Nazis Start Crimean Drive

Chinese Hold Jap Push in Check

German Legions Lunge Against Red Units on Kerch Peninsula

Enemy Troop Units Caught In Huge Trap

Chinese Forces Break Strong Jap Assault Along Salween River

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Japanese enemy's thrust into China proper from Burma appeared last night still to be held in check about the scene of his earlier defeat and the resulting improvement in the general allied position was accompanied by a reorganization of the big British-Indian armies into powerful and mobile forces ready to deal with any attempted invasion of India.

Jap Column Broken

Chungking announced that the Chinese lines which had broken a Japanese column thrusting into the Yunnan province along the Burma road had enveloped the surviving enemy troops and were strongly holding the trap. Meanwhile, there was heavy and inconclusive fighting with Japanese reinforcements which had been thrown into the area in an effort to go to the relief of the entrapped force.

Moreover, the precarious nature of the enemy's hold on Burma itself was illustrated by Chinese reports that three strong Japanese assaults in the Loloim sector on the Salween river—this 250 miles below the Yunnan fighting—had been broken by a Chinese force which had been by-passed in the rapid Japanese thrust to the China frontier.

The one unfavorable development to the allies in the whole of the Burma campaign lay in the acknowledgement that Bhamo, the alternate terminal of the old Burma road 170 miles northeast of Mandalay, and Myittha, 250 miles north of Mandalay, had been occupied by the Japanese.

In interior China, in Western Shantung and southern Hopei province, the arena of struggle against much older Japanese invasions, Chungking reported that a seven-day Japanese offensive involving 20,000 enemy troops had been defeated.

Easterners Register For Gasoline Today

OPA Says Motorists Will Still Be Able To Drive to Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the eve of registration for gasoline rationing in 17 eastern states, the office of price administration emphasized that every motorist who customarily drives to work will get enough gasoline to continue to do so.

Apparent misunderstanding on this score had caused "a heck of a lot" of inquiries from worried motorists who use their cars for business or in driving to and from their jobs, OPA officials said.

They sought to put these fears at rest by assurance that "B" ration cards—rather than the basic "A" card, which gives a driver three gallons weekly from May 15 to July 1—would be issued to provide the needed motor fuel.

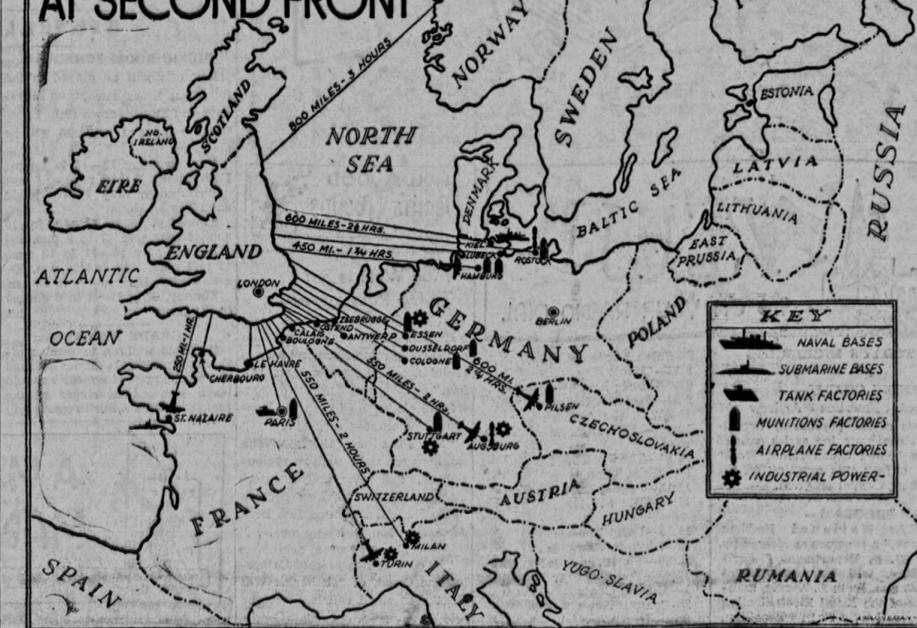

School teachers and other volunteer registrars who will conduct the registration of more than 8,000,000 automobile and boat owners at elementary school houses today, tomorrow and Thursday, will ask questions as to whether motorists have made all possible use of car pooling and other gasoline-saving measures. However, they will be guided by the motorist's statement of his actual vocational driving mileage.

The quantity of gasoline his "B" card will permit him to buy will be fixed on the basis of that mileage.

2 U.S. Tankers Torpedoed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two medium sized United States merchant vessels have been torpedoed off the Atlantic coast, the navy announced yesterday.

HOW RAF POUNDS AT 'SECOND FRONT'

Here's a concise map of the second front created by the R.A.F. bombing assaults on Germany and its satellite countries. It lists the key Nazi centers attacked, approximate mileage and flying time from secret British air bases. The actual flying time and mileage involved in the numerous and almost continuous raids varies due to the weight of the loads carried by the big planes, flying conditions and the bombing strategy employed.

Key German Radio Station Near Paris Blasted as Sabotage Wave Breaks Out

War Department Official Asserts U.S. Must Ready Itself for 'Token Air Raid'

CLEVELAND (AP)—The army's recent raid of Tokyo showed that Japan apparently had "no internal defense against psychological warfare, no linking of national effort to combat panic," Col. R. Ernest Dupuy of the war department's bureau of public relations declared yesterday.

"Some day we are going to get a token air raid," Colonel Dupuy added. "Its objective will be the production of fear, panic and uncertainty in the minds of our people. Are we going to play it like soldiers, or are we going to cackle and squawk on the air like barnyard hens when a hawk flies over?"

Addressing the National Association of Broadcasters, Colonel Dupuy recounted details of the Tokyo raid:

"The bombers who performed that task winged their way in broad daylight, riding the radio beam of a Japanese station which at that time was broadcasting a little rhapsody on the scenic beauties of Japan, nestling peacefully in the assurance that it could never be bombed. Suddenly he went off the air. The radio monitor in the bomber formation heard the Jap announcer scream 'enemy bombers coming!' coming fast, many bombers!"

"As the bomb sticks whirled down, this Nip announcer kept on the job. Screaming in high-pitched panic, he called our shots in a play-by-play description, noted the fires caused, shouted casualty bulletins. Our ships received the fullest information that anyone could want, on their accomplishments."

Jap Destroyer, 2 Cargo Ships Sunk by Subs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Destruction of a Japanese destroyer and two cargo vessels by United States submarines operating in the western Pacific was announced yesterday by the navy department.

A terse communique gave no details of these latest blows at the enemy's tenuous supply lines, except to emphasize that they were not "related to the recent engagement in the Coral sea."

One of the cargo vessels was described as a naval craft, presumably a fleet auxiliary, and the other simply as a medium sized cargo ship. The report on these sinkings raised to 42 the number of Japanese ships of all types sunk by American undersea craft. In addition, 12 have been announced as probably sunk and 11 as damaged.

Five Miners Killed In Arkansas Explosion

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Five miners were killed and two others were seriously injured in an explosion at the Peerless Coal company mine at Excelsior, 15 miles southwest of here late yesterday.

Masts, Pylons Totally Ruined By Explosion

Coincides With Hints Of German-French Military Collaboration

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Saboteurs have wrecked Radio Paris, the key propaganda station for Nazi Germany in occupied France and the station is silent for the first time since the Germans marched into Paris nearly two years ago, the London Daily Mail reported from the French frontier today.

