BLITZ UNITS BREACH ALLIED LINES

Red Sea Open to U. S. Ships

F.D.R. Moves To Stall Axis Balkan Offense

American Merchant Line Asks to Operate Its Vessels in Area

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—In a new attempt to checkmate the nazis, President Roosevelt today threw open the Red sea and the Gulf of Aden to American vessels so that they may carry war supplies almost all the way to the embattled Balkans.

Whether Adolf Hitler would order his surface raiders to sink the vessels as they passed through the Indian ocean was unknown immediately although it was recalled that he has said that "every ship, whether with or without a convoy, that comes before our torpedo tubes, will be torpedoed."

The president opened the way for the ships by a slight readjustment of the "combat zones" defined under the neutrality act. He eliminated the Gulf of Aden and the Red sea from the area which American vessels had been forbidden to enter. The result is that they may now go clear into the Suez canal from the east and make deliveries in Egypt.

Transshipment However, it was indicated that at least some of the American vessels may not go as far as the canal. The American Export line, announcing in New York that it was applying to the maritime commission for permission to operate ships to Egyptian ports via the Red sea, said the supplies would be landed at port Sudan for transshipment. Port Sudan is on the Red sea coast some 900 miles from the canal.

Although Mr. Roosevelt had made clear that American ships could go into the canal, shippers at New York expressed doubt that they would do so because axis planes had attacked several ships there.

At London, Mr. Roosevelt's move was welcomed as a sign of the "promptness and effectiveness of American assistance in the cause which all the free peoples have in common."

Foreign observers in that city remarked that American ships probably would encounter some hazard. Axis surface raiders have been operating in the Indian ocean in reach of the routes between the United States and the canal.

Legislature Passes Beer Bill; Adjourns

DES MOINES, April 11 (AP)—They passed a beer bill, a truck weight measure, shook hands all around and informally adjourned the 49th Iowa general assembly shortly before 5:30 p.m. today.

The beer bill, which received a 62-29 vote of approval on final passage in the house, provides: 1. Class C permits (for consumption off the premises) be issued only to grocery stores and pharmacies. The $25-a-year license fee was unchanged.

2. Reduction of class B (for consumption on the premises) bond from $1,000 to $500; permittee to consent beforehand to forfeiture of the bond in the event of revocation of license.

3. That operators be prohibited from selling beer to minors and minors be barred from buying or attempting to buy beer. Where such sale has been established, the license of the operator would be revoked.

4. Dancing in beer establishments only where city council or county supervisors has so specified, and then only when the permittee has a dance floor of at least 500 square feet and is willing to maintain a uniformed officer to keep order.

5. A maximum height of 40 inches for booths in newly licensed establishments; beer parlors now operating exempted if present booths do not exceed 50 inches in height.

Rep. T. E. Martin Says Middle West Has Trend Toward War Psychology

Returning to Washington from a two weeks' trip in Iowa and Wisconsin, Rep. Thomas E. Martin, Iowa City, member of the house military affairs committee, said today he found a "definite trend toward war psychology in the middle west," the Associated Press reported.

"That, of course," he declared in an interview, "is a very natural development. The people out there are still not as belligerent as in other regions but the situation is such that they can very shortly catch up."

He expressed hope the nation would "keep its feet on the ground, the greatest danger to America today being the development of a war psychology ahead of any possible completion of our armament and training program."

"In my opinion," Martin asserted, "it would take a very slight incident to precipitate a clamor for armed conflict and this is indeed a very dangerous situation because it can lead us into a very hasty declaration of war before we're adequately armed."

"It is still my sincere hope that congress and the military affairs committee can provide adequate armaments and an adequate training program before our nation is plunged into armed conflict."

"The providing of such a program should not mean war is inevitable. But we cannot afford to take any chance of plunging into war unprepared."

Konoye Says Japan to Refrain From Force in South Pacific

TOKYO, April 11—Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, speaking with cautious optimism of his government's relations with the United States, emphasized anew today that Japan would refrain from force in the South Pacific. In what was considered a highly significant statement, Konoye told Japanese newspapermen that Japan's policy in the south was "purely economic and peaceful." The Netherlands East Indies, he added, should have confidence in Tokyo's sincerity.

Asked if he thought Japanese-American relations would get any worse, he replied: "I do not think so."

He acknowledged, however, that Japan's position in the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis and continuation of the conflict in China were obstacles in the way of complete amicable understanding between Tokyo and Washington.

Konoye asked what the United States had done in "matter-of-fact diplomacy" since conclusion of the three-power pact, then added that Japanese-American relations had not changed much from their prealliance status.

Five Injured In Auto Crash

James D. White of Cedar Rapids, main speaker at the Union Bus drivers' rally held in the C.S.A. hall last night, his wife and three other persons were injured when their car overturned after a blowout on Young's corner two miles north of North Liberty on highway 218 about 11:30 last night, according to Wendell Coulter, ambulance driver. Mrs. White received a number of cuts about the face and hands. White was bruised and shaken up by the accident, officials at Mercy hospital reported. The other three occupants of the car were taken to C.R. for treatment.

Wendell Coulter, ambulance driver for the Riley Funeral home, who brought the couple to Iowa City said the tire blew out on the corner, the car hit the ditch on the left-hand side of the road, rolled over three times and came to rest astraddle the interurban tracks. Mrs. White was thrown from the car and landed on the far side of the railroad tracks.

Worship in Ruins; An Easter Mass In Coventry

COVENTRY, England, April 11 (AP)—A little group of men and women, some weeping, some grimy, some without sleep for three days and three nights, held Good Friday evening service tonight in a battered roofless cathedral in this heavily bombed midlands town.

In a drizzling rain, the Very Rev. R. T. Howard, archdeacon and provost of Coventry, led the services from a huge block of masonry he improvised as a pulpit.

A cross made from burned timbers of the cathedral ruins was silhouetted against the sky. A Salvation Army band played. "Surely this is the strangest gathering Coventry ever has seen," Mr. Howard said. "These ruins are full of strange power. It does not matter when we die; it only matters how."

Ford Strike Settled After 10-Day Halt

Plans Made to Open Rouge Plant Monday; 200,000 Men Affected

DETROIT, April 11 (AP)—Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner announced today settlement of the 10-day strike at the Ford Motor company's Rouge plant and termed it "an historic step in establishing industrial peace in our country."

Plans were being made for re-opening the Rouge plant for Monday, the company's largest industrial unit, on Monday.

"The Ford Motor and the UAW-CIO officials have set an example for the nation in their willingness to meet around the conference table to give and take and to make possible this settlement," Van Wagoner said.

Announcement that an agreement had been reached came a day after the governor made a public appeal for both sides to accept his compromise plan in the interest of national defense.

The company has $155,000,000 in defense contracts, mostly for bomber assemblies, airplane engines and small army trucks called "blitz buggies."

Around 200,000 Ford workers and employes in associated industries in 41 states have been idle because of the shutdown of the Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn, main cog in the giant Ford industrial machine. This factory alone employs 85,000 hourly rated workers.

I. A. Capizzi, chief Ford counsel, said: "We have declared a truce and are going back to work. We feel that our vital part in national defense is more important than any other consideration."

"Now let us put our shoulder to the wheel and prove that American democracy is equal to any emergency."

Southern Coal Men Secede Form New Group To Deal With CIO On Wage Question

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Southern operators bolted the Appalachian wage conference today in a dispute over terms of a new contract covering 325,000 soft coal miners and a few hours later announced creation of a new negotiating body of their own.

Ebersole Gaines, of Mount Hope, W. Va., was elected to head the new organization, to be known as the Southern Coal Operators' Wage conference.

He said the southern group would renew an offer to grant the miners a wage increase of approximately 11 per cent and to continue negotiations with the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) to adjust all differences.

The southern group followed their refusal to accede to a union demand for a $1.40 increase in the basic daily wage which would eliminate an existing 40-cent north-southern differential.

Gaines said the southerners bolted the conference because it was making "no progress" toward reopening the nation's bituminous mines, now closed 11 days.

The break in the conference's ranks precipitated these charges: By Charles O'Neill, New York, head of the United Eastern Coal Sales corporation: "The conference is being sabotaged by several well-known southern operators."

By John L. Lewis, president of the UMWA: "This amounts to brazen conspiracy."

On the Downgrade OMAHA (AP)—The task of providing housing for the vastly expanded army is already on the downgrade, Maj. Gen. Virgil L. Peterson, inspector general of the army, said in Omaha yesterday.

German Advance in Balkans

Yugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria, Turkey

This map shows how the Germans have advanced in the Balkans (shaded), driving from Bulgaria and cutting off the Greek army's eastern wing from contact with the Yugoslavs. The heavy black line (A) indicates probable first British-Greek stand. The (B) defense line, in case the first is broken, stretches across the Greek peninsula from a point south of Salonika to the Albanian port of Chimara, on the Adriatic sea. German dispatches indicated the British expeditionary forces were massed in the vicinity of Mount Olympus, 60 miles southwest of Salonika, near the Aegean sea coast.

