoslavia has remained neutral. Albania in the war and the boom of guns almost within earshot of Belgrade have not influenced a Yugoslavian change in policy.

But observers report that nazi activity in Yugoslavia may result in that country's alignment with the axis powers, thereby opening an important and strategic avenue of attack at little Greece.

Britain's treatment of the Albanian matter has been predicated upon the idea that rebellious Albanians might harass fascist troops operating there. So, under British instigation, contraband arms began to filter through the Yugoslavian border.

Suddenly Monastir was bombed; it was proved Italian airmen were responsible. The difficulty was patched up between Italy and Yugoslavia, but Germany objected.

Hitler's government didn't like this filtration of arms. Germany, her hands full with Britain on the western front, apparently cannot afford more than moral support to the invasion of Greece by Mussolini. But naturally she wants to win in Greece, to break British influence there.

Germany has resorted to her usual under-cover means. Yugoslavia presumably will align herself with the axis within a fortnight, perhaps a bit later. But there doesn't seem to be much else she can do.

Then, remaining in the near east as British allies will be Greece and Turkey, although neither of these countries loses any love for the other.

Dark days are ahead for the English, unless some new surprise pops up to astonish the world and nip Hitler's plans further. Greece has been surprise Number One.

Second Destroyer Episode

Shrewd diplomatic observers in Washington expected something more significant of Vice-President-Elect Henry Wallace's trip to Mexico City than a few well chosen words expressing continental solidarity between Mexico and the United States.

The "authoritative source" which reported from Mexico City that this government is planning to repeat a move made with Great Britain a few months ago may or may not have been Mr. Wallace or a member of his party. But it is entirely probable.

What the state department plans to do is to exchange several old type destroyers for valuable concessions and naval rights south of the border. This is another move, it is pointed out, in the attempt to strengthen American defense of the Panama canal and key shipping ports along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

It may be a wise move. If we can trade off used and unsatisfactory vessels for anchorage and defense rights in Caribbean ports, (assuming such vessels are of no practical value to the United States) we are forging another link in the chain of the defense of the American lifeline, which is weakest between Cristobal and Colon.

If Mr. Wallace and his entourage are able to complete the arrangements, the Mexico City episode will be regarded as the most significant American diplomatic coup in recent years, with the possible exception of the trade with Britain.

Odd Accidents of 1940

Each year the National Safety council produces a roundup of odd accidents which have happened throughout the country in the past 12 months.

The 1940 crop is a good one.

Public Safety, the council's magazine, carries the story in its new issue, out today. We'll mere begin today by reporting one of the accidents, with others to follow. The words are those of Paul Jones of the National Safety council.

Some of these odd accidents are amusing. Others are tragic. Put them all together and you find that Fate, the master showman, has produced again a literal hit parade of the year—the Oddities of 1940.

Chief Clerk John Donnelly of the Cleveland municipal court is quite a reader and frequently has his nose in a book. But one March day this year he had his nose in book ends—and it wasn't comfortable.

Mr. Donnelly was moving several books, in book ends, from one table to another. The books began to slip and he tried to push them back between the book ends with his chin. But the books fell anyway, and the book ends came plopping together with Mr. Donnelly's nose between them.

Accident Number One: One injured nose.

Learning About Living

TO THE EDITOR,

I was just looking at some old magazines and I came across one with a page of noteworthy remarks by noted people. Among them was one by Mark Twain—I don't remember it word for word, but it went something like this: "When I was fourteen I thought the old man was pretty dumb, but by the time I was twenty-one it was surprising what he had learned in seven years."

You know, that's pretty true, once you stop and think about it—the folks seem a lot wiser to me now than they did when I was about fourteen. I can see their point about such things as taking the car alone after dark, going to dances in distant towns and staying home nights—but it surely seemed pretty narrow-minded to me at the time.

And that humor of Dad's—honestly, I used to think I'd scream if he used that old gag about killing rabbits by running them into a log he'd painted so it looked hollow. According to him (and he'd swear it was the gospel truth) they'd hit their heads so hard they were killed instantly and he didn't have to kill them. I remember wondering how Mom could sit there and laugh just like it was the first time she'd heard it every time he told it. Yes, I can understand about that now, and the joke seems a little funny to me, for all the use it's had.

I guess I can understand a lot of things about living that I was too impatient to give any thought to when I was busy being wise.

Mom's wonderful ability to never remember makes and years of cars used to be one of my pet peeves, too. It seemed to me that any intelligent person should be able to identify a car that way. But gosh, now I can't even come close to guessing, sometimes. I wonder why it even seemed so important then.

Yes, I believe the folks have really learned a lot in the past few years—it's funny, too, because they haven't changed a bit!

Yours truly,
Nancy

A Man About MANHATTAN

One of the Nicest Things Which Could Be Said of Anyone—

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—So many odd and irresponsible utterances are made about people in public and in professional life these days, especially about authors and actors around Broadway, that when something really gracious or constructive is said you have to sit up and take notice.

I have in mind one instance where a well-known dramatist publicly denounced the newspaper critics as incompetent and degenerate.

I have in mind another where a dramatist announced that he, and he alone, of all the playwrights associated with the theater, possessed the skill and ability to write a perfect play.

I recall public face-slappings between authors who flatly accused each other of plagiarism, and I have seen hair-pullings between prominent women who shouted epithets that the newspapers could not print.

So, when you find anyone who goes out of his way to say a lovely and a gracious thing about one of his contemporaries these days I find it exhilarating and worth repeating; more than that, in this instance at least, it is worth framing and hanging on the wall.

I am referring to a passage in Louis Nizer's recent book, "Thinking on Your Feet," about Fannie Hurst. Mr. Nizer is a lawyer and a successful one. His clients are chiefly stars and Hollywood producers. He knows a lot of people, and has written about them. Of Fannie Hurst he says:

"I like to think of Miss Hurst not as a fine writer who happens to be a woman, but rather as a fine woman with a sense of social righteousness, whose art of expression encompasses writing."

That says everything. After re-reading it a couple of times, I found myself thinking, "I wish I had said that first."

If I were one of Miss Hurst's publishers I think I should frame that on a piece of parchment and hang it where everyone could see.

Much was made recently of the army maneuvers which saw troops using broomsticks for machine guns and packing cases for tanks.

Well, that makes Frank Morgan, or Monty Woolley, or any actor on Broadway burst out laughing every time they think about it. That's the accepted routine on Broadway. Actors never have anything to rehearse with, except empty theaters or draughty halls. In this case a hat thrown on the floor may become a fireplace, a cigarette case a picture, an upturned chair a safe. In dinner scenes the actors dine on make believe dishes, and in murder mysteries villains shoot each other with imaginary pistols. They never see live props until a few days before the opening.

But, even the actors admit there's a difference between playacting for fun and fighting for keeps.

Defense Momentum Will Hit Spring Peak

WASHINGTON — These deep

but not very dark meetings on British aid under the Morgenthau aegis are merely way clearers, according to the official inside story. Nothing outstanding is to be done immediately they say. The treasury secretary is merely canvassing new ways and means in advance for Mr. Roosevelt. The activity is heading up toward a decisive development in American policy after the first of the year.

Not even the negotiators are able to say yet how far this coming development will go, but it is being timed to be of maximum assistance to the British just before the opening of the spring drive. The date, February 1, has been mentioned frequently among those on the inside as the time toward which they are driving.

This, you will understand, is what apprehensive congressmen have been told and it is keeping them reasonably quiet.

NEW PROGRAM OF AID

A new program of what-to-do-next, formulated by the William Allen White committee, is contained in a personal letter which Committee-man Lewis Douglas has sent, soliciting funds from at least one prospective contributor.

As the White committee programs have eventually turned out to be government policy in the past, this letter has assumed important significance.

It is doubly significant for its omission of any open recommendation relating to credits, loans, or funds for the British, or of any step for conveying ships or for transfer of additional destroyers such as are now being publicly advocated.

Four steps are demanded: 1. Declaration of a national emergency by congress "if necessary" to achieve maximum American production for the British.

2. "Supplying" American merchant vessels and an immediate boat building program on as large a scale as in World war days.

