BRITISH REJECT HOOVER FOOD PLAN

Hitler Demands Work, Patience Before Victory

Says War Between Two Worlds - U. S. In Other World

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF
BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Adolf Hitler demanded work and patience from the German people today; work, for "with it we will defeat the entire world," patience, because, he cautioned, the war won't be won tomorrow.

From a pile of steel casings which looked like motor blocks, amidst rows of gleaming steel cannon barrels, Hitler spoke to 12,000 workers in the Borsig munitions plant here. The world, again, listened in by radio, but it was primarily a speech for the home folks.

"In my lexicon," he said, "there is no such word as capitulation." There was little reference to foreign policy, although Hitler listed "rich America" among the "have" nations and himself as the champion of all the "have nots."

There was no offer of any kind to his enemies or to other nations, the implication being that the war with Britain is a fight to the finish between two systems; two worlds.

"Now Churchill has the war he wanted," he said.

Confident Witticisms
The 90-minute speech, sprinkled with confident witticisms, left the impression that Hitler's chief objects were to spur the German worker on to ever-greater effort and to tell the reich that there may be an indefinite period of waiting before Germany decides to throw a final climactic effort into the war against Britain.

Atop his platform of casings, the fuhrer stood at a small table. On the table lay a manuscript; two bottles of mineral water, which he didn't touch, and a handkerchief, which he raised occasionally to his lips.

No troops were on parade and few soldiers were in the vast main plant of the arms works. On the steel platform were only two brown-uniformed officers and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

All about were cannon, their barrels criss-crossed in all directions and clinging to them were the overalled workers who had put down their wrenches to listen.

The choice of the works itself for the speech was, possibly, a bit of Hitlerian humor. The British have announced bombing it several times.

Hitler wore a gray coat, brown trousers. His only decorations were the iron cross and the Nazi party swastika badge.

Drop of Water
High over his head, dim in the gloom, was a skylight, the glass painted green for the nightly blackout. An occasional drop of water from a drizzle outside seeped through and splattered on Hitler's shoulders or on his table.

British Execute German Spies; First of War

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Britain hanged two German spies from the gallows in gloomy, century-old Pentonville prison today in her first executions for espionage in this war.

The two nazis, 25-year-old Jose Waldberg, and 24-year-old Karl Meier, were convicted under the treachery act Nov. 22 in a civil trial at the central criminal court. Its penalty is death by hanging.

Train Derailed Near Atlanta; 12 Persons Hurt

ATLANTA, Dec. 10 (AP)—Twelve persons, including the railroad's president and the general manager, were injured today when seven cars of the Southern railway's passenger train, the Ponce de Leon, were derailed about 14 miles south of Atlanta. The train was en route from Chicago to Florida.

President E. D. Norris of Washington, D. C., suffered a broken leg and scalp lacerations as his private car dropped about 20 feet off a trestle into a dry creek bed. General Manager O. B. Keister of Knoxville, Tenn., suffered a broken arm.

Railroad officials said they had not determined the cause of the wreck, which occurred at the trestle about one mile south of the village of Ellenwood, Ga.

Assert Retreating Italians on North Front Hit Hardest

REAR GUARD FIGHTING BY FASCISTS 'OVERTHROWN',
OFFICIALS CLAIM

MANY CASUALTIES
Resistance Seen Crumbling Since
Defense of Important Peaks
Was Completely Smashed

BY MAX HARRELSON
ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 10 (AP)—The retreating Italians suffered "heavy blows" along the northern front today, a Greek government spokesman said tonight, and left more prisoners in Greek hands.

Over the entire front, the spokesman declared, it was a familiar story; a continued fascist retreat, with rear guard fighting by the Italians "overthrown" as it developed.

At Delvino, he said, "large quantities of all kinds of materials" abandoned by the Italians were collected by Greek troops.

The Italian retirement north of Argirocastro was pictured as hasty.

Units of the ninth Italian division were said to have suffered severe casualties in fighting at close quarters, apparently on the Italian left wing.

Resistance Crumbling
A Greek spokesman pictured Italian resistance as crumbling since Sunday night on the northern front after stubborn defense of "peaks and heights very important from a strategic viewpoint."

"These forces," he said, "were obliged not only to retreat, but to take to flight. If these forces have been able to avoid annihilation it will be due to bad weather which has prevailed."

"Still more to the north, other units of the enemy also are in flight."

Along that inland front, the Greeks are heading toward Elbasan, road junction 25 miles south of Tirana, the Albanian capital, from their bases in the captured region around Lake Ochrida.

Press Toward Valona
Greek forces on the southern front were said to be pressing an Italian retreat toward Chimara, in an advance toward the port of Valona.

(Military reports in London said that the greatest Greek gains yesterday were in the southern sector and that advance forces had reached the town of Piqueras, 15 miles north of Porto Edda on the coastal road.)

(Stiffer Italian resistance and heavy snows were said to have impeded Greek progress in the north. On the central fighting front, these dispatches said, fascist forces have quit the town of Keleyre, on the road north from Premet to Berat.)

Japan States Case Against United States— SEES WAR AS INEVITABLE

—Believes Direct Collision of Nations Due

By RELMAN MORIN
TOKYO — (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The belief is widely prevalent in Japan today that Japan and the United States are on the road to war. Some Japanese believe it will be a direct collision between these two nations alone; others see it as a part of a vast British-American struggle against the expanding powers, Japan, Germany and Italy, now formally united in an alliance.

In either case, this is a dreadful thought for the average man. The conviction is strong, both in official and private circles, that the sources of friction are too many, the root-causes too deep, to make easy the avoidance of war.

Greeks Continue Successful March

Dies Agrees
On Procedure

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Dies committee and the justice department reached an agreement of sorts today on a method for keeping off each other's toes while simultaneously investigating "fifth column" and other subversive activities.

Under a formula worked out by Rep. Voorhis (D-Cal.), representing the committee, and Attorney General Jackson, the congressional investigators will make public only matters which in their judgment are unlikely to lead to criminal prosecutions. The department, in return, will supply the committee with pertinent information "not involved in possible prosecutive action."

The understanding was the product of suggestions made by President Roosevelt who, complaining that "premature disclosure of facts or of suppositions to the public" would hamper the work of the FBI, called Dies to the White house and urged that an understanding be sought.

Matter of Speculation
Whether the result announced today was entirely satisfactory to Dies, however, was a matter of speculation, for, at his home in Orange, Tex., he said he would rather close the investigation than be handicapped by an inadequate agreement that will prevent us from doing an honest and fearless job. He added:

"There is a very fundamental difference between Mr. Jackson and myself as to the manner of handling the situation."

