Wave of Draft Extension Opposition Sweeps House

Fear Revision Or Defeat Of Army Measure

Large Democratic Unit Declines to Make Declaration of Stand

By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration leaders in the house expressed apprehension yesterday that the draft bill will retain the rank and file of the army in service for an indefinite period was in danger of drastic revision. The leaders, who declined to be quoted by name, glumly disclosed that they had counted noses and found that a score or more of democratic members would not commit themselves. This group apparently was in a position to settle the issue.

G. O. P. Opposition
On the republican side of the issue much opposition was indicated. Members of that party held a conference on Wednesday, and Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the republican leader said afterward that "the majority of sentiment" appeared to be in favor of retaining reservists and national guardsmen, but letting selectees go.

Despite this attitude, there was for the time being, at least, no talk of compromise. The senate, which passed service extension legislation Thursday, achieved a high measure of unity behind the bill by imposing an 18-month limitation upon the added services of the army men. But in the house, the leaders spoke only of fighting it out—win or lose—on the straight cut issue of an indefinite extension.

May Change Minds
Of course, as the situation develops they may, and possibly will, change their minds and support a time limitation. With this threatening situation bill were in fighting mood, and Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the military committee led off the debate with a vigorous speech in its favor.

Treasury Men Submit New Tax Bill Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Treasury officials, declaring that the tax bill was inadequate, submitted to the senate finance committee yesterday recommendations for raising $800,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 additional, partly by broadening the income tax base to cover millions of persons now exempt.

- 1. Reduce personal exemptions, the official submitted a schedule based on $1,500 for married persons and $750 for single persons, as against present exemptions of $2,000 and $800.
- 2. Revise excess profits levies to reach earnings of many corporations now exempt.
- 3. Require joint returns for husband and wife, but provide special relief when both work outside the home.
- 4. Reduce the "depletion allowances granted to concerns engaged in extracting such natural resources as oil.
- 5. Abolish tax exemptions on state and local bonds.
- 6. Increase estate and gift taxes.

Morgenthau and John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary of the treasury, promised to supply more detailed recommendations later. Meanwhile they suggested that congress simplify the returns which would be required of millions of citizens.

Dies Assails Henderson

Charges OPM Head Member Of Red Groups

WASHINGTON (AP)—While Leon Henderson was advocating the administration's price-control bill yesterday before a congressional committee as a weapon of democracy, he was denounced on the house floor by Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) as having been a member of "five communist-controlled organizations."

"I wouldn't put him in charge of dog catchers," Dies shouted. "The time has come to speak frankly."

Dies did not mention Henderson by name on the house floor, merely saying he was referring to a man who was about to be placed in charge of all price-fixing. Off the floor, however, he told newsmen he meant Henderson, who is head of the office of price administration.

Henderson Testifies
The administrator, testifying before the house banking committee, described the price-controlled bill as one of a number of steps which a democracy must take to offset the dislocating effects of a huge defense program "unless chaos is to take charge."

"Democracy does not mean laissez-faire in an emergency," he said. In response to questions, he said he favored giving the federal reserve board power to increase reserve requirements so as to curb the amount of bank credit and also said it would be "highly desirable" for banks to limit the loans they make for speculative purposes. Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) led Henderson through a maze of questioning about administration fiscal and economic policies of the last few years. At one point, Henderson said he thought the idea that prices could be controlled through revaluing the dollar was "lousy" and declared he had never believed the nation's economic situation could be saved through "funny money business" or "jiggling with gold."

"We Went to Hell"
He asserted that when the administration suddenly curtailed government spending in the fall of 1937 "we went to hell in a wheel barrow." In that connection (See PRICES page 6)

Soviet Air Force Blasts Panzer Troops; Lines Still Holding Firm

MOSCOW (AP)—Battles raged all day Friday on the bloody fronts before Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev, the Soviet army stated early today, and by naming towns around which fighting has been going on for days, indicated that the Russian lines held firm. The Red army fought the invaders at Kahisalmi, on the Karelian isthmus about 75 miles northwest of Leningrad, the Soviet information bureau announced in its regular communique. Battles also raged at Smolensk before Moscow and at Korosten and Bel Tserkov, towns on the front before Kiev. The announcement said the Red air force, "in cooperation with land troops dealt blows at enemy panzer troops and infantry and attacked aircraft on airfields." The Red air force destroyed 21 German (See RUSSIAN page 6)

What Milady Will Wear When Silk Is Gone

With silk stockings expected to be swept clean from the nation's department stores by early October, unless the economic war between the U.S. and Japan ends, feminine legs will be sheathed in substitutes that are said to be more serviceable than silk, but perhaps not as flattering. Above is a preview of the substitutes to come, including leg cream that gives the illusion of silk hose. Photo at top left shows how hosiery counters were rushed by women throughout the nation when it was officially announced that there would be no more silk for civilian use.

Navy Department Warns CIO To Settle Strike—Or Else

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A flat warning came from the navy department yesterday that the government would take direct action to get production resumed at the great Kearny, N.J., yards of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company if the management and a striking CIO union could not settle their dispute. Saying that 200,000 man-hours of work on "vital needed combatant ships for the navy" were being lost daily, Ralph Bard, acting secretary of the navy in the absence of Frank Knox, expressed hope in a statement that the strike could be settled at once. "Must Go to Work
"But if management and labor cannot arrive at a settlement," he continued, "steps must be taken which will in one way or another put this huge shipbuilding plant back into production at the earliest possible moment." The Kearny yard has about 18,000 employees. Two cruisers, six destroyers, three tankers and a number of cargo vessels are on the ways there. In addition, the company has orders for five other cruisers and 21 additional destroyers besides merchant vessels. The Industrial Union of Marine Workers (See STRIKES page 5)

U.S. Warns Axis Powers To 'Stay Home'

By J. C. STARK
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States directed sharp thrusts at both Japan and Germany yesterday, asserted that the Nippon empire brought on its own self-proclaimed "encirclement" and that the Nazi government was casting longing eyes toward the western hemisphere.

Answering official Japanese contentions that the United States, Britain, China and the Netherlands were drawing a ring around Japan, Secretary of State Hull told a press conference that there was no occasion for any law-abiding and peaceful nation to become encircled. He added that a country like Japan, if it were law-abiding, was in no danger of encirclement except by itself. He implied that the Japanese statements were considered a mere pretext for further expansion moves, possibly into Thailand. At the same time he apparently sought to leave an opportunity for Japan to improve relations and trade ties with the United States by abandoning what he has described as "movements of conquest" in the Pacific area.

Reports of increasing Japanese troop movements southward and other reports of British-Chinese co-operation in preparing defenses of south China, the Burma road, Singapore and the Thailand-Malaya borders have heightened tension in the Far East. The map above shows where preparations for possible war have been made by the British, the Chinese and the United States.

Vichy Estimates Germany's Eastern Losses at 1,500,000

VICHY, UNOCCUPIED FRANCE (AP)—Military observers in Vichy estimated today that the Germans have lost 1,500,000 men and the Russians 2,000,000 men on the eastern front. The aggregate casualties thus far on the 48th day of the war were described here as having already made the campaign the bloodiest in the history.

