HOPE FOR SAFETY OF ZAMZAM FADES

British Strike; Middle East Conflict Looms

French Commissioner Accuses Former Allies Of Criminal Aggression

LONDON, May 19 (AP)—With the British bombing Syrian airbases as bases for the German air force and the French high commissioner in Syria accusing his ex-allies of "criminal aggressions," the fate of France's whole colonial empire may be at stake in the conflict taking shape in the Middle East.

The British generally accepted this as the fateful implication of the reported German domination of Syria, next door neighbor of oil-rich, strategic Iraq.

General Henri Dentz, high commissioner for the Vichy government, declared by radio last night that "the army of the Levant is ready to oppose force with force."

He called upon Syrians to resist "criminal aggressions" of the British who are "attacking our airbases without warning," German planes, he added, landed in Syria under terms of the 11-month-old armistice.

Fire on RAF
"I have been ordered to defend the sky and the land of the Levant states. That mission I'll carry out inflexibly."

Even before the high commissioner had spoken, French anti-aircraft batteries had fired on British planes yesterday when they again bombed airports at Palmyra, Damascus and Rayak—airports which the British charge are being used as stopping stations for German warplanes going to the aid of Iraq's rebellious premier, Rashid Ali.

The Beirut, Lebanon, dispatch which reported the firing said no hits were scored.

A large sky transport and a big Heinkel bomber were destroyed at Palmyra and other Nazi aircraft were bombed and machine-gunned at other fields, a Cairo communique said.

British status in Syria remains in question. Should an open rupture develop, the British and "free French" forces still allied with them would be in a position for quick seizure of French Somaliland, East Africa.

Observers said there was no reason to believe they would hesitate to grab this opportunity in view of the colony's strategic location at the mouth of the Red sea and the necessity for eliminating all possible German zones of operation in the whole Middle East area.

British reports gave no indication that Middle East fighting had gone any further than air attacks and land engagements with anti-British forces in Iraq.

Treasury Sees Tax Increase Defense Need

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—With the implied approval of President Roosevelt, the treasury urged congress today to stiffen the excess profits tax to help finance the defense program.

John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary, estimated before the house ways and means committee that by means of such a levy and 6 per cent corporation surtax previously proposed, $1,096,000,000 of a new $3,500,000,000 tax program could be raised from the earnings of corporations. He said that if the new departmental recommendations were adopted congress might be able to readjust excise taxes, in such a way as to soften proposed levies on some commodities which do not compete with defense.

At the same time, the official department spokesmen concurred in recommendations by other administration officials 10 days ago that heavier levies might be applied to such consumer durable goods as automobiles and mechanical refrigerators.

Both a stiffer excess profits tax and levies higher than the treasury originally had suggested on consumer durable goods were proposed to the committee week before last by Leon Henderson.

Status of French Colonies Hangs in Balance

BLACK AREAS AND UNDERLINED NAMES SHOW ORIGINAL FRENCH POSSESSIONS.

With German occupation of French colonies believed by some to be imminent with apparently increasing collaboration between Berlin and Vichy, the future of some of the possessions is in doubt.

Five of these—St. Pierre, Miquelon, Martinique, Guadeloupe and French Guiana—are in the western hemisphere and may be occupied by U.S. or Latin-American forces under united Pan-American action.

U.S. officials, including President Roosevelt, fear that Germany also may attempt occupation of Dakar, on the west coast of Africa, a potential threat to South America, as shown by the South America, as shown by map.

Will British Attack Them?

Here are French colonial troops, marching along a dusty trail in Syria, latest danger spot in the war. The British have disclosed that the French-mandated country has been permitting and has given protection to Nazi planes flying over Syria en route to Iraq.

The royal air force has been given orders to smash the Luftwaffe invaders on landing fields in both countries. French anti-aircraft batteries have been reported firing on British planes flying over Syria.

Carlson Heads Drive to Raise Soldier Funds

DES MOINES, May 19 (AP)—Eskil C. Carlson of Des Moines today was elected president of a state committee to start the United Service organization's drive for funds for programs for army and navy youths and defense centers.

Iowa's share of the national fund will be $400,000, and the campaign will start June 3.

Henry Olsen of Storm Lake was named vice president of the state committee, E. D. Hicks of Des Moines, secretary, and the Rev. Francis T. Zuch of Des Moines, treasurer.

Major J. Glubb Reported Killed In Near East

LONDON, May 19 (AP)—Major John B. Glubb, the "Second Lawrence of Arabia," was reported to have been killed or wounded while fighting in the near east, where he has lived for 22 years among nomadic Arab tribes.

The report, on the sixth anniversary of T. E. Lawrence's death, said he died while commanding the Arab legion fighting at the side of the British troops.

A communique from the insurgent Iraq leader, Rashid Ali Al Gailani, said the Englishman, known to the Arabs as "Abu Heneik, father of the little chin," was killed near Ambla Dolma.

French Enter War in Syria

Anti-Aircraft Batteries Fire on British Planes; To Fight De Gaulle's

VICHY, France, May 19 (AP)—French anti-aircraft batteries were reported tonight to have begun firing on British warplanes over Syria and official sources here indicated an imminent French offensive attempt to regain empire territory now held by "De Gaulle's rebels."

These swift and significant developments came as Admiral Jean Darlan left suddenly for Paris presumably to continue Franco-German collaboration negotiations and the German-controlled Paris press again assailed American diplomacy as "flour blackmail."

"France cannot permit a foreign power to intervene" against her efforts to get back the territory held by Gen. Charles De Gaulle and his followers an official French information office statement said.

The statement particularly cited messages written by "rebel French" military leaders and dropped by English planes on Syrian towns as proof "that one of the objects of English politics is to separate Syria from metropolitan France."

A dispatch from Beirut, Lebanon, said French batteries had fired at British planes yesterday following a warning by French General Henri Dentz, Syrian high commissioner, that Syria would meet force with force.

Germany already has agreed to release approximately 100,000 of the 1,800,000 French prisoners of war, and Telemondial, an official news agency, said "still more important results of the negotiations would be announced soon."

Schram Elected Head Of Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP)—Emil Schram, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was formally elected president of the New York Stock Exchange today.

Schram has yet to set the date he will assume the $48,000 a year post vacated by the drafting into the army of William McChesney Martin, exchange president for nearly three years.