3. Modification of all aspects of the neutrality legislation that have hampered British aid, and specific immediate repeal of laws prohibiting American enlistment in the Canadian forces (but presumably not in the British.) This, only inferentially, covers repeal of the carry provisions and credit restrictions.

4. A firm far eastern policy to protect Britain in that quarter, coupled with a "clear naval understanding with Great Britain which will permit the most advantageous placing of the two fleets."

IMPORTANT OBJECTIVES

The Douglas letter is dated Nov. 30, and concludes:

"If you believe that our first objective must be to help England win this battle for freedom and for civilization, and win it as quickly as possible, you will make it your concern above all others to see that Mr. White's committee achieves its new objectives. You will contribute and contribute liberally so that, to its past successes, may be added the achievement of this new program."

THE LABOR FRONT

Labor peace is now waiting to see what the new CIO head, Phil Murray, is going to do. And Mr. Murray apparently is only trying to interest the administration in backing a new campaign to organize certain large industries.

John Lewis' very live ghost is still hovering over the situation. Mr. Murray receives no remuneration for his new CIO office, gets only $18,000 annually as vice president of the United Mine Workers. Mr. Lewis is still president of that organization, and article IX, section 3 of the U.M.W. constitution says he can dismiss any subordinate for insubordination or other just causes.

SHIPBUILDING CENTERS

It has been decided but not yet announced that the new shipbuilding expansion program is to be centered on the gulf coast and the great lakes. A Louisiana congressional representative has been told to interest financial authorities in organizing new yards. The latest is that Mayor LaGuardia may not be invited down as secretary of war but will be groomed for the 1941 gubernatorial race against Dewey in New York. State department is opposed to accepting any more Caribbean territory from the British on the ground they are all economic bankrupts, but army and navy still want more bases.

YOU MAY MISS FAMILIAR TUNES AFTER JANUARY 1

If the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and the big U.S. broadcasters don't get together very shortly—by Jan. 1—America's millions of radio listeners won't hear most of their long-established favorite tunes on the air when the new year toddles in. Controlling the copyrights on the compositions of almost all the best known modern composers, including Irving Berlin, Cole Porter and the late John Phillip Sousa and Victor Herbert, ASCAP has demanded nearly a 100 per cent increase in the royalties it collects from the broadcasters for the use of these tunes. Objecting to the increase from $5,000,000 (in the expiring five-year contract) to $10,000,000 they would have to pay, most broadcasters have answered the demand with a determined "no." To lend emphasis to their word, they

The Film Heroes Just Can't Marry

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Don't lose any sleep over it, but some of our favorite screen characters haven't a chance for draft exemption even if they wanted it.
As sturdy screen heroes, they naturally wouldn't want exemption. But draft or no draft, you'd think they might like to get married—and they can't do it. They aren't allowed to think of it seriously, although they have their tender moments in every picture and some are permitted to go so far as to plan on matrimony.
You know these perennial celebrities—hard-working young Dr. Kildare, the Saint, Hopalong Cassidy, are the foremost. We might include Andy Hardy, although Andy's years include him as a real matrimonial problem for the present.

It's the writers who don't let them get married. The writers want to keep on writing about them, and—well, you know how marriage is. Look at Bulldog Drummond, who was doing all right until the time he took the fatal step. They called the movie "Bulldog Drummond's Wedding," and it was his last.

The Saint has a new girl in every picture. The sleuthing racial never lets himself become attached. Might spoil his footloose freedom.

Dr. Kildare almost wound himself up with his last picture. Planning that elopement with the nurse, and all. But they let the marriage dangle at the finish—and you and I know they won't get around to it in the next installment.

Harry Sherman, the Hopalong producer, has a letter from an exhibitor in a midwest town who tells about two Cassidy fans, both women.

They drive to the theater in a limousine and tell the chauffeur to wait. "Does Hoppy get married this time?" they ask the cashier.

Reassured that he doesn't, they motion the chauffeur on, buy their tickets, and go inside.

Tim Holt, Jack's sprout, is a western star himself now. He was doing a tough scene for "Along the Rio Grande"—a scene that needed some acting. He acquitted himself well in the eyes of an extra on the sidelines.

"That kid can act right around his old man already," the extra commented. "He's got places."

The man behind him smiled. "You bet he can act right around his old man," said Jack Holt.

Henry Hull, who created Jeeber Lester in "Tobacco Road," wasn't the type for the movie. Charley Grapewin, because of his grandpa in "The Grapes of Wrath," is doing the role instead.

"One nice thing about your FIRST picture," says Bob Croft, Bring's brother, "is that people around the studio don't mean it when they say 'Glad to meet you.'" (But "Let's Meet Music" already has put Bob on the list for another movie.)

Nazis Give London Worst Bombing of War

Officials Say Raid Shattered City's Defenses

Admit Ruhr Area Suffered 3-Month Blasting by British

BERLIN, Dec. 9 (AP) — "A great glowing sea of fire" that engulfed blocks of houses and grain elevators and warehouses was left by German bombers in their mightiest assault on London, the German high command declared today.

The 12-hour raid last night showered 700 tons of high explosives and 100 tons of fire bombs on government buildings, oil storage tanks, grain elevators and warehouses, the communique said.

The news agency, DNB, quoted returning pilots as having counted at least 40 major fires started within two hours after beginning the raid which other informed sources said shattered the defenses of London.

As these claims were made, the candid admission that the steel-producing Ruhr area had been subjected to a "test of nerves" lasting three months appeared in an article in the weekly magazine Das Reich.

Asserting that England was getting manyfold what its bombers had dealt out, the article continued:

"So British bombers flew over Duesseldorf, over Cologne, over Essen and over Dortmund night after night, for months. The German people in the west stood up under the cowardly attack. It was a test of nerves hard to hold out under because, except for short sentences in the high command report, these attacks were hardly noticed in the press.

"Some citizens in the industrial area properly asked themselves whether people in Berlin and elsewhere knew what it meant to sit every night in a cellar and yet the next day do a full day's work.

"Then came reprisals."

The Ruhr district, DNB said, was bombed last night by British planes "to give the appearance of embarking on counter action" to the London raid, but the chief result was said to have been two British planes shot down.

Reichs Marshal Goering's own plane was put at the disposal of foreign correspondents for a flight to Duesseldorf, No. 2 steel producing center of Germany.

They reported seeing no evidence either from the air or ground of crippling damage to the steel plants as claimed by the British. They said there were a few old shattered apartment houses, and about a block of blown windows, but docks along the Rhine and factories alike were working full blast.

'Defense Notes' Will Be Taxed By Government

Secretary Morgenthau Announces Half Billion Issue to Go on Sale

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Calling tax-exempt bonds "slacker money," Secretary Morgenthau announced today that a $500,000,000 issue of "national defense notes" going on sale Wednesday would be fully taxable.

The notes will be the first wholly taxable federal issue in history, and the treasury head made clear that they were intended to set a precedent to be followed hereafter. It is his intention, he said, to ask congress for authority to make all future federal securities taxable.

At a press conference, Morgenthau also indicated that he felt the treasury was facing the same sort of financing problems that it did during the World war and intended to utilize some methods employed then, including large-scale publicity campaigns to sell small bonds. He even endorsed the World War idea of pretty girls giving away kisses to bond buyers.

Unfair

In talking about tax-exempt bonds, he said it was unfair for a "man who owns $1,000,000 in tax free obligations to spend his winter in Palm Beach and make no contribution to pay for national defense, while we ask our boys to work 8 to 12 hours a day in army camps for $30 a month."

Money, as well as men, should be subject to a "draft," he said.

He explained that the Wednesday issue — complete details of which have not yet been announced — would be subject to both federal and state income taxes; that is, that the interest on the notes would be taxable income.

A 1917 law, applying only to "notes" but never used, was taken by the secretary as his authority to issue the taxable securities.

Morgenthau said he did not know whether the treasury would have to pay higher interest rates on the new notes but added, "we may have to pay a little more."

Removal Advocated

Removing tax exemptions from government securities has been advocated by the treasury under both democratic and republican administrations for many years, but congress has never acted on the plan.