Because of the desperate nature of the fighting, these observers added, relatively few prisoners are being taken by either side. losses, it was said, are running as high as 70,000 daily. As to losses in material, experts here described them as fantastic, offering this approximate tabulation: The Germans—7,500 tanks; 5,800 guns; 5,000 planes. The Russians—9,000 tanks; 7,250 guns; 7,300 planes. As to compensating production, neutral informants here expressed the opinion that German factories are producing about 1,800 planes a month out of a top potential of more than 2,500.

Japan Can Cut 'Allied Ring' Is Feeling in Tokyo
TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government for the first time yesterday made accusations previously offered only unofficially that Britain, the United States, nationalist China and the Dutch East Indies were encircling Japan, and a naval officer declared baldly that this encirclement could be easily broken by adoption of "the German fashion."

Writing in the newspaper Hoshi, Lieutenant Commander Tota Ishimaru, a naval expert, observed: "Manchukuo, China (and by this he meant that part of China now in Japanese occupation or control), Indo-China and Thailand have joined the co-prosperity sphere. Now we can draw on Indo-China and Thailand for iron, coal and rice and other food. "Getting the (Dutch) Indies oil and Malay (British) rubber is a bit more difficult."

Seaway Added To Rivers Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house rivers and harbors committee voted yesterday to include the controversial St. Lawrence seaway and Florida ship canal projects in an omnibus rivers and harbors bill which some members estimated might require appropriations totalling a billion dollars.

Nazis Attempt Huge Flanking Movement

BERLIN (AP)—The German high command in a special report last night declared that the Russian 6th and 12th armies and part of the 18th had been destroyed on the Ukrainian front, with 103,000 Soviet soldiers taken prisoner. Russian casualties were put at more than 200,000. The prisoners, the announcement said, included the commanders of both the sixth and 12th armies. It was stated that 317 tanks and 858 guns and 5,250 motor trucks were captured. Earlier the high command's regular daily communique had reported the capture of the commander of the Soviet sixth army along with "other high troop leaders" and more than 30,000 prisoners and much booty.

(All these figures apparently were reported as in addition to Russian losses announced Wednesday for the Ukrainian front since the start of the war. They were put then at 150,000 prisoners taken and 1,970 tanks, 2,190 artillery pieces and 980 planes captured or destroyed.)

The Russians were taken, according to the high command in the annihilation of a Russian assault force encircled southeast of Uman. This town is about 50 miles south of Bel Tserkov, where bitter fighting has been reported recently, and about 125 miles south of Kiev, the Ukrainian capital.

Kiev Surrounded
Unofficial German reports have said that Kiev was surrounded and also that German troops were hammering at the gates of the Estonian capital of Tallinn, at the northern end of the front below Leningrad.

The high command communique did not mention Kiev, and thus the Uman action indicated that the Germans are now directing a main southern offensive southward toward the Black sea coast to cut off the important port of Odessa, which is some 140 miles from Uman.

On the Estonian front the high command reported capturing Rakvere (Wesenberg), 60 miles east of Tallinn on the railway to Leningrad, and said that the German forces then pushed 15 miles beyond to the Gulf of Finland.

Cut Off Reds
This presumably would cut off Russian forces in the Tallinn area from any means of escape without smashing their way through the German lines.

On the Finnish front the high command reported "further successful progress" and unofficial commentators in Berlin added that "resistance has noticeably let up."

German bomber observers reporting on a recent night raid on Moscow said that "a big airplane factory went up in flames," a report which led Der Angriff, newspaper of propaganda minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, to comment that "this was an especially hard blow for the Soviet army because at least half of the Soviet planes are produced in Moscow."

May Broadcast Raid Warnings Over Radio

WASHINGTON (AP)—Every radio in America may become a means of conveying air raid warnings and distributing official announcements in event of military emergency.

A master program designed by the defense communications board for bringing all of the 880 standard broadcast stations into a super-network was outlined yesterday by James Lawrence Fly, chairman of the board and of the federal communications commission.

Briefly, the plan would make available almost instantly every radio station for national announcements, or all of the stations in any one or more regions for regional announcements or warnings. The announcement said radio stations would remain in private hands and the program would be carried out on a cooperative basis, except for possible combat areas.

Under study now, Fly said, is the method to be used in tying in broadcast stations with civilian defense centers for instantaneous transmittal of warnings or statements.

• The Army: Maybe We're Wrong In the Way We're Building It!

The senate passage of the extension of the term for members of the land forces of the army brings one step nearer the culmination of a battle we've watched for some months, always relatively sure of the outcome.

Whether the final extension will be 18 months, 12 months or some other period of time after the house finishes with the legislation and it is sent back to the senate, the principle will have been expounded: you can't build an army in a year.

At this particular stage in the arguments in the congress, let's take a look at the long-range picture of the army business in America.

Each branch of the armed forces of the nation (air, land and sea) is rapidly expanding into a formidable unit. The United States navy, increased in strength more speedily than the others, is achieving two-ocean proportions. The air arm is growing daily into a competent and powerful fighting force.

The army has lagged behind, simply because greater numbers of trainees are involved there, the variables are greater and the job is a bigger one.

That's the picture as of today. It will change in relatively the same proportion as the days wear on, with the navy and the air force in the foreground of advancement, and the army coming along behind.

That's a fact we have to face. America hasn't yet caught up with mechanized land warfare. More fortunate than France, we weren't forced into a war to save ourselves. And we won't be, so long as we have a powerful navy and a powerful air force.

Since each branch of the armed strength of the nation is designed for defense, since the work of all of them must be coordinated into a total defense, we may be blundering in our whole method of dealing with the army. Perhaps we're failing to seize an opportunity to build the most powerful army in the world, just as we're building the most powerful navy and air force.

Are we not wasting time, money and manpower by working with time and numbers if there's a better way to do the job?

From the point of view of the man in the street, what constitutes America's total defense?

1. The first line of defense, the navy—the most powerful in the world—to patrol the seas on all sides, to keep them clear for peaceful commerce.

2. The second line of defense, the air force—the most powerful in the world—to assist the navy in its job, and to be prepared to travel rapidly and in great numbers to any scene of foreign attack in this nation or the hemisphere.

3. The third line of defense, the army—the most powerful in the world—for the immediate defense of the shores of the nation, or the shores of our outlying possessions, or conceivably the shores of any spot in the hemisphere.

It stands to reason that viewed in the narrowest light, the army could do nothing to keep an invader off U.S. shores if that invader had got beyond the units of the navy and air force. All the army could do would be to hurl the invader back, to keep him from moving further. The same is true of forces of the army stationed anywhere in the hemisphere.

That fact makes obvious the necessity that the army be highly mobile, able to move speedily, to cover long distances—efficient in its makeup, formidable in its concentrated power, equipped with all the newest and most deadly weapons in sufficient quantity and sufficient reserves to be invincible.

That fact makes obvious the necessity of burning morale, of unity of purpose, of whole-hearted effort in the business at hand, and in preparation for any eventuality the army may have to face—anywhere in the hemisphere.

We want, not necessarily the largest, but the BEST army in the world.