The life of the committee expires at the end of this month and Dies has already served notice he will ask the house to continue it for two more years with an appropriation of $1,000,000. Dies said he would be "shirking" his "duty" to the public and congress if he "did not warn them that the termination of the investigation would mean a great victory for Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini."

Argyrokastron—Greek's Big Albanian Prize

What had been Italy's most important southern Albanian military base, Argyrokastron, is now in the hands of counter-attacking Greek forces. This is a view of the city.

Where British Trap Freighters

This Central Press map shows the area through which two German freight steamers attempted to run a British blockade in a dash from Tampico, Mexico. The freighter Idarwald was caught at (X) by a British cruiser and either sunk or was scuttled. No word was reported on the Rhein.

British Forces in Egypt Throw Troop Line Between Italians

Claim Capture of 4,000 Fascists In Offensive Drive

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Strong forces of the British Army of the Nile have thrown a line of troops between two major Italian invasion bases in Egypt and already have taken 4,000 fascist prisoners in a continuing offensive over an area stretching far into the desert from the Mediterranean coast, it was declared officially today.

This new and "considerable" operation, which required the British to advance northward 75 miles from their interior Egyptian positions to engage the Italians, was described to a shouting house of commons today by Prime Minister Churchill with the concluding observation:

"We shall no doubt receive further news shortly."

The British African command itself, announcing the seizure of more than 4,000 Italian troops and a "number" of tanks in three days of heavy fighting, limited its report on today's campaign to a single line:

"Operations in the western desert are successfully continuing."

The British Mediterranean fleet and the royal air force, Churchill told the house, are cooperating closely, and warships have bombarded the fascists' coastal positions.

22 Planes Downed
The activity of the air arm was almost simultaneously illustrated by the announcement of the air ministry here that 22 Italian planes had been destroyed yesterday over the western desert, against the loss of three British planes.

4 Men Killed In Collapse Of Sewer Trench

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Dec. 10 (AP)—Four men were killed tonight in the collapse of a sewer and water trench at the Pennsylvania military reservation where a $6,000,000 cantonment project is underway to house thousands of national guardsmen.

C. R. Carter, project manager on the 1,800-acre camp, listed the dead as: Benjamin Richards, 40, Negro, Harrisburg; Allen Q. Snyder, 20, Pottsville, married; I. M. Hockenberry, 24, Middletown, R.D. 1, married; Richard J. Goddard, 23, Middletown, R.D. 1, married.

Only a few hours before the collapse Major William L. Kay, another newsmen in commenting on another accident at the reservation that he was "worried" about accidents in the "deep ditches."

Investigate Crash
CHICAGO, (AP)—The civil aeronautics authority will open a hearing today into the cause of the crash of a United Air Lines transport plane last Wednesday near the Municipal airport.

Blockade Is To Stop All Relief Ships

Ambassador's Statement Ends Prospects Of American Aid

WHEAT FOR SPAIN

ENGLISH GOVERNMENT SEES
SCHEME AS MATERIAL
HELP TO GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Herbert Hoover's plan for feeding the civil population in German-occupied countries was rejected by the British government tonight with an announcement here that it would refuse permission "for the passage of food through the blockade."

The statement by the Marquess of Lothian, British ambassador, apparently ended the prospect of any extensive American food relief to German conquered nations, including France.

Lord Lothian, however, expressed his government's willingness to facilitate the passage through the blockade of "medical supplies destined for distribution in territories occupied by Germany and in unoccupied France by approved bodies."

Whether the American Red Cross would be able to carry out a plan to send so-called medicated foods such as evaporated milk into unoccupied France for relief of children was not made clear in the British statement, but it was considered likely that only limited supplies of this character, if any, would be permitted.

Apparently unaffected directly by the British decision against relaxing the blockade was the plan now being considered here for sending about 10,000 tons of wheat to Spain for distribution by the Red Cross. This was expected to be determined as a separate matter by the American and British governments.

Proposal Ruled Out
Lord Lothian's statement specifically ruled out former President Hoover's proposal for sending food to civil populations in some of the German occupied countries. The ambassador said he had reported fully on this and other proposals to his government during his recent visit to London.

They received "most sympathetic attention, all the more so because his majesty's government had in mind the noble services rendered by Mr. Hoover to the people of Belgium and other countries during and after the last war," the statement said.

"After the most careful consideration, however," the statement continued, "his majesty's government have been reluctantly forced to the conclusion that under present conditions any such scheme must be of material assistance to Germany's war effort and would thereby postpone the day of liberation of these peoples from German subjugation."

Hoover, who heads a newly formed "national committee on food for the five small democracies," has predicted widespread famine in Europe this winter unless aid is extended.

The food under his plan would be purchased by the exiled governments of the countries to receive relief. Germany would have to agree to replace any food removed from these countries, to take no more food from them, to permit imports from Russia and the Balkan states, to allow free passage of ships without attack, and permit adequate control of distribution by the organization handling the relief.

No one has said officially that a loan was under consideration, but even before Sir Frederick arrived in Washington last Thursday, Morgenthau and Jesse H. Jones, who is both secretary of commerce and federal lending administrator, had labeled the British "a good risk" for loans.

Yesterday Morgenthau added that he was not authorized to make any commitments and the British had not yet asked for a loan.

Engineers Trace Causes of Disaster

CADIZ, Ohio, Dec. 10 (AP)—Ignition of a gas explosion that killed 31 coal miners in the Nelms mine Nov. 29 was traced today by federal engineers to electrical equipment, which one of them said did not meet federal requirements because bolts were missing from vital control boxes.

C. W. Owings, federal mine engineer from Pittsburgh, testified at a public hearing into the disaster that eight of 10 bolts were missing from an electric drill control box and that four of eight were missing from the box on a mining machine.

Finances Stated
By Morgenthau

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau laid before a large group of high administration officials secret information on British financial resources which may some day be the basis of huge loan negotiations.

Departing from the policy of iron-bound silence surrounding similar gatherings in recent weeks and months, Morgenthau issued a statement to the press afterwards, saying he was bringing his colleagues "up to date on the information which we have obtained from Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the (British) treasury."

For and About the Cynics

We have a word to say about the cynics among us.

They tell us our defense program isn't moving fast enough, or that the thing itself will spell eventual economic ruin.

They shout that we are doomed if we help England, or that we are doomed if we don't.