"The giant masts and pylons at Bourges, 130 miles south of Paris, were destroyed by a gigantic dynamite explosion Saturday," the dispatch said.

"Take Weeks to Repair" "Reports reaching here from Bourges declared the damage will take weeks to repair. Masts, pylons and aerials were shattered and twisted. Transmitting and relaying machinery was wrecked."

The station had not been heard in London for two days. Reports of the wrecking of Radio Paris were received at the same time as private advices from the continent that the famous old Paris restaurant Marguery, on the boulevard Bonne-Nouvelle, had been dynamited.

Several were reported killed in the Marguery, but the extent of the damage was not known.

Persistent Rumors These acts of violence coincided with persistent rumors of imminent military collaboration between Vichy and the axis.

Stockholm heard that a high German personage, presumably Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, was in Paris negotiating with French collaborationists, and Swedish correspondents in Berlin hinted that Vichy was facing important decisions on its relations with the allied powers—i. e., the United States—and with Germany.

Officials Negotiating To Prevent Axis Use Of French Outposts

No Disclosure Yet About Conferences On Martinique Island

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiations for an effective safeguard against axis use of French Caribbean possessions continued last night on Martinique.

There was no official word, however, as to the reaction of Admiral Georges Robert, French high commissioner, to the American proposal laid before him Saturday by an American mission, and no official disclosure as to details of the "arrangement" sought by the United States.

Vichy's ambassador, Gaston Henry-Haye, called at the state department shortly before noon, and, after an hour's conversation with Secretary of State Hull, told newspapermen he hoped the negotiations with Admiral Robert would result in a satisfactory solution.

He indicated he had come to discuss the situation with Hull, not to deliver a formal protest from his government. He declined to comment on the nature of the American proposal and added:

"The less I say today, the better. I am trying to avoid complication by refraining from commentaries which might interfere with adjustment of a delicate problem."

Secretary Hull had no comment on the trend of his conversation with Henry-Haye. He was asked at his press conference whether the United States had notified other American republics before sending the mission to Martinique, and replied that there was no phase of the situation as yet that would call for such notification.

There was no confirmation here of Berlin reports that the United States had "demanded" demilitarization of French warships at Martinique and establishments of United States garrisons there. State department officials refused to comment on the reports.

Cocoa Processing Slashed 30 Per Cent

WPB Says Shipping Space Allotments Cut Below Normal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The War Production Board yesterday made a clean sweep of the nation's favorite breakfast beverages yesterday, cutting cocoa processing about 30 per cent after previously curtailing tea consumption 50 per cent and coffee drinking by 25.

All three of these products are imported from the hot countries and their imports are subject to the hazards of war and the shortage of cargo ships.

WPB said the shipping space allotted to cocoa beans—the raw material for such delectables as chocolate bars, candy, cocoa and hot fudge sundaes—was cut to 20 per cent of normal for the rest of this year. The beans come mainly from the African gold and ivory coasts and from Brazil.

This country, whose citizens consume about 15 pounds of candy and confectionery pieces each year, is the world's largest user of cocoa beans.

70 Axis Planes Hit Over Malta

VALLETTA, Malta (AP)—Aided by reinforcements flown in from Egypt, the RAF joined ground batteries in destroying or damaging 70 axis aircraft over Malta since Saturday midnight, a record bag, British headquarters announced last night.

Twenty-five raiders were knocked down for sure, 20 more were listed as probables and 25 were damaged.

In Sunday's fighting alone the island's defenders accounted for 66 enemy craft—42 of them listed as knocked down or probably destroyed and 21 damaged. Fighters shot down three more yesterday and damaged four.

The RAF, striking back with equal and sometimes superior forces, clearly dominated the week end fighting over the island. In the 48 hours ending Sunday midnight, the RAF lost only three fighters.

Enemy Sea Losses Rise to 23 Ships

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, TUESDAY (AP)—Allied bombers struck two more Japanese transports and straddled a large tanker with explosives in the islands above Australia yesterday after last week's repulse of the enemy fleet in the Coral sea.

General MacArthur's headquarters announced today. This brought to 23 and perhaps 24 the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged in about a week's time by allied naval-air operations in the southwest Pacific.

The two transports, the communique said, were hit in the Solomon islands, and the tanker at Deboyne Island, in the Louisiana archipelago.

In addition to the tanker a four-motored Japanese seaplane was believed to have been damaged, and stores and buildings ashore were hit squarely.

Move Appears to Be 1st Major Offensive of Hitler's Long Awaited Spring Drive Toward Caucasus Oil Fields

MOSCOW, Tuesday (AP)—The first big nazi spring thrust began yesterday in the eastern Crimea with a lunge toward Kerch, a key peninsular point along the shortest possible hop to the Soviet's Caucasian oil riches, the Russians announced at midnight.

"During May 11 in the Kerch peninsula," the communique said, "our troops waged stubborn battles against the German fascist troops who had taken the offensive."

This departure from the customary "nothing to report" phrase indicated the Germans had begun a large scale movement toward the oil fields so heavily prized by Adolf Hitler that he has expended uncounted thousands of lives in previous efforts to get them.

Thus, as many observers including the Soviet military leaders, had expected, the Germans' main effort appears to be directed at smashing across the narrow Kerch peninsula not only to grab the rich fuel deposits but also to be in a position to turn the allied middle eastern flank in another oil kingdom, Iran.

The Crimea was the first sector of the Russian front to shake off the paralyzing winter which aided in thwarting the Germans' drive toward Moscow last November.

When I traveled through the Caucasus in mid-April the terrain already was hard and dry—ready again to provide a footing for the nazis' mechanized might and the challenging iron monsters marshalled by the Soviets.

But the Germans have had two deterrents on the Crimea front—the fact that the Russians are so firmly entrenched in the town of Kerch after hurrying the nazis out of the area last December, and the fact that the Russian defenders of Sevastopol have put up such a heroic battle to hold that important Soviet port at the southwestern end of the island.

The Crimea front also was the scene of a reported German introduction of poison gas. That happened for the first time in the war last Thursday, the official agency Tass said, and this report probably weighed in Prime Minister Winston Churchill's solemn warning Sunday when he said that Britain would counter with the same "odious weapon" should the nazis use it as on Russia.

As far as chemical warfare is concerned, the Russians themselves are believed amply prepared for the counter-use of poison gas should they decide that the Germans intend really to apply it on anything save an experimental scale.

Long before Germany crashed into Poland, Russian military leaders warned they would use "buckets of gas" on any enemy who (See RUSSIAN, page 6)

Chicago Movie Killer On Trial for Murder

CHICAGO (AP)—Clarence McDonald, 17, went on trial yesterday on a charge of murdering his beautiful high school sweetheart in a loop movie house but proceedings were interrupted by an argument over his sanity.

A jury was being selected when Attorney Donald D. Rogers stated the defense would seek to show that debonair youth was insane when he shot 17 year old Dorothy Broz to death and that he was insane now.

Powerful New Indian Armies Take Positions

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Britain's commander in India, General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, was disclosed last night to have reorganized the three Indian military commands into powerful and competent mobile armies to meet land or sea attack from the Japanese on eastern or southern India.

With the Japanese still reported marshalling a Bengal invasion fleet at Rangoon, and with only the gallant but exhausted force of General Harold Alexander standing between the enemy and the northern gate to India, Wavell upset the 100-year-old Indian military policy by which the strongest imperial forces were held on the northwest frontier.

His primary purpose was, however, to divorce the administrative functions of the army from the fighting units so that the defense along the coast and the eastern and northern frontiers would become the sole function of the fighting forces.