Schram was chosen and accepted tentatively May 6. The board of governors at the organization meeting elected John A. Coleman vice-chairman of the board to succeed Robert P. Boylan. Nine new governors took office.

Berlin Radio Reports Liner With 136 U.S. Citizens Sunk

New Labor Disputes Tie-Up Over $7,000,000 in Defense Production

Two major labor disputes directly affecting defense production developed yesterday.

One was a walkout of AFL workmen at the Lorain, Ohio, yards of the American Shipbuilding company which is constructing six submarine net tenders for the navy and has a $7,000,000 order for navy mine sweepers.

The other was a CIO strike at the Apollo Steel company, Apollo, Pa., affecting 900 men and stopping work on $100,000 of defense orders, including galvanized sheet iron for the navy.

Meantime, railroad workers put in a bid for a 30 per cent increase in wages as another big group of workers, the hard coal miners, got together with operators on a new contract providing for pay increases and ending a work stoppage which began Sunday.

It appeared that a crisis might be reached tonight in the strike of greatest concern to defense officials—that by CIO and AFL machinists which has shut down 11 shipyards and drydocks in the San Francisco area and halted work on $500,000,000 worth of defense orders.

Governor Culbert Olson of California will address a meeting of the 1,700 strikers and ask them to return to their jobs. AFL metal trades leaders have indicated that if the strike is not settled then they will go past the picket lines leading a back-to-work movement among the 15,000 other employees of the yards.

The machinists want $1.15 an hour with double time for overtime instead of $1.12 and time and one-half.

Vessel Was Due At Cape Town April 23

NEW YORK, May 20—(Tuesday) (AP)—A British Broadcasting company announcement that "it was learned with regret of the loss of the Egyptian steamer Zamzam in the south Atlantic" early today minimized previous radio reports from London indicating the liner, carrying many Americans, might be safe.

The National Broadcasting company, Columbia Broadcasting system and Mutual networks carried the statement by the official British announcer shortly after midnight. The report added that "60 American citizens and 23 Canadians were on board, as well as the British-American ambulance unit, which was being carried to the Free French forces in the middle east."

"This unit included 20 vehicles lavishly fitted with X-ray and other valuable equipment."

The official passenger list of the liner had not been released by the state department which was scheduled to consider the matter during the night but other sources placed the number of American citizens aboard at 138.

The Associated Press was informed by its Berlin correspondent shortly after midnight "authorized sources say they know nothing about Zamzam."

Two London broadcasts heard here earlier had indicated the possibility that the Zamzam, a 8,229-ton motorship 26 days overdue on a voyage to Africa with 322 persons, might be safe.

A short time later the Berlin radio was heard to state that the Zamzam had sailed from Pernambuco (Recife, Brazil) to Capetown, but this report was substantially the same as the one the German station broadcast earlier in the day under a New York dateline. At that time the source was given as the official British announcement that the ship was "presumably lost."

Although there was no official word that the Zamzam had been heard from since leaving Recife (Pernambuco), Brazil, April 9 for Capetown, where she was due April 23, a commentator on the British radio said at 6:59 o'clock (CST) tonight "the Zamzam may be safe after all."

The commentator, in the broadcast recorded at the Columbia Broadcasting system's short wave listening station, said:

"It's good news by the way that has just come in that the Zamzam may be safe after all. We were not less sorry than you about the presumed fate of the Americans on board; let's hope it's true that the gallant band of disinterested workers have in fact escaped the fury of those modern pirates, who took their orders from Berlin."

There was no explanation of the source of the "good news."

(In London both the admiralty and the naval affairs division of the ministry of information said the BBC report was "all news to them.")

Earlier, Edward R. Murrow, CBS correspondent in London, said in a broadcast to this country:

4 Army Fliers Die in South Carolina Crash

RAINS, S. C., May 19 (AP)—A collision of two light army bombers high above this little eastern South Carolina town, followed by fire and an explosion, cost the lives of four fliers today.

Army authorities at the Savannah, Ga., air base, from which the planes had taken off on a training flight to Langley Field, Va., said the victims were: Second Lieut. Frank B. Ralston, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Second Lieut. Allen J. Moore, Reno, Nev.; Sergeant David L. Boyd, Frost, Texas, and Corporal Herbert O. Pruitt, Collinsville, Miss.

One of the planes was shattered to bits by an explosion as it landed atop a deserted tenant house, and the other caught fire and was so thoroughly consumed that eyewitnesses at first were certain there had been six men killed.

Parachute Falls
Lieut. Moore jumped in his parachute but it failed to open and he died of a broken neck while being taken to a hospital at Mullins near here. Seemingly, witnesses said, Moore was too near the ground when he pulled the cord.

F.R. Chooses Defense Head

La Guardia Takes Post in Agency Dealing With Civilian Defense

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt has selected Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, it was learned authoritatively today, to head a new government agency dealing with civilian defense.

At a long luncheon conference at the White House, the energetic little LaGuardia accepted the post, it was learned, with the understanding that he would be able to continue as mayor of the world's biggest city. He also is chairman of the United States conference of mayors and co-chairman of the Canadian-American permanent defense board.

In his new job he will be asked to organize a nationwide air raid precaution system, coordinate federal and local defense projects, plan recreation and health facilities in training camp communities and direct related activities.

Mr. Roosevelt already has drafted an executive order creating the new agency, it was learned, but formal announcement has been held up for personal reasons. The agency will be called the office of civilian defense and will rank with the office of production management as a major branch of the office for emergency management.

University Staff, Faculty, Seniors Will Participate

In a colorful ceremony which happens "once in a lifetime" for most college students, Virgil M. Hancher will be inaugurated as the University of Iowa's 18th president at 2 p.m. this Saturday.

His inauguration falls little more than a week before the university's June commencement, making it possible for the 1941 graduating class to participate in the ceremony—an unusual feature in inaugural ceremonies. The Association of Senior Class Presidents accepted the invitation of the university to take part in the academic procession which will precede the inaugural ceremony.

Wearing their graduation caps and gowns, Iowa's seniors of 1941 will play an important part in the ceremony. They will meet west of the fieldhouse at 2 p.m. Saturday, to take their places in the inaugural procession.

Members of the University of Iowa faculty and staff have been requested to take part in the procession. They will arrange themselves according to seniority and in college groups.