Germans Say British Forces In Greece Ordered Withdrawn

BRITISH TROOPS TAKE POSITIONS IN EAST LIBYA

PREPARE FOR SECOND BATTLE OF CIRENAICA WITH AXIS FORCES

CAIRO, Egypt, April 11 (AP)—Reinforced British imperial troops were reported moving into positions east of Libya's Gebel El Achdar mountain range tonight for a second battle of Cirenaica with the resurgent axis army.

Veterans of Britain's swift conquest of Italian east Africa, many of whom had been withdrawn from Libya following the collapse of Italian resistance there early this year, were pouring through Egypt into the east Libyan sector, Premier Hussein Sirry Pasha of Egypt disclosed in an interview today.

Absolute Confidence He said the British high command has absolute confidence in the outcome of the new Libyan battle, despite recent German-Italian gains which British Prime Minister Winston Churchill has termed a threat to Egypt.

Informed British sources added that imperial troops were maneuvering east of the Gebel El Achdar mountains toward axis troops also on the move.

Foreshadowing the battle was intense aerial activity by the British RAF which reported destruction of 34 axis planes, including 22 in an "amazing two days," during this week.

In a rout of 20 German dive bombers and escorts, the RAF said an Australian squadron destroyed five Junker bombers and three Messerschmitt 110 escorts.

3 Killed, 12 Injured In Woodward Iron Company Explosion

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 11 (AP)—Three men were killed and at least 12 were injured today when an explosion wrecked two blowing engines at the Woodward Iron Co., plant 10 miles southwest of here.

There was no estimate of damage, but the company's three blast furnaces were out of production and equipment supplying the blast for one furnace was damaged beyond repair. The roof was blown off the building.

Two of the injured were in critical condition. Others were less seriously hurt, but six of them remained in hospitals for the night.

The explosion, heard for 10 miles, shattered windows in a restaurant two miles away, and shook pictures and furniture over an area of several square miles.

Slavs Resisting In North Left Without Support

BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—The Germans asserted tonight that British forces occupying secondary lines of defense in northern Greece had been ordered to withdraw, leaving Yugoslavs resisting to their north without any support.

DNB, the German news agency, said this message to the British troops was intercepted by German forces: "Left wing threatened—withdraw."

Authorized sources said the Germans were mopping up the remnants of the south Serbian army—a force which the high command asserted tersely to be for all practical purposes "destroyed."

Other spokesmen said this force was being "even blotted out."

Italians Report Newest Gains In Yugoslavia

ROME, April 11 (AP)—The Italians reported a continuing advance into Yugoslavia on two fronts tonight and the fascist press blamed the United States and Britain for what it called the collapse of that Balkan state.

The Rome radio said Italians pushing into southern Yugoslavia from Albania had occupied Ohrid, Yugoslavia, on Lake Ochrida, and there effected the first juncture with German troops.

The fascist command said an Italian column occupied Longatico in extreme northwestern Yugoslavia and pushed on down the Sava valley toward Ljubljana.

A Stefani, official Italian news agency, dispatch from the war zone said the British air force had been unable to cope with the situation and had "let the axis air forces conquer mastery of the Balkan skies."

Italian troops in Albania, the news agency said, instead of letting the Greeks, Yugoslavs and British encircle them had "resisted Serb attacks, then passed on to the offensive."

Fascist propaganda guns were turned on the United States and Britain for what was described as their responsibility for the "ruin" of Yugoslavia by promises of aid.

RAF Hits Nazi Sea Bases

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Britain's reinforced bombers have struck again at Germany's bases for the battle of the Atlantic, it was announced tonight, probably damaging raiding battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau with armor-piercing explosives at Brest and burning out hangars at the long-range bomber station near Bordeaux.

Another raiding force was reported to have wrecked a section of Duesseeldorf's industrial district in the Rhineland overnight.

Bundles of high explosives repeatedly straddled the drydock at which the Scharnhorst is tied up at the French naval base, the air ministry said. Others sprayed the quayside mooring of the Gneisenau.

There is "every reason to think that last night's attack must have been damaging," said the ministry.

It was the 52nd attack on Brest and fifth since March 30 when the British first reported the warships tied up there after a convoy-smashing raid in the western Atlantic.

At Merignac airdrome, near Bordeaux, pilots reported seeing steel framework of hangars burned naked and many other buildings blazing. This is the base, the British said, of long-range four-motored Focke-Wulf bombers which raid convoys and guide U-boats to the attack.

Offensive patrols over the channel and French coast also were carried out in daylight today, with one German fighter destroyed and one British plane missing.

Nazi Panzer Divisions Pierce Front at Bitolj

Second German Force Drives Along Aegean; British Reported Fighting North Of Mount Olympus

ATHENS, April 12 (Saturday) (AP)—The Greek high command acknowledged early today that German forces, coming through a gap in the allied front at Bitolj, had reached the Greek lines in the Phlorina area of Greece.

Panzer units thus plunged some 25 miles into the left flank of the allied line where both British and Greek units have been fighting since Thursday back of the remainder of the Yugoslav armies of southern Serbia.

A communique of the Greek high command said: "German motorized elements coming from the direction of Monastir (Bitolj) came in contact with our forces in the Phlorina district."

"On the Albanian front, restricted activity of patrols and artillery."

This was not the only point of the line at which British imperial and Greek troops were locked in a great battle of motion. Other German divisions were attacking in force on the allied right, within 48 miles of Mount Olympus.

Tonight's communique did not mention this attack.

On the allied left, the German forces first moved down through Yugoslavia from Prelep, and, attacking furiously at the Bitolj, or Monastir pass, broke through and poured on to the Phlorina area.

It was a struggle in progress since Thursday, on the front where the allies had elected to make a fateful stand to hold the Grecian peninsula and the vital ports to the south.

Wilson Heads British (A British announcement said the commander-in-chief of the British force was Lieut. Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, who commanded the army of the Nile in its winter offensive into Libya).

The brief communique of the British expeditionary force—Englishmen, Australians, New Zealanders—merely suggested the fury of the fighting, but made it clear that the nazis were striking hardest at both flanks of the allied line.

One was above Mount Olympus, the eastern anchor of the front near the shores of the Aegean, where the Germans had swept down beyond Gianitsa (Yanitsa)—which lies 48 miles north of Olympus itself.

Slavs Hamper Nazi Advance The other German thrust, hampered somewhat by the stiffened if disorganized resistance of the Yugoslavs—was toward Phlorina, the western end of the active allied line near the Albanian frontier. This movement already had isolated Yugoslavia from Greece.

In this area, the nazis, moving southward from Prilep, Yugoslavia, were smashing furiously at the Bitolj pass leading down to Phlorina, in northern Greece.

To the east, in Macedonia—which was isolated by the Germans in the capture of Salonika—the surviving Greek forces were declared by the British to be offering a "magnificent" delaying resistance.

U.S. to Defend Greenland

In a move that extends United States defense bases to the very edge of the war zone, President Roosevelt has announced signing of an agreement with the Danish government by which the U. S. will assume defense of Greenland, the Danish colony located approximately 1,000 miles northeast of Maine. Germany recently extended her blockade to Greenland's three-mile limit and Nazi war planes have been flying over the island for a year—as recently as last month. The map shows the location of the huge island in relation to the western hemisphere and to Europe.

The Press— POINTED RESPONSIBILITY IN THE NATION'S DEFENSE

When a damaged British warship entered New York harbor last week for repairs, Secretary Knox asked newspapers to refrain from carrying the story. Some complied with his request, others did not. It was objected that freedom of the press was in danger of being restrained. Suspicions of censorship and limitation of news were rumored.

But the secretary's action was not a step toward restraint of press freedom. It was an appeal to intelligent newspapermen to act for the preservation of their own constitutionally guaranteed privilege.

The rights of newspapers under the constitution are as extensive as those of an individual. But they are not more so. Thus, newspapers experience no restraint before publication; nothing they contain can be censored or licensed in any way before it is printed. After publication, however, newspapers are responsible for the abuse of their privilege. They may do nothing contrary to the rights of any individual or of society.

Usually vested in the hands of the men who make the newspapers is the power to determine what constitutes constructive information, what news if published might work to the detriment of a given group or nation. When crisis comes, as now, government officials must determine whether certain disclosures are practical. Thus when the British warship appeared Sunday, fear that public knowledge of its presence and the extent of its injuries might get back to German authorities led the administration to seek newspaper silence.

Of course many persons knew the ship was there, had seen it arrive. But detailed newspaper accounts of the ship's condition only simplify the work, for example, of espionage agents.

This request that newspapers ignore the incident was not a form of censorship—not censorship as it exists over there. It must be realized that publication of military information, while it makes good news, also lessens chances of military success for those nations with whom our sympathies lie.

Strict government suppression of news and limiting of sources of information will not be necessary if newspapers are willing to practice self-restraint in the printing of matter that may jeopardize their own position and also the freedom of their government.

Students and Board Jobs—

National prominence should come, probably even now has come, to the University of Iowa for the excellent system of student employment which has been organized here for the mutual benefit of the school and of the students.

The youths who come here, impecunious though they may be, are always extended, proved they demonstrate their earnestness at study, an opportunity to defray their expenses for their fees, their room costs, or their meals, and in some cases, for all three.