They tell us the football season was lousy because we didn't win all the games, or they wait that athletics are running away with the educational wagon.

They either find fault with everything, or they hate one or two things so rabidly that none of us gets any rest.

They Find Joy in Futility

They're never happy unless something in this old world is completely awry, and no amount of pleading or argument will convince them that things could be a lot worse.

If we tell them we like Roosevelt, they call him a would-be assassin of American democracy. If we tell them we were Willkieites, they deplore the state the nation would have been in if he had been elected.

They have no sympathy with nazi Germany, but they'll never champion England because of her mistreatment of India.

They're just simply unhappy about the whole thing, or if not the whole thing a very major part of it.

They're almost never constructive, and much of the time they aren't aware of the facts of any given case.

It's Tough on the Rest of Us

Now it's probably a good thing that we're all not satisfied with everything as it is, but cynicism certainly makes it tough on us optimists.

Everybody make a contribution of some kind, though a lot of us try hard enough to avoid it. And practically everybody will admit that there's something good in every one of us.

But not the cynics. The little fellow's a pansy; the big fellow's a bully. John Barrymore overacts; Spencer Tracy underacts. Half the year's too hot; the other half is too cold. And there's never any line in between.

What to Do About Them

Well, we have just one answer for the cynics among us: ignoring them. That makes them hopping mad, and pretty soon they make themselves ridiculous with over-emphasis.

The cynics never like anything, much. And if anybody thinks all this was written just because we needed some ten more inches of type to fill these columns, he's wrong. This one went in first.

And he's a cynic to boot. We're a trifle sorry for the cynics. They've never recovered from those shocks of disillusionment which struck all of us at our discovery of the true status in world society of the stork and Santa Claus.

Christmas Board Job Problem

Vacation periods, especially the longer ones, create their problems for Employment Bureau Manager Lee H. Kann. Work in such major centers of activity as the University hospital must go on, and when students leave for vacations, substitutes must be found.

Mr. Kann is having a busy season right now, arranging substitute schedules for those university employes who will be gone from Iowa City during all or part of the Christmas holiday.

Fact of the case is that a full-time substitute employe can earn his board for something like a two-month period during the holidays. By working full time he combines the board jobs of three regular employes who'd rather eat holiday meals at home.

It's quite a problem, this annual 17-day shift in jobs, because of the very size of the plant. It becomes the more necessary for all who have a part in it, employes and substitutes alike, to get their individual parts finished as soon as possible, and by understanding and complying with the rules of the employment office.

A Man About MANHATTAN

The Old Trader Horn Spins Yarns About the Movies of Today

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Harry Carey, the old Trader Horn, was explaining how he happened to make a picture called "Shepherd of the Hills." He had just ambled into the Astor's Hunting room, stretched his legs comfortably under a table, and made it clear that until he read the script he knew little about Harold Bell Wright's nose job.

"They called me and told me they wanted me to play the Shepherd," said Harry, "but I told them, No. I'd made a lot of cowboy pictures but I didn't want to be a shepherd."

"They then told me there'd be a lot of dough in it, but I shook 'em off. I told 'em hell, no. I don't want to go back to Broadway and have the boys yelling 'Baaa' at me every time I walk down the street."

But then they explained the story and, after the studio writers rewrote the story, and, incidentally, they improved a lot on Harold's stuff, I signed for the picture. The Shepherd, in the book, is a sort of transompeeper, a kind of rural columnist who goes around poking his nose into other people's business. In the picture he's a pretty decent guy."

About lions, which he understands pretty well and with which he has been intimate ever since he spent nine months on the African equatorial belt making "Trader Horn," Carey confides:

"There isn't a tame lion in Hollywood. The only tame lions you find are in Africa. The trouble with Hollywood lions is the treatment they get. Lions are no different from other guys. They don't like guys standing around with whips and guns in their hands, taking pictures. That makes 'em sore. If a guy busted into your house and shoved a gun in your face and made you pose for a picture you wouldn't like it either."

"I remember in Africa we had a hard time finding wild lions. They acted like over-fed tabby cats. We had one scene so close to five real wild lions that they cut it out of the picture. The studio knew the public wouldn't believe it."

"But them water buffalo are different. They're really mean. They'll follow you all day, not because they dislike actors especially but because they don't like people in general."

While he was spinning these yarns Harry got around to the modern western movie. We asked him if he thought the horse operas had improved in the last 25 years and he shook his head. "They're too improbable," he said. "Cowmen — we don't say cowboys any more — have to work hard, but on the screen all they ever do is strum a guitar or play around with the rancher's daughter. The kids don't believe that, and the kids know also that you can't catch a thief any more on a horse. You've got to ride an automobile to be plausible, and there goes your romance."

IF SIGNOR MUSSOLINI IS HUMAN—!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

American War Entry Out of the Question

WASHINGTON—This government has frankly let the British know within the past ten days that direct American involvement in the war is out of the question.

The leading legal representative of his majesty's government in New York held a three hour unrecorded conference with a ranking cabinet officer at which the international position of the United States was fully canvassed. On the phase of American fighting, the situation was outlined in the following apparently accurate way:

The waning congress is overwhelmingly against unveiling American guns; the one coming in January is even more so, according to advance polls. As only congress can declare war, this puts the idea completely aside.

The only thing likely to make the legislative branch change its mind is German violence to American rights or property. In view of cautious German policy in this respect so far such a prospect seems remote.

FAR EASTERN PICTURE—

A personal unofficial report over the heads of censors in the far east (it is of such a nature that it can be relied upon without reservation) pictures Japan's cause as thoroughly hedged in.

The Chinese are trading "with hardly a stoppage" with the outside world. The only difference the Japanese blockade has made is that deliveries are slower, and that must be paid the Japanese as well as the Chinese guerrillas. But the Japanese hold in China is so loose, the Chinese guerrillas have even taken the hinges off the city gates in Peking under the noses of the Japanese, when iron was needed for horse-shoes. Many a Jap has been found wandering naked, or dead in dark alleys and outside the city walls.

NO TROUBLE AT SINGAPORE—

As for the next Japanese objectives in British Singapore and the rich Dutch East Indies, the prospects are equally unimpressive.

The missing big British liners Queen Mary and Mauretania have been pouring Australian trained troops into Singapore. The two ships brought 9,000 in August. These troops have been marched into upper Malay near the Thailand border. Singapore itself is an armed camp.

From a military standpoint, Thailand is about as formidable as Graustark. Its military men resemble Boy Scouts in both stature and training. The British could take them with swagger sticks, and even the Japanese might have little trouble.