With these two major groups of the university's own family, scores of official delegates to the events of the Hancher inauguration will march to their reserved seats within the fieldhouse—delegates from colleges and universities, learned associations and scientific societies from all parts of the nation, men (See INAUGURAL, Page 6)

British Take Italian Stronghold—Capitulate After Long Siege

ROME, May 19 (AP)—The Duke of Aosta and his troops defending the Ethiopian stronghold of Amba Alaji have surrendered to the British after enduring a 40-day siege, the Italian high command announced today.

Defense of the towering fortress on the road from Addis Ababa north to Asmara was hopeless, the Italians said, but the beleaguered garrison held out as long as it could to tie up British forces needed on other fronts.

When capitulation was arranged, it was said, food and water had been exhausted, the injured lay exposed and untreated on the summit, British forces were growing stronger and the isolated Italian strength gradually was being depleted.

Italian reports described the defense of the 9,000-foot high fortress, 280 miles northeast of Addis Ababa, in terms of heroism and said the British had paid military honor to the soldiers and the Duke of Aosta, viceroy of Ethiopia, who commanded them.

"The garrison at Amba Alaji," the war bulletin said, "after having resisted beyond all limits and reduced without food and water to material impossibility of taking care of the wounded, had orders to cease fighting."

"The enemy, in tribute to the gallantry of our soldiers, has granted them the honor of arms, permitted the officers to retain their pistols and provided for our garrison leaving the rebud of Amba Alaji to parade before a British detachment which will render honors."

"The Duke of Aosta is sharing the lot of his troops."

(British reports said the Amba Alaji garrison, regarded by them as the most important point of resistance remaining in Italian East Africa, included about 7,000 Italian soldiers. A British headquarters communique at Cairo said that they would give up formally today and that the Duke of Aosta and his staff would surrender tomorrow.

Italians still resisting in the Jimma area of southern Ethiopia and around Gondar, in the northeast, are said to be relatively smaller forces. British sources expected, however, that they might hold out for some time because the rainy season—difficult campaigning time in Ethiopia—already is on.)

From April 8, when the British first attacked, until last Saturday, the Italians said, British onslaughts "followed one another without rest," but the defenders fought on "to the maximum limit of the most heroic resistance."

The Parade of Opinion— Censorship

—By Associated Collegiate Press

ACP Expresses Its Views On The Question of Censorship

Bigwigs in Washington, according to an article appearing recently in a national periodical, are seriously considering formation of a censorship bureau in our nation's capital. Apparently army and navy officials are sponsoring the move, in an attempt to stem foreign disruption of America's armament setup.

Is there a need for censorship in the United States press? Is there a justification for such censorship? We reply in the negative to both questions as posed.

There is as much need for curtailment of the press as there is for a secret police faction. It is the right of every American to know what is being done by his government, in which he is the most important cog. Legislation passed, bills proposed, mobilizations planned—these are the specific business of each and every American.

One hundred fifty years ago our forebears lived through chaotic warfare and unending suffering that they might institute a government of, by, and for the people. The nation's founders provided for freedom of speech, religion, and press. To what depths do we degrade these tenets if we permit subjugation of any?

Russia has its OGPU, the reich has an oppressive and suppressive band of Brown Shirt police, whose duties are to advance only the views held by a governmental, administrative minority. This is censorship in its frankest form, suppression of the voice of the people.

America is being led into war because not everything is told in the releases emanating from European and press centers. Reuters and the Deutsches Nachrichten Büro divulge only what England and Germany wish disclosed. The result is stark confusion—two stories each day told one in direct contradiction of the other.

Biased news views fill every newspaper because not all the facts are brought to light. This is in opposition to every principle of Americanism. Distortion, one-sidedness, suppression, tight-lipped informative federal sources—these have no place in the American scheme of things if the American press is to maintain its high position in the world.

To what use are we putting our great press bureaus, like The Associated Press and the United Press, if we have to accept the whims of a man or a board as our bases for opinion? Americans have the right to run their government as they want it run; to this end were instituted our houses of legislature and our governmental checks in the three branches.

A free press is a voice of a free people, and it is not to be turned to the exclusive use of money-hungry war mongers and grafting politicians. True it is, possibly, that patriotism and a tendency to take sides in the European conflict have a hold in the United States at the moment. All well and good, but the fact remains that America does not want to go to war.

Adolf Hitler built his empire on censorship and oppression. The people of Germany listen to the government radio programs, read the state newspaper, abide by the maxims laid down by a single man. Censorship is not yet fact in the United States, but it is a vivid potentiality. We must not recognize its birth. —THE INDEX, Niagara University.

Frank Knox: An Aggressive American Secretary of the Navy

"When the day of Hitler's defeat comes, seapower will again be dominant, and its center will not be in Washington." Such is the prediction concerning our future by Frank Knox, secretary of our navy.

This boss of the navy is definitely an example of a true American. He heralds from the gallery of patriotism so characteristic of Theodore Roosevelt, Washington or Lincoln. His creed advocates the banner of manifest destiny in one hand, and a big stick in the other. Being born in a log cabin is the only classic attribute missing in his life.

When he was elevated to the position of secretary of the United States navy many republican party leaders fumed. The reply of this same man who had been republican candidate for vice-presdent: "I am an old soldier who fought in two wars, I am an American first, and a republican after that."

As a challenge to his physical endurance, the navy job undoubtedly appealed strongly to Knox, a former Rough Rider with Theodore Roosevelt. At 67 he looks ten years younger and takes as much pride in his physique as an athlete.

When he took office he won all his associates by his untiring enthusiasm. The admirals like him for himself and are also gratified with his close contacts with important Washingtonians, from the president down.

His call is for action and speed. He has shifted commands right and left, putting more aggressive officers into key fleet positions. One of Knox's concrete contributions to the speed-up program was the perception that the department itself was the basic bottleneck in naval expansion. During his first week in office he delegated efficiency experts to find out why many bureaus were so behind in their work.

The main obstacle was found to be an acute shortage of clerks to handle correspondence. Knox promptly raised his clerical force from 3,800 to 6,000. Today his order is that every man's desk be clear when he goes home at night. A staff of receptionists are now employed to winnow out visitors. Before this, visitors roamed through the offices upsetting routine and asking questions of officials and clerks.

