Nazis Hurry 240,000 Troops Toward Bulgar-Greek Front

Decree Bans Direct Contact With Military

Observers Expect No Outbreak of Hostilities Within Next Few Days

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 17 (AP)—Germany has moved 16 divisions—perhaps 240,000 troops—up to or within striking distance of Bulgaria's Greek front, a military expert reported tonight, as Bulgaria herself prepared for possible Balkan battles between nazis and British.

The 16 divisions were part of long columns of nazi troops which this expert said were continuing to pour toward Greece through Hungary and Rumania to counter-balance the landing of a British expeditionary force in Greece. Nearly a third of a British force of 300,000 was reported Saturday to have been landed in Greece, with convoys still on the way.

The Bulgarian government ordered all direct contact with German troops in Bulgaria suspended to eliminate possible spying on nazi military contingents. The decree applied to any trader, private person, society or organization and was issued in connection with a plan for feeding the nazi army through the Bulgarian food ministry out of surpluses which have been accumulating for months to Germany's credit.

Bulgaria, with Rumania, also adopted new rules to reduce non-military traveling to a minimum by suspending the issuance of all visas by consulates except on specific telegraphed instructions from the Bucharest and Sofia foreign offices.

All Directions
The 16 German divisions, the military expert said, are in addition to the 12 in Rumania, roughly described as in these locations: two still actually instructing the Rumanian army or defending strategic points; four on the Russian frontier or moving in that direction; two near Yugoslavia, and four scattered along the supply line ready to be thrown in any direction they may be needed.

Blaze Rages Aboard Nazi Liner Bremen

BERLIN, March 17 (AP)—A big fire raged on late today aboard the $20,000,000 German liner Bremen, idle fleet and Germany's merchant pride and one-time holder of the blue ribbon of the Atlantic.

The whereabouts of the 51,731-ton liner were not disclosed in so many words and the cause of the flames was undetermined, but a German official news agency account of the fire was carried here under a Bremen date-line. The liner completed a spectacular hide-and-seek dash across the Atlantic to a home port soon after the war began.

Life today, authorities said, the fire was "big" and was "still continuing." They declined to give further details.

72 Dead as Rescue Parties Strive To Reach Those Isolated by Storms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Torrents of frigid air gushed Sunday on broken ice floes were into the east and south yesterday while the toll of deaths in the wide area raked by winter's end storms rose to 72.

In the calm cold that followed the week end gale, snow plows bucked hard-packed drifts in North Dakota and Minnesota as rescue parties strove to reach those still isolated. Hour by hour, the count of fatalities increased until it had reached a total of 62 for the two states.

Most of the victims froze, officials opined, but they expressed the belief that some suffocated when trapped by the choking mass of snow and dirt churned up by winds that were gauged officially at 70 miles an hour.

But anxiety turned to elation on Michigan's upper peninsula when the Baraga county sheriff's office reported that nearly a score of fishermen who had been swept into Lake Superior

Sunday on broken ice floes were "safe and sound."

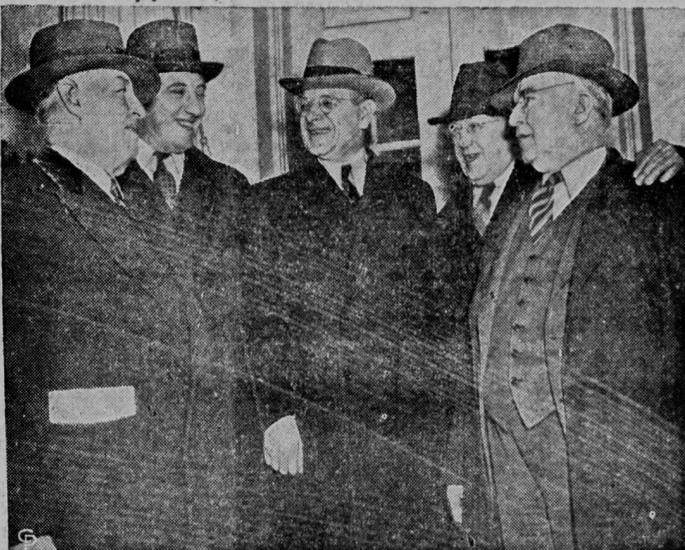

Five men reached shore late Sunday night. Seven men and a woman drifted to the beach near the Huron mountains yesterday and related that they saw five other men climb ashore on the Huron islands.

The deaths by states included North Dakota 35, Minnesota 27, Wisconsin 3, New York 2, Michigan 2, Ohio 2, Pennsylvania 1.

The storm moved along the path of the wave of cold, gales and blizzards which cost 159 lives on land and on Lake Michigan between Nov. 11 and 14 last year.

In the midwest temperatures dropped to -22 at Bemidji, Minn., to -14 at Devils Lake, N. D., and Superior, Wis., to -2 at LaBogue, Iowa. Chicago's one above was the lowest for the date in 41 years. Moderation was forecast for the area tomorrow.

C.I.O. Opposes, A.F.L. Backs Mediation Board Plan

The C. I. O. in the person of its president, Philip Murray, has come out in opposition to the administration labor and defense production chiefs' plan for an 11-member federal board to mediate labor disputes in defense industries.

Among labor and administration leaders who called on President Roosevelt for a conference are, left to right, Harry C. Bates, Brick Masons and Plasterers' union president; B. W. Tracy, assistant secretary of labor; Sidney Hillman, co-chairman of the O.P.M.; Allan S. Haywood, C. I. O. director and organizer, and A. Johnson, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

President William Green of the A. F. of L. has backed the plan.