And these things, to our humble judgment, can better be accomplished with smaller units, better equipped and better paid—a highly professional army equipped to do its job. To attempt to do it with a gangling force of millions, ill-equipped and ill-trained, is to waste the time, the money and the manpower of the nation.

An army of 1,000,000 men can be better trained and better equipped in the same period of time than an army of 2,000,000 men, and in meeting the coordinated needs of our total defense could probably do a better job.

Why then should not the United States army be organized along totally different lines. If we are to spend billions for army training, why should we not sacrifice numbers for efficiency, uncounted tons of equipment on order for speedy mobility, millions of $21-a-month checks for larger checks for top-flight men who want to give their all-out efforts in that particular branch of the armed forces.

Of course we need an army—of the highest type, the most powerful army in the world. There's no question about that. But we need an army which can do its job. And if the job can be done with fewer men, as it seems it could, then fewer men we should have.

At this particular stage in the all-out defense of America, before we go off the deep end and make billion-dollar mistakes which can't be easily corrected, the officials of the United States government and the United States army should get together to be sure that the picture as it looms for the years ahead isn't distorted by opinion, or poor eyesight, as we look at it now.

• Water for Great Cities—

Supplying water to residents of large cities has grown into one of America's big businesses, according to census bureau reports which indicate that all but eight of the 92 cities of more than 100,000 population now own and operate their water supply systems.

The annual costs of supplying water in the 84 cities, municipally operated, amount to $209,277,000. Each year these cities consume more than two million million (sic) gallons of water. This would make a lake ten miles wide and 98 miles long, having a depth of ten feet. The daily per capita consumption of water in the 84 cities is 140 gallons.

Birmingham, Bridgeport, Chattanooga, Gary, Indianapolis, New Haven, Scranton, and Peoria are the only cities of more than 100,000 population which do not own and operate their water supply systems. Birmingham, however, has a system under consideration.

Tamora Toumonova, Ballerina, Wants to Marry an American—

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—She looks as a ballerina should look. That's Tamora Toumonova, prima ballerina of the Monte Carlo ballet. She is Russian. She is vividly dark. She is 22.

But when I saw her she was sneaking through the corridor of the Maurice hotel, half frightened, murmuring "Mourra" . . . "Mourra" . . . "Come to me my precious Mourra" . . .

But Mourra had her thoughts on the hotel roof and scampered annoyingly out of reach and up the stairs.

Toumonova tossed her dark curls indignantly. (You always address a prima ballerina by her last name. I don't know why, but you do.)

I seem to have neglected identifying Mourra. Mourra is a seven-year-old Persian-Angora cat that has travelled the world and back again and loves it. But she has a yen for prowling in the sun on top of the hotel roof, and escapes the moment anyone opens the door.

The dance critics in New York agree that Toumonova is tops, and I won't try to add to the critical valentines they wrote about her in her most recent metropolitan appearances.

I would rather tell you something about the girl herself, who, like the actor Paul Lukas, was born on a railroad train . . . This was during the Revolution and "Mother was escaping through Siberia, and there I was," she explains. They were escaping from the Bolsheviks and they wound up in Paris, where, before she was six, Toumonova had begun her career in the ballet.

She said some very strange things for a young girl to say . . . She said, "I think the happiest time of my life was when I was around 12, but I was not at all happy when I was 15 or anytime after that until I was almost 20."

I told her I thought this was most extraordinary because from 15 on most young girls are just beginning to meet boys and go out and have a good time.

"I was too old too young," she said. "I must have been 20 when I was 12. But that is all right. As I grow older now, I shall grow younger, like my mother. We are from the south of Russia, and when you are from the south of Russia you grow younger as you grow older."

That was a comforting thought, and as I am from the South myself, but of the U.S., I could almost feel the years fall away from my now reasonably ancient frame.

Toumonova gives herself just six years more as ballerina of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. "Then I will absolutely get married in a hurry or I will be 28 and that is enough ballet."

She had not the slightest inkling as to the young man . . . "Probably somebody I've never ever seen . . . But I will tell you this . . . It will be an American, I will not marry a Russian. It wouldn't go, not with my temperament."

So there it is, you young bucks, and don't say you weren't tipped off.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Impressing Japan With a Few Things—

WASHINGTON—The slightest move of every American warship is a deep secret—except when they arrive in Australia.

The only violations of the navy department order against publishing American ship movements have been perpetrated by the department itself, first, last March when some cruisers stopped off at Australia, then a second time just the other day when two more cruisers arrived at the same spot. Official announcements were handed out in both instances, just so Japanese papers would be sure to get the information.

It is clear Mr. Roosevelt is working on the Japs a coy strategist they will recognize more easily than Americans, because it comes from their own history.

One of their most famous battles was the conquest of Mukden in the Russo-Japanese war. Their General Ohshima, in charge of operations, worked out a skillful maneuver in utmost detail. It was based on extending the thin Russian lines out to the breaking point (like Grant earlier at Petersburg). But when the day of the battle dawned, General Ohshima called, not for his sword, but for his fishing pole. He spent the day angling in a nearby stream. Such a display instilled his army with the confidence that helped them win.

Mr. Roosevelt must have heard of the story before he set sail from New London last Sunday, leaving his plan of pressure diplomacy behind.

SCREWS ON THE PRICE CONTROL BILL—

The Roosevelt-Henderson price control plan is going to go through the wringer in congress. The screws have been adjusted for it. When the plan comes out you will not recognize it as Mr. Roosevelt-Henderson's baby. In fact it will be triplets, possibly quintuplets.

A proposal will be made by such lofty congressional authorities as practically to guarantee enactment, requiring one-man control (Henderson's) to be dropped in favor of board direction by three or five members. It will be the duty of this board to work out policy atop Mr. Henderson's present OPAK organization. Whether the change will be worded so that Mr. Henderson can be a member or chairman of the board, or whether he will have the board superimposed upon him in his present position, is yet to be decided.

No less a congressional personage than Senator Carter Glass, who is handling the legislation in the senate, has long favored a board. The idea has gained equally imposing support on the house side.

NO TROOPS TO BE HAD TO HELP BRITAIN—

Some London talk about organizing an expedition of 50 divisions (750,000 men) to invade the continent has seeped over here, and apparently reached the ears of non-interventionist senators. The British say American men would be required to fill out the force. This is supposed to be what Senator Wheeler has been hinting against.

Any such help this year is beyond the realm of factual consideration. Assuming that the U.S. navy could guarantee safe conduct (and planes for safe landing) to an expeditionary force requires a stretch of imagination in view of the limited number of ships available in the Atlantic. But assume that it could, then what American divisions are well enough equipped and trained to be sent anywhere today?

The landing obligation would have to fall on the marines, and they do not yet have enough ready to dispatch anything more than a token group.

WHAT IS WANTED IN TAXES—

The notion that the vice president's new economic council is only going to scheme up punitive economic tricks for Mr. Roosevelt to play on the Berlin-Berlin-Berlin axis (it has shrunk lately) has been fostered by officials. But apparently that is not Mr. Wallace's idea. All who have heard him expound, know he considers domestic economic counseling to be as necessary as the international kind. Wallace primarily wants curbs on domestic buying power (along lines Henderson outlined to the senate committee this week).