Three army commands were created—northeast, south and northwest. The vast central area will be administered under the central India command, whose major function will be to train new defense forces.

Most of the trained British and Indian troops are now expected to be concentrated in the armies of the northeast and south. No change in command was involved.

Other defense preparations of an undisclosed nature increased as the Japanese persisted in their action on India proper, and while Alexander's Burma army continued its retreat up the Chindwin river valley of northwest Burma.

In the theater of the Indian ocean, the best available information here indicated that the British forces which seized the naval harbor of Diego Suarez on the Vichy French island of Madagascar were continuing occupation of other important points on the island.

Vichy radio reports were to the effect that resistance continued, but this was assumed to refer only to the action of small, isolated French units.

Wavell Reorganizes 3 Military Commands Into Mobile Forces

Wartime Lapse in Examination Might Be Good for Peacetime

One thing the war has done for university students has been to give relief from final examinations. With the last-minute rush of the final school week, many a student is skeptical of the implied values, but scholastically it may well have proved to have sound values.

The old headache of night-long cramming, with coke, coffee, cigarette and aspirin accessories, and the medieval torture of alarms going off at 3 a. m. are still a vital part of the educational system. Burning dorm lights at night are silent proof that the college student is incorrigible.

But the casual sounding of opinion from the students is agreed on a point. That is, that the semester, despite increased heavy assignments and the lack of vacation and other aspects of acceleration, has been less of a headache and more of a value without the old final exams.

Most students seem to feel that with final grades depending on daily work and periodic tests, work was done more consistently and thoroughly through the total semester. Rather than letting work slip until the last minute and cramming it in during the last two weeks, students kept up with their assignments. There was no depending upon a good grade in the final to carry them through courses.

That seems to be a healthy attitude.

Though term papers were being completed in the wee small hours all this week, and some students crammed for hour exams, the intensity was not the same. The old spirit had "died in the night." There was less worrying, less nervous strain, a little less griping.

It may be that the war-time measure would make a good peace-time custom.

A Crusade for the Underdogs, Faculty Chaperons at Parties

Newspapers are always taking up crusades for the underdog, and perhaps it is in keeping that The Iowan should express some sympathy to one of the campus' perennial underdog groups.

We feel sure we speak for a large number of university students, when we say we feel sorry for the faculty. The times when we feel most sorry for them are the times when we are having a good time ourselves—at university parties and dances.

You see them standing along the walls, sitting in forlorn little groups by themselves, socially ostracized, damned perpetually by a campus custom to the bore of chaperoning. Didn't you ever feel a twinge of pity for them as you whirled by on the dance floor of the Union? Didn't you ever wish that they were having a good time too?

We're not suggesting that we outlaw chaperones—heaven forbid! On the one hand it might be a favor to so release the faculty from their bondage, but on the other, that is a negative attack. The above "campus custom" that is to be denounced is the habit of student ostracism of their poor chaperones.

On many campuses the faculty are the life of the party (no lessons needed). Why? Because the students have graciously condescended to take them into their own party spirit. We have been on campuses where at every party every chaperon had a dance program filled out with student names. A bore for the students? They loved it. A bore for the chaperons? They came clamoring for dances to be exchanged, because—faculty are fun!

Only a short time ago a university professor exclaimed with regret in a classroom (and with some wistfulness) how a dance program was now only a symbol of a by-gone day, on which the dotted lines were but vestigial marks of former use.

Students on this campus could make pals of their profs at parties, too. Isn't that a positive attack to relieve oppression? Feeding the faculty tea and cakes at intermission isn't enough: once in a while they'd like to dance with a pretty girl too! (They've said so.)

War Program More Staggering

News Behind THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Un-Dreamed-Of Billions Added To Victory Spending Campaign

WASHINGTON—Mr. Roosevelt has been getting ready to ask congress for another war appropriation of $36,000,000,000 which will bring the victory program to the unbelievable total of $195,000,000,000.

This is six times as much money as there was in the United States last year in all the banks, treasury, or pocketbooks. It represents about two-thirds of the national wealth of the country, as calculated by the census bureau, back in 1922 ($320,800,000,000).

It is five times as much as the federal debt accumulated through the entire history of the country, even after it was doubled during the new deal era before December 7. It is the greatest expenditure ever conceived in the mind of man.

Figures Never Seen Before

You may not be interested in figures, but you will be interested in these, because you have never seen anything like them before. At the moment we are spending at a rate of $40,000,000,000 a year. This is nearly as much as Britain and Germany together are spending.

Germany's outlay is hard to calculate, because it is involved in fictitious mark values and low slave-labor costs. Disregarding these incalculable factors, Mr. Roosevelt's economists figure the nazis are spending $25,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000.

Britain is spending only half as much as we are today. Their war production is running not more than $20,000,000,000.

The German production, however, is coming out in ready-to-ship form, whereas a very small percentage of our expenditures represents this finished fighting form of equipment so far.

A relatively large amount of our iron and steel is going into the building of factories, or ships to carry equipment to faraway fronts, whereas the nazi factories have long been finished and they do not need ships to get their stuff to the front. Also Hitler has built up large inventories of war materials and has an edge in that respect—for the moment.

sixth of it, around $30,000,000,000. The total for this year will be about $55,000,000,000 or 25 per cent of it. Next year will come the peak when we will put out $75,000,000,000, and by that time the money will represent a much greater percentage of ready-to-ship goods.

Britain Would Go Socialist

An American, back from London, is telling the strange tale that the British public would vote for socialism today if represented with the choice between that and its own capitalistic democracy.

He may be exaggerating, but what he says is at least partly verified by recent news accounts from London concerning the popularity of the Cripps kind of socialist politician.

How anyone could fight for democracy and embrace the opposite while doing so is a question that remains to be answered. The only answer the American had is that the average citizen of Britain has respect for Russia's war effort, and red toughness, solely because of what the Russians have been able to do to the nazi military machine.

The British people might as well have respect for vast Russian distances, because it was these that had as much to do with the nazi setback as the political form of arbitrary socialism practiced by the Stalin regime—in fact, more.

What solidified Russia was not the form of government. Stalin had never been able to get unity that way in peace, as is proved by the small number of party members among the total population. Russia was patriotically unified only by the treacherous nazi attack.

But people jump to quick and foolish conclusions in the excitement of war, especially people who have gained so few victories as the British. What they need apparently is a little fighting, and less politicking at home, a few successes on the field of battle to dispel their black political dreaming.

When these come along, as they surely must, Britain popular discontent, manifesting itself now in such a peculiar way, will evaporate.

China Is Jap's Best Bet

The move they are best prepared to make is the concentration to knock China out of the war. Before Corregidor fell, they had shifted 100,000 troops, half of their Philippine forces, back to the Burma front. The other half now can be more easily transported to Hongkong-Canton, or to the Yangtze river front, than to any other prospective battle line.

The Chinese are not well fitted to resist. Lack of artillery and air power has prevented them from taking much advantage of the weakness in the Japanese lines on their front since December 7. Now, with the Burma road cut, they are ill-prepared to face the fury of a final Japanese concentration.

Kay Kyser Gets His Home Cooking

NEW YORK—Hereditarily being stronger than environment (all claims to the contrary notwithstanding) your old pal Kay Kyser has yielded to the yen for home cooking—this after more than a decade on the road—and has hired a house in the New Jersey countryside for his month's stay at the Meadowbrook, near Cedar Grove. His mother has come up from Rocky Mount, N. C. to join him, and they say the fragrance of turnip greens, baked hams, turkey, fried chicken and sweet potato pie has been wafted on the breeze over an area of five counties. I aim to be getting over that way myself in a few days and will report on same upon my return.