DUTCH INDIES ALERT—

But the Dutch—the Dutch are daily proving the old jingle representing them as exceedingly difficult to beat. They have the strictest censorship. All their Netherlands India is under martial law. Germans and representatives of some other nationalities, are in camps. All golf courses are marked with ditches and steel pylons to prevent the sudden landing of planes. Every visitor is searched right down to his skin. The Dutch are alert.

Belabored Japanese efforts to get vital oil, rubber and tin have run into characteristic Dutch trading instincts, fortified by the knowledge that Japan is now in the axis which has crushed the homeland. The Japanese have gotten lots of promising generalities from the Dutch—but no oil, no rubber, no tin.

DELAY IN THE U.S.—

These three indispensable products are bestirring just as much fuss in Washington as in the far east and with the same results. Jesse Jones, as the loan administrator furnishing the money has come to inner grips with the defense commission about methods of acquiring or storing each of the three commodities.

Construction of a tin smelter has been held up by a row over what kind of a smelter it is to be. The Jones group in RFC wants a small and cheap one. The war department has been trying for two months to get a synthetic rubber project started, involving construction of 10 plants. Their complaint is that the price could be reduced without reason by such large scale operations and the plants could be built in a year and a half. The project has been held up in RFC. Similar trouble is being encountered in acquiring gasoline through the corporation which RFC has set up. The oil industry now has surplus idle capacity, so one faction believes large stocks need not be stored. The other faction predicts the idle capacity will be lost within six months and therefore purchases should be made now.

The result has been weeks of delay in acquiring strategic defense materials.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Little Tales From The Movie Capital

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — He might be disqualified if it got down to cases, but our nomination for the actor longest in this picture business is Montagu Love.

Forty years ago this autumn in Portsmouth, England, his home town, Love sold an original drawing to a movie manager. He got one pound for it, and it was one of the first ever used for advertising and lobby display. It that counts as a movie debut of sorts, his service beats Jean Herscholt's (1906), Donald Crisp's (1910), and Jack Holt's (1913). Love's actual movie debut, as an actor after some amateur and professional stage work, came in 1914 and he has been at it ever since. He still does commercial art on the side, and recently sold a drawing of a fur trapper and a halfbreed for use in advertising "Hudson's Bay," the Muni film in which he plays the part of the early French-Canadian governor.

There's a short on the screen called "Alice in Movieland." A cynic's comment thereon: It's meant to discourage screen-struck girls from coming to Hollywood. It will discourage everybody from coming to movie theaters. But the heroine, blonde Joan Leslie, is an attractive youngster—you'll see more of her in "High Sierra." . . .

Speaking of the bright lad who posed the question: "If one Lane sister can keep thousands of people out of the theaters, how many people can three Lane sisters discourage?" He got his answer in "Four Daughters" and the sequels, in various of their solo flights. And he's still in sold it in Rosemary's personal appearance trip.

Ever hear Harold Lloyd's nickname? It's Yabble, and it's tacked on to a dog in Lloyd's glib-guy-gob (whatever the title is now) picture, Origin. Harold's a boy had a pet mongrel, Bill. He used to call "Yah Bill, yah Bill!"

When Lloyd makes another picture starring himself, the girl will be Lucille Ball, who is going to be a busy girl in any case. Already they're planning to star her with Desi Arnaz in "Bavanna"—the plan having absolutely nothing to do, of course, with their romantic interest in each other. . . .

Declaration of war: On those shorts starring dance band leaders and their bands. One of the recent headaches added injury to insult by basing its "plot" upon the romantic appeal exerted by the leader — which was the more painful because the audience, rightfully, tittered throughout. Question: Will today's song lyrics sound as "corny" 20 years from now as some of the first World War's do today? "Tin Pan Alley" raises the query—especially its revival of "America, I Love You," which is still a stirring catchy tune. But oh—the lyrics in America "just like a baby" you, or you, or you? Shudder! shudder!

Challenge to Iowa Motorists--

Take auto accidents off your December shopping list!

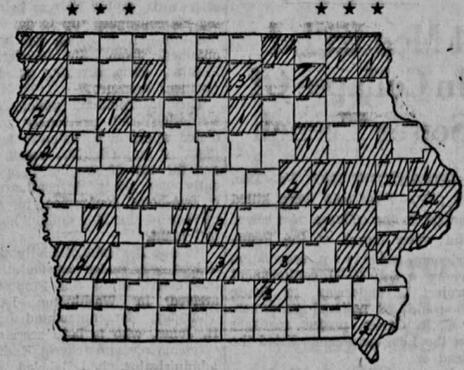

This is a suggestion issued by Karl W. Fischer, state commissioner of public safety, whose department, along with other state safety organizations, is sponsoring a "No auto deaths in December" campaign.

Fischer said that a reduction in auto fatalities in Iowa this month will enable the state to reduce its death toll for the year under last year's total of 530 persons killed.

"If the drivers in the state of Iowa can cooperate to the extent of a sizeable decrease in the December death toll then Iowa stands a very good chance of being one of the few states in the nation to slice its fatality mark under 1939 figures," Fischer said.

He pointed out that figures released at the end of the first nine months of this year by the National Safety Council showed highway deaths to be increased 7 per cent throughout the nation over 1939 figures. Iowa, at the end of the first nine months, was 1 per cent above last year's mark, he said.

"Only drivers will bear in mind that summer driving habits have to be overhauled for safe winter driving then we can reduce our accident rate."

A "white" December is urged of Iowa motorists as state safety officials open plans for a last-ditch stand to reduce highway deaths during the last month of the year. During December, 1939, 37 Iowans were killed in auto crashes. In the above map counties who reported highway deaths in December of last year and the number of deaths in each county is shown. Death-free counties are in white. What will Iowa drivers do about the death toll this month?

Longer hours of darkness, poorer visibility, and uncertain road conditions add increased driving hazards during winter months. These conditions have to be reckoned with by careful, more alert driving. If Iowa drivers can do this then the state will go over the top in cutting its traffic death toll.

Bread in National Defense Home Ec. Students Learn Advantages Of Good Flour in Bread

Measurements must be accurate, and Dorothy Welt, A3 of Iowa City, a member of the advanced foods class, is making sure that she has the exact amount of flour for her bread mixture which she is making with the new type of flour containing more of the grain. Members of University of Iowa coeds are doing their part to aid in national defense now, too. It's all under the direction of the foods division of the home economics department, and the new weapon is bread.