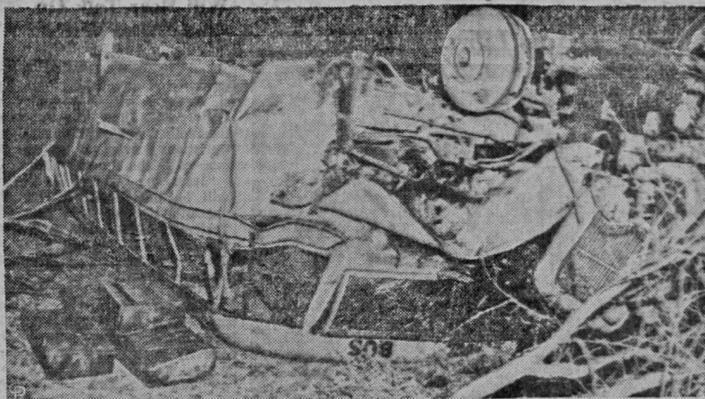

Morgenthau said he was "hopeful" that the initiative taken on removing tax exemptions from federal securities would induce the states and municipalities to follow suit on a voluntary basis.

Heretofore, all federal securities have been exempt from nearly all taxes. However, existing laws make the interest from long term government bonds subject to the graduated surtaxes of the income tax law, although exempt from the normal income tax and other taxes.

Five Killed When School Bus, Army Truck Crash

Five persons, including one school child, were killed when this school bus, pictured lying upside down beside the road, collided with a U. S. army truck at Lancaster, Cal. In addition to the dead schoolboy, four soldiers from March field, riding in the truck, were killed and 12 school children injured.

Germans Protest to Uruguayan Government—

BRITISH GIVEN MORE TIME

—24 Hours Added to Complete Repairs

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 9 (AP) — While sailors rapidly patched battle scars on the British auxiliary cruiser Carnarvon Castle, Germany formally protested to the Uruguayan government against granting the ship 24 extra hours to make repairs.

Details of the protest delivered by the Nazi minister, Otto Langmann, were not disclosed but it was understood he said the British were making additional repairs other than those affecting her seaworthiness. The Carnarvon Castle first was given two days to complete repairs but the time later was extended 24 hours.

Informed sources said the German action likely would not change plans by which the Carnarvon would sail tomorrow before 6 p.m. (3 p.m. CST) to resume her "normal duties" in the south Atlantic.

The Carnarvon Castle was battered by German shells in a running fight with a raider last Thursday and put into Montevideo harbor Saturday to make repairs.

The Langmann protest parallels Britain's action last year when the British Minister Millington Drake protested to Uruguay against giving the German raider Admiral Graf Spee additional time to make repairs. The Graf Spee, rather than face battle again with British ships which drove her to the harbor, was blown up by her captain.

Repair work on the Carnarvon Castle went along amidst a flood of rumors, some of which said without confirmation that the raider which damaged the Carnarvon Castle had been trapped by the British cruiser Enterprise. Officially, the British legation could not be combined into full-time work schedules. Therefore, many persons also are needed to work for three meals a day for the period of vacation only.

All persons, students and non-students, available for full- or part-time work during any part of the vacation are urged to report to the university employment bureau immediately.

Students Leaving

It is hoped that a large number of regular employees will remain on their jobs during the holiday period so that the least inconvenience is caused their department of work. Students who feel it necessary to leave should comply strictly with the regulations as outlined in the substitute board employment notice. This will assist the employment bureau in making certain that all board jobs, those which can be combined into an accumulation arrangement, as well as those which cannot, will be cared for properly, Kann explained.

quelled all rumors with the flat statement that there "have been no developments of any kind since the Carnarvon Castle arrived that we know of."

The German Story

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — The Berlin radio in a broadcast today said a German auxiliary cruiser which damaged the British auxiliary cruiser Carnarvon Castle off South America last Thursday emerged from the battle without a scratch.

The broadcast, quoting German quarters, said the German ship was a former commercial vessel converted into an auxiliary cruiser and not one of the Nazi pocket battleships as, it said, the British alleged.

The German sources were quoted as saying the Nazi ship won a victory over the Carnarvon Castle solely because of excellent gunnery.

W. Schramm To Give Talk

'Before Christmas' Address to Be Given By English Professor

Prof. W. L. Schramm of the English department will give his traditional "before Christmas" book talk Thursday at 4 p.m. in the Iowa Union library. This year Professor Schramm will discuss the "Westward Migration of Literature."

Reservations should be made at the main desk in Iowa Union by persons who plan to attend.

James Bromwell, A3 of Cedar Rapids, a member of Union board, will present the speaker. Margaret Kuttler, A4 of Davenport, and Mrs. Floyd Mann, A4 of Iowa City, are also members of the committee in charge.

Subcommittee members of the library group include Christian Radeliffe, M2 of Sioux City; David Duncan, A2 of Davenport; Josephine McElhinney, A3 of Iowa City; Kay Fatland, A2 of Colfax; Mary Louise Nelson, A2 of Laurens; Elizabeth Stevens, C3 of Muscatine; James D. Robertson, A3 of Waterloo and Deming Smith, L1 of Toledo.

Cuban Launches On Lookout For German Sailors

HAVANA, Dec. 9 (AP)—Cuban naval launches patrolled the south coast, watching for possible landings by crewmen of the German merchantman Idarwald, which was intercepted by a British cruiser Sunday afternoon about 75 miles south of Cienfuegos.

Rumors that some seamen already had landed were denied.

Job Substitutes Scarce -- Kann

Almost Two Months
Board May Be Earned
During Holiday Period

The problem of securing an adequate number of substitute employees for the students desiring to spend their Christmas vacation at home appears to be more serious this year than ever, according to Lee H. Kann, manager of the university employment bureau.

"A large number of students who had contracts for work this fall failed to return to school, and therefore the work situation has been favorable for the new applicants this school year. It is believed that this development affects the Christmas substitution prospects, and everything possible must be done to secure the maximum number of employees for the coming Christmas vacation."

Few Cash Jobs

It does not seem likely that any work payable in cash will be available this year. All persons whose needs can be answered by means of board or board credit are urged to consider seriously the board employment.

Board for nearly two months, the equivalent of about $40, can be earned by working full time during Christmas vacation. Most of the work is within the University hospitals. Each job is a combination of the regular board jobs of three students.

A large number of jobs, especially those at the meal hours, cannot be combined into full-time work schedules. Therefore, many persons also are needed to work for three meals a day for the period of vacation only.

All persons, students and non-students, available for full- or part-time work during any part of the vacation are urged to report to the university employment bureau immediately.

Students Leaving

It is hoped that a large number of regular employees will remain on their jobs during the holiday period so that the least inconvenience is caused their department of work. Students who feel it necessary to leave should comply strictly with the regulations as outlined in the substitute board employment notice. This will assist the employment bureau in making certain that all board jobs, those which can be combined into an accumulation arrangement, as well as those which cannot, will be cared for properly, Kann explained.

President's Dinner to Honor Iowa's Hawkeyes, Coaches

Hancher Will Present 1940 Football Squad With 'I' Sweaters

President Virgil Hancher will be host to Iowa's Hawkeyes and coaching staff at the traditional annual football dinner to be held at 6 o'clock tonight in the river room of Iowa Union.

"I" sweaters will be officially presented by President Hancher to members of the squad.

The custom of the president's dinner was started in 1922 by President Walter A. Jessup and continued by President Eugene A. Gilmore.

In addition to football players and coaches, guests will include the athletic board and several special guests.

In preceding years the captain for the next year was elected at the dinner. This year, however, the election was held at the all-Iowa dinner.

Motion pictures in technicolor showing the Iowa-Wisconsin game and band formations during the half will be shown as part of the program.

