British Negotiating for Surrender of Madagascar

English Capture Diego Suarez Naval Base as Resistance Fails

LONDON (AP)—British troops and warships took possession yesterday of Madagascar's great naval harbor of Diego Suarez after two days of brisk fighting and began negotiating the terms of a surrender which they hoped to obtain peacefully.

This tough, quick occupation—accomplished in less than 48 hours after establishment of the first British bridgehead at a loss of around 1,000 of the British force—was announced in commons by Prime Minister Churchill, who appealed gravely to the French people thus to consider the episode:

"... A recognizable fact in the liberation of their country, including Alsace-Lorraine, from the German yoke."

He told of the surrender of the French military and naval commanders, but there was no immediate indication here as to whether the Vichy-controlled governor-general of the island, Armand Annet, had himself joined in capitulating or whether he intended to try to organize some sort of guerrilla resistance in the interior.

Brief Defense

At all events, it was regarded most likely here that in view of the spirited though brief defense the great bulk of effective French troops already had been accounted for.

What the Vichy government would now do raised the most intense interest, but late in the day there had been no sign of action from that capital.

Last night Vichy announced capitulation of Diego Suarez, and Berlin broadcast a Vichy report that the British naval units had entered the harbor at 3:30 p. m. Vichy, however, claimed resistance was continuing elsewhere on the island.

The German-controlled Paris press began calling for reprisals; there was some speculation here that Laval might take the excuse to hand over to the axis some form of naval aid—perhaps French cruisers and destroyers to the German fleet.

The conquest of Diego Suarez was accomplished by powerful British land and naval forces—commandos, marines, regular infantry, warships and planes.

This was the sequence of events announced in various official quarters here.

While British warships held frontal positions before the bay, British land forces in converging movements seized the village of Diego, the chief town of the harbor area, Antsirana, and the Diego Suarez naval base itself.

(A Japanese penetration of eastern India was claimed in a Berlin radio broadcast which gave as its source a Tokyo report. This said a Japanese column had crossed the Indian border west of Paletwa, Burma, and was within 62 miles of Chittangong, India.

(Such a thrust would be a logical corollary of an all-out campaign to knock China from the war, because it could sever the supply network of rail lines which lead from Calcutta and the rest of southeast India northeastward to the Chinese-Indian border.

G.M. Agrees to WLB Demand for Wage Contract Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—General Motors corporation capitulated yesterday to the war labor board's order for temporary extension of its wage contract, including Sunday double time payments.

Charles E. Wilson, president of a corporation with billions in war contracts, yielded with dramatic suddenness at a crowded and tense public hearing which the board called after Wilson had telegraphed, "we protest and do not agree to comply," and charged "this order was based on ex parte consideration."

For more than two hours the public and labor members of the tri-partite board pleaded, denounced and cajoled until Wilson receded from his position of non-compliance. He said finally his understanding of the board's intent had been clarified satisfactorily.

82nd Commencement Program Begins With Annual Dinner in Memorial Union

1942 Class Presents Memorial Campanile To the University

Graduates of the class of 1942 of the University of Iowa were guests at the annual Commencement supper held last night in the main lounge of Iowa Union as the opening event of the 82nd commencement program and the fourth war-time commencement since the turn of the century.

Indicative of the entire spirit of the Commencement supper was the presentation of the memorial gift of the class of 1942, a campanile to be built on the west side of the river overlooking the campus, commemorated to students who will die in our present war in order to preserve the ideals for which the university stands.

The presentation, by William V. Bell, Ed of Council Bluffs, in behalf of the graduating class to the university, was made in the form of a deed of trust to be used in the purchase of a $1,000 war bond and the balance as a student loan fund. Contributions from other sources, including $821 interest from a student loan fund established by the class of 1932, will be used in the future construction of the campanile.

President Virgil M. Hancher, in accepting the gift on behalf of the university, expressed a belief in the adequacy of present generations to defend and preserve the heritage of liberty, decency, fine ideals and the simple dignity and rights of men achieved in years past.

"I believe we shall defend this heritage to the uttermost and defend it successfully. It is our duty to preserve these things for generations to come," he declared to the graduating class.

Representing the Women

Mary Carolyn Kuever of Iowa City, representative for the women, and James Bromwell of Cedar Rapids, who spoke for the graduating class of 1942, recalled the memories of rigorous duties, the thrills and joys of the past four years and the pride in high ideals inculcated with the cloak of college education, which enabled them to face the future with calm acceptance and with heroism.

"Some of us will go forth to die gallantly, fighting to save our university, symbolic of the things we believe in, for generations to come," said Miss Kuever realizing the future through the eyes of clear-thinking graduating students.

"We must enter, within a week, a world temporarily insane," were the opening words of Bromwell. Continuing, he recognized that in the present difficult situation, students must adjust themselves to the problems of the jig saw world before them with a vision of the future and a calm dignified acceptance of life.