Hint U-Boat Will Prey On Shipping to Britain

Wheeler Says Lord Halifax Gave Tip to State Department; Calls Action Trick To Frighten Americans

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—The United States has received a tip, it was learned tonight, that a nazi submarine is being sent across the Atlantic to operate in waters close to American shores, presumably off the Atlantic coast.

The purpose of the submarine was not stated explicitly, but it was assumed that if it actually came to these waters it might operate against British and other foreign ships carrying supplies from the United States to Britain.

There was no comment on the report from the state department, the White House, the navy or any other department in the executive branch of the government.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) said, however, that he had learned that the tip had been passed along to the state department by Lord Halifax, British ambassador.

Wheeler, a leading foe of the lend-lease bill, minimized the tip as an attempt to "frighten the state department."

"Apparently," Wheeler declared, "our own army and navy and state department intelligence services had no information regarding this 'warning' of a submarine. It looks to me like an attempt to frighten the state department and the American people. It looks like another of the many long strides the administration is taking toward war."

Wheeler said that Halifax obviously was interested in stirring up the American people on behalf of his government.

Other sources said the tip was based on an intercepted message sent to at least one submarine, presumably capable of operating over a wide area and for a considerable period. Where the submarine might eventually be refueled was unknown.

The report of the sending of the submarine comes at a time when the United States is preparing to increase its aid to Britain manifold under the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease program. It comes also at a time when Adolf Hitler is declaring that American aid to the British will be ineffectual.

The submarine, if it is actually on the way, presumably would be a large one, since the distance is roughly 3,000 miles and small submarines usually stick much closer to their bases.

It if came to this side of the water it would be operating inside the Pan-American neutrality zone, an area in which the American republics have declared hostilities should not take place. However, the belligerents in the European war have not recognized the validity of the zone.

Adolf Hitler personally served notice on the world on Jan. 30 that the reich's forces would destroy ships bearing aid to Britain whenever they were encountered.

Speaking on the eighth anniversary of his rise to power as chancellor, Hitler stated that Germany "has no quarrel with the American people," but he declared that if "non-European powers try to intervene here, Europe will rise."

"Every ship that comes within reach of our torpedoes will be torpedoed."

This pronouncement evoked the loudest applause from the audience of nazi officialdom which heard his 32-minute speech in Berlin.

Grain Relief To Unoccupied France Seen

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—Relief of the bread shortage in unoccupied France was in sight tonight through an arrangement for French grain ships from the United States to pass through the British blockade.

A virtual settlement of the controversy which led to French warnings that convoys would be used, if necessary, to get wheat and corn to the unoccupied zone, was reached at a series of White House and state department conferences.

After Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, had called at the White House, it was announced that President Roosevelt had agreed for French authorities to submit a proposal to the American Red Cross.

Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador, later went to the state department and an informed British source indicated the arrangement would be acceptable to the British authorities under conditions assuring that the grain supplies would not aid Germany, directly or indirectly.

The theme was that the United States executive had sounded a "dangerous" note of intervention in the European conflict which would be met with "most vigorous measures."

The Frankfurter Zeitung, however, declared the president regarded the aid law as a personal mandate also to "meddle provocatively" in the Far East.

"Roosevelt is evidently working for a break with Japan. . . . Ambition is the motive force behind this program which endangers the entire world," this paper said.

Republican Ranks Split Wide On Lend-Lease Appropriation

Conference Reveals G.O.P. Leaders Will Support Measure

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—A party conference today revealed the republican membership of the house widely divided on the $7,000,000,000 appropriation for carrying out the lend-lease bill, with the administration nevertheless picking up important accretions of strength from the minority.

Representative Martin (Mass.), the republican floor leader, said he probably would vote for the big appropriation, which comes up in the house tomorrow, and Representative Taber (N.Y.), ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, announced flatly that he would support it.

In view of the fact that both Martin and Taber voted against the passage of the lend-lease bill, their stand on the appropriation made it obvious that the latter would go through by a much larger vote than did the program for which it provides the cash. Taber estimated that not more than 50 or 55 republicans would oppose it.

He told reporters after the conference that while he thought many provisions of the lend-lease bill itself was "fantastic," congress by passing it had fixed American foreign policy and now must implement it with funds.

Observers Say Greeks Can Surround Tepeleni—King George Sends Thanks to Soldiers

ATHENS, March 17 (AP)—King George of Greece tonight sent his personal thanks to the Greek army for what he termed a smashing blow dealt to a week-long Italian offensive which the Greeks say was personally directed by Premier Mussolini in Albania.

"You gave him (the enemy) the proper answer and taught him yet another lesson in Greek gallantry," said the message from the monarch to Greek troops.

Greek spokesmen have claimed almost complete disorganization of the crack 11th army of the fascists in the Tepeleni sector during the fascist offensive.

Blame Saboteurs for Train Wreck In Which 5 Were Killed, 114 Injured

BADEN, Pa., March 17 (AP)—A determined hunt for saboteurs blamed for the Pennsylvania railroad passenger train wreck in which five were killed and 114 injured last night was started today by federal, state and railroad agencies.

The Cleveland to Pittsburgh express, roaring through a blinding snowstorm at a mile-a-minute speed, struck a loosened rail a mile from this Ohio river community and hurtled for the tracks.

The locomotive and tender overturned and the five cars plunged down a 50-foot embankment. Two of the cars, a baggage car and a day coach, splashed into

Plan Introduced to Use Troops To Break Defense Plant Strikes

Court Refuses Morgan Review

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—The supreme court refused today to review President Roosevelt's dismissal of Arthur E. Morgan as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Back of the case was the issue, raised by Morgan, of whether the president had the power to remove him under the circumstances or whether this could be done only by congress.