To speed up shipbuilding a greater degree of autonomy has been given to naval officers on supervisory duty in shipyards. The utilization of federal and state employment agency lists of unemployed craftsmen in inland cities has overcome the shortage of skilled shipbuilding. The 40-hour week has given way to a 48-hour week and the yards work three shifts a day.

Yet ships cannot be turned out in assembly-line fashion. One of Knox's heaviest tasks has been to work out a compromise between the shipbuilders who bridle at changes in design during construction and the fighting men who insist upon the latest developments in speed, armor and firing power.

As a result of the compromising to date, destroyers which took 32 months to build are now built in 18, cruisers have come down from 36 to 30. Battleships still take from three to four years.

The navy's new boss has a great responsibility, but we must be confident in his ability as he is confident of the greatness of our country.

Louis Bromfield Likes The WPA State Guide Series

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Louis Bromfield thinks the American State Guide series as prepared by workers of the WPA Writers Project is basically the finest thing of its kind ever attempted. "I want all 48 of them on my shelves," he says, "not only for myself but for my children and my grandchildren."

Everyone I have talked with shares this view. If a man had all 48 guides—and the last few will be off the press this year—he would have a detailed history of every state in the union. . . . He would have its beginnings, its speech, its religion, its folkways and culture. . . . He would have guides to its cities and industries. . . . He would have tales of pirates, rustlers, adventurers, lonely missions, crusades, battles. There simply isn't any information about any section of the country that wouldn't be at his finger tips.

I am reminded of all this because of the half dozen or so guides of my own and because of a line in a note from Lyle Saxon of New Orleans the other day which said, "Our latest opus, Louisiana, is just out. Drop by Brentano's and look at it." I hurried right over.

As a state guide, "Louisiana" couldn't escape being a jewel of information, for Saxon is the state director of the writers project and no man in Louisiana has such a grasp of the state's history. Previously he had written half a dozen books on Louisiana life—"Fabulous New Orleans," "Father Mississippi," "Old Louisiana," to name a few, and when preparation of this guide was placed in his hands its success was assured.

It is interesting to note the various publishers that have been given contracts for these guides, "Louisiana" and some 16 other state and regional guides have been published by Hastings House. The Oxford University Press has eight or nine, and so does Viking. The North Carolina Guide was published by the University of North Carolina Press. The New Orleans City Guide and the guides to the six New England states were published by Houghton Mifflin of Boston. The Washington, D. C. Guide was published by the government printing office.

Of these I have the Texas, Virginia, Louisiana, New Orleans, Tennessee, and New York Guides. New York City's guide is in two volumes, published by Random House and the volume titled "Panorama of New York" is marvelous.

Do you know anything about Corncake Inlet, Buttermilk Channel, Nathan Bedford Forrest or Calamity Jane? You would if you read the guides. You'd have the history of cattle grazing, Indian legends, border songs, witoheraft, sailing ships, harbors and rivers.

Like Louis Bromfield I aim to have all the guides myself one of these days, but unlike him I'm not thinking of my grandchildren. They are so worthwhile that I am thinking only of myself.

French Collaboration And the African Fight

WASHINGTON—Whether the British are now to be driven out of the near east and north Africa depends on how far the French will go in their promised collaboration with the nazis. The French have 60,000 troops in Syria under arms. That they will act under orders from Vichy is to be expected. Their good material is left over from the equipment furnished the original Weygand force of 120,000 (half of which has been demobilized) but the Germans can make it even better.

If these French fight with the British, the British can not hope to defend the Suez, and what is even more important than Mesopotamian oil to them, the Alexandria naval base.

The logical plan for nazi attack (already hinted in dispatches) is to cut through Syria, not directly toward the Suez, but southeastward for the only Mesopotamian port, Basra, near the head of the Persian gulf. Driving down the Euphrates river valley to Basra, the Germans could clear Mesopotamia of the British and deprive them of their only origin of supplies there.

The campaign would be difficult for the Germans. Access through Turkey will do them little good. There are no roads across Turkey. Their Syrian move must be launched from bases established by sea or air from Greece, right under the nose of the British in Cyprus. They, therefore, vitally need the fighting assistance of the French.

But the problem is even tougher for the British. If they invade Syria, the French will surely fight. If they wait until the nazis reach the Persian gulf, they will have to defend Suez from two sides. Their Mesopotamian resistance must rely on doubtful Indian native troops.

The fate of nazi opposition in this cradle of the world thus is being weighed upon invisible scales in Vichy.

F.D.R. AND DAKAR

The notion that Mr. Roosevelt might try to take Dakar is being dispelled. His diplomats have yearned for such action, but his military men have decided it is impossible. We can seize Martinique and French Guiana in our sphere without much trouble, but the occupation of Dakar would require months of preparation for a large expeditionary force.

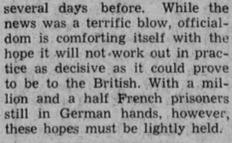

If France collaborates with the nazis and allows Hitler to establish a submarine and marine air bombing base there, the direct line of British supplies from South America and India will be brought under attack. This is the only immediate significance of Dakar. From a military standpoint it would not be feasible for Hitler to launch any attack from there upon South America for a long time. The effect of nazi occupation would, therefore, be to us largely a diplomatic blow at our prestige in Latin-America.

NOTE—The British must take the blame if this strategic point falls to Hitler. The defenses there rely on the French cruisers which the British let escape through Gibraltar, in full sight, after the fall of France.

HOT IN AFRICA—The weather will work against any decisive action on the other Suez front in north Africa until it will soon be too hot to fight on the Egypt-Cyrenaica front. The existing stalemate is likely to continue.

F.R. AND VICHY—Mr. Roosevelt did not issue his challenge to Petain impulsively as it may have appeared. A tip from Vichy as to the way the wind was about to blow was available here several days before. While the news was a terrific blow, officialdom is comforting itself with the hope it will not work out in practice as decisive as it could prove to be to the British. With a million and a half French prisoners still in German hands, however, these hopes must be lightly held.

Potpourri From The Film Capital

HOLLYWOOD—Add Signs of Spring: The college prep invitations are pouring in on Betty Grable—nearly 800 at last counting. Old-timers at Betty's studio say nobody rated such popularity since the departure of Simone Simon.

Do you collect pipes? Then here are your movie fellows: John Ford, Nigel Bruce, Jean Hersholt, Archie Mayo, Arthur Hornblow—Mayo and Hornblow don't smoke 'em, just collect.