Finish Second Round of Bridge Tournery Today

The final half of the second round of the university bridge tournament will be played this afternoon in the women's lounge of Iowa Union from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Readers Enjoy Union Library Books

Students are given an opportunity to develop a genuine interest in literature and to realize the pleasure that comes from reading when they take advantage of the "browsing library" in Iowa Union. The quiet, peaceful atmosphere which prevails in that comfortable and attractive retreat encourages the discovery of literary preferences and helps students form personal associations with authors. Two students snapped as they were reading in the refuge from the hustle and bustle of campus life and libraries are Joan Watkins, C4 of Sandusky, Ohio, and James Erricon, G of Ft. Dodge. The library was started by a group of students and brought about by their cooperation with the Iowa Union administration. Its purpose is to place the outstanding books of every field of culture in an appealing environment, where the students are not bound by the usual restrictions. There is only one policy which the readers must observe; books must not be taken from the Union library. The books are there for all students to enjoy, and it is imperative that the regulation be respected, officials emphasize. Books are added to the shelves by the Union at frequent intervals, and some are donated by groups or individuals. Fourteen new additions, which were recently placed in the library, are from the lists of best sellers. "A Season in Hell" by Jean Arthur Rimbaud with the French translated by Delmore Schwartz; "Oliver Wiswell," a novel by Kenneth Roberts; "The Big Sea," an autobiography by Langston Hughes, and "The Mixture As Before" by Somerset Maugham are a few of the popular books now in the library. Others include "Mrs. Miniver," Jan Struther; "To The Indies," C. S. Forester; "I Married Adventure," Osa Johnson; "The Heart Is A Lonely Hunter," Carson McCullers; "Tragedy in France," the eyewitness account of Andre Maurois; "Beyond Tears," Irmgard Litten with an introduction by Pierre Van Paassen; "Things and Ideals," M. C. Otto; "As I Remember Him," Hans Zinsser; "For Whom the Bell Tolls," Ernest Hemingway, and "You Can't Go Home Again," Thomas Wolfe.

S.U.V. To Have Supper Sunday

A 5 o'clock supper for the Sons of Union Veterans and auxiliary will be held Sunday in the home of Mrs. Clyde Hindcliff of Tiffin. Members should bring a covered dish to fill in with the main course which will be furnished as well as dessert.

There will be an exchange of 10-cent gifts.

Club Officers To Be Elected

Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Letter Carriers' auxiliary at 2:30 this afternoon in the home of Mrs. Herman Schindler, 351 Chapman in Coralville. A social hour will follow the business meeting.

Christmas Program Will Be Presented By White Shriners

A Christmas ceremonial will be given by members of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, Bethlehem Shrine No. 8, Friday. A dinner at 6:30 p.m. will precede the initiatory program in the Masonic temple.

Hertha Glatz, Contralto, Will Give Recital at Iowa Union Tomorrow Night

Vienna Singer Made Debut When Only 18

Sings Here Tomorrow

HERTHA GLATZ

Program to Include Schubert, Debussy, Moussorgsky, Handel

The program to be presented by Hertha Glatz, young contralto, at her recital in Iowa Union tomorrow evening, has been announced by Prof. Charles B. Richter, director of the concert course.

Miss Glatz, who completed 40 engagements last season — her third in the United States — was born in Vienna. She made her debut when only 18, and has been in demand as a contralto soloist ever since. Her American debut, in 1937, was as soloist with the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Otto Klemperer.

Toscanini honored the young singer last spring in selecting her as contralto soloist with the NBC Symphony orchestra for a special broadcast of Debussy's "The Blessed L'Amozel." Her other appearances in this country have been with Salzburg Opera company, the Chicago Opera company and the St. Louis Opera company.

Tomorrow Night's Program
My Heart Ever Faithful . . . Bach
Art Thou Troubled . . . Handel
Sorrow, Stay . . . Dowland
Fine Knacks for Ladies . . . Dowland
Fruhlingstraum . . . Schubert
Gretchen am Spinnrad . . . Schubert
Fischerweise . . . Schubert
Ungeduld . . . Schubert
Ungeduld . . . Schubert

Intermission
Immer Leiser Wird Mein Schlummer . . . Brahms

Botschaft . . . Brahms
Der Schmied . . . Brahms
Les Cloches . . . Debussy
Le Temps a Laissez Son Manteau . . . Debussy
Nebbie . . . Respighi
Hopak . . . Moussorgsky
Miss Glatz will be accompanied by Doris Wittich.

Like Nathan Milstein and many other foreign-born artists, Miss Glatz intends to become an American citizen and is now awaiting her final papers. She believes that the United States is carrying on the great tradition of European culture, and feels that to be one of the greatest services the United States is rendering chaotic Europe.

Tickets for the concert are still on sale at the Concert Course office in room 15, Music Studio building.

E. T. Jolliffe Leads Meeting

Elwin T. Jolliffe, manager of the statistical service of the university, will have charge of the regular meeting of the Accounting club to be held Thursday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in room 203, University hall.

Jolliffe will demonstrate the operation of the card filing machine. He will also show the group through the files.

Parent-Son Banquet Will Be Discussed By DeMolays Tonight

Plans for the annual Parent-Son banquet will be discussed at a meeting of the Order of DeMolay at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The organization will meet in the Masonic temple. The Mother's club will meet at the same time.

Meetings Postponed

The Alpha Delta Pi alumnae will not meet this week. Other meetings for the month have also been postponed.

National Defense

DES MOINES (AP)—Brigadier General Charles H. Grahl, adjutant general of Iowa, told the statehouse Women's club here yesterday that America is "buckling down" to the task of national defense.

Dr. P. C. Jeans Appointed to Food Committee

Dr. P. C. Jeans, head of the pediatrics department in the college of medicine here, has been appointed a member of a committee on food and nutrition to advise the federal government on nutritional aspects of national defense, the National Research Council in Washington, D. C., announced.

The committee, appointed at the request of Harriet Elliott, head of the consumer division of the National Defense Advisory Commission, will concern itself with improving the nutrition of the general population. A separate National Research Council sub-committee is already advising the army and navy on nutrition for these services.

Dr. Jeans
Dr. Jeans was selected to give advice in the vitamin field of nutrition because of his knowledge on the requirements of vitamins A and D, especially in childhood.

Dr. Russell M. Wilder, of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., is chairman of the new committee. Serving with him as advisers to the government in planning its program of national nutrition for defense are specialists from agriculture, industry and science dealing with food and nutrition.

Authorities on the food processing industry, food production and distribution problems and the field of vitamins have been chosen.

Practical Use
The housewife will receive advice on transiting nutritional science into menus, diet lists and recipes for the welfare of both the grown and growing members of her family from experts on home economics, dietetics and nutrition.

The committee recently held its first meeting in Washington, giving consideration to the improvement of white flour, which is well recognized to be deficient in minerals and the B vitamins, necessary for health and morale.

Improve Diets
It will consider the possibilities of improving the quality of another American dietary staple, sugar, which likewise is a food which has been deprived of the vitamins and minerals contained in the material from which it is made—sugar cane and beets.

Means will also be sought for improving the nutritional qualities of other staple foods, such as the edible fats.

It is the quality of the nation's food that is important in the present emergency, the council pointed out, whereas in the World War the quantity of food was the chief concern.

Public's Food
The committee on food and nutrition will advise the government as to how much of each important nutritional factor should be included in the national diet, and what the public should be taught to eat. A national program of nutritional education is also in the planning.

One of the things to be taught, the committee decided, is that there is no detectable difference between the synthetic chemical vitamins and the natural ones.

Committee
Included in the list of specialists named on the committee, besides Dr. P. C. Boudreau, former head of the League of Nations' technical committee on nutrition and Dr. John B. Youmans, Vanderbilt university, who is studying the food problems of both occupied and unoccupied France for the Rockefeller foundation.

Dr. R. R. Williams, chemical director of the Bell Telephone laboratories and Dr. Charles G. King, University of Pittsburgh, are committee members.

'Thomas Mann' Topic of WSUI Talk by Spann

Prof. Meno Spann of the German department will appear on the School of Letters hour over WSUI at 8 o'clock this evening. He will speak on "Thomas Mann."

Heard the second Tuesday of each month, the programs feature talks on the literature of French, German and Spanish writers.

Professor Spann has been a member of the faculty of the German department since 1936. He received his Ph.D. in 1928 from Marburg college, Germany.

Iowa Sheriffs To Hear Talks By S.U.I. Men

Three local professors will appear on the program of the annual conference of the Iowa State Sheriffs association Thursday in Des Moines.

Dean Mason Ladd of the college of law will discuss "Evidence in Criminal Cases" and Dean Emeritus Wilbur J. Teeters of the college of pharmacy will talk on "Toxicology" at the morning session. Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law will address the group in the afternoon on "Needed Changes in Iowa Statutes."

Professor Perkins will participate also on the program of the County Attorneys Association of Iowa, which meets in Des Moines Thursday. The group will discuss law of arrest, search and seizure and problems of indictment and information.