The Erie railroad passenger cars have a nice little sign these days, but to me it seems slightly misplaced. This sign says: "When Air Raid Warning Comes, Be Calm. . . Keep Away From Open Windows. . . And Don't Reach for the Telephone."

You should have seen the expressions on people's faces when the regular Army "took over" Grand Central Station during those maneuvers, the other night. Without warning the Army moved in. . . Armed to the teeth. . . This movement was coordinated with the police force and the State Guard. . . When the alert came the guard mobilized, then relieved the troops of the regular Army who moved on to more pressing assignments. The motive of the alert was to see how quickly vital or key points to the city could be manned by troops. When the Army arrived the people in the station hardly knew what to think. You couldn't blame them. They didn't know whether the enemy had arrived at Hoboken in force, or whether Goering's Raiders were expected.

There used to be a place on 45th street that made history in more ways than one during the prohibition era. A speakeasy—so many of the present day restaurants were then—where you could be a somebody before you could even buy a glass of beer (for $1). This spot was lucky enough to escape the shootings that were prevalent then, and when repeal came, its good name intact, it opened as a restaurant. On night I dropped by there with Walter Juardell, a newspaperman now in South America. At one table were four men, and on the wall were their pictures. . . These men were leading figures in the theatrical and sports world. Last night, more out of curiosity, I went there again. Only two customers were having dinner. The same waiters, grown old, were standing around. Those four pictures were still there, and I noticed that they had been turned to the wall. You didn't have to ask why. All four were dead. They were Osgood Perkins, Florenz Ziegfeld, John McGraw, and Rudolph Valentino.

Dr. Harry J. Moore Of Waterloo Performs Single Ring Ceremony

In a single ring ceremony Eleanor Hyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hyke of Waterloo, was married Sunday evening to Dr. Lloyd J. Gugle, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gugle, 229 N. Gilbert. The wedding took place at 8 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church with Dr. Harry J. Moore of the Westminster Presbyterian church in Waterloo, officiating.

Tall candles and large baskets of pink and yellow gladioli and snapdragons decorated the church. Preceding the ceremony Esther Zeller of Iowa City sang "O Promise Me" and "At Dawning."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white chiffon fashioned with long sleeves and a sweet-heart neckline. A Windsor coronet held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of johanna hill roses. A diamond and pearl lavelier was her only jewelry.

Attending the couple were Alma Hannon of Geneseo, Ill., and Dr. Paul Morgan of Creston. Miss Hannon was dressed in a blue chiffon gown and wore a shoulder length veil held by sweetheart roses. She carried a colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Hyke wore a navy sheer suit trimmed in white with blue accessories. Mrs. Gugle's dress was of powder blue mesh with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the private dining room of Iowa Union. With the wedding cake as the centerpiece, the table was decorated in a color scheme of pink, blue and white. One hundred people attended the reception. Hostesses were Louise Zimmerman of Waterloo and Johanna Thiessen of Sutherland. Pouring were Mrs. Edward G. Andrews of Waterloo and Mrs. Omar T. Pace of Iowa City.

Non-Resident Guests Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William Beshoar of Burnettsville, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Parke Webster of Monticello, Ind.; Mrs. Zelah Amick of Chicago; Mrs. Fred Perry of Loganport, Ind.; Mrs. Eversley Larr of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Everett Stuart and Mary Alice Brown of Rockfield, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stokka of Ames.

For traveling the bride wore a brown suit with dusty pink accessories. Following a short trip the couple will be at home at 423 S. Dodge.

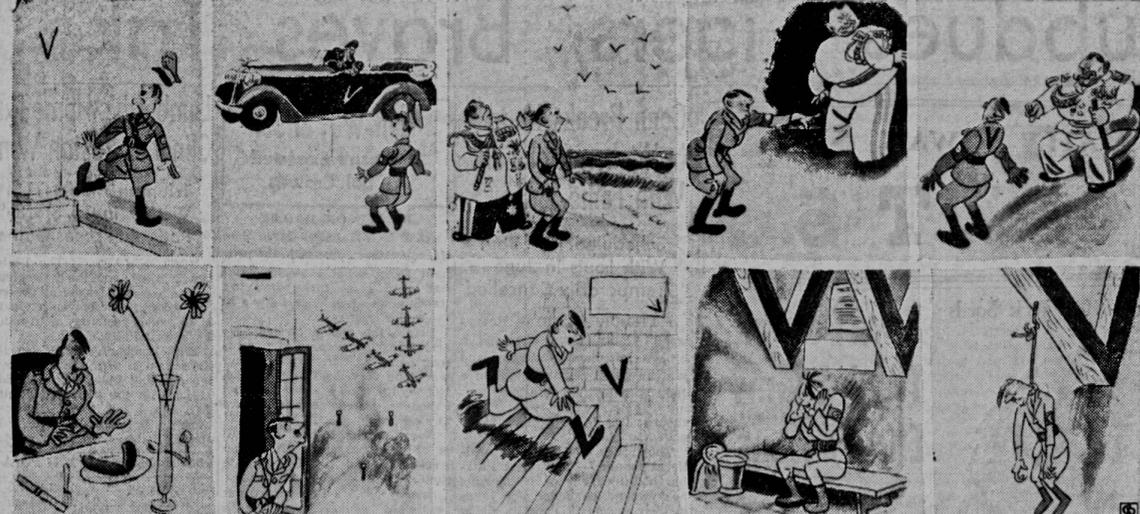

Mrs. Gugle was graduated from the school of nursing Sunday. Dr. Gugle was graduated from the college of medicine Sunday and will begin his internship in Cleveland July 1.

Mrs. Watters was graduated from Boone high school and junior college. She received her B.S. degree from the school of commerce in the university here. She was a member of Phi Gamma Nu commerce sorority.

Mr. Watters was graduated from North high school in Des Moines and received his B. A. degree from the State University of Iowa. He is a senior in the college of dentistry at the university and is affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Psi Omega dental fraternity.

The couple is at home at 22 N. Gilbert.

ENGLAND'S 'COLONEL BRITTON' HOPES TO DRIVE NAZIS NUTZIE WITH THESE CARTOONS

Not all the visiting cards left by the R. A. F. in occupied countries of Europe are explosive. Pictured above are samples of the "V for Victory" cartoons that are being used by the mysterious "Colonel Britton" to maintain morale among conquered peoples and make laughing stocks of Nazi leaders. They are dropped by British planes. Whether they fall in France, Norway, Poland or elsewhere, they need no translation; each cartoon tells its story without words.

44,158 Degrees Given By University of Iowa Since 1st Convocation

A total of 44,158 degrees have been awarded by the University of Iowa, Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the alumni service, announced following the 82nd commencement Sunday. First convocation of the university was held in 1858.

Professor Mahan said that 32,585 persons have been awarded one degree; 5,130, two degrees; 487, three degrees; 22, four degrees, and five won five degrees. Eighty-five persons who are not Iowa alumni hold honorary degrees, out of 117 honorary degrees conferred. Latest recipient is W. R. Boyd, chairman of the finance committee of the state board of education, who received an LL.D. degree Sunday for 33 years of service to education in Iowa.

Jane Elaine Davis Wed to Hugh Watters

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Jane Elaine Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Davis of Boone, and Hugh S. Watters, son of Dr. and Mrs. Philip J. Watters of Des Moines. The wedding took place Sept. 13 in the First Methodist church in Canton, Mo.

Mrs. Watters was graduated from Boone high school and junior college. She received her B.S. degree from the school of commerce in the university here. She was a member of Phi Gamma Nu commerce sorority.