You've heard the song a thousand times. Here's how it happened: Arthur Friedman and Harold Rome wanted a topical tune for their revue.

"News," said Friedman, "is made by people. Top news today is FDR. But we can't use him—Kaufman and Hart did it in 'I'd Rather Be Right.'"

So they didn't write a song then. They went to Florida. They were loafing on the porch of their cottage near the beach when the postman came, handed Rome a letter. Friedman watched him read it, saw him smile. "From my kid sister," said Rome.

"Ah, a little child," thought Friedman. "A song about a name, bringing in a child, Franklin D. Roosevelt Brown." He said aloud, "No, Smith. . . . Jones! Franklin D. Roosevelt Jones!"

The Worm-Turns department: John Qualen, after so many meek or bewildered characters, turns murderer in "The Gentle People"—a somewhat apologetic killer, to be sure, but still he bumps off John Garfield.

Once chubby Sonja Henie is sly-like, and getting more so, as she works through "Sun Valley." She is down to 108 pounds from 120 or more. Said Sonja: "Bending over a wash tub or cleaning windows would have done the trick just as well, but I like skating myself—and it pays better."

Gene Tierney was born into wealth, was educated at private schools in New England and Switzerland, is fond of Yale and Princeton, and had never touched a gun. "Just the type," they said, casting her as Belle Starr, the lady bandit.

Bob Hope and June Preisser, both at Paramount now, shared a vaudeville baptism of fire some 12 years ago. Their acts were tried out at Cicero, Ill., then rated as one of the country's toughest towns—tough on vaudevillians. Hope and the Preisser Sisters, June and Cherry, were the only acts approved, and they toured briefly together. Next time they met, Hope was a star of the 1936 "Follies" and the sisters were a featured dance act.

Hope and Paulette Goddard are now doing the third in their series of modernized stage chestnuts, "Nothing But the Truth." (The others were "The Cat and the Canary" and "The Ghost-Breakers.") Little aside from the basic situation, concerning a fellow who makes a bet that he can tell nothing but the truth for 24 hours, has been retained. It's well: one of the main situations in the original (circa 1916) concerned the horrible scandal of a man who, in the privacy of his office, lit a cigarette—sh-h-h—for a woman.

THOSE to whom the week end is unendurable without a copy of the New Yorker need not bother to pick up Sally Benson's "Junior Miss," for they probably have read all the stories. People who don't read the New Yorker, however, might do worse than get their twelve sketches reprinted in this little book. Judy Graves, the "junior miss" out of Miss Benson's mind, suffers less from strict application of the New Yorker short story formula than most characters.

This is because Judy is just a vague as the formula, which creates that each story shall end with a fairly pointless little bit of words reminiscent of the petticoat toss of the 'nineties. Precocious brats are vague, out much direction, something even pitiable. Judy is.

Judy is confined to a New York apartment most of the year. She has a father in Wall Street, a mother who tries to do her best for her child, a sister, Lois

A's Take 2nd Straight From Leading Indians

There was a great deal wrong on the Iowa side in that split with Northwestern last Friday and Saturday . . . So much, in fact, that the boys almost made us believe that they wouldn't finish at the top of the Big Ten heap . . . But a lot of pleasant things happened, too, and after thinking it over, maybe the sides are about even.

In the first place, there was the pitiful showing both at field and at bat in the first game . . . Call it an off day if you will, but remember Iowa has had plenty of them lately . . . We might excuse the fielding, considering the hot bats of the Northwestern sluggers, but if that Wildcat man on the mound, Moll, was a pitcher of conference caliber, then Chicago should be champion of all sports . . . But he had control, and the Hawks were popping at fat ones, and that was all there was to it.

Then there was the pitiful showing of Ted Gordinier, counted on all season to be able to take a regular chore on the mound, but who has never quite lived up to expectations . . . He did complain of a sore arm after six innings against Chicago, but didn't pitch at all last week and said his arm was fine Thursday night . . . Then he succeeded in getting one man out, while Northwestern blasted him for four hits and four runs in the first inning.

But to offset those dismal notes, there was the fine showing of heretofore unfired Bob Faber, pitching relief for Gordinier Saturday, and the great improvement in the work of Capt. Frankie Kour, after Coach Otto Vogel benched him as a starter in favor of George Knight on the same day.

Faber gave up four hits in his 7 1/2 inning stay, before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the midst of an Iowa rally, and was touched for three runs . . . But two of these were hardly his fault . . . A walk and a wild pitch contributed one of the earned runs, but tight fielding on an infield hit would have saved him the other two scored on him . . . Bob, a brother of Matt Faber, who used to pitch some mighty fine ball for Iowa himself in his day, chalked up six strikeouts and set Northwestern down 1-2-3 in four innings.

Kour, who has been in more of a mental slump than anything else, came in in the sixth, walked three straight times, and scored three of the last four Hawkeye runs . . . He almost talked Umpire Bert Hayden into calling a balk on Steye Meschuk of Northwestern, scoring in the seventh, and his field brought forth innumerable comments . . . The old

Chisox Climb On Former Mate To Beat Nats, 8-2

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—Pitcher Vernon Kennedy's debut in a Washington uniform was spoiled by Chicago today. The White Sox capitalized on the wildness of the former St. Louis Browns' righthander to deal the Senators an 8 to 2 defeat. Kennedy, recently traded for catcher Rick Ferrell, was lifted in the seventh inning after yielding only five hits. During that time, however, he walked seven and hit another. Four of his walks resulted in runs.

Bengals Take Fifth Straight

BOSTON, May 19 (AP)—Right-handed Johnny Gorsica sinker-balled the Boston Red Sox into submission today, limiting the Sox batting order to four safe hits while the Detroit Tigers went on to win their fifth straight victory, 4-2, before a slim crowd. Gorsica had the Sox eating out of his hand, retiring them in order until the fifth, when Jimmy Foxx opened with a single. Joe Cronin tapped into a fast double play. Cronin collected a double and Ted Williams slammed his fifth homer of the season with Finney, who had singled, on base in the seventh to account for the remaining Boston hits.

whip was back in Frankie's arm Saturday, speed that hasn't been seen on the hot corner since last season . . . He started the only double play of the afternoon, and generally sparked Iowa right past the Wildcats.