Of particular interest is the arrangement at University hospital, whereby many students work a few hours a day for their meals—deliciously cooked meals—that they may eat in the roomy, sunny employes' cafeteria. We wish to call the attention of all those interested in student welfare to the hospital employes' cafeteria, for we believe that it is peculiarly significant, if not typical, of the care that the university takes to assure students health and security.

When one first enters this cafeteria, he knows at once that he is seeing something unusual in student or campus eating places. No hustle, no hurry, no clamor here, but only quiet, friendly efficiency. One feels at once that each member of the cafeteria staff considers the wants and needs of the students his own personal, heartfelt responsibility.

The students always have a wide selection of food, food that is not only nourishing and wholesome, but deliciously and attractively prepared as well. Frequent are the calls they make for "seconds," and when the calls go unanswered, it is only because the supply has been exhausted, so generous are the first servings that have been made.

The excellent, conscientious work done in the cafeteria is under the watchful supervision of petite, neatly groomed Eunice Longworth, a capable and understanding woman who is exceptionally well chosen for her role as a kindly representative in the relations between the students and the hospital for which they work.

The organization of the cafeteria is probably one of the best examples one could find anywhere, on any campus, to symbolize the thrift and efficiency that are becoming the biggest factors in the system of undergraduate employment now being practiced on most American campuses.

Religious Service in America Takes You Into Europe's Darkness

DENVER, Colo.—Five hundred persons attended an hour-long service in the blacked-out auditorium of the First Plymouth Congregational Church here in a service designed to symbolize some of the sufferings of war-torn Europe.

During the service all lights in the church were extinguished, records made during an air raid were played, and a choir of 35 voices sang spirituals. Still in total darkness, the congregation heard John Swomley of New York, vice president of the National Council of Methodist Youth, speak on "The Lights Are Going Out in Europe—Are They Going Out in America, Too?" The service was part of the Colorado Youth Congress which held a three-day parley here.

Tucker Would Rather Lose With The Giants Than Win With Others

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is a city of strange people on mysterious missions from many nations. It is a city of architectural magnificence and scientific wonders. It has intrigue, laughter, and the bright silly make-believe of the theater.

But that ain't enough on a day like this, is it, honey?

Because, in a week we will most of us be sitting in the sun, cracking peanuts, and shouting ribald indignities at umpires and rival baseball players.

Some of us will sit at the Yankee Stadium and others will sit at Ebbets field in Brooklyn, but I will be sitting in the Polo Grounds, where the poor old Giants are beginning another season.

The experts are laughing at the Giants these days, but still I would rather lose with the Giants than win with anybody else. The Giants haven't been doing too well in recent seasons. We have been rattling down hill, as they say. We were on top for two years' running and then we dropped down a peg. We dropped to third, and finally we dropped out of the first division, and now they are saying we will be lucky not to drop right out of the league.

Well, the sun splashes warm on the Polo Grounds. It colors the men and the grass and the walls. It makes the hot dogs taste better, and the soda pop. It takes the mildew out of your muscled and makes you take off your coat and sponge your forehead with a big wad of handkerchief.

I take the Eighth Avenue subway to get there. Take an express all the way to 125th street. Then you change to a local, and get off at 155th. Even a blind man could find it. Big sign says "POLO GROUNDS." You climb the steps and emerge into pure lemon-colored sunlight that changes to orange along about the seventh inning.

If you like baseball, the best place to sit at the Polo Grounds is in the upper deck, just back of first base. That's where nine-tenths of the game is played—at first. Most of the action and the outs are there, and most of the pow-wows, and sometimes a little spiking.

If you sit back of first you can look down into the dugout of the visiting team. You can watch them chew their tobacco and scratch their hairy legs and slap their thighs with loud bawdy laughter when somebody gets off a good one, or when somebody (on their side) shoves a hot hit down the baseline. I have often thought a baseball game would be a fine place for an artist to go to study facial expressions. For no matter where you sit you are surrounded by faces that alternately express anxiety, hope, chagrin, disgust, anger, dejection, and pure unadulterated joy. You see the strange metamorphosis of faces—the placid and composed curdling into the sour effervescence of impotent rage. You see reasonably normal men take pokes at each other. You hear epithets that would make a sailor's hair curl.

Well, that's baseball, and the sun splashes warm on the Polo Grounds. It colors the game and it colors you. It's like recess on a long, dull school day. It's here—almost. I can hardly wait.

The Endless Magic That Is Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Don't look now, but I think this must be Hollywood.

There's a producer talking about buying a town for a picture called "Buy Me That Town"—if the town is right and he doesn't have to pay more than the $40,000 Lloyd Nolan (in the script) pays for it . . .

Claudette Colbert, preparing for a solo trip to New York, spends a month in advance telling everybody that she's going alone, that her husband is too busy to go, and it doesn't mean a quarrel when she goes . . .

They're looking for a Bengal tiger to serve as mascot of a mythical movie company for "World Premiere"—a tiger who must get in a cage with John Barrymore as the producer. Specification: "He must like ham but not too much" . . .

They use a raccoon on a leash to intrigue the bloodhounds used in the woodland chase sequence of "Man-Hunt." The first time, the hounds are excited and bark wonderfully. After that, being movie hounds, they're hep to it and go through the motion, as blasé as an aged matinee idol kissing another heroine . . .

They make a picture called "There's Magic in Music" and then are afraid the title plus the implication of highbrow music will keep the customers away. They call it "The Hard-Boiled Canary"—which fits exactly—but then the music-lovers squeak, and somebody thinks it doesn't do justice to Allan Jones, who's in the cast with Susanna Foster, so they change it back, after release, to "There's Magic in Music" . . .

I have a postcard (courtesy amateur radio W6SPB) from Bill Duchaine, Escanaba (Mich.) Smelt Jamboree, to this effect: "Chance for good yarn for you. Linda Johnson elected sweetheart Escanaba Smelt Jamboree. Call either Paramount studios or Columbia Broadcasting System . . ." You may look now. This is Hollywood.

Sight-and-Sound: Bette Davis in pale blue negligee and James Cagney in bed for the final scene of "The Bride Came C. O. D.," both howling like coyotes. This was not so simple a howl as it seemed.

"You're not right in the high note," Cagney admonished. "It's like this." (Howl.)

Bette howled.

"More like a screech-owl," said Tutor Cagney. "Put your heart into it. Give it the full thrill, like this . . ."

William Keighley, the ascetic-faced, joined in. "It seems to me it should be more like this . . ."

"Nope," said Cagney. "You're a wolf Bill. That was the mating call of the great Alaskan wolf."

"It had overtones of coyote," Bette conceded, "but to me it had also an authentic note of Union Pacific freight whistle."

They howled all afternoon, assisted by Keighley and a pack of cough drops. Keighley hoped they would be a howling success.

Trust-Buster Arnold Shackled by Court

WASHINGTON—The Frankfurter boys have short-circuited their trust-busting dynamo in the new deal, Mr. Thurman Arnold, so quietly no one heard the fuse blow.

His wires were cut in such a complicated legal way by the supreme court that no notice has appeared and outsiders are generally unaware of it. The last three decisions voiding his indictments against labor unions were rendered under a peculiar court custom which denied Arnold the right to present his case. Only a related jurisdictional question could be debated. As some old time new dealers now are saying: "The old Hoover-Coolidge-Wilson supreme court might knock down all new interpretations of law, but at least they would hear the arguments."

As a result, Arnold's associates say that he, an assistant attorney general of the United States, is reduced to writing magazine articles to draw attention to the way in which local unions are defying their own Wagner Act, levying tribute prices upon industries and erecting embargoes against commerce.

CASE AGAINST LABOR—

Arnold's case is simply this: Local union leaders in both AFL and CIO have refused to abide by labor board elections and have called strikes. They have refused to handle goods coming from competitive union workers. They have fixed prices to consumers through their wage demands. They are in effect erecting tariff walls, levying taxes and fixing prices. He has cited hundreds of cases, and has filed numerous indictments. There is no dispute about these facts.

You would think the national labor organizations would want to break up this local union dictatorship. It deprives the national leaders of any real authority over their locals, which are becoming autonomous dictatorships.

But in all the test cases which have reached the supreme court, the group led by Justice Frankfurter has rendered majority opinions completely breaking down Arnold's theory and setting up the law that the government has no power to lay a civil hand upon a union—no matter what it wants to do. In three decisions last Monday, the court set the labor unions alone, among all other people in the United States, as immune to the anti-trust law.

NO HOPE IN CONGRESS—

Arnold will take his fight to congress but there is not much more hope for him there than in the supreme court unless Mr. Roosevelt speaks out. This congress has been noted solely for its timidity. Nothing that Mr. Roosevelt has failed to mention has passed so far.

If a bill is introduced to throw a few more words into the anti-trust law and make clear the will of congress to have the law apply to all the people, the bill will no doubt be consigned to the massive congressional mausoleum of things to be forgotten.

THE COURT'S OBSCURE LIBERALISM—

Mr. Arnold has been called the "Pavlova" of the new deal, a suggestion that he pirouettes a step ahead of the new deal parade.