First results of their efforts may show in revisions made upon the house tax bill by the senate finance committee. Broadening of the income tax base and more consumers taxes are what they want.

WHO WAS WHERE?—ARTIST WONDERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When a WPA mural painting of the signing of the Declaration of Independence erroneously showed George Washington present, Supervisor John Anson Ford demanded an alteration. So the artist changed the title to "Signing of the Constitution."

After a few days County Librarian Helen Vogle came forward. "That won't do," she said, "because this painting clearly shows Jefferson and Hancock present and they didn't sign the Constitution." The artist would welcome suggestions.

POOR POLICY

BALTIMORE (AP)—Urgent renovations are being made to a fire insurance company's office here. The firm that insures the fire insurance company sent an inspector around who called the office a fire-trap.

Of 30,468 deaths in the U.S. due to automobile accidents, according to the Census Bureau, only two involved persons over 100 years of age, and 127 claimed infants under one year old.

All entries must be made in the club name. Exhibits are open to regular club members between 12 and 21 years of age who have not had college training in home economics. Exhibits should be turned in to the club show secretary's desk on the second floor of the armory.

Any baked entries should be placed on nine inch paper plates and wrapped in cellophane. No entrance fee is required and all premium money will be paid to the clubs.

Former Students Spend Vacation In West Canada

Four former University of Iowa students are spending their vacations at Le Camp Francais, Strathcona lodge, Shawanigan lake, in British Columbia this summer.

The camp, operated expressly for French students, has facilities for classes, sports, excursions, and firesides. French is the only language spoken.

Paul K. Hartsall of the Romance language department, who is on a year's leave of absence for graduate work at the University of California, is attending the summer camp.

Among other Iowa members of the camp are William P. Galvin, who is now a faculty mem-

2,500 Kids Walk Again

Chicago Bracemaker Has Put Thousands Back on Their Feet

CHICAGO (The Iowan's Special News Service)—Gus Dreher, who learned the bracemaker's art from his German father, has put 2,500 crippled children back on their feet.

An equal number have regained use of their arms and other parts of their small bodies because of Dreher's skill in turning bars of cold pressed steel, leather and plaster of Paris into just what the doctor ordered.

To attaches of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children—well aware of the difficulties of bracemaking—it's just routine when the report comes through: "Gus has done it again."

"We give him a general idea of what is needed," explained Dr. B. H. Moore, the hospital's chief surgeon, "and he works out the intricate details himself. It is highly exacting work, calling for the greatest precision, for these articles are not standardized and must be made to fit the individual requirements of each child's problem."

Four-year-old Gerald Cashmore, for instance, was born without legs. But Gerald is back at his home in Waukegan, Ill., after months of hospitalization walking on crutches and artificial legs.

Gerald's first four or five sets of legs were of plaster of Paris. Each time, Gus built them an inch or two longer than the previous pair. Gradually, the child learned to balance himself at a higher level. After he had proved his sense of balance at 18 inches, Gus made him a more permanent pair of legs—of iron and leather.

Gus' toughest assignment was a little boy of five, an infantile paralysis victim. His legs and back muscles were paralyzed, and the problem was complicated because his shoulder muscles also were impaired. Gus turned out a brace for each leg, a brace for the spine, and a special pair of crutches to even up for the lack of shoulder muscles.

Gus is 37, married and the father of two sons, 6 and 8. But he hopes that neither of his boys will follow the Dreher family trade.

"It's far too nerve-wracking," he declares, "I never saw a bracemaker yet who wasn't nervous."

Convict Naval Flying Cadets Of Manslaughter

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Two ensigns court-martialed at the naval air station here May 20 after their low-flying plane decapitated a woman working in an Alabama turnip field were dismissed from the service and sent to prison yesterday after conviction on involuntary manslaughter charges.

The ensigns were Joseph C. Thompson of Healdsburg, Cal., and Paul C. Brown of Chicago.

Brown, pilot of the plane which decapitated Mrs. Robert Phillips of Robertsdale, Ala., on March 25, was sentenced to 24 months and Thompson, his passenger, was sentenced to 12 months.

They were dismissed shortly after noon and under marine guard started for the naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H.

State Officials To Investigate Cruelty Charge

DES MOINES, Aug 8, (AP)—

State officials disclosed today that an Iowa state agent has been investigating charges of cruelty to a 17-year-old inmate of the state boys training school, Eldora, and is expected to file his report with Gov. George Wilson Monday.

The agent is investigating the boy's claim that he was beaten by a cottage attendant at the school. The youth escaped from Eldora July 25 and was picked up the next day by State Highway Patrolman Melvin Hove.

He told Hove that he had been severely paddled with both a board and a broomstick. Hove in a report to the highway patrol office said the boy "had some welts on him."

The governor said he personally ordered the probe "because we are watching those institutions closely and we never let anything like this go unchecked."

D. R. McCreery of the state board of control, which supervises the Eldora training school, added he visited the school earlier this week and made a preliminary investigation of the matter also.

McCreery declared that all institution employes are under orders not to use any physical violence on any inmate.

'And All That Beauty, Wealth E'er Gave'—Poor Bingo Is Dead

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP)—Bingo, the moching pooch with a bank account, is dead.

For years Bingo begged for nickels and dimes, took them promptly to his bank—a drugstore where the employees deposited the money in a box, doled it out for food, doctor and dog tax bills.

An eclectic animal on the capitalistic side, he would drop disdainfully in the nearest gutter a donated penny. But the nickels and dimes went quickly into his bank.

Veterinarians knew Bingo—just dog—as the pooch with the tummy aches. He was a sucker for ice cream and never knew when to quit.

"Poison," said the dog doc who took care of him in his last illness. But Jefferson folk won't believe that.

Music From Destruction

Conductor Goossens Sees Great Genius Arising Out of War

By JOHN P. RODERICK BIDEFORD POOL, Me. (The Iowan Special News Service)—

Although war is bad for music and art, Eugene Goossens, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony, says that war "might conceivably bring out the fullest worth of the creative American."

But whatever musical harvest America might reap from war would come after the conflict, he explained.

"Even then, it will take a man of mature gifts, deep thoughts and great genius to record for posterity the musical picture of a great war's upheavals."

"I refuse," the British-born musician adds, "to take the point of view that war is good for music or art of any kind. I think if it takes the slaughter of several million men to bring out something great in art, there must be something wrong with art."

The Hardship—For the interpretive musician—the virtuoso—war can be "a catastrophic hardship." Goossens can recall only two performers—his brother, Leon, the oboist, and Fritz Kreisler, the violinist—who emerged from the World War richer in understanding and artistry.

"You can't play a violin better in an air raid or by seeing 100 men shot down in front of you," he said.

At 48, Goossens has a reputation for being sympathetic to the works of young and obscure writers. Some of these he has offered to Ohio audiences since he took the podium in Cincinnati in 1931.

18 Hour Day—As a composer himself, he has been working sometimes 18 hours a day—even on vacation here—to hammer out his second symphony. It will have no key, no program. It will be, he says, "completely experimental."

Goossens has a refreshing attitude toward his audiences. He says an audience should go to a symphony concert as they would to a movie, seeking entertainment.