Coach Vogel informed the scribes yesterday that two plays were scored incorrectly in Saturday's game . . . Rudy Radics' slash to right in the eleventh, driving in the winning run, was officially counted as a single, giving Dangerous Rudy two hits in four times at bat, driving in a total of three markers . . . Maybe if Iowa would get more men on base in front of Radics, the team would score more runs, for we've only seen one game this year in which the New Jersey flash failed in the clutch.

The other play we scored incorrectly was Norm Hankins' hard-hit groundball in the ninth, which also went through the second baseman's legs, driving in Kour from second with the tying run . . . Never let it be said we'd take any credit away from this hard-working little cleanup man with the sharp eyes and big bat . . . Hankins really deserves the spot given to him by Vogel in the batting order . . . Since he was shifted to that spot, he's become the team's leading hitter and steadiest player.

But Northwestern had its stars, also, and if there's a prettier fielding or hitting team in the league, we want to see it . . . Bill DeCorvont, advance publicity and all, is just about the sweetest outfielder we've seen in the last three or four years of Big Ten ball on the basis of all-around goodness . . . He looked like Joe Medwick catching that liner off the bat of Warren Smith in center field Friday, a blow that should have gone for at least a double . . . And he looked like Joe DiMaggio every time he stepped to the plate—you just didn't know what was going to happen next . . . Two of the biggest thrills of the series were the two times Bob Faber and Wendell Hill struck him out in the final game . . . The crowd sure did razz him, but you couldn't help liking his style.

Then there was this Capt Jack McKinnon at shortstop for the Wildcats, who was holding the team together just as much as one man could . . . He committed only one error in two games, contributed a fat batting average, and exhibited some plenty smart field generalship . . . We wouldn't be the least bit surprised if he was the boy who mixed up Iowa on all those hit-and-run plays which fozzled by the wayside, by first covering second himself, and then, when the Hawks caught on to that, signalling to the second baseman to cover.

McCrabb Halts Tribe, 5 to 4

PHILADELPHIA, May 19 (AP)—Rookie Righthander Les McCrabb turned the tables on the Cleveland Indians today as the Athletics made it two in a row over the American league leaders 5 to 4. McCrabb now has beaten the Indians, Yankees, and White Sox and lost to Cleveland and Washington.

McCrabb dropped a 6-5 decision to the Indians on April 30 when Cleveland scored three runs in the ninth after two were out. He was in trouble in the ninth today, too, but with men on first and third and only one out he got Clarence Campbell to hit a 3-1 pitch into a snappy double play, Benny McCoy to Al Brancato to Dick Siebert.

The A's won in the eighth on Frankie Hayes' infield single that scored Siebert from third. Hayes, who had two doubles and two singles for a perfect day at the plate, also batted in the first Athletics run with a double scoring Sam Chapman in the second, and did the same thing again in the sixth to tie the score. He scored one run himself in the fifth when he singled and scored on Pete Suder's double. Suder later scoring on a single by Wally Moses.

Big Al Milar accounted for two of Cleveland's runs with a home run clout over the center field scoreboard to score Rollie Hemsley ahead of him in the fourth. Earlier the Indians had taken the lead on Hal Trosky's first inning double scoring Campbell, who had reached second on Al Brancato's error. An error and two singles gave the visitors another run in the second.

Redlegs Loose Offense to Win

CINCINNATI, May 19 (AP)—New blood showing its still potent effect, the Cincinnati Reds cut loose with a 14-hit attack against Boston today and with a great show of defensive play, won 7 to 3 for their second straight victory. Big Ernie Lombardi, rookie Chuck Aleno and Ernie Koy, recent $35,000 acquisition from St. Louis, sparked the game. Lom's strong right arm cutting down four runners at second, three of them attempted larceny and catching the fourth off base. Carvel Rowell, whose ninth inning homer started Johnny Vander Meer to the showers—but only as "insurance"—was cut down twice.

Whirlaway to Keep in Shape Will Run in Henry of Navarre Handicap Today Before Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP)—Your Chance, and Gustave Ring's Whirlaway isn't going to take it easy just because he already has won two-thirds of the turf's triple crown and appears to have the other one-third signed, sealed and ready to deliver on June 7, when the Belmont stakes is run. Believing the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner needs racing to keep in condition, Trainer Ben Jones has entered the three-year-old champ against older horses in the $2,500 Henry of Navarre handicap at Belmont Park tomorrow. And if his competition Jones wants his charge to have, he should get it in the mile and sixteenth number.

Named today to oppose Warren Wright's chestnut was Charles S. Howard's Mioland, one of the top notch handicap performers in the country, Handicap from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable; Mrs. George D. Widener's

Iowa Can Win, If— They Take 4 Games Left, While Michigan Breaks Even in Four

University of Iowa can win the Big Ten baseball title by beating Wisconsin and Ohio State each twice while Michigan, the current leader, breaks even with Purdue and Northwestern in four games. And the Hawkeyes, now third, can share the championship with four while Michigan wins three of four, or by winning three of four while Michigan breaks even.

Weather, however, may play its unpredictable role, causing one or more of the games to be cancelled and not giving teams a chance to play vital contests. That was the "if" situation today as the Hawkeyes rested in third place with five wins and three losses, as compared with Michigan's 6-2 for the top spot. The threat of Wisconsin, the other team which has lost less than four games, can be eliminated by one or more defeats, either by Northwestern or Iowa.

Theta Xi Wins Ping Pong Title

Top honors in the inter-fraternity ping pong championship went to Theta Xi Saturday evening, when Evan Kenney, A2 of Cedar Rapids and Warren Holden, A2 of Waterloo, defeated the Delta Tau Delta team of Clark Jennings, A2 of Cedar Rapids, and Andrew Cummings, A2 of Newton. A house trophy is awarded the winners together with individual medals for winning. Kearney and Holden are also entered in the all-University tournament between any groups on the campus.

Bruins Hop on Casey To Bury Brooks Again

Passeau Gives But Four Hits

CHICAGO, May 19 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, hopping on Hugh Casey and Mace Brown for pins in the second inning, buried the erstwhile league-leader Brooklyn Dodgers under a humiliating 14 to 1 score today before 18,120 spectators. This was the Cubs' second straight victory over the rollicking Dodgers and drove them into second place behind the St. Louis Cards, but there is a possibility neither game will count in the standings. Midway of today's game Manager Leo Durocher announced he was protesting both games, contending the Cubs had 25 men on the active list, one over the limit. His protest was forwarded to league president Ford Frick for possible action.