A federal circuit court at Cincinnati held that the president did have such authority and it was this ruling that the supreme court declined to review.

FBI Arrests Men Reported Selling Oil to Japanese

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—Federal officials announced today three men had been arrested in connection with a reported plan to float false certificates permitting delivery of east Texas crude oil to purchasing commissions of foreign governments.

Assistant United States Attorney Maxwell S. McKnight said the plan had gone so far that Japanese interests, who had come from Japan to New York, had negotiated for 5,000,000 barrels of crude oil for $5,750,000.

No money actually was received by the men arrested, McKnight said, although the Japanese were reported to have spent approximately $134,000 in the negotiations.

Rep. Hoffman Introduces Bill On Production

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) introduced legislation providing that whenever a strike occurs affecting production, fabrication or transportation of any defense material, the justice department shall, within 48 hours, hold an election at the strike scene, posing this question:

"Shall we return to work, leaving disputes to further negotiations?"

If a majority voted "yes," the army commander having supervision over the district would be charged with seeing that those who wish to return to work could do so.

Anyone interfering could be imprisoned for as much as one year or fined $1,000.

Meantime, definite word came from high officials that a federal mediation board to deal with labor disputes in defense industries would be appointed soon.

After an hour's conference at the White House, Secretary of Labor Perkins and Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management, told reporters that the new agency would be created today or tomorrow.

They added that it would be strictly a mediation tribunal.

It is understood that it will be an 11-member board having four representatives from labor, four from industry and three from the general public.

De Valera Asks U.S. Sell Wheat, Guns

DUBLIN, March 18 (Tuesday) (AP)—Premier DeValera in a broadcast to the United States reaffirmed today Ireland's determination to let no belligerent use this country as a base of attack, and appealed to America to sell Irishmen wheat and guns.

"We are in grave danger of being short in our bread supply, which will work a grievous hardship to children and the poor unless we can import wheat to fill the gap," he said.

Annual History Meeting to Be Here April 4, 5

Hundreds of College, High School Educators To Attend Conference

Nine outstanding historians and educators will address the 21st annual historical conference here April 4 and 5, to be attended by hundreds of teachers of history and social studies from colleges and high schools in Iowa and adjacent states.

Dominating aspect of the session will be discussions of current world conditions in the light of their historical significance, Prof. W. T. Root, head of the history department, has announced.

Visiting Speakers
Visiting speakers will be Prof. Ralph H. Gabriel of Yale university; Prof. Robert D. W. Connor, director of the National Archives in Washington, D.C.; Prof. Raymond J. Sontag of Princeton university; Prof. William L. Robertson of the University of Illinois; Prof. Preston W. Slosson of the University of Michigan; Prof. Eric C. Kollmann, formerly of the University of Vienna and now at Parsons college, and Paul B. Jacobson, principal of University high school at the University of Chicago.

Campus Speakers
Addressing the conference from the University of Iowa will be Prof. Hew Roberts of the college of education and Goldwin Smith, instructor in the history department.

The addresses of the speakers from the local departments will be devoted chiefly to the question of history teaching. Professor Roberts will talk on "Fact, History and Teacher," while Smith will speak about "The Historian's Paradox."

German Press Attacks F. R. Aid Program

BERLIN, March 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt today occupied the front pages of the German press, which with one accord set itself to pick to pieces his Saturday night broadcast calling for a total effort to help Britain.

The theme was that the United States executive had sounded a "dangerous" note of intervention in the European conflict which would be met with "most vigorous measures."

The Frankfurter Zeitung, however, declared the president regarded the aid law as a personal mandate also to "meddle provocatively" in the Far East.

Election Day TOMORROW

TOMORROW is election day for the women of S. U. I.—not for just a few, but for EVERY UNDERGRADUATE WOMAN. During the past few days, we have had an opportunity through various agencies to learn who have been nominated to serve in the leadership positions of campus organizations for next year.

If we are not personally acquainted with these candidates, why not educate ourselves so that we may cast an intelligent ballot tomorrow.

Learning to vote—as distinguished from making crosses beside the best-sounding names—is a special skill, requiring forethought and preparation.

The women who are running for officers in these organizations are outstanding in their groups and have earned the respect and confidence of the members who chose them.

All undergraduate women belong to the University Women's association and have the right and privilege of choosing leaders to represent and guide them. Several hundred women belong to the Young Women's Christian association, and others to the Women's Athletic association. In the latter two groups voting is restricted to the membership.

Do you want APPOINTED officers in U. W. A., Y. W. C. A., and W. A. A. next year or ELECTED campus leaders?

The responsibility of electing them is yours.

Bull Sessions and Language

Bull sessions, according to some opinionists, are the most valuable part of college life. The statement seems a little exaggerated, but at least it conveys a fact. Bull sessions are important.

Classrooms and textbooks have their own sphere of authority, yet no idea seems quite the same until after it has been thoroughly raked over in an old-fashioned bull session. Then if it still manages to hold together it may wriggle out with new distinction. A bona fide idea in applicable terms.

Not always, however, are the results equally illuminating. Generally no one presides and splits of view may grow emphatic. Words fly.

AND U.S. CONSCRIPTION
DURHAM, N. C.—Conscription laws in the United States are less liberal toward conscientious objectors than those in England largely because of the efforts of religious groups, a conference on "Tolerance Through Education" was told here.

Such groups, it was pointed out, sought exemption for those who had a religious background for their stand and blocked efforts to exempt those who had no religious training to support their views.

The speaker, Lewis G. Hershey, deputy director of the selective service office, asserted that race, religion and class are three things which tend to disunite the people of the United States and that the nation can achieve unity only by a spirit of tolerance and understanding among the various groups.