Should a listener study in advance the background of the music to be played?

"It is more important that you have a good dinner," he replied drily.

Payroll Messenger Held-Up, Robbed Of $7,991 in Illinois

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A payroll messenger for the J. Capps and Son Clothing Manufacturing company was held up and robbed of $7,991.22 yesterday afternoon by an armed man who fled in an automobile driven by an accomplice.

Robert Capps, treasurer of the company, said that the messenger, Archie Senders, was accosted by the robber when carrying the weekly payroll from one building to another at the factory. No shots were fired.

"It all happened very quickly," Capps said. "The armed man simply took the payroll from Senders. The paymaster, Harry Smith, was a few feet behind but was unable to do anything."

Riley Powell, company trucker, and two other employes gave chase in an automobile but were outdistanced by the two men in the bandit car, which headed west from Jacksonville.

Elsie Claypool Wins 1st Prize In Pie Contest

Mrs. Elsie Claypool, 937 E. Jefferson, scored 98 out of a possible 100 points to cop first prize in the Johnson county pie baking contest yesterday.

Held in conjunction with the nutrition school, the local contest included 59 entries in cherry, berry, peach, apple and raisin divisions.

Second place in the cherry division was a pie baked by Mrs. Albert Christensen, 605 Clinton. The entry scored 96 points to be runner-up in the entire contest.

In the berry class Mrs. Lloyd Burr of Lone Tree won first and Mrs. L. Stutsman of Kalona placed second.

Mrs. B. L. Hotz took first place and Mrs. William Prybil second in the peach pie division.

Apple pie winners were Mrs. Eugene Casey, Kalona, first, and Mrs. Hotz, second.

Best raisin pies were baked by Mrs. Harry Lentz, West Liberty, and Dolores Schott, Riverside.

Interpreting the War News

New German Thrust Into Ukraine Threatens Russian Left Flank

Unofficial German claims that Kiev, the Ukraine capital, is already "encircled" must be taken with a large grain of salt; but the report of a new German thrust to the region of Uman, 125 miles south of Kiev, represents a grave menace to the whole Russian left flank to the Black sea.

It is not clear from just which sector of the Ukraine front the Nazi panzer units lashed out to reach Uman. Presumably, however, this drive is distinct from the spearhead recently pushed to Bel Tserkov, 75 miles closer to Kiev.

Indications are that the Germans reached Uman via the branch railroad which runs northward to Kozhatyn and which connects there with the western trunk line from Kiev. It was up that trunk road that the Nazis apparently reached Bel Tserkov to begin the great turning movement southward between the Dnieper and the Dniester, now expanded to Uman.

The gravity of the situation for Russian forces still holding the right flank of the Dniester front is apparent on any map. At Uman, the Germans are already far behind them and east of the northern arm of the Bug river. They threaten to turn the whole Bug line to the Black sea before the Russians can reach it from the lower Dniester for a new stand.

The Nazis say they have captured an army commander and 30,000 men in the Uman region.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

This would mean a serious break at that point to confuse the vast and difficult retreat which the Red armies in the southern Ukraine will have to attempt if the Uman and Bel Tserkov flanking operation cannot be checked.

While the thrust to Bel Tserkov seems to have made no definite progress since that junction was reached, the stab to Uman, 75 miles south and west of Bel Tserkov, is a far greater immediate danger to the Russians.

It now appears unquestionable that the whole force of Hitler's new offensive is being concentrated southward for the break-through toward Kiev, virtually by-passing Kiev itself. Hitler proclaimed that his aim was destruction of Red armies between the Dnieper and Dniester to the Black sea. At Uman, the Germans are already half way from the Kiev front to the Black sea. Unless that Nazi thrust can be promptly contained, abandonment of Odessa, great Russian Black sea port, cannot be long delayed in a race to reach the Dnieper before the whole Russian left flank is cut off from the rear.

South of Kiev the Dnieper makes a huge bend southwestward, then swings back southeastward to reach the Black sea not far from the mouth of the Bug. It is a strong defensive barrier all the way from Kiev to the sea; but if the Russians take their stand on it their front will be extended enormously.

While it is perhaps 300 miles from Kiev to the mouth of the Dnieper, airline, it is double that and more around the great southern loop of the river. And escape to the Dnieper will be a difficult operation for Russian forces already apparently cut off north and west of Uman as well as those still along the Dniester southwest of that battle front.

The greatest battle of this war of monster battles seems in full swing on the southern flank. Yet there seems no reasonable foundation for the Berlin assertion that Kiev also has been "encircled." That could not be true unless the Germans have fought their way across the Dnieper both north and south of the city, and crossing the Dnieper in the Kiev area would mean major battles.

There seems no question that Russian retaliatory bombing of Berlin has begun. That challenges anew the Nazi statements that Russian air power has been shattered. Whether the Russians have sufficient long-range equipment to match the growing British air assault on Berlin and other German cities remains to be seen. There seems small doubt, however, that Berlin is due to taste something of the horrors of bombing and that Russian bombers will prove more ruthless than the British.

Dodgers Whip Boston, Regain First Place

SPORTS TRAIL

by Whitney Martin

- A Morning Gallop
- Along Sports Trail
- Martin Spouts Talk

NEW YORK (The Special News Service)—A morning gallop along the Sports Trail:

Should the Brooklyn Dodgers win the National league pennant, they probably would be the only team ever to do it without a left-handed pitcher.

And speaking of left handers, why is it any harder for a left-handed batter to hit against a southpaw than it is for a right-handed batter to hit against a right-handed pitcher? . . . When listing classy outfielders, don't overlook the Yankees' Tommy Henrich. . . . He may be just another outfielder in other parks, but in right field at the Yankee stadium he plays like a billiard expert.

He knows where every ball hit into the trick corner is going to carom, and just plants himself and waits for it to come to him. Others chase it around like a man trying to corner his straw hat on a gusty day. . . . And speaking of the Yanks, they pick the darndest teams to lose to, don't they? The Senators and Browns.

Doc Prothro, Phil manager, reported after returning from a two-weeks scouting jaunt that he had seen a lot of good ball players, prompting Jerry Mitchell of the N.Y. Post to observe: "Not if they saw him first."

And another scribe reports that a Giant fan, going to the Yankee stadium the first time and seeing Joe DiMaggio, exclaimed: "Oh boy, another Johnny Rucker."

The Dodgers aren't just developing ball players on their Reading, Pa., farm. They're developing a whole blooming team. Reading recently defeated both the Phillies and the Dodgers in exhibitions. . . . That's going from the ridiculous to the sublime, isn't it? . . . And if you don't think the Dodgers are sublime, you should see the look on the faces of their followers these days. Every day is the day of daze.

Headline: "Feller Passes Draft Exam." . . . What! Lost his control again? . . . Well, that's one way of filling the bases, anyway. The Cardinals like their ball players young and hustling, but when they're building for a pennant they are smart enough to have a few aged-in-the-wood players around for balance. . . . Lon Warneke, Gus Mancuso and Estel Crabtree, for examples. . . . and Crabtree is a typical example of the shrewdness of Branch Rieky. . . . We can't think of another club which would bring up a 36-year-old minor league manager as a pinch hitter. . . . And all Crabtree is doing is hitting slightly better than .450.