Mr. Watters was graduated from North high school in Des Moines and received his B. A. degree from the State University of Iowa. He is a senior in the college of dentistry at the university and is affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Psi Omega dental fraternity.

The couple is at home at 22 N. Gilbert.

Text of 82nd Commencement Address

President Virgil Hancher Stresses Importance Of War-Time Education

President Virgil M. Hancher delivered the following charge to the candidates of the University of Iowa's 82nd annual commencement ceremony Sunday afternoon.

Once again it falls to my lot to deliver "The Charge to the Candidates," and to wish you God-speed on this important day in your lives and in ours.

In a few moments you and I will be fellow alumni of the same Alma Mater. To that great company of loyal men and women I welcome you. Wherever the fortunes of war and peace may take you, I trust that your thoughts will often return to the walks and towers, and to the hills and valley and river that you know so well. I trust that you will often remember this intellectual home where your horizons were first lifted to take in the whole world.

War-time Education To those who question the need for a University education in war time, I would point out that the competition of the armed services to enlist University men is sufficient evidence that the work we have been doing, is highly important to the war effort, and that the education and training of succeeding classes will be equally important. We shall continue to maintain the standards exacted of you, and we hope to demand and obtain from those who follow you an even higher standard of performance.

The purpose of all this to prepare you and them for a world which now experiences the violent shocks of war and which later must experience the less painful adjustments of reconstruction. We must not expect that the cessation of war will bring an end to our problems.

We indulged ourselves with that fond hope in 1918, and with almost fatal consequences. In violation of all the experience of recorded history, we assumed that, upon the cessation of war, the world would somehow move steadily and irresistibly to higher levels of economic, social and spiritual well-being without conscious effort and direction on our part.

We acknowledge now what we refused to believe then—that there are evil forces in the world which must be met and resisted; that, if the world is to move to higher levels, it will be because strong men devote conscious effort and direction to that purpose, and enlist the support of loyal followers.

Fate of the World We do not know the kind of world in which we shall live after the war, but we do know that many things will be altered. Britain, purged of her lethargy and tried by suffering, may exhibit a revival of power and leadership. If Russia shall survive the next six months, she may emerge from this war the most powerful nation in the world. If China shall survive, her enormous man power will loom large in the postwar world. India is rousing from her long dependence on Britain.

Whatever the outcome of this war, there will be a new Asia and a new and different world. If the United States is to have a place of leadership in that postwar world, it must be because she is fit to lead, and not otherwise.

You, the Class of 1942, must and will play well your part in the war and in the reconstruction that follows the war. You have acted with courage and calmness and intelligence thus far. You will continue to do so. You will continue to do so, because what you do, from this day, will not depend alone on what you know; it will depend on the things in which you believe, on the things in which you have faith.

On the Sunday following Easter, the service in the church which I attend contained these words from the third Epistle General of St. John: "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." I repeat these words to you

D. Edwards Named To Head USO Drive

Dwight Edwards, general manager of the Iowa Water Service Co., was named to head the Johnson county United Service Organization drive.

Although the national USO campaign started yesterday, the local drive will be organized and ready to start early in June, it was stated by Edwards.

The main purpose of the USO is to give Americans in the armed services a social and home life. The coming drive will be the second in Iowa City. The first campaign was about a year ago. The county's quota is $6,000 of the national quota of $32,000,000.

Two Winning Speakers In National Contest To Be Named Sunday

Announcement of winners on the national radio debate sponsored by the American Economic Foundation last Sunday will be made next Sunday on the "Wake Up, America" forum broadcast.

Howard Thompson, A3 of Cedar Falls, represented the University of Iowa in the intercollegiate contest. Prizes of $1,000 and $500 will be awarded to two of the four speakers.

Judges at radio stations sponsoring the blue network forum, and the studio audience at the New York station where Thompson broadcast will decide the winners.

Corinne Loffswold, Gordon Montgomery Repeat Nuptial Vows

Corinne Loffswold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Loffswold of Sioux City, was married yesterday morning to Gordon Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Montgomery, 629 Iowa. The wedding took place at 9 o'clock in the St. Paul's Lutheran church with the Rev. L. C. Wuerffel officiating.

Music during the ceremony consisted of "Hymnus" (Bruce and Stern); the wedding march from the opera "Lohengrin" (Wagner); and "Wedding March" (Mendelssohn), and "Pastorale" (Rogers). White candles, ferns and white flowers decorated the church.

The bride wore a two piece navy sheer crepe made with an Irish lace jabot and bracelet length sleeves. With this she had navy accessories. Her corsage was of red roses and lilies of the valley.

Alice Montgomery and Richard Loffswold attended the couple. Miss Montgomery was dressed in a seafair print with a linen jacket. Her accessories were of luggage color and she wore a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Loffswold wore a luggage and white sheer print with luggage accessories. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a gown of navy and white sheer and navy accessories. Both mothers had corsages of gardenias.

Wedding Breakfast Following the wedding a breakfast was held at Iowa Union. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery of St. Louis and Alice Montgomery of Madison, S. D.

Mrs. Montgomery was graduated from East high school in Sioux City and from Brian Cliff college in Sioux City. She is affiliated with Alpha Delta Kappa sorority. The bridegroom was graduated from East high school in Sioux City and from the University of Iowa Sunday.

After May 18 the couple will be at home at 221 S. Gilbert.

Les Fleming Clouts 3-Run Homer in 9th

Heving Pitches Ninth, Wins Second Victory; Detroit Losses Lead

CLEVELAND (AP)—Les Fleming's three-run homer in the ninth inning yesterday climaxed an uphill battle for the Cleveland Indians and gave them an 8 to 5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The rookie first baseman's circuit clout punched across the winning runs after an eighth-inning tribal scoring spree that netted five runs to tie up the ball game.

The victory put the Indians a full game ahead of the Tigers, and one and one-half games behind the Yankees, who were idle.

Joe Heving, who pitched the final inning, won his second game in as many days.

Omission Takes First At Belmont Handicap

NEW YORK (AP)—Victor Emanuel's Omission yesterday nipped George D. Widener's Nipper and won the 36th running of the Toboggan Handicap, opening day feature of Belmont Park's spring meeting.

A crowd of 19,783 turned out for the program, in which George D. Widener's Pomrose took the co-feature, the 4 1/2 furlong fashion stakes for two year old fillies.

The favored Ocean Blue faded in the sixteenth mile to finish fourth in the Toboggan, in which Omission, ridden by Johnny Gilbert was clocked in 1:10 4/5. He returned $18.70 for each $2 ticket.

Overdrawn's stablemate, Rosetown, was third. The victory was worth $5,425 to the winner.

Dorazio Pounds Bobo For 10-Round Decision

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harry Bobo's campaign for a title bout with heavyweight champion Joe Louis came to an abrupt end last night, at least temporarily, when Gus Dorazio, a 13 to 5 underdog, pounded out a 10-round decision in a savage bout at the arena.

Bobo, hard hitting Pittsburgh Negro who jumped into prominence recently with a one-round knockout of Lem Franklin, staggered the veteran Philadelphia Italian twice in the first round, but couldn't put over the finishing punch.

Sketchley to Go Back To Minor Loop Play

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Jimmie Dykes of the White Sox said yesterday he intends to send his young rookie "find", outfielder Harry Sketchley, back to the minors before May 15, deadline for reducing personnel to 25 men.

"He needs seasoning and plenty of it," Dykes commented.