LONDON—Although all public meetings in the occupied area of France are forbidden, nearly 100 Paris Quakers are sponsoring a study circle on "Problems of the Time," in which well-known lecturers take part, it was revealed here.

sons to personal ones. We can reach no verdict.

Or perhaps the argument impinges upon the place of Emerson in literature. You admire his mysticism and transcendentalism. I curtly dismiss them as so much bunk, pure literary eloquence. All at once we are both up in the air.

Perhaps Emerson has meaning for you, the way he puts his words together, arousing definite intuitions and recollections of emotional and intellectual experience. On the other hand I see nothing but words and refuse to be beguiled by the sound of them.

You accuse me of lack of experience, lack of maturity. I counter that you are reading experience and communication where none exist. If we reach any verdict it is privately that the other is an ass.

We Must Adjust Ourselves
What we are both forgetting, however, is that all humanity never has succeeded in thinking alike. A farmer sent to congress, for instance, is quite apt to reason in terms of a farmer. A political doctrinaire, on the other hand, taking his place on the farm, will probably try to convince the neighboring farmers of the primary importance of politics. Both will feel justified of his own importance and place.

The first impulse of any organism is to adjust itself. Nature does that regardless of moral rights, moral laws. Humans only have another language which they can speak, and by a judicious use of it, can usually arrive at compromises, if not conclusions.

It's largely to the injudicious use of language that most of the human wrongs of civilized man on earth can be traced.

Oliver Twist Asks for More

The state of Iowa is celebrating another of those golden anniversaries. Fifty years ago, in far-away 1891, the University of Iowa first asked the legislature for the appropriation necessary to build a central library worthy of a great university.

The legislature refused—and thereby established a tradition. Years have come and gone. The legislators of 1891 grew old and passed on. The state has been criss-crossed with thousands of miles of beautiful, expensive highways. The cows of Iowa State college have progressed from one palatial cow-barn to another. Iowa has achieved the doubtful distinction of chewing $3,000,000 worth of gum annually. And the University of Iowa has grown and grown into one of the larger institutions—still without a library.

It must have taken courage for President Hancher to propose the spending of a half-million dollars annually for two years to create the library so often asked for in vain. He is new in the state and probably doesn't realize that when Iowa wants to economize, she always starts by cutting down on education. But unless the legislative attitude is very different from what it has been for the last half century, he soon will realize it.

Good luck, Mr. Hancher, and you're going to need it.

Sometimes You're a Child, And Then You're an Adult

BY GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—We know a physician who is not altogether pleased over the fact that his young daughter, aged 12, has corralled all the beaux in the neighborhood. Everytime he comes home the lawn, porch, and house is littered with admiring swains, who range in age from 12 to 15.

A few weeks ago the girl came in and said to her mother: "Billy wants me to go to the movies with him tonight." Her mother said she would have to ask her father about it, and her father said absolutely not. "You're too young to be going out at night with boys. You're only a child."

A few days later the little girl approached her mother and said, "Billy wants me to go to the movies with him in the AFTER-NOON."

Again her mother referred her to father, who again said no. "Listen," he said, "you're still a child. You're too young to be going out with boys."

It happened that next day the doctor paid a routine call to the school, where his daughter goes, and was in her classroom just as the teacher began to read them a lecture.

"I want you students to pay attention," she said. "After all, you aren't children, you're ADULTS!"

The little girl threw her father a triumphant look, and the old man, who knew he was in a tight place, swallowed and grinned.

Next day the little girl went to her father and said, "Daddy, Billy wants me to go to the school dance with him, on Friday night."

The doctor looked at his daughter. He remembered that little scene in the classroom. "Why, certainly," he said, "I think that'll be fine."

As a footnote to our recent comment on the longest word in the dictionary—anti-establishmentarianism—we add this note from a lady in Riverside, Calif.:

"I taught English and spelling in eight grades, and tried to teach pupils to notice the different syllables. Our results was 'supermordistinguishablativeness.' We built it up from 'distinguish.' I am now eighty years old, and persons who are now grandparents remind of that word."

When Edward G. Robinson was in New York recently he is said to have purchased a seal from a booking company with instructions that it be flown to California. But the seal got away, and a new one is being substituted. . . . Harry Delmar, lonesome for the jittery, catch-as-catch-can life of a producer, is back again on Broadway with plans for a new musical. His last producing attempt was with "Delmar's Revels."

The Enormous Cost Of Aid to Britain
WASHINGTON—A well-placed government official of exceptional financial judgment figures this $7,000,000,000 as only the first 25 per cent advance on aid to Britain.

His reasoning: Britain is likely to win but will require about four years. The $7,000,000,000 figure was a rough estimate to cover the first year of new British orders. Probably nowhere near that amount can be actually spent the next 12 months, but increasing productive capacity will enable larger expenditures next year and thereafter, so the average is apt to be around $7,000,000,000 annually.

This figuring would make the plausibly expected expenditure $28,000,000,000. Our own contemplated three year defense program has already reached $32,000,000,000. The two together could thus approximate $60,000,000,000—twice the total of all government appropriations in the last war years of '17, '18, and '19.

HOW MUCH A BILLION IS—
A magazine, the American Investor, has figured a new way of trying to tell people how much a billion dollars is. Their system: If an unusually alert and industrious young man of 15 started counting one dollar bills at the rate of 100 a minute, he would be able to count a billion dollars by the time he was 96 years old (working 8 hours a day, five days a week).