The scene of action is the advanced foods class, taught by Prof. Edna Hill. The principal actor is flour and it's taking a new role now.

Flour, which contains more of the grain, is being used by home economics students in making bread. It is ground finely enough to pulverize the hard wheat kernel (hard spring or hard winter wheat) and the flour which results makes a soft, light, fine-grained loaf of bread, containing more food value than average.

Malnutrition
How is this related to national defense? It all goes back to government reports where we find that men being examined for army service show that many more men are being rejected because of poor health than army officials had expected. But most amazing is that in the last 25 years, the physical health of men has not improved, which bears out the statistics that 40,000,000 people in the United States show signs of malnutrition.

"Responsibility for malnutrition is not due alone to an ability to pay for the right food," Miss Hill stated. "It's the lack of understanding the right diet and to a certain unwillingness to select and eat adequate foods."

Nutrition Principles
She added, "Application of nutrition principles has not kept

Iowa Sons Honored for Service in Past Wars by Class Memorial

THE REHABILITATION PANEL

THE AIR FORCE PANEL

THE NAVY PANEL

THE ARMY PANEL

How many times have you strolled into Iowa Union this fall without realizing that a significant addition has been made to the vestibule? Harry Stinson of the art department, now on a year's leave of absence, completed his work on the new sculptured panels early this fall. The reliefs are a memorial to the service and sacrifices of the sons and daughters of Iowa during the past wars. The sculptured panels are the gift of the university's class of 1933. Four of the marble designs represent the main branches of service—army, navy, air and medical. Paragraphs taken from the Iowa Union's dedication address by the late James B. Weaver of Des Moines are inscribed. * * * Impersonal discipline and subordination of the individual to the needs of organization are emphasized in the pattern of similar soldiers for the army panel, according to Stinson. * * * A helmsman and an officer are presented in the navy panel with emphasis on the decorative effect to keep them from being dated. * * * A ground mechanic stands near two aviators as they are preparing for flight in the aviation panel. * * * A doctor and a nurse are attending a wounded man for the medical design. The extract from the dedicatory speech of Feb. 5, 1926, on the north panel reads— "And if this magnificent structure is to fulfill the dreary out of which it has arisen it can only do so by stirring the impulses of the young men and women of Iowa to lives of service to mankind." Beneath the south panel are inscribed the words

"So this memorial Union, this temple, this rendezvous of youth and hope and possibility, rises in memory of the university's sacred dead, dedicated to the ideal of service for which they made a supreme sacrifice." Ozark marble was chosen for the memorial because the entrance is already paneled in marble veneer. A shallow relief was used because heavy traffic through the vestibule eliminated any kind of design that would project from the side walls, officials explained.

Life Magazine Pictures Dr. Steindler At Wound Dressing Demonstration

Dr. Arthur Steindler, head of the orthopedics department in the college of medicine here, is pictured with a group of surgeons in the Dec. 9, 1940, issue of Life magazine.

The doctors are watching a plaster-cast demonstration by Dr. Hiram W. Orr, Lincoln, Neb., whose new technique in treating war wounds has started a revolution in war wound surgery.

As an orthopedist, Dr. Orr approached the problem of war wounds concerned primarily with bone fractures which occur with such wounds.

Treatment
Instead of the standard open treatment of wounds with wet dressings and drainage, Dr. Orr's plaster-cast method encloses the wound in a plaster cast and lets it heal itself.

A deep incision is made through the patient's retracted muscle layers to clean and scrape out the infected bone. Gauze dressing, soaked in petroleum to prevent adhesion to the tissues, is then packed into the incision. The gauze is pushed out by the healing tissues beneath as the wound heals.

Plaster Cast
The dressing is pressed into the wound by a plaster cast. The

- The Original Fast Moves Favors Huskers

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The chart on Biff Jones' reactions to the Chicago Bears' "T" party at Washington last Sunday isn't available yet, but it's quite possible he knows just how a pig feels when watching a sausage grinder.

For the Biffer knows that he and his Nebraska Cornhuskers are next in line to face the formation which is football's four-star special this year. Stanford, Nebraska's Rose Bowl opponent, uses it. Whether Clark Shaughnessy taught it to George Halas or George Halas taught it to Clark Shaughnessy doesn't matter. They both get the same results.

The Original Considerable unwarranted mystery is attached to the "T" formation, chiefly because the younger generation never saw it before. It's as old as football itself. In fact, it's the original football formation, and its success indicates that perhaps some of the old ideas are best after all. We may not go back to candlelight on the strength of rebirth of the gay 90s, but it's a cinch there will be more "T's" than there are in tattletale bobbing up on the gridirons next fall.

The formation derives its name from the fact that the quarterback is behind the center and the other three backs line up in a row behind him, the four forming a T.

The quarterback handles the ball on practically every play. That's about all he does on offense, but he's the life of the party as a clever quacker like Sid Luckman or Frankie Albert can keep the opposition bewildered.

Fast Moves There are none of the ponderous sweeps and off-tackle plays on which the ball carrier is preceded by everyone but the drum major. The system calls for quick opening plays, with the ball carrier getting through the line of scrimmage on his own. The added speed possible as a result of the back being handed the ball when under way makes it possible for him to slip through a hole before the defense has emerged from low gear.

The system offers infinite possibilities for deception, and Shaughnessy has added feints and fakes and flankers and man-in-motions which add a touch of magic.

From Nebraska's angle, the Huskers know what they are facing. Jones and his backfield coach, Glenn Pressnell, saw the Bear-Redskin game, and Pressnell as a pro played against the Bears for years. Also, Link Lyman, Husker line coach, was a Bear star for years, although most of the hocus-pocus went on behind his back as he was a tackle.

Favors Huskers The only expert who has come to our attention who has seen both Nebraska and Stanford, gives the nod to the Huskers. He is

Leagues Agree To Reelect Landis; Reds Sell Arnovich

By JUDSON BAILEY CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP)—The major leagues agreed today to the reelection of Commissioner Keneaw Mountain Landis which will take place in a unanimous action at tomorrow's joint session of the National and American leagues.

In addition to matters which the two circuits considered jointly, the American league designated July 8 at Detroit for the 1941 all-star game and the National league announced that 65-year-old Bill Klem, the "Great Arbitrator," had been retired from active service and made supervisor of umpires.

The American league also voted to retain its rule against trading by its champions and the National league reelected President Ford Frick for four years.

The two leagues were in session for seven hours while managers, scouts and onlookers milled around in the lobbies hoping to make trades and gossiping about nothing in particular.