A shortage of outfielders forced the use of the U.C.L.A. collegian in early games and he bore out Dykes' opinion that he had a great chance of developing into a first rate player.

table and goes around clockwise with a "Mr. Jones, Mr. Smith, Mr. Brown" identification.

Usually the newcomer doesn't recall one name when it is over and addresses the gentlemen indiscriminately as "Mr. Blungmun-gun."

Not Mr. Odell. When attention has shifted he quietly asked us each man's name and press or school affiliation, making careful note of where each man was seated. We have an idea that right now he could tell you the names of most of the guests.

It gave an insight into the meticulous, filing-system mind of the young man. Maybe it could be traced to his scout role. A scout can't just say: "I guess the half-back went off-tackle." He's got to know.

We have heard that Odell is one of the best scouts in the business, and any one who knows football knows that it takes intelligence and observation to a high degree to be tops at that legalized spying. A scout report to a novice looks like someone had been trying to finger print a lot of chickens, but to the able scout it tells everything about a team but the salaries.

Howie Odell is stepping into a tough spot, but not with his eyes shut. He probably thinks there's nothing like starting at the bottom, and right now we can't think of anything lower than Yale football.

AP Writer Believes Yale Should Work For Howard Odell

NEW YORK—Yale couldn't have picked a nicer guy to coach its football team than young Howie Odell, and if the Elis don't win a few games next fall we'll know they couldn't win a turkey if they held all the tickets.

In other words, we think the kid has what it takes, and that if he can't snap the boys out of their sparring partner role it won't be because of the rubber shortage. It will mean the school just isn't attracting lads who care particularly what happens on Saturday afternoons in the big bowl, even if it's happening to them.

Our size-up of the Iowan is based on observations and more or less casual acquaintance over a period of years. The observation dates back to a crisp fall day about 1933 when an excellent Nebraska football team left the bleak, soot-battered Pitt stadium tagged with one touch-down defeat, with that touch-down traceable to a skinny, unassuming kid from Sioux City, Ia.

That address hurt the Nebraskans almost as much as the defeat, Sioux City. Why, that's virtually a sling shot from the Nebraska border. The Huskers had practically been beaten by their own flesh and blood.

The very fact that Odell was playing at all is a tribute to his quick mind and will. He couldn't have weighed more than 160, and was of that fragile, waspy build not usually associated with the mighty teams of Jock Sutherland.

In fact, if Odell had been caught in the comb Pitt is supposed to have used in combing the country for material, it must have had pretty fine teeth. You wouldn't have aimed a finger at him and said "There is a big-time football player," not a Pittsburgh player, anyway.

Later we had other opportunities to observe the same qualities of alertness and prosvance and thoroughness that enabled him to overcome the handicap of a China-doll physique in the rugged gridiron sport.

Two or three years ago, at Ithaca, N. Y., a luncheon was given for the press and visiting officials and scout. A dapper, nice looking young fellow slipped into the chair beside ours and introduced himself as Howard Odell, and said he was scouting the Cornell team for Penn that afternoon.

Odell was given one of those round-robin introductions, you know, where the newcomer nods mechanically as the master of ceremonies starts at one end of the

Conn Breaks Hand In Kitchen Argument With Father-in-Law

Scheduled Title Bout With Louis in June Temporarily Cancelled

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Heavy-weight Billy Conn displayed a broken left hand yesterday and said he got it Sunday night in a fight with his father-in-law, Jimmy Smith, when what Billy thought was to be a "love feast" ended in blows.

The injury — to Conn's meat-ticket maulie — may blast Pittsburgh Billy's chance of meeting heavyweight champion Joe Louis in their second title match, slated for June 25.

The former light heavyweight champion's manager, Johnny Ray, said Conn's hand would be given another examination before a decision is made on kitting off—at least temporarily—the match with Louis.

If these crowds had been lured by irresistible attractions involving first place in the standings or the appearance of some individual magnet like Babe Ruth, Dizzy Dean or Bobby Peller were in their day, the figures might not have surprised observers.

However, the largest crowd of the season, 68,394 including 2,590 soldiers and sailors, was the one that jammed Yankee stadium Sunday before last to see the Yanks play the dismal looking Chicago White Sox. Manager Jimmy Dykes said this was the only nice thing that happened to the Sox on the whole eastern trip.

On Sunday, April 26, 48,631 fans paid their way into the Polo grounds to see the Giants and Boston Braves and the same day the St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers drew 42,698 at Detroit.

Big crowds like these have more than offset the dwindling count on weekdays. And since they have been recurring Sunday after Sunday with little or no regard for the caliber of the rivalry, the only conclusion clubowners draw is that people still want to see baseball whenever they have the opportunity.

This is likely to have two results—first the postponement of many weekday games to make Sunday doubleheaders; and second the scheduling of twilight contests during the week for the convenience of workers.

Smith, through a friend, invited him to the Smith home, with the explanation that he wanted to "bury the hatchet," Conn said.

"Well, I went over, but instead of a love feast it turned out to be the same old thing. He wanted to argue. We had some words in the kitchen and he said he had promised to give me a licking and he might as well do it then. He asked me if I wasn't afraid of him, and I asked him why I should be. He swung a punch at me and we closed it. I broke my hand hitting him on the top of the head and got all of these scratches in the face from his nails. Before I could do much damage to him his friends and relations pulled me off."

Manager Ray moaned: "That's the second time Jimmy Smith knocked this kid out of the heavyweight championship of the world. You have no idea how his action before the fight last June upset Billy. He didn't sleep or eat for a couple of days before the fight and that kept his weight down. Now, when it looked like a sure thing that Billy would win in the return bout, this has to happen."

And Ray, quipped: "I didn't get any percentage from that Smith scrap."

Arriving in New York, Conn said that his injury was a clean break and that doctors had told him he would be unable to train for at least a month.

He left immediately for Ft. Wadsworth on Staten Island.

When Smith first was informed last June that his daughter and Conn planned to marry he said he would "punch hell out of Billy."

"I can lick him and he knows it," said Smith at that time.

Sketchley to Go Back To Minor Loop Play

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Jimmie Dykes of the White Sox said yesterday he intends to send his young rookie "find", outfielder Harry Sketchley, back to the minors before May 15, deadline for reducing personnel to 25 men.

"He needs seasoning and plenty of it," Dykes commented.

A shortage of outfielders forced the use of the U.C.L.A. collegian in early games and he bore out Dykes' opinion that he had a great chance of developing into a first rate player.

table and goes around clockwise with a "Mr. Jones, Mr. Smith, Mr. Brown" identification.

Usually the newcomer doesn't recall one name when it is over and addresses the gentlemen indiscriminately as "Mr. Blungmun-gun."

Not Mr. Odell. When attention has shifted he quietly asked us each man's name and press or school affiliation, making careful note of where each man was seated. We have an idea that right now he could tell you the names of most of the guests.

It gave an insight into the meticulous, filing-system mind of the young man. Maybe it could be traced to his scout role. A scout can't just say: "I guess the half-back went off-tackle." He's got to know.

We have heard that Odell is one of the best scouts in the business, and any one who knows football knows that it takes intelligence and observation to a high degree to be tops at that legalized spying. A scout report to a novice looks like someone had been trying to finger print a lot of chickens, but to the able scout it tells everything about a team but the salaries.

Half-Way Effect It Wasn't Expected Of Ball Crowds

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK (AP)—More than the early developments in the pennant races, what interests baseball men most these days are the Sunday attendance figures in the major leagues.

Before the season opened several magazines expressed a common belief that the crowds either would be very good or very bad. Nobody knew which to expect, but nobody expected the war to have any half-way effect.