INFLATION IN BRITAIN—
A profound internal disturbance has been caused here by the arrival of the last London economist showing Britain's financial predicament. The federal reserve board survey of periodicals is devoting extraordinary space to the economist article and financial officials are handing it around.

The gap between British revenue and spending will reach $1,200,000,000 a month (on the basis of a $4 pound) this coming fiscal year, beginning April, the article says. Only half can be raised by means now visible, the other half must come from inflation, compulsory savings or additional taxes (the limit of taxation already having been approximated). Inference is inflation may have to come.

British national income for the next year is estimated at $36,000,000,000; government expenditures at more than half that, $20,000,000,000. Automatic new revenue increases have already been provided in excess profits taxes and purchase taxes. (Government levy on cosmetics for instance is 35 per cent). The deficit in spite of all this is estimated at $15,000,000,000 for the year. Savings, foreign holdings, and sterling balances will be tapped for half this, but no one knows where the other half can be found.

What stirred our financial officials so much was the possibility that the British predicament is a foretaste of what we will have to face in some degree.

NOTE: A considerable inflation is already under way in Britain. Using the pre-war year 1935 as 100, note circulation has already increased to 153.

CONCENTRATION CAMP FOR WHEELER—
Let it not dismay you to note in your daily news or conversations increasing number of nutty notions. During world excitement such ideas as "a concentration camp for Senator Wheeler," or institution of a general government wiretapping system for citizens are bound to come up, probably with increasing frequency from now on. Yet there is no indication that the great bulk of dominant government officials are being swayed in the slightest by the fury of an infinitesimal number of hot heads.

As for wiretapping, Mr. Roosevelt has already said he, with the late Justice Holmes, considers it a dirty and undemocratic business, and would tolerate its use by the government only in legitimate cases of espionage, sabotage, kidnapping and extortion. J. Edgar Hoover said about the same thing. Against their judgment, the mysterious force which is propagandizing for the Hobb bill (tapping by all government departments for all suspected citizens) is likely to gain more attention than headway.

As for concentration camps, not even Interior Secretary Ickes has yet mentioned them and possibly he joins with every other official in considering the idea preposterous.

The wonder of most officials is not that bitter hatreds have gained root, but that the great bulk of the people, the 99 per cent, have so well kept their heads and feet after months of hot pressure.

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHTS
Prof. Norman Foerster, director of the school of letters, will talk on "Literature and Ethics" on tonight's School of Letters program at 8 o'clock.

A discussion group of Prof. Robert Penn Warren, Prof. Austin Warren, Prof. Joseph E. Baker, Prof. Seymour Pitcher and Charles Foster, instructor, all of the English department, will be held after the lecture.

June Hyland, A4 of Traer, will be interviewed at 12:30 today by Dorothy Ward, G. of Iowa City, on the women's vocational conference being held in Iowa City this week end. Miss Hyland is general chairman of the conference.

Fiction Parade at 3 o'clock today will present two "Mr. Quirk" skits. One skit is written by Ernest Hey, adapted for radio by Lois Ann Russell, A4 of Bagley. The other is an original skit by Miss Russell.

Funny Men Are Taken for Granted

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Movie comedians took a fall—and not a comic one to them—when Jack Oakie failed to cop an Oscar for his work in "The Great Dictator."

For some reason the academy never has taken the screen's funny men seriously, which may be one justification for the old gag that all the comics want to play Hamlet. Comedy in a characterization is no bar to Oscars (Walter Brennan, three-time winner, always injects humor into his performance) but comedy for its own sake gets the go-by.

Chaplin, true, won a special award the first academy year—"for versatility and genius in writing, acting and producing 'The Circus.'" Nominated for performance this year, the actor traditionally regarded as the screen's greatest artist was an also-ran to James Stewart.

The academy seems to have no prejudice against comedies per se—only against those labeled comedians. Stewart's role in "The Philadelphia Story," a comedy, was decidedly on the funny side. Gable in "It Happened One Night," Laughlin in "Henry the VIII," Gary Cooper in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," all were honored for work in films either wholly or partly comic—but not as comedians.

The answer could be a separate award hereafter: for the best performance by a comedian.

Regardless of the balloting, the nominations of Chaplin and Oakie served to remind the industry that the funny men are too often taken for granted.

Oakie took the nomination as a boost for his side of the business—"maybe," he said, "they'll pay some attention now to fellows like Skeets Gallagher—one of the best in the game."

He thought Oakie - for - Oscar ought to cheer up, too, a lot of the actors around town who can't get jobs.

"There's no sense to it," he said. "I'd been in this business more than 10 years and I was working all the time. Then came 1933—and I wasn't working any more. Nobody had a reason for it, I just wasn't working. My agent made the rounds for me and he came back, time and again, to tell me nothing doing. Then all of a sudden Chaplin wants me, and I get into 'Tim Pan Alley,' and I'm 'in' again. It doesn't make sense. I'm no better now than I was before."

Most of Oakie's fellow-nominees, including the winners, have had the same experience. Ginger Rogers was "finished" before she started; Hepburn was "washed" white; Bette Davis was packed for Broadway when she got her second chance; Hollywood let Laurence Olivier go back to England before reclaiming him. Brennan had years of obscurity in his before clicking, and Jane Darwell, once brightly featured, was doing bits again before "The Grapes of Wrath" brought her back.

Oakie is right—it doesn't make sense and it never will. The fortunes of show business never have made sense.

AF Staff Writer
"I Find Treason," by Rick Rollins; (Morrow: $3).