The only deal of the day was transacted at dinner time by the Cincinnati Reds and New York Giants. It sent outfielder Morrie Aronovich to the Giants for cash, estimated at $12,500, and exchanged pitcher Milt Shoffner of the Reds for shortstop Wayne Ambler of the Jersey City Giants of the International league and cash. Shoffner will be placed on the Jersey City roster.

The Giants also signed Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, the big, bluff ex-manager of the Chicago Cubs, as a player-coach replacing Coach Travis Jackson, who retired because of ill health.

Hartnett, happy at getting another job after spending 19 years with the Cubs, declared, "I'll be more player than coach. I think I can catch 100 games if necessary for the Giants."

In their formal meetings the major leagues also set April 14 for the opening of the 1941 season with the New York Yankees making a ceremonial appearance at Washington followed by the general getaway of all clubs the next day. The season will close September 28.

Del Baker, manager of Detroit's American league pennant-winners, was chosen to pilot the junior circuit's all-stars while Bill McKechnie of the National league automatically returns as the rival pilot under the National league's practice of giving the assignment to the manager of the champions.

In relieving Klem, who had been an umpire for 35 years, the National league shifted Ernest C.

Quigley from the supervisor's job to a position in the public relations division.

President Frick said Klem might still see occasional service as the fourth man in important games. Landis' reelection was taken as foregone conclusion even before the leagues went into session when it was learned that the American league would submit a resolution extending his term for four years until January 12, 1946, when the 25 year agreement of the major leagues expires.

All-University Mat Tournament Starts Tomorrow

Iowa's annual all-university wrestling meet, open to all undergraduate students with less than three years of varsity wrestling experience, will start tomorrow at 4:15 p.m. at the fieldhouse, Mike Howard, varsity wrestling coach, announced yesterday.

The tournament is scheduled to last three days but Howard said all the finals would probably not be completed until next Monday or Tuesday.

National intercollegiate wrestling rules will govern the meet and all weight classes are included, Howard reported.

Fifty students, including some of Howard's top varsity matmen, have already signified their intention of participating in the meet. Registration for the affair will be closed at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

The prelims will be two minute bouts and the finals will go six minutes. Howard is using the meet to discover who his best wrestling possibilities are and is planning to work on his varsity squad with it as a base.

A gold medal will be awarded the winner in each weight class. Friday's bouts will start at 4:15 p.m. and Saturday's at 2 p.m.

Howard expressed worry that some of his top-flight matmen whom he is counting on for the coming season will be lost through ineligibility. "However," he said, "I may discover some new talent when these bouts get going."

Robert "Doc" Erskine, Oklahoma scout and backfield coach. He labels Nebraska as "the kind of team that breaks your back." Stanford, he says, has fine team spirit and more smoothness and finesse than the Huskers, but he thinks Nebraska will offset this through superior power and running strength, better reserves, and a better defense.

"Stanford's backs have to get a lot of ground by themselves," he says, "and I don't believe they can fool the Nebraska tacklers. Biff Jones is a careful planner, and if he analyzes Stanford correctly he will hit its weak spots in a hurry."

That the Huskers have offensive power is not denied. The question seems to be as to whether they can find the Stanford man with the ball. It's just like groping through fog trying to find the little man who wasn't there.

Anyway, "T" time in the Rose Bowl promises to be one grand party.

But Tommy May Not Sign

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—As if they weren't already a pretty fair ball club, the world champion Chicago Bears won first call today on the football services of Tommy Harmon, Michigan's all-American halfback, if Tommy changes his mind and decides to play football for money next year.

Harmon's name was the first drawn in the annual draft of the National Professional football league. Actually he was selected by the Philadelphia Eagles, under a rule which permits the league's last place team to make the first draw, but through a previous agreement the Eagles yielded first choice to the Bears.

The Bears won the pro championship last Sunday when they crushed the Washington Redskins, 73 to 0.

When Tommy, in New York, was informed that he was the No. 1 choice he said again that he was not interested in pro football. He previously has expressed a preference for radio work. Today's draw, he said, did not influence his decision not to play.

The names of Harmon and 400-odd other college seniors whose services are sought by 10 professional teams were placed side by side on a group of blackboards. From this list the team owners, crowded with their coaches in a smoke-filled hotel room, made their selections.

The Chicago Cardinals, given second choice, drew Jarrin' John Kimbrough, of Texas A. & M., another highly prized all-American. Other first choices:

Pittsburgh Steelers—Norman Standlee, Stanford fullback, who was also transferred to the Bears under a pre-season trade agreement.

Cleveland Rams—Rudy Mucha, University of Washington center.

Detroit Lions—Jim Thomason, Texas A. & M. back.

New York Giants—George Franck, Minnesota back.

Green Bay Packers—George Paskvan, Wisconsin fullback.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Dean McAdams, University of Washington back.

Chicago Bears—(Picking in their own right)—Don Scott, Ohio State quarterback.

Washington Redskins—Forest Evashevski, Michigan blocking back who cleared the way for many of Harmon's touchdown sprints.

First Beats Second-North, 15-14 In Intramural Basketball Tilt

Pederson, Cretzmeyer Pace Winning Team In Close Battle

Second North lost a close 15 to 14 game to First floor in the Hillcrest league game in intramural basketball competition Monday night. Pederson and Cretzmeyer paced the attack of the winning quintet while Landis, a Second North forward, looked best for the losers.

Martin, a Third South front line man, netted 11 of his team's points to defeat Third North 21 to 12 in another Hillcrest encounter. Center Kaaler looped 4 markers for the victors. Amick turned in a good defensive game for Third North.

Lower B trounced Lower D, 43 to 13 in the Quadrangle league with Clausen and Gosline netting 14 and 12 points. Lower B led at halftime 10 to 2. Hoyt, a Lower D forward, played well for the losers.

Snyder, at the pivot spot, led the attack of his Upper D mates with 11 points to turn back an Upper B cage team 31 to 15. Lye-ly netted 4 field goals for the winners. Webb, an Upper D forward, and center Vollgaewider scored all of Upper B's markers.

Upper A took a shelling against Upper C, 51 to 19. Woodbury and Smoldt, a forward-center combination, took the burden of the scoring for the victorious five. Stuckey and Knapp were outstanding for Upper A.

Center Heffner and forward Hanson dropped in 12 and 10 markers respectively for Lower C in their 36 to 17 triumph over Lower A. Gambian and Logan led the attack of the losing Lower A squad.