The bitter truth is the Frankfurter boys are becoming the reactionaries of government. They seem to have learned their liberalism from books rather than from an intuitive sense of justice. When the books were written many years ago and labor was downtrodden, any boost for labor was scored for liberalism. But now that labor has established itself the equal if not the superior of management, and is indulging in the excesses which all powerful political groups naturally affect after successes, the Frankfurter group has neglected to keep up with the times: It no longer is inspired by an urge to accomplish the greater good for the greater numbers. The consumers who are the great bulk of the people are neglected.

Sunday, April 13—1 to 3 p.m.

In deepest reaction, the majority of new dealers who still think of themselves as liberals are clinging to the principles of an obsolete primer of the past. It can't be heresy to say these things publicly because the new deal has always maintained the supreme court is not above criticism.

Swaine Scholarship

The BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY AP Staff Writer

"Collected Edition of Heywood Broun," with a preface by Heywood Hale Broun; (Harcourt, Brace: $3.50).

In his preface to a selection of his father's work published today as "Collected Edition of Heywood Broun" the columnist's son, Heywood Hale Broun, writes:

"It was Heywood Broun's greatest talent that he could join the ranks of the crusaders without losing his capacity for enjoyment and the ability to pass that enjoyment on in his writings but—there is no vigor in expressing an opinion and then washing your hands."

This omits one important consideration, which is the fact that in the eyes of many people Broun was also rather lazy. The younger Broun bears testimony to that fact, indirectly. His father had, as everybody who ever knew his work will remember, a passion for horse racing. And on the days when he wanted to take a flier with the bookies, or when he wanted to do something else that interested him, Broun would dig one of his old columns out of his file, according to Heywood, Jr., write a new lead on it, and put it through.

Everybody who ever worked in journalism knows that there are times when short cuts must be taken. Heywood, Sr., took, it may be, a few more than his share.

Yet he worked hard when he felt like it, and the evidence of this is in the new collection of his pieces. The world had a favorite picture of Broun—a big, bumbling man with a vast sympathy for the underdog, sufficient iron to stand by the underdog to the last ditch—and parts of several breakfasts on his vest. This picture leaves out of account the Broun who suffered criticism on a number of occasions when he would not compromise, such occasions as the Sacco-Vanzetti case, when his effort to overcome public apathy toward what he considered injustice divorced him from the New York World.

Which is all very well. Finally a book of this sort must rest upon its usefulness as entertainment and mental stimulus. I believe it can do this successfully, and this largely because it has been selected from every field Broun entered—sports to the lamented Connecticut Nutmeg.

Striking Bus Drivers Sponsor Second Educational Forum

Cedar Rapids Business Agent Main Speaker

James White Assails Henry Negus For Refusal to Arbitrate

Describing President Henry Negus of the Iowa City Coach Company as "a Henry Ford who set himself up on the pedestal of capital to fight labor," James White, business agent for Cedar Rapids truckers' union, last night appealed to 200 persons attending the bus drivers' mass meeting "to boycott the bus company out of business."

Main speaker in the second of a series of educational forums designed to acquaint Iowa City with the local transportation situation, White intimated that the bus drivers' association was "overly persistent" in its refusal to arbitrate.

The right of collective bargaining is the right of labor under existing legislation," the leader declared.

He urged Iowa City to back a strike for increased wages by starting a city-wide boycott in the event of reinstatement of the 11 striking union drivers.

Negus likens himself to "Mr. Ford," White asserted. "Mr. Ford climbed down from his pedestal today," he added, referring to the Ford Baton Rouge strike.

The Cedar Rapids unionist, leader of the 600 organized truckers under an A. F. of L. affiliate, spoke following addresses by Milo Himes, representing dentists, and Frank Flaugherty, mer state deputy labor commissioner.

Hints to Easter Egg Artists

If Bunny at Your House Needs Help, Get Paints and Go to Work

How are you doing as an "Easter egg" artist? Does the Easter bunny need some help at your house?

With bits of paper and ribbon, dyes, paints, gummed stickers or sealing wax, "you, too, can live up to the party."

Let's start at the beginning—with white eggs. Put a layer of them in a saucepan and cover them with cold water. Bring the water slowly to a boiling point and stir the eggs gently during the first part of the cooking to keep the yolks centered. Turn the flame lower and let the water simmer for six or seven minutes longer. Take the eggs from the saucepan and put them immediately in cold water. When they are cool, dry and chill them thoroughly before you begin to give them your spring interpretation of art.

Comes time to decorate the Easter eggs, be sure you check to see that you are using only certified pure food colors for dyeing and vegetable water color paints for the designs. Remember to add 1 teaspoon of vinegar if you are using hard water.

Don't be discouraged if the results are not as smooth as you expected—some eggs vary in the amount of lime content in their shells. Just finish your decorating and you will be surprised at how attractive the "mistake" will be.

Are you of the "liquid color-

War Discussion To Be Heard On Station WHO

"Should Great Britain State Her War Aims?" will be the topic of a panel discussion sponsored by the Iowa State Bar association which will be aired over radio station WHO, Des Moines, at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

Harley H. Stipp, prominent Des Moines lawyer; Clyde Doolittle, banker; Forrest Spaulding, Des Moines city librarian, and Robert J. Blakely, editorial assistant on the Des Moines Register staff, will participate in the discussion.

This is the first of a series of radio programs dealing with both local and national problems to be heard over WHO. Leading Iowans will participate and the "round-table" technique will be used.

Bundles for Britain, Including 350,000 Garments, Sets Sail

Shipment Described As One of Largest Ever Assembled

By ROSEMARY CHASE

Fifty trucks loaded with large wooden packing cases rolled recently from a New York City warehouse to three piers. The huge boxes—1,925 of them—were concrete symbols of America's sympathy for civilian victims of Nazi bombings in England.

The shipment, described by Bundles for Britain as "one of the largest of its kind ever assembled by a single relief agency on its own account, except the American Red Cross," included among other items, 350,000 garments, valued at $300,000.

The clothing, collected during the national Bundles for Britain campaign which began in February, left the organization's central warehouse, but wartime secrecy surrounded the location of the three ships waiting to receive the consignment.

They were described as being at piers "in and near New York," but the British ministry of shipping kept the locations and sailing dates secret to prevent America's mercy gifts from falling prey of enemy submarines.

Six principal British relief agencies will distribute the clothing for Britain's men, women and children under fire. Surgical, hospital and medical supplies contributed or purchased through nearly 900 branches and units of Bundles for Britain throughout the United States, Alaska, the Virgin Islands, and parts of Canada also are included.

Hundreds of thousands of sweaters, scarves, socks, gloves, and other articles knitted by women all over the United States were included in the shipments of woollens for the armed forces.

Other items shipped and received in England included 24 ambulances, 64 rolling canteens and canteen trailers, 107 cases of surgical instruments, 2,500 children's cots for air-raid shelter use, 2 oxygen tents, 26 hospital beds (adults), 160 hospital beds (children's) and 500 sleeping bags.

Sixty-four blood transfusion sets, 21 X-ray machines and 3 large X-ray trailers, 24 portable surgical kits, 106 cases of used surgical instruments, 24 cases of hospital supplies, 25 cases of soap, shaving cream, etc., 5,000 children's overcoats, 23 bales rubber soles and shoes and 387 bags and cartons of food, which can no longer be sent.

Mrs. Wales Latham, founder and national president of Bundles for Britain, has recently completed a tour of the Middle West where she met with branches of the organization.

Among the contributions which have been sent to London, were 25 cases marked for Belgian refugees in Britain. These goods for Belgian refugees had been collected by the Belgians in the British division of that organization. Their committee announced that it was launching a campaign to find American "foster-parents for the Belgian refugee children now in England.

It will cost $10 a month to provide food, clothing, medical attention and school for the young Belgians, many of whom lost their parents when the Germans invaded their homeland. Some of the children—permanently crippled as a result of the war—are in English hospitals. Foster parents will receive letters and pictures from the individual children who will benefit by their generosity.

The Bundles for Britain office in New York recently received a grateful letter of thanks from Mrs. Winston Churchill. Many other letters have been received by the local Bundles for Britain office in appreciation of contributions. The grand total of cash raised in the month of March by the Iowa City workers was $490.52.

Money has been raised by the organization in various ways. Sales of food and pictures, benefits and private donations have helped build up the local contribution.

Besides money, knitted garments, including sweaters, socks, sea stockings and scarves, surgeon's aprons and masks have been contributed. Five hundred diapers were hemmed for Bundles for Britain by women in the obstetrics department of the university hospital.

Orlo Sedlacek Case Dismissed

Sustaining the demurrer by Attorney Edward F. O'Connor, Judge James P. Gaffney yesterday dismissed an information filed early this year charging Orlo Sedlacek with perjury.

In his motion, Attorney O'Connor contended that Sedlacek's testimony in a liquor nuisance case with Ivan Schmidt, Oxford, named defendant, was not pertinent to the case at hand.

Harold W. Vestermark, former county attorney, filed the charge. The case ended in a jury deadlock during the November term of court. Schmidt pleaded guilty to the charge later and was fined during the present court term.

To Meet Monday

Representatives of the local Townsend club, who attended the congressional district convention at Muscatine Thursday, will present a report of the meeting at the regular club meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the courthouse.