Now it appears that the result is going to be small turnouts on week-days and big business on Sundays.

Sunday 183,879 fans turned out for eight games, producing a crowd of more than 20,000 at every park except St. Louis, which had 6,362, a goodly throng for a home game of the Browns.

The record for the three previous Sundays shows 222,744 on May 3; 211,972 on April 26; and 134,247 April 19.

If these crowds had been lured by irresistible attractions involving first place in the standings or the appearance of some individual magnet like Babe Ruth, Dizzy Dean or Bobby Peller were in their day, the figures might not have surprised observers.

However, the largest crowd of the season, 68,394 including 2,590 soldiers and sailors, was the one that jammed Yankee stadium Sunday before last to see the Yanks play the dismal looking Chicago White Sox. Lombardi's Home Run Clinches Boston Win

Triumph Marks 11th Victory in 15 Starts; Podgajny Loses Game

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Braves, just about the hottest team in the National league at present, chalked up their eleventh victory in 15 games yesterday with a 3 to 2 win over Philadelphia.

Ernie Lombardi's third homer of the season in the sixth inning was the deciding blow, scoring Eddie Miller with the two needed runs.

The third-place Braves' first run came in the fifth on a balk by Johnny Podgajny.

NEW YORK (AP)—After a tendor luncheon on the sun-dappled terrace at Belmont Park race-track yesterday, a young man gazed soulfully at the lady on his right and said:

"Did anyone ever tell you you're a perfect horse-and-buggy type?"

The girl looked pleased — for yesterday's Belmont opening marked the beginning of a new and elegant horse-and-buggy era.

As a prelude to the racing meet, New York designers presented their latest creations in a horse and buggy style show.

U.S., Jap Reaction to Indian Congressional Action Discussed

BY WILLIAM MCGAFFIN
NEW DELHI, India, (Wide World)—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru told me yesterday he was struck by the different ways in which the United States and Japan have reacted to the decision of the congress party to oppose a Japanese invasion with only non-violent non-cooperation.

America, he said during the course of an exclusive interview, was criticizing the party's decision as a sign of weakness, while the Japanese were angry "at our spirit of resistance."

The Japanese, he continued, had

With its outskirts still under German artillery fire and its admiralty building in spy glass view of the German lines, the city reported that other air and ground activities of the Germans indicated they may be turning their attention to a new attempt to reduce the city.

Moscow reports said snow flurries, apparently the last of the season, had been experienced on the northern front, but west of Moscow Russian guardists paraded on

NEW SEMESTER—
This mutant wartime summer is a strange thing... Iowa's dispensers (and absorbers) of advanced readin', writin' and rithmetic haven't even stripped gears, apparently, in shifting from semester's end to semester's beginning. That means, of course, that we know what the job is... It ought also to mean that we know what the job will be...

When President Hancher told his commencement audience that "if the United States is to have a place of leadership in the postwar world, it will be because she is fit to lead, and not otherwise," he voiced THE challenge of the new semester...

Making students physically and mentally fit for war is one thing, and making them fit for the kind of world now forming is quite another...

Today's world is made up of a lot of circumstances over which nobody has any control... The job is to get the control back again—and into the right hands...

There are still plenty of people around in the various nooks and crannies of all the nations who would be working their heads off for the kind of national lives they'd like to see their countries lead if they thought it would do any good...

It would seem like the best answer to preparing for peace is to prove to those very people that hard work on their part, since they feel as they do, is the only thing that WILL do any good...

People tell us, for example, that no matter how virtuous and determined a candidate for public office may be, he is forced to succumb to various modern systems of patronage, vote-splitting and sub-rosa legislative back-scratching when he gets to the legislature or congress...

That is another way of saying that our "democratic" systems are now stronger than the democrats who operate them... And that is another way of saying that our systems, in reality, are no longer democratic...

On the other hand there are lots of those honest folk who would rather commit political hari kari and go back to work plowing corn or digging ditches than indulge in such activities, simply because they know that it is the root to most of our current problems...

They see such displays of so-called public service—a deviation from the Golden Rule, and they are the ones who are convinced that the Golden Rule is still a pretty good rule, if it could be put into operation again...

The Golden Rule, applied to politics, used to mean that a congressman ought to represent the folks back home as he'd have the folks back home represent him...

Now it means that he'll vote for a closed shop, about what he may know nothing, if his henchmen will vote for a fair price ceiling after prices reach 110 per cent of parity... The folks back home disappeared in the shuffle...

This leads us back to a sensible way of preparing for peace: get back to the Golden Rule... Or, as Milton Mayer puts it and as Isaiah put it before that: "In righteousness shall thou be established..."

A prominent educator said in a recent convention that "the immediate future is in the hands of a generation which is largely beyond our control..." He never spoke truer words... But look farther ahead...

If college students, who are supposed to be able to lead, graduate with the popular thought firmly entrenched in their minds that the systems are out of control and nothing can be done about it—well, there isn't much sense in their being educated to lead...

Modern leadership has gone down the garden path along with the Golden Rule...

Leadership used to mean that leaders were leaders because they had the power to convince the followers...

Now it means that leaders are leaders because they have the power to make the followers follow...

The extent to which Americans—including Iowa's dispensers of the knowledge which trains leadership—actually believe that we're victims of our various systems, to that extent

Benton Street Bridge to Be Reopened Soon

Span Will Be Open Eight Hours a Day For Light Car Traffic

City Council Votes To Employ Guard To Enforce Ruling

Acting upon motion of Councilman Don Brown, the Iowa City council last night passed a resolution to reopen the Benton Street bridge in the near future to light passenger traffic and prohibit trucks from using the bridge.

The resolution, which, seconded by Walter E. Riley, stipulated that a lighted sign be placed at each end of the bridge warning all passengers that they will cross at their own risk and that the city will not be liable for accidents.

The group decided that the bridge, which was closed in December, will be open only eight hours a day during the week and during business hours on Saturday and that a guard will be hired at not more than $30 a month to enforce the regulations. The guard will have the power to make arrests for violations of the regulations.

At any time the guard is not on duty the bridge will be closed to all traffic.

Brown said that the matter was brought to his attention by the business men in the south end of town who claimed that the closing of the bridge was hurting their trade. Riley said he had also complaints from practically all the business men in that part of town. City Engineer Walter J. Buchele said he wanted to go on record against the reopening of the bridge in view of the report made several months ago by a Des Moines engineer.

The report stated that the bridge should be condemned and limited to light passenger traffic immediately. The council then decided to close the bridge altogether but have had to reconsider the matter at the insistence of the various business men in the south of town. The council also closed the park bridge last December.

Plans are being made to repair the park bridge but the Benton bridge is beyond repair at a reasonable price. It is impossible to get new materials to build a new bridge because of the war so the council's action last night was the only move that could be taken in the immediate future to reopen the bridge.

The exact date of the reopening of the bridge was not determined but was left up to Riley and the police department and the city engineer. Riley is to see to the hiring of the guard and the city engineer and police department are to take care of erecting the signs.

Other business of the evening was in the routine way of things. The group decided to reject all bids for painting of the outside of the city hall and certain offices inside and to issue a new call for uniform bids for the various types of work.

The body, however, accepted a bid of $35 from Glenn R. Rummelhart for the painting of the police radio tower.

All general bills were paid and a warrant for $56.91 to pay for repairs of lights on the bridges across the Iowa river was passed. The group also ordered the city engineer to buy 250 feet of street flush hose at a cost of not more than $135 and to buy 100 sewer rods and one root cutter at a cost of not more than $105.