Hugh Casey started the Dodgers in quest of his sixth straight triumph but wildness and ineffectiveness sent him to the showers in the big blizzard in the second frame.

Iowa Track Team Only Squad Active During Exam Week

Semester examinations have cut the University of Iowa sports schedule for the week end to one contest—a track meet with Minnesota at Minneapolis. Now in third place and still with a chance to figure in the title, the baseball team retires from Big Ten competition until the home games of May 30 and 31 with Wisconsin. However, the Hawkeyes will keep in form by playing Luther college here May 26 and 27. After the Wisconsin series, the squad will make a road trip to Michigan and Ohio for six games on successive days with Western State Teachers, Michigan State and Ohio State.

Evans Grants Temporary Injunction

Ballroom Operator Charged for Violating Dancing Ordinance

Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday granted a writ of temporary injunction enjoining G. C. Chadima, mayor of Swisher, and Ed Smahele, town marshal, from further prosecution of Frank Stangler, Swisher ballroom operator, on a charge of alleged violation of a town ordinance prohibiting dancing on Sunday.

Stangler made the appeal after he was found guilty in the mayor's court for alleged violation of the town ordinance. Fines of $25 and $80 were imposed upon him for violating the ordinance on two occasions.

In addition to seeking the injunction, Stangler appealed the mayor's verdict to district court.

In his petition, Stangler claimed the ordinance deprives him of liberty and property without due process of law as guaranteed in the state constitution and the 14th amendment of the federal constitution.

The plaintiff further stated that unless the injunction would be issued, the defendants could cause considerable damage by continuing their prosecution.

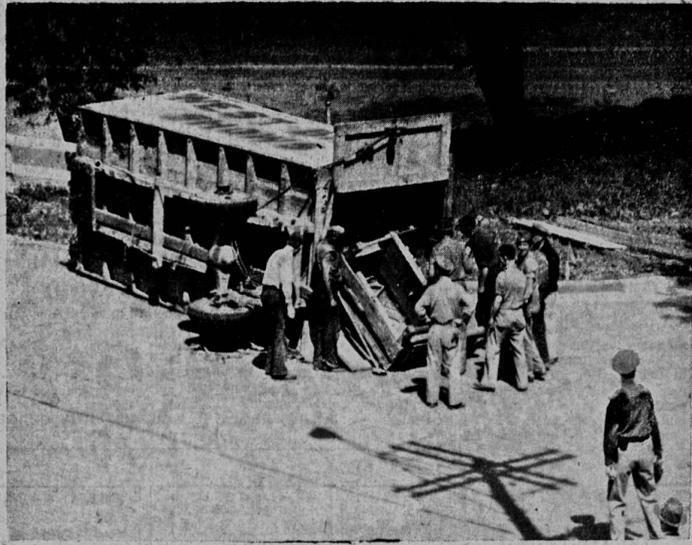

Continuing, the plaintiff said he has several future dances scheduled and that his dance hall is now being conducted on a profitable basis.

The most recent dances promoted by Stangler were on May 4, 10, 11, 17 and 18.

Judge Evans ordered Stangler to post a $500 bond upon granting the writ. The present schedule calls for the hearing of the case to come before the court during the September term.

The plaintiff is represented by Atty. Ed. L. O'Conner. During the trial at Swisher Saturday morning, the town of Swisher was represented by Atty. G. K. Thompson, Cedar Rapids.

West Brothers' Trailer Overtakes on N. Dubuque

Preparations for the opening of the West Brothers' carnival last night were temporarily slowed up yesterday morning when one of the truck trailers, shown above, on N. Dubuque and attempted to turn on to the bridge. Although the trailer turned over, the cab remained upright. Frid was not injured.

S.U.V. Officers Visit Iowa City

Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Samuel J. Kirkwood camp No. 155 and auxiliary No. 9, Sunday entertained two visiting national officers, Dr. J. Kirkwood of Franklin, N.H., national commander-in-chief, and Mrs. Clara M. Gallagher of Philadelphia, Pa., national auxiliary president.

Iowa City was the last stop of the two national S.U.V. officers on their official coast to coast trip anticipating the national convention of the two organizations in Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 14 to 19.

The couple were honored at a dinner and reception at the community building Sunday evening.

don last night said she was "presumably lost," but there was no reason for the presumption other than that she was long overdue and unreported.

The vessel, carrying two dozen volunteer British-American ambulance drivers, some of them from prominent families, sailed from New York on March 20, refueled at Recife (Pernambuco), Brazil, and then on April 9 headed for Cape Town, where she was due April 23.

She has not been heard from since.

In addition to the United States citizens, the Zamzam on leaving Recife carried 64 other passengers and a crew of 120, a total of 322.

There was considerable confusion as to the names of the Americans on board.

Passenger List Refused
Thomas Cook & Son, New York passenger agents for the vessel, said the state department in Washington had instructed it not to release the passenger list on the ground that there was no official word as to whether the ship had been sunk.

State department officials disclaimed any such order, saying it was up to the Cook office to decide whether or not to release the list.

Meanwhile, friends and relatives throughout the country reported the names of persons supposed to have been aboard.

The Zamzam was en route to Alexandria, Egypt, by way of the southern Atlantic and Indian oceans, the route to be followed by American ships taking supplies to Britain's near east armies.

Marked with flags of non-belligerent Egypt, the 8,299-ton motorship carried among her passengers 24 American ambulance drivers and their assistants en route to service with British and "Free French" forces in Egypt; and parties of American missionaries and their children representing Catholic and Protestant faiths.

Word from the ship's home port, Alexandria, said 120 Americans were aboard but Dr. Emory Ross, general secretary of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, said in New York that there were some 170 missionaries on the ship.

The ship left here March 20 with a cargo of fertilizer, trucks, automobiles, ambulances and machinery.

Shipping circles rejected the suggestion that the Zamzam might have been the victim of the elements, declaring she was sufficiently seaworthy to ride out a storm.