Daily Iowan Business Review

In May, 1931, Larew Company was formed in Iowa City and was located at 110 S. Gilbert across from the Elks building where it operated until October, 1936, when the present building located at 227 E. Washington street across from the City Hall was purchased and equipped.

Service is the company's watchword—a 24-hour service seven days a week—a call on the phone will bring Larew Company's plumber to your door. Six full-time service trucks pictured above enable the organization to efficiently handle any amount of business promptly. Besides the service trucks we have six additional cars to augment the service.

In addition to the regular plumbing and heating work, a complete line of appliances are handled, including Hotpoint refrigerators and electric ranges, Firetender stokers, Wayne oil burners, gas burning equipment, Easy washing machines and ironers, Permutit water softening and conditioning equipment. Also air conditioning and sheet metal work and hot air furnaces are part of Larew's business.

Besides the regular line of equipment, Larew's maintain their own vacuum furnace cleaning equipment, electric water pipe thawing machine, and electric root cutting and cleaning equipment. Hit capacity automatic water pumping equipment to take care of any emergency. No job is too large to handle efficiently and no job is too small not to be greatly appreciated. Dial 9681.

Health Council League to Hold Dinner Here

Invitations have been mailed to 370 persons for the annual dinner meeting of the Johnson county public health council, Miss Aila Hiltunen, county nurse and chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, has announced.

Dr. Kate Datum, head of the department of nutrition of university hospitals, will headline the speaking program at the dinner, which will take place Thursday night at 7 o'clock in the Iowa City Community building.

An annual report of the nursing service, a showing of health films and a number of other speeches will also be included in the program.

Reservations may be made Monday by phoning 5922.

Juniors to Sell Food Today

Fresh kolache and novelty love-knots will be on sale today at the food sale sponsored by the junior class of Iowa City high school. The home-cooked foods will go on sale at 9 o'clock in the assembly room of the Light and Power company building.

Decorated Easter eggs will be sold, as well as hot rolls, cookies, pies, cakes, baked beans, and potato salad.

Members of the sale committee are Mrs. L. G. Gross, Mrs. Joe Koudelka, Marjorie Schenck, Margaret Wylie and Margaret Browning.

Among Iowa City People

Erwin M. Hamlin, formerly of Des Moines and now stationed at the Great Lakes training camp, spent Thursday afternoon visiting in the college of pharmacy here.

Mrs. J. C. Brauer and son, James, are spending the Easter holidays at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuart, Norfolk, Neb. They will return to Iowa City Tuesday.

Mrs. C. S. Williams, 226 S. Lucas, is leaving today for Chicago where she will join the special train of D.A.R. delegates to the annual D.A.R. congress in Washington, D.C. She is the official delegate for Pilgrim chapter of D.A.R.

Mrs. J. W. Willard, Lotene Willard, Merleen Leffler, Shirlee Leffler, Miriam McLaughlin, Phyllis Aicher and Jeanne Starr spent yesterday in Cedar Rapids.

Hawkeyes Lose First Southern Game, 4-3

L.S.U. Pounds Four Hurlers For 13 Safeties

Tigers Bunch Hits For Two Runs in 1st; Hill Losing Pitcher

BY ROMAINE WEEKS
BATON ROUGE, La., April 11 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Iowa's baseball team lost its first game of the spring training season here today by dropping a close 4-3 decision to Louisiana State University. Previous to today's encounter the Hawkeyes had taken four straight from two Louisiana schools.

Iowa, going into the ninth inning trailing by two markers, fell just a hair's breadth short of tying the contest. The Hawks succeeded in filling the bases with one out, but the most they could do was to push a lone tally across the plate. Bill Welp ended the game by striking out.

Tigers Start Early
The Tigers, losing no time in getting started, bunched four successive hits in the first inning on two out that netted them two runs. Starting pitcher Jack Kenney was the victim of this early uprising.

The fourth inning, however, saw Iowa come back with the tying two runs. Diehl led off with a single and advanced to second when Dunagan reached first on an error. Welp singled in Diehl, and after two were out, Norm Hankins knocked in the tying run with another one bagger.

Louisiana State, not to be outdone, again forged into the lead in the last of the fourth when Graham singled, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and scored on a double by Madison.

Iowa Falls to Score
Iowa missed another golden scoring opportunity in the sixth when it loaded the bases but failed to score when a squeeze play fell through. The batter popped up and the runners were doubled off their bases.

L.S.U.'s final tally came in the seventh when Graham drove in the run on his third hit of the afternoon. He led all batters by collecting three hits in four trips to the plate.

The Hawkeye defeat was not without its bright spots, however, as evidenced by Tommy Farmer's brilliant running catch of a low liner which he turned into a double play, possibly averting more Tiger runs.

Welp Leads Batters
Welp led the Iowa batters in the hit department by collecting two singles in five times at bat. Wendell Hill, who pitched only 1-3 of an inning, gave up three hits and one run to be charged with the loss.

Bob Stastny pitched three and 2-3 innings and gave up five hits and one run. Ted Gordiner, who took charge of affairs in the eighth inning, hurled a tight ball.

The Hawks will conclude their spring schedule this afternoon with another tilt with the Tigers. Coach Otto Vogel has nominated lanky Dick Hein as the starting pitcher. In his last starting assignment Hein went the route and won a 2-1 game with three hits.

'Ducky' Pond Named Bates Football Coach

LEWISTOWN, Me., April 11 (AP)—The appointment of Raymond "Ducky" Pond, former Yale coach, as head football and baseball coach at Bates college, was announced today by President Clifton D. Gray, of Bates.

Pond had been reported during the past few weeks as having the inside track for the place of Wendell D. Mansfield, who recently resigned to return to his alma mater, Springfield (Mass.) college. Pond resigned his post at Yale after last fall's disastrous season, although his contract had one more year to go.

U-High Enters Mechanicsville Relays Today

A University high track team that finished 10th in a field of 34 class B schools in the state high school track meet two weeks ago, will see action this afternoon in the annual Mechanicsville relays.

The meet is limited to schools with enrollments of 300 or less, and for the past several years has been held at Mechanicsville.

As a rule the relays are a good indication of the relative strength of teams in the Eastern Iowa conference, since a good part of the conference teams will be represented.

Indiana Takes Illini Nine, 2-1

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 11 (AP)—Indiana university beat the University of Illinois, co-holder of the Big Ten baseball title, 2 to 1, today in the opening Western conference tilt for both schools.

The Illini outthit the Hoosiers, 9 to 3, but were weak in the pinches. Don Dunker, Indiana pitcher, won his own ball game by sending Bob Dro home in the fifth with a Texas leaguer.

Rallying in the eighth, the visitors tallied once, and then, with the bases loaded, catcher Brewer drove a long fly to the outfield which was taken by Russell Clinton, Indiana left fielder, to nip the effort.

Homer Beats Brooks, 7-6
BROOKLYN, April 11 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, who had beaten the Yankees four straight on the road, fell down on the job in their first appearance before the home folks today. Charley Keller's second home run of the afternoon, with two out in the ninth, gave the American leaguers a 7-6 victory before a crowd of 13,097.

Keller hit his deciding four-bagger off Bill Swift, who had come in to check the Yanks in the seventh after they had scored four runs off Tex Carleton. Selkirk opened the ninth with a single to center, but Swift appeared to have got himself out of the hole when DiMaggio hit into a double play. Keller was the next man up, and promptly whaled the ball over the scoreboard.

Two walks and four-baggers by Keller and Joe Gordon accounted for all the Yankee runs in the seventh. Joe Medwick hit a homer for the Dodgers.

Bobby Feller Stops Giants on Four Hits; Yankees Nip Dodgers

DAYTON, O., April 11 (AP)—Unleashing an 18-hit attack, including two homers by Hank Greenberg and one by Rudy York, the Detroit Tigers overwhelmed the world champion Cincinnati Reds, 15-3 today.

The game was the first of a series-of-three to wind up the training season.

Each of Greenberg's clouts—in the first and fifth—found a mate on base, and York connected immediately after the big outfielder had rounded the bases for the second time.

Neither Monte Pearson, ex-Yankee, nor Gene Thompson, who succeeded him in the sixth, puzzled the Tigers. Sophomore Johnny Hutchings went to the mound in the seventh and finished the game.

Feller Wins Four-Hitter
RICHMOND, Va., April 11 (AP)—Four Cleveland home runs and Bob Feller's fine hurling gave the Indians a 7 to 1 triumph today over their traditional spring rivals, the New York Giants.

The Iowa speedball artist held the Giants to four hits and one run in his seven-inning chore, the last before he takes the mound to open the American league season for Cleveland next Tuesday. Joe Heving pitched a hitless eighth and ninth.

The victory was the Indians' eighth in 11 starts against Bill Terry's club.

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—The rejuvenated Chicago Cubs, making their first home start under manager Jimmy Wilson, eked out a 2 to 1 victory over the White Sox today before 6,970 spectators.

The decision gave the National leaguers seven wins in 12 games so far with the White Sox.

Southpaw Eddie Smith contributed the winning run to the Cubs when he hit bill Nicholson with a pitched ball with the bases loaded in the eighth inning, forcing in Stan Hack with the decisive tally.