Chesley house romped over Gables 41 to 19 in the only game played in the cooperative dormitory intramural league. Vining led the scoring for Chesley with 11 field goals. White, another Chesley forward, also scored freely throughout the contest. Chesley paced the Gables' cagers 10 to 8 at halftime. Howard turned in a good game in the Gables' front line.

In the town league, Dupont VIII marched through West Side 40 to 14 with Ryerson and Reece chalking up 22 and 16 markers each. Frye and Simpson stood out for the losing quintet.

Bogg Hopps won a 32 to 21 decision from Section VII in the town league with D. Olson and Gable marking up eight and seven points respectively from their forward positions. Center Evans dropped in 14 of his team's 21 scores for Section VII.

Ramblers Face Ottumwa Team Here Tonight

St. Mary's high school cagers will go into their second game of this week's heavy, three-game schedule against Ottumwa Catholic Central high tonight in old City high gymnasium at 7:35. Coach Francis Suplee's hoopers will be gunning for their fifth win of the season.

The Ramblers started off the week with an impressive 32 to 22 victory over Loras Academy of Dubuque there Monday evening, meet Catholic Central high of Ottumwa here tonight and wind up the week's contests at Wilton Junction high there Friday evening.

The Marions eked out a 35 to 28 decision over Catholic Central high in a previous game two weeks ago at Ottumwa but may feel the strain of Monday evening's contest with Dubuque tonight on their home floor. Friday's game at Wilton Junction will find the Ramblers pitted against virtually the same team that represented Wilton Junction in the district tourney here two years ago. Four members of the 1938-39 sectional championship team form the nucleus of this year's outfit.

Probable starters for Coach Suplee's team will be his two high scoring forwards, Jim "Flicker" Chadek and Tony Brack, pivot man Tom Toohy, and steady Ray Eakes and "Bullet Bill" Boek in the back court.

Impressed by the work of several substitute men in relief roles in the Ft. Madison and Loras Academy games, Suplee may also give the nod to Don Michael, Rodger Ivie, Melvin Smith, Ed. Chadek, Morris Milder or George Seemuth.

By MAXIE ROSENBLUM St. Pat's lost another heart-breaking thriller last night, to Roosevelt Military Academy of Aledo, Ill., 26-24. Red Miller was mainly responsible for the close score, caging 21 of the 24 points marked up by the Irish.

The Aledo outfit, a tall and husky team, got off to a six point lead in the opening quarter before Miller sunk two free throws. Roosevelt added four more points to this before the end of the period, while Bill Robinson made a bucket for the Irish to make the score 10-4.

The second quarter was low scoring, with only six points being made, four of them by Miller. The scoring in the third frame was even, each team caging eight points, Miller again making them all with three goals and two free throws.

The Irish pulled up to within one point of a tie midway through the final quarter, but a field goal by Lauro again put Roosevelt ahead by three points, 26-23, and try as they might the best St. Pat's could do was to sink a free throw one minute before the contest closed.

Don Black, ace Shamrock ball handler, played three quarters of the game with a bad ankle and a bruised wrist. Another important factor in the loss was the inability of the green to sink the ball on free throws, a factor which might have pulled the game out of the fire for them.

Hawkllets Invade Roosevelt High Friday Evening Having upset the Davenport Blue Devils in a 32-25 thriller last week, Coach Francis Merten's Little Hawk cagers now turn their attention to Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids. The Red and Whites will meet the Parlor City team on the Roosevelt floor Friday night.

Coach Merten's boys played an entire game of bang up ball against the Blue Devils both defensively and offensively. The Iowa City mentor was well pleased with the spirited showing his Hawkllets made against the Davenporters and will start the same men against the Cedar Rapids quintet. One of the most important games of the season as far as City highers are concerned, the Iowa City-Davenport tilt was played before one of the most enthusiastic crowds the City high gym has ever seen. Adding to the spirit was the City high band, a new innovation at Little Hawk basketball games.

With a team Coach Don Wolk considers not as good as last year's, the Roosevelt five opens its conference season against Iowa City Friday night. Five lettermen, Emory Sample, Mervin Metela, Donald Carter, Gene Dorsey and Bob Hallquist, return from last year's squad. By graduation last spring Coach Wolk lost Bob Malthaug, Joe Wall and Bernie Webster, all regulars on Roosevelt's outfit last season.

Press box Pickups

BY OSCAR HARGRAVE

An item picked at random from the stray notes that are still being gleaned from Iowa football statistics says that Iowa teams have scored 39 touchdowns in Eddie Anderson's two seasons as Iowa coach. In the two seasons preceding Anderson's arrival here, the Hawkeyes accounted for only 13.

Which means that there may be considerable more than mere victories mixed up in the matter of crowds, although the definitely increased percentage of wins certainly has something to do with the corresponding rise in attendance at games. But I have a curious feeling that the matter of scores, gotten in ways that were often sensational, is the most important factor in bringing back the crowds.

There was no difference at all in the offensive efficiency of the Hawkeyes of 1940 and the team of 1939. Surprisingly enough, Iowa scored 20 touchdowns this fall in eight games, while 1939's "Miracle Team" had 19 to its credit. However, the 1939 Hawks made up for the difference in points after touchdown and were also better defensively. Attendance figures for both seasons are about on a par and there appears little reason to expect any falling off next fall.

Another "first" has been established for the University of Iowa, with Big Ten championships scheduled here on successive week ends late in the winter.

Iowa has never before had more than one conference title meet in one season, but in 1941 Big Ten swimmers will decide individual and team championships here March 7 and 8, while gymnasts will compete at Iowa fieldhouse March 15.

The Hawkeye athletic plant has been the site of only seven previous championship meets. The outdoor track affair was held here in 1922 and 1926, indoor track in 1928 and 1929, swimming in 1934, wrestling in 1936 and gymnastics in 1937. All ten schools of the loop will enter the swimming meet, but only four, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and Chicago, support gymnastics as an intercollegiate sport.

Iowa's basketball team, which got little better than a workout last week end in the one-sided 75-35 triumph over Monmouth, should have its first real test Friday night. Wabash, one of the little colleges in Indiana that put out "hot" basketball teams, is pretty well able to take care of itself against Big Ten competition, according to the figures. The Hoosier school dropped a close 35-32 game to Northwestern Monday night. If the Wildcats are anywhere near the conference average, then Wabash is capable.

plane parts, assemblies and engine production for all the buyers now making demands upon the American plane-making industry—the army and navy, Great Britain, the Dutch East Indies and commercial airlines—the official urged that an assistant to Knudsen be clothed with supervisory and, in some circumstances, dictatorial authority.