Mason City Wins Legion Tourney, Beating Hubbard

ROCKWELL CITY (AP)—

Mason City won the Iowa American Legion junior baseball tourney yesterday, beating Hubbard, 6 to 0, behind Dimarco's six-hit pitching in the play-off game.

The stocky little Mason City hurler was master of the Hubbard crew all the way and scattered their hits well while his mates collected 13 singles off A. Espe.

Mason City will play in the region 5 national tournament at LaCrosse, Wis., Aug. 15-17, against the Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois state champions.

Score by innings:
Mason City . . . 001 101 300—6 13 0
Hubbard . . . 000 000 000—0 6 2
Dimarco and Sears; A. Espe and D. Topp.

Favorites Gain Net Semifinals

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Tennis form finally found its way back into the eastern grass court tennis championships yesterday as Don McNeill and Frank Kovacs won semi-final berths in the men's singles and Pauline Betz and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke advanced to the women's singles finals.

McNeill, the national champion, and Kovacs, the nation's third-ranking player, easily disposed of William Talbert of Cincinnati and Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal. Their semi-final opponents will be Wayne Sabin and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, who advanced by the upset route over top-seeded Bobby Riggs and Frank Parker yesterday.

It looked bad for McNeill at one stage yesterday, but after trailing at 1-3 in the first set, he gained control of his shots, won three games in a row and went on to win, 7-5, 6-3.

Kovacs won five games in a row before Schroeder broke through in the first set, then overcame stubborn resistance to beat the young Californian, 6-2, 7-5.

Miss Betz, the top-seeded woman star from Los Angeles, narrowly escaped being upset as she eliminated third-ranked Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., 6-4, 8-6.

Mrs. Cooke, seeded second, earned a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Mary Arnold of Los Angeles. Hitting deeply into the back court, Mrs. Cooke never left the outcome in doubt.

The women's doubles final, which will be played Sunday, will send Mrs. Cooke and Margaret Osborne of San Francisco against Miss Bundy and Miss Betz. Only one of the men's doubles final brackets was filled, Riggs and Gene Mako of Los Angeles overcoming Ed Amark of San Francisco and Robin Hippenstiel of San Bernardino, Cal., in four sets.

Erickson Wins For Cubs, 1-0

Gives Pirates One Hit to Take First Major League Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Paul Erickson, 23-year-old Chicago Cubs right-hander, stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates with one hit yesterday to score his first major league pitching victory, 1 to 0, and end a Pirate winning streak at six games.

The only hit off the lanky Erickson came in the seventh inning when Bob Elliott slashed a single to center field. Only 30 Bucs faced him. He struck out six and walked three.

The Cubs scored their run in the fifth inning off Johnny Lanning, whom they touched for 10 hits during the game. With one out Charley Gilbert walked and went to third on Bill Nicholson's double. Dallessandro ran for Gilbert, who pulled up at third with a sore leg muscle.

Babe Dahlgren struck out and Phil Cavaretta was walked. Clyde McCullough beat out a hit to deep short and Dallessandro scored.

Manager Jimmy Wilson has been working with Erickson all season in hopes of making him a regular on the Cubs' pitching staff. Last Monday Paul struck out 10 Cardinals, walked only three and allowed nine hits but lost, 4 to 2.

Corporal Greenberg Now Responsible For Anti-Tank Gun

FORT CUSTER, Mich. (AP)—It's Corporal Henry Greenberg now, in charge of a five-man anti-tank gun crew.

The erstwhile big gun of the Detroit Tigers baseball team is now responsible for the care of one of the army's 37-millimeter anti-tank guns and of the truck that hauls it and its crew into firing position.

Greenberg's promotion, his second in a month, was announced at headquarters of the second infantry regiment yesterday. He was advanced to the grade of private first class on July 14.

As a corporal, the former outfielder who was last year's "most valuable player" in the American league is eligible for an increase in pay from $21 to $54 a month. He can't draw this amount until after Sept. 6, however, because army regulations require a man to be in the service four months before he draws increased pay, and Greenberg was inducted on May 7.

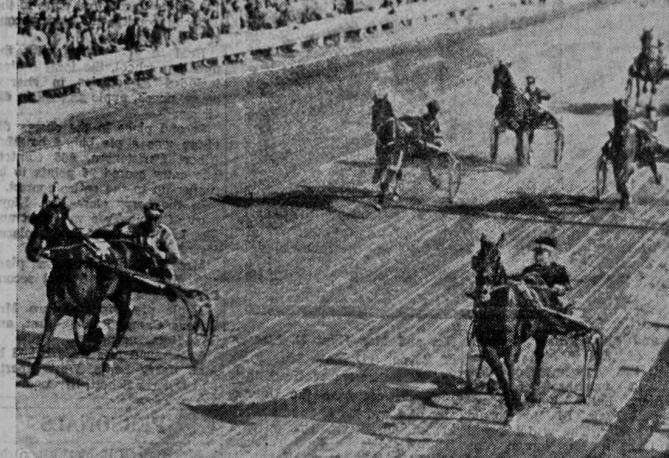

Net Champ Repeats

Dietrich Gives Browns 4-Hit, 16-2, Trimming

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Browns may be able to beat the Yankees but they are meat for the Chicago White Sox, who might be in first place instead of fourth if they could play the Browns every day.

Thursday night the Sox trounced the Browns, 11 to 1, and last night Bill Dietrich tossed a neat four-hit performance to smother them, 16 to 2. It was his fifth win of the year against six defeats. Bob Harris, who shut out the Yankees in one game Sunday, was knocked out with seven hits in three innings. George Caster finished by allowing eight base knocks.

Taft Wright, who rapped out his fifth and sixth homers of the season, and George Dickery accounted for nine runs between them.

Athletics Club Yankees, 5 to 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bob Johnson's 20th homer of the season gave the Athletics a 5 to 3 victory over the New York Yankees before 29,270 at Shibe park last night. The defeat ended a four-game losing streak for the A's.

Johnson's smash climaxed a four-run uprising that drove Steve Peck to the showers and wiped out a 3-1 Yankee lead.

Al Brancato singled to start the big fifth for the Mackmen. Phil Marchiondi sacrificed. Wally Moses singled to score Brancato. Benny McCoy then walked to set the stage for Johnson's game-winning four-base clout.

Babe Young's Homer Gives Giants 3-2 Win

NEW YORK (AP)—For three straight games Norman (Babe) Young hit a home run while the New York Giants lost, but yesterday he connected for his fourth in a row and brought the Giants a 3 to 2 victory over the Phillies, in the 11th inning.

The contest was a fine pitching battle all the way, with Bill Lohman of the Giants allowing only six hits and Cy Blanton of the losers giving eight.

The Giants scored twice in the second on three singles and an error and never threatened again until Young led off with his 15th home run in the 11th.

Red Sox Coast To 16-Hit, 15-8 Win Over Nats

BOSTON (AP)—The Washington Senators, who haven't won a game this season in Boston, never had a chance yesterday to break that spell as the Red Sox led loose with a six-run barrage in the first innings and coasted to a 15 to 8 victory.