Claude Passeau, Cub ace who will open the season for Wilson's team next Tuesday, held the Sox runless for the first five innings. Rookie Paul Erickson took over in the sixth. Luke Appling's single and Joe Kuhel's double produced the only Sox run in the eighth, tying the score.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

• 'Spots' Before Eyes
• Do You Tire Easily?
• Not Patent Medicine

NEW YORK, April 11 (The Special News Service)—Do you tire easily? Do you know how to hang from the "spot"? Does your body have the dynamic bow? Do your feet track?

That isn't the prologue to a patent medicine ad. It's just a little quiz program pertaining to, of all things, Lou Nova's victory over Max Baer recently. If it's all a little confusing, don't blame us. We're just the innocent bystander with the bow in the wrong places.

Blame Wolstan Crocker Brown, the scientist whose studies of the spontaneous movement of the body has resulted in the discovery of a fundamental formula for mathematical efficiency in the use of the body.

On Lecture Platform
Now that that is perfectly clear, we can proceed with Mr. Brown, who has taken prize fighting, once the ragged derelict of the saloon back room, up another rung in the social ladder. It's on the lecture platform of Rockefeller center's museum of science and industry now.

Mr. Brown, a wiry 55-year-old with flashing dark eyes and catlike agility, patiently explained to a very small, much befuddled group the connection between Nova's victory and his own scientific theories.

"In movement the center of balance is a spot between the shoulder blades," he said. "When an athlete can hang from the spot" he has perfect balance, can move quicker and with more power and does not tire as readily.

"After various experiments with other athletes I decided on a final test—the development of a heavyweight champion. I first approached Max Baer, but he declined coaching because it was too short a time before the Nova bout.

Nova Agreeable
"I then contacted Nova, who was agreeable. There was only time for brief coaching before his bout with Pat Comiskey, but you know the result of that fight. He progressed further before his recent fight with Baer, and you know how that bout resulted. I think if he continues his studies along this line he'll have enough to take care of Joe Louis nicely."

The term "cosmic punch" is misnomer, Brown says. It really is a dynamic punch, traveling with gravity instead of against it and making full use of "the spot."

He showed slides demonstrating his theory, going away back to Willie Keeler to point out how the units of the body are held to a bow form. All champions have this bow, he said, and the great champions unconsciously "hang on the spot." You can tell by the way the feet line up in walking whether a person is well-balanced, he added. Well-balanced physically, that is.

Too Many Theories
Nova, his mind already groping in the depths of yogi, is struggling valiantly with the theory of dynamics and body balance. He said he thought about it constantly in the last Baer bout, and he admitted that Max unconsciously was so well-balanced it was difficult to handle him at first. He also said Max hit him the hardest blow he ever took, but due to his new study his mind was clear all the time, as he was "hanging on the spot." And also the middle rope, it might be added.

It was a very enlightening little session, and left one vivid impression, to wit: If you hit a man hard enough on the right spot he's going down.

Badger Ace Hurls No-Hitter

'Bests' of Winter Golf Circuit

Byron Nelson Best From Tee to Green, But Putting, Luck Atrocious

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Making a final checkback over the winter golf tour with Fred Corcoran, the P.G.A. tournament manager:

The "bests"—best player from tee to green: Byron Nelson, the P.G.A. champ. But his putting and putting luck often were atrocious.

Best putters: Open Champ Lawson Little, who has the most solid and comfortable stance of any of them, and Ben Hogan (though he'll be the first to deny it). . . Best scoring average: Hogan's 70.5 for 41 tournament rounds. . . Best 18-hole match: Sam Snead's 1-up victory over Hogan at San Francisco in a heavy rain, in which he shot a 66 to Ben's 67.

Best prospects for the future: Claude Harmon of Orlando, Fla., Ray Hill of Henderson, Tex., and Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich. (Three H's, like Hogan, Harrison and Haefner of two years ago) . . . Hill and Harmon, incidentally, will be assistants this summer to Augusta Masters winner Craig Wood at Winged Foot.

More "Bests"—Best scoring rounds: Hogan's 62 under ideal weather conditions at Oakland, Cal., and Little's 62 the morning after a snowstorm at San Antonio, Tex. They tied the P.G.A. record which Walter Hagen first established 19 years ago at Belleair, Fla. . . Best competitive rounds: Wood's first-round 66 at the Masters, Ed Oliver's 66 in the Bing Crosby tournament, which he shot with a mongrel set of borrowed clubs just after driving across the country twice, and Johnny Bulla's seven straight 3's and 4-5 finish for a six-under-par 30 on the first nine in the Los Angeles Open.

Best showing by an amateur: Dick Chapman, the national champ, who threw in a 70 at Augusta (Corcoran saw no new amateur threats, and the army seems to be taking up many of the established ones) . . . Best crowds: at Greensboro, N. C., where the final day's gallery was the largest since Bobby Jones won the U.S. Amateur at Merion in 1930. . . Best all-around showing by a veteran: Wood's record of finishing in the money in 12 of the 14 tournaments he started, with victory in the Masters as the climax.

Clinton Defends Y.M.C.A. Title In Fieldhouse Pool Here Today

150 Mermen From Eight Teams Battle For Thirty Titles

Topped by Clinton's defending champions, a field of eight Y.M.C.A. teams, champions in last week's district meets, will fight for the state championship in the University of Iowa fieldhouse pool this afternoon.

Coach Dave Armbruster of Iowa, meet manager, said yesterday Clinton will be represented by approximately 40 swimmers, nearly twice the number of the nearest competitor, Cedar Rapids, which has entered 25, and which is rated as chief threat to Clinton's reign.

A total of 150 mermen, ranging from nine-year-olds to ex-collegians, will battle for the 30 individual events which are divided into three classes—junior A and B, intermediate and senior.

The entry list for the meet was determined by district tournaments at Des Moines, Cedar Rapids and Davenport.

Unless a "darkhorse" contender comes through, Clinton's powerful team is rated a strong favorite to duplicate last year's feat.

Armbruster listed the following unofficial entry list today:

Clinton, 40; Cedar Rapids, 25; Davenport, 20; Des Moines, 20; Marshalltown, 15; Waterloo, 15; Ottumwa, 10, and Burlington, 10.

Bill Lee Ends Holdout Seige
CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Big Bill Lee, erstwhile ace pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, ended his long holdout seige today and accepted terms of a one-year contract.

Lee, who won only nine games last season, previously had balked at signing a contract for $10,000, he was paid $17,500 last season.

Plumber's Union
The Cubs originally offered $12,500 but when Lee failed to report for spring training at Catalina Island he was cut another $2,500.

Shortly after coming to terms with General Manager James G. Lagher, Lee donned a uniform and began limbering up near the field foul line while the White Sox exhibition game was in progress.

Dodgers, Cards Just Threats

Reds Finish 91 Points In Front of Brooklyn, 142 Ahead of Redbirds

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The spring storm stirred up by St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers as potential pennant winners in the National League turned out to be just a harmless squall to the sports writers.

The Cincinnati Reds were on today to repeat in the circuit by 69 of 83 scribes in the annual pre-season poll in the Associated Press.

Of the remainder, an even dozen bunched together on Brooklyn and exactly two came out for Cardinals.

Solid Club
This would seem to indicate that the writers at last have agreed that the current world champions are a solid ball club. Last year St. Louis received a slight edge in the canvass in spite of the fact that the Reds had won in 1933.

This year they left no doubt that Cincinnati has the team to beat. Thirteen of the 14 dissenters on a third-straight championship for the Reds, picked them to finish second and the other place them third.

On a point basis, with eight a first place vote, seven for second, six for third, etc., the Reds received a total of 649 points.

Brooks Total 558
The Dodgers, who were picked for every place from first to sixth obtained 558 points, 51 more than the Redbirds, whose vote spread from first to seventh, skipped the sixth place slot.

Beneath this triumvirate there was a considerable variety of opinion except on the Phillies, who 80 of the 83 writers frankly preferred to land in the cellar for a fourth straight year.

Based on total points, the forecast the entire league will wind up in the same order it finished last year. But the New York Giants were spotted in every position except first and the Pittsburgh Pirates, in every rank except first and last.

For the first time in many years the Boston Bees did not receive a single sentence to the cellar in polling 203 points they gave the Giants, with 268, a good sixth place.

The Cubs originally offered $12,500 but when Lee failed to report for spring training at Catalina Island he was cut another $2,500.

Social Service League Mails Johnson County Food Stamp Program Identification Cards

Receive Tickets Tuesday to Buy for Purchases

Identification cards have been mailed to all persons eligible to participate in the Johnson county food stamp plan which starts Tuesday, John Barry, social service secretary, announced yesterday.

Only those who have received cards by Tuesday may buy food stamps. The cards also must be presented to the merchant when the stamps.

Any person who has not received a card by Tuesday and who wishes himself eligible should contact his special caseworker at the social service headquarters.

Barry pointed out that if every person eligible to take part does so, more than $80,000 a month in additional purchases may be expected according to estimates based on surplus foods donated by the merchant for the new plan.

A national study of food purchases by families on public assistance rolls showed that an average of $1 per week per person is not on food.

Under the food stamp plan this year will be increased by a minimum of 50 per cent, since government donates 50 cents of blue stamps for each dollar purchased by the participating aid.