This assistant would be able to make decisions necessary to keep production going smoothly, he declared, but would be kept from abusing this power by being responsible to the commission. The commission, in turn, would continue responsible to the president.

City Council Gives New Year Revelers Extra Hour to Play

Iowa Citizens were given an extra hour to ring in the New Year as the city council passed a resolution Monday night allowing all clubs in the city, which have been required by law to close their doors at 1 a.m., to remain open until 2 a.m. New Year's morning.

Attorney William R. Hart was reappointed as a member of the Iowa City community building committee for a period of three years and Jule Kasper, as a member of the board of adjustment, for a five-year term.

Ike Larew was appointed to the board of examiners of plumbers, succeeding Allen Mulford, whose term had expired.

Hitler--

The whole conflict the fuhrer termed one between gold and labor—German labor.

"I know," said Hitler, "that whatever was done in three or four or five centuries a single person cannot move within two, or three, or five years."

But, he went on, "our capacity for work is our gold, our capital; and with it we will defeat the entire world."

without state control." But that, he said, does not mean there is plenty for all of "we English, we Americans, we French."

On the contrary, he remarked scornfully, "rich America has 12 to 13 million unemployed annually . . . nowhere is the standard of the masses lower," than under democracy.

Hitler's loudest cheers, a storm of applause, came when he said the war had been conducted to hold the loss of life to a minimum.

"I believe," he said, "that the German people will thank me if I await the proper time for the final blow, and thereby reduce the sacrifice to a minimum. We want no prestige successes and no prestige attacks. But when the final thrust comes . . . we decide!"

Free Wrapping Of Packages Begins Today

Post Office Lobby Scene of Community C. of C. Project

With paper and string furnished by the retail trade division of the senior chamber, the Junior Chamber of Commerce starts its free package wrapping bureau in the post office lobby this morning.

The committee in charge of the project, headed by Richard Strauss, has set up wooden tables in the lobby near the stamp window, handy for postage purchasers. The tables were donated by the community building commission.

An additional table has been installed for the use of bureau patrons in addressing packages. Strauss said that one attendant will handle the packages the first week, but that additional helpers may be needed with the approach of the mailing rush.

The committee asks that patrons of the bureau pack fragile and perishable articles elsewhere since only the outside paper wrapping will be done by the attendant.

Three Aliens Become United States Citizens

Three Iowa City aliens whose native lands are now under the black clouds of war, took the oath of allegiance to the United States yesterday and became citizens through the authorization of Johnson county district court.

Theodoros Antone Kienlenstyn, 29, a flower shop worker from the tulip fields of Holland; Johan Marius Leth Espensen, 55, a farmer from Denmark, and Joseph Kimmel, 70, 517 S. Madison, formerly of Poland, smiled gratefully as Judge Evans made their citizenship status official.

Patriotic pamphlets and flags were presented to the new citizens by the Women's Relief Corps and two chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution following the ceremony.

Each petitioner was given a series of questions pertaining to the laws and customs of the United States preliminary to the oath.

Hospitals Plan Merry Holiday

Donations Throughout State to Brighten Patients' Christmas

More than 100 children confined in the University Children's hospital can look forward to a happy and merry Christmas in spite of their inability to be at their homes for the holiday.

A special Christmas is being planned for them, as well as for 550 to 600 patients in the University hospital, by a Christmas committee recently appointed by Robert E. Neff, administrator of University hospitals.

Members of the hospital staff who will serve on the committee are Lois B. Corder, chairman, Dr. Kate Daum, Flora Weber, Wilbur McLin, Stella Scott, Lola Lindsey, Mrs. Winona Ballantyne, Marjorie Post, V. Pangborn, Dr. Kenneth Laughlin, R. J. Connor, Dr. M. L. Floyd, Dr. J. W. Dulin, Dr. W. D. Paul, Dr. J. D. Blair, Dr. B. L. Evers and Elizabeth Mills.

The children are already writing their letters to Santa Claus. Toys and cash gifts will be donated by more than 300 individuals and organizations throughout the state. Committee workers will distribute the presents as reasonably as they can. Santa Claus will appear before the children Christmas eve.

Entertainment will be provided for the patients in both university hospitals. Christmas eve, carols will be sung in the halls by church groups and choruses. Movies may be shown in the Children's hospital.

Lighted Christmas trees will adorn the hospital lawns on Christmas eve and a lighted wreath will be seen in the front window of the hospital tower.

"We are trying to make it possible for as many patients as are able to spend their Christmas at home," said Mr. Neff, "but for those who cannot go home, we shall do all we can to give them a grand Christmas right here."

Rat Damage! 'Misdemeanors' Cost U. S. $3,200,000

"Few people realize that the damage done by rats amounts to more than it costs to maintain this university," Prof. Luther O. Nolf told his practical zoology class this week.

In fact, the muridae epimys norvegicus, or common brown rats, destroyed approximately 61,200,000 bushels of corn in Johnson county last year.

The total loss was estimated at $3,200,000, Professor Nolf said. "The country needs another 'Pied Piper'."

Local County Groups Endorse 1940 Christmas Seal Campaign

Heads of three Johnson county groups—medical, educational and farm—joined yesterday in endorsing the 1940 Christmas seal sale of the Johnson county Tuberculosis and Health association.

"Every physician knows how much more can be accomplished in controlling the disease in any one family when that family knows what tuberculosis is and where the dangers of contagion lie," declared Dr. Andrew H. Woods, president of the Johnson County Medical society. "I am glad to give my earnest support to the Christmas seal campaign and to recommend it as a worthy cause for community interest," he added.

Iowa City public schools are giving their whole-hearted support to the campaign. "All of us are vitally concerned with the good health of our children," I. A. Opstad, superintendent of Iowa City schools, declared. "Because of its important meaning for the growing child, I wholeheartedly endorse the Christmas seal drive."

Byron D. Coglan, president of Johnson County Farm bureau, expressed his satisfaction with the means the local campaign heads have taken for collecting and distributing funds.

"The raising and spending of Christmas seal money is so distributed that rural and city communities benefit alike," he said.

Mrs. H. S. Ivie, co-chairman of the Johnson county Tuberculosis association, yesterday announced the names of workers who are selling Christmas seals in the special booths set up in Sidwell's, Yetter's, Whetstone's, Montgomery Ward's, university hospital, the two Iowa City banks and the post office.