Senior Class Presidents Elect Officers

Members of the Association of Senior Class Presidents of the 10 schools and colleges in the university met last night in the alumni office of Old Capitol for their annual election of officers.

The association elected Carl R. Knustling, M4 of Waterloo, president; Loren D. Carlson, G of Davenport, vice-president, and Martha M. Palmer, N3 of Algona, secretary-treasurer.

Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the alumni association and senior adviser of the group, explained the motives and purposes of the organization to the new members. Each class president submitted the names of three senior students of his school to act as members of the senior memorial, senior invitation and Senior Hop committees. The names of these committee members will be disclosed later.

The association voted to hold all future meetings at 7 o'clock on Monday evenings.

Law Students Present Case

Judge J. R. Leary of Keokuk, 1926 graduate of the college of law, will preside at the third Junior Law argument tonight at 7 o'clock in the Law commons.

Participating in the trial case will be Robert Manheimer of Des Moines and John F. Stone of Malcolm, attorneys for the appellant, Alfred M. Woolleyhan of Cedar Rapids and Philip B. Bergfield of Sheldon will be attorneys for the appellee.

T. J. Campbell, Jr. of Newton and Lorna Murphy of Elkader were named "best lawyers" by Judge H. D. Evans of Iowa City at the second law club argument last Tuesday in a non-decision trial case involving tenancy.

44 Stamp Issues Show Great Yield From Philatelists

A half-million dollars was spent by collectors and over six million covers were canceled this year on the days when the 44 new stamps, issued during 1940, were first placed on sale.

Cancellations were applied to a total of 6,708,069 covers. This figure does not include second-day cancellations at Washington when the new stamps were issued elsewhere the previous days. Over $16,000 was spent by stamp collectors alone on the first day sales of the 10-cent Booker T. Washington issue. Washington was the first Negro to be honored on a United States postage stamp.

Palimpsest to Be Issued

Edited by Political Science Department; Completes 21st Volume

The appearance of the December index issue of the Palimpsest next week will mark the completion of the 21st volume of the publication, Prof. John Ely Briggs, editor and member of the political science department, announced.

Founded at the suggestion of the late Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, the magazine was designed to combine dramatic style with historical accuracy. John C. Parrish, associate editor of the State Historical society and author of "Old Gold," was editor of the publication for two years. In 1922 Professor Briggs assumed the position and has remained editor of the Palimpsest since that time.

Centennial
Thirteen of the 47 articles appearing in the publication this year were inspired by centennial celebrations, the most recent being "The Beginnings of Dubuque" by William J. Petersen, research associate in the State Historical society, which appeared in the November issue of the Palimpsest.

Taking their cue from recent developments, many of the articles draw a parallel between the present and past in Iowa history. This was exemplified in the description of pioneer elections which appeared in the fall issue of the publication.

Iowa Instructor Sees Need Of Large Merchant Marine

Ship construction is the immediate problem of the attainment of a modern merchant marine and the naval expansion program makes ownership of a large fleet of merchant vessels a military necessity.

Howard W. Wright, instructor in the college of commerce has written of the American merchant marine in the current issue of the Journal of Business.

He said an optimistic light has been cast upon the situation in view of the fact that the development of an improved merchant marine has been under way for several years.

War Time
Wright declared that in 1937 the maritime commission estimated in a war with a major power the United States would require a minimum of 1,000 merchant ships, totalling about six million tons.

Worker's Defense Official Explains His Job Routine

Secretary-Treasurer Of Labor Organization Talks in Macbride Hall

By SAM KARCHOMSKY
His job for the last four years has meant facing hostile policemen, prejudiced judges, repressive city ordinances, but to David Clendenin it's just part of a regular routine. As national secretary-treasurer of the Workers' Defense League, he has traveled to different parts of the country to help fight injustices to labor.

It was these experiences that furnished the material for Clendenin's informal talk to a Macbride hall audience yesterday afternoon. Speaking on the subject of "On Behalf of Labor's Rights," he outlined the work of his organization and gave specific cases where it had been involved.

The most publicized instance, he said, was the campaign of the Workers' Defense League against the regime of Mayor Hague in Jersey City. "The city council," Clendenin pointed out, "had forbidden open meetings in the city and it was impossible to find a property owner brave enough to rent out a hall for a closed meeting. News stands were even forced to withdraw out-of-town papers which in any way criticized Mayor Hague."

Took Part
Clendenin was part of the picket line which later became the test case for a supreme court decision in favor of the league. "Without someone to test this case," he continued, "Jersey City would have gone on in the same repressive way in apathetic indifference." Another "boss" stronghold.

At present, the league has taken the case of a Negro sharecropper in Virginia who killed his landlord in an argument over the division of his crop. "In this case," Clendenin said, "we are fighting the constitutionality of an old Virginia statute which prevents those who haven't paid their poll taxes from doing jury service. Under the present circumstances there could not be a fair trial in the case."

Clendenin also spoke at a luncheon meeting and later to an evening audience in Macbride hall. His talks were under the auspices of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, Student Christian council and Hillel foundation.

Tommy Harmon Named Top Athlete by AP

Sports Experts Give Halfback 32 of 78 Votes

Baseball's Greenberg Of Detroit Tigers Runner-Up in Poll

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Named to the all-America football team two years in succession and voted winner of the Heisman trophy as this year's No. 1 football player, Tommy Harmon of Michigan reaped fresh honors today as he was chosen the outstanding male athlete of 1940 in the annual Associated Press poll.

Seventy-eight of the nation's sports experts, asked to give first, second and third choices, named men from 10 sports, with nine each from football and baseball.

But for top choice it was strictly no contest. Thirty-two of the 78 ballots put the Wolverine halfback at the head of the list, and there were enough supplementary nominations to give him a staggering total of 147 points, almost three times that polled by runner-up Hank Greenberg of the American league champion Detroit Tigers.

Kinnick in 1939
Harmon, who finished his collegiate grid career by breaking Red Grange's three-year Western conference scoring record, kept football at the head of the list for the second straight year. Nile Kinnick of Iowa won in 1939, but by a mere eight-point margin over Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees.

Besides Harmon and Greenberg, named first by 11 experts and given 57 points on a 3-2-1 basis, the only others who got more than a single first-place vote were Pitcher Bucky Walters of the world champion Cincinnati Reds, third with six and 40 points; Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians, fourth with seven and 31; veteran Jimmy Wilson, fifth on nine and 27, and Fullback John Kimbrough of the Texas Aggies, sixth with four and 18.

Of the other sports represented, the leading candidates were:

Golf—Open Champion Lawson Little, one first-place vote and 12 points; boxing—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, no first-place votes and 12 points; track—Chuck Fenske, Wisconsin miler, one first-place vote and 10 points; badminton—Dave Freeman of Pasadena, Cal., three-way national champion, seven points; billiards—Willie Hoppe, New York, five points; tennis—National Singles Champion Don McNeill, Oklahoma City, three points; handball—National Champion Joe Platak, Chicago, one first-place vote for three points; auto racing—Ab Jenkins, Salt Lake City, one point.

In a poll to choose the leading athlete, the leading oddity was the six points given Clark Shaughnessy, strictly a bench performer in coaching the Stanford Indians into the Rose Bowl. The only man to win a two-sport vote was Al Blozis, huge Georgetown youth who is a record-breaking shot-putter in track and a bone-bruising tackle in football.

Ohio State Ponders 'Football Situation'

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 9 (AP)—The board of athletic control at Ohio State university late today authorized a three-member committee to "consider the football situation."