In chalking up their sixth straight home victory over the Senators, the Red Sox chased Steve Sundra from the box in the opening inning and then registered another six-run rally in the seventh off reliever Arnold Anderson, with the help of three Washington errors.

Jimmy Foxx led the 16-hit Boston assault with four-for-five.

'Buy Everything' Is New Slogan In 'V' Campaign

LONDON (AP)—Colonel Britton, British radio broadcaster leading the "V army" campaign, urged the people of German-occupied territories yesterday to "buy anything and everything and make quite certain nothing is left for the Germans."

He advised those with savings to buy food and other supplies now "before your money becomes worthless."

To farmers starting their harvests, he declared: "There are ways in which you can keep your crops hidden. . . I just want to remind you that in a few weeks time, Nazi agents will be coming around demanding to know what you've got and offering you paper money in exchange. Well, you will know what to do."

Col. Britton urged those with insurance to file claims for every minor loss or injury because, he said, "nearly all the insurance companies are now directly controlled by the Germans and companies get rich by relying on people not to bother to make small claims."

He also suggested that those able to get credit at banks should borrow as much as possible and buy commodities.

The "native stock" of Alaska numbered 32,458 in 1939 and comprised 15,576 Eskimos, 11,283 Indians, and 5,599 Aleuts, according to the census.

Missouri Woman; Irked at Border Incident, Guards Territorial Integrity

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Lena Bender said ended a period of watchful waiting since the widening of a roadway to Jefferson barracks, nearby army post, began two weeks ago. She claimed a grading machine chopped 18 inches off her front lawn.

Orland Locke, WPA supervisor on the job, commented: "I have orders to build a road and I'm going to build it."

Meantime, Mrs. Bender calmly sat down on a flat concrete block, laid her gun across her knees and indicated she planned to sit guard until the dispute is settled.

"When they go so far as to deprive a taxpayer . . . of property without paying for it," she declared, "I say 'pokey' on them."

Strikes--

ine and Shipbuilding Workers (CIO) called the strike early Thursday to back up demands for what it said was a modified union shop recommended by the defense mediation board. The management declared a closed shop was asked.

As officials gave close attention to the Kearny situation, a new dispute threatening to cripple airplane parts production developed at the Caldwell, N.J., propeller plant of Curtiss-Wright corporation.

No Consideration Several hundred members of the 000,000 of defense orders. During the day, settlement of strikes at the Columbus, Ohio, plant of the Timken Roller Bearing company at Heller Bros. Co., Newcomerston, Ohio, makers of tools for defense, was announced.

The CIO Steel Workers Organizing committee called a strike July 30 at Timken's Columbus plant protesting the discharge of five women employes the company said were dismissed for improper inspection of bearings.

John L. Conner, federal mediator, said an agreement had been reached, but withheld details pending its submission to the union rank and file. The plant, which employs 3,000, has operated with a partial force since the strike began.

The month-old strike at Heller Bros., also called by the SWOC and affecting 1,200 workers, was settled with agreement on a contract which raised the minimum hourly wage 10 cents to 50 cents for men and 45 cents for women.

Five cents increase was given employes in higher classifications. Another development was an announcement by three west coast aircraft companies that they were raising minimum wages retroactive to July 1. They were Douglas, with 32,000 employes, Vultee with 6,700 and Northrop with 2,700.

The new scale provides 60 cents an hour at the start with increases of five cents an hour each four weeks until 75 cents is reached. The starting rate has been 52 1/2 cents at Douglas and 55 in the other two plants.

what it started to do last year when it passed the original (selective service) act.

It would be argued, he said, that the men were promised their discharge after a year of training, but:

"That isn't true. That isn't a fact. The congress made no such promise, unless it was somebody seeking reelection to office who told his constituents that."

Rep. Fish (R-N.Y.), the ranking republican member of the foreign relations committee, told the house the bill was part of a "gigantic conspiracy" to involve the United States in the war.

"This is not a bill for national defense," he said, "but to crusade all over the world. The real issue involved in this breach of promise bill is a carefully and skillfully directed plan to take us into another overseas war. . . I believe that this bill is part and parcel of a gigantic conspiracy which has for its main purpose our involvement in European, Asiatic and African wars without the consent or approval of the congress and the American people who are overwhelmingly opposed to such action."

Board Employment August-September Men and women, students or non-students, inclusive of those having other employment, who may be available for board employment at any time from the present to September 22, are requested to report to the Employment Bureau, Old Dental building immediately.

Most of these jobs have schedules of one hour at each meal, and there would be no more loss of time than that usually given to the meal hour.

The Selective Service and National Defense programs have made the August-September period especially difficult. The cooperation of all who can be of assistance is urged, in order that the maximum number of jobs for students this fall can be retained.

Set New Income Tax Rates

Simplify Table To Help Small Wage Earners

WASHINGTON (AP)—While suggesting that the income tax base be broadened, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau told the senate finance committee yesterday that "we ought not to take into the income tax system millions of new taxpayers with small incomes without simplifying the way in which their tax is computed."

Submitting a simplified table to aid low-income taxpayers, Morgenthau outlined the difficulties of computing income taxes on present forms. When a small taxpayer starts to fill out his return, the treasury head said, "he may be full of patriotic enthusiasm to pay his share toward the defense program. But by the time he has finished his last computation his cheerfulness may well have collapsed under the strain."

The new table is based on the assumption that congress will lower existing income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single individuals, as suggested by President Roosevelt. Rates are those approved by the house. The tax for each income bracket is the average of the tax for the upper and lower limit of the bracket, reduced by 10 per cent as "a rough equivalent" of possible deductions.

For each dependent other than husband or wife, the taxpayer subtracts $400 from his total income and uses the balance to determine the tax. The taxes in the table are worked out to the nearest dollar, no fractions of a dollar being shown.

Strike Halts Work on Warships

A strike of 17,000 workers called by the C.I.O.'s Marine and Shipbuilding Workers union has halted work at the Kearny, N.J., yards of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company on a cruiser, six destroyers, two freighters and three oil tankers. Pickets at the main gate are pictured above turning back a carload of workers seeking to enter the plant. The union blamed the strike on failure of the company to accept national mediation board proposals to end a long labor dispute; the company charged the union has broken a no-strike agreement.

Ousted Georgia Teacher Defends Rosenwald Fund

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—J. Curtis Dixon, vice chancellor of the university system of Georgia, said yesterday that the Rosenwald fund and other foundations accused by Governor Eugene Talmadge of fostering racial equality in the south have never "tried to impose any program on Georgia or any other state."

He added that Talmadge, in impugning the motives of the foundation, "has never been more wrong in his life—and that's saying a lot."

State regents voted not to rehire Dixon because of his former association with the Rosenwald fund on the same day that they voted not to renew the contracts of Dean Walter D. Cocking of the University of Georgia and President Marvin S. Pittman of the Georgia Teachers college. Dixon's contract expires at the end of this month.

tion, he said he had spent three or four hours with President Roosevelt telling him that such a course was wrong.

Earlier, Henderson said temporary unemployment of 2,000,000 persons might develop during the transition of American industry from peace-time to defense production.