Does Most Anything

Filiszewicz Is Painter, Decorator, Singer, Orchestra, Band Leader

With deft, sure strokes of his brush, Zygfryd Filiszewicz, painting superintendent, touches up the intricate designs stenciled on pilasters and capitals on the walls of St. Mary's church. The Chicago interior decorator is prominent in Polish-American music circles and has contributed much of his spare time toward developing the cultural music of his countrymen now in the United States. He conducts, composes, writes poetry, sings in a rich baritone voice and performs with great skill on the violin. Filiszewicz has been singing with the St. Mary's choir since he came in March to begin decorating work for the church's centennial remodeling program. Most of the painting work will be finished within the next 10 days, the artist announced.

When you watch Zygfryd Filiszewicz deftly apply color to a stenciled pattern you will conclude he is an accomplished painter and decorator. Unless you know more about him, you might never guess he is also a skilled singer; choir, orchestra and band leader; poet and lyricist; composer and concert violinist. For good measure, he also can perform on the tuba.

Filiszewicz—try to pronounce it—is superintendent of the decorating and painting work soon to be completed at St. Mary's church here in Iowa City. A Polish-born naturalized citizen, he is one of the leaders among Chicago's Polish-American musicians and has done much to promote singing and instrumental groups in that city.

As a young man in Poland he learned some music from several teachers, but in general he is "a self-made man," as he puts it. Following in the footsteps of his father and older brothers, he learned the decorating arts thoroughly in the old country. After serving in the Imperial army engineers corps while Poland was under Prussian rule, he came to the United States in 1910 to take up his trade in Chicago.

From that time until now he has taught and led nine different Chicago Polish-American vocal groups while doing regular decorating work, he declared.

He is president of the Filareci-Dudziarz Klub and often conducts its singing society. The society is composed of 85 professional and amateur singers "who sing because they love to sing," Filiszewicz declared. He is head of the non-active, supporting members who serve as sponsors.

Several years ago he was active in raising money to purchase a permanent headquarters for the Filareci-Dudziarz membership in Chicago.

He also has served as the Illinois representative in the Polish-American Singers Alliance, a national organization of Polish vocalists. At present he is a member of the Holy Name cathedral choir in Chicago.

Although no longer active in conducting, he now composes and arranges choir music, dance tunes and classic Polish melodies in his spare time.

His poetry, in both English and Polish, has appeared in the Chicago Polish Daily News on several occasions, he said.

As for music, he declared, "Most of this modernistic music doesn't appeal to me. I wasn't schooled in that kind of music and it doesn't appeal to my ear, but I'm getting

21 Children Receive Holy Communion At St. Wenceslaus

Twenty-one children received first Holy Communion Sunday morning as part of a 40-hour devotion period brought to a close Sunday evening at St. Wenceslaus church.

The evening sermon was delivered by the Rev. Claude Victoria of Lisle, Ill., in charge of the three-day devotions.

Assisting with the services were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Carl H. Meisberg and the Rev. Herman Strub of St. Mary's church, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. J. O'Reilly and the Rev. Francis Lollick of St. Patrick's church, the Rev. Donald Hayes of the Catholic Foundation, the Rev. T. W. Neuzil, pastor, and the Rev. James Falconer, assistant pastor.

The first communicants were enrolled in the scapular and miraculous medal at the church Sunday afternoon.

to like it better than I used to."

He has been a concert violinist in the Chicago Federation of Musicians symphonic orchestra and appeared in numerous Polish charity performances in Chicago.

Filiszewicz played violin solo variations on a Polish ballad dance show for nine months over WHEE, foreign language station in Chicago. His unique improvisations on popular ballad and folk melodies surprised the radio and studio audiences.

"Sometimes they would ask me to repeat some of my improvised obligatos but I could never play the same way twice. That sort of music comes from the heart—it just flows in me. I play my violin as the mood comes to me," the painter-musician asserted.

His son, Ludomil Filiszewicz, is also a skilled violinist and appears with various Chicago musical organizations when he has time. He, like his father and grandfather, is also an expert interior decorator.

"I play the piano by ear," the decorator said. Then he laughed and added, "Good enough to go by as a regular pianist too."

In 1933 Filiszewicz was selected by the City of Chicago to present and conduct his own concert band on the Navy pier concert series during the Century of Progress.

He has been singing baritone in the St. Mary's choir since he began the decorating project in March. "I enjoy singing with your friendly local singers very much," he explained.

During his stay here he has been thrilled by concerts of the university orchestra, band and chorus.

"Those young men and women take their music so seriously. That's the way it should be," he concluded. "I admire the conducting skill of Prof. P. G. Clark and the voice range of Prof. Herold Stark is remarkable. The young fellow, Jack Latimer, should become a successful concert pianist, I believe."

"Music is important to living happy lives," he said, "because music is food for the soul."

Hull To Pro

Collaboration 'Gone Beyond Armistice Terms'

By LLOYD A. LEHRBAS
WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull told the French ambassador in strong language today that the United States is convinced pro-Hitler elements are in supreme control in the Vichy government and that France had gone beyond the armistice terms in "collaborating" with Germany.

This, it was authoritatively reported, was Hull's reaction when the envoy, Gaston Henry-Haye, called at the state department to seek an explanation of what he termed an "explosion of emotions" in the United States concerning the "collaboration." Henry-Haye contended that the French were acting only in accordance with the armistice between them and Germany and Italy. He also protested against the United States "unfriendly action" in taking French merchant ships into protective custody.

Asks Clarification
When the ambassador requested clarification of the American attitude toward France, state department sources said, Hull asserted that all nations are satisfied the Vichy government, acting under German compulsion, has exceeded the armistice terms.

The facts already known, it was said in informed quarters, places the burden of correcting that impression—if it is not true—on the French government. One of the "facts" is understood to be France's acquiescence in the use of Syrian air fields by German planes bent on attacking the British in Iraq.

Henry-Haye told reporters, after his hour-long conference with Hull, that he had reaffirmed France's determination "to protect French possessions wherever they may be" from any change in sovereignty. He indicated strong opposition to any attempt to place French colonies in the western hemisphere under the "provisional administration" of the 21 American republics.

May Claim 'Rights'
In informed quarters here it was pointed out that if the Germans have the rights claimed in Syria under the armistice terms they also may consider themselves entitled to utilize French air fields in Martinique, French Guiana, or other French possessions in the western hemisphere.

To guard against Germany securing a foothold in this hemisphere, the 21 American republics, at the Havana conference, laid plans to take Martinique, or other foreign possessions in this hemisphere, under their "provisional administration" if and when they became a threat to the peace and security of the American nations.