Only articles listed each month in the surplus marketing administration may be bought by using blue stamps. The orange stamps received permits to build garages; Kate Montgomery, to construct a store building; Mary Fibre-ence Phillips to have a barn moved, and the Standard Oil Co., to construct a gas filling station, replacing the one at Linn and College streets.

Jews Begin To Get Funds For Refugees

The United Jewish campaign, a part of the United Jewish Appeal, being conducted to raise funds for caring for refugees, building up Palestine and maintaining the Jewish welfare board, will be culminated during the feast of the Passover, which started at sundown last night.

The Iowa City quota, set at $2,500, is already half reached, it was announced yesterday. The total national quota for the campaign has been set at $25,000,000.

Officials have announced that volunteer contributions will be appreciated. The drive was begun early this month.

Officers of the local campaign are Joseph Braverman, chairman; Sam Markovitz, vice-chairman; Mrs. Sam Saltzman, secretary, and Sam Worton, treasurer.

The local executive committee consists of Rabbi Morris Kertzer, chairman; E. Braverman, Dr. A. Steindler, L. Shames of Wellman, H. Worton, Dr. K. Lewin, A. Abrams and H. Shulman.

Services will be held in the Agudas Achim synagogue at 8:30 this morning.

Retail sales in 1,770,904 stores in the U.S. exceed $42,000,000 annually, according to the census bureau.

Tomlin Funeral Will Be Held Monday Morning

Funeral service for William M. Tomlin, 50, who died Thursday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Annie Tomlin, 817 Bloomington, will be held at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Wenceslaus church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Tomlin was born Sept. 12, 1890 in Iowa City.

Survivors include his mother; six children, Lloyd Tomlin of Ft. Benning, Ga., Mrs. John Cornwall, Mrs. George Norton and John Perry and Betty Tomlin of Iowa City; two step-sons, William and Carl Hauser of Iowa City; three aunts and one uncle.

The body will be removed from Hohenschuh mortuary to the home of his mother at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

EASTER SERVICES Churches Plan Special Observances

Iowa City's churches yesterday were preparing special observances for Easter Sunday tomorrow.

In the Catholic churches masses were scheduled as follows: St. Mary's—6, 7:30, 9, 10:15 and 11:30.

St. Patrick's—6:30, 8, 9:15 and 10:30.

St. Wenceslaus—6:30, 8 and 10. Yesterday saw the local churches celebrating Good Friday. Catholic churches observed the stations of the cross and special devotions were held at 7:30 p.m. Protestant churches held services from noon until 3 p.m. in Trinity Episcopal church.

The 1940 census showed 169,742 restaurants, cafes and other eating places in the U.S.

NOW PLAYING AT IOWA CITY THEATERS

STARS OF 'REBECCA'

Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine in a scene from "REBECCA" starting Wednesday at the Varsity theater.

THE AGGRESSIVE 'LADY EVE'

Barbara Stanwyck's aggressive ardour seems to have put Henry Fonda in a temporarily uncomfortable situation. The scene is from the new Paramount laugh hit, "The Lady Eve," written and directed by Preston Sturges, now playing at the Englert theater with last times Monday.

'YOU'LL FIND OUT' STARS KAY KYSER

Kay Kyser, the 'ol professor, is back at the Iowa starting Sunday in the musical mystery, "You'll Find Out." He's shown here with Ginny Simms and Helen Parish.

'THE LADY EVE' NOW AT ENGLERT

Barbara Stanwyck, Henry Fonda Take Lead Roles in Hilarious Comedy

Totally unrestrained laughter is still ringing in the ears of this reviewer as he attempts to tell you about Paramount's rollicking farce, "The Lady Eve," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda, now playing at the Englert, with last times Monday.

It was written and directed by Preston Sturges whose striking wit and genius brought you "The Great McGinty" and "Christmas in July" and if you thought those two farces were funny, all we can say is, "You ain't seen nothin' yet" until you've seen "The Lady Eve."

"Rebecca" is the film version of the best-selling novel of the same name by Daphne du Maurier. It was prepared for the screen by Robert E. Sherwood and Joan Harisson and retains all of the gripping drama of the original book.

The Co-Hit—
Co-starring Lon Chaney, Jr., Carole Landis and Victor Mature, "One Million B. C.," the co-feature, tells a simple story of two prehistoric tribes—the Shell People and the Rock Tribe—who live their lives under the shadow of attack by huge dinosaurs, woolly mammoths, musk oxen, terrifying reptiles, as well as visitations of earthquakes and seething volcanoes.

PRIZEWINNING 'REBECCA' NEXT AT THE VARSITY

With Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine heading a cast of outstanding players and with a story filled with drama, suspense and mystery, David O. Selznick's winner of the critics' and the Academy award as the best picture of 1940, comes to the Varsity theater Wednesday.

KAY KYSER FILM IS IOWA HIT

The screen's first mystery musical is the claim for Kay Kyser's new film, "You'll Find Out," which combines sweet trills with shrill shrieks and shivery melody. In fact, it well deserves the description—melodrama.

Featured with the O! Professor of the College of Musical Knowledge are the three foremost merchant of menace in pictures today, Peter ("M") Lorre, Boris ("Frankenstein") Karloff and Bela ("Dracula") Lugosi. The film opens Sunday at the Iowa.

One of the most daring criminal attacks in the terror-packed annals of the air furnishes the basis for Columbia's newest Jack Holt thriller, "The Great Plane Robbery," opening Sunday at the Iowa theater.

'BLONDIE' BACK AT THE STRAND

The Bumstead Family 'Goes Latin' In New Comedy Sensation

In a merry medley of mirth and melody, the Bumsteads have returned to the Strand theater to prove themselves inimitable swinging-singing-dancing stars as well as the nation's favorite family of funsters! Hailed as one of the most enjoyable comedies with music ever filmed, Columbia's "Blondie Goes Latin" is said to be a sensational, fast and furious piece of screen entertainment, which compares favorably with the best the year has offered!

City-Wide Kite Flying Contest Will Be Held Today at 9:30

Contestants for the city-wide kite flying meet will assemble at 9:30 this morning on the City high school athletic practice field and will launch their kites about 10 o'clock, officials announced yesterday.

A sweepstake prize will be awarded to the contestant who wins the greatest number of points from the various events of the meet, using a homemade kite.

The first event will be the judging of kite construction. After one kite from each of the three classes has been selected, the three kites will be awarded first, second and third, the owners winning three, two and one point toward the sweepstakes respectively.

The best-flying kites will be judged and points will be awarded in the same manner. In the 100-yard dash, points will be awarded according to the order of the first three kites finishing, it was explained.

Two points will be given for each of the highest flyer, the largest flyer, the best novelty kite and the best decorated kite.

Either an airplane ride or a model airplane kit will be awarded to the sweepstakes winner. All participants with home-made kites will be given free theater tickets, officials announced.

Ribbons will also be awarded to winners of all events. Contestants will be permitted to compete for ribbon awards but will not be eligible for the sweepstakes prize.

U.S. Red Cross Getting Money For 'Slavians'

The Johnson County chapter of the American Red Cross, upon authorization from the national executive committee, is now receiving contributions for the relief of Yugoslavian war sufferers.

Davis also reported that more

Trinity Church Plans Services

Three special services will be given at Trinity Church Easter morning, it was announced yesterday.

The early Eucharist will start at 8 o'clock. The Junior choir under the direction of Cyril Ash will sing the musical settings of the service.

Presentation of the church school offering boxes will be made at a 9:30 service which has been planned especially for the church school.

The 10:45 service of the Holy Communion will begin in the church yard where the choir, under the direction of Addison Altsch, will give a capella singing of the Easter hymn, "The Christ is risen today." Mrs. E. Tidrick will play the organ in the service.

The council has surveyed facilities in other major American universities and colleges, with an eye on the coming summer terms, when many such schools are expected to be participating.
Tremendous Job
The early job the council faces is stupendous.
Teaching personnel must be trained, for the most part. In addition many of the world's languages are so unknown to America that dictionaries and grammars must be gradually and carefully arranged, before the basis of teaching them is complete.

The committee on the National School of Modern Oriental Languages has for some time been developing personnel and implementation (working guides to language) in Oriental languages, such as Siamese and Malay, which never have been taught in any American college or university.

Training Instructors
In these fields the implementation is either very poor or non-existent, and there are no American scholars competent to carry on intensive instruction of the necessary quality.
Hence, that committee has begun studies leading to the implementation of instruction in unusual languages: Thai (Siamese) at the University of Michigan, modern Persian at Columbia, Moroccan Arabic at Pennsylvania, Hungarian and Finnish at Harvard, Japanese, Malay and Cantonese at Yale, and Pushtu (Afghan) at Illinois.

ried on the early stages of the program, surveying facilities and setting up experimental units. Now Professor Cowan, "on loan" from Iowa, will devote his full time to the program's direction and supervision.
He will be responsible for financial administration, the setting up of new courses and the maintenance of old ones. He will deal with problems of acquiring personnel, both student and teacher, and will act as liaison officer between the council and governmental and private agencies in the placement of student language specialists.