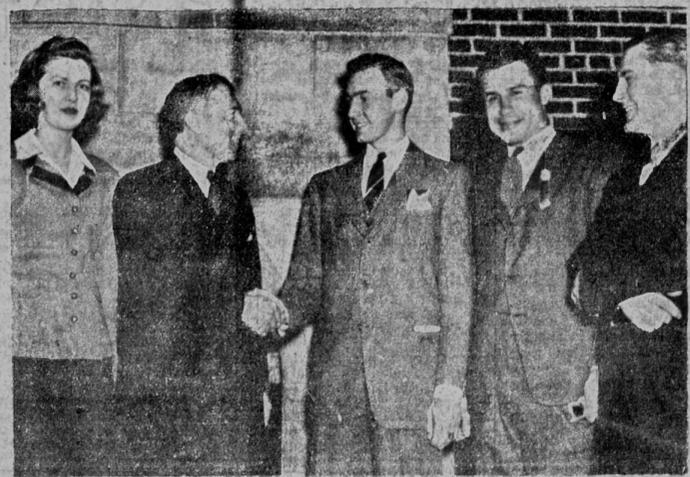

Attorney V. Craven Shuttleworth of Cedar Rapids, president of the Alumni association, welcomed the graduating members to the ranks of the association expressing a realization of its responsibilities in maintaining the high standard of ideals and traditions at the university as well as in all educational institutions.

Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the alumni service and extension division, who presided at the dinner, introduced the speakers and the class presidents of the different divisions of the university.

LIVING UNITS FOR SUMMER

All students (except married students) are required to live in units operated by the university or in other approved rooming quarters. Any deviation from this requirement should have the approval of the division of student housing.

DIVISION OF STUDENT HOUSING

Speakers on the program of the annual Commencement supper held last night in the main lounge of Iowa Union are shown in informal discussion following the dinner. From left to right are Mary Carolyn Kuever, Iowa City, who spoke for graduating women; President Virgil M. Hancher; James Bromwell of Cedar Rapids, representative of graduating men; William V. Bell of Council Bluffs, who presented the 1942 class gift to the university; and V. Craven Shuttleworth, Cedar Rapids attorney and president of the Alumni association.

Speaking in behalf of the graduating class of 1942, William V. Bell of Council Bluffs, at the Commencement supper in Iowa Union last night, presented the class memorial gift, funds to be administered by university officials for the future construction of a campanile on the west side of the river overlooking the campus. Part of the cost of construction will be drawn from other sources. The campanile will be dedicated in memory of students who give their lives in the armed forces.

British Cruiser Sunk by U-Boat Action in Arctic

LONDON (AP)—The 10,000-ton British cruiser Edinburgh was lost last week in German submarine, surface and air attacks on two British convoys plying the vital Arctic supply route to Russia, the admiralty announced last night, but despite the severity of the assaults, spread over several days, the British accomplished their mission with relatively small loss among the other naval and merchant vessels.

One attacking German destroyer was sunk and another was hit and severely damaged, and at least three nazi bombers were destroyed.

The Edinburgh was crippled by enemy torpedoes and had to be abandoned in tow and sunk by the British themselves while she was homeward bound with a convoy which already had delivered its goods. One convoyed vessel also was sunk.

The second convoy attacked was a large string of ships carrying "important war supplies" to the Russian front. Although it was attacked by repeated waves of dive-bombers and torpedo-carrying planes which sank three ships, the British nevertheless succeeded in delivering 90 per cent of their cargo, the admiralty stated.

Nazi Sub Commander Says Allied Q-Boats Attack Axis U-Boats

LONDON (AP)—A German submarine commander broadcasting over the Berlin radio said last night that the allies had launched a Q-boat campaign against axis U-boats.

Q-boats were developed during the last war to counteract the submarine menace. They were trawlers and other small craft carrying heavy arms but so concealed that the submarines were caught unawares. The commander in Berlin told of having similar experiences in this war.

His crew, the commander said, sighted a small steamer in the Atlantic off the American coast. So innocent appearing was the cargo boat, he added, that he did not think it worth while to launch a torpedo. He brought his craft to the surface planning to sink the boat by gunfire.

"When we approached the enemy to give him his death blow we were greeted with a hail of gunfire," the German officer said.

Madagascar's Defense to Continue VICHY, France (AP)—The French, acknowledging the capitulation to the British of the big Madagascar naval base of Diego Suarez, nevertheless announced last night their intention to defend "every other point" of the island.

American Forces Destroy Eight Jap Vessels Above Australia

WASHINGTON (AP)—An American naval force, intercepting a Japanese squadron apparently striking at the flank of the life line to Australia, sank eight enemy vessels, damaged four and destroyed six planes at a total United States cost of only three planes, the navy announced yesterday.

The furious sea battle, authoritatively regarded here as possibly the first in which strictly American forces have engaged the Japs in a general naval encounter, occurred last Monday in the vicinity of the Solomon islands, lying northeast of Australia and northwest of the supply route bastions of New Caledonia and the New Hebrides islands.