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that his hair stood on end as I read Richard Rollins' "I Find Treason." This is the hardest hitting and the most minutely documented expose of Nazi propaganda and direct action in a country that has so far come up my desk. The documentation is highly important to a reader myself, who has little knowledge of such matters, beyond the receipt of a few pamphlets from William Dudley Coley, and a few books from certain publishing concerns. And in book, Mr. Rollins has not merely transcribed. He uses factually, and at the end of every long "dossier" of documents chosen from his files.

The reader may read (and read) for the text is fast-moving and form his own conclusions. Rollins got into the investigation business almost accidentally. He had a small income and was trying to do, and wandered one—before Hitler came to power into a Yorkville rally. What he heard frightened him. Shortly was working for the now forgotten McCormack congressional committee; later he collaborated with Dickstein, with his leagues against Nazism, with state of New York, the FBI, and other organizations which had titles in "I Find Treason."

Rollins' first major exploit a one-man "raid" on the G. ship Deutschland which, he turned up all sorts of propaganda material, and some other such as fake Bibles which contained two pistols each. Later writes, he entered the employment organization in which he was interested, and learned interesting things. Still later, he describes his work in securing the evidence that sent Kuhn to prison; exposed, according to his statement, the movement of aliens in the New national guard; the connection between the Bund and the K. Klan, and the activities of many in the pre-war rash of bombing tragedies. He got the "Christian Front," F. A. Charles E. Coughlin, the actor of Fritz Wiedemann, and many other men and organizations.

PASSING THE BUCK

by BILL BUCKLEY

There is a great misunderstanding throughout the state about the shifting of the scene of the Nebraska game next fall to Lincoln from Iowa City...

The first point of argument seems to be a good one, on the face of it, but it seems to us that Iowa followers are jumping at conclusions...

It is a well known fact that several teams in the conference, incidentally teams with the smallest stadiums, have a terrific time scheduling home games...

Iowa's case is a little different, for the stadium is big enough, if the stands are filled; but until the fall of 1939, Iowa City was considered a bad football town...

Indiana and Purdue, with the two smallest stadiums in the loop, each have one, yes one, home game scheduled for next fall...

As long as Minnesota can offer in the neighborhood of $60,000 as a guarantee for visiting teams, the small-drawing schools of the conference will take these big offers...

Now for the money situation... Iowa's $500,000 Memorial stadium is still for the most part unpaid for, and only when the Hawks are a winning team will there be any hope of paying back the loyal fans who invested money in the structure...

The outstanding cleveans of the past two years have enabled Iowa to pay up all back interest, government taxes and a small part of the principal...

Iowa plays Minnesota in the Homecoming game the week before the Cornhusker brawl... A good, probably capacity, crowd is expected, whether the Hawks are winning or not...

Can you blame the Iowa board

Lone Tree In 1st Round Win Over Marengo

Springdale Hurdles Cosgrove at Hillel, Iowa City Aces Fall

By MAXIE ROSENBLUM The long-awaited opening of the Gold Medal basketball tournament took place last night at the Iowa City Recreation center...

A team of Springdale Indians took the measure of the Cosgrove Aces in a closely fought contest, 25-23. As in the first game of the evening, the winners maintained a slight lead throughout all four quarters...

The third game on the program, between the Lone Tree Indians and the Marengo Aces, produced the most lopsided score of all four games...

The final game on the evening's program, between the Wilton "Pistifer Hybrids" and the Iowa City Aces was the fastest and most closely contested one on the slate...

The "Pistifer Hybrids," led by Harlan Beinke, two years ago high scorer in the state high school basketball tournament, earned a well-deserved victory in outscoring their older and much taller opponents...

Tourney Receipts Thieves Foiled CRESTON (AP)—Thieves believed to have been seeking district basketball tournament receipts broke into Creston high school Sunday night...

for playing the thing safe, making sure the stadium's backers get back a small portion of the money they've waited for since 1927...

So it "was in the best interest of Iowa fans," and "for financial reasons," as the board of control stated, and is justified so far as we can see.

Marians Face Laurel At Sub-State Thursday

Favored Over Ottumwa Foes High-Scoring Offense Piles Up 305 Points In Sectional, District

Coach Francis Suplee sent his St. Mary's cagers through a light workout yesterday afternoon in City high's large gymnasium in preparation for their opening round game in the sub-state basketball tourney Thursday night.

By virtue of their decisive sweep of the sectional and district tournaments the past two week ends, the Ramblers head into the Ottumwa sub-state as slight favorites to carry off the Class B crown.

Score 305 Points The Stuppelman piled up an amazing total of 305 points in six sectional and district contests to their opponents' 126. Paced by the scoring trio of Co-captains and Jim Chadek and Bill Beck, and Tony Brack, the Marians appear to be one of the strongest Class B quintets in the state.

Finishing the season with a record of 15 wins against only four defeats, and being undefeated champions of the Big Five conference, St. Mary's will send a powerhouse against the Laurel five in the first round of the sub-state at Ottumwa Thursday night.

Five Scorers Backing the claim as a state final "possible" are five men, all great scoring threats, Tony Brack and "Plicker" Chadek man the forward posts, tenacious Tom Toohy holds down the pivot spot, and Ray Eakes and Bill Beck get the nod in the backcourt on the star-studded five.

The Duke Wins at Golf NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—The Duke of Windsor replaced Bobby Jones as Tommy Armour's partner in an informal golf match yesterday, and the team handed Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen another 3-and-2 defeat.

Jays Favored Over Iowa State Gun-Em Ragged Brand of Ball Expected To Defeat Precise Cyclones

KANSAS CITY, March 17 (AP)—Creighton's gun-em ragged brand of basketball is expected to defeat Iowa State's precise style of play in the Missouri Valley-Big Six playoff tomorrow night for the remaining berth in the NCAA western finals.