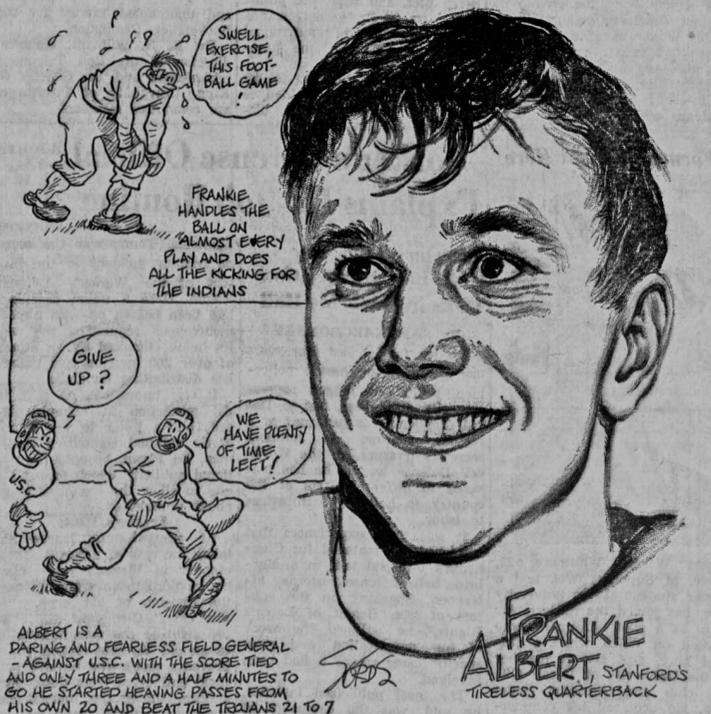

The action was taken upon recommendation of Athletic Director L. W. St. John and came in the wake of reports that Francis A. Schmidt might not be reelected as head football coach.

J. L. Morrill, vice president of Ohio State and chairman of the athletic board, named the following members to the committee: Prof. Robert E. Monroe, faculty representative; Hugh E. Nesbitt, alumni representative, and Edwin E. Dodd, representative of the student body.

Wabash Here Friday Night

Indiana Tutors End Month's Home Games Here Next Monday

14 Score Record
Fourteen men scored an Iowa record of 75 points on Monmouth in the opener last Saturday, but the opposition was so weak that it was impossible to judge the strength or weaknesses of the Iowans.

It appeared, however, that the floor work was smoother than usual for the opener and that balanced scoring possibilities were good. Regulars played only part-time, with Milt Kuhl, center, as the leading scorer with 13 points.

Wabash Vets Play
The Wabash team averages 6-1 in height and has three veterans, topped by Forward Carl Klein and Guard Bill Fisher. Experience gained in three games this season will aid the Indiana collegians.

Coach Williams probably will keep his original starting lineup of Capt. Vic Siegel and Ben Franklin & Marshall college (Pa.). The other line posts go to Stuart Clarkson, of Texas Arts and Industries college, at center, and Charles (June) Lingerfelt of Rollins (Fla.) college, and Jack Mulkey of Fresno State (Calif.) college, at the ends.

Elcted for the backfield are fullback Jackie Hunt of Marshall (W. Va.) college, quarterback Dominic Collangelo of Newberry (S. C.) college, and halfbacks Marvin (Tommygun) Tommervik of Pacific Lutheran (Washington), and Owen Goodnight of Hardin-Simmons (Texas) university.

The all-star combination of comparative unknowns averages 191 pounds in the line and 181 pounds in the backfield. The only repeater on the team is Mulkey, Fresno State end. All are seniors except Hunt, Tommervik and Clarkson, who are juniors. Hunt would be a standout in any company. The Marshall college star piled up a total of 162 points in ten games and scored 27 touchdowns.

Collangelo, an outstanding runner, passer and kicker for three years, has been the leading scorer in South Carolina for three successive seasons. Tommervik compiled an amazing passing record with Pacific Lutheran. He completed better than 30 per cent for well over 1,000 yards and for more than 100 points. Goodnight, a 60-minute performer, was the spearhead of Hardin-Simmons' unbeaten surge—a fine passer, plunger and kicker.

Second team:
Ends: Charles Schuster, Eastern

Kentucky Teachers, and Russell Kaminsky, Springfield (Mo.) Teachers; tackles, Dick Moe, Colorado Mines, and Boyce Jones, Mississippi college; guards, Melvin Long, Emporia (Kans.) Teachers, and Herb Morell, Redlands; center, Joe Koons, Long Island university; backs, Bill Glenn, Charleston (Ill.) Teachers, Tony Candeo, Gonzaga, Tom Colella, Canisius, and Thurmon Jones, Abilene Christian.

The honorable mention list included:
Tackles—Jensen, Iowa State Teachers.
Guards—Wright, Iowa State Teachers.
Backs—Burkhardt, Iowa State Teachers; McCabe, Iowa State Teachers; Sosnoski, St. Ambrose; Tornquist, Cornell College.

Press box Pickups

BY OSCAR HARGRAVE

A particular incident of yesterday, the awarding of the 1941 state high school basketball tournament to Des Moines, is a matter of some concern locally, if I have analyzed the situation correctly. It's also possible that there may be a few repercussions following the state high school association's choice of a site for a tournament.

After the tourney of last winter, held in Iowa fieldhouse, the comments on the meet were favorable, even enthusiastic. The 16 teams were accommodated comfortably, the tourney drew a record crowd and there was not the slightest sign of a kick from the press or players in regard to the conditions under which they operated.

But the next tournament goes to Des Moines, where the Drake fieldhouse can accommodate little more than half of Iowa fieldhouse's capacity crowd. There aren't the possibilities there to handle a meet as efficiently as last year's was and it's certain that the whole meet will fall far short of the classic that Iowa City staged.

Another thought I have is about admissions for school children. Tickets were offered to the kids here last year at an insignificant price, but I have a hunch that there won't be any such philanthropic move at Des Moines, where the seating capacity is so limited. Which seems to be a case of taking the game away from the kids and giving it to Des Moines business men.

Back to another subject, I discover that Iowa football coaches are back on the "knife and fork" circuit again. How's this for one evening? Last night Head Coach Eddie Anderson spoke at Ft. Madison, Jim Harris was at Marshalltown and Frank Carideo at Wapello, Glenn Devine was at Des Moines with pictures of the Iowa-Notre Dame game, while Waddy Davis took Bill Green and Ken Pettit over to Colfax. Similar nights are ahead for the Hawkeye grid staff.

And, here's an item borrowed from Sec Taylor of the Des Moines Register.

An all-team picker worked out an all-Swedish eleven and got together a pretty good aggregation, including several of Minnesota's mighty Norsemen. At one of the ends, though, was Anderson of Ohio State.

The Anderson of the Buckeye squad was a good end all right, but there was a catch to it for Anderson is a Negro.

For an example of something that is pretty hard to understand, there is the 73-0 licking the Chicago Bears handed out Sunday to their rivals for the National Professional Football championship. The Bears are one of the greatest outfits ever assembled, but not that much better than the Washington Redskins, the victims of one of the greatest football debacles of all time.

I have seen and heard of all manner of minor collapses on the part of college teams. During the past season were such cases as Michigan's 41-0 victory over California in the opener, Northwestern's 40-0 conquest of Syracuse and Ohio State's complete downfall against Michigan in the final game of the year.

Iowa, in fact, had Wisconsin on the verge of complete collapse, but the Badgers recovered later and finished the season in great DUBUQUE, Dec. 9 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Coach Francis Suplee's fighting St. Mary's Ramblers turned back the highly touted Loras academy team of Dubuque here tonight to rack up their fourth consecutive victory of the current season by a score of 32 to 22.

Distributing the scoring almost equally among various members of the team, the Ramblers chalked up a "squad victory." "Flicker" Chadek led his team in scoring with 4 field goals and 3 free throws for 11 points.

Loras drew first blood on a basket from the tip-off but St. Mary's soon evened the count and went into a first quarter lead which was never seriously threatened throughout the game. Next in line for Coach Suplee's cagers will be Catholic Central high of Ottumwa, defeated in an earlier contest, 35 to 28.

shape. So too did Iowa loosen up at the seams against Purdue, but returned to form and rolled over Notre Dame and Illinois, both of whom were showing signs at the finish of wear and tear on team morale.

But the Redskins were a professional team. The players, including such great performers as Sammy Baugh, were all old and seasoned hands. That they fell into a semi-helpless state adds even more to the mystery surrounding that undefinable necessity known as "team spirit." One day they have it, the next afternoon they don't and no one is entirely immune to the "jitters."

Iowa's Mike Enich, in a final summary of the all-teams he made, didn't do so bad insofar as football honors are concerned. "Iron Mike" made one all-American team, picked by the New York Sun, and got considerable mention by other groups, with one second team berth and any number of honorable mentions.