Thompson fellow in Germanics at the University of California, and came to Iowa in January, 1933. He took his Ph.D. here in 1935.
Professor Here
After two years as a research associate in the graduate college, he was named an assistant professor in German in 1938.
His special field of work here has been the development of the spoken form of languages—theoretical and practical phonetics. He has been technical director of the university's modern language phonetics laboratory since its establishment in 1938.
He taught two summers at the Linguistic Institute in Ann Arbor and Chapel Hill, N.C. For the past year he has been secretary-treasurer of the Linguistic Society of America.

The Listening Post--

By LOREN HICKERSON

NOV SCHMOZ KA POP . . .
If you think you'd be a whiz at learning to speak Moroccan Arabic or Inner Mongolian, I suspect the American Council of Learned Societies would be glad to hear from you.

If you have an aptitude for either of those languages, or any one of about 40 others the council is beginning to train students, step up. . . But do it with the knowledge that if you enroll in one of the council's intensive courses, you'll spend about 20 hours a week in class on your one language, and most of the rest of your waking hours drilling yourself in its intricacies.

The program Iowa's Prof. J. Milton Cowan is leaving to direct is the most specific answer to the overall problem of war and peace I have ever seen.

If America is to make a stab at assuming the leadership most of the western world looks to us to assume, then we'll have to know a whole lot more about our world neighbors—north, south, east and west—than we've ever known before. . . Or ever tried to know.

For the first time, it seems, somebody has awakened to the realization that we've never particularly cared to know anything about them. . . In fact, we've avoided knowing them.

Professor Cowan attended the University of Liepzig in the late '20s. . . One of his good friends was an American in the U.S. consular office there.

This consular official had been in Germany for five years. . . His chief job was to entertain American visitors, but he didn't know a word of German, even after half a decade.

Neither did anybody else in the office.

If that is to be the basis of American leadership in the world to come, I shudder to think. . . No wonder nations have learned to hate us. . . They haven't learned to know us any better than we've wanted to know them.

Up and down the land, the consensus before Pearl Harbor was that we could clean up the Japs any Wednesday afternoon.

It seems to me well high impossible that any serious-minded American official in Tokyo during the months before this war could possibly have avoided knowing what was coming. . . If he understood the Japanese.

Too few actually did. . . The Wednesday afternoons will be very long this year.

This is the kind of lackadaisical attitude toward other nations the American Council of Learned Societies seeks to correct. . . and boy how they're going to work at it.

Step up, you potential experts of Afghan and Icelandic languages. . . Here is REALLY a chance for future world leadership.

OH ME!
Loudest whistle to greet the announcement of the 1942 Iowa gridiron schedule probably came from Band Director C. B. Righter.

Last year his bandmen paraded before no less than three home crowds. . . This year the Hawkeyes play seven home games. . . Five of them come, bingo, one after another.

If you think the half-time entertainment Iowa's band puts on is a snap to prepare, drop over to Righter's office any old time and watch him parading his little wooden band men around on the board where he figures out his band routines.

And stick around until he finishes up any given routine, knowing exactly what each man will do at a given signal and where he is supposed to be, and where he is supposed to go next and what he is to do then, and afterwards.

If you aren't late to supper, I miss my guess.

On an average Saturday afternoon, the band will do four or five elaborate routines. . . Into the single performance has gone hour upon hour of advance paper preparation, and hour upon hour of actual band rehearsals.

where he is supposed to go next Saturdays, with only three rehearsals in between each one, and see where you come out.

Red Cross Field Representative Will Conduct First Aid, Water Safety Program in Iowa City

National Organization Sends Minnesota Man Here for Two Weeks

R. A. Jakoubek, Red Cross first aid life saving and accident prevention field representative will conduct lay instructor training in Red Cross first aid and water safety work here during the next two weeks.

Jakoubek is a member of the Minnesota university aquatic school faculty and served as a volunteer life saving instructor three years at Stout institute, where he gained recognition in aquatic and other recreational facilities.

His trip to Iowa City is under the auspices of the national Red Cross organization and it is estimated that the training he will give will cost that organization approximately $50 per trainee.

Jakoubek will alternate water safety and lay instructor first aid training on successive weeks. Next week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights he will hold classes in water safety beginning at 7 o'clock in the reserve library building.

The water safety course is taken in three hour periods each night until the 15 hours of training has been completed. Next week the water safety classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Persons who have received their senior life saving certificate are eligible to take the training. Any young man or woman that wishes to take the regular two year review to renew their senior life saving qualification may do so Monday night in the Reserve library building.

In the first aid work this week, Jakoubek will hold classes Tuesday and Thursday night at 7 o'clock also in the reserve library building. Next week the classes will be at the same time on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

According to Harold Briceland, first aid director in Johnson county, persons wishing to take the lay instructor training from Jakoubek must first call Briceland at his office in the field house and make application. This should be done not later than meeting time Monday night or it may be done at the meeting.

The first aid classes will meet for class work in the women's gymnasium. Each applicant must have two large triangular bandages, a pencil and the first aid standard textbook. Notebooks will not be necessary.

Briceland said that the primary purpose of the national Red Cross office in sponsoring the work by Jakoubek is to train large numbers of persons in lay instructor work so that they may, in turn, go out and teach others. There is a great need for experienced teachers in war time he said.

Before coming to Iowa City, Jakoubek conducted classes in Cedar Rapids and gave the police and fire departments there the training. He travels throughout the county doing this work.

Another lay instructor training course will be given during the early summer in order to offer the training to those who have not yet finished their advanced work.

April 15 Announced As Contest Deadline

Deadline for the annual Octave Thanet short story contest has been announced as April 15 by Prof. Paul Engle of the English department.

All entries must be in the English office by 5 p.m. The contest is open to any undergraduate in the university, and the winning writer will be awarded a $50 prize and possible publication in a future issue of "American Prefaces," university literary magazine for young writers.

Previous winners of the contest will not be eligible for this year's award.

The entries will be judged by Josephine Johnson, Professor Engle, and Katherine Shattuck, all of the English department.

Paul Hansmire Goes To Ferry-Pilot School

Paul Hansmire, primary flight instructor for the Shaw Aircraft company, has gone to the ferry-pilot training school at Cheyenne, Wyo. He is a graduate of the local CPT course. At the training school he will be given instruction in blind flying and in the flying of bimotor planes preparing for service in the ferry command.

Notice To JUNIORS

'Esquire' Honors Fletcher Martin

'Middleweight Artist' Calls SUI Instructor American to the Last

Fletcher Martin, instructor in painting at the University of Iowa during the spring and summer terms of 1941, is the subject of an article in the May issue "Esquire."

The article, entitled "Middleweight Artist," is accompanied by reproductions of four of his paintings in color.

According to Salpeter, the author, Martin has been an American life and an American career; his painting is American, but not regional.

"He has roamed all over the far West but has never lived long enough in any one part of it to become identified with it in the manner of Benton or Curry," the author writes.

"In his case, the experience of a region is only the jumping-off place for a picture which has a message and an implication, maybe a feeling and a moral, for others than those who know the place and have shared the experience."

For better or worse, his experience is a limited and insular one, the report states.

"I am an American product," the artist asserts. "What else would I paint but the things about Western America that I have seen and known?"

Fletcher Martin, "Esquire" reminds its readers, is self-made and self-taught. On his own since the age of 15, the artist has been a migratory worker in the far West, in wheat field, fruit orchard, lumber camp; and it was not until he was 23 years old, after he had completed a four-year stint in the navy, that he saw his first artist.

Uninstructed, he has covered a tremendous distance under his own power and his own capacity to study, absorb and reject influences, "Esquire" says.

The magazine reports that in regard to his teaching, Martin once told an interviewer on one of his infrequent visits to New York, "I don't believe in teaching art. It isn't something you can teach. If you're a painter you have a statement to make and you just sit down and try to make it. . . The only thing I can do is to try to keep them in a state of excitement about their work. . . If I were to teach them to paint the way I paint, I'd turn out a lot of half-baked imitations of myself."

Easter Oregon college students have formed their own air raid protection unit and first aid corps.

the event, J. Edgar Frame, director, director of the recreational center, said yesterday.

Boys and girls wishing to enter the meet, which will be held April 18 beginning at 10 o'clock at the City high football field, were asked by Frame to register at the center in person or by phone so that the number of participants will be known.

Frame announced that materials for kites would be furnished by the center and that the center's craft room will be open every afternoon after school for those who wish to build their kites there.

A Venezuelan concern has imported 100,000 silk worms and will try to develop a silk industry there.

RAF Planes Continue Raids on Nazi-France
LONDON (AP)—In one most prolonged and violent offensive of recent months, British warplanes struck in numbers yesterday at Nazi-occupied France following upon to-day's bombing raids from Italy to the German war in the industrial Ruhr.

For their part, the Gestapo reported in four including one in the north.

Three persons were killed and considerable resulted from an attack east coast town.

The English coast vibrated in the afternoon with the drumming of fighter planes in the channel toward against only weak enemy fire, and incomplete official information indicated that pattern of destruction had spread overnight.

The afternoon raiders "large scale sweep" over France and shot down one enemy plane encountered.

In that period, 10 British planes and a British fighter were acknowledged lost, indicating the scope of operations all went down over Germany and the low country one fell in the 1,500-mile trip assault against Italy.