Creighton, champion of the Valley circuit, has suffered six losses this season to three for Iowa State, and has a slight height disadvantage, yet is favored to win by fans who saw the Iowans drop one of their games to nearby University of Kansas.

The Cyclones, co-champions with Kansas of the Big Six title, stumbled only in tussles with conference foes and swept over eight non-league opponents, including Drake twice, Minnesota and Bradley Tech.

Creighton also subdued the Drake five twice and won from Minnesota, but lost to Bradley Tech. On Neutral Floor Both the Big Six and Missouri Valley conferences are in the fifth NCAA district and the playoff on a neutral floor was arranged to determine which of the two clubs should represent the area in the western finals.

Much of Iowa State's scoring burden will be carried by Gordon Nicholas, center, and forward Al Budolfson. Each won a berth on the Big Six all star team. Nicholas averaged 9.6 points in his club's 18 games and Budolfson 7.6. Brownie Jaquay and big Ed Beisser are similar heroes for the Omaha quintet, with Jaquay averaging 8.9 points in each of 22 games and Beisser, a center, right behind with 8.8.

Washington State Next Tomorrow night's winner tangles with Washington State in one of Friday night's double attractions. The probable lineups: Iowa State: F. Gordon, A. Budolfson, G. Nicholas, D. DeKoster, C. Schneider, D. Nolan. Creighton: B. Jacquay, D. Fleming, E. Beisser, G. Haldeman, D. Nolan.

Steelworker Takes 4th in A.B.C. ST. PAUL (AP)—Edward Bock, 31-year-old Hammond, Ind., steelworker, moved into fourth place in the singles at the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday with a 700 total. Bock, a veteran of nine previous ABC tournaments, had games of 248-232-220.

Iowa Defeats Kemper Squad By One Point

Members of Basic, Advanced Squads Win Thirteen Medals

Winning from a field of 50 rifle teams, the University of Iowa basic R.O.T.C. team returned to Iowa City Sunday from the annual Iowa Rifle meet held at Booneville, Mo., Saturday with permanent possession of both the grand championship cup and the R.O.T.C. trophy.

Their 739 score barely nosed out the Kemper Military academy team by a single point. So close was the competition for the grand trophy that St. Thomas Military academy, Minneapolis, third place winner, was only two points below the Iowa squad.

Permanent possession of the basic R.O.T.C. trophy is awarded to the team winning the cup for the third time. The Hawkeye basic team won the cup in 1938 and 1939. Kemper academy, which won the trophy in 1937 and last year, was also in line for possession of the award but was edged out by the Iowa team by the slim one-point margin.

Named Iowa First

The basic team, by winning the grand championship trophy, was declared winner of the entire meet. Besides returning with the two trophies, members of the basic squad brought home nine medals, while three members of the Iowa R.O.T.C. advanced team won four medals at the meet.

Cadets firing in the championship basic squad and their scores were Charles Hamm, A2 of Cedar Rapids—189; Richard Lowe, A2 of Drakeville—184; Hoyt Tatum, A2 of Nora Springs—184, and Robert Bennett, A1 of Cedar Rapids—182.

They received silver medals for firing as members of the winning R.O.T.C. basic team and were awarded gold medals for membership on the high scoring team of the meet.

Iowa's advanced R.O.T.C. squad won fourth place in their division at the meet with a score of 719, only 11 points below the winning Oklahoma A. and M. team. Second and third place winners were Washington university, St. Louis, Mo., and Creighton university, Omaha, Neb.

Five Won Honors

Five Hawkeye riflemen won individual firing honors. Robert Kadghin, A4 of Iowa City, received third place and a bronze medal for his aggregate score of 278 points out of a possible 300. Kadghin also received fifth place and another medal for the standing position.

Portuguese Extended to Upper Classmen

Language Originally Offered to Graduate Students as Experiment

If you hear a tongue that sounds like a mixture of Spanish, French, Italian and Provencal, the chances are that you are listening to Portuguese.

This language, the newest addition to the local language department, has characteristics of each romance tongue, pointed out Juan Lopez-Morillas of the Spanish department. "It's phonetical system is the most complicated of the romance linguistic group."

In keeping with the spirit of Pan-Americanism, the language was introduced in the university as an experiment last year. Enrollment was limited to graduate students in romance languages.

This fall it was expanded to include upper classmen, and if the present trend continues, it may be opened to elementary students next year.

Iowa is one of the pioneers in adding Portuguese to its curriculum. Small schools are planning to introduce it in the near future.

One of the few instructors qualified to teach the language, Lopez-Morillas directs the university's Portuguese classes.

Chief difficulty has been lack of material with which to work, he pointed out. Only two grammars for English-speaking students and one reader are available.

To meet this need, Lopez-Morillas is writing an intermediate Portuguese composition book for classroom work and is preparing a series of records, which will deal with lessons in the text.

Answering the oft-repeated statement that Spanish and Portuguese are similar, Lopez-Morillas remarked, "They are mutually intelligible when written in hall, Mich., was awarded a bronze medal for his fifth place score of 199 for the prone position. Hamm and Tatum of the basic team were awarded bronze medals for high scores in the kneeling position. Kenneth Heller, E4 of Marengo, won an expert medal.

Members of the advanced R.O.T.C. team firing in the meet were Kadghin, Brown, Heller and J. Murray Ruby, A3 of Seymour. Capt. Joseph T. Zaik, director of marksmanship, and Sergt. H. W. Wendlandt, coach of Iowa rifle teams, accompanied the two teams.

The meet is held each year at Kemper Military academy under the auspices of the Missouri Rifle association. University, college and high school teams from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa compete within their own classes on a 50-foot range.