Announce Sales Of Grid Teams

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Sale of the franchise of the Pittsburgh Steelers to a syndicate headed by Alexis Thompson, New York drug products manufacturer, was approved tonight by the National Professional Football league.

At the same time the league approved the purchase of a half interest in the Philadelphia Eagles by Arthur J. Rooney, owner of the Steelers. Bert Bell, president of the Eagles, will continue to head the Philadelphia club. Financial considerations of both deals were not disclosed.

Dean in Trouble
DERMOTT, Ark. (AP)—State game warden Oscar Mays said Jerome (Dizzy) Dean of Dallas, Tex., Chicago Cubs baseball pitcher, voluntarily accepted service yesterday of a warrant charging him with killing a doe and was released under $500 bond to appear in circuit court at the March term.

Cats Beat Wabash
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Superior height and power enabled Northwestern to open its basketball season with a 35 to 32 victory last night over Wabash.

Irish to Open Home Schedule This Evening

The Roosevelt Military Academy of Aledo, Ill., will give the Irish of St. Pat's their opening test on their home floor tonight at 7:35 o'clock.

Always strong opposition for any team, the Aledo outfit may prove especially tough for the Kritters due to the injury of their sturdy ball handler, Don Black, who may be unable to see action due to a sprained foot.

Last night Coach Cliff Kritta sent his men through a scrimmage with the second team in a final practice session. The team showed up well against the scrubs, thoroughly trouncing them.

Merle Miller looked especially good, sinking the ball time and time again. The practice wound up with a foul-shooting session.

Bob Quinlan will probably start at one of the guard posts in the event that Black will be unable to play. Jim Connell will be at the other guard, with Red Miller handling the center duties.

Cyclones Nip Gophers
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A rangy Iowa State basketball team squeezed through a 37-36 victory over Minnesota in a thrilling non-conference game last night. Behind, 35-36, with one minute and 44 seconds to go, Al Budolfson, Iowa State forward, was fouled and missed his free throw. However, a teammate, Carol Schneider, six foot, six inch guard, tipped in the rebound for the winning basket.

St. Ambrose Star 'Little All-American'

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—The football strongholds of the middle west contribute three men to the annual Associated Press "Little All America," announced today, thus carrying on the same general trend that was noted in the selection of the big all-American.

The south, southwest, far west and east evenly divide the remaining eight positions, with two each.

Chosen from the ranks of small-college arrays in the mid-west are a pair of guards, Nick Kerosiottis of St. Ambrose (Iowa) college, and Walter Plak, Albion (Mich.) college, and a tackle, Dave Evans, captain of the Muskingum (Ohio) college team.

Pairing with Evans at the other tackle post is Alex Schibanoff of

The Greeks now have routed the Italians from about 2,125 square miles—of the rugged 10,629 square mile Albania kingdom Mussolini seized in his Good Friday invasion in 1939. The fallen Koritza and Argirocastro are its third and fifth largest cities, respectively.

Prior to Argirocastro's fall, the Greeks placed the cash value of captured Italian booty at $10,000,000, a figure expected to be greatly increased when stock is taken of equipment seized in the southern invasion base.

Sumners, expressing the opinion that the United States was getting closer daily to "contact with the war," told the house that the nation did not want to repeat mistakes of France "where manufacturers were concerned for a profit and the operatives were concerned for what they called social gains."

"I do not believe," he said, "that the country will compromise one iota on the proposition that, having subjected its young manhood to the possibilities of compulsory military service, having voted these billions of dollars (for defense), that it will be tolerated for one split second that anybody

Group Seeks Aid for Blind

Public Cooperation Urged by Canvassers in Sales Campaign

A staff of five canvassers headed by J. H. Williams will open a five-weeks' sales campaign here at 9 o'clock this morning for the Iowa Blind Products.

Conducted in cities throughout the state annually, the sales organization works under the authorization of the Iowa State Commission for the Blind.

Proceeds from the sale is converted to a fund which is distributed among the state's 2,200 blind persons. Since the state has no home for the adult blind, Williams explained that the annual sales program is the only means by which the handicapped persons can support themselves.

On sale in the house to house canvass today will be some 38 useful household articles, all of which have been made by blind persons in their homes.

The workers are trained at Vinton School for the Blind, then removed to their homes where all the work is done and products turned out.

Of the 2,200 blind in the state, Williams said, only 1,400 are receiving pensions. The others are forced to live through their own resources.

Explaining that every blind person in the state could be trained to do some kind of work, the association points out that next in importance is the co-operation of the public in buying the produced wares.

"We sincerely hope that Iowa Citizens will give our representatives an opportunity to display samples of their articles," Williams said.

For the protection of the purchaser, each sales agent will carry a letter of instruction signed by Mrs. Ethel Towne Holmes, executive secretary for the State Commission for the Blind.

"Purchasers may feel free to demand to see these credentials," Williams said.

The slogan of the sales campaign is "help the blind to help themselves."

Mail Service Resumed Soon

With nearly 20 per cent of concrete work on Iowa City's $180,000 WPA airport project completed, City Engineer Fred Gratzke stated last night in his report to the council that local United Air Lines service for mail will be resumed within a short while.

Gratzke's report said that the UAL service would mean a much faster mail service for Iowa City.

There were 23 automobile accidents in the city during November. The police report submitted to the council showed the figures to have doubled over the preceding month.

Total fire loss of $1,371.65 was reported by Fire Chief J. J. Clark. The department answered 18 calls during November.

New Stamp Planned By Postal Officials

A stamp to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the admission of Vermont to statehood, due to be the first 1941 commemorative, is being given definite consideration by postal officials. Vermont was admitted into the union March 4, 1791.

Few special issues are likely next year. Rather, the program will be confined to a revision of the stamped envelopes and the adhesive air mail stamps, it is believed.

Present indications are that the first of the new stamped envelopes will be ready for distribution late next spring. In addition to the present values a new appropriately designed air mail special delivery envelope is being considered.

A FACT A DAY ABOUT CHRISTMAS

Queer superstitions rule on Christmas day for folks in various parts of the country.

For example, in England, it is believed that anyone turning a mattress on the holiday will die within a year. A person ambitious enough to bake a supply of bread on Christmas Eve will be blessed with a lasting supply.

The Scots associate ill-luck with a red-haired person being the first to cross the threshold Christmas morning. Any person dying on Christmas Eve is certain of eternal happiness in heaven.

Mrs. K. Kress Died Sunday

Mrs. Kate Kress, 66, of West Liberty, died at 9 o'clock Sunday morning in Mercy hospital where she had been confined for several days.

Mrs. Kress, a resident of West Liberty for the last 20 years, is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Vogel, Davenport; one son, Tom Kress, Atalissa; five grandchildren and several sisters and brothers.

The body is at the S. C. Snider funeral home and burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery. Further funeral arrangements have not been made.

Auditor Reports County Finance

The Johnson county treasurer's report for the month of November showed a total receipt of $45,932.10, with disbursements of $27,937.29, County Auditor Ed Sulek announced yesterday.

The monthly report showed current taxes amounting to $24,835.67; delinquent taxes, $3,181.87; special assessments, $331.06; miscellaneous collections, $10,497.84, and transfers to funds, $7,085.66, on the credit side of the ledger.

The disbursements were distributed among the face of warrants to be paid, $46,053.78; miscellaneous payments, $174,797.85, and transfers from funds, $7,085.66. No taxes were refunded.

Evans Appointed To Committee

District Judge H. D. Evans of Iowa City has been appointed to the executive committee of the Iowa District Judges association, it was announced yesterday by The Associated Press.

Judge W. S. Cooper of Winterset, new president of the group, announced the following committee appointments:

Executive—Judges Whitney W. Gilliland of Glenwood, G. W. Stillman of Algona and Judge Evans.

Legislative—Judges P. J. Siegers of Newton, Joseph E. Meyer of Des Moines and E. W. Dingwell of Adel.

Invisible Cream, But It's There

Vitamin D Milk Obtained by Suspending Butterfat Globules in Milk

Pictured above is the homogenizing machine which gives milk drinkers "cream in every drop." It is this machine and others like it that are used in Iowa City and throughout the nation in the homogenizing process. In the machine, the milk is forced through a small opening at a pressure of from 500 to 4,000 pounds to the square inch, depending upon the result desired. The emerging stream, sometimes traveling a mile a minute, strikes against a cone shaped piece of steel. This has a shattering effect on the butterfat globules, breaking them down to one-sixth their former diameter. As a result, the butterfat globules stay permanently distributed throughout the milk.