The bride attended the University of Iowa. She has taught in the public schools in Iowa City for the past three years.

Mr. Temple attended Grinnell college and the University of Illinois in Urbana. He is at present employed by the state income tax department in Sioux City.

Green Pledges AFL Support In Emergency

CHICAGO (AP)—William Green said last night that trade unionists, having pledged unconditional support of the defense program, ask continued freedom from restrictive legislation, which he termed "unnecessary and un-American."

The American Federation of Labor president requested representation and a voice on policy-making agencies affecting wage earners.

He declared that any legislation designed to limit trade union activities would force wage earners to work against their own free will.

In his speech prepared for broadcast over the NBC-Blue network at a Chicago stadium celebration of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Green declared:

"We do not want to strike. We have given our word we will not strike on defense projects without first exploring every available channel for peaceful settlement of disputes—but we maintain that compulsion has a deterring effect and would react most unfortunately on the morale of the American wage earners, consequently impeding the defense program."

Green was introduced by William L. Hutchenson of Indianapolis, Ind., president of the brotherhood which has made its headquarters there. It was founded in 1881 with 7,032 members from 11 cities and now has more than 300,000 members.

He said the nation was going to have to "pay dearly" for a lack of planning and for underestimates of certain defense needs.

Shortages of raw materials for civilian needs are beginning to develop, he said, and plant closings are going to result because of judgments which had to be made 18 months ago and which he conceded had been short of the mark.

Questioned by Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) concerning published reports that as many as 5,000 or 6,000 plants would have to close and well over 1,000,000 men be thrown out of work, Henderson said the "condition exists" for such a development. He expressed belief that the dislocation might reach the proportions experienced in England where, he said, the unemployment increase amounted to 20 to 25 per cent. Later, he told newsmen that the effect of priorities and shortages of materials for civilian purposes would inevitably force more and more plants to close and that it might cause the unemployment of 2,000,000 men.

He said, however, he thought that unemployment would be largely temporary because the workers ultimately would be absorbed in defense production.

Entertainment At The Front; Troops Shot From Cannon

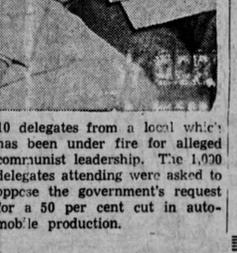

NEW YORK (AP)—Troops shot from cannon!

Don't laugh. It's the latest suggestion for modern warfare.

Add to that coup the trapeze artist swinging a la Tarzan from tree to tree to capture snipers' nests and you have the ultra modern warfare the International Association of Acrobats offers the U. S. army.

In a convention assembled at Atlantic City these fantastic ideas

Nazis Forced to Alter Plans Military Quarters Say Failure of Blitzkrieg Made Time Table Changes Necessary

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Information reaching Bern from foreign military quarters in Berlin indicated last night that the German high command was forced to revamp its Russian campaign to a long-term basis July 15 when it became evident that blitzkrieg plans would fail.

This information was that Germany originally had planned to occupy Moscow and reach Astrakhan, on the Caspian sea, 1,700 miles east of Berlin, by the end of August.

The new time table calls for capture of Leningrad and Moscow and an advance to the Caucasus by the end of September, the military sources said. If the Russian army is still in existence the Germans would pursue it toward the Ural mountains and then settle down on a defensive line.

According to the reported plan, the defensive line would extend from Lake Ladoga to the Volga river east of Leningrad and Moscow, continuing on the west bank of the Volga to Astrakhan. The Rumanian and Hungarian armies would be expected to help the Germans hold that line.

The information gave this picture of the strategy from that point on:

In October Turkey would be asked for free passage of German troops for a campaign against British forces in the Middle East. Japan would attack Russia in the Lake Baikal region of eastern Siberia if the United States intervened actively on the Soviet side.

During the winter the Luftwaffe would concentrate on destruction of Russian industrial centers between Moscow and the Urals.

If the Russian and Middle East campaigns are successful the spring offensive might develop in either of two ways. German troops might try to reach Chinese Turkestan to join with Japanese troops driving west or pass through Afghanistan toward India while the Japanese launched an offensive from Indo-China on Burma and then on India.

If the Russians collapsed or when the Germans succeeded in establishing a strong defensive line, Germany would make a peace offer to Britain and the United States. Should peace be rejected and the Near-East offensive fail, Germany might attempt an invasion of Britain.

Meanwhile pressure would be exerted on France, Spain and Portugal for German occupation of Dakar and the Azores to unify the continent against Britain.

aircraft and lost 14 of its own on Thursday, it was stated.

Sailors of the Red navy were reported to have joined the army in heavy fighting on the Estonian front and Soviet citizens throughout invaded territories were called upon by their government to intensify guerrilla warfare.

A dispatch from the front reported that sailors from the Baltic fleet had recaptured a village after a three-day battle in their first land encounter with the Germans.

Facing superior numbers, the sailors were reported to have taken the village with a bayonet charge after an artillery duel.

The commander of the western front, Marshal Semeon K. Timoshenko, and Vice Premier Nikolai A. Bulanin, who is a member of the military council, issued an appeal to the population of German-occupied regions to intensify their guerrilla warfare.

"Join the partisan detachments," the appeal said.

2 Missing As Tanker Explodes Near Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—The Transiter, 180-foot all-steel tanker of the Transit Tankers and Terminals, Ltd., Montreal, with 15,000 barrels of gasoline aboard, exploded and burst into flames last night on River Rouge.

The ship docked here Thursday night and loaded the gasoline yesterday at the docks of the Joy Oil Co.

Detroit detectives investigating the explosion said there were 17 persons aboard, all Canadians, and that all had been accounted for except two, including the wife of the Captain, Mrs. Alicia Trembley, of Quebec.

Eight injured crewmen were taken to the Delray General hospital, where Francis Descham, Quebec, and Edward Pariseau, Montreal, were said to have severe burns.

Firemen sought to bring the blaze under control as hundreds gathered on the river bank to watch.

It cost almost 3 billion dollars to run the general government of the cities over 100,000 population in 1938, the Census reports.

CIO Rejects Unit Report On Strike Agitator

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—UWA-CIO delegates rejected last night the report of a grievance committee which declined to recommend that Lew H. Michener, west coast regional director, be disciplined for supporting the five day June strike at the North American Aviation plant in Inglewood, Cal.

After lengthy debate, the sixth national convention of the united automobile, aircraft and agricultural implement workers refused by standing vote to accept the report.

Although the committee said Michener supported the strike and attacked the contract terms obtained in subsequent negotiations, the committee did not recommend he be suspended.

The report said the walkout which resulted in the plant being taken over by the army was unauthorized and "fostered inside and outside by communism."

Richard T. Frankenstein, director of the union's aviation division, asked that the report be adopted. "This report is a complete vindication of Phil Murray (CIO president), R. J. Thomas (UWA-CIO president) and myself. I don't want blood in this situation. There has been communistic domination on the coast. But I don't believe we should crucify Michener. Yes, he has made a tragic mistake, but I believe he can go back to the coast and do a good job."

Rejection of the report means that a new report will have to be drafted and submitted to the delegates.