— mutually unintelligible when spoken.

"Spanish and Portuguese followed almost parallel lines in the 14th and 15th centuries," he added. "Portuguese then stopped in its development from Valgar Latin, whereas Spanish continued to evolve at an increased rate of speed."

Spanish students find Portuguese syntax and morphology easy, pronunciation difficult, he explained. Although the languages can be studied independently, the student who has mastered Spanish has gone a long way toward grasping Portuguese.

It is a language of particular value to American scientists who wish to work in Brazil as well as to military men stationed there. Brazilians are very nationalistic, and are more cooperative with people who speak their native tongue, Lopez-Morillas pointed out.

Besides the 7,000,000 people in Portugal, 40,000,000 residents of Brazil speak Portuguese today. Added to this number are the natives of Madeira, Cabo Verde, Azores, Portuguese colonies in Asia, Africa, India, Oceania and other sections where the Portuguese influence is strong. For many years it was the standard language of commerce in the Far East.

Although not as well known as the literature of other romance tongues, Portuguese can boast of many fine writers. One of its greatest writers, Luis de Camoens, ranks among the greatest epic poets of all time.

Second Defense Class Convenes

Iowa City's second class under the national defense vocational training program convened in City high school shop last night.

Running from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m., the course follows a 7 to 10 p.m. class established here about a week ago under the supervision of School Superintendent Iver A. Opstad.

The late class was necessitated owing to the large enrollment, Opstad said. Fifteen persons are already enrolled for the late class and 21 registered for the early course.

Training is open to out-of-school young men between the ages of 18 and 25. The course consists of sheet metal welding, tempering, drilling, shaping and pattern making.

Council Proposes Plan for New $10,000 Airport Hangar Project

City Engineer To Begin Draft For First Unit

Finance Committee Will Ask University To Help City, WPA

In a special meeting yesterday, the city council directed City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke to draw up plans for the first unit of a proposed airport hangar project to be financed jointly by the city, WPA and possibly by university funds.

City Attorney Robert L. Larson said the proposal would involve an expenditure of approximately $10,000. The hangar would be erected under the unit-plan of building so that future additions or enlargements would fit into the architectural scheme.

The proposed hangar would offer space for plane storage, repair shops, offices and rest rooms. Three councilmen, R. J. Phelps, Prof. John Riley and Sam Whiting Jr., were appointed to a special committee to contact university officials in regard to the possibility of obtaining supplementary funds from the state board of education building committee, since the civilian pilot training program involves training university students.

Larson said a major part of the funds would have to come through the WPA if the proposal is accepted. The remainder needed would have to be furnished by the municipality and perhaps the university.

He said the present levy of three-fourths mill for airport construction is the maximum permitted by law.

When completed, according to present plans, the repair shop would be rented to Paul Shaw, head of the local CPTA program, for training uses.

Councilmen also discussed plans for replacement of the old asphalt northwest-southeast runway on the field with concrete paving 150 feet wide. The northernmost 600 feet of the runway will be paved as part of the present airport development program. The remainder of the runway measures 2,500 feet.

Chairman Appointed Everett Means was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate feasibility of raising the outer areas of City park under the Iowa river dredging project.

Recently, Shaw offered to finance construction of a permanent $3,000 hangar if the city would repay him by returning his rent. He said the government might not renew his contract in June for training university students unless a heated building for repairing planes was made available.

At that time, Shaw also proposed that he be given a five year lease for a building site, with right to renew once, offering to pay $20 a month rent. He said he would rent the repair hangar at $5 a month for each of his 15 planes.

Shaw also suggested that the present city tax of two cents a gallon on aviation gasoline be removed if the proposal was adopted.

One hundred and forty-five pilots were trained last year and 70 more are now enrolled in the training course. The present group is the fourth class under the program.

City High Girls Take National Rifle Honors

Champions for the second consecutive year, members of Iowa City High school's girls' rifle team returned Sunday from the "Little Camp Perry" national rifle meet at Kemper Military academy in Booneville, Mo., with the silver cup award.

The team members, Dorothy Wallace, Arlene Fryauf, Alice Kanak and Lorraine Wyjack fired 396 out of a possible 400 points winning over nine high school girls' teams. They are instructed by Sergeant W. C. Buckley of the University of Iowa.

Individual scores out of a possible 100 were Dorothy Wallace, 100; Alice Kanak, 99; Lorraine Wyjack, 99, and Arlene Fryauf, 98. Dorothy Wallace, Alice Kanak and Lorraine Wyjack were members of last year's team which won the silver cup for the first time. If the cup is won a third time, it will be permanently awarded to the school.

City High school boys' team composed of Howard Rankin, Barney Doyle, James Showers and Jimmy Starr placed seventh among 19 opposing teams.

Exerpts From Sermons Delivered In Iowa City Churches

THE REV. ILLION T. JONES
First Presbyterian Church
"Centuries before Christ, Ezekiel, in a national emergency, speaking in the name of God said: 'I sought for a man to stand in the gap before me in the land that I should not destroy it, but I found none.' 'It may sound impossible for one man to save a nation. But if the right man is found, he can do almost impossible things. 'The appeal of Ezekiel has a modern sound. God today is seeking men to stand in every area of human life to stem the tide of destructive forces and start redemptive forces operating again."

"In every walk of life, business, professional, craft, education and in the home, men and women of the right calibre are needed to take hold and solve our grave social ills. "As of old, God is still looking for men who can do something redemptive and creative for human life. And as of old, such men must be equipped with intelligence, character, vision, courage, faith and sense of divine compulsion. "Such people can actually stem the tide of social disintegration. They alone are able to start the healing moral forces to work."