The naval communique reporting results of the battle also disclosed that U. S. submarines operating in the western Pacific had sunk three more Japanese ships. Thus, the enemy's total ship losses announced yesterday were 11 sunk, including seven

43 Iowa Men Sign for New Air Corps Plan

Men Accepted Into Air Force's Enlisted Reserve Announced

Lieut. Frank Kent, head of the Des Moines army aviation cadet office and member of the examining board which this week began selecting Iowa college men for the new army air force enlisted reserve, last night announced the names of 43 men who have enlisted to date in Iowa City.

Headquarters of the board is in the northeast basement of the medical laboratories building. The board plans to leave Iowa City tomorrow noon and all men who have qualified either physically or mentally or both are asked to report to the board before that time.

After this week students who wish to apply for the enlisted reserve will take physical and mental examinations at the air corps headquarters in Des Moines.

The army air force enlisted reserve, inaugurated a month ago, is a plan for enlisting college and university men throughout America and permitting them to complete their college courses before they are ordered to active duty as aviation cadets.

The goal is the enlistment of 100,000 qualified young men, predominantly present students of universities and colleges, as a backlog of manpower for future officer training.

Grain Traffic Halted On the Great Lakes

WASHINGTON (AP)—To assure a continuing flow of iron ore from the mines to war production centers, the office of defense transportation yesterday forbade grain shipments over the Great Lakes except by special permission.

The agency took control of some 340 ships suited to ore carrying and a number of others used for carrying scrap, coal and grain. The order becomes effective May 15.

Forestall New Nazi Attempt to Get Spring Attacks Under Way

MOSCOW (AP)—The red army, making what appeared to be the strongest attack in many weeks to break the long siege of Leningrad, was reported last night to have driven a wedge between two German armies, encircled one Nazi detachment in an important sector and wiped out several centers of resistance in the bogs west of Russia's second city.

Thus, said Soviet dispatches, the Germans not only were forestalled in their attempts to get spring attacks under way with fresh reserves, but had been forced to retreat from a number of winter vantage points.

A road which had united the northern and southern sections of the besieging force was cut, the Russians said, by the capture of a junction point which the Germans had held all winter. (It appeared this might be Krasnogvardeisk, 20 miles south of Leningrad.)

In one sector a Russian detachment was reported to have broken into German fortifications, captured a series of German pillboxes and repulsed all counter-attacks.

In the same area, German units were reported cut off from their bases by floods in the low-lying terrain; Soviet artillery fire and night raids forced evacuation of the posts, which the Germans had held for months.

Allies Score Great Sea Victory Over Japanese Near Australia

AUSTRALIA—

Japanese ships including 12 war vessels.

The Solomon islands action compensated to a considerable extent for the American-British-Dutch losses in the great battle of the Java sea in late February when the allies lost 13 warships and the Japanese had seven sunk or damaged.

The exact nature of the battle in the Solomons was not shown by the navy's communique, which was restricted to a relation of results obtained. A fuller account, officers said, must await later reports from the Pacific.

But on the basis of what the communiqué indicated, naval experts said the Solomons action appeared to have been a large scale sea battle between strictly American and Japanese forces and since results were so clearly known to the Americans it may have occurred in daylight. The use of the term "naval engagement," it was said, definitely meant that American surface ships as well as aircraft had participated.

The battle was regarded as having high strategic importance because of its relation to the vital necessity of keeping open the supply line to Australia. A Japanese attack on some of the allied bastions protecting the line had been expected for several days.

Only last week there were reports that an enemy force of considerable size was gathering in the Mandated islands area especially the Marshall islands, which lie several hundred miles east of the Solomons. Whether the force engaged May 4 was part of that fleet or a screening squadron was not clear.

From its position in the Solomons, however, experts here said that it appeared to be thrusting out for island stepping-stones to New Caledonia, where United States troops recently joined the defending Free French force, or to the New Hebrides, farther to the east.

There was speculation that the American ships involved were organized as a task force of the kind that on three known occasions had struck at the enemy in the Pacific. First of these occasions was the raid on the Marshall and Gilbert islands when 16 ships and 41 planes were destroyed in a surprise raid.

Another American Naval Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lieut. John D. Bulkeley and three fellow torpedo boat officers, who spirited

General Douglas MacArthur away from Corregidor, reported in person yesterday that their mission to the Philippines had been completed at the cost of Emperor Hirohito of four ships, including a cruiser, four planes and two armored landing boats.

The Long Island City, N. Y. hero of the dashing little PT boats related in a matter-of-fact way how on one occasion they came upon a heavily armored enemy cruiser in the dead of night. Result: "The ship sank completely in approximately 20 minutes."

The lethal boats found Japanese armored landing craft attempting to sneak up behind General Jonathan M. Wainwright's men. Result: "We let 50 Japanese drown after one boat sank because they opened fire first and wounded one of our officers."

"We took two prisoners, a Japanese captain and a private. The captain was on his knees, his hands in the air, crying: 'Me surrender! Me surrender!'"

Ocean-going vessels can ascend the Amazon river 2,300 miles.