A warrant for $37.94 on the armory fund for monthly bills was passed and bills for $4,560 for rent and principal payments on land at the municipal airport were paid to Wilbur D. Cannon, trustee of the airport.

The council raised the pay of the city dairy inspectors $5 a month beginning May 1 and allowed an automobile expense account of $10 a month for the inspector who is required to work in town. Previously only the inspector who worked in the country was allowed expenses for his car.

A warrant for $52 for payment of the police matron was passed and the group approved the purchasing of a new flag for the Community building upon the request shall we fall in our reconstruction after the war—both at home and abroad...

If it's worth the expenditure of 200 billion—more than we've spent all together in all the years of our national history—to buy ourselves another chance at making something of the world, it seems that this semester at Iowa could be devoted considerably more intensively to imbuing its students with the conviction that they CAN do something about it.

Business Men Meet In City High May 18

Prof. George Haskell Will Conduct Parley To Inform Retailers

Mayor Henry R. Willenbrock last night received a letter from John G. Weigel, regional administrator of the office of price administration, calling a meeting of businessmen from four counties for May 18 at 8 p.m. in the Iowa City high school auditorium.

Prof. George D. Haskell, formerly of the University of Iowa and now in the office of price administration, will speak at the meeting on problems to be faced by retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers in conducting business under the general maximum price regulation announced April 28 by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

All business men and civic leaders throughout the entire trading area of Iowa City and including Johnson county, Iowa county, Keokuk county and Washington county are invited to attend.

The meeting is one of a series being held throughout the country by the OPM in cooperation with local business and civic organizations, to analyze the general price regulation, placing ceilings on almost everything we eat, wear and use—some 30,000 articles.

Mayor Willenbrock will be chairman of the meeting. Following the talk by Professor Haskell, a question and answer period will be held to clarify any important points.

The ceiling regulation was established by Henderson as a check to threatening inflationary spiral in retail prices.

Beginning May 18, retail prices must not exceed the highest levels which every individual seller charged during March 1942.

Beginning yesterday, manufacturing and wholesale prices are not to exceed the highest March levels for each seller. Beginning July 1, no one may charge more for retail services in connection with a commodity than he charged in March. Included are such services as laundering, cleaning and repairs.

Some of the questions which Professor Haskell will answer at the meeting are: What prices are covered by the regulation? Why have prices been raising? Will the ceiling prices be the same at every store for the same article?

Can prices lower than the ceiling be charged? How will the housewife know what the maximum prices are? What about prices of goods that are not on the cost-of-living list? What articles are covered by price ceilings? What articles are exempted from the order?

In his letter to the mayor last night, the regional administrator said that "This new general maximum price regulation is among the most important undertakings of the government and affects the welfare of our entire economic structure. Civic leaders, business men and the buying public must join together wholeheartedly if we are to check further rises in living costs and effectuate the purpose of the Emergency Price Control act."

Businessmen of the four counties to be represented, who are not able to attend this session, will have an opportunity to attend a similar meeting at Keokuk.

To the Russians it has been obvious that one of Hitler's main 1942 objectives would be the Caucasus. Many believe Germany's most pressing need is oil if she is to continue the war.

When last in the Caucasus I saw the ample Russian defense preparations, but I am not at liberty of course to disclose them. However, hundreds of sturdy Russian recruits were a familiar sight in maneuvers. Morale was high, and has taken a perceptible upward curve of course ever since the mighty red winter offensive threw back the Germans from the gates of this capital last December.

The Germans had made another thrust to the Caucasus by reaching Tirost to the Black sea shore, but Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's vigorous push hurled them back to Taganrog where the nazi armies still are anchored and inactive despite the hardening of the soil.

SUI GRADUATE WRITES RADIO SCRIPTS

A graduate of the university college of law in 1941, Army Air Corps Navigator Harold G. DeKay of Chicago, right, and Bombarider George F. Green of Chicago, a former University of Illinois student, are filling in on their flying training by pounding out the script for "Fun's A-Flying," weekly Houston radio program of the world's largest multi-motor flying school at Ellington Field, Tex., where they are in training. Neither man is an amateur at the writing business; DeKay wrote script for Metro Goldwyn Mayer and worked on the General Foods shows for Young and Rubicam in 1939 and Green wrote parts of the Bob Hope-Pepsodent show for Lord and Thomas.

Three Auto Crashes Reported to Iowa City Police Over Week End

Three automobile accidents were reported to Iowa City police over the week end.

Cars driven by Leonard Mackey, 18, 831 Brown, and Louis Catta, 29, 1122 Dill, collided on Dubuque at 12:50 Sunday morning. The rear of Catta's car was damaged, while damage to the Mackey vehicle was confined to the right front.

John Albert Davison, route No. 2 Brighton, and Richard Benton Odndey, 9 East Burlington, suffered an automobile accident when their cars collided at Dubuque and Iowa at 10:10 Sunday night.

A car driven by Mrs. Mary Poggenpohl collided with another car on Burlington at 12:30 Sunday afternoon. Damage to the car operated by Mrs. Poggenpohl amounted to $50.

James Poggenpohl, 2, 1730 F, received head bruises in the collision.

Henry Fout Funeral Service to Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon

Funeral service for Henry Fout, 74-year-old Iowa City farmer who died early yesterday morning following a lingering illness, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Beckman's funeral home.

The Rev. Raymond Ludwison of the First Christian church will be in charge, and burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Born in Germany in 1867, Fout came to the United States when at the age of 6. In 1919 he moved to his present farm three miles east of Iowa City.

Surviving are two brothers, Eli of Rock Island, Ill., and Abe of Iowa City, and one sister, Mrs. Albert Dewey of Iowa City.

New 7-Man Grand Jury Takes Office

Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday swore in a new seven-man Johnson county grand jury to replace the panel, dismissed last week, which was originally scheduled to hold hearings of cases to be tried during the May term of court.

The original grand jury was dismissed by Judge Evans upon the request of County Attorney Edward F. Rate, who disclosed that two members of the unit were ineligible for jury duty.

In asking for dismissal of the original unit, Rate, declared that James Hogan, a member of the jury, was a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Barry, Oxford couple charged with the murder of Eddie B. Schmidt, which case the jury is expected to hear. The other juror, Stephen Schuessler, has, according to Rate, moved from the county since being selected to the grand jury at the first of the year.

Members of the new county grand jury are: J. E. Ashton, Fremont township, foreman; Joe A. Zeneshek, Big Grove; Charles A. Puddi, Monroe; Roger Reeve, Clear Creek; R. E. Bayless, Union; Fred Lovinsky, West Lucas, and J. A. Alt, Penn.

V. F. W. Delegates Meet in Muscatine

Representatives of the Johnson county Veterans of Foreign Wars post No. 2581 traveled to Muscatine this weekend to attend the district meeting of the organization.

E. R. Burham, first district commander, was presented a fountain pen set in behalf of the Iowa City post. The local post will hold the next district meeting in September.

HOW to SAVE those "IMPORTANT VITAMINS"

Your gas range is ideally suited to modern "waterless cooking" which saves vegetable vitamins and minerals. Because of its fast billy you can regulate the heat to any degree you need.

- So use your gas range wisely—and follow these simple rules for food that is really health-giving:
- Cook vegetables in as small an amount of water as possible.
- Bring to boiling point quickly over high gas flame.
- When boiling begins, turn gas flame down and boil gently.
- Use covered utensils to keep steam in.
- Do not use soda, as it destroys vegetable vitamins.
- Cook vegetables as short a time as possible.
- Serve foods soon after cooking.