One can't see a cream line, but there is cream in every drop! Now available here is homogenized vitamin D milk, a product which is obtained by breaking down the butterfat globules and suspending them permanently throughout the milk content.

Local dairymen report that the process, although used by preparers of milk for some time, only recently has been receiving national attention. It was introduced here several weeks ago.

Dr. P. C. Jeans, head of the pediatrics department in the college of medicine, wrote an article on the homogenization process for the 1939 June issue of Hygia magazine.

In his article, Dr. Jeans states that the belief prevails among some persons that the cream line indicates the quality of milk. "This is not necessarily true," Dr. Jeans stated. "Quality of milk depends upon many factors other than the amount of cream.

Rev. E. E. Voigt Named Vice-President Of Methodist Conclave

An Associated Press dispatch received here last night said that the Rev. Edwin E. Voigt, pastor of the Methodist church in Iowa City, was named vice-president of the Methodist Conference on Christian Education, now holding a six-day national conclave in Nashville, Tenn.

The Rev. J. Calloway, Richmond, Va., was elected president at the meeting, attended by over 500 delegates from all parts of the nation.

The local minister will return to Iowa City Wednesday after a week's absence.

The Rev. Mr. Voigt is chairman of the board of education for the Upper Iowa conference of Methodist churches.

Local Draftees Moved to Neb., Ft. Des Moines

All three of the Johnson county men who answered the first selective service call have been transferred from Ft. Snelling in Minnesota, it was announced by the draft board yesterday after a communication from John V. Van Epps, one of the draftees.

Chester B. Frantz and Joseph Burns were shifted to the Ft. Des Moines post Saturday, Van Epps said, and he went to Ft. Crook in Nebraska yesterday.

The board has not been notified whether the change is to be permanent. No reason was given for the transfer.

Another call was issued yesterday for volunteers to help fill the quota of 12 men who must be enlisted by Johnson county before the last of January.

Harry Barnhart, 221 H street, Francis Burgess, Tiffin, and Roy Finley, Coralville, were tried in police court last night on disorderly conduct charges. The arrests followed a fight last week in the rear of the Burkley ballroom.

Barnhart was sentenced to three days work, Burgess was assessed $25.00 costs and Finley's case was continued to a later date for sentence.

Clarence B. Peters, Jessup, was fined $25 and $1 costs for reckless driving. Howard Walters, Hubbard, received a $5 fine and $1 costs for exceeding the speed limit.

The case of Conrad McIlree, 220 S. Linn, charged with intoxication, was continued for sentence.

Merchants Set Late Hours For Men Shoppers

Iowa City men will have a special chance, tomorrow night, to do their Christmas shopping early at the men's shopping night, sponsored by local merchants and the senior chamber of commerce.

Particular attention will be paid by merchants to the problems connected with shopping for and by men. Special merchandise will be displayed, and suggestions will be made to men regarding their personal shopping needs.

This is the second of two early shopping nights designed by merchants to help relieve the usual last-minute shopping rush.

Starting Dec. 16, stores will remain open each evening until 9 o'clock. Christmas eve they will close at 6.

County Association To Sponsor Booths For Sale of Seals

The Johnson County Tuberculosis association is sponsoring booths for the sale of Christmas seals in the two Iowa City banks, Whetstone's, Yetter's, Montgomery Ward's, the university hospital and the post office.

The project will be promoted each day by a different organization. Mrs. H. S. Ivie and Mrs. M. Willard Lampe, co-chairmen, announced. The costumed attendants will sell seals and give free information to shoppers, the committee explained.

The costume committee consists of Mrs. Thomas Brown, Mrs. J. A. Parden and Mrs. Walter Murray. The names of the workers will be announced later.

John Pluhar to Head Bohemian Association

Iowa City Western Bohemian Fraternal association held election of officers Sunday.

New heads include John Pluhar, president; Mrs. Anna Parizek, vice-president; V. J. Albrecht, recording secretary; J. M. Kadlec, financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Palik, conductor; Albert Tauber, treasurer; Mrs. Albina Zeithamel, guard, and Albert Tauber, trustee for three years.

Charles Reynolds Rite Will Be Today

Funeral service will be held this afternoon in West Liberty for Charles Burton Reynolds, 38, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Reynolds of West Liberty, who died Sunday at his home in Trenton, Mo., following a heart attack. Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, his parents and two sisters, Mrs. Pat White, West Liberty, and Mrs. Fred Long, Cedar Rapids.

From the Pulpit-- HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE SERMONS OF LOCAL MINISTERS

Rev. Evans A. Worthley, Unitarian Church

"A few years ago, I watched an Indian tribe in our southwest engage in its sacred rite of the Corn Dance. All day long, with an interval of rest for one group while another carried on, they chanted and danced their rhythmic appeal to the Corn Spirit.

"It was a moving spectacle to me, and even more than a spectacle. Here were men and women expressing a strange, deep feeling of intimacy with their cosmos, weaving chant and gesture into an appeal to the sky; and then retiring into the 'kiva' to send a more secret prayer to the inner depths, whether their ancestors had gone. This secret rite, no white man has ever seen or heard.

"For the first time, as I watched and listened, I heard not merely an overtone of the mythological past in my imagination; the full cry of an ancient hunger in the heart of man fell on my ears. But as I observed, the dance became less and less of a spectacle and more of a religious exercise.

"Here I was seeing an ancient myth in action, much different from reading one. This was a God-helping, rain-bringing, life-giving myth, a myth which had serious and solemn relations with the main business of life.

"What really mattered to the Indians, as is true for us and for everyone, was life. Not merely keeping alive but living well. On this one day, they were binding the tribal aspirations of centuries more securely to their own hearts, which is the way man has always used his myths . . . even after he has ceased to believe in them.

"It is thus that many men and women of this generation will observe Christmas."

rial outlook on life has placed us all in bondage, much like the bondage of the Children of Israel in Egypt.

"We, the spiritual inheritors of Israel, labor from earliest morn to latest night, swayed almost entirely by the old Egyptian principles. The only difference is, we are our own Egyptian taskmasters.

"It is the spirit of gain within us that has corrupted our lives and taken away our true liberty. The spirit of gain has enslaved both rich and poor, alike. Our need throughout the world is liberation from the material in the name of the spiritual."

"The characteristics of a good soldier of the cross might be summed up in the words: fleeing, following, fighting and freedom.

"The true Christian soldier flees those things which do not conform to the will of God . . . false teachings, spiritual pride, undue love of gain. On the other hand, he follows righteousness, faith, love, patience and meekness. In so doing, he will come in contact with enemies from without and from within. They will seek the destruction of his soul.

"The fighting of the good fight of faith which will ensue will not be easy. It can be pursued successfully only with the help of that God who has revealed His power in creation and preservation. His love in redemption established in Christ crucified, and His continued concern in the sanctifying influences of His Spirit through the Bible.

"The end of the Christian soldier's conflict is certain victory . . . to live eternally in the presence of God as a free soul."

L. Wolfe Case Goes to Jury After Debate

The case of the state vs. Lawrence Wolfe, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, went to the jury at 2:40 p.m. yesterday after five hours of debate. The district court petit jury was empaneled at 9:30 a.m. yesterday. The case was the fourth criminal trial on the docket in the November term of the Johnson county district court.

Judge Harold D. Evans announced last night that he would hear three naturalization petitions at 9 o'clock this morning.

As County Atty. Harold L. Vestermarck and County Atty. Elect E. A. Baldwin leave tomorrow to attend an attorney's convention in Des Moines, a civil case, Pearson vs. Downey, will be heard.

The suit is to regain damages incurred in an automobile collision, Judge Evans stated.

The petit jury empaneled yesterday to hear the Wolfe case included Ambrose O'Brien, Charles Pudil, John Zenslick, Frank D. Person, Bessie Chambers, Raymond L. Hotz, Jessie Lachander, Ernest Shaffer, Edna Lee, J. B. Kloubeck, R. F. Sheppard and Agnes M. Hogan.
